Tax panel hopes for 'magic'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee said Friday he is still waiting to see whether his latest tax plan — no itemized deductions and a top rate of 25 percent — is the magic formula that will spur the panel to overhaul the income-tax system.

Chairman Bob Packwood, R-Ore., also said he has abandoned his earlier goal of completing committee action on taxes in early May. "I don't have any set timetables," he told reporters. "I have no idea" when the bill will be completed.

Although most members of the committee favor lower tax rates, Packwood said, he is not sure they like them enough to pay for them by eliminating deductions and exemptions. "I have no accurate gauge" he said, adding later: "The longer I'm at this, the less I am able to predict."

Twenty-four hours after unveiling the new proposal to a closed meeting of his committee, Packwood said the plan is not something that he necessarily favors, but is just a series of options designed to refocus members' attention on the tax-reform goal.

"I decided we should go back to square one and see if there was any enthusiasm for this," he added.

Packwood suspended efforts to write a tax bill on April 18 after the Finance Committee repeatedly voted to expand, rather than scale back or eliminate, various special tax breaks. The stalemate developed after the panel had spent a month revising the tax plan proposed by Packwood, which, in turn, was modeled after President Reagan's.

In an effort to revive the process, Packwood took the committee behind closed doors Thursday, asked what it would take to get a bill, and then presented the broad outlines of the new plan — the most radical one yet considered by this Congress.

In addition to repealing all individual itemized deductions, the Volunteers chip in for cleanup

SWEETWATER (AP) — Officials said Friday they expect 500 volunteers this weekend to help sweep the city clear of debris left by last week's tornado, which did an estimated $20 million in damage and killed one.

At least 250 off-duty personnel from Dyess Air Force Base have signed up to join in the cleanup, Greg Wortham, city public information officer, said.

He said at least another 250 people from civic groups and churches are expected to join in Saturday's cleanup efforts, just one week after the tornado hit the West Texas city of 12,000 residents.

Wortham said several pieces of heavy equipment have been loaned to the city to move the debris and make way for rebuilding.

He said people with tornado damage are sorting out what they want to keep and are leaving piles of rubble curbside to be trucked away.

The tornado prompted donations of food, money, clothing and volunteer assistance. A disaster relief fund, which is a joint effort of the local ministerial alliance and the Chamber of Commerce, has a balance of about $11,000.

But relief officials said they still need money, furniture, household linens.

On Friday, several contractors came to city hall to register, following a regulating ordinance passed

Taking birds from wild is crime

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Spring is the time when the chirping of baby birds fills the air, but don't take the cute, downy chicks from the nest, said bird rehabilitator Bebe McCasland.

Every year during spring, McCasland has an influx of baby birds people have found. People assume the birds have no parents, she said, but actually the parent birds are off somewhere hunting food for the hungry chicks.

Sometimes people take the birds out of the nest for a pet, then realize they don't know how to care for them properly, she said.

But taking birds from the wild is not only bad for the birds, it's a federal and state crime, said McCasland, who is licensed with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Department and the state Parks and Wildlife Department to take care of the birds.

This week, she has had four great horned owls brought in. Some were taken from the nest when people mistakenly believed them orphans, she said. One was taken for a pet, but brought with a low in the 50s and a high Sunday in the lower 80s.

Great horned owls do not make good pets, she said. A fully grown owl can sever a finger with his beak, and can kill rabbits with its talons. The owls are essential to the ecology here, she said, because they eat skunks, mice, rats and rabbits and help keep down rabies.

A danger to birds, she said, is people feeding them the wrong things. People feed owls hamburger, sausage and bologna and "that's the worst thing they can have." They should be fed lean, raw meat. With an improper diet, the birds get rickets, a childhood disease of malnutrition that makes their bones grow deformed.

People should leave baby birds alone unless they have been hurt, she said — nature will take care of them.

If someone does find a bird that has been shot or otherwise hurt, keep it quiet, warm and dark, she said. McCasland will give it emergency care and then take it to the Midland Sanctuary for birds, if necessary. Baby birds there are raised, taught how to hunt, and when they mature, are released at a special ranch where no hunting is allowed.

That way, a baby bird will have a chance to survive, she said.

It's that time again to set clocks ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans will be able to enjoy more evening tennis, golf or cookouts — thanks to that extra hour of daylight instituted as a wartime measure but now used primarily for recreation.

It's time to spring forward to daylight-saving time.

The change takes effect at 2 a.m. Sunday, although most people will set their clocks ahead before retiring Saturday night.

Those who don't will be an hour late for their appointments.

It was during the anxious years of World War I that Americans first took this step — only 35 years after agreeing to a national time system.

The summertime shift ahead, begun in 1918, was designed to save fuel by reducing the need for lights in the evening, allowing that energy to be turned to the war effort.

Daylight-saving continued in 1919 but then was dropped as a deluge of protests demanded that the system be abandoned in peacetime.

The time shift caused major disruptions for rural residents in a nation then primarily farm-oriented.

Livestock do not observe changes in clocks invented by people, but continue on their own way. So a shift of an hour by the clock can confuse life for a farmer, if he shows up for milking an hour early or late by the cow's standards.

State may halt new building at colleges

BY JANET WARREN

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN — The state's higher education board virtually put the lid Friday on new construction projects at Texas universities in response to Gov. Mark White's belt-tightening directives.

New construction projects must be "critically and demonstrably essential to protecting the existing educational or research role of the institution," according to the new policy of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System.

The board softened an initial proposal that would have required schools to show an emergency need for the projects. Board members were quick to say that Texas is not retreating on higher education although the state is having serious budget problems.

The state of Texas is not out of the higher education business and will continue to be a national leader in the field of education, said board member Sam Carroll III of El Campo.

Board members are more interested in renovation and repair to LOGAN, Utah — Former gymnastic star Cathy Rigby McCoy said that the rigors of world-class competition, fear of failure and non-stop training and dieting caused her to become anorexic and bulimic during the 1972 Olympics.

CATHY RIGBY
...reasons for anorexia

Pressured by parents, coaches, trainers and others to keep her weight down during competition, the winner of 12 international gold medals said her weight once fell to 79 pounds and she was hospitalized twice.

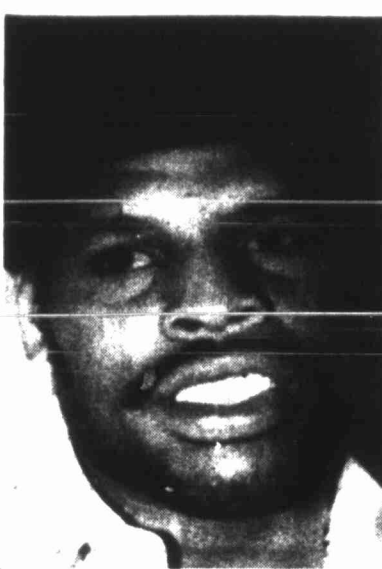

"At the 1972 Olympics some other gymnasts taught me the techniques of bingeing and purging and I began the vicious cycles of eating up to 15,000 calories a day, but getting rid of it all by vomiting," Ms. McCoy, 32, told an audience at Utah State University on Thursday.

The road to recovery began, she said, after she divorced her husband of nine years, which she said was difficult because "I had never been assertive and I wanted people to think I had a perfect life and marriage."

Her second husband, Tom, encouraged her to seek treatment, which she did five years ago.

DETROIT — Boxer Leon Spinks told bankruptcy officials all he has left from the $4.5 million he made in the ring was a $500 wardrobe and the $1,600 a month he makes boxing.

AMES, Iowa — 1979 Nobel Peace laureate Norman Borlaug has donated his papers to Iowa State University.

Borlaug, 71, won the prize for developing high yielding, disease-resistant strains of wheat that have fed millions of people throughout the world. He also has trained an army of agricultural technicians who have spread the new food technology to more than 20 nations.

The papers will go to the university's Archives of American Agriculture. Borlaug, a Cresco native, is now a visiting professor at Texas A&M University.

Heavier rainfall during the six hours ending at 1 p.m. EST included nearly a half inch at Aberdeen and Pierre, S.D.

Rain showers across eastern and northern Idaho changed to snow over western Wyoming.

Travelers' advisories warning of snow were posted over Washington's Olympic and Cascade mountains, the Oregon Cascades and the mountain passes of northeast Nevada.

Winter storm warnings for possibly heavy snow Friday night and Saturday were posted over the central mountains of Montana, and the northern mountains of Wyoming and Utah.

by an emergency session of the council Wednesday.

Wortham said the ordinance, requiring contractors to pay a $50 registration fee and post a $5,000 bond, was passed after Sweetwater officials met with leaders from Lubbock, Paris and Wichita Falls. All three cities have been struck by tornadoes, and Wortham said leaders exchanged notes about problems they experienced in cleanup procedures.

Wichita Falls Mayor Charles Harper told Sweetwater officials one of the biggest problems experienced in his city after a 1979 tornado was with contractors who moved into town looking for business.

In Sweetwater, Wortham said rebuilding has already started in private construction. The contractors ordinance drew some criticism and Wortham said city officials explained the reason for the regulation to contractors in the Friday meeting.

In addition to the cleanup drive Saturday, a joint federal-state disaster application center will open in the annex of the Nolan County Coliseum, said Laureen Chernow of Austin, emergency information officer for the Governor's Division of Emergency Management.

"We ask that people with the most severe losses come on Saturday and Sunday and those with less severe losses (come) afterward," Ms. Chernow said.

Free child-care service will be provided at the First Baptist Church during the hours the aid center is open.

existing buildings because maintenance and operation costs already are so high, he said.

Chairman Larry Temple said the board resolved in January that Texas faculty salaries should be in the country's top 10, putting emphasis on "brain power" rather than "bricks and mortar."

The new construction policy will remain in effect until the 1987 Legislature addresses the state's sagging finances and higher education, which is being studied by a blue-ribbon committee.

In other business, the board put a hold on $250,000 remaining in this budget year's Tuition Equalization Grant program for private university students.

Lawmakers appropriated $17.7 million in TEG funds, most of which already has been distributed.

The board also received an update on desegregation of Texas higher education institutions, which showed several schools having minority recruitment problems.

Looking to minority recruitment goals set for 1987-88, the report showed that the University of Texas of the Permian Basin must boost its undergraduate minority recruitment efforts by 17 new black students and 7 new Hispanic students.

The calculations are based on minority enrollments for the 1984-85 school year.

Also, the board decided to prohibit state universities from counting remedial, or catch-up, courses toward degrees. A similar prohibition was adopted in January for community colleges.

In other business, the board approved an administrative reorganization at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin to save $184,000 annually.

new plan would cut the 50 percent maximum tax rate in half, deny any tax break to Individual Retirement Accounts and repeal the preferential tax treatment of individual capital gains.

The corporate tax changes would be less-sweeping, although the top tax rate, now 46 percent, would be cut to 33 percent. Most special business tax breaks, including those for the oil, gas and timber industries, would be retained.

David Brockway, staff director of the Joint Committee on Taxation, which wrote the new draft, called it "an educational process" designed to show senators how a bill could reduce individual income taxes by $95 billion over five years while raising taxes on corporations by $70 billion.

Miami financier is highest paid exec

NEW YORK (AP) — Miami Beach financier Victor Posner was the highest paid executive in the United States last year, grossing $12.7 million in salary and benefits that outpaced his own company's profits, according to a Business Week magazine survey.

Posner out-earned such well-known executives as Lee Iacocca, the chairman of Chrysler Corp. and T. Boone Pickens, chairman of Mesa Petroleum, according to the annual survey of 258 companies released Thursday.

The survey also showed that Jackie Presser, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, received $534,143 in salary and expenses for his four union posts, topping all other U.S. labor union officials.

According to the survey by Business Week and Sibson & Co., a New Jersey-based consulting firm, salary and bonuses averaged $679,000 for the top executives included in the survey, a 9 percent increase over the previous year.

In fiscal 1985, Posner received $12,739,000 in salary and bonuses while DWG Corp., his holding company, posted a $5.6 million profit. During the first nine months of the 1986 fiscal year, DWG lost $5.9 million, the magazine said.

Among the dozens of companies under DWG are Royal Crown Cos., acquired in 1984; Evans Products Co., which filed for bankruptcy court reorganization last year; and Sharon Steel Corp., which lost $209 million the past two years.

Iacocca ranked second with total compensation of $11,426,000, including more than $9.8 million in long-term compensation, Business Week said. Pickens, who led the 1984 ranking of money-makers, was third last year with $8,431,000.

Rounding out the 10 highest paid executives were Warner Amex Chairman Drew Lewis, $6 million; Robert L. Mitchell, vice chairman of Celanese Corp., $4.76 million; Sidney J. Sheinberg, president of MCA Inc., $4.48 million; Robert Anderson, chairman of Rockwell International Corp., $3.63 million; Clifton C. Garvin Jr., chairman of Exxon Corp., $3.56 million; David S. Lewis, chairman of General Dynamics Corp., $3.35 million; and John H. Gutfreund, chairman of Phibro-Salomon Inc., $3.2 million.

Their salaries far exceeded that of President Reagan, whose annual pay is $200,000 but whose benefits include free transportation, free medical and dental care, 24-hour security and rent-free housing in the White House.

The survey said 146 executives earned $1 million or more, compared with the four who earned that much in the 1980 survey.

Part of the increase was linked to a 37 percent rise in compensation from long-term incentive plans, which can include stock options or performance bonuses given at a future date.

The survey said more than half of the total compensation of the top 25 executives was from pay tied to the performance of the stock market, which boomed in 1985.

Report: Official tried to falsify documents

DALLAS (AP) — A Comanche Peak nuclear power plant supervisor improperly ordered an inspector to falsify documents in 1983, according to a report made public by the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

The supervisor threatened to make the inspector work through a weekend if necessary to complete the falsification of inspection documents, said the report, which was released Thursday.

According to the NRC report, the supervisor ordered the inspector to verify that certain inspections had taken place when in fact, there was no evidence inspections had occurred. The plant is under construction near Glen Rose, 75 miles southwest of Dallas.

The inspections involved metal liners that protected a fuel canal to be used to transport uranium.

The inspector refused to obey the order and resigned the following year.

The NRC Office of Investigations interviewed 15 people for the report. Two supervisors denied the charges, the report said, but "the weight of the testimony indicates the independence and organizational freedom of the QC (quality-control) inspector was interfered with by at least one of the QC supervisors."

Dick Ramsey, a spokesman for Texas Utilities, said the report was only a synopsis of the complete investigation and said that utility officials will not comment until the entire report is produced.

NRC officials said a fine against the utility is possible.

The utility paid a $40,000 federal fine last week for intimidation of another quality control inspector in 1983.

Embassy officer shot

WASHINGTON — An American communications officer at the U.S. Embassy in North Yemen was shot today by an unidentified gunman as the worker was driving home from church, the State Department said.

Department spokesman Charles Redman identified the American as Arthur L. Pollick, 41, and said his life does not appear to be in danger.

Pollick was then taken to a hospital in the North Yemeni capital of Sana'a and was operated on. He was reported to be in stable condition.

Petition drive planned

WASHINGTON — A group of Arab-Americans is planning a nationwide petition drive aimed at gaining support for the release of the hostages in Lebanon, the organization's chairman said today.

Former Sen. James Abourezk, head of the American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee, said he intends to initiate the petition project at his group's board meeting in Detroit this weekend.

Abourezk said he hopes the captors will free the hostages because "it seems to me that the suffering has gone on too long and those people are not involved in the struggle in the Middle East."

Reagan east bound

LOS ANGELES — President Reagan, en route to the Tokyo economic summit, traveled to the West Coast Friday to meet with members of a private foundation which wants to create a library in his name.

An upbeat Reagan, saying the "winds of freedom" are swirling around the globe, took off earlier from Andrews Air Force Base on the first leg of a 22,300-mile, 12-day journey culminating in the Tokyo summit.

Reagan, in brief remarks as he left from Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland for Los Angeles, his first stop, said he wants "to reaffirm and renew our economic, strategic and political ties" with allies.

Prison staff indicted

WASHINGTON — Thirteen current or former Texas prison officials and guards were indicted Friday for conspiring to cover up their involvement in the beating of an inmate, the Justice Department announced.

The indictment by a federal grand jury in Houston alleged that the 13 men at the Darrington state prison unit in Rosharon, Texas, fabricated reports and statements alleging that convict Frank N. Cervantes had been armed with a board and attacked prison guards on Sept. 14, 1983.

VA foreclosures high

WASHINGTON — Despite a boom in the nation's housing market, a historically high rate of foreclosures on mortgages guaranteed by the Veterans Administration is prompting the agency to auction hundreds of houses, including 167 this weekend in Oklahoma.

The houses, located in Tulsa and Oklahoma City, will be put on the block at the VA's eighth auction in 18 months. Earlier this year, similar auctions were held in Houston and for houses in Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz.

Oath of peace

World War II veterans renew pledge

CHICAGO (AP) — Soviet generals carried the hammer and sickle north up Michigan Avenue on Friday, while American World War II veterans bore the Stars and Stripes south, and they embraced when they met on a bridge over the Chicago River.

The old soldiers had met before — at another river and in another time.

That was on April 25, 1945, on the Elbe River near the towns of Torgau and Strehla in what is now East Germany when forward patrols of the U.S. 1st Army's 69th Division encountered the vanguard of Marshal Koniev's 1st Ukrainian Army.

The meeting that marked an allied line across Nazi Germany, which surrendered 12 days later to end the war in Europe.

Friday's meeting, accompanied by the wail of bagpipes, was dedicated to Joseph Polowsky, one of those soldiers at the Elbe who swore an oath of friendship with the Soviet troops.

Polowsky, a Chicago cabdriver who died of cancer in 1983, made the "Oath of the Elbe" his obsession and promoting U.S.-Soviet friendship his life's work.

He wanted April 25 to be commemorated worldwide as "Elbe Day," dedicated to world peace.

When visits to Washington and Moscow failed to achieve that goal, Polowsky took to standing on the Michigan Avenue bridge every April 25 to plead his cause.

He was dying and broke the last time he took his stand, three years ago, and he announced his wish to be buried at Torgau, where the main linkup occurred.

An Associated Press story on Polowsky's death got the word to East Germany, and his last request was granted, reviving his dream posthumously.

"We're here because of Joe," said Buck Kotzebue, 62, of Colfax, Calif., Polowsky's former patrol leader and the first American to meet the Soviets at the Elbe. "He was the only one who was dedicated enough to get us all together again."

The publicity surrounding Polowsky's burial spurred the first reunion of the Elbe veterans in Torgau, last year, the 40th anniversary of their historic meeting.

Kotzebue was one of the Americans who attended, reswore the "Oath of the Elbe," and agreed to meet each April 25, alternating nations.

He grinned Friday at the first Soviet he met in 1945, Major Gen. Aleksandr Olshanski.

"Aleksandr flew to this meeting and the one last year," Kotzebue said. "Back in 1945, though, he'd walked — all the way from Stalingrad."

"I was a lieutenant then, and Joe Polowsky was my runner and translator," he recalled. "Aleksandr was a sergeant, but look how far he got. I only made it to colonel."

Other former Soviet officers at the reunion Friday were Colonel-General Ivan Katyshkin; Major General Aleksei Gorlinski, an old friend of Polowsky; and Lt. Aleksandr Sylvashko, who was seen hugging American William Robertson at Torgau in photographs published worldwide in 1945 and 1985.

The Soviet delegation earlier visited Cleveland, Detroit, and Lansing and Kalamazoo, Mich. They were to visit Lawrence, Kan., Dallas and Washington, D.C., before returning home.

Elbe Day, though, was reserved for Chicago and remembrance of Polowsky.

"Gen. McArthur used to say 'old soldiers never die, they just fade away,'" said LeRoy Wolins of Chicago Veterans for Peace, which helped organize the ceremony. "Joe Polowsky said 'Old soldiers do die, but their ideas don't have to fade away.'"

Blast at airline office

VIENNA, Austria — An explosion on Friday ripped a hole in the office door of Saudia, the state-run airline of Saudi Arabia, but there were no casualties.

Investigators later found a hand grenade in front of the state-run Kuwait Airways Corp. office on the floor beneath Saudia. Authorities said the grenade was defused.

The building, which houses offices of other airlines and the Vienna bureau of United Press International, is opposite the state opera on the Ringstrasse boulevard.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility.

Satanist gets prison

MAIDSTONE, England — A self-styled Satanist was convicted Friday of swindling wealthy Christians out of more than $300,000 they paid in an effort to save him from the devil.

Derry Mainwaring Knight, a 46-year-old unemployed businessman, was sentenced to seven years in prison and fined 50,000 pounds, equivalent to $76,000, after conviction on 19 charges of obtaining money by deception.

During the 34-day trial, the jury at the Crown Court in Maidstone, 42 miles southeast of London, was told Knight spent the money on high living, fast cars and prostitutes.

Police killed in ambush

LIMA, Peru — Drug traffickers hurled dynamite at a police convoy from a jungle ambush and riddled one truck with automatic weapons fire, killing five officers and an assistant district attorney, officials reported.

Five of the 72 policemen in the convoy were reported wounded. Augustin Mantilla, deputy interior minister, said the ambush occurred at midday Thursday in a coca-growing region 270 miles northeast of Lima.

Police captured four of the ambushers, but how many others were involved was not known, Mantilla said.

Student crowned king

MBABANE, Swaziland — In African rituals older than recorded history, an 18-year-old schoolboy was installed Friday as King Mswati III of Swaziland, taking on the task of bringing peace and prosperity to his nation.

After a day of ceremonies secret to all but a few advisers, the new king made his first brief public appearance in a royal cattle pen, clad in beads and animal skins, carrying a cowhide shield and wearing red and white feathers in his hair.

He said nothing but smiled and waved shyly to the invited representatives of more than 30 nations.

Tourist surge expected

TORONTO — Canada is expecting its biggest-ever summer of American tourists, many of them scared away from more exotic vacations by the threat of terrorist attack.

Even before the latest upsurge of terrorism surrounding the U.S. air raids on Libya, the government had television ads lined up for major U.S. cities and was planning for a tourist boom at the 5½-month Expo 86, which opens May 2 in Vancouver.

Tourism had been slumping in Canada since 1974, when visits peaked at about 12 million for the year. One promise of the conservative government elected 18 months ago was to revive the country's tourism image.

Thatcher's son faces eviction

By GREG FIEG-PIZANO
Harte-Hanks News Service
CORPUS CHRISTI — Negotiations to spare the British Prime Minister's son from being thrown out of his Dallas apartment failed Thursday in what former U.S. Sen. John Tower warned would be perceived as an act of "moral cowardice" on the part of the landlord, the Corpus Christi Caller reported.

Mark Thatcher, son of British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, has until May 31 to clear out of his apartment in the stylish Tur-

Creek vicinity of Dallas. The landlord ordered Thatcher to leave after learning the State Department had assigned uniformed Dallas police and federal diplomatic guards to the apartment complex on April 20 to protect Thatcher from assassination.

Russian exiles captivate author

By JERRY HARKAVY
 Associated Press Writer
 RICHMOND, Maine (AP) — They came to this faded town on the Kennebec River three decades ago, nurturing dreams of a czarist restoration. They built three churches and transformed the community into an outpost of Russian culture.

Many of the colony that once had as many as 500 families had lived through the upheavals of the Bolshevik Revolution and had survived the rigors that followed: Stalin's gulag; post-World II displaced persons camps; life as political refugees.

The White Russians of Richmond have since dwindled to perhaps 200. However, their story has been immortalized by Willis Johnson in his critically-acclaimed collection of short stories, "The Girl Who Would Be Russian and Other Stories" (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, $15.95).

Johnson has been captivated by the exiles, whose presence seemed destined to become little more than a memory, ever since he moved to Maine 20 years ago. Like the girl in the title story, he was both attracted to the Russians and fascinated by them.

"It's the attraction to the exotic," the author said in an interview. "It's exaggerated in her, but her attraction was to some degree my attraction."

His characters make unlikely heroes — most are old and poor. However, Johnson recognized the momentous events they had witnessed and the suffering they had endured. Uprooted from their beloved country, they were destined to die on foreign soil unassimilated into an alien culture.

"The lives they had lived were probably beyond the imagination of most of the Maine people living there," he said. "And finally, drifting into this little riverside town in Maine. And here, this is the end, this is the last spot."

His first book, "The Year of the Longley," also was set in Maine. It was a critical portrait of the late Gov. James B. Longley.

Johnson, who worked as a journalist in Australia and helped cover the Vietnam War for the Associated Press, still marvels at the improbabilities of history that brought the Russians here.

He drove to Richmond each weekend, eating stroganoff or pirogi in the small Russian restaurant, visiting the churches and getting to know the people. He and his wife, Christine, eventually made friends with some of the refugees.

He became a charter member of Maine's Slavophile Society, holding dances with eastern European musicians. Like two of the non-Russian characters in his stories, he learned to play the balalaika, the stringed instrument whose melancholic tones evoke images of rural Russia.

"I wasn't thinking of writing a book. I was just having a good time being among these people," he recalled.

As a journalist, Johnson had written several news features about Richmond's Russians. He observed that his newspaper and gentle, often humorous treatment of the book's most memorable characters. Among them are Father Vladimir, the priest who dreams of making the town rich by netting roe-laden sturgeon in the Kennebec to sell as caviar; the ballerina Valentinova, whose mind spins with visions of the London or St. Petersburg stage as she performs her annual Christmas recital in a Methodist hall heated by a wood stove; and Gregor Smolnov, who is still haunted by memories of the Bolshevik goons who murdered his family.

The head of the colony, Maxim Maximovich, is the conniving real estate operator whose newspaper ads lure the Russians to Plankton with promises of green forests and snowy winters just like those in the old country. But even half a world from their native land, the characters remain prisoners of their past, nursing their grievances and wallowing in their sorrows.

"They can't outlive their past. It keeps following them around like a big leaded weight," Johnson said.

Readers may find his characters reminiscent of those created by Isaac Bashevis Singer, one of Johnson's favorite storytellers. Both authors write of simple people in small villages, consumed by jealousies, wracked by fears, and clinging to illusions.

Johnson traces his fascination with eastern European culture to his boyhood in New Canaan, Conn. His father was a Yankee whose forebears arrived "a few ships after the Mayflower," but Johnson was always attracted to his mother's side of the family, which had emigrated from Hungary.

"They were a mystery to me," he said. "They spoke with accents, they cooked differently; they had great festivals where they did strange dances and wore colorful costumes."

Last fall, the 47-year-old writer used the publisher's advance payment he received for the book to travel to Hungary, where he spent two months in Sarszentlorinc — which translates to "muddy St. Lawrence" — the rural village from which his wife's family emigrated.

Though no one in the village spoke English, Johnson had a smattering of Hungarian and managed to get by. The purpose of the trip was to research a novel about a middle-aged Maine shopkeeper who inherits a small vineyard in Hungary from his wife's relatives.

magazine pieces never seemed to capture the essential truths that made the expatriates' lives so fascinating to him.

"The way to really tell about their lives was in fiction," he concluded. He began to write short stories in which he created his own characters. This enabled him to capture the Russians' prejudices and suspicions while imbuing them with a nobility of spirit. He changed the village name from Richmond to the fictitious Plankton, but retained local landmarks and geography.

Johnson's compassion and understanding are evident in his

Mosquito lands in Caribbeans

BELIZE CITY, Belize (AP) — This tiny nation on Central America's Caribbean coast is broiling as usual under a tropic sun, and is once again a perfect hot property for Hollywood moviemakers.

A few years ago Belize passed for a poor West African country in the movie version of Frederick Forsyth's best seller, "The Dogs of War," about a mercenary band that ousts a greedy dictator.

Now it is the setting for director Peter Weir's "The Mosquito Coast." Based on the Paul Theroux novel, it depicts an eccentric Massachusetts man who moves his family to the Caribbean jungles of Honduras to escape modern life, only to go slowly mad in the tropical heat.

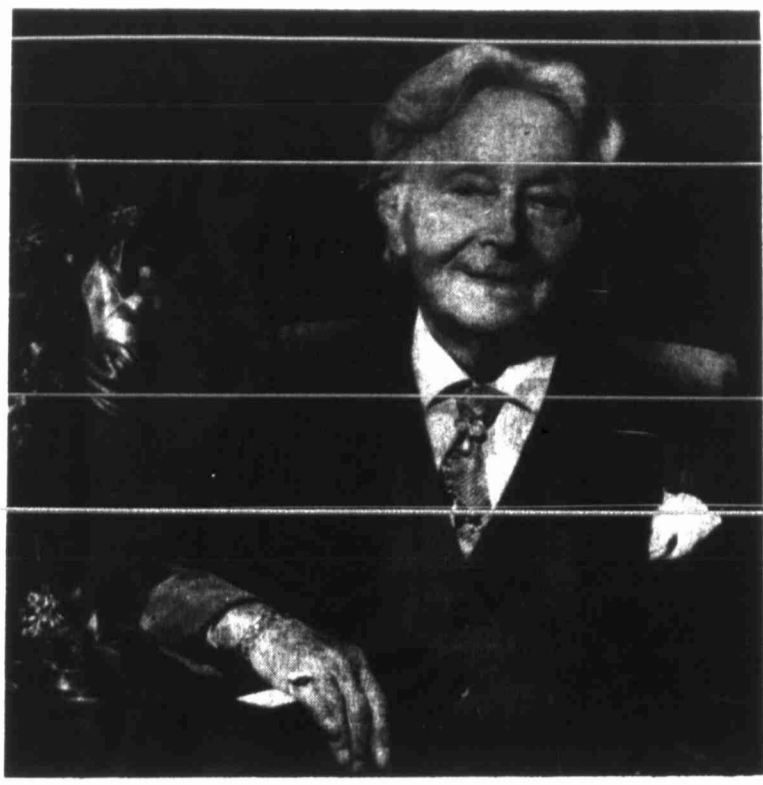

Weir, an Australian who won acclaim in 1983 with "The Year of Living Dangerously," is again working with star Harrison Ford. Both won Oscar nominations this year for "Witness."

The Saul Zaentz Production Co. has budgeted $18 million for the project. About $3 million to $4 million is expected to stay in Belize for its performance as a stifling jungle.

Not a bad piece of a change for the former British Honduras, a nation of 162,000 that gained independence just five years ago and whose government is now trying to raise money by selling citizenship bonds at $25,000 each.

Weir has brought in a crew of about 90, most of them Australians whom he recruited.

"The Australians are used to it," production manager Stewart Krohn said of the debilitating heat. "If the stars have any complaints, I haven't heard them."

The artist Erte, 93, stands next to one of his statues, "Women and Satyr," during a benefit at a gallery in Chicago recently. Erte's 75-year career has spanned the worlds of Mata Hari and "Miami Vice." In Europe, Erte is regarded as one of the fathers of the art deco style that flourished in the 1920s and re-emerged in the 1970s.

Odessa radio station is on air in Big Spring

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Big Spring radios are picking up an additional station via a new translator on South Mountain.

All-Christian station KKKK is broadcast at 103.9 on the FM dial. Broadcasting to Big Spring began last Saturday, said Don Cook, engineer at the translator.

A translator picks up distant radio signals and broadcasts them for local radios, Cook said.

Big Spring has had a problem picking up signals, he said, because it's down in the basin and the signals simply pass over its head, too high to be received.

KKKK, broadcast 24 hours a day, plays adult contemporary music. Programs include Charles Stanley, president of the National Southern Baptist Convention, at 8 a.m.; "Grace To You" with John McArthur at 10 a.m.; Dr. Charles Swindoll, author of three of the five top Christian bestsellers, at noon; and "Focus on the Family" with James Dobson at 1:30 p.m. weekdays, said Bill Blake, KKKK general manager.

Several talk shows are scheduled weekday afternoons, when readers can call in their views on the air, including "Contact America" at 3 p.m., "Talk Back with Bob Larson" at 4 p.m. and "People To People" at 6 p.m. There is a trade fair at 1:30 p.m., and "Saturdays With Hal Lindsey" is broadcast from 12:30 to 2 p.m. Saturdays.

The station is owned by Tower Power Corp., which owns Christian stations around the world, Blake said.

Peters on excellence

Foreign involvement key to business abroad

by TOM PETERS

The semiconductor industry has joined the textile industry in the race to see who bleats the loudest about protection. Yet the Semiconductor Industry Association (SIA) refuses to open a Tokyo office, offering the lame excuse that it is better off complaining to the U.S. government and letting the bureaucrats handle negotiations.

We are surely our own worst enemies. The Wall Street Journal recently reported that "most U.S. companies don't even try to influence Japanese policy," and quoted a Hewlett-Packard executive, who said U.S. firms "are inclined to leave things to Japanese contact rather than get into the process themselves."

Not all companies in all industries stick their heads in the sand. IBM not only has had a subsidiary in Japan since 1937, but it also belongs to every imaginable government, industry and advisory group and consults daily with the Japanese government. The computer industry's primary trade group, the American Electronic Association, has opened a Tokyo office, headed by a U.S. citizen who is fluent in Japanese. And Motorola's more recent success can be attributed to a similar strategy of wholesale participation.

To be sure, the Japanese are tough trading partners, determined to maximize exports — and they don't always play fair. The semiconductor industry has just received a major favorable ruling in a dumping case. Japan was clearly selling to the U.S. market below cost.

But the real problem stems from the historic adversarial business-government relationship in the U.S. Though we have over 10,000 trade associations, they only tend to become energized over narrow special interests, such as the current frenzy of self-interest surrounding the tax act revision. American businessmen as a whole don't like politics or politicians, while European and Asian businessmen see the politics as a natural extension of business and a major part of their ongoing existence.

Economist Robert Reich neatly divides the last hundred years into periods of shifting power between business and government. For instance, for the last several years business has enjoyed a generally more favorable power base and public image than that of government; the reverse was true in the '60s. Over a period of time, some sort of balance is achieved. But it certainly is not the result of a continuing business-government partnership, such as that found in Japan or Germany.

In fact, American corporations historically have assigned the company's government relations job to a lightweight or sidetrack executive or a defeated politician. Trade associations usually hire as directors former politicians or former Capitol Hill staffers. The point is, prominent American business leaders keep their hands clean of the whole political process, except for the carefully-arranged, ritualistic, twenty-third-hour foray to congressional offices or Capitol Hill hearing rooms. Day-to-day interchange among American senior executives and senior appointed or elected officials is rare indeed.

Perhaps Reg Jones, former chairman of General Electric, was an exception; he was hailed by many as the forerunner of a new breed of Washington-focused executives of giant concerns. Nonetheless, many breathed a huge sigh of relief when he appointed, as successor, Jack Welch, who has subsequently avoided Washington as assiduously as Jones approached it. So much for trends.

Our hands-off venue pervades our approach to appointments, organization structure and selling techniques. It leaves us uniquely unfit for membership in the truly global marketplace that is the prime fact of life for future business dealings in manufacturing and financial services industries. The head-in-the-sand approach of the SIA is much more characteristic than is the recipe of IBM, Motorola or the American Electronics Association.

We must encourage our government to pursue fairness with our trading partners. I applaud the recent victories of the semiconductor makers in their wholly correct use of anti-dumping procedures. But the more important, longer-term issue is learning how to participate in the world as it is.

Drilling report

These are the latest oil and gas activity reports filed with the Texas Railroad Commission for the five-county crossroads country.

Operating out of Midland, D.L. Dorland Inc. is preparing to make hole for two developmental ventures in Howard County's part of the Snyder Field.

The wells include the No. 10 O.D. Daniel, six miles southeast of Coahoma, and the No. 59 M.M. Edwards, eight miles southeast of Coahoma.

The wells are aimed at San Andres Formation pay and carry permit for 2,900 and 2,500-ft. maximum depth, respectively.

Two new producers with combined potential to pump nearly 200 barrels of oil per day have been completed in the Chalk Estate lease of the Howard-Glasscock Field, Howard County.

The wells are designated as the No. 21 and No. 20 Chalk Estate, with drillites seven miles northeast and six miles east of Foran, respectively.

The No. 21 pumped 126 barrels of oil with 84 barrels of water per day from Glorieta perforations at a depth of 3,022 feet into the wellbore. It bottomed at a depth of 3,200 feet.

The No. 20 pumped 67 barrels of oil with 114 barrels of waste water daily from Glorieta perforations at 2,492 to 2,393 feet into the hole. Bottomhole was at 3,200. Oil tested at 29-gravity at both wells.

The wells are in an 80-acre unit in the W&N Survey.

First production data have been filed for the No. 18 Patti Batjer "B" in the Howard-Glasscock Field 15 miles southeast of Big Spring.

With Exxon as the operator, the well showed it can pump 30 barrels of 24-gravity oil per day plus 48 barrels of waste water.

Exxon took the hole to total depth of 3,900 feet and plugged back to 3,780. Production will be from a set of Middle Clear Fork perforations at 3,472 to 3,226 feet into the wellbore.

Kelly H. Baxter has brought a new producer on line in the Varel Field, Howard County, about eight miles northwest of Big Spring.

It is the No. 1 Guitier Trust Estate "A," pumping oil at the rate of 21 barrels per day along with 110 barrels of salt water.

Baxter bottomed the hole at 3,309 feet and plugged back to 3,283. Production will be from a perforated interval in the San Andres Formation, 3,200 to 3,225 feet into the wellbore.

D.L. Dorland Inc. of Midland has driven stake for a 2,800-ft. developmental try in the East Howard Iatan Field about eight miles southeast of Coahoma. Located in a 160-acre unit in the T&P Survey, it will be known as the No. 17 Bellam.

An ill-fated developmental try has been written off as a dry hole in Howard County's Sand Springs Field. The well is designated as the No. 1 Larry Melman. It was spudded early in January and bottomed at 9,300 feet. Perforations at 9,216 to 9,230 feet in the Fusselman Formation proved non-commercial. The well will be plugged and abandoned.

Pumping 110 barrels of oil per day plus 32 barrels of water, the No. 1 Bone has been finished in the Ackery Field by Beach Exploration.

Drillite was about six miles northwest of Vealmoor, Borden County.

Beach took the hole to an 8,517-ft. bottom and perforated the Dean Sand for production at 8,212 to 8,320 feet into the hole. Oil tested at 29-gravity.

The Lucy West Field, Borden County, gained a new producer when the No. 1 Gussie Gray "C" was completed eight miles southeast of Galt. It pumped eight barrels of oil per day on open choke plus a minor volume of salt water.

Fina is the operator.

The well bottomed at a depth of 6,350 feet and will produce from a set of Pennsylvania perforations at 8,212 to 8,286 feet into the wellbore.

Wildcat drilling action is planned by Chevron U.S.A. at a Martin County lease four miles northeast of Stanton. The explorer well will be known as the No. 1 N.R. Wright. Carrying authority for 11,700 feet of hole making, the well is in a 160-acre lease in the T&P Survey, Section 5 Block 35.

At a drillite about 15 miles southwest of Taran, Texaco is preparing to make hole for the No. 534 J.E. Mabree "A," a developmental try in Martin County's Mabree Field. The well will be situated in a 12,800-acre lease assembly in the B&M&A Survey. It carries permit for 4,730-ft. TD.

Two wildcat drilling ventures are scheduled in Glasscock County by Diamond Shamrock Exploration of Amarillo. The explorer wells will be known as the No. 3-32 Theora Calverly, located five miles northwest of Garden City, and the No. 10-14 Steve Calverly Jr., 12 miles northwest of Garden City.

Total depths are projected to 8,000 and 8,200 feet, respectively. The Theora Calverly well is in a 640-acre lease in the T&P Survey A-697 while the other well is in a 640-acre lease in the T&P Survey A-756.

Showing ability to pump 245 barrels of 42-gravity oil per day on open choke, the No. 4 E.L. Powell "C" has been completed in Glasscock County's South Blalock Lake Field 10 miles northwest of Garden City.

The well is a venture of Amoco Production Co. It probed to total depth of 11,118 feet and will produce from a set of Wolfcamp perforations at 8,242 to 8,251 feet into the hole following plugback to 8,380 feet.

Glasscock County's Calvin Field gained a new producer when the No. 8 M.B. Hutchison was finished 16 miles southwest of Garden City.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 27, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a day when you would be wise to consider seriously just what plan of life you most wish to follow and to iron out any kinks in your thinking to make the future successful.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): It's not a good day to run out to new places since you would meet with nothing but disappointments. Postpone this.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Your intuition may not work right today, and you have to be careful with your judgment as well, so take it easy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): The outside world is not your oyster today, so don't see anyone who has a chip on the shoulder. Changes comes quickly.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): You may have to change the activities you had planned for today, but this will be for the better.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Don't get into any kind of entertainment that is too expensive and/or risky, and be wise. Your mate needs your help today.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Be sure that you are controlled at home since many situations could test your patience. It's a good day for meditation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): This is a day when you need to be very careful in motion of all kind. Do not use sarcasm in speaking with others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You may feel you do not have enough of the fine things of life, so do something constructive about it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Don't fuss over conditions that you can do little about and then you can become more productive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Plan how to gain more prosperity in the near future and get rid of restrictions in the path of your progress.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Don't expect much from your friends since they are too busy, so paddle your own canoe. Avoid hasty changes.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Avoid civic or worldly activities since biggie would not be very helpful to you today. Postpone until a better day.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she should be taught early in life to think and act in a more harmonious manner and learn that kindness is more potent than force. Give as fine an education as you can and teach not to angle to gain aims.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, APRIL 28, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A great day and evening to put into motion practical plans of action by which you will be able to have a more solid foundation and basis to your life. Seek experts.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Study in financial and property matters that are important to your well-being and you hit on a way to become more prosperous.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): If you are more confident and courageous, you can gain your personal goals without too much trouble.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Get into every detail of a private plan you have in mind and then you can make it work successfully.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): A friend who is experienced in your line of endeavor can be very helpful to you today. An opportunity arises.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Put your finest talents behind career work and you get excellent results and greater success. Dress in a more conventional style.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You have every opportunity to make a new plan work advantageously now, so apply yourself seriously.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Your husband are good for getting your affairs on a more solid foundation for the days ahead, so do so.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): It's a good day to get together with a partner who ordinarily wants his own way, so be willing to compromise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Begin the new week full of enthusiasm and you can advance quickly in your career.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You can get your talents to work advantageously now so perfect them as much as you can.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Hit on the right idea for having greater harmony at home and go through with it. Invite guests in this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): It's a fine day for any reports to be filled out. Make business arrangements that are important as well.

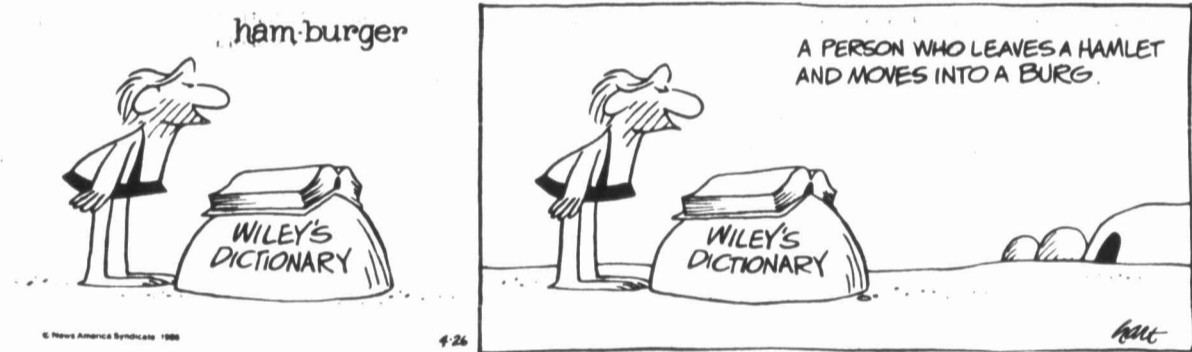

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she can become very successful at whatever has to do with business, banking or whatever requires a fine understanding of finances. Slant the education along such lines, but be sure to add creative courses.

Peete jumps into two stroke lead

THE WOODLANDS (AP) — Calvin Peete, continuing his steady play from the first round, shot a two-under-par 70 Friday to break to a two-shot lead over a trio of golfers after two rounds of the $500,000 Houston Open.

Peete fired a course record 65 on Thursday and shared the first-day lead with Australian Wayne Grady.

But Peete kept up his cool-headed swing and finished the 36 holes with a 135 total, nine under for the tournament and two strokes ahead of Grady, Nick Faldo and Tom Watson.

Peete, one of the most consistent players on the tour, started on the front nine Friday and ran in 11 straight pars before hitting back-to-back birdies on Nos. 12 and 13 to go nine under par for the tournament.

He remained there the rest of the round. Grady shot a 72 and shared second place at 137 with Faldo, who had a 69 Watson, who had a second-round 68.

Mike Sullivan shot a 3-over-par 75 in the opening round but set a course record 63 in the second round that included a 29 on the front nine, which ties the PGA Tour low for the year.

Sullivan and Jay Haas, who fired a 70, were tied for fifth with 139.

After a 2-under 34 on the back nine, Sullivan was still one over par for the tournament when he made the turn to the front nine, but he birdied the next four holes and finished with birdies on seven of the final nine holes.

Gallery favorite Jack Nicklaus had a rough second round but birdied the final hole with a 10-foot putt to finish with a 1-over-par 73 and a 145 total, narrowly missing the 145 cut.

Faldo started the day four under par after an opening-round 68 and birdied the first two holes he played, Nos. 10 and 11.

Faldo ran in a three-foot birdie putt on the par 4 No. 4 to go nine under par for the tournament.

But he bogged his final two holes, Nos. 8 and 9 when he two-putted from 15 feet on No. 8 and missed and eight-foot putt on No. 9.

Grady, the opening day co-leader with a 7-under-par 65, went eight under par with a birdie on the first hole but he had to scramble to over-come bogies on Nos. 5, 9 and 17.

Hurdler highlights Drake Relays

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Olympic medalist Danny Harris, showing no signs of a leg injury he aggravated a week ago, shattered his own meet record in the 400-meter hurdles Friday during a hot, windy opening session at the 77th Drake Relays.

Harris, a junior at Iowa State University and the silver medalist at the 1984 Summer Olympics, overcame a slow start to beat a strong field in the invitational event in 48.28 seconds. The old Drake mark of :48.69 was set last year by Harris, whose effort on Friday is believed to be the best time in the world this year.

Harris' Iowa State teammate, Nawal El Moutawakel, made it a Cyclone sweep by winning the women's 400 hurdles in 55.83 seconds. El Moutawakel won the gold medal in that event while competing for Morocco in the 1984 Olympics.

Wayland Baptist, meanwhile, picked up where it left off last year, when it won four college division relay titles. The Pioneers roared to an easy victory in the 800-meter relay and had the fastest qualifying times in the preliminaries of the 400, 1,600 and sprint medley relays. Those finals will be run Saturday.

Harris set his record even though conditions were less than ideal. The temperature climbed to 85 degrees, making it the hottest Friday in Drake Relays history, and a southwest wind that gusted to 35 mph blew in the runners' faces as they made the turn into the stretch.

In addition, Harris aggravated a hamstring injury while finishing second in the 400-meter dash at the Kansas Relays last weekend. He was a doubtful performer earlier in the week, but he said his leg didn't bother him in Friday's race.

"In the hurdles, you don't have to go as fast as you do in a flat race," said Harris, who has never lost a hurdles race during the collegiate season. "I really didn't have to stretch that much."

Florida A&M's Reggie Davis was almost a full second behind Harris, in 49.25. Nigeria's Henry Amike, who made the Olympic finals in 1984, was third in 49.53 and four-time Big Ten Conference champion Jon Thomas took fourth in 50.74.

El Moutawakel held off Oklahoma State's Leisa Davis-Knowles in the stretch to win the women's event in 55.83 seconds.

Davis-Knowles, who beat El Moutawakel at Kansas last week, finished in 56.04 and teammate Justine Craig was third in 58.39. Baylor hurdler Charles Powell and Kansas State triple jumper Felicia Carpenter joined Harris in breaking meet records.

Powell won the university-college 400 hurdles in 49.50 seconds, bettering the record of 49.7 that Ralph Mann set in 1970 and Harris matched in 1984. Kevin McKinley of Prairie View, who had the fastest qualifying time in the morning preliminaries, was second in 50.09.

Carpenter leaped 41 feet, 8 1/2 inches in the triple jump to set a new Drake mark, yet had to settle for second place. Purdue's Yvonne Netterville won with a jump of 41-10, but the wind at her back was above the allowable limit so her mark didn't go down as a record.

Netterville set the old record of 40-4 1/4 last year.

Ryan stifles Reds

HOUSTON (AP) — Nolan Ryan scattered five hits and Dickie Thon slammed an RBI double, leading the Houston Astros to a 3-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Friday night.

Houston took a 2-0 lead in the first after Bill Doran led off with a double and scored when Thon doubled down the left field line. Glenn Davis then singled in Thon.

The Reds cut the Astros' lead to 2-1 in the seventh after Buddy Bell doubled and came home on an RBI single by Eddie Milner.

In the Houston eighth, Tony Walker walked, stole second and went to third on an infield hit by Ryan. Walker then scored on Doran's bunt.

Ryan, 3-2, worked out of trouble in the second when he struck out Tom Browning, leaving the bases loaded, and again in the sixth when he stranded two Reds by striking out Dave Concepcion. He finished with seven strikeouts and walked three.

Tom Browning, 0-2, took the loss. He worked six innings, giving up four hits and two runs.

Milwaukee's Teddy Higuera shackled Texas on five hits and Paul Molitor drove in four runs with three doubles and a single Friday night, powering the Brewers to an 11-1 victory over the Rangers.

Higuera lost his shutout bid with one out in the eighth inning on Don Slaught's fourth home run of the season.

Milwaukee strafed five Rangers' pitchers for 18 hits. Jose Guzman, 1-3, lasted only 3 2-3 innings and was pounded for eight hits.

Hawks squeak by Pistons in overtime

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Spud Webb sank a pair of free throws with three seconds remaining in the second overtime period and Atlanta held off Detroit's last possession to beat the Pistons 114-113 Friday night, giving the Hawks a 3-1 victory in the first-round NBA playoff series.

The Hawks advanced to the Eastern Conference semifinals, where they take on the Boston Celtics, starting Sunday at Boston. The score was tied 92-92 after four quarters and 103-103 after the first five-minute overtime.

Detroit's Isiah Thomas scored six of his 30 points in the second overtime, including an underhand flip shot in the lane that put the Pistons ahead 113-112 with 11 seconds remaining.

After an Atlanta timeout, the Hawks worked the ball to Webb, the 5-foot-7 rookie, who drove the right side of the lane and was fouled by Kelly Tripucka.
