Spring County may face tax decline

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

Staff Writer Howard County commissioners were told today that declining oil and residential property values may mean lower tax revenues for the next fiscal year without an off-

Discussion on the 1986-87 budget, which is effective Oct. 1, began this morning with word from County Tax Assessor-Collector Dorothy Moore that preliminary indications point to a decrease in revenues, according to reports from the county tax appraisal office.

Moore told commissioners she understands that Capitol Co. appraisers from Austin, whom the county retains to assess mineral values, had estimated a $94 million decrease in mineral values in Howard County for 1986-87.

She said Capitol's estimates were based on January figures. Moore also told commissioners that preliminary reports she has received from county tax apforecast a $16 million dollar reduction in real estate property holdings.

After receiving this information, commissioners unanimously voted to retain a 30 percent homestead refund for those persons who had praiser Gene Pereira's office filed for homestead exemptions from Oct. 1 through March 31. The

Nakasone streeses need for global cooperation

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone today urged greater international cooperation to fight terrorism, and said that terrorism will be an important issue at the seven-nation economic summit meeting in Tokyo.

Nakasone, in a meeting with foreign reporters, also defended his government's refusal to take a specific stand on the April 15 U.S. air strikes against Libya.

"Japan would like to see all terrorist acts disappear from the face of the globe, but that's not possible without international cooperation," he said. Terrorism and measures to combat it, "will certainly be taken up as important issues of the summit.

Unlike European countries which have taken clear-cut stands either for or against the raid, Japan has said only that it is studying the situation and hopes the violence does not escalate.

President Reagan has said he will seek "forceful and collective action" against terrorism during the May 4-6 meeting. But he is expected to meet some resistance from European nations which have criticized the U.S. raids on Libya.

Leaders from France, Britain, West Germany, Canada and Italy also will attend the 12th annual summit. The summit is a forum to discuss economic issues, but political problems discussed informally among the summit participants always attract wide attention.

Asked about Japan's stance on the Libyan attack, Nakasone said his country "is consistently holding to its policy of condemning international terrorism."

He said, "we have listened to the American views that the actions were exercises of self-defense and that the United States has firm Berlin nightclub to Libya.

Mayor weathers stormy situation

 ${\bf SWEETWATER}\;({\bf AP})-{\bf Just}$ over a week ago, the mayor of this West Texas city thought the toughest challenge in his life had been coping with the oilfield boom of the early 1980s.

But Mayor Rick Rhodes, standing knee-deep in debris that once was the southern section of his city, said the real task lay in helping residents recover from twin tornadoes that caused an estimated $20 million in damage

In the oil business, "we'd get those days when it was real hectic. I didn't think there could be anything that was more intensive or more involved than that," he said.

'This (the week after the tornado), without a doubt, has been the most challenging situation as far as time demand and energy demands that I have ever been through," Rhodes

Rhodes, 32, said he found working with his father-in-law in the oilfield service business challenging. Trying to match personnel, equipment and customers in the rapidly moving oil business was tough, he said.

He said being Sweetwater's mayor was not a full-time job until last year and last week. In October, six months after his election, a group of citizens petitioned for his resignation as the city's leader

Rhodes said he had learned not to be a "quitter" while he was a student at Sweetwater High School and "to resign would be most foolish, and I, therefore, decline to attempt to placate a few dissidents.

The recall vote failed. Rhodes said that during the week after the April 19 twisters, residents slapped him on the back and congratulated him on the job he and the city did in coming to grasp with the disaster situation.

"You think about serving, and you really don't think it's that time-consuming, unless you have some major disaster," said Rhodes

He said that soon after the twisters struck about 7:30 a.m., he met with City Manager David Mattox and Jerry Huffman, the city's emergency action director, to organize and coordinate a recovery plan.

"Your tendency is to go help people. You want to get to an area and help people. But we could help those people more by organizing to help them than to just go running out there as individuals," said Rhodes.

Rhodes and Mattox said the Fiberflex lays off 22; work force now 135

Fiberflex Ltd. has laid off 22 persons, including 11 in Big Spring, Chris Christopher, chief executive officer, said this morning

In addition, remaining employees have been given 10 percent pay cuts, Christopher said.

The layoffs, which were effective Friday and today, follow the layoffs of about 25 on April 7. Fiberflex has an estimated employee force of 135, Christopher said. The oil fiberglass sucker rod company laid off 25 employees in early April. Christopher said then the action was taken "as a prudent cost-saving measure necessitated by the continuing depression in the price of oil.

Christopher said all categories of employees were affected. He said all remaining employees were subject to the 10 percent pay cut, "across the board, top to bottom, including

The employee reductions "will last until the price of oil stabilizes and eases back up and we see operating companies starting back up," he said. There may be a "turnaround in the marketplace in mid-third quarter if (oil) prices go back up. Otherwise we forecast a flat May and not much improvement in June."

Rocket blast sparks criticism

LOMPOC, Calif. (AP) - The explosion of a Titan rocket at Vandenberg Air Force Base sparked a fallout of criticism for the Air Force, with some local officials saving they waited hours for confirmation that the blast was not dangerous to the public.

"The first 20 to 30 minutes caused the most havoc," said Lompoc Fire Department Battalion Chief Charlie Johnson. "The public could see the smoke, and we didn't have good, hard information to tell

"There was never an affirmative statement that 'There is no danger, don't worry about it," sheriff's Sgt. Dale Schade. "I would have expected definitive information from the Air Force when I requested it."

The April 18 explosion produced an 8,000-foot-high, white-orange cloud of toxic hydrazine rocket fuel, destroyed several military vehicles and two office trailers, and prompted evacuation of two county parks and an island and oil rigs offshore.

Seventy-four people went to hospitals for examination but only a few, including two sheriff's deputies, suffered symptoms of hydrazine exposure

Police Chief Bob Hebert said no one panicked in the Lompoc Valley, where the 50,000 residents are accustomed to the thunder of missile tests and rocket launches eight miles away.

Most local officials said they were pretty sure there was no danger, but some said their concerns weren't laid to rest for an hour or more. A hospital administrator said it was three hours before he was informed.

Hebert said his officers had to monitor emergency radio traffic because the Air Force never called police directly, a claim disputed by Vandenberg officials.

Lompoc District Hospital Administrator Bill Diebner said he had to ask his his nurses to call their husbands at Vandenberg to learn that most of the cloud was drifting harmlessly to sea.

immediately contact Vandenberg because of the phone overload, kept 9,000 pupils indoors as a precaution.

Vandenberg's commander, Maj. Gen. Jack L. Watkins, said the Air Force was criticized unfairly, since city and county firefighters at the blast site apparently failed to promptly tell other agencies there was no threat.

right," said Watkins, commander of the 1st Strategic Aerospace Division. "It went better than any (disaster) exercise. ... We notified everybody, and we were able to respond to the news media in minutes. We defused what could have been a serious situation public panic.'

Watkins said numerous agencies were alerted to the explosion starting nine minutes after it happened. If there had been a threat to the public, the agencies would have been notified again, he said, adding that the Air Force told county of-'Everything went exactly ficials and the news media 35 minutes after the blast that no danger was anticipated.

Watkins also said rockets are never launched when the wind blows toward Lompoc.

County Supervisor DeWayne Holmdahl said the public and the media did not receive enough quick, accurate information. But he added: "We had our own people out there, and they weren't sharing information with each other. Everybody's got to accept some of the blame and just not let it happen again.'

Watkins has ordered installation of a hot line between Vandenberg and county emergency officials, and Holmdahl said that to prevent confusion in the future, the county will name a spokesman to relay information to the public and

Under the legislation:

 Production from the stripper wells, most of which are in Texas, would be bought as a priority for filling the petroleum reserve.

 The fill-rate of the petroleum reserve would increase to 100,000 barrels per day, an increase from the current rate of 35,000 barrels

 Total capacity of the reserve would increase to 750 million barrels rather than the current Reagan administration target figure of 502 million barrels.

 Sales of government-owned oil from the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum Reserve would be halted for six months while a review is made of the government's petroleum pricing practices.

Bentsen noted that sales of oil from the Elk Hills preserve have been made at $8.88 per barrel, about 30 percent below the current

"weakest" decision was not putting stricter controls on contractors immediately.

Sweetwater officials, meeting with their counterparts from Paris, Lubbock and Wichita Falls, realized that 700 to 800 contractors were coming to the disaster scene to do repair work. Rhodes said the city first required the contractors simply to sign up, but city commissioners later strengthened the requirement, forcing contractors to pay a $5,000 cash bond to operate in the disaster area.

"We should have done that from the start," said Rhodes. "That would have saved a lot of bad feelings."

Rhodes said the cleanup should be complete in about a year and the process of rebuilding will be well on its

"Hopefully, some of the people will end up with better housing than what they were in," he said. "I don't think there is any doubt we are going to be a closer community.

Starvation lingers

WASHINGTON - Seven million people have been spared starvation in Ethiopia by "a remarkable success story of international relief," but serious problems remain, according to a congressional report.

Although about a million of Ethiopia's 43 million people died in the famine, "the American people can know that their assistance not only got through to the people in need, but that it made a difference between life and death for millions," said the report to the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on Immigration and Refugee Policy.

But it also said the famine produced thousands of orphans and hundreds of thousands of refugees.

Shultz stresses secrecy

WASHINGTON — Effective efforts against terrorism require secrecy, according to Secretary of State George Shultz, who says the United States must make better use of covert action, military retaliation or economic sanctions in its anti-terrorist fight.

"There are all sorts of things that I suppose that could be done, and the whole notion of covert action is to have it something that is not described in detail, but it is certainly intended to be disruptive," Shultz said Sunday on the CBS-TV program, "Face the Nation."

Four inmates escape

TRINITY - Four Texas inmates who escaped from a maintenance project at a state prison after overpowering and tying up a guard could still be on Texas Department of Corrections property, an official said.

'There's an awful lot of land out there,' said TDC spokesman Charles Brown. "We don't know where they went."

The inmates escaped about 8:30 p.m. Sunday at the TDC's Eastham unit, said Brown. The four were identified by Brown as Vernon Moon, 25; Monty Mansell, 29; Frank Moon, 34; and Robert Chrismon, 23.

He said the inmates were working in a maintenance crew when the correctional officer, Terry Williams, was allegedly hit in the head and then bound. Williams was in good condition late Sunday at a hospital in Trinity.

Message cuts into HBO

NEW YORK - Home Box Office was showing a movie about a breach of U.S. defense secrets when it had its own security breach: a hacker who stole HBO's signal in an apparent protest of the network's effort to cut off nonpaying viewers.

The message, printed in white letters on a color-bar test pattern background, appeared at about 12:30 a.m. EST Sunday during a broadcast of the film "The Falcon and the Snowman." It read: "Goodevening HBO from Captain Midnight. $12.95 a month? No way! (Showtime Movie Channel Beware.)"

Marcos pleads with Reagan for old job

HONOLULU (AP) — The United States is stressing its support for the fledgling Philippines government of President Corazon Aquino following President Reagan's courtesy call to Ferdinand Marcos in which the deposed leader reportedly pleaded for help in getting his old job back.

Reagan and his wife, Nancy, meanwhile, took a walk on the beach and stopped for a rare chat with some strangers before leaving Hawaii today for a 14-hour flight across the Pacific to the Indonesian resort island

White House efforts to gloss over human rights problems in Indonesia were set back by the Suharto government's determined refusal to permit two Australian journalists accompanying Reagan to cover the U.S. president's visit. President Suharto has banned the Australian news media from his country following publication of an article in a Sidney newspaper comparing Suharto's family to that of Marcos. And U.S. efforts to exempt members of the traveling White House press corps were only partly successful.

When Reagan, in Honolulu for a rest stop on his way to the Far East, telephoned the exiled Marcos to pass along personal good wishes, Marcos indicated he would like Reagan's support for a return to power, a

The source, speaking on condition he not be identified, told The Associated Press that Reagan "said nothing to encourage him.'

The conversation, described as an emotional talk, particularly for Marcos and his wife, Imelda, who spoke with Mrs. Reagan when the men had finished, occurred shortly after Reagan arrived Saturday.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes, at a briefing for reporters Sunday, refused to discuss the content of the Reagan-Marcos conversation. But he stressed, "We support President Aquino's government and encourage its policies of economic, political and military reform. ... We support political stability in the Philippines, and our policy has been and remains, in the final analysis, it is up to the Philippine people themselves to determine their future, and they have voiced their will in this regard.

Speakes said Reagan called Marcos "because he's an old friend and ally."

The president, staying at a private beachfront residence a short distance from where Marcos has been living in exile since February, had no intention of meeting face-to-face with the ousted leader, Speakes

By Associated Press Marcos urges protest

MANILA, Philippines - Ferdinand E. Marcos proclaimed himself the rightful ruler of the Philippines and urged 12,000 diehard followers to rally peacefully in the streets against the government of Corazon Aquino.

His wife, Imelda, referred to herself as "your first lady" and told the crowd gathered in Manila's Rizal Park that she and her husband "will do everything" to return to their homeland from exile in Hawaii.

Mrs. Marcos sounded like she was in tears as she and her husband talked to their supporters by telephone Sunday.

Seven die in agitation

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — The president of Haiti's ruling council blamed a confrontation between police and a mob in which seven people died on agitators trying to destabilize the new government.

Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy did not identify the agitators, but suggested they were supporters of ousted President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier. The clash took place outside Fort Dimanche, the police barracks and prison where opponents were taken by Duvalier and often killed.

Those demonstrating against the new government "have no other goal than to promote their personal ambitions, defend their economic interests or prepare the arrival of a new totalitarian regime in our beloved Haiti,' Namphy said in a rare television address late

Peres hopes for peace

TEL AVIV, Israel - Prime Minister Shimon Peres says Israel and Jordan have opened a channel of communication through quiet diplomacy that could lead to a renewal of the stalled peace process.

Jordan's King Hussein said in mid-February he could not continue preliminary contacts with Israel after he broke his yearold agreement with the Palestine Liberation Organization on a joint negotiating strategy.

But Peres said there were new possibilities for negotiations with Jordan after Hussein's break with PLO chief Yasser Arafat, whom Peres called "the greatest obstacle to peace." Peres spoke Sunday in an interview with Israel Television.

Greece against reprisal

Doctors' fee raise prompts group's criticism Free SPINAL EXAMINATION

CHICAGO (AP) — Doctors raised their fees 7 percent, or three times the rate of inflation, in the year after the American Medical Association ended a voluntary freeze on physician rates, federal statistics show.

But an AMA spokesman says the fee increases were justified by an 8 percent jump in the cost of running and octor's office during that time. Meanwhile, a consumer group labeled the rise in doctors' fees as gouging as usual."

The AMA's freeze, which began in March 1984, succeeded in bringing down the rate of increase for doctors' services, said Daniel Ginsburg, a U.S. Labor Department economist.

"But now, there's a return to normalcy as physicians try to catch up," he said.

According to the latest figures from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, doctors' fees rose 7 percent in the 12 months after the AMA freeze ended in March 1985. compared with a 2.3 percent increase in the overall cost of living during the same time period.

In establishing the voluntary freeze, the Chicago-based AMA urged the nation's 390,000 doctors to stop fee increases for a year to aid the nation's economy. The group said the move saved consumers about $1 billion. Dr. James Todd, the AMA's senior deputy executive vice president, defended the fee increases since the freeze ended.

Doctors' fees still lag behind costs because the cost of operating a medical office rose 8 percent during the year, Todd said, largely because of increases of as much as 50 percent for malpractice

Veterans should protest cutbacks

Mitchell County Service Officer Bertie Kidd brought something to the attention of all service veterans that we should be very concerned about. This is the discontinuance of non-service connected disability care of veterans at the V.A. hospitals and, also, the cut off of prescription drugs

Most World War II veterans and some Korean War veterans have already reached retirement age, most with only Social Security income. If they are healthy enough not to require hospital care or drugs, they are very fortunate.

Most are not and the older we get the more likely we are to need prescription drugs. Most drugs went up March 1, some by 30 percent to 40 percent. It would not take long to eat up a small Social Security check.

Although I and most of us did not win a Congressional Medal of Honor or any other medal other than the Good Conduct Medal, we did go and do what we were told to do to the best of our ability. Therefore, I think we do not deserve treatment such as this, especially this late in the game.

Although they may be far from retirement age, the Vietnam veterans must remember that preventing this unfair treatment of veterans will help them someday when they reach our age.

We need to cut our government spending but not on the backs of the very people who have helped preserve our country. I think a more appropriate way would be to stop buying $7,000 coffee makers, $600 toilet seats and $175 metal

Editor's note: Endorsements are made just prior to election for two reasons. First, platforms and issues often do not gel until late in a campaign. Second, news coverage of candidates is as fair and balanced as we can make it. An early endorsement might lead a reader erroneously - to think news coverage might be biased toward that candidate. The endorsements represent the viewpoint of the editor and the publisher; we don't even discuss our views about candidates with one another until we sit down to decide endorsements. We avoid the topic earlier because we don't want any unintentional bias to creep into the news

Shady shooter confesses all

By AN ANONYMOUS PHOTOGRAPHER

In light of all the recent confessions by present and former college athletes, I feel it is time for me to speak my peace and clear my conscience.

I too was involved in the college payola bit.

you play your cards right," in a whisper that was barely audible. Then he turned and left. Sure, I wanted the good life. I wanted to profit from what I could do for the college publication. I chose State.

During my years there, my 'sugar daddy' provided me with film, photographic paper, and an occasional lens or two after contest results were announced and we had swept the awards.

But was I the only one involved? Far from it! I found that every member of the photo staff was receiving "extra incentives." Each photographer was kept well stocked in the latest in photo technology, and in return, we would crank out top-notch photos which would contribute to our winning college contests, a perfect give-and-take situation. Now what could be wrong with

There was plenty wrong with that set-up. The other photographers on the yearbook staff never saw any extra "gratuities" that were showered on the newspaper staff.

I felt it wasn't fair that these other photographers, who did just as much for the yearbook as I did for the newspaper, did not profit. And what about those in the Forestry Department? Or the Computer Sciences Department?

Granted, it just wasn't fair, but I continued with the practice clear up to graduation, and keeping my guilty conscience with me up until

U.S.-Japan trade flourishes despite flaws

By JIM ABRAMS

TOKYO - President Reagan, in his trip to the Tokyo summit, will become one of more than 2 million Japanese and Americans who cross the Pacific this year in one of the world's most abiding two-country relationships.

Despite trade problems such as Japan's $50 billion trade advantage and American irritation with the pace of Japan's market-opening efforts, that relationship continues to flourish, both culturally and economically

Former Assistant Secretary of State Paul D. Wolfowitz once called the U.S.-Japanese partnership "one of history's greatest success

Total bilateral trade last year was $95 billion, or 17 percent of total U.S. overseas dealings, second in volume only to U.S.-Canada trade. The $72.38 billion in imports from Japan, 20 percent of all U.S. imports, for the first time topped those from Canada.

Although Americans complain, sometimes justifiably, that barriers to foreign goods remain, Japan's purchases of $22.63 billion made up more than 10 percent of U.S. exports.

$310 worth of Japanese goods and sold $97 Japan's biggest seller, automobiles, took a

$17 billion chunk of Japan's exports. Japan also sold $7.7 billion in electric appliances, $6.5 billion in industrial machinery and $6.3 billion in computers and other office

Japanese bought $1.5 billion in American from 1984 and more than six times the $14.7 billion total in 1972. But the U.S.-Japan partnership is far more than a lopsided exchange of goods Japanese invested $17 billion in the United States in 1985, topped only by Britain and the Netherlands. More than 300 Japanese manufacturers are now located in the United States, employing close to 100,000 people.

Last year alone, Toyota and General Motors began joint production in California, Mazda broke ground for an auto plant in Michigan, Mitsubishi Motor Corp. and Chrysler announced a joint venture in Illinois and Toyota said it would invest $800 million in a Kentucky assembly line.

Also last year, Toshiba said it would employ 500 at a new telephone and medical equipment plant in California, Fanuc began building an industrial robot plant in Michigan to employ 800 and Canon decided to produce office automation equipment in Virginia, providing American culture permeates Japan. McDonald's and Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurants are fixtures. Tokyo Disneyland draws millions of Japanese. Cities offer a dazzling array of American movies, concerts by American pop stars and translated American bestsellers.

Baseball fans root for American sluggers on their favorite Japanese pro teams. About onethird of Japanese newlyweds honeymoon in Hawaii, and young Japanese who haven't visited Hawaii, Guam or the U.S. West Coast are becoming a minority.

This closeness makes solving trade issues even more important.

"The stakes are high," said Johns Hopkins University experts in a study published earlier this year. "No other relationship between an Asian nation and a Western nation comes even close to matching this one ... in mutual Sen. John C. Danforth, the Missouri Republican notorious in Japan as a hardliner on protectionist legislation, said here recently that Japan must reduce its trade surplus because "the bond between our two countries is essential to the peace and stability of the world itself.

Japan's Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone agrees, telling the Diet (parliament) in a recent speech that Japan must make "every effort" to solve trade problems because furthering U.S.-Japan relations "is an important cornerstone for peace and stability in the Asia-Pacific region and all the world nocturnal snake and a dam in arid West Texas are posing the first major congressional challenge to the Endangered Species Act since the classic 1970s battle between a tiny fish and the Tellico Dam.

Endangered snake becomes bone of contention

In one corner is the Concho water snake, a 35-inch nonpoisonous serpent that the Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service is proposing to list as a threatened species needing legal protection from humans.

financed water storage and from the law's provisions giving upholding the tough environmental U.S. snake delivery project that Texas interests say is vital to the future of towns such as Odessa, San Angelo and Abilene

The service says that while the snake is found along a 200-mile stretch of the Colorado River, the dam and its reservoir would adversely affect about 74 percent of the Concho's critical habitat

But Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, saying concern for the snake is a "serious case of misplac-In the other corner is the propos- ed priorities," has introduced ed Stacy Dam, a $66 million, locally legislation to exempt Stacy Dam creatures precedence over projects that threaten them with extinction.

There is a certain deja vu to the situation, which Fish and Wildlife Service officials say is the first time since 1979 that anyone on Capitol Hill has mounted a frontal attack to carve out an exemption for a project.

That effort came over the snail darter, an inch-long minnow that halted the $130 million Tellico Dam in Tennessee in its tracks and produced a Supreme Court decision

The Tellico Dam, about 90 percent complete when the darter was discovered nearby in 1973, won an exemption from Congress in 1979. In the early 1980s, darter populations were found elsewhere, and the minnow's status was downgraded from endangered to

Jim Johnson, chief of the endangered species section at the service's New Mexico office, says the Concho exists in the second smallest geographic area of any

He said that obtaining a population count on the gray and brown creature is difficult because "the species is very secretive. It hides under rocks and comes out at night to feed.

Johnson said he has no doubt that 'the majority of the critical habitat would be destroyed." But he said that whether the dam's construction would threaten the snake with eventual extinction has not been decided

John Fitzgerald, a lawyer for the Defenders of Wildlife, said his organization believes the dam spells doom for the Concho, which was discovered in 1944.

"If you flood the snake out, it can't reproduce," he said. "The young snakes need shallow running water and rocks. Clearly, there would be some snakes left, but the dam would jeopardize the existence of the species."

Fitzgerald says there are alteratives to Stacy Dam, although they would raise the cost of the water project anywhere from 10 percent to 40 percent.

Heart chamber out of step

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Will you please write about atrial fibrillation? I would like to know something about it as soon as I can. Thank you. — Mrs. E.J.

The atira are the upper heart chambers, where the heartbeat starts. In atrial fibrillation, the normally rhythmic precision of heart action has been upset. The atria, instead of setting the metronomic regularity of beating and transmitting that to the lower chambers (the ventricles) are squirming around. As a result, the lower chambers react like a dancer whose partner is hearing different music. They begin to respond with unpredictable beats.

Now, I realize how ominous this all sounds, and it certainly is not something you want to have happening. But you can live with atrial fibrillation. In fact, you can have almost normal blood circulation with it, for the ventricles are continuing to pump blood.

Meanwhile, though, if it's at all possible, it is best to get some handle on the situation, to try to get the heart beating in its normal, orderly sequence. That can be done with drugs. Or sometimes a small electric shocks administered to the atria will bring them back into line.

Of equal importance is trying to find out why the fibrillation started. Causes for it can range from completely innocent herat like a disturbance in the circulation to the heart muscle.

kindly explain what benefit may be gotten by taking cod liver off capsules? Will it help plaque buildup or lubricate veins? An article I read said it will lubricate the joints. — A.D.

More on cod liver oil! I thought we had disposed of the subject. Certainly, there seems enough good to be said for it without resorting to exaggerations of its benefits. Let's review the subject.

Cod liver oil has EPA (eicosapentaenoic acid). EPA stops blood platelets from sticking to one another. Blood platelets are those clotting mechanisms that can get trapped in fat deposits on artery walls and add to blockage of blood flow. To that extent, it prevents vessel problems. It doesn't lubricate blood vessels the way it does your fingers when you spill some, if that is what you

And it doesn't lubricate joints either. But it is interesting that you mention joints. I presume you are referring to arthritis. EPA is thought to inhibit formation of a body chemical, leukotriene, which does incite joint inflammation. So if you stop leukotriene formation you stop one of the many causes of joint pain.

As you might guess, if EPA completely stopped plaque formation and joint inflammation, it would fall into the "wonder substances" quirks to very serious conditions, category. It's not that good. But it's good enough so that many in-

'Real' Americans look like anyone

DEAR ABBY: Regarding "100 Percent American," the American of Oriental descent who complained that within five minutes of being introduced to a Caucasian, he was asked, "What are you?": You replied that it was rude to ask personal questions at any time, but because the average Caucasian doesn't know a Chinese from a Japanese, Cambodian, Vietnamese, Korean or a Thai, the question seemed reasonable - but it was still rude

Rude? I disagree. Inquiries about a person's roots are not necessarily rude. It shows a sincere interest in their heritage.

The Orient is a rich and diverse geography. The face of an Oriental reveals his heritage. His looks tell which ones? His story is probably quite fascinating. I don't think it's rude to observe that such a face has a rich ancestry. I think it's a positive component of international understanding. AN AMERICAN NAMED FINN

Product liability laws set for Senate action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Insurance lobbyists love to tell about the woman who tried to kill herself by starting her car in the garage and locking herself in the trunk. The engine stalled and after many hours she was rescued.

Afterward, she filed a product liability lawsuit against the automaker, complaining there was no notice that the trunk did not open from the inside.

The story is just one of many anecdotes that the insurance industry's representatives on Capitol Hill bandy these days and it usually includes the disclaimer that the woman lost the suit.

Even so, the tale - which is supposed to show the unreasonable nature of many product liability lawsuits these days - enlivens a grim legislative

Efforts to revise the nation's product liability laws are about to begin again in the Senate Commerce Committee

Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo., Commerce Committee chairman, declaring that he wants to get the issue "off the dime," is shooting for action in the panel by June 1.

The legislative drive comes in response to a steep climb in liability insurance rates over the last few years combined with a drying up of coverage. Companies report premium increases ranging from 25 percent to 1,000 percent.

The same is true for governments. Liability premiums for the city of Chillicothe, Ohio, shot up from $23,000 a year to $223,000. In fact, the increases effect everyone who needs coverage - from major manufacturers to professional midwives. Controversy surrounds the hunt for the cause.

'The principle source of the problem is our court Danforth says. "Americans are filing more lawsuits and juries are responding with damage awards that are astronomical in some

Consumer groups blame it on the insurance industry itself, saying unsound management practices in the 1970s have resulted in efforts to recoup lost premium revenues in the 1980s.

Consumer advocates Ralph Nader and J. Robert Hunter have accused the industry of "going on strike in order to extort higher rates from consumers and businesses.

Both the Reagan administration and the Senate have decided against any move to overhaul the broad sweep of liability law, taking in medical malpractice and numerous other issues. The focus is limited to product liability.

An administration bill, stressing caps on punitive damages and those for pain and suffering as well as attorneys' fees, should make its committee debut within a couple of weeks, possibly sponsored by Sen. Robert Kasten, R-Wis.

Soon afterward, Danforth plans to offer an overhauled version of the plan he introduced late Danforth's proposal was drawn in part to get around objections that had blocked a Kastensponsored measure, similar to the administration bill, that failed in the Senate twice previously.

Chamber sets Tuesday for planning retreat

The annual community planning retreat, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, has been set for Tuesday.

Representatives from the City Council, county commissioners, school board, Howard College board, water district, Industrial Foundation and the chamber will attend the function to share concerns and establish goals for community growth and progress, said chamber president John Arrick.

Areas to be covered are education, economic development, community relations, beautification, health and welfare, cultural affairs, and housing, said executive secretary Melba Cardwell.

The retreat will be from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the East Room of Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Reservations can be made with the chamber for $5. The fee includes a continental breakfast, lunch and coffee break, she said.

LULAC names officers

The League of United Latin American Citizens has named new District 5 officers, outgoing chapter president Pat DeAnda said Friday.

The new officers will be inducted at the May 10 District 5 convention in Big Spring.

Manuel Arsiaga will serve as district president. The vice president's post will go to Raul Marquez, who's replacing Mary Pena.

Sharon DeAnda replaces Linda Arsiaga as organization secretary and Rose Dezeda will become the new treasurer, taking over for Chon Marquez.

Edward Dezeda will hold the position of sergeant at arms, the post now held by City Councilman Enrique (Henry) Sanchez.

DeAnda said she will serve as media spokeswoman.

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

Both Paducah and Memphis will be back to defend the Region I-2A golf titles they won last year when a horde of boys and girls teams converge on Comanche Trail Golf Course for this year's region tourney Tuesday and Wednesday.

Last year the Paducah girls easily took the championship by firing a 358 on the first day and a 373 on the second day for a 731. They outdistanced second place McCamey who shot a 854.

The team from District 4-2A has shot a 381 this season. The other favorite is Memphis, from District cond in the tournament last season. 2-2A. The Lady Cyclones have recorded a 396.

Crossroads Country area team Stanton might also make a push for a state berth. The Lady Buffaloes have recorded a best of 400 this season. The team consists of Yvette Velles (97), Lee Ann Tom (98), Kelly Glaspie (103), Leslie Blair (102) and Kaki Elmore (111).

Strange wins in sudden-death

THE WOODLANDS (AP) — Curtis Strange may have changed putters but the results are the same for one of the PGA Tour's most successful golfers

Strange sank a 30-foot birdie putt on the third hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday to win the $500,000 Houston Open over Calvin Peete.

The $90,000 payday was nothing new for the man who set the PGA single-season earnings mark of $542,321 last year. It was a different story for the putter, though.

On the 13th hole of Thursday's opening round, Strange snapped the shaft of his putter on a wooden bridge and chucked the head into a lake. He parred the final five holes putting with his pitching wedge on the way to a par round of 72.

Strange's new putter worked his second shot stopped 30 feet from the hole. Strange sank his putt but Peete, who had led or shared the lead all

Peete and Strange parred the first two playoff holes and Peete's 20-foot birdie putt on the par-4, 376-yard 17th hole stopped at the lip to force the third playoff hole.

It was one of several chances Peete squandered in trying to win his third tournament this year. Strange's birdie on the 17th hole brought into a deadlock with Peete for the first time in the round. Peete missed a birdie putt by three inches on No. 17 that would have broken the tie but he got another chance at victory when Strange drove his second shot into the rough at No. 18.

"That bird did a pretty good job building a nest with no hands, just his mouth."

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 29, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early morning problems connected with making a good start at the day's practical activities are soon cleared up. The evening is excellent for romance and social life.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Early handle civic affairs that are imporant, but be careful of making mistakes. If a favor is needed, ask early in the day. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can easily expand where activities are concerned, so get busy on them early. Make new associates who will be neipiui. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get your practical affairs well-organized early in the day, but take no risks later or you could lose security.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Find out early what an associates expects of you, then follow through energetically to get good results. LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You can begin the day very wisely at your activities, but later some trouble may crop up that needs careful handling. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You feel happy upon arising and can make appointments for entertainment, but be sure you find out what it will cost. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get home conditions in perfect order early. Later, annoyances may crop up that ' need quick handling. Be discriminating. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make fine progress with routines in the morning. Later, you have to solve difficult problems. Handle what is important. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You understand how to get your affairs working more intelligently and can attend to such in the morning. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have fine ideas for getting what you most want or need. Utilize them patiently for best results. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Consider well your innate wishes and plan just how best to gain them, then go after them courageously.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have a backer who can help you complete a fine project. Do some investigating that will be helpful also.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be possessed of fine judgment and be very happy early in life. Later, there will be much hard work and troubleshooting. Slant the education along such lines. The latter years can bring much happiness.
