Candidates reveal expenses

Opponent outspends incumbent in Judge's race

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Warren Wise, who seeks to dethrone incumbent Milton Kirby from the Howard County judge position in one of today's primary elections, has nearly triple the campaign expenditures of Kirby, according to campaign finance reports filed in the county clerk's office.

All opposed candidates must file finance reports 30 days and again seven days prior to an election.

Wise has spent $5,428.86 compared to Kirby's $1,940.12, according to the finance reports. A majority of the spending has been for media ads and speciality advertising items such as a rental signs, bumper stickers and posters, the reports show.

Wise has received $1,425 in contributions compared to Kirby's $500. He also listed $4,025 as loans he made to himself.

The loan figures are listed on the contribution sheet but not included within the total contributions.

County Clerk Margaret Ray said that according to the state code election laws, a candidate can list loans to himself and future contributions from other persons can be used to pay back the debt.

Registered voters can vote at their election precinct from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Other county races in the primary are Howard County commissioner seats in Precincts 2 and 4, and Justice of the Peace Precinct 1 Place 2 spot.

Other campaign expenditure and contribution amounts filed in the county clerk's office are:

• County Commissioner Precinct 2 — Paul Allen, $1,782.16 in expenditures and $100 contributions; William E. "Jack" Shaffer, $1,547.05 in expenditures and $1,025 contributions; and John Stanley, $1,570.67 in expenditures and $174 contributions.

Leo Williams who is running unopposed on the Republican ballot had spent $1,139.82 through April 23. He was initially opposed by G.C. (Dub) Clinton, who had spent $689 through March 24 before dropping

Anderson raises $11,100

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — A candidate in the Republican primary for the House District 69 seat has raised and spent thousands of dollars for the election Saturday but finds himself without an opponent.

John R. "Rich" Anderson of Gail, who hopes to challenge state Rep. Larry Don Shaw in November, reported $11,100 in contributions and $6,511 in expenditures for the year, according to documents filed with the Secretary of State's Office.

But Republican opponent Travis Floyd of Big Spring withdrew from the race in mid-April, citing health problems.

A spokeswoman for the secretary of state said Floyd must still file campaign finance reports. The most recent required campaign report for Floyd was not in Thursday. The mailing deadline for the reports was Monday, but numerous filings still haven't been received.

In a previous report, Floyd showed no contributions and $600 in expenditures. He could not be reached for comment.

Floyd's name will remain on the ANDERSON page 2A

Polls show Republicans strongly back Clements

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas voters cast primary election ballots Saturday, with opinion polls showing strong Republican support for a former governor and Democratic Gov. Mark White hobbled by plunging oil prices, angry teachers and unhappy state employees.

A three-way battle has been waged for the GOP gubernatorial nomination, and Secretary of State Myra McDaniel predicts a record Republican turnout.

Ms. McDaniel estimated that 400,000 Republicans would vote, topping the 1972 record of 390,000. Democratic turnout is forecast at 1.5 million. There are 7.9 million eligible voters, but Texans don't register by party preference.

About 200 backers of conservative Democrat Lyndon LaRouche also are seeking offices. A dozen are running for Congress. One is seeking the Democratic nomination for agriculture commissioner and most of the others are looking for local party positions.

But the big-bucks governor's race, in which candidates reported spending more than $9 million, has received most of the attention.

According to recent polls, former Gov. Bill Clements is running well ahead of his GOP rivals, U.S. Rep.

Tom Loeffler of Hunt and former Democratic congressman Kent Hance.

A poll published Thursday by the Houston Chronicle gave Clements 62 percent support, with 16 percent for Loeffler and 15 percent for Hance.

Both trailing candidates downplayed the poll. But Clements, a self-made millionaire and the only Republican elected Texas governor in a century, said it reinforces what his surveys have indicated for months.

A runoff is held if no candidate receives more than 50 percent of the primary vote.

Hise says school district faces low teacher morale

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Low teacher morale is a serious problem in the Big Spring Independent School District and around Texas, said Superintendent Lynn Hise.

Hise, who spoke at the Chamber of Commerce strategic planning conference Tuesday, said morale is one of several immediate problems the district is facing.

The low morale among teachers is caused by implementation of the career ladder and the Texas Examination for Current Administrators and Teachers, he said.

"There is a general feeling among teachers that they have been singled out as a professional group who must prove their competency in spite of the fact that they have been granted a license to teach," he said in a memo at the conference. "They feel this to be degrading, insulting and unfair, particularly when the test they were required to take does not prove or disprove competency as a teacher."

Hise said it is difficult, if not impossible, for school boards and other administrators to combat the low morale, and in general, the public does not understand teachers' feelings.

"It's going to take years to get over it," he said.

Another problem the district is facing, he said, is the increasing difficulty of finding insurance to cover its liabilities.

When the district asked for bids on insurance earlier this year, few companies responded, he said, and then the cost was "enormous." The district is paying $89,872 for a property insurance contract, up from about $33,000 last year. In addition, the deductible was raised to $100,000 from $5,000 last year.

The problem is one many government entities and others are facing. Insurance companies claim they can no longer afford the cost of excessive liability judgments by the courts.

But consumer advocates say the problem is part of an insurance company plot to change liability laws to their favor, at the expense of individuals' protection.

The potential for lawsuits against the school district is the third problem it is facing, Hise said. It is difficult to not renew an employee's contract without being challenged, he said.

With the career ladder, the Term Contract Non-Renewal Act and "the general attitude of our litigious society," the district has a constant potential for litigation, he said.

The contract non-renewal act, passed in 1981, requires long-term documentation of employee

Bowling alley to open in July

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Harold Aberegg is fulfilling a 16-year-old dream: opening his own bowling alley in Big Spring.

Construction has started on the new Highland Lanes Family Entertainment Center at Highland Mall, in the old Montgomery Ward building. By mid-summer, the crash of pins will be filling the air. Aberegg said the alley will open about July 15.

Although there are two other bowling lanes in Big Spring, there are no others in Howard County, Aberegg said, and he expects a large market for the popular sport.

The facility, covering 30,000 feet, will have 24 bowling lanes; an arcade and billiards room; a full line pro shop; a manned snack bar; a free, supervised play room for children; and a lounge, Aberegg said.

Cost of the project will be $950,000 to $1 million, he said. Only about $175,000 of that will be spent on renovation and changes to the building, he said. The rest of the money will go toward installing bowling lanes, an expensive process, and other equipment such as bowling balls and shoes.

Rebecca Powell, mall manager said the lanes must be installed by board to ensure a smooth lane surface, important for bowling accuracy. The lanes are made of long, thin strips of wood.

Aberegg said the lanes will have Colorvision, which features computerized scoring and display boards paired with television screens.

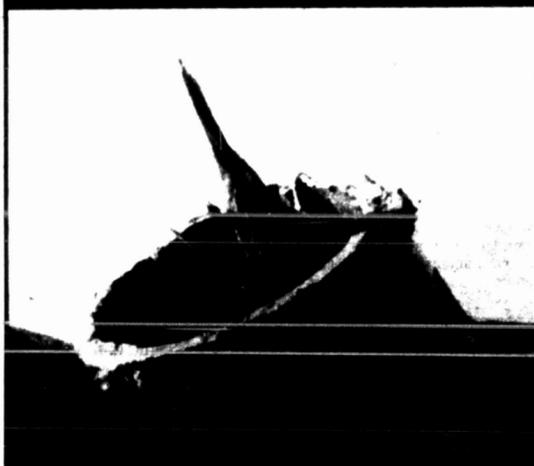

Opening a bowling center has been Aberegg's dream since he started the sport in 1970, he said. Big Spring's youngest league bowler, Andy Hyden, 6, and "wisest," Red McMahan, 81, will be bowling at Highland this fall, he said.

Joyce Davis will be the bowling manager. She will bowl at the women's nationals competition in California this month, Powell said.

Anyone interested in signing up for fall leagues may call Davis at 267-1923 or 263-0224, he said.

Manager over "everything else" will be Paul Graves, Aberegg said. Karen Hyden, certified coach instructor, will be the youth coordinator. A clinic for young people ages 6 to 22 will begin this fall on Saturday mornings. Aberegg said he intends to spon-

Radiation leak called fatal at site

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calculations from radiation data gathered in Sweden indicate the nuclear accident at Chernobyl could have produced fatal dose levels at the site, U.S. officials said today.

The federal interagency task force monitoring radiation from the Soviet accident said estimates of exposures at Chernobyl, based upon European air sampling, indicate "these doses are sufficient to produce severe physical trauma, including death."

The task force said the data "suggests" that radiation exposure RADIATION page 2A

Appeal denied in drug case

An Anton man sentenced to 10 years in prison for delivery of a controlled substance was recently denied a request for appeal.

Santos Duran Jr., 31, was sentenced in June by a 118th District Court jury after he pleaded guilty to delivering less than 28 grams of methamphetamine.

He filed a notice of appeal in July with the 11th District Court of Appeals in Eastland shortly after a motion for a new trial was denied by District Judge James Gregg.

Duran contended his 10-year sentence was "void" because he did not sign a written waiver of his right to a jury trial before pleading guilty to the charge. He chose to have a jury assess his punishment.

The appeal request was overruled and the district court judgment affirmed, according to an opinion from Austin McCloud, chief justice of the court.

District Attorney Rick Hamby said Duran and his legal counsel, attorney Bill Wischkaemper of Lubbock, were now "going for the last straw" by filing a petition for discretionary review with the Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin.

The petition, Hamby said, requests the court to review the Eastland court's decision. Morris said Duran is currently out on bond. According to state law, a defendant may remain free on bond during the appeal process if his sentence is 15 years or less.

evaluations and the like before the district can decide not to renew a teacher's contract, except in an instance of blatant misconduct, Hise said.

While the law is necessary to protect employees, it is time consuming to document "everything, good or bad, every day, of all the employees you have," he said. "That time should be devoted to educating children."

The issue came up in a lawsuit against the district by former Big Spring High School basketball coach James Griffin last year. The jury awarded Griffin $28,000 when he claimed the district didn't renew his contract because he is black.

Another problem the district faces is difficulty predicting enrollment, Hise said.

at the reactor site would have been in the range of 20 rem to hundreds of rem whole body exposure for the two-day period over which most of the radiation release probably took place.
A whole body dose of 500 rem or more will kill most humans within weeks and a dose of 100 rem will cause severe radiation sickness, according to medical references.
A rem is a measure of the effect of radiation on human tissue.

Quake test lab opened

SAN DIEGO — Bridges will sway and buildings will be shaken to their rafters in the nation's first laboratory capable of full-scale testing for earthquake resistance. "We intend to take these buildings right up to the edge of destruction in a sequence of testing that will provide useful information," lab director Dr. Gil Hegemier said at its unveiling Thursday on the University of California campus here. The key feature of the $4 million facility is a stationary 3-foot-thick wall that can be connected to structures up to five stories tall by piston-like hydraulic devices called actuators.

Loan agencies revived

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, Friday, signed into law emergency legislation that revives the activities of two government agencies that are major sources of home-mortgage credit. The bill, which Reagan signed just hours after arriving in Tokyo for the economic summit, extends the depleted credit authority of the Federal Housing Administration. It also replenishes the exhausted commitment authority of the Government National Mortgage Association, or Ginnie Mae, to guarantee the prompt payment of securities backed by government-insured mortgages. The bill, which was approved earlier this week by Congress, was flown to Tokyo on a commercial airliner, said White House spokesman Dale Petroskey. Announcements of the signing were made here and in Tokyo.

Sheriff to serve time

DALLAS — Montague County Sheriff Harry Walker, accused of sending a sexually explicit photograph of a minor through the mail, will spend the weekend in jail, a federal magistrate ruled Friday. During an initial appearance before U.S. Magistrate William Sanderson, the first-term sheriff was ordered held until a detention hearing Monday afternoon, officials said. Walker, 37, was arrested at the post office in Bowie on Thursday by FBI agents and postal authorities, Assistant U.S. Attorney Denver McCarty said.

Burned bodies removed

ROBSTOWN — Five bodies were removed Friday from the smoldering wreckage of a three-vehicle accident that had burned for hours and forced the evacuation of nearby homes, officials said. Two women burned while fleeing the flames from Thursday's accident in this Corpus Christi area. The wreck occurred when a car turned into the path of a tractor-trailer loaded with a chemical, said Department of Public Safety spokesman George Edsondo. The tractor rig hit the car, jackknifed, crossed into the northbound lanes and smashed into another car, Edsondo said. Intense heat from the wreckage forced authorities to wait until Friday to remove the bodies. DPS spokesman Mike Cox said the truck driver and four people riding in the second car were killed.

Dependents leave Warsaw

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Fifty-five dependents of Western embassy personnel, mainly women and children, left the Polish capital Friday as a precaution against possible radiation contamination from the damaged Soviet nuclear reactor. Officials at the British, Canadian and Australian embassies said the dependents left Warsaw by plane and by car and stressed that the evacuation was voluntary.

Expo opens

Five million people expected to visit fair

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Expo 86, conceived as a modest city centennial celebration with 25 international participants, opened today as an extravaganza of exhibits, food, dance and music from 47 countries.

As hordes of umbrella-toting people watched, Expo President Jim Pattison escorted a retired Newfoundland couple through the gates as the first official visitors. Kevin and Mildred Flynn were driving cross-country to the fair when they met Pattison, who invited them to lead off the opening.

The Flynnas were the first of up to 150,000 people expected to visit Expo today, including Britain's Prince Charles and Princess Diana. The royal couple planned to tour the grounds before and after the 3:15 p.m. formal opening and celebration at B.C. Place Stadium. The prince and princess had joined others Thursday night to watch a fireworks display in honor of the fair.

Just months ago, organizers were preparing for about 13 million visits amid predictions of losses up to $400 million. But with 47 countries now taking part, 20 million visits by more than 5 million people are expected for the 5½-month fair.

The United States, Soviet Union and China have pavilions, the first time all have been at the same fair in North America, officials said. "This is a celebration of countries that are not normally friendly ... working together on the same site in friendly competition," British Columbia Premier Bill Bennett said Thursday.

With the theme "World in Motion — World in Touch," Expo was opened Thursday to reporters, camera crews and special guests.

A few glitches occurred, including an interrupted space shuttle film and stubborn theater door at the U.S. pavilion, but carnival rides and the monorail, which failed last weekend during an opening for fair workers and their families, all worked with relative ease.

Gusty winds, an oversensitive public address system, screams from the Space Drop — a ride in which visitors fall at 26 feet a second — and the Scream Machine effects.

After a turn on the Scream Machine, one visitor said, "It's scary." "It takes your breath away. You go upside down," said Carla, 23, of Vancouver, who would not give her last name. "You feel like you're going to go off the track, but you don't. For people with poor circulation, it'll get the blood going."

Visitors face a smorgasbord of activities and sights, including the world's largest hockey stick and puck, Canada's largest flag and an immense yellow-banded watch suspended at the Swiss pavilion.

A dozen touch-activated computer terminals provide information on transportation, pavilions, daily events and entertainment. One favorite attraction Thursday was the Ramses II exhibit, a collection of 65 sculptures, jewelry, dishes and sarcophagi made of alabaster, gold and wood of the 12th century B.C.

There are 90 food outlets ranging from burger stands to restaurants, offering filet mignon with goose burgers and reindeer cutlets with blueberry sauce (Alberta), octopus casserole with fish and hot bean paste (Korea), and jumbo bratwurst (Switzerland).

Entertainment by mascot robot Expo Ernie, musicians, actors, jugglers and mimes await those who may have to line up waiting at exhibits. Entertainers scheduled to perform include Bob Hope, Pete Seeger, Arlo Guthrie, Liberace, Kool and the Gang, Miles Davis and Loretta Lynn.

Despite rain Thursday night, hundreds of people turned out in formal garb to watch the fireworks, and motorists leaned on their horns for nearly 15 minutes to mark the start of the countdown to the opening.

Charles and Diana stood under a large umbrella to see the display. Diana, wearing a diamond tiara, clutched her black fur coat to her throat.

The royal couple on Thursday also enjoyed a leisurely three-hour cruise across the Strait of Georgia from Vancouver Island.

An officer on an escort ship used flag signals to express his crew's pride, and Charles, who once served as a communications officer in the Royal Navy, composed a reply that included the command "Splice the mainbrace."

The command can be given only by a member of the royal family and means that all hands are to be issued rum, said Lt. Cmdr. Bob Allen of the Canadian Navy.

Sweden expels Czechs

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — The government Friday ordered five Czechoslovaks, including four diplomats, to leave the country for spying.

One newspaper said the five included the heads of Czechoslovak civilian and military intelligence activities in Sweden. It said military, industrial and high-technology secrets had been sought.

A Swedish Foreign Ministry statement said the five Czechoslovaks' activity had not caused Sweden any damage but "could have done so had it been allowed to continue."

Reagan security tight

TOKYO — President Reagan arrived amid airtight security Friday for a seven-nation summit in which economic issues would likely be eclipsed by worries about terrorism and nuclear reactor safety.

Reagan was greeted on his arrival by U.S. Ambassador Mike Mansfield and a host of Japanese dignitaries.

Secretary of State George Shultz already had pronounced Tokyo a "juicy target" for terrorists. But presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan was "confident of his own security."

Reagan made no public statement as he arrived at Tokyo International Airport, moving quickly to his limousine for a short ride to the Hotel Okura, where the presidential party was to be housed for the three-day summit commencing at about 4:30 p.m. Tokyo time Sunday (3:30 a.m. EDT).

Aquino fires official

MANILA, Philippines — President Corason Aquino today fired Manila's police chief for failing to contain violent protests by supporters of deposed President Ferdinand E. Marcos. The decision came a day after the worst street violence since Mrs. Aquino took office.

The president relieved Gen. Narciso Cabrera of his command and asked Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, chief of the armed forces, to appoint a temporary successor. Mrs. Aquino also asked for a list of senior officers who could replace Cabrera and called on the military to investigate his performance.

Vatican condemns cults

VATICAN CITY — The Vatican on Friday exhorted Roman Catholic priests worldwide to work against the proliferation of religious sects and cults, saying such groups can disrupt families and society and be destructive to those who join.

In its first comprehensive analysis on the subject, the Vatican said local Roman Catholic bishops should be alert to the serious matter the inroads made by such groups, including some with Christian roots.

The 17-page study said sects and cults are "too diverse" to be defined simply and clearly.

But a Vatican official told The Associated Press that the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church and fundamentalist evangelical denominations active in the United States and Latin America are among those winning converts from Catholics.

Reviewed by Rev. Randy Dirkes, pastor of Crossroad Bible Church. HISTORY — Just names, places and dates. HISTORY — only facts to be remembered. But is this ALL history can be? Could it be exciting and leave you sitting on the edge of your chair, unable to put the book down? YES! Such is the case in an exceptionally well-written book called The Light and the Glory.

This book traces the early history of our country — from the search for the New World by Columbus to the framing of our Constitution and the first president, George Washington. Yes, it is history — names, places, dates. But behind these facts are personal touches as the authors bring to life the personalities of the people involved and piece together why things happened.

Throughout the book a thread is woven. It is the author's contention that God was at work to prosper our country — in its discovery, its development, and in its fight for freedom as long as the people walked in obedience to Him. This thread is demonstrated by citing many circumstantial happenings that can be explained in no other way. A period of drought is ended on the

Tough guys never go down

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police cars raced into the train yard, the officers ready to do battle with a couple of aging tough guys.

An army of cops fired hundreds of rounds from rifles and shotguns at the two hijackers on board the grand old Daylight Limited. When the smoke cleared, Kirk Douglas and Burt Lancaster stepped down from the oil-burning steam train and headed for the shade of the train shed.

For the 69-year-old Douglas and 72-year-old Lancaster, retirement is out of the question. They are making their seventh film together, "Tough Guys," for Disney's Touchstone Films.

The two stars play old-time robbers who return to an inhospitable Los Angeles after spending 30 years in jail. Bored with their humdrum lives, they return to their old profession of robbing trains. That sets off a chase that leads them and the train to the Mexican border, pursued by the cop who had once jailed them, Charles Durning.

The other day director Jeff Kanew staged the Douglas-Lancaster escape, with Durning's army of police firing at the two tough guys. A helicopter parked nearby whirred slowly, the sound of its engines almost obliterated by the deafening din of the fusillade.

The train started to move until the director called, "Cut!" The locomotive with its bright new paint was in the contrast to its surroundings. In the background were rows of other railroad cars, unwashed with paint peeling. The train sheds and service buildings were dilapidated and layered by years of smog. The old Daylight, which once piled the Southern Pacific route between San Francisco and Los Angeles and became the Freedom Train during the U.S. Bicentennial, looked good. It stopped running in 1955 and now resides at a retirement home in Portland, Ore.

Lancaster stepped down from the locomotive first, an erect figure in a period pin stripe suit and snap-brim fedora. He spoke in his familiar, clipped sentences, mostly in admiration of the Daylight.

"What a wonderful locomotive," he said. "This one was built in 1940 and continued on the line until 1955. A bunch of railroad buffs completely rebuilt the engine so it works perfectly now. Look at the size of it! The locomotive weighs 237 tons! The wheels are 8 feet tall. It's a marvel."

He drifted off to his motor home and dressing room. Lancaster is not very conversant on movie sets. Douglas is. "What fun I'm having!" Douglas said. "This is making up for what I missed in my childhood. I never had trains to play with. The other kids did, but my family was too poor."

"Now look. I got a great big train for my own toy. I get to play cops and robbers with guns, police cars, even a helicopter. How could anybody be so lucky?"

The Douglas-Lancaster teaming goes back to just after World War II when they were brought from New York for contracts with Hal Wallis. They first co-starred in 1947 in "I Walk Alone." Ten years later, they played Doc Holliday and Wyatt Earp in the classic western "The Gunfight at OK Corral." They delved into George Bernard Shaw with "The Devil's Disciple" in 1959, followed by "The List of Adrian Messenger" in 1963 and "Seven Days in May" (1964).

Their last film together was the 1977 "Victory at Entebbe." "Was Burt in that?" queried Douglas. "I only worked only one day, and I didn't see him."

They also co-starred in San Francisco in a play, "The Boys of Autumn," appearing as Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn in their 60s.

"That was fun, but too strenuous," Douglas recalled. "We were both on stage the whole time, and I had to sing, dance and play the banjo. The play would have required a lot of fixing to take to Broadway, and it was just too much work."

Douglas, also dapper in a wide-lapel, pin stripe and fedora, remarked that he and Lancaster have remained friends over the years but don't often see one another.

Teens explore puppy love puzzle in 'Lucas'

By LEE SIEGEL
Associated Press Writer
The joys and agonies of teen-age puppy love are explored with sensitivity, humor and intelligence in "Lucas," a 20th Century-Fox film that displays a refreshing willingness to avoid easy answers to the travails of growing up.

The title character, played by Corey Haim, is a short, smart, articulate and bespectacled 14-year-old wimp who catches insects and falls for redheaded 16-year-old Maggie (Kerri Green) during summer vacation.

They'll both be in the same high school class because Lucas is "accelerated" because he's very bright.

A relationship blossoms. But when school starts, Lucas learns painfully that what he views as love, Maggie sees only as a close friendship.

Maggie becomes attracted to a truly likable football star, Cappie (Charlie Sheen), and both defend Lucas against cruel jokes and physical abuse from other, brutish football players who refer to Lucas as "leukoplakia," a sometimes cancerous mouth disease.

But Cappie is still dating cheerleader Alise (Courtney Thorne-Smith). Meanwhile, Lucas barely notices the adoring stares of Rina (Winona Ryder), a pixie-like, brunette wimpette.

The pain of the unrequited crush is captured beautifully during a choir practice scene. Rina casts her longing gaze at Lucas, whose eyes are focused on Maggie. But Maggie — and Alise — are watching Cappie.

Despite his usual common sense, Lucas' anger gets the better of him as he realizes that Maggie wants him only as a friend. He yells at her and tells her to leave him alone.

When Maggie tries to explain that you like some people as wonderful friends and others as romantic interests, Lucas demands to know why. Maggie can't explain. So Lucas tries to answer his own question, telling Maggie that Darwinian natural selection makes females pick the big, strong males to assure survival of the species.

As Cappie dumps Alise and develops a relationship with Maggie — who joins the cheerleader squad despite Lucas' insistence that such activity is superficial — Lucas asserts his late-blooming manliness by worming his way onto the field during a crucial football game.

A less realistic film might have made Lucas the conquering hero. But this movie remains true to reality, with Lucas gaining respect and friendship, but not Maggie's love.

Writer-director David Seltzer deftly manages his cast, portraying the teen-agers as warm, vulnerable and thoroughly engaging. Even the brutish jocks who torment Lucas show flickering signs of underlying humanity.

As a result, "Lucas" paints a sensitive portrait of youths as human beings, not the sex- and drug-crazed, one-dimensional stereotypes seen in far too many films dealing with teen-agers.

Rated PG-13 for some harsh language.

Shelton Castle is co-owner of the Brass Nail, soon to reopen with top Nashville acts. Herald photo by Tim Appel

Brass Nail to reopen

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The Brass Nail night club is about to reopen with a new owner, after being closed for three years, and will feature top Nashville acts each month, said co-owner Shelton Castle.

Castle and Denny McCulloch of Westwind Productions have bought the club from Charles Wash.

Hank Williams Jr., Tanya Tucker and George Strait have been booked, but no dates have been set yet, Castle said.

Also, Big Spring's Heart of Texas band will play four or five nights a week, he said.

The club is being remodeled and will open in about a month, he said.

The club will be open to members only, even if the liquor-by-the-drink issue passes election, he said. Membership is $35 a year.

The owners approve all applications, checking mainly for a police record in an effort to keep down violence, Castle said. In addition, four incognito law enforcement officials will act as bouncers every night.

Membership applications may be obtained at Westwind Productions or by calling 267-1684.

Castle is adding a 2,000-square-foot dance floor and a new sound system, and is remodeling the club, he said.

The restaurant part of the building will be leased. Several restaurant chains are considering moving in, he said.

In addition to other shows, the Brass Nail will feature "oldies night" Thursdays. Senior citizens who are members can get in free with a guest.

Sundays will be Howard College night.

"We'll bring in top rock and roll bands," Castle said. "We'll catch them out of Dallas going to El Paso."

Castle also is considering having non-alcoholic parties for minors in the banquet room on the other side of the restaurant, he said.

The Brass Nail is located at the building on Highway 87, south of FM 700.

"How old do I have to be to have a Sweet Sixteen party?"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, MAY 4, 1986
GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime finds it advisable to use a considerable amount of care from early morning not to upset present conditions, but to operate within the status quo.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Get old interests completed instead of getting into new ones at present. Tonight you can relax.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Know what your true aims are in life and don't do anything that can jeopardize your present security.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Don't permit an irate partner to spoil your day's activities, but you can see this person tonight after a cooling-off period.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21): Don't let any changes that are coming up in connection with your career upset you. They lead to greater success.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21): You have some business to attend to, even if it is Sunday, so stick to it instead of running off for pleasure.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Get early and avoid the tense situation at home and meet with associates to gain greater support for the future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): You have important work to handle, so don't run off on some silly tangent with a friend who wants you to do just that.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21): Plan how to make the most of your finest abilities and forget dull chores for a while. Try not to spend too much money today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Endeavor to please your family more today, so relegate personal wishes to the background for now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Get into the world of activity and accomplish a good deal of a personal nature and forget that secret worry you have.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Plan how to gain more prosperity in the future and don't be so gregarious today. You need financial advice.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Forget all those changes you want to make in business and pursue personal desires today. Retire early tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to keep making changes every minute because of a sense of boredom. Teach early to be more constant, and then the life can become successful either in business, the arts or technological fields.

The Stars impel; they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to you!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, MAY 5, 1986
GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusually good day to get involved in all sorts of new interests and activities and to use both your good judgment and innate charm to cement bonds of a constructive nature.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Go after the personal longing that means a great deal to you during the daytime and get good results.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): A new, intimate matter may crop up that can make your future brighter, so look at it from this light.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You can gain the perfect aims that you truly desire to attain by being more progressive. Dress conservatively today.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21): Use more of your members in your present activities and get far better results with them.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21): An early start in interesting new activities can bring about a better set of conditions for you. Delve into simple pleasures.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You suddenly realize how you can handle practical affairs better and get fine results with them, but do not argue at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): Contacting those whose ideas are different from your own can help you to better understand their modern views.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21): Study your work load for the new week and figure out how best to handle it so that you can be more efficient.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Try to get into activities you most enjoy and perfect them for maximum enjoyment. Seek out good friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Let your home be the center of your attention today and tackle everything from a different angle and gain the approval of kin.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Study into the various philosophies of life that have worked for others and choose the best of these for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): During spare time, study just where you stand financially and where property is concerned. Study your newspaper.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be on the alert for anything new that arises, and should have as much of an academic education as possible since the mind is quick and the ability to learn is great. Teach to complete what has been started otherwise your progeny could become a lack of all trades and a master of none.

The Stars impel; they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to you!
