Milton Kirby, right, goes over the figures of a precinct with his wife, Leta, as results were being announced at the County Courthouse late Saturday night. Kirby won in his bid for re-election as county judge.

Kirby over Wise for county judge

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer
Incumbent Milton Kirby defeated challenger Warren Wise in Saturday night's Democratic primary election for Howard County Judge, 2,581 votes to 2,113 in the county's 25 voting precincts. "My thanks are to the people who turned out and did support me," Kirby said shortly after learning he had won.

Since there is no Republican Party candidate, Kirby should have a clear shot in the November general balloting at re-election to a second four-year term.

Kirby said he and county commissioners need to work on the county's economy and employment areas during the next four years of office.

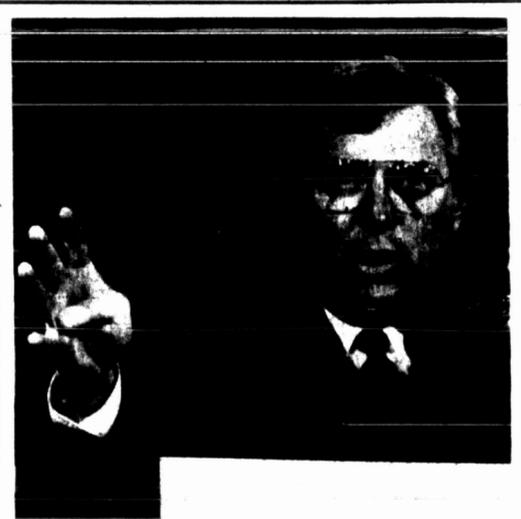

He did not single out any particular campaign issue, but said the fact the county had lowered taxes the last two years may have been a contributing factor in his victory. "We've lowered county taxes twice while I've been county judge," Kirby said, "and I think that's kind of been an issue here." He said anytime a public official can help lower the taxes, it helps the public. "We can go another three years without any kind of tax raise," Kirby said. The judge said the county's paving program could possibly receive a cut in future funding.

Plans for building a new juvenile detention center during his next term of office, Kirby said, would probably not materialize because of current plans to detain juveniles in temporary holding cells in the county annex building.

Kirby said of his opponent Warren Wise that "he was a fine opponent."

"He didn't say a bad thing about me and I will not in the future say anything about him," Kirby said.

Governor Mark White faces reporters late Saturday night as election returns showed him leading in the race for the Democratic nomination for the governor. White later won the primary.

Clements, White come up winners

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Gov. Bill Clements swept aside 1980 Republican rivals Saturday and Gov. Mark White bested five other Democrats to set up a rematch of their bitter 1982 gubernatorial election.

Each man predicted victory in November.

With 91 percent of the 5,150 GOP precincts reporting to the secretary of state's office, Clements received 287,431 votes, or 58.21 percent. U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler of Hunt had 106,628 votes, or 21.36 percent, while former Democratic congressman Kent Hance of Lubbock had 101,943, or 20.42 percent.

"I think we've come out of it (the primary) in great shape. I don't think there are wounds or scars on anybody ... I am confident that come next November, we're going to do it," Clements said.

"I don't think it's so much what I've done, I think it's what Mark White has done," added Clements, the state's only Republican governor in 100 years.

With 90 percent of the 6,724 Democratic precincts counted, White recorded 510,288 votes, or 53.75 percent.

"I look forward to working with you. Not only next week, next month and on into the rest of the year — but then we've only just begun. Four more years of Democratic leadership," White told supporters.

White noted that nearly twice as many voters cast ballots for him as did for Clements. "An overwhelming number of Texans are supporting this administration," White said.

Dallas businessman Andrew Briscoe III, second cousin of former Gov. Dolph Briscoe, ran second with 211,558 votes, or 22.28 percent.

Dallas attorney A. Don Crowder was a distant third with 108,704 votes, or 11.45 percent. Each of the other three Democrats received about 5 percent or less: Bobby Locke, 49,695 votes, or 5.23 percent; Ron Slover, 35,309 votes, or 3.72 percent; and Sheila Bilyeu, 33,805 votes, or 3.56 percent.

Computer's foul-up means delay

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer
A computer malfunction caused a 1½-hour delay Saturday night in vote tabulation for the county primaries, said County Clerk Margaret Ray.

The problem in the computer's recently installed card reader was discovered at about 8:30 p.m. after Republican vote totals had been posted in the county clerk's office. Someone noticed the totals on the Republican list did not equal the sum of precinct votes.

The malfunction had caused the running total of the first five Democratic precincts to be wiped out of the computer, Ray said.

Those initial totals had to be added back in after the malfunction was corrected. Because of the delay, the total vote sheet wasn't posted until after the Herald's deadline Sunday morning.

County tax assessor and collector Dorothy Moore said an NCR computer serviceman was called from Midland to correct the problem.

Moore said the card reader was part of a new central processing unit the county purchased from NCR in Lubbock last August for $211,722.

Runoffs will decide commissioner races

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer
Runoff elections will be required June 7 for Democratic county commissioner positions in Precincts 2 and 4. Incumbent David Barr will face challenger Al Valdes for the Howard County Precinct 4 position. Incumbent Paul Allen will face challenger John Stanley for the Precinct 2 position. The winner of the Democratic primary will face Republican Leo Williams in the November general election. Barr collected 325 votes Saturday in Precincts 401-405, which amounted to 31.99 percent, while Valdes finished with 317 votes for a 31.20 percent. In absentee returns, Barr collected 53 votes for a 29.44 percent return, while Valdes received 63 votes for a 35 percent return.

Two other challengers were dropped from the race after Saturday's balloting.

H.M. "Mack" Underwood finished third with 194 votes, or 19.09 percent, in Precincts 401-405. He received 39 absentee votes, or 21.67 percent of the total absentee return.

Joe Neff finished fourth with 180 votes for 17.72 percent of the precinct returns, and 25 absentee votes for 13.89 percent on the absentee ballot returns.

In the County Commissioner Precinct 2 race, Stanley and Allen tied with 560 votes apiece on Precincts 201-208 returns, or 39.44 percent of the votes. William E. "Jack" Shaffer finished third with 300 precinct votes, or 21.13 percent.

Stanley outdistanced Allen in the precinct returns with 131 votes for 43.81 percent, while Allen collected 98 votes for 32.78 percent.

Shaffer had 70 absentee votes for 23.41 percent.

Votes for Heflin force JP runoff

Ex-lawmen Bogard, Shankles to face each other June 7

STANLEY BOGARD

BILL SHANKLES

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer
The 237 votes cast Saturday for former Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin, who died April 3 during his reelection bid, was all it took to force a runoff between the two remaining candidates.

Justice of the Peace Precinct 1 candidates Stanley Bogard and William H. Shankles will square off June 7 in a primary runoff election as neither man garnered 50 percent of the vote.

Bogard hauled in 1,697 votes to Shankle's 1,519. Bogard, who was chief of police in Big Spring for five years, came within an eyelash of winning the race outright, gathering 49 percent of the vote. However, the vote for Heflin was just enough to keep either man from tilting beyond the 50 percent mark.

Heflin was left on the ballot because he died after the deadline for withdrawing his name.

The man who wins the Democratic nomination will have an almost sure shot at the job as Precinct 1 Place 2 justice of the peace because Republican challenger William Price dropped out of the race in early April. Price called off his election bid for what he said were personal reasons.

Former Governor Bill Clements and his wife, Rita, sign into their Dallas precinct to cast their ballots in the Texas Republican primary Saturday morning. Clements won the primary by a handsome margin over his opponents.

Man testifies that mother hired killer

HOUSTON (AP) — An 18-year-old man repeatedly mentioned that he expected to come into some money because his mother had hired someone to kill his stepfather, the man's girlfriend testified.

Tony Palmire wanted to "fix up his truck" and buy clothes with his share of Gilbert Boyce Swaim's $375,000 insurance policy, Judy Green told a state district court jury Friday.

Ms. Green was the last witness for the state in the capital murder trial of Geraldine Swaim, 43. Mrs. Swaim, a vocational nurse, is accused of paying two young men to kill her husband at their home early Dec. 7.

Rangers create legends

Journey through Texas

By BRIAN A. WILSON
Frontier Texas has created one of the most fabled law enforcement agencies in history: the Texas Rangers. As a group, their actions are legendary; individually, they seem centaur-like, half man and half beast, capable of solving any problem with the logic of a Colt six-shooter. Above all, they possess boundless pride in an allegiance to Texas and its laws.

Now, in the late 1870s, the group seems to be at its peak. Through the towns and the cattle country of Texas, the Texas Rangers mean law and order.

The term "rangers" refers to groups of men selected by colonists who roam the frontier to defend the settlers against Indian attacks. These "ranging companies" were first formed in Stephen F. Austin's colony in 1823 and again in 1826. In 1835 an elite company known as the Texas Rangers was formed and started battling lawbreaking Mexicans, Indians and white men.

People call the Texas Rangers everything from state troops to a police force or a constabulary. But they're none of that. One author probably sums it up best. He says, "The Rangers are one of the most colorful, efficient and deadly band of irregular partisans on the side of law and order the world has ever seen. They've been created by the needs of a war frontier, by a society that couldn't afford a regular army."

They must seem like an army to their enemies. Armed with twin Colt revolvers, they fearlessly attack the Apaches and Comanches, in camp and on the open plains. Knowing the value of surprise and direct action, they lead U.S. Army battalions against unprepared Mexican forces that outnumber them two to one. And rowdy cowboys fresh off the range find that riding into a saloon and shooting up the place often ends with a Ranger blasting the merry-maker out of his saddle.

Odds mean little to the Rangers; they're almost always outnumbered two or three to one — and still win. They believe the best defense is to attack, dominate and subdue. An eye for an eye is their unwritten motto. While stationed in Mexico, a Ranger detected a pickpocket stealing his handkerchief. The Ranger quickly shot him, recovered his handkerchief and rode on. Another Mexican was shot and killed for throwing a stone at the passing Texans. No wonder they're known as "diablos Tejanos" and "Los Tejanos Sangrientes" — the Texas devils and the bloody Texans. Women cross themselves at the mention of the name.

Typically the Rangers are young, adventurous and very brave men. "The Ranger image is that of a tall, quiet-spoken Westerner, who prefers his horse to female society, who wears a well-oiled pistol (and knows how to use it) and who, when called upon, will destroy the forces of evil by killing them," one fellow says.

Although they're tattered, sweatstained and bearded from riding the range, the Rangers aren't necessarily ignorant gunslingers. Capt. McCullough commands lawyers, doctors and poets. Capt. Giddings uses frequent quotation from Greek and Latin around Ranger campfires. The Rangers both embody some of the most civilized thinking and the most violent actions known on the frontier.

If they sometimes seem ruthless, the Ranger's actions are effective. They've virtually closed the wild frontier, changing the atmosphere from anarchy to controlled violence where the laws of organized society can rule. In doing so, they've made themselves into enduring legends and earned great respect. Chief Flacco, Indian scout for the Rangers, has said of Texas Ranger Capt. Jack Hays, "Me and Red Wing not afraid to go to hell together. Captain Jack heap brave; not afraid to go to hell by himself."

Girls choir wins at festival

The Big Spring High School girls choir was overall winner Saturday in the 5-A class of the Buccaneer Festival in Corpus Christi, said assistant principal Craig Fischer. They competed against about 18 other girls choirs to earn a Division I rating, he said.

The mixed choir earned a Division II rating, competing against about 35 choirs, he said.

The students are due to return to Big Spring early today. Head choir director Kristy Jasek traveled with the group, Fischer said.

Six students to receive scholarships

to receive scholarships

Six area students have been granted $1,600 scholarships by the Permian Honor Scholarship Foundation.

The funds will allow them to attend Howard College two years and complete their degrees at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin, according to a news release.

John A. Barkley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barkley of Big Spring, will major in engineering. Peggy J. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.W. Johnson of Forsan, will major in literature.

Lois E. Hardison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carol Hardison of Coahoma, will major in engineering. Lisa D. McCoy, daughter of Marshall McCoy of Coahoma, will major in business administration.

Kristi G. Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Evans of Forsan, will major in education. Sheila R. Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Ward, will major in pre-medicine.

The students will be eligible to receive a Gamma Grant to help with the cost of transportation and living expenses, the release stated.

Frivolous lawsuit draws penalty from judge

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has ordered a Houston lawyer and his clients to pay more than $167,000 for filing a frivolous lawsuit.

U.S. District Judge Norman Black on Friday ordered attorney Benton Musslewhite and his clients, Fergus Ginther and Adriana Newton, to pay costs and fees to six attorneys.

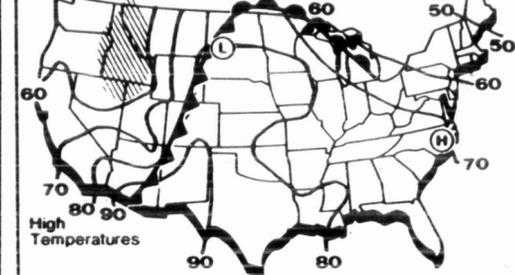

"As far as we can tell, this is the largest award by any federal court for the filing of a bad-faith lawsuit," said attorney Stephen Kirkin, who received $50,000 from the order.

Ginther is being sought on a federal arrest warrant stemming from his failure to appear in court on the case.

In 1985, Black ordered Ginther and his attorney, M.H. Cernovsky, to pay $52,000 in sanctions.

Forecast

By The Associated Press
West Texas: Partly cloudy and warm Sunday and Sunday night. Sunny and warm Monday with mostly mid 60s to low 90s and high Monday upper 90s to mid 90s.

State

Mostly clear skies and mild temperatures were the rule across Texas Saturday except for scattered showers lingering along the lower coast and isolated rainshowers from the Permian Basin to the Upper Pecos Valley.

Skies were mostly cloudy over South Central and deep South Texas as well as the south plains of Northwest Texas, but elsewhere it was sunny with southeast winds breezing over much of the state, the National Weather Service said.

A light northeast wind blew over the coastal waters while a variable wind calmed the Rio Grande plain.

Temperatures during the late afternoon hours were mainly in the upper and lower 80s. The coolest reading at 3 p.m. was 66 degrees at Coahuila and the warm spot was McAllen with a reading of 85.

The forecast for North Texas called for sunny skies in the eastern portions Sunday but considerable morning cloudiness in the west and central sections. Highs will be in the low to mid 80s, mostly cloudy Sunday night and Monday with lows Sunday night in the 60s and highs Monday in the 80s.

South Texas will be partly cloudy Sunday through Monday with highs both days in the 80s, and lows Sunday night in the 60s, the weather service said.

In West Texas, the forecast calls for cloudy skies in the eastern section Sunday morning, partly cloudy and warm Sunday night. Highs Sunday will be mostly in the mid 80s to low 90s and lows will be in the mid 50s to mid 60s. Highs Monday will be in the upper 80s.

Texas journalists yearn for 'ultimate assignment'

DALLAS (AP) — Texas finalists in the journalist-in-space program are enthused over the trip as the "ultimate news assignment," and said they are eager to try and put the experience of space travel into words.

"I really think an experience like this would go on all your life. It would shape you not only as a person, but as a writer. It's the ultimate news assignment," said Katie Sherrod, a columnist with the Fort Worth Star Telegram.

Sherrod, Jim Asker of the Houston Post and Dallas-based Storer Rowley of the Chicago Tribune will be among 40 finalists nationwide. They were among 16 additional journalists named Saturday as regional nominees in the reporter in space competition.

Journalists said they were not daunted by the recent failures of U.S. spacecraft, because they believe NASA will make sure the shuttle is safe before sending more people into space.

Saturday, an unmanned rocket launched from Cape Canaveral carrying a weather satellite went out of control and was blown up by command from the ground.

"It doesn't inspire tremendous confidence when several hours after you advance to the next stage of the selection process you watch NASA launch another failure, but it's an unmanned rocket," said Rowley who covered Saturday's mishap from Washington, D.C.

"Sure it scares you, but there's going to be a long way to go before NASA launches anything else with people on it," said Rowley, a national correspondent for the Tribune covering the Southwest. He has lived in Dallas for the past 15 months but is presently based in Washington to cover the shuttle.

Deaths

Dr. V.N. Brock

SNYDER — Services for Dr. V.N. "Ben" Brock are set for 2 p.m. today at the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Ken Branam, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, directed by Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home.

His brother, Bob Brock, is owner of Bob Brock Ford in Big Spring. Ben Brock died Friday morning, May 2, 1986, at Cogden Memorial Hospital after a sudden illness. He was born Aug. 12, 1924, in Haskell. He married June Posey on June 22, 1952, in Sweetwater. He was executive vice president of Western Texas College until his retirement at the end of the 1984-85 school year.

He was appointed last week to serve on the board of directors of the Scurry County Museum. He had also been vice president and academic dean of the college, principal of Snyder High School and assistant principal of Sweetwater High School. He served as a deacon of the First Baptist Church since 1957. He was a past president of the Snyder Gold Coats, the Snyder Rotary Club and the American Heart Association.

He was awarded the Bronze Star for his Army service during World War II, when he served as a cryptographer in the Pacific Theater.

Survivors include his wife, June of Snyder; a son, Mark Brock of Lubbock; a daughter, Junanne Winters of Aurora, Colo.; his mother, Lamiza Brock of Lubbock; two sisters, Mrs. June Bowen of Lubbock and Mrs. Lela Herndon of Anson; four brothers, Bob Brock of Big Spring, Mabry and Lonnie Brock, both of Lubbock, and Jimmy Brock of Amarillo; and a granddaughter.

The family is establishing a memorial scholarship in his honor at Western Texas College. Donations can be made to the college in care of the financial aid office and Dr. Jim Tully.

Katy Jakel

GONZALES — Services for Katy Jakel, 55, of Big Spring will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Oddfellow Cemetery here, directed by Myers and Smith Funeral Home of Big Spring.

She died Thursday in a Big Spring hospital after a sudden illness. She was married to Leonard Jakel Aug. 28, 1976, in Dallas.

Survivors include her husband of Big Spring; four daughters, Pam Rainey of Carrollton, Linda Hardee of Garland; Vicky Smith of Mesquite and Patsy Limarind of Dallas; a son, Kevin Patrick of Dallas; a brother, Jack Jones of Heath; a sister, Dorothy Hill of Dallas; and her mother, Thara Jones of Dallas.

Details few on disaster

WASHINGTON — The Soviet nuclear accident appeared to be winding down at week's end, but details were nearly as sparse as the day the world learned a disaster was under way in the Ukraine.

In the absence of hard facts and first-hand observation, officials and experts could do little more than conjecture about radiation levels, casualties and environmental damage. The status of the crippled reactor and graphite plants like it across the Soviet Union remained unclear. And exactly how the accident happened, said some, may never be known.

Abortion ruling sought

AUSTIN — The Texas Health Department has asked for an attorney general's opinion to settle a dispute over whether doctors across the state should report abortions to the agency.

The health department, responsible for enforcing the state's abortion law, requires information on all abortions, whether they are performed in a clinic, hospital or doctor's office.

"We feel the law is very clear that every abortion in the state must be reported," said Dr. Juanita Carrell, director of health facilities licensure and certification.

She said Friday that some private doctors have questioned in writing whether they are bound by the law.

No accounting for aid

WASHINGTON — The United States may never be able to account for millions of dollars in aid to the Philippines during the Ferdinand Marcos presidency because there was no U.S. control over the dollars once they were put into the Philippine treasury, a congressional audit said Saturday.

The audit, prepared by the General Accounting Office, said money from the U.S. Economic Support Fund was commingled with other foreign currencies in a Philippine account so the dollars could not be tracked after they were deposited.

"In the past we have reported on the lack of controls over similar assistance to other countries and the difficulty of obtaining any real monitoring of such aid to see that it is used for authorized purposes," the GAO said.

Another failure

Rocket destroyed after going out of control

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An unmanned rocket carrying a weather satellite went out of control and was blown up by command from the ground shortly after launch Saturday, the second failure of a U.S. spacecraft since the explosion of the space shuttle Challenger.

Just over a minute after liftoff, the Delta rocket's main engine shut down, leaving it without guidance and careening out of control at 1,400 mph, said Bill Russell, NASA's Delta manager.

Safety officers then sent a destruct command "and finished the job," Russell said at a news conference about an hour after the launch.

A fuel leak in the rocket's main engine, which had caused a two-day delay in the liftoff, apparently was not the cause of the trouble, he said.

Saturday's launching of the space agency's most used and most dependable rocket took on added significance because of the Jan. 28 space shuttle explosion that killed its seven crew members and the explosion of an Air Force Titan 34D rocket in California on April 18.

"We have had a loss of the vehicle. There is a breakup of the vehicle," launch commentator Lisa Malone said as the 116-foot rocket broke apart.

The flight appeared normal through the first minute, with the first set of solid rockets being jettisoned at 64 and 65 seconds, Russell said.

"We were flying along, and at about 71 seconds, the main engine ... shut down," he said. "It's a very sharp shutdown, almost as though it were a commanded shutdown. Once you lose that, of course, the rocket has no stability control."

After the shutdown, the rocket began drifting, creating an angle of attack great enough that the fanning, or shield, that covers its nose tore off.

There was no indication that a command had been sent to shut down the engines, he said. Preliminary data, such as turbine speed and temperatures in and around the engines, "all appeared to be very normal," Russell said.

"The three solid (boosters) were burning very well" after the main engine shut down, he said.

The three-stage Delta is assisted into space by nine solid-propellant boosters strapped to its bottom stage. The boosters are similar to those that help power the space shuttle and Titan 34D, but are much smaller and made in one section, rather than segmented like the others.

Investigators believe that the Challenger and Titan rocket explosions were caused by failures of joints between segments.

Morton Thiokol makes both the solid-fuel boosters used for the shuttle and the Delta.

The debris from the rocket landed in the Atlantic about 30 miles off Cape Canaveral, said Air Force Col. Elbert M. Thomas. There were no immediate plans to try to recover the debris, he said.

NASA could not immediately say how high the rocket was when it blew up.

The last 43 Delta launches, dating to September 1977, had been successful.

Earlier Saturday, engineers reported no sign of any further fuel leakage in the rocket's main engine, a condition that resulted in the scrub of the mission three hours before Thursday's scheduled liftoff.

The space agency said Thursday's launch would have been postponed even without the Challenger and Titan failures, but extra precautions at the Delta's launch pad and the two-day delay over the main-engine leak indicated the concern that everything go well.

Top-level NASA officials had participated in extensive flight-readiness review sessions here and in Washington.

NASA's acting administrator, William Graham, said earlier in the week that the launch was important because "we need this satellite and we need to remind ourselves that we have had success in the space program."

The Delta rocket has been the space agency's workhorse for almost 26 years, logging a 94 percent success rate in 177 flights.

Its payload was GOES-7, the Geostationary Operational Environmental Satellite designed to track and report the formation of hurricanes and other adverse weather conditions along the nation's Eastern Seaboard.

The $57.5 million satellite was to have been parked in a permanent 22,300 mile-high orbit above the equator over Colombia. The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration paid NASA $42.5 million to launch it.

Summit has new focus

TOKYO — President Reagan, setting new tones for the seven-nation economic summit, insisted Saturday the Soviets "owe the world an explanation" of the Chernobyl nuclear accident and prodded U.S. allies to work harder to combat terrorism.

On the eve of the 12th annual Summit of Industrialized Democracies, Reagan and Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, the summit host and chairman, agreed that the nuclear accident and terrorism should be on the agenda for the talks, said U.S. and Japanese officials who declined to be named.

In his weekly radio address to the American people, Reagan, alluding to the "Winds of Freedom" theme the administration set for his Far Eastern tour, said efforts by non-communist powers to find common ground on major problems contrast sharply with the "stubborn refusal" of the Soviet Union to share information on the power plant catastrophe.

Explosion on jet kills 21

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka — An explosion blamed on a time bomb tore through a Sri Lankan jetliner at the Colombo airport as passengers were boarding Saturday morning, and government officials said 21 people were killed and dozens injured.

The government said in a statement that most of the dead were European, but their identities were not immediately known.

The official Sri Lankan news agency said the blast was caused by a time bomb in the rear of the plane. The explosion broke the plane in two, sent plumes of black smoke skyward and shattered glass panels in the main terminal building, witnesses said.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility. Sri Lankan government officials said they suspected sabotage by Tamil militants, but Tamil groups said they were not responsible.

"This is plain terrorism," said National Security Minister Lalith Athulathudali who visited the scene, accompanied by senior military officials.

Passengers were boarding the Air Lanka L-1011 at 9:10 a.m., 20 minutes before the scheduled departure, when the explosion occurred, state radio said.

Pilot defects to China

PEKING — A Taiwanese cargo jetliner bound for Hong Kong instead landed in the southern Chinese city of Canton on Saturday, and the official Xinhua news agency said the pilot defected to China.

China's state-run airline, Civil Aviation Administration of China, sent a telegram asking Taiwan's China Airlines to send a representative to Peking to discuss the fate of the plane, its cargo and the other crew members. Xinhua said. It appeared from the telegram that the other crew members did not want to stay in China.

Comanche Peak may be fined

ARLINGTON (AP) — A federal agency has proposed $370,000 in fines against the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant for alleged intimidation of quality-control inspectors and failure of the project's construction and quality assurance programs.

The levy, proposed Friday by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission staff, is divided into two areas of concern, said NRC spokesman Clyde Wisner.

A fine of $120,000 was proposed for Texas Utilities' "failure in three instances to assure quality-control inspectors the organizational freedom to identify problems," Wisner said.

A second fine of $250,000 was proposed for failures to meet requirements in the plant's construction and quality assurance programs, which are intended to guarantee the safety of the plant, the spokesman said.

The $250,000 fine included a $50,000 penalty against the utility's reinspection program, which is being conducted to find and correct design, construction and inspection problems at the plant.

Texas Utilities has 30 days to respond to the intimidation charges and 60 days to challenge the findings of the NRC construction and quality assurance review. Company spokesman Dick Ramsey said the company will not decide on a possible review until it reviews the agency's proposed action.

"We first need to determine if the proposed fines are warranted and if they're excessive before we respond," Ramsey said.

In addition to ordering the reinspection program, the utility has made more than a dozen top-level management changes since the NRC began finding serious problems at the plant in 1984.

James M. Taylor, director of the NRC Office of Inspection and Enforcement in Washington, said the recent actions of Texas Utilities had been considered when judging the amount of the fine.

But he said the fine was not reduced because of "the prior poor performance" of the utility in the area of employee harassment and intimidation.

In its report, the NRC found three instances of intimidation of quality-control inspectors. In the reinspection program, the agency accused Texas Utilities of having an inspection supervisor enforce production quotas that resulted in faulty work.

Goals will need an all-out effort

In the final analysis, "intangibles" formed the cornerstone of the "wish list" drawn by community leaders at the second Chamber of Commerce retreat Tuesday. Community pride (including the image we have of ourselves and others have about us) was the No. 1 priority for the group. We agree that if this "abstract" goal is realized, the more concrete elements like business growth, tourism and greater prosperity will follow.

Building community pride to enhance the city's image, though abstract, requires substantive commitments if it is to be properly addressed. Voluntary clean-up campaigns, educating the public to be litter-conscious, encouraging self-pride in our homes and laws — these are all to the good.

But they won't get the job done, at least not on a long-term basis. If community pride and image are truly to be the city's priorities, we must bring the strength of city and county governments to bear on the problem. Police must make litter enforcement a priority, and the city must reassign workers to provide more street cleanup; weedy lot violations must be promptly dealt with; illegal dumping in the county must be sharply penalized and the sheriff's office must make catching violators a high priority; the city's "pothole patrol" must be extra vigilant.

If we are really to accomplish community pride as a city goal, we should look at our water rates and see if we want to continue making residents pay such a high price for a green lawn and healthy trees.

To fully realize our dreams we must be vigilant toward accomplishing them, but we must be prepared, too, to pay for them. Ultimately, to do less than an all-out effort is to invite frustration at a goal missed.

Jesse Trevino New envoy can help trade grow

The appointment of a new U.S. ambassador to Mexico comes as the Texas and Mexican economies — taking direct hits from the collapse of oil prices — are each scurrying to find additional sources of economic growth.

Crucial changes in business opportunities along the border should elevate the ambassadorial post in Mexico City to a level of keen importance to Texas. How the new ambassador views those changes could reverberate strongly on the future of Texas economic growth.

Highly placed Texans within the Reagan White House should seek to make certain the new ambassador, reportedly Charles Pilliod Jr., the former chairman of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., understands how those changes will affect the state's long-term economic development.

Pilliod — a career Goodyear employee with an extensive business background in Latin America — may already be well-versed on the happenings along the Rio Grande.

But so profound are the potential economic implications of developments along the border that it is surprising that influential Texans did not make a push to have a Texan named ambassador.

This is more than chauvinistic rah-rahing. From where I sit, the ambassador's post in Mexico City can only grow in importance to Texas. In fact, Texans should hope Pilliod is an economically activist ambassador.

Mexico's new economic game plan — to increase its foreign earnings by converting its ring of northern states into an industrial basin — directly affects the interests of Texas, which dominates 60 percent of the border.

With this Mexico move and the decline of the price of Mexican oil worldwide and the decline of the industry itself in Texas, Mexican and Texan economic interests continue to move into increasing symmetry.

For Texas, the border area — always ignored and more often than not held in disdain — may be a new growth region. For Mexico, the industrialization of the borderlands could form a key peg to future economic prosperity. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, in recent International Trade Commission hearings dubbed the border area a potential "Rhur Valley."

Already, 65 percent of all Mexican plants which have emerged along the border operate just across the river from Texas. Given the growing interest of U.S. industry in the cheaper labor skills of the Mexican workforce, the Texas-Mexico borderland strip — with its close proximity to Texas ports — continues to attract more and more businesses to ignore.

Instead of locating offshore manufacturing plants in Singapore or Malaysia, U.S. industry may find the Rio Grande more attractive than the South China Sea.

It is precisely in this arena that an activist ambassador, understanding the global picture, could help shape the economic destiny of Texas.

Pilliod's international business experience may lead exactly to the kind of ambassadorial-level involvement the continuing effort to secure the border economically requires.

Texans may well argue about the actual benefits of the focal point of this new industrial concept, the so-called maquiladora program (whereby goods are transported into Mexico for assembling then shipped back into the U.S. or to other markets for sale). But the program is one of only few options in a region which is overpopulated and underdeveloped on both sides of the river.

The doings of a new, activist ambassador should not be limited to the trappings or intrigue of an ambassadorial court. The new ambassador should explore, for example, prudent, safe ways to dislodge the millions of dollars on deposit in Texas banks — left there by nervous Mexicans as Mexico's economy weakened — to promote economic investment along the border.

The estimated $750 million of Mexican capital in Texas banks could be leveraged by a loan program guaranteed by the State of Texas in order to provide a source for investment capital.

Such an idea — because of its complexity and the necessity of coordinating federal, state and international relationships — could only be nurtured from the ambassador's office in Mexico City.

SSC: a smashing idea

It sounds like something out of science fiction. In a sense, it is. The Superconducting Super Collider, which could be sited near Garden City, is a research project that could reshape the future. The study of subatomic particles would mean new vistas of space travel heretofore beheld only in Star Trek fantasy.

What the SSC would do is hurtle particles of matter around a 100-mile circumference donut and then slam the particles together at velocities approaching the speed of light. The idea is to smash the little devils. What scientists then would do is study the survivors and research the energy given off when atomic bonds are broken. That energy might one day be harnessed to catapult a space vessel without the consumption of the giant engines we now use.

SSC will represent the vanguard of science. Researchers and other brainy types will flood the area and a Silicon Valley, West Texas style, would spring up.

Of course there is one little problem. The SSC will cost billions of dollars and have an operating budget of about $150 million a year. And the project hasn't been approved yet.

That's not slowing down Spring City movers and shakers like Ralph McLaughlin. McLaughlin chairs a committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce that was formed strictly to figure out (a) how to get the SSC approved and (b) how to get it for West Texas.

Among the committee members is John R. "Rich" Anderson of Borden County, who's been to Washington recently to hand-carry a slick, four-color brochure that gives the Garden City site a heck of a sales job. The brochure has been delivered in the halls of Congress and the White House.

Anderson says he has been unable, however, to get an audience with our own state governor, Mark White.

The brochure offers some compelling reasons for locating in the Garden City site (in the vicinity of State Hwy. 137 and FM 2401).

• Cost: Because of the soil and topography, the project can be built for $2.3 billion instead of the $4 to $6 billion required at other sites. Because the land is flat, the brochure suggests "cut and cover" excavation rather than tunneling; that is, dig a fairly deep trench and then cover it. We can do that here because the land really is flat.

• There are few surface obstacles to hinder construction. There are few landowners in the site area. The area has a good climate, a major airport, recreational and cultural opportunities and housing that isn't exorbitantly priced.

• There are breakthrough developments in magnet technology (which will help hurdle the little particles) and magnet production by the Texas Accelerator Group at The Woodlands north of Houston, which provides the technology to build the Superconducting Super Collider here in Texas.

That accounts for the "why." Now for the "how."

This isn't the best time to be asking the federal government to spend billions of dollars, even for the most noble of scientific causes, what with Gramm-Rudman and all. But the SSC committee has an alternative financing idea.

Group envisions selling bonds privately to finance the project, then leasing the facility back to the Department of Energy. The lease money, along with attendant economic growth, would provide the wherewithal to repay the notes. That plan would take some legislation from the State Capitol, but it appears viable.

That's the why and the how. Don't tell West Texas movers and shakers they're reaching for pie in the sky. They just may serve you a piece.

Diary buy-out is cattleman's rip-off

To the editor:

I want to write this letter to alert your readers of one of the largest government rip-offs that I have ever witnessed. This rip-off has vitally and tragically affected the cattle producers, taxpayers and eventually the consumer. It is known as the dairy buy-out program.

While many cattlemen are forced by economic circumstances to liquidate their herds (at a loss, I might add) 14,000 dairymen are being paid to liquidate. Under the buy-out plan, they are getting an average of $130,000 to sell out — plus what they get from their packer cows. At this time there is a $50,000 lid on other commodity programs. Nationally, these 14,000 dairymen will sell 1.5 million animals for $1.8 billion. The average paid per cow is $1,919 — not counting the slaughter value. The dairy assessment will pay only 38 percent of this amount and the taxpayers will need to come up with more than a billion dollars.

The cost to the cattle industry has been astronomical. The very first week prices for fed cattle dropped $5 per hundred weight causing an immediate loss of $25 million to feeders and a $200 billion paper loss to all producers. The market is still in shambles and shows no signs of recovering because of all these cows being thrown on the market at once. Incidentally, this week the price of milk in Austin and I assume in other places, will be increased by ten cents a quart.

Now, I'll tell you how they pulled off this treasury robbery.

The dairy lobby is well financed — the dairy PACS contribute $1.5 million a year to national campaigns. We cattlemen may contribute $250 to $500 to a congressman or senator but the dairy people will contribute $5,000 to the same person. The dairy lobby out and out bought this program from the Congress.

True, the ones that sold out cannot go back in business for five years but the facilities are still there to enable someone else to operate or be available in five years.

Maybe some of you should write your congressman to see if he can explain why he was willing to help one industry to the very tragic detriment of other industries.

Nuclear power is too dangerous

To the editor:

Your May 1 editorial wisely cautions that the "U.S. must go slow on nuclear power." An even wiser conclusion, I believe, would be that we must stop nuclear plant construction entirely, for such plants are clearly too dangerous.

Nuclear accidents, neglect of public safety, and deceit have been too common in the history of U.S. nuclear power plants for us to feel that these are only Russian problems. (The scandal of Three Mile Island is only one of many examples.)

Some of the more obvious hazards of operating these plants are shown by your list of "Major Nuclear Plant Accidents," of which the U.S. has had more than its share.

In addition to such accidents, there have been an alarming number of near-accidents, a pattern of attempts by those responsible for nuclear plants to cover up and underplay hazards, and the unresolved question of how to dispose of nuclear waste in a way that will not endanger future generations.

Add to all of this the extremely high costs of constructing a nuclear power plant (which are often horribly far in excess of original estimates) and we have more than enough evidence that nuclear plants are powerfully bad news in America as well as in the Soviet Union.

Wreck drives home point about lights

To the editor:
On the morning of Wednesday, April 23, I was involved in a terrible automobile accident at the corner of FM 700 and Goliad which the Herald reported in the 4/24/86 edition.

I just wanted to say how much I appreciated the many people who so quickly came to our assistance. They stayed with us and helped as they could until the police arrived and even afterwards. The police arrived quickly, and I thought they were very humane and even kind in trying to make a report. I am glad to know we have good citizens like this in Big Spring.

In discussing the accident with the other driver, who happens to be a good friend of mine, and with other people who have had accidents at that intersection we believe there needs to be a better traffic light system there.

It seems the accidents at that intersection have been greatly increasing. Many vehicles have been damaged, and I only hope no lives have been lost. I hope those who make such decisions for our city will look closely at the number of accidents at this intersection and decide to change these traffic lights for the better.

Around The Rim

No news isn't always good

By ROBIN WARD

In a matter of hours after the United States' worst nuclear accident began at Three Mile Island in March 1979, news reports began circulating. The accounts were sketchy at first, but became more and more detailed in the days that followed as reporters attempted to gauge for the public the dangers involved, as well as implications for the nuclear power industry.

When a more serious nuclear accident occurred in the Soviet Union last week, it was three days before the Kremlin even acknowledged a problem existed.

Then, it was a brief statement saying only that one of the Chernobyl plant's atomic reactors was damaged and that steps were being taken to "eliminate the consequences."

Had scientists in Sweden not discovered radioactive fallout from the power plant on their own soil, it's doubtful the Soviet government would have admitted the disaster at all.

In Moscow, 450 miles northeast of the accident site, Soviet citizens interviewed by the foreign press showed little concern. Many had not heard of the accident by Wednesday, five days after it began.

Even now that the situation appears to be under control, many questions remain unanswered. What caused the accident? How much radiation was released into the atmosphere? How many people were really killed or injured? How many will die of cancer in years to come because of their exposure to high-level radiation? What are the long-term implications of farming in the Ukraine and in bordering countries, where farmland may have been contaminated?

Kremlin officials, traditionally reluctant to release information about disasters — which they think might imply a failure of the Soviet system — apparently embrace the credo, "No news is good news." But for the Soviet people, as demonstrated at Chernobyl, no news could be fatal.

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, May 4, the 124th day of 1986. There are 281 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: One hundred years ago, on May 4, 1886, the Haymarket Riot, a bloody episode in the history of American labor, erupted in Chicago as police moved in to break up a workers' rally. A bomb was thrown, and the rioting began. Seven officers and four civilians were killed.

On this date: In 1626, Dutch explorer Peter Minuit landed on Manhattan Island, later buying it from the Indians for $24 worth of trinkets.

In 1776, Rhode Island declared its freedom from England — two months before the Declaration of Independence was adopted by the Continental Congress.

In 1927, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences was founded.

In 1932, Al Capone, convicted of income-tax evasion, entered the federal penitentiary in Atlanta.

In 1961, the first group of "Freedom Riders" left Washington for New Orleans to challenge racial segregation in interstate buses and bus terminals.

In 1970, Ohio National Guardsmen opened fire on a crowd of anti-war demonstrators at Kent State University, killing four students.

In 1980, Marshal Josip Broz Tito, the president of Yugoslavia, died just three days short of his 88th birthday.

Ten years ago: Ronald Reagan defeated President Gerald R. Ford in the Indiana and Georgia Republican primaries. Jimmy Carter won both Democratic primaries.

Five years ago: Irish Republican Army hunger striker Bobby Sands died at the Maze Prison in Northern Ireland on the 66th day of his fast in an attempt to win rights for nationalist prisoners.

Statewide elections

Gonzalez to face Gibson in Supreme Court runoff

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Supreme Court Justice Raul Gonzalez headed toward a runoff election Saturday in his bid to become the first Hispanic elected to statewide office, and 18-year incumbent Justice Sears McGee lost his battle for renomination to the high court.

With 75.6 percent of the vote counted in the Democratic primary by the secretary of state's office Saturday night, Gonzalez led the pack of four in the Democratic primary for the Place 4 court seat, but will face former state Rep. Jay Gibson of Odessa in a June 7 runoff election.

Gonzalez led with 234,988 votes, or 36.9 percent, to Gibson's 196,993 votes, or 30.9 percent.

Trailing were John Humphreys, a Dallas lawyer, with 133,065 votes, or 20.1 percent, and David Ivy, also a Dallas lawyer, with 72,159 votes, or 11.3 percent.

Gonzalez, who was appointed to the bench in 1984, served as a federal prosecutor, legal aid lawyer and appeals court judge before his appointment. He has said his election would be important symbolically to Hispanics in Texas but added, "I am an incumbent Supreme Court justice who happens to be a Hispanic."

The winner of the Democratic runoff will face one of two Republicans also seeking the Supreme Court seat. With 74.4 percent of the vote counted in the GOP primary, Waco attorney John L. Bates, led with 141,434 votes or 52.5 percent, while Bill J. Stephens, a judge on the 5th District Court of Appeals, had 127,708 votes, or 47.5 percent.

In Place 1, incumbent McGee, 68, trailed longtime state Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas and Shirley Butts, an appeals court judge from San Antonio.

Ms. Butts, who sought to become the first woman elected to the state Supreme Court, was far behind Mauzy, who led with 308,805 votes, or 47.1 percent. Ms. Butts had 169,082 votes, or 25.8 percent, incumbent McGee had 125,418 votes or 19.1 percent, and Hugo Touchy followed with 52,542 votes, or 8 percent.

McGee's wife, who answered the telephone at his home Saturday night, said the justice would not comment.

5th Appeals Court Judge Charles Ben Howell of Dallas won the Republican nomination for Place 1, defeating State District Judge Nathan Lincoln Hecht by garnering 166,782 votes, or 59.8 percent, to Hecht's 112,116, or 40.2 percent, with 56.2 percent of the vote counted.

In a see-saw battle for the Place 2 Democratic nomination, 3rd Appeals Court Justice Jim Brady and incumbent Robert Campbell also will tangle in a runoff election.

Brady had 210,969, or 35.3 percent, to Campbell's 204,146 votes, or 34.1 percent.

In the same race, 5th Appeals Court Justice Ted Akin of Dallas had 115,446 votes, or 19.3 percent, and Colin Kelly Kaufman, a San Antonio lawyer, had 67,541, or 11.3 percent.

Akin had tried to withdraw his name but went ahead with the campaign after learning it was too late, saying he wanted to drop out only because of fund-raising problems.

The Republican in the race was Nathan White Jr., a Plano lawyer, who was unopposed in his primary.

Also up for election were three positions on the State Court of Criminal Appeals. Places 2 and 3, held by incumbents Michael McCormick and Marvin Teague, were unopposed.

In Place 1, Denton lawyer M.P. "Rusty" Duncan III headed to a runoff, but his opponent remained undecided late Saturday in a race that was nip-and-tuck.

Duncan had 179,767 votes, or 29.8 percent; George Martinez, a Dallas lawyer, had 150,102, or 24.9 percent; Paul Reagan, a Temple lawyer, had 143,227, or 23.8 percent, and Preston Dial Jr., a Seguin judge, had 129,865, or 21.5 percent.

GOP in runoff for attorney general

AUSTIN (AP) — San Antonio State District Judge Roy Barrera Jr. and former Williamson County District Attorney Ed Walsh won spots Saturday in a Republican runoff for the right to challenge Democratic Attorney General Jim Mattox in November.

With 74 percent of the 5,150 GOP precincts reporting, Barrera had 163,115 votes, or 47.5 percent. Walsh had 112,743 votes, or 32.8 percent.

State District Judge John Roach of Plano was third with 67,628 votes, or 19.7 percent.

Mattox was unopposed in the Democratic primary.

Barrera, seeking to become the first Hispanic elected to statewide office in Texas, said he was ready for the June 7 runoff.

"I'm confident that we can go on and work and finish the job in the next 30 days," he said in San Antonio.

Earlier Saturday night, Walsh predicted a runoff pitting him against Barrera.

"I think I just need to keep getting my message out," he said in Austin.

Mattox said he did not care who received the GOP nomination, adding that Roach was "clearly the most qualified" of the GOP candidates.

"It doesn't make me any difference which one it will be. They are all three relatively unknown," Mattox said.

Hightower wins with big margin

DALLAS (AP) — Incumbent Jim Hightower easily overpowered a Lyndon LaRouche follower to win Saturday's Democratic primary race for state agriculture commissioner, while Bill Powers defeated his GOP rival for a berth in November's elections.

With 72.6 percent of the precincts counted by the secretary of state's office, Hightower led Noel Cowling of Dublin with 546,306 votes, or 82.3 percent, to 117,436 votes, or 17.7 percent.

Powers, executive vice president of the Texas Poultry Federation in Austin, defeated Charles "Farmer" Trompler, a Malone farmer, for the Republican nomination.

With 70 percent of the GOP precincts tallied, Powers held the lead with 165,279 votes, or 65.7 percent, to Trompler's 86,323 votes, or 34.3 percent.

"It's a very good feeling indeed," Hightower said of his victory. "I'm especially pleased with the strong showing we made in rural areas because that's where our opponents said we'd fare the worst."

He said he thought Cowling's connections to the arch-conservative LaRouche hurt because "people aren't stupid. Once they understand what LaRouche stands for, they'll reject that bizarre mentality."

Hobby wins 3-1 over opponent

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby won renomination in the Democratic primary Saturday night, piling up a comfortable 3-1 lead over his only challenger, Austin perfume salesman David Young.

Meanwhile, David Davidson, an Austin business consultant and former preacher, and Kingwood attorney Aaron Bullock headed for a runoff in the Republican primary for lieutenant governor.

With 76 percent of the Democratic precincts reporting, Hobby led Young 521,269 to 188,944, or 73 to 27 percent.

"Once again I thank the voters of Texas for the confidence they have expressed in me. I am looking forward now to the campaign for the general election," Hobby said in a victory statement.

With 74 percent of the GOP precincts reporting, Davidson led early Sunday with 3,823 votes, or 32 percent. Bullock had 81,584 votes, or 27 percent.

Glenn Jackson, a San Antonio business tutor, was third with 62,443 votes, or 21 percent, and State District Judge Virgil Mulanax had 59,440, or 20 percent.

Hobby, 54, won his first race for lieutenant governor in 1972 and this is his fifth race for that powerful office. He already holds the record for longevity as lieutenant governor.

Young also was unsuccessful in the 1982 Democratic primary for governor and the 1984 Democratic primary for U.S. Senate.

Sharp assured of spot on Railroad Commission

DALLAS (AP) — State Sen. John Sharp on Saturday assured himself the nomination or a place in the runoff in the Democratic primary through a campaign emphasizing the need for stronger rail safety laws.

Sharp, three other Democrats and four Republicans fought for a single spot on the commission in Texas primaries, with the winner of each meeting in November to battle for election to the post.

Most of the candidates running for the position in the little-known state agency argued for trucking deregulation — but agreed on little else. Some made new efforts for rail safety — a traditional focus of the commission — a campaign issue. Others pushed for a health care investigation.

With 48.1 percent of the vote counted, Sharp grabbed 180,016 votes, or 44.6 percent. Lawyer John C. Poulard had 86,001 votes, or 21.3

percent, while P.S. "Sam" Ervin had 83,190 votes, or 20.6 percent. William MacNaughton trailed with 54,360 votes, or 13.5 percent.

In the Republican primary, John Thomas Henderson led with 44,434 votes, or 29.8 percent. Milton Fox followed with 41,830 votes, or 28.1

percent. Ed Emmett had 35,663 votes, or 24 percent. Ralph E. Hoelscher trailed with 26,972 votes, or 18.1 percent, with 39.5 percent of the vote counted.

MacNaughton is a 64-year-old Austin attorney. Other Democrats were Sharp, 35, of Victoria; Poulard, 31, of Dallas; and Ervin, a 71-year-old Dallas oil and natural gas consultant.

Emmett is a 36-year-old state representative, and Henderson, 78, is an Austin real estate broker. Hoelscher, 42, of Miles, is a farmer and rancher and the 59-year-old Fox is a state representative.

GOP in runoff in race for land commissioner

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro had no competition from within the Democratic Party in Saturday's primary, and M.D. Anderson Jr. headed for a runoff against one of his two GOP opponents.

Anderson, a Kemp dance hall operator, will try to prevent Mauro from winning a second term in the office that manages the Veterans Land Board and Texas' public lands.

McKinney surveyor George Collis, Tyler high school teacher Grady T. Yarborough also filed for the Republican race.

With 89 percent of the precincts reporting to the secretary of state's office, Anderson led with 157,794 votes, or 47.2 percent, to Yarborough's 91,041 votes, or 27.2 percent, and Collis' 85,539 votes, or 25.6 percent.

Challenger pilot, Smith, buried

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — Navy Capt. Michael J. Smith, who died piloting the space shuttle Challenger, was laid to rest Saturday with full military honors at Arlington National Cemetery.

Six white horses, guided by a seventh, pulled his casket on an ancient caisson to the gravesite overlooking Washington following an afternoon memorial service.

"Mike Smith had a clear vision of life and where it was going to lead," said Cmdr. Richard H. Purnell, who attended the U.S. Naval Academy with Smith and delivered the eulogy. When they were classmates at Annapolis, Smith would assert, "I am going to be an astronaut," he said.

"We lost him long before we could afford his loss," Purnell told the friends, colleagues, and family gathered in the chapel at Ft. Myer, adjoining the cemetery. "Mike would insist the quest, above all of us, must go on."

The U.S. Navy Band played before the service and as the casket was brought to the gravesite.

Smith's wife, Jane, and his children, Scott, 17, Alison, 14, and Erin, 8, walked behind the casket. Mrs. Smith wore an aviator's pin on the lapel of her dark suit.

On a hillside near the Tomb of the Unknowns, under the shade of a large maple tree, Cmdr. Paul J. Moore conducted a brief graveside ceremony. A seven-member honor guard fired the ceremonial volleys.

In the distance, a bugler played taps.

Smith, a native of Beaufort, N.C., was living in Houston near the NASA space center at the time of his death. He was buried three days after what would have been his 41st birthday and more than three months after the Challenger exploded and crashed into the sea.

The remains of the seven Challenger astronauts were recovered from the ocean floor about 18 miles offshore from Cape Canaveral. Identification and autopsies were completed last week and the remains were flown to Dover Air Force Base in Delaware for funeral preparation.

Smith was the second to be buried. Christa McAuliffe, the New Hampshire teacher who planned to broadcast lessons from space, was buried in a private ceremony.

Also killed on the Challenger were Francis R. (Dick) Scobee, 46, the mission commander; Judith A. Resnik, 36, mission specialist; Ronald E. McNair, 35, mission specialist; Air Force Lt. Col. Ellison S. Onizuka, 39, mission specialist; and Gregory B. Jarvis, 42, a Hughes Aircraft engineer.

Scobee will join Smith at Arlington on May 19, Scobee's birthday. Six other members of the nation's astronaut corps are buried at Arlington, including Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom and Roger B. Chaffee, who died when their Apollo capsule burned in a launch pad test on Jan. 27, 1967.

Vice Adm. Robert E. Kirksey, director of the Navy Operations Space Command and Control, presented the flag from the casket to Mrs. Smith, and her husband was lowered into the ground.

The black granite tombstone identified Smith as the pilot of the space shuttle Challenger and was engraved with a navy insignia with a shooting star through it.

The two politicians who have made space shuttle flights, Rep. Bill Nelson, D-Fla., and Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, attended the ceremonies.

Marcos restrained from building sale

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge Saturday issued a preliminary injunction preventing former Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos from selling five New York properties estimated to be worth more than $100 million.

The government of Corazon Aquino, who replaced Marcos in February, is seeking to gain ownership of the properties, which include three Manhattan office buildings, the Herald Center shopping arcade and an estate on Long Island.

U.S. District Judge Pierre N. Leval issued the 28-page document, which bars Marcos or his representatives from selling any of the properties.

Morton Stavis, a lawyer for the Aquino government, called the action very favorable.

"It's a victory for the Philippine people and the American people because a very careful judge has in essence said you can't engage in theft and get off scot-free," he said.

"Documentary and testimonial evidence submitted by the plaintiff gives support to the contention by the Republic of the Philippines that Ferdinand and Imelda Marcos misappropriated funds of the Republic," Leval wrote.

One of the defenses the holders of the Manhattan properties raised was that Marcos was immune from suit under Philippine law and further protected by the Foreign Sovereign Immunity Act.

But Leval said Marcos had not asked for the immunity and said none of the other defendants was entitled to raise that defense on his behalf.

Neither Marcos nor his wife appeared during any of the proceedings. They have been living in Hawaii since fleeing the Philippines in February.

The five properties were allegedly purchased on Marcos' behalf, and lawyers for the Philippine government have estimated their total value at well over $100 million. Marcos also allegedly owns other properties in the New York area worth an additional $250 million.

Also named in the Aquino government's lawsuit are New York lawyer Joseph E. Bernstein and his brother, Ralph J. Bernstein. The Bernsteins have been key players in Marcos' hidden control of the New York properties, the government alleges. The brothers have admitted representing Marcos and his wife, Imelda, in various real estate dealings.

Lawyers for Marcos were not present when Leval issued the injunction, and telephone calls to their law firms Saturday went unanswered.

Also named in the suit are New York lawyer Joseph E. Bernstein and his brother, Ralph J. Bernstein.

Tax overhaul plan gains support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole says the new tax-overhaul plan drafted by Finance Committee Chairman Bob Packwood is a good start, but he withheld his complete endorsement until several unidentified problems are solved.

If "a number of items that merit attention ... can be worked out," Dole said Friday, "then the chairman will have my full support." In the meantime, the majority leader said, "I am solidly behind tax reform and Chairman Packwood's efforts to produce a package."

Dole's statement indicated the breadth of committee members' individual concerns about the new bill, which Packwood said Friday he thinks has the support of a majority of the panel. Six members stood with Packwood when he made the announcement, and he said he was authorized to say that Dole also supported the bill.

Neither Packwood nor any of the six members would declare absolutely that the new bill has enough votes for approval. And some staff members who work with the committee said the measure is likely to undergo considerable change before it can pass.

"I hope there is a majority for it," Packwood said, calling it a major improvement over present law in terms of simplicity, fairness and investment decisionmaking.

The bill — the third plan Packwood has offered in two months — would cut taxes for most Americans, raise taxes on corporations by about $100 billion over five years, and retain full deductions for home mortgages, charitable contributions and most state and local taxes.

Packwood said the committee — which met in private all week to resolve some major differences — will take up the new plan in a public session Monday.

Major features of the plan would:

- Remove 6 million lower-income people from the income-tax rolls altogether. A family of four would pay no income tax until earnings exceed about $12,470.
- Cut the 50 percent top individual tax rate to 27 percent. The only other rate in the new plan, 15 percent, would apply to about 80 percent of all taxpayers. The 27 percent rate would apply to a family's taxable income (after deductions and exemptions) above about $28,000.

- Raise the $1,080-per-person exemption to $2,000 for all but the wealthiest taxpayers.
- Increase the standard deductions, to about $5,000 for joint returns and about $3,100 for singles.
- Repeat the deduction permitted for state and local sales taxes paid.
- Allow deduction of mortgage interest on two homes. The deduction for consumer interest, such as for a car or a college loan, would be limited to an amount equal to investment income. For example, if a family savings account paid $500 interest, the family's consumer interest deduction would be limited to $500.
- Continue the deduction for charitable contributions by itemizers but repeal the special charitable writeoff for those who don't itemize.
- Restrict tax-deferred Individual Retirement Accounts to workers not covered by a company pension plan.
- Remove the tax advantage for individual capital gains.
- A key provision, supporters agreed, would take away some of the incentive that upper-income people have for investing in tax

- shelters — ventures aimed more at reducing their tax burden than at making a profit.
- One section would strictly limit the use of "passive" investment losses — from ventures in which the taxpayer does not have a management role — to shield wages from taxation. That provision is still being worked on, and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said he could not support the bill unless some changes are made.

Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo., said Packwood's plan "represents the most significant step taken to date toward achieving true tax reform," and proposes "a classic swap in tax terms — tax preferences will be traded in for lower tax rates."

That also is the major thrust of the tax plan that President Reagan recommended last year and billed as the top legislative initiative of his second term. The House approved a version that critics say would reduce incentives for saving and business investment. The president has counted on the Republican-controlled Finance Committee to shape the bill more to his liking.

LaRouchies gain no big inroads

By KIT FRIEDEN
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Major candidates backed by extremist politician Lyndon LaRouche failed to win any major contested races Saturday in Texas' primaries, which drew the interest of national Democratic Party leaders.

Texas' elections were the first since the Illinois primary, in which LaRouche followers were nominated as Democrats for lieutenant governor and secretary of state, to the chagrin of party stalwarts.

Democratic National Committee spokesman John Florescu had said the party would be "monitoring Texas very closely," but officials hadn't expected a repeat of Illinois.

Harley Schlanger, fulltime Southwest coordinator for the LaRouche organization, told The Associated Press on Saturday night that he was "pretty pleased overall" with the results in Texas.

The only LaRouche candidate for statewide office was Noel Cowling of Dublin, who was trounced 4-to-1 by state Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower in the Democratic primary.

Republican seeking congressional seats were soundly drubbed, while two other LaRouche candidates were unopposed and assured the Democratic nominations in two districts held by strong Republicans.

Results from almost 200 local offices being sought by LaRouche candidates were not readily available.

The strongest LaRouche competitor — Schlanger, a candidate for the 8th Congressional District — garnered only about 25 percent of the vote, losing to Blaine R. Mann. Other LaRouche congressional candidates recorded even smaller percentages.

But Schlanger said he was pleased by the LaRouche candidates' showing because "we had a lot of money spent against us" by the Democratic Party.

He attacked the Democrats and their leader, state Chairman Robert Slagle, saying they failed to get much of a turnout in the primary and warned that incumbent Gov. Mark White would lose without a better turnout in November.

"You have to look at the fact that in spite of the vicious, malicious, lying slanders (against LaRouche candidates) ... we're still getting 15 to 30 percent," he said.

In San Antonio, where the Democratic Party chairmanship was up for election, LaRouche candidate Donald Varella appeared headed for a runoff with Jane Hibler, who was backed by the outgoing party chairman.

Outgoing Chairman Marilyn Jones had endorsed Ms. Hibler as her replacement because she was afraid Varella might win because of his "heavy Hispanic county."

"I'm terribly concerned," Ms. Jones said Saturday night, of Varella's lead. "It would be a total disaster."

In Dallas County, the Democratic Party sought write-in candidates for an estimated 11 out of 455 county precincts where LaRouche candidates ran unopposed.

In Harris County, LaRouche candidates were seeking 70 precinct of the chairmanships.

Most state party leaders were concerned about staving off an invasion of LaRouche candidates at the county and precinct level.

Slagle and other party officials urged Democrats to be careful about casting protest votes against incumbents lest they unwittingly support a LaRouche candidate.

Precinct chairmen serve as election judges and work to get out the vote in their neighborhoods. They also have a vote on the policy-setting county executive committee. County party chairmen are in charge of planning party primaries.

Slagle said 18,000 Democratic Party tabloids listing all the LaRouche candidates and other election information were mailed out more than a week before the election.

LaRouche, who has run for president three times in the last decade, is a former communist, former socialist and organizer of a group that champions both Star Wars and the starving masses in Africa.

His well-known proposals include a call for a new Nuremberg tribunal to try former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and others LaRouche accuses of promoting genocide through the International Monetary Fund's "discriminatory" credit policies, which he says result in starvation of the poor.

County Democratic leaders in Texas said some local LaRouche candidates — occasionally recruited through leaflets in airports — were embarrassed enough to want to withdraw from precinct races once they learned more about LaRouche.

But Schlanger blamed that on what he called "incredible harassment from the Democratic Party."

Kinky's judge campaign unwinds

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — Country and western bandleader Richard "Kinky" Friedman appeared headed for defeat in early election returns Saturday night in his bid to dispense justice instead of tunes.

With about 50 percent of the votes counted in the GOP primary race for Justice of the Peace Precinct 1, Pat Knox was winning handily with 1,251 votes, compared to 520 votes for Friedman and 486 for challenger Edward North, the Kerr County clerk's office reported.

Friedman, father of the off-beat band Kinky Friedman and the Texas Jew Boys, has described himself as a "nice Jewish boy" who has been reviled by "Negroes, rednecks, all kinds of weirdos, religious fanatics, Jews, women's libbers, Indians."

The victor of Saturday's primary will take over the post in January because no Democrat filed for the race in Kerrville, a central Texas city of 20,000 about 60 miles northwest of San Antonio.

Ms. Knox has worked as an administrative assistant in Kerrville's peace justice office for the last two years. North, meanwhile, operated a bonding business before resigning to run in the race.

Area primary elections

Two incumbent JPs win, two lose

COLORADO CITY — Two Mitchell County incumbents won and two others were knocked out of the Democratic justice of the peace race in Saturday's primary. The JP districts were combined this year, so four incumbents were vying for two spots.

Earning a spot on the November ballot for Precinct 1 justice of the peace was Joan Merket with 511 votes, over Charles Ray Watlington, 408 votes.

For Precinct 2, Ruby Claxton won the primary with 368 votes, defeating Billie Forbes, 295 votes.

In the Democratic county commissioner Precinct 2 primary, incumbent Johnny Shackelford defeated Carl Guelkerm, 198-88 votes, Tom Daughtrey with 36 votes, and William Conaway with 51 votes.

For Democratic Precinct 4 county commissioner, Herman Mitchell defeated incumbent Bill Preston 226-200 votes.

The only Republican to run in the county primary was Austin Helm, who got 88 votes for county chairman. Incumbent Bob Reily did not run.

James wins clerk's race in Martin County

STANTON — Virginia James won the Democratic primary for district and county clerk in Martin County with 417 votes. She opposed Bonnie Witt, who received 248 votes.

"Naturally I'm thrilled to win and I'm glad the voters have shown the confidence to elect me," she said. "I'll do my best to serve the people of Martin County."

Other candidates in the Democratic primary were unopposed. They are Bob Deavenport, 490 votes for county judge; H.D. Howard, 483 votes for county treasurer; Don Tollison, 100 votes for county commissioner Precinct 2; Wimp Holcomb, 103 votes for Precinct 4; F.E. Kennedy, 235 votes for justice of the peace Precinct 1; Shirley Scoggins 201 votes for JP Precinct 2; Rodger Burch, 400 votes for county chairman; and Jim Gregg, 393 votes for district judge.

Bednar wins in Glasscock judge race

GARDEN CITY — Wilburn Bednar was chosen over John Robinson in the Democratic primary for Glasscock County judge. Bednar received 274 votes to Robinson's 200.

For justice of the peace Precinct 1, Mary Lee Jost defeated Leroy Hoelscher, 78-58 votes. For Precinct 2, Wanda Johnson, defeated Judy Pearce, 93-53 votes. No incumbent ran in either race.

For county commissioner Precinct 2, incumbent Alex Fry defeated George Schwartz, 92-58 votes. For Precinct 4, incumbent Michael Hoch, 66 votes, defeated Marck Schafer, 35 votes.

Unopposed were Betty Pate, 429 votes for district and county clerk; Judy Kingdon, 434 votes for county treasurer; Rita Hull, 61 votes for JP Precinct 3; Deneda Moore, 66 votes for JP Precinct 4.

All candidates ran in the Democratic primary.

Smith wins Borden commissioner's race

PATRICIA — Incumbent Larry Smith won the Democratic primary for Borden County commissioner Precinct 2. He had 74 votes, compared to challenger Dan Shortes' 25 votes. For Precinct 4 Commissioner, Hurston Lemons defeated Ed Rinehart, 81-42 votes.

Convicted candidate loses race

KAUFMAN, Texas (AP) — Brockway's 3,609 votes with 100 percent of 30 boxes counted.

No Republican entered the race.

"We're so happy. It's a victory for honesty, decency, experience and performance," Ms. Darst said in a telephone interview Saturday.

"I think the voters realize the skills and knowledge needed to fill the office."

Throughout the race between the two Democrats, Darst held more than 60 percent of the vote and won 5,538 votes to former Sheriff Roy E.

late 1984 of beating a confession out of a tractor-theft suspect. As a condition of probation, the six-term sheriff resigned.

Brockway said he knew at about 7:30 p.m., when the absentee vote was counted, that he would lose the race.

"The people wanted me as sheriff. They still call me sheriff. I don't think they cared about me going to anything else," Brockway said.

Japan believes in aiding developing nations

NEW YORK (AP) — A majority of the Japanese people believe their country has become a world power and should exercise greater influence on international affairs, according to a poll published Saturday.

Fifty-five percent of the Japanese questioned also said they believed Japan should be providing more aid to developing countries and 31 percent said Japan should work harder to reduce its huge trade surpluses.

The poll, which included Japanese and Americans, was conducted by The New York Times, CBS News and the Tokyo Broadcasting System, and published in the Times. The 1,415 Japanese were questioned in person in Japan from April 4 to 6 in preparation for the economic summit set to begin there Sunday. In the United States, 1,601 Americans were polled by telephone between April 6 and 10.

Delta rocket called most dependable

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Delta rockets like the one that malfunctioned and was destroyed during launch Saturday have a hard-earned reputation as the space agency's most dependable launch vehicles.

This was only the 11th time in 178 flights that a Delta had failed in almost 26 years, said Charles Gay, NASA's manager of expendable rockets. Prior to Saturday, Deltas had logged 43 consecutive successful flights dating from Sept. 13, 1977.

The slim, three-stage rocket is built by McDonnell Douglas. It has placed 184 satellites into orbit over the years — a 94 percent success rate.

It is assisted into space by nine strap-on solid-propellant boosters built by Morton Thiokol Inc., the company which manufactures the rocket boosters on the space shuttle and the Air Force's Titan 34D. But the Delta boosters are much smaller and built in one section, instead of segmented like the others.

The main engine, built by Rocketdyne Corp., burns RP-1, a highly refined kerosene, and liquid oxygen. It is located in the bottom stage and is supposed to burn for 3 minutes and 48 seconds.

The middle stage has an engine that helps power the vehicle into space, shuts off and can then be restarted in space. That stage also contains an inertial guidance system.

Plane hijacker surrenders

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A man accused of commandeering a commuter plane and threatening to blow it up surrendered quietly Saturday after slashing his wrists, authorities said.

Douglas B. Thomas, 29, of Tulsa, Okla., was being held without bail at the Washington County Jail on hijacking charges after being treated for minor wrist cuts at a hospital.

None of the 11 other passengers or two crew members on board the Horizon Air twin-engine Metroliner were injured, and no weapons or explosives were found on board, said FBI agent Bart Gori.

Kremlin leaders visit site of nuclear accident

MOSCOW (AP) — Two top Kremlin leaders were reported Saturday to have visited the area of the Chernobyl nuclear power plant disaster in the first public gesture of Politburo concern about the accident.

Another Communist Party official, however, said that the Chernobyl plant area was dangerously radioactive, and it was not clear how close Premier Nikolai I. Ryzhkov and the Kremlin's No. 2 man, Yegor K. Ligachev, came to the destroyed reactor, 80 miles north of Kiev in the Ukraine.

The other official, Moscow party chief Boris N. Yeltsin, said human error likely caused the accident, in which the government said two people died and 197 were injured.

He said steps were being taken to prevent a recurrence.

Four U.S. experts arrived in Moscow on Saturday to measure radioactivity with American equipment set up at several spots around the city. The first results were not expected until Monday.

Radioactive dust from the disaster, already detected in much of central and Eastern Europe, spread Saturday into Greece and Turkey, officials there said, adding that it did not reach dangerous levels.

Thousands of people demanding the shutdown of nuclear reactors protested in several West German cities. Italian officials, who forbade the sale of leafy vegetables for two weeks, seized tons of greens on Saturday.

The official news agency Tass said Politburo members Ligachev, Ryzhkov, Ukrainian Communist Party chief Vladimir V. Shcherbitsky and other officials went Friday to the Chernobyl area in the Ukraine.

They met evacuees and decided on unspecified "additional measures" to deal with the disaster, Tass said.

The report seemed intended to show Soviets both that it was safe to travel in the Chernobyl region and that their leaders — last publicly seen waving gaily to the Red Square May Day parade — are concerned about the nuclear accident, one of the worst ever.

Tass did not say how close the officials went to the Chernobyl plant, nor did it add to the sketchy information already released by the government about the accident.

Among other things, the Kremlin has failed to disclose what happened at the plant or the amount of radiation released.

Western experts have said they believe the accident began April 25 and that a fire raged at the reactor for several days. White House spokesman Larry Speakes, in Tokyo with President Reagan for the economic summit, said Saturday there was evidence that the reactor or associated equipment continued to smolder.

In his weekly radio address, Reagan expressed sympathy for those affected by the accident and said, "The Soviets owe the world an explanation."

But Tass said in a commentary Saturday, "Demanding 'more news' and 'more facts' from Chernobyl, losing all sense of shame and conscience, the politicians are waiting only for bad news. ... And it's unlikely that the reports that the situation in the area of the atomic station is normalizing will sober them up."

Tass claimed that "the White House and its allies need this windchance to cast a shadow on the Soviet Union and its peaceful initiatives ..."

The uncertainty about radiation levels reportedly has caused growing concern among some of the 2.4 million residents of Kiev. It also prompted an exodus of foreign students, tourists and workers from the area.

The U.S. specialists who arrived in Moscow, a radiologist and three health physics experts, refused to answer reporters' questions at Sheremetyevo Airport. U.S. Embassy spokesman Jaroslav Verner refused to disclose what tests the group would conduct or if they would work only in Moscow.

Yeltsin, who was in Hamburg, West Germany, told the West German television network ARD that water reservoirs around Chernobyl were contaminated, and that helicopters dropped sacks of sand, lead and boron to cut emissions of radioactivity to a minimum.

Group claims nuclear safety is declining

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman and an anti-nuclear citizens group released separate reports on nuclear safety Saturday and charged that 1985 was the worst year ever for atomic power mishaps.

The Critical Mass Energy Project, a Ralph Nader group, released a study of safety violations reported to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission since 1979. The group said problems have been on the rise since then and called for a phase-out of all U.S. reactors.

Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., released a list of the 10 worst atomic power safety breaches provided to his subcommittee on energy conservation and power by the NRC. He said 1985 was the worst year for safety since the Three Mile Island accident in 1979.

"The number and severity of accidents during the past year is simply too close for comfort," Markey said. "The list of close calls strongly suggests that a major U.S. nuclear accident could be lurking around the corner."

Critical Mass said nuclear mishaps reported to the NRC rose from 2,310 in 1979 to 5,060 in 1985. Under a new reporting system instituted in 1984, the group said, plant operators filed 2,417 "licensee event reports" on mishaps in 1984 and 2,974 in 1985.

The group also said the NRC levied 38 fines totaling nearly $3.8 million against utilities in 1985, $1.7 million higher than in 1984.

The Soviet accident was provided the United States and the rest of the world a stark reminder that nuclear power is a dangerous technology and that the consequences of an accident are enormous," said Joshua Gordon, author of the Critical Mass report. He said the United States should re-evaluate its nuclear policy and "begin planning for the orderly phase-out of nuclear power."

Winners named

By RICKY HOPE

The annual industrial arts competition regional meet was held at Odessa School April 25-26. Approximately 40 schools from throughout the West Texas area participated in project and written competition.

The winners from Forsan are as follows: Kevin Lawdermilk received a best of division award in the general metal working category and a third place for his technical writing essay. Brandy Bryan received a best of division and first place award in technical drafting for his tool rest shaded drawing, and a third place for his metric drawing. He also received a second place award for his technical drafting on-site drawing.

Shane Clanton received a first place award for his orthographic drawing and second place for his technical drafting written essay. Jay Bradford received a second place award for his 3-D architecture drawing and two third place awards for his technical drafting essay and his on-site drawing.

Heather Smyrl placed third in the general woodworking category and placed second with her technical writing essay. Brant Nichols placed second in his architecture drawing. Rodney McMillan placed third in the general drafting category. John Roman placed first on his technical writing essay.

There will be an awards banquet May 22 at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. This is for any student who completed any extra curricular activity this past year. Twirler tryouts for band will be May 7.

The high school band traveled to Amarillo this weekend for a concert contest.

The Future Homemakers of America will travel to Midland on May 8 for a field trip.

All RSVPs for the junior-senior prom must be turned in to Mrs. Poyner by May 7.

Big Spring

Athletes honored

By KELLY WILLIAMSON

The spring sports banquet will be held Monday in the cafeteria. The banquet is to honor all the outstanding athletes from the spring sports.

Sophomores will have a meeting in the auditorium at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday. The meeting is being held to discuss senior rings. A presentation will be given by Herr-Jones.

The speech and drama department will hold their awards banquet Saturday in the cafeteria.

Also having year-end banquets will be OEA and HECE. OEA's banquet will be Tuesday at K-C

Steakhouse and HECE's banquet will be Monday.

Tickets for the Prom will go on sale Monday until Friday. Juniors and seniors need to check the lists in the office to see the amount they need to pay.

Caps and gowns will be delivered to seniors Friday from 8:00-8:30 a.m. and from 3:30-4:00 p.m.

Seniors have until Wednesday to pay their hotel fee if they are going to Six Flags. The cost is $27 and can be paid to Big Spring Travel.

The Texas Education Agency will be monitoring the school Monday.

By LEANN SEIDENBERGER

The high school boys and girls track teams competed Friday and Saturday in Levelland. The following tracksters qualified for the regional meet in these events:

BOYS
400 meter relay — Abby Madrid, Oscar Garcia, Mike Kenyon and Jessie Lopez.

GIRLS
400 meter and 800 meter relays — Carol Hoelscher, Michele Pechacek, Diana Garcia and Jacque Jost.

1300 meter relay — Gena Schafer, Michele Bechacek, Diana Garcia and Jacque Jost.
Long jump — Michele Pechacek.
400 meter dash — Dana Hillger.

800 meter run — Gena Schafer.

The band went on a trip to Dallas Thursday through Saturday. They competed in the Sandy Lakes Fun Fest on Friday. The band recently received a Division II in concert and Division II in sightreading at UIL contest in Odessa.

Junior high and high school cheerleader tryouts will be on Monday.

The UIL Athletic Banquet will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the cafeteria. The guest speaker will be Spike Dykes, defensive coordinator at Texas Tech.

On Saturday the junior-senior banquet will begin at 7 p.m. in the St. Lawrence Hall with a dance following.

6-AA teams take region track titles

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

District 6-AA teams Hamlin and Anson flexed their muscles while zooming to team championships in the Region I-AA Track Meet at Blankenship Field yesterday. But it was a junior sprinter from Hamlin whose performance towered above all the rest.

Cynthia Titus of Hamlin put on a remarkable show while leading the Hamlin Lady Pied Pipers to another regional crown in Big Spring. Last year the Lady Pied Pipers won the meet, the first year it was held in Big Spring.

In the boy's competition the Anson Tigers got a come-from-behind win in the 1,600 relay to nip Greenwood for the team championship. The Tigers outdistanced the Rangers by 2½ points to claim the title.

But the story of the meet was the performance of Titus, who almost single-handedly led her team to its sixth Region I title in the last seven years. The Lady Pied Pipers easily outdistanced second place Spearman 83-60.

Titus was nothing short of spectacular as she claimed a total of five gold medals. She set meet records in her individual events, the long jump, triple jump and 200 meters. She also anchored the winning 400 and 800 relay teams. She won the long jump by a foot; triple jump by two feet and the 200 by 30 meters.

Ironically, it was the first meet Hamlin had won all year, which should come as no surprise since Coach Phil Swenson had only 10 members on the entire track team. "This winning tradition at Hamlin started many years ago," said Swenson. "It helps to have some God-given talent and a runner with the potential of Cynthia Titus. But these girls have done a lot more than I've asked them."

"Although we hadn't won a meet all year I figured we would do well because we could score some quality points. Last year I had Cynthia running on all three relays and we won the state meet. This year I told her I'd let her compete in an individual event. I don't know about our chances of winning state this year. It's too early to tell."

Crossroads Country runner Kody Newman of Stanton also turned in a shining performance for the home crowd. The speedy sophomore won the 100 and got third in the 200. She overcame a slow start in the 100 to nip Hamlin's Charlotte Bolden of Hamlin at the tape. Her time of 12.60 was a tad slower than her season-best of 12.45.

The main question in the 200 was who would finish behind Titus, who cruised to a 24.36. Again Newman came on strong at the end but failed to overtake Morton's Reena Lynch. Lynch ran a 26.84 while Newman clocked a 26.99, four-tenths over her season's best.

Other top performances were turned in by Bovina weightwoman Marie Pesch, regarded by many as the top basketball player in Texas this season. The University of Texas-bound hoop star, set records in the shot put and discus and placed fourth in the 100 hurdles.

Hart's Tammy Menchaca was another double winner. She set a record in the 3,200 Friday and did the same thing in the 1,600 on Saturday.

Leslie Gooch of Reagan County also turned in one of the meet's top performances. Gooch, who won the medalist championship in golf on Wednesday, won the 800 meters, placed fourth in the long jump and anchored her team to a third-place finish in the 1,600 relay. She passed two runners while leading her team to the bronze medal.

The Anson boys trailed Greenwood the entire meet. But they stayed within striking distance until the last event, the 1,600 relay.

They made their move with five events left in the meet. Michael Tollerson started them on their way as he won the 400. Lou Mays followed suit by winning the 300 hurdles, setting the stage for the 1,600 relay.

Going into the race Greenwood seemed to be in good shape, with the fastest qualifying time of 3:24.50. The team held a slim 39-38 point lead over Anson.

But the Tigers got a strong second leg from Billy Thompson and a strong anchor from Mays to win the event in 3:23.72. Greenwood finished second in 3:24.88, thus giving Anson the team championship.

Greenwood did win the 400 relay, a race that was run twice. Greenwood won the first race, and Memphis finished second. But Memphis and Stamford was disqualified for running out of their lanes. The race was run a second time, and Greenwood again won with a time of 43.61. Haskell finished second in 43.65.

Memphis had a double winner in Roy Henderson.

Joseph Ruiz of Abernathy crosses the finish line ahead of Rotan's Donnie Grubers and Stan Stroebel of Olton in the 800 meter finals Saturday at the Region I-AA Track Meet at Blankenship Field. Ruiz won in a time of 1:58.27.

Favorite upset in Kentucky Derby Old veteran rides winner

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bill Shoemaker, admittedly in the twilight of racing's greatest riding career, teamed with a colt named Ferdinand on Saturday to shine as bright as the Kentucky sun.

Ferdinand, benefitting from Shoemaker's 38 years of experience in the saddle, cut between horses to reach the rail at the top of the stretch, then sped home to win the $784,400 Kentucky Derby.

It was Shoemaker's fourth Derby victory in his 24th Derby ride and the 54-year-old jockey said it was his biggest.

"This is more of a thrill," said Shoemaker, the oldest jockey to ever win the Derby. Angel Cordero was 42 when he won with Spend a Buck last year.

"I know my riding career is in the twilight and I might not ever get another chance to win the Derby," Shoemaker said. "This is a great thrill."

It seemed to be a great thrill for most of the more than 100,000 people on hand at Churchill Downs as they roared a welcome to the "Shoe" as he entered the winner's circle aboard Ferdinand.

It was also a thrill for Charlie Whittingham, the 73-year-old, Hall-of-Fame trainer, who was saddling only his third Derby starter and his first since 1960.

"It took me 26 years to have a horse good enough to get here and I've got one now," Whittingham said. "I don't know how Bill did it. It looks like somebody was looking down on the Sunshine Boys."

The Sunshine Boys Whittingham referred to were himself and Shoemaker.

The Sunshine Boys going into the 112th Derby were Carl Grinstead, a retired electrical engineer, and Ben Rochelle, a former song-and-dance man, the owners of favored Snow Chief.

Shoemaker used the 1986 success of another older athlete as a buoy to his history.

"Really, I thought Jack Nicklaus did it," Shoemaker said of the 46-year-old golfer's recent Masters victory, "and now I did it, too."

Snow Chief, winner of five straight races, went off as the 2-1 favorite and, on the final turn, it looked like he might become the fourth California-bred to win the Kentucky Derby.

Ridden by Alex Solis, Snow Chief made a mighty move on the turn, then suddenly the Derby was over for him.

He staggered home 11th, beating only five of the 16 3-year-olds in the field and becoming the seventh straight Derby favorite to lose. The last favorite to win was Specialist Bid in 1979.

"At the 3-16th pole, four horses went past him," Solis said of the colt who has raced once a month since November. "He just got tired."

Ferdinand, whose next start according to Whittingham will be in the Preakness May 17 at Pimlico, got to the end of the 1¼ miles 2¼ lengths ahead of English-bred Bold Arrangement.

Broad Brush, who didn't even get to Churchill Downs until two days ago, was another three-quarters of a length back and a neck in front of Rampage, the crooked-legged colt who had won the Arkansas Derby.

Ferdinand carried scale weight of 126 pounds home in 2:02.4-5 to earn $609,400 and reward his backers with a payoff of $37.40, $16.20 and $8.60, eighth best in history.

Bold Arrangement, ridden by Chris McCarron, returned $9.40 and $6.80, while Broad Brush, ridden by Vincent Bracciale Jr., was $9.20 to show.

Ferdinand is owned by Mrs. Howard Keck and was bred in Kentucky by her husband, who knows something about winning famed races. Keck owned the cars that Bill Vukovich drove to victory in the Indianapolis 500 in 1953-54.

Now he has a colt that to win the Triple Crown.

That he is even going to the Preakness is a victory for racing traditionalists, who were more than a little annoyed in 1985, when Spend a Buck skipped both the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes.

The traditionalists would have been disappointed again if the stretch-running Bold Arrangement had been able to overtake Ferdinand.

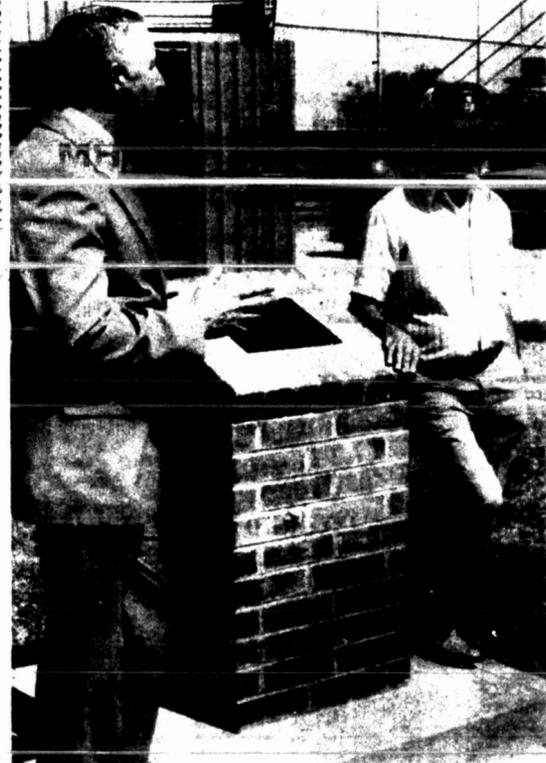

Racing for only the second time in the United States, the English colt must return home by May 10 under an arrangement with the U.S. Department of Agriculture. His next race will be the English Derby at Epsom Downs June 4.

Two colts foaled in England have won the Kentucky Derby.

They were Omar Khayyam in 1917 and Tomy Lee in 1969. Tomy Lee was ridden by a 27-year-old jockey named Bill Shoemaker, who also won the Derby with Swaps in 1955 and Lucky Debonair in 1965.

Only Bill Hartack and Eddie Arcaro have won more Derbies than Shoemaker — five each.

Groovy led at the end of the first quarter-mile after the run past the stands for the first time with Zabaleta second and Bachelor Beau third.

76ers slip past Bucks

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Defensive star Bobby Jones' fallaway left-handed field goal with 22 seconds remaining carried Philadelphia to a 107-103 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks Saturday and gave the 76ers a 2-1 lead in their best-of-7 NBA Eastern Conference semifinal playoff series.

The 76ers trailed 99-98 when center Clemon Johnson stripped Milwaukee's Terry Cummings of the ball and passed it to Julius Erving, who caught it standing just inside the out-of-bounds marker to the right of the basket.

As the off-balance Erving fell out of bounds, he got off a pass to Jones in front of the basket, and the 76ers' forward threw up his key shot. Jones, who was fouled on the play, killed a free throw, making it 101-99.

Sedale Threatt converted two free throws, making it 103-99, then Maurice Cheeks stole a Milwaukee in-bounds pass and scored, boosting Philadelphia's lead to 105-99.

But the Bucks hung in and Paul Pressey and Cummings each scored, pulling the Bucks within 105-103. But Threatt collected two free throws with two seconds left for the final score.

The teams meet in Game 4 here Monday night.

Charles Barkley, who fouled out with 44 seconds to go, led the 76ers with 29 points and 13 rebounds. Threatt scored 20.

Cummings topped the Bucks with 27 and nine rebounds, and Rickey Pierce had 22 points.

The Bucks, who trailed 79-73 scored eight of the first 10 points in the final period, tying the score 81-81. The teams were tied at 85-85 and 87-87, before Milwaukee went ahead 89-87 with 1:10 left.

The Bucks held the lead until Jones' basket sent the 76ers ahead to stay.

HC Queens sign 6-4 Patton High player

Howard College Hawk-Queens basket coach Don Stevens recently signed another post player to go along with his stable of pivot women next season.

Leslie Carter, a 6-4 star from Patton Springs High School, which is located near Lubbock, is the latest signee.

Carter, who becomes the sixth Hawk-Queen who is six-foot or more, was a unanimous All-District player for three years in District 11-A. She was also named to the All-Tournament Team in every tourney she participated in.

"This past season she averaged 22.8 points, 14.7 rebounds and 5.6 assists per game."

"I'm very pleased that Leslie has chosen to continue her basketball career at Howard College," said Stevens. "Obviously she will

Norman leads Las Vegas golf

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Australian Greg Norman completed a 64 with an eagle on the 18th hole and opened up a three-shot lead Saturday after four rounds of the richest tournament on the PGA Tour.

Norman, who said he has had a case of walking pneumonia for about a year, completed 72 holes of the five-day, 90-hole Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational in 268, 20 strokes under par.

His driving was little less than spectacular. He hit all the par-5s in two, all with irons for his second shots.

On the 18th, his drive covered 340 yards. A 3-iron second shot stopped 15-18 feet from the cup and he rapped it in for the eagle that gave him a big lead going into the final round of the chase for the winner's share of $207,000 from the total purse of $1,150,000.

His dramatic finish opened up some daylight in a field that was closely bunched most of the hot, windy day. At one time or another, nine men — Norman, Bob Lohr, Donnie Hammond, Larry Nelson, Bob Tway, Andy Bean, Fred Couples, Dan Pohl and Jim Colbert — all led or shared the lead.

None could keep up with Norman.

Pohl came the closest, running off one string of three consecutive birdies and avoiding a bogey in his round of 66 that put him second alone at 271.

Bob Tway, a winner at San Diego earlier this year, rookie Dave Rummells and Nelson were next at 272, 16 under par. Tway had a 68, Rummells and Nelson 69.

Colbert followed at 69-273. The big group at 274, six shots back with 18 holes to go, included Couples, Bean, Wayne Levi, Mike Hulbert and Steve Pate, who closed up with a 65. Couples shot 67, Hulbert and Levi 68 and Bean 69.

Norman, a runner-up in the Masters and Heritage in his last two starts, two-putted for birdie on the two front-side par-5s, and made 15-18 foot birdie putts on the second and fourth.

He moved among the leaders with a 15-footer on the 12th, took the lead with a 9-iron to four feet on the 13th, then pulled away with the closing eagle.

Hot Mets stay that way

By The Associated Press
With their terrific start, the New York Mets have been sending messages to National League pitchers this year. Cincinnati right-hander John Denny was the latest to get one.

"This is a different club now," said New York's Keith Hernandez, who singled, doubled and hit a two-run homer off Denny on Saturday to pace the Mets to a 4-1 victory, their 13th in 14 games.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Mets 4, Reds 1
Bobby Ojeda won his fourth game without a loss as the streaking Mets handed the Reds their seventh straight loss. Ojeda pitched seven innings, striking out two and walking four, before yielding in the eighth to Jesse Orosco. The key blow for the Mets was a two-run homer by Hernandez off Denny in the seventh inning.

Hernandez's homer sank the Reds to their 11th loss in 12 games and dropped their record to 5-14, worst in the majors.

Expos 7, Astros 6

Hubie Brooks tripled home Jim Wohlford from first base in the 10th inning to boost Montreal over Houston.

Jim Rice hit a two-run homer in the third inning to lead Boston past Oakland. Reliever Sammy Stewart, who replaced starter Mike Brown after Oakland pulled into a 3-3 tie in the fifth, earned his second victory in three decisions with relief help. Bob Stanley came on in the ninth for his third save.

Mariners 4, Blue Jays 2
Alvin Davis went 4-for-4, driving in a run, and Gorman Thomas knocked in two runs to lead Seattle over Toronto.

Mike Morgan, making his fourth start and seventh appearance of the season, gave up eight hits, walked two and struck out three in seven innings. Pete Ladd, the Blue Jays' fourth pitcher, went the last 1-3 innings for his first save.

Yankees 9, Rangers 4
Don Mattingly tied a major-league record with three sacrifice flies and Rickey Henderson scored four runs as New York defeated Texas.

The Yankees were out-hit 14-8, but got 11 walks from six Texas pitchers. Errors by Rangers catcher Darrell Porter and third baseman Geno Petralli both allowed runs to score.

Brewers 4, Angels 3
Paul Molitor's 10th-inning sacrifice fly boosted Milwaukee over California. Donnie Moore, who failed to protect the Angels' two-run lead in the bottom of the ninth, gave up Molitor's game-winning fly ball to left-center after loading the bases.

California center fielder Gary Pettis caught the ball and slammed into left fielder Brian Downing as Rick Manning scored the winning run.

Andre Dawson lead off the 10th with an infield single against Frank DiPino, and was replaced by pinch-runner Wohlford after hurting his leg while running to first. Brooks then followed with his game-winning triple to the center field wall at Olympic Stadium.

The Astros tied the game in the eighth inning when Glenn Davis singled off reliever Tim Burke to score Craig Reynolds from second base. The Expos had taken a 6-5 lead in the bottom of the seventh with three runs.

Braves 10, Phillies 4
Glenn Hubbard had three of Atlanta's nine doubles and drove in four runs and rookie shortstop Andres Thomas had three doubles among his four hits as Atlanta beat Philadelphia.

Rick Mahler allowed 11 hits in 6 2-3 innings and picked up his first victory since opening day. He struck out six and walked five before giving way to Paul Assenmacher.

Cubs 6, Giants 5

Terry Francona capped a four-run ninth inning with a two-run single to lead Chicago over San Francisco.

Jeffrey Leonard in a three-run seventh gave the Giants a 4-2 lead entering the ninth. But Thad Bosley singled home one run off reliever Greg Minton and Jerry Mumphy tied the game with an RBI single before Francona capped the rally.

The Giants scored a run in the bottom of the inning on a homer by Will Clark, his fourth.

George Frazier, who took over in the seventh, was the winner and Jay Baller recorded his fifth save.

CONTEMPORARY LOOKS
In contemporary kitchens, anything that is unnecessary should be stripped away. The emphasis is on function and efficiency. This means that there is little room for busy patterns. Walls should be solid expanses of color or pure chalky white if strong colors are present elsewhere. Countertops, too, should be simple and sleek. Good choices are solid-color plastic laminates, butcher block and stainless steel. The same material selection applies to cabinets. Plain, unpaneled doors of handsomely grained woods, simple metal fronts or plastic laminates should be selected. For knobs and pulls, choose clean-lined metal hardware. Brushed or polished chrome finishes suggest a contemporary mood. A floor covering that makes a good, plain background also should be selected.

The sleek contemporary look is spoiled by cluttered countertops. Hide appliances when not in use. For help with kitchen-design, see BOB'S CUSTOM WOODWORK, 613 North Warehouse Road in the Industrial Park, or call 267-8811. We'll design, build, and install your new kitchen from floor to custom cabinets. Our craftspeople can handle any home renovation job. Open M-F, 8-12, 1-5 or by appt. —MNT—
The best way to incorporate seating areas into the core of a kitchen is to install a counter.

Paris woman can make your day

Donna Jones, right, entertains Connie Basinger, the recipient of a singing telegram for her 27th birthday. Jones wears half a dozen faces which is part of her job as owner and lone performer for Make My Day Singing Telegram Services in Paris.

By DOROTHY VAUGHAN
The Paris News
PARIS, Texas (AP) — Will the real Donna Jones please stand up?

Ms. Jones wears half a dozen faces. She is Tacky Lizzie, country singer Fannie Mae, Wonder Woman, a cabaret singer, a clown, a drill sergeant, a valentine, Mae West or you name it. With a change of wig and costume she adopts the mannerisms and voice to fit the character.

It's all part of her job as founder, owner and lone performer of Make My Day Singing Telegram Services.

Ms. Jones has a costume and presentation for every occasion — birthdays, anniversaries, hospital stays, going away, congratulations, officer installations, fish-ograms for fishermen and even I-love-you's. She also does a longer program for banquets and does employee roasts.

The material and song of each character is from her own creative mind. "When someone calls me, they choose the character for the occasion. I find out something personal about the honoree and incorporate that information into the song I write to sing for that person. The songs always include humor and are in good taste, never risqué.

"Sometimes the person receiving the telegram will be a little embarrassed, but it's because he or she is the center of attention and not because of what I do or say," she says. "I try to include the people present in my presentations. You have to stay pumped up all the time, but it's a real high to make everyone happy."

Ms. Jones works alone most of the time, but has hired an assistant on some occasions. Her mother, Lurania Blackburn, makes her costumes.

Make My Day Singing Telegram Services was born of need.

Ms. Jones was a sales representative for Xerox, working on commission. "I wasn't going to get paid for three months after a machine was sold. I was divorced and had three sons, Josh, Travis and Zach, to feed. I've always had a sense of humor and had sung and had acted some, so I came up with this idea. I got the nerve to actually do it after I played the lead role in 'Little Mary Sunshine' for the Paris Community Theater. When I finished that show I figured I could do anything," she said.

She formed her singing telegram service in January 1985. She made a deal with a Paris florist to put a marquee advertising her services in front of the business. In exchange she buys balloons used in her acts from the florist. The most telegrams she has sung in a week is 23 and the most in one day is 19.

But Ms. Jones doesn't depend on the telegrams to feed her sons. She is a sales representative for Office Equipment Co. and recently took a third job as a rock and roll singer with Excaliber.

"Between the three jobs, I don't have any social life," she says, "but I have fun and I enjoy my work. It's rewarding to celebrate the birthday or a special occasion in someone's life."

Clothing-Optional apartments call lifestyle very comfortable

By CHRISTINE CLARRIDGE
The Daily Texan

AUSTIN (AP) — New Manor Apartments is like any other campus area complex — almost. It isn't distinguished by its parking lot, which has the typical dumpster, trashed cars and tricycles. Or its location, a busy road next to fast food and a short walk to campus.

Instead New Manor Apartments is distinguished as a clothing-optional apartment complex.

Manager James "Tink" Hill, a University of Texas law student, said that although there are a lot of misconceptions about what goes on in a clothing-optional community, "there is really no difference between here and anyplace else, other than just on the face of it.

"We have couples, families, graduate and law students, septuagenarians, blue-collar workers, white-collar workers, handicapped persons, Anglos, blacks and Hispanics," said Hill. "We have a real good mix."

He said the only thing that is different is that many of the residents enjoy a lifestyle where they don't have to wear clothes.

There are many reasons for living at New Manor, Hill said. "There is one man here who is confined to a wheelchair, and nudity just makes sense for him because it would be difficult for him to dress himself."

But there are people who do not take off their clothes and Hill said some of the "hard-core nudists have complained."

Another UT law student, who asked not to be identified, offered his reason for living at New Manor. "It's close to school, it's inexpensive, and it's not just all students."

He said that he didn't want to be identified because "people have the wrong idea about this place. What most people expect isn't true. There's not a lot of sex going on."

He also mentioned one particular drawback. "It's hard to get a girl to come back to your apartment."

Mark Riggs, head leasing agent, said that although his girlfriend was initially hesitant about visiting at his home, when she got there she loved it.

"It's not a swinger's place," said Hill. "We don't have people having sex on the tables, or anything like that."

Hill said that nevertheless, "Friends always think you're a freak when they find out where you live."

Riggs said that the chance to sunbathe nude interests a lot of would-be residents, but many are concerned about "being hassled."

Unwanted attention is not really a problem, Riggs said. "We have a physical aggression truce as part of the lease."

Riggs said that under the terms of the truce, unsolicited attention, verbal as well as physical, can be considered aggressive behavior and can result in eviction.

Riggs said the residents enjoy a "familylike atmosphere" and that they look out for one another. Nineteen members of the American (nude) Sunbathing Association live at New Manor, but Hill said that strong security measures draw as many residents as the appeal of the lineless tan.

"The security aspect is very important to single women and single mothers," Hill said.

"We have a lot of women interested in living here because it's a very safe place for a woman to live alone," Hill said. He said that waiting lists often have more women than men because of New Manor's commitment to strong security.

Hill said that in the six years he had lived there no break-ins or thefts have taken place. He said that because of the iron doors that surround the complex "people know everybody in here, they know who belongs here and who doesn't. A strange face stands out."

New Manor has 78 apartments, including efficiencies and one-bedroom and two-bedroom units. The complex also offers a large pool, a wooden deck, a hot tub, garden plots and bicycle parking.

All of this within the iron doors that separates this community. The doors are opened by a combination which is changed each month and distributed to residents upon the receipt of rent, said Hill. Also, when the complex has a big party, the combination is changed within the next few days.

Hill said that New Manor has been a clothing-optional complex since the mid-1970s when a "group of hippies" moved into the then-dilapidated and low-rent structure.

"They established a clothing-optional community that catered to the arts," Hill said.

Eight of the original residents still make their home at New Manor even though "they grew up to become businessmen," he said.

Riggs said that most of the other residents enjoyed each other and that group activities are common, such as evening volleyball games. Riggs said "a lot of the residents are depressed when they move out."

Although many residents of New Manor may find themselves accustomed to nudity, this does not alter the fact that clothing is required outside, as a reminder at the exit warns.

Heritage Museum festivities slated

By CARLEEN EVERETT

—In celebration of Heritage Museum's 15th anniversary, Mayor Cotton Mize proclaimed May 4-10 Heritage Museum Week.

"We are delighted that the museum has been bestowed this honor," Curt Mullins, president of the board of trustees of the museum, said.

Heritage Museum Week will be highlighted by the Annual Chuck Wagon Barbeque which will be held May 9 at the Dora Roberts Community Center at 6:30 p.m. This year marks the first year it will be open to the public.

Special entertainment will feature 88 kindergarteners from Coahoma Elementary who will present the "ABC Trails of Texas." "The children will sing, dance and recite lines from famous historical personalities during the program," Lynn Chalker, kindergarten teacher of Coahoma Elementary, said. For every letter of the alphabet, the children will perform something that relates to the history of Texas, she said. For example: A is for Alamo and the child will tell a little about the Alamo, she said.

"When they get to the letter Q, the kids will present 'Q is for Quotes,' a production made up of songs made famous by Texas entertainers. The audience will be asked to participate by guessing the name of the entertainer," Chalker said.

The entire program was "brain stormed" by four Coahoma kindergarten teachers: Lynn Chalker, Kathy Nichols, Laura Lawry and Linda Dick, she said.

As part of the museum's 15th anniversary celebration, a unique traveling photographic exhibit entitled "The Search for Alexander" will be on public display in the gallery of the museum through May 23, Kay

Coahoma Elementary kindergarteners rehearse for their presentation of the "ABC Trails of Texas." The children will be featured at the Heritage Museum's Chuck Wagon Barbeque May 9 at 6:30 p.m.

Bancroft, chairman of the museum, said. "The Search for Alexander" is based on an international exhibition of Greek antiquities. Museum hours are Tuesday thru Thursday from 10 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 1 - 5 p.m. Admission is free.

Tickets for the Annual Chuck Wagon Barbeque are $7.50 for ages 7 and up. They may be purchased at the Heritage Museum, Chamber of Commerce, the Accent Shop, Coahoma State Bank and Little Sooper Food Market.

 Honoring the Greatest State in the Union
 2 Troy ounces
 Pure Silver or Pure Silver with 24K Gold Plate

A Unique Historic Event
 This sesquicentennial nickel was commissioned by the National Mint of Texas as a unique commemorative/collector's item honoring the 150th anniversary of the State of Texas. It is not intended to be designated or circulated as currency.

Authentic Design
 What could be more appropriate for a commemorative than one made in the replica of the beautiful, authentic, and ruggedness of the old Indian Head/Buffalo Tail Nickel. Each commemorative is uncirculated. We therefore recommend storage in its protective sleeve to protect against mishandling.

.999 Pure Silver
 Each commemorative is stamped from .999 pure silver and will be accompanied by a beautiful certificate of authenticity to that effect from The National Mint of Texas.

Limited Edition
 Not more than 25,000 of each commemorative (silver or silver with 24 karat gold plate) will be minted, and sold nationwide. Thereafter, the dies will be destroyed, thus assuring permanent rarity.

Serial Numbers
 Each commemorative's certificate of authenticity will be serialized beginning with S/N 00001 and ending with S/N 25000. We are offering these commemoratives in Dallas/Ft. Worth and Big Spring areas first, so, for a lower serial number please order promptly.

Anniversary

The Dwight McCanns

In recognition of the 40th wedding anniversary of Dwight and Gertrude McCann, their children are hosting an open house reception at East Fourth Baptist Church today from 2-4 p.m.

McCann was born in Cisco on July 14, 1920. Mrs. McCann, the former Gertrude McNew, was born in Big Spring on October 24, 1923.

After meeting on a blind date in 1939, arranged by a friend of Mrs. McCann's, they exchanged wedding vows on May 4, 1946. The ceremony was held in the home of Bonnie Bennett, sister of Mrs. McCann, with Reverend W.E. Best, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, officiating.

The couple has a son Coy Joe, 604 Drake and two grandchildren. During their marriage, they've lived in Big Spring.

McCann served in the United States Air Force, worked for Texas and Pacific Railroad and was an employee of Cosden Oil for 33 years. He retired in February 1982. Mrs. McCann worked in abstracting for Howard County Abstract Company and was a secretary and bookkeeper for Bon El Agency. She retired in November 1983.

The couple enjoys sports, reading, going out to their farm, traveling to historical places, keeping their two grandchildren and doing things to help others. They are members of the East Fourth Baptist Church and are active members in community organizations.

When asked about their marriage, Mrs. McCann said, "Like a lot of other couples, there has been ups and downs, but we both feel our marriage has been great — only because we've had a good Christian home and tried to live by the Ten Commandments. Only by giving and taking can we be assured of the togetherness that we've shared through the years will continue. Our love grows each year as the flowers in the garden keep blooming."

Q.: Every once in a while I see or hear of "no money down" deals for real estate. I realize the first drawback is larger mortgage payments, but it still seems being able to buy a home "with nothing down" is more fiction than truth.
A.: There is some truth to the claim. It is possible to buy a home with nothing down. However, the less money you have for a down payment, the harder it is to buy real estate. Conventional lending institutions will seldom, if ever, agree to finance which means you will probably have to come up with your own financing. Another catch to be wary of is the possibility that although you may need no money down at closing, there may be a very large balloon payment somewhere down the line. Your best bet: Plan to put something down.

Kindergarteners compete in poster contest

Students from Ackerly's Sands Kindergarten School took first, second and third place awards in Malone-Hogan Hospital's annual Kindergarten Days poster contest last week.

Winning first place was Jerrod Beall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Paul Beall, of Knott. Ginger Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Lewis, of Ackerly won second. Third place was awarded to Kara Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Hughes, of Knott. The winners received their posted framed and cash prizes of $50, $30 and $20.

Honorable mentions for their posters went to Johnathan Barr, Riley Hipp, Charlie Harman, Denise Guinn and Amy Clark, all of Coahoma; Jacob Leos and Joshua Ontiveras, of Lakeview; and Jacob Calvio, Marla Reed, and Hollie Zant, of Sands.

The contest is held in conjunction with the hospital's three-day activities to teach preschoolers what to expect if they must stay in the hospital. "The poster contest helps prepare the kindergartener student for the learning experience and provides an opportunity for participating schools to win cash prizes," said Emily Ward, public relations officer of Malone-Hogan Hospital. "This year 751 children attended from 13 local schools."

Sponsoring the Kindergarten Days are the Malone-Hogan volunteers, Dorothy Blackwell, director and Myri Soles, president.

Participating schools were Marcy, Coahoma, Lakeview, St. Mary's Episcopal, Elbow, Kentwood, Sands, Jack and Jill, Grady, Westside, Golden Rule Day Care and Hillcrest Baptist.

Lifestyle guidelines

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this. The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcement. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the bride-elect is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 77726. Call us at (936) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

WEDDINGS
If a wedding writup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

Dr. Donohue

Body weight not a factor with bike

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My wife and I use a stationary bike for our exercise. I am considerably heavier than she is. My contention is that I spend more calories for an equal amount of pedaling than she does because I weigh more. I think I read this in your column. I'd like you to confirm it. — V.H.

I didn't say it. You won't find a dime's worth of difference in calorie expenditure.

You probably read that about exercises like jogging or walking, but not about stationary bike-pedaling. heavier people burn more calories when they are doing exercises that force them to bear their weight. In jogging, with each step the legs take they are lifting more weight than are those of a thin person. But that calorie bonus is eliminated when you are not performing weight-bearing chores. In stationary bike use, the bike bears the weight, not you.

So, for you to lose the amount of calories your wife is losing you have to pedal as long as she does.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am starting an exercise program five days a week, 30 minutes a day. About how long before I start seeing results? I am a female and have cellulite on my thighs. Will exercise get rid of cellulite? — K.M.

It's possible to demonstrate improvements from only one week of aerobic training. Demonstrable results represent the appealing aspect of such exercise.

But please, don't expect the first week or even the first month to produce a totally new you. If you have huffed and puffed climbing stairs in the past, one of the first effects of your aerobics should be a noticeable easing of that problem. Within a few months of strict adherence to your program you will feel quite different. You will be, as the advertisements say, a new, improved you.

I can't be quite as sanguine about cellulite. That's a cosmetic buzz word referring to the lumpy kind of fat tissue that often forms in the thigh areas. Yet, it is really fat, all the same, and you should lose fat in the thighs along with loss in other parts of the body. I cannot guarantee it will change the skin texture from the cellulite accumulation, though.

Along with the exercise, you should be adding a bit of dietary calorie restriction. That will hasten the day when you start losing fat in the places you want to lose it.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Who should get a stress exercise test before going into an exercise program? — P.T.

The American College of Sports Medicine is my guide in this. It recommends that anyone over 35 get such a test, as well as anyone at any age who has any of the cardiac risk factors, like cigarette smoking or a background of heart irregularity.

There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Ties that bind father and son stretch across time and sea

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to thank you for helping me find my husband's father. Last June, you published an address in Germany where people could write for information on German soldiers who had served in World War II. (A reader wanted to return some personal things that were taken from a dead German soldier.) I had tried several times before to find information on my husband's father, but nothing came of it.

My husband, Dieter, was born in Germany in 1945 of German parents. When he was a small child, his parents were divorced. His mother then fell in love with an American soldier. They were married, and Dieter was brought to America. He is now 41 and never knew what happened to his real father.

I wrote a letter in July of 1985 to the address that appeared in your column in the Lowell (Mass.) Sun. On Oct. 13, 1985, a Sunday morning, my husband received a call from Germany. The man on the other end said, "Dieter, this is your father!" What a day for our family! I have never seen my husband so astounded.

We have corresponded with Walter, my newfound father-in-law, and he will be arriving in America next week for a two-week visit. He is 64 years old, recently retired, and absolutely thrilled to learn that he is a grandfather. He said that one of the greatest joys in his life was to have grandchildren, and to think he has had a granddaughter for almost 20 years! Our daughter is thrilled to know she has a grandfather. This event has surely changed our lives. It added something to my husband's life that he never dreamed would happen. He can hardly wait!

Our family thanks you, Abby. I have read your column all my life, but this is the first time I can say that you have had a direct influence on me. Keep up the good work. I am sure you have a positive influence on the lives of many. Sincerely,

BERNICE A. KAISER,
GROTON, MASS.

DEAR READERS: I just telephoned the Kaisers.

Her father-in-law arrived, and the entire family is still celebrating the happy reunion. It's stories such as this that makes writing my column a joy.

DEAR ABBY: You have written much about tipping in restaurants and have always come to the rescue of waiters and waitresses. Will you please help us out again?

Our restaurant is located near a popular movie theater. This is a fine dining establishment, not a fast-food restaurant, yet some people expect to be served a full-course dinner in 20 minutes or half an hour. We ask at the door if they are trying to make the show. Many are, and want to know what our fastest dinner is, and after we tell them they order something else that requires a long time to prepare.

It's maddening for us to see diners at seven or eight tables frantically waving their checks because they want to leave to make the show. Then they walk out grumbling: "Boy, we'll never go back there again; the service is terrible!"

This may not do one bit of good, but I feel better getting it off my chest. Thanks for being there, Abby. DIANNE H. IN SOUTHFIELD, MICH.

DEAR DIANNE: You're welcome. Keep the change. That's what I'm here for.

***

DEAR ABBY: I received an invitation to a baby shower. In the left-hand corner, at the bottom of the invitation, was written: "In addition to your gift, please bring a box of disposable diapers." Is this proper?

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: No, it's tacky.

Local hospitals supply information for Storkclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Storkclub information. Information needed for Storkclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address. If the baby is born outside the circulation area but has local grandparents, please include their name and address. The local grandparents serve as the area connection for the information.
