Governor recruits SSC panel

Commission hopes to lure atom smasher to state

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Gov. Mark White has appointed several members to a commission that will try and lure the proposed atom smasher to Texas, as federal officials consider whether the project is worth its multi-billion dollar price tag.

Garden City, south of Big Spring, is among the sites being considered for the smasher because of its level ground and wide-open spaces.

Meg Wilson, science coordinator of the governor's economic development staff, said White is expected to have the nine-member Texas Research Laboratory Commission in place by June 1.

He has already made several appointments to the commission, but will not release their names, she said, until the entire commission is seated.

White has been criticized for not appointing the commission earlier, since some 30 states are competing for the Super-Conducting Super-Collider Project (SSC).

"I think if the SSC is going to go ahead we really need that commission to coordinate and develop Texas' proposal," said Peter McIntyre, Texas A&M University physics professor and spokesman for the Texas Accelerator Center, which is working on a design for the project.

He said several states already have organized lobbying efforts for the project. "I don't think that is a danger to our competitive posture, but the commitment of money and people take time and in California and Arizona they've already made that commitment," he said.

But any commitment may be for naught. The Department of Energy is expected next month to give its thumbs-up or thumbs-down for the project, which could cost from $3 billion to $5 billion.

Council reviews 95 applications for city manager

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer
A five-member screening committee appointed by Mayor Cotton Mize met Thursday afternoon for the first time to discuss what type of city manager applicant could best serve the city's needs.

The committee, composed of Mize, Councilmen Russ McEwen and Harold Hall, and businessmen Tommy Welch and Jack Barber, will narrow the field of candidates to about 10. After reviewing those applicants, the committee will shave the list to just three. The three finalists will then be considered by the entire council, McEwen said this morning.

The initial meeting was to kick around ideas and share thoughts on the type of person best suited for the job, McEwen said. Also, it was an opportunity for committee members to get to know one another, he added. McEwen said the meeting lasted between 30 and 45 minutes and that no resumes were reviewed or considered.

As of this morning, the number of applications for city manager

City attorney Curtis to quit

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer
City Attorney Doyle Curtis tentatively tendered his letter of resignation this morning, effective July 19, said acting City Manager Hal Boyd.

Curtis refused to comment on his resignation when contacted this morning.

Mayor Cotton Mize said this morning he called for the resignation of Curtis and Police Chief Rick Turner, who resigned Thursday, because "it was just better for the city."

Turner had lost his effectiveness as police chief, Mize said. Mize said a number of people, including church pastors, lose their effectiveness when at one place too long. "It doesn't mean he's not a good police chief," Mize said. But it was time to make a change, he said.

The mayor said he had similar feelings about Curtis, but indicated that economic factors also came into play in that case.

Mize said he looked at about 30 Texas cities and discovered that 70 percent of them hired attorneys on retainer. The city may save a significant amount of money by eliminating Curtis' position, he said. Curtis' salary is $41,184 yearly.

Both Turner and Curtis have been offered 60 days paid leave of absence, Boyd said Thursday.

House defies Reagan plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite dire warnings from the White House, Congress appears ready to pass a budget that would cut more than $20 billion from President Reagan's military spending request.

The House on Thursday approved on a nearly party-line vote, 245-179, a $994 billion fiscal 1987 budget that slashes $35 billion from Reagan's proposed $320 billion Pentagon spending plan. It would also raise taxes $7.3 billion above the president's request.

"It's a recipe for economic disaster and a military setback that could have serious consequences," Reagan's spokesman, Larry Speakes, said after the vote.

White House deputy press secretary Edward Djerejian continued the criticism today saying, "Not only is it a recipe for disaster, but we find the House budget numbers to be totally irresponsible in the defense and foreign policy implications."

He said the House level of spending would require a 25 percent cut in security assistance programs.

"This would constitute very serious damage to our foreign policy and security interests across the world," Djerejian said.

The budget is a joint resolution of Congress that does not need presidential approval. Once differences between the House and Senate versions are compromised, it will guide Congress in passing tax and spending bills that do require the president's signature.

Democrats pushed through the spending plan despite a last-minute appeal from the president, who sent a warning letter read during debate by Minority Leader Robert H. Michel, R-Ill.

"The accomplishments of the past five years are now in jeopardy because of the defense reductions being considered in Congress," said Reagan, calling it "a radical anti-defense budget."

The consequences would range from eliminating an entire division from the Army to cutting an entire aircraft carrier battle group, constituting "nothing less than a breach of faith with our common duty to protect this nation," the let-

Gasoline sparks dip in wholesale prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices, down four months straight for the first time in more than two decades, dipped 0.6 percent in April as the benefits from depressed world oil prices rippled through the economy, the government said today.

The decline, led by an 8.4 percent drop in energy prices, came amid indications that the skid may be ending. But the news for April was good: gasoline prices off 10.4 percent; heating oil costs off 8.7 percent; natural gas prices off 5.6 percent.

So far this year, wholesale prices overall have fallen 11.1 percent, the steepest four-month fall recorded since such calculations began in 1947. Not since the period of December 1962-March 1963 have wholesale prices been off for such a long period.

Gasoline prices had fallen 21.9 percent in March. Home heating oil had been down 6 percent that month and 26.2 percent in February.

But analysts generally predict that oil and gasoline prices would begin slowly inching up in May — ending the record run of price drops as the peak travel period begins.

All the figures, contained in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index, are adjusted to remove seasonal factors that affect price behavior.

The overall April drop is equivalent to a compounded annual decline of 7.2 percent.

In other areas of the economy, there were signs of inflation.

Food prices inched up 0.1 percent.

PRINCETON, Ill. — The company making the Chicago Bears' Super Bowl championship rings says the one for WILLIAM "REFRIGERATOR" PERRY will be its biggest ever — a size 23, slightly larger than a half-dollar.
 "It's really huge. When you get up to a size 18 or 19, that's considered incredible. But this — this is really huge," Al Dahms, manager of the Josten's Inc. plant, said Thursday.
 The old record-holder at Josten's was a size 22 — but that was for Perry, too, while he was in college at Clemson, Dahms said. "I don't know if he's still growing or what."

NEW YORK — A good memory is the most important quality for a father, said Treasury Secretary JAMES A. BAKER III as he, comedian Soupy Sales and 11 other notable dads were honored as "Fathers of the Year."

"If you can remember what it was like when you were a kid, you'll be a better father," Baker said Thursday as the 13 were honored by the National Father's Day Committee for the example they set as fathers.

Baker and Sales were joined by Gov. Thomas H. Kean of New Jersey; Arthur Levitt Jr., Chairman of the American Stock Exchange; William Webster, director of the FBI; Maxwell M. Rabb, Ambassador to Italy; Lou Piniella, New York Yankees manager; Ozzie Smith of the St. Louis Cardinals; Denis Potvin of the New York Islanders; Tim and Tom Gullikson, twin tennis pros; Herbert Green, golf pro; and Rolland Smith, a CBS newscaster.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — EDWARD M. KENNEDY JR. told graduates of a college program for learning-disabled students to strive to conquer any challenge.

Kennedy, son of U.S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., told the 16 graduates of the Threshold Program at Lesley College, "There were times in my life when I felt isolated and alone and I felt that no one understood the problems that I faced. But like so many of you, it was my family who made the difference by refusing to treat me as special."

After losing a leg to cancer at age 12, Kennedy helped develop programs for the handicapped.

The Threshold Program, which includes 40 students between the ages of 18 and 26, trains students in academic, vocational and social skills.

WASHINGTON — Oscar-winning actor JOHN HOUSEMAN has been honored by the Congressional Arts Caucus for achievement and "dedication to the enrichment of America's cultural legacy."

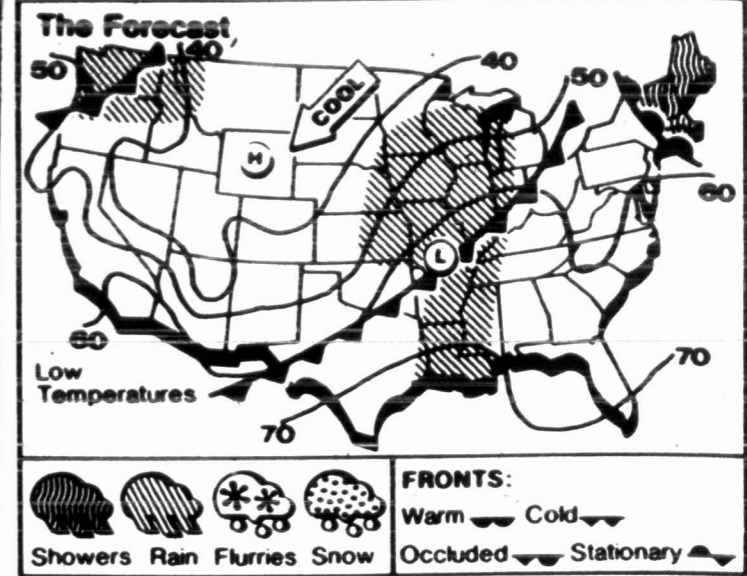

During a luncheon Thursday in the Capitol, Houseman, the 34-year-old artistic director of the Acting Company in New York was given a plaque by Rep. Thomas J. Downey, D-N.Y., chairman of the caucus of nearly 200 arts supporters in the House and Senate.
 "Your charm, eloquence and excellence are a delight to all of us," said Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla. As a senator in the 1950s, he supported New Deal legislation that created the Federal Theater Project for unemployed actors. Houseman worked with the project from its inception.

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. — EDWIN NEWMAN, NBC-TV reporter turned language critic, told lawyers at a convention that they can set an example for the nation by expressing themselves clearly and precisely.

"Your work calls for precision and exactness. If you can use language clear and well, you can set an example for others to follow," he told the 500 people gathered Thursday for the 104th meeting of the Kansas Bar Association.

"I often wonder how much national energy is spent on verbiage," Newman said. Superfluous, flowery language, he said, "gives the impression that something is being said when in reality nothing is."

Shultz pushes arms sale

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State George P. Shultz, addressing an appeal to a major Jewish lobbying group, says Congress should support President Reagan "in the clutch" and vote for a $354 million arms sale to Saudi Arabia.

In the administration's most direct public statement to Jewish leaders since Congress passed resolutions against the sale, Shultz told several hundred members of the American Jewish Committee Thursday night that the world needs support on the issue to show the world there is solidarity in America.

NASA plans changes

WASHINGTON — NASA intends to make costly changes in the space shuttle's main engines, steering system and brakes as well as redesign the faulty booster rocket before permitting the orbiter to fly again next summer, agency officials say.

But the changes are not likely to include installation of a system that would permit crew members to escape emergencies such as the one that blew up the Challenger last Jan. 28.

Arnold Aldrich, a senior space shuttle official with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told reporters at a congressional hearing Thursday that while NASA engineers are studying designs for such a system.

Climbers rescued

PORTLAND, Ore. — Days of frantic searching on the treacherous slopes of Mount Hood ended with the discovery of eight people in a snow cave, and rescuers were elated to learn that two had survived the mountain's worst disaster.

The eight — two adults and six teen-agers — were found Thursday just five feet from where one of three bodies was recovered Wednesday. Six were later declared dead.

One adult and one teen-ager among the 13 ambushed Monday by a blizzard while on a school outing walked to safety.

The eight climbers were found under 4 to 5 feet of snow about 8,300 feet up the 11,235-foot mountain, said Clackamas County Sheriff's Lt. Gene Hanners.

Pentagon claim rejected

WASHINGTON — Congress overwhelmingly voted to reduce the retirement pay of future recruits, rejecting Pentagon claims that reducing pensions will hurt the nation's ability to attract and keep people in the military.

The Senate gave 92-1 approval Thursday to its version of a retirement bill, three weeks after the House voted 399-7 approval of a slightly different package of changes. The lone opposition vote Thursday was cast by Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., who did not explain his reasons.

Funnel cloud

Five states struck by wave of tornadoes

By The Associated Press

Paramedics, police and firefighters scoured through wrecked communities in Missouri today, one of five states hit by tornadoes and high winds that killed one man, destroyed an apartment building and hammered barns and homes, leaving dozens homeless, authorities said.

The twisters Thursday night downed power and phone lines in towns in Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Michigan and Ohio.

In Missouri, the twisters brought widespread damage to six counties.

Scott County Sheriff Bill Ferrell said the most extensive damage appeared to be in a mobile home park and business area in the southern and eastern sections of Sikeston, and in Vanduser, a town of 320 people about 10 miles to the northwest.

The east side of Vanduser was "just about wiped out," Ferrell said, and an elderly man there was killed. The victim's name was being withheld pending notification of relatives.

Ferrell said more than 100 homes and many businesses appeared to have been damaged and about 30 people in Vanduser suffered cuts and bruises. At least two required hospitalization, he said.

The tornado caused extensive damage and numerous injuries in Sikeston, a city of 17,000, authorities said.

Hospital officials in Sikeston were asking hospitals in Cape Girardeau to send blood, said Martha Vandivort, an emergency preparedness official. Authorities in Cape Girardeau reported that many roads in the town were under water because of flooding caused by the storms.

Twisters also caused damage in Miner, a small town just east of Sikeston, and in Coldwater, about 35 miles to the northwest in Wayne County.

In Evansville, Ind., 26 residents of the Shamrock Apartments were taken to an emergency shelter after a twister smashed into their building.

"I was trying to look for the funnel cloud coming, and then it just hit the building and that was the end," said resident Dora Simpson.

Michael Roe, 22, who saw the tornado as it struck, said, "It started moving in just like in 'The Wizard of Oz.'"

As violent thunderstorms hammered southwest Indiana, amateur radio operators and state police reported several tornadoes in and around Evansville, and a couple of twisters in Washington in Daviess County nearly 40 miles to the north, said Craig Carpenter of the National Weather Service.

Three adults and a 12-month child suffered minor injuries when a tornado ripped through Point Township in Posey County, destroying several mobile homes, said county jailer Gene Pate. The injured were taken to an Evansville hospital.

Another tornado touched down in the Posey County community of St. Phillips, causing an estimated $3.5 million in property damage, Pate said.

The storm also tore the roof off one home and blew down several trees in Blairsville, Pate said.

Israel denies raid plan

TEL AVIV, Israel — Top government officials say Israel has no intention of attacking Syria, and that it views Syria's construction of new tank and gun emplacements in eastern Lebanon as an unnecessary defense.

Prime Minister Shimon Peres told reporters at a Labor Party convention Thursday that Israel was doing its best to lessen the tension with Syria.

"We have no intention of attacking Syria and Syria has no chance of defeating Israel," he said.

Mixed drinks debut

PEKING — Patrons more accustomed to Chinese beer, wine and spirits are warily bellying up to what's being billed as the first cocktail lounge for Chinese.

Sixty-year-old bouncers watch for rowdies and Jin the bartender mixes Western-style drinks at the newly opened Modern Times Restaurant, an intimate little watering hole some Chinese visitors find puzzling at first.

Most Chinese restaurants serve beer and a choice of Chinese wines and spirits, but Western-style cocktails are all but unknown.

The menu offers 16 cocktails, including Vodka Bronx, Manhattan, Old Fashion, Rapture, Saucy Sue, Whip, Honolulu and Cuba Libre. Jin also is working on perfecting his piece de resistance — the Rainbow-1.

Botha pledges reforms

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — President P.W. Botha says his government is determined to move ahead with reforms, and that it will use the "full might of the state" against those who resort to violence for political reasons.

In a nationally televised speech Thursday, Botha said reforms would be negotiated through Parliament and could be put before voters "in the case of drastic deviation from already accepted policies."

Religious revival seen

PEKING — Buddhist monks and nuns took vows in record numbers this month at a 1,500-year-old temple in Nanking, the official news agency said today. It was the largest such ceremony in 37 years of communist rule.

In an elaborate ritual, 518 monks and nuns from throughout China, Hong Kong and Singapore had their heads shaven in a tonsure ceremony intended to show their devotion to Buddhism.

The Xinhua news agency said the ceremony took place May 3-15 at Qixia Temple, which also runs a Buddhist college.

The government is permitting a limited revival of Buddhism, Islam and Christianity, following the 1966-76 Cultural Revolution when all worship was banned.

Mize should give an explanation

It's high time the new mayor of Big Spring came forth with an explanation of the calls for high-level resignations on Wednesday.

You can't just clean house without telling people why. Yet from Monday to Thursday, that's what the City Council — including a newly elected mayor and council member — did.

As early as Tuesday afternoon we were entertaining calls from readers that Police Chief Rick Turner and City Attorney Doyle Curtis would be forced to resign.

This followed a lengthy closed door meeting Monday, a meeting attended by city hall reporter Hank Murphy, but from which he was excluded. The public, press and acting City Manager Hal Boyd were outside the closed doors of the executive session while councilmen discussed the city's top administrators and decided to oust two.

Tuesday we checked with Boyd to see if there was truth in the rumor. He said "no." He wasn't privy to the council's "consensus" on forcing Turner and Curtis out.

Tuesday night's council meeting came and went, with the issue of the resignations ignored.

Councilmen answered questions about the resignation rumor with a "no comment" — a good indication that it might have a kernel of truth, but certainly nothing to build a story around. We don't report rumor, just news.

Wednesday the ax fell. Still no word from City Council.

Thursday, a press conference. And finally some remarks from council, particularly Gary Don Carey, Russ McEwen and D.W. Overman.

But Mayor Cotton Mize is nowhere to be found. We think Harold Hall, Henry Sanchez and Johnny Rutherford owe the city an explanation for these momentous events. But we particularly think our new mayor should take a leadership role, not ignore messages from the press and step around the issue.

Steve Chapman

Free expression is bone of contention

The First Amendment's guarantees of free speech and free press rest on the belief that bad ideas, like good ideas, must be free to contend for the allegiance of the people. It is not the task of the government to decide which is which, much less to suppress the former and encourage the latter. If dangerous doctrines are preached, said Thomas Jefferson, they should be tolerated "as monuments of the safety with which error of opinion may be tolerated where reason is left free to combat it."

That is the only approach befitting a free people. But even in this country, it is constantly at war with those who regard offensive ideas as the moral equivalent of disease, from which Americans must be protected. That idea is at the heart of a dispute now before the Supreme Court.

Federal law requires agents of foreign governments to provide the attorney general with copies of any "political propaganda" disseminated by those governments. In distributing it, they must attach a statement identifying the sponsoring government and indicating that its registration with the Justice Department "does not indicate approval of the contents of this material by the United States government."

In 1982, the Justice Department identified as "political propaganda" three films submitted by the National Film Board of Canada, two dealing with acid rain and one with nuclear war. Barry Keene, a California lawyer, then sued, arguing that the government had officially "denigrated" the films and thus unconstitutionally discouraged him from showing them.

A district court ruled in Keene's favor, agreeing that the term "political propaganda" was "designed to express the suspicion with which Congress regarded the material" and thus to "place a whole category of materials beyond the pale of legitimate discourse."

It isn't clear that the Supreme Court will agree. The case hinges on the tedious question of whether the term "propaganda" is pejorative. In everyday usage, it is.

But as defined in this law, which follows some dictionary definitions, it is a synonym for advocacy.

And the required statement, which is inserted at the beginning of films, avoids the term entirely, in favor of more neutral language. The typical viewer would never know that the Justice Department has classified the film as propaganda. The Court may decide that the term has no necessary negative connotations, or that its use doesn't deter exhibition or both.

The law's defect, however, goes deeper than this particular term. What should be at issue here is not whether the government may affix a disparaging label to imported books or films, but whether it may require identification before they may be distributed to Americans.

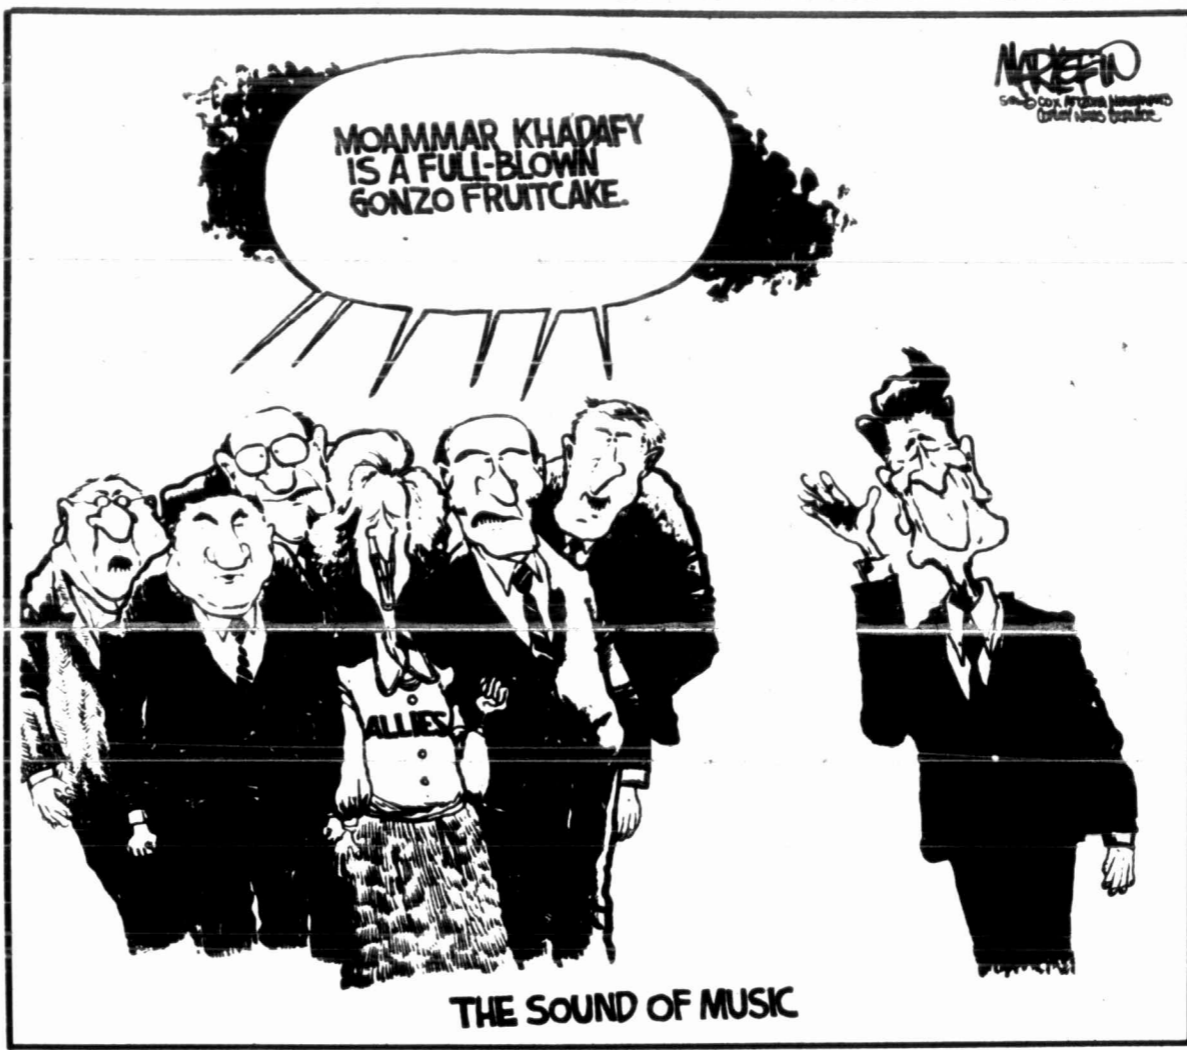

The point of the identification, after all, is to put the audience on its guard, by suggesting that there is something dangerous about the material. This is merely an oblique way of doing what the Court has said the government may not do: "prescribe what shall be orthodox in politics, nationalism, religion or other matters of opinion."

It's hard to imagine that the Court would uphold a law requiring, with no clear and legitimate purpose, that domestic books or films dealing with political topics carry a label providing information about their source. The only likely purpose of such a law would be to inhibit free expression.

Political propaganda, by whatever name, is in the eye of the beholder. What looks impartial and non-political to one citizen may look just the opposite to another. The law invites abuse. No administration can be trusted to classify material even-handedly, unswayed by its own political views.

The government has a right to decide who may enter this country. But it should have no right to shut out material advocating disfavored ideas, or to erect barriers to their dissemination once those materials are admitted. This law presumes that Americans can't be trusted to hear and consider imported ideas.

Death of Khomeini's foe may be birth of a mutiny

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — Will Tuesday mark the beginning of the end for the Ayatollah Khomeini's Moslem fundamentalist regime? State Department intelligence analysts believe there's at least a chance that widespread riots throughout Iran could shake the foundation of Khomeini's power and eventually lead to his fall.

What's so special about the day is that it is just a few days after the agonizing death from cancer of Khomeini's revered rival, the 85-year-old Grand Ayatollah Shariatmadari. Shiite Moslem tradition dictates that 40 days after a loved one dies, the death be commemorated with suitable displays of grief.

In Shariatmadari's case, there is a special reason for honoring him: Khomeini not only ensured his rival's death by refusing to let him seek cancer treatment abroad, but would not grant permission for a funeral of proper dignity. The day would be a suitable occasion for Shariatmadari's thousands of followers to express their outrage about both the death and the dishonor perpetrated by Khomeini.

Whether the dead ayatollah's followers can pull off the demonstrations they are planning is, of course, a question U.S. experts can't answer. When Shariatmadari died on April 3, thousands of Moslem clergymen and other Iranians swarmed into the streets of the holy city of Qom and elsewhere.

Khomeini responded to this "mutiny" by the supposed backbone of his Islamic revolution with the same ferocity he has shown toward less exalted opposition groups. Police arrested the mullahs by the dozen, and it is believed that as many as 600 clerics are now behind bars in various Iranian cities.

It's not clear whether these arrests deprived Khomeini's opponents of potential leaders to rally around, as he obviously hoped, or will, on the contrary, add the incitement of martyrdom to the widespread public outrage over Shariatmadari.

The day after the old ayatollah died, another group — potentially as dangerous as the clergy — demonstrated their grief and anger. Roughly half the bazaars in Tehran shut down in protest.

A combined opposition of mullahs and merchants could be a powerful engine of destruction — as Khomeini has every reason to know. It was precisely this alliance that brought down the shah and opened the way for Khomeini to seize power.

Another crucial question for Foggy Bottom's Iron-watchers is whether Shariatmadari, beloved as he apparently was, can become the kind of martyr who will galvanize both the fanatic Shiites and other discontented elements of the Iranian populace.

State Department sources told our associate Lucretia Lagnado it has never been all that clear that Khomeini had a firm grip on the clergy's loyalty. Many of them, like Shariatmadari, believe that exercise of temporal power by a holy man violates Moslem teachings.

But like others in Iran — the Bahais and "Westernized" women — the clerics were afraid to make public their misgivings about Khomeini's fundamentalist revolution, even though they considered Khomeini himself a flaming hypocrite, using religion to serve his own worldly ambitions.

When he was alive, Shariatmadari courageously spoke out against Khomeini — only to be implicated by the regime in a coup attempt and forced to make a humiliating apology on television. It may well be expecting too much for a dead hero to succeed where he failed in life. But stranger things have happened in the land of "The Thousand and One Nights."

Gorbachev style splits Kremlin-watchers

By BRYAN BRUMLEY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Mikhail Gorbachev's unusual television report to the Soviet people reinforced his image as a new style leader but can't rekindle the glow lost in his 18 days of silence after the nuclear meltdown at Chernobyl.

The reaction by Gorbachev and his team "destroyed all the illusions of those people who hoped they were genuinely open; they were open until the crunch came," said Donald Shanor, a Soviet specialist at Columbia University.

Other experts disagree on whether Gorbachev's reaction to the crisis confirmed everything they always feared about the Soviet Union but hoped wasn't true.

Certainly it was unprecedented for a Soviet leader to go on television, give the accident's toll, discuss its cause, extend condolences to its victims and call for reforms on the way future accidents are reported.

The most troubling aspect of the way Soviet leaders handled the crisis, in the view of many Western observers, was their apparent disregard for the health of residents near the reactor and in neighboring areas and countries.

The disaster, in the eyes of many Kremlin-watchers, has helped confirm American stereotypes of the Soviet system:

- Low-level bureaucrats are fearful of informing their superiors about trouble;
- Soviet leaders are prone to blame problems on the West;
- The Soviet press is slow and incomplete in reporting bad news;
- Russians are secretive dealing among themselves and with foreigners;
- And the Soviet system is not advanced enough to be trusted with advanced technology, such as nuclear reactors.

Gorbachev swept into office 13 months ago as a fresh force. He launched a campaign to revitalize the country through draconian measures against corruption and drunkenness and coupled the effort with calls for greater candor.

Jerry Hough, a Duke University specialist in Soviet politics, saw the increasing flow of official information about Chernobyl and Gorbachev's television appearance as proof of a new style in the Kremlin.

"Soviet general secretaries do not appear before the people with reports on disasters or reports about anything," said Hough.

Marshall Goldman, a Harvard University specialist on the Soviet economy, said Soviet stonewalling in the first days after the accident may stop Gorbachev's campaign dead in its tracks.

In the short run, oil prices are down, denying the Kremlin the hard currency it needs to buy technology and feed grain from the West. He said that in the long run, Gorbachev was building up his credibility and his openness among the people.

"I can't see how he can survive without massive damage now," said Goldman. Dmitri Simes, a Soviet emigre who teaches at Johns Hopkins in Washington, said that "nothing Gorbachev said was inconsistent with our initial conclusions," that the Kremlin kept the accident secret from its neighbors until Sweden detected high radiation levels, and from its own citizens until evacuation plans were ready.

In his speech, Gorbachev tried "to shift the focus of debate from the disaster itself to allegedly exaggerated Western reports," said Simes.

Moreover, Simes said that by using the speech to renew calls for a freeze in nuclear testing and for a meeting with President

Gymnastics meet

To the editor:

The Big Spring YMCA Gymnastics Team Parents Association and Sidewinders Gymnastic Team are to be commended for the super job they did in hosting the Texas State Gymnastic Meet, Saturday, May 10th at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Chairperson of the event, Linda Fraser, and her crew worked tirelessly to see that each detail was perfect. Howard College and its staff helped to make the setting for the competition one of the finest anywhere. Over 20 parents spent hours Thursday and Sunday afternoon moving equipment from and to the YMCA.

The good turnout by local fans helped coaches Russ McEwen, Ken Werner, Gwen Nichols, and Karen Gillespie inspire their teams to success as they came away with age group championships.

The over 200 contestants agreed they would like to return to Big Spring again.

Thanks to each person who made the event a success and put Big Spring first in the gymnastics community.

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, May 16, the 136th day of 1986. There are 229 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On May 16, 1929, the first Academy Awards were given out. The movie "Wings" won Best Picture. Emil Jannings was named Best Actor and Janet Gaynor Best Actress.

On this date:
In 1763, the English lexicographer, author and wit Samuel Johnson first met his future biographer, James Boswell.

In 1770, Marie Antoinette married King Louis XVI of France.

In 1866, Congress authorized minting of the nickel.

In 1868, the Senate failed by one vote to convict President Andrew Johnson as it took its first ballot on one of 11 articles of impeachment against him.

In 1920, Joan of Arc was canonized in Rome.

In 1960, a Big Four summit conference in Paris collapsed on its opening day as the Soviets leveled spy charges against the United States in the wake of the U-2 incident.

In 1976, Japanese climber Junko Tabei became the first woman to reach the summit of Mount Everest.

Ten years ago: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told NBC interviewer Barbara Walters he preferred to leave his post, even if President Gerald Ford won the November election.

Reagan in Europe or Japan — rather than in America as agreed at the Geneva summit last November — Gorbachev tried to "turn the accident into a political extravaganza."

Those who argue that Chernobyl shows that the Soviet Union is little changed under Gorbachev note that authorities waited until Monday night, two days after the accident, to disclose the accident, and that disclosure came only after Sweden complained of nuclear fallout from the Ukraine.

They note that at a May 6 news conference, at which Soviet officials discussed the event, authorities refused to accept questions from Western reporters and that Soviet television censored mentions of the health dangers from radiation.

Ten days after the accident, the Communist Party disciplined three local officials for allegedly being remiss in maintaining the reactor and in reporting full details of the accident to Moscow.

However, note Goldman and Simes, a commission headed by Deputy Vice Premier Boris Shcherbina visited the reactor site Saturday, the day the accident happened, and apparently ordered the evacuation of 50,000 people — 36 hours after the accident. An additional 44,000 people were later evacuated, but it was not clear how much radiation they absorbed.

The confusion of the first few days, said Goldman, "kind of illustrates what we have known about the system for a long time."

Not so, said Hough: Kremlin handling of the incident "clearly indicates that Gorbachev's enunciated policy of greater openness of information, relaxation of censorship over sensitive questions, is for real."

A malignant tumor was discovered on Brodie's ribs March 11, said his father. He underwent surgery and is now undergoing chemotherapy, his father said. After this period of chemotherapy, and a short interim, he will begin daily radiation treatments, he said.

In the meantime, his father said, Brodie is attending school in Mt. Pleasant.

Fine said Brodie's schoolmates there have collected more than $3,000 to help with expenses.

Events to be held on all three days include an arts and crafts show, flea market, Comanche trail muzzle loaders exhibition, stick horse race, boot scramble, dunking booth, nail driving booth, cow chip toss and horse shoe pitch.

An outdoor cookoff will take place Sunday, with entry fees due by 5 p.m. May 24. The three divisions and entry fees are: brisket, $10; goat, $10; and beans, $5. Entry forms and additional information is available by calling Jean Beck at 263-8827 or Kenneth Williams at 263-6458.

Conservation plaque awarded

Ray Echols of Coahoma was awarded a plaque for the 1986 Outstanding Conservation Cooperator at the Howard Soil and Water Conservation District's annual awards banquet April 28.

Bruce Griffith was the guest speaker, and Dr. Kenneth Patrick gave the invocation.

Echols rootplowed and reseeded his land north of Coahoma, and managed his grass in such a way as to protect it from overgrazing and drought, according to a news release.

The winners of the 1986 Poster Conservation Contest were also announced. They are Chandra Harrell of Kentwood Elementary School; Shana Foster of Moss Elementary; Azure Miller of Bauer Magnet School; Alma Cervantes of College Heights Elementary; Jeff Nichols of Coahoma Elementary; and Kelley Elliott of Marcy Elementary.

Female impersonator sought in murder case

COLDSPRING (AP) — A Houston female impersonator is being sought after a grand jury indicted him in the April murder of his roommate, a 20-year-old Lafayette, La., woman.

Authorities said Clifford Youens, 32, was indicted Wednesday by a San Jacinto County grand jury in the death of Patrice LeBlanc, who had lived in his condominium after moving to Houston last summer.

Ms. LeBlanc's body — wrapped in a comforter sewn at the ends and anchored to a pair of cinder blocks — was found floating in Lake Livingston on March 23. She had been stabbed and slashed at least 39 times.

"From quite a few interviews with people in the gay community, I figure it was probably a situation where Patrice saw the relationship on more of a roommate level," District Attorney Joe Price said. "But, as time passed, he felt more strongly about her than she did about him."

Youens, 32, who used the stage name Brandi West as a master of ceremonies and comedian at gay nightclubs, has been missing since April 4 — the day the body was identified, authorities said.

Interviewed April 2, Youens told police that Ms. LeBlanc disappeared a few days after the two returned from a mid-March weekend trip to his parents' retreat near Lake Livingston.

Fund set up for medical cost

A fund to help with medical expenses for the family of cancer patient Brodie Bruner, 11, has been set up at the Guaranty and Interfirst banks in Mount Pleasant.

The patient, son of Mike and Betty Bruner, is a former Big Spring resident.

Locally, donations are being accepted by the Rev. Gary Fine, pastor of the Big Spring First Baptist Church. Fine said checks, payable to the Brodie Bruner Fund, may be sent to him at the church at 705 W. Marcy Drive, Big Spring, 79720.

Hospital's new owners forecast few changes

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

No drastic changes in personnel or services are planned for Malone-Hogan Hospital, said executives of National Health Care Inc., the hospital's new owner.

The corporation, based in Dothan, Ala., announced Wednesday it had signed a letter of intent to acquire Malone-Hogan and five other hospitals in four states from Hospital Corporation of America.

The transaction also includes seven medical office buildings and one home health agency and is worth $41 million, plus working capital, according to a news release.

"There are not going to be any drastic changes," said Steve L. Phelps, chairman of the board for National Health Care.

All Malone-Hogan administrators were out of town this morning and unavailable for comment.

Doyle Lamb, administrator of Malone-Hogan Clinic, which operates in an adjoining building, said the change in ownership would have no effect on the clinic because it is a separate entity.

Phelps said the transaction between Hospital Corporation of America and National Health Care was the result of "a close relationship."

He said HCA was committed to purchasing and owning hospitals that were part of a "cluster" rather than a remote rural facility such as Malone-Hogan, while NHC is primarily interested in rural hospitals.

Negotiations for the purchase took about 30 days, Phelps said.

Two executive officers traveled to Big Spring during that period and "scouted the community" without identifying themselves, said Phelps.

Their intention was to determine if Malone-Hogan served a viable market, he said.

Chief finance officer Joe Bohr was one of those who gathered information.

"We were quite pleased with Big Spring," Bohr said. "We thought it was a good place to put our money."

A selling point, he said, was Big Spring's national retail groups, such as Kentucky Fried Chicken and McDonald's.

"We found a good industry mix and good diversification in Big Spring," Bohr said.

He considers Malone-Hogan to be the "prized apple of the bunch" among National Health Care's new acquisitions.

The hospital will be heavily marketed to the local community, Bohr said. He, too, forecast no major changes for the hospital.

Envoy warns aid-receiving nations on votes in U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. ambassador to the United Nations said Thursday he is warning countries getting American aid that they can expect less money if they vote against the United States in the General Assembly.

Vernon Walters, appearing before the Senate Appropriations' foreign operations subcommittee, was reacting to a report, made public earlier in the day, which showed that most countries which receive assistance from the United States vote regularly against this country, providing fresh testimony to the few dividends wrought by foreign aid dollars.

Walters, noting the annual State Department report to Congress on U.N. voting trends, said a number of countries have presumed it is safe to denounce the United States in public so long as they apologize in private.

"I refuse to accept that," Walters testified. But the ambassador conceded that it was a mark of a democracy that a range of opinion was tolerated.

"We have variations from Israel's 91.5 (percent voting record) down to Greece's less than 50 percent support for us on our side, but if you look at the voting practices of the Warsaw Pact countries, there is no deviation," Walters said. "I guess that's fundamentally the difference between a democratic alliance and a totalitarian alliance."

"This year foreign assistance is going to be very difficult to get through Congress," Sen. Robert Kasten, R-Wis., told Walters. "As the chairman of this committee I intend to factor in this particular report when we make decisions on the foreign assistance program overall."

Kasten singled out Egypt, which is receiving about $2 billion in U.S. aid this year, as opposing the United States 85 percent of the time. "The Philippines gave us just 22 percent of their votes," he added.

This came on the same day that State Department officials appeared before another congressional panel seeking to win support for a Reagan administration proposal to send an additional $150 million to Corazon Aquino's government in the Philippines.

"For too long there has been no real direct relationship" between U.S. aid and support for the United States' position in the United Nations, Walters said.

White says National Guard troops can counter narcotics smuggling

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas National Guard troops could patrol for drug smugglers along the Mexican border if the federal government would supply needed money and equipment, Gov. Mark White said Thursday.

"Our borders are almost totally defenseless," White said. "We have to do something about it. I think that's becoming more dramatically apparent."

On Wednesday, the commander of the Texas National Guard told a congressional committee in Washington that the state is prepared to commit 24,000 troops to the border if asked to do so.

"It's a good way to use the National Guard," said Maj. Gen. James T. Dennis, adding that 20,000 Army and 4,000 Air Force guardsmen would be available.

White said guardsmen would be assigned to conduct radar surveillance along the border to spot smugglers' airplanes as they fly across with contraband cargos. Guard officials said such operations could include use of mobile radar tracking stations as well as tracker aircraft.

"Primarily, the mission would be the use of radar equipment to detect incoming flights," White said.

Actual arrests would be made by regular law enforcement agencies, White said, and it doesn't appear that guardsmen would be needed to check people and vehicles crossing on the ground.

"Right now, they (smugglers) don't stop there, they fly over it," White said. "This would be... an effort to put some effective, technical barrier between what is now an absolutely unguarded border."

At present, however, the Texas National Guard lacks the equipment that would be required for such interdiction operations, White said.

"The federal government certainly needs to be an active leader and participant in this. We do not have the equipment today to do the surveillance work that's necessary," he said.

Dear Abby

Hurry up or slow down is good advice for oldsters

DEAR ABBY: You missed the mark in your response to "The Mrs. in Orlando," whose husband wouldn't slow down. I've spent 34 years running after a husband who is in a hurry to get to the car, get up from the table, rush to the check-out counter, etc., and I'm tired of it.

Most of the time he has to wait until I get there anyway to leave or set out for wherever we're going. He simply doesn't see his actions as being inconsiderate.

That poem, "Slow Me Down, Lord," was beautiful, but it was too long. A man in a hurry would never get past the second line.

TAGALONG

DEAR TAGALONG: Sorry. I received a lot of positive feedback on that poem. A "rebuttal" from a retired woman in Anaheim:

DEAR ABBY: Not all retirees continue the frantic pace of "The Mrs. in Orlando." Some seniors have the opposite problem; we have trouble "getting energized." For us I paraphrased the Rev. Peterson's poem, "Slow Me Down, Lord," as follows:

Speed me up, Lord!
Start the pounding of my heart
And concentratin of my mind.
Quicken my slow pace
With a vision of my limited earthly time
Give me,
Amid the confusions of my day,
The calm of self-chosen priorities.
Break the spell of quietness—
Let not soothing music or television
Keep me from activities.
Help me know

When to wake up,
When I've had sufficient sleep.

Teach me the art
Of channeling my energy
So I get things done —
And still have time
For flowers and friends,
Pets and children, smiles and books.
Remind me each day
That there is more to life
Than "sitting around."
Let me look upward
Into the branches of the towering oak
And know that it is still producing.
Speed me up, Lord,
And inspire me to spend my strength wisely,
Remembering life's important values

That I may meet more challenges
And fulfill a greater destiny.

THREE SCORE AND FOUR IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR ABBY: You credited "Slow Me Down, Lord" to the Rev. Wilferd A. Peterson. It seems to me that it was written by the late Cardinal Richard Cushing of Boston, who died in 1970.

COULD BE MISTAKEN

DEAR COULD BE: The poem was erroneously credited to the late Cardinal Cushing by others — not by the cardinal himself — but it was in fact written by the Rev. Wilferd A. Peterson, who is well and alive at 85 in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Dr. Donohue

Why don't we feel a silent heart attack?

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: You make me nervous when you write about silent heart attacks. It's unsettling to me to think I'm walking around having these dangerous things happening to me without my being aware of them. And that speaks to my question. It is, why, sir, do we not feel these attacks in the usual way, with chest pain, etc.? Secondly, are some of us more prone to these events than others? — J.S.

I should note simply that those are darned good questions and let it go at that, but I know I'd never get away with it.

Why is it that some people may be having these heart disturbances without being aware of them occurring at the time? We just don't have all the answers here. Certainly, a good many people have very minor attacks and have symptoms sufficient to prompt a visit to the doctor. Others, we know, have them, don't feel anything out of the ordinary, and go about their business until the continuing heart muscle damage catches up with them.

Perhaps the answer lies in the fact that people have different pain thresholds. Those who are victims of "silent" heart attacks may have higher thresholds than other people. We know the reverse of this proposition is true. That is, we know, for example, that some people require greater amounts of pain-killing drugs to ease their pain than do others. We figure that those people have lower pain thresholds.

In a rather roundabout way, this answers your other question. Perhaps people with higher pain thresholds are more subject to the insidious consequences of silent heart attacks.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can a goiter be cured without an operation? My older daughter has one. She is fearful of surgery. I believe liquid iodine will help her. What do you think? — L.L.

Let's make sure we're talking about the same thing. A goiter is simply an enlarged thyroid gland.

Surgery is not the answer for all goiters, or even for most.

Now, what about this iodine business? In former days, and especially in geographic areas where iodine in the soil is not what it might be, iodine deficiency was a definite factor in goiter. The physiological scenario goes like this. Iodine is an integral part of the hormones the thyroid makes. Without iodine, the gland can't make the hormones. To compensate, the gland enlarges, hoping in that way to increase its production capacity. But it doesn't work. All it does is cause the problems with nearby structures, like the windpipe around which it lies.

Today, with the public health programs involving addition to iodine to table salt, most areas of the world are free of this kind of goiter problem. That brings us to your daughter. It's very unlikely her gland enlargement is from iodine deficiency. That's why she has to find out what else is involved. Inflammation of the gland is another cause. Certain drugs can be involved. In some, gland enlargement can be accompanied by overproduction of hormone. If so, surgery to reduce gland size is the answer.

Please have her go in to be examined. She may not need surgery. If she does, she'll find it's not the end of the world. Surgeons' skills have made this kind of operation nothing to be feared. My booklet, "Your Thyroid: How It Works for You," speaks of various problems and cures involving this much misunderstood gland. Readers may order by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.00.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When a woman's tubes are removed surgically, is her womb always taken out too? Does loss of the tubes or of the womb have anything to do with her sexual function? — A.B.

The uterus is not always removed when tubes are removed. Example: If a pregnancy occurs in a tube, the tube is removed, but the uterus left intact. These structures have to do with fertility, not sexuality.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 23-year-old female with bad acne. My dermatologist has me on a course of antibiotics (tetracycline). It has apparently caused a yeast (vagina) infection. But it's had such a good effect on my acne that I hate to stop the treatment. Is there another medicine equally effective? My doctor hasn't mentioned isotretinoin for it. I've heard it works too. — B.J.F.

Your doctor may want to switch to one of the erythromycin medicines. They might be equally effective with less chance of causing the vaginal yeast infection. Or it may be possible to use the other medicine (present one) in cream form to see if that continues your improvement. As to isotretinoin, I can understand your doctor's reluctance to prescribe it. It can produce undesired effects in the fetus should a woman chance to become pregnant while taking it.

Millions of out-of-shape men and women desire fitness, but shy away from formal programs because they think it's all too complicated and difficult. Dr. Donohue's newest booklet, "Introduction to Fitness," puts the esoteric terminology of aerobics into plain language and offers a fitness program anyone, regardless of age, can adapt.

For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.50.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Oregon Pharmacist's Wrinkle Cream Great Success

It's an exciting story of a pharmacist who developed a wrinkle cream which women all over the country are clamoring for.

Dr. Robert Heldfond, a Portland pharmacist, used knowledge from pharmacy school and years of experience, to compound EB5, a wrinkle cream he started selling in his drugstore and which is now making cosmetic history across the nation.

Women started coming to Heldfond's pharmacy when the word got around about its wonderful results in helping women look younger. The phones never stopped ringing and letters poured in praising the results with EB5 cream.

Research lab tests show that by using EB5 cream morning and night, facial lines, lines around the eyes, lines on the forehead and around the mouth are smoothed.

EB5 contains natural ingredients, including Liprogen, an exciting natural combination developed by Dr. Heldfond and other aids to help smooth aging skin. Heldfond's base for the cream absorbs quickly leaving the skin soft and velvety.

EB5 cream is actually 5 creams in one jar . . . a wrinkle cream, moisturizer, night cream, eye cream, and makeup base, all in one. One jar lasts many months.

Bucks execute game plan; still lose to Celtics 122-111

BOSTON (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks were determined to keep Kevin McHale from beating them. He'd get the ball in the low post and they'd surround him.

"They double-teamed all over the place," the 6-foot-10 McHale said. "One time I looked up and I had three guys coming after me. I just wanted to get rid of the ball and hide. I felt like Custer and the Indians were coming after me."

A 122-111 loss to the Celtics Thursday, two nights after a 128-96 rout, leaves Milwaukee in jeopardy of being bounced out of the NBA playoffs by Sunday.

"We knew when we came here we'd have our hands full," Bucks' forward Terry Cummings said after Boston's 38th consecutive homecourt triumph. They're going back to Milwaukee for the third and fourth games, Saturday and Sunday, of the best-of-seven Eastern Conference final. Despite losing all seven of its games this season with Boston, which has won 26 of its last 29 contests, Milwaukee hasn't lost hope.

"The Bucks' game plan was that they weren't going to get beat by Kevin," said Larry Bird, who paced Boston with 26 points. "It was imperative that we hit the outside shots."

"We wanted to bring the ball down low all night," said McHale, who had 20 points. "But they double-teamed us down low. If you double-team, there's usually someone open."

Often, it was the guards. Danny Ainge hit 10 of 12 field-goal attempts for 23 points and Dennis Johnson connected on 8-of-15 for 21. Center Robert Parish also had 21 as Boston tied a playoff record held by three other teams with five players scoring at least 20 points each.

The Celtics had 34 assists, giving them a total of 73 for the first two games.

McHale did manage to shake free from his defenders for two key baskets when Milwaukee threatened late in the game. With Boston leading 107-101 after squandering a 13-point advantage, McHale made a layup with 2:45 left. He was fouled and made the free throw.

Alton Lister, who had a career playoff high 22 points for Milwaukee, followed with a hook shot to close the gap to 110-103, but Ainge hit a layup and McHale again got loose for a layup that resulted in a three-point play. That boosted the lead to 115-103 with 1:47 to go. Cummings, who scored 23, got the next four points, but that eight-point deficit was the closest the Bucks would get.

Milwaukee's shooting percentage went up from 37.5 in the first game to 56.2 in the second game but its number of offensive rebounds dropped from 15 to 9.

The Bucks trailed 63-55 at halftime and never led but gave the Celtics something they've rarely seen in winning nine of their 10 playoff contests — a genuine threat. Milwaukee got the lead down to 99-95 with a 9-0 run that ended with 6:09 left in the game. But Boston got eight of the next 10 points.

It will be much tougher if neither Sidney Moncrief nor Ricky Pierce, two of Milwaukee's top four guards, can play in game three. Pierce sat out Thursday night's game with a shoulder injury. Moncrief played after missing Game 1 with an injury in the heel and arch area of his left foot, but Nelson said it was unlikely he would play Saturday.

Milwaukee Bucks Sidney Moncrief finds himself surrounded by Boston Celtics Kevin McHale (left), Robert Parish (center) and Scott Wedman during fourth quarter action last night at the Boston Garden.

Hale chasing gold

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

LENORAH — Although she is one of the top distance runners in the state, Shanna Hale has never won a gold medal at the state track meet.

Today and Saturday at the state meet in Austin, the Grady High School senior will try to get that gold medal in the Class A division. Standing in the way is Cindy Harper of Woodson, the defending state champion in the 1600 and 3200 meters.

Harper is one of the few runners who has defeated Hale in her career. The two have face each other three times in their prep careers, each time Harper has come out on top, including the two times they have met this season. But that's all in the past and the runner from Grady is looking to dethrone Harper this weekend.

It's not that Hale, who's headed to Pan American University on a track scholarship, hasn't had a banner career, because she has. She has lost only a handful of races. In fact, Harper is the only runner in Class A that has beaten Hale.

As a sophomore Hale breezed through the regular season and finished second at state to Iraan's Darla Graham in the 1600. Graham is now running for Angelo State University. Last season at the state meet Hale finished second to Harper in the 3200, quite a feat since Hale missed four weeks with a torn muscle in her ribs.

"It was a tough season last year because of the injury," she said. "I wasn't in the best of shape because I was out for so long." In fact, at the state meet Hale thought she wasn't going to make it through the race.

"I was hurting real bad at the start of the race. I was in last place until the fourth lap but coach Bedwell (Ted, Grady track coach) kept talking to me and the pain finally worked its way out. I finally moved up to second place. I was gaining but I had gotten too far behind Cindy (Harper) to make it up. I guess she beat me about 120 yards."

This year Hale has been injury-free and is ready to challenge Harper for the gold.

"The big difference this year is that I've worked on my leg strength where last year I worked on my mind. I've been running hills about three times a week."

Grady High School senior distance runner Shanna Hale will be competing in the 1600 and 3200 meter runs this weekend at the state track meet in Austin. She will be making her third consecutive trip to the meet.

Coach Bedwell thinks she has a good chance to unseat Harper in both the 1600 and 3200. "On a still day when it's not windy I think she's got a good chance. Harper is a strong runner and it benefits her. I really think that Shana has more foot speed though."

Hale is depending on her foot speed to get her to the victory circle. "I'll just try to stay close to her and outkick her on the last curve."

"Shana has a better chance than anyone to beat her," said her coach. "I'm sure the races will come down to Shana and Harper."

Despite the fact that she has never been able to defeat Harper, there are no hard feelings between the two. "We're good friends," said Hale of her relationship with the runner from Woodson. "She gives me a challenge and that's what I need. She gives me something to shoot for."

Hale, who has season bests of 5:27.95 in the 1600 and 11:54.08 in the 3200, has a good idea what it will take to win in Austin. "I'll need to run a 5:20 in the 1600 and 11:30 in the 3200. I'll have to keep my laps under 90 seconds in the 3200 and 85 in the 1600."

She credits strong support from the Lenora clan for a lot of her success. "I get great support from the community. After each meet there are people calling me to see how I've done. In fact they support all the athletes at Grady."

What will be her feeling if she isn't able to overtake Harper this time?

"I won't lose too much sleep over it because she's a good runner. It's not so bad when you get beaten by one of the best. But I'm hoping the fourth time will be the charm."

And the way she has been performing this season, that statement could very well come true for Grady's star distance runner.

Stanton in third

AUSTIN — The Stanton Buffaloes shot a 333 for third place after the first round of state AA golf play yesterday at Lions Municipal Golf Course.

Stanton's score put them behind Weimer's 324 and Dripping Springs' 332. There was good and bad news for the Buffaloes yesterday.

The bad news was that golfer Skip Hopkins' father, Eldon "Hoppy" Hopkins, had suffered a heart attack the night before while in Austin and had to be rushed to Seaton Medical Center. Hopkins suffered the heart attack at approximately 10:15 p.m. and then underwent a bypass operation at Seaton.

The good news was that Stan Young hit a hole-in-one on the 13th hole using a eight-iron. Young shot an 84 for the day. Mark Gonzales, who's in the medalist competition, also shot a 84. Kevin Glaspie led the Buffaloes with a 79. Hopkins shot a 89 and Greg Avery recorded a 86.

Reporter files charges against hurler

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Cincinnati sportswriter swore out a private criminal complaint with the district attorney's office charging Cincinnati Reds pitcher John Denny with slamming him against a wall in a hallway underneath Veterans Stadium.

The complaint, taken out by Cincinnati Post reporter Bruce Schoenfeld, 24, charged Denny with simple assault, terroristic threats and harassment, all misdemeanors, said Sheryl Stein, a spokeswoman for the district attorney.

Driver killed in crash

MARSEILLE, France (AP) — Elio de Angelis, the 28-year-old Italian Grand Prix driver involved in a spectacular crash while testing his car, died in a hospital of skull, brain and chest injuries 30 hours after the accident.

Lendl advances in Italian Open

ROME (AP) — Ivan Lendl, the world's top-ranked player, beat Italy's Paolo Cane, 6-2, 6-4 to advance, along with two other high seeded players, into the quarterfinals of the Italian Open tennis tournament.

Defending champion Yannick Noah of France, seeded No. 4, also won on the clay courts of the Foro Italico, defeating Sweden's Kent Carlsson 6-4, 6-2 in a heated match. And No. 3 seed Boris Becker of West Germany downed Mexico's Leonardo Lavalle, 6-4, 6-3, to earn a quarterfinals berth in the $435,000 tournament.

Sauers leads Colonial

FORT WORTH (AP) — Well, so much for the old practice theory.

Playing cold and flying blind, Georgian Gene Sauers slashed four shots from par over the testy Colonial Country Club golf course and took a one-stroke lead into today's second round of the $600,000 Colonial National Invitational.

Without a practice round and having never before laid eyes on the course, Sauers rode three chip-ins to a 66 Thursday on his maiden tour of the windswept Trinity River layout nicknamed "Hogan's Alley" for five-time Colonial champion Ben Hogan.

That earned him a one-shot edge over former British Open titlist Bill Rogers and a two-stroke cushion over a flock of players headed by globe-trotting Nick Price.

"I've never had three chip-ins in one round," said the smiling 23-year-old Sauers, a non-winner who could triple his total 1985 earnings with the Colonial's first-prize check of $108,000.

Hardly a household word, Sauers, in his third year on the pro circuit, saw his name appear on the leader board as "Savers."

He laughed it off. "My first time on this golf course was today," he said. "Not knowing where the trouble was, I could concentrate on hitting the fairways and greens."

Among those who discovered the infamous trouble spots was Tom Watson, who was coasting along at three under par until he self-destructed with a triple bogey at the par-4 ninth hole.

Watson drove into a trap, flew out into a pond, pitched over the green, chipped to within two feet and missed his putt. He limped home with a 75.

Defending champion Corey Pavin and a pair of former Colonial winners, Bruce Lietzke and Ben Crenshaw, matched par 70 while most of the other big names slipped back into the field.

Calvin Peete, a double winner this year, shot a 71 in his bid to seize the money-winning lead from Andy Bean, who isn't competing here.

Bean leads with $380,304 and Peete is third with $301,558.

Texan Tom Kite stripped a couple of shots from par on the front side but stumbled through the back nine in 38 to card a 72, a slot shared with Payne Stewart and a dozen others.

Lee Trevino opened with a 73, a stroke ahead of former Colonial kingpin Fuzzy Zoeller and such familiar names as Hubert Green and Hale Irwin.

But the day clearly belonged to Sauers, whose three chip-ins came from 20 feet or less and led to a round he admitted was little short of miraculous. Attributing much of the credit to his caddy, Sampson Marshall, Sauers said: "He did a good job of leading me around. He knew the golf course and I didn't."

Said Marshall: "The kid is a good listener. ... Not just anybody can play this golf course for the first time and shoot four under."

Rockets-Lakers' series moves to Summit

HOUSTON (AP) — Los Angeles Lakers Coach Pat Riley sees a simple solution to his team's confrontation with the Houston Rockets tonight in the NBA Western Conference championship series.

Houston evened the series at 1-1 on Tuesday because, Riley said, "they jumped higher, ran quicker and played harder."

Now, it's the Lakers' turn. "We won't do anything different from Tuesday's game, we'll just do it harder," Riley said.

The series resumes in The Summit, where the Rockets have lost only five times this season.

But the Lakers have won 14 of their last 15 games on Houston's home court and Houston's Akeem Olajuwon says the pressure is keen on the Rockets.

"The pressure is on us to win both of these games because we can't afford to lose at home," Olajuwon said. "We have to have these two games."

The Lakers will be looking for forward James Worthy to break out of a shooting slump that has seen him hit only 12 of 32 shots in the series.

"I've had trouble getting my shots, that's obvious," Worthy said. "I just have to face the basket more and maybe look outside for the shot too."

The Rockets surprised the defending NBA champions 112-102 Tuesday night at The Forum in Ingleswood.

The fourth game of the series will be played in Houston on Sunday. Although a split in the two games in Houston would give the home court advantage back to the Lakers, Riley isn't thinking split.

"We came here to win, period," Riley said. "I'm never going to accept anything less before we've even played."

Los Angeles also started last season's conference final against Denver with a split in the first two games at home but the Lakers went on to win three straight and then defeated Boston for the NBA title.

"That's true, but Denver didn't have Ralph (Sampson) and Akeem," Lakers guard Michael Cooper said. "We've got our work cut out for us this time."

"It will be difficult from here on in. They got their split and now it's up to us to go down to Houston and win at least one."

"We won't change anything,"

Olajuwon said. "I don't think we will worry about their shots. We'll just try to play our game."

Riley said the Lakers would study and learn from the second game.

"We'll keep trying to take it inside but we're going to have to make some adjustments in how we take it to the basket," he said.

The fifth game of the series will be played Wednesday at the Forum. The remaining two games, if necessary, would be played at Houston May 23 and at Ingleswood May 25.

Slaught hammers Rangers past Tigers, close to first

By The Associated Press
Lots of factors go into a baseball player's success. Don Slaught credits, among other things, his memory and the weather.

Slaught had a bases-loaded triple and a two-run homer Thursday night, leading the Texas Rangers to an 8-1 rout of the Detroit Tigers. His big hits came off Detroit starter Frank Tanana, a teammate of Slaught's last year in Texas. Slaught remembered what Tanana likes to do.

AL Roundup

"Frank changes speeds a lot," said Slaught, a catcher by trade who is hitting .301 this season. "Tonight, we got to him real quick. That's what you have to do."

Tanana allowed six runs, seven hits and three walks in 2 2/3 innings.

"I haven't had the consistency I'd like, but what's done is done," Tanana said. "For a control pitcher, the first pitch is often the key. I've got to get my rhythm."

Slaught snapped a 4-for-26 slump in which his average dipped 67 points. Still, he is hitting almost 20 points over his career average.

Rookie Pete Incaviglia also had a two-run homer for visiting Texas, while Mike Mason, 3-0, checked the Tigers on six hits over eight innings before Mitch Williams took over for the ninth. The Rangers moved within a half-game of first-place California in the AL West.

Royals 6, Indians 3

Frank White hit his fifth career grand slam to cap a Royals comeback. With one out in the eighth inning, the second baseman sent a 2-0 pitch from Rich Yett into the right-field bleachers.

"It was hooking foul, then all of a sudden it started to slice. I couldn't believe it," said White. "It was amazing. I was disappointed when I first hit it because it looked like it was way foul."

Indians starter Ken Schrom took a 3-1 lead into the bottom of the eighth but Jim Sundberg and Jamie Quirk hit leadoff singles. Losing reliever Scott Bailes threw away Willie Wilson's sacrifice bunt to let in a run. White was the first batter Yett faced.

Andre Thornton homered for the Indians, who have dropped six of their last seven games. Kansas City has won four straight.

Orioles 5, Twins 3

Mike Young and Juan Beniquez both hit their first home run of the season as Mike Boddicker upped his record to 4-0, with 1 2-3 innings of relief from Don Aase, who earned his ninth save.

Young's solo homer in the second off Twins ace Frank Viola gave Baltimore a 2-1 lead and snapped a 32-game, 103-at-bat home run drought for Young, who hit 28 homers last year. Beniquez's two-run shot in the third was his first homer in 40-at-bats.

Gary Gaetti homered for the visiting Twins.

White Sox 8, Yankees 1

Greg Walker, playing his second game after a wrist injury sidelined him for a month, hit a three-run homer and the Yankees committed five errors.

The White Sox, who have won five of seven games since Manager Tony LaRussa was given a vote of confidence last week, got seven runs and eight hits in the first five innings off Ron Guidry. Carlton Fisk had two singles and a double to support Neil Allen, 1-0, who was traded by the Yankees to Chicago in February.

Allen allowed four hits, walked two and struck out three in seven innings, then was replaced by Bill Dawley.

Walker hit a 400-foot drive into the Yankee Stadium bleachers following leadoff singles by Fisk and Ron Kittle in the second inning.

"The last thing I was thinking about was a home run off Ron Guidry," Walker said. "I'm happy, but surprised."

Kansas City Royals' Frank White (at right) is greeted by teammate Lynn Jones after hitting a grand slam homer in the eighth inning to propel the Royals past the slumping Indians.

McEnroe to Wimbledon: 'I'll be there, mates'

LONDON (AP) — John McEnroe, on a self-imposed break from tennis since January, has confirmed his entry for next month's Wimbledon championships, the All England club announced today.

All England chief executive Chris Gorrings said McEnroe's name was on a list of 104 players submitted by the Association of Tennis Professionals from its office in Dallas.

"He has entered, although of course it's only a provisional list and no one can guarantee all the players will take part," Gorrings said.

"Obviously, I'm very pleased. I personally always thought he would play but I suppose the majority of people, including the press, thought he would not."

McEnroe, 27, has appeared in five Wimbledon singles finals, winning the title in 1981, 1983 and 1984. Last year, he was beaten in the quarterfinals and has not played competitively since January, when he was upset by Brad Gilbert in the first round of the Nabisco Masters in New York.

With his girlfriend Tatum O'Neal expecting the couple's first child within the next month, reports had suggested that the tempestuous McEnroe would miss Wimbledon, which starts June 23, and delay his return to the court until just before the U.S. Open in August.

As recently as Tuesday his father, John McEnroe Sr., said in New York that it was unlikely the younger McEnroe would play at Wimbledon this year.

In the last four months, McEnroe's only tennis appearances have been in three exhibition events.

Mets tag Ryan, 'Stros; Reds get a rare win

By The Associated Press
For Danny Heep and Ron Oester, it was a night to forget the past.

Heep, who became Nolan Ryan's 4,000th career strikeout victim July 11, 1985, tagged Ryan for a two-run homer Thursday night as the New York Mets beat Houston 6-2 at the Astrodome.

NL Roundup

Oester's key error allowed the winning run to score in a loss Wednesday night, but his three-run homer in the ninth inning Thursday lifted the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-5 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

In the only other National League game played Thursday, Atlanta beat Montreal 7-4 in 10 innings.

"I wasn't the happiest man to be (strikeout victim) No. 4,000," Heep said after the Mets won for the 20th time in 24 games. "They show it on every highlight at every park. I was a victim of circumstance, being 4,000th."

Manager Dave Johnson knew Heep wanted to even the score against baseball's all-time strikeout leader.

"I knew he was from San Antonio and had some friends and family here," Johnson said. "He was 4,000th, and I figured he had something to make up."

Heep went 2-for-3 against Ryan, 3-5, and his one-out homer in the sixth made it 5-0. Ron Darling, 4-0, allowed eight hits before Jesse Orosco recorded the last three outs. Orosco has yet to be scored on in his 12 appearances this season covering 16 1-3 innings.

Reds 6, Phillies 5
Oester's homer off Steve Bedrosian, 2-2, wasn't a total cure for his costly error the night before.

"It (the homer) didn't make up for last night (Wednesday)," Oester said. "But it helped."

The second baseman said his late-game heroics proved that the Reds, with the worst record in the majors, 9-21, will not quit.

"I wouldn't want to be in that plane tonight if we lost again. I don't know if it will turn us around, but it has to be good for us," he said.

Dave Concepcion and Buddy Bell started the ninth with singles off reliever Don Carman. Bedrosian relieved Carman and got pinch-hitter Max Venable to fly to right. But Oester followed with his second homer of the season, hitting a 1-1 pitch over the right-field fence to score Concepcion and pinch-runner Tom Runnels ahead of him.

Ron Robinson, 3-0, pitched the last three innings allowing one hit, walking one batter and striking out three.

Braves 7, Expos 4 (10)

Ken Oberkfell's three-run 10-inning homer gave Atlanta its victory over host Montreal.

Oberkfell connected on a 3-2 pitch from Dan Schatzeder in one of his rare appearances against a left-hander this season. It came after Dale Murphy singled and Bob Horner walked.

Montreal trailed 4-2 entering the bottom of the ninth, but tied the game when Mitch Webster's short fly bounced high on the artificial turf. The ball fell in front of Murphy and bounced over his head, scoring Al Newman and Andre Dawson, who had singled off Bruce Sutter, 2-0. Jeff Dedmon got his second save with one inning of work.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MAY 17, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is fine for using your basic cleverness and resourcefulness to make a specific course of action in which every detail is put in its right place.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) No matter whether at the office or home, get busy and handle your work load well. Don't let a new contact take you away from your work.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Spruce up your appearance early in the day, and then you can make a fine impression on those you deal with.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get busy at the duties awaiting you at home, and plan your time wisely. Try to avoid someone who may upset you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Go after that information you need and then apply yourself seriously to get your work completed.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy at whatever will bring you greater abundance and forget that recreation you have in mind.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are a perfectionist so carry on with whatever you have in mind without the intervention of family.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get at those personal duties and they are soon completed and await the evening for recreation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) State what it is you desire and your good friends can help you attain personal desires.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good day to handle any civic or credit matters you desire to improve and be clever at this.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study into some new project that interests you and don't permit a gossiping friend to take up your time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Forget gregariousness for today and get busy making collections and paying bills. Do what your mate wants.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan time to see what an associate expects of you in the days ahead. Keep promises made to important people.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have much ability at precision types of work, so slant the education along such lines. Be sure to add courses in psychology or philosophy so that your progeny can understand his fellow man better and be able to communicate well with everyone.

Minister sensed God's plan

By CARLEEN EVERETT

After 12 years of pastoring at New Life Chapel, in the former Base Chapel facilities at the Industrial Park, Mike Mullins and his family are moving on to Kaiserslautern, Germany.

"Six months ago I got a feeling that we'd be making a move. I didn't know where to and I didn't really even want to leave Big Spring. But I knew the Lord was going to move us," Mullins said.

Then one day, Mullins received a newspaper from the superintendent of the military churches in Germany. "I wrote back telling the superintendent that I was possibly interested in a position if one came up," he said. "The very same day that the superintendent received my letter, he also received a letter of resignation from the current pastor who was there for 14 years."

Mullins will assume the pastorate of Bethel United Pentecostal Church, a military church that serves the armed forces in the Kaiserslautern area. He will be working with the foreign missions department of the church, he said.

Being raised in a military environment (his father was a sergeant-major in the army), Mullins says that he will be able to relate to military people.

The exciting part of the move, Mullins said, is that he attended his last three years of high school in Kaiserslautern and graduated from there in 1965.

Then his family came back to the United States and he went to the University of New Mexico, he said.

"During my college years, I was involved in the Haight-Ashbury scene because it was 'the thing to do.' Haight-Ashbury was a part of the hippie movement which involved drugs in the late '60s. I came back home after four months, straightened up and got my degree," he said.

After receiving his bachelor's degree in business administration, Mullins moved to Wichita Falls and worked there. "I went to church with a friend and it changed my life. I found in church what I had been searching for when I was in Haight-Ashbury."

The night before basic training in Fort Polk, La., Mullins "received baptism of the holy ghost," he said. Then he went to Fort Hood in Killeen.

"It was at Killeen where I received my calling to preach," he said. Mullins began preaching and stayed there after he was discharged from the Army. After a short period in San Antonio, Mullins came to Big Spring in July 1974.

The Mullins are "all" very excited about the new experiences in store for them abroad, the pastor said. Their home will be 30 minutes from the French border and two hours from Switzerland. "We plan on visiting and learning a new culture," he said.

The Mullins have three children, all born in Big Spring: Kevin, 12, Jason, 8, and Michelle 1½. "Big Spring has been good to us. We've enjoyed raising our kids here," Mullins said. "I delivered Michelle at home here myself."

The Mullins will leave Big Spring May 29 and after visiting relatives in Houston, Michigan and Missouri, they will arrive in Frankfurt, Germany, on June 24.

MIKE MULLINS
...will begin his ministry in Germany in June

"I don't know how long we'll be in Germany, but I believe it's a transition period for my ministry. Guessing, I'd say we'll be there about 2½ years," he said.

Lawsuit poses challenge to liberty of religion

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Oddly, no church is a party to a current lawsuit in which church-state specialists say fundamental church rights are at stake. Also, what provoked the case is seen as incidental to the main issue.

These are among the ironies of a suit now boiling to a head in U.S. District Court here.

The case by a Manhattan organization, Abortion Rights Mobilization, against the Internal Revenue Service, demands that it revoke tax exemption nationally of U.S. Roman Catholicism, charging its activities opposing abortion exceeded IRS restrictions.

Thus, the abortion conflict triggered the suit, but legal specialists in church-state relationships say that conflict was only the catalyst to a case impinging far more broadly on religious rights.

The heart of the question was how direct and open religion can be in trying to infuse its values into society. The extent of that prerogative, whether too much or too little, historically and now marks the distinction between societies authoritative or free.

Among other complexities in the case:

Although no church is named a defendant in the suit, the abortion-rights group has subpoenaed church records from the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and their program agency, the U.S.

Catholic Conference. That's how those national Catholic organizations, representing the entire U.S. church, were drawn into the case.

They took the unusual step of spurning the subpoenas, for which they were cited for contempt last week and subjected to a temporarily delayed fine of $100,000 a day until they comply.

They say this was their only way, since they're not a party to the suit, to seek appellate court review of their claim that the abortion-rights group has no standing to sue IRS about another organization, namely the church.

Putting the matter in individual terms, church-state expert Dean Kelly says, "Why should anyone be able to go into court and challenge your income tax status, or mine? That's between you and the government."

Even though not a party to the suit, the church is threatened with heavy blows, not only in potential big fines, but with the possible loss of the income tax deductibility of contributions by Catholics throughout the country.

The abortion-rights group claims the bishops and their agencies broke IRS rules barring tax-exempt groups from devoting a "substantial part" of their activity to influencing legislation or elections.

To back their case, the group has subpoenaed church records, nationally, locally and diocesan, concerning abortion, including local parish sermons or bulletins, letters between all bishops and candidates and documents about any Catholic support of 12 pro-life organizations.

Emily Tyne, communications officer of the National Abortion Rights Action League, says the "bishops have been systematically involved" concerning abortion in political campaigns and the documents "would show it."

Church officials call the subpoenas an overly burdensome "fishing expedition."

Robert Maddox, executive director of Americans United for Separation of Church and State, which stresses strict lines between them, says the bishops "may have been too overtly political," but he adds:

"We're uncomfortable when the government starts snooping into the internal affairs of the church. That invades church confidentiality protected by the First Amendment."

The lawsuit claims the bishops fostered positions about specific political candidates.

The bishops - like major Protestant denominations - have a long-standing policy against opposing or backing specific political candidates. Yet it still happens occasionally on lower church levels, by individuals or groups.

Attorney William P. Thompson of Princeton, N.J., a Presbyterian leader and authority on church-state affairs, says denominations avoid it for "sound policy reasons" but still have a constitutional right to it in principle.

Kelly, church-state officer for the National Council of Churches, including most major Protestant and Orthodox denominations, says:

"If a church decides circumstances are so urgent, it's justified in opposing candidates it thinks advocate immoral policies."

The common assumption is that it's proper for citizens to take positions about particular candidates, he says, and the church ought not to lose tax exemption for similarly "participating in democracy."

He and other church-state specialists say the suit poses a basic challenge to religious liberty, threatening the right and duty of religious bodies to speak out on moral ideals in trying to implement them in society.

Upholding the suit "would have a chilling effect" on church participation in public affairs, says attorney Michael J. Woodruff, director of the Center for Law and Religious Liberty in Falls Church, Va.

"It would contribute to the privatizing of religion in American life," he says, muzzling churches on social issues and making for a "statism" that sees the state as the "source of all benefits" and right attitudes.
