How's that?

College fees

Q. Why do out-of-state and foreign college students have to pay higher tuition than in-state students?

A. Because the cost of education is not covered by tuition fees, it must be subsidized by taxpayers or other sources, said Bob Mehan, vice president for instruction at Howard College. Educators believe out-of-state students should bear more of the burden of the cost of their education than in-state students, he said.

Fireman's discipline rejected

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

After hearing more than three hours of testimony from 11 witnesses, the Civil Service Commission Tuesday night overturned the May 5 suspension of firefighter Jimmy Bertran.

Bertran had been suspended for three shifts by Fire Chief Carl Dorton following an investigation into the reasons Bertran was assaulted outside the Greenhouse club on S. Scurry Street in the early morning of Nov. 7, 1985.

Dorton ordered the suspension on the grounds that Bertran lacked moral character, was intoxicated off duty and engaged in conduct prejudicial to good order.

Bertran says he was struck above the eye with a rock and then robbed of between $200 and $250 while lying in the parking lot unconscious.

"Justice has prevailed," Bertran said after hearing the commission's unanimous decision. He had been suspended without pay from May 5 through May 15.

Dorton said he sees the hearing as a learning experience. "We got to get our ducks in a row before we pursue something like this again,"

Howard College hikes out-of-state tuition

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Howard College tuition for out-of-state students will increase to $75 per semester hour beginning this summer with a minimum charge of $200, the Howard County Junior College District board of trustees decided Tuesday.

Last year, the fee was a flat $200 regardless of the number of semester hours taken, said Bob Mehan, vice president for instruction. During the 1983-84 school year, out-of-state tuition was $40 a semester hour, he said.

In addition, the minimum charge for in-state students will be raised from $25 to $40, although tuition for these students will remain at $8 per semester hour, said President Bob Riley.

Tuition for summer classes, now $10 per semester hour, will decrease to $8 an hour. The change will simplify record-keeping and administration, Riley said.

Riley told board members the changes will put Howard College more in line with what other Texas colleges charge.

College tuition increased statewide in September as the result of legislative action. Howard College's tuition jumped from $4 to $8 per semester hour then. But the board decided to delay increasing the minimum fee until this year to give students time to adjust, Riley said.

The change to the flat $200 fee for out-of-state students was a mistake made by many community colleges, because of confusion about new state laws, Mehan said. College administrators began to fear the flat fee would flood community colleges with foreign students from the four-year universities, he said.

Howard College currently has 53 out-of-state and seven foreign students enrolled, said registrar Janice Dunagan. Mehan said most of the foreign students at Howard College study intensive English.

Mehan doesn't expect a decrease in out-of-state students at Howard College, he said, because community colleges all over the state are raising their fees, too. Compared to other states, Texas fees are still low, he said.

In other business, the board:

• Adopted guidelines for short courses at the request of the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System. The college has no short courses nor are any planned, but the guidelines are available for any future need, Riley said.

• Voted to extend the contract of American Food Management, which provides food services to the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

• Heard a report from Jack Roberts, spokesman for the Lubbock firm working on Howard College's cooling system renovation. Roberts explained the thermal storage system being installed, in which energy stored during low-usage times, is used during peak

Free food distribution plan running out of federal funds

AUSTIN (AP) — By June 1, the state of Texas will exhaust all funds in a federal program designed to distribute free government cheese, powdered milk and butter to nearly a half-million households through Oct. 1, officials with the Texas Department of Human Services said.

Texas' $3.3 million share of a $50 million nationwide program to pay transportation and storage costs by non-profit groups is almost gone, and new federal funds to distribute government surplus food won't be available until Oct. 1, the Austin American-Statesman reported today.

Twenty-six other states are in the same situation, agency officials added.

Officials estimate that $960,000 is needed to run the program in Texas until Oct. 1, the beginning of the federal government's fiscal year.

"Some of our contractors are finding alternatives, but whether the food program will continue after mid-June is still up in the air, and there's not much we can do," said Zy Weinburg of the Texas Department of Human Services.

"The program has been funded at the same level the last three years, and costs have been going up. That's one of the reasons we are running out," Weinburg said. "And there has been an increase in participation, about 10 percent statewide."

County's jobless figure doubles from last year

Unemployment for Howard County increased to 9.2 percent in April, almost double last year's figure, and will probably continue to climb, said Joe Wallis, manager of the local Texas Employment Commission.

This compares to 5.1 percent last year and 8.9 percent last month.

Unemployment for Big Spring has increased to a 10.6 percent in April, Wallis said. Last year's figure was 5.9 percent, and the figure for March was 10.2 percent, he said.

"It doesn't look good, at least for a while anyway," Wallis said. He attributed the increase in unemployed workers to the oil slump and the drought.

The total labor force in the county has decreased from last month but is still slightly higher than last year, he said. There were 15,513 people in the labor

Energy leads consumer prices slide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Skidding gasoline costs sent consumer prices down 0.3 percent in April, the third straight monthly drop, the government said today. It was the biggest three-month price skid in 37 years.

Energy prices, as in past months, accounted for much of the decline and more than offset the first food price gain since January. Leading the energy cost declines was an 11.3 percent drop in gasoline prices. Energy prices overall fell 5.8 percent.

But analysts say the best news on energy prices is past. Indeed, the gasoline price decline was not as steep as the 12 percent fall of March.

Over the last three months, gasoline prices have fallen 26.5 percent. Pump prices in April fell to the level of mid-1979.

Beginning with February, prices overall have fallen at an annual rate of 4.3 percent, the best quarterly showing since November 1948-January 1949. For the first four months of 1986, prices are down at an annual rate of 2.3 percent.

Separately, the Commerce Department said today that Americans' personal income rose in April by 1.2 percent, the biggest gain in two years. But virtually all the increase was attributable to higher government subsidy payments to farmers.

At the White House, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes noted that the decline in consumer prices coincided with the increase in personal income. "The net result finds American workers with a lot more money in their pockets to spend on less expensive goods and services."

He said the United States continues to enjoy "an economic expansion that shows no signs of diminishing."

The Commerce Department also said that consumer spending rose 0.3 percent, the mid-point between the 0.1 percent gain of March and the 0.5 percent hike of February.

With the exception of energy prices, consumer costs rose 0.4 percent in April, roughly the average rate of the last 12 months. The most significant price gains last month were posted for food costs, up 0.3 percent.

A market basket of food bought at grocery stores rose 0.2 percent. Fresh fruit and vegetable prices rose 7.0 percent; lettuce prices climbed 26.7 percent.

Prices fell, however, for meats, poultry, fish and eggs. Beef prices dipped 2.9 percent, their fourth consecutive drop.

Prices for restaurant meals were up 0.4 percent while alcoholic beverage prices were up 0.2 percent.

Also up were prices for new cars — 0.6 percent after a 0.2 percent rise in March and a 0.4 percent hike in February.

Texan wins Miss USA crown

MIAMI (AP) — Christy Fichtner, a green-eyed blonde from Texas, said capturing the 1986 Miss USA crown and representing the United States in the Miss Universe pageant is "the greatest feeling in the world."

Miss Fichtner, a 23-year-old model from Dallas, beat 50 women during Tuesday night's nationally televised pageant to win the title and some $175,000 in cash and prizes, including a new sports car, a black mink coat, a grand piano and a five years' supply of cosmetics.

"I want to scream 'I love the United States' and I'd like to go swim about 60 miles," the 5-foot-8 Miss Fichtner said. "The first thing going through my mind is that I've traveled all over the world for the past eight years and I've gained this great appreciation for this country. And being able to represent it is the greatest feeling in the world. This is the greatest night of my life."

Her duties include representing the United States in the Miss Universe Pageant, scheduled for July 21 in Panama.

About 100 supporters from Texas, who cheered and waved miniature Lone Star flags whenever Ms. Fichtner's name was mentioned during the ceremonies, went wild when she was named the winner.

"There was so much reaction around me I was just part of it," said Ruth Walker, Ms. Fichtner's grandmother. "I still don't believe it."

Both her grandmothers, who are in their 80s, attended the pageant along with the rest of her family, said Miss Fichtner.

During an interview this morning on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America," Miss Fichtner was asked what it's like to walk out on a stage wearing a bathing suit.

"You just throw your shoulders back and think that you've done enough aerobic classes that they're going to think you look good," she said, adding that she was nervous early in the pageant.

She said, however, that she wasn't sure she wanted to continue modeling, which she has done for eight years.

"I'd like to go on to something else. I'm not sure what it is yet, we'll see what this year brings."

Halle Berry, Miss Ohio, was named first runner-up; Tami Tesch, Miss Georgia, second runner-up; Cindy Williams, Miss Mississippi, third runner-up; and Kelly Parsons, Miss California, fourth runner-up.

Police Beat

Family threatened with gun

Anita DeLeon of 1100 N. Main St. told police Tuesday afternoon that a man she knows pointed a rifle at her and her family and fired it into the air.

The incident occurred near her home and stemmed from a neighborhood dispute, police say. No one was reported injured.

Larry Steen, manager of Al's Barbecue, 411 W. Fourth St., told police Tuesday morning that someone entered the business and damaged a window between 3 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Idona Martin, 801 Marcy Drive Apt. 6, told police Tuesday afternoon that someone cut three tires on her car while it was parked outside her residence between 10 p.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. Monday.

Linda Sue Moran of Gail Route Box 2 Space 33 told police Tuesday morning that her husband has married two women since they were separated in August of 1983. Police say one of the women was from out of state while the other was from another county. The alleged bigamy took place outside the police department's jurisdiction, according to police.

Billy Dewain Threats of 902 N.W. Third St. Apt. 2 told police Tuesday night that someone he knows kicked him in the mouth, damaging his teeth and cutting his lip and gum. The man refused treatment, according to the police report.

Lloyd Sauer, assistant manager of Rip Giffins Truck Stop, told police Tuesday evening that someone pried open a coin-operated video machine and stole an undetermined amount of coins. The incident occurred at 6:55 p.m. Tuesday, according to the complaint.

John Rodriguez, sales clerk at the Sport About in the Big Spring Mall, told police Tuesday that someone stole a $45 baseball glove from the business at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Virginia K. Zobeck of 2322 Brent Drive told police Tuesday afternoon that someone stole two pieces of jewelry valued at $1,125 from her home between April 7 and 8 a.m. Sunday.

Ashok Patel, manager of the Westwind Motel, told police Tuesday afternoon that someone failed to pay $200 rent due the business for services between Oct. 22, 1985, and Nov. 7, 1985.

Susan Chamberlain of 1004 Howell St. was arrested Tuesday afternoon on outstanding local traffic warrants.

Marcellino Ramirez, 30, of Coahoma was arrested Tuesday night on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and outstanding DPS warrants.

Blaze damages vacant house

Fire caused an estimated $2,500 damage to a vacant house late Tuesday night at 313 N.E. 10th St., according to a fire department report.

Firemen were called at 10 p.m. to extinguish a fire in the back room of a single story structure owned by Opaline Adams. The fire was confined to that room, the report indicates.

Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles said he suspects the fire started in a couch. The house was frequented by transients, and the blaze may have been started by a cigarette, he said. Settles said he did not think the fire was set intentionally.

He did not know if the house was insured, he said.

Drug indictment dismissed against hospital supervisor

LUBBOCK — A drug trafficking indictment against Edward Chavarria Jr., 33, of 1210 Marijo was dropped Monday following testimony in federal court.

Chavarria, a supervisor at Big Spring State Hospital, was arrested Feb. 28 by police after a federal grand jury indicted him on four counts of delivery of a controlled substance.

Steve Suttle of Abilene, Chavarria's court-appointed attorney, said this morning that his defendant "did not participate in the transfer of drugs alleged in the indictment and no evidence existed that he had."

U.S. Attorney Dick Baker, who prosecuted the case, could not be reached for comment.

Suttle who was not present during Monday's testimony in federal court, said U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward had told him earlier he was going to dismiss the charges against Chavarria.

Barbara Quinlan, who said she found Bertran lying unconscious in the parking lot "with a big hole in his head."

"He was not drunk," she said. But Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles testified that Bertran told him while in the hospital recovering from the injury that "he had four or five beers at home before he went to the bar." Settles, who investigated the incident along with police Detective Bill King, reported his findings about the case to Dorton.

King said the case initially was investigated by police as an aggravated robbery. He said he took the case to District Attorney Rick Hamby, but Hamby refused it. King said he had nothing to substantiate the robbery charge.

Bertran said it was not explained to him that in criminal cases like this, the suspect is prosecuted by the district attorney. After considering the expense of hiring a lawyer and the time elapsed since the incident, Bertran said he decided to drop the case.

Bertran, who said Cobble took $20 out of his hand, testified that he suffered uncontrolled bleeding from his nose as a result of the assault and had to be hospitalized for about a week, running up a medical bill of more than $3,000.

The commission deliberated for about 10 minutes before overturning the suspension. Jones said the testimony did not support the allegations against Bertran.

Jones said the thinking of the commission on the testimony was that "a great deal of it was untrue ... a lot of things did not correlate."

He said the commission did not want its action Tuesday night to be construed that it "condones" any of the behavior alleged during the hearing. Firefighters should be a cut above, he said.

Nursing homes deplored

WASHINGTON — More than a third of the nation's skilled nursing homes don't meet basic health, safety and sanitary standards and inspectors have found an alarming increase in violations since 1982, a Senate report says.

"Tens of thousands of patients in nursing homes still suffer from poor nutrition, inadequate nursing care, and squalid conditions thought to have been corrected long ago by state and federal reforms," said the staff report by the Senate Special Committee on Aging.

The report released Tuesday said the Health Care Financing Administration was not doing enough to identify nursing homes that chronically violate the standards enforced by the Medicare and Medicaid programs to ensure good patient care.

Arms deal looks bright

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, bolstered by a last-minute offer to withdraw Stinger missiles from an arms sale package for Saudi Arabia, is gaining ground in his fight to keep Congress from blocking the deal, according to senators and the White House.

Reagan has until midnight tonight to deliver his promised veto of a resolution passed overwhelmingly by both the House and Senate that disapproved the sale. Congress has never before blocked an arms sale.

After Reagan delivers his veto, the sale will go ahead unless each chamber overrides the veto by a two-thirds margin. That would mean 289 votes in the Democratic-controlled House and 67 in the Republican-run Senate if everyone votes.

Banned chemical in use

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. — An insecticide banned in 1982 in part because it causes cancer has turned up in the Great Lakes, mother's milk in Scandinavia and rain over the Mediterranean Sea, a new study has found.

The insecticide, toxaphene, was used in the United States in larger quantities than any other insecticide before its ban, and is now almost as widespread in the environment as DDT, said Terry Bidleman of the University of South Carolina.

Time change plans vary

WASHINGTON — National daylight-saving time would begin on the first Sunday in April, three weeks earlier than at present, under a plan approved by the Senate.

The proposed change is less ambitious than a four-week extension approved by the House last year. The House version included an extra week in the fall to provide more daylight during traditional Halloween trick-or-treating by millions of the nation's children.

The differences between the two plans will be resolved by a House-Senate conference.

Thick clouds of smoke can be seen rising Tuesday evening from a squatters camp near Cape Town as approximately 800 shacks are torched during two days of violence which, police say, have killed 16, injured dozens and left 10,000 homeless.

Peace efforts

South Africa says initiative still alive

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Foreign Minister R.F. Botha said today an effort by Commonwealth countries to set up talks between the government and black guerrillas was still alive, despite South Africa's raids on alleged guerrilla targets in neighboring black countries.

The talks would continue "with all seriousness," despite Monday's raid on alleged targets of the African National Congress in Zambia, Zimbabwe and Botswana, Botha told an Australian television interviewer. South African radio carried excerpts of the live broadcast.

Meanwhile, the Crossroads squatter camp near Cape Town was reported relatively quiet after three days of violence that left at least 18 blacks dead. The actual dead toll could be as high as 44, the South African Press Association said.

Raging street battles between rival conservative and militant youths destroyed up to 3,000 shacks and left up to 30,000 homeless, the press association said. Vast sections of the shanty city were reduced to rubble as vigilantes systematically moved through areas and set shacks on fire, it said.

Residents of Kwa-Mashu black township near Durban, where six blacks were hacked to death on Tuesday, said another man was slain this morning.

A witness said youths turned on a group of black vigilantes who whipped students at a high school, and killed one man.

The seven-member Commonwealth delegation, headed by former Nigerian leader Olesegun Obasanjo, left South Africa on Monday, hours after the air and ground strikes into the neighboring black-ruled countries.

The raids prompted worldwide condemnation, a plunge in the nation's currency and protests by university students in Cape Town and Johannesburg.

But President P.W. Botha said Tuesday that the raids were justified strikes similar to the U.S. bombing of Libya. He said there will be more if necessary.

"South Africa will not allow the double standards and hypocrisy of the Western world ... to stand in the way of our responsibilities to protect our country," he said. "The smugglers of terrorist arms into our country and murderers of innocent people must be hunted down."

Obasanjo said in London that the peace mission by the Commonwealth "Eminent Persons Group," was damaged, but not destroyed by the South African strikes. He said the group would continue trying to get peace talks going.

Commentators said the timing of the raids, while the delegation was in the country, was a heavy blow to the Commonwealth effort when it was showing signs of progress.

Foreign Minister Botha, however, said the group left South Africa "in a friendly way" after meeting eight Cabinet ministers Monday. Asked whether the raid had upset the delegates, Botha said they should have been equally upset by guerrilla bombs that went off during their two visits to South Africa.

Storm victims get aid

PORT MORESBY, Papua New Guinea — Emergency supplies were rushed today to the Solomon Islands after Typhoon Namu devastated the 900-mile-long Pacific chain with gales and a torrential rain that reportedly killed at least five people and pushed entire villages into the sea.

An Australian pilot who flew over the area but was unable to land because of three-foot-deep water at Honiara airport on Guadalcanal said he saw only "a sea of mud with roofs sticking out." But in Canberra, the Australian Foreign Ministry said two Royal Australian Air Force C-130 transports managed to land in Honiara today and delivered two small helicopters, medicine, tents and food.

Army foils protest plan

SANTIAGO, Chile — Soldiers backed by tanks occupied downtown Santiago, crushing a planned protest march against military rule and scattering hundreds of dissidents. Guerrilla bombs later knocked out power to more than half of Chile's almost 12 million people.

Police said a teen-ager was wounded and 121 people were arrested in the unrest Tuesday.

The Manuel Rodriguez Patriotic Front, a Communist-led band named for a Chilean independence hero, said it planted the bombs that blew up three power pylons south of Santiago late Tuesday to support the downtown demonstration.

Radiation found high

MOSCOW — Radiation levels are dangerously high at Chernobyl reactor No. 4, but a cleanup crew is getting the Ukrainian power plant's three other reactors ready to restart, the government newspaper Izvestia reported.

Izvestia also said Tuesday that a 19-ton bulldozer flown in from Chelyabinsk, an industrial city in the Ural Mountains, was helping build a heap of radioactive waste that would be buried where a fifth reactor was to have been constructed.

The account did not say when cleanup from the April 26 explosion and reactor fire would be completed, or estimate when the 92,000 people evacuated from within an 18-mile radius could return home.

Envoy likened to Molotov

UNITED NATIONS — Yuri V. Dubinin, named as the new Soviet ambassador to Washington, was described Tuesday by a senior Western diplomat at the United Nations as a "Molotov with a pompadour."

Dubinin, a 56-year-old diplomat with wavy silver hair, is a "throwback to the Molotov school," said the diplomat, who asked that he not be identified by name or nationality. He referred to Vyacheslav M. Molotov, the stern-faced Stalinist foreign minister remembered for his hostility to the West during the early days of the Cold War.

Libyan consul in Istanbul indicted for bomb plot

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — A state prosecutor said Tuesday he has indicted a Libyan consul in Istanbul on charges of plotting to bomb the U.S. officer's club in Ankara.

"I have reached the conclusion that diplomatic immunity does not apply in cases of terrorism," said Ulku Coskun, explaining why he had indicted Ali Mansur Musbah Zayyani, the second ranking Libyan diplomat in Turkey.

The Foreign Ministry said that Zayyani and two other Libyan embassy employees accused in the case cannot be tried because they have diplomatic immunity.

Zayyani was accused of participating with other Libyans in a conspiracy to kill a group of people. If convicted, he could face a maximum prison term of seven years,

The indictment, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press, alleges that Zayyani, who was not arrested, knew about the plot and encouraged the alleged terrorist action.

Oil price upturn is upbeat news

There's every reason to be optimistic about the future of the oil industry with this slow, but steady rise in oil prices. After three months of barrel-bottom prices in the $11 to $14 a barrel range, the market closed Monday on West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark domestic crude, at $17.16 a barrel. That level continues a rally that has seen prices bob upward by nearly $4 a barrel in less than three weeks.

It's not $28 a barrel like the good old days of a few months ago, but it's certainly a good bit better than it has been.

This resurgence in oil prices will give reason to hope for a return to a robust domestic drilling program, which will restore jobs displaced by the nose-dive oil prices took in 1985. But as important as that, it will give a psychological boost to oil producing states like Texas and oil-dependent communities like Big Spring. It helps restore some sense to the economic scheme of things.

The upward pressure on oil prices is predictable. First, there is less oil in the marketplace because of the decline in drilling due to low prices. Second, there is increased demand for gasoline because suddenly it is cheap. The market economy is responding to change, even if that change is artificial and contrived by oil producing nations.

The upturn is inevitable and we're already starting to see it. That's good news.

NBC's interview of Abbas stretches freedom of press

Last Monday evening, a Palestinian guerrilla being sought by the United States government for murder went on American television to declare President Reagan "enemy number one" and to threaten attacks in the United States. He did so courtesy of NBC News, which not only put Mohammad Abbas on the air but also agreed to ensure his safety and liberty by keeping his location a secret.

The profession of journalism gives its practitioners frequent opportunities to take pride in the contributions of a free press. This is not one of them. By entering into a solemn covenant to shield a man who is credibly charged with a role in the murder of Leon Klinghoffer and forthright about his intention to murder other Americans, NBC News becomes a party to his contemplated crimes and degrades journalism.

NBC News president Lawrence Grossman, confronted with criticism by the State Department, retorted that the administration, by trying to suppress unpleasant news, was behaving as the Soviets did in the aftermath of the Chernobyl nuclear disaster. His reasoning is infantile.

By trying to conceal the truth about the Chernobyl accident, the Soviet government endangered the lives and health of its own people and those of nearby countries. The concealment in the Abbas case, and the danger to life and limb, comes not from the U.S. government, which would like to bring him to justice, but from NBC News, which knows where he is but refuses to tell. I wouldn't like to be Lawrence Grossman when he gets to explain to the family of a future terrorist victim why he made an agreement that allowed the terrorist to remain at large.

"We report the news," said another NBC News executive. "That's our job." In this case the news — the only news — is not what murders Abbas is planning, but where he is hiding. And that news is precisely what NBC chose to withhold from its viewers, thus failing to do its job.

The network agreed to keep secret the only crucial fact to get an interview that was of slight value as news but immense value as titillation. It let itself be used to accomplish Abbas' purpose, frightening Americans, and got little of substance in return.

News organizations frequently agree to conditions of secrecy in exchange for valuable information. Most major scoops are made with the help of people who don't want their contribution known. But to grant anonymity to a government official, whose identity is of secondary importance to the facts he reveals, is leagues away from cooperating with an indicted killer in his effort to evade capture.

Nor can the criticism from journalists be dismissed, as NBC News suggested, as the product of envy by people who wish they had gotten the interview first. The New York Times said it had been offered the interview on the same terms and refused. The Chicago Tribune and the Los Angeles Times both said they wouldn't accept such conditions either.

In fact, for any self-respecting news organization, the terms offered by Abbas provided only two choices: either decline the interview, or else accept the condition and then renege by disclosing his location. There is no moral or ethical duty to honor this kind of agreement.

A press card is no license to safeguard criminals. Journalists cannot behave as if the elementary obligations of citizenship don't apply to them. Protecting Abbas is really no different from disclosing this country's wartime military plans in advance, something no decent journalist would consider. Drawing lines like this is not always easy, but it isn't hard to figure out that the line belongs on this side of practices like those.

NBC News was happy to take the credit for admitting viewers into the secret lair of Mohammad Abbas. It may not be so eager to accept responsibility for the terrorist its cooperation will facilitate.

Chernobyl plant accident exposes Soviet nuclear power propaganda

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — The Soviet government's appallingly cavalier attitude toward the dangers of nuclear power came as no surprise to us. Two years ago this month, when we reported secret details of earlier Soviet nuclear accidents, the Soviet Embassy here responded with a smart-aleck letter ridiculing our revelations.

The wisecracks of the embassy information officer, Eugene Zykov, must have turned to ashes in his mouth since the nuclear disaster at Chernobyl last month. His letter's tone of mingled sarcasm and braggadocio was tragically inappropriate in light of what is now confirmed about the Soviets' shocking failure to build and maintain nuclear reactors with a rudimentary concern for safety.

One grim disclosure we made two years ago, citing secret and top secret CIA reports, was that many hairless sailors were in Soviet veterans' homes, suggesting overexposure to radiation leaking from faulty nuclear submarine reactors. This evidently tickled the embassy flack's funny bone. Our story on the "radioactive nightmare" in the Soviet Union, he wrote, "could cause even those 'hairless sailors' supposedly in Soviet veterans' homes to have their hair stand on end."

With the gall of a true propagandist, Zykov continued: "Being too engrossed in his macabre narration, the author failed to mention one more point. No organizations such as 'National Campaign for Radioactive Waste Energy,' 'Supporters of Silkwood' or 'Musicians United for Safe Energy' exist in the USSR. ... They do not exist because we have not had the same problem that the nuclear power industry in the U.S. seems to have had."

Without trying to match Zykov's sarcasm, we suggest that there may be other reasons that anti-nuclear protest groups don't exist in the Soviet Union. Ask Andrei Sakharov or the hapless monitors of the Helsinki Accords how the KGB treats outspoken critics of the Soviet regime.

Jack Anderson

The embassy letter proceeded to point out — correctly — that the world's first nuclear power plant was completed in the city of Obninsk, 60 miles from Moscow, in 1954. It claimed that all Soviet nuclear power stations must have "at least three or four fail-safe systems for protection against radioactivity," and that about half the construction costs go into the protection systems. The letter then lists three government agencies responsible for "overseeing the strictly required safety measures," and added:

"That's why it stands to reason that Soviet experience in nuclear power engineering wins recognition among many prominent foreign experts."

The embassy letter then descends to a flat-out lie, stating that "within the last 30 years, the prestige of the Soviet stations has never been undermined by tragic accidents like the one which occurred at Three Mile Island in May 1979."

As we had pointed out two years ago and is now widely known, the Soviets had two serious reactor shutdowns in the early 1980s, and a near-holocaust in 1957, when carelessly stored nuclear wastes exploded at a plant near Chelyabinsk, rendering an area of hundreds of square miles uninhabitable to this day.

Referring to Three Mile Island, Comrade Zykov wrote: "With the proper safety measures the probability of such an accident, a Soviet scientist estimates, is one every 10,000 years of the reactor's operation." He then stated that people living within two to three miles of Soviet nuclear plants get an annual dose of radiation equivalent to "a few hours on the coast of Miami Beach," and added:

"That is why the USSR plans to construct more stations close to major industrial cities in the European part of the country, to provide heat and energy."

The frightening thing is that the Soviet leaders may do just that.

UNDER THE DOME: Fear of terrorism threatens to turn the United States Capitol into the Malemute Saloon, with half the population carrying a shootin' iron on his hip or in her purse. A state-of-the-art firing range is now available for target practice in the basement of the Rayburn House Office Building, and "SWAT" teams in camouflage garb have been spotted using it. The word we get is that the pistol range is open to members of Congress and staffers as well as police. Constituents may want to bear this in mind when they come to Washington with a complaint to lodge.

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: Accused Nazi war criminal John Demjanjuk, extradited to Israel after living half his life in the United States, continues to claim mistaken identity. He claims he is not the notorious "Ivan the Terrible" who tortured prisoners and operated the gas chamber at the Treblinka death camp. And his lawyers have produced witnesses who claim the real Ivan was killed in a brief uprising. To complicate matters further, there is a Demjanjuk ID card which indicates he was a guard at the Sobibor death camp. His attorneys say it is a forgery.

Raids signal Botha's hardline approach

By JAMES F. SMITH GABORONE, Botswana (AP) — By launching three sudden military strikes across southern Africa, the white leaders of South Africa chose to ignore a proffered option of negotiation in favor of an iron fist.

The attacks Monday against alleged African National Congress guerrilla targets in Botswana, Zambia and Zimbabwe occurred while a delegation from Commonwealth countries was in South Africa to try to arrange talks between South Africa and the outlawed black guerrilla group.

At least three died in the raids, which happened while conservative whites in South Africa were mounting their strongest challenge yet to President P.W. Botha's program of tentative race reforms. Ultra-conservatives attacked the ruling National Party's cautious reforms as a recipe for white abolition.

In opting for force against the rebels Botha appeared determined to undermine that ultra-conservative threat, even at the cost of increased foreign castigation.

"It was just another attempt to terrorize the people of Botswana and to impress a fringe element of misguided white South African racists," said Botswana President Quett Masire.

British Labor Party lawmaker Donald Anderson said the raids may have doomed the Commonwealth initiative. "This is Botha's belittling defiance at world opinion and the Eminent Persons Group," he said.

The raids also came at a time of increasingly organized black resistance to apartheid within the country, coinciding with the outlawed group's heightened sabotage war.

Daily rioting by blacks against the white government since September 1984 has left nearly 1,600 dead, nearly all black. A seven-month state of emergency, lifted in March, failed to end the violence that has wracked black townships and crippled many local government-backed township councils.

Botha's government has blamed the rebel group repeatedly not only for sabotage, but for stirring up violence to make the townships ungovernable. In some areas anti-apartheid civic associations have tried to replace official councils and "People's Courts" try cases and hand out sentences as alternatives to government courts.

On Sunday, police announced the discovery of the largest arms cache ever found in South Africa. The depot, buried in a field near Roopepoort west of Johannesburg, contained 880 pounds of explosives, ammunition and weapons.

The turmoil in South Africa has hurried the departure of foreign investors, further damaging an already recession-bound economy, even without formal disinvestment measures abroad. About 30 American companies already have pulled out of South Africa, nearly 10 percent of the total U.S. companies in the country.

Adding to the atmosphere of crisis, the Commonwealth group of former British colonies and other overseas blocs are debating whether to impose formal economic sanctions against South Africa to help speed the demise of apartheid.

Under pressure from British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, a Commonwealth summit last year delayed tough sanctions and appointed the seven-member delegation of "Eminent Persons" to find ways to encourage peaceful change.

The group, led by former Australian Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser and one-time Nigerian leader Olesegun Obasanjo, is on its second trip to South Africa and neighboring states.

There had been hints of progress, even of a possible truce with the rebels, after the group saw Botha and jailed black leader Nelson Mandela during their initial visit.

The delegation held talks with the rebels in Zambia over the weekend and returned to South Africa Sunday night, on the eve of the attack, for more discussions.

In a televised address last week, Botha said South Africans did not need the help of "meddling" outsiders, however noble their intentions. While he did not mention the Commonwealth group by name, the raids Monday suggested the government saw no solution in the group's mediating efforts.

James F. Smith, based in the Johannesburg office of The Associated Press since 1982, travels extensively in southern Africa to report on that region's developments.

Board allocates budget Newscope for school band repair

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA - The school board Tuesday night allocated $5,000 for repairs to band instruments after tabling until next meeting a request for a $43,000 band budget for 1986-87.

Band director Billy Goff said the increase from this year's budget of $31,158 was needed for several reasons, including a projected increase in band members from 50 this year to 84 next year.

Board member Bruce Griffith said, "We simply do not have the money. We're going to have to cut until it hurts, because believe me, they (the taxpayers) are hurting." However, trustee Stanley Phillips said he believes the increase in band members necessitates an increased budget.

Board member Jim Wright said, "If you have $100 in your account, you can't spend $500." He made a motion to approve funding for needed repairs, and asked Goff to try to trim the budget before the next meeting.

In other business, the board:
• Approved a request for Chapter I and II federal funds for 1986-87. Superintendent Jerry Doyle said the district could expect $45,000 to $48,000.

• Accepted the resignations of teacher/coach Keith Stone and teacher's aid Consuelo Morales.

• Voted to hire two teacher/coaches. The positions will be offered to Mark Castillo and Truman Meisner.

• Approved a three-year accreditation plan put together by a group of 15 faculty and staff, including Doyle. Doyle said the plan was made to determine where the school system wanted to be in terms of test scores by 1987-88.

• Discussed a proposition by Wright that the board consider contracting the school's maintenance staff. Wright said money might be saved by cutting out workman's compensation and the need for school-owned equipment. "I'm not here to act anybody. But we are in terrible financial shape, and I'm looking to get as close to zero (no deficit) as we can," he said.

Doyle, after praising some current maintenance employees, said Wright's idea warranted consideration, and said it would be on next meeting's agenda.

Band honors school seniors

Members of the Big Spring High School Steer Band honored their graduating seniors at a banquet Saturday.

Sam Gladden, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.K. Gladden, was presented the John Philip Sousa Award. He is a member of the National Honor Society and student council, and was recipient of the Zales-Herald Outstanding Youth Achievement Award.

Also announced at Saturday night's banquet were 1986-87 officers. They are Medina Corwin, band captain; Mike Ramey, co-captain; Pat Collins, lieutenant; Eric Kinman, co-lieutenant; Sandy Rubenstein, sergeant; and Joel Jennings, co-sergeant.

Loryne Russell will serve as crew chief. The drum majors corps will consist of Mike Ramey and Kirsten Wilkins, with Cary Lewis as alternate. Robin Butler will twirl. Flag captains are Amy Cox and Kim Whitaker, with Kris Connell as gag lieutenant. Rifle captain is Junior Calvio.

Group fights liquor ordinance

A newly organized Citizens Against Legalized Liquor will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

The group was formed Monday to fight the proposed liquor-by-the-drink ordinance, which will be voted on June 3, said spokesman Bobby Fuller.

The purpose of the organization, said Fuller, is to "inform the public of the problems that will arise from the legalized sale of liquor by the drink."

Anyone interested is invited to join the group, he said. Also, donations may be sent to the group at P.O. Box 623 in Big Spring, he said.

Pet vaccination clinic slated

Big Spring Humane Society will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the conference room of the Howard County Library.

Plans will be made for the annual vaccination clinic to be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 31 in the Shadow Retreat Pavilion in Comanche Trail Park, said president Margaret Lloyd.

Dr. Joseph Neff and Dr. Bobby Laudermilk will administer vaccines, and animals will be dipped for ticks and fleas. Vaccination charges are $3 for rabies and $7 for an immunization PKU. The tick and flea dip will cost $3 for small dogs and $5 for large dogs.

School board meets Thursday

The Big Spring school board will consider assignment and reassignment of personnel in a closed session of a special meeting scheduled for noon Thursday.

Matters to be considered in open session are employment of personnel, consideration of bids on a Kentwood Elementary School sprinkler system, and assigning Economic Security Act Title II funds to Region 18 Education Service Center.

Dr. Donohue

Niacin helps lower cholesterol

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Does vitamin B help lower cholesterol? This was new to me. Is it a new theory? How much do you have to get for effect? — Mrs. J.S.

Niacin is one of the B complex vitamin group, and it has long been known for its cholesterol-lowering effect and has, in fact, been used as treatment. What is news in the niacin/cholesterol connection is that much smaller dosages than previously believed can cause significant lowering. At one time, it was believed that a dosage of several thousand milligrams was necessary. More recently, it has become evident that significant lowering can be accomplished with as low a daily intake as 1,000 mgs. If studies confirm the effects of low-dosage niacin, then we might be able to recommend it as an economic method of treating the high cholesterol patient. In those who cannot lower cholesterol by diet restrictions, an alternative has been the expensive cholesterol-lowering drugs.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I think my child has undescended testicles (not in scrotal sac). I am taking him in for tests. I fear having X-rays of this part of his body. Can you ease my mind. Do they X-ray there? — Mrs. G.P.

If visualization is needed, ultrasound is available. X-rays won't be taken.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble" — It could be dangerous. Read the booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need to Know About Them." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the long lasting company, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Reader questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Captain Elisha donates books to library

Captain Elisha Mack Chapter of the Daughter of the DAR met recently at La Posada.

The chapter has donated DAR Library Catalog; DAR Patriot Index; and Washington Landmark, DAR Memorial Continental Hall to the genealogical section of the Howard County Library in memory of Mrs. Bernie McCrea, national chairman of the president general's project and associate member of the Elisha Mack Chapter. Newly installed officers are:

Mrs. Curtis Driver, regent; Mrs. John Key, vice regent; Mrs. W.T. Barber, recording secretary; Mrs. Stanley Reid, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L.J. Jeter, treasurer; Mrs. Jack Alexander, registrar; Mrs. Elvis McCreary, historian; and Helen Ewing, chaplain.

Other activities at the meeting were: canned goods were collected by the chapter for the Northside Community Center; and Mrs. C.G. Barnett reported on the Continental Congress in April, which was held in Washington, D.C.

Barnett reported that the chapter received a silver honor roll certificate for their program for 1985 and an award for 100 percent participation in the president general's project at the Continental Congress. She also stated that the DAR Constitution Hall was designated a National Historic Landmark last April.

Next meeting will be September 17 at 4 p.m.

Herald Recipe Exchange

Recipes to 'help your heart'

In this week's recipe exchange, I have included some "Help your heart" recipes provided by the American Heart Association. These low-fat, low-salt recipes are delicious and good for you.

If you need a recipe or have one to share, write to the Herald Recipe Exchange, in care of the Herald P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

ORIENTAL CHICKEN AND NOODLES

Start with lean chicken, add fresh vegetables and finish with a flourish of lively seasonings and you've created a fast, low-fat entree.

1 pound boneless chicken breast
3 tbsp. oil
2 cups chinese cabbage, sliced
1 cup celery, chopped
2 ounces oriental noodles, cooked
2 tbsp. cornstarch
¼ cup chicken broth*
3 scallions, chopped
2 tsp. caraway seeds
1 tbsp. lemon juice
Cut chicken into small pieces. Heat oil in a deep skillet or wok and saute chicken in heated oil for 5 minutes. Add cabbage, celery and sprouts. Mix well, cover and cook over low heat for 3 minutes.

Meanwhile, cook noodles according to directions; then add noodles to chicken mixture.

In a separate bowl, mix cornstarch and broth and stir into chicken mixture until thickened. Sprinkle with scallions, caraway seeds and lemon juice.

*Use unsalted or low-salt broth to reduce sodium content.

Yield: 4 servings.
Approximately 339 calories per serving.

MINESTRONE

Put this in your thermos for a nourishing hot lunch.

2 tbsp. olive oil
2 tbsp. corn oil
1 onion, chopped
3 garlic cloves, chopped
2 medium carrots, chopped
2 stalks celery, chopped
2 potatoes, cubed
4 tomatoes, cubed
1 small zucchini
½ pound ground beans
Freshly ground black pepper
8 cups water
1 cup white navy beans
½ cup whole wheat pasta (shells or elbow macaroni), cooked
1 tbsp. basil

2 tbsp. parmesan cheese
Heat oil in a large heavy pan. Add onion, garlic, carrots and celery. Saute the vegetables until the onion is transparent.

Add the potatoes, tomatoes, zucchini, green beans and the pasta. Add more water, if soup is too thick.

In a blender, blend the basil, 1 clove garlic and 1 cup of soup from the pot. Return this mixture to the soup, mix in and serve. Garnish with parmesan cheese.

Yield: About 2½ quarts.
Approximately 135 calories per serving.

STUFFED ACORN SQUASH

Avoid bland veggies with this imaginative, tasty recipe.

1½ cups cooked rice
½ cup chopped walnuts
¾ cup cracker crumbs
1 medium onion, chopped fine
2 egg whites, slightly beaten
½ tsp. sage
2 tsp. chopped parsley
Freshly ground black pepper
3 acorn squash, cut in half and cleaned

Combine all ingredients except squash. Place in mixture loosely in squash halves. Bake stuffed squash in pan covered with foil. Bake for 1 hour at 350 degrees or until squash is tender.

Yield: 6 servings.
Approximately 320 calories per serving.

GLAZED ONIONS

This side dish will add pizzazz, as well as iron, to your next dinner.

20 small fresh white onions; or 1 16-ounce can onions
2 tbsp. margarine
1 tsp. sugar

If canned onions are used, drain them. If raw, place unskinned onions in a saucepan, add 1 inch of boiling water, cover and cook until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain and cool.

Heat margarine in skillet. Add onions, sprinkle with sugar and cook slowly, shaking the pan or turning the onions until they are a light golden brown.

Yield: 4 servings.
Approximately 90 calories per serving.

TOMATOES ROCKEFELLER

When serving this classic dish, pronounce it "Tomatoes" Rockefeller for that extra touch of class.

3 large ripe tomatoes, cut in half
2 tbsp. finely chopped onion
2 tsp. finely chopped parsley
1 tbsp. margarine
¾ cup chopped cooked spinach (drained)
Freshly ground black pepper
Paprika
2 tsp. Italian seasoned bread crumbs

Place tomatoes cut side up in an oiled baking dish. Combine onion, parsley, margarine, spinach, pepper and paprika, and spread evenly over tomatoes. Top with crumbs and bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes.

Yield: 6 servings.
Approximately 55 calories per serving.

COTTAGE CHEESE AND CINNAMON TOASTIES

Surprise your taste buds with this off-beat variation on cinnamon toast that omits the high fat levels you get in butter.

For each serving, spread a piece of toast with ¼ cup of low-fat cottage cheese and sprinkle with ½ tsp. of sugar mixed with cinnamon. Put under the boiler or in a toaster-oven until sugar-cinnamon mixture bubbles. Serve at once.

Approximately 115 calories per serving.

VARIATION

With peach slices: Omit sugar. Spread toast with cottage cheese, top with a fresh peach slice and sprinkle with cinnamon. Place in broiler until heated through. Serve immediately.

GARI RYE TOASTIES

Try serving these at your next pasta party.
½ stick (¼ cup) margarine, softened

Garlic powder; or 1 clove garlic, minced

24 slices party rye bread

If you are using raw garlic, combine it with the softened margarine and spread each slice of bread with the mixture. If you use garlic powder, first spread margarine on bread and then sprinkle with the garlic powder.

Arrange slices on a baking sheet, and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for 10 minutes, or until crisp.

Yield: 24 garlic toasties
Approximately 35 calories per serving.

Dear Abby

Man's overexposure is embarrassing to young girl

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who has an early morning paper route. Sometimes people are up and waiting for me, but one guy is always waiting for me in his underwear. Today he was there as usual — in his underwear, but this time he was doing his exercise, like touching his toes and reaching high with his arms up over his head. I can't help seeing him. Abby, I don't see this much at home. One day he asked me if I was "embarrassed" and I told him yes, but he never bothered to put on a pair of pants or robe or anything. I told my girlfriend about it, and she said I should tell my boss, but I'm not sure I should. At first I thought it was just accidental, but now I'm beginning to think this guy likes to see me get embarrassed. Please answer soon, and tell me what to do.

PAPER GIRL

DEAR PAPER GIRL: Tell your parents and your boss about the man on your route who is making you feel uncomfortable. They need and want to know. Do this today. Please write again and tell me where you live. I want to phone you.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a new twist on the perennial mother-in-law problem: Recently at my home, at dinner, my mother-in-law referred to police officers as "pigs" in front of my 8-year-old daughter! (She was peeved with a local cop for trying to do his job.) I was shocked to hear my mother-in-law use that expression, but I glossed over it because I didn't want to make a scene. Now I worry because I think I should have said something to my daughter or my mother-in-law at the time.

Some perspective, please. ELAINE B.

DEAR ELAINE: It's to your credit that you now "worry" because you missed an opportunity to to what a parent should do: Educate her child at an early age that "name calling" is bigoted and unacceptable. Even though the ideal moment has passed, it's not too late to tell your daughter. And don't hesitate to tell your mother-in-law privately how you feel.

DEAR ABBY: With high school proms coming up, please find room to rerun this piece I clipped from your column three years ago. It may save a few young lives. Thank you.

INDIANAPOLIS NEWS READER DEAR READER: I agree. It's worth the space:

IT ISN'T THE CAR, IT'S THE DRIVER
"It isn't the car that begins to whine when forced to stop for an old stop sign — it's the driver."

"It isn't the car that takes a drink, then quickly loses its power to think — it's the driver."

"It isn't the car that fails to heed the dangers of reckless, discourteous speed — it's the driver."

"It isn't the car that steps on the gas and causes an accident trying to pass — it's the driver."
"A car may be bent and twisted awry, but it isn't the car that will have to die — it's the driver."

New programs for hospital

At a recent luncheon and in-service for volunteers at Big Spring State Hospital, Kathy Viccinelli, volunteer coordinator, outlined new programs for volunteers and discussed their current needs.

The last in the current series of seminars for volunteers and guests were announced. Dr. Harry Davis, chief of psychology, conducted the seminar on the subject of "Adolescent, the socially accepted psychosis."

The seminars, which have been successful and accepted, will be discontinued during the summer months and will begin again in the fall, Viccinelli said.

Needs of the hospital, Viccinelli says, are: grooming aids for men and women patients; volunteers to help with picnics for out-patient groups this summer; and volunteers to help with transporting patients to therapy groups at the downtown facility.

Anyone who can help with any of these needs can call the Volunteer Services Office at 267-8216 Ext. 534 or can come to the office on the south side of the hospital grounds.

Area athletes turn in outstanding performances

I was very impressed with the performances turned in Crossroads Country athletes at the state University Interscholastic League competition this past weekend in Austin.

Of the 18 area athletes entered in the tennis, golf and track and field competition, 11 brought back medals. Not a bad percentage when you consider Texas is one of the top states for producing quality athletes.

Like all sporting events, there was joy and heartbreak as well as surprise performances and upsets.

Perhaps the biggest wins for the area took place on the track and the tennis courts.

Shanna Hale from Grady pulled off one of the meet's biggest upsets when she dethroned Woodson's Cindy Harper in the 3200-meter run, an event Harper had been unbeatable in. Hale, who had never defeated Harper before, ran a career best to win going away. It was a two-woman race like everyone figured it to be. The next competitor was almost a full minute behind.

Harper made up for the loss by edging Hale in the 1600. But Hale proved that a lot of desire will overcome the odds.

The second biggest win came from Borden County netter Kelli Williams, who won the gold medal in the tennis competition. Williams, who had competed in the state tournament twice, won her gold medal in extraordinary form.

She didn't lose a match while simply overpowering her opponents. In the finals she got a good taste of revenge by defeating O'Donnell's Stacy Bessire, the only person to defeat her this season. Williams swept the match, leaving no doubt who's the best player.

The third best performance was turned in by the Stanton High School Buffaloes golf team. After hitting a dry well in last year's state tourney, the Buffaloes came back and finished second this past weekend.

The team of Stan Young, Mark Gonzales, Kevin Glaspie, Skip Hopkins and Greg Avery shot a 333 on the first day and finished it up with a 331 on the second day to finish 13 strokes behind Weimer.

What made this second place so special is the way the Buffs handled adversity. It takes a strong-willed team to hold up in the wake of one member's father suffering a heart attack in Austin.

Garden City's Gena Schaefer pulled off another good performance by finishing second in the 800 behind favorite Melissa Eckles from Spur. It was the second silver medal Schaefer had won at the state meet in the event.

Schaefer also anchored the G-City 1600 relay to a third place finish. Jacque Jost, Dianna Garcia and Michelle Peachack also got to stand on the winner's platform.

The 800 relay team of Jost, Peachack, Garcia and Carol Hoelscher just missed a medal by finishing fourth as the Lady Bearcats finished in sixth place overall in the meet, the highest finish of any Crossroads team.

Stanton sophomore sprinter Kody Newman got her first taste of the "big time" by finishing a respectable fifth in the 100.

But there was also heartbreaks for area athletes.

Take the case of Colorado City senior sprinter Sandra Williams, who was competing in her fourth state track meet. Williams had the second fastest time going into the meet in the 100. But midway through the race she slipped on a wet spot, lost her balance and could never regain her stride. Thus she finished out of the running in the race. A cruel way to end a sparkling prep career.

Then there was Forsan senior shot putter Bruce Strickland who had the second best throw going into the meet. Unfortunately Strickland had one of those uncommon days when he threw four feet under his best for a seventh place finish. A bitter pill to swallow for the usually consistent strongman.

To make matters worse the Forsan senior prom was to be held Saturday night, but the rain storm and the delay in the meet caused Strickland to miss his scheduled flight, thus missing the prom. I'm sure that was one weekend that Strickland would rather put out of his mind.

So you can see it wasn't all roses for area athletes in Austin. But there were enough fine performances to make the Crossroads Country look good.

Take 2-1 series lead Canadiens score quickly

MONTREAL (AP) — For a team that usually likes to move deliberately on the ice, the Montreal Canadiens really sewed up Game 3 of the Stanley Cup final in a hurry.

"Those quick goals were welcome," Montreal Coach Jean Perron said following the Canadiens' 5-3 victory over the Calgary Flames on Tuesday night. "That was real firehouse hockey. We had our chances and made the most of them."

Scoring three times within a 68-second span late in the first period, the Canadiens took a 4-2 lead en route to their second victory in the championship round of the NHL's postseason tournament.

With Montreal holding a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series, the teams will meet in Montreal for Game 4 on Thursday night. Game 5 will be played in Calgary on Saturday night.

Late in the second period Montreal turned a 2-1 deficit into a two-goal advantage.

"They had their chances in the first eight minutes, but after that I felt it was our game," said Mats Naslund, whose second goal of the night keyed the significant three-goal burst in the first period. "They scored a few power play goals, but besides that we weren't in trouble at all."

Actually, the Flames were three for five on the power play, while the Canadiens could only convert one of five manpower advantages, continuing their frustration in that department.

But the Canadiens' one power play success in their previous 11 chances was certainly a big one, coming at 18:17 of the first period by Naslund after Bobby Smith had tied the game 2-2 for Montreal only eight seconds earlier.

"The timing of their goals really hurt," Calgary's Doug Riseborough said. "I mean, you want to carry a lead for more than one or two shifts."

Naslund's second goal of the night and eighth of the playoffs put the Canadiens ahead for the first time in the game. As it turned out, it put them ahead for good, at 3-2.

"We took a lot of wind out of their sails when we got that lead," Naslund said. "They didn't seem to have too much strength at that point. A lot of their guys looked tired."

The Flames felt it was more than that, though.

Goaltender Mike Vernon said his team just wasn't doing the job.

"We just laid down, especially in our own end," said Vernon, who was routed from the game after Bob Gainey scored a Montreal goal at the 19:33 mark to put the Canadiens up 4-2 and replaced by Re-jean Lemelin.

"Defensively, we lacked a bit, and they took advantage of it," Vernon added. "We have a tendency to give up bad goals."

The early part of the game belonged to the Flames, who out-shot the Canadiens 9-2 at one point. One of those shots, Joey Mullen's 11th goal of the playoffs, found the net for a 1-0 Calgary lead at 5:45.

Then Naslund tied it at 6:50, triggering a roar from the crowd of 18,072 at the Montreal Forum.

The Flames came back to take a 2-1 lead on Joel Otto's goal at 17:59, but things began unraveling for them after that.

Boston resting while...

BOSTON (AP) — At one point in last Sunday's game, Boston had three guards on the floor. Another time, they had just one. However, a key to their success was Larry Bird's presence both times.

The Celtics demonstrated their versatility Sunday in a 111-98 victory over Milwaukee that gave them a four-game sweep of the NBA Eastern Conference finals. That versatility may be demonstrated again in the championship round.

In the second quarter against the Bucks, Boston had guards Dennis Johnson, Danny Ainge and Jerry Sichting on the floor with Bird and Kevin McHale up front. In the fourth quarter, Bird and Danny Ainge were in the backcourt while McHale was up front with two 7-footers, Robert Parish and Bill Walton.

"You might see it more," Bird said of the triple towers tactic.

It won't be seen before next Monday, at the earliest.

Houston holds a 3-1 lead over the Los Angeles Lakers and can wrap up the best-of-seven Western Conference final Wednesday night in Los Angeles. If necessary, games will be played in Houston Friday night and Los Angeles Monday.

The first two games of the championship round will be here next Monday and Thursday if the Western series ends before Sunday. If Houston and Los Angeles are forced to a seventh game, the first two games of the finals will be here May 29 and June 1.

Rockets and Lakers still battling

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The Houston Rockets already are being acclaimed as an emerging NBA dynasty, but Coach Bill Fitch begs to differ with that increasingly popular appraisal.

"We have no delusions of grandeur," Fitch said as the Rockets prepared to try to knock the defending champion Los Angeles Lakers out of the NBA playoffs in tonight's game at the Forum.

"We understand that when we go into the Forum, it might be like the old days at the (ancient) Forum, with the lions, you know, thumbs up and thumbs down," Fitch said, going temporarily hazy on his Roman history.

"We're going to go in with the attitude that we're going to have to play the game of our lives if we're going to come out with a win.

"We fear them (the Lakers) more now than when we were even-stein," Fitch said. "The only people that are ruling out the Lakers are the guys that don't have to guard them, the guys who don't have to go in there and rub elbows with them."

The Rockets, who've beaten the Lakers three straight games after losing the opener of the best-of-seven Western Conference finals, are just one victory away from a matchup with the Boston Celtics for the NBA championship. The Celtics swept Milwaukee in the Eastern Conference finals.

If the Lakers win tonight's game, the series will shift back to Houston for a sixth game Friday. Another

Los Angeles victory would bring the series back to the Forum for a seventh game on Monday.

The Rockets, however, don't intend to allow the series to go that far.

"We don't even want to take the chance of letting it go back to Houston," said Rockets center Akeem Olatunji, who averaged 31 points, 12 rebounds and four blocked shots in the first four games. "We just want to win this game and get it over with."

"What we have to do is just what we've been doing so far — play our game, go after every rebound, hold down turnovers. That's how we can beat them."

The Lakers, meanwhile, unsuccessful at stopping Olatunji in the previous games, apparently have decided to concede him his points and rebounds.

"We're going to have to give up something," Lakers guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson said. "If he is going to get his 30 points, maybe we'll try to focus on their other guys."

The Lakers face the long odds of becoming just the fifth team in NBA playoff history to come back from a 3-1 deficit to win a series. The previous four times it was accomplished was in conference finals.

And, if they lose, the Lakers would become the 17th consecutive NBA champion to fail to successfully defend their crown. The last time a club repeated as champions was 1969 when the Boston Celtics did it.

Boggs leads Red Sox to 20-7 rout over Twins

By The Associated Press
Wade Boggs collected five of Boston's 20 hits in a 20-7 rout of the Minnesota Twins, but still wasn't satisfied.

Boggs, who led the major leagues with a .368 average last year, went 5-for-6 with four singles and a double. He also reached base on an error and raised his average to .383, tops in the majors.

Staked to a 6-0 lead in the first inning and 7-0 after two, unbeaten Roger Clemens, 7-0, struggled seven innings for the victory. Gary Gaetti hit two homers and a double for the Twins, who finished with 11 hits. Minnesota also committed five errors in losing for the ninth time in 10 games.

Tony Armas had a double and three singles and Marc Sullivan collected three singles as the Red Sox mangled five Minnesota pitchers. Greg Gagne added a home run and two singles for the Twins.

Minnesota starter Frank Viola, 4-4, failed to retire a batter, allowing five hits, including three doubles, and a walk before being replaced by Roy Lee Jackson.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
A's 2, Yankees 1
Curt Young beat Ron Guidry in a duel of left-handers, and Oakland scored the winning run in the ninth inning on an error by New York center fielder Rickey Henderson.

Brewers 12, Indians 9
Milwaukee, behind two-run homers by Cecil Cooper and Rob Deer, rallied from an 8-0 deficit in the first inning to beat Cleveland.

Tigers 12, Mariners 0
Darnell Coles drove in three runs, two on an eighth-inning homer, and Walt Terrell limited Seattle to five hits, leading host Detroit over Seattle.

Terrell, 5-1, overcame a shaky first inning, in which Seattle loaded the bases two outs, to get his fourth complete game and seventh career shutout. He walked six and struck out two.

Angels 6, Orioles 4
Bob Boone snapped a 1-for-23 slump with a pair of run-scoring singles as California defeated Baltimore. Rookie Wally Joyner, Reggie Jackson and Ruppert Jones also had RBI singles as visiting California dealt the Orioles only their second loss in 10 games.

White Sox 2, Blue Jays 1
Joel Davis scattered eight hits and host Chicago extended its winning streak to six games with a victory over Toronto. The White Sox have won nine of 11 games. Chicago's winning streak is its longest since a six-game streak in August 1984.

Rangers 4, Royals 0

Texas left-hander Mike Mason struck out a career-high 10 batters and held visiting Kansas City to six hits. Mason, 4-0, outdueled Royals right-hander Dennis Leonard, 4-4, who allowed eight hits, including two home runs. Mason walked three in his second career shutout.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Pirates 4, Astros 2

Mike Brown hit a three-run homer with one out in the ninth inning to lift Pittsburgh over Houston and Nolan Ryan at the Astrodome.

Ryan, 3-6, carried a two-hitter into the ninth when R.J. Reynolds led off with a single and Johnny Ray followed with an infield single. Sid Bream forced Ray at second and Brown followed with his third homer of the season to left.

Reds 5, Cardinals 3
Dave Parker hit a tiebreaking two-run homer in the seventh inning and rookie Tracy Jones collected four hits, including his first major-league homer, as Cincinnati defeated St. Louis, sending the host Cardinals to their sixth consecutive defeat.

Jones began the s-h with a single off reliever Greg Bargar, 0-1, and stole second. Dave Concepcion sacrificed Jones to third and southpaw reliever Ricky Horton came on to face the left-handed hitting Parker, who hit his eighth homer.

Tyson remains unbeaten

NEW YORK (AP) — "I learn from going 10 rounds," says heavyweight Mike Tyson. "It's a great experience."
 Tyson's second straight "great experience" came Tuesday night at Madison Square Garden on a 10-round unanimous decision over Mitch "Blood" Green, which kept him unbeaten in 21 pro fights and left him feeling satisfied.
 "I wanted to give a 10-round performance that everybody would like," said the 19-year-old Tyson, who won his first 19 fights by knockout in a total of 36 rounds. His knockout streak was ended when he won a 10-round decision over veteran James "Quick" Tillis. "The Tillis fight as a negative one ... tonight was my best one," Tyson said.

 But as the fight grew longer, the boos grew stronger. Tyson didn't comment on the boos, but he did say "I'm not disappointed in the crowd (announced as 6,258). If it hadn't televised on HBO, it would have been a sellout." The Garden holds more than 20,000 for boxing. And he insisted, "I didn't want to knock him out. I wanted to put pressure on him and make him tire himself."

 While Tyson did not knock Green down, he did take the fight to him, and at the end all three officials had him far ahead. Two judges each scored it 9-1 and the third had it 8-2.

Rout

 At Atlanta, Dale Murphy hit a two-run homer and Ozzie Virgil added a bases-empty shot to power the Braves' to their fifth straight victory. Murphy's eighth homer of the season carried to the left-field seats in the third inning after Omar Moreno had doubled and gave Atlanta a 4-3 lead.
 Virgil hit his fifth homer in the second and Atlanta broke the game open with three unearned runs in the fourth aided by third baseman Keith Moreland's fielding error and shortstop Shawn Dunston's throwing error.

Dodgers 4, Expos 0
 Fernando Valenzuela pitched his fifth career two-hitter and Franklin Stubbs hit a two-run homer to lead host Los Angeles over Montreal.
 Valenzuela, 6-2, retired the first 18 batters before issuing a leadoff walk to Tim Lincecum in the seventh on a 3-2 pitch.

Mets 2, Giant 1
 Ray Knight led off the eighth inning with a double and later scored on a passed ball by San Francisco catcher Bob Brenly to give the New York the victory at Candlestick Park.

Bob Ojeda, with relief help from Roger McDowell, won a pitching duel over Mike LaCoss. Ojeda, 6-1, allowed five hits in seven innings, striking out three and walking none.

Padres 4, Phillies 3
 The Padres' Kevin McReynolds hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning to break a scoreless tie. McReynolds' sixth home run of the year came on a 3-0 pitch by Kevin Gross, 3-4, who allowed seven hits in eight innings, walking one and striking out three.

Boston

 The Celtics were much more efficient. They needed just six days to eliminate Milwaukee and earned two days off before resuming practice Wednesday. Bird made sure it didn't go any longer as he hit four three-point field goals in the final four minutes to cap a 30-point performance Sunday.

Boston played without backup forward Scott Wedman, who fractured two ribs in Saturday's victory and could miss the entire final round. His absence led to some strange combinations.

The Celtics did that in the fourth period when Bird broke open the game.

In the three-guard alignment, Johnson, who usually brings the ball up, was the small forward.

The Celtics would be less likely to use that small lineup against Houston, which has Akeem Olatunji and Ralph Sampson up front and is one of the best equipped NBA teams to contend with Boston's powerful inside game.

Eight of Boston's 11 playoff victories have been by at least 11 points and its average margin of victory was 14.6 points. The Celtics had finished the regular season by winning 17 of their last 19 games by an average of 16.3 points. Boston is 28-3 since March 11, winning 21 of those games by 11 points or more, and 57-9 since Dec. 28.

West Texas State drops two sports

CANYON (AP) — Cross country and golf teams, as well as anthropology and general agriculture, are among programs being eliminated at West Texas State University.

Regents cut those programs Tuesday and changed admission standards to try to improve the university and put it on a better financial footing. The dropped programs should cut about $1 million from the university's $28 million budget, said spokeswoman Mary Coyne.

Ms. Coyne said programs with little student or faculty interest or few job opportunities will be dropped.

Those programs include speech and hearing therapy, general agricultural, anthropology, French and German education, industrial education, library science, two-year secretarial studies and the masters degree program in Spanish, she said.

In athletics, regents dropped the men's and women's golf and indoor and outdoor cross-country track programs.

In athletics, regents voted to drop the men's and women's indoor and outdoor track and cross country as well as the golf program.

The remaining sports are football, men's and women's basketball, women's volleyball, men's and women's tennis. Men's and women's riflery is being added.

Under a reorganization plan, the university will merge the now-separate schools of agriculture, nursing and natural sciences and the college of education and social sciences. A single college of business and technology will be created.

The university will form a college of fine arts and humanities, and the separate graduate program will be dropped. Instead, graduate studies will be administered through each college.

Ms. Coyne said the regents' unanimous decision comes after 14 months of study. She said the plan will "allow us to do fewer things, but do them better so the focus is on quality."

"Certainly the budget crunch the state is facing is affecting us, but that's what makes this a timely and good plan," she said. "This was started long before we knew oil prices would fall."

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle your work or business in an acceptable fashion and please those who count the most to you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Seek whatever is inspiring to you and get good results, since you have excellent judgment now.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Try to change conditions at your home so that all can agree and greater mutual benefits can accrue.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Go after the data you need in order to build a firmer foundation to your life, since you can attain it today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get out of that confused state early and you can easily improve financial and practical affairs.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be willing to work very hard in order to gain whatever the ambition may be and will have great willpower and will not be easily thwarted in gaining own aims, once the mind is made up. Any pet prejudice should be forgotten. Promote acceptance and open-mindedness.

USFL's antitrust trial moving slowly

NEW YORK (AP) — The first week of testimony in the USFL's $1.32 billion antitrust suit against the NFL is winding up with the jury having only heard from one witness — NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Rozelle completed his fourth day on the stand Tuesday and is to return again today as he goes point-by-point through evidence introduced during 13½ hours of earlier grilling by USFL counsel Harvey Myerson.

With NFL attorney Frank Rothman guiding him through the same points that Myerson stressed during his examination, Rozelle disclosed that in 1982 he had been offered a job as the USFL's first commissioner. He said he turned it down and a question as to how much money he had been offered was disallowed by U.S. District Judge Peter K. Leisure.

He also made the following points:

— The television contracts with ABC, CBS and NBC were the result of evolution, not some grand design by the NFL to tie up the three major networks. The basis of the USFL's case is that it is the NFL's control over the networks that has kept the younger league from obtaining a network contract for its switch to the fall.

— He immediately took steps to quash the circulation of a presentation made to NFL executives by a professor at the Harvard Business School that the USFL calls one of the "smoking guns" in its case. Rothman introduced a letter from NFL counsel Jay Moyer to Jack Donlan, executive director of the NFL Management Council, calling much of the study "largely impractical or legally impermissible."

— He said the NFL had never put pressure on any owner not to buy a franchise in the USFL. He cited the example of Edward DeBartolo Sr.'s ownership of the USFL's Pittsburgh Maulers while his son, Edward Jr., owned the San Francisco 49ers, although he did not note that the NFL formed a special committee to study possible conflicts of interest in the dual ownership.

— Almost half of Rozelle's nearly five hours on the stand was devoted to the television question, which is expected to be the central issue in the trial. The USFL is seeking to have at least one of the NFL's contracts with the three major networks voided.

Central to that was his discussion of the 1970 negotiations, when for the first time the NFL signed contracts with all three networks.

Rozelle testified that when he conceived the idea of prime-time football, he did it for its "promotional value and great prestige" not to preclude another league from getting on ABC.

He said he first offered the package to CBS, then to NBC, the two networks that then exclusively carried NFL games. It was only after they turned him down, he said, that he went to ABC with the package that became "Monday Night Football."

"At this time, after ABC accepted did you have any intention in your mind to tie up all three networks?" Rothman asked.

"No," Rozelle replied.

"If CBS or NBC had wanted the games, would you have gone to them," Rothman asked.

"Yes," Rozelle said.

Peter Spivak, who was owner of the USFL's Michigan Panthers and was also acting commissioner in the league's formative months, confirmed that Rozelle had been offered the job.

Although he wasn't involved in contacting Rozelle, "I can confirm that the offer was made," Spivak told the New York Times. "All the USFL owners agreed that the offer should be made. And it was."

loses lawsuit

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court on Wednesday rejected the workers' compensation claim filed by a former Dallas Cowboy linebacker who hurt his knee in the Cowboys' last game of the 1973 NFL season.

Rodrigo Barnes, who played college football at Rice, did not file his notice and claim for workers' compensation until 1982.

A Dallas trial court awarded Barnes' claim, and United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. appealed.

The 5th Court of Appeals at Dallas said that Barnes had conceded that his notice and claim were not filed within six months of the injury as required by law and also conceded that he was unable to show "good cause" for failing to file on time.

The trial court, however, agreed with Barnes that he did not have to give notice until his employer, the Cowboys, had first filed a report of his injury.

The Dallas appeals court said Barnes was at the field house the day after his injury, which was the only "work" any team member had after the end of the season.

"Since there was no 'absence' of Barnes from any work of his employer, no duty to file by the employer arose; consequently, Barnes can 'gain no additional time' for filing his own notice and claim within six months of his injury or within such additional time as is justified by good cause," the appeals court said.

The appeals court reversed the trial court and said Barnes should get nothing.

The Supreme Court affirmed the Dallas appeals court without writing an opinion.

College hoop coach goes to court

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A suit filed in circuit court by former University of Charleston basketball coach Tex Williams, who is seeking to have his forced resignation set aside, has been moved to federal court, lawyers said today.

Williams, 45, led Charleston to a 30-5 record, a West Virginia Conference regular season championship and the quarterfinals of the NAIA national tournament this past season. He was forced to resign last month after admitting that he falsified part of recruit Julius Lockett's college admission application.

In his suit, initially filed in Kanawha County Circuit Court, Williams said his letter of resignation was obtained by Charleston President Richard Breslin through coercion.

A hearing set for today before Judge Andrew MacQueen was canceled when Charleston's lawyer requested that the case be moved to U.S. District Court. University lawyer William Booker said the request was made because the suit alleges that college officials violated Williams' U.S. constitutional rights.

A federal court date was not immediately set and Williams' attorney, Joe Thomas, said he will try to have the suit sent back to circuit court.

3 wrecks in rural areas injure 2 over weekend

Three separate vehicle accidents outside Big Spring city limits resulted in two persons being treated for minor injuries at Malone-Hogan Hospital's emergency room. Another person was treated for minor injuries and released from Malone-Hogan Clinic.

Clinic nursing director Shirleen Brown said this morning that Robert Muzio Jr., 23, of 1606 Main was treated and released for minor injuries.

According to a Department of Public Safety accident report, Muzio was involved in a single car accident 6:30 a.m. Friday three miles west of Big Spring.

According to the accident report, Muzio fell asleep at the wheel of a car that veered off the road and struck a pole. The car rolled 1/2 time and came to rest on its roof. Muzio was cited for traveling at an unsafe speed.

Elmer Arville Hestand, 36, of Anson was treated for cuts and bruises and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital's emergency room shortly after midnight Saturday, an emergency room spokeswoman said this morning.

He was cited by the Department of Public Safety for failure to drive in a single lane after his truck tractor semi-trailer slid sideways off FM 669 and overturned in a bar ditch. The accident occurred 22 miles north of Big Spring in Borden County at 8:30 p.m. Friday, according to a DPS accident report.

Other factors contributing to the accident were alcohol and faulty evasive action, according to the report.

A Big Spring woman was treated for minor injuries Friday night and released, an emergency room spokeswoman said this morning.

Shawn McCalister, 21, of 809 E. 14th received injuries while she was a passenger in a car driven by Paula Spears, 20, of 709 Lorilla. The car was traveling southbound on Highway 87, four miles south of Big Spring.

According to a DPS accident report, Spears was traveling behind a vehicle driven by Barbara Holdamph, 49, of Garden City Route Box 168-A.

Youth, 17, injured in crash of three-wheeler into bridge

A Big Spring youth was hospitalized Sunday night when the three-wheel recreational vehicle he was driving struck a bridge spanning a dry creek bed.

Sammy Ventura, 17, of 1206 Main St. was listed in stable condition this morning at Malone-Hogan Hospital with head and chest injuries, said a hospital spokeswoman.

A witness told police Ventura was injured while riding a Honda three-wheeler along a creek bed near the 3400 block of East Interstate 20.

According to the police report, Ventura was driving the vehicle at a high rate of speed and failed to stop in time for a bridge that crossed the creek bed. The witness told police that Ventura cushioned the blow by raising his arms just before striking the low bridge.

Ventura was not wearing a helmet or eye protection, according to the police report.

Child thought cause of fire

A child is suspected of setting a mattress ablaze in the rental house owned by Dr. Loran Warren in the 1700 block of Lancaster Street at about 8 a.m., Fire Chief Carl Dorton said. The fire was confined to a bedroom but the house sustained minor smoke damage throughout, he said. No one was injured.

Yahooooooo!

Police officer Sam Voss from Denton twirls his rope as he gets ready to lasso a calf during the ribbon-roping competition at the Texas Police Officers Association Rodeo Sunday afternoon at the Rodeo Bowl. Ribbon roping was one of 10 rodeo events that featured as many as 250 police officers from all over the state. The two-day show was Big Spring's first police association rodeo and it attracted several hundred spectators Saturday and Sunday. The proceeds from the rodeo will benefit the Rainbow Project and the Northside Community Center.

Dear Abby

Three magic words help women with car trouble

DEAR READERS: Three years ago I wrote a column telling women what to do if they have car trouble while they're alone at night. It read (in part): "Turn your emergency blinkers on, or lift the hood to let passers-by know you have car trouble, then sit in your car with the windows rolled up and wait for help."

Then a reader wrote in to say: "Abby, I wouldn't recommend getting out of the car even to lift the hood. I bought an inexpensive reflective banner with large red letters bearing the message 'Please Call Police.' It can be easily secured inside the windshield or the rear window of a car with double-faced tape so the driver doesn't even have to get out of the car. It is highly visible both day and night. This discourages would-be robbers or rapists from attacking because the police could already be on their way." (The 3-foot reusable plastic banner folds up to glove-compartment size.)

The cost is $4 each — postage and handling included. Make your tax-deductible check or money order payable to: WCIL, P.O. Box 6686, Los Angeles, Calif. 90066.

WCIL (Westside Center for Independent Living) is a non-profit organization whose primary purpose is to help disabled people live independently. Please allow four to six weeks for delivery.

DEAR ABBY: I need your help desperately. I have just lost my precious pet — a toy poodle. She was intelligent, sweet and very loving. Her name was Fe-Fe. I had her for nearly 13 years and I can't believe that she is gone. Abby, people just don't understand. She was like a child to me. No mother ever loved her baby more.

Someone told me that you had a helpful suggestion in your column about this very subject. What was it? I break down and cry when people laugh at me and say, "Snap out of it. After all, she was only a dog!" Please help me, Abby. I can't handle this alone.

JACKIE JONES,
 LEESBURG, GA.

DEAR JACKIE: You shouldn't have to handle it alone. Ask your vet to recommend a counselor who specializes in "grief and loss therapy." If your vet doesn't know one, consult your local mental health association. There are therapists who specialize in helping people cope with the loss of a loved one, friend, relative or pet. (Yes, losing a pet can be as painful as losing a child.) Many people fall apart after losing their pets and worldly goods in a fire, flash flood or burglary. Get help at once, Jackie, and let me know how you're doing I care.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for pointing out the stupid statements some well-meaning people make concerning adopted children. One of the most stupid is to say — in front of the child — "And this is Alice, John and Jane's daughter. They adopted her, you know." Then all the information about the adoption comes flowing out like water from a fountain. Why can't they just say, "And this is Alice," and leave it at that?

But the worst by far is, "I'll bet you love her like she was your own child." How dare they? She is our own child.

Focus on the family

The makeup of a strong family

By NAOMI HUNT
 County Extension Agent

The family is a fundamental structure of any society, performing essential roles of providing for the economic needs of children and others who cannot support themselves, of training children morally and socially for adult life, and of promoting a sense of belonging and importance for individuals.

The family refers not only to married adults with young children, but also to single parents, widowed persons, never married adults, extended families, and many other distinct forms. The family in Texas is diverse not only in form, but also in ethnic background and culture.

It is threatened by the forces of poverty, unemployment and crime. The family, like other human institutions, suffers from failings such as family violence, divorce, and incarceration of family members.

Families need support in dealing with exceptional members with disabilities, terminal illness, and mental and emotional disorders.

No magic formula exists for creating the "perfect family." But after years of studying families broken by divorce, drug and alcohol abuse, troubled children and family crises, researchers have begun to focus their attention on what makes a family successful.

It starts with family members who are close. They value their family bond, and want to spend time working and playing together.

Members of strong families respect individual differences. They don't expect each other to have the same interests or appearance. Individuals are encouraged in their separate pursuits knowing that the family stands behind them.

Strong families share a basic set of values that provides direction for day-to-day decisions. They are clear about their values, yet tolerant of individual differences and respect the values of others. Most recent research studies indicate that families with strong values also tend to have a high degree of religious orientation.

Parents in strong families take their leadership responsibilities seriously. Mothers and fathers share leadership and both actively teach, lead, guide and discipline, but do not attempt to be peers or friends with their children.

These families tend to face problems openly and realistically. They are flexible in seeking solutions to problems and willing to try something else when a first-try does not work. As a result, strong families are the most capable of adapting to crisis situations.

Strong families have bonds of love that reach out to less effective families, and contribute to many community activities. They help others.

Strong families laugh together. They create and nurture family jokes and patterns of play. They use laughter and teasing for transitions at difficult moments, but do not indulge in hostile or painful kidding.

Evidently, strong bonds of love, lots of caring and sharing, mixed with fun and laughter adds up to strong families.

Not 'just' a face in the crowd

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

Carolyn Johnson recalls the day her first child was born like it was yesterday: "I had Jennifer just before I was 30. She was born on August 15, 1980 with a terrible birth trauma and I had to have a C-section. I never saw Jennifer until the next day so I thought our baby had died. My husband decided he'd be the one to tell me that our baby was born with a craniofacial deformity called a cleft lip and palate."

A craniofacial deformity refers to the cranial (head) and facial (face) bones, Carolyn Johnson, a teacher at the Garden City school system, said.

"Having a child is like euphoria, you just want to shout. But, when your baby is born with a deformity: first you feel a loss, you lost your perfect baby and you go through a grief process; but then you immediately feel an over-flowing amount of love," she said.

When Johnson came home from the hospital the "reality" came to her, she said. "I got direction and adjusted." Her main focus was to get Jennifer to eat. "There are numerous feeding problems with a cleft lip," said Johnson.

"We looked forward to the three months and 10 pounds," she said. For when Jennifer reached those two criteria, she could have surgery to reconstruct her face.

But there were problems. She lost weight, "and got down to just short of her birth weight. However, through nothing more than the answer of prayer, she recovered and had her lip and nose closed at the age of 4 months. She also had a double hernia repair at that time," Johnson said.

The Johnsons took Jennifer into the hospital and within hours their child was "transformed" into someone else, Johnson said. "It's exciting. You feel that same euphoria: it's like having a baby again. You feel a loss for the other child, but it passes quickly."

The public eye was finally off them, she said. Jennifer's palate was closed a year later and her parents thought most of her surgery was complete until her teenage years (with the exception of a few refinements), Johnson said.

However, in late 1982, a surgeon recommended that Jennifer have her skull x-rayed to check for possible skull deformity as well, said Johnson. "So at that time, we left the doctor in Lubbock that had performed her two previous surgeries and sought the help of Dr. Kenneth Salyer in Dallas. She subsequently had radical surgery on her head to restructure and reshape her face, forehead, eye sockets, nose and neck, said her mother. "She is now wearing a thing on her face called a facial mask, which is an effort to move her jaw, cheeks, and gum."

"It all became a part of life. Take out the trash, do the laundry and have surgery," she said.

"We're just one of the many," Johnson said. In the United States, 15,000 infants are born every year with craniofacial irregularities. In Texas alone, the incidence of these defects, including clefting syndromes, occurs in one out of every 500 births, according to recent statistics by the International Craniofacial Institute.

The good news is that hundreds of children can potentially be restored with early correction, according to a release from the institute.

Preliminary research, by the Foundation of Craniofacial Deformities, on mother-infant bonding suggests that it is critical to operate on children with craniofacial deformities prior to the bonding process (between ages 5 and 9 months.) The institute has discovered that if these children are left untreated until late in life, they grow up with a host of medical and psychological problems, ranging from degrees of insecurity to severe extremes of drug addiction.

Many of the parents experience guilt feelings for having a child with a craniofacial deformity, Johnson said. The overwhelming initial reaction of most parents seems to be "What did I do wrong?" however, the development of the craniofacial structures in the embryo is a very complicated and poorly understood process, according to the Foundation for Craniofacial Deformities. Many different factors can disrupt the normal growth pattern. This could include medications the mother and fetus are exposed to and abnormalities of the genes or chromosomes. In many cases, the cause is not known. Each case needs individual genetic assessment, according to the foundation.

Jennifer Johnson, 2 1/2 months, is shown, above, the way she looked before she had reconstructive surgery on her face.

The new Jennifer Johnson, above, after the reconstructive surgery and healing, enjoys her first Easter with her new face only four months later.

Today, Jennifer Johnson, 5, enjoys life as any other five year old child would. She's very active and creative, according to her mother, Carolyn Johnson.
