Free food plan to continue

Local official looks for distribution volunteers

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer
 In spite of government funds running out, West Texas Opportunities will try to continue distributing free government surplus food to the needy, Pat Lawlis, director of the Howard County office, said this morning.

"This is our largest project, but our least funded."
 The company, a non-profit agency that distributes the food, is looking for volunteers to transport the food to Big Spring from its storage in Lubbock this summer, she said. She said she has contacted the National Guard, which is helping in other counties, but has not yet received an answer.

The state will have exhausted federal funds for distribution of the food by June 1, Texas Department of Human Services officials said. Lawlis said West Texas Opportunities will be funded through its next distribution date, June 12.

When funds were exhausted last year, the food was not distributed in October, she said.

But the need for the food remains high. The agency is getting 45 to 50 new families every month because of the hard economic times, Lawlis said. The list now contains 749 families, she said.

Most of those who receive the food in Big Spring are elderly, Lawlis said, but most of the newly certified are younger people who have lost their jobs.

 The food, mainly butter, cheese and powdered milk, has to be transported from Lubbock to Big Spring the day before it is distributed, she said, because she doesn't have enough refrigerated space to store it here. Last month, 15,000 pounds were transported and distributed.

Big Springers to link hands with America

By SPENCER SANDOW

 Jim Blackwell's birthday celebration will involve millions of Americans and range from one coast to the other.
 The associate manager of Rositas Fajitas is organizing a group from Big Spring to take part in the Hands Across America human chain Sunday to raise money for the nation's hungry. The event falls on his birthday.
 So far about 20 local people are going with him to Amarillo to participate, but he is having trouble arranging for transportation, he said.
 "I'm not having any luck at all," he said. He is trying to arrange for a bus, but got started too late to hire a charter bus, he said, and so far area organizations with buses haven't been willing to help. If all else fails, he may organize a caravan, he said.

 The trip will probably take a full day. The group will leave here at 8 a.m. Sunday for the five- to six-hour drive north and may not get back until 10 p.m., he said.
 People from this area are scheduled to take part in the line near Amarillo on westbound Interstate 40, between mile markers 41 and 42, Blackwell said. Everyone should be in line by 2 p.m.
 "It's going to be a blast. I'm looking forward to it," he said. "I think it's for a good cause, and we're going to have a lot of fun."
 Celebrities ranging from Kenny Rogers to Yoko Ono to Mickey Mouse and Goofy will be among the millions joining the human chain across the nation.

 Hands Across America volunteers Lee Ann Smith, right, and Claudia Goodpaster, both of Little Rock, Ark., answer telephones at the organization's Arkansas headquarters Wednesday in Little Rock, making assignments along the 300-mile route through the state. Organizers say about 400,000 people will be needed to complete the Arkansas leg of the chain Sunday.

Chamber enlists business help in education

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer
 Howard County business people would share their skills with public schools in a business and education partnership plan approved Wednesday by Chamber of Commerce directors.
 The chamber education committee targeted five areas in which businesses could participate in community education: lectures or demonstrations; business tours; becoming tutors or mentors in business matters; "career shadowing" or student intern programs; and a partnership through which businesses would loan advisers to a school to provide up-to-date information in a field, review curriculum, or help design a vocational education program.

 The areas were outlined in a memo presented by committee chairman Charles Hays.
 Other areas in which the business community could help would be with computer projects; science, math and writing partnerships; and financial help, Hays said.
 "Educational efforts on the part of the school officials and teachers can be greatly enhanced by the wealth of expertise and ingenuity in the business community," he said. Also, such a plan may produce "more acceptable" people for the labor force, he said.

 The first year the plan would be a pilot project, in which the chamber would adopt four elementary schools and two areas of need at the junior and senior high levels. Needs to be met would be selected by school officials and teachers.
 The next step is to present the plan to the school board, Hays said.
 In other business, the board:
 • Chose Steve Stone to do an audit for the chamber for a fee of $1,750.
 • Selected a committee to nominate five people to the board for terms that expire this year. The committee consists of Clyde McMahon Sr., County Judge Milton Kirby, Councilman Russ McEwen, Troy Fraser and Glen Fillingim.

 Discussed paving the alley behind the chamber building. Public works director Tom Decell estimated the cost to be $3,500, said executive vice president LeRoy Tillery.
 Named Richard Atkins to fill the board place vacated by Sam Hill, who is moving to Lubbock.
 Passed a motion to commend the city for its cleanup efforts.
 Passed a motion to support proposed City Council action eliminating glass bottles from Big Spring.

 Announced the CLEAN committee has hired Goliad Middle School teachers Brenda Allen and Linda Battle to run the CLEAN program this summer, in which 15 young people will be hired from June 9 to Aug. 6 to clean up the city. The city will provide the salaries for the two directors and some of the workers.
 Announced chairmen of the newly formed downtown steering committee are Shirley Shroyer, Bruce Hogenmiller and Clyde Acting Police Chief Lennie Smith, a 34-year-old Big Spring native, discusses his new role as head cop. Smith was appointed to the position May 15 by acting City Manager Hal Boyd after former police chief Rick Turner resigned at the request of City Council.

Acting chief is 'home grown'

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer
 The man appointed to fill the shoes of former Police Chief Rick Turner, who resigned under pressure last week, is no stranger to longtime residents of Big Spring.
 Capt. Lonnie Smith is home-grown, having spent all his 34 years in the Spring City. Smith said knowing as many people as he does, and having them know him, is an advantage in his new role as acting police chief.
 He was named to the position by acting City Manager Hal Boyd last week after Turner was asked to resign by the City Council.
 Smith and his wife, Carla, have an 11-year-old son and a daughter who's 3. He graduated from Big Spring High School in 1971 and earned an associated degree in criminal justice from Howard College. Smith says he is now closing in on a bachelor of arts degree in criminal justice.

As a captain, Smith presided over the patrol units, and he said the sudden climb in rank took him by surprise.
 He said he had "no idea" Boyd would select him to fill in as chief until a new one is hired. At a news conference last week, Boyd indicated the next police chief would be selected by the new city manager. And it's expected to take several months before the City Council brings a new head administrator aboard.
 Meanwhile, Capt. Melvin Fowler will move over from detective division to oversee the patrol department, with Smith in charge of the detectives.
 Smith said as chief "there's a different outlook on things. There's more responsibility. I have more people and I need to be aware of what they're doing."
 That job is made easier with good interdepartmental communication, he said.

"We urge our officers, regardless if they're assigned to detectives or patrol, to keep an open line of communication with each other. It's going to take a joint effort by everyone involved to come up with a workable solution to crimes and offenses that have happened."
 One crime that has given police fits this year is burglary. "We're still working on trying to do something about the burglaries," he said.
 Smith said police also are concerned with the wave of shootings and murders that gripped the city earlier this year.
 "We're still trying to formulate some plan to protect people the best we can in respect to the violent crimes," he said.
 "We're here to try and help the people and get their confidence so if they need help they can feel comfortable in contacting us.... A lot of times we can help," he said.

3 sentenced to prison

District Judge James Gregg sentenced two men and a woman to prison Wednesday morning after each pleaded guilty to committing a felony.

Brenda Kay Thompson, 30, of Gail Route Box 238 will serve three years at the Texas Department of Corrections for attempting to forge some checks, said Assistant District Attorney Robert Morris.

She was arrested by police May 7 at 1010 S. Main St. on a warrant issued from the district attorney's office.

She was credited for 15 days served in the county jail.

Paul Justin Brown, 23, of 200 S. Goliad St. will serve three years for committing burglary after Gregg revoked his probation. District Attorney Rick Hamby said a warrant was issued on March 27 for Brown's arrest because he had committed "technical violations" to the rules of his probation.

Brown was credited for 52 days served in county jail.

Charles Killcrease, 19, of 1601 Mesquite St. will serve two concurrent seven-year terms for burglary. He was arrested by police May 1 in the 2500 block of Dow Drive while attempting to burglarize a residence. He was on probation for burglary of a motor vehicle at the time of his arrest, Hamby said.

Fire destroys trailer, car

A trailer house and car, located on Walter Road between Big Spring and Coahoma, were destroyed by fire Wednesday morning, according to a Big Spring fire department report.

No cause has been determined, but the blaze may have been started by children playing with matches, Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles said this morning.

The 9:20 a.m. fire caused about $15,000 damage to the trailer, owned by Sunny West, and $1,000 damage the car, owned by Ellen Anders, according to the report. Both were "totaled," Settles said.

Anders lived in the trailer with her two children, he said.

A male babysitter present in the trailer when the fire broke out attempted to extinguish it before notifying a neighbor, Settles said. The neighbor notified the fire department, and units from Big Spring and Coahoma responded.

Ken Kragen, organizer of USA for Africa, will anchor the 4,152-mile line from its starting point in New York City's Battery Park, while 8,000 non-celebrities will anchor the other end by forming a Hands Across America logo with balloons alongside the Queen Mary in Long Beach.

Organizers have come up short on plans for a continuous human chain of 6 million to 10 million Americans from sea to sea. Kragen said $100 million would be raised for the nation's hungry.

Although momentum is building in the final days and organizers expect a surge of participants, realities have dashed the dreams of a continuous human linkup. Gaps now appear in California and Arizona, and sections of New Mexico and Texas will surely be empty.

"Our goal is not to have a stunt, not a hand-in-hand demonstration," California organizer Roger Carrick said Wednesday, explaining the 100-mile gap in his state.

Hands Across America will instead stretch a symbolic red-and-white ribbon, actually a thin rope, that will be held by volunteers stationed one-tenth of a mile apart. The same procedure will be used along 94 miles of Arizona desert.

Trade bill under debate

WASHINGTON — The sweeping trade bill under debate in the House calls for retaliation against unfair tactics ranging from barriers against U.S. exports to targeting of American markets for a takeover by imports.

The bill would not make retaliation against overseas trade barriers fully mandatory, however. A president unwilling to strike back with tariffs and quotas could merely proclaim such action counter to the "national economic interest."

In fact, the "national economic interest" — a catchall category that could include almost anything — could be cited as cause to dispense with most of the most stringent and heavily debated provisions of the 458-page plan to revise U.S. trade laws.

AT&T users to benefit

WASHINGTON — American Telephone & Telegraph Co., in response to government prodding, wants to pass on to consumers an additional $450 million in savings.

In papers AT&T said it would file at the Federal Communications Commission today, the company will ask to increase its previously announced rate cut to $2 billion.

AT&T said this would mean a $1.02 drop in an average residential customer's $10 monthly bill for out-of-state calls.

Presser voted again

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Teamsters union leaders, again defying government prosecutors, have closed ranks behind indicted president Jackie Presser, voting by a nearly 99-to-1 margin to keep him in the driver's seat of the nation's largest union.

But how long he will continue to hold the reins of a union that retains its name from the days of horse-drawn wagons could be in the hands of a federal jury.

Reagan vetoes motion

WASHINGTON — President Reagan on Wednesday vetoed a congressional resolution blocking the sale of sophisticated arms to Saudi Arabia, sources said, but Senate Democrats blocked an immediate vote to sustain that move.

"I believe that we have the votes to sustain the veto and uphold the president's position and I would like very much to proceed with that forthwith," said Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas.

Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., agreed with the vote count saying, "Now they have the votes" to block the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto.

President Reagan calls on a questioner during a question and answer session with 120 high school students from around the country Wednesday at the Old Executive Office Building. The meeting was sponsored by the "Close Up" foundation, a non-partisan group that gives students a chance to study the federal government.

Help for hungry

Reagan says poor not aware of aid sources

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says America's hungry go without food because they do not know where to get help, but anti-hunger activists fault his administration for eliminating the program that told the poor about food stamps.

"I don't believe that there is anyone going hungry in America simply by reason of denial or lack of ability to feed them," Reagan told a high school group Wednesday. "It is by people not knowing where or how to get this help."

The president, in a question and answer session with the students, said the hungry are not aware of the government and private aid available to them.

"Where there is hunger ... you have to determine that that is probably because of a lack of knowledge on the part of the people as to what things are available," Reagan said.

"Not only is the government doing much in that line, but there has been about a three-time increase in private charity and aid in our country," Reagan said, adding that private donations to charity were $79.8 billion in 1985.

Reagan made the comments in a 30-minute session with 117 students from various parts of the country. The meeting was sponsored by the "Close Up" Foundation, a non-partisan organization that gives students a chance to study the federal government.

Robert Greenstein, director of the Center on the Budget and Policy Priorities, said he agreed with the president that "there is an information problem — many of the people who are poor and eligible do not know they are eligible" for food stamps.

Greenstein, a former Carter administration official who now heads the non-profit study group, said the Reagan administration did away with the Foodstamp Outreach program in 1981, designed during the Nixon administration to inform people about food stamps.

The House attempted to reinstate the program in 1985, but the effort was blocked by the administration, Greenstein said.

"I'm sure the president never heard of it," Greenstein said of the outreach program. "This is one of the causes of the resurgence of hunger in America — the problem is, his administration is responsible for it."

Although Greenstein said he agreed with Reagan that private donations had increased, he said most people working with low-income groups reported that the donations they received had not filled the gap left by cuts in government services.

John Kellogg, spokesman for the Harvard-based Physicians Task Force on Hunger, said Reagan's action was a "major reason why the (food stamp) program fails to reach 40 percent of eligible Americans."

Cyclone toll put at 49

HONIARA, Solomon Islands — Rescue workers today found the bodies of 43 people buried in mud and debris on the Guadalcanal plains, a news agency reported. The discovery boosted the death toll from Typhoon Namu to at least 49.

Officials say many more people are missing and feared dead, particularly on the outlying islands where casualties and damage have been impossible to ascertain because of downed communications.

Paintings heist untraced

DUBLIN, Ireland — Police watched airports and docks today for some of the world's most valuable and best-known paintings that were stolen from a mansion south of Dublin, but news reports suggested they already may have been spirited out of the country.

Thieves took 17 paintings early Wednesday from Russborough House 15 miles southwest of Dublin, including works by Gainsborough, Goya, Rubens and Vermeer.

Within hours, a group of boys found the seven least valuable pictures by an abandoned van near Blessington, about 20 miles southwest of Belfast. Two of them had been damaged, but police did not say immediately how bad the damage was.

Lebanese bombing kills

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Moslem and Christian gunners rained shells and rockets on Beirut's residential neighborhoods today in the worst random bombardment in four months. Police said 28 people were killed and 100 were wounded.

The shelling, which lasted from dusk to dawn, shattered a 2-week-old truce between Lebanese militias that was called for Ramadan, Islam's holy month of fasting.

One Lebanese soldier was killed in the fighting, but the rest of those killed and most of the wounded were civilians, police said.

Nuke deaths rise to 15

VIENNA, Austria — Policy makers for the International Atomic Energy Agency have reached preliminary agreement on ways to make nuclear plants safer after the Chernobyl accident, officials said today.

Also today, a Soviet official told the agency's board of governors that the death toll has risen to 15 as a result of the April 26 nuclear accident in the Soviet Ukraine. It was not known whether the figure included two men the Soviets said died the day of the accident.

Students return to hostage scene

COKEVILLE, Wyo. (AP) — The psychological healing process has begun for pupils who returned to Cokeville Elementary School five days after they were held hostage in a classroom until a homemade gasoline bomb exploded.

"We have no way of finding out how long it will take. Psychologists say there is such a thing as anniversaries. On May 16 next year there will be a few traumas," said Principal Max Excell.

Ten-year-old Joe Mackey had mixed emotions about returning for a two-hour school day Wednesday that officials hoped would ease the pupils back into a daily routine.

"Well, it was kinda fun to see my friends and teachers. And it was kinda scary, because you think it might happen again," he said. "The first time I went back to the room, it was really scary because you had bad memories."

The pupils, teachers and administrators were held in a first-grade classroom for 2½ hours Friday until the bomb carried by Doris Young accidentally exploded, killing her, and apparently prompting her husband, David Young, to shoot himself to death, ending the standoff in which the couple demanded $300 million for the release of hostages.

Although police say there is no evidence the Youngs were linked to any right-wing extremist groups, a diary owned by Doris Young mentioned plans to form a "new world" with some of the pupils.

Also returning to the school in this small, ranching community in southwestern Wyoming was John Miller, 30, a music teacher shot in the shoulder by Young while trying to flee.

Miller went from classroom to classroom showing the pupils his wound, which psychologists said could help pupils overcome their fears since the teacher was among the most seriously injured, yet survived.

Jeremiah Moore, whose seventh birthday was celebrated in the first-grade classroom Friday, was coloring a picture of a birthday cake Wednesday.

Let's rally 'round military reform

The vote in the Senate, 95 to 0 in favor of a military reform bill, was impressive. In part it was a tribute to Barry Goldwater, the Arizona Republican who is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, who had made the bill his highest priority. He plans to retire after this year and he says this Pentagon reorganization bill is the most important legislation he has had anything to do with in his 30 years in the Senate.

That's not overstating the importance of the bill. It will rearrange the hierarchy, and for the first time unify this country's military leadership at the highest professional level. It is the capstone on the defense unification process initiated by President Harry Truman 40 years ago, after World War II.

The Pentagon resisted reform, especially the Navy, which has always opposed unification of the separate services. But the resistance has been overcome or silenced. President Reagan, with the advice of a citizens commission headed by David Packard, the California defense industrialist, has signed on.

Now it remains for the House, which has already passed a less ambitious Pentagon reform bill, and the Senate to reach agreement on the terms of the reform. In Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, the House has its own competent champion of military reform. Passage of significant legislation is assured.

No structural reform will work, however, without the enthusiastic efforts of individual military men and women. Service parochialism must now yield to a higher cause. The top officers in each service will set the tone. We challenge them all, and the Navy officers in particular, to help forge a more unified, effective and efficient defense force and to make this military reform work.

Election fever strikes long distance phone companies

In the next two months you will be participating in the greatest election of your life. You will be voting for the long-distance telephone company of your choice.

This may be the most significant ballot you ever cast. People in the United States tend to take their right to choose a long-distance service for granted. They don't appreciate that in communist and socialist nations the phone service is run by the state. Soviets, Chinese, Cubans and Afghans have never heard the words, "Thank you for using AT&T." Faceless bureaucrats dictate what kinds of phones they will have. If they are overcharged or get a wrong number they are turned over to a communications commissar. If they complain, he comes into their home and yanks the phone line out of the wall.

In the United States the right to vote for your telephone company is the most precious gift you have. And to preserve this right, every citizen over the age of 18 must stand up and be counted. A large vote will send a message to our enemies around the globe that we in this country support our long-distance services whether they are right or wrong.

This year there are many long-distance services on the ballot. Some are spending millions of dollars to be elected. The incumbent, AT&T, is favored mainly because the company is running on Ma Bell's coattails. Cliff Robertson, TV spokesman for AT&T, is promising faster station-to-station calls, clearer reception and the reform of the telephone tax.

Burt Lancaster is spokesman for MCI. He is a firm, no-nonsense type who has challenged Cliff to a debate on who has the lowest long-distance prices. Lancaster has been pledging cheaper night rates, friendlier operators and no-frill calls to Alaska.

Burt should get the older vote, as most of the senior citizens remember seeing his movies. They perceive him as someone who can be trusted to tell them to do the right thing when selecting a telephone company.

Then there is Joan Rivers, whose campaign for GTE Sprint consists of making fun of other phone companies. Joan's appeal is to those who don't take their long-distance calls too seriously. While attracting a tremendous following with her commercials, there is now a big question of whether she can keep her supporters after leaving the Johnny Carson show.

A telephone election analyst with the brokerage firm of Dial, Buzzer & Hold said, "Johnny Carson has a loyal constituency, and if people switch their votes because of Rivers' breakup with Johnny, you're going to see one helluva horse race."

There are many other long-distance services to vote for. A few are: Western Union, ITT, ALLNET and U.S. Telecom.

The important thing to know is that everyone has to have a long-distance line whether or not he or she wants it.

Some of you may be saying, "Why should I vote? I have no control over my long-distance destiny."

The reason is that if you don't send in your ballot, YOUR LOCAL PHONE COMPANY WILL CHOOSE A LONG-DISTANCE CARRIER FOR YOU.

Can you imagine someone coming up the walk, knocking on the door and saying, "I'm from MCI and I have been assigned to make ALL your long-distance calls — whether you like it or not." Or how would you feel about receiving a phone call at 2 a.m. from a Western Union man who says, "If you don't call California immediately you will never see your Princess phone again."

World Bank officials fail to recognize Brazilian warning on spending spree

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — Overpaid, underworked officials in Washington, sitting in their plush offices almost totally out of touch with the real world, are often tempted to throw millions of dollars at a problem despite the urgent, knowledgeable warnings of underlings that openhanded spending may create more misery than it cures.

That's pretty much what's happened with the extravagant, ill-conceived development plan called Polonoeste, which is not a tiny European kingdom but a West Germanized state in the far northwest of Brazil.

As the home of the vast, ecologically fragile Amazon rain forest, Rondonia is about as far removed from the carpeted, air-conditioned offices of World Bank poobahs as it is possible to get without a rocketship. And the disastrous outcome of the Polonoeste project shows it.

Most of the World Bank's $500 million contribution to Polonoeste — one-fifth of which is guaranteed by U.S. taxpayers — has gone into a paved highway through the heart of Rondonia. According to environmental experts and others familiar with the project, this was a badly misplaced priority. It opened up huge areas to a headlong rush by Brazil's landless poor, who were lured on by government propaganda promising fertile farmland for limitless numbers of settlers.

The reality the poverty-stricken pioneer encountered was a cruel disappointment. Most of the rain forest land is hopelessly infertile, unsuited even to subsistence farming. Most of the little arable land was already held by large private owners, who wanted cheap help, not competitive yeomen.

So, unlike the sod-busters who followed their dreams into the Great Plains of the United States a century ago, the Brazilian settlers found land that couldn't support their families, pitifully overburdened health services and rampant violence. There have been reports of enslavement and the disappearance of entire families.

Staff specialists at the World Bank warned that a disaster was in the making, but their advice was unheeded by top officials.

"Most of the soils are infertile in their present state, all the nutrients being locked in the growing forest and decaying litter," explained one internal report. "After clearing and burning, these nutrients are released, but the soils do not have the physical and chemical capability to retain them."

But the composition of soil was too grubby a subject for the high muckamucks in their gilded offices. World Bank officials told our associate Donald Goldberg that there are areas of "exceptionally good soils" in the rain forest that could sustain such tree crops as coffee. Outside critics and the bank's staff experts strongly disagree.

"The suggestion ... that tree crops are capable of providing a sustainable production system for a fairly large proportion of the area does not accord with reservations expressed by research workers in Brazil," one internal report stated. "The soils of the Amazon area as a whole are generally poor," another report stated.

"To use unproven technologies as a basis for agricultural settlement under extremely adverse soil conditions would be a highly risky undertaking and would prove disastrous for the settlers themselves," warned an early staff memo.

But the warnings were ignored and the World Bank encouraged the Brazilian land rush. Desperate settlers keep clearcutting and burning, destroying an irreplaceable environment in the vain hope of finding land worth farming. The disaster the experts warned about grows worse by the day.

FUDDLE FACTORY: The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms slipped up last year when it turned to the esoteric sampling of wine. Bureau sleuths were looking for Austrian wine contaminated with a poisonous sweetener better suited to brake fluid than wine. While they checked shipments that arrived after July 18 themselves, they left it up to the importers to test their own wines prior to then. But they neglected to compile a list of firms suspected of importing contaminated wine, so they had no way to double-check the results. Congressional auditors suggested the bureau use better testing procedures.

DIPLOMATIC DIGEST: Strange are the ways of the striped pants set. Most Americans probably figure that, since we have sent warplanes to bomb Libyan targets and have regularly denounced Libyan leader Moammar Khadafi, surely we must have broken off diplomatic relations with Libya. Not so. In official State Department jargon, relations between the two countries are "at the lowest level consistent with the existence of diplomatic relations." On the other hand, we have no diplomatic relations at any level with Iran — which we have denounced but not bombed.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Vice President George Bush's campaign strategy for 1988 continues to be puzzling. His wife recently revealed that when her husband turned 60 he announced firmly: "I'm never going to eat broccoli, brussels sprouts, cauliflower or cabbage again." Does Bush think he can with impunity undercut the efforts of millions of determined, deluded American moms? Is he hoping for a sympathy vote from vegetable-clotted husbands? Or is he counting on some kind of a Children's Crusade to make him a national hero on an anti-brassica platform?

Around The Rim

Elderly's ills need answers

By SPENCER SANDOW
America is facing a tidal wave of problems as it attempts to deal with a rising population of elderly people, and the problem is likely to get worse instead of better as the Baby Boom generation grows old, experts say.

Medical care is one problem. Younger people rely on their employers to provide them with medical insurance to defray the crippling costs of hospitalization and the high costs of regular medical care. But retirees have no employer to provide the insurance, and they tend to be sicker than younger people. Medicare and Medicaid don't always take up the slack.

When families can't take care of their older members, the elderly are sometimes put in nursing homes. But the elderly tend to dislike that solution, and no wonder.

More than a third of the nation's skilled nursing homes don't meet basic health, safety and sanitary standards and inspectors have found an alarming increase in violations since 1982, a recent Senate report says. Nursing home horror stories are not just a myth from the past, the report says.

Compounded with the ever-rising costs of medical care is the fact that many elderly are poor. Double-digit inflation during the 1970s wiped out a lifetime of savings for many, leaving them with little money to live on during their retirement.

Retirement itself is a problem. People need to believe they are useful to live a happy life, yet corporate policy forces many out of their jobs arbitrarily at the age of 65. Though the policy is necessary, it doesn't always seem humane.

The bottom line appears to be money. Where is the nation going to get the money to support a growing non-productive elderly population?

Solutions so far have been piecemeal and inadequate. America's top minds are going to have to find an answer to the problem before the Baby Boom generation reaches retirement age, or we will find ourselves with a huge poor population that depends on a shrinking number of taxpayers to support it. And taxpayers are becoming increasingly unwilling to bear the burden.

Keep White out of crime control

To the editor:
If Mark White does as well on "crime reduction" as he is doing on "upgrading" the scholastic standings of our Texas students, crime will soon double or triple.

Mark White's next step is predictable. He will pick out some group of scapegoats, such as prison wardens, and then loudly proclaim that our whole crime problem is prison wardens who are not properly trained for the job. A new high-priced committee will be formed to work out a special test and all wardens will now need to pass his special test or be fired.

Head wardens will be required to go to other prisons and evaluate those wardens and an army of state specialists will be hired to travel from prison to prison evaluating wardens. Wardens, to keep their jobs, will start putting their major emphasis on passing tests, rather than their prisoners. While all of the public attention is directed to the prison wardens as the cause of crime, crime can increase by leaps and bounds. Score another one for White!

When a governor can undermine the economy, sell the students of Texas down the river, let crime increase rapidly and do nothing for Texas, wouldn't it be very interesting to find out where his large election campaign funds are really coming from?

I have tried to talk to Larry Don Shaw about the seriousness of some of these problems, but he seems to consider them too trivial to even return telephone calls. Is he too enamored with party loyalty to worry about the education of Texas students?

County honored for excellence

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer
Howard County has been awarded a certificate of achievement for excellence in financial reporting by the Government Finance Officers Association.

District Judge James Gregg presented a certificate and plaque from the association to County Auditor Jackie Olson Wednesday, thanking her for her work which resulted in the award.

This year's honor was for the 1985 county financial report Olson submitted in December. She also earned the award in 1983.

Olson said the association determines whether financial reports conform with "generally accepted accounting principles" and whether they comply with "finance-related legal and contractual provisions."

Government Finance officer Fred Lantz said this morning financial reports are reviewed by a pool of experts throughout the nation who have expertise in governmental accounting and financial reporting.

He said Howard County was one of 125 counties throughout the nation to receive the award this year. "Most governmental entities don't submit financial reports to us because of our rigid eligibility standards," Lantz said.

Olson said the county has been submitting their financial reports to the association the last few years and adheres to the association's detail guidance through publications and newsletters it receives from them throughout the year.

"We're up-to-date on our reporting because we submit it to them (association) every year," Olson said.

Lifestyle

Son's openness will close grandparents' minds

DEAR ABBY: A year ago our son came out of the closet to his father and me. It has been a traumatic year for all of us, filled with anger, tears, guilt, confusion and therapy. While we still don't pretend to understand everything about the homosexual lifestyle, we love our son and accept that he believes this is right for him. He has a friend (I can't bring myself to say "lover") and has assured us that he wants a long-term, loving, monogamous relationship, just as his brothers and sisters have. We believe he is sincere.

The problem is that we both have aging parents whom we want to spare. We see no advantage in their knowing, and since my father-in-law, in particular, has very strong anti-gay feelings, we are concerned that a rift will occur that may never be healed. Our son, however, is an activist, especially in respect to AIDS education, and he is quoted often in newspapers and magazines. He lives in another city, but we are fearful that our parents will see him on television or read about him. How can we act lovingly to everyone concerned?

CONCERNED PARENTS

Dear Abby

DEAR CONCERNED: I can understand your wanting to "spare" your parents from a truth they may not want to accept, but since your son has chosen to go public, it may not be possible.

The grandparents need enlightenment — not protection — so help them by providing them with some education literature from PARENTS FLAG (Federal of Parents & Friends of Lesbians and Gays Inc.), P.O. Box 24565, Los Angeles, Calif. 90024. It should ease their anxiety and make them less judgmental.

Please enclose a long, stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope. The information is free.

DEAR ABBY: I am a secretary in the office of a junior high school in a small California town. It never ceases to amaze me that parents think I am a repository of vast amounts of money that I have handy to lend out to students who have forgotten to bring either money or lunch to school.

Yesterday, a parent called to ask that I lend little "Rupert" $10 so that he could stop at the store on the way home! There are 600 students at this school, and if I could recoup all the money I have lent out in the last five years, I could take a trip to Hawaii!

What prompted me to write is that today, a parent became very irate with me on the phone when I explained that I could not lend "Florence" $2 for lunch.

Please print this letter; perhaps it would speak for the thousands of school secretaries who are "hit on" every day for cash! Thank you.

BROKE IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR BROKE: I imagine the statute of limitations has run out on most of those unpaid debts, but it might be worth your time to ring up the parents (during the breakfast hour) and remind her (or him) to give little "Rupert" the loot you lent him.

DEAR ABBY: When one entertains guests at a fine restaurant and the male guest insists on handling the tip but actually places an amount below the expected average, is it considered impolite for the hostess to add to the tip while the guest is still at the table?

How would you handle such a situation?

CONCERNED IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR CONCERNED: I would discreetly slip the additional money to the captain or waiter as inconspicuously as possible — but not at the table.

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38825, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Sesquicentennial luncheon hosted

The Mary Jane Club ended their club year Thursday by hosting a sesquicentennial luncheon in the Coahoma Community Center.

Featured for the entertainment was the Hot Potato Band, a group of RSVP volunteers who play everything from an organ to spoons and washboards. The band played many old songs and ballads.

Luncheon tables were covered with red checkered table cloths and centered with oil lamps, yellow roses, and sesquicentennial napkins. A cake, decorated by Darla Choate, featured a potato dressed in western attire and a map of Texas.

A moment was observed in memory of Isabelle Allen, a recently deceased member.

Bile problem is difficult to contain

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I read your column religiously, hoping you will someday touch on my problem — sclerosing cholangitis. My doctor says it is serious. He is also treating me for ulcerative colitis. I have jaundice with this. I'd really like to know the background of the cholangitis aspect. My readings hasn't helped. — N.A.

This is a most difficult problem. Let me clarify some terms. Cholangitis is a reference to bile (chole is the Greek for bile). Sclerosis, of course, means a hardening. At the center of the disease are the bile ducts, the channels that drain bile from the liver, where it is produced, to the gall bladder, which stores it for use when needed for digestion in the intestines. Those ducts become scarred, and we can't say why it happens. Because bile cannot drain properly from the liver, it backs up into that organ and begins destroying its cells (cirrhosis).

Signs of this happening include a skin yellowing (jaundice), a body itch, and pain in the upper right abdomen.

Sclerosing cholangitis

sometimes is seen in conjunction with your other problem, ulcerative colitis. For the cholangitis, not much can be done except try to control symptoms.

However, in some patients, successful treatment of the colitis aspects helps contain the bile problem (the cholangitis). I hope you're staying ahead of your problem. You have to cooperate fully with your doctor in efforts to control things.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My subject is collard greens. It was one of my mother's favorite dishes and as kids growing up, we got it (and loved it) regularly. I understand it is high in calcium. Is that why we all ended up with strong bones? How much calcium does it have? — L.L.

A half cup contains about 150 milligrams of calcium. A like amount of turnip greens provides 125 mgs. So both are good sources. For comparison, a cup of skimmed milk has about 300 mgs. Yes, calcium helps maintain bone health at any age.

For a better understanding of colitis and other intestinal ailments, their causes and treatment, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11218, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "Colitis and Kinred Complaints." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

There must be a distinction made between a doctrine of the Bible and that of human legislation or human opinion of the doctrine of the Bible if we are to be able to maintain a correct understanding of what the church of the Lord Jesus is to be and do today. It is vain conceit to think that we can speak the words and things of God better than the Holy Spirit of God did when he gave the written Word of God. From the best authorities it appears that the church of Christ Jesus was one, in unity, in communion and fellowship as Christians until the year 381. At that time the Nicene Creed was established and made the term of communion and all who would not subscribe to it were excluded from the church. Those who were cast out formed new sects, new creeds, new terms of communion and new names. Then came the Reformation Period and all kinds of churches came into existence with all kinds of new laws and ideas. The greatest advocates for orthodoxy frequently trample under foot the grand characteristics of the religion of Jesus in their efforts to do things their own way. The written Word of God does not need men to change it, but accept it.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MAY 23, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's full moon brings you a chance to wind up some plans that have been pending for some time, after which a new dispensation for you occurs in which conditions lighten up a bit.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get caught up on unfinished business in the morning, and then plan how to improve your day-by-day routines.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make sure you keep a promise made to an associate in the morning, and then handle other affairs that you have put aside.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have been having difficulty performing some task but can handle it now. Make a good impression on someone influential.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Confirm an appointment for recreation and then get right to work and do a fine job with the cooperation of fellow workers.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You have a duty to handle for a family tie, so get at it early and finish it. Try to improve conditions at home.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get desk work handled early and then handle any problematical affairs connected with your home and family.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be sure to handle important financial affairs in the morning, since later you will have to give full attention to outside tasks.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get your own goal worked out nicely in the morning, and then later work on money matters that have long-term aspects.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sensible in completing a private affair, and later concentrate on a difficult problem with another.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) In the morning, you finally gain an aim that has been difficult to do before this, and then go after another one that seems elusive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle that civic matter which you have been neglecting, then later you can get the true facts and figures.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You should have success with a new venture in the morning, and later you can handle civic and credit affairs well.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will easily ferret out the truth of any situation that eludes others, so slant the education along professional lines that require this fine ability. In mid-life, your progeny follows another profession where the experience acquired can be put to the best and most constructive use.

Notes

By Steve Belvin

We'll start off the Notes with some news from the Big Spring YMCA.

As a public service to the community and in the interest of water safety, the "Y" will offer one week of free swim lessons to boys and girls between the ages of 5 and 10.

Classes will begin on Monday, June 2 and end Sunday, June 6. There are four classes scheduled at the following times: 8:15, 9:45 and 10:30 a.m. Each class will be limited to 25 students.

To enroll call the YMCA at 267-8234 beginning May 27. The first 100 students will be accepted.

The "Y" also kicks off its summer gymnastic program on Monday, June 2. There will be three four-week sessions. The second session begins on June 30 and the final one will start July 28.

The class is open to boys and girls 3 years to 7 and over. For more information call the "Y".

The Big Spring Sports Booster Club will have a meeting tonight at 7 p.m. at the Big Spring High School cafeteria.

This Saturday the top track and field athletes will be on hand to compete in the first-ever Meet of Champions, a track meet held at the University of Texas-Arlington's Maverick Stadium.

The meet will have an all-star appeal featuring head-to-head competition between the winners in the 5A, 4A, 3A, 2A and A events held last weekend at the state track meet in Austin.

Because of University of Interscholastic League rules, only graduating seniors will be eligible to compete. In addition to the five highest finishing seniors in each event, three other participants have been invited to compete in the meet for a total of eight participants in each event.

The lone Crossroads Country participant will be Grady distance runner Shanna Hale, who will compete in the 3200 meters.

Field events will begin at 5 p.m. while running events start at 7 p.m.

Cold windy weather put the brakes on fishing at Lakes J.B. Thomas and E.V. Spence. There were few fishermen and a few modest catches.

Clay and Roger Atkinson of Big Spring took a seven-pound drum off their trotline, along with a 7 1/2, 14 and 16-pound yellow catfish.

Two teams tied for first place in the nine-hole scramble play at Comanche Trail Golf Course Monday. Both Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association teams shot a one under par 37. The team of Laurie Young, Angela Cavallos, Dolores Hull, Annie Ward and Bobbie Patterson won the playoff.

The team of Martha Saunders, Harriett Richardson, Betty Ray Coffee, Ruby Honea and Ramona Harris finished second.

The Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association will be hosting a Two-Lady Scramble Saturday, May 31 at Comanche Trail Golf Course. Entry fee is $50 per team. For more information call Al or Bobbie Patterson at 263-7271.

The community of Big Spring and the local YMCA will have gymnast Will Rutherford and his coach Ken Werner travel to the Soviet Union from June 18 through July 5 to train and compete with young Soviet gymnasts.

To assist these two, the YMCA is asking for contributions to help with the expenses. A minimum of $5,000 is needed to cover expenses.

Send check to: YMCA-Russian Trip, P.O. Box 1428, Big Spring Texas, 79720. For more information call 267-8234.

The Third Annual Spring City Men's Slow-Pitch Softball Tournament will be held this weekend at Johnny Stone Memorial Park.

Entry fee is $100 per team and entry deadline is Thursday at 5 p.m. To enter call Rocky Viera at 267-7773.

Coach Dusty Johnston's Howard College cowgirls are headed to the National Finals in Bozeman, Mont. June 15-21. The HC cowgirls finished second in the Region V Standings with 680 points, 10 behind winner Western Texas. Tarleton State University finished third with 650 points.

Individually, Johnna Puckett will compete in barrel racing and Lisa Berry will compete in breakaway roping. Puckett won the region in her event while Berry finished second in the breakaway.

Competing team-wise will be Karen Cochran, Karen Snodgrass and Shannon Garrison.

The Midland Angels and KMID will present a Memorial Day Weekend Fireworks Spectacular Sunday when the Angels host the Arkansas Travelers at 6 p.m.

Fireworks will be displayed after the game and cash prizes will be given away.

Now let me take the time to gripe a while. This beef goes out against the local Little League coaches. I don't know what its going to take to get you faithful leaders to turn in your scores.

But let me tell you there are some Little League buffs out there who are getting pretty annoyed at the lack of stories in the Herald. So readers, if you want to see LL scores, don't call the sports desk, call the coaches. We can't make them turn in the results.

Maybe you can build a fire under them to do their job.

Rockets whip Lakers 4-1

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The team of the future, it turns out, also is a team of the present.

The young Houston Rockets, having deposed the reigning kings of the NBA, now confront the team that would seem next in line for the league crown.

Ralph Sampson, who'd been the lesser-noticed of the Rockets' "Twin Towers" during their playoffs against the Lakers, provided a startling ending to the startling series Wednesday night when his hurried, off-balance shot dropped at the buzzer to give Houston a 114-112 victory over Los Angeles.

The victory gave the Rockets the series, 4-1, and sent them into the NBA championship round against the Celtics, beginning Monday in Boston.

The concluding win was particularly impressive because the Rockets won without their other "Twin Tower," Akeem Olajuwon. He was thrown out of the game for fighting with 5:14 remaining and the Lakers ahead 103-99.

But Sampson took control, scoring 10 of his 29 points in the closing moments and winning it at the end. "It's a very gratifying feeling to beat the world champions," the 7-foot-4 Sampson said. "This may be the highlight of my basketball career."

Olajuwon, who had averaged 30 points and 12 rebounds in the previous four games of the series, had 30 points and seven rebounds in the fifth when he was ejected for trading swings with the Lakers' Mitch Kupchak in a brief, bench-clearing skirmish.

"I was watching it (Sampson's winning shot) from the locker room and when I saw it go in, it was just unbelievable," Olajuwon said. "It was great that they won without me. ... I couldn't believe it."

Sampson's shot came after the Lakers' Byron Scott had missed a long jumper and the Rockets rebounded and called time out with one second remaining. When play resumed, Rodney McCray rebounded the ball to Sampson and the Houston center, his back to the basket, flipped the ball backward toward the goal. It hit the rim, bounced up for a breathless instant, and fell through.

"I knew where the basket was, but I couldn't see it," Sampson said. "I thought it (the shot) was short; I didn't see it until it hit the rim and bounced in."

"It was a miracle," said Lakers Coach Pat Riley. "He didn't even see the basket. You just can't beat fate."

"I was happy he threw up a bad shot," said Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who led the Lakers with 26 points and also had 13 rebounds. "But what happened just happened."

"Since he made that shot, I guess it just wasn't meant to be for us this year," said Lakers guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who scored 24 points and had 13 assists. "To be in control the whole way like we were, and to see that shot drop, it's hard to swallow."

The final score was the only time the Rockets led, and they'd been down 99-90, with 8:31 to play. But they caught the Lakers for the first time on a three-point basket by Robert Reid that tied the contest at 112 with 15 seconds left.

Reid had just missed from three-point range, but the Rockets got the rebound and he got the ball back. After his three-pointer, the Lakers came down the floor and Scott missed.

The Lakers' Johnson said the Rockets could give Boston a run for its money.

"If they play with the same intensity, they can be right there," he said. "I have to pick the Celtics because they've got so much experience and have been there so many times. But nobody really thought Houston could beat us, either."

Darling wins ugly, Mets beat Giants

By The Associated Press
Watching Ron Darling pitch is not always a pleasant experience for New York Mets Manager Dave Johnson, but the result more often than not is satisfactory.

Wally Backman had three hits, two doubles and a single, in the first three innings as the Mets built a 7-1 lead for Darling and went on to a 7-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants on Wednesday.

"It's really tough on a manager watching your pitcher go to a 3-2 count on almost every batter when he has a big lead," Johnson said. "I didn't think he had his real good stuff, and I think he could have thrown more strikes with the bad stuff."

Baseball

The Mets, 25-9 for the season, have won all eight games Darling has started this season, and the right-hander has won 11 of his 12 decisions since last Aug. 19. He's 5-0 this season.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Pirates 2, Astros 1
Rick Rhoden pitched a five-hitter and Sid Bream homered and doubled to power visiting Pittsburgh over Houston at the Astrodome.
Bream doubled and scored on

Jim Morrison's single in the second and homered off Mike Scott, 4-3, in the fourth.

Rhoden, 3-3, struck out six and walked three in snapping a personal three-game losing streak.

Cardinals 8, Reds 3

Andy Van Slyke hit his first home run of the season to key a four-run sixth inning rally, helping St. Louis snap a six-game losing streak. The victory was only the seventh in 27 games for the host Cardinals.

Braves 9, Cubs 8

Reliever George Frazier walked Andres Thomas on four pitches to force in the winning run with one out in the 13th inning as Atlanta edged visiting Chicago. It was the sixth straight victory for the Braves, who had a 21-hit attack.

Padres 7, Phillies 2

Tony Gwynn went 4-for-4 to lead a 13-hit attack and support the fourth-hitting of Dave Dravecky as San Diego defeated visiting Philadelphia.

Dodgers 6, Expos
Mike Marshall hit two homers and drove in three runs to support Orel Hershiser's four-hit pitching over seven innings as Los Angeles defeated visiting Montreal. Hershiser, 4-3, struck out six and walked three. The only run he allowed was Tim Wallach's sixth homer with one out in the sixth.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Orioles 2, Angels 1

Cal Ripken hit a two-run homer with two outs in the seventh inning, lifting Baltimore over visiting California.

Mike Witt, 3-4, had allowed only one hit, a bouncing single by Fred Lynn in the fourth, before Lynn singled again with one out in the seventh. One out later, Ripken homered.

Yankees 10, A's 4

Dan Pasqua, just back from the minors, homered and doubled to drive in four runs and lead New York past visiting Oakland. Pasqua, starting in right field in place of resting Dave Winfield, hit a two-run homer off Eric Plunk in the third inning and doubled in two more off Plunk in the fifth. Joe Niekro, 5-2, scattered five hits over seven innings.

Tigers 6, Mariners 4

Larry Herndon's homer and RBI double helped Detroit rally to beat visiting Seattle and get back to the .500 mark. Herndon tied the score 4-4 with a leadoff homer off Mark Langston in the sixth inning, doubled home the go-ahead run in the seventh and scored an insurance run on Darrell Evans' single.
White Sox 5, Blue Jays 4

Pinch-hitter Jerry Hairston singled home Tim Lulett in the eighth to lift host Chicago over Toronto for the White Sox's seventh straight victory.

Rangers 2, Royals 1

George Wright's run-scoring triple into the right-field corner with two outs in the bottom of the 10th inning gave Texas the victory over visiting Kansas City. Pete O'Brien set up the game-winning hit with a two-out single off reliever Steve Farr and his run made a winner of Rangers reliever Greg Harris.

Indians 4, Brewers 2

Former Milwaukee pitcher Tom Candiotti held the host Brewers to four singles and Dan Rohn, a last-minute lineup addition, hit a two-run single in Cleveland's four-run second inning. Candiotti, signed by Cleveland as a free agent in December after five years in the Milwaukee organization, improved his record to 3-4.

Red Sox 3, Twins 2

Steve Lyons doubled and scored Boston's first run in the sixth inning and then drove in the go-ahead run with a single in the seventh, rallying the Red Sox over Minnesota Twins after two long rain delays.

USFL Trial rocks on

NEW YORK (AP) — NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle testified that before Donald Trump bought the USFL's New Jersey Generals, he tried to purchase the then-Baltimore Colts of the NFL.

Completing his fifth day of testimony in the USFL's $1.5 billion antitrust suit against his league, Rozelle said that in the summer of 1983 — about six months before Trump bought the Generals — he received a call from an unnamed intermediary saying that Trump had an interest in buying the Colts.

French netters whip Americans

DUESSELDORF, West Germany (AP) — Second-seeded France trounced the defending champion United States 3-0 to move a step closer to a place in the finals of the $500,000 Ambrose Solaire World Team Tennis Cup.

France won its first match Tuesday against West Germany 3-0 and has one more round-robin group match remaining against Argentina. The South Americans chalked up their first victory, polishing off the host nation 3-0.

Soviets to aid famine victims

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union agreed to participate in Sport Aid's Race Against Time, a global six-mile run to raise money for African famine victims, scheduled to take place in 70 countries Sunday.

Five million people are expected to participate in the run in 222 cities. The Sport Aid office in London said the Soviet Union confirmed that athletes from the Spartak clubs in Udelnaya, near Leningrad, will take part in Sunday's race.

Rose's ex-wife gets probation

CINCINNATI (AP) — Carolyn Rose, former wife of Cincinnati Reds player-manager Pete Rose, was sentenced to a year's probation for her guilty plea to failing to file a federal income tax return for 1981.

Court records showed that most of Mrs. Rose's income was in alimony. The Roses were married in 1964 and divorced in 1980. Pete Rose has since remarried.

Burke leads Dodge Open

DENVILLE, N.J. (AP) — Mike Burke Jr. continued his impressive play in the $75,000 Dodge Open golf tournament by shooting a par 72 to share the second-round lead with Rick Vershure and David Glenz.

Burke has a 36-hole total of 2-under-par 142. Vershure shot a 1-under-par 71 and Glenz had a 2-under-par 70 in the second round.

Flyers reap NHL awards

MONTREAL (AP) — The Philadelphia Flyers didn't survive the first round of the National Hockey League playoffs, but some of their regular-season accomplishments are being recognized.

Philadelphia defenseman Mark Howe and the goaltending duo of Bob Froese and Darren Jensen were honored at the NHL awards luncheon, which took place on an off day in the Stanley Cup Final.

The best-of-seven series resumes in Montreal tonight, with the Montreal Canadiens leading the Calgary Flames 2-1.

Froese and Jensen shared the William Jennings Trophy for the lowest team goals-against total during the regular season. The Flyers allowed 241 goals in 80 games and compiled a 2.99 goals-against average.

Howe won the Emery Edge Award for the top plus-minus total. He had 24 goals and 58 assists for 82 points in 77 games, and finished at plus-85. The plus-minus system is based on the number of goals for and against a player is on the ice for. Power-play and shorthanded goals are excluded.

Froese became the Flyers' number-one goalie after the death of all-star goalie Pelle Lindbergh, who died in a car crash last November. In an emotional acceptance speech, he dedicated the award to Lindbergh.

"The team's desire to win was intensified with the death of Pelle," said Froese.
