Car repair

Q. Is it lawful for people to use their backyards in a residential district to repair old cars and trucks?

A. If they are working on their own vehicles, yes, said police Sgt. Ray Meek. However, if they're doing it for profit, the practice may be a violation of zoning laws, he said.

County mulls downtown plan

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Howard County commissioners this morning received a progress report about funds they granted for downtown renovation and heard a complaint from a county property owner who suffered damage from this weekend's rainfall.

Downtown Development Coordinator Teri Quinones told commissioners the downtown steering committee would know by June 6 if a matching grant application they submitted to the Texas Department of Community Affairs would be approved.

The steering committee received $10,000 from the county last February, which was to be used to implement a three-stage downtown redevelopment plan.

The funds were initially to be used to apply for a $13,325 matching fund allocation from the department of community affairs.

Quinones said the steering committee has hired Robert Lima of Lima Planning Associates in Lubbock to develop a master plan for downtown. He began work last Tuesday and will be paid an annual $18,000 retainer, she said.

She said Lima would conduct studies of the North Highway 87 and West Highway 80 corridors into downtown and of the central business district.

Troy Fraser, a member of the steering committee, told commissioners funds from the Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Foundation would supplement development plan costs if the grant request was denied.

"Your $10,000 is going to be used the same way regardless if the grant is accepted or not," Quinones said.

Commissioners also received a complaint from property owner Charles Madry in Precinct 4, who said the county was partly responsible for damage he incurred from weekend storms.

Madry complained that a drainage creek running through his property has not been kept clear by the county, and during the weekend his house flooded as a result.

Mabry singled out Precinct 4 Commissioner David Barr, saying "You haven't cleared my creek."

Barr told Madry that the county DOWNTOWN page 2A

Police identify suspect

Police have released the identity of an 18-year-old Big Spring man arrested Saturday in connection with the sexual assault and murder of 81-year-old Eva Erlene Bohannon.

The also are "looking real closely" at another man arrested this morning on a parole violation, Police Lt. Jerry Edwards said this morning.

Edwards referred all questions pertaining to the parolee to parole officer David Harmon, who was unavailable this morning for comment.

Joseph Gilbert Garcia of 510 Donley St. is being held city jail on $87,500 bond, Edwards said.

Garcia was arrested at the police station at 9:51 p.m. Saturday and charged with capital murder, burglary of a habitation and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, according to police.

Justice of the Peace Willie Grant set bond at $85,000 on the capital murder charge, $1,500 for burglary and $1,000 for car theft, Edwards said.

Bohannon's bound and gagged body was found by police Friday at 4:30 p.m. in a bedroom of her ransacked house at 1106 Howell St. where she lived alone. Her red Ford Maverick, which was stolen, was recovered by police in Crosbyton sometime Saturday, Edwards said.

Grant set the time of the murder at about 3 a.m. Friday. Bohannon was last seen alive by neighbors Thursday evening at about 7:30.

Three-day rain eases drought

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The 5.24 inches of rain Big Spring received since Saturday puts the city close to the normal year-to-date of 6.26 inches, but more moisture is needed to correct the ground's excessive dryness.

"We're in better shape than we were, but 5,000 acre-feet is not much water," said Joe Pickle of the Colorado River Municipal Water District. Runoff for lakes Thomas and Spence totaled 5,550 acre feet for the three days, he said.

Big Spring got more than 5 inches of rain over the last three days, beginning with a storm Saturday night that brought tornadoes, hail, high winds, floods and power outages, stranded hundreds of travelers and killed a baby boy.

One-year-old Joshua Cole Phillips, son of Rusty and Mona Phillips of the Salem community, drowned Saturday night when floods whisked him from his mother's arms. Funeral services were to be conducted this morning.

The rain breaks a drought that experts said was one of the worst this century. Until Saturday, Big Spring was more than 5 inches behind the normal yearly rainfall, according to figures from the U.S. Agricultural Research Service. Now, it is behind less than an inch. The field station measured 5.24 inches during the three-day period.

The Colorado River is running 5 feet deep at the Silver Bridge on Lake Spence, Pickle said, up from its normal of near zero feet. Rain measurements for Howard County varied from 1.6 inches at the Big Spring/Odessa intake to 6.1 inches at the base station north of town, he said. Martin County rain was measured at 6.2 inches, he said.

Red Thomas of 107 E. 13th St. measured a total of 5 inches since Saturday night, and H. Boyce Hale of Sterling City Route Box 157-F measured 2.78 inches.

The weekend rainfall was enough to enable farmers to plant crops, but they'll have to wait a few days for fields to dry out, said Betty Shankles, program assistant at the U.S. Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Farmers had been unable to plant because the soil was too dry, Shankles said earlier this month. Crops must be planted before about June 20, she said, or by June 10 to receive federal crop insurance money if the crops don't grow.

Farmers will have to do a lot of work to get their fields ready for planting, because the storm flattened them, Shankles said. Farmers will have to relist their DROUGHT page 2A

Caller threatens to kill hostages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An anonymous caller claiming to speak for the Islamic Jihad terrorist group today threatened to kill all American hostages as well as four kidnapped Frenchmen and one Briton, a Christian radio station reported.

There were doubts about the authenticity of the claim, which came a day after another telephone caller claiming to speak for Islamic Jihad said two French hostages would be freed Monday. They were not.

The call was received by the Christian-controlled Voice of Lebanon, which speaks for President Amin Gemayel's Phalange Party. Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, is an extremist Shiite Moslem group that is said to have ties to Iran. All previous claims supposedly made on behalf of Islamic Jihad to Christian radio stations have proven wrong.

The anonymous caller told the Voice of Lebanon the hostages' bodies would be left in west Beirut.

Police said 12 patrols were searching west Beirut for bodies. None was found immediately, police said.

The Voice of Lebanon said the caller, speaking in a Palestinian accent, made the following statement at 1:30 p.m. (7:30 a.m. EDT): "The execution of all American hostages plus four Frenchmen and a Briton is under way. Their bodies will be dumped in a west Beirut street at 2 p.m. (7 a.m. EDT)."

When asked who the Briton was, the caller said "Collett," the radio said.

Alec Collett, 63, a New-York based British writer, was kidnapped on Beirut's southern outskirts March 25, 1985.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — Crown Prince FREDERIK has assumed new official duties as the successor to Denmark's throne in ceremonies marking his 18th birthday and legal coming of age.

Queen Margrethe, Denmark's monarch since the death of her father King Frederik IX in 1972, formally presented her son to the cabinet Monday at Christiansborg Palace, the home of the Folketing, Denmark's parliament.

The Queen named Frederik as her deputy on the council of state, the constitutional link between the monarchy and the government.

The crown prince, although still a student at a private school in suburban Copenhagen, will be required to preside at the twice-monthly state council meetings in the Queen's absence.

"I let Mr. Ford see the manuscript and he was upset," Lacey said. "I asked him whether he was disappointed in it and he replied: 'No, I'm not disappointed at all. It's what I expected. You have to put sex in books these days to sell them.'"

Lacey, who has also written books about the British and Saudi royal families, used tidbits about the private lives of the Ford family to promote his book before 15,000 dealers at the annual American Booksellers Convention.

The book will be published next month by Little, Brown & Co. Inc.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — FORMER French President VALERY GISCARD D'ESTAING says that if a person has knowledge and judgment, then making the decisions of a world leader is the easy part.

Giscard, who received an honorary doctor of laws degree at Brown University commencement exercises Monday, did not address the 1,800 graduates and advanced degree recipients, but met with students and faculty at Brown's international relations department.

"Most people think making decisions is the hardest part of being a world leader. But, in fact, it's the easiest part if you have the knowledge and judgment. Then it's quite natural," he said.

Giscard was president of France from 1974 to 1981.

BUDAPEST, Hungary — American GEORGE ROBERT HANSON has beaten 50 competitors from 27 nations to win the fifth international conductors' competition organized by Hungarian television, the state-run news agency MTI reported.

Hanson received an award of $2,000 plus a golden baton and an invitation from the "Interkonzert" Festival office to conduct the 1987 Interforum gala evening concert, MTI said but did not provide details about the event.

Second prize in the contest Monday went to Gintarash Rinkivitisius of the Soviet Union and third place to Gyoergy Gyoerivanyi Rath of Hungary.

Stanton memorial service goes on despite weather

STANTON — Abundant rains in Martin County forced Memorial Day ceremonies to be rescheduled to the Historical Museum Monday.

A gentle rain fell during the 10 a.m. outdoor service. Judge Rob Deavenport was master of ceremonies, Eugene Byrd gave the invocation, and Dan Saunders directed the pledge of allegiance.

"Remembering soldiers of yesterday and today should be one of the greatest honors Americans can bestow," said the Rev. Tommy Ewing, memorial speaker. He recalled pioneers at the Alamo and other battles who paved the way for Texas freedom. Post commander Bob Bryan and Gold Star mother Lora Bell Tom, who lost a child in war, placed a wreath in memory of the county's military dead.

As the American Legion Color Guard salute faded, Raymond Straub sounded the mournful strains of Taps. After the program, the museum hosted a reception in the board room.

City to restore water supply this afternoon

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

The water supply for residents south of the railroad tracks was interrupted this morning with some households experiencing loss of water pressure while other homes had no water at all.

Water was expected to be restored later this afternoon, Public Works Director Tom Decell said this morning.

He said a pump at the city's central water treatment plant malfunctioned Saturday night setting into motion mechanical failures that ultimately led to the flooding of the plant's pumping station.

Decell said water rushed from a valve that was "running hot" because of the failure of another pump. "We got backed into a corner; we had to work that valve," Decell said. "When (the water) came out of there, it came with such force that it took a little guy and slapped him against the wall."

The electrical motors powering the other pumps became submerged and were shut down immediately, he said.

The motors were taken from the plant to dry and were being serviced this morning at Caldwell Electric, Decell said.

He said the city was drawing water this morning from an alternate source, the O'Barr well fields, and routing that water through Comanche Trail Park and Big Spring State Park to serve the southern part of the city.

Decell and acting City Manager Hal Boyd said they were uncertain if Saturday night's violent weather caused the damage to the pump. Boyd said engineers have yet to pinpoint the cause of the malfunction, but Boyd did not rule out a power surge brought on by Saturday night's lightning.

Councilman Johnny Rutherford, after emerging from a meeting with Mayor Cotton Mize, Boyd, Decell and City Secretary Tom Ferguson, said citizens can expect more problems at the plant until the planned upgrading of the system with capital improvement funds.

road and bridge department had been working on the drainage creek for the last six months, but had not reached Madry's property.

He cited problems such as a bulldozer that needed maintenance repair and sections of the creek that were too wet for repair work, which resulted in delays. Madry said he suffered about $10,000 damage from the flooding on his property and said he could not afford flood insurance.

"In the future, I wish you'd give me a little consideration," Madry told commissioners. "I've lost everything."

fields, or remake the rows.

In spite of the large volume of rain that fell, more is needed for crops to grow, she said, because underground moisture has been depleted.

"It's dry down so deep," she said. "We have gone so long without rain."

Pickle said at least 4 inches of rain must fall to soak down enough to do any good. Cotton plants must have moisture deep under the soil, he said, because of the plant's long roots.

hanged Collett on April 17 in retaliation for the British-supported U.S. bombing raid on Libya two days earlier. The group released a videotape showing a man purported to be Collett dangling from a gallows. Collett's body was not found, and some officials doubted the claim that he had been killed.

Today's caller did not identify the American and French hostages.

The caller did not use Islamic Jihad's traditional Koranic introduction, "In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate," the radio said.

A news editor at the radio station, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said he decided to incorporate the claim in a regular newscast rather than issue a bulletin to underscore the station's doubt about its authenticity.

Islamic Jihad has claimed it holds five Americans and four French hostages in Lebanon. It has not claimed to hold any Britons.

The Americans Islamic Jihad has claimed it holds are: Associated Press Chief Middle East Correspondent Terry A. Anderson, 38; Roman Catholic priest Lawrence Jenco, 50; U.S. Embassy political officer William Buckley, 58; director of the American University Hospital in Beirut David Jacobsen, 54; and acting dean of agriculture at the American University of Beirut Thomas Sutherland, 54.

Deaths

Former JP Walter Grice dies

Services for Walter E. Grice, 89, former Howard County judge and justice of the peace, will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Rosewood Chapel. Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Grice, of 409 E. Second St., died Monday afternoon, May 26, 1986, at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital after a short illness.

He was born Feb. 22, 1897, in Navarro County. He married Icy M. Reece March 5, 1919, in Hump County. He moved to Big Spring in 1931 from Lubbock and served as justice of the peace in Howard County for 30 years. He also served as county judge for four years.

He was a member of Evangel Temple Assembly of God. He had lived at his home on E. Second St. for 50 years.

He is survived by his wife; a son, Lonnie Doyal Grice of Big Spring; a daughter, Mrs. Vernon (Doris) Johnston of Harlingen; four sisters, Mrs. Bonnie Norwood of Big Spring, Mrs. Cleve (Erma) Reece of Crowley, Mrs. Hazel York of Lubbock and Mrs. Zelma Fred of Morton; and six grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, Norma Grice.

Pallbearers will be Allan Bailey, Andrew Wilson, Milton Kirby, Leo Williams, Bester Chortos, Don Yates and Ervin Fisher. The family will be at 2708 E. 24th St.

Lawrence Pearce

Services for Lawrence Wesley Pearce, 66, of 1513 Lancaster St. will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Hillcrest Baptist Church with the Rev. Terry Fox, the Rev. John David King and the Rev. Bruce Coe officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park, directed by Myers & Smith Funeral Home.

He died Monday, May 26, 1986, at Malone-Hogan Hospital after a long illness. He was born Jan. 3, 1920, in Winona and married Dolores "Dodie" Thorpe Feb. 7, 1959, in Big Spring. He came to Big Spring with his parents Frank and Mabel Pearce in 1923. He was a member of the Hillcrest Baptist Church and a veteran of the Army Air Corps, serving in the Pacific Theater during World War II. He worked for many years at Webb Air Force Base and had been a flying instructor at the Big Spring Airport. Before his illness, he worked with Jack Lewis Buick Cadillac.

He is survived by his wife, Dolores Pearce of Big Spring; a daughter, Mrs. Tony (Lisa) Dyer of Big Spring; a son, James B. Pearce of Taylor; a sister, Billie Jean Smith of Big Spring; and four grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Mark Hyatt, Gary Phillips, Ramah Whiteside, Sam Robertson, Mike Moates and Johnny Sevey.

The family suggests memorials to the American Heart Association.

Trinity Memorial Park with Dr. Claude Craven, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, officiating. Myers & Smith Funeral Home will direct.

He was found hanged to death Monday at his home. No ruling has been made on the cause of death, said Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt, but he said it probably will be ruled suicide. Patterson died Saturday night or Sunday morning, he said. No autopsy has been ordered.

Patterson was a Baptist and a lifetime resident of Big Spring. He was born June 21, 1959.

He is survived by his mother, Syble Patterson of Kerrville; three brothers, Norman Patterson of El Paso, Ken Patterson of Midland and Tracy Patterson of Big Spring; and a sister, Shelly Patterson of Big Spring.

Factory fire kills two

KEARNY, N.J. — An explosion ripped through an aluminum manufacturing plant, killing two people and shooting a huge ball of fire into the sky before the blaze was brought under control, officials said today.

Police Capt. Joseph Messineo said two bodies were found in the rubble of the Airlite Aluminum Corp. plant in the Elite Industrial Park, a complex of 14 to 15 companies.

The bodies were not immediately identified, but a plant supervisor, Lee White, said two employees were believed to have been in the single-story building when the blast occurred at 11:49 p.m. Monday.

The cause of the fire, which destroyed the plant building and damaged the other four buildings in the complex, was not immediately known. But Tom Dunwoodie, chief inspector for the Kearny Fire Prevention Bureau, said it appeared a smelter furnace blew up.

Holiday toll near 400

CHICAGO — Nearly 400 people had been killed in traffic-related accidents by early today as the three-day Memorial Day weekend came to a close.

California had reported 39 fatalities over the three-day holiday weekend, more than any other state. It was followed by Florida with 27 and Texas with 22. No fatalities were reported in Montana, Rhode Island, Vermont or the District of Columbia.

For counting purposes, the holiday period began at 6 p.m. Friday, local time, and concluded at midnight Monday. The unofficial total as the counting period came to an end was 390.

The death toll for last year's three-day Memorial Day weekend was 411.

U.S. assures Honduras

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, meeting with Honduran President Jose Azcona, was prepared to give fresh assurances of American support to the Central American country in case of a conflict with neighboring Nicaragua, U.S. officials said.

Since taking office three months ago, Azcona has pleased the Reagan administration by becoming one of the few Latin American leaders to endorse, at least tacitly, U.S. assistance to Nicaraguan rebels.

But Azcona believes the $120 million in U.S. economic assistance contemplated for Honduras is too small, given that country's massive economic problems and strategic importance.

War heroes recognized

WASHINGTON — President Reagan paid solemn tribute to U.S. war dead on Memorial Day, while 110 men were finally recognized officially as victims of the nation's longest war when their names were added to the Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

The president singled out the Vietnam veterans Monday, noting "they were quite a group, the boys of Vietnam, boys who fought a terrible and vicious war without enough support from home, boys who were dodging bullets while we debated the efficacy of the battle."

Assad's charge

Syrian leader blames U.S. for attacks

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Syrian President Hafez Assad said Monday that the United States and Israel are threatening to turn the world into "a battlefield" by using counter-terrorism as a pretext for armed attacks.

The 55-year-old Syrian leader made the charge in a dinner speech on the first day of a three-day official visit to Greece, his first to a Western country in nearly eight years.

Western diplomats and Greek news media said the visit appeared aimed at countering allegations that Syria was sponsoring international terrorism.

"This dangerous phenomenon of using armed attacks to realize political aims is a warning to the world that it will be turned into a battlefield in the grip of those who see that they have the capacity to attack and at the same time avoid punishment," Assad said.

"That's what the United States did with its armed attack on Libya and that's what Israel is doing in south Lebanon and all the occupied Arab lands, and that's also what (South Africa) is doing in the countries of southern Africa," he added.

Assad said countries pursuing such a policy "with counter-terrorism as the pretext are making a mistake if they think that this road leads to the crushing of terrorism."

The Syrian leader, who seized power in a 1970 military coup, said his country opposes terrorism "because we have suffered from it." He added, however, that Syria differentiates between terrorism and "national resistance against colonialism."

Greek state-run television broadcast Assad's remarks live. He spoke in Arabic and a Greek translation was provided by the Greek Information Ministry.

The Syrian leader was welcomed at Athens Airport by President Christos Sartzetakis and Premier Andreas Papandreu, an outspoken critic of Western anti-terrorist countermeasures against Syria's ally, Libya.

The semi-official Athens News Agency quoted unidentified Syrian diplomatic sources as saying Assad would discuss "Greece's role within the European Economic Community and NATO for the support of Arab concerns."

Assad's first day program was limited to the banquet and talks with Sartzetakis, Greece's figurehead chief of state. Assad was expected to hold substantive talks with Papandreu on Tuesday.

Assad suffered a heart attack in 1983, and his schedule seemed designed to avoid a strenuous round of official appearances.

Court stops black riots

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — A court ordered conservative black vigilantes not to attack other blacks in a neighborhood of the riot-torn Crossroads squatter city, and barred police and soldiers from assisting the vigilantes.

Cape Town Supreme Court Judge C.T. Howie issued a restraining order Monday pending a full hearing June 13.

The case was brought by six squatter leaders, including three whose followers were routed in last week's raging battles between the vigilantes and left-wing black rivals. At least 42 were killed and between 20,000 and 50,000 were left homeless.

Ferry mishap kills 500

DHAKA, Bangladesh — Grieving relatives crowded the banks of the Meghna River today as rescue workers continued to search for victims of a double-deck ferry that capsized in a storm with about 1,000 people on board. More than 500 people were feared dead.

Officials today said 69 more bodies had been found in the ferry's hull, raising the known death toll to 149. However, reporters on the scene put the number of bodies recovered at about 240.

U.S. denies rumors

BERLIN — The U.S. Embassy today denied reports that the United States, Britain and France were considering severing diplomatic ties with East Germany if new border checks in East Berlin were imposed on their envoys.

The East German government on Monday began requiring diplomats from other Western countries who are accredited in East Berlin to show passports when crossing between the two sections of the divided city. Previously they only had to show an identification card issued by East Germany.

The new rules have not been imposed on U.S., French and British diplomats.

Berlin, which is inside communist East Germany, was partitioned into zones overseen by the United States, France, Britain and the Soviet Union since 1945 under the occupation agreement reached at the end of World War II.

Moscow denies reports

MOSCOW — A government newspaper today criticized U.S. Embassy tests that found increased levels of radiation in milk sold in Moscow, and insisted that dairy products for sale in the Soviet capital are safe.

A leading Soviet nuclear scientist said Monday that the accident at the Chernobyl nuclear power plant on April 26, which spread radiation over much of the Soviet Union and Europe, had killed 19 people, including two workers who died at the scene.

The last report from a Soviet official had indicated last week that the death toll was 15.

In an article today headlined "A Storm in a Glass of Milk," Sovetskaya Rossiya, the government newspaper of the Russian Republic, suggested that the embassy report over the weekend was part of a U.S. campaign to spread false rumors and fears about the accident more than 400 miles south of Moscow.

Thatcher calls for alternative to PLO in peace talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain said today that alternatives to the PLO, probably in the form of a federation between Jordan and Palestinians in Israeli-occupied territories, must be considered for peace negotiations with Israel.

Speaking at a news conference at the end of a four-day visit to Israel, Mrs. Thatcher said her talks with Israeli leaders had "produced some ideas of how progress can be made." However, she said there was no consensus on how to proceed.

"We must consider an alternative" to the Palestine Liberation Organization, said Mrs. Thatcher, who was urged by eight Palestinian leaders Monday to make sure the PLO was involved in the peace process.

She said the solution appeared to be "some sort of federation" between King Hussein's Jordan and the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip where 1.3 million Palestinians live.

But she said Hussein could not go to the negotiating table "without people who are accepted as representing the Palestinian people."

Mrs. Thatcher was embarrassed last October by two PLO officials who reneged on their promise to sign an accord renouncing violence and recognizing Israel only hours before they were to meet with Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe.

"If they were willing to do that (renounce violence and endorse recognition), I think that would create a new situation which would enable seeing the PLO in a different light," she said. "If not, we have to find other Palestinians who truly represent the Palestinian people."

She said she had no specific proposals to carry to Hussein, with whom she is to meet in London in mid-June.

Mrs. Thatcher indicated that her call for mayoral elections in the West Bank and Gaza was intended to build a new leadership that had the support of Palestinians.

"What we suggested was a kind of election process for Palestinian representation so that we can guarantee that those who have been elected will have the support of the Palestinian people," she said. Israeli officials rejected the idea, saying the last elections in 1976 led to PLO activists taking office. Hanna Seniora, a newspaper editor who has been mentioned as a possible member of a Jordanian-Palestinian delegation to peace talks with Israel, said the eight Palestinians told Mrs. Thatcher on Monday that she should make another effort to meet with PLO leaders.

But British sources said Mrs. Thatcher did not budge from her demand that the PLO first must renounce terrorism and endorse U.N. Resolution 242 that specifically recognizes Israel's right to exist. Israel refuses to deal with the PLO, saying it is a terrorist organization devoted to the destruction of the Jewish state.

Mrs. Thatcher, saying she was concerned about the absence of serious Middle East moves, has called on Israel to ease political and economic restrictions in the occupied territories to encourage the emergence of an alternative Palestinian leadership to the PLO.

But the Palestinians at the dinner meeting in the British Consulate in predominantly Arab east Jerusalem, swore their loyalty to the PLO. They said in a petition to Mrs. Thatcher that the PLO "must be addressed in any matter concerning Palestinians."

Britain has assured Israel that it will follow its current policy of refusing to meet PLO officials when it takes the rotating chairmanship of the European Common Market on July 1, Israeli and British officials said.

A year-long effort to start peace talks between Israel and a Jordanian-Palestinian delegation broke down in February over the PLO's refusal to endorse U.N. Resolution 242. Jordan's King Hussein accused PLO chief Yasser Arafat of reneging on their agreement and withdrew from the negotiations.

Opinion

Every president has a pair: Secret Sshhh, Leaker Pssst

Two of the most important positions in the Administration are the President's "Keeper of the Secrets" and the "Chief Leaker of Information." Although their offices are next to each other, they always seem to be working opposite sides of the street.

Sshhh, as the "Keeper of the Secrets" is called, becomes livid when a government secret appears in print and wants to send everyone to jail. Pssst, on the other hand, works diligently to plant secret stories with the media that will further the cause of the Administration.

I ran into Sshhh at a fancy restaurant the other day. "How can we run an anti-terrorist intelligence operation when you people print that we broke Libya's code?" he asked.

"We didn't break the news. President Reagan revealed it himself on TV."

Sshhh was burning. "Did it ever occur to you that the Libyans don't watch American TV, but they do read The Washington Post and The New York Times?"

I said, "Ninety percent of all the confidential news concerning the government is leaked by this Administration, and the other 10 by the opposition. Why don't you go after the leakers instead of those of us who are no more than relay stations for the information?"

"I deny the Administration is now or has ever been the source of leaks," Sshhh said.

I confronted him. "Have you ever heard of a White House employee named Pssst?"

Sshhh went red. "The name doesn't ring a bell."

"Would it surprise you to know that Pssst has been leaking an average of 10 stories a day, with the approval of the President's team?"

"You're making it up." "For heavens sake, man, who do you think has been putting out all the stuff about Deaver?"

"We wouldn't leak about Deaver. He's one of us."

"Correction — he was one of you. Except for the President and Nancy, everyone in the White House seems to want Mike to twist slowly in the wind."

Art Buchwald

Sshhh said, "I can understand our doing that to Stockman, but not to Deaver."

"Nevertheless, you want to send us all to jail for stuff that Pssst leaked to make the Reagan Administration look good. If you keep putting on pressure, we won't accept any leaks from your side."

Sshhh turned his back on me and I walked over to the cloakroom. I saw Pssst standing by the door handing out secrets. I said, "I've just been talking to Sshhh, and he told me he wants to put all of us in jail for using your leaks."

Pssst guffawed. "He's just saying that to scare you. The only time the Justice Department will prosecute is when you print a leak that wasn't leaked by us. I have just as much authority around the White House as Sshhh — some days even more."

"In describing your work, is it okay to say your major tasks are to hand out classified material, deal in disinformation and send up trial balloons?"

"There's a bit of that involved," Pssst said. "Though sometimes I'll leak a story to hurt someone politically as well."

"Will you be walking the streets if the Administration puts the lid on all secrets?"

More guffaws. "Whoever heard of a government without leakers?"

While we were talking Sshhh went by and angrily put his fingers over his lips. Pssst laughed, and as a joke handed him George Bush's schedule for the following day.

Drive gaining force to revise nation's civil justice system

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — The nation's trial lawyers are raising bushels of money to block legal reforms and save their Pikes Peak fees. Here are the details:

Proliferating lawsuits have caused such havoc across America that voters are demanding reforms. Millions of organizations, ranging from the American Medical Association to the Boy Scouts of America, have joined forces to stop the lawsuits that have disrupted their activities.

This has forced many state legislatures, dominated though they are by lawyers, to review the civil justice system. Any restrictions that might hamper lawsuits, of course, would hit the trial lawyers right in their bank accounts. So the American Trial Lawyers Association has mounted a counterattack to save the system that enriches them.

In California, for example, a drive is gaining momentum to revise the civil justice system. This has taken the form of a voter initiative called Proposition 51, which the California Trial Lawyers Association is rusing to head off.

Its president, Peter J. Hinton, has sent an urgent dispatch to all members entitled "A Report from the Front." Without mincing words, he notifies them that "trial lawyers will be called upon to make major contributions to defeat this initiative."

What constitutes a "major contribution" for a trial lawyer? Hinton makes that clear. "Over a dozen firms and individuals in California have already committed more than $100,000 to the fight against Proposition 51," he states. "Some have contributed as much as $300,000."

Hinton claims that the reformers are trying to reverse "centuries of law which state that the first consideration in the tort system is to make the innocent injured party whole."

He is disputed by James Coyne.

president of the American Tort Reform Association, which is leading the battle to change the system. Coyne contends that U.S. courts, "with limited exceptions," held for 200 years that "a person suing could recover only if he proved that the defendant was at fault ... that one only obtained redress for cases of true negligence, not for the personal risks of everyday life."

All this changed, according to Coyne, in the 1960s. "The tort system we have today," he told us, "is vastly different. Our generation has overturned 200 years of legal tradition."

The result has been an explosion of lawsuits. This has raised the risk for those who make decisions; many no longer will serve on corporate boards, school boards, town councils, athletic leagues or other business-civic-volunteer groups.

Those who are still willing to take the risk have been forced to change the way they make decisions. They don't dare decide whether to market a new product, approve an innovation, publish an important story or take some other action based on the merits. The first question they must now ask is, "What's the chance I'll get sued?"

As Coyne put it, "In this stifling climate of anxiety over unknown risk, our economic growth, perhaps even our spirit of adventure and pioneering, will be reduced."

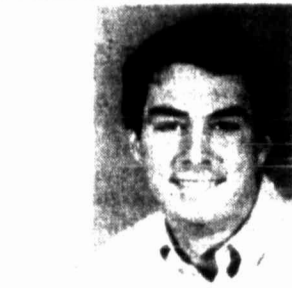

WATCH ON WASTE: What did

Environmental Protection Agency big shots do when the inspector general told them the agency's 11 chauffeured cars were underused? Cut down on the number of cars? Don't be silly. They just made 120 more bureaucrats eligible to be chauffeured around town, for a grand total of 150. The auditors learned that the cars were used mainly during lunch hours, and calculated that the average trip cost $45, including the drivers' salaries. The inspector general suggested phasing out most of the chauffeured cars and using taxicabs at probably $5 tops per trip. It would save the taxpayers about $300,000 a year.

UNDER THE DOME: Everyone knows Congress has a tendency to throw money at problems; now high-spirited Senate aides are literally throwing money — mostly pennies — at a huge iron mobile sculpture suspended high over a marble courtyard in the Hart Senate Office Building. The Alexander Calder mobile has a flat enough upper surface to catch many of the coins winged its way, as well as skillfully propelled paper airplanes. Workers with long-handled brooms sweep the debris off periodically. Like coins tossed in Capitol Hill fountains, the money is donated to Children's Hospital here. "Some people don't grow up," commented a custodial official.

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: The British may have been pound-wise and preparedness-foolish when they sold Tornado fighter-bombers to Saudi Arabia. British sources tell us the Saudis are insisting on early delivery of many air-to-ground missiles to go with the Tornados, and this will deplete British ammunition stocks significantly. Some British defense officials are afraid the sales could leave Britain ill-prepared in the event of war.

Nixon battles his way back

By EDDIE CURRAN

Those who saw last week's Newsweek saw a smiling Richard Nixon on the cover. The article inside details some of his low points, among them:

"His phlebitis flared up again, nearly killing him. (Nixon) feeling a slap, hearing voices calling 'Richard, pull yourself back,' and deciding that the moment to die was not yet."

Certainly it was not only the phlebitis which was killing Nixon, but also the spiritual toll of being the only President to resign from office. He went from the limelight of the presidency to self-imposed isolation of San Quentin. His name a dirty word to be avoided by all publicity conscious politicians (a redundancy), he was like a man without a country.

He is 'back' now. A senior aide to Reagan said, "As far as this White House is concerned, his rehabilitation is complete. There's tremendous respect for him around here."

What to think about this, the return of Nixon? When taking the judge's chair to consider his case, it seems on one hand we weigh Watergate and on the other we weigh China, detente, foreign policy, etc.

On the Watergate tapes we heard a president spit dirty words with an acid tongue and we lost respect for the office. So we laughed at our next two presidents, at the first tripping over himself, and at the next for too many reasons to mention. With respect to foreign policy, we generally accept that Nixon was good, though historians still argue on whether we're correct there. Who knows?

But does he deserve to be 'back'? In the article, a "confidant" says Nixon's mind is "totally methodical," and that he has carefully planned his comeback. This is easy to believe, just as it is easy to imagine that on his long morning walks, Nixon is conjuring up visions of cheering crowds. Before damning him for this, let's consider that we all have our little fantasies. Having been at the top, is it so wrong for his fantasies to be a little more grandiose?

Nixon has made it back, at least to a degree, and that is a tribute to his tenacity. Also it is a tribute to his intelligence. Here is Nixon's summary of communism: "In order to get progress, they have got to provide more freedom and in order to keep power, they have to provide less."

Good or evil, or somewhere in between, he is a wise man. He never will deserve our cheers, but it won't hurt us to cock an ear to this old man with the busy brain.

Hance says don't mark ballot White

To the editor: If you are a Democrat it's nice to know many teachers (are) now climbing aboard Governor White's band wagon.

But if you are a Republican you are wondering why Kent Hance made the two statements about Bill Clements: Statement No. 1, if Bill Clements couldn't beat Mark White in 1982 with fourteen million dollars, what in the world leads anyone to believe he can beat him now.

Statement No. 2, sending Bill Clements up against a man like Governor White is like sending General Custer back to the "Little Big Horn."

In Northwest Texas, they say Kent Hance's word is his bond, and they say you can take it to the bank and cash it. On Mr. Hance's good judgment many Texans say they see no reason not to "Mark" November "White."

Commit oneself to God's will in seeking marriage partner

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am in my early 20s, and I think about marriage a lot, although the right person has not come along yet. Do you think God has someone picked out for me, or does it make that much difference to Him? — P.A.

DEAR P.A.: God is concerned about every detail of our lives — and you can be sure He is concerned about one of the most important decisions you will ever make — the partner you will have for life. Furthermore, if it is His will for you to marry (as it probably is), He has prepared the right person for you.

One of the most beautiful incidents in the Old Testament is the choosing of a wife for Isaac, which you can read about in Genesis 24. Although Isaac lived many centuries ago in a much different world, the principles we see in his life are still true. For one thing, God had a perfect choice for Isaac — and Isaac's father Abraham wisely sought God's will above all else. In addition, Isaac was not to marry a woman who did not believe in the living God. In the same way, God has His perfect will for you in his matter. Pray that He will lead you to the person He has prepared — a person who will help you spiritually as well as be a companion for you.

Billy Graham

The most important thing you can do, therefore, is to commit this whole area of your life to Christ and ask Him to guide you. If you have never committed your life to Christ, make that your first step; then ask God to guide you. Study the Bible to see what kind of person you should marry — one who loves Christ, who is kind and considerate, and who wants above all else to honor God through marriage. And ask God also to help you become the kind of person you ought to be as you approach marriage — not selfish, but a loving person who seeks to meet the needs of your life partner.

Billy Graham's religious column is distributed by Tribune Media Services.

Wife gets short end of stick by tossing dog

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing in response to "Mrs. Catch-22," whose common-law husband gave her an ultimatum: the dog or him. I agree with your advice to send the heartless scoundrel packing.

Several years ago, "John," my first husband, gave me a female puppy for Christmas. I housebroke her, fed her and trained her with no help from him. She was a good watchdog, yet gentle with our baby. Then, a year and a half later, John decided he couldn't put up with the dog hair in the house, even though I vacuumed and swept daily. He said he was going to take the dog to the woods and shoot her. I cried and begged him not to. I offered to take her to my mother's house until a home could be found for her. He refused that idea. I offered to take her to the Humane Society, but he said it would be cheaper to shoot her. He gave me a choice — either let him shoot her that day or he was going to move out that night and file for divorce.

I made the wrong choice. I chose John. I cried for two weeks after he shot her. I recall asking myself what kind of man I was married to. Well, two years later, he left me for another woman, which is something my dog never would have done. So by making the wrong choice, I lost them both. Had I chosen the dog I would have had one less heartbreak to endure. My son has never forgiven his father for shooting our dog.

Since then, I have remarried. My present husband loves dogs, and I am happier than I have ever been in my life.

SHOULD HAVE CHOSEN THE DOG
DEAR SHOULD HAVE: It's a shame you were such a slow learner. For the record, if an animal lover is asked to choose between a person and a dog, choose the four-legged variety.

DEAR ABBY: I am 81 and my darling is 66. For the last several years I have had two birds — a small parrot and a cockatiel. I have grown very fond of these birds, but my fiancée says no way will she marry me unless I get rid of my feathered friends. Perhaps I should mention that she is a compulsively neat housekeeper who thinks birds are dirty. I read you daily.

PERTURBED OTOGENARIAN
DEAR OCT: There are no "dirty birds," just careless caretakers. Promise to clean the bird cage daily, and line it with my column.

DEAR ABBY: Now that summer is nearly here, there will be many picnics, barbecues and cookouts, so I want to warn parents, grandparents, babysitters, etc., about a danger they may not be aware of.

As a newspaper reporter, I had the unhappy task of reporting the accidental death of a toddler. This little one was drowned when he quietly fell head first into a picnic cooler filled with water. (The container had been filled with ice, but it melted.) No one saw it happen. The child just disappeared. They found him later.

His parents were overcome with guilt and grief. No one ever dreamed that such a freak accident could occur, but it did. And if it happened once, it could happen again.

Please, remind your readers to empty those ice chests once they've served their purpose. Thanks, Abby.

PAT WILSON, SPRING LAKE, N.C.
DEAR PAT: Thanks for caring enough to write. You may have saved a toddler's life today.

Gluten-free diet helps child with celiac disease

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My son, age 1 1/2 years, has been tentatively diagnosed as having celiac disease. Since being put on a gluten-free diet (no wheat, rye, oats and barley) he has made very good improvement. No more diarrhea, no more nightly vomiting. He has grown in height and weight. His disposition has changed, etc. Would you please discuss celiac? I have read about it, but would appreciate your opinion. — R.R.

Celiac disease gets its name from the Greek word for abdomen, the scene of the problem. The digestive tract has become sensitive to gluten, a protein in certain grains, chiefly wheat and rye, and to a lesser extent oats and barley. It's not clear why this happens. It may be that the digestive tract lacks the enzyme needed to break down the gluten.

Gluten in large concentrations acts as a poison to the tract cells, lessening the ability to absorb nutrients from food. It is bad enough when it happens in adults, but in children it can be devastating, occurring as it may during important growth years. I'm glad you were able to pin down the problem and that your son is now thriving.

Children with the problem, in addition to having the symptoms you describe — the vomiting and growth deficiencies — can take on an appearance of starvation. So early diagnosis and treatment is important. Actually, the improvement that comes with removing the gluten products is a key in diagnosis.

Your role in continuing his diet restrictions is a difficult but rewarding one. In point of fact, children who do follow the diet not only get relief from celiac disease, but are usually much healthier because of attention to a generally healthy diet.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have been bothered with restless leg syndrome. I can't sleep. I'm a 67-year-old lady and I smoke and have all my life. My doctor keeps telling me to quit, that it isn't becoming to me. He even said it would end my leg problem. I hope you have a better idea. — L.Y.

Give the non-smoker idea a try. I can't guarantee anything, but I have read reports of that ending all sorts of otherwise mystifying lifelong complaints. And, more specifically, I have read of it eliminating the restless leg syndrome.

I'm not kidding you any more than was your doctor. One case involved a 70-year-old woman. A month after she quit, her legs stopped jerking. Let me know (1) if you quit, and (2) if it helped. Results won't be apparent right away. By the time you write again you'll have ended a bad life-long habit. If it doesn't help, that will be enough reward for taking unfounded advice.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Regarding your response to M.A.S.: Gestational diabetes is a significant and common enough problem to be dealt with in a column such as yours. I wish you had emphasized that it is largely asymptomatic and hence can be detected only by testing. Current recommendations are that ALL pregnant women be screened for gestational diabetes between 24 and 28 weeks, and not just those having heavier babies. I do enjoy your column and find that it serves and a useful purpose — J.A.W., M.D.

Thank you for your letter. I am happy to publish your comments. I agree; gestational diabetes (of pregnancy) does usually resolve upon delivery, but it is a serious problem. It happens in 1-2 percent of all pregnancies and carries a threat to the baby's life far beyond that of any normal pregnancy. And, even though the diabetes does usually go away after delivery, there is a 30 percent risk of the mother becoming permanently diabetic in five to 10 years.

I couldn't concur more heartily with your recommendation that all pregnant women be screened for gestational diabetes. (I should note that Dr. W. is a neonatologist and is a professor of pediatrics at Brown University Medical School.)

Chapter trains to control confusion in a disaster

How to control confusion and panic in a disaster was discussed by the Howard-Glasscock Chapter of the American Red Cross at a meeting May 20 in the Parish Hall of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

The local Red Cross is responsible for shelter and food in a disaster. Rick Johnson, Red Cross disaster chairman, outlined procedures to be followed by the Red Cross in a disaster.

Dr. John Farquhar will present a slide show presentation on how to prepare for a disaster at a later meeting.

Debbie Sanders is in charge of the Red Cross program for water safety, life guard certification and swimming instruction. There will be no June meeting.

(See answer provided below by Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education, Inc.)
The American Business Men's Research survey found in their study that 57% of the money spent on liquor went OUT OF STATE again to breweries and distilleries. Since more money is spent for liquor when it is sold by the drink instead of limited to bottle only, more money is TAKEN AWAY from local business that would be spent for CLOTHES, FOOD, GASOLINE and other GOODS AND SERVICES! from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 28, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You will have a restless drive today to accomplish special projects that have an unusual tone to them. Don't be upset if you are met with some delays.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be with persons who are expert in projects that are of interest to you. Avoid persons who could delay today's progress.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Listen carefully to a prominent person who has progressive ideas. Go out and have fun this evening. Dress well.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Forget the past and face the future with confidence. Those of different experience to your own can be helpful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Modernizing your business can bring far greater success in the days ahead. Take a companion to some new place today.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get out of that rut and see how other successful people are operating. Show your excellent abilities to others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Buy new mechanisms that can make your workload easier and more precise. Cooperate with a co-worker.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can have an electrifyingly good time with friends today. Show everyone the congenial side of your nature.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If your house needs new furnishings, by all means get working on it. Make a fine impression on friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be a more interesting and forward-thinking person. Take a little trip to visit a very interesting person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A fine day to make your property more valuable and then set up a new and more modern budget.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A fine day for riding yourself of whatever is obsolete in your life and replace with what you truly want.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get rid of long-time worries and be full of exciting new ideas that will make the future much brighter for you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have the ability to go along with new and inventive ideas and do well in modern-type or scientific professions. Must learn to get acquainted with the standard way of doing things for a well-rounded attitude, and this can lead to great success in life.

Celtics win series opener, 112-100

'Little men' lead the way

BOSTON (AP) — Two of the smallest players on the court, Dennis Johnson and Danny Ainge, provided the wrecking ball to Houston's Twin Towers on Monday in the opener of the NBA championship series.

Ainge and Johnson combined for 22 points in the decisive third period as Boston beat the Rockets 112-100 for a 1-0 lead in the best-of-7 series. The Celtics, favored to win their 16th NBA title after compiling the NBA's best record at 67-15, will seek their 40th consecutive home victory since Dec. 6 in Game 2 on Thursday night.

Seven-foot Akeem Olajuwon, who averaged 31 points a game as he led the Rockets to a stunning 4-1 victory over the defending champion Los Angeles Lakers in the semifinals, continued his playoff dominance in the first half against Boston. He scored 25 of his 33 points as the Rockets were within two points at halftime. However, Olajuwon's 7-4 partner, Ralph Sampson, never recovered from first-half foul trouble and finished with two points on 1-for-13 shooting.

"We originally planned to play them 1-on-1, but we soon found it impossible," Boston Coach K.C. Jones said. "Olajuwon had 25 points and he was having a picnic out there. We had to double him. We couldn't allow Olajuwon to lose his mind down there anymore."

Olajuwon picked up his fourth and fifth fouls in a 33-second span of the third period and was on the sidelines for nearly five minutes as Johnson and Ainge led a 27-11 Boston spurt in the last 9:18 of the period.

"Everybody was picking up everybody else," Jones said of Boston's defensive effort that held the Rockets to 17 points in the third quarter. "Our big men complemented each other and Ainge and Johnson began hitting when we got the ball."

Johnson, 6-4, had 12 points and the 6-5 Ainge 10 during that span as Boston uncharacteristically relied on its backcourt duo rather than its big frontline.

"In the second half, they chose to double up (against the Celtics' big men) and that opened it up for myself and DJ," Ainge said.

Houston, meanwhile, "had one big man on the bench with foul trouble and even when they were both in, they weren't as aggressive because of the foul trouble," Ainge added. "That was a big factor. It changed the complexion of their team."

The 27-11 spurt turned a 65-64 Houston lead into 91-76 Boston advantage at the end of the third period, and the Rockets never threatened during a sloppy fourth period.

It was Boston's third straight victory over Houston in an NBA championship series. The Celtics won the last two games in 1981 to beat the Rockets four games to two in Houston's only other appearance in the finals.

Larry Bird, Boston's leading scorer in the regular season and playoffs, had only one point during the rally although he finished with 21 points, 13 assists and eight rebounds.

Center Robert Parish led Boston with 23 points and Kevin McHale had 21 while Johnson finished with 19 and Ainge 18.

Johnson had only five points at halftime and Ainge two and they hit only three of their 10 first-half shots.

Houston Coach Bill Fitch was not discouraged by the first-game loss.

"It's a seven-game series; they've got to beat us four times," he said.

Fitch said the turning point of the game may have been Olajuwon's foul trouble in the third quarter. "We were only five points down when Akeem picked up his fifth foul, and we had to take him out," Fitch said. "Then we had three turnovers and we were quickly down by 11."

The Celtics hit four straight outside shots en route to a 10-4 lead, but Houston fought back behind the shooting and passing of Robert Reid, who had 10 points in the first quarter.

When Sampson left with his third foul just 4:45 into the game, Boston started running at will, collecting nine fast-break points during a 12-3 streak that made it 24-14. McHale had seven of his 12 first-period points during that run.

Bill Walton scored the last four points of the first period and the Celtics appeared on the verge of taking control of the game with the first two baskets of the second quarter for a 38-28 lead with 10:32 left in the first half.

Olajuwon reversed the Boston momentum, scoring 15 points in the next 6½ minutes. During that time, the Rockets took the lead at 43-42 and tied the score five times.

Parish scored 12 points on a variety of hooks and turnaround shots, helping the Celtics maintain a 61-59 edge at halftime.

Indy postponed until Saturday

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis 500, the greatest spectacle in racing, was delayed for a second straight day Monday.

With rain falling steadily throughout the day, it was almost inevitable that the race would be postponed, just as it was Sunday. And there was speculation, with more rain forecast for the next three days and officials delaying any decision, that the race might be set back for a fresh start as late as next weekend.

The National Weather Service said rain is expected to continue off and on through Thursday.

The wet weather cast a pall over the sprawling Indianapolis Motor Speedway, with only a handful of the more than 350,000 spectators who turned up Sunday returning to the massive stands and the swampy infield.

Empty beer cans, mildewing boxes of chicken bones and other refuse from the biggest rain-soaked picnic in racing were strewn across the middle of the track just two days before a gleaming, grassy mecca of racing.

Not even the trucks, vans and cars that circled the 2½-mile oval Sunday in a vain effort to dry the track between rainstorms made it onto the soaked asphalt Monday.

One of the biggest losers was ABC, which came here to televise the race live for the first time. After being on the air for five hours, 43 minutes on Sunday with interviews and taped highlights of previous Indy races, the network said Monday it would go on the air only with brief periodic updates on the situation until the rainout was announced.

"We will not cover the race live beyond (Monday), but we will remain to tape the race (Tuesday)," said Irv Brodsky, a spokesman for ABC. "If it goes beyond, a decision will be made tomorrow. When and if the race airs depends on a number of factors to be determined this week."

Only a couple of the 33 drivers who comprise the fastest field in auto racing history even made it to the Speedway garage area Monday.

"I knew we weren't going to go racing today," said Arie Luyendyk of Holland. "I didn't have anything else to do, so I said, 'Let's go to the track and do some public relations for the sponsor.'"

Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil, a two-time Formula One world champion, also showed up.

"I have to be here anyway," he said. "I have many friends who came from Brazil. I see them and talk. I slept a little bit in the mobile home."

Danny Sullivan, the defending champion, remained in his room

Top seeds roll in French Open

PARIS (AP) — Ivan Lendl, Chris Evert-Lloyd and Steffi Graf moved easily Monday into the second round as the $2.6 million French Open Tennis Championships began its two-week run.

But Kathy Jordan, the women's No. 11 seed, fell to fellow American Camille Benjamin 1-6, 6-2, 6-3 under the bright, hot sun at Roland Garros Stadium in one of the few upsets of the day.

Other seeded women to post first-round victories included No. 6 Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia, No. 9 Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina, No. 12 Catarina Lindqvist of Sweden and No. 13 Carling Bassett of Canada.

Joining Lendl, the men's top seed, in the winner's circle Monday were No. 3 Boris Becker of West Germany, No. 5 Stefan Edberg of Sweden, No. 12 Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, the 1977 French Open champion, and No. 13 Johan Kriek of the United States.

Lloyd crushed 17-year-old Cecile Calmette, the French national junior girls champion, 6-0, 6-1, taking 51 minutes to do it on the slow, red clay center court.

"I knew she was the junior champion and that she is French, so I wasn't too casual," Lloyd said after the one-sided match.

But the defending women's champion, seeded No. 2 this year, was dawdling compared to the third-seeded Graf, who blitzed fellow West German Andrea Beckner 6-1, 6-0 in just 34 minutes.

It was Graf's 21st consecutive match victory for the 16-year-old Graf, who has won her last four tournaments, defeating all of the top players, including Lloyd, Martina Navratilova and Hana Mandlikova.

"It means I come in here with a chance to go very far," Graf said of her winning streak. "I think I'm playing very well. I think I have a good chance, not to win, but to reach the quarters."

"I have more confidence. For four or five tournaments, I've played great."

Lendl, who won the French Open in 1984, had very little problems disposing of West Germany's Michael Westphal 6-3, 6-3, 6-4; Becker bombed Jerome Potier of France 6-0, 6-3, 6-0; Kriek defeated Brazil's Carlos Kirmayr 6-1, 7-6, 6-2; and Vilas, who says his aim is to regain his spot in the top 10, chased Chile's Pedro Rebolledo 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

Sukova eliminated Italy's Sabina Simmonds 6-4, 6-2; Sabatini stopped Japan's Etsuko Inoue 6-1, 6-1; Lindqvist downed American Grace Kim 6-2, 6-1, and Bassett defeated Catherine Tanvier of France 7-5, 6-3.

Home run leader lowers boom on Yankees

By The Associated Press
Rookie Wally Joyner made sure the California Angels left New York on a positive note.

Joyner hit his major league-leading 16th homer, a two-run shot with two outs in the ninth inning Monday that rallied the Angels past New York 8-7. California broke a five-game losing streak and ended the Yankees' five-game winning string.

"This takes a lot of the sting out of an ugly four days," Angels Manager Gene Mauch said. "The thing I like about Wally, he functions as well in the ninth as he does in the first."

Joyner connected for his game-winning homer after reliever Dave Righetti, 4-2, retired the first two California batters in the ninth on two pitches before Brian Downing singled. Joyner fouled off the first pitch before homering into the right-field seats.

"I just corrected my swing and I got my bat head out there," Joyner said.

In other American League games, Boston beat Cleveland 5-3, Minnesota pounded Toronto 9-1 and Detroit got past Oakland 5-4 in 10 innings. Seattle nipped Baltimore 7-6; Texas downed Chicago 7-2 and Milwaukee whitewashed Kansas City 4-0.

In National League games, Atlanta bounced Pittsburgh 9-4 and Chicago downed Cincinnati 9-6. Houston defeated St. Louis 4-1 and San Diego got past Montreal 9-6.

Angels starter Mike Witt, 4-4, pitched 8 1-3 innings, giving up 10 hits and seven runs while walking six and striking out eight. Reliever Terry Forster got the last two outs for his first American League save since 1976.

Mike Easler's three-run homer gave the Yankees a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Ron Hassey hit a two-run homer in the seventh that lifted New York into a 6-6 tie.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Red Sox 5, Indians 3
Don Baylor hit a two-run homer and Bill Buckner added a solo shot as Boston beat Cleveland for its eighth victory in the last nine games.
Bruce Hurst, 4-3, limited

Cleveland to three runs on seven hits through six innings. Bob Stanley, the fifth Red Sox pitcher, got the last four outs for his eighth save.

Twins 9, Blue Jays 1

Mark Portugal pitched eight strong innings and broke his personal seven-game losing streak and Kent Hrbek hit two home runs as Minnesota pounded Toronto.

Kirby Puckett added a two-run homer, his 14th, to the Twins' 13-hit attack. Hrbek a solo homer in seventh and a two-run shot in the eighth.

Portugal, 1-5, gave up nine hits and recorded his second major-league victory and his first since he beat Boston last Aug. 31. Portugal shut out the Blue Jays until Jesse Barfield led off the ninth with his 10th homer.

Tigers 5, A's 4

Detroit's Dave Collins, whose ninth-inning double set up a tying two-run rally, singled home the winning run with one out in the 10th inning.

The Tigers trailed 4-2 entering the ninth, but Lou Whitaker singled, Collins doubled and John Grubb hit a two-run double.

Pat Sheridan led off the 10th with a single and Tom Brookens drew a walk from Jay Howell, 0-4. After Whitaker bunted into a force play, Collins singled.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Braves 2, Pirates 1

Ted Simmons hit a tie-breaking sacrifice fly and Dale Murphy lined a two-run single as Atlanta turned four eighth-inning Pittsburgh errors into five runs.

The victory was the Braves' ninth in their last 11 games and marked Atlanta Manager Chuck Tanner's return to Pittsburgh, where he managed for nine seasons until being fired last October. The Pirates made six errors, three by shortstop Sammy Khalifa, and lost their fifth straight game.

Cubs 9, Reds 6
Jody Davis hit a three-run homer and pitcher Dennis Eckersley hit a two-run homer as Chicago snapped Cincinnati's four-game winning streak.

Davis' eighth homer of the season capped a five-run first inning. Eckersley's blast, his second this season and third of his career, finished a four-run third after Cincinnati tied it with five runs in the second.

Dave Parker hit a three-run homer off Eckersley, 2-2. Lee Smith got his seventh save.

Free swim classes

As a public service to the community and in the interest of water safety, the "Y" will offer one week of free swim lessons to boys and girls between the ages of 5 and 10.

Classes will begin on Monday, June 2 and end Sunday, June 6. There are four classes scheduled at the following times: 8:15, 9, 9:45 and 10:30 a.m. Each class will be limited to 25 students.

To enroll call the YMCA at 267-8234 beginning May 27. The first 100 students will be accepted.

The "Y" also kicks off its summer gymnastic program on Monday, June 2. There will be three four-week sessions. The second session begins on June 30 and the final one will start July 28.

The class is open to boys and girls 3 years to 7 and over. For more information call the "Y".

Games cancelled

All Industrial League Softball games will be cancelled this week because of wet fields.

The games will be made up the following week.

Ladies scramble

The Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association will be hosting a Two-Lady Scramble Saturday, May 31 at Comanche Trail Golf Course. Entry fee is $50 per team. For more information call Al or Bobbie Patterson at 263-7271.

Funds needed for gymnast

The community of Big Spring and the local YMCA will have gymnast Will Rutherford and his coach Ken Werner travel to the Soviet Union from June 18 through July 5 to train and compete with young Soviet gymnasts.

To assist these two, the YMCA is asking for contributions to help with the expenses. A minimum of $5,000 is needed to cover expenses. Send check to: YMCA-Russian Trip, P.O. Box 1428, Big Spring Texas, 79720. For more information call 267-8234.

Celtics put clamps on Sampson

BOSTON (AP) — In just five days, Ralph Sampson went from hero to helpless bystander to hapless participant. Yet he remains hopeful.

Sampson, whose shot at the buzzer Wednesday night launched the Houston Rockets into the NBA finals, picked up three fouls in the first five minutes and scored just two points Monday in the Boston Celtics' 112-100 victory in the series opener.

In the first half, the 7-foot-4 Sampson played only the first 4:45 and missed his two field-goal attempts. In the second half, he played 22 minutes and made just one of 11 shots.

"I was frustrated because I couldn't get in the game," he said. "The referees took me out of this game, but it's just one loss with four more to go to win."

"I'm already thinking about making a positive contribution on Thursday."

That's when Game 2 of the best-of-seven series will be played here. The Rockets also dropped the first game of their Western Conference final, then won four in a row to eliminate the Los Angeles Lakers. Sampson scored 10 of Houston's last 13 points, including the game-winning shot, after Akeem Olajuwon was ejected for fighting in Wednesday's clinching victory.

On Monday, Sampson couldn't make up for the loss of Olajuwon, who sat out the last 4:49 of the third period after picking up his fifth foul. Boston outscored Houston 14-4 the rest of the quarter to make the score 91-76.

"In the first half, we had some other guys that were a threat and Akeem was doing well," Rockets' Coach Bill Fitch said. "In the second half, they gave all their attention to Akeem and no one else was a threat."

Olajuwon scored 25 points in the first half, which ended with Boston ahead 61-59, but felt the effects of Sampson's absence.

"Ralph's a great defensive rebounder and when he's out we're missing that," Olajuwon said.

With only one of the Twin Towers to worry about, the Celtics "were sagging back on me," he added. "They were coming from all different angles."

Then, when Olajuwon sat, Sampson was affected.

"We didn't run the same type of offense as we do when he's in the game," Sampson said. "We shot a lot of jump shots and that enabled them (the Celtics) to break away."

Jim Petersen, the backup forward who replaced Sampson, said Sampson "ended up sitting out 19 minutes in the first half and then he had to play on eggs because Akeem had five (fouls) and he couldn't be as physical."

"We survived Ralph's foul trouble because Akeem wasn't fouled and he could still play and he played great."

Boston forward Kevin McHale said, "the key today was to try and go at Ralph and Akeem and the whole inside game as much as possible. We wanted to make them commit fouls."

Even when Sampson and Olajuwon were in the game at the same time, "they weren't as aggressive because of the foul trouble," Boston guard Danny Ainge said. "It changed the complexion of their team."

Houston guard Robert Reid said Sampson's long stretch on the sidelines ruined his rhythm when he returned.

"When you're out of the game for most of the first half, you're in a bind going home for Sunday's third game with a 2-0 deficit."

"If this team is going to win the world championship, Akeem and Ralph have got to go out and play their best every night," Fitch said. "Hopefully, he (Sampson) got it all out of his system."

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Sun Country's plan can help sell your home

Sun Country Realtors, Inc. has a plan of action for selling your home.

1. Turn into Multiple Listing Service as soon as possible.
2. Newspaper advertising.
3. Yard sign. An excellent marketing tool.
4. Qualify buyers.
5. Control appointments and key.
6. Preview of your home by our agents as soon as possible.
7. Set up showing MLS agents.

8. Prepare Market Analysis if requested.
9. Provide financial counseling.
10. Picture and description of your home in MLS book.
11. Loan follow-through.
12. Set up closing of sale.
13. Open house when requested.
14. Relocation information.
15. Status reports on your home.
16. Market status report.
17. House selling tips.
18. Maintenance when necessary.

Now there is something the staff at Sun Country Realtors will not do for you. They won't tell you they will buy your home if they don't sell it, because they don't believe in using gimmicks and come on to get your business. They believe in a sincere, honest approach.

It is Sun Country's practice to avoid high pressure tactics. Just like the Golden Rule, the staff's objective is to treat all their clients and customers like they would like to be treated. That is why Sun Country's motto is "Professional service with a personal touch."

Sun Country's staff includes:

PATTI HORTON — co-owner and broker, graduate of the Real Estate Institute (GRI), certified residential specialist (CRS), and a candidate for the Residential Member designation, American Institute of Real Estate Appraisals.

JANELLE DAVIS — co-owner and broker, graduate of the Real Estate Institute (GRI).

JANELLE BRITTON — co-owner and broker.

LINDA WILLIAMS — broker, graduate of the Real Estate Institute (GRI).

KATIE GRIMES — broker. Come see the staff at Sun Country Realtors about selling or buying a home. Sun Country is located at 2000 S. Gregg.

BUSY WORKERS — At Sun Country Realtors, Inc., coffee cups are the only things that sit around! Sun Country has the best iced coffee around. They order coffee one day and it just sits around for several days and gets real cold. The staff doesn't have time to sit around with it; they are too busy doing their job — selling homes.
