Water returns to most of city

Mayor says need for residents to conserve is still critical

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Water has been restored to most homes and businesses in Big Spring, but several areas in the southwest part of town were still without water this morning.

At a morning news conference, Mayor Cotton Mize, who Wednesday declared a state of emergency, said, "We are on top of the problem. We have people working around the clock. We are still in a state of emergency ... and want to strongly impress on people that they don't water lawns or wash cars or use water unnecessarily."

The State Department of Health is still urging people to boil tap water for 1 to 5 minutes because of the chance of bacteria growth in pipes without water pressure.

Public Works Director Tom Decell said the city is sampling water at various sites and will submit the water to the health department for analysis. The department will then rule on its safety, he said.

Decell said he hopes to have water for hygiene purposes to people living in the South Haven, Douglas and Capehart additions as well as other homes in the southwest portion of town, by late this afternoon.

The problem in those areas was with the State Park reservoir, only 10 percent full at 8 a.m., said utilities supervisor John Cochran. Decell said one tank had just a couple feet of water while the other was still bone dry. Water was being pumped into that storage facility this morning, he said.

News in other parts of towns is brighter, though. At 8 a.m., Cochran said the northside water tower was at 95 percent capacity, and Lancaster and City Park reservoirs were at 60 and 25 percent capacity, respectively. The Edwards reservoir on the high side system was 60 percent full.

However, the situation with the water plant's pumps remains critical, Decell said. Two of the city's four pumps were still in Lubbock for servicing this morning, while another was in Odessa, he said. Two pumps, one on loan from the Colorado River Municipal Water District, were serving the entire city.

Decell said until the city's full complement of pumps are back on line, sometime Sunday or Monday, people need to conserve water.

"We have authorized the police to stop you" from watering lawns and washing cars and using water for non-essential purposes, Mize said Wednesday.

Acting Police Chief Lonnie Smith issued a directive immediately after Wednesday's press conference ordering his men to stop anyone seen watering lawns and washing cars.

Mize said people will not be issued tickets unless there is widespread non-compliance with the request. The city, he said, might shut off the water supply of people who abuse it.

"If everyone cooperates we'll have water" in a day or two, he said.

Councilman Johnny Rutherford said "it's up to the citizens" how Public Works Director Tom Decell, left, and councilmen Henry Sanchez, middle, and Russ McEwen watch repair attempts at the water treatment plant Wednesday afternoon. People are requested to use water only for essential needs.

Shonna Tate gets a bucket of water from the swimming pool at Park Hill Terrace Apartments Wednesday in order to flush the toilets. Some areas of town were still without running water this morning.

Susie Roach washes her car at Top-of-the-Hill Car Wash on E. Fourth Street Wednesday. Today, car washing and watering lawns is prohibited as a state of emergency has been declared in the city.

Crisis is boom for some, bust for others

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Lack of water has caused financial losses to some businesses forced to shut down temporarily, but for others, business is booming.

Jiffy Car Wash, 807 W. Fourth St., has been shut down voluntarily since Wednesday even though it had water, said owner Junior Ringener.

"People need it more for health and hygiene than to wash cars with," he said.

Police have been directed to stop people from washing their cars or watering lawns, mayor Cotton Mize said Wednesday when he declared a state of emergency for the city.

"I'm losing a lot of money," Ringener said. "We'd be busy after all this rain."

BoSa donuts was closed Wednesday because the shop had no water, but is open today, said manager Lewis Kidd.

"I figure we lost about $400 in sales," he said. "It's kind of hard to make anything without water."

Water began to flow Wednesday evening, he said, but it was dirty.

Since then, it has become a little cleaner, but it is not being used in the food, he said.

Shop personnel hauled enough water from Comanche Trail Park to use in the donuts and icing, and tap water is being used only for cleaning, he said.

At the Gold Mine restaurant, owner Steve Lewis didn't even notice anything was wrong until Wednesday evening, when he read the newspaper, he said.

The Gold Mine was never without water, he said, but the pressure was a little lower than usual.

Business was a little better than usual, though, and he heard two ladies comment they were glad to get a cup of coffee at last because they didn't have any water at home, he said.

Lewis, who also owns the Rainbarrel General Store next door, said his business is "real dependent on water." The Rainbarrel has a photographic laboratory, and pictures cannot be processed without a lot of water, he said.

Richard Wright, owner of Culligan Water Conditioning, had been limiting customers to five gallons per purchase because he didn't have enough water to fill the huge demand. Today though, business is "on full stream" and people can buy as much as they need, he said.

Culligan purifies city water, he said, and although he didn't lose water service completely, the pressure was very low and he couldn't run the pumps.

"I made a lot of them mad yesterday" who came in hoping to purchase a lot more, he said.

Wright said he didn't make any

Well-owners share water with residents

Some area well-owners are responding to the water crisis in Big Spring by giving away water to those who still have none in their homes.

"We feel like, in this crisis, that's the small part we could do to help," said Grace Peters, co-owner of C&G Grocery on South Highway 87, which has a well. Water is "a God-given gift that's essential to mankind," she said.

Peters said she fears many people who don't have water can't afford to go buy it.

Lazelle Thomas of 1300 E. 18th St., who has a well in her backyard, is also giving away water to anyone in need.

"We've been in that situation before and I know what it's like" to not have water, she said.

Several years ago, when temperatures dropped below zero, the well froze. There wasn't enough insulation on the pipe, she said. Since their water supply is pumped from the well to the house, they had no water.

Her husband, Ray Thomas, rigged a system to get water into the house by hooking up a hose to a neighbor's water supply, she said.

Both Peters' and Thomas' wells contain potable water, they said.

Big Spring Federal Prison Camp superintendent Anthony Belaski, left, helps pour water from a portable tank with inmate Rupert Stonecipher, a member of the Federal Prison Camp Jaycees. Inmates brought water to four schools Wednesday and one school today to flush out toilets and for general cleaning purposes.

Classes dismissed early because of water problem

Big Spring students had only half a day of classes today, the last day of school before summer vacation.

Continued problems with the Big Spring water system lead to the shortened day, as well as cancellation of the Kentwood Elementary School kindergarten graduation and all afternoon kindergarten classes, said Superintendent Lynn Hise.

Parents of kindergartners should stop by the schools and pick up personal items, diplomas and grade cards, he said.

Classes at all local schools, except the high school, were cancelled yesterday because of the lack of water. Hise said he has received word from the Texas Education Agency that the day will not have to be made up.

Work crews of inmates at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp carried water to the schools today and Wednesday to put through the sewer system to avoid any plumbing or sanitation problems, Hise said.

No cafeterias were to operate today, he said, and students were asked to turn in any school property, such as textbooks, band instruments or fines owed, so they could receive report cards through the mail.

Sheriff's Log

He was released on $5,000 bond.

The items were valued at $500.

Man hospitalized after crash

A 25-year-old man injured in a one-vehicle rollover in Howard County Wednesday afternoon was to be transferred out of the intensive care unit of Odessa Medical Center today, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Paul L. Rutledge of Palestine was "doing real well," the spokeswoman said this morning.

A passenger in the vehicle, Johnnie Rutledge, whose age and address was unavailable, was treated and released from Malone-Hogan's emergency room, said an emergency room spokeswoman there.

The accident occurred about 3:15 p.m. near the Howard-Martin county line on Interstate 20.

Paul Rutledge was transferred to Odessa Medical from Malone-Hogan Hospital Wednesday night.

He was driving a 1981 Chevrolet Blazer westbound on I-20 before when blew a tire, said Department of Public Safety trooper Freddie Salazar of Stanton.

The vehicle rolled twice onto the north service road, Salazar said, and Rutledge was hanging out the door when it came to a rest.

"He's lucky he wasn't crushed," Salazar said.

The blown tire and failure to control speed were factors contributing to the accidents, Salazar said.

Police turn murder case over to district attorney

Police are "tying up loose ends" in their investigation into Friday's murder and sexual assault of 81-year-old Ara Erline Bohannon, police Lt. Jerry Edwards said today.

Edwards said this morning the cases against 18-year-old Joseph Gilbert Garcia, 516 Donley St., and 20-year-old Andy Guzman of 1501 Stadium Ave. were presented to District Attorney Rick Hamby. The two men have been charged with capital murder, burglary and motor vehicle theft.

Edwards said Hamby will review the case and may ask for additional evidence or proceed with the material police have already supplied him. The two suspects have given police sworn statements in connection with the incident, Edwards said. The apparent motive in the assault was burglary, he said.

Bohannon was found in her ransacked home bound and gagged Friday afternoon. The woman had been sexually assaulted and her automobile stolen, police said.

Garcia is being held on bonds totaling $87,500 set by Justice of the Peace Willie Grant. Guzman is being held without bond because he was arrested on a parole violation, which is non-bondable, said district parole officer David Harman.

Boom

more money from the crisis than he usually earns, because he didn't raise prices.

"I'm not going to do something like that," he said. "It's not right; not water, not food."

He said he had problems with people complaining because they thought their water problems were the fault of Culligan equipment in their homes.

Once the water system is back to normal, he said, the shop will be busy cleaning and changing equipment in people's homes, which may be clogged from excess silt in the water.

Acri's Gregg Street Dry Cleaners and Laundry was forced to close down Wednesday, but is back in business today, said owner Eddie Acri.

"I put a sign up that said 'no water, no steam, no work,'" he said.

No great loss will result from being shut down only one day, he said, "but if I'd had to close the whole week, it would have caused me and the people who work for me a financial hardship."

His workers are going to have to hustle to catch up with the work missed, though, he said. Since the laundry was closed Monday for Memorial Day, extra business came in Tuesday, but was unable to be cleaned until today, he said.

Water

fast the water situation returns to normal. "It could be two days or it could be 10 days," he said.

City officials stressed the need to let the water reservoirs fill up. That means although people may have water, they need to refrain from using large volumes.

"Even if we have half the people comply, we can catch up," said Councilman Henry Sanchez, who worked for seven years at the plant.

Efforts to build up water levels in the reservoirs were hampered Wednesday afternoon by the break of a 12-inch water line near the Texaco Station at the intersection of Farm Road 700 and Birdwell Lane shortly after 1 p.m.

Thousands of gallons of precious water streamed down Birdwell Lane and flowed behind the service station into the parking lot of the Mity Mart convenience store. City crews were able to stop the gush of water in about an hour.

Decell said two of the plant's four pumps were back on line shortly after noon Tuesday, but one pump had to be shut down while filters, airlocked from inactivity, were cleaned and backwashed. Both pumps were moving water by late afternoon.

Acting City Manager Hal Boyd said the breakdown at the plant was not the fault of city employees. The plant's equipment was known to be old and in need of repair, he said. The City Council has already targeted the plant for upgrading in the last phase of the capital improvement program, he said.

The emergency "will not affect the budget appreciably," Boyd said. Although no cost estimate has been worked up, Boyd said sufficient money is already earmarked for water and sewage to cover the calamity.

Mize said the city "appreciates the concerns and patience" of Big Spring's citizens. The crisis, he said, "exemplifies" the closeness of the town.

Woman sentenced to jail term

A 55-year-old woman was sentenced to 72 hours in county jail Tuesday afternoon after she pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated.

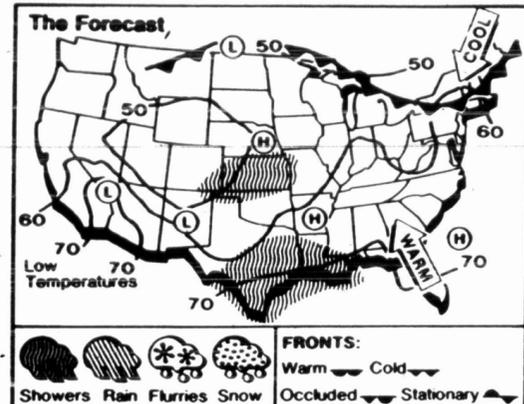

Petronila Martinez Reyes, of 709 W. 18th was sentenced by County Judge Milton Kirby for driving while intoxicated on April 3.

She also was fined $300 and had her driver's license suspended for six months.

She was arrested in the 500 block of Donley Street by police.

U.S. aid cutoff a problem

WASHINGTON (P) — A U.S. cutoff of aid to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels who operate out of bases in Honduras could cause a "grave problem" in that country, Honduran President Jose Azcona said.

Azcona also criticized Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government Wednesday for the lack of freedom allowed in Nicaragua.

The Honduran president is on a four-day visit to Washington.

President Reagan wants Congress to send $100 million in mostly military aid to the Contras, a plan scheduled for House debate in mid-June. Meanwhile, Latin American countries are negotiating a possible Central American peace treaty aimed at reducing regional tensions.

Soviet plane intercepted

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — Jet fighters from Langley Air Force Base this week intercepted two Soviet anti-submarine warfare aircraft about 230 miles off the Virginia coast, the Air Force said.

The Soviet warplanes intercepted Tuesday remained over international waters the entire time, the North American Aerospace Defense Command said Wednesday. It is not unusual for Soviet military planes to travel near the continental United States when going to Cuba or returning to the Soviet Union, NORAD said.

Air Force officials would not say in which direction the planes were traveling.

U.S. to arm B-52 bombers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said today that national security, and not a flawed SALT II accord, is the only determining factor in shaping U.S. arms policy.

Weinberger, interviewed on NBC-TV's "Today" program, also said the SALT II agreement allowed the Soviet Union to expand its arsenal and failed to get reductions in weapons.

"The SALT agreement is an agreement that allowed the Soviets to expand and build more of what they already had," Weinberger said. "And that's not a very good agreement. What the president wants, what I want, what everybody wants is to try to get agreements that reduce very drastically the amount of arms on each side, and SALT didn't do that."

"That's why we never endorsed it. That's why the president always opposed it," he said.

Weinberger said on Wednesday that the United States definitely will ignore the SALT II accord this fall by proceeding with the arming of B-52 bombers with cruise missiles.

Nevada, Texas and Washington vow fights

Nevada filed five lawsuits, and officials of Texas and Washington promised their own challenges to the Reagan administration's targeting one of the three states as the possible site of the nation's first nuclear waste repository.

Mississippi officials expressed guarded relief Wednesday after the U.S. Energy Department announced that their state and Utah were no longer potential sites for underground storage of 77,000 tons of spent nuclear fuel.

However, Utah officials said they might join the lawsuits in an effort to keep from being reconsidered.

"Politics is kind of like a baseball game and Yogi Berra said, 'It ain't over 'til it's over,'" Utah Gov. Norm Bangert said. "Until a site is selected and they start putting waste into the ground, it's not over."

Selection of the three sites means six-year geological investigations requiring shafts up to 4,000 feet deep will begin at Yucca Mountain in Nevada; the Hanford Nuclear reservation in Washington; and Deaf Smith County, Texas.

The Energy Department also said a second permanent storage depot is not needed now, ending uncertainty for New Hampshire, Maine, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia, which had been under consideration.

The first repository, which is to open in 1996, four years after a president makes the selection, is supposed to protect waste from disturbances for 10,000 years.

Nevada Attorney General Brian McKay immediately filed five suits in the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, contending that the selection process is illegal and designed to place Yucca Mountain — within the Nevada Test Site in southern Nevada — in a position as the only site under consideration, and that the DOE failed to acquire necessary jurisdictional controls over the mountain.

Washington Gov. Booth Gardner and Attorney General Ken Eikenberry said the DOE was playing politics and being less than scientific by including Hanford.

The state will file suit in the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals within weeks, also challenging the selection process, they said.

"I think it was essentially a

Energy Secretary John Herrington takes a question during a news conference in Washington Wednesday about possible nuclear waste sites. Herrington said a single site will be adequate for America's nuclear waste and will be selected by 1994.

political decision," Gardner said.

He held up a map showing where most of the nation's high-level radioactive wastes are produced — mostly in the East — and said, "Guess where it's going?" He pointed to the three Western sites.

Gardner said he believes Hanford will never be chosen on its own merits, but that he feared the Texas or Nevada sites might be eliminated for other scientific or political reasons, leaving Hanford the choice by default.

"If Nevada were to drop out because of earthquake faults and Texas because they have so many congressmen in Congress, it's pretty hard for me to step before the people of the state of Washington and say we have the safest site," he said.

Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox, who filed an unsuccessful lawsuit against the federal government after an unofficial December 1984 announcement that the Texas site was a finalist, said the state plans to sue again.

"DOE's announcement is no surprise to us, so it should come as no surprise to the federal government that we will see them at the courthouse as soon as possible," said Mattox. "This is proving to be the biggest railroad job ever perpetuated by the federal government upon this state, and I intend to fight it tooth and nail."

Attorneys for the Nuclear Waste Task Force Inc., an organization comprised of Panhandle landowners, citizen and commodity groups, said they expected to file a lawsuit today to delay and eventually stop the site studies.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said Deaf Smith County and other portions of the Panhandle could be damaged by drilling the testing shaft through the Ogallala Aquifer, the region's major water source. He also noted the number of food and agricultural operations in the area.

Argentines shoot sailor

PORT STANLEY, Falkland Islands (AP) — Argentina said today one of its warships raked a Taiwanese trawler with machine-gun fire after it was caught fishing in Argentine waters. One sailor died and three were injured, a fishing official reported.

Border attack kills 20

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Heavy shelling today of a Cambodian refugee camp along the Thai-Cambodian border killed at least 20 refugees and injured 41, a senior international aid official said.

An official of the International Committee of the Red Cross, who spoke on condition of anonymity, quoted ICRC field reports as saying the casualties were from the Site 8 refugee camp, about 33 miles south of the key Thai border town of Aranyaprathet.

The camp, which is run by the United Nations Border Relief Operation and the Thai military, is controlled by communist Khmer Rouge guerrillas.

Salvadoran abuses fewer

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — An American human rights organization said today that political slayings and disappearances claimed almost 2,000 people in El Salvador last year, a relatively low number compared to some previous years.

The New York-based Americas Watch said the U.S.-trained armed forces or rightist death squads were responsible for 1,740 of the killings or disappearances, and blamed leftist guerrillas for the rest.

Americas Watch organization made the findings in a reported titled "Settling Into Routine: Human Rights Abuses in Duarte's Second Year." The report was issued days before President Jose Napoleon Duarte, a Christian Democrat, completes his second year in office on Sunday.

Leader attends meeting

MOSCOW (AP) — KGB officials held a top-level meeting attended by Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev this week and discussed ways of improving the Soviet security agency's work, the Pravda newspaper reported today.

The Communist Party newspaper said the meeting took place Tuesday and Wednesday and included a speech from KGB chief Viktor M. Chebrikov, who is a member of the ruling Politburo.

Student dies from cyanide in Anacin-3

AUSTIN (AP) — Authorities today were awaiting results of lab tests on Anacin-3 capsules taken from 10 Walgreen drug stores after a 24-year-old University of Texas student died of cyanide poisoning.

Police said the cyanide was found in the body of Kenneth Wayne Faries, a chemistry senior who died May 21.

The poison was traced to a bottle of Anacin-3 pain relief capsules purchased from a Walgreen store and found in the medicine cabinet of his home.

Police said they are treating the death as a homicide, but they didn't rule out suicide.

"Our investigators right now are going out and doing all the checks," Kellye Norris said today.

"We're treating it as a homicide because our medical examiner did rule it a homicide. But we haven't ruled anything out yet. We're not saying it's definitely a homicide," she said.

The Anacin-3 taken by Faries was from a bottle containing 500-milligram capsules from Lot 6B11, bearing the expiration date 10-88, police said.

Police advised anyone who has Anacin-3 from the same lot number not to take the capsules.

Dr. Robert Bayardo, Travis County medical examiner, said one capsule in the bottle showed evidence of tampering.

"It is my personal opinion that this is the only bottle that has been tampered with. But we have to prevent some other deaths, so we are warning the public about this product," Bayardo said.

Bayardo said he did not know how many capsules Faries had taken.

REACH OUT™ Texas
OPTIONAL CALLING PLAN

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. (AT&T) is seeking approval from the Public Utility Commission of Texas to continue the REACH OUT Texas long distance plan. REACH OUT Texas is an optional calling plan which offers customers the opportunity to save on long distance calls placed within the state of Texas.

The Public Utility Commission has required that AT&T show why the REACH OUT Texas plan should not expire by August 1, 1986. To meet this requirement, on March 7, 1986, AT&T filed an application with the Public Utility Commission, and asked that the August 1, 1986 termination date be removed. This request and the related proceeding have been designated as Docket No. 6761 by the Public Utility Commission, with hearings scheduled to begin June 18, 1986.

Currently more than 39,000 Texans subscribe to REACH OUT Texas service. REACH OUT Texas customers pay a one-time $6 charge to establish the service, and a monthly charge of $14 which entitles them to one hour of AT&T's intrastate/interstate "Direct Dialed" (1+) calling during the weekend and night rate periods. Customers also receive an additional 15 percent discount on the same type of AT&T long distance calls placed during the evening rate period. In addition, an hourly rate of $12, or $20 per minute applies for weekend and night rate calls beyond the initial hour of calling provided under the REACH OUT Texas basic rate.

AT&T estimates current annual revenues generated by the REACH OUT Texas service to be over $14 million.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. ## Trying times test West Texas spirit

Big Springers have been severely tested in the last few days, both the city's residents and its workers. Oil spill, murder, violent weather, water shortage: these are the weights some communities don't burden in a year. This city saw them all in less than a week.

It is a tribute to the spirit of this community that it has held together in the face of these trials.

An oil tanker spill that required quick containment action by city public works crews was only a test run for them of what was soon to transpire. Following Saturday night's strong storms, the city's water pumps went out leaving residents high and dry. As of this writing, some neighborhoods are still out of water. It is essential, of course, for everyone to conserve the water that is available in the city. But things are slowly getting back to normal.

Round the clock efforts beginning Monday bore fruit: by late Wednesday water pressure was returning to much of the city. And in the interim, neighbor pitched in to help neighbor. Farmers from north of Big Spring brought in water for the hospital and retirement center. The federal prison camp loaded up a tanker truck with water and prepared to distribute it. People with water wells willingly gave of their bounty to anyone in need.

It was a triumph, once again, of the West Texas spirit. Willing workers, helpful neighbors, good citizens. This is West Texas.

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Thursday, May 29, the 149th day of 1986. There are 216 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

Lobbyists take beating because of new tax bill

There are many sad men and women in Washington this week. They are the lobbyists who took a terrible beating when the House and Senate passed slightly different versions of a tax reform bill.

One happens to be Arnie Neversmore, a man who has spent the greater part of his adult life protecting the interests of the Tax Shelter Contractors of America.

Arnie rarely loses a big one and was in shock when I talked to him in the halls of the Capitol.

"When I think of all the lousy meals I've eaten at $1,000 a plate I get sick to my stomach. I still can't believe they would vote down tax shelters."

"You have a right to be sore, Arnie. The lobbyists are always the first to get hurt when tax laws are repealed."

"The House and Senate can vote any way they want to, but if they ask for PAC money from me they should at least listen to my story."

"I'll listen to your story."

He gave me his list of voting instructions for Congress and it read, "Eliminate tax shelters and you eliminate jobs. Take away a man's incentive to beat the system and you're taking away the only thing that makes him strive to be a millionaire. WARNING: If you bulldoze the shelters, we'll elect people who will build new ones twice as strong."

"Those are heavy arguments," I told Arnie. "No wonder Congress didn't want to hear them."

"I don't care for myself," he said, "because I'm going to get by whether my money is sheltered or not. But I'm worried about the little guy who ekes out a bare living on a real estate deal or two, or an oil tax shelter."

"It's good of you to speak up for the little guy, Arnie. Most people are just screaming to make the tax system fairer. But you're for protecting the taxpayers who need help the most. The ones who object to tax shelters are those who wouldn't know one if they fell into it. What are you going to do now?"

"I'm going to organize a letter-writing campaign which will blow their minds. I'm going to have each tax-shelter owner write 20 letters to his or her congressman."

"Twenty letters? How do you get them to write that many?"

Art Buchwald

"Any person who can afford to be in a tax shelter has to have a secretary. The thrust of the letter will be that the writer has no objection if the lower brackets get a better break as long as the upper brackets get what's coming to them. Tax reform is full of mine fields. Look at this. You can only deduct interest on your first and second homes — not your third or fourth. Everyone knows a third or fourth home costs more than the second or first one. So where is the equity?"

Arnie was really wound up. "You can't get investment credits under the new bill. This means all the equipment people buy for businesses comes out of their own pocket."

"Isn't there anything in the tax law for the well-to-do?"

"Nothing that I can see. This tax reform bill is a dagger aimed at the heart of the rich. And it punishes the upper classes who are trying to stay above the middle-class line."

"Maybe they won't pass the bill. Congress has walked away from less controversial ones," I said.

Arnie shook his head. "They won't walk away on this one because the public thinks they're getting something good. The truth is the bill is a lemon because the Administration is going to have to tax the people after they give them their tax break."

"What are you going to do?"

"I'm going to work the halls, and if they don't listen to me I'm going to tell them what they can do with their $1,000-a-plate squishy chickens."

Commission makes composite of the average Mafia captain

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — La Cosa Nostra, or the Mafia, has fascinated and alarmed law enforcement officials since its first acquisitive advance men arrived in this country more than a century ago.

The crime families have also, of course, fascinated Hollywood, which has repeatedly presented its versions of mob life, invariably romanticized and sometimes glorified. In most of these fictional depictions, the police are often corrupt, usually incompetent and essentially irrelevant.

As might be expected, the President's Commission on Organized Crime paints a different picture. In an unpublished background paper, titled "LCN Today," the commission works up a composite of the average "caporegima" or captain of a Mafia family. A better title might have been "Portrait of a Mobster," for it portrays the capo who directs the mob's day-to-day operations.

The typical capo "has generated a great deal of money and has gained status within the family," the report observes, adding: "They typically have their own legitimate and illegitimate businesses as well as receiving a percentage of the income of their soldiers."

The FBI, meanwhile, conducted a survey of 101 gangsters whose activities span the decades from the 1930s to the 1980s. Our associate Donald Goldberg has obtained an analysis of the survey. What is fascinating about the statistical portrait is the inordinate amount of time the average capo has spent in court answering criminal charges. He seems to have bounced in and out of police custody like a Ping-Pong ball. It's a mundane facet of his life that was ignored by "The Godfather."

Here's the rap sheet: "The 'average capo' was born in 1924 and is 62 years old. His first arrest was probably in 1950 at the age of 26, for robbery. During his career he has been arrested 8.9 times. He was charged with 12.35 crimes."

In the 1,248 total arrest charges brought against the 101 capos surveyed, 38 different types of crimes were represented, ranging from relatively minor offenses like disorderly conduct and destruction of property to such felonies as murder, rape and extortion.

Not surprisingly, as the capos grew older and wealthier, they were more likely to be involved in bribery and tax evasion than in the violent crimes of their youth.

"By examining this group," the analysis explains, "one can get an idea of the crime pattern for our 'average capo' as he matured and climbed the hierarchy of his organized crime family. Especially significant is the presence of robbery, extortion, felonious assault and weapons possessions, all indicating the ruthless violence potential of this group."

Until the 1950s, robbery was the most common charge against the capos. By 1960, and continuing into the 1970s, gambling moved into the No. 1 spot, and since then has been replaced by extortion.

During the six decades, the most frequent criminal charges against the capos were gambling, robbery and conspiracy. But times are changing: Only conspiracy remains among the Top Three, with racketeering and bribery.

As the analysis notes, racketeering didn't become a federal crime in the 1970s. Its frequency on the rap sheets has grown roughly tenfold since then.

On a hopeful note, the reports concludes that, while mobsters have become more sophisticated since the 1930s, it "may well be that law enforcement's response is more sophisticated, and therefore able to pursue these sophisticated crimes."

UNDER THE DOME: Opponents of legislation reauthorizing the Clean Air Act have used some excruciating stalling tactics to prolong its stay in the House Energy subcommittee chaired by Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif. Rep. Edward Madigan, R-Ill., an opponent of the bill, has made repeated demands for time-consuming quorum calls. Staff aides have been instructed to tell subcommittee members to drift quietly away after each quorum call — thereby creating the opportunity for yet another head count. Another delaying tactic has been the scheduling of literally hundreds of industry opponents to testify, though they have added little to the debate.

PROOFREEDER WANTID: In its effort to get congressional approval to buy a few million dollars' worth of U.S. arms, Saudi Arabia spent thousands of dollars on lobbying and PR. One firm produced a slick and obviously expensive "background paper for members of Congress," which included a glossy map of the Persian Gulf area. And there in the middle were two misspelled Arab countries: "North Yeman" and "South Yeman." It's Y-e-m-e-n, fellas.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Lo! the mysterious East: Risking the hopeless corruption of their yuppie generation, Communist China's rulers have allowed Peking's first cocktail lounge for locals to open on a trial basis. The New Times Bar is already proving popular with trendy Pekinese, though from the description it's hard to see why: The bar features a ceiling trellis with plastic grapes, wall mirrors, mercifully dim lighting and such alcoholic bombshells as Manhattans, Tom Collinnes, Vodka Bronxes and a house specialty called the Golden Dream. The owner of this daring enterprise: Peking No. 2 Cake Factory. What next — singsong girls?

Coping with nature's ways

By SPENCER SANDOW
Natural disasters such as earthquakes, storms and meteorites could pose more danger to modern man than nuclear war, one scientist believes. He wants to focus world attention on the matter in the next decade.

The idea seems valid, especially after Saturday's violent storm in which a child was killed. When you look at the death toll from disasters worldwide over a period of several years, the picture is grim.

Making the 1990s an International Decade of Hazard Reduction was proposed at the annual convention of the American Geophysical Union by Joseph V. Smith of the University of Chicago, according to an Associated Press story.

Natural disasters are at least as great a hazard as war, he said, but funding for research and public attention is lacking.

In addition to Smith's study on minimizing disaster damages, a study also should be conducted to look into ways to store food and other essentials (like water!) in the event of natural or man-made catastrophe, he said.

The past year has been especially bad for disasters, from the tornado that devastated Sweetwater, to the earthquake that destroyed Mexico City, to the radioactive nightmare in the Soviet Union. Tsunamis, volcanoes and other actions of a dynamic earth also wreaked havoc this year in other places.

The community did an admirable job Saturday of coping with the emergency, but our efforts would not have been enough if the storm had grown much worse. For example, the warning sirens wouldn't wake people up if they lived more than a short way from a siren. If a tornado had been heading their way, they might never have known it.

Most communities are prepared for small disruptions such as Saturday's, which was violent but did little damage. It is when the mammoth earthquakes or tornadoes strike that we have trouble. Saturday's storm was bad, but it could have been a whole lot worse.

One of the main obstacles to overcome is getting the public and government officials to take note when scientists predict a disaster. For example, scientists knew Mount St. Helens would probably erupt two years before it did, but many people were killed because they still stayed.

If the president must declare the area a national disaster area, it's too late.

To the editor:
I am in favor of the proposal to legalize the sale of mixed beverages in Howard County. A person can already buy alcoholic beverages by the bottle in local package stores. Why should he not also be able to buy it by the ounce in the restaurant of his choice?

A person may also already buy mixed drinks, legally in Howard County. All he has to do is pay a membership fee to become a member of a private club. I don't think citizens of our community should have to join the Big Spring Country Club or any other private club to enjoy the same privileges.

Center celebrates third anniversary

The Northside Community Center will kick off its third anniversary celebration at noon June 5 with a luncheon in Dorothy Garrett Hall at United Methodist Church.

Marianne Brown, executive director of the center and one of its founders, said the purpose of the week is to gain recognition and promote awareness of the center.

Tickets for the luncheon are $7.50 and may be purchased from Jean Kearney at 263-2673 or from any board member.

The anniversary celebration will continue through the week with the Northside Community Center Children's Choir singing at three local banks June 6, 9, and 10. Brown said the banks have not been selected.

Also, an open house for the center, located at 110 N.E. Eighth St., is planned for June 7 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Brown said.

The annual open board meeting will be June 11 at Alberto's Crystal Cafe. Outgoing and incoming members of the board will be honored, Brown said.

The week's events will culminate with an Alsa Club benefit for the center June 12.

The Northside Community

Center was founded three years ago, Brown said, with the purpose of helping anyone in a crisis. It is partially funded by United Way, with the remainder of funds coming from the community, she said.

4 sentenced to prison after pleading guilty

Four men were sentenced to the Texas Department of Corrections after pleading guilty this week in 118th District Court.

Alvin Phillip Allen, 22, of Houston pleaded guilty 118th Tuesday to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle on Jan. 3.

District Judge James Gregg sentenced him to a five-year prison term.

He was arrested last January for stealing a 1985 Nissan 300ZX from Highland Pontiac on E. FM 700, after a high-speed chase with Department of Public Safety troopers in Mitchell County.

He also received a five-year sentence from Mitchell County for an assault on a peace officer charge stemming from the same incident.

Jose Penabas Hernandez, 21, of Odessa will serve three years in prison after Gregg revoked his probation Tuesday for possession of marijuana.

He was credited with 53 days served in jail.

Frank Lujan Galaviz, 17, of 817 W. Eighth St. will serve three years in the state penitentiary after Gregg revoked his probation Tuesday for burglary of a building. He pleaded guilty to the charge Sept. 23.

He violated the terms of his probation when he was arrested May 13 and charged with public intoxication and criminal trespass.

Shane Forgas, 19, of Wasson Road pleaded guilty Wednesday morning in district court to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and violating his probation for a prior burglary of a motor vehicle conviction. He was sentenced to three years for each charge and ordered to pay $1,500 restitution. He was credited for 90 days served in jail.

Gifts deserve proper thank-you

DEAR ABBY: Last Christmas a man I thoroughly despise left a gaily wrapped gift of lingerie in my vehicle without my knowledge. I did not thank him because I knew to phone him would encourage him. During the holiday season, you stated in your column that at thank-you for a gift was not necessary because a gift is presented with no strings attached. I agreed with you wholeheartedly. Recently, you stated: "There is no excuse for failure to acknowledge a gift, however useless."

You are useless, and I'd thank you to keep your mouth shut while your brain is inoperative.

JOYCE MAYFIELD, BELLE PLAINE, KAN. P.S. You may use my name. It really is Joyce Mayfield.

DEAR MS. MAYFIELD: I do not recall ever having stated that a thank-you for a gift is not necessary. I have always stressed the importance of acknowledging gifts — and promptly, assuming, of course, that the gift was given in good faith. (Most gifts are.)

Had I been asked if a lady should acknowledge a "gaily wrapped gift of lingerie left in her vehicle by a man she thoroughly despises," my usual advice would not have applied.

DER ABBY: Help us, please. My husband and I own a business and employ 12 people. One of our employees — I'll call him Peter — lives with a woman I'll call Patricia. They're not married — they just live together. Patricia has a daughter (I'll call Sue) who is being married this summer. I hardly know Patricia as I have seen her only a few times, and I have never met Sue.

My husband and I, and ever one of our employees, have received an invitation to Sue's wedding. Today Patricia called and invited me to a bridal shower she is having for Sue. Then she asked me to call all the women who work for us as well as the wives and girlfriends of our male employees and invite them to the shower, too. I was shocked, but didn't know what to say at the time.

Abby, I would feel very uncomfortable inviting these people to a shower for someone I don't even know. Also, if a person is invited to a shower and doesn't go, does she have to send a gift?

And correct me if I am wrong, but aren't showers supposed to be given by friends — not relatives of the bride?

How should I handle this?

IN THE MIDDLE
DEAR IN: You are correct. Showers should be given by friends — not relatives. Simply tell Patricia that you would not feel comfortable inviting others to the shower she is giving for her daughter. Also, an invitation that has been declined does not require a gift. Gifts are always optional.

Knuckle cracking may be harmful

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am newly married. Until now I never knew my husband was one of those knuckle-crackers. Besides being a bit annoying, can it be harmful to the joints of the fingers? He has promised to stop for my benefit, at least at home. It seems that it can't be helping his finger joints. The way he does it by yanking the fingers of one hand with his other hand. Please comment. — Mrs. O.V.

The answer to the question has been that cracking knuckles does no harm to the joints. Now, along comes Dr. Edward C. Yang of the Rutgers Medical School with evidence that the practice might not be so harmless after all.

The cracking he speaks of is the kind your husband practices — the forceful separation of the finger joints. This, Dr. Yang notes, creates a tiny vacuum-like bubble within the joints. (It is the bursting of those bubbles, he says, that accounts for the audible cracking noise.) This is different from joint cracking attributed to the passing of one layer of tissue over another — muscle over tendon, for example.

Dr. Yang theorizes that in this bubble-bursting phenomenon, a certain amount of heat is generated. He admits that the exact amount has never been measured, but suspects that it might be enough to cause joint damage over many years. His conclusion: "Joint cracking should not be considered an entirely harmless pastime."

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: On our farm growing up my dad always had a bottle of salt tablets for us boys during hot weather field work. I think ideas on salt tablets have changed over the years. Are they good to have around for extremely hot weather or are they useless? — F.V.

Salt tablets are OK if a person suddenly needs a great deal of salt. That need doesn't come up very often. Most of the loss from sweating is water, not salt, and adding salt to a decreased amount of fluid can cause an excess of it. What is needed is rehydration, which is best done with plain water.

There is an exception to this general rule. Sometimes, at the beginning of a very hot spell, a bit of extra salt may be needed. To get that, you can add a sprinkle or two of it to a quart of cold water. Otherwise, the body quickly adjusts mineral levels on its own without help. The booklet "Introduction to Fitness" discusses various aspects of body requirements with exercise. For a copy, write to me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.50.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You may have to take a little trip to see one of different background, but put your best foot forward at this time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You have some important duties to handle, but don't get depressed about them; they have to be done.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Forget those hunches that could do you little good, and rely solely on your good judgment. Take a good look at finances today.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You may find it difficult to persuade others that your ideas are fine, but use patience and they soon accept.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get your work done properly even if you are in a hurry to get into recreational activities. Take it easy tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget some secret worry you can do nothing about and get into whatever activities can bring you cheer and happiness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get your home more charming instead of feeling unhappy in it. Don't invite anyone in until you have completed your work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A friend may be having a difficult time, and even though you may be having problems of your own, take time to be of assistance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your problematical affairs can upset you today, but if you are more objective you can turn them into advantages for the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have personal needs now, but think more about those that can bring you real happiness, though not necessarily practical.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will show compassion for those around him or her who have difficult problems and will want to be of help. There is good business sense here, and an aptitude for details. Give good moral and ethical training early in life.

Boston Celtics Larry Bird, (left) holds the Maurice Podoloff Trophy after being named the NBA's Most Valuable Player for the third consecutive year in Boston Wednesday. Celtics President Red Auerbach looks on.

'Birdman' flies to another MVP

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird won his third straight NBA Most Valuable Player award by a landslide Wednesday and said "striving to be the best" keeps his motivation high as his honors pile up.

Bird, who led the Boston Celtics into their third straight championship series, received 73 of 78 first place votes with the other five going to Dominique Wilkins of Atlanta, the NBA scoring leader.

Bill Russell and Wilt Chamberlain were the only others to win the award three years in a row. Bird, a 6-9 forward, is the only non-center to achieve the string.

"Once I was considered one of the top players in the league, I always strived to be the No. 1 player," said Bird, who was among the NBA leaders in five categories. "Then I got my first MVP, there's no question the desire was burning inside to get another one."

"This year I started out slowly because of some injuries. But once they faded away I was total control of my game. In the second half of the season I just felt there really was no one in the league that could stop me if I was playing hard."

Bird received 765 points, two more than last year when he received 73 first place votes, out of a possible 780 in balloting by three reporters covering each of the 23 NBA teams and nine national writers. A first place vote was worth 10 points, followed by seven for second, five for third, three for fourth and one for fifth.

Los Angeles Lakers guard Magic Johnson was third, Houston center Akeem Olatunji was fourth and Lakers' center Kareem Abdul Jabbar was fifth.

During the NBA regular season, Bird led the NBA in free throw percentage at .896, was fourth in scoring with 25.8 points per game and in three-point field goal percentage at .423, was seventh in rebounding with a 9.8 average and ninth in steals with 2.02 per game.

American pulls off big upset

PARIS (AP) — Mary Joe Fernandez, a 15-year-old from Miami ranked 50th in the world, upset 14th-seeded Andrea Temesvari of Hungary 5-7, 6-2, 6-3 in a rain-interrupted second-round match today in the French Open tennis championships.

Fernandez, who played her first tournament as a pro only last February, gained the victory on her fifth match point, as thunder was rolling around Roland Garros stadium and the red clay was speckled with raindrops.

The match earlier had been halted by rain for about 25 minutes.

The winning point came when Temesvari, ranked 19th in the world, sent a forehand return long.

The crowd at center court erupted in applause.

The match, which had been suspended because of darkness Tuesday, completed the second round of women's singles and brought an abrupt change of form.

Wednesday, all 18 seeded players who saw action advanced, and all but two of the women's seeds — No. 12 Catarina Lindqvist and No. 13 Carling Bassett — did so in straight sets.

The No. 1 seeds, Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia and Martina Navratilova of the United States, won in straight sets, and did it quickly.

Chris Evert Lloyd and Steffi Graf, Nos. 2 and 3 in the women's draw, also had straight-set victories and acknowledged they were not pushed.

Besides Bassett struggling to win and Lindqvist rallying after losing the first set, the biggest stir of the day came when France's fourth-seeded Yannick Noah lost one set, and that in a tiebreaker.

Today, the rest of the men's draw, led by No. 2 Mats Wilander of Sweden and No. 3 Boris Becker of West Germany, was to finish the second round, and the women were to start the third.

Wilander, the defending men's

To seeded number one Czech Ivan Lendl easily qualified for the third round of the men's single French Open, defeating Swiss Jakob Hlasek 6-3, 6-2 in Roland Garros, Wednesday.

champion, was to play Aaron Krickstein of the United States, while Becker faced Yugoslavia's Bruno Oresar.

Fifth-seeded Stefan Edberg met fellow Swede Mikael Pernfors and eighth-seeded Henri Leconte of France faced Amos Mansdorf of Israel.

Third-round women's matches were to include Lloyd against American Anne Smith, Graf against Marcella Mesker of the Netherlands and No. 5 Hana Mandlikova against Regina Mariskova of Czechoslovakia.

The lone American seed left in the men's draw, Johan Kriek, advanced with a 6-1, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 victory over Milan Srejber of Czechoslovakia.

"I am exceptionally satisfied to get up to this point," Kriek said. "Everything after this is a bonus."

Lendl, slowly coming to form after lingering tendinitis in his knee, routed Jakob Hlasek of Switzerland, 6-3, 6-3, in 1 hour, 45 minutes.

"I won quite easily, I think," Lendl said. "Now it's round three. All I really wanted to do today is win."

Navratilova needed just 47 minutes to dispatch the Soviet Union's Larissa Savchenko 6-2, 6-2.

"When I have an easy draw, I practice more," Navratilova said. In her two matches thus far, she has spent a total of 1:41 on Roland Garros' red clay courts.

Graf, a 34-minute winner in the first round, took a bit longer — 53 minutes — to beat America's Gretchen Rush 6-1, 6-1.

"I didn't concentrate well," Graf said. "She played well and ran well."

Lloyd beat France's Nathalie Herremann 6-2, 6-1, and wasn't looking for alibis.

"I haven't had any pressure matches yet," she said when asked about her chances of successfully defending her championship. "I think I'm playing pretty well. I haven't made any lapses like I sometimes do in easy matches."

Fourth-seeded Claudia Kohde

Gooden back on winning track

By The Associated Press
Most pitchers with Dwight Gooden's statistics would be getting praise for their performance. But lately, all Gooden was hearing was criticism.

The 21-year-old New York Mets' right-hander, who had two losses and a no decision in his last three starts, silenced some of the comments Wednesday night, limiting the Los Angeles Dodgers to five hits and striking out 10 en route to a 4-2 complete-game victory.

Baseball

"There's really been nothing wrong," said Gooden, who improved his record to 6-2 with a 1.96 ERA and 62 strikeouts. "I'm back on track and ready to help the club once again. It was just a matter of concentration."

The Mets gave Gooden a 4-1 cushion by scoring three runs in the sixth, two on Kevin Mitchell's second home run of the season.

Astros 4, Cardinals 3

A two-out, 11th-inning triple by Craig Reynolds scored Glenn Davis and lifted visiting Houston over St. Louis. It was the fourth straight victory for the Astros, who now lead the NL West by 2½ games.

Charlie Kerfeld, 5-1, struck out three batters in the two innings he worked to get the win. Todd Worrell, 3-3, absorbed the Cardinals' fourth straight defeat.

Cubs 5, Reds 0
Davey Lopes drove in two runs and Jody Davis hit a homer to complement the four-hit pitching of Rick Sutcliffe as Chicago shut out visiting Cincinnati. Sutcliffe, 3-6, got his third complete game and 13th career shutout. He walked two and struck out five.

Padres 10, Expos 1
Terry Kennedy's three-run homer highlighted an 11-hit attack as San Diego bombed host Montreal.

Steve Garvey and Carmelo Martinez each added three hits.

Phillies 4, Giants 0
Shaney Rawley limited visiting San Francisco to four hits, the first a one-out single to Bob Melvin in the fifth, and Glenn Wilson had a two-run single in a four-run first inning to lead Philadelphia.

Pirates 4, Braves 3
Johnny Ray raced home with the winning run on Craig McMurry's wild pitch in the sixth inning and Johnny Ray homered as Pittsburgh ended a six-game losing streak by beating visiting Atlanta.

The Boston Red Sox won their fourth straight and 10th of 11 Wednesday night with a 13-7 romp over the Cleveland Indians, only the second AL East team Boston has faced so far this season.

The victory gave the Red Sox a three-game sweep of the Indians and kept them two games ahead of New York and four in front of Baltimore in the division. So far, the Red Sox have gone 2-4 against their only other East Division foe, the Tigers, having played three games apiece in Detroit and in Boston.

Jim Rice drove in five runs with three hits, and Don Baylor had four RBI, three on a home run, as the Red Sox used two five-run innings to beat the Indians. Mel Hall had two home runs for Cleveland, and Joe Carter and Brook Jacoby added one apiece. Hall and Carter hit consecutive homers for Cleveland in the eighth inning.

Yankees 6, Mariners 5
The Yankees pounded out four homers, including two by Don Mattingly, to beat Seattle and win for the sixth time in seven games. Rickey Henderson and Mike Easler also homered for the Yankees in the first inning.

Orioles 9, A's 5
Baltimore scored four runs in the final two innings on a tie-breaking sacrifice fly by Eddie Murray in the eighth and pinch-hitter Jim Dwyer's three-run homer in the ninth, to beat Oakland. The Orioles have won six of their last seven, while Murray has 12 RBI in four games against the A's this season.

Rangers 6, White Sox 3
Pete O'Brien broke a 3-3 tie with a two-run double, and Ed Correa worked 6 2/3 innings to beat his old teammates as Texas beat Chicago, which has lost five in a row. The Rangers, meanwhile, matched

Trail Blazers get new coach

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Mike Schuler, an assistant coach for the Milwaukee Bucks, was named as the new head coach of the Portland Trail Blazers, replacing Jack Ramsay.

Schuler, an assistant at Milwaukee for three seasons, is the sixth head coach of the Blazers in the 16-year history of the National Basketball Association franchise.

Ramsay coached the Blazers for 10 seasons and led the team to its only NBA championship in 1976-77. He had one season and two option years left on his contract.

Memphis State put on probation

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Memphis State University will accept a two-year probation from the National Collegiate Athletic Association and return almost $1 million in basketball tournament proceeds, school officials said.

The NCAA's committee on infractions recommended the penalties late last week, giving the university 15 days to appeal. Among other things, the university was accused of allowing scholarship athletes to draw more money in federal financial aid than the NCAA allows.

Indy to have fewer spectators

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A six-day rain postponement of the Indianapolis 500 could result in 100,000 fewer fans, officials say, and fans seeking tickets are finding plenty of sellers.

The race, scheduled last Sunday, was delayed first to Monday and then pushed back to Saturday because of persistent rain and a desire to broadcast the event live on national television.

"There seem to be a lot of tickets floating around right now," said Joel Cohen, of Tickets Up Front. "We've been in business since 1978 and I haven't seen anything quite like this."

their longest winning streak of the season with their third straight victory.

Correa scattered six hits in his outing, and Mitch Williams finished up for his first save.

White Sox pitcher Joe Cawley set a modern major league record by striking out the first seven hitters he faced. The record was six, held by three American League and two National League pitchers.

Royals 4, Brewers 3
Hal McRae's bases-loaded single with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning boosted Kansas City over Milwaukee. The Brewers had tied the score 3-3 with a run in the eighth on Paul Householder's RBI single.

Blue Jays 14, Twins 8
George Bell hit a leadoff homer and Lloyd Moseby had a three-run triple as Toronto broke a 6-6 tie with its biggest inning of the year, an eight-run eighth that lifted the Blue Jays over the Twins. Minnesota had won the first two of the three-game series.

Tigers 4, Angels 1
Dan Petry surrendered a first-inning run, then blanked the Angels on three hits until giving way to rookie Eric King in the ninth inning as the two combined on a six-hitter for Detroit. Petry, 4-4, who has won all his games on the road, gave up five hits.

Continued from page 9
Kilsch of West Germany, beat Raffaella Reggi of Italy 6-1, 7-6, and No. 5 Mandikova defeated Virginia Paquet of France 6-0, 6-1.

Lindqvist beat West Germany's Silke Meier 1-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Bassett, who says she is using tennis to help cope with her father's recent death, had a tough time against another French player, Pascale Etchemendy, before winning 3-6, 6-4, 7-5. Bassett said lack of preparation hurt her.

"I knew it wasn't going to be an easy match," she said. "I'm a little upset that the people around me (coaches) didn't know anything about her. That's something I learned. The next time I'm going to know a lot more about who I'm playing."

Noah, No. 1 among French fans no matter what his seeding, was extended an extra set by America's Sammy Giammalva before prevailing 6-3, 6-7, 6-4, 6-4.
