How's that?

Highway woes

Q. When is the highway department going to fix the culvert on Gail Route (Highway 350)? It is so clogged with tumbleweeds and debris that when it rains, water builds up, and we who live here can't get out of our driveways.

A. Work should begin in mid-June to build new culverts there and should take about 90 days, said Rosemary Neff, a spokeswoman for the state highway department in Austin. A contract for the work was awarded this month. The new culverts are designed for a greater velocity of water drainage to help keep debris from collecting, she said.

Rainfall above normal at last

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

For the first time this year, Howard County's rainfall is above the normal-to-date rainfall, according to figures from the U.S. Agricultural Research Service.

As of this morning, the year-to-date rainfall for the city reach 7.06 inches. A shower that began last night and continued through the morning added 1.43 inches, a field station spokesman said. The normal rainfall to date is 6.52 inches.

H. Boyce Hale of Sterling City Route measured 1.79 inches of rain at 6 this morning. The total rainfall he measured for May has been 4.60 inches, he said.

B.G. Barber of 1409 Settle St. reported 1.7 inches. Helen Shive of Coahoma reported 1.4 inches, and Neil Fryar of Lomax measured 2.6 inches.

Three to 6 more inches of rain is predicted today through Saturday. The chance for thunderstorms and heavy rains today is 80 percent, dropping to 60 percent tonight and Saturday.

A National Weather Service flash flood watch for the Permian Basin that began Thursday has been extended through tonight. Three out of four storm fatalities occur when drivers attempt to drive through high waters or when children play in high waters, the weather service warned.

The violent thunderstorms last weekend had little effect on lakes Thomas and Spence, the Colorado River Municipal Water District reported.

About 7,500 acre-feet of water was gained, almost all of it going into Lake Spence, raising the lake one foot. Lake Thomas rose only about one-fourth of a foot.

Lake Spence, at an elevation of 1868.60, is at a little less than 40 percent of capacity. Lake Thomas, elevation 2217.70, is about 15 percent of capacity.

Graduates take on the future

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The graduates walked by in black robes with flat squares perched atop their heads, celebrating what for many would be the greatest event in their lives.

Every so often, an individual stood out from the crowd in a gold robe with a white sash, denoting honor graduates.

Quick bursts of light flashed suddenly from the audience as proud families captured the moment on film for future nostalgia.

Diplomas were given to 192 graduates at the Big Spring High School graduation Thursday night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The class had dwindled from 419 freshmen, said class president Ramon Arellano, "a sobering statement which reflects the determination of us all."

"Let us go forth with a renewed spirit of determination to be the best we can," he said, addressing the graduates on the coliseum floor and the hundreds of spectators filling the stands.

"Whenever you achieve a worthwhile goal, there are always people in the background giving you a helping hand," he said. The graduates gave a standing ovation to their parents and other helpers.

Kim Anding, student body president, invoked God to "guide us to a better future and a better life."

Graduation is not the end, but the beginning, said salutatorian Naveen Reddy. It is the recognition and reward for years of dedication and effort, she said.

"We have grown from children into mature young adults," she said. "We must not stop here. We must continue to strive."

The most important thing the graduates have learned, said valedictorian Suzanne Bowers, is friendship. We have learned love and grown in our experiences with one another, she said.

Citizens have water again; officials still urge boiling

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Water has been restored to all of Big Spring with most reservoirs at full capacity, Public Works Director Tom Decell said this morning.

Also, the fire department's ability to fight a major blaze is back to normal, he said.

However, the County Health Department is still urging people to boil tap water before drinking it, health department director Dr. Jack Woodall said this morning.

Woodall said the Texas Department of Health was analyzing water samples gathered throughout the city to determine if the water is safe to drink. Woodall could not say when the lab tests would be finished.

The county and state health departments had asked people to boil city tap water starting Tuesday because it could contain harmful bacteria brought on by inadequate water pressure.

The situation with the city's water pumps, however, still remains critical, with just two pumps on line this morning. The city is normally served by two to three pumps and as many as four at times of peak water usage.

Thursday afternoon, city officials strongly urged residents to conserve water, specifically by not watering lawns or washing cars, until all the pumps are re-installed.

The demand for water has been greatly eased by the cool weather and the rain, Decell said. "It's been a godsend."

Decell said Thursday he expects the full complement of pumps to be restored Sunday or Monday.

He was still awaiting a progress report this morning on the repair of three city pumps, two of which were in Lubbock and the other in Odessa.

The city has not yet calculated the huge cost of the repair operation. WATER page 2A

Waco woman blazes trail in the construction business

WACO (AP) — First she wanted to be an athlete, but arthritis dashed her hopes. Then she aspired to be a social worker, but ended up choosing a field that would land her recognition as a Waco Pathfinder — a woman who is first in her field.

Rozanne Rogers, yard manager of B&L Construction, should have known she would finally choose construction. She grew up looking over the shoulder of her grandfather who was a woodworker. At age 8, she learned how to use a saw and today makes bookcases, picture frames, and wood and glass display boxes in her spare time.

At B&L Construction, she is responsible for ordering materials, dispatching drivers to job sites, maintaining trucks and arranging for cleanup of about 500 projects a year. The 52-year-old company does a lot of residential remodeling and occasionally takes on a commercial job.

Three years ago Miss Rogers supervised the $90,000 renovation of the YWCA.

"We're constantly taking on new projects and it's quite fun," Rogers said. "The interesting thing about remodeling is that each situation is different. Consequently, a lot of experience is valuable."

Rozanne Rogers, yard manager at B&L Construction in Waco, finds taking on new projects fun and challenging. She is responsible for ordering materials, dispatching drivers to job sites, maintaining trucks and arranging for cleanup of about 500 projects a year.

"Old-timers would come in and I would offer to help fill their order," she said. "They said 'I want to speak to a man.' It was very difficult to overcome. One of the best feelings I had was when they would ask Mike a question and he'd turn around and ask me." Mike Remus was yard manager at the time, she said.

She said customers have come to respect her knowledge more recently and she credits it to her having started in the business "at the bottom level — as a peon."

"It's important to start from the bottom up and understand the inner workings of a job," she said. "A lot of my decisions are based on my experience, such as how long a job should take and what materials to use."

She also manages 26 rental properties for Frank Levy, one of the owners of B&L Construction. In that role, and sometimes at the lumber yard, she has partial fulfillment of her early desire to become a social worker.

"I know the tenants' names, their dogs' names, their kids' names and some of their personal habits," she said. "And when contractors, painters and carpenters get together, someone has to mediate. I'm a people person and try to make things work smoothly."

She said she's not sure if she will remain in construction the rest of her life but recommends it to anyone who may be interested in the field.

"There's never a dull moment and it's always a challenge. My main priority is not to quit growing. If I ever find myself not growing, I'll have to do something else."

Rogers, 30, started gaining experience in the construction field in 1976 when she took a part-time job cleaning newly constructed homes. One year later — after washing windows, taking out trash, cleaning walls and vacuuming new carpet — she accepted a clerical job at B&L Construction.

Eventually, she went out on jobs to deliver goods or inspect the finished work, and a year and a half ago she was promoted to her current position.

Last November, she was among 45 women in McLennan County honored by the Women's Issues Forum of the YWCA and 13 other organizations as a Pathfinder for distinguishing herself in her field and paving a path for other women to follow.

Because her job is one held by few women, she said she has encountered some difficulties.

tion, Decell said. "We will be assessing and contemplating that cost" in days to come, he said.

The situation is "similar to the freeze of 1983," he said, when city water lines burst all over town because of a bitter cold snap. Decell said the city had budgeted a "contingency reserve" in the utilities fund for such emergencies. Also, he said, monies budgeted for retrofitting the water treatment plant may be drawn from.

the reality that we are gathered for the last time," she said, and shed a few tears.

The valedictorian and salutatorian grade point averages came within a tenth of an inch of each other, said high school principal Murray Murphy. Bowers' average was 97.35 and Reddy's was 97.27.

Former school board member Al Valdes was guest speaker. "Well, you finally made it," he said. "One of these days when you're all alone you'll realize those were the best days of your life."

Graduation is the end of high school but the beginning of a big responsibility, he said. He urged all the graduates to continue through college and get a degree.

DPS investigates fatal accident near C-City

COLORADO CITY — Mitchell County Department of Public Safety troopers continue to investigate a one-vehicle fatality that occurred early Thursday morning on County Road 133, DPS trooper Tom Johnson said this morning.

Joe Campos, 33, of Colorado City was pronounced dead at the scene by County Judge Bill Carter at 7:35 a.m., Johnson said.

The accident occurred 3 1/2 miles southeast of Colorado City, he said.

The victim was discovered by Eddie Galvan of Lorraine, who was passing by on the gravel road at about 7 a.m., Johnson said.

He said evidence at the scene indicated that Campos lost control of his pickup before it overturned on the roadway.

The accident probably occurred sometime between 2 a.m. and 5 a.m., Johnson said.

He said the DPS was notified of the accident by the Mitchell County sheriff's department whom Galvan had contacted by radio.

The victim was not wearing a seat belt, Johnson said.

Funeral Mass for Campos will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Ann's Catholic Church with the Rev. John Busch officiating.

Burial will be in Mitchell County Cemetery, directed by Kiker-Seale Funeral Home.

Campos was born in Loraine and was an oil-field employee. He was a member of St. Ann's Catholic Church.

Survivors include a daughter, Jade Campos of Colorado City; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emeterio Campos Sr. of Colorado City; seven sisters, Anita Reyna, Rita Espinosa, Emma Godina, Esther Goss, Irma Boyle, Janie Davila and Dora Campos, all of Colorado City; and two brothers, Emeterio Campos Jr. and John Campos, both of Colorado City.

Board approves release of Big Spring parolee

Howard County sheriff's deputies released a 34-year-old Big Spring man from county jail Thursday morning after the state Board of Pardons and Paroles "withdrew a warrant and gave him a second chance," said district parole officer David Harman.

Al Ray Lang of 2627 Hunter was arrested March 26 on an assault charge and later pleaded guilty in county court. He was on parole at the time of his arrest from the Texas Department of Corrections.

Lang was released from TDC on parole in July 1984, having served three years and two months of an eight-year sentence for carrying a weapon on licensed premises.

Harman said a parole hearing following Lang's arrest was conducted May 8. Police officers Danny Crawford, Bobby Armstrong and Ann Pope testified at the hearing, Harman said.

Lang was released under modified conditions of his parole. Harman said, and will be under the supervision of the district parole officer.

Trade deficit narrows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's merchandise trade deficit narrowed sharply in April to $12.1 billion, reflecting reduced oil prices and the long-awaited impact of a declining U.S. dollar, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said the trade imbalance fell by 16.6 percent from the March level of $14.5 billion.

The improvement in April was led by a 10.2 percent drop in overall imports — which totaled $30 billion in April, down from $33.4 billion in March.

Contras announce pact

MIAMI (AP) — Leaders of Nicaraguan Contras meeting here announced a new unity agreement designed to end rifts and clean up their image on the day a $23.8 million suit was filed accusing them of drug trafficking and arms smuggling.

The suit, filed here Thursday by radio reporter Tony Avirgan and his wife, also accuses 30 defendants of planting a bomb intended to kill maverick Contra leader Eden Pastora.

After a closed-door, 2½-week summit, the three directors of the United Nicaraguan Opposition said they have closed internal rifts and set up new decision-making structures.

Farris sentenced to death

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Troy Dale Farris has been sentenced to death for killing a Tarrant County sheriff's deputy in December 1983.

Jurors set that punishment Thursday for the 25-year-old Farris after seven hours of deliberations that spanned two days. The same jury returned a guilty verdict on a capital murder charge Saturday.

Prints found on capsules

AUSTIN (AP) — As more stores yank Anacin-3 off their shelves, police tried today to identify partial fingerprints on nine capsules found in the bottle with a cyanide-laced pill that killed an Austin college student.

Kenneth Wayne Faries, 24, a University of Texas senior, died of cyanide poisoning that authorities linked to a bottle of Anacin-3 purchased at a Walgreen drug store.

Austin police Sgt. David Parkinson said partial fingerprints were found on nine of the 46 capsules from the bottle that killed Faries.

Dr. Robert Bayardo, Travis County medical examiner, said one capsule in the bottle showed evidence of tampering.

Yelena Bonner, wife of Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov, and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher meet reporters outside Thatcher's 10 Downing Street residence in London today. Bonner, who is in the West for medical treatment, accused Soviet secret police of trying to blackmail the West into silence over the fate of her husband.

Exiled dissident's wife accuses Soviets

LONDON (AP) — Yelena Bonner today accused the Soviet Union of trying to blackmail the West into keeping silent over the condition of her husband, exiled Soviet dissident Andrei D. Sakharov.

Mrs. Bonner, 62, who has been abroad nearly six months for medical treatment, met with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher for a half-hour and then spoke to reporters while arm-in-arm with the British prime minister.

She was asked her reaction to British news reports from Moscow quoting Viktor Louis, a Soviet journalist who often relays information from the Kremlin, as saying that Mrs. Bonner's remarks while in the West were jeopardizing Sakharov's chances of having his exile ended.

The physicist, winner of the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize, was banished to internal exile in the closed city of Gorky, 250 miles east of Moscow, in January 1980 after he denounced the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

Mrs. Bonner was exiled at Gorky in 1984 after being convicted of anti-Soviet slander.

Louis was quoted as saying the Soviets wished to give more freedom to Sakharov, a physicist who won the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize, but that Mrs. Bonner was damaging Soviet interests.

"The statements seem to me to be simply blackmail," Mrs. Bonner said today. "It seems to me they wanted to scare Madam Prime Minister (Mrs. Thatcher) by this statement and other Western political leaders into not meeting me."

Mrs. Thatcher interjected that the statement also seemed aimed at stopping Western efforts on Sakharov's behalf. She said she had assured Mrs. Bonner that Britain "will keep faith with Dr. Sakharov."

On Thursday, Louis told The Associated Press in Moscow that Sakharov's chances of returning to Moscow were unlikely "because of Mrs. Bonner's behavior," but did not indicate that Soviet authorities had wanted to allow him more freedom.

He also said that he had been giving his own opinion to British newspaper correspondents on Wednesday, but that they had been misconstrued as some kind of official statement.

Police said the explosion set off a fire and collapsed the building. Glass shards were sent flying and surrounding homes were damaged.

Pope condemns Marxism

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II, in the fifth encyclical of his papacy, today lashed out at atheism and Marxism, saying philosophies that reserve no place for God are really the "death of man."

In the 141-page document, the pontiff also condemned what he described as increasing signs of death in the modern world, including poverty and famine, terrorism, the danger of nuclear self-destruction, abortion and euthanasia.

The encyclical, entitled in Latin "Dominum et Vivificantem" (The Lord, the Giver of Life), is devoted to the Holy Spirit, the third member of the Holy Trinity, along with the Father and the Son.

Doctor says 130 released

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet doctor said today that 130 of 299 people hospitalized after the Chernobyl nuclear accident have been discharged, the official news agency Tass reported.

Laws force Christian schools to violate religious beliefs

In 1979, Linda Hoskinson, a teacher at a Christian school in Dayton, Ohio, told her principal that she was pregnant. The school, believing that mothers with small children should not work outside the home, decided not to renew her contract. She then consulted a lawyer, who threatened the school with a lawsuit, prompting her immediate dismissal.

Thus began one of the most interesting cases before the Supreme Court this term. It illustrates the difficulty of accommodating the mandates of the modern state to the constitutional guarantee of religious freedom, and the vulnerability of religious institutions to sweeping exercises of government power.

The key facts of the case are not in dispute. The Dayton Christian Schools (DCS) were founded to educate students "on how to lead a Christian life ... (based on) the guidance and direction provided by the Bible." Only "born again" Christians are hired as teachers, and they must abide by the school's standards of Christian conduct. One is that mothers of small children should stay at home.

It was this religious conviction that led to the decision not to rehire Linda Hoskinson. It was a similarly religious belief — that all disputes among believers should be resolved within "God's chain of command" — which led to her firing when she went outside that hierarchy, in defiance of her contractual obligation, to consult a lawyer.

The Ohio Civil Rights Commission concluded that by these actions, DCS had violated state and federal laws against job discrimination, and demanded that it reinstate Hoskinson and stop discriminating. A federal district court conceded that the order restricts religious freedom. But it said the infringement is justified by importance of ending sex discrimination and protecting the right to make childbearing decisions. An appeals court, however, reversed that ruling.

The appeals court has the better of the arguments. For DCS to comply with anti-discrimination laws would force the schools' administrators, the churches which support the schools and the parents whose children attend them to violate their religious beliefs. Consistently applied, the laws would make it illegal for these schools to use an applicant's religion as a basis for hiring or firing. DCS could be forced to employ atheists to inculcate children in Christianity.

This is an absurdity that could destroy religious schools. The churches and the parents, said the court, are forced to choose between "supporting a school staffed by faculty who flout basic tenets of their religion or abandoning their support of Christian education altogether."

Nor can the goal of eliminating sex discrimination justify such a serious bause of the Constitution. Exempting DCS in its employment of teachers, the appeals court noted, "would not significantly interfere with the state's fulfillment of its goal ... The state would still be able to regulate all employment practices of non-religious institutions and would be able to regulate the employment practices of religious institutions except where religious belief is implicated."

The Supreme Court has been reluctant to make exceptions like this one, understandably fearing that they will unduly complicate the administration of government and grant valuable privileges to favored sects. But in some cases, the demands of conscience are too great and the potential benefit to broader social goals too small to justify a rigid application of the law.

The Court has recognized that when it said that the Amish can't be forced to violate their religious beliefs by sending their children to public schools beyond the eighth grade, and when it refused to apply the National Labor Relations Act to Catholic parochial schools. It should make a similar exception here.

To do otherwise is to drain much of the content out of the First Amendment, subordinating religious freedom to the demands of the majority. The court should heed its past admonition that "freedom to differ is not limited to things that do not matter much. That would be a mere shadow of freedom. The test of its substance is the right to differ as to things that touch the heart of the existing order."

Strange but true: Soviets plot kidnap of Swede, U.S. says

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Not since "The Man in the Iron Mask" has there been such a bizarre plot: abduction of the Swedish royal family by Soviet commandos to assure Sweden's neutrality in case of an East-West war.

The kidnap plot is revealed in a recent, highly sensitive U.S. intelligence report on the Spetsnaz, as the Soviet special forces are called. The purpose of seizing the royal family, the report explains, would be to sow confusion in Sweden and stifle any notion its political leaders might have of joining NATO countries against the Soviet Union.

For their own mysterious reasons, the Soviets have targeted Sweden for a wide range of harassment, espionage and apparent training missions for the Spetsnaz. Their arrogance is sometimes unbelievable. Two years ago, the Swedish army had to use machine guns and grenades to repel Soviet frogmen who had landed on the island of Almoe, near the Swedes' Karlskrona naval base.

Over the last five years, in fact, Sweden has been "invaded" more than 100 times by Spetsnaz mini-submarines — code-named Argus (the manned version) and Zbuk (the remote-controlled drone). These 65-foot mini-subs are launched from a Mother submarine and can crawl along the seabed on their tanklike tracks or skim through the water by propeller. They have a maximum operating depth of 344 feet.

The mini-subs are used by the four Spetsnaz naval brigades — which report to the GRU, the Soviet military intelligence organization.

"GRU naval Spetsnaz concentrates on attacking enemy seaborne nuclear delivery systems or support facilities," a secret Pentagon report explains. "They can be used to attack shoreline targets or can be used against interior targets when sea infiltration is preferred." In fact, the mini-subs have already made it into Stockholm harbor to within a mile of the royal palace.

The Pentagon report also notes: "Both ground (forces) and (2,000 men of) naval Spetsnaz can (infiltrate) ... various vessels, including merchant ships, high-speed craft or submarines. Mini-submersibles launches from either subs or surface craft can be used either to infiltrate teams or to conduct an underwater attack against ships, shoreline or underwater targets."

In Sweden's case, the mini-subs are undoubtedly conducting reconnaissance and training activities: Their frequent and flagrant intrusions have been understandably demoralizing to the Swedish navy. One naval officer, Capt. Hans von Hofsten, has publicly complained: "Defense policy has too long been based on ignoring the facts. The extent, intensity and seriousness of the submarines operations in our waters are passed over in silence, belittled or even ridiculed (by civilian leaders)."

Another Swedish naval officer, Capt. Goeran Frisk, reported that he had made contact several times with submarine intruders, but could not take effective action because he had no anti-submarine helicopters on his ship.

Meanwhile, the Spetsnaz mini-subs' distinctive tracks have been showing up in strategic locations all over the world. Tracks identical to those left on the Swedish seabed have been found off Gibraltar and near Japanese naval bases. Some were detected in the Soya Strait between the Japanese northern island of Hokkaido and Soviet Sakhalin Island — the route Soviet warships take to reach the Pacific from Vladivostok.

There are even unconfirmed reports that the telltale Spetsnaz mini-sub tracks were spotted on the floor of San Francisco Bay last summer.

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: Did Libyan dictator Moammar Khadafy sneak off to Berlitz sometime in the last couple of years? State Department sources have noticed a dramatic improvement in Khadafy's command of English and greater effectiveness in dealing with the English-speaking media. Khadafy has always been a showman, of course, with his Goering-like love of splendid uniforms, but now he seems to have mastered the art of tossing off "quotable" remarks. One observer guessed that Khadafy is preparing for the day "when Good Morning America calls."

INFORMATION DILEMMA: Congress is trying to figure out how to make the tons of government information available to the public by computerizing it — yet avoid the huge expense of setting up a data bank. One suggestion is to farm the project out to a private company and let it recover its costs by selling the information to the public. But this raises the question of how the government would keep control over its data, and whether it would be proper to charge the public for information gathered at taxpayers' expense. Answers, anyone?

MINI-EDITORIAL: Is Harvard getting senile? The distinguished university, now celebrating 350 years of sometimes prickly independence, knuckled under last week to Elliott Abrams, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs. As is his custom, Abrams refused to share a platform with an administration critic, in this case former Ambassador Robert White. Such regrettable behavior can be expected from apologists like Abrams, but we can't suppress a feeling of disappointment that Harvard officials seem to have forgotten that the free exchange of ideas is an important part of the university's tradition.

Thanks!

Citizens pitch in to give water aid

To the editor: I would like to thank Mr. Mark Crawford of M.N. Crawford Water Well Drilling for taking time out of his busy schedule to use his equipment and haul at least a thousand gallons of water to be used by the residents of Canterbury during the water crisis of Big Spring. He is certainly an asset to this community.

The residents of Canterbury are also to be commended for the way they cooperated with each other as they stood in line to get the water. No one complained that I know of and all took an adverse situation and turned it into an opportunity to serve others.

I understand that everyone all over town chipped in and helped any way they could. This is great and speaks well for the citizens of Big Spring. I am glad I live in Big Spring. CLAYTON HICKS

Commission places marker at old hotel

To the editor: The day of the Heart of the City Festival the Historical Commission unveiled a historical marker placed on JW Charde's site of the old Cosmopolitan Hotel. The plaque commemorates the Earl of Aylesford who owned the hotel and died there in 1885.

The Commission wants to thank publicly those responsible for the success of the event. Oscar Pitts and Riley Falkner worked diligently to attach the plaque to the stone wall, a difficult procedure.

Bill Dawes, Joe Pickle and George Von Hassell, did the honors as speakers. Joyce Wash provided refreshments. Helen Earley unveiled the plaque and a number of others added to the occasion.

Today

By The Associated Press Today is Friday, May 30, the 150th day of 1986. There are 215 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On May 30, 1431, Joan of Arc, condemned as a heretic, was burned at the stake in Rouen, France.

On this date: In 1539, Spanish explorer Hernando de Soto landed in Florida.

In 1854, the territories of Nebraska and Kansas were established.

In 1883, a rumor that the recently opened Brooklyn Bridge was in imminent danger of collapsing triggered a stampede. Twelve people were trampled to death.

In 1911, Indianapolis saw its first long-distance auto race. Ray Harroun was the winner.

In 1922, the Lincoln Memorial was dedicated in Washington D.C.

In 1937, police fired on steelworkers demonstrating near the Republic Steel plant in South Chicago. Ten people were killed.

In 1958, unidentified soldiers killed in World War II and the Korean War were buried at Arlington National Cemetery.

Ten years ago: A second day of heavy fighting took place in Lebanon between Christian and Moslem forces. Hundreds of people were reported killed.

Medical help may be needed to overcome drug addiction

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I don't know what is wrong with me. I am a teenager and I have been hooked on about every drug around, as well as alcohol. I know I am hurting myself but I can't stop depending on some kind of chemical to get through the day. I tried counseling once, but it was a bad experience and didn't work. — D.F.S.

DEAR D.F.S.: Have you really asked yourself why you depend on drugs and alcohol to face each day? One reason may be that you have become physically addicted to some drugs; if so, you need to seek medical help.

But the real problem is undoubtedly deeper than that — and even if you dislike the thought, it may be that a wise and experienced counselor can help you discover why you turn to drugs. If so, forget your bad experience and seek help. A pastor or your parents trust can help you find the right help.

Having said that, I have found many people who turn to drugs so for one of several reasons. For example, many have a deep lack of confidence in themselves, and somehow think drugs will help them overcome that lack of confidence. Or, perhaps they are facing some kind of problem (either within themselves or in their circumstances) and hope they can avoid it if they drown it out with drugs or alcohol.

But whatever the reason, Christ can help you. If you lack confidence in yourself, He can help you realize that you are a valuable and unique individual, and He wants to help you find the place in life He has for you. If you are turning to drugs to avoid some problem, He will give you the courage and wisdom you need to face it and deal with it. Turn to Jesus Christ, therefore, and ask Him to come into your heart. He loves you, and He wants to help you before it is too late.

Man's libel suit stems from arrest

A Big Spring man is suing the Andrews County sheriff, a sheriff's deputy and an Andrews County woman for libel stemming from an arrest made last February, which was reported in The Big Spring Herald.

Joe Hollingshead, plaintiff in the suit, requests the 118th District Court to award him $250,000 in damages for "embarrassment and humiliation" he is alleged to have suffered from "false and malicious charges against him."

According to the petition filed

Tuesday in the 118th District Clerk's office, Hollingshead sold an insurance policy to Mamie Lois Ferguson of Andrews on Dec. 28.

He claims in the suit that he made several attempts to deliver the policy to Ferguson, who told him on Feb. 11 "that she was busy and could not see him to receive such policy."

On Feb. 18, a Texas Ranger and Andrews County sheriff's deputy Dolphus "Bud" Jones came to Hollingshead's residence with a warrant for his arrest for theft of $659 from Ferguson.

Despite showing the policy to law enforcement officials and informing them he had tried to deliver the policy, Hollingshead was informed that he would have to post a $3,000 bond to keep from being jailed, the suit claims.

According to the petition, defendant Jones "was well aware that the plaintiff's name and the offense for which he was charged would be entered upon the sheriff's log and reported in the local newspaper."

The arrest was reported in The Big Spring Herald on Feb. 20.

According to the petition, charges were not dropped against Hollingshead until March 26 despite a letter from United Insurance American Insurance stating it had issued a policy of insurance to Ferguson; repeated phone calls to the Andrews County sheriff's and county attorney offices; and presentation of the original policy to sheriff's deputy Jones at the time of arrest.

Crews will collect trash items such as tree branches, furniture pieces and appliances that are too large to place in dumpsters. Items to be discarded should be placed at the curb in front of residences and not in alleys.

Annual Cannibal Draw Reunion set for June 14

It took a long time before they were included, but women again are invited to attend the ninth annual Cannibal Draw Reunion, said organizer H.M. "Mack" Underwood.

neighborhoods of Big Spring before 1930 are invited.

Those who attend will pay for their own meal. Singles are invited to bring a guest.

Cannibal Draw includes an area from Johnson Street east to the Midway Community and from 11th Place (old Lover's Lane) north to NE Fourth St., Underwood said.

The reunion was started by Underwood in 1977. After years of an all-male get-together, the men in 1984 approved a motion allowing women to attend.

About 135 people attended last year's reunion, a considerable increase over previous years, which averaged 30 men, Underwood said.

This year's reunion is a chance "to top the crowd of '85," he said.

Those who plan to attend should contact Underwood before Monday by phoning 915-263-0915 or writing to 1429 E. Sixth St. Apt. 35.

University protesters arrested

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — More than 100 white women fanned out through Johannesburg's affluent northern suburbs today to protest legislation that would give police broad new powers to contain racial unrest.

In protests timed to the commuter rush-hour, the women held up placards that read, "No to Uncontrolled Police Power," and "No to More Detentions, Less Protection."

The government says it needs the new powers to fight what it calls a communist-inspired revolution, but critics charge that the proposed security measures will not quell the unrest.

Today's protests were mounted by the Black Sash, the Johannesburg Democratic Action Committee and other white anti-apartheid groups. Security laws forbid outdoor demonstrations, but the women sidestepped the law by staying a few hundred yards apart.

Black Sash protests usually include only a few women, so the string of women demonstrating along main avenues into the city was a rare sight for commuters.

President P.W. Botha's government has run into strong protests against the new security proposals. One bill presented to Parliament would enable

Law and Order Minister Louis Le Grange to exercise whatever powers he considered necessary in any district declared an "unrest area."

Another measure, a proposed amendment to the wide-ranging Internal Security Act, would enable senior police officers to detain for 180 days anyone they consider has been or might be involved in disturbances. That compares with a 14-day limit now in place.

Under the existing act, the law and order minister has the power to order detention of up to a year and can renew it.

Deputy Information Minister Louis Nel issued a statement Thursday in which he said security forces needed new powers to enable the government to negotiate with black leaders "who must not be inhibited by threats of intimidation."

"It is grossly unfair to compare South Africa's position with that of any other country," he said. "No other Western nation at present experiences the revolutionary onslaught, planned by communist strategists... making them (blacks) believe that revolution is the way to bring about peace and a just society."

Emergency loans available

Emergency loans for farmers, ranchers, or aquaculture operators in Crane, Ector, Upton, Glasscock and Midland Counties are available through county offices of the Farmer's Home Administration, County Supervisor Ronnal Bruton said today.

Those who need farm credit because of adverse weather conditions should make their needs known at the FmHA office, Room 220 of the Federal Building in Big Spring between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Bruton said.

"Funds can be used for essential operating and living cost," Bruton said.

Loans covering actual physical and production losses may be used to replace installations, equipment or buildings lost to last weekend's violent weather. Funds may be used to buy seed, feed, fertilizer, livestock, or to meet interest and depreciation payments on real estate and chattel debts, according to the FmHA.

Applications for assistance in the disaster-stricken counties will be accepted by FmHA until Jan. 15, 1987, for physical and production losses. However, Bruton urges farmers to apply for loans as soon as possible to avoid a processing backlog possibly carrying over into new farming season.

Applicants who certify that other credit is not available may receive loans at an interest rate of 5 percent for the first $100,000 and are scheduled for repayment in line with the applicant's ability to repay. Where other loans are available, applicants may receive FmHA loans at a higher interest rate, according to the FmHA.

Bruton said a farmer who has suffered 30 percent or more loss of production is generally eligible for an emergency loan. Farmers participating in the PIK or Federal Crop Insurance programs will have to figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their loss, he said.

County farmers eligible for committee

Eligible farmers in Howard County are invited to become nominees for the Farmer Home Administration county committee, FmHA County Supervisor Ronnal Bruton said today.

County farmers who are not current borrowers from FmHA are eligible to become nominees, he said.

Under the new farm bill, two of the three FmHA committee members must be elected. The third member is appointed by the FmHA.

The Howard County committee assists the agency's county office in reviewing applicants for FmHA farm loans and other credit matters.

"Farmers in these counties, serving on the committee, can play an important role by assisting in the process of loan applications and reviews," Bruton said.

For this election, two members will be elected at the same time. One will serve a one-year term and the other will serve two years.

In the future, all terms will be three years on a staggered basis.

Nominating petitions must be returned by June 10.

Additional information and application forms are available at the FmHA county office in Room 220 of the Federal Building in Big Spring or by calling 915-267-1102.

If we think we must have a Creed Book distinct and separate from the plain letter of Bible scripture, it is worth while to inquire as to what source it is to come from and who has the right and authority to put it together. (Someone claiming that authority for themselves is not sufficient.) It is evident that every Creed is predicated upon some supposed deficiency in the Bible. If the Bible has a fault or deficiency then the fault must lie within God (And who would be so bold to make such a claim?) The scripture contains facts in themselves, which require nothing from us to make them true. They were set forth by the Spirit of God and declared to be the truth. Every person has the Divine given right to interpret the scripture, each for themselves, but no one has the right to exclude anyone from such a right (Why would anyone want to unless they wanted the disciple to be their follower instead of a follower of Christ Jesus?). If any doctrine is advocated for belief, then let it be found within the Word of God, and there alone. If people would follow the scripture more and their whims less, much division and confusion would cease. B. Patton

State budget could be $2 billion short

House Speaker Gib Lewis called members of the Texas House to order Friday to hear from other state officials on analyzing the state's budget problems.

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas House members, convening in a rare off-year meeting, today were told that the state government's budget shortfall could hit $2 billion by next year.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock told lawmakers his February estimate that state revenues will fall $1.34 billion short of the amount budgeted still stands — "but only as a minimum."

"Don't be surprised if the budget shortfall for this biennium which ends Aug. 31, 1987, rises to $2 billion," Bullock said.

The shortfall was created largely by the worldwide plunge in oil prices and a corresponding drop in oil tax revenues. Bullock said he won't officially revise his $1.3 billion forecast until oil prices stabilize.

"There's less money for Texas," Bullock said. "The price of oil has not stabilized."

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said he wanted his 149 colleagues to hear first-hand where the state is in coping with the budget crisis.

"The main thing we want to do is get an overall analysis of where we are at this time, so we can start making preparations ahead of time for the next session," Lewis said.

Lewis said the Legislature that meets in January may have to deal with the shortfall and other spending constraints.

"It would be unwise for us to go into January without any preparation as long as we're having budget problems," he said.

The speaker also said he hoped lawmakers would get an update on House Bill 72, the sweeping 1984 public school reform law which has generated considerable controversy since taking effect.

On the eve of the House meeting, Gov. Mark White said he sees no need to expand the state's sales tax base.

"I don't think it's necessary at this time," White told his weekly news conference, voicing the expectation that budget cuts he requested from state agencies will prove effective.

"I'm very optimistic that we will see the savings that we are achieving today expand into a position where we'll make certain we don't need any new taxes at all next (legislative) session," White said.

Earlier this week, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby suggested that the sales tax base could be broadened — and more state revenue raised — by including under the 4½ percent levy some items now exempt. Hobby said exemptions should be retained for food and medicine.

But White said his executive order urging 13 percent spending cuts by the approximately 200 state agencies is working.

White noted a report from the Texas Education Agency, saying the agency will require $140 million less than had been anticipated. Officials say attendance figures for public schools have been running less than projected.

"I assure you we'll have — assuming the current revenues — adequate monies to meet our budgetary needs," White said.

"I want to make certain we explore every alternative before any suggestion would be made of new taxes," he said.

9-year-old dies on bus; driver refuses to stop

CHICAGO (AP) — A 9-year-old girl with a pacemaker who suffered convulsions on a city bus died early Thursday after a good Samaritan carried her to a hospital when the bus driver refused to leave his route, said the child's mother and the man who came to her aid.

"The woman was sitting there screaming her baby was having a heart attack, she's got a pacemaker, and the bus driver was telling her, 'Get off the bus, lady,'" said Ted Garretson, identified by a hospital spokesman as the man who carried Nicole Hobson into the emergency room.

Chicago Transit Authority officials declined immediate comment, saying they were interviewing the driver.

"I asked the bus driver, would he keep straight a block to the hospital? He said he couldn't do it, he had to turn there," said Mae Hobson, 40, Nicole's mother. "And a gentleman from the back of the bus came up and offered his service and he took my little girl and we ran about a block to the hospital."

Nicole arrived at Children's Memorial Hospital late Wednesday night and was pronounced dead 45 minutes later, said hospital spokesman David Dalton.

"It appears she suffered cardiac arrest (on the bus), and the doctors really couldn't say what would have happened if she'd got here earlier," said Dalton.

NICOLE HOBSON ...refused assistance

"But they made it clear it would have been difficult to resuscitate her even if she'd been at the hospital (when the convulsions began) and they'd been at her bedside," he said.

An autopsy was being performed Thursday, "but even that won't provide us with an absolute idea of how crucial timing was," Dalton said.

Nicole suffered from a congenital defect that left a hole between two chambers of her heart and required major surgery to correct, he said, adding the pacemaker was implanted April 23.

Arrest made in tampering cases

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The FBI said today a 24-year-old man was arrested for investigation of tampering with cold and diet capsules in what it says was a scheme to make money on the stock market.

Edward Arian Marks of Temple City, Calif., was scheduled to be arraigned before a U.S. magistrate in Los Angeles today on one count of tampering with consumer products, FBI spokesman Jim Neilson said.

Neilson said Marks was arrested in connection with 10 Contac, Dietac and Teldrin capsules containing rat poison that were found in Orlando, Fla., and Houston, Texas, on March 19 and 20. No consumers were injured.

The FBI is investigating a possible connection between Marks and other drug-tampering cases, officials said.

Marks was arrested without incident in a parking lot at Los Angeles International Airport Thursday evening, Neilson said. He had just returned from Boston, the spokesman said, but he declined to say what agents believe Marks was doing in that city.

On May 24, a U.S. magistrate in Orlando, Fla., issued an arrest warrant for Marks based on a complaint filed by the FBI, Neilson said.

An unidentified agent claimed in an affidavit that Marks, using the name "Gary," called several news agencies and the manufacturer of the capsules, Smith, Kline and Beckman Co., from March 19 through 21.

During the telephone calls, Marks allegedly warned of the poisoned capsules in a plot to force the manufacturer to withdraw its products from the market, according to Neilson.

He said Marks bought special options on the stock of the products' manufacturer that would pay him if the stocks dropped in value.

Small amounts of warfarin, a blood thinner used in rat poison, were discovered in capsules of the drugs, investigators said. The discovery prompted an $8 million recall by Philadelphia-based SmithKline, and a $900,000 reward was offered by the Proprietary Association, a group of drug manufacturers.

Meanwhile, in Austin, Texas, bottles of Anacin-3 capsules have been removed from drugstore shelves after Kenneth Wayne Faries, 24, a senior at the University of Texas at Austin, died of cyanide poisoning that authorities linked to a bottle of Anacin-3 bought at a Walgreen drug store.

Faries was the fourth person to die this year from cyanide in cases related to over-the-counter drugs. The February death of a New York woman remains under investigation as does the death in April of a Pullman, Wash., woman. That of a Nashville, Tenn., man in February was ruled a suicide.

We've got the answers you need

There have been a lot of changes in the phone business the past couple of years. And, if you're anything like the average telephone customer, you probably wonder from time to time what's going on?

We've always considered keeping you up to date a critical element in your service. Even though we don't furnish all of it anymore, you're still our customers, and we appreciate your business.

That's why we began offering free Tele-Help booklets shortly after the breakup of the Bell System in 1984. These booklets answer commonly-asked questions about telephone services and equipment.

17 ways to help you

We recently introduced five new booklets explaining long distance-operator services, telephone etiquette, phone use for children, services for disabled people and services for older adults.

And, of course, our original 12 Tele-Help booklets can still be ordered. They talk about phone service, phone bills, home phone repair, telephone equipment, long distance service, saving money on phone service, easy access dialing, home security, establishing new service, home telephone wiring, local service options and handling annoying telephone calls.

Booklets are short, easy to read and understand — a handy quick reference. So, you can now choose from 17 different booklets! The booklets are also available in Spanish.

And business customers will also enjoy reading our special guide entitled "The Tele-Help Guide for Small Business Customers." It provides information on topics such as repair, customer contacts and telephone security.

Help is here: Tele-Help

Tele-Help booklets are just one part of Southwestern Bell Telephone's customer service program. Each month you receive either a business or residence customer Tele-Help insert in your bill. These inserts tell you about important telephone services, industry changes, various community relations programs, happenings around Texas, and other tips and tidbits.

Just look in the front of your Southwestern Bell Telephone's white pages directory, and you'll find a Tele-Help section there, too. Your business office, emergency and other important numbers are also listed.

Tele-Help is only one of our many projects geared toward helping customers get the most value from their service. We're here to help, so call on us. We pay attention to your questions, because we want you to be happy, feel comfortable with and understand your phone service.

To order Tele-Help booklets, call toll-free 1-800-325-2686 or look for the order coupon in your monthly Tele-Help bill insert.

Celtics diffuse Rockets, 117-95

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics hit a rare cold spell so Larry Bird decided it wouldn't hurt for basketball's best player to try to end it. His hot hand pushed the Houston Rockets closer to the end of their season.

One day after winning his third consecutive NBA Most Valuable Player award, Bird exploded in the third quarter Thursday night and Houston never could put the pieces back together.

The Celtics crushed the Rockets 117-95. The team that knocked off the defending champion Los Angeles Lakers 4-1 to get to the NBA finals returns home for Game 6 Sunday with a 2-0 deficit in the best-of-7 championship round.

The Celtics are playing very well.

They are 30-3 in their last 33 games and 13-1 in the playoffs. Ten of the 13 victory margins have reached double figures. If they sweep the title series and earn their 16th crown, their combined record for the regular season and playoffs will be 82-16, surpassing the NBA mark of 81-16 set in 1971-72 by the Lakers.

Boston cruised to its 40th consecutive home victory Thursday night on the strength of a 34-19 third period that turned a 60-50 halftime lead into a 25-point advantage that grew to as much as 27 in the final quarter.

"We went out (in the second half) and missed three shots and we didn't get up and down the court very well, and they cut it down to eight," said Bird, who led all scorers with 31 points. "From then on, I said to myself, 'you might as well start shooting the ball and see what happens.'"

Leading 64-56, Boston went on an 11-1 run, which Bird capped with a three-point field goal and a long jumper. He also had a steal and a line-drive assist to set up a Robert Parish layup in that stretch.

Boston established a championship series record by hitting 23 of 24 free throws for a .958 percentage. The Lakers set the old mark of .943 when they made 33 of 35 shots at Philadelphia on May 16, 1980.

Houston was led by Akeem Olajuwon with 21 points and Ralph Sampson with 18, but the Twin Towers combined for just seven second-half points. One starting guard, Robert Reid, had eight points and the other, Lewis Lloyd, just six.

"Lloyd is most effective when the Rockets are running," Boston guard Danny Ainge said. "We've taken that away. Every timeout we talked about the need to get back on offense."

On offense, the Celtics did their usual brilliant job of finding the

of their team's 117-95 loss to the Boston Celtics in the NBA playoff game last night in the Boston Garden.

open man. Several times, Bird was isolated on Rodney McCray or Jim Petersen. He almost always won the battles.

"I don't think they can handle it," Bird said. "If they double up on me I will swing it (the ball) around. I think it's our best play."

The Celtics started the second quarter with a 19-9 run that gave them a 50-39 lead that never fell below seven points the rest of the game. Houston's third and last lead was 30-29 with 55 seconds left in the opening period.

"We didn't look like the team that brought us here," Olajuwon said. "This was the worst game of the season. I was ashamed."

If they are to win their first NBA title, the Rockets would become only the fifth team in playoff history to survive a 2-0 deficit.

They must win four games in 11 days. In the last 80 days, Boston has lost three games. But Houston is unbeaten at home during the playoffs and the next three games are scheduled there.

"If we keep poise and play the way we know we can, I think anything can happen," Fitch said.

Said Bird: "We're a great road team and we're not afraid to go down there."

Couples fires scorching 64

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Fred Couples shot an eight-under-par 64 Thursday, tying a course record, to take a three-stroke lead over three players after the first-round of the $500,000 Kemper Open.

Larry Mize, Tom Sieckmann and Charles Bolling each carded 67s on the 7,173-yard Congressional Golf Course as 50 players in the field of 141 either equalled or broke par.

Leonard Thompson, Dennis Trixler, David Ogryn and Mike Reid had 68s and trailed by four strokes in the competition for the $90,000 first prize.

Four players shot 69s and seven others, including J.C. Snead, were at 70.

Fred Couples acknowledges applause from the audience after sinking a putt during the Kemper Open Thursday. Couples tied a course record with a 64.

Couples, who won the tournament here in 1983, made six birdies in seven holes at one stretch. His 64, which included a five-under-par front nine, matched the course record for one round and his nine birdies is a Congressional best.

"I don't know who played for me today," Couples said. "It's been a while since I've had anything like this to be excited about."

Couples has not won a PGA tournament since 1984 and did not finish better than fourth place last year. Thursday, however, he could do little wrong.

"That was one of the best rounds I've ever played on the tour, putting-wise," Couples, who missed the cut last week at the Memorial Tournament, said. "It really felt good to play well for a change."

Couples said he has not been pleased with his play since last August.

"The way I've been playing, missing a lot of cuts, I told my caddy that I needed just one good shot or one good round to get my confidence back," Couples said. "I got that today."

Couples' only bogey of the day came on the second hole, but he notched six birdies on holes 4 through 10.

Mize finished second here last year after he blew a five-stroke lead in the final round.

"I let it slip away last year, so it would be a thrill to come back after that," he said.

Mize started his round with a bogey but notched two of his seven birdies on the final two holes to move back into contention.

"I seem to play better on longer, tougher golf courses," Mize, referring to the fact that Congressional is the second longest course on the tour, said.

Sieckmann, 31, has never finished better than third in a PGA tournament and entered this year's tour with career earnings totaling $30,052.

Sieckmann, who played basketball at the University of Nebraska, made six birdies and eagled the 10th hole.

Calvin Peete, bothered by a painful left knee, withdrew from the tournament Thursday morning. The tour's fourth-leading money winner and winner of two tournaments this year made the decision after hitting a few balls before he was scheduled to tee off around 8:30 a.m.

Top seeds advance to 4th round in French Open play

PARIS (AP) — Top seeds Ivan Lendl and Martina Navratilova advanced to the fourth round of the French Open tennis championships with straight-set victories today.

Lendl, from Czechoslovakia, beat Argentina's Christian Miniussi 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, while Navratilova, from the United States, defeated West German Claudia Porwick 6-3, 6-3.

"The matches have been easier than I expected," said Lendl, who, like Navratilova, has not lost a set so far.

Lendl, the French Open champion in 1984 and a finalist last year, had a good workout against Miniussi, who reached the main draw through a qualifying tournament last weekend. But Lendl's game was too strong for the 18-year-old from Buenos Aires.

Also advancing was the women's No. 7 seed, American Kathy Rinaldi. She posted a 6-1, 6-2 victory over another U.S. player, Roz Fairbanks.

The string of upsets that eliminated four seeded players Thursday struck again in the first match today.

World junior champion Laura Garrone of Italy beat 10th-seeded Zina Garrison of the United States 6-2, 6-2.

"She is the best player I've beaten" said Garrone, 18, last year's junior women's champion at the French and U.S. Opens. "This is my most important victory."

Garrison, ranked 12th in the world, said Garrone played steady if unspectacular tennis and blamed her own mistakes for the loss.

"She didn't do anything to me," Garrison said. "She basically hit the ball back, and I missed."

The player who beat Lendl in the finals a year ago, Sweden's Mats Wilander, almost had an early exit Thursday.

Wilander, seeded second, needed more than four hours and every trick in his repertoire to beat unseeded American Aaron Krickstein 6-1, 3-6, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4 in a classic clay-court match.

"A few times I felt lucky," Wilander said. "He was the one who was doing things. I was fighting harder. That's how I won."

Wilander outscored Krickstein 165-164.

"It's a tough one to lose," said the 18-year-old from Grosse Pointe, Mich., ranked No. 36 in the world.

Stefan Edberg, the fifth seed from Sweden, headed the list of big-name losers Thursday. He was beaten 6-7, 7-5, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4 by another Swede, Mikael Pernfors, who won two NCAA men's singles championships at the University of Georgia. Pernfors was down 1-5 in the second set before starting his comeback.

Mary Joe Fernandez, 15 years old and a straight-A student at Carrollton High school in Miami, Fla., defeated No. 14 Andrea Temesvari of Hungary, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3.

"I was thrilled," said Fernandez, who turned professional just four months ago and is ranked 50th in the world.

Mercedes Paz of Argentina, beat No. 8 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria, 5-7, 7-6, 7-5.

And as the day neared an end, Claudio Panatta of Italy, squandered six match points before beating 10th-seeded Thierry Tulasne of France, 0-6, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Panatta's brother, Adriano, won the French Open in 1976.

That more than doubled the number of seeds eliminated so far in the two-week tournament, from three to seven.

Most of seeded players had little trouble advancing Thursday, led by women's No. 2 Chris Evert Lloyd, and West Germany's No. 3 seeds, Boris Becker and Steffi Graf.

Lloyd won her third consecutive straight-set match and said she was pleased with most aspects of her game.

"I've been happy with my serve. I've been happy with my groundstrokes," she said. "I just need to be tested a little more."

Coming up for her in the fourth round is ninth-seeded Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina, who defeated countrywoman Ivanna Madruga-Osses 6-3, 6-3. Sabatini also hasn't lost a set.

Nor has Graf, the 16-year-old who won her 23rd consecutive match 6-2, 6-1 over Marcella Mesker of the Netherlands.

Tremors can't tremble World Cup

MEXICO CITY (AP) — As 24 teams go through their final preparations for the World Cup, injuries, discord and even complaints of spying have made for a controversial countdown to the soccer championship.

An earthquake measuring 6.0 on the Richter scale received less attention here than the goings-on surrounding the World Cup. Dozens of tremors have hit Mexico City since the devastating Sept. 19 earthquake measuring 8.1 on the Richter scale caused widespread damage and killed an estimated 9,500 people. No damage was reported Thursday.

But Italy, the defending champion, and Bulgaria, who open the month-long tournament on Saturday before an expected sellout crowd of 114,000 at Aztec Stadium, have been hurling verbal barbs at each other. Those teams already have traded charges about the roles of scouts at their practices, with Ivan Sapatov, head of the Bulgarian soccer federation, claiming some scouts were spying on the team. Sapatov also accused the Italians of considering "all Bulgarians terrorists."

Enzo Bearzot, the coach of the Italian squad, called Sapatov "a politician, not a man of soccer," and dismissed the charges.

The Soviets were impressive in a 12-1 warmup victory over a club team from Irapuato. For the second straight day, the Soviets played without numbers on their shirts, a move designed to confuse "spies" from other teams who may have been watching the game.

While the spies may or may not have existed, the very real problem of injuries remained a source of concern in every camp, severely hampering the strategy of coaches who could not yet determine who would be available to put on the field.

Rafael Gordillo, the playmaking midfielder for Spain, has a badly upset stomach and is considered doubtful for the team's opener on Sunday against Brazil, one of the key matches of the first round. Both teams are highly regarded but figure to be without important players on Sunday.

Gordillo was bed-ridden and being treated with a saline solution. But forward Hipolito Rincon and midfielder Ramon Caldere had recovered from stomach problems.

Brazil, one of the hardest hit by injuries, will miss striker Zico (knee) and could be without goalie Carlos (hand) and midfielder Falcao, who is out of shape after a long recovery from a knee injury. But the Brazilians expect to have back Socrates, their veteran midfielder.

Nico Claesen and Eric Gerets of Belgium were hurt during a 3-0 victory over Los Pumas, a Mexican club team. Claesen, a forward, was carried off with a right knee injury after he was tackled high by Pumas goalkeeper Gerardo Sousa. In an ensuing brawl, Sousa kicked defender Gerets high on the thigh and was ejected. Gerets limped off the field but was expected to recover quickly.

Two other stars of the tournament, Argentine defender Daniel Passarella and West German captain Karl-Heinz Rummenigge, also are unlikely to play in their team's openers. The Argentines play South Korea on Monday, while the Germans face Uruguay next Wednesday.

Cowboys hire CFL general manager

DALLAS (AP) — Bob Ackles, the general manager of the British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League, has been hired as vice president-personnel for the NFL's Dallas Cowboys, a team spokesman said Thursday.

In the newly created position, Ackles, 47, will be in charge of evaluating and scouting pro talent, team spokesman Doug Todd said.

"It's obviously a great thrill for me to be able to work with such an organization as the Dallas Cowboys," Ackles said. "I've been in football for 33 years and I'm leaving probably the best football job in Canada, but the opportunity with the Cowboys is a great one and I'm looking forward to the challenge."

Ackles began his career in the CFL as a water boy with the Lions and worked his way up to general manager of the club, which last year won its first Grey Cup title in 21 years.

"I feel extremely fortunate and it was worth the wait to be able to find a person of Bob

Bob Ackles, the general manager of the Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League, has been named vice-president of pro personnel for the Dallas Cowboys.

Ackles' background and experience for our pro personnel position," said Tex Schramm, the team's president and general manager. "He will bring a fresh outlook to our club in the pro personnel area."

"It's also very important that he has many friends in the NFL."

Fryar denies gambling

BOSTON (AP) — New England wide receiver Irving Fryar, the subject of an investigation by the National Football League, has denied allegations that he gambled on football games.

"This is straight out of left field," Fryar told The Boston Herald in an interview published today. "I'm going to take a lie detector test to prove it."

"The whole truth is I don't know anything about this. That's the whole truth and nothing but the truth. I never, ever, never gambled on games."

Fryar said he planned to go to Dallas Monday to take a polygraph test arranged by his agent, Sherwood Blount.

"I just want to put an end to this once and for all. Taking a lie detector test seems to be the best way of doing that. I shouldn't have to, but my reputation and my family's is at stake. If that's what it takes to clear my name, that's what I'll have to do."

Joe Browne, an NFL spokesman, confirmed Thursday the league was investigating allegations that Fryar and other members of the team bet on football games last season "in the same fashion as we routinely review rumors of this type."

In a prepared statement, the Patriots said "it is important to point out that in speaking with league officials, they stressed that no other Patriot player is under investigation concerning this rumor."

The statement also said, "It is tragic that a newspaper takes what is an unsubstantiated rumor — and nothing more than that — and puts it out for public display — and in doing so, ruin a person's name."

Fryar told the Herald he was disappointed that he had not heard from any teammates offering support.

"They probably think I'm a traitor... a gambler now," he said.

This is the latest controversy involving Fryar's name. The No. 1 draft choice from Nebraska missed some action in the American Football Conference playoffs after injuring his hand.

Fryar had said he cut his finger while removing a knife from a kitchen drawer, but the Globe had quoted other, unidentified sources as saying Fryar may have been injured in an argument with his wife.

In the Super Bowl, which New England lost to Chicago 46-10, Fryar scored New England's lone touchdown. Two days later, he was named in reports as one of six Patriots who admitted using drugs. Fryar, who was playing at the Pro Bowl in Hawaii at the time, denied the reports, saying, "They can test me any time they want."

"My credibility is shot," Fryar said Thursday. "People say I shouldn't worry about it, but the heck with that. I've got to worry about that. Half the people who saw the paper today are going to believe that I'm a drug addict, a wife beater and a gambler — the trifecta."

NFL scores in trial

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Donlan, labeled by the USFL as the culprit behind two of the "smoking guns" in its antitrust suit against the NFL, finished seven hours of testimony Thursday making those weapons sound more like pea shooters.

The executive director of the NFL Management Council, under questioning by NFL lawyer Robert Fiske, restated his contention that he and the NFL had done nothing overt or anti-competitive toward the young league.

Specially, Donlan reiterated that:

— The presentation to 60 NFL executives by Prof. Michael Porter of the Harvard Business School was designed only to help NFL executives compete in the salary war then going on. USFL counsel Harvey Myerson contends that the Feb. 29, 1984 presentation was part of a grand scheme to "conquer" the USFL.

— His 1983 memo titled "Spending the USFL Dollar" contained ideas designed to save money for both leagues. Donlan also said the memo, which suggests that the NFL bid for lower-priced USFL players to force the new league to pay them more, was never circulated outside the Management Council offices after he was told it was impractical.

Earlier, Fiske led Donlan through a series of questions designed to show that there was no link between the Porter presentation and the USFL's failure to gain a network television contract for its move from spring to fall. One of the principal demands in the $1.5 billion suit is that the NFL be barred from at least one of the three major networks.

Using Porter's study, projected on a screen for the jury of five women and a man, Fiske asked about the section that suggests the NFL "attempt to dissuade ABC from continuing the USFL contract."

"Who in the NFL is responsible for television?" Fiske asked. "The Commissioner," replied Donlan.

"Was he at this seminar?"

"No, he was not," replied Fiske.

As for the memo on spending USFL dollars, Donlan said it was intended to cut down the inflationary spiral by which the USFL would pay huge sums to a top rookie, forcing the NFL to follow suit.

Mullin to stay put

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — New Golden State Warriors' owner Jim Fitzgerald has denied a report the team is considering trading Chris Mullin, last year's No. 1 draft pick.

"It's just hogwash, as far as I'm concerned," Fitzgerald told The Oakland Tribune in a telephone interview from his home at Janesville, Wis. "It's all news to me."

Fitzgerald said he heard the report broadcast by CBS during halftime of Thursday night's telecast of the NBA playoff game between the Boston Celtics and the Houston Rockets.

"We don't have any plans at all now to trade Mullin or anyone else," said Fitzgerald, who, with Dan Finnane, formally took over the Warriors from Franklin Mieuli last week.

"Other teams sometimes plant these trade rumors," he said.

"Trade talks and rumors always develop more at draft time than any other," said Warriors coach George Karl. "There always will be rumors. But that's what they are."

Young girl smells trouble in friend's taste for liquor

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old girl who has a friend my age who drinks her mother's liquor when her mother isn't home. I will call this friend Betty. I like Betty, and tried to tell her to stop because I know that liquor isn't good for kids, but she doesn't listen to me. I got worried about Betty, so I told my mother, and asked her to tell Betty's mother. This was a couple of months ago, and so far Betty is still drinking her mother's liquor.

What should I do? I hate to be a snitch, but I know that Betty is drinking a few swallows a couple of times a day.

BETTY'S FRIEND
DEAR FRIEND: You are a very wise girl to realize that Betty's making Betty's mother aware that her daughter has a serious problem. There are kids your age who are alcoholics, and they can be helped.

Dear Abby

***
DEAR ABBY: Will you please do us mothers a favor and ask your readers — especially married children — how long they feel their mothers should stay when they visit two or three times a year?

I have six married children — all living about 1,500 miles away — and I enjoy seeing them and my grandchildren. I am not a demanding houseguest. I don't need my own room — I can sleep on a cot or sofa. I don't expect to be entertained 24 hours a day, and don't mind staying with my grandchildren while my children go out for a night on the town. I enjoy my morning newspaper and coffee, game shows on TV, reading a good book, movies, cards, TV dinners or an inexpensive restaurant.

Recently, I heard through the grapevine that some — not all, but some — of my children think I overstay my welcome. Abby, I spend three to five weeks among six kids in three cities in the same state — so I don't stay a week at a time with any one son or daughter. I spend three or four days, then leave and come back again. Most of my children have a guest room. I am really no trouble at all. So why did it get back to me that I am overstaying my welcome?

PERPLEXED MOTHER
DEAR PERPLEXED: First, don't buy anything from a "grapevine" — communicate directly with each of your children. Ask how long they want you to stay. Obviously someone thought you were overstaying your welcome. Find out who it is, then shorten your visits with that family until they beg you to stay or hide your suitcases.

Extension Club plans picnic and luncheon

The Centerpoint Extension Club met recently with Lucille Petty, presiding.

Coming activities for the club are: a picnic set for July 17 in the City Park and a luncheon which will be held June 11 at Western Sizzlin'.

Members shared memories of their first vacations with their parents. Fannie Kent read the devotional and Hazel McCreary read about the "amazing amount of food you will eat in your lifetime."

Crib mattress should have snug fit

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Do you have recommendations regarding baby cribs for a young first-time mother-to-be to use as a guide? I have been told to beware hand-me-downs. — Mrs. J.D.G.

Most cribs made in the U.S. after 1974 adhere to safety construction guidelines so far as design is concerned and are safe from that aspect. Cribs made prior to that date have to be looked over carefully.

Paint is another concern. New paint standards went into effect in 1978, decreeing lead content of no more than 6/100ths of a percent. If a hand-me-down crib is to be repainted, it is well to check the can label to be sure it is paint approved for crib use.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission has published guidelines for crib safety. Be sure slats are securely fastened and that there is space no wider than 2 3/8ths inches between them. That's so the baby won't trap his head. Don't use a crib with missing slats.

The mattress fit is often ignored. It's important to have a snug fit, one where you can't fit more than two fingers' width between the mattress edge and the crib sides. Again, this avoids possible

Dr. Donohue

Allergic rhinitis is, of course, related to exposure to an allergy substance, like pollen or dust, or a myriad of other offenders. Vasomotor rhinitis has nothing to do with allergy. It is an exaggerated response of the nasal linings to things like odors, cold air, or other provocations. They are the kind of irritations that produce some degree of increased mucus production in everyone, but more in people with vasomotor rhinitis.

Allergic rhinitis is seasonal and along with the extra mucus there is sneezing and itching. That doesn't happen in vasomotor rhinitis.

In either form of rhinitis the treatment begins with avoidance of the triggers. For vasomotor rhinitis decongestants, like pseudoephedrine, may give temporary relief, and for the severe case a short course of steroid nasal spray may help. In allergic rhinitis, if the offending allergen can be tracked down, then allergy shots to protect against it will be the answer. But they have to be started long before the specific allergy season starts to be effective. Antihistamines are useful for allergic rhinitis.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is there any difference between allergic rhinitis and vasomotor rhinitis? What about treatments? — E.M.F.

Powers bids his final farewell

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

Dr. Carl Powers, minister of the First Church of the Nazarene, is leaving Big Spring to assume the position of minister of pastoral care and promotion at the Nazarene Church in Kingfish, Okla.

He will be part of a four-man staff and serve as the assistant to the senior pastor, Powers says. His duties will include contacting visitors and move-ins, calling on the sick, promoting education programs and taking his turn in the pulpit.

Kingfish is a smaller town than Big Spring, but Powers will be serving a large congregation, he says. "It's an opportunity for a larger ministry."

While attending Texas A&M, Powers decided to become a minister. "I was studying electrical engineering and I felt God's calling. At first I rebelled. I always said I wouldn't be a preacher, but I felt an inner compulsion and surrendered to the call of preaching in my junior year."

After marrying his wife, Virginia, he transferred to Trevecca Nazarene College and went to graduate school at Oklahoma State University, Southeast Missouri State University, Emmanuel Bible College and Pacific West University.

His first pastorate was in Bay City. Other assignments have been in Union City and Memphis, Tenn.; Stillwater, Okla.; Cape Gerardo, Mo.; Huntsville, Ala.; and Big Spring. In Huntsville, Powers co-founded Heritage Bible College and served as the dean in 1980-82. Previously, he was the dean of Emmanuel Bible College in Nashville.

Powers has served in the ministry for 37 years, five of those in Big Spring.

During his pastorate in Big Spring, Powers has been involved in many activities. He has served as secretary of Howard College Ministerial Fellowship, president and board member of the Kiwanis Club, member of the chaplaincy staff at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, and chaplain of Civil Air Patrol.

Mrs. Powers has also been involved in the church by teaching Bible study classes, Powers said.

Several accomplishments have been achieved at the First Church of the Nazarene during Powers' stay.

"Spiritual growth and average attendance has increased 50 percent, the budget has doubled, we've instituted deacons, restructured the Wednesday night format to interest different groups, enlarged the music program, constructed a new sanctuary complex, enlarged the kitchen, refurbished the gymnasium, remodeled the original church building, which provides Kids Korner and Lancaster Learning Center and Daycare during the week, and constructed a 100-space paved parking lot," Powers said.

Powers will deliver his final sermons Sunday, June 1. "What I'd like this church to be" will be the topic at 10:50 a.m. "And finally, brethren, farewell," will be presented at 6 p.m.

After the evening service, the church will host a reception to honor the Powers.

"I've thoroughly enjoyed my association with the church, the community, the press, ministerial fellowship and the chaplainship," Powers said.

The greatest reward Powers has gained from the ministry is the realization that "the power of God can alter lives, restore families and bring harmony."

Change supported by dedicated Catholics

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Opinion surveys of church people often include a mixed lot — both the active and inactive, the practicing and only nominal members. But a study peering strictly at involved, participating Roman Catholics found some unexpected results.

Among changes advocated in the church by majorities of dedicated, active laity and clergy:

That married men should be allowed to become priests, instead of ordination being limited to celibate males.

That the church should encourage "communion" between Catholics and other Christians, a sharing in observance of the Lord's Supper that Catholicism generally forbids.

That the church should liberalize its rule banning divorce.

These were among findings in the latest report of a long-range Notre Dame Study of Catholic Parish Life, based on in-depth studies of 36 parishes around the country, selected to provide a representative sample of U.S. Catholics.

Since the scientific sample of 2,667 parishioners came from current church rolls, the report says they are active, regular worshippers, more identified with the institutional church than those simply calling themselves "Catholic" in random national surveys.

Concerning the findings that majorities support allowing married clergy, favor liberalizing the church's position on divorce and reject the church's ban on contraception, the researchers comment:

"It is important to note that on many of these issues ... active American Catholic lay persons are willing to move farther than the Vatican has felt desirable."

Noting the mixed approval and disapproval of various official positions, the study's research director, David Legee, and Msgr. Joseph Gremillion, head of Notre Dame's Institute for Pastoral and Social Ministry, say:

"Not only the non-practicing Catholics included in other surveys but also the active registered parishioners in our study feel comfortable with selecting which of the church's teachings they will espouse and which they will reject."

"In this respect, American Catholics act very much like the increasingly well-educated, middle-class Americans that they are: they accept human authority less because of its traditional nature and more because of its appropriate positions."

"Yet they remain loyal to the underlying institution, practice its rites, and continue to work for it."

The study, rather than scoring percentages agreeing or disagreeing, uses a special index of support, ranging from one, the lowest point, to four, the highest, with anything above 2.50 being the prevailing, or majority, view.

Support ran overwhelmingly strong for the church's opposition to abortion, but only a weak minority upheld the church ban against use of contraceptives.

The predominant opponents of that ban "are not less faithful in their Mass and communion practices," the report notes. "Among younger parishioners nowadays, this teaching is often seen as irrelevant to their lives."

Parishioners across-the-board registered overwhelming support for the church's "strong opposition to abortion," with a percentage breakdown showing only five percent consider abortion acceptable in most circumstances.

But 69 percent consider it acceptable in "extreme circumstances" such as threat to the mother's life, rape or incest, and only 26 percent consider it never acceptable.

Predominant opinion favored a people-oriented, less-structured and rule-bound church, with more stress on personal, spiritual elements, on spreading the faith and on ecumenical relations with other Christians.

Generally, the findings show reinforced inclinations "toward a lay — rather than clerical — church," and how much "American Catholics have assimilated the participatory values found in American democratic society."

While the preponderant view avored married priests, slightly less than a majority favored opening the priesthood to women, the report says. Citing the decline in the number of priests, it adds:

"Americans are pragmatic ... To the majority of faithful parishioners, allowing married men to become priests is seen as an appropriate position change."

"While the ordination of women as priests is reported to be close to majority support among all Catholics, it is still shy of that among (active) parishioners ..."

"While men and women are close to each other on this issue, the educated women in their 20s to 40s are considerably more likely than others to support women's ordination. Support is stronger among those with some Catholic education than among those who have not attended a Catholic school."

Curiously, however, most parishioners underestimated the degree to which pastors supported both ordination of women and married men, their views barely trailing that of parishioners, something they didn't realize.

While Catholicism engages in widespread ecumenical talks with other churches, reaching consensus agreements with Lutherans and Episcopalians, the official church still bars inter-communion, the report notes, adding:

"Yet, our parishioners seem quite willing to encourage communion among Christians."

After embarking on a Christian music career, "Some-O-Dat" and "Sunday's on the Way" were released next, both of which are in the top 50 of contemporary Christian charts, and were followed by his newest album "Comin' on Strong," which is in the top 30.

Admission to the concert is free, but donations will be accepted.
