Voters toast liquor-by-drink

2-1 margin ushers in law change

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Big Spring voters decided overwhelmingly Tuesday to allow the sale of mixed drinks in restaurants and non-private clubs by a vote of 3,457 to 1,818.

"It's the most positive step Big Spring has taken in a long while," said Downtown Steering Committee chairman Troy Fraser.

Fraser, whose committee is seeking to develop a tourism trade in Big Spring, said, "We'll be a lot more attractive to hotel and restaurant chains" looking to locate in West Texas. He said the change in the liquor law paves the way for fine restaurants to be located downtown, something that's essential for the downtown's renewal.

Vote totals by precinct, 2A

"I think the vote's always been there," he said of the almost 2-to-1 margin. But the rules for bringing the issue to a vote were complicated. Fraser said it has always been the sentiment of most people in Big Spring to allow the sale of mixed drinks.

The area covered by the new ordinance will be Justice of the Peace Precinct 1, which includes all of the city limits and four surrounding areas — the communities of Elbow, Jonesboro and Tubbs and the area west of Interstate 20.

The pro-drink vote was the culmination of an effort begun in March and spearheaded by the group Citizens for Choice. The group collected 2,421 signatures to force a vote on the measure.

Proponents of the pro-drink ordinance pointed to economic and business growth as two major reasons to adopt liquor by the drink.

Opposition members said any economic benefits would be wiped out by the cost of policing alcohol-related crime, job absenteeism and increased welfare.

County Judge Milton Kirby said Howard County commissioners will canvass the votes at their regular meeting Monday.

"We have three days to notify state agencies of the vote," he said. "Restaurant and club owners can then apply for a license to sell mixed drinks."

Tavern and restaurant owners wishing to sell liquor must apply for a permit to the state Alcoholic Beverage Commission, said district supervisor Bill Flynn.

Applications can be obtained through local agent James White, who has an office in the Permian Building, he said.

Flynn said first-year permits cost $3,000, with renewal permits costing $2,250 the second year and $1,500 the third year. The permit for the fourth and following years will cost $750, but permit holders will have to pay the city and county an additional $375 each.

Generally, it takes two to three weeks to obtain a permit, Flynn said. He said the agency does a check on the background of each person who applies.

Flynn said he was somewhat surprised by the 35 percent voter turnout. "There didn't seem to be that much interest," he said. But county officials had estimated the turnout would be as large as 50 percent.

The city will collect 12.5 percent of the 12 percent tax collected on each drink by the state, Flynn said.

Also on Tuesday, voters in Seminole in Gaines County rejected a proposal to sell liquor by the drink, by a vote of 1,266 to 936, elections chief Patsy Williford said.

The Seminole proposal had called for liquor sales in an area defined as west of the city to the New Mexico state line, to the Dawson county line on the east, plus the west side of U.S. 385 except Seagraves.

Dole: IRAs could sink tax package

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Senate began work on landmark tax-overhaul legislation today, Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole said attempts to save popular tax breaks, such as the deduction for Individual Retirement Accounts, could sink the entire package.

"Once we start adopting amendments that cost $25 billion — the IRA amendment — how are we going to pay for it?" Dole asked.

The Senate was opening debate on a 2,847-page plan approved by the Senate Finance Committee today, but with the chamber likely to turn to other matters for the remainder of the week, any substantive action on the tax bill will wait until at least next week.

Before formal debate began,

Senate leaders sounded a partisan note, with Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia saying he was going to support the package, but questioning whether "the middle class (is) being given a significant reduction in the taxes they pay."

Dole dismissed the comment, saying, "That's a normal Democratic charge that we give the rich too much."

As for moves to preserve the IRA deduction, Dole said, "Are they going to take away from the poor to give to people making $50,000, $60,000, $70,000?"

Dole said allowing deductions for the retirement accounts was not a bad program, but it is "not quite as attractive as some have led us to believe."

Even before the Senate took up the measure formally, senators were lining up to make speeches just on IRAs, reflecting the election-year sensitivity of that issue.

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., the Finance Committee chairman, has pressed a campaign to resist any amendments to the package, saying changes can wait until congressional negotiators meet to draft a compromise version of the legislation passed by each chamber.

Nonetheless, Dole said he had been notified of 33 amendments on the tax bill. It was unclear how many of those amendments will be offered.

Democrats have grumbled about the no-amendment strategy, which Byrd on Tuesday likened to "a big steamroller drive."

Despite the desire of some legislators to offer amendments, it is difficult to draft amendments. The rules under which the package is being considered require that any amendment to restore a tax break must also include a way to raise enough money to pay for the change to keep the overall bill from adding to the budget deficit.

Republicans and Democrats alike have been concerned about the provision of the pending bill that would eliminate the deductibility of IRAs.

The bill would retain fully deductible IRAs only for workers who are not eligible for a company pension plan. Workers who are under a company plan could continue to set aside up to $2,000 a year in an IRA, but that money would not be deductible, as it is now.

About 40 million workers have IRAs, and 80 percent of them would lose the deduction under the Senate bill.

Sen. William Roth, R-Del., said he urged fellow Republicans on Tuesday during a private luncheon to back a GOP amendment on IRAs. But party leaders turned him down.

Roth said he still hoped to offer an amendment.

Meanwhile, Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., said a majority of Democrats want to preserve IRA deductions.

Absentee voting for runoffs ends

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Absentee voting for the June 6 primary runoffs ended Tuesday with 851 ballots cast, said County Clerk Margaret Ray.

Voters will decide Saturday on Democratic candidates for justice of the peace and two Howard County commissioner places, as well as Democratic and Republican candidates for several statewide races.

Of the total absentee returns, 765 persons voted on the Democratic ballot and 54 voted on the Republican ballot, Ray said.

The county clerk's office mailed 40 Democratic ballots and have received 29 returns. Six Republican ballots were mailed out and three have been returned, Ray said. Mail ballots must be received by Saturday.

"We had 169 persons vote absentee yesterday," despite the liquor-by-the-drink election being held on the same day, Ray said.

County runoffs resulted from the May 3 primaries, which did not produce majority winners in certain races.

Votes for the late Lewis Heflin, incumbent in the Justice of the Peace Precinct 1 Place 2 race, forced a runoff between Democratic candidates William "Bill" Shankles and Stanley "Bogie" Bogard. Heflin died during his reelection bid.

Saturday night's winner in this race will be assured the office, because he faces no Republican candidate in the November general election.

A six-man, six-woman jury decided this morning after 15 minutes of deliberation that a Big Spring man was mentally incompetent to stand trial for murder and should undergo treatment at Rusk State Hospital.

L.H. Williams, 68, of 907 Gregg St. was charged by Big Spring police with bludgeoning his 66-year-old roommate, William H. Jewell, to death with a baseball bat on April 8.

Both men were living at the Gregg street address under a foster care contract between the Veterans Administration Hospital in Big Spring and Marie McGregor.

Rains raise lake levels

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The runoff into Big Spring lakes has been above normal for this time of year because of heavy rains since May 24. Big Spring received less than an inch of rain in Tuesday's mild showers.

Lake Spence is up about four feet, or 41 percent of capacity, said Owen Ivie, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

"That's about the annual amount we pump out of that lake," he said, but evaporation must also be taken into account.

Lake Thomas is up about 1 1/2 feet, or 18 percent of capacity, he said.

The rain is far in excess of what Big Spring usually gets this time of year, he said.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Comedian JOAN RIVERS has been singled out for a special award by the Hasty Pudding Theatricals, a Harvard University club that named her Woman of the Year in 1984.
 Miss Rivers on Tuesday received an "Instant Pudding Award" while at the Harvard Coop department store during a book-signing appearance.
 Peter Ocko, a producer for the club, said the award was "Hasty Pudding's way of saying 'Welcome back to Cambridge, Joan,'" and was "invented just for this occasion."
 Ms. Rivers got the 1984 award for "a lasting and impressive contribution to the world of entertainment."

LOS ANGELES — Former Prince protege MORRIS DAY married his back-up singer Judy Jones in a Las Vegas wedding that featured Lou Rawls serenading the bride and groom, a publicist said.
 Day, 29, originally from Minneapolis, acted and performed with his band the Time in Prince's 1984 movie "Purple Rain."
 The only guests at Sunday's wedding at the Golden Nugget Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev., were the couple's parents, said spokesman David Brokaw.
 At the time of the wedding, Miss Jones, 27, was working a temporary musical engagement with Rawls at the Golden Nugget, Brokaw said.
 Miss Jones worked with Rawls for three years, and they recorded "Forever I Do (The Wedding Song)." which Rawls performed after the wedding, Brokaw said.

 Along with his success in "Purple Rain," Day's group in 1984 had a top-10 album, "Ice-Cream Castles," and a hit single, "The Bird," which was performed in the film. Other hits by the group include "Cool" and "The Walk."
NEW YORK — LILLIAN GISH, whose stage and film career has spanned more than seven decades, has been given the Star Award for distinguished lifetime achievement in the theater.
 Miss Gish tearfully accepted the honor Tuesday from actress Helen Hayes.
 "She was magic to me and that magic stuck in your heart," said Miss Hayes.

 Miss Gish, best known as the heroine of D.W. Griffith's 1915 classic film "Birth of a Nation," appeared on Broadway as Ophelia to John Gielgud's Hamlet and in the original stage version of Horton Foote's "A Trip to Bountiful."
 The award is given annually by the Friends of the Theater Collection of the Museum of the City of New York.
NEW YORK — "Mayflower Madam" SYDNEY BIDDLE BARROWS has been allowed to keep quiet about potentially lucrative book and movie deals stemming from her guilty plea in a prostitution case.

 A judge said Tuesday that Miss Barrows, a descendant of Pilgrims, does not have to tell the state Crime Victims Board about the deals because prostitution is a victimless crime.
 Miss Barrows pleaded guilty in July to fourth-degree prostitution. Authorities said she ran three escort agencies whose employees were expensive hookers.
 After the plea, Miss Barrows wanted to write a book and movie screenplay about her experiences. The Crime Victims Board moved to see whether any money from these deals could be seized to compensate "victims" of her crime, under a state law designed to keep criminals from profiting from their crimes.

CLEVELAND (AP) — KING HUSSEIN of Jordan is expected to visit the Cleveland Clinic next week for routine tests, a clinic spokesman says.
 The spokesman, Gary Weiland, said Tuesday that the clinic had been contacted about Hussein's visit, but has not received official confirmation.
 Hussein was in Paris on Tuesday to meet with French President Francois Mitterrand. He is to go on to Britain and the United States, where he will meet with President Reagan on Monday.
 Hussein, accompanied by his American-born wife, Queen Noor, visited the clinic for three days in February 1984.

U.S. assures allies

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration has assured its allies the scrapping of a major arms control agreement with the Soviet Union will not lead to a buildup in U.S. nuclear forces or diminish U.S. concern for Western Europe's security.

In a policy statement issued Tuesday the State Department acknowledged the decision to abandon SALT II had touched off vigorous debate within the NATO alliance.

But the statement, read by spokesman Bernard Kalb, said the allies had been consulted and that President Reagan did not intend to abandon U.S. restraint in the development and deployment of nuclear weapons.

Science advisor selected

WASHINGTON — President Reagan has selected William R. Graham — the man who became acting director of NASA just before the Challenger explosion — as the head of the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy.

If confirmed by the Senate, Graham will be the first full-time science adviser to the president since the resignation last December of George A. Keyworth II. The post has been held since then by two interim advisers, John P. McTague, who quit last month, and Richard Johnson, named acting director last week.

Graham, 48, presently the deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, is a physicist and electrical engineer. He took over as acting administrator of NASA last Dec. 6, before the space shuttle Challenger exploded in the nation's worst space disaster on Jan. 28.

Interferon now available

WASHINGTON — The government will approve a type of interferon for commercial use against a rare form of cancer, the first time the genetically produced drug will be available by prescription, a drug company said today.

The Food and Drug Administration will grant licenses to Hoffmann-LaRoche Inc. of Nutley, N.J., and Schering-Plough Corp. of Madison, N.J., to market alfa-interferon for use against hairy-cell leukemia, Hoffmann-LaRoche said in a statement.

AT&T hires temporaries

WASHINGTON — Negotiators for striking telephone workers and AT&T are planning further meetings under the auspices of federal negotiators in an effort to end a walkout extending into its fourth day, but both sides acknowledge they have made little progress so far. Meanwhile, American Telephone & Telegraph Co. spokesman Herb Hansen said the company has hired about 3,000 temporary personnel to augment some 15,000 managers now manning long-distance switchboards.

Fierce resistance

Congressman says Afghans will win war

AUSTIN (AP) — U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson says "in all probability" the forces in Afghanistan fighting the Soviets will win the war.

"Our big job in the United States and the western world is to arouse public consciousness as to the atrocities and the absolute brutality of the Soviet Union in this country," Wilson said Tuesday.

The Lufkin Democrat appeared at a news conference with members of the Texas Review Society, a conservative student organization at the University of Texas.

Society officers presented Wilson with a $100 check to help Afghanistan establish a "government-in-exile."

Wilson, who has made four trips to Afghanistan since 1983, said that country of 15 million was "brutally invaded by the Soviets six years ago, and much to the Soviets' surprise and to the surprise of the world, the Red Army has met with an absolutely fierce and frantic resistance."

"The fighting has been the severest the Red Army has faced since World War II. Their losses have been enormous."

Wilson said because so many Soviet forces are tied up on the Chinese border and in Eastern Europe, "they have the serious problem of having to draft the sons of the bureaucrats in Leningrad and Moscow to fight in Afghanistan, which none of them want to do."

He said the Afghans fighting the Soviets "control 80 percent of the country, and in all probability will win the war."

"The Soviet response to this has been brutality beyond anything we've seen since Hitler's gas ovens at Auschwitz. ... This is truly the first case of organized genocide the world has seen since the 1940s."

NRC investigating nuclear incident

GLEN ELLYN, Ill. (AP) — Inspectors from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission are trying to find out why the LaSalle nuclear power plant's Unit 2 reactor failed to shut down automatically after a pump malfunction. The plant's owner, Commonwealth Edison Co., is conducting its own investigation of what the NRC called "a serious mechanical failure" Sunday at the plant near Marseilles. Utility officials have 30 days to complete their report and forward it to the NRC for review. Both agency and company officials stressed Tuesday, when the malfunction was announced, that the public was never endangered. The problem began at 2:21 a.m. when one of two pumps for the Unit 2 reactor stopped working, NRC spokesman Russ Marabito said Tuesday. The reactor failed to shut down when its water level dropped 6 inches below the automatic shutoff point, he said, but workers manually started a backup pump after two minutes, restoring water level to normal. Marabito said plant workers didn't discover the seriousness of the problem until 2:40 a.m. and then began "an orderly shutdown of the reactor." Commonwealth Edison cannot restart the Unit 2 reactor until so authorized after the NRC investigation is completed.

Pastora receives asylum

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica — Former Nicaraguan rebel leader Eden Pastora today began a new life in Costa Rica, which granted him political asylum for as long as he is willing to live in peace.

The 49-year-old Pastora, known as Commander Zero, gave up his three-year fight against Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government on May 16 and crossed the San Juan River from southern Nicaragua into Costa Rica, which has a long-standing policy of neutrality and no standing army.

The Foreign Ministry said Tuesday night the decision to grant asylum to Pastora came after the rebel leader agreed to abide by the nation's laws and halt hostilities against the Sandinistas while living here.

Militiamen pound camps

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Shiite Moslem militiamen who crushed a Sunni faction in a 15-hour showdown on the streets of west Beirut today pounded nearby Palestinian refugee camps with mortar fire.

Palestinian guerrillas retaliated by spraying Shiite slums surrounding Sabra, Chatilla and Bourj el-Barajneh camps with rocket-propelled grenade and machine gun fire, police said.

They said two people were killed and seven wounded on the 17th day of fighting in the shantytowns, raising to 83 dead and 270 wounded the known toll in the current round of war for control of the refugee camps.

Sikhs gather at temple

AMRITSAR, India — Sikh militants, including the widow of Indira Gandhi's assassin, gathered at the Golden Temple today for a "Martyrs' Day" rally honoring separatists who died two years ago in an army assault on the holiest Sikh shrine.

Thousands of police and paramilitary soldiers surrounded the white-marble complex to prevent violence during what militants term "Genocide Week," marking that assault in which an estimated 1,000 Sikhs died. Today was proclaimed "Martyrs Day."

Five killed in plane crash

FORT ST. JAMES, British Columbia — A float plane crashed on takeoff in remote central British Columbia, killing four Americans and a Canadian lodge owner on a fishing trip, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said.

The Americans, all of Bremerton, Wash., were tentatively identified as Joseph Ralkowski, a former aerobics pilot; Andy Pendergast, 72; Rob Haddon, 50; and Haddon's father, Laurence, 81.

Also killed Tuesday was fishing guide Steven Fritz Wambler, 61, who owned the lodge where the Americans were staying, police said Tuesday.

Ralkowski reportedly was piloting his Cessna 206 six-passenger plane when it crashed near Trembleur Lake.

Senior citizens elect representatives

Staff and wire reports
About 200,000 senior citizens, including 1,778 from the Permian Basin, voted Friday on 116 members of a mock body called the "Silver Haired Legislature," which will meet to prepare demands for the 1987 Legislature. The Permian Basin is divided into four districts, with District 1 encompassing Howard County. Forrest Scott of Andrews was elected representative from District 1 with 521 votes, winning over Dr. Wayne Bonner of Big Spring with 430 votes and Gervais Turner Carmichael of Seagraves with 77. The Silver Haired Legislature was authorized by a resolution of the 1985 Legislature. The delegates, elected from 28 districts across the state, will meet Sept. 29 through Oct. 1 in a mock legislative session in the Capitol. The senior lawmakers first will hold public hearings on a variety of issues and then will consider action on a series of bills, said Paula Johnson of the Texas Department of Aging. Delegates at the special session will select the five top bills they want to see introduced by regular state legislators when the 70th Legislature meets in January. "We could certainly change a lot of things in this state," said Harriet Griffin of Fort Worth, chairwoman of the steering committee setting up the senior legislature. "This is not a cutsey thing or a fun and games thing," said Ms. Griffin. "Seniors are dead serious about this." Ms. Griffin said the September mock legislature would not necessarily consider only issues of prime interest to senior citizens. "We've got to look at public utilities and how their nuclear plants are going to increase our utility rates. I hope we will be gutsy enough to look at a whole range of issues," she said. Ms. Johnson said statewide results will be announced Tuesday.

100 days with 24 serpents produces unusual journal

A West German herpetologist has set out to spend 100 days in a glass room in Gulf Breeze, Fla., with more than two dozen poisonous snakes, in an effort to break the old record of 90 days, set by him in 1983. The following are excerpts from what he may or may not record in his private journal.

Day 5. Dear Diary: Whoever said co-habiting with snakes is tough has never done it. Oh, I'll grant it helps to have an alert mind, a calm disposition and a certain lightness of foot. But, as Bob Dole said of the vice presidency, it's indoor work with no heavy lifting.

After a few days, you settle into your basic snake mentality, which saps your drive to do anything more ambitious than sleep, gorge occasionally on live rodents and bask in the sun. The pay's not great, but then again, you never have to worry about bill collectors.

Day 20. Dear Diary: The snakes were bored, so they decided to live things up by having Dolores, the black mamba, slither into my sleeping bag to give me a start when I awoke this morning. I can't say I was terribly amused. Sure, it beats black coffee for getting you revved up first thing, but it's a good way to pull a hamstring. I got a little revenge by telling them a joke: What do you call a snake that plays practical jokes on its keeper? A belt.

Day 37. Dear Diary: Things didn't go so well today. First the shower broke. You can just imagine how easy it is to get a plumber to come fix the pipes in a place that features wall-to-wall copperheads — and on a weekend, no less. From now on, I guess it's sponge baths for me. This evening, after all the trouble I took to arrange a private screening of Sly Stallone's new movie, the snakes got sulky when "Cobra" turned out to be cops-and-robbers. Next time I'll stick to reruns of "Wild Kingdom."

Day 49. Dear Diary: My old college roomie had a laugh on me today. He sent me a newspaper clipping about a veterinarian who says pets should have their teeth brushed twice a day to prevent problems with the teeth and gums. Along with the clipping was a box containing one toothbrush and 200 tubes of Gleem, so I can head off any incipient cavities among the serpent population.

Day 61. Dear Diary: More problems. My life insurance coverage just got cancelled. And here I was hoping to do one of those ads, with me surrounded by coiled diamond-back rattlers saying, "My insurance company? Why, New England Life, of course." Some of my roommates could also learn a little about cleaning up after themselves. It's quite a mess when 100 snakes all decide to shed their skins at once.

Day 72. Dear Diary: Somebody tipped off the Humane Society, so they had a lady out here to take a look. Seems her members take a dim view of how I've deprived the legless ones of their accustomed privacy by putting them in a glass room. She also had some gripes about their having to put up with a man who hasn't showered in more than a month. I told her this whole arrangement ain't exactly a picnic for me, either. She replied that a Freudian psychiatrist could probably tell me some interesting things about myself.

Day 86. Dear Diary: OK, I admit, it's getting to me a little today. I haven't been sleeping too well ever since my disagreement with Melvin, the anaconda. Getting crosswise with 30 feet of muscle and bad temper can put a guy on edge. Some of the puff adders have been kind of cruel too. Their idea of humor is to flick their tongues innocently and ask how old I am. "Getting up there, aren't you?" they say. "You sure you haven't lost a step going to your right?"

Day 98. Dear Diary: I'm fresh out of Valium, but if I can just hang on a little longer, my place in history will be secure. It won't be easy. The snakes are getting more irritable by the minute, and the reporters are camped out on every side of the glass wall and a guy from the Guinness Book of World Records is demanding that I fill out some forms in triplicate. And there are still all those fangs to brush...

World Bank busy throwing good U.S. money after bad

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — At the World Bank, nothing succeeds like failure. After two earlier disasters resulting from unwise development loans to Botswana, World Bank officials have decided to throw $17 million more at the problem. The bank's low-interest loan funds are mostly underwritten by U.S. taxpayers.

World Bank brass insist that their multimillion-dollar loans to Third World countries are now being made only after careful consideration of environmental issues. "Critics vehemently disagree," Bruce Rich, a staff attorney at the Environmental Defense Fund, told our associate Donald Goldberg that "little has changed" in the three years since he and other critics began raising environmental concerns with bank officials.

The recently approved $17 million loan to Botswana for a project called Livestock III is a case in point. It threatens to destroy the country's once-abundant wildlife, already suffering from a five-year drought in the Nevada-size southern African nation.

Next to diamonds, most of the desert country's income is from the export of beef to Europe. But overgrazing of the limited grasslands by beef cattle — encouraged by World Bank loans — has devastated much of Botswana's rangeland.

Documentary film maker Rick Lomba has recorded gruesome scenes of migratory antelope and wildebeest starving and dying of thirst while cattle consume the dwindling grass and water supplies. Workers are shown driving the desperate wildlife away from the water holes, while thousands of wildebeest carcasses pile up nearby.

Lomba and others fear that Livestock III will intensify the cattle's destruction of the environment.

It's not that the World Bank's own experts didn't point out the dire results of Livestock I and II. A 1982 report, commissioned by the bank and written by two of its consultants, said the earlier projects had caused "such negative social effects as widening the income gap between rich and poor, permanently concentrating the country's land resources in the hands of a tiny percentage of its occupants, and depressing the already limited subsistence capabilities of its poorer citizens."

A further concern is that Livestock III will exacerbate the environmental problems by financing more rangeland fences, which keep wildlife from their traditional migratory routes and force them into a losing confrontation with the cattle. World Bank officials claim no more fences will be built, though the bank's own staff appraisal states that at least 130 fencing "packages" are planned.

With all these drawbacks, why did the U.S. Treasury representative at the World Bank vote for the loan? Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., asked that question, and was assured by Treasury Secretary James Baker that "the concerns had been sufficiently addressed."

But a State Department cable from the embassy in Botswana makes clear that the department and the Treasury ignored the advice of U.S. experts on the scene who had expressed a variety of concerns about the project.

"We are disappointed," the embassy cabled, "that our detailed comments ... were not taken into account in the (federal government's) review of the project, and that this matter came to our attention after the project was agreed upon."

Footnote: A World Bank spokesman said most of Botswana's wildlife problems were caused by the long drought, not solely the development loans. He said the new loan will ensure that cattle operations are well-controlled. An environmentalist has been hired for the project, the spokesman added.

MINI-EDITORIAL: The Supreme Court must be chuckling contentedly over the dilemma it posed for doctrinaire liberals and conservatives alike the other day in its twin decisions allowing surveillance from aircraft of 1) a man growing marijuana in his back yard, and 2) a Dow chemical plant suspected of pollution. Would industry critics have wanted to let the pot-grower off the hook? Would potsmokers really want to be caught dead on Dow's side? As for us, we are waiting for zealous government snoops to hover over us as we fight our annual losing battle with garden pests. Honest, fellas, no pot or pollutants here!

Around the rim

By HANK MURPHY

You heard it, but you didn't believe it. Those aging jocks telling how their bodies and minds were no longer in sync, no longer tuned to the same note.

They say a lag time develops with age. The mind says "go" and the body says "Yeah, in a little while."

When you're in your 20s, legs limber and full of bounce, you tend to scoff at such remarks. It'll never happen to you; you've been blessed with the world's most resilient body, you'll live to be 120. Not so.

Age is a sneaky devil. It greys a head one hair at a time. It creeps into the knees, ankles and lower back, stealing the elixir of youth and leaving behind aches and arthritis.

But age doesn't steal just youth, energy, the ability to heal fast. It takes something more precious — time.

It's a sad, empty feeling when you wake up one day and it occurs to you that you'll probably never travel the world over, earn of Ph.D., skydive, own a beach home in Florida or a log cabin in the north woods. You'll never do a lot of things you dreamed of doing while you were young.

You agonize over squandered opportunities, chances irretrievably lost. You're tired, your knees are sore, your back aches. You think about wills, life insurance, IRAs, cutting back on cholesterol. The dreams of your kids replace your own as a reason to live. The past grows more prominent in your mind, the future less.

Age mellow you. You're not as quick to anger, you have more patience. Children seem special just because they're children. Your wisdom grows in proportion to the lines on your face.

Counseling may help teen understand drug craving

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I don't know what is wrong with me. I am a teenager and I have been hooked on about every drug around, as well as alcohol. I know I am hurting myself but I can't stop depending on some kind of chemical to get through the day. I tried counseling once, but it was a bad experience and didn't work. — D.F.S.

DEAR D.F.S.: Have you really asked yourself why you depend on drugs and alcohol to face each day? One reason may be that you have become physically addicted to some drugs; if so, you need to seek medical help.

But the real problem is undoubtedly deeper than that — and even if you dislike the thought, it may be that a wise and experienced counselor can help you discover why you turn to drugs. If so, forget your bad experience and seek help. A pastor or your parents trust can help you find the right help. Having said that, I have found many people who turn to drugs do so for one of several reasons. For example, many have a deep lack of confidence in themselves, and somehow think drugs will help them overcome that lack of confidence. Or, perhaps they are facing some kind of problem (either within themselves or in their circumstances) and hope they can avoid it if they drown it out with drugs or alcohol.

But whatever the reason, Christ can help you. If you lack confidence in yourself, He can help you realize that you are a valuable and unique individual, and He wants to help you find the place in life He has for you. If you are turning to drugs to avoid some problem, He will give you the courage and wisdom you need to face it and deal with it. Turn to Jesus Christ, therefore, and ask Him to come into your heart. He loves you, and He wants to help you before it is too late.

Storm brings out best in people

To the editor: Last Saturday night (May 24) as my two sons and I and my sister and her family were returning from Lamesa, we hit a severe thunderstorm south of Ackerly. It began to hail the size of softballs. We kept on driving as there was no place to pull off of the road for shelter.

As we drove on, not exceeding 3 or 4 miles an hour, the hail began exploding the glass T-tops on our car. The next thing that happened was the windshield shattered all over us. We knew that we all had to get out of the car quickly or be severely hurt or worse. We could see a house in the distance. Luckily, we made it up to the house.

We got our children out of the car and ran towards a pickup that was covered by a shed. Inside the pickup were Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hughes of Knott. They let us stay in the truck with them until the hailstorm was over. We all ran inside the house where Mrs. Inez Sample lived, who incidentally is Mrs. Hughes' mother. Mrs. Sample and Mr. and Mrs. Hughes gave us towels and blankets and the necessary clothing needed because ours were full of glass.

We would also like to thank Mr. Jerry Roman of Knott for bringing in my 13-year-old son into Big Spring that night to go to the hospital, due to a hand injury he received during the storm. Everyone else escaped with only minor cuts and bruises.

This special kind of treatment and thoughtfulness is not found everyday, so we would like the community to know how very special these people were to us.

Many helped during tragedy

To the editor: Sometimes it seems that with all the bad news we read and hear about, that there is not a lot of good anymore. But, Praise God that's not true!
On (May 24) when little Joshua Phillips was swept away in the heavy rains that we experienced, some things happened that just continue to reaffirm our faith in people.

Beginning with men like Gerald Walker, Sammy Buchannon, L.C. Gibbs and Barney Edens, men and women from Hillcrest Baptist Church, volunteers from Coahoma and the Sand Springs community, from the Big Spring Fire Department, Volunteer Fire Departments from Coahoma and Jonesboro, and from local farmers in that area, you began to see and feel the strength and compassion that is there just waiting to be displayed.

We can't list all the names individually, but you know who you are. Thank you so very much for your concern, time, but most of all your prayers for a job well done.

You know, there's two things in this old world that just can't be purchased, friends and love.

Luther resident endorses Barr

To the editor: It will soon be time to choose our public officials. I am writing on behalf of David Barr, the incumbent for County Commissioner, Precinct 4.

He has one of the hardest precincts in the county to maintain. The sandy areas in the Center Point and R-Bar communities are a continual battle. The sand fills the ditches and culverts and when it rains it causes damage to fields and roads. Keeping the roads passable for the school buses is no little problem.

The commissioners share the county equipment and are allotted so many days or hours for their precincts.

I think David has been cooperative with the city in the many joint projects they share. He is an active participant in all the 4-H projects.

Vincent has had several public officials during my time. We've had a state representative (E.J. Carpenter), County Clerk (R.L. Warren), Deputy and Sheriff (R.L. (Bob) Wolf) and a colorful County Judge (J.S. Garlington). I'm sure there are others I've forgotten.

David knows the problems farmers and ranchers face and how to use our taxes in our best interest.

Funeral homes to be investigated

CAROL BARGER
...calls for probe

AUSTIN (AP) — The Consumers Union called Tuesday for an investigation of the State Board of Morticians, which regulates the sale of funeral and burial services in Texas.

"It is obvious the board won't clean up its own act," Carol Barger, Southwest regional director of the consumers organization, told a news conference. "It is time for the Legislature to act to reform the board. Reforming the funeral law has not been enough."

A board spokesman said the agency welcomes an investigation and board members would cooperate in any way they could.

Ms. Barger said the request for an investigation was sent to Rep. Brad Wright, R-Houston, chairman of the House Public Health Committee.

"He seemed very interested," Ms. Barger said of her conversation with Wright.

"We will cooperate in any way we can," said board chairman James Broussard. "We think we earnestly try to do our job. We do not oppose an investigation. We don't feel we have anything to hide."

Ms. Barger's request was backed up by Grady Baskin Jr., a Tyler insurance executive who was a public member of the board for six years. In 1984, Baskin made a personal survey of 24 Texas funeral homes and said he found only one in full compliance with the law.

Ms. Barger said her call for an investigation was sparked in part by a recent report by Cable News Network, which used hidden television cameras in visiting Texas funeral homes.

"The entire CNN report and other evidence demonstrates misrepresentations and high pressure sales tactics to bereaved families and other abuses of the law are all too common in Texas," said Ms. Barger. "Also, all too rare is any enforcement of the rules, or discipline to violators by the State Board of Morticians."

Ms. Barger said the CNN report shows "the funeral industry's continuing blatant disregard for the law."

She said the report shows funeral home employees misrepresenting the preservative qualities of embalming, misrepresenting the protective capabilities of caskets and liners and failing to provide customers with a price list.

Ms. Barger said a legislative investigation "may find it necessary to change the composition of the board, remove some members from the board, or put regulation of the funeral industry under some other body, such as the Department of Health."

Senator refuses to rule out run for presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Paul Laxalt said Tuesday he will decide next year whether to seek the 1988 Republican presidential nomination and said it is "an open question" whether Vice President George Bush can attract the support needed to capture the White House.

"I'm staying loose, I'm neither in or out," said Laxalt, general chairman of the Republican Party, who is widely regarded as President Reagan's closest friend in Congress.

Laxalt made clear the eventual decision will be based on whether he thinks existing or potential GOP candidates are both electable and prepared to carry on "the Reagan legacy."

But he also acknowledged that his future in national politics also likely depends on the outcome of a libel suit he has filed against a California newspaper group.

Laxalt said that at this point any sitting vice president, Bush included, "has to be deemed the front-runner. The question is whether being vice president translates into support for the presidency and I think at this point that's an open question."

Laxalt noted that no sitting vice president has been elected to the presidency since Martin Van Buren was elected to succeed President Andrew Jackson in 1836. All other vice presidents who were elected to the presidency had first entered office on the death of the incumbent.

Responding to questions, Laxalt said that it is of "vital importance to me" that a Republican be elected to the White House in 1988.

who can carry on "the Reagan legacy."

"I don't want eight years (of the Reagan presidency) to be a historical aberration," Laxalt said. "I think it takes far more than eight years to accomplish what we are trying to do."

The senator said he isn't attempting now to make a judgment, "one way or the other, about the viability of George Bush or anyone else."

Most voters won't start focusing on the presidential race until sometime next year, Laxalt said, adding that then "there will be more reliable signs of viability, or lack thereof."

Laxalt said he has been "asked by old Reaganians with whom I worked in three presidential campaigns to keep my options open and wait until next year," and that he has agreed to do so.

"They're telling me that ... I can do the job and that the race is wide open," he said.

Laxalt, who has announced he will not seek a third Senate term next year, said in an interview that before he assesses his presidential chances he will first have to conclude his party service and phase out his Senate career.

But having done that, he said, he will then launch "a total realistic appraisal of what the situation is in terms of an electable candidate."

And he added: "If it appears that no other candidate is surfacing I would form an exploratory committee and take a realistic look at the situation."

An unidentified U.S. Border Patrol agent questions a suspected illegal alien working as a sewing machine operator. Around 100 individuals were detained during a search of two clothing manufacturing plants in Waco Tuesday.

Suspected illegal aliens taken into custody

WACO, Texas (AP) — A federal crackdown on the use of undocumented workers in the garment industry led to the arrests of at least 148 suspected illegal aliens Tuesday during raids on several clothing companies in Central Texas, authorities said.

The suspected aliens, who were taken into custody at plants in Marlin and Waco, were bused to a National Guard armory in Temple, said Gary Renick, an agent for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The raids took place shortly after 8 a.m., authorities said.

"We're very happy with the operations that have come out so far. We were anticipating, with the layoffs in the garment industry, that we would probably have 80 to 90 apprehensions this morning," Renick said.

Renick said those arrested, mostly women who had been recruited by garment makers, were being flown about 40 at a time to Laredo.

Man pleads guilty to murder of person driving too slow

AUSTIN (AP) — Manuel Espinoza, 22, who prosecutors say shot another man in the face with a sawed-off shotgun because he was driving too slowly, has pleaded guilty to murder in exchange for a 30-year prison sentence.

Espinoza was charged in the Feb. 17 slaying of 44-year-old Louis Garcia Jr.

Garcia was driving a friend home when a car drove up behind them on a city street and pulled alongside, said Brian Case, an assistant Travis County district attorney.

The second car's occupants yelled obscenities at Garcia and his passenger for driving slowly, Case said.

The second car then drove up the street, stopped and backed up to Garcia's car, which had stopped to allow the passenger out at his house.

A man in the back seat pulled a shotgun from his coat and fired point-blank at Garcia's head before the car sped away, Case said. Garcia died shortly after.

A stipulation in the plea bargain struck Monday in State District Judge Mace Thurman's court was that there be a finding that a deadly weapon was used in the murder. The stipulation means that Espinoza will have to serve at least 10 years of his sentence before becoming eligible for parole.

NBC wins prime-time, news ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC won the prime-time ratings again, but also won the nightly news competition for the first time in nearly five years, ending the "CBS Evening News" winning streak at 212 consecutive weeks, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed Tuesday.

Last week, "NBC Nightly News," with Tom Brokaw, averaged a 10.0 rating, compared to a 9.9 for "CBS Evening News," with Dan Rather, and a 9.2 for ABC's "World News Tonight," with Peter Jennings.

A ratings point equals 859,000 homes with television.

As an indication of how tight the news race is and how easily the standings may vary, particularly in the low-viewing, warm-weather months, "NBC Nightly News" finished third just the week before its rise to the top.

"The days when Huntley-Brinkley or Walter Cronkite could dominate are over," said Timothy J. Russert, vice president of NBC News. "It's a much closer, three-way horse race now."

"The whole ratings picture is erratic," said Ann Morfogen, CBS News' director of communications. "This week doesn't negate what happened the past 212 weeks."

In prime time, the situation was more stable last week. NBC had a 14.5 rating, with "The Cosby Show," its other Thursday night comedies and Bob Hope's special taking the first five ratings positions. CBS averaged an 11.8 rating and ABC had an 11.7.

"The Cosby Show" had a 26.7 rating, followed by "Family Ties," "Bob Hope's High-Flying Birthday," "Cheers," "All Is Forgiven," NBC's "You Are the Jury," ABC's "Growing Pains," CBS' "Murder, She Wrote," ABC's "Calendar Girl Murders" and ABC's "Moonlighting."

In the early 1960s, NBC led in dinner-time news with its "Huntley-Brinkley Report," anchored by Chet Huntley and David Brinkley. Walter Cronkite's "CBS Evening News" became the preeminent broadcast in 1968 and never relinquished the lead.

Rather, who took over the "Evening News" in March, 1981, was beaten by "NBC Nightly News" the week of Sept. 28 that year, the last victory for NBC. John Chancellor, now the commentator on "Nightly News," was NBC's anchor then.

"CBS Evening News" also lost to "World News Tonight" the week of April 26, 1982. The following week CBS began its four-year winning streak.

"Ratings don't last. Good journalism does," Rather said Tuesday in a statement.

Network researchers cited the pro basketball playoffs as one variable apparently contributing to CBS' decline last week. The second game of the Boston-Houston series was shown in prime time Thursday, preempting the "Evening News" in seven markets, including San Diego, and changing its time in 15 others, including Los Angeles and San Francisco.

David Poltrack, CBS' vice president for research, said the "Evening News" had beaten "Nightly News" by 10 percent on Thursdays this year, but lost by 11 percent last Thursday. Had there been a normal Thursday, "Evening News" would have won by two-tenths of a ratings point, Poltrack said.

With a tighter news race, the researchers expect more fluctuations this summer because lower viewing levels generally reduce ratings margins anyway.

"When the ratings get that close, things like basketball can cause flukes," said Gerald Jaffe, NBC's vice president for research projects. "But it's very clear that NBC has made gains."

For the first quarter of 1986, "Nightly News" was up 10 percent in ratings over two years ago, "World News Tonight" was up 5 percent and "Evening News" was down 5 percent.

Jaffe said reasons for the "Nightly News" growth include NBC's prime-time strength providing better promotional value for Brokaw's newscast and also boosting NBC's affiliates whose local newscasts lead into "Nightly News."

"Our research also shows that Brokaw has better acceptance and recognition," Jaffe said. "More people know who he is."

One wild-card factor is "The Wheel of Fortune." In Cleveland, where "CBS Evening News" once dominated, the broadcast now is competing with the popular "Wheel of Fortune" game show. Poltrack attributed 10 percent of the overall shrinking gap between CBS and NBC to the Cleveland situation.

"The Wheel of Fortune" demonstrates that everything you say about quality TV can be diminished by one broadcast," said Howard Stringer, executive vice president of CBS News.

NBC News also has been in the news this spring, first for its controversial interview with alleged Achilles Lauro mastermind Abul Abbas and then for its broadcast of a story on accused spy Ronald W. Pelton. The state department objected to the Abbas interview. The CIA objected to the Pelton story.

"These are indications of a new aggressiveness at NBC News," Russert said. "I think people are noticing."

To toast the news victory, NBC News executives sent champagne to the "Nightly News" staff. "But we're not running around pounding our chests," Russert said. "This is a marathon, not a sprint."

Gibson: limits needed on campaign contributions

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Texas needs limits on campaign contributions for judges and judicial ethics reforms, said Democratic Supreme Court candidate Jay Gibson, who was in Big Spring this week.

The state also needs a West Texas candidate in a statewide office, the former state representative said.

Extensive campaign contributions from single-interest sources such as Political Action Committees are inappropriate for judges and can unduly influence the court, Gibson said.

The legislation has to mandate the reforms, but "it's incumbent upon the court to lead the way," he said.

Also needed are guidelines for ex parte communication and a prohibition of junkets, he said.

Ex parte communication is communication between a lawyer and a judge about a case that has not come to trial, but is expected to shortly, Gibson said. Such communication is considered unethical and is against the law after the case has gone to trial, he said.

A junket is a trip paid for by someone else, as when a judge accepts a trip on a plane owned by a lawyer who presents cases before the court, Gibson said. While the situation might be innocent, he said, "it looks bad."

Gibson said he is concerned about the court's image in the eyes of the public, which he said

JAY GIBSON
...Supreme Court candidate

is being attacked almost daily by major Texas newspapers.

Gibson, the only candidate for statewide office from West Texas, said he has received the endorsement of Equal Justice for All, a group of Hispanic lawyers, over his opponent Raul Gonzales. Gonzales was appointed to the post by Mark White to fill a vacant seat.

Trainees build skills while learning ropes

Cynthia Roe of Dallas, secured with a safety rope, leaps toward a trapeze bar at a confidence course in Denton recently. The course is used for leadership training and helps decision-making skills.

DENTON (AP) — Laurie Caudle, balanced just above a small platform atop an almost 30-foot pole, called down, "I can't do this. I can't get on" to the group below.

Her new friends below shouted back that she could. "Go for it, Laurie."

Gradually she found her courage and stood up on the platform, jumped toward a trapeze about eight feet away. Attached to a rigging she was carefully brought to the ground by her bolay (a French word which means secure at end of rope).

She missed the trapeze, but that didn't matter. Standing up on that pole was the thing that counted.

Ms. Caudle and seven others were on the final leg of a ropes course, a series of obstacles of cables, ropes, and swinging logs.

"The ropes course is designed to build self-confidence. It's for leadership training and helps decision-making skills," said Kip Elliot, program director for Summer Summits, the organization which owns the ropes course.

Once on the ground, Ms. Caudle said she couldn't believe she had actually climbed the pole and stood on the platform. The pole, which is known as the pamper pole, was the last obstacle of the day that included a catwalk and cable cross about 25 feet in the air, a fidget ladder, a trust fall and going through a tire suspended 6 1/2 feet above the ground.

She said she had thought about the pamper pole all day.

"No, I didn't think I would do it. But if I didn't I would be wondering if I could."

"I was real scared. It (the platform on top of the pole) is bigger than you think. Standing up, that was the hardest part. Jumping was nothing."

"I learned I can do things I thought I couldn't do because I'm not an athlete. My friends will be surprised. I'm very surprised myself that I got on that pole. But I am glad I did it. I feel good. I feel like I can do anything."

Elliot and Robert E. Lee principal Dalton Gregory, who is associated with the program, said the course is a useful tool in building group dynamics and developing problem-solving skills.

A day on the ropes is also good for building trust and making friends, according to some of the participants.

"I have more faith in myself than I ever had. I've learned to trust people," Ms. Caudle said.

Tracey Hollis, who's from Commerce and works for the Hunt County Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse, agreed that building trust was a major part of the program.

"It helps build trust in myself and other people. I didn't know what was out here. I didn't know anybody out here. The trust fall was the hardest thing for me to do."

"The big part about it is caring for people that you don't know that well," said Cynthia Roe of Dallas. "I cried twice today."

You're probably getting a lot of advice these days.

Here's some that will last you a lifetime.

If you're planning a family, the Association for Retarded Citizens wants to help you have happy, healthy children. There are some things to do that can make a difference, so please follow these guidelines.

Eat proper foods
Good nutrition is essential for a mother-to-be, long before she actually becomes pregnant.

Avoid alcohol and tobacco
Tobacco and alcohol can restrict the baby's growth in the womb and result in birth defects. Quit these habits before you conceive a child. And be sure to consult your doctor regarding any drugs you're taking.

Beware of radiation
Both parents should curb their exposure to X-rays and other forms of radiation before conception. During pregnancy, the mother should have no X-rays without her doctor's full knowledge of her condition.

Consider genetic counseling
About one-fourth of the people who have mental retardation have it because of a genetic factor. Seek medical counseling if mental retardation or other birth defects of unknown cause have occurred in your families.

We know you're getting lots of advice these days from the jeweler, the best man, your friends, the bridal consultant, your mother... but add us to the list. Our advice can last a lifetime.

Ten building permits issued for May

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Spring City building was sluggish in May with construction costs down substantially from April and down dramatically from May of a year ago, according to records at City Hall.

Cash layouts for May were $96,350 on the basis of 18 permits, while April's costs were $287,853 with 35 permits. Last May, costs soared to $1,039,880 with 28 permits.

Still, building costs for the fiscal year remain ahead of last year's pace with $2,116,713 in cash outlays compared to $1,869,798 for same

- time a year ago.
- Permits in May were issued for:
 - A $5,500 alteration to the home of Francis Armstrong at 2530 Fairchild Lane.
 - A $2,400 well dug at 3805 Calvin St. for Roy Markey.
 - A swimming pool costing $10,000 at the home of George Leatham, 2920 Melrose Lane.
 - An $11,000 carport at Lenora Gin Co.

 - A $1,000 storage building for Nathan Hughes of 404 W. Sixth St.
 - A $9,000 swimming pool for Leslie Zant of 1303 Johnson St.

Board approves summer program

COLORADO CITY — A summer school program to begin next week was discussed Tuesday night at a special meeting of the school board.

Superintendent Charlie Useton said the board approved summer classes for sixth-, seventh- and eighth-graders at Colorado Middle School, starting Monday. Enrollment will take place this Thursday and Friday.

High school students will attend summer classes in Big Spring. Students will be able to take only one subject, said Useton. Because of state compensatory money, the school district will be able to finance the program, leaving no tuition for students to pay, he said.

The session lasts 7½ weeks, and students attend class for half a day. One full credit of math, social studies or language arts will be given if a student passes the course.

Also Tuesday night, the board had a budget workshop for the 1986-87 budget. Useton said the district will lose about $623,000 because of the slump in the oil economy.

Another budget workshop will take place at the end of this month to field proposals from the board.

Firemen douse minor blazes

Firefighters responded to two blazes Tuesday involving vehicles.

At 11:49 a.m. firemen were called to Texas Wrecking on Highway 87 about two miles north of town and found a front end loader on fire, according to a department report. Damage to the machine was estimated at $15,000.

The fire was extinguished in minutes after it burned wiring, gauges and the machine's interior, the report stated.

Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Setles said the fire apparently started in the loader's engine underneath the driver's compartment.

The loader is owned by John Birdwell of 2304 Allendale Road.

Later Tuesday, the department put out a number of smoldering cotton bales in a truck at Rip Giffin's Truck Stop.

At about 10:20 p.m. firemen found smoke coming from a truck owned by Floyd Collier of Lafayette, Ga.

Firefighters unloaded 10 bales that were believed to be burning. Damage was set at $500.

The cause of the fire was undetermined.

Children should be taught that death is a fact of life

DEAR ABBY: My mother has a terminal illness and does not have much longer to live. I am struggling to find the answer to this question and I hope you can help me. (Perhaps a reader who has had to deal with it can be of help.) Should I let my 3-year-old son attend the funeral when the time comes? He is very close to his grandma. He spends a lot of time with her now because I go there daily to help out any way I can. He has trouble understanding why Grandma doesn't respond when he gives her hugs and kisses and now she doesn't "know" him.

Dear Abby

Should I take him to her funeral to say goodbye, or should I protect him from the pain?

A MOTHER'S LOVE
DEAR MOTHER'S LOVE: Let your son attend his grandma's funeral and explain that her life on earth has ended. Children need to know that all life ends in death — it's a fact of life. If they know the truth, they will not fear it. Give your son a chance to bid a final farewell to Grandma; it will make her death easier for him to accept.

DEAR ABBY: At what age should a sister and brother cease sleeping together? Our son is a little more than five years older than his sister, who is well-developed for her age. She says she becomes frightened during the night so she goes into her brother's bedroom and crawls into bed with him. (She sometimes stays all night.)

I've noticed a much closer bond between these two than with the other children in the family. I am concerned. My husband says he sees nothing wrong in this and becomes angry when I mention it. I need advice.

CONCERNED MOTHER,
COLUMBUS, GA.
DEAR CONCERNED: You do not say how old these children are, but a well-developed girl of any age should not be sleeping with her older brother.

If you suspect you have reason to be concerned, you should be. Quit speculating, and initiate some candid conversations with your daughter and your son, too. My mail tells me that there is far more "experimenting" among preteen siblings than most parents realize.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Henry from Freeport," who was astonished at how little most Americans knew about the Bahamas. Do you want to hear a better one?

A few years ago, while visiting some relatives in Napa Valley, Calif., I placed a long-distance telephone call to my husband in Newark, Del., and the operator asked me if Delaware was in the United States — or was it a foreign country! I assured her that Delaware was part of the United States — or at least it was when I had left it four days ago.

Later, on the same trip, I was in a restaurant with a cousin when a waitress, on hearing me mention

Delaware, said, "Oh, I know where Delaware is — it's near Copenhagen!" (I nearly landed on the floor.) My cousin was so amused, she now refers to my state as "Dela-Where?"

Abby, don't the teachers in California teach geography?

SUE FROM DELAWARE
DEAR SUE: The teachers in California do teach geography — but not all the students learn.

CONFIDENTIAL TO G. IN ST. LOUIS: "What we have once enjoyed, we can never lose; all that we love deeply becomes a part of us." (Helen Keller)

(Every teen-ager should know the truth about sex, drugs and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 3882, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.)

Symptoms of an abdominal aneurysm are often silent

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Would you please list the symptoms you get with an abdominal aneurysm? When I had a checkup recently, my doctor said he suspected one. I was sent in for X-rays, also ultrasound. No abnormalities were found. Do you think I should still be concerned? The doctor says no. — M.L.J.

Dr. Donohue

I think that with the tests you had you can safely scratch abdominal aneurysm for your list of concerns. I hope you do that.

Most often, an abdominal aneurysm causes no symptoms, but more on that later. First, let's let other readers in on what we're talking about.

An abdominal aneurysm is a bulge in the body's main artery, the aorta, as it leaves the heart and extends down the chest and abdomen. Along the way, it branches off to somewhat smaller arteries that serve nearby organs.

The bulge arises because of a loss of elasticity in one area or another. The loss of elasticity comes from a kind of hardening of the wall. The wall at that point cannot withstand the great pressure of blood flowing within. It's pretty close, really, to the bulge that develops in a bad inner tube.

Your doctor probably suspected an aneurysm when he noticed a very strong pulsation while examining your abdomen. Fortunately, tests like X-rays and ultrasound take a lot of the guesswork out of medicine. They tell pretty conclusively whether there is an aneurysm present or not.

If an aneurysm is confirmed, and if it is large, then immediate surgery is done. If it ruptures, life-threatening hemorrhage can occur.

Now, I said that usually aneurysms are silent insofar as symptoms are concerned. However, if one is large enough it might produce back or abdominal pain. But let me stress that very few abdominal or back pains mean the person has an aneurysm.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Thought you could use an upbeat, positive letter with no complaints. Still, it might help others.

When my father came with us to live he got quite nervous, depressed is the word. It seems he just gave up. He wouldn't eat, and he loved to eat so much. He honestly felt he was a great burden, and he always was such help to all of us kids.

I spoke to my doctor, who even though he is a gynecologist took an interest. He couldn't tell anything wrong with dad, who looks very healthy (at 73). Well, the doctor prescribed a drug, Sinequan, for him. It worked wonders. He perked up, started eating, and was his old self. We even got him to go to my husband's doctor for a checkup. We were surprised he went.

Except for prostate enlargement (being checked out) he is a new man. We are all so happy for him. Thanks for listening. — Mrs. S.R.

Thanks for writing. We all need an uplift now and then. I am pleased things are looking up for your father once more. Sinequan (doxepin) is one of the tricyclic antidepressant drugs. It does, in fact, have a positive effect on appetite as well. For people like your father, it apparently was, if you will pardon the expression, what the doctor ordered. That's good.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: How much does food have to do with rectal itch? — J.N.

Food can be a significant factor, and one too often ignored. Just how important in an individual case is really a matter of trial and error. For some it may not be a factor at all. I can give you a couple of examples of foods that are frequently associated with the problem: caffeine and citrus.

It's nice when you can have a simple answer to such a nagging condition as rectal itch. Sometimes it comes in episodes and you can link some to recent ingestion of one food or another. To do that, you should keep a general diary of food intake.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Would a woman's menstrual flow continue if she got her tubes tied? — W.W.

Yes. With ovaries intact, the uterine lining is still shed monthly and menstruation occurs.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with this or other rectal problems, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and one dollar.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

The bagel, America's hottest selling baked good, is making its debut on party scenes from black tie to blue jeans. Sitting atop a silver tray or packed in a picnic basket, the versatile "role with the hole" is replacing the traditional breads and crackers. The reason is simple. Bagels are great with everyone's favorite spread from caviar, for the jet set, to peanut butter, for the casual crowd.

Bagels come in a variety of flavors or you can invent your own. In this week's recipe exchange, I've included some recipes to liven up your bagel.

BAGEL PIZZA

Arrange bagel halves on a tray. Spoon over pizza sauce or tomato sauce mixed with parmesan cheese and Italian seasoning. Top with shredded mozzarella cheese. Broil just until cheese melts or bubbles. For variety, add your favorite vegetable or meat toppings.

BAGEL BURGER

Shape burgers into 1/2-inch thick patties, the same diameter as the bagel. Warm or toast bagels, while cooking burgers. Garnish with lettuce, tomato and serve.

BAGEL GRILLED CHEESE

Spread each half of a warmed or toasted bagel with butter and top with tomato slice. Add thin slices of your favorite cheese and broil 'til bubbly.

BAGEL BLISS

Spread a warmed or toasted bagel with butter, cream cheese or jelly. Serve alongside eggs any style for a hearty morning meal.

EGG 'N BAGELWICH

Using egg ring, fry one egg, breaking yolk. Butter each half of a warmed or toasted bagel. Top one half with a slice of cheese, and broil cheese. Broil until cheese melts. Serve open face.

BAGEL FRENCH TOAST

Soak each half of Raisin 'n Honey bagel for 15 minutes in mixture of two eggs, 1/2 cup milk, 2 tables-spoons of sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla and a pinch of salt. Fry bagel halves in butter or large skillet over medium heat for 3-5 minutes on each side, until golden. Serve with maple syrup.

TUNA ITALIANO

Spread bagel half with tuna fish salad seasoned with Italian spices and garlic powder. Top with tomato slice and slice of cheese. Broil until cheese melts.

ROAST BEEF TERIYAKI SAUCE

Spread a bagel with margarine. Top with thinly sliced roast beef. Sprinkle with soy sauce and toasted sesame seeds.

CURRIED CHICKEN SALAD

Spread bagel with mayonnaise. Top with chicken salad seasoned with curry powder and chutney.

CREAM CHEESE AND JELLY

Spread bagel with cream cheese. Top with layer of desired jelly.

SLOPPY MOE

Saute together chopped onion, green pepper and lean ground beef. Add tomato sauce and ketchup, salt and pepper. Simmer until thick. Spoon over bagel halves.

BLINTZ SPREAD ON A BAGEL

Spread bagel with cottage cheese mixed with sugar and vanilla extract. Top with second half, wrap and heat until warmed through.

CORNERED BEEF ON A BAGEL

Spread bagel with mustard. Top with thinly sliced corned beef and pickle slices.

The perfect entertaining alternative to traditional breads and crackers, bagels can be dressed up or down with a variety of toppings. For a formal occasion, serve Black Tie Bagels with a cream cheese and chive spread and smoked salmon garnish. Or for a casual get-together, try Easy-do-Bagels, a tasty grilled cheese and tomato snack.

A slugger named Behnsch; two good camps

Remember three years ago when the Howard College Hawks had a first baseman by the name of Bobby Behnsch? He was a power-hitting lefty that set a modern day Howard College baseball record with 22 homers. Not to mention some awesome shots he put over the "Green Monster" at Jack Barber Field.

After HC, the junior college All-American originally signed with Lubbock Christian College; he later decided to attend the University of Texas.

Last year when Texas went 64-14 and was defeated by Miami in the finals of the College World Series, Behnsch didn't see that much action. He was a second-teamer behind some guy who batted .280.

This year the big lefty finally got his chance and he made the most of it. As usual Texas had a good season, going 51-14, and the ex-Howard player won himself a starting spot at first.

He responded by leading the team in batting with a .337 average. He was one of the RBI leaders with 41 while collecting 19 doubles and three triples. To top it off his fielding percentage was a near-perfect .995.

So keep an eye peeled for the name Bobby Behnsch. He might find himself a place in the majors one of these days.

I was talking with Howard College Hawk-Queens basketball coach Don Stevens the other day and he told me that the numbers are way down for girls participating in his day basketball camp scheduled for June 16-20.

Seems that Stevens has had eight girls sign up so far, only one of which is a local. Stevens has coached in this area for a long while and his coaching prowess is well known. I know that a lot of girls will benefit from his knowledge if they attend the camp. It could be the start of building strong high school programs, especially in Big Spring.

Here's hoping more girls will sign up. Not only will it keep the camp going strong, it will make the participants better players.

While on the subject of camps, Howard College is hosting volleyball camp June 9-11 at the college. Now you can't find a better instructor than this — Rose Magers, Big Spring's own silver-medalist volleyball player in the '84 Olympics.

Magers will be teaching the girls spiking, blocking and setting techniques as well as overall strategy of the game.

With a Olympic silver medalist for a drawing card, no doubt this camp will be a huge success.

Mitchell wins Pro-Am

Not even rains and high winds can stand in the way of a good golf tournament, at least not the Fourth Annual Shriners Signal Peak Golf Pro-Am which was concluded Tuesday afternoon at the Comanche Trail Golf Course.

With the recent rains in the area the tournament had to be moved to a different site and condensed into a one-day affair.

But it didn't stop golfers from having a good time and golf pro Gene Mitchell from winning the tournament. Heavy rains caused postponement for Monday's first round, thus the tourney had to be moved from the Big Spring Country Club course to Comanche Trail.

The City Council had to have a special meeting Tuesday to okay having the tournament at Comanche Trail. "We really appreciate the City Council and Al Patterson (Comanche Trail golf pro) for allowing us to move the tournament here," said tournament director Gary Hammer.

"We were really flooded out at the Country Club. We'll probably be closed until Friday or Saturday. But the tournament turned out fine and the rain didn't run anyone off."

Mitchell, a golf pro at the Floydada Country Club, fired a six-under-par 65 to win over Alan Pursley. Pursley, a golf pro at Andrews Country Club, shot a three-under-par 68.

Amarillo Country Club pro Guy Bailey finished tied for third with Ron Rosson and Benny Passons with 69's. Last year's defending champ, Greg Henning of the Anna Country Club finished sixth with a 70.

In the team competition, the squad of golf pro Jim Curtsinger, of the Pine Hills Country Club in Lubbock, and four others from the Hub City won in a card playoff.

Curtsinger along with Roland Adams, Ray Kennison, Scott Curtsinger and Mike Wheeler shot a 56.

Also shooting a 56 was Dallas PGA member Joe Hager and local pros Ron Broadrick, Don Johnson, Juan Montelongo and Chris Christopher.

A blind card draw was held and the fifth hole was chosen. Both teams birdied the hole. On the sixth hole Curtsinger's team eagled the hole while Hager's team birdied, thus giving Curtsinger's team the championship.

Over 220 golfers participated in the tournament. Proceeds will go to the Shriners Crippled Children's Hospitals and Burn Centers.

San Jacinto captures another baseball title

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Toby Nivens struck out 11 batters and Mike Rushing hit a three-run homer as San Jacinto, Texas, beat Brevard, Fla., 11-4 and won its second straight National Junior College World Series championship.

Nivens, 14-4, scattered six Brevard hits and allowed the Titans, 42-11, only two RBI singles in the sixth and a two-run homer, Mike Robinson's, in the eighth.

Rushing, who split designated hitter work through the tournament with Jeff Miller, put the game out of reach with his three-run homer in the seventh that stretched the Gator lead to 9-2.

Boston Celtics Larry Bird (33) gets five as teammate Kevin McHale (32) raises his hands in victory in last night's NBA championship game. Boston defeated the Rockets 106-103 to go up 3-1 in the series.

Celtics ground Rockets

HOUSTON (AP) — Last season when Boston center Robert Parish got tired, he often had to ignore his fatigue and continue playing.

But this season Coach K.C. Jones learned that relief is spelled B-I-L-L-W-A-L-T-O-N.

Parish hit 10 of 15 shots, scored 22 points and contained Ralph Sampson in the second half to put the Celtics in position to win Game Four Tuesday night in their NBA playoff against the Houston Rockets.

But it took a relief performance by Walton in the final three minutes and a crucial three-point basket by Larry Bird to preserve a 106-103 Boston victory.

Walton's performance allowed the Celtics to take a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series. They can win their 16th NBA title with a victory in The Summit Thursday night.

But Parish isn't the only tired Celtics player ready for vacation time — and forward Kevin McHale likes Boston's position.

"Three-one is a good place to be," McHale said. "Everyone knows how close we are, and we don't want to extend it any more than necessary. That would give us a chance to go on vacation."

After a tight struggle throughout the fourth quarter, Bird took a feed from Walton and sank a three-point basket with 2:27 to play that broke a 101-101 tie and gave the Celtics the lead for good.

With 1:40 to go, Walton's tip-in made it 106-103. Neither team scored the rest of the way.

Having Walton to come on in relief of Parish was a key strategy move for Jones in the closing minutes, and Parish agreed with the decision.

"I ran out of gas with two minutes left, everyone could see that, I don't think I could have done it," Parish said. "It was time for me to surface. I was almost invisible in Game 3."

Walton played poorly at the start of the game and said he was surprised that he got a second chance.

"I was out of sync and Sampson had a hot hand in the first half," Walton said. "I was surprised that K.C. put me back in the game."

"But at that point, nothing that has happened in your life to that point matters. You just have to go out and give it all you've got."

Despite Walton's poor early performance, Jones said he had no hesitation about returning Walton to the lineup.

"He knows where the offensive boards are and he did exactly what was expected of him," Jones said. "Robert had played a tough game and I saw that he was dragging a little. It was a matter of getting a fresh body into the game."

The Rockets led 64-63 at the half, but trailed 86-85 going into the fourth period.

Dennis Johnson, who scored 22 points, hit a pair of free throws with 3:07 to play to erase Houston's final lead and set the stage for Bird's go-ahead three-pointer.

"You need to take the three-pointer in that situation," Bird said. "It gives us the extra point and means they have to have two possessions."

Bird scored 21 points for Boston. Sampson led the Rockets with 25 points, but had just four in the second half.

Despite the frustrating loss, Houston Coach Bill Fitch doesn't think all hope is gone. He's been in this must-win situation before — when his 1981 Boston Celtics recovered from a 3-1 deficit to Philadelphia in the Eastern Conference finals en route to the NBA title.

Clark and rookie combine to sink Astros

By The Associated Press
Ever since 20-game winner Joaquin Andujar was traded, the St. Louis Cardinals have been holding auditions for a starting pitcher. On Tuesday night rookie Greg Mathews may have claimed the part.

Baseball

Mathews, making his major-league debut, pitched eight shutout innings before needing relief help in the ninth and Jack Clark hit a two-run homer as the Cardinals extended their winning streak to four games with a 3-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

Mathews, who was called up from Class AAA Louisville on Friday, took a four-hit shutout into the ninth. But Billy Hatcher led off with a single, stole second and scored on a two-out single by Kevin Bass. Phil Garner followed with Houston's seventh hit of the game before Todd Worrell relieved for his eighth save.

Houston's Jim DeShaies, 1-2, took the loss despite allowing only two hits in six innings and striking out eight.

Andy Van Slyke singled with one out in the fourth for the Cardinals' first hit of the game. Clark, who had struck out in his previous four at-bats against DeShaies, followed with his sixth home run of the season. St. Louis added a run in the fifth when Ozzie Smith walked, advanced to second on a balk, took third on a grounder and scored on Mathews' bunt.

Florida St. stops Miami

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Florida State pitcher Richie Lewis told Miami players on Omaha television that he was going to go right after them when the two teams met at the NCAA College World Series.

The two teams had split six regular-season games and labeled Tuesday's game as the Florida state championship.

The right-hander FSU Coach

CWS

Mike Martin calls "the little man" struck out 10 and scattered 11 hits to pick up his eighth complete game in the 7-2 FSU triumph in the winners bracket semifinal.

Lewis, who stands 6-foot-10, led the nation with an average of 14.9 strikeouts in nine innings this season.

The hard-throwing sophomore, 13-2, sent defending national chamption Miami into tonight's elimination round against second-ranked Louisiana State, 55-13, at 7:10 p.m. CDT. That game follows No. 4 Oklahoma State, 55-14, against sixth-ranked Loyola Marymount, 50-14.

Florida State, the nation's top-ranked team with a 59-11 record, will meet No. 5 Arizona, 47-18, at 7:10 p.m. Thursday in the winners bracket final. The winner of that contest earns a spot in the CWS championship game Saturday or Sunday.

In a pregame interview, Lewis said he was pumped up, ready to take the game to Miami. He then backed up his talk, striking out six Hurricanes in the final three innings.

"Really the whole thing was Lewis," Miami coach Ron Fraser said following the game. "He was the whole ball game. We had them on the ropes a few times but he came back and struck us out."

Lewis said he felt strong. "I could go nine more," he said. "I have had no luck against these guys (Miami). By hook or by crook they beat me. I've thrown some of the best ball of my life against them but never won."

Lewis was involved in one loss and two no-decisions in three appearances against Miami during the season.

He and Miami reliever Dan Davies, the loser at 9-2, were stumping hitters for both teams until Florida State came up with a five-run seventh inning.

A hit batsman, single by Barry Blackwell and a bunt by Greg Clayborne that left Miami without a play loaded the bases for the Seminoles. Jose Marzan singled in one run, Paul Sorrento's fly out brought in another and Luis Alicea's single scored a third to chase Davies.

Lone Frenchman advances

PARIS (AP) — Henri Leconte, France's last hope, advanced to the men's semifinals of the French Open Wednesday with a 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 victory over seventh-seeded Kathy Rinaldi of the United States.

The first Frenchman since 1983 and only the sixth in the last 23 years to reach the semifinals of his nation's tennis championship, Leconte plays next against the winner of the Boris Becker-Mikael

French Open

Pernfors match later in the day. Top seeds Ivan Lendl and Martina Navratilova proved Tuesday that they are human. Now, they are out to prove they are No. 1.

Both struggled a bit before advancing to the semifinals.

Lendl lost his first set of the tournament before rebounding to beat ninth-seeded Andres Gomez of Ecuador 6-7, 7-6, 6-0, 6-0.

Navratilova stumbled before maintaining her perfect record in the tournament with a 7-5, 6-4 victory over seventh-seeded Kathy Rinaldi of the United States.

In the next round, Lendl, of Czechoslovakia, plays one of the biggest surprises of this surprise-filled tournament — Johan Kriek, the only American man among the seeds, who upset 1977 French Open champion Guillermo 3-6, 7-6, 7-6 in a match that lasted 4 hours, 16 minutes.

A match that was over in just 1:06 put Czechoslovakia's Helena Sukova in Navratilova's path to the title. Sukova, the No. 6 seed in the women's field, ended 14-year-old American Mary Joe Fernandez's upset string with a 6-2, 6-4 victory.

Fernandez, who still has three years of high school remaining back in Miami, had registered upsets over Helen Kelesi, Andrea Temesvari, Anne Hobbs and fourth-seeded Claudia Kohde-Kilsch before falling to Sukova.

Kriek played on center court here for the first time against Vilas, but then he hasn't played many other courts at Paris, either. His only previous French Open appearance was in 1979, and he lost in the first round.

Vilas, on the other hand, is a clay-court master, his baseline game ideally suited for the slower surface. But Kriek, the No. 13 seed, took him apart with the serve-and-volley game he uses so well on hardcourts.

Lendl said he was surprised to be meeting Kriek in the semifinals.

"Everybody is, even him," Lendl said.

Both top seeds said they expected the tough matches to help them in the last two rounds. "It definitely tested me," Lendl said. "I didn't lose 12 service games after the two tie-breaks. I started to return better and I blocked the ball with my backhand."

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make your plans early for handling property affairs, then follow through with alacrity and make a success of them.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You need to progress more quickly so early plan how best to gain your aims. Get in touch with good friends who can help.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Confer with a bigwig early and plan how to gain more abundance in the near future, then don't go off on any tangents.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A friend gives you a new avenue to gain the assistance of a partner, so try it for better results.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Discuss your ambitious ideas with an expert, then get to work on them with enthusiasm and you make big progress.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Permit a powerful associate to open a new door of opportunity, even if you have to entertain this person for it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Impress an influential person with your work and you will get the assistance you need in monetary matters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Meet with a powerful associate at some new place where you can plan the future more intelligently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be helpful to kin and make home life far more harmonious. Study property affairs well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are good at organizing, so do this in recreational activities, also. Visit good pals in the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your home is an important place in your life, so improve the conditions there quickly. Be sure that family ties agree with changes.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your judgment is fine today, so communicate with others as much as you can and get good results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a good student early in life and have the urge to learn as much as possible, so accord as fine an education as you can so that the greatest potentials can be realized. Once a career is chosen, there is much success.
