Dumping

Q. When people use someone's private lot as a dumping ground, who is responsible for the cleanup, the city or the owner?

A. The owner is always responsible for his property, said public works director Tom Decell. However, in some cases and after going through the proper legal channels, the city may decide to have the property cleaned up, he said. A lien would then be applied to the property, he said.

Reagan backs oil tax breaks

WASHINGTON — President Reagan Friday formally declared his support for keeping the oil and gas industry's major tax incentives as part of tax reform.

In a statement issued by White House principal deputy press secretary Larry Speakes, Reagan said he endorsed the treatment of those oil and gas provisions in the Senate Finance Committee's tax reform bill.

The energy policy statement also outlined "a number of steps that we're taking to lessen federal regulations of people who are hard put because of these lower oil prices," Speakes told reporters. Those measures primarily would offer some relief to low-producing "stripper wells" on federal leases.

The Senate Finance Committee's tax measure, now under consideration on the Senate floor, would maintain the industry's key writeoffs for the percentage depletion allowance and deductions for "intangible drilling costs."

A House version of overall tax reform, passed last year, would cost the industry about $4.2 billion over a five-year period by significantly weakening those provisions.

The Reagan administration had originally proposed reducing industry tax incentives in the initial comprehensive tax reform legislation that was sent to Congress last year.

Oil and gas industry officials, as well as senators representing oil and gas producing states, have said they expect a battle on the Senate floor over the industry's tax provisions. That battle might come next week, they said.

The statement on energy policy also reaffirmed Reagan's support for repealing the windfall profits tax on crude oil and eliminating remaining price controls on natural gas production.

An Interior Department official on Friday described the measure that would have the most impact for the industry — an expansion of current policy to extend the life of the wells on federal lands.

However, Steven Griles, assistant secretary of interior for lands and minerals management, conceded that the actual effect on the nation's overall oil production would be slight.

Griles said the Interior Department would waive requirements for the plugging of oil wells on federal leases that do not meet production requirements. On April 17, the Interior Department announced that the production quota would be waived for stripper wells, and Griles said Friday that the waiver would be extended to all marginal oil production in which the cost of the well exceeds income from the oil.

The Interior Department official said that about 12 percent of the nation's oil production comes from federal lands and that only about 1 percent of the production on those lands derives from stripper wells or marginal wells.

He could not estimate how much oil production might be saved as a result of the regulation change, but he said 210 producers with stripper wells on federal leases had applied for the production quota waiver. He said each lease represented about eight separate oil wells that might be exempted from the production level requirement.

Dogs attack couple; child is OK

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

A Big Spring couple and their 2-year-old son were attacked by two dogs, one a pit bull, Friday night, but were saved from serious injury when passing motorists pulled the family into a car.

Eugene Yen, his wife, Kathy, and their son, all of 1905 Wasson Road, were returning home from a walk in the city park Saturday evening when the dogs attacked them on the corner of Parkway and Laurie Streets, said Mrs. Yen.

"We were on Laurie and saw the dogs, and we stood there hoping they wouldn't come to us," Mrs. Yen said. "My husband tried to sacrifice himself. He said 'you take the baby and I'll run and make the dogs follow me.'"

The dogs chased Yen, and bit him on the elbow and at mid-calf, his wife said.

"I took the baby away. I ran across the street. When he (Yen) ran far enough, the dogs came back to me and my baby. I started

Mattox says 1985 bank law is unconstitutional

AUSTIN (AP) — A 1985 law allowing banks to operate drive-through facilities almost four miles from their central buildings is unconstitutional, Attorney General Jim Mattox held Friday.

Mattox said the amendment to the Texas Banking Code violates the state constitutional prohibition against branch banking.

President Bookman Peters of the Texas Bankers Association said Mattox's opinion would deprive customers of a "major banking convenience."

A 110-year-old constitutional provision says a bank "shall not be authorized to engage in business at more than one place."

"The prohibition reflected the widespread mistrust of financial organizations and the fear or concentration of financial power," Mattox said in his opinion Friday.

Mattox's opinion was sought by Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, who said his request was directed at banks that have pushed the law by merging two banks and declaring one a detached facility.

Brooks, according to Mattox, had indicated that two state banks in Dallas, had merged, with each offering full banking services although one was regarded as a "drive-in/walk-up facility."

Mattox at a news conference identified the banks as Allied Bank of Dallas and Allied Bank of Lakewood, a Dallas suburb.

Early drive-through tellers were attached to the main bank but the Legislature through the years has extended the distance from the main banks. Last year lawmakers said they could be located 20,000 feet away from the main bank. This was the amendment Mattox held unconstitutional.

Peters of the bankers association said, "This type of banking facility is a very real convenience to customers, particularly where the bank is located in an area with major traffic congestion and limited parking. It can be frustrating for the bank customer to be forced to wait in a long line of cars to reach a drive-in teller station."

Mattox noted that the "definition of 'drive-in walk-up facility' was amended during the past two legislative sessions with the effect that a multi-story office building now falls within its ambit."

He said nine amendments have "gradually expanded the scope of where remote facilities can be located. Now, we have reached the point where two banks with a total of $750 million in assets have decided they would operate as one bank, with one acting as a 'remote' location of the other. There may be as many as 25 others doing the same thing."

Sam Kimberlin, executive vice president of the Texas Bankers Association, says his group has surveyed 614 of its member banks and found that a negative ruling by Mattox would eliminate 32 detached facilities with an investment value of $26 million.

Brooks said, however, "That argument about doing away with drive-ins is absolutely ludicrous."

Mattox said his opinion, which can be challenged in court, did not deal with the eight prior banking amendments, "and we have not addressed questions regarding savings and loans, bank holding companies and credit unions."

The attorney general said he hoped banks would voluntarily comply with the constitution as interpreted by the attorney general so "the state of Texas would not be forced to take action against the banks to enforce the law."

"If it looks like the banks are going to get together and ask the Legislature for a constitution change that would put them in compliance, then we will adopt a stand-still attitude," Mattox said.

Any change in the constitution would have to be approved by two-thirds of each house of the Legislature and also by the voters at a statewide election.

World War II soldiers' letters found in attic

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Some of the World War II soldiers bound for battle on an unknown ship in 1944 probably didn't make it home. Neither did 200 or more of their letters — until now.

"These are not just normal letters," said R. Michael Minguez, a Raleigh exterminator who stumbled across the bag of World War II mail in the attic of an elderly customer last month. "These are almost the last will and testament for some of those guys."

After receiving promises that the U.S. Postal Service would attempt an extraordinary special delivery effort, Minguez Wednesday turned over the letters to postal officials in Raleigh.

Minguez said he usually minds his own business, but he couldn't help but peek inside the mail bag when he found it in the attic. The letters were V-Mail, or Victory Mail — unstamped letters from U.S. servicemen in World War II.

A young relative of the homeowner apparently was appointed to take the bag to a post office while on shore leave, Minguez said. The details are obscure, but the young man failed to carry out his assignment. Fear of reprisal, and then neglect, landed the bag in the attic.

Minguez appointed himself the guardian of the letters, but hesitated to turn them over to postal officials because he feared they would end up in the dead letter office.

Assurances from the U.S. Postal Service in Washington finally convinced him to surrender them, and the responsibility he felt for their delivery.

"I'd like to see them get where they were going," he said. "There's the potential for something really neat happening here."

During the days he kept the letters, Minguez said decency kept him from breaking the seals on the envelopes. But a half-dozen that had already been opened were irresistible.

"These guys didn't know where they were going," he said. "The only thing they really knew was everything that was near and dear to them was being left farther and farther and farther behind. All the things they never got to say, all their hopes and desires and dreams, all the things they took for granted — all that came spilling out in the letters."

The letters were addressed to nearly every state, but most were headed for Texas, California and New York.

Wartime censorship was evident, said Becki Hagood, a co-worker of Minguez who read the opened letters. The ship's name, its destination and any information about its passengers was kept secret.

"Somewhere in the Atlantic is all they say," she said. "I assume they were in the Army, because they're on a ship and they're unfamiliar with a ship. They're getting seasick."

Wounds left surgeon shaking

NEW YORK (AP) — The plastic surgeon who painstakingly tacked more than 100 stitches into model Marla Hanson's face said Friday her wounds were so horrific they left him shaking.

"I have never shivered looking at wounds the way I did with her. When I finished suturing her up at 6:30 in the morning, I sat down and I said to myself, 'How could men push a woman like this down and carve her face up with a razor?'" Dr. Ronald Levandusky said at a news conference in St. Vincent's Hospital in Manhattan.

He was accompanied by Ms. Hanson, who sat in a wheelchair, and hospital officials.

The cuts were "some of the worst facial wounds I've seen in my practice," Levandusky said. "They were a bit worse than what I've seen when people go through windshields."

Ms. Hanson seemed in good spirits, despite the wounds that snaked like tiny railroad tracks across one cheek to the tip of her nose and under the other eye. Asked how she felt, Ms. Hanson said in a strong voice, "I'm feeling wonderful."

Fashion model Marla Hanson, 24, speaks at a news conference at St. Vincent's hospital in New York Friday morning. The model was attacked by two assailants who slashed her face with a razor blade Thursday. Her surgery required more than 100 stitches.

Two men slashed the 24-year-old model from Dallas early Thursday in an attack police said was arranged by her former landlord over an $850 security deposit he owed her. The landlord, Steven Roth, 28, a makeup artist, was arrested, as were the two men he allegedly hired to slash her.

They were arraigned Friday in Manhattan Criminal Court on assault and other charges. Judge Herbert Adlerberg set bail for Roth at $250,000 and for the other two at $100,000 each. None of them posted bail immediately.

Adlerberg scheduled a hearing in the case for June 11.

Ms. Hanson said she hopes to continue her career in modeling, concentrating more on television. "If that doesn't work out, she said, 'Oh, there are so many opportunities. Acting, I painted, I used to be in real estate before this.'"

Ms. Hanson, a 5-foot-4 brunette who had just finished her first television commercial, had done photo layouts for Mademoiselle and Glamour magazines, according to Monty Agard, director of Petite Model Management, where she worked.

Asked if Ms. Hanson's face would ever look like it used to, Levandusky was not optimistic.

"All the scars are permanent," he said. "If they heal well, it's possible they can be improved by sanding or by re-excising and re-suturing, perhaps altering the direction of part of the scars. But basically all scars like this are permanent and we have to face that reality."

Levandusky said some of the cuts were an inch deep, and that there were at least 50 stitches below those visible on the surface.

"It took five layers of suture to close the right cheek," he said.

Ms. Hanson's father, Robert, of Dallas, was on his way to see her Friday after receiving donations from New Yorkers who heard he didn't have enough money for plane fare. Hanson, a financial planner, seemed embarrassed about that.

"It's the one time in my life when I didn't have any cash," he said in a telephone interview Friday morning. "Everything's either tied up or gone."

Asked how he felt about the attack on his daughter, Hanson said: "I've tried not to let my anger get the best of me. I feel really sorry for someone who has such a warped viewpoint of anything. I can't imagine what he (the landlord) hoped to gain but everything backfired."

The incident began just after midnight Thursday when Ms. Hanson agreed to meet Roth at Shutters, a bar on West 34th Street in the building where she lives. Roth, who owns a cooperative apartment Ms. Hanson had shared with three other women, was supposed to return Ms. Hanson's $850 security deposit. She agreed to the location because she felt safer with other people around, she said.

Ms. Hanson, who moved to New York last August, moved out of Roth's co-op about two weeks ago.

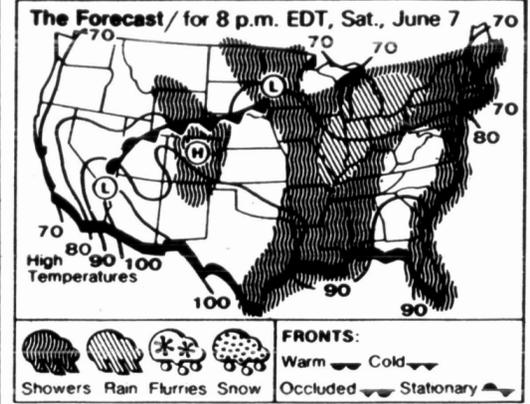

When Roth asked Ms. Hanson to step outside with him, she agreed. As they walked near 35th Street and Dyer Avenue, they were approached by two men, one of whom took out a single-edge razor blade and repeatedly slashed Ms. Hanson's face, police said.

In court Friday, Assistant District Attorney James Warwick said Roth's "clear intent was to ruin the career of the victim."

"It was Mr. Roth's intention not to pay the $850 but to intimidate her and have her hurt," he said.

Warwick said Roth hired Steven Bowman, 27, and Daren Norman, 20, both of Queens, to stage a robbery, during which they would disfigure Ms. Hanson. The prosecutor said Roth promised to find Bowman an apartment as payment. It was unclear what Norman was supposed to get.

Weather

State

By The Associated Press

Scattered showers and thundershowers continued Friday as moist, tropical air from the Gulf of Mexico remained anchored over the state.

The stronger thunderstorms producing the heaviest rainfall were located over parts of the Hill Country, the Edwards Plateau and southeastern Texas.

The National Weather Service posted a flash-flood watch for the southern half of North Texas through the night.

Otherwise, it was partly cloudy, except for clear skies on the Plains in the vicinity of Amarillo and Lubbock, the weather service said.

Statewide temperatures climbed into the 80s and 90s, with a few readings in the 70s being recorded in the rain-cooled area in Central Texas. Late afternoon extremes ranged from 75 at Waco to 94 at Laredo and McAllen, the weather service.

to scream. If Don (Taylor) did not help us, we were in trouble," Mrs. Yen said.

Don Taylor and his wife, Betty, were driving down Parkway returning from a movie when they saw Yen jump from the curb waving, Mrs. Taylor said.

"We saw these dogs attacking this lady who was holding a baby," she said. "It looked like the dogs were trying to get the baby. The dogs had pulled the baby's shoes off by the time we got there."

"They were moving so fast up and down her legs. It looked like somebody had speeded up a camera. My husband was trying to beat them off with the car door and they still wouldn't get off her.

"Then he started kicking them so they could get in the car. They (the Yens) got in the car, and the dogs started jumping at the windows. They were baring their teeth and growling. It was like a bad movie," Mrs. Taylor said.

Yen and his wife were wounded by the bites, but their 2-year-old was unhurt.

When the Yens got in the car, "they were very shook up," said Mrs. Taylor. "They could hardly communicate. We saw a lady, probably about 75, come out of her house with a cane after hearing the noise. The dogs chased her back in the house," Mrs. Taylor said.

The Taylors took the Yens to the Taylor's home on Dixon street, where they called police, Mrs. Taylor said. They then drove the Yens to Malone-Hogan Hospital where the adults were treated for the dog bites and released, said a hospital spokeswoman.

Lt. Jerry Edwards of the Big Spring Police Department said the dogs were captured in an alley near where the attack occurred. He said one was a small brown pit bull, and the other a white mixed breed.

Edwards said a man had called to claim one of the dogs, but there had not yet been a positive identification.

Man kills family, self

GRAPEVINE, — A man who shot his wife and daughter to death before killing himself had been depressed about not working and was homesick for Indiana, family and friends said.

The bodies of Herman D. Osborn, 48; his wife, Peggy, 44; and their daughter, Laura, 15, a high school freshman, were found about 9 a.m. Thursday in their home by movers who came to load their possessions for the family's move back to Indiana, police said.

Robbers kill 3 tellers

NORTHAMPTON, Pa. — Two men wearing white painter's caps stormed into a rural bank with guns blazing Friday, killing three female tellers and wounding the manager and a customer before fleeing in a car, authorities said.

Two men, stopped about two miles north of the scene in a car fitting witnesses' description, were taken into custody for questioning, state police Capt. Benjamin Brooks said.

Police had set up roadblocks and used a helicopter to scan the area near Bethlehem in eastern Pennsylvania about 60 miles north of Philadelphia, and stopped the car near Kriedersville, Brooks said.

Brooks said it had not been determined whether any money was taken. He said authorities did not know what kinds of guns were used.

Shot man walks miles

TUCSON, Ariz. — Police say a man was clubbed, tortured and forced into the desert where his captors shot him in the back of the head, but he survived and stumbled for miles to get help.

Authorities said the beating and shooting apparently were related to a marijuana deal. Officers said one man was being held Friday and two other people were being sought.

The 26-year-old victim, who is from Tucson, was not identified, and his girlfriend was given protection, since both could be witnesses against the assailants, said Detective Byron Stuckey of the Pima County Sheriff's Office.

Child dies after filling

NEW YORK — Officials were investigating Friday whether charges should be lodged against a dentist whose 2½-year-old patient died hours after allegedly being given four drugs for a tooth extraction and filling.

The boy, Rifa Setiyono, died nearly five hours after Dr. Philip Howard, a dentist with 25 years' experience, performed the dental work, police said.

The toddler was given at least three anesthetics — Pentothal, nitrous oxide and ketamine — and Valium, a muscle relaxant, said Detective Jerry Friedman of the 112th Precinct. Police were unsure of the amounts of drugs used or if all were administered before the dental procedure began.

No charges were filed, pending the results of an autopsy report, Friedman said.

Many evacuees will be monitored for life

MOSCOW (AP) — American bone marrow specialist Robert Gale said Friday that 80 people suffered serious radiation exposure at Chernobyl and that doctors will monitor the health of the roughly 100,000 evacuees for the rest of their lives.

Dr. Gale, who returned a day earlier from a visit to the nuclear disaster site in the Ukraine, said the only motion he saw in the once-thriving plant town of Pripjat was laundry flapping in the breeze. Pripjat was abandoned by its 25,000 residents nearly six weeks ago. The evacuation did not take place until about 36 hours after the disaster began.

The explosion and fire at the Chernobyl nuclear power plant April 26 spewed a huge cloud of radiation that spread over Europe and eventually reached around the globe. Journalists asked Gale what the health consequences might be for European countries.

"It would be a mistake to try to come up with numbers concerning Western Europe or even the rest of the Soviet Union," he said. "The projections we can make are extremely imprecise. I would urge everyone to remain calm and not make alarming statements."

Gale added, however, that even low levels of radiation exposure eventually can eventually cause cancer, so the health of the evacuees will be followed. He said he and Dr. Andrei Vorobyev, a Soviet blood specialist who appeared at the news conference with him, had signed a preliminary agreement to that effect.

Vorobyev said the 18-mile evacuation zone was somewhat artificial because some areas within it are not contaminated and some outside have been found to have high levels of radiation. Official reports this week reported some "black spots" of contamination in southern Byelorussia, north of Chernobyl and outside the zone.

The American specialist, who has helped treat those most severely injured in the accident, noted that 1,000 to 2,000 people were screened for radiation exposure soon after the accident at the plant 80 miles north of Kiev.

"Most were judged not to be at risk, but 400 to 500 were admitted to hospitals," he said. "Some are being followed as outpatients."

Soviet officials told reporters Thursday that 26 people have died, including two killed at the scene.

The number of people hospitalized now has been reduced to about 200, Gale said. The others were found either to have only stress-induced nausea or had normal blood counts indicating no immediate harm.

Soviet officials have said 299 were hospitalized and those at the Thursday news conference put the number still confined at 187.

Gale and Vorobyev said no children were among the injured and only two residents of Pripjat are hospitalized. One rode his bicycle into a dangerous area and the other came into contact with contaminated soil, they said.

Official reports have said consistently that those hospitalized were plant workers, firemen who fought the reactor blaze and volunteer rescuers.

"Attention focused initially on 35 people, and later on 80 individuals in Moscow's Hospital No. 6, who got the highest doses" of radiation, Gale said. "Many individuals (from this group) have both thermal and radiation-induced injuries."

The number of seriously injured apparently included the 24 who died of radiation poisoning, which would leave 56 still hospitalized.

Gale said 13 bone marrow transplants and six injections of fetal liver cells were given to 19 critically injured patients, and five of with marrow transplants were still alive.

Doctors decided soon after the disaster that a 25 percent survival rate could be expected among the critically injured patients, he said.

Quake kills 1, injures 8

ANKARA, Turkey — A moderate earthquake jolted eastern Turkey on Friday, killing one person, injuring eight people and sending hundreds of residents rushing from their homes, authorities said.

Mehmet Capraz, deputy governor of Malatya province, told The Associated Press by telephone the quake brought down at least 100 houses that were slightly damaged by a quake in May.

Capraz said the quake destroyed a recently built primary school building in Malatya.

The quake, which measured 5.7 on the Richter scale, hit at 1:41 p.m. local time in Malatya, Sanliurfa, Diyarbakir, Elazig, Adiyaman and Kahramanmaraş provinces. A spokesman for the Kandilli Observatory in Istanbul said the epicenter was 495 miles east of Istanbul.

Group looks for peace

PANAMA CITY, Panama — Friday was the "sacred date" set by the Contadora group for signing a Central American peace treaty, and 13 foreign ministers gathered here with virtually no hope of getting it done.

"We cannot sign a treaty because there is no treaty," said Rodolfo Castillo Claramount, vice president and foreign minister of El Salvador.

"What we must do is establish a timetable, a schedule for working out the remaining differences — a month, two months, I don't know — and then set a firm date for signing."

Africans may have AIDS

GENEVA — Two million Africans may be infected with the AIDS virus, but most do not have the deadly disease's symptoms, according to a World Health Organization report obtained Friday.

At least 10,000 of the virus carriers may develop AIDS each year, the report said. There is no known cure for Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, in which the body's ability to fight disease breaks down.

The WHO report was based on studies conducted primarily in sub-Saharan Africa, said Dr. Fakhry Assaad, chief of the organization's communicable diseases division. The Associated Press obtained a copy today in advance of a June 28 meeting on AIDS here.

Conspirators pardoned

MONROVIA, Liberia — President Samuel Doe, under U.S. pressure to improve his human rights record, on Friday pardoned 34 people accused of conspiring to overthrow the government last year.

The Liberian Information Ministry said Doe granted "a complete and unconditional pardon to all persons implicated and detained in the aftermath of the failed coup of Nov. 12, 1985."

Broadcasting from his executive mansion, Doe told the West African nation of 2 million that the pardon was an "act of mercy" to show "that we harbor no evil intention against any of our citizens, including those who may wish us ill."

Oregon offers scenery to film industry

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — The movie camera focused on a nervous gaggle of wide-eyed boys, huddled around a campfire deep in a dark, damp Oregon forest.

The scene from "The Body," an adventure movie scheduled for release this summer, was being shot in Oregon partly because of the state's lush scenery. But the eerie forest was created by Hollywood in a dark, damp Eugene warehouse.

Summer rain had forced filming inside.

"A real weak link is nobody can predict weather in this state," production manager Steve Nicolaides joked.

Despite Oregon's frequently inclement weather, Hollywood spent more than $13 million on location in the state during 1984 and 1985, according to the state treasurer's office.

Meanwhile, Oregon's own film industry has grown and prospered. An estimated 75 companies are producing movies, commercials, videos and educational and industrial films for national and international distribution.

The state invested $10 million from its employee pension fund in Embassy Pictures, with the understanding that the Hollywood production company would make at least one movie in Oregon.

"We were lobbied very hard to come and film here," Nicolaides said. "One of the reasons we came here was the cooperation from government."

Even without "The Body," the pension fund would have benefited from the investment. When Columbia Pictures bought Embassy last year, the state realized a 15 percent return on its investment, said Julie Boeder, an aide to the state treasurer.

"There is a lot to offer in this state — varied beauty," Nicolaides said. "You can go from stunning forests to mountains to heart-of-the-country farmlands. It's unique because it hasn't been shot a lot."

Oregon also is attractive because of its proximity to California and the absence of a sales tax, which lowers production costs, according to Patricia Matzdorff, manager of the state film and video recruitment office.

Hollywood productions have brought temporary prosperity to several small towns in Oregon, but it usually has come with a price. After filming of "The Body" shut down Main Street in Brownsville, several merchants complained that they lost money because customers were denied access.

Local company tests military vehicle

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

From the parking lot of Big Spring Airpark, looking out on the expansive runway, visitors this week could spot a strange, eight-wheeled truck like a big Tonka Toy speeding back and forth with about the same regard for reason as a dune buggy on the beach.

From the way it moved — stopping, starting, turning around, going this way, that way — one might think the driver was either confused or asleep with his foot on the pedal.

In a far corner of the runway, two men watched the truck's odd progress closely.

One of the men was Ron Osborne, president of Custom Engineering, a Big Spring electronics firm. The object of his eye is the TAD (Trailing Arm Drive), a futuristic super truck being developed by Dallas-based Standard Manufacturing Company.

Osborne said Custom Engineering is contracted by Standard for the electronics on the truck. The Army, it is hoped, will be impressed with the TAD, which can be adapted for many purposes, most importantly as a mount for anti-aircraft guns.

If the Army decides to make the TAD part of its future then Standard, and possibly Custom Engineering, may find themselves in the pleasant situation of having more business than they can handle.

The TAD is being tested in Big Spring for lack of a good testing site in Dallas, Osborne said. The truck has been shipped here, but will only stay for three days. "We'd like to have six months," he said. "The next few days are really important."

Russell Gunn, an engineer for Custom Engineering, said the TAD's strength is its ability to move fast, up to 45 mph, over hellish terrain.

"I've seen them run over row after row of eight-inch telephone poles at 30 mph," he said. "The wheels don't bounce up and down like a regular truck's, but they pivot back on an arm (thus the name trailing arm). It's a much more natural movement, and it kind of just slithers over things."

"With eight-wheel drive, the TAD has tremendous power, which allows it to climb very steep hills. I was in it once and all I could see was blue sky," he said. "And with a low center of gravity, at 30 mph it can do a hard right turn. It can even turn into itself."

Gunn said the Army might go for the TAD because the realities of modern warfare dictate a change. "They're planning for a more mobile Army. In the old days it was big armies, now it's fast employment. With guerrilla warfare you have to catch people before they disappear. The Army needs something that is more mobile rather than more fortified. A tank is a sitting duck."

Gunn explained that the most significant difference between the TAD and a normal truck is the TAD is hydrostatically rather than mechanically driven.

"The TAD has hydrostatic motors on each side that are controlled by a central electronic control system, a computer," he said. "In a car, the steering wheel turns the wheel. In the TAD, the steering wheel tells the computer where to go. To steer, rather than turning the wheels, the computer speeds up one side and slows down the other."

The throttle, Gunn said, is activated by a foot pedal, but it, too, acts as a middleman between driver and computer. The pedal gives the computer directions, but the computer is always gauging what the engines can and cannot do.

"It is much more operator-friendly. It is impossible to kill the motor or strip the gears because it doesn't have any gears," he said.

Gunn said the suspension, or undercarriage, is the main selling point of the truck. "But the electronics is something it needs to work. It couldn't work with mechanical control," he said.

Osborne said Standard's TAD project is Custom Engineering's primary undertaking. Standard is taking the risk, paying for the expensive research and development, and banking that the Army will contract for the TAD.

Standard has already sold several TAD's to the Army at cost, and the Army was impressed with its performance. An article on the TAD in April's Car and Driver magazine reported, "The Ninth (Division) is quite pleased with this thing for a thick folder of reasons, not the least of which is the speed with which it has proven itself."

Osborne is hopeful but cautious as to what a major contract between Standard and the Army would mean for his company. "It's hard to say. It could be nothing, or it could be 50,000 (TADs), or it could be 200 for testing purposes."

Rick Racinkas, right, an engineer for Big Spring-based Custom Engineering, discusses the performance of a new prototype truck with engineer Dan Brown of Standard Manufacturing in Dallas. The truck, developed by the two companies for possible sale to the U.S. Army, was being tested this week at the Big Spring Airpark.

Mail recruiting tenants

Big Spring Mall is looking for tenants such as a bookstore, an ice cream shop, eating establishments, video rental, children's clothing and music, said leasing manager Alan Rubenstein. Rubenstein recently returned from the International Council of Shopping Centers convention in Las Vegas. He said he learned about many new franchise ideas that would do well in Big Spring. One of the most interesting, he said, was Recording Studios of America, a mini-recording studio, where for $9 anyone can have a cassette tape made of himself singing his favorite song. There are more than 100 songs to choose from, he said.

● Gariand Rudd, senior officer specialist, has been selected employee of the quarter at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp. Rudd works in the correctional services department, which is responsible for the custodial aspects of the prison, according to a news release. He also maintains all of the locking devices as the institution's locksmith.

He was also selected last month as the camp's correctional officer of the year, an award presented annually during National Correctional Officer Week to one officer in each of the Bureau of Prisons institutions nationwide.

● The Homestead Inn restaurant has a new owner, Helen Bateman, who took over Tuesday from hotel owner Bill Jasinski. Bateman is changing the restaurant's name to Helen's Coffee Shop.

The coffee shop will be open for breakfast and lunch, from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m., she said, with a buffet on Sunday. No major menu changes are planned.

"With the Lord we will prosper," she said. "He was a great part of us getting in here." Bateman previously worked for "Spoiled Rotten" children's store, she said.

Waitress Dorothy Bailey and cook Clyde Clark continue to work for the restaurant. They had worked under the previous owner for many years, Bateman said.

● Kirk Kirkham of Big Spring was elected president of the American Business Club, Ray Jones first vice president and Delbert Smith second vice president, Kirkham said.

The club recently gave $3,000 to the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. The money was raised primarily at the rattlesnake roundup in March, he said.

● Members of the Leadership Big Spring class, sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, graduated May 29, according to the chamber newsletter. The class received an extensive overview of city and county facilities in monthly sessions held since September, including transportation, communications, historical background, education, the medical community and industrial facilities.

Craig Brace served as 1985-86 program chairman. Graduates were Donna Blackwell, Jim Blackwell, Wayne Brannon, Robert Buckner, Sondra Burroughs, Donna Carey, Bob Coltrane, Keith Gibbons, Bill

Gresset, Terry Hansen, Ralph Kelley, Cecelia McKenzie, Robert McKenzie, Joyce Phillips, Pat Porter, Don Richardson, Don Riley, Tammy Stripling, Sandra Waggoner and Tim Yeats.

● The Colorado River Municipal Water District delivered 12.35 percent more water in May than a year ago, despite the cool, wet latter part of the month.

Total deliveries amounted to 1,977,616,342 gallons, exceeded only by May 1974 when 2.134 billion gallons were used, 35 percent of that used for oilfield purposes, according to a news release. This May, only 10 percent of total deliveries were for oilfield purposes.

Municipalities drew 1,791,906,300 gallons, up 13.53 percent, largely due to San Angelo drawing 223,475,600 gallons as compared with 26,766,500 in May 1985. Deliveries to oilfields for secondary recovery amounted to 185,710,042 gallons, up 2.06 percent over May last year.

Big Spring took 289,453,000 gallons, up 18.37 percent despite taking no water at all for two days when pumps at its filtration plant went out May 27-28. Snyder showed 106,858,000 gallons, up 5.17 percent. Midland dropped off to 396,355,000 gallons, down 2.91 percent; and Odessa took 464,347,700 gallons, down 4.43 percent.

Revenues of $1,171,841 for May were up 8.45 percent, oilfield users paying $35,000 more or 30.53 percent, and municipalities $1,022,661, up 5.9 percent.

● Construction will begin in mid-June on a highway department project to raise half a mile of Highway 350 at Sandy Creek and build new culverts there on top of the old ones, which are clogged with sand. The work will be performed by West Texas Roads Inc. of Big Spring through a $212,872.58 contract awarded by the highway commission.

Revenue to fund this project is available from increased motor fuel taxes and vehicle registration fees, approved by a special session of the legislature in 1984, according to the highway department.

● Fast draw artist Bob Dudley of Deming, N.M., will give shooting demonstrations and accept challenges at K mart June 20, as part of the Sesquicentennial edition of the Big Spring Rodeo. Dudley can draw, shoot and hit a target in 1/100 of a second, according to a K mart news release.

● There were 34 rigs actually making holes in District 6, West Texas, including Howard County, as of June 2, according to Hughes Tool Co. This compares to 35 rigs May 27, 43 rigs May 5, and 118 rigs June 3, 1985.

Drilling report

These are the latest oil and gas activity reports filed with the Texas Railroad Commission for the five-county crossroads country.

Flowing 46-gravity oil at the rate of 149 barrels per day on a 12 1/4 choke, the No. 2 Denton has been completed as a successful Howard County wildcat seven miles south of Big Spring.

Chapman Exploration Inc. is the operator. The well probed to total depth of 10,943 feet and will produce from a perforated interval in the Fusselman Formation, 10,022 to 10,030 feet into the hole.

Salt water production totaled 105 BWD.

The No. 5 Cole is scheduled for spudding in Howard County's portion of the Howard Glasscock Field 13 miles southeast of Big Spring. The venture carries permit for 4,400 feet of hole and will seek production in the Middle Clear Fork Formation. Samedan Oil of Midland will be the operator.

Samedan Oil of Midland is preparing to spud a Howard County wildcat about eight miles southeast of Big Spring. It will be known as the No. 1 Otis, carrying permit for 1,600 feet of hole. Location is in a 320-acre lease in the W&NW Survey.

The same operator has reported good production at a newly completed well in the Howard Glasscock Field 14 miles southeast of Big Spring. Designated as the No. 2 Cole, the well pumped 133 barrels of 28-gravity oil per day along with 41 barrels of salt water.

With bottomhole at 7,900 feet, the well was plugged back to 4,500 and will produce from sets of Middle Clear Fork perforations at 3,130 to 3,871 feet into the hole.

Four new producers have been completed in Howard County's Moore Field by Enduro Oil. The wells showed combined potential to pump 37 barrels of oil per day.

They are designated as the No. 1 H H Wilkinson "D," No. 2 Leaffer, No. 1 Guitar "A," and No. 2 H H Wilkinson "D."

The wells potentiated at 15, seven, six and nine barrels of oil daily. Water production ranged from eight to 21 BWD. Production intervals ranged from 3,140 to 3,226 feet, three and six miles northwest of Big Spring, respectively.

Two more developmental wells, both carrying permit for 3,000-ft maximum hole, are planned in the Moore Field, Howard County, by Enduro Oil of Houston.

The wells are designated as the No. 1 Snyder and the No. 4 Gilbert. The Snyder is in a 160-acre unit in the T&P Survey A 1348, while the Gilbert is in a 280-acre lease in the T&P Survey A 404.

Locations are five miles northwest and four miles west of Big Spring, respectively.

Partee Drilling has abandoned an undrilled location in the Howard/Glasscock Field, Howard County, about one mile east of Fordan. The well carried permit for 3,500-ft hole and was designated as the No. 1 Jordan.

First production figures have been filed for a newly completed well in the Howard/Glasscock Field 15 miles southeast of Big Spring. Mobil Oil is the operator.

Designated as the No. 44 Owen-Chalk, it pumped nine barrels of oil and 26 barrels of salt water daily. Oil tested at 21-gravity.

Mobil bottomed the hole at 2,500 feet and perforated for San Andres Formation production at 2,007 to 2,284 feet into the hole.

Spring With Tri-Texas Inc. as the operator, the well went to total depth of 3,385 feet. Production will be from a perforated interval in the San Andres Formation, 3,174 to 3,192 feet into the hole.

Partee Drilling Inc. has plugged and abandoned an unsuccessful developmental well in the Chaney Field, Howard County, eight miles northwest of Big Spring.

Designated as the No. 3 Adam, the well was spudded last Nov. 23 and was taken to a depth of 5,634 feet with no commercial shows. The Clear Fork Formation was perforated unsuccessfully.

An undrilled location in the Varel Field, Howard County, 10 miles northwest of Big Spring, has been abandoned by Russell and Love Inc. The well had carried authority for 3,400 feet of hole and was known as the No. 2 C Ray Russell.

Martin County's portion of the Spraberry Trend gained a new producer when the No. 4 Welch was completed by Tom Brown Inc. three miles northeast of Tarzan.

It pumped 54 barrels of oil and 66 barrels of water per day on an open choke. The oil tested at 39-gravity.

The operator took the well to total depth of 9,290 feet and perforated for production in the Spraberry, ranging from 8,040 to 9,157 feet into the wellbore.

A new shallower pool producing pool was discovered in an unnamed Martin County field when Hendon Exploration completed a wildcat known as the No. 1 Wheeler "2" two miles north of Stanton.

The well was drilled to total depth of 11,482 feet and will produce from Wolfcamp perforations 8,773 to 9,100 feet into the hole. It potentiated at 12 barrels of oil per day. Water production totaled 15 BWD.

The well was completed after a plugback to 10,300 feet.

Parker and Parsley Petroleum Inc. has completed a pair of new producers in the Spraberry Trend, Martin County. The wells are designated as the No. 1 "F" and No. 1 "G" Hyatt.

Locations are 11 and 12 miles northwest of Tarzan, respectively.

The wells potentiated at 33 and 31 barrels of 39-gravity crude per day, pumping on open choke. Water production totaled 98 and 97 BWD.

Bottomed at depths of 9,650 feet each, the wells will produce from Spraberry perforations ranging from 8,005 to 9,579 feet into the wellbore.

The No. 13 Mabec "C" has been brought on line in the Spraberry Trend by John L. Cox at a drillate eight miles southwest of Tarzan.

It showed ability to pump 32 barrels of oil with 24 barrels of water per day. Oil tested at 38-gravity.

Cox bottomed the well at a depth of 9,500 feet. Production will be from Spraberry perforations at 8,392 to 9,430 feet into the hole.

Showing ability to pump 61 barrels of 39-gravity oil daily, the No. 2 Texaco "7" has been brought on line in Glasscock County's portion of the Spraberry Trend. Location is 17 miles southwest of Garden City.

Hanley Petroleum Inc. is the operator. The well bottomed at a depth of 8,650 feet and will produce from Spraberry perforations at 6,910 to 8,487 feet into the wellbore.

Also in the Spraberry Trend, Glasscock County, Trout Equipment Inc. has finished the No. 2 Bigby, pumping 50 barrels of oil daily on open choke. Oil tested at 39-gravity. Water production came in at five BWD.

Trout took the hole to total depth of 6,500 feet and plugged back to 6,432. The well will produce from Clear Fork perforations at 6,136 to 6,332 feet.

Disposable phones cut costs

By DORALISA PILARTE
Associated Press Writer
MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Along with the bedpan and plastic water jug, some patients add the telephone to the souvenirs from their hospital stay. Now administrators are cutting costs by switching to disposable phones.

Unlike facial tissue, disposable or throw-away phones can be used more than just once and sell for about a sixth of the cost of a regular, higher-quality telephone.

Several companies, including Mini-Phone Inc. of Midland, Interline of Dallas and American Cointel Corp. of Boca Raton, Fla., sell the cheap, one-piece, made-in-Taiwan or Hong Kong telephones to hospitals around the nation in what is considered a new industry.

"The concept is so simple, but no one had thought about it before," said Gary Johnson, who started Mini-Phone Inc. in May 1985. "The telephone is the only thing left in the patient's room that is not disposable."

Like the other two companies, Mini-Phone sells its telephones for about $7-$8 apiece, depending on volume.

"Disposable phones evoke an immediate idea of something inflatable or made of cardboard, or even two tin cans connected by a piece of string," said Larry LeNeve, president of American Cointel, which started selling disposable phones to hospitals less than a year ago.

The phones must meet Federal Communications Commission regulations and be hearing-aid compatible. The phones include features such as dialing in either pulse or touch-tone and a ringer on-off switch for patients who need to be undisturbed.

Salesmen for the telephones claim that their disposability helps control the spread of contagious disease, although officials say low cost is the most attractive feature.

"I found I was paying $45-$60 for a standard phone and some leave with the patients," said Steve Logan, director of telecommunications at Jefferson Regional Medical Center in Pine Bluff, Ark. "Now, for $60, how many small phones can you buy?"

Logan said he's trying the concept in one wing of the hospital and has had no problems so far.

"First thing I did was pop one open, put it on my desk, throw it against the wall, stomp on it. Because that's what patients do," he said. "The disposable phones hold up just as well as the others."

American Telephone and Telegraph retails touch-tone Trimline phones for $59.95 and standard desk phones for $49.95, said Jane Young, a spokeswoman for ATT in Houston. Bulk sales of at least 25 telephones start at a 15 percent discount which increases with volume, she said.

Ms. Young said she was recently admitted to a hospital where the telephone was bolted to her bed railing.

"I've heard repeated reports of hospitals losing them," she said. "When the patient packs up the room, they pack up the phone right along."

Gary Johnson, president of Mini-Phone Inc. of Midland, tosses one of his phones in the air. Disposable or throw-away phones can be used more than once and sell for about a sixth the cost of a regular, higher quality telephone.

Although germs collect inside the mouthpiece, there is no documented evidence that diseases have been transmitted through the use of a contaminated telephone, said Dr. John Murphy of the Hospital Infections Program at the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

"There's the potential, though it's theoretical, through handling, or respiratory droplets, hand-to-mouth," said Murphy. "But you could culture everything in a hospital room and it would come out full of germs. It doesn't mean there's transmission."

Dr. Robert Haley, former director of HIP in Atlanta and now director of the Division of Epidemiology at the University of Texas in Dallas, agreed with Murphy.

Most hospital-acquired infections are urinary tract, surgical wound, blood and pneumonia, he said.

"So right away you can count away 90 percent of infections, which have nothing to do with telephones," said Haley. "You may catch a cold, but it's very, very unusual. The chance of getting an infection from (a telephone) is less than from a nurse changing a bandage."

Chuck Harris, national accounts manager for Interline, a division of U.S. West Information Systems, said the concept of disposable phones is new.

"There's no one out there that's been doing this for years or even a year. There's no leader in the field," he said, adding that the disposable phones are a very small percentage of Interline's business.

"I think it's going to be totally accepted over a period of time and companies will start jumping on the bandwagon."

'Distribution olympics' good strategy

By TOM PETERS

The most recent Olympic event was not in Los Angeles; it was in Dearborn, Mich., on May 13, 1986. As usual, the games did not begin until the torch was ignited. But the flame bearers were no ordinary athletes: parent company President Tom Monaghan, a rags-to-riches entrepreneur, and Anthony Scales, a double amputee who is "fast, does his job as a tray scarpier and dough maker extremely well," according to his boss. Another hint that this is no ordinary Olympics is the torch, which rested in a bowl shaped like a pizza.

So began the second annual Distribution Olympics held by Domino's Pizza Distribution Company.

Parent company Domino's Pizza, Inc., of Ann Arbor, Mich., is a home-delivery pizza operation that has staked its reputation on a 30-minute delivery promise. It just streaked by the 3,000-store mark in January.

Distribution, as its subsidiary is commonly called, is now a $315 million independent business unit that supplies things like dough, toppings, mechanical equipment and promotional items for the pizza franchises. Compound annual growth over the last eight years has been 75 percent. Employment has soared to well over 1,700 people at 27 commissaries across the U.S., Canada and West Germany. How does Domino's manage such extraordinary growth, especially with its unusually young work force, with an average age of 28? The Olympics, brainchild of

Peters on excellence

Distribution President Don Vleck, is part of the answer.

First, some background. Distribution must deal with several forces in apparent conflict. It has no guaranteed sales because by law, it cannot require franchisees to buy from its commissaries. Yet Distribution's "market share" is 95 percent, up from about 75 percent a few years ago. Distribution's worst fear — franchisee store closings — are required if and when a store runs out of any pizza ingredient. So speedy delivery is at a premium. However, quality is equally important, especially with new competitors on the rise — headed by a move to home delivery by PepsiCo's giant and well-managed Pizza Hut.

Distribution finds that the Olympics are helping it stay on its toes to keep pace with its almost doubling in size and its fast-moving competitors. How? For one thing, the Olympics provide a showcase for the skills that underpin Distribution's success. Management obsessively measures and regularly rewards good job performance and customer satisfaction — customers in this case are not hungry pizza eaters, but Domino's franchisees. But the games may be even more memorable than Distribution's monthly bonus compensation. Moreover, it helps maintain focus and small business-like cohesiveness in the face of incredible growing pains.

Competition for the May Olympics started last September. The first round took place in each of the commissaries. About 650 local winners proceeded to the three regional rounds at the beginning of this year, which spawned 78 regional winners.

Finally, the regional winners and their spouses moved on to Dearborn for the "national games," which covers 14 areas of competition. The "veggie slicing" contest emphasizes quantity and quality of vegetables, individual appearance and sanitation. "Traffic management" measures skills at routing and coordinating team members and their delivery vehicles. Other categories include "dough making and catching," "store delivery," "driving," "loading" and "maintenance."

Less predictable contests involve even the accountants, testing their speed and accuracy in bookkeeping and reporting as well as their interpersonal skills. For instance, in one contest, the accountant must handle a simulated phone call from a franchisee who is very late in paying his bill. Phone skills are also tested in contests among customer service reps and receptionists. Other contests rate team leadership.

The stakes in Dearborn were high. Sixteen winners in 14 main categories chose to take home top prize of either $4,000 each or a lavish vacation for two.

One particularly nice touch is the involvement of Distribution's franchisee customers, who comprise most of the judge panels. Most significant, the lead-up to the event has become a year-long process, not just a one-shot-a-year deal that is quickly forgotten. The first year's pizza athletes, especially the runners up, went home to their commissaries determined to "go for the gold" the next year, by working all year to become faster and better veggie slicers, drivers or whatever — in the hopes of making the trip to Dearborn.

The Olympics add up to a serious commitment by management, as evidenced by the $800,000 Distribution spends on the regional and final games — and that excludes unrecorded costs for local competitions. But the investment has an unmeasurable return — honed skills plus a powerful sense of camaraderie and overall excitement that propels inexperienced people during the year through a system brimming with great stress.

All businessmen can learn from the Distribution Olympics, especially those looking for ways to deal with fast growth that normally leads to de-personalization and a loss of focus. They represent an act of bold imagination, which uses fun and excitement to deal with very practical strategic business issues.

Incaviglia, Sierra belt Rangers to win

Texas Rangers Oddibe McDowell, left, holds up at third base as Seattle Mariners third baseman Jim Presley stops the throw from the deep center field wall during third inning American League play at Arlington Stadium Friday night. McDowell's triple followed Rangers Scott Fletcher's triple in the first inning.

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Rookies Pete Incaviglia and Ruben Sierra hit ninth-inning home runs to tie the score, and Oddibe McDowell drove in the winning run with a 10th-inning double to give the Texas Rangers a 6-5 victory over the Seattle Mariners Friday night.

The Rangers were trailing 5-3 in ninth when Incaviglia belted his 11th homer with one out, and Sierra tied it with two out when he hit his third homer in, only 16 major league at-bats.

Geno Petralli led off the Rangers 10th with a single. One out later, McDowell doubled into the right field corner to score Petralli and give reliever Mitch Williams his fourth victory without a loss.

Pete Ladd, 3-2, suffered the loss. He relieved Matt Young in the ninth after Young had given up the home run to Incaviglia.

Held hitless through the first 4 1/3 innings by Mike Mason, Seattle scored four runs in the fifth inning — two on Dave Henderson's home run — to erase a 3-0 Texas lead.

The Rangers scored a run in the first on Scott Fletcher's triple and Pete O'Brien's sacrifice fly. They made it 3-0 in the third on a double by Curtis Wilkerson, McDowell's triple and Fletcher's double.

With one out in the Seattle fifth, Danny Tartabull got Seattle's first hit on a looping liner to center. Henderson followed with his ninth home run, cutting the deficit to 3-2. Mason then walked Spike Owen, and Bob Kearney reached on Steve Buechele's fielding error at third. Ricky Wright replaced Mason, and Harold Reynolds greeted him with a single that scored Owen and tied the score 3-3.

John Moses beat out an infield dribbler to load the bases, and Alvin Davis walked to force in the go-ahead run.

The Mariners went ahead 5-3 in the seventh on singles by Kearney and Gorman Thomas sandwiched around a walk to Davis.

Cubs 9, Cardinals 3
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Chris Speier hit two home runs and Gary Matthews and Leon Durham also homered Friday night, powering the Chicago Cubs past the St. Louis Cardinals 9-3.

Speier hit a solo shot in the second inning and then added a three-run homer in the eighth. One batter after Speier's second homer, Shawn Dunston was hit by a pitch from reliever Greg Bargar and charged the mound as both benches emptied. Dunston was restrained by home plate umpire Gary Darling, who was working his second major-league game.

No punches were thrown in the incident and order was quickly restored before Dunston was ejected.

Jay Baller, 2-3, pitched 2 1/3 innings for the victory. Danny Cox, 1-5, took the loss.

Pirates 7-4, Mets 1-10
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Darryl Strawberry, Mookie Wilson and starting pitcher Rick Aguilera hit home runs and Roger McDowell pitched 3 2/3 innings of scoreless relief as the New York Mets beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 10-4 to gain a split of their Friday night doubleheader.

Rick Rhoden, the center of a bench-clearing brawl in the fifth inning, allowed four hits in 7 2/3 innings and rookie Barry Bonds homered as the Pirates won the opener 7-1.

Expos 10, Phillies 9
MONTREAL (AP) — Tim Wallach led off the 10th inning with a home run Friday night and the Montreal Expos broke a five-game losing streak with a 10-9 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Wallach hit the second pitch from Dave Rucker, 0-2, over the left-field fence for his ninth homer of the season.

Tim Burke, 3-1, pitched one inning to pick up the victory for the Expos, who overcame an early seven-run deficit.

The Expos, trailing 8-1, scored six runs in the third inning and knocked out Philadelphia starter Steve Carlton.

Mitch Webster and Andres Galarraga led off with consecutive home runs and Vance Law broke an 0-for-21 slump with an RBI double. Tim Raines capped the outburst with a three-run double.

Montreal tied it 9-9 in the seventh on Webster's two-run single off Don Carman.

Brazilians qualify first for Round 2

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Brazil, which has won three World Cups and came here as the favorite to be the first nation to capture four championships, moved into the second round with a 1-0 victory over Algeria Friday.

While the Brazilians, playing in front of thousands of their cheering, singing and dancing fans at Guadalajara, were the first qualifiers for Round 2, Canada fell to the brink of elimination with a 2-0 loss to Hungary in Irapuato.

Brazil, 2-0 in Group D, can finish no worse than second in the division. The top two teams in each group — plus the four third-place teams with the best records — will advance.

Canada, 0-2 in its first World Cup, must beat the Soviet Union, hope that France beats Hungary, and then hope again that its 1-2 record is one of the four best for the third-place squads. That's a longshot at best.

France and the Soviets each have three points and Hungary two in Group C.

In the other game Friday, Morocco held England to a 0-0 tie in Monterrey. Previously, the longshot Moroccans had drawn 0-0 with Poland, like England one of the European favorites here.

The tie meant England, which lost to Portugal 1-0 in its opener, almost certainly must beat Poland to have any chance of making the second round. Morocco, meanwhile, is in a stronger position to advance than anyone could have imagined prior to the tournament.

As this capital city braced for the possibility of even wilder partying in the streets prior to Mexico's second game of the month-long tournament — the hosts play Paraguay on Saturday — police promised tighter security and announced that only specific areas would be cleared for celebrating. But there was some question about how effective those measures would be if more than the estimated 100,000 people who partied on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning took to the streets — especially on a weekend and with good weather. Heavy rains did not interrupt the festivities earlier in the week, when 200 people were reported injured and 81 arrested.

Mexican tourism officials who were hoping the World Cup would increase their business demanded a halt to the street celebrations, claiming they spawn vandalism.

The directors of the national associations of hotel operators, restaurateurs and travel agents all condemned such vandalism as "besmirching" the celebration. The officials also expressed concern about Mexico's image if such acts continue.

On the soccer field, Brazil was hard-pressed to beat Algeria, which came out of a defensive shell early in the second half and nearly scored first. Salah Assad broke clear and his weak shot found Brazilian goalkeeper Carlos out of position. Defender Edinho had to boot it clear.

But then Careca took advantage of a costly pair of errors by the Algerian defense in the 67th minute. Mahmoud Guendouz and Assad both failed to clear a centering pass across the front of the goal. Careca swooped in to kick it home.

"It was no surprise for me how well Algeria played," Brazil Coach Tele Santana said. "They play soccer very much like Brazil. They are pleasing to the spectators, have a high level of technique and are dangerous against any adversary."

But Brazil held them off and now the pressure is off for a while — at least until the next round.

"We still want to win this group," Careca said. "But we have achieved the goal of qualifying for the next round."

Hungary, which lost 6-0 in its opener against the USSR — falling behind 2-0 in the first four minutes — turned things around by scoring two minutes into the game with Canada. Marton Esterhazy's 5-yard kick sneaked into the short side of the net past goalie Tino Lettieri.

Swede faces Lendl in men's final

Sweden's Mikael Pernfors celebrates after defeating Frenchman Henri Leconte in Friday's French Open semi-final. Pernfors will face Ivan Lendl in Sunday's final.

PARIS (AP) — Unseeded Mikael Pernfors of Sweden continued his amazing run through the French Open tennis championships Friday by upsetting eighth-seeded Henri Leconte to join top-seeded Ivan Lendl in the men's final.

Pernfors, playing on the red clay courts of Roland Garros for the first time, swept past his French opponent 2-6, 7-5, 7-6, 6-3 after Lendl thrashed American John Kriek 6-2, 6-1, 6-0.

The Swede, who had never won a Nabisco Grand Prix match in Europe before this two-week Grand Slam tournament began, honed his game in the United States, where he twice captured the NCAA singles title while a student at Georgia.

Now, he is Sweden's hope to continue its domination of the men's title, an incredible string that was started by Bjorn Borg in 1974. Swedes have won eight of the last 12 French Opens — six by Borg and, in 1982 and 1985, by Mats Wilander.

On Saturday, Americans Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert Lloyd will meet for the 69th time, this time for the women's singles crown where the winner will collect $154,400 and the runner-up will get $78,000.

Ranked 27th in the world when the year's first Grand Slam event began two weeks ago, Pernfors has a chance of duplicating the feat of West Germany's Boris Becker, who became the first unseeded player since seeding was introduced in 1927 to win the men's singles title at Wimbledon last year. Going into Wimbledon, Becker was ranked 20th in the world.

"I feel like I can't miss a tennis ball," Pernfors said after his latest upset. "I feel like whatever the opponent does, I can counter it."

Both Leconte and Pernfors said the first rain delay — a 2 1/4-hour interruption that came after the seventh game of the second set — was crucial.

"I was playing well" before the delay, Leconte said. "And he started playing better" after they returned to the court.

The two battled to 5-5 before Pernfors held to 6-5, then broke Leconte in the 12th game. He reached set point on a forehand cross-court passing shot with heavy topspin, then closing out the set on a backhand cross-court passing shot that Leconte volleyed into the net.

That tied the match at one set each. After they traded service breaks in the second and third games of the third set, giving the left-handed Frenchman a 2-1 lead, another heavy shower suspended play again.

"The third set was very difficult," Leconte said. "And in the fourth set I was very tired and had to stay back."

Pernfors broke Leconte's service in the ninth game, then was serving for the third set when Leconte broke back. They traded service breaks again in the 11th and 12th games, sending the set into a tiebreak, which the Swede captured 7-4.
