Mountain flood irks residents

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Homeowners on the south side of Highland Drive, angry about damage from water rushing down South Mountain during the May 24 storm, are fixing blame for the drenching on developer Chris Christopher.

About 10 owners made a case against Christopher to a sympathetic City Council Tuesday night.

Tom Decell, public works director, said at the meeting the city intends to exercise territorial jurisdiction over Christopher's mountain development, forcing it to be built to city specifications.

The homeowners' beef concerns a winding road cut into the mountain by Christopher to service the planned housing development. Residents contend it alters the natural, uniform flow of water off the mountain. The road, they say, channels water directly at many of the homes on Highland Drive.

"It knocked down a 10-foot retaining wall at the house next door, and I had a pool full of caliche and almost lost two retaining walls," said Randy Walls of 608 Highland Drive. The torrent of water, he said, "washed part of our yard out across the street."

"It filled my garage with water," said Sam Hunnicutt of 610 Highland. "The Charles Beits (510 Highland) are having to take all the carpet out and have it redone. It went through their house. It filled their swimming pool with caliche."

Christopher said Wednesday the volume of water produced by the storm would have wreaked havoc on some Highland homes whether his road was there or not. He conceded that some homes were inundated with more water than usual because of the road, but said in some cases, the road actually diverted water from homes, specifically those of Hunnicutt and Walls.

"He would have had water washed into his pool (because of the storm)," he said. And as for the caliche, he said: "There was not a great amount of it anywhere."

Christopher said soil was washed away all over the county, even in

Reagan: Arms agreement possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, reaffirming his hopes for a summit meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, disclosed a new Soviet offer to reduce nuclear weapons and said there is time to avert a stepped-up arms race.

Without disclosing details of the proposal, which was presented to U.S. negotiators in Geneva, Reagan told a news conference Wednesday night that even if he scraps the SALT II treaty toward the end of the year, "We're not seeking to achieve superiority" over the Soviets.

However, he again condemned the 1979 accord, the last major U.S.-Soviet arms control agreement, as "really nothing but the legitimizing of the arms race" and said, "It didn't do anything to reduce nuclear weapons or the nuclear threat."

A decision taken by Reagan last month sets the stage for the United States to exceed a key treaty provision with B-52 bombers equipped with cruise missiles in November or December. Several U.S. allies in Europe and American supporters of arms control in Congress have expressed concern the decision could touch off a new round of weapons competition.

But Reagan told reporters that in "these several months before that moment comes up" the Soviets have time to replace SALT II "with a realistic program of arms reduction."

He said the Soviets had been violating the restraints of the treaty since it was signed. If "nothing is done" in the months ahead, he said, "we'll make the decision with regard to that plane."

However, in testifying Wednesday before a House subcommittee, presidential adviser Paul Nitze said he expects the United States to retire another Poseidon nuclear submarine later this year rather than go through the expense of recharging the vessel's reactor.

That could keep the United States within treaty limits for several months even if the Air Force continues to add B-52s with cruise missiles. Nitze stressed, however, Reagan had not taken a decision on the submarine.

Two other Poseidons are scheduled to be scrapped under Reagan's orders this summer. He said again Wednesday night his decision was due to the cost and the aging submarines' lack of military value — not because of the SALT II treaty.

"We are still playing catch-up," he said in condemning the accord as a vehicle for an accelerating Soviet buildup.

Senate defeats IRA amendments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Landmark tax overhaul legislation has cleared a major hurdle in the Senate with sponsors of the measure turning aside a series of amendments aimed at restoring tax-deductible Individual Retirement Accounts for all workers.

"Clearly, we're not going to have any major change in the outline of the bill," said Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., the Senate Finance Committee chairman.

Meanwhile, President Reagan continued to lead the cheering for the bill as he opened a nationally broadcast news conference Wednesday night saying the measure before the Senate was "one of the best poverty programs, one of the best job-creation programs and one of the best pro-family bills this country has ever seen, all rolled into one."

The administration supports the measure approved by the Senate Finance Committee, including its proposal to eliminate full IRA deductions for many Americans.

Across the Capitol, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said today that the IRA deduction has primarily benefited only upper income people.

"It's a mighty loophole for the wealthy of America, there's no question about it," O'Neill said.

O'Neill suggested that some change in the tax rules should be made to encourage lower income taxpayers to make IRA contributions.

With the fight on IRAs out of the way, the Senate moved on today to other amendments, including a move by Sen. Charles E. Grassley, R-Iowa, to deny foreign tax credits to U.S. companies doing business in countries that support international terrorism. It was aimed primarily at Libya.

Also among the pending amendments was one by Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., that would remove tax-exempt status from organizations that perform or finance abortions.

The president told Republican congressional leaders earlier this week that while he is opposed to abortions, he also is opposed to attaching the amendment to the tax bill.

Asked if he conceded it would be an uphill battle to gain approval of the amendment on this bill, Humphrey said, "I don't need to concede it, it's obvious." He added that he may not formally offer the amendment until next week.

Senate leaders have said the remaining amendments to the tax bill likely have less chance of passage than those on Individual Retirement Accounts.

Packwood and Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., are trying to fend off all major amendments to the bill. They had warned their colleagues that the delicate package could fall apart if there were any successful efforts to retain the deduction for IRA contributions.

Instead, supporters of the bill threw their support behind a non-binding resolution that expressed a desire for tax-deductible IRAs to be allowed for as many workers as possible. Although it was approved 96-4, there is no assurance it will be carried out.

Court rules daughter can share in estate

Staff and wire reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — A legal principle that was a remnant of the Middle Ages barred a Big Spring woman from her father's estate because she was born out of wedlock, according to her attorney.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled unanimously Wednesday that Delynda Ann Reed of Big Spring could share in the estate of her natural father, Prince Ricker, overturning the Texas court rulings that excluded her. The courts had allowed five of Ricker's children to divide the estate among themselves.

"I don't see how she would not be entitled," said Stephen McNally, an Austin lawyer.

McNally said during medieval years estates were passed on to the oldest son to the exclusion of older daughters.

"But the only kink was children born out of wedlock," McNally said.

To keep property from going outside the family, a rule was created in that time period to exclude illegitimate children from sharing in the inheritance, he said.

"It was a good rule then, but it doesn't apply to the suburbs," McNally said.

Ms. Reed was born Nov. 1, 1968. Her mother had "married" Ricker in a Juarez, Mexico, ceremony a year before and they lived together in Big Spring. But Ricker was married to another woman at the time of the Mexican marriage ceremony.

Ricker died in 1976 without leaving a will. At the time of his death Texas law prohibited an illegitimate child from inheriting from its father unless the parents subsequently had married.

The Supreme Court in 1977 ruled that such laws unconstitutionally discriminate against illegitimate children. That decision was announced four months after

Elderly man kills family

LANSING, Mich. — An elderly man who mistakenly believed it was Father's Day tape-recorded a litany of loneliness before killing two family members and wounding four others in a shooting spree, a prosecutor says. Melville Henwood, who remained hospitalized in serious condition early today from a self-inflicted stomach wound, apparently made the tape around midnight Saturday, the day before he allegedly began shooting at a family dinner, Eaton County Prosecutor G. Michael Hocking said Wednesday.

"He's talking about how depressed he is and he's lonely and he's a 78-year-old man and his wife hasn't been with him," Hocking said. "He made the statement, 'And here it is, Father's Day.'"

Baby Calvin on list first

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The family of a baby with a fatal heart disease whose name was ahead of Baby Jesse's on a nationwide organ-recipient list is agonizing that their decision to stay anonymous may have been wrong, officials say.

The infant at Kosair Children's Hospital, known simply as Baby Calvin, suffers from the same disease that afflicted Baby Jesse, said Dr. Constantine Mavroudis, the surgeon who will perform any transplant.

Both were born with hypoplastic left heart syndrome, a congenital defect that does not allow the left side of the heart — the main pumping chamber — to develop properly.

Navy gets new orders

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration, still wary of Libyan-sponsored terrorism, has given the Navy new orders to keep two aircraft carriers in the Mediterranean indefinitely, Pentagon sources said.

In the meantime, the United States has asked Egypt to allow the nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise to pass through the Suez Canal from the Mediterranean into the Indian Ocean, added the sources, who agreed to discuss the matter only if not identified.

NASA engineer dies

TRINITY, Ala. — Authorities say there is nothing to indicate that the apparent suicide of a NASA engineer was due to his job, which included work related to the shuttle Challenger.

Chief sheriff's Deputy Richard Turner said Mike Clemons, 46, died of a self-inflicted shotgun wound to the head in the bedroom of his Trinity home on Monday afternoon.

He said the death was ruled an apparent suicide.

"There was a note left," Turner said. "We have not divulged what was in it, except there was no mention of his job. ... We have nothing to indicate his job had anything to do with it."

Demonstrators burn a British flag in Tripoli Wednesday during nationwide festivities to commemorate the anniversary of the expulsion of U.S. forces from Wheelus Air Force Base near Tripoli 16 years ago. Col. Moammar Gadhafi said in broadcast speech that further U.S. attacks on Libya could force his country fully into the Soviet camp.

Socialist system

Gadhafi: Libya could be forced into camp

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Col. Moammar Gadhafi says further U.S. attacks on Libya could force his country fully into the Soviet camp.

"We are seriously considering alliance with the Soviet Union and the socialist system so that balance is achieved," Gadhafi said in a speech broadcast late Wednesday to mark the ouster of U.S. forces 16 years ago.

"We adhered to neutrality, but we found that it is useless," said Gadhafi, whose country already has strong economic ties with the Soviets and receives most of its military hardware from the Soviet Union.

The government staged nationwide festivities Wednesday commemorating the anniversary of the expulsion of U.S. forces from Wheelus Air Force Base near Tripoli, known here as "the great Libyan victory over imperialism."

The speech, in which Gadhafi urged each Libyan to contribute $800 to buy arms for a possible war with the United States, came amid persisting reports of dissension within the regime that took power in 1969.

While the official JANA news agency hailed "popular enthusiasm" in celebrating the occasion, only 2,000 spectators turned out on Tripoli's main Green Square to stand for 2½ hours listening to Gadhafi's voice by loudspeaker.

He warned of an allegedly imminent U.S. invasion by American "imperialists," backed by "the Jews in Palestine."

At the same time, Western and non-aligned diplomats reported increasing signs of differences between Gadhafi and other members of his ruling Revolutionary Command Council in the wake of April 15 air attack by U.S. warplanes.

State-run television said Gadhafi's speech was broadcast live from an unidentified location. But discrepancies between the sound and image suggested the speech was taped earlier, leaving Gadhafi's whereabouts in doubt.

About 80 Western reporters, photographers and television representatives invited to Libya for what was billed as "a historic speech" never caught a glimpse of Gadhafi.

Several diplomats said they had growing evidence of moves within the leadership to persuade Gadhafi to step aside voluntarily, at least temporarily, to allow them to tackle Libya's grave economic problems.

The twin threat of American economic sanctions and the collapse of world oil prices caused Libya's oil income — virtually its only source of revenue — to plunge to less than $5 billion a year from $22 billion six years ago.

Daily bread lines testify to widespread food shortages in a country long among the richest in Africa. Gadhafi in the late 1970s was reported to have voluntarily abandoned the leadership during a time of dissension and spent more than a year in seclusion in the Libyan Sahara.

Country in emergency

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The white-led government today declared a nationwide state of emergency, detaining hundreds of anti-apartheid activists ahead of Monday's 10th anniversary of the riots in the black Soweto township.

Foreign Affairs Ministry spokeswoman Ronelle Henning said the emergency had taken effect at one minute past midnight (6 p.m. EDT Wednesday) and covered the entire country.

Marcos makes prediction

MANILA, Philippines — President Corazon Aquino today viewed a festive Independence Day parade with tens of thousands of other Filipinos, but Ferdinand E. Marcos predicted from exile that she will be replaced by communists.

In a type of procession never before seen in this capital of 8 million, Cabinet ministers marched along with subordinate government employees while Mrs. Aquino waved from a grandstand at downtown Rizal Park.

It was the first Independence Day that Filipinos have celebrated in two decades without the presence of Marcos, who ruled until he was overthrown in a civilian-backed military revolt in February and fled into exile in Hawaii.

West Germans released

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Eight West Germans released after nearly a month of captivity by U.S.-backed rebels were brought here Wednesday and immediately hospitalized for observation. Most suffered stomach upsets and one required immediate treatment for hepatitis.

The four men and four women spent their time since May 17, when they were captured by Nicaraguan Democratic Force rebels, in the jungles of eastern Nicaragua.

They were set free Tuesday night in the hamlet of Presillitas, 140 miles east of Managua, half an hour after a deadline set by the government to take military action had passed.

Duarte rejects capital

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — President Jose Napoleon Duarte rejected a leftist rebel proposal that a third round of peace talks be held in the capital, saying Wednesday he would seek another place for the meetings.

"It will not be in the capital," Duarte curtly replied when reporters asked him if he would accept a proposal by the leftist coalition of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front and the Democratic Revolutionary Front.

The president said he planned to work out a meeting place in discussions Saturday with two Roman Catholic prelates — Archbishop Arturo Rivera y Damas and the deputy archbishop, Gregorio Rosa Chavez — who have been acting as go-betweens in arranging the talks.

State

Crowding settlement rejected

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Corrections has turned down a proposed agreement on prison overcrowding, clearing the way for a June 23 hearing to determine if the state is violating federal court orders.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Gib Lewis responded to the board action Wednesday by appointing a subcommittee to work with the prison officials.

At the same session Wednesday, the board was told a new financing plan to provide a high security unit that would house 2,250 inmates should be ready in a few days.

Hobby said TDC chairman Al Hughes and Attorney General Jim Mattox had promised their cooperation with the legislators.

After a two-hour executive session, the TDC board voted 4-4 on a motion that would have approved the proposed agreement to the contempt action in which prisoners claim the state is not following court orders against overcrowding. The tie vote killed the motion.

Taypayers to pay for repairs

SAN ANTONIO — Taxpayers will have to pay for about $2.7 million in repairs from damage caused to streets, river channels, bridges and buildings during last week's flooding, officials said.

Public Works Director Frank Kiolbassa, in a report on damage sustained by city facilities, said the cost to the city alone would be about $2.5 million.

Damage to county roads and buildings has been pegged at $230,000, officials said.

The estimate does not include damage to private property.

The city has let an emergency contract worth $300,000 to shore up the walls of the River Walk in one section where officials fear the walls may collapse.

Assistant City Manager Alex Briseno said the "bulk" of the flood damages likely would be covered by existing money in the city operating budget and the capital reserve fund.

"What that means is the normal work program will be delayed," Briseno said. "So, citizens can expect the grass in the parks will be cut less frequently and less critical potholes will wait for repair over the next few months."

Ex-radio exec gets life sentence

BRYAN — David Barnett of Bryan, a former disc jockey and radio station executive, was formally sentenced to life in prison Wednesday in the Dec. 16 slaying of his wife.

A district court jury recommended the sentence on Monday after finding Barnett guilty of the murder in the fatal shooting of his 28-year-old wife, Neva.

State District Judge Carolyn Ruffino delayed formal sentencing until Wednesday so Barnett, 42, could discuss the possibility of an appeal with his attorneys.

After the sentencing, Barnett gave notice of appeal. At the same time, defense attorneys Robert Orozco and John Quinn asked that other counsel be appointed to handle the case.

Quinn said he and Orozco asked to withdraw from the case to avoid a conflict should Barnett decide to argue that he received ineffective representation at trial. Quinn said the court's alleged failure to comply with pretrial motions filed by the defense may also form a basis for appeal.

Settlement reached on land

SAN ANTONIO — A Philippine official said his government has ended efforts to seize $51 million in Texas land after a Filipino businessman who fronted corporations for deposed Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos agreed to pay about $12 million.

Bonifacio Gillego, executive director of the Filipino Commission on Good Government in New York, said Wednesday the land is in the San Antonio, Corpus Christi and Fort Worth areas.

The alleged Filipino frontman, Jose Yao Campos, met with Philippine government officials to work out the settlement at his estate in Vancouver, British Columbia, The San Antonio Express-News said Wednesday. The Philippine government had filed suit recently in federal court in Houston seeking to seize the land for the Filipino people.

Under the settlement, Campos would retain title to the Bexar County (San Antonio) land, worth about $2 million; the Nueces County, (Corpus Christi) property valued at about $19 million; and Tarrant County (Fort Worth) holdings valued at $30 million, the Express-News said.

Gillego said the first installment of $3 million on the $12 million settlement was delivered last week by a member of his commission to Philippine President Corazon Aquino.

Photographer shows tattoos as art

CHICAGO (AP) — Since boyhood, photographer Jeff Crisman has been fascinated by tattoos, and uses his camera to capture striking images of the people and designs that are walking works of art.

"I just remember seeing, when I was about 12, this guy who had these huge cobweb tattoos on the elbows," said Crisman, 33, a teaching associate in the photography department at the University of Illinois' Chicago campus.

"People are either attracted to tattoos or repelled by them," he said.

"What's appealing to me is that it's sort of visceral. I like the fact that they affect people really deeply," said Crisman, who has 20 of his pictures of tattooed people on display in a city gallery.

There's a picture of a man with a tattoo on the inside of his upper lip, another whose entire body is covered with intricate designs.

One photograph shows a man posed nude in front of a mirror; his tattoos trace the shape of a suit that ends at his wrists, ankles and neck.

Still another depicts a tattooist, his fingers and fingernails covered with stars and other shapes, tattooing eyeliner on a woman's eyelids.

Over the past five years, Crisman has photographed dozens of tattooed bodies in the United States and Canada.

"One thing I found out doing this is that tattoos have no economic or sociological barriers," he said. Everyone has them, from a prosperous investor to "people who don't know where their next meal is coming from."

Photographer Jeff Crisman stands next to a print from his show on tattooing at a gallery in Chicago. Crisman turned his childhood fascination with tattoos into a five-year photo study culminating in the photo show.

"There are kids who put them on with a straight pin and a bottle of India ink, and guys who get paid $200 and are flown all over the world" to decorate other people's bodies with tattoos.

Crisman said he also found that nowadays people are "generally more open" to tattoos than in the past, when the stereotype was that only sailors, bikers and criminals get tattoos.

Tattoos are "a way of identifying yourself," defining your identity in a symbolic design, said Crisman, who has small tattoos of an arrow and a bear on his left foot.

Both were taken from Navajo Indian designs and signify luck and perseverance, he said.

Crisman plans a book of tattoo photographs from his travels and hopes to obtain a grant to travel to Borneo to photograph tattooing among primitive tribes. Crisman says the man tattooed head to foot is a retired university professor. He "is probably the most tattooed man I've ever seen. He's taken it about as far as it can go."

The man chooses to remain anonymous, Crisman said, "even though he's not particularly anonymous in his lifestyle."

Bryan Welch

He won the award in March at the Permian Basin Regional Science Fair in Odessa with his project on aerodynamics. Bryan was accompanied to the awards ceremony by his parents,

The awards day itinerary included a visit and picture session with speaker astronaut Dr. Story Musgrave, and tours of the Space Shuttle Orbiter Trainer, Skylab Mock-up, Mission Control room and the Weightless Environment Training facility.

About 30 secondary students from six states were presented NASA awards, said Mrs. Welch. Bryan was the only elementary award winner, she said.

Mother's nursing home is an unlikely hotbed of thieves

DEAR ABBY: My mother is in a nursing home in another state. She is in a wheelchair and requires constant care. She is lucid only part of the time. I am all she has.

My reason for writing: No matter what I send her, it is "lost" — or to be frank, it's stolen — within a week or two. I have been told by the staff that theft is rampant in the best of nursing homes, and they cannot control it. I was shocked when Mother's wedding ring and watch were "lost" the day after she arrived.

Before Mother's Day I was completely frustrated. I am accustomed to sending her lovely nightgowns, robes and slippers, but have been advised to send nothing of value. I want to send her a cassette player. It would be a comfort to her and I could select some "old favorites" on tape for her listening pleasure, but the people in charge have told me not to send it because it would vanish "overnight," and they cannot be responsible for it.

Mother likes the home and has become very attached to some of the staff, but this problem of thievery is one that has us stumped. Have you any practical suggestions? Other nursing homes in the area have acknowledged the same problem.

HELPLESS

DEAR HELPLESS: To accept repeated thievery as "something that cannot be controlled" is outrageous! Of course it can be controlled. Contact the local police and city attorney's office. They are experts at sniffing out thieves. Also notify the city, county and state licensing agencies — all of whose regulations are being violated by the management's unwillingness or inability to handle this problem. Nursing homes have a responsibility to those they serve. And you should not have to forgo the pleasure of giving your mother a cassette player for Mother's Day because the management accepts thievery as an uncontrollable fact of life.

DEAR ABBY: I don't see babies and children as people who are particularly pleasant to be around. And I don't see motherhood as a particularly happy experience.

I am not a mother, nor am I pregnant; I am a very happily married 32-year-old woman. I see parenthood as the end of my own happiness, partly due to my own family experiences, and partly due to the fact that 95 percent of the mothers I know complain about the problems of motherhood.

Why did they bother to have children anyway? And perhaps, more to the point, can you give me some good reasons to have children?

PUZZLED OUT EAST

DEAR PUZZLED: I could fill this column with good reasons to have children, but if you can't think of at least one on your own, perhaps you shouldn't have any. Make no apologies; it's a wise woman who knows her limitations. Motherhood is not for everybody.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widower who has been out of the dating game for nearly 40 years, so I could use a little guidance.

What is an appropriate gift to present to a widow in announcing our engagement? She said that there only one acceptable engagement gift, and that is a diamond ring.

She already has a lovely diamond ring from her first husband. Is she expected never to wear that ring again?

I have a fine diamond in my possession — the one I gave my first wife when we became engaged. I had planned to give it to my grandson to present to his fiancée. Please guide me.

PLANNING TO WED AGAIN

DEAR PLANNING: Nowhere is it written that a diamond ring is the only acceptable engagement gift. Give nothing unless you give it with all your heart.

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38823, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.)

Heart murmur not usually fateful

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My 14-year-old son had his school physical. The doctor discovered a heart murmur. Is this serious or will it go away? I am a concerned grandmother. — A.C.R.

We just have to find a way to come to grips with this phrase, "heart murmur."

How does a doctor tell the difference between a harmless murmur and a serious one? He can tell, first of all, by seeing if there are signs of real heart trouble. Is the heart enlarged? Is the chest X-ray normal or abnormal? What does the ECG show?

Now, many times a doctor can tell, after having listened to murmurs by the hundreds over his career, whether a particular murmur is or is not serious without resorting to all these tests. Most murmurs of childhood tend to be harmless quirks. Sometimes they are transient, innocent irregularities of a normal heart.

But here's a murmur that's keeping you awake at night worrying. I have to presume that the doctor would have something more to say about this boy's murmur, especially if he thought it represented some serious disturbance in a heart valve. The parents would most likely have been informed and advised to investigate further.

But, in any mass screening program, like school physicals, this might be too sanguine an assumption. The task of the examining physician often is to merely assess each child's status as it might relate to athletic competition, for example. It can become impersonal. It's too bad, for this often leads to great distress for many people like yourself.

Dr. Donohue

I want to make a suggestion to most of my colleagues that will seem ludicrously unnecessary; and that is not to let the matter of heart murmur notation stop there without adding a further word about what it means to the patient, if anything. If we all made this clear we might save much anxiety and substantially cut into the volume of heart murmur letters I get each week.

Here's another one:
DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is a systolic murmur? Is it serious? — D.T.

The heart beats in two phases. The systolic phase is where the heart muscle is contracting to pump blood out to the body. The diastolic phase occurs as the heart muscle relaxes and refills with blood for the next systole. Systolic murmurs are ones the doctor hears during the pumping phase. Diastolic murmurs occur during the refilling phase.

Systolic murmurs may or may not be serious; diastolic are almost always serious. You ask me (another part of your letter) about high blood pressure, which I've been talking about too much of late. You will find your concerns discussed in the booklet, "Blood Pressure and Your Health," which I'm sending on. Other readers can order by writing me and enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.25.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My doctor has put me on iron pill supplements. I am 74 and anemic. I cannot abide the pills he gave me. I get sick to my stomach, and later I get diarrhea. Is this part of what you have to put up with iron pills? — Mrs. E.N.

It's what some people experience, but it's not something I want you to have to put up with another day. I want you, first of all, to call the doctor and get some dosage advice. Many times, abdominal symptoms from iron can be avoided by how you go about taking it.

Usually, the person starts out with small doses limited to mealtimes. Some start with a single tablet a day, then build up gradually to the needed amount to correct the iron deficiency.

If you do that and still get sick, you can ask for one of the children's iron elixirs. That may take a little longer to build up a good iron supply in your body, but it won't be quite so traumatic.

Do you often have a "stomach ache"? If so, your stomach may not be the real trouble spot. The booklet, "Stomach and Other Abdominal Pains: A Checklist," tells you why. For a copy, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.00. Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Seven-alarm warning signs of arthritis

ATLANTA (AP) — Arthritis has a seven-alarm warning system that can alert people to seek medical attention early, says the Arthritis Foundation.

The warning signs include:

- Swelling in one or more joints.
- Early morning stiffness.
- Recurring pain or tenderness in any joint.
- Inability to move a joint normally.

- Obvious redness and warmth in a joint.
- Unexplained weight loss, fever or weakness combined with joint pain.
- Symptoms like these persisting for more than two weeks.

The foundation urges people to be aware of the warning signals, noting that, "Early diagnosis and treatment is the key to successfully controlling arthritis."

Women and alcohol

NEW YORK (AP) — About three-fourths of American women drink alcoholic beverages, according to the respondents to a Better Homes and Gardens survey.

The respondents, all women, drink wine (63.6 percent) and beer (51.5 percent) most frequently. Of the married respondents, 78.2 percent said their husbands also drink alcoholic beverages.

Almost half of the respondents indicates they bought cordials and liqueurs, and most of those mixed the alcohol with soda or coffee.
