Electric money

Where does the money come from that Texas Electric pays people to put in energyefficient air conditioners?

A. The funds are considered an operating cost by the Public Utilities Commission and so are included in customers' bills, said George Hendrick, manager of public communiciation at Texas Electric's Fort Worth office. The practice is part of the Energy Action program designed to conserve energy and delay construction of expensive power plants, he said.

Heir foresees a year's wait

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

It will probably be another year before Delynda Ann Reed of Big Spring claims her share of her father's estate, she said, because the case must "go through a lot of legal channels.

The Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that Reed could share in the estate of her natural father, Prince Ricker, even though she was born out of wedlock, overturning the Texas court rulings that excluded her. The courts had allowed five of Ricker's children to divide the estate among themselves.

"It was long and drawn out," Reed said. "We didn't have any idea it would take as long as it did." She said the first suit was filed around 1979

Reed said the amount she will inherit has not yet been determined, but "it will be a pretty good sum." An audit has yet to be performed determining the amount she is entitled to, she said.

She doesn't have any hard feelings towards the other five of Ricker's children and wouldn't have had them if she had lost the

"If we hadn't gone through all this I probably wouldn't have ever met them," she said. "It's kind of neat after all these years. Even under the worst of circumstances it still means a lot.'

Reed said she was raised as an only child by her mother and stepfather. She knew she had halfbrothers and half-sisters, but had never met them, she said.

The case was hard on her mother, she said, because it didn't shed a good light on her. Her mother had "married" Ricker in a Juarez, Mexico, ceremony a year before Reed's birth, and they lived together in Big Spring. But Ricker was married to another woman at the time of the Mexican marriage ceremony Ricker died in 1978 without leaving a will. At the time of his death Texas law prohibited an illegitimate child from inheriting from its father unless the parents had subsequently married.

The Supreme Court in 1977 ruled that such laws unconstitutionally discriminate against illegitimate children. That decision was announced four months after

Mississippi Guard to airlift Goddess

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas officials CH-47 to make fine adjustments will be rooting for Mississippians Saturday when the out-of-staters try their hand at putting the new and improved Goddess of Liberty statue atop the Texas Capitol.

Texas National Guardsmen failed to get the job done in 25 attempts two weeks ago. Now it's the Mississippi Guard's turn.

The visitors were called in because they have a CH-54A 'Skycrane' helicopter that officials say should be perfect for the tricky job of lowering the 16-foot, 3,000-pound statue onto its 300-foot perch. The Texans used a Chinook CH-47 to take the old statue off the

That was easy. But the Chinook could not get the job done when it was time to put the replacement statue in place.

Unlike the CH-47, the "Skycrane" has a line that can be raised and lowered. The Texans had to delicately maneuver the when they tried to put the new statue up. Gusty winds foiled the attempts.

'It's been fun, but let's get on to other things," Capitol architect Roy Graham said Friday.

The airlift is set for 9 a.m. Saturday, weather permitting. Graham said the Mississippi crew planned a Friday practice hover at the Capitol, without the statue.

The old statue, which topped the Capitol for 97 years, was taken down last November when it was deemed a safety hazard because of weather-inflicted damage. The old statue was made of zinc. The new one is aluminum.

Bringing in non-Texans to do the job is fine with state leaders, including Gov. Mark White.

Committee to vote on UTPB closing

AUSTIN (AP) — The Select Committee on Higher Education said Friday it will make a decision on the proposed closing of four state universities on July 11.

A hearing was scheduled on July 10, committee members said.

"I think we should resolve our own views on that day," Larry Temple, committee chairman, said Friday about the July vote.

The proposed closings would target Sul Ross State University, Texas A&M at Galveston, University of Texas at Permian Basin, and East Texas State University.

Officials and supporters of UT Permian Basin appeared before the committee Friday morning, urging their institution be Temple stressed that the committee had not drawn up any list of proposed closings, or mergers, but was merely taking "a thorough, factual look" at institutions brought up by the Legislature, the media and "general public

The four institutions, along with a long list of possible mergers, were named in a June 2 letter. It asked involved officials to furnish written statements and data concerning any possible closure, merger or change of governance.

These will be considered at the July 11 meeting, in addition to oral arguments on July 10.

Victor Arnold, executive director of the committee, said the staff recommendations would be based on five criteria: Periods of significant enrollment decline.

 Declining student support indicating deteriorating quality academic offerings and services, and physical plant.

 Existence of duplicative college programs in close geographic

The recommendations of the committee will be in its report to the 1987 Legislature.

"I think members of this committee should come to the July meeting prepared to make a decision one way or another on these four institutions," said Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, a committee member.

'King of Swing' Benny Goodman dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny Goodman, the "King of Swing" of the big-band era who went on to become a virtuoso of classical clarinet, died Friday in his Manhattan apartment. He was 77.

Police Sgt. Raymond Severin said Goodman had been taking a nap on a guest room couch and apparently died in his sleep of cardiac arrest. He was found by Anna Lekander, who had worked as his housekeeper for seven years.

An ambulance rushed to the Upper East Side apartment, but Goodman was pronounced dead at the scene and the body was being taken to Metropolitan Funeral Home in Stamford, Conn., Severin said.

Lloyd Rauch, Goodman's personal assistant, said he had appeared to be in good health in the morning.

'Even men who performed in his marvelous orchestra for a good many years have said that they never really got to know him personally," said Steve Allen, who portrayed the musician in "The Benny Goodman Story."

'But we will all miss him nevertheless simply because he was the clarinet and his orchestra was one of the great of all time," Allen said.

"I can't believe it. He was play-ing so great," said Richard virtuoso. "It seemed like to me he was on his seventh wind.'

"He gave so much," said vibraphonist Lionel Hampton. "He was the first one to integrate and put black and white together in his tour that winter, audiences on the quartet and his organization. ... Goodman was born in Chicago on May 30, 1909, the eighth of 11 children of a poor immigrant tailor. He first picked up a clarinet at the age of 10, when a local synagogue began lending musical instruments and giving lessons to children for about 25 cents a week.

He began earning a living with his horn while still in short pants, and his schooling ended after a after a year of high school. At 16, Goodman was playing in Ben Pollack's successful band; at 20, he left Pollack for New York and a free-lance career.

One of his jobs was in the or-chestra of Broadway's "Girl Crazy" in 1930. Audiences were putting up their money to see Ethel Merman in her sensational debut, while in the pit, Red Nichols led a band of unknowns including Goodman, Glenn Miller, Jimmy Dorsey, Jack Teagarden and Gene Krupa. In 1934, helped by John Henry Hammond Jr., a critic and proworld's greatest artist on the jazz moter, Goodman put together his first band and opened in Billy Rose's Music Hall.

That led to a Saturday night coast-to-coast radio show, "Let's Stoltzman, the classical clarinet Dance." The program reached 2 million people each week, but since Goodman's band was in the midnight slot, most of his listeners were on the West Coast.

Scattered showers fell in the northern Plains, New England, Florida and Texas on Friday, while a tornado touched down in

The twister touched down on Wyoming Highway 85 on the border of Laramie and Goshen counties, but no damage or injuries were reported. Much of eastern Wyoming was under a tornado watch.

Scattered showers fell from Nebraska and South Dakota through portions of Iowa and Minnesota, while scattered showers and thunderstorms, some heavy, occurred over much of the Florida Peninsula and across the Texas Gulf Coast.

A few showers and thundershowers were also found over northern New England. Fair weather dominated much of the Ohio and Tennessee valleys, the Southeast, the central and southern Plains, the Rockies and Intermouintain region to through the far West.

Heavy rains overnight caused local flooding across southeast lower Michigan, while lowland flooding occurred along the Wabash River in Indiana from Covington to near Vincennes. Flooding was also reported in Arkansas and Louisiana.

Heavier rainfall during the six hours ending at 2 p.m. EDT included an inch at Gainesville, Fla., three-quarters of an inch at Tampa, Fla., and Beeville, Texas. Temperatures around the nation at 3 p.m. EDT ranged from 48 degrees at Houlton, Maine, to 104 degrees at Palm Springs, Calif., and Gila Bend, Ariz. The nation's low Friday morning was 37 degrees at Ely, Nev., Gunnison, Colo., and West Yellowstone, Mont. The forecast for Saturday called for scattered showers and thunderstorms from the Great Lakes and the upper Mississippi Valley region across the northern Plains, northern sections of Iowa and Nebraska, Montana and northern Idaho through Washington and northern Oregon. Scattered showers and thunderstorms were also forecast from Florida across the Gulf Coast regions of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

Highs in the 60s and 70s should extend from New England and New York across the Great Lakes through the northern Plains, and across coastal sections of Washington, Oregon and California.

TECAT ruling upheld

AUSTIN — The literacy exam administered to all Texas educators was a legal exercise of the state's "police power," a state appeals court ruled on Friday.

The 3rd Court of Appeals in Austin upheld State District Judge Harley Clark's order which had cleared the way for 202,000 teachers and admininstrators to take the test in March

The Texas State Teachers Association filed a lawsuit that said the test is illegal because the state's educators have teaching certificates that were issued for life.

Service jobs eliminated

AUSTIN — Budget cuts that led to elimination of 119 social services positions in the Texas Department of Health will mean fewer visits to nursing home residents and checks on their medical care, officials said.

The job cuts, which were completed April 30, will cause "some reduction in the quality of care to the department," said Keats Brazell, the department's chief of long-term

He said the social workers visited about 10 homes each on a weekly basis, meeting with patients, evaluating their social service needs, counseling families and mediating problems between patients and administrators.

Man dies during training

APPLETON, Wis. - Members of an Army National Guard troop kept running when a fellow guardsman collapsed and died during a training exercise, says a guardsman who quit over what he called a "disgusting and intolerable" incident.

But Army spokesman Capt. Robert Barta said no one knew the man was ill. "I really believe that the timing of the thing was determined by a being more supreme than me," he said Friday.

Larry Bills said he resigned his full-time, $1,450-a-month job with the guard because he felt the Army should have disciplined troop members who saw Sgt. 1st Class Bernard F. Gallenberger collapse during the May 21

22 protesters arrested

DENVER — Twenty-two anti-abortion protesters were arrested outside a Planned Parenthood clinic Friday, as the National Organization for Women and the National Right To Life Committee met blocks apart with diametrically opposed agendas.

A few anti-abortion demonstrators picketed NOW's meeting and one activist vowed to close an abortion clinic in nearby Boulder, which said it had hired armed guards for the

Veterans honored at ticker-tape parade

CHICAGO (AP) — Tens of thousands of Vietnam veterans, led by retired Gen. William Westmoreland, marched proudly through downtown Chicago Friday to the cheers of spectators and the wails of sirens in a "Welcome Home" tribute more than a decade after their return.

The official celebration ends today with a memorial service at the Daley Center for prisoners of war and soldiers missing in action, plus a dinner for the Medal of Honor winners, and a fireworks display in Grant Park.

The marchers, accompanied by bands and floats, stepped off from Navy Pier and onto Grand Avenue for the ticker-tape parade through the Loop. The parade wound up in Grant Park, where a music and food festival was held that night.

Organizers estimated 100,000 people marched in the parade, said spokesman Bob Storman, which would make it easily the biggest homecoming ever for Vietnam

Westmoreland, who commanded U.S. forces in Vietnam, was the parade's grand marshal. He was flanked by James Patridge, a legless veteran who became a hero earlier this month when he revived an infant who nearly drowned, and Tom Stack, a veteran who organized the parade.

Bob Wieland, a legless Vietnam veteran who recently walked across the country on his hands, marched in front of Westmoreland to the crowd's cheers

The procession passed a reviewing stand where Mayor Harold Washington, a World War II veteran, watched with Gov. James R. Thompson. Westmoreland joined them to view the parade.

Some spectators cheered and held signs saying "Thanks Vietnam Veterans.'

Westmoreland said the parade was the homecoming the soldiers deserved after serving in the nation's longest war. "The country as a whole is in more of a mood to appreciate this," he said moments before the parade began. "The past is history now. We don't worry about that. The general, wearing a green dress uniform, waded into crowds of veterans, shaking hands and signing autographs. "We were comrades in arms and we're proud of our participation (in the war),"

Retired Gen. William Westmoreland, left, a former commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, carries a POW/MIA flag as he walks with Tom Stack, right, a veteran who organized the parade, at the head of a ticker-tape parade throught Chicago Friday. Bob Wieland, a legless Vietnam veteran who recently walked across the country on his hands, walks ahead of the

he said.

The parade was open to veterans of all eras and their families. Among the expected marchers were some veterans of the South Vietnamese army who live in Chicago, and members of the Royal Australian Regiment, who also served alongside U.S. military personnel in the war.

"People have been confused about Vietnam veterans," said Ben Flerlage, chairman of the Illinois chapter of Vietnam Veterans of America. "When we first came back everyone called us baby killers, psychopaths and dope fiends. Now it's gone back the other way with Rambomania.

"Parades and other activities like this help people realize Vietnam veterans don't fit these stereotypes," he said. "We're just plain old ordinary Americans."

"We're all flattered by the attention," Westmoreland told reporters Thursday night during a reception for Medal of Honor recipients from several wars. "There was a time when it was questionable whether there would be a turnaround by the American people.' "The facts are beginning to emerge" about Vietnam, he said, noting that public perception once was based on "emotions, exaggerations and untruths." Retired Army Col. Kenneth Plummer, an organizer of the parade, said for years Vietnam veterans felt ashamed The veterans "for the first time in their lives (are) able to stand up tall and proud for the service they gave to the country," said Plummer. "They came out of the closet;

Soviets propose project

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union proposed Friday creating a world space organization under U.N. auspices and offered to launch foreign satellites with Soviet rockets as part of an international space cooperation project.

The offer, reported Friday by the official news agency Tass, came in a letter by Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov to U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar. In the letter, the Soviets again offered a "Star Peace" program to counter Star Wars, as the U.S. Strategic Defense Initiative is commonly Buildings burned out of control in Mashgara, 25 miles southeast of Beirut in the Syrian-occupied valley. The town's 17,000 residents either fled to surrounding fields or huddled in their basements.

Authorities said they had no accurate casualty figures because officers dared not venture out of the police station.

Politicians plan link

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — Danish politicians announced agreement Friday on a longdisputed plan for the first fixed link between the European continent and Zealand. Denmark's biggest island and the site of Copenhagen, the capital.

The Conservative-led minority government and the Social Democrats, who lead the opposition, agreed on a combined 12-mile tunnel and bridge link for trains.

People told to evacuate

BOGOTA, Colombia — The government ordered the evacuation Friday of thousands of people from valleys around the Nevado del Ruiz volcano after scientists warned it might erupt again.

An eruption of the volcano resulted in avalanches and mudslides that killed 23,000 people last year

The office of President Belisario Betancur ordered the evacuation of everyone within six miles of the 16,200-foot volcano. The government advised people within a 12-mile radius to evacuate, but said mandatory relocation from the outer six miles wouldn't be necessary unless scientists say another eruption is imminent.

Government spokesman Victor Ricardo said about 1,700 people reside in the 12-mile evacuation zone. It was not known how many people were being evacuated.

Break for oilmen could boost property taxes

Harte-Hanks News Service ABILENE - West Texas oilmen have requested a 25 percent cut in their property tax bills to help them cope with the declining fortunes of the industry. But the Taylor County tax appraiser says such a move could boost residents' school taxes by as much as 45 percent.

The property tax cut requested earlier this week would put pressure on school districts already strapped by the falling value of mineral property, said the Taylor County Central Tax percent. Authority.

Oilmen say if the tax cut isn't given this year, the future tax base may be eroded by failing oil and

A group of county oilmen Tuesday asked the tax authority's review board for a 25 percent, across-the-board cut in their tax bills for fiscal 1987, which starts

But Petree said most property tax bills for oilmen will drop in fiscal 1987 because the county's Richard Petree, chief appraiser of mineral property value dropped 28

Oilmen say in setting those values, appraisers used a higher price per barrel than they should have. The appraisers used a Jan. 1 price of $26.70 a barrel to help assess the value of the land.

West Texas Intermediate Crude closed at $13.65 a barrel Thursday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Oilmen said Tuesday that the tax cut is needed to help cut expenses in some cases, and keep producers in business in others. Petree said the 25 percent cut would cause a dramatic shift in the tax burden for some rural school districts from the oil and gas industry to home and small-business

For example, oil land makes up 71 percent of the value of Trent ISD land west of Abilene.

The school district's tax rate was 74.20 cents per $100 property value for fiscal 1986

Because of the drop in oil land value that already has occurred, the effective tax rate (the rate of taxation needed to raise the same amount of revenue in fiscal 1987 as fiscal 1986) is 88.25 cents per $100. Petree said if the 25 percent cut is included, the Trent ISD tax rate would be $1.07 per $100 in value for fiscal 1987 just to stay even with fiscal 1986 school spending. That would mean school taxes on a $45,000 Trent area farm house would go from $432 in fiscal 1986 to $742 next year.

"I expect them (oil-land districts) to have a substantial rate increase no matter what happens,'

Russ Taylor, past president of West Central Texas Oil and Gas

Association, said a number of area oilmen are going to have trouble paying their tax bills, with or without the proposed tax cut. 'We're having to tighten our belts and cut back on our expenses," Taylor said. He said school districts, and other governmental bodies, should do the same.

Taylor said the future of the rural oil-and-gas tax base is at stake.

"It's hard to get blood out of a turnip," he said. "A lot of people are hanging on by the skin of their teeth, hoping the oil prices will turn

Bell's rate hike Commission adds

AUSTIN (AP) — The Public crease to cover the hike. Utility Commission on Friday added $23 million to Southwestern is tentatively set for June 23. Bell's rate hike when two commissioners decided company stockholders should get more profit than previously approved.

The dissenting commissioner, Chairwoman Peggy Rosson, called the move "unconscionable."

Overall, the commission turned an $8.6 million hike approved last week into a package that will mean $35.7 million in increased revenues for the phone company. Within the next two weeks, the commission will rule on which rates should in- needs, service will suffer, he said.

A final order in the overall case

The $35.7 million hike is insufficient, said Royce Caldwell, Bell vice president for revenues in Texas. The company wants a $277 increase, including adding $1.50 to $2 to monthly bills for basic home

"It's far short of what is needed for the kind of service Texans need and deserve," Caldwell said of the $35.7 million hike.

Without the increase Bell says it

'We face some real hard choices on what has to go. It's simple math. We are not going to be able to do everything the customer wants,"

Caldwell said Bell can go to court to challenge the PUC order.

The biggest change made Friday was in return on equity — the profit earned by stockholders. The commission voted June 7 for a 13.8 percent return. On Friday, that was raised to 14.2 percent, despite Ms. Rosson's objection.

The stockholder profit increase added $23 million, according to PUC computer runs. Other changes made Friday added another $4.1 million.

In a series of more than 100 votes on individual issues, the commission on June 7 approved a $7.3 million rate hike. Minor changes made before Friday had raised that to $8.6 million

Friday's meeting was called to clarify some issues and take a final vote on the amount of the rate increase.

During the Friday discussion, Commissioner Dennis Thomas said he believed the 13.8 percent stockholder profit approved last week was too low. He initially had pushed for 15 percent, but said Friday that 14.2 percent would be adequate.

Bell wants 16 percent. Thomas said 14.2 percent is "in the public interest," and Commissioner Jo Campbell agreed.

'If I've got to err I will err on the side of having a healthy telecommunications industry," she said. Ms. Rosson told fellow commissioners that the move was "tantathis commission." After the meeting, she said, 'You just don't change your votes after you've made them.

mount to an unconscionable act by

The chairwoman agreed with consumer groups who said Bell rates should be lowered Steve Porter, an Austin attorney representing Bell-served cities that pushed a rate cut of more than $300 million, called the vote "a $30 million giveaway at the expense of Texas telephone customers.

Walter Washington, an attorney with the state's Office of Public Utility Counsel (which represents residential and small business customers), said: "Friday the 13th was a very unlucky day for telephone ratepayers in Texas.'

Big Spring gets taste of China

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Big Spring diners now have a choice of two Hunan Chinese restaurants.

Hunan is a province in China with a distinctive type of cooking, known for being hot and spicy, or sweet, said chef Kou-Kowg Hsu, owner of Hunan Restaurant at 1201 S. Gregg St. The food can be spiced to taste, he said, with his daughter Li Ping Hsu translating. Hsu speaks no English.

The restaurant will begin serving mixed drinks in two to three weeks. as soon as they can obtain a license, Li Ping Hsu said.

Chef Hsu, a native of Hunan, China, opened Hunan Restaurant four months ago. Ten members of his family work with him at the restaurant with four other employees, Li Ping Hsu said.

Manager Peter Yen said he is a close friend of Hsu and will soon to be a partner.

Paul's Hunan restaurant opened last week next to the Brass Nail club. The restaurant is owned by Paul Ng, a Big Spring acupuncturist and former manager at Hunan Restaurant.

Hsu said the public had been confused about whether the restaurants were under the same ownership or whether Hunan Restaurant had moved. The restaurants are totally separate,

High-tech jobs now important

DALLAS (AP) — Texas' future will no longer be "dominated by hydrocarbon resources" so hightech jobs have taken on even more importance, Gov. Mark White said at a conference to help draft a state high-tech blueprint.

The two-day conference was called by the Texas Science & Technology Council to get data for its strategic plan to make Texas the nation's top technology state by the year 2000.

White created the council. 'When it was formed,' he said, "no one had any idea that oil prices would drop over 60 percent in less than 60 days.

"No one knew foreign countries would be dumping microchips on the U.S. market," he added. Now, he said, it is imperative that Texas make strides in becoming the top high-technology state, "a difficult goal to achieve.

"Strong industries are never static," White said. "Our future will not be dominated by hydrocarbon resources.

He and other speakers said hightech must be used in other industries. White called on the oil industry to create a consortium, similar to an Austin-based hightech corporation, to explore new ways of retrieving natural resources.

"We have to come from behind. We have not had our eye on science and technology in the past," said Mike Waterman, chairman of the council

He said the conference is "a major stepping stone for developing new economic strength in Texas.

Bill Moore, chairman of Dallasbased Recognition Equipment Inc., who has served on various technology groups, said high-tech has the largest manufacturing seg-

Business winnners focus attention on customers

By TOM PETERS

Winners focus obsessively on their customers. Losers don't. Truly customer-obsessed companies have learned three subtle secrets that help them better serve their customers.

The first secret is correctly defining your product. Do pounds of thrust accurately capture the essence of a rocket engine? Does percentage of beef describe a McDonald's hamburger? Does interest rate describe a loan? Most business people act as if they believe so. They denigrate any trait that is not "hard."

But that's utter nonsense. If "soft" traits didn't count, we would all wear drab Mao Tse-tung jackets, put a bowl over our heads and use pruning shears when it came time for a haircut, live in Quonset huts and eat light-weight, dehydrated packages of food. That is, we would peel life back to its bare and least expensive essentials.

The computer, helicopter, banking transaction or personal cosmetic is 10 percent "hard" and 90 percent "soft." Emotion, distorted memories of distant bad or good experiences, recommendations of friends and a thousand similar factors explain more about a lost or a gained sale than do technical specifications.

Yet most companies naively continue to overemphasize the "hard" traits (specifications or price) and all but ignore all other attributes. Customer-obsessed companies are more sensitive to the "soft" stuff than the "hard" stuff. They ceaselessly worry about service, reliability, packaging, delivery and the smallest of blemishes in transactions with customers. which carry so much weight. Their entire resource-allocation process from initial design through the manning of toll-free 800 numbers features concerns that go under-attended in most companies. The second secret of customerobsessed companies is listening naively. A marketing executive in a pet food firm admits that he is fortuante because he has no illusions that he understands his customers' (dogs and cats) views!

Peters on excellence

In fact, we would be much better off if we could pretend that our customers were foreigners, who do not speak our language. They don't. Take a person who comes from the world of commercial banker. One of his customers might come from the world of contractor; the next from the world of a womenswear boutique. The language and customs are dramatically different for each. Few of the banker's customers will speak "Banker.

Sadly, most of us don't listen to our "foreigners" naively. But worse, we act as we usually do when we're around a foreign person who doesn't speak our language and tries to ask us directions. As soon as it becomes clear to us that we aren't getting through, we shout ever louder in our own language. He or she speaks just enough of our language (for example, the customer knows where the accelerator pedal is on the car) to convince us that if only we would yell a little louder, the advantages of the new overhead cam design would get through his or her thick skull

Each of us carries around a crippling disadvantage — we know and probably cherish our product After all, we live with it day in and day out. But that blinds us to why the customer may love it - or hate it. Most of our customers' reasons would never occur to us because they see the product through an entirely different set of lenses.

For starters, a customerobsessed company tries to learn the other person's language. Patience, empathy and good translators are required.

The third trait of customerobvious — they talk about customers. That's hardly a breakthrough idea, but wait a moment before you dismiss it. Take a look at your in-basket right now. Go through the items one at a time and classify them as externallyloriented (dealing explicitly with customers or competitors) or internally-oriented (minutes from a committee meeting about a computer purchase or a cost report). 've done this in a variety of functions (finance, personnel, manufacturing, even marketing). Rarely does less than 95 percent of the material deal with internal boom" generation is more diverse than many marketers may have suspected, a leading advertising agency says.

Baby boom group not unified market

N.W. Ayer Inc. says in a new report it has been sharing with its clients that there are four distinct cliques important to marketers in the 25- to-44-year-old age group. It said those who fail to recognize the distinctions risk falling victim to a costly deception.

'Baby boomers as a single uniform group moving steadily through the U.S. life cycle ... exist only in the minds of demographers," said Fred Posner, a senior vice president at Ayer, which spent a year developing the report. The baby boom generation is a population group that has been courted by advertisers for decades and will likely command their attention for decades to come. It includes people born between 1946 and 1964 and is expected to number about 80 million in 1990, comprising 33 percent of the country's population and controlling nearly half of its income, Ayer said.

In an effort to examine the group more closely, Ayer persuaded 632 baby boomers from across the country to complete a 700-question survey that asked them about their attitudes toward life, personal relationships and self-image, what they buy or hope to buy and what they watch on television.

The agency said the responses indicated the group is divided like this:

 Satisfied selves, comprising about 34 percent of the group. The report described these people as well-educated, optimistic, innovative, open to new ideas and ready to take risks.

• Contented traditionalists, which make up about 31 percent of the group. They are self-assured, conservative and home-oriented and favor traditional values while resisting change.

NEW YORK (AP) - The "baby group. They embrace traditional values but anticipate disaster on all fronts, worrying about being mugged or losing their jobs. They have a poorly defined self-image, emulate trends and use brands as a way of communicating who they

> • The '60s in the '80s, who make up about 10 percent of the group. They are the "flower children" of the 1980s, aimless and unfulfilled and unable to find the job they want or a direction in life.

Ayer advises clients to try to take advantage of each sub-group's characteristics when attempting to market products.

Satisfied selves, for instance, like to go out, mix, drink, travel and participate in sports, while worried traditionalists go out only on occasion and prefer to entertain at home, the study said.

"Obviously the marketing approach to one is different than to the other," Posner said.

A vacation resort, for instance, found that its customers were more tradition-bound than the innovative fun-lovers it had been pursuing, Posner said. Its customers enjoyed having everything available for them at the resort rather than having to venture outside the complex.

The survey said that some groups are more likely to try a new product if it is presented as unique rather than an extension of an existing brand.

An automaker whose cars normally appealed to traditionalists, for instance, was advised that it could attract satisfied selves to a new car line as long as the line was presented independently of the company's regular brand.

The survey also suggested ways to reach various sub-groups by selecting the appropriate programming.

Worried traditionalists, for instance, tend to watch more "bloodand-guts cop shows," said John Russell, associate research director at Ayer. He said such program-• Worried traditionalists, which ming tended to confirm their view

Petrobank declared insolvent

HOUSTON (AP) - The threeyear-old Petrobank National Association, N.A. in Houston was declared insolvent, making it the eighth Texas bank and the 55th in the country to be shut down this

"The bank's failure was primarily the result of inadequate management by the board of directors and liberal lending practices," said Dean S. Marriott, senior deputy comptroller of currency.

Marriott declared the bank insolvent Thursday.

Since the bank failed to find any buyers, the board of directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. in Washington on Thursday also approved paying off the insured depositors at the bank, said spokesman Steve Katsanos.

The board of directors determined that a payoff of insured depositors was required because no bids were received for the failed bank," Katsanos said.

The FDIC will insure up to $100,000, he said. About 102 accounts, however, are over that limit. Those deposits are expected to get 45 cents for each dollar when the FDIC recovers the assets, Katsanos said.

Norman catapults to Open lead with 68

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) -On a day for golfers to get even, Australian Greg Norman pulled away Friday as the wind was taken out of blustery Shinnecock Hills.

Norman, a familiar leader but a non-winner in golf's Big Four tournaments, took advantage of the suddenly defenseless course with a 2-under-par 68 and staked out a three-shot lead halfway through the 86th U.S. Open.

After starting the day one shot off the lead, he finished with a 36-hole total of 139, a single stroke better than par.

Lee Trevino, who had a 68 of his own, and Denis Watson of South Africa, who matched par 70, were tied for second at 2-over 142. Tom Watson, Ray Floyd and first-round leader Bob Tway were another shot back at 143.

Jack Nicklaus, the hero of Augusta trying to follow his sixth Masters victory with his fifth in the Open, was at 149, 10 shots off the pace, after a 72

Norman and Trevino had two of seven subpar rounds on a day when mild temperatures, partly sunny skies and breezes made Shinnecock so sedate and manageable that Joey Sindelar matched the competitive course record at 66. Shinnecock yielded no subpar rounds in the cold, rain and gusty winds Thursday, when only Tway managed to match regulation and the full field averaged 78, 8 over.

"The day was just perfect for scoring. It was just a joy to play out there," Norman said. "I think 68 was the worst score I could have shot today. I'm happy with the score, but I'm disappointed that I didn't do better.

Trevino, grinding away with his old-time enthusiasm, was the first to master Shinnecock, finishing his feel almost at home on this course par-breaker by rolling in birdie likened by Trevino "to a British putts of 20 feet on No. 16 and 18 feet links." on No. 18.

Floyd, hoping to add the Open to his two PGA and one Masters titles, also had a 68, while Tway slipped to 73.

There was some wind off the Atlantic, but Trevino dismissed it as "not enough to hurt you," and the scores proved him right.

Sindelar found it particularly

"Yesterday, it was the toughest I've ever played," said Sindelar, who opened with a wind-blown 81 and still found himself eight shots back at the halfway point. "Today, it wasn't very tough.

It was tough enough, though, for the 46-year-old Nicklaus, who described his round as "kind of disappointing.

Still, the Golden Bear wasn't ready to abandon his hopes of keeping alive a shot at the unachieved Grand Slam, a one-year sweep of the Masters, U.S. Open, British Open and PGA.

"If I just shoot a good, under-par round tomorrow, then have a pretty good round Sunday, I think I still have a chance," he said.

The scoreboard, at least, suggested several others — including Trevino and Tom Watson — have much better chances.

Trevino, who owns two British Open and two PGA championships, was talking about winning this title for the third time.

"Well, hell," he said, "somebody has to win

"I'm playing well, very well. If I can play the next two days like I played the last two, I've got an excellent chance of winning," he said. "I like my chances."

So does Tom Watson, a five-time British Open champion who should

"I finally made a couple of 30-footers," Watson said after his 71. "Now I feel I have a very good opportunity to win.'

A big group at 144 included the Wadkins brothers, Bobby and Lanny. Bobby, yet to win in a decade on the PGA Tour, had a 69. Lanny matched par 70.

Also at 4-over 144 were West German Bernhard Langer, Tommy Nakajima of Japan, Payne Stewart and Mac O'Grady, the tour maverick who is appealing a fine and suspension levied for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer." At 145, six strokes back, were former Masters champions Ben Crenshaw and Craig Stadler and former PGA winner Hal Sutton. Crenshaw had a 69, Sutton 70 and Others were not so fortunate. Among the casualties were Tournament Players Champion John Mahaffey (73-152), 1985 leading money-winner Curtis Strange (79-155) and Danny Edwards, who set a course record with 30 on the back nine. He had a second-round 69, but could not overcome an 83 opening round and finished at 152.

Norman, who won more than 30 international titles before settling down to the American tour, has been on a tear in recent weeks, winning twice and finishing second twice in his last five starts and earning more than $400,000.

He ripped the front side at Shinnecock in 31, opening up with a 15-foot birdie putt on the first hole.

He appeared to be in deep trouble on the sixth, but chipped in for a par and went to 4 under with a 9-iron to five feet for a birdie on the

That put him five ahead of the field, but Norman let it slip with a couple of bogeys coming home.

Greg Norman studies his drive on the seventh hole of Friday's second round of the U.S. Open Golf championship in Southampton, N.Y. Norman shot a 2-under par 68 to take a three stroke lead into today's third round.

Bulldogs whip Archer City for 28-0 season

AUSTIN (AP) — Curtis Daniels slammed a home run, triple and single Friday as Colmesneil completed a perfect season and won its second straight Class A state baseball title by defeating Archer

The Bulldogs won the game in 10-run rule, raising their record to Winning pitcher Jerry DuBose allowed only one hit, a fourthinning single to Beau Henry, to extend his season record to 18-0.

DuBose, a senior righthander. also was the winning pitcher in Colmesneil's 3-2 victory over Gorman in the semifinals Thursday.

Daniels, a senior center fielder, hit a high fly to right center for an inside-the-park home run and two RBIs in the second, lined an RBI triple to right center and scored on a throwing error in the fourth and had a RBI single in the fifth.

The runs that ended the game two innings short of regulation play scored on a two-out, two-run single by first baseman Alan Davis.

In advancing to the finals Thursday Archer City also had only one hit but collected 24 walks in a 14-9 victory over Salado.

On Friday, however, DuBose walked only two Archer City batters and struck out six. Henry scored Archer City's lone run after singling by stealing second, going to third on a wild pickoff throw and racing home on a passed ball. Starter Tony Pollack, who left the game after two innings with Archer City trailing 3-0, was the loser. His record is 9-2. Archer City finished at 20-5.

Cubs name Michael skipper

CHICAGO (AP) - Gene Michael, two-time manager of the New York Yankees and part of George Steinbrenner's revolving-door policy in the 1980s, was named manager of the Chicago Cubs Friday night. Dallas Green, president and general manager of the Cubs, made the announcement shortly after the Cubs split a doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals

Michael replaces Jim Frey, who was fired by Green Thursday after the Cubs had slumped to a 23-33 record, including seven losses in 10 games.

"Gene is a baseball guy," Green said. "When I was going through my mind as to who was available, Gene stuck out like a sore thumb.

"He's been through a pennant race, he's managed a club that was always under the media spotlight and in a major big league market. He has certainly shown he can handle all the pressures of managing and also produce a winner

Michael, third base coach for the Yankees the last two years. left the team in Baltimore. where New York was playing the Orioles.

Michael was driving to his home in New Jersey late Friday. A Cubs spokesman said Michael would try to make a flight to Chicago either Friday night or early Saturday and that he would be managing the team Saturday against the Cardinals John Vukovich was the Cubs' interim manager Friday when they split a doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals, losing the first game 2-1 in 10 innings and winning the nightcap 3-2 in 11 innings. 'I think Vukovich would have done a good job," Green said, "but I felt the team needed the direction of a guy who has been through it before, a fresh face in the clubhouse and the dugout." When Green fired Frey, he also fired Frey's friend Don Zimmer but he said the rest of the coaches would be retained. They are Vukovich, Billy Connors, Ruben Amaro, Johnny Oates and Billy Williams.

Tyson K0's Gross in 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten heavyweight Mike Tyson knocked down Reggie Gross twice and stopped him in the first round of a scheduled 10-round fight Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

It was the 20-year-old Tyson's 20th knockout in 22 victories. In his two previous fights, he had gone the distance, winning 10-round decisions over James "Quick' Tillis and Mitch Green.

Tyson, 217, of Catskill, N.Y., and Gross, 218, were in the center of the ring and Gross had landed several shots to Tyson's head as the crowd

Cardinals 1-2, Cubs 0-3

CHICAGO (AP) - Pinch-hitter Thad Bosley's run-scoring single in the 11th inning lifted the Chicago Cubs to a 3-2 victory and salvaged a split of their Friday doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals on interim manager John Vukovich's only day.

Vukovich replaced Jim Frey, who was fired Thursday, as Cubs manager. He was replaced by Gene Michael after the game.

The Cardinals ended a four-game losing streak in the opener with a 1-0 triumph in 10 innings behind rookie left-hander Greg Mathews,

An 18-mph wind blowing in from centerfield gave the pitchers a decided advantage and Mathews and Rick Sutcliffe hooked up in an excellent duel in the opener. Mike Lavalliere opened the 10th inning of the first game with a triple, his first extra-base hit of the season, and pinch runner Tom Lawless scored as Terry Pendleton grounded out. Sutcliffe, 4-8, was the loser and went all the way. He gave up seven nine innings. Worrell pitched a hitless 10th to earn his 10th save. Phillies 2, Expos 1

BALTIMORE (AP) Pagliarulo keyed New York's tworun fifth-inning rally with a runscoring double, and rookie Bob Tewksbury and two pitchers combined on a five-hitter as the Yankees defeated the Baltimore Orioles 3-1 Friday night. Mike Easler led off the fifth with a double, New York's first hit off Storm Davis, 5-6, and advanced to third after left fielder Juan Beniquez made a spectacular diving catch of a drive by Ken Griffey. Pagliarulo then hit a liner that broke the webbing of first baseman

Eddie Murray's glove, scoring Easler to snap the scoreless tie, and moved to third on Ron Hassey's bad-hop single past third baseman Tom O'Malley Tewksbury, 5-2, had retired 11 consecutive batters before Lee Lacy opened the sixth with a single and advanced on a walk to Cal Ripken Jr.

Tewksbury fanned Murray and got Larry Sheets on a foul pop before Beniquez singled to score Lacy. Bob Shirley and Dave Righetti combined to pitch the final three innings, with Righetti posting his 15th save. Indians 11, Twins 2
