Parolees

Q. How many parolees does Howard County have, and of those, how many have been sent back to prison within the last six months?

A. Howard County has 70 residents on parole, said David Harman, district parole officer. From December through May, 45 new parolees were added, and eight were sent back to prison, he said. Some of those sent back to prison were from other counties and just happened to be arrested in Howard County, he said.

Hotel officials

must be discreet

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Hotel officials in this casino resort have learned the importance of being discreet when returning belongings left behind. And they admit a few marriages may have suffered.

"We were trying to return some men's and women's clothes left behind in a room," recalled Harrah's Marina security officer Margie Crown. "We called to get a verification of the address and the wife told our security officer, 'My husband has never been to Atlantic City and neither have I.'"

"So we said, 'Oh, we must have the wrong number. We were trying to get Mr. Jones in another state.' I think the husband had a lot of explaining to do that night," Ms. Crown said last week.

"We made that mistake early on," said Atlantic Casino Hotel security director Tom Green. His employer now mails belongings only to customers who call requesting them.

But even that doesn't always work.

Court delays budget ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a broadcast report that it was about to strike down a key provision of the law requiring a balanced budget by 1991, the Supreme Court issued no ruling today on the constitutionality of the deficit-reduction statute.

ABC News reported Sunday that the court would announce in a 7-2 ruling this morning that the legislation violates the constitutional separation-of-powers doctrine.

The court had announced previously it would hand down three decisions today. But it announced only two, neither involving the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law.

ABC reporter Tim O'Brien reported Sunday that on the rare occasions when leaks have occurred from the Supreme Court, the justices have delayed issuing their rulings.

The network had reported that the court was about to announce a decision striking down the law's provision giving important powers to the comptroller general, an officer of Congress.

Such a decision would uphold the Feb. 7 ruling of a special three-judge federal court.

Under the law, passed by Congress last year, the comptroller general is charged with determining budget ceilings that must be implemented if Congress fails to pass a spending plan meeting deficit-reduction goals.

One of the law's authors, Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said the ruling would not necessarily mean the demise of the law.

"If they (the Supreme Court) agree with the lower court decision that the involvement of the Comptroller General of the United States is unconstitutional, they have, as the lower court did, found about 95 percent of the powers of Gramm-Rudman constitutional," Gramm told AP Network News.

He said there is a fallback provision in the bill to get around using the comptroller. Congress also could amend the Budget and Accounting Act of 1921, which gives Congress the ability to remove the comptroller. That provision in the 1921 law, he says, creates the separation-of-powers problem.

The last time any significant leaking occurred was in 1978, when ABC carried leaked reports over a period of two weeks.

One was the court's ruling on a controversial New York case involving newspaper efforts to gain entry to pretrial proceedings. The high court determined that the right to a public trial did not entitle the press and public to attend pretrial hearings.

Four-year-old Carey Bright joined about 150 other people in a symbolic April effort to clear trash from the city's historic Big Spring. Several weeks later, litter bugs had already created another mess at the spring.

Committees, city work to beautify Big Spring

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

With its long stretches of blight, pockets of decay and littered streets, Big Spring is in search of an answer to a tough question. Can the town ever turn things around?

Some people think so. And they have pushed and prodded, bargained and battled for a cleaner, more attractive city.

Four committees — the Downtown Steering, Chamber of Commerce Beautification, Chamber CLEAN and Howard County Strategic Planning executive committee — along with City Hall are wrestling with the problem.

But are the efforts all spokes in the same wheel, or different wheels turning different ways?

The committees are not working together, says Downtown Coordinator Teri Quinones, a retail specialist brought in to restore vitality to downtown and the city's main thoroughfares. "We're tackling the goal in different directions," she says, adding that she thinks the effort needs to be streamlined. Specifically, she suggests that CLEAN and Beautification come under one committee.

Beautification Committee chairman Hayes Stripling III says he would like to find a way "to exchange information so that the committees are not all working separately. "We've got too many study committees," he says. "We need an action committee. We need somebody who wants to take the bull by the horns."

Chamber vice president LeRoy Tillery says the committees are working toward the same goal. "They may be pulling a different string, but we're all pulling in the same direction."

As for an action committee, Tillery singled out the CLEAN (City Litter Eliminators Are Near) campaign headed by Councilman Johnny Rutherford as a horn grabber.

The program, funded by city and federal money, hires 15 high school and college students in the summer to clean trash from the town's main thoroughfares. Rutherford calls it "a catalyst for cleanliness in the entire city."

"There is a marked change in the way (the city) looks from the way it looked three years ago," he says.

Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt also has a plan to tidy the town. He would give youthful and minor offenders a chance to work off their 30-day sentence or fine by participating in community cleanup.

"We've got gobs of areas that need cleaning," Daratt says. "It would just give (the offenders) the opportunity to volunteer for duty with the city."

"Your traffic offenders are not criminals," he says. "I'd love to see it for some other reason than to put them in jail."

The big hitch in Daratt's plan is who will assume liability insurance for the work details.

"This is why the city doesn't get involved in this sort of thing," Daratt says. The plan, he says, was put before former City Manager Don Davis and former City Attorney Doyle Curtis who "felt like there was too much liability for the city."

Still, the plan has the support of Quinones and Stripling along with some pretty heavy hitters, namely Mayor Cotton Mize and Rutherford.

"I think it's a great idea," Mize says. But he, too, says the matter of liability insurance must be settled before a program could begin.

Local teen dies of electrocution

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

An early Sunday morning party prank turned into tragedy as a 15-year-old girl was accidentally electrocuted in a bathtub of water.

Carla Michelle Bolander, who was residing at the home of Barvio and Hilda Alarcon, 701 S. Douglas St., was pronounced dead there shortly after 4 a.m. Sunday morning by Justice of the Peace China Long. Long ruled the death accidental.

Police Lt. Jerry Edwards said the girl was in a party crowd of adults and juveniles, some of whom were spraying one another with water.

Edwards said the girl had avoided getting wet and some of the party goers decided to throw her in a tub of water for fun.

As Bolander was being put in the bathtub, her foot tangled with an electrical cord dangling from a towel rack and she dragged it into the tub with her, Edwards said.

Long ordered an autopsy performed by local pathologist Dr.

Robert Rember.

She said this morning that Rember ruled the cause of death cardiac arrest brought on by electrocution.

Graveside services for Bolander will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Trinity Memorial Park, directed by Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

She was born Feb. 1, 1971, in Lubbock and had lived in Big Spring for six months.

She is survived by her father, Carl Bolander of Ralls; her mother, Mary Huber of Lubbock; a brother, Gary Lynn Bolander of Lockney; and a sister, Rebecca Ann Bolander of Lubbock.

Three grades rank above state test average, one below

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Big Spring students in grades 3, 5 and 7 surpassed the state average on Texas Assessment of Minimal Skills tests, but those in grade 9 were below the state average.

Fifth grade did exceptionally well on the TEAMS test this year, said Bill McQueary, assistant superintendent for personnel and instruction.

The standardized test is given by the state board of education to determine whether students are actually mastering the basic skills, he said.

Results for Big Spring show 93 percent of fifth-grade students passed the mathematics test, an "outstanding" score, McQueary said. A total of 91 percent passed the reading test, and 78 percent passed the writing test, the highest scores of any grade. This compares to state passing rates of 80 percent for math, 83 for reading and 64 for writing.

Ninth-graders had the lowest scores, with 74 percent passing mathematics, 79 percent passing reading, and only 52 percent passing the writing portions. This compares to state rates of 81 percent for math, 80 for reading and 63 for writing.

McQueary said the district plans to track the ninth-graders through their previous years in school to see why the scores are low. Officials will see whether scores for that group have been low every year, or "if this is just a one-year deal."

He also was concerned that only 61 percent of third-graders passed the writing portion of the test, he said. But that still topped the state average of 60 percent.

Superintendent Lynn Hise

pointed out that third grade is the year students learn to write in script, which could be a con-

Amnesty concert tour a success

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Organizers proclaimed the "Conspiracy of Hope" tour a success as the series of concerts to raise money for human rights wound up before 55,000 fans in Giants Stadium.

"I don't know of any other way you can make a household name in two weeks, but we did it," said Jack Healey, executive director of Amnesty International-USA, the U.S. chapter of the Nobel Prize-winning human rights organization.

The six-city tour, which was expected to net $3 million, was "bigger and better than I ever thought this could be," Healey said.

He praised the "total cooperation" of the musicians who donated their services. The final 12-hour concert Sunday included such stars as Sting, Peter Gabriel, U2, Joni Mitchell, Ruben Blades, Lou Reed, Jackson Browne and the '60s folk group Peter, Paul and Mary.

The concert ended with an emotional version of Bob Dylan's "I Shall Be Released." All of the musicians returned to the stage to join hands and sing, and they were joined by nine former political prisoners.

About 130,000 people attended the concerts in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Chicago, Atlanta and finally this New York City suburb, Healey said.

Although the purpose of Sunday's concert was serious, the atmosphere at times resembled a day at the shore. Young people clad in swimsuits bounced beach balls into the air and used water hoses to cool off from the sweltering heat.

Mary Daly, an Amnesty International spokeswoman, estimated that 25 million people watched or listened to the star-studded final concert, which was broadcast by MTV, the rock music cable channel, and by Westwood I and other radio networks.

London-based Amnesty International, which was founded 25 years ago and won the 1977 Nobel Peace Prize, says more than 4,500 people have been jailed for expressing their political beliefs.

Tour organizers said they hoped to raise the organization's U.S. membership by 25,000 people from the current 150,000.

They also asked people at all six concerts to sign post cards urging the governments of Vietnam, Guatemala, South Africa, South Korea, Syria and the Soviet Union to each release a certain political prisoner.

Ms. Daly said "thousands and thousands and thousands" of cards were signed, including 12,000 during the Atlanta concert alone.

One of the performers Sunday was Irish rock musician Bob Geldof, organizer of last year's "Live Aid" concerts to fight world hunger.

"The concrete result of this is that the Amnesty people were able to put intense pressure on human rights violators," Geldof said.

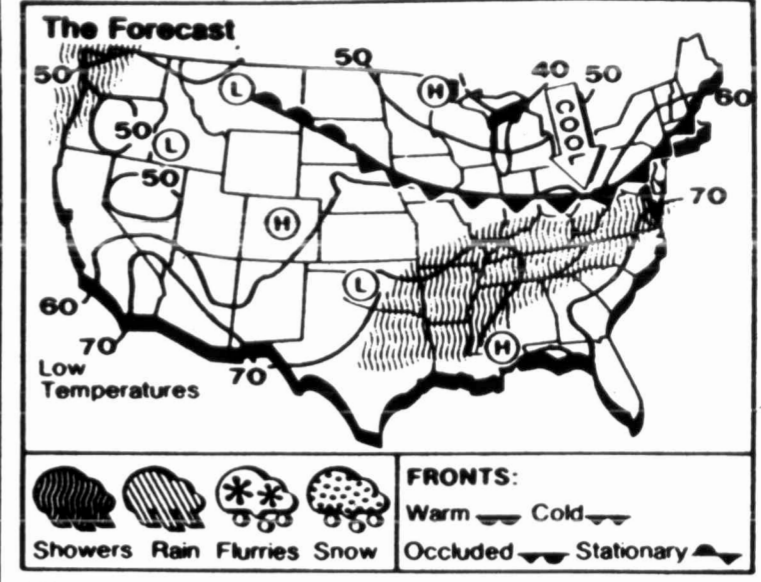

"When a government gets a bad report card, they start shaking," he said.

Asked if he thought the tour would improve human rights, Geldof said, "A couple of concerts does not a movement make." But he said he hoped the concerts would heighten Americans' awareness of human rights abuses and government-sponsored

Library sponsoring workshop

A workshop on children's picture books will be conducted Wednesday at the Howard County Library.

The workshop will cover the importance of picture books to the development of a young child, according to a library news release. The instructor will define quality picture books, describe types of picture books and their effective use with young children, and will recommend quality titles and publishers. The workshop is designed for librarians, parents, and teachers who work with young children.

Julie Judd, children's services coordinator at the Irving Public Library, will be instructor.

Registration begins at 9 a.m., and the workshop ends at 1 p.m. Admission is $2.

For more information, or to register, call librarian Judith Gray at 267-5295.

Board to consider bids

The Howard County Junior College District board will consider bids on boiler repairs, the hot and cold water piping system project, and air conditioning for the Student Union Building at its regular meeting at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The board also will consider employment of an assistant basketball coach and a cosmetology instructor, appointment of a district auditor, wage rate tables for construction, and the small class report for the spring semester.

Also on the agenda is consideration of Howard College's official name. There has been some confusion over the years about what the college's official name is, said Mary Dudley, assistant to college president Bob Riley, and the state has requested clarification.

The college's official name is Howard College In Big Spring, she said, which is expected to be shortened to Howard College, the name by which it is commonly known, she said.

The city will spend almost $55,000 next fiscal year putting municipal muscle into enforcing its property code. The code bans weeds, unsightly and unsanitary lots; junked cars visible from a public street; and abandoned, dilapidated and unsafe buildings.

Code enforcement's lone ranger, Fire Marshal Jim Ryals, says once a complaint has been filed, the city takes steps to correct the problem.

First, the property is inspected by Ryals and the legal owner is determined, a tough task in cases where the owner is dead or long gone, which he says is true in the majority of violations.

Once identified, the property owner is sent a letter giving him 10 days to comply with city code.

After the letter has been delivered, the city waits 15 days before re-inspecting the property. If no action has been taken to comply with the code, the city goes to court.

If the person fails to show for court, or if a follow-up inspection shows continued non-compliance, bids are advertised to clean the property and a mechanics lien, a city claim to the property, is slapped on.

Ryals says most people cooperate before the court gets involved. Nonetheless, the city has executed 23 such liens already this year and is in the process of placing 10 more, says Public Works Director Tom Decell.

Through code enforcement, marked improvement has been made to west Third and Fourth Street, Ryals says. "I've pretty well got it cleaned up."

Stripling says the area looks somewhat better, "but I'd be lying if I said it looked a whole lot better."

Ramshackle buildings are still evident along those streets, and they're likely to be there awhile longer, says Ryals.

While saying he can have weeds lots and junked cars eliminated in six months, Ryals says it could be two years before such buildings are eliminated from Big Spring.

He explained the process of demolishing a building is more complicated than towing a car or cutting down weeds.

Perhaps another reason for the delay is that Ryals is tackling a giant problem by himself. "I could always use a little help," he says, with obvious understatement.

"He's going to have to have help through the court system," says Rutherford. "The failings there right now are in communication failures, not of desire."

Ryals said even if code enforcement works perfectly, the town still will have a litter problem along its streets and alleys, places not in his domain.

The problem also persists in places like the Big Spring, the city's gushing namesake, where more than 150 volunteers worked for half a day in April ferreting garbage from the area. Several weeks later, the spring was again sloshing trash against its weedy shores.

Stripling says to drain the city of litter, the plug needs to be pulled at the source.

"I think you have to start with the brain," Stripling says pointing to his head. "People's attitude toward litter has to change."

Local third-graders scored 85 percent on math and reading, compared to state figures of 80 and 74, respectively.

Local seventh-graders scored 89 percent on math, 84 percent on reading and 72 percent on writing, compared to state figures of 81, 78 and 66, respectively.

McQueary also released the results of the California Achievement test given to students in grades 1-8 and 10 and the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test given to grade 11.

On the California Achievement Test, students in grades 2-8 and grade 10 exceeded the anticipated scores, which is determined from the national norm, he said. National averages were unavailable for first grade, and grade 9 did not take the test.

On the PSAT test, given to grade 11, Big Spring students scored 46.8, exceeding the national, southwest and state mean scores of 45, 44.1 and 44 respectively on the math portion.

Local students scored 39.5 on the verbal portion, below national, southwest and state means of 40.9, 39.9 and 59.7.

On the ACT test, seniors of 1985 scored above the state level but below the national level in most subject areas. In English, Big Spring students scored 0.3 points above the national average. In a composite score, Big Spring students scored 17.4, compared to the state average of 16.5 and the national average of 18.6.

Two arrested for assault

Two men were arrested Sunday night for assaulting a police officer after the driver of the car in which they were riding was pulled over.

Pedro Mendez Cantu, 38, of Coahoma, the man charged with shooting two men at Comanche Trail Park on Easter Day, was arrested on suspicion of assaulting a police officer and resisting arrest.

Jose Holquin Granillos, 27, of Coahoma was arrested on suspicion of aggravated assault on a police officer.

The driver of the car, Victor Garza, 56, of 507 Douglas St. was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

The car was stopped in the 1200 block of Lancaster Street shortly after 7:35 p.m. because it was weaving across the center line, according to police.

Police Lt. Jerry Edwards said after the driver was ordered out of the car, a brawl ensued.

One officer suffered a bloody nose and mouth and was treated at Malone-Hogan Hospital, Edwards said.

He allegedly was assaulted by Granillos while conducting a search for weapons, Edwards said. A .357 magnum rifle was found in the car, he said.

Jeffery Carl Thompson, 22, of Route 3 Box 240 was arrested Saturday afternoon on Department of Public Safety warrants.

John Ramirez, 19, of 1607 Avion St. was arrested at Comanche Trail Park Sunday evening on suspicion of disorderly conduct and failure to appear warrants. He was released on bond.

Jose Gomez, 37, of Ackerley was arrested Sunday on suspicion of driving without insurance.

Jaine Reed, a clerk at K mart, told police Saturday evening that a man stole two $89 cordless phones Saturday at 5:30 p.m. According to the complaint, the man ran out a door with the phones and fled in a vehicle.

Belinda Islas, 1500 Robin St., told police early Sunday morning that someone stole a $7 purse containing $26 and checks from her car while it was parked at 300 W. Fourth St. at 3:05 a.m. Sunday.

Connie Swinney of 1504 Bluebird Ave. told police Saturday night that someone entered her home Saturday afternoon and tried to harm her. No injuries were reported.

Michelle Hodnett of 708 1/2 Lorilla St. told police Sunday morning that someone tried to enter her home without permission at 7 a.m. Sunday.

Rue Galyean, owner of Venture Video, 400 S. Gregg St., told police Sunday afternoon that someone rented a $250 VCR and two VHS tapes valued at $120 June 4 and failed to return them.

Muriel Johnson of 3702 Connally St. told police Sunday afternoon that someone she knows threatened her daughter, Lafawn, with a set of numchucks while the girl was in her front yard Sunday afternoon.

Jamie Wren, 1606 Lexington Ave., told police Sunday evening that someone assaulted him at 2000 E. FM 700 while he was going to work. He suffered scratches and swelling to his left cheek, according to the complaint.

Dana Witt of Lawrence Trailer Court No. 11 told police Sunday night that someone stole a $30 purse and its contents from her car while it was at 1301 Lincoln St. between 10 and 10:20 p.m. Sunday.

Charles and Jennie Johnson, Route 2 Box 7, told police early this morning they were assaulted at the Lamplighter Club on W. Interstate 20.

Charles Johnson told police he was assaulted at the bar just after midnight.

Jennie Johnson said someone pushed her and pulled her hair during the assault.

According to police, four people started the scuffle when one was refuse entrance to the bar because of no identification. Bill Jansinski told police an $18 light and a glass were destroyed during the fight.

About an hour later, Charles Johnson again complained of being assaulted. This time he was struck in the face and threatened with a deadly weapon, according to the police report.

Scott Morton of 603 E. 18th St. told police someone caused $100 damage to a window at his home by tossing a rock at it at 5:05 this morning.

Rodeo to include queen contest

A queen contest will be part of the Sesquicentennial Big Spring Rodeo. The queen will be determined by whoever sells the most rodeo tickets, according to a rodeo news release.

All girls age 16 to 21 may enter. Winners will be awarded merchandise prizes.

Candidates must be at rodeo headquarters in the Park Inn at 8 p.m. Wednesday, accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Union accepts contract

WASHINGTON — By a 3-to-1 margin, non-striking manufacturing workers at American Telephone & Telegraph Co. voted Sunday to accept a new contract with an 8 percent wage hike over three years.

The contract, however, eliminates annual cost-of-living adjustments that had been a fixture of phone workers' labor agreements with the telecommunications giant since 1972.

With 22 of 23 local unions reporting final returns, officials for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, IBEW, said the rank-and-file vote on ratifying the contract was 11,725 for to 3,470 against.

Leaders seek U.S. help

WASHINGTON — Afghan rebel leaders arrived here seeking increased U.S. political and military support for their guerrilla war against Afghanistan's Marxist government and a Soviet invasion force.

The United States refuses to discuss its support for the rebels but is thought to have supplied them with hundreds of millions of dollars in arms since the Soviets invaded in 1979. Now the guerrillas are critically short of anti-aircraft weapons for use against Russian helicopter and jet fighters.

Four rebel officials were to meet today with President Reagan. A senior guerrilla leader, Masood Khalili, said in Islamabad, Pakistan, on Saturday that the visit was to get "more political support and talk about all sorts of help."

Marcos is interviewed

HONOLULU — Deposed Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos is concerned that supporters are "getting out of control" and says he has strongly advised them against any violent effort to overthrow President Corazon Aquino.

In an interview with The Associated Press on Sunday, Marcos called Mrs. Aquino "the most powerful dictator that the world has ever known" but said she is too weak to prevent communists from taking over her government.

"I think the poor girl just isn't strong enough to make her own decisions, and this makes her a dangerous girl," said Marcos, who was interviewed for three hours in the living room of his rented beachfront house.

He also uttered his first words of mild admiration for the woman who replaced him in a popularly backed military revolt, saying she is "in a quiet personal way, courageous" and adding that any other woman would have collapsed under the burden.

Russian immigrant shot

NEW YORK — A man questioned after the February machine-gun slaying of a Russian immigrant was found shot to death in his car, and police were looking for links between the two killings.

Investigators told The New York Times that Vladimir Reznikov, 44, of Hartsdale, a Russian immigrant who was shot Friday, was questioned four months ago as a suspect in the Feb. 3 shootout in two people were wounded.

Police speculated that last week's killing may have been in reprisal. They see an increasingly violent rivalry among criminal elements in the Russian emigre community.

Michael Vax, 27, a Russian immigrant, was charged in April with the Feb. 3 murder of Ilya Zeltzer, 34. He is free on bail awaiting trial.

A minister holds flowers which were sent by white South Africans to a central church in Johannesburg today to mark the 10th anniversary of the riots in Soweto that galvanized the anti-apartheid struggle. The government banned all gatherings linked to the anniversary so anti-apartheid groups instead tried to organize commemorative church services.

Nationwide strike

Millions stay away from jobs, schools

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Millions of blacks, confronted by the harshest government crackdown ever, today staged a nationwide strike to mark the 10th anniversary of riots in Soweto that galvanized the anti-apartheid struggle.

The government, claiming activists planned a day of violence, banned all gatherings linked to the anniversary and imposed a national state of emergency giving security forces almost unfettered powers.

Since the emergency declaration Thursday, 31 people have died in violence, government spokesman Leon Mellet said today, including three women killed by a car-bombing in Durban which the government suggested was carried out by black African National Congress guerrillas.

Mellet said the remaining 28 were blacks, seven killed by security forces and the rest slain by other blacks. Early today the government tightened already severe restrictions on the news media.

But despite the government's assertion that today was "a normal working day," millions of blacks stayed away from their jobs.

Downtown Johannesburg was deserted today, and on one typical city block only 10 of 30 shops were open for business. Many businesses that were open hired special security guards — but there were few customers to protect.

Streets of black townships were reported deserted, with most residents staying in their homes. Hundreds of companies and stores closed, both in city centers and black townships.

Mellet said 90 percent of the Johannesburg area work force stayed away, and high absenteeism was reported in other major cities.

In the Johannesburg-Pretoria area, the Putco bus service, which normally brings about 670,000 black commuters to work, shut down, and buses and commuter trains in Cape Town, Durban and other cities were reported nearly empty.

Local journalists reported incidents of stone-throwing, gasoline bombings and buses being burned in townships near Cape Town and Durban.

Mellet said at a news conference in Pretoria that no one had been killed since 6 a.m. (midnight Sunday EDT). Government officials said there had been no major disturbances since daybreak. They said police fired tear gas into a crowded Cape Town mosque late Sunday after snipers fired at officers.

A spokesman for the government Bureau for Information, who did not give his name, described the violence as "the normal type of thing, nothing serious, nothing out of line from what we expected."

Louis Nel, deputy minister for information, was quoted by the state-run South African Broadcasting Corp. as saying "plans to turn June 16 into a day of anarchy have been foiled."

Mellet said security forces "are on standby at every possible place where trouble could have been expected, anywhere in the country."

A black reporter who toured Soweto said the mood was somber in the vast black township outside Johannesburg, where rioting 10 years ago marked a turning point in South Africa's racial conflict.

"It's the quietest June 16th since 1976," the reporter said. "One could say Soweto is in deep mourning."

He said blacks in the township of some 2 million people were "staying indoors because they don't know what might happen on the streets."

Many moderate and liberal whites have sought ways to show their support for the anniversary commemoration. A group of whites from Johannesburg's affluent northern suburbs, barred from entering Soweto, organized an airdrop of 1,000 flowers over Soweto. Thirty carloads of flowers were also left at the entrance of the township.

Many white private schools held memorial services and discussion groups for students to learn about the events of a decade ago in the black townships.

Chernobyl officials fired

MOSCOW — Managers of the Chernobyl power plant failed to enforce discipline and control in the face of the nuclear accident there, and have been fired, the Communist Party newspaper Pravda said.

In its Sunday editions, the Communist Party newspaper did not specify how many officials had been dismissed, but it criticized five top managers, the head of the plant's Communist youth organization, and the plant's trade union leader.

Pravda also said some workers from the plant were still "on the run" after the April 26 explosion and fire. Previous reports have said some people fled instead of responding to the emergency.

The Pravda report was the first to announce firings related to the explosion and fire at the plant's No. 4 reactor, although previous reports have mentioned new plant officials.

Four printers abducted

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Sniper fire crackled at Beirut's refugee camps today, straining Syria's effort to impose a cease-fire to end four weeks of fighting between Shiite Moslem militiamen and Palestinian guerrillas that has killed 127 people.

Failure by the two sides to carry out an exchange of hostages imperiled the truce that ended four days of fighting in the Bekaa Valley, police said. Twenty-three people were killed and 129 others were wounded in the fighting, the police said.

Beirut police also reported that Moslem gunmen abducted four Christian printers today as they headed for work at the independent an-Nahar newspaper.

They had just crossed the Green Line from Christian east Beirut to the Moslem west side of the city on foot when gunmen grabbed them, the police said.

Libya seeking ransom

TRIPOLI, Libya — Western diplomats say the government is demanding a ransom or concessions from the United States in secret negotiations over the return of a body Libya says is that of a U.S. airman killed in the air strike on Libya.

The diplomats said Sunday that the secret negotiations have been going on for about the past 10 days in Tripoli and elsewhere. They have been conducted through mediation by Belgium, which represents U.S. interests in Libya.

The official Libyan news agency JANA reported Sunday that wreckage from a U.S. F-111 fighter-bomber had washed ashore. "The wreckage indicates that the jet was (an) F-111 whose number is 12T-40-801 serial R.G. F701 made on the third of September 1985," it said.

It did not say when the wreckage was found.

Israeli leaders concerned

TEL AVIV, Israel — Israeli leaders are expressing growing concern over the escalation in violence between religious and secular Jews, warning it could lead to an irreparable split within Israeli society.

Renewed concern over the religious-secular tensions followed a weekend of violence. Vandals painted swastikas on Tel Aviv's central synagogue, ripped up religious books and broke windows in a seminary, and painted death threats against the secular mayor of Petah Tikvah, a Tel Aviv suburb, on the town hall there.

U.S. not supporting Thatcher's efforts

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher didn't hesitate to support President Reagan several months ago when he needed U.S. air bases in Britain to strike Libya's terrorist network. Regrettably, the United States has not supported Mrs. Thatcher's efforts to counter her own terrorist problem, namely the Irish Republican Army.

The United States and Great Britain agreed last June to a supplemental treaty clarifying the circumstances under which terrorists could be extradited.

Specifically, the revision of a 14-year-old agreement says that suspects charged with such violent crimes as murder or kidnapping would no longer be allowed to fight extradition on the ground that their crimes were "political."

The sensible revision, however, has been languishing for the last 11 months in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The chief obstacle to the revised treaty's approval is an unlikely coalition of senators, including North Carolina Republican Jesse Helms and Connecticut Democrat Christopher Dodd, who argue that the Anglo-American agreement violates this country's longstanding practice of providing sanctuary to victims of political persecution.

These senators contend, moreover, that the treaty revision would set a dangerous precedent that could conceivably be used against Afghan or Nicaraguan freedom fighters.

The Helms-Dodd argument assumes there is no discernible difference between a democracy and a totalitarian state. But what could be clearer than that Britain is not Afghanistan or Nicaragua?

There must be no political asylum for persons who resort to wanton violence in a democracy where there are peaceful avenues available for their protests. Nor is the United States likely to negotiate an extradition agreement with totalitarian regimes.

Under the supplemental treaty, American courts would still hear cases involving IRA fugitives from justice. Indeed, the line of appeal would extend all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, with final discretion left to the president and the secretary of state.

The treaty revision is endorsed by the American Bar Association, which correctly concludes that no one in a democracy is entitled to kill to advance his political cause.

An estimated 1,700 persons have died at the hands of IRA terrorists during the last 17 years, and several of these killers have since been granted political asylum in the United States. Tom King, the British secretary of state for Northern Ireland, put it succinctly: "One democracy's terrorist is another democracy's terrorist."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee ought to send the treaty to the full Senate for a vote.

The United States can hardly lead the charge against international terrorism while it provides a safe haven for terrorists who resort to political rationalizations to evade punishment for their vicious deeds.

Doing God's will is true success

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What do you define as success? I would like to be a success in life, but I have decided I really don't know what that is. — S.L.

DEAR S.L.: Our world has many definitions and measures of success — but most of them miss the mark because they leave out God. That is why we should never define success in terms of money, fame or any similar measure. True success — success in God's eyes — is faithfully doing God's will. Seek, then, to be successful in God's eyes, for that is what counts.

You see, God loves you and He has a purpose for you, which is first of all to come to know Him personally by committing your life in faith to Jesus Christ as your Lord and Savior. Christ came to take away the sins of all of us and to reconcile us to God. Have you ever taken that step of commitment and given your life to Jesus Christ? That is the first step to being a successful person — by God's definition.

Then God also wants us to become more like Christ, through the power of the Holy Spirit working in us. I have met many people who are not "successful" by worldly standards — but their commitment to Christ and their Christ-like love for others makes them a great treasure in God's eyes. We become more like Christ as we allow His Word, the Bible, to shape us and make us into the people God wants us to be.

God also has an individual plan for you. I don't know what it might be — but God wants to use you, and He will, if you will let Him. If you are in God's will, then you are a success in His eyes — and that is all that really matters. "Blessed is the man who does not walk in the counsel of the wicked... But his delight is in the law of the Lord" (Psalm 1:1-2).

Amnesty International having 25th anniversary

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
 WASHINGTON — In 1961, British lawyer Peter Benenson was shocked to hear of two students in Portugal who had been arrested for drinking a toast to liberty at a local bar. Benenson decided the world needed a special organization to investigate and publicize governments' violations of human rights — and Amnesty International was born.

"We are ambivalent about the 25th anniversary," was the wry comment of one Amnesty International official. As she explained to our associate Lucette Lagnado, the fact that the organization still exists is hardly cause for celebration; it means that governments are still killing, torturing and harassing their citizens for the mere act of opposing or criticizing the regime in power.

Have conditions gotten any better in the quarter century that Amnesty has been stubbornly calling the world's attention to state-sponsored abuses? "The only difference between now and 1961," the Amnesty official said, "is that a person need no longer feel that nothing can be done."

For while Amnesty International hasn't turned back any holocausts, it has had more modest successes, obtaining the release of victims on an individual basis. While they pursue the individual cases with persistence and some success, the "Big Picture" is constantly changing through forces over which they have no control. "It is always dynamic," one AI veteran explained. "Some countries go up, then they come down. They have a sharp incidence of torture and abuse, then there is a relaxation, and then it gets bad again."

One recent victory was especially gratifying to us. It concerned Lu Hsiu-Lien, a Taiwanese feminist and Harvard Law School graduate whom we wrote about three years ago. She was jailed after speaking at a human rights rally in 1979, and though seriously ill, she was held in deplorable conditions.

Our report prompted the Taiwanese government to improve the conditions of Lu's incarceration, we were told. But it was Amnesty International's patient prodding and years of appeals to the regime that finally secured her release a few weeks ago.

Unfortunately, there are many more cases that AI has been working on for years without success. The organization's admirable refusal to give up the fight is about all the victims have going for them; eventually, perhaps, it will be enough. Here are some of AI's toughest clients:

- In the Soviet Union, Tatyana Semyonova Osipova, a 37-year-old computer specialist, is in a labor camp for engaging in "anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda" and "malicious disobedience." Her crime was that in 1977 she joined the Helsinki Monitoring Group, formed to check on Soviet compliance with the Helsinki Accords. She helped to document Soviet violations and was arrested in 1980. Sentence: five years in prison plus five years' internal exile. But she joined in protests and hunger strikes in the camp, and had several years added to her sentence.
- In South Africa, Thozamile Gqweta, 34-year-old president of the South African Allied Workers' Union, was arrested in February 1985 and has been held since then on charges of high treason. In 1981, two of his relatives died in a suspicious home fire. A week later, police opened fire at their funeral and Gqweta's fiancée was killed.

• In Vietnam, Nguyen Chi Thien, 53, is indeed a hard case. He has spent 23 years in prison because he refuses to stop writing poetry. He was first arrested in 1958 when he tried to establish a literary magazine in Hanoi. He was sentenced to two years at hard labor for "trying to discredit the regime by romantic poetry." He has been in and out of jail ever since. After one 13-year stretch in a "re-education camp," he was pardoned in 1978, only to be re-arrested the next year for slipping a manuscript to a foreign diplomat.

EXECUTIVE MEMO: The thing about revolving doors is that they work both ways. Though most of the publicity is about former government officials who take jobs in the industry they've been regulating, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission — charged with making sure that nuclear fuel plants operate safely — has two safety officials who used to work at the nuclear plants in Apollo, Pa. One is now a commission inspector; the other is an NRC licensing chief.

UNDER THE DOME: Knowing the parliamentary rules and using them can be a crucial edge on Capitol Hill: The law on foreign arms sales gives the House or Senate only 30 days to object, or a proposed arms sale goes through. But a Senate rule forbids voting on a matter until at least two days after a report on it is issued. The 30-day period to object to arms sales to Peking ran out on May 8. But the Foreign Relations Committee staff didn't file its report on the issue until May 9. This meant that conservative opponents in the Senate had no chance to vote — or even discuss the sale. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., wants the Senate rule changed.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Public attitude about suntans has changed

At one time, like most Americans, I regarded people sporting dark suntans with envy. A bronze tint connoted health and vitality. I don't remember exactly when, but at some point that perception changed. Now, on spying a deep tan, my only thought is of skin cancer, disfigurement and death.

I'm not alone. Advertisers, obsessively attentive to the preferences of consumers, have noticed a definite change in popular attitudes. One maker of suntan lotion, Bain de Soleil, has stopped using darkly-tanned models in its advertisements. "A dark tan is seen as unhealthy," a company official told the New York Times. "A more golden color suggests that you got it more slowly and carefully. It's a healthier look."

Getting Americans to acknowledge the serious risks of some habits, much less to change their behavior, isn't easy. Look at seat belts, which dramatically increase the chances of surviving an auto accident but which only a small percentage of people will voluntarily use. But once Americans become generally conscious of a risk and begin to shun it, the change in behavior can be drastic.

The best example is cigarettes. During the 1940s, about 70 percent of American men in their 20s smoked. Today only about 40 percent do. Some 30 million Americans have abandoned the habit. Per capita consumption of tobacco has declined by 26 percent since 1970. Why? Because Americans came to associate cigarettes with lung cancer, heart disease and other lethal ailments. Smoking is now widely regarded as slow-motion suicide.

When it comes to tanning, the shift in thinking has already begun. In 20 years, I expect, suntanning will be what smoking is today: a practice evoking more aversion than admiration, steadily shrinking in popularity, marking the practitioner as ignorant, weak or foolhardy. Like a tattoo, a brown glaze may come to signify nothing more than stupid vanity.

The reason is that the facts about skin cancer have begun to sink into the public consciousness. As the popularity of tanning has risen, so has the incidence of skin cancer, increasing by 900 percent for the most dangerous type since the 1930s. Of all cancers, this is the easiest to prevent — yet it afflicts half as many people (400,000 a year) as all other types of cancer combined.

Americans have learned that a suntan today may mean having an ear removed tomorrow — or, in the case of malignant melanoma, may mean a one-way trip to the graveyard. For those heedless of their health, there is an appeal to vanity: Tanning eventually causes skin to become dry and wrinkled.

If you've ventured recently to a beach strewn with sunworshipping bodies, it may be hard to believe that the warnings are being heard. But nowadays many of those bodies are shielded by a coating that shuts out most harmful ultraviolet rays. Since 1980, sales of sunscreens and sunblocks have risen by 70 percent. Sales of suntan lotions, which offer no protection, have stagnated.

The change in behavior may happen even more rapidly in this case than it did in smoking. Unlike cigarettes, getting a tan is only psychologically addictive. There can't be many people as devoted to it as the California woman discovered by Newsweek magazine, who has had 10 patches of skin cancer removed in 12 years, yet persists in tanning.

Nor is there a large industry whose economic interests require it to spend millions of dollars a year on advertising to encourage people to acquire tans. In fact, the money to be made here is on products that slow or prevent tanning. This time, the Surgeon General and Madison Avenue will be on the same side.

Widow eager to chuck sons' mountains of memorabilia

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow in my mid-50s. I have seven fine sons — the youngest is 21. I raised them in a four-bedroom-and-den dwelling, until one by one they graduated, found suitable employment and moved into their own apartments with my blessings.

Some are artists, some blue-collar technicians, still others are university graduates and professionals.

I am alone now, have a good job and secure future. My problem? Abby, you would be aghast should you enter my home. It is filled with trophies, certificates of merit, and dozens of awards for athletic and academic achievements. There are rooms filled with sporting equipment for baseball, basketball, football, tennis, golf, boxing, hiking, skiing, fishing and hunting. There are books, artists' supplies, a backgammon table, chess sets, dice, poker chips, playing cards, musical instruments and music books. Need I go on?

I have begged them individually and collectively to come and get their stuff. This house has served its purpose, and I'd like to sell or rent it to a large family. Then I'd find myself a small efficiency apartment and live happily ever after. I am appealing to you, Abby. How can I get my sons to act? They all say they will "soon," but soon never comes.

CARMEN IN LOS ANGELES

DEAR CARMEN: I am sure you know what to do, but you need someone to give you a shove. Here it is: Call a meeting of the "seven deadly sinners" and tell them your home is not a warehouse, so on (you set the date) you are having a garage sale, auction, or the Salvation Army is backing up a truck, and all their stuff is going by-bye. Therefore, if they haven't come over and picked up their property before that date, they will never see it again. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are about to buy our first home together. He has boxes of pictures and letters from all his past lovers. I don't want them in our home, but he insists that they are a part of his life and he will not let them go. I have asked him to store them in the home of one of his relatives so I will not have to run into them anymore.

Am I being childish? I love him very much, but this hurts.

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Childish? No. Surely there is somewhere to store these old souvenirs where you won't be "running into them." Basement? Attic? Let him find a place. And if he can't, I'm sure you can. Out of sight — out of mind.

New anti-cold medicine not ready for market

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: How does the new interferon spray medicine for colds work in the body? When will it be available for the public? — K.R.

The much-publicized nasal spray interferon medicine for prevention of the common cold remains on hold. Results of tests have been promising. Initial problems with irritation of nasal membranes seem to have been overcome with shorter periods of use. More studies are needed, after which other factors such as production costs, etc. will have to be addressed. We're all hoping it will be available soon.

Interferon is one of those miracle substances our bodies make. It is a cross between protein and carbohydrate. When viruses attack body cells, the cells release interferon into the blood. Eventually, the substance returns to the site of the infection, throwing a cloak of protection around neighboring cells to prevent viral spread. Discovery of interferon and the subsequent ability to make it in drug form was hailed as a major medical achievement. Although still limited in use, its potential to fight spread of rhinoviruses (those that attack the respiratory tract) is of great significance.

By spraying the substance on nasal tissue, the same effect is achieved as the one I described above. The direct application only shortcuts the process. Coating the cells prevents viral activity and prevents the cold symptoms. The most amazing fact about interferon is that its action takes place before the body's other defense mechanisms are even alerted that anything is amiss.

The medicine should eliminate literally millions of colds. More significant will be prevention of subsequent more serious respiratory ailments. It should be a boon to disease prevention in crowded environments — nursing homes, for example. Studies have already proved it very effective in halting spread of rhinovirus infections in family settings.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am told I snore loudly after I've been partying. Why? Any answer to why alcohol does this? — K.Z.

Alcohol relaxes throat muscles, closing the air passage and setting up vibrations. Time your last drink for at least three hours before retiring and you can beat the problem.

In response to reader requests, Dr. Donohue's publisher now has a complete listing of all the booklets on various medical problems. Readers wishing this list can write him care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for return mailing.

Important health concerns brought about by the mosquito

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

Mosquitoes are one of the most important insect pests that affect the health and well-being of man and his domestic animals.

Because mosquitoes survive in a variety of environmental conditions, vast annoying populations occur in Texas.

Female mosquitoes produce a painful bite during feeding and can transmit a number of disease-causing organisms to man and animals.

Loss in property values and animals production efficiency often can be traced to mosquito occurrence and feeding.

For your garden

LIFE HISTORY — Mosquitoes pass through four distinct stages during their lifetime. The egg, larva and pupa stages occur in water, while the adult stage is free flying.

Mosquito eggs may be laid singly or in groups called rafts on the surface of water. Some species of mosquitoes lay eggs out of water, but in places subject to flooding or submersion by rising water.

Mosquito larvae, often called wigglers, hatch from eggs and require water for development. Most mosquito larvae breathe by projecting an air tube through the water surface.

Mosquito larvae commonly feed on small aquatic organisms and other plant and animal debris found in the water habitat.

After 4-10 days, mosquito larvae mature to the pupal stage. Mosquito pupae are characteristically comma shaped and, like the larvae stage, breathe through air tubes. Mosquito pupae are sometimes called tumblers because of their tumbling motion in water when distributed.

PUBLIC HEALTH IMPORTANCE — Mosquitoes are known to transmit several important disease-causing organisms to man and animals. Encephalitis, dengue, filariasis, yellow fever, and malaria have affected man in mosquito infested areas throughout history.

Encephalitis and occasional cases of malaria remain as important mosquito-borne diseases in Texas.

Heartworm in dog is also a common mosquito-borne disease in the humid eastern area and coastal plains of Texas. It has occurred with increased frequency in Texas.

Encephalitis is a viral inflammation of the brain and is caused by mosquitoes infected with the casual virus feeding on man, horses and mules. Birds serve as important natural hosts for the virus in the disease cycle. Public health officials often survey migrating bird populations to determine the incidence of virus and the potential for transmission the man and animal by feeding mosquitoes.

Three virus strains, Eastern and Western equine encephalitis and St. Louis encephalitis, are known to occur in Texas.

Symptoms in humans include high fever, convulsions, delirium and other characteristic central nervous system disfunctions. Medical assistance should be obtained if symptoms occur.

Commercially available insecticide resin strips and aerosol bombs control adult mosquitoes in the home. Properly maintained window screening and use of insect repellents on the skin and clothing can provide considerable protection against mosquito bites.

When selecting sheet vinyl consider the mill it's made from

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent

Putting new sheet vinyl in a bathroom or kitchen is one home improvement project where you have almost unlimited choices in patterns, colors, types, qualities, brands and price ranges.

Before buying a pattern because you love the color, or because it's on sale, you might want to consider the following.

The determining factor in the quality and cost of most sheet vinyls is the thickness of the "wear layer" — that's the clear, usually shiny vinyl that covers the pattern. Thickness of the wear layer can range from three mils to around 20 mils. A mil is .001 of an inch. Under normal wear conditions, you can expect about a year's wear per mil. Once you have considered the thickness of the wear layer, be aware of the different types of sheet vinyl.

Focus on family

Printed sheet vinyl has a rotogravure print on the backing which is covered with a wear layer. Both inexpensive and expensive products are manufactured this way. The difference is in the thickness of the wear layer.

Cushioned sheet vinyl is similar, but features a cushioning between the backing and the pattern. The cushioning adds warmth, quiet and comfort, but may be punctured fairly easily.

Inlaid sheet vinyl has a pattern which penetrates the entire depth of the sheet. It is more expensive but usually wears longer.

Finally, consider the flooring finish. Most sheet vinyl now has a no-wax finish composed of either a highly quality vinyl or urethane. Both keep their shine quite well, but urethane is harder and as a rule more durable.

Installing new sheet vinyl in the kitchen or bathroom may be within the range of your skills, if you have enough time and the right equipment. But also remember that one wrong cut on your newly purchased flooring can be very expensive.

Sheet vinyl is available in six-, nine-, and 15-foot widths. It's best to choose a pattern that comes in a width which will cover the room with no seams, since no matter how carefully the flooring is installed, problems will appear first at the seams. However, wide-width vinyls are difficult to install. So if you find you need one of the wider widths, you may need to hire a professional tradesperson after all.

FOURTH GENERATION CARPETS
One of the latest innovations in floor coverings are carpets tufted of "fourth generation" nylon and polyester. This refers to a fourth major breakthrough in fiber technology. The first three generations added special finishes, soil-hiding and antistatic properties to carpeting. The fourth generation makes it possible for manufacturers to apply soil-protection fluorochemical finishes onto fibers while they're formed. That means the finish can be uniformly integrated throughout the structure of the yarn and it improves the performance of the carpet.

Most Texans do not favor Contra aid plan

By JAMES DYER and KATHY CASTEEL
Harte-Hanks News Service

Almost all Texans say it is important to eliminate communism in Central America, but more than half are not willing to go along with President Reagan's plan to give $100 million in aid to the rebels fighting the leftist Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

According to the spring Texas Poll, 60 percent of Texans say it is very important to the security of the United States to eliminate communism in Central America, and another 25 percent say it is important. Only 5 percent say it is not very important and 4 percent say it is not important at all to eliminate communism south of the border. Another 6 percent had no opinion. Yet in the same statewide telephone poll, 55 percent of Texans said they do not think the U.S. government should give $100 million in aid to the rebels, called contras, trying to overthrow the government in Nicaragua. Less than one-third (31 percent) think the contras should be given the money, and 14 percent had no opinion.

The president's proposed aid package for the contras passed the Senate but was narrowly rejected by the House in March. At the urging of House Republicans, a second vote on the aid package had been scheduled for this week.

This latest Texas Poll finding tracks a sentiment expressed by Texans last summer, when 55 percent said the United States should become much less involved in the internal affairs of Central American countries, while 25 percent said America should become more involved and 5 percent thought the situation should remain as it is.

In the spring poll, Texans most in favor of aiding the contras are Republicans; 46 percent favor aid, compared to 32 percent of independents and 19 percent of Democrats. Conservatives also agree in greater numbers to Reagan's plan; 39 percent favor aid, compared to 27 percent of moderates and 26 percent of liberals. Texas men also favor aid to the contras much more than do women (41 percent to 23 percent).

Opposition to aiding the contras is highest among blacks; 76 percent oppose aid, compared to 54 percent of whites and 52 percent of Hispanics.

Blacks also are the least likely to think it is very important to eliminate communism from Central America; 49 percent say it's very important, compared to 60 percent of Anglos and 71 percent of Hispanics.

Ideologically, more than two-thirds of conservatives say it is very important to eliminate communism, while 59 percent of moderates and 54 percent of liberals agree.

Texas Poll interviewers surveyed 1,001 adult Texans May 4-18. The poll, sponsored by Harte-Hanks Communication Inc., is conducted by the Public Policy Resources Laboratory at Texas A&M University.

Floyd takes Open Becomes oldest ever Open winner

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Ray Floyd had the look of a winner. His eyes were fixed on the U.S. Open golf title. His strategy was unshakable. His stride and swing were in perfect synch.

"It happens when he wins. His eyes glaze. He doesn't look left or right," his wife, Maria, said. "He goes into a trance. He doesn't see anything else around him."

The leaderboard changed Sunday like the fickle winds around Shinnecock Hills Golf Club. But Floyd didn't. Determined to play conservatively, he marched straight ahead through the maze of hopefuls to become the only golfer whose fondest hopes were fulfilled.

Three months before celebrating his 44th birthday and one week after blowing a final-round lead in the Westchester Classic, Floyd became the oldest player to win the U.S. Open. Ted Ray was 43 years, four months when he won in 1920.

"It's a phenomenal experience to achieve one of the great desires I've had ever since I was a little guy playing golf," Floyd, who already had won two PGA titles and one Masters championship, said. "The thing that I will appreciate most is that I had to come from behind. I excelled in a group of players who are very good players."

In the end, Floyd was on top, his final-round 66 making him a winner by two strokes with a 1-under-par 279 total. On his way to the $115,000 winner's prize, though, he hardly had an exclusive claim on first place at the par-70, 6,912-yard course of narrow, rolling fairways, heavy rough and small, sloping greens.

Ten different players led at one point or another on Sunday, making it the closest final round in Open history. At one point, nine players shared the lead.

The group included Lanny Wadkins, Chip Beck, Lee Trevino, Hal Sutton, Payne Stewart, Ben Crenshaw, Bob Tway, Mark McCormack and Greg Norman.

Norman, who led by three strokes after the second round and by one after the third, stumbled to a 75 Sunday to finish tied for 12th with Denis Watson at 285.

"I played flat, without much emotion," said Norman, the tour's leading money-winner this year who has yet to win a major tournament. "I didn't putt well at No. 6. I missed a 4½-footer for par. My emotion changed. Why? I don't know. I was just flat."

Wadkins, who tied with Beck for second at 281 after both shot final-round 65s that tied the course record set earlier in the day, had finished his round and was watching on a clubhouse television set. He saw Floyd stride firmly up the fairways, make excellent golf shots and focus on his goals — the pin and the title.

"There is none better when he gets in front and he gets that look in his eyes," Wadkins, a close friend of Floyd's, said.

Many have been better this year. Before Sunday, Floyd hadn't won in 1986. He finished second just once, at the Bay Hill Classic. And he shared the runnerup spot in that tournament.

But his fortunes seemed to be shifting. He was tied for the lead after three rounds of the Westchester Classic. Then, in the fourth round, he shot 77 and Tway went on to win. Depressed, Floyd drove that Sunday night the 100 miles to Shinnecock with his wife.

"We had a long time to discuss it," he said of his failure. "You want to make it a good learning experience and turn it around."

He applied his newfound knowledge after he "played terrible" in Thursday's rain and wind and shot a 75 in the first round here.

"That was part of the learning experience of the Sunday before. The thing is to take something bad and make it positive," Floyd said. "I won the tournament on Thursday."

"Today, I felt in control," he added. "I feel like everything was in synch. I was walking at a speed that was in synch with my golf swing. ... I never got upset."

A veteran of 21 previous U.S. Opens with a sixth as his best finish, Floyd knew the difficulty leaders have had keeping their leads on the tournament's tough courses.

"I planned the way I would play the course early in the week. No matter what, I would not deviate," he said, though he admitted he looked at the leaderboard. "If you do nothing foolish, people (ahead in the tournament) will come back to

A's whip Rangers 9-2; Astros lose as well

Now little Buddy Biancalana, the cult hero of the 1985 World Series, has a new gimmick. He's hitting home runs.

"This is a good place to hit. The ball jumps out," Biancalana said Sunday after homering for the second straight day in the Kansas City Royals' 6-5 road victory over the California Angels.

Not much had been heard from Biancalana this season following his World Series heroics. The shortstop, who batted just .188 last season, has played sparingly this year, mostly backing up Argenis Salazar.

Sunday's homer, along with a bunt single, gave Biancalana nine hits in 28 at-bats for a .321 average. But he also has committed six errors, including one Sunday that led to a run. Salazar is batting .241 with four errors.

White hit his eighth homer after George Brett walked in the fourth. Biancalana homered in the fifth off Ron Romanick, 3-5, and Balboni hit a three-run shot, his 13th, in the sixth.

Charlie Leibrandt, 6-5, pitching on three days rest for the first time in two years, got the victory.

Dan Quisenberry gave up Bobby Grich's two-run double before finishing up for his fifth save.

Brewers 7, Red Sox 3

Robin Yount and Ben Oglivie each homered and doubled, driving in three runs apiece that led visiting Milwaukee over Boston.

Yount hit his third homer in the third inning and Oglivie's third home run broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth. They both had RBI doubles during a four-run seventh.

Rookie Juan Nieves, 6-2, gave up nine hits. He left with runners on first and second and no outs in the eighth and Mark Clear finished up for his fifth save.

Wade Boggs, leading the majors with a .382 average despite a 3-for-20 slump, hit a run-scoring double in the first inning and lined out in the second. He then left the game after aggravating a rib injury.

Orioles 4, Yankees 3

Cal Ripken doubled home the tying run and scored on Mike

Young's two-out single in the eighth inning as Baltimore rallied past New York.

The Orioles snapped their first three-game losing streak of the season and prevented New York from sweeping the four-game series in Baltimore.

Lee Lacy led off the eighth with a checked-swing single that reliever Brian Fisher, 2-3, had trouble fielding. Ripken followed with his RBI double and Young, still in a 3-for-22 slump, delivered his game-winning single.

Mike Boddicker raised his record to 9-1 and Don Aase pitched the ninth for his 18th save, tops in the majors.

A's 9, Rangers 2

Chris Codiroli shut out Texas on five hits over six innings and Oakland took advantage of wildness by Rangers starter Bobby Witt.

Witt, 3-5, walked seven in the first three innings. Walks to Carney Lansford and Jose Canseco set up an RBI single by Dave Kingman and a two-run double by Mike Davis in the first inning.

Four walks in the third inning, along with a two-run double by Tony Phillips, made it 6-0. Witt has walked 68 in 66 2-3 innings this season.

Codiroli, 5-7, struck out four and walked none before leaving with a 9-0 lead in Oakland.

Blue Jays 9, Tigers 6

Garth Iorg's three-run, pinch-homer keyed a seven-run rally in the sixth inning and continued Toronto's barrage of pinch-hit home runs against Detroit.

Iorg's first homer of the season was Toronto's fourth pinch-homer run in three days against the Tigers.

Detroit has lost 12 of its last 16 games. Tigers Manager Sparky Anderson and catcher Lance Parrish were ejected from the game for arguing balls-and-strikes with rookie umpire Dale Scott. Parrish and Kirk Gibson homered for Detroit.

Mariners 10, White Sox 5

Dave Henderson, who hit a two-run homer earlier in the game, and Steve Yeager each had two-run singles during a six-run rally in the eighth inning that carried Seattle over Chicago.

John Moses drew a one-out walk in the Seattle eighth and scored on a double by Phil Bradley, tying the score 5-5. Ken Phelps' RBI single, his third hit of the game, set up the two-run singles by Henderson and Yeager.

Chicago's first triple play since 1981 came in the second inning. With Alvin Davis at third and Jim Presley at first, Phelps hit a fly ball to left fielder Jerry Hairston.

Davis tried to tag up and was thrown out at the plate and Presley, who had hesitated, was thrown out at second by catcher Carlton Fisk.

The triple play was third in the majors this season, two of them at the Kingdome. Seattle pulled one against Milwaukee and Atlanta caught San Diego.

Twins 7, Indians 3

Kent Hrbek, Roy Smalley and Gary Gaetti hit home runs that led Minnesota and Frank Viola over host Cleveland.

National League

Hrbek's solo homer, his 13th, broke a 1-1 tie in the fourth. Tom Brunansky followed with a single and Smalley connected for his 11th home run against Don Schulze, 3-4.

Gaetti, who was 3-for-3, hit his 15th homer in the eighth off Bryan Oelkers for a 5-2 lead.

Viola, 6-5, gave up three runs in 7 1-3 innings. He gave up nine hits, including solo homers by Carmen Castillo and Cory Snyder, his first in the majors. Frank Pastore relieved Viola and got his second save.

Mets 4-8 Pirates 1-5

"Needless to say, it was a long weekend," Pirates Manager Jim Leyland said after his team was swept 4-1 and 8-5 in Sunday's doubleheader by the Mets. "They keep cracking away at you. You see a little light and then they come around and score some more runs off you. They have so much depth, it's hard to keep up with them."

The Mets' victories completed a four-game sweep of the Pirates and improved their record over Pittsburgh to 11-1 this season. It also improved their record to a major league-best 43-16 and the Mets' lead in the NL East to 10½ games over Montreal, the biggest first-place edge in their 25-year history.

Bob Ojeda scattered nine hits and Len Dykstra went 3-for-4, leading New York over Pittsburgh in the first game. In pitching his third complete game of the season, Ojeda, 8-2, struck out five and gave up only one walk. Ojeda shut out Pittsburgh until Jim Morrison and Tony Pena doubled in the ninth.

Bob Walk, 2-3, making his first start after 21 relief appearances, took the loss. He gave up three runs on five hits and struck out four while walking two over five innings.

Rookie catcher Ed Hearn hit a three-run homer in the sixth inning to carry the Mets to their second-game triumph. Mookie Wilson and Gary Carter also hit home runs for the Mets in the nightcap.

Expos 2, Phillies 0

Herm Winningham hit a home run and Andy McGaffigan allowed only four hits over 6 1-3 innings as Montreal beat host Philadelphia. McGaffigan struck out seven and walked two in winning his fourth game against two losses. Jeff Reardon gained his 15th save of the season.

Reds 9, Braves 7

Eric Davis knocked in three runs with a single and a home run as Cincinnati defeated Atlanta. Davis had a two-run single in the first inning and a solo homer in the fourth to pave the way for winner Tom Browning, 4-6, who limited the Braves to five hits in five innings in beating the Braves for the fifth time in his career without a loss.

The Reds combined seven hits off Atlanta starter Zane Smith, 5-7, with two errors by Atlanta shortstop Rafael Ramirez to score four runs in the top of the first inning and three more in the third. Dave Parker and Davis then hit home runs off reliever Steve Shields in the fourth for a 9-0 Cincinnati lead before the Braves managed to score.

Cubs 4, Cardinals 3

Steve Lake's single in the bottom of the 11th inning scored Keith Moreland from second base, leading Chicago over St. Louis. It was the Cubs' first victory over Michael, who took over as manager Saturday.

With one out in the 11th, Moreland doubled and Leon Durham drew an intentional walk. One out later, Lake blooped a single to right as Tito Landrum failed to make a diving catch.

Ray Fontenot, 2-1, was the winner and Todd Worrell, 3-6, the loser.

Giants 7, Astros 2

Jeff Leonard, Chris Brown and Chili Davis all went 3-for-5 and scored two runs to power San Francisco over Houston. Leonard and Davis each knocked in two runs. Davis one of them with his seventh homer.

Vida Blue, 4-3, was the winner with relief help from Jeff Robinson and Mark Davis. Blue pitched six innings and gave up one run on four hits, striking out six and walking one.

"Vida was tough today. He had a lot of movement on all his pitches," Giants catcher Bob Melvin said. "From a hitter's standpoint, it's tough to get a fix on the ball with so much movement on it."

Bob Knepper, 10-4, was the loser in the Astrodome, giving up 10 hits and four runs in five innings.

Dodgers 6, Padres 0

First baseman Steve Garvey's two-run throwing error on Alex Trevino's bunt single in the bottom of the seventh triggered a three-run inning as Los Angeles beat San Diego.

College rodeo finals to begin today

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Four returning national champions will be back gunning for titles during the 37th annual College National Finals Rodeo that begins here Monday and runs nearly a week.

More than 300 competitors from colleges and universities across the country qualified for the national event during regional rodeos.

The defending team champions are Southwestern Oklahoma State in the men's division and Sul Ross State in the women's division.

Monday's competition will consist of "slack" performances at Brick Breeden Fieldhouse on the Montana State University campus.

The "slack" performances, needed because of the large number of contestants, will continue Tuesday. They will conclude the first go-round and start the second go-round in most of the nine events.

The men's events are bareback bronc riding, steer wrestling, calf roping, team roping, saddle bronc riding and bull riding. The women will compete in breakaway roping, barrel racing and goat tying.

The public performances begin Tuesday night and run nightly through Saturday.

The rodeo will consist of two complete go-rounds that include all the competitors entered, and then a championship go-round on Saturday night for the top 10 qualifiers in each event.

Besides team champions, the rodeo will determine CNFR champs from points earned at the rodeo — and national champions from points earned at the rodeo, plus points earned during the regional season.

The top two men's and women's teams in each of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association's 11 regions qualified all of their members for the CNFR. And the top two individual finishers in each event at the regional level also qualified.

One of the individual national champions back is Kent Richard of McNeese State in Louisiana.

He won the all-around title last year, but heading into the CNFR is only in 11th place with 810 points. The leader is Alexander Cordova of Central Arizona, who finished seventh last year and has 1,145 points so far this year.

Other returning individual national champions are Scott Gress of National College in South Dakota in bareback bronc riding, Chip Gatlin of Sam Houston State in Texas in steer wrestling, and Nolan Twisselman of Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo in team roping.

The CNFR has been held here 17 of the past 18 years. More than 31,000 spectators attended the rodeo in 1985, and rodeo manager predicts even larger crowds this year.

Baseball playoffs stuck in court

WACO, (AP) — The legal saga involving the Class 4A high school baseball tournament continues with a judge expected to decide whether the teams should play ball.

At least seven motions have been filed in four different courts over a disputed quarter-final series between Austin Westlake and Waco Richfield.

"The UIL staff wants to see the state tournament proceed," UIL Athletic Director Bill

Farney said Friday. "But we can't violate the law, either. We have to show respect, although we don't have to agree with the court orders."

The legal battle started after Westlake beat Richfield in the first game June 5 and rain delayed games 2 and 3. Pressed for time, the University Interscholastic League invoked a 27-year-old rule and decided that Westlake should advance to the state tournament.

Shriver closer to title

EDGBASTON, England (AP) — Pam Shriver, the defending champion and top seed, won her third successive Edgbaston title Sunday, defeating second-seeded Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria 6-2, 7-6 (7-0) in the final of the $125,000 Dow Chemicals Tennis Classic. In the doubles final, fourth-seeded Elise Burgin of the United States and Rosalyn Fairbank of South Africa (4) defeated top-seeded Elizabeth Smylie and Wendy Turnbull, both of Australia, 6-2, 6-4.

Nicklaus' bid falls short

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Masters champion Jack Nicklaus thought of what might have been as he stood on the 15th green at Shinnecock Hills.

Hoping to win a record fifth U.S. Open and get a second leg up on the Grand Slam of golf's four major titles in one year, Nicklaus looked long and hard at the scoreboard Sunday then turned to his caddy and son, Jackie.

"Talk about somebody who gave the tournament away," Nicklaus said.

"You mean Greg Norman?" Jackie asked of the second- and third-round leader who shot a final-round 75.

"Nope," Jack answered. "Me. I could have won it. It was mine to win."

Nicklaus admitted it would have taken some doing to catch determined champion Ray Floyd on Sunday in the 86th U.S. Open.

"I felt I had to shoot a 65 to tie and a 64 to win," Nicklaus said. "As it turned out, I needed 63. However, if I had shot 64 it might have made it tough on the leaders."

Nicklaus had started the day behind 15 players and finished eighth, five shots behind Floyd, the only man to finish below par for the 72 holes.

Nicklaus thought back to the final nine holes on windy and cold Thursday in which he lost a ball and shot 41 for a 7-over 77 for the day.

"The 41 killed me," Nicklaus said. "I lost by five shots and shot six-over par on that nine."

"You could look back and say I lost the tournament right there," Nicklaus said of the 408-yard par-4. Nicklaus said he thought he played a good tournament.

"I improved every day," he said. "I just got off to such a bad start I couldn't overcome it."

Nicklaus, 46, the oldest player to ever win the Masters, was happy for Floyd, the oldest player to win the U.S. Open.

"I've never seen Ray so emotional," Nicklaus said. "I'm very happy for him. He's a great player."

While others fell back, Floyd jumped ahead. As in the second round, he had no bogeys. He made birdies on the fourth, 11th, 13th and 16th holes. He took the lead for the first time in the tournament after finishing the 15th hole when Sutton, with whom he was tied at even par, bogeyed the 12th. He never lost it.

Sutton and Trevino, who began the day tied for second at 1-over-par 211, a stroke behind Norman, ended tied for fourth at 2-over 282 as both shot 71. Stewart, with a 70, and Crenshaw, with his third consecutive 69 after an opening-day 76, finished at 283.

Masters champion Jack Nicklaus, foiled in his bid for an unprecedented fifth Open title, Tway, McCumber and Bernhard Langer tied at 284. On Sunday, Nicklaus shot 68, Tway 72, McCumber 71 and Langer 70.

Among the rest of the field, Seve Ballesteros shot 73 and Tom Watson 75 as both finished at 289. British Open champion Sandy Lyle's 72 put him at 293 and defending champion Andy North's 75 left him at 302, 67th in the final field of 70 golfers.

The competitive course record of 65 was posted early by Mark Calcavecchia who finished the tournament at 287 with no other round better than 72.

It was Floyd, after much shifting of positions, who ended up leading that field at an advanced athletic age.

"I know I didn't have too many more chances at this one, so I thought that I best get on with it," he said. "In the realm of the sport, I'm very old but I don't feel old at all."

Mayotte beats lame Connors to win Wimbledon preview

LONDON (AP) — Tim Mayotte has included himself in the growing number of contenders for the Wimbledon men's singles title, while Jimmy Connors has joined the growing ranks of the injured going into the world's premier grass court tennis tournament.

"It's a real psychological breakthrough for me to beat these guys," Mayotte said after consecutively defeating second-seeded Boris Becker of West Germany, the defending Wimbledon titleholder, No. 3 Stefan Edberg of Sweden and the top-seeded Connors to capture the Stella Artois Grass Court Championships at Queen's Club.

His victory over Connors on Sunday earned Mayotte, ranked 20th in the world, $32,000.

The 33-year-old Connors' bid for a third Wimbledon title may have suffered a serious setback with the injury, which came in his first official tournament after completing a 10-week suspension.

"I want to stay over here and see how it goes," Connors said. "I don't want to play if I'm not 100 percent, but you know me ... I've got a week's rest and I'm going to see a doctor on Tuesday."

Mexico advances with 2-0 thrashing of Bulgaria

EXICO CITY (AP) — To more than 100,000 Mexicans who witness their team's move into the World Cup quarterfinals — and to thousands and thousands more who celebrated in the streets all over the country — nothing else happened in soccer championships.

The Soviets, winners of Group C, twice took one-goal leads on scores by Igor Belanov. Each time, the Belgians — third in Group B — rallied, on goals by Enzo Scifo and captain Jan Ceulemans.

That forced the first overtime of the competition. It was an end-to-end battle between two exhausted combatants, not unlike a championship fight in the 14th and 15th rounds.

Belgium got the knockout, with goals by Stephane Demol and Nico Claesen. Belanov completed his hat trick on a penalty kick a minute and another wounded in a shooting after a traffic accident. The agency said it was related to the frenzy in the streets, but it was not clear if the traffic jams and revelry extended to where the accident occurred.

"I never doubted the outcome during the match," Demol said. "The physical condition of the Soviet Union was renowned, but we were better."

"In my 77 games as national coach, this is the most gratifying win, together with beating world champion Argentina in Spain in the 1982 World Cup," Coach Guy Thys said. "I never doubted our ability and I continue to believe we can go farther."

The Mexican family — from the players and Yugoslav-born Coach Bora Milutinovich to the folks carrying on in the streets — has been united by the national team. After four years of economic hardship and last September's devastating earthquake, the success of the Mexican team is a welcome chance to be happy.

"When they passed to the second round, even those of us who are not soccer fans started to get involved," Marcela Aguilar, a 47-year-old housewife said outside Aztec Stadium. "(We are) leaving behind the economic problems we have to face in our daily lives."

Manuel Negrete scored a spectacular goal and assisted on the other score for Mexico. Negrete's first-half goal came as he exchanged mid-air passes with Javier Aguirre. Without the ball hitting the ground, Negrete launched himself and volleyed a right-footed boot into the net.

Servin scored in the second half off a perfect corner kick by Negrete.

"We moved together well and it was a great team effort," Milutinovich said. "I feel we played better than in the first round."

Mexico moves on to meet either West Germany or Morocco. The Belgians play either Denmark or Spain. The Bulgarians went home still without their first World Cup win. They have not won a game in five trips to the world soccer championship.

FIFA, the international soccer body, on Sunday fined the Spanish federation 25,000 Swiss francs ($12,000) and team doctor Jorge Guillen was officially cautioned regarding medicine given to a player.

FIFA spokesman Guido Tognoni said the fine was handed out after a Spanish player — sources told The AP it was Ramon Caldera — had failed a random dope test following the match against Northern Ireland on June 7.

Elliott ends slump with Michigan win

ROOKLYN, Mich. (AP) — Bill Elliott says his Thunderbird was giving him patience, but it saved the day for last as he captured his 14th consecutive Miller American stock car victory at Michigan International Speedway.

Elliott, 30, of Dawsonville, Ga., edged Harry Gant for five laps day before moving ahead for good with a slingshot pass on the 13th lap and winning by two car lengths at an average speed of 155 mph.

Actually, the car wasn't working that well at the beginning," Elliott, who won $56,900. "We were adjusting it on every pit stop, from lap 140 on the car really better.

The race, before nearly 80,000 spectators, was run in two hours, 53 minutes and 21 seconds. It was scheduled for 42 laps by eight caution flags. Elliott's 16th career victory and first since November, when he won the Atlanta 500. He also became the 11th driver to win one of this season's 14 NASCAR races after winning 11 races and $2.4 million in 1985.

"We ran a good race and just got beat by a better car," Gant said. "I was surprised (Elliott) waited as long as he did to come by me."

Before the race, Richard Petty was honored for making the 1,000th start of his 28-year career. Among those honors were commendations from the legislatures of Michigan and his native North Carolina. Petty finished in 13th place.

Meanwhile, rookie Rick Baldwin remained in critical condition late Sunday at W.A. Foote Memorial Hospital in nearby Jackson with a brain injury suffered when his Thunderbird hit a wall during qualifying laps Saturday.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGNER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 17, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A flare-up of tempers early in the day could cause an unfortunate argument of estrangement to take place, but it is immediately followed by a more reasonable attitude.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't get involved in an argument between an associate and an official or you could get into deep trouble.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A new contact may not agree with how you do your job, but control your temper. Then rise above this strange situation.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't argue with a practical individual over some amusement expense and you save the situation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A family tie and an outsider may not agree but don't mix in, since it does not concern you and peace soon reigns.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Don't try to straighten out an argument between a fellow worker and an outside partner since they are not chemically compatible.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good friend and an advisor could argue, but don't get involved. Then soon settle the matter.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You and your family ties may not see eye to eye on some matter, but it is their privilege, so say nothing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You find that two advisers disagree and you don't know how to proceed, so listen to what clever friends have to suggest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do not involve yourself in an argument between an associate and a financier over how to spend money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't get into a conversation with a powerful person who could ruin your position and chance for advancement.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get some tasks completed that require your attention and then you can accept new situations that are coming up soon.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan your time wisely so that you can handle business affairs of importance and personal ones also. Be devoted to your mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very charming with others and get along well with them, but a little later in life will become very ambitious and is apt to want to push others around in order to get his, or her way. Make sure to send to college since there is a brilliant mind here.

 "The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
