Gusts damage roofs, trees

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Winds clocked at more than 50 miles per hour swept through Howard County Monday night, damaging roofs and uprooting

Winds peaked at 56 miles per hour at 7:51 p.m., said Nell Rogers, spokeswoman for the U.S. Agricultural Research Service in Big Spring.

Gusts tore an 80-by-100-foot piece of roof off the Coahoma Church of Christ and "peeled back" the rest of the roof Monday night, said Brian Jensen of the Coahoma Volunteer Fire Department.

Damage was estimated at $20,000, he said, partly because the air conditioner was on the roof.

Coahoma city clerk Karen Bell said a gust picked the roof up and set it down on the street.

'It was really something," she said. "It blew it a whole block." The Church of Christ is on the corner of North and First Streets, she said, but the roof landed on South Street, a block over. It took workers the better part of the night to remove it from the street, she Another tree was uprooted hind 107 Jefferson St., said a resident there. The tree had been at the location for more than 40 vears, she said.

Appraisal protests rejected

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

Howard County Tax Appraisal Review board members "gave no relief" to three major oil firms who protested their mineral rights appraisals Monday in the county courthouse.

The board will begin hearing protests from property owners today through Monday.

Tax appraiser Gene Pereira said this morning that two of the firms asked for a cut because of the declining price of oil this year.

He said the law requires appraisals to be set according to Jan. 1 market values, even though the values may have declined since

The firms denied a revaluation were Sun Producing, Coastal Oil & Gas and Walsh & Watts Inc., Pereira said.

The mineral rights appraisals were determined by Capitol Appraisal Group Inc. of Austin, which is retained by the district "to assist the review board in setting values," Pereira said.

He said about 20 other firms that

About 25 property owners are scheduled to protest their assessed valuations through Monday. Of those, four or five are real property holders, who own business firms or mobile homes, Pereira said. Monday's hearings revealed that some oil producers had the "foresight" to sell their entire production costs for a year at a $28 per barrel rate, Pereira said. Other producers were smart enough to set their futures rate as high as $231/2 per barrel whereas the current price is fluctuating between $14 to $16 per barrel, he said.

disagreements arose Monday about Capitol's determination of the amount of minerals each holder possessed, only of the value of the

Soviets lead in space exploration

LONDON (AP) - The United States, for all its spectacular space successes, is 10 years behind the Soviet space program, says the latest edition of Jane's Spaceflight Directory published today.

In terms of space experience, the Soviets are so far ahead of the Americans "that they are almost out of sight," editor Reginald Tur-

Their cosmonauts have spent pared with the American astronauts' 1,587, he wrote.

"Worse, the U.S. experience is largely based on short flights, giving no more than three days at a time of uninterrupted materials processing and crystal growth experiments," Turnill said.

The Soviets' advanced Salyut space station Mir is already in place, but "for all NASA's brilliant more than 4,000 days in space com- interplanetary successes, the U.S. that produces the authoritative space station is receding into the mid-1990s and NASA ... (is) now 10 vears behind the Soviets in the practical utilization of what President Nixon so long ago dubbed 'this New Ocean,' '' he wrote.

"The Soviet lead in space is now almost frightening," wrote Turnill. Turnill's assessments came in the introduction to the 1986 directory, published by the company

Jane's reference works on aircraft, military vessels and weapons systems.

He wrote that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had a 100 percent flight safety record for 25 years and "no transport system can hope to maintain such perfection in the face of human fallibility.

Consequently, the biggest surprise about the Challenger space shuttle disaster on Jan. 28 was that NASA had made no contingency plans for the space program, he Turnill wrote that because of the Challenger disaster, plans to use the shuttle as the West's main satellite launcher had failed beyond recovery.

Town needs solution to glass pollution

By HANK MURPHY Staff Writer

iscarded beer bottles are abundant in Big Spring — whether smashed on street corners, neck-up in a front yard, or in jagged shards in a vacant lot.

Like oxygen, they are omnipresent — a litter problem that has some people disgusted.

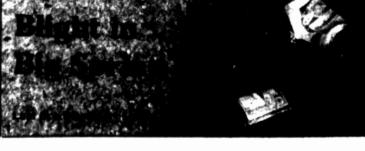

One of those is Hayes Stripling III, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee and a chemist at Permian Research in Big Spring.

"You have to focus in on something and take a stand," he says. "Look around Big Spring and you see a lot of glass.

Stripling says he has explored ways to curb litter, especially glass litter. Twice he has prodded City Council to find ways to reduce glass pollution, and twice councilmen said they would consider his request

Stripling says a statewide bottle law — similar to laws in nine other states - is "down the pipe." The bill was in the Texas

House of Representatives but failed to gain enough support to bring it out of committee, he

But Stripling proposes Big Spring pass its own bottle law. "Let's make Big Spring a leader," he says. "Let's recognize the problem and do something about it. Stripling says he has the ear of Mayor Cotton Mize and Councilman Johnny Rutherford in his campaign to curb glass litter.

'My feeling is I think Johnny is very interested and I think Cotton is interested enough that he'll pursue it. The other guys I think will go along if we get enough people involved, telling them that they support them.' Councilman Russ McEwen, however, said at a council work session in April that he didn't know; exactly what Stripling wanted during his two presentations. McEwen said he opposed a beverage container ordinance.

"I'm in total disagreement" to legislating an anti-bottle ordinance, he said. "I don't drink beer, but if I did, I don't want the city of Big Spring to tell me I can't drink beer out of a bottle.

When advised of McEwen's comments, Stripling said, "For Russ to say he doesn't understand, I think he doesn't listen. What I'd like to see is some action taken to get bottles off the street - if it's just banning bottles

"I don't want to legislate, I'm not the kind of guy who wants to tell you you have to do this. I LITTER page 2A

lames in the news

By The Associated Press NEW YORK — His father's face is known the world over, but being the president's son apparently does not give RON REAGAN carte blanche or ready recognition.

The younger Reagan, in fact, soon could be asking millions of Americans "Do you know me?" in a commercial for the American Express credit card.

'It's a typical 'Do you know me' commercial. You know the name but can't place the face," said Jerry C. Welsh, executive vicepresident of marketing for American Express.
The ad, which was completed last week, must be approved by American Express executives before it runs, said Welsh. "Until we see the film and judge its effectiveness, we don't know if it'll make it" on the air, he said. Welsh would not say how much Reagan was paid for his mentor BENNY GOODMAN at the appearance.

Hampton agreed to take over the spot after Goodman died last week at his New York apartment at age

"Lionel and Benny had remained close friends since they played together 45 years ago and Lionel went to console the Goodmans as soon as he learned of Benny's death," said Russell Linnemann, chairman of the festival's entertainment committee.

PORTLAND, Ore. - The City Council will take up the question of whether BOB DYLAN and TOM PETTY are too loud for local residents.

The rockers were scheduled to perform outdoors at Civic Stadium on July 29, but noise control officer Paul Herman refused last week to grant the True Confession Tour a variance from city noise regulations.

Herman said the high-volume sound would damage the hearing and raise the blood pressure of nearby residents.

WEST TEXAS: Isolated showers and thunderstorms far west and scattered mainly afternoon and evening thunderstorms most other sections through Wednesday. Lows tonight in the 60s except low 70s Big Bend valleys. Highs Wednesday 84 north to 95 far west and near 103 Big Bend valleys.

Nation

A cold front stretching from northern New England across the lower Ohio Valley sent showers and thunderstorms across the region

Temperatures early today dipped into the 30s to 40s from northern Minnesota to northern Michigan and were in the 50s from the Northeast across the remainder of the Great Lakes and upper Mississippi Valley to North Dakota.

Thunderstorms also were scattered across Texas, New Mexico, Colorado and Florida, while rain dotted Washington and northern Strong winds accompanied thunderstorms in southern Indiana, the eastern Great Lakes region and northern New England.

Today's forecast called for scattered rain across Maine and showers and thunderstorms scattered from the Carolinas across the Southeast and the Gulf Coast into Texas and from Montana to the northern Pacific Coast.

Highs were forecast in the 60s and 70s along the northern Pacific Coast and from the northern Atlantic Coast across the Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley and upper Mississippi Valley; 80s and 90s across most of the South and West; and 100s in the desert Southwest.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 33 degrees at Marquette, Mich., to 97 at Phoenix, Ariz. Other reports:

Fifth grade scores below average in reading

By EDDIE CURRAN Staff Writer

FORSAN - Forsan students in grades 3, 7, and 9 exceeded the state average on the Texas Assessment of Minimal Skills tests, but the writing scores brought an otherwise excellent performance by grade 5 below the state average.

Bob Evans, counselor for grades K-12, made the report at the Forsan school board meeting Monday night. He said the TEAM tests are given to students in odd-numbered grades. He did not yet have scores for the first grade, he said.

The standardized tests are given to point out deficiencies, Evans said.

Results for Forsan show that 86 percent of fifth-graders passed the math test and 89 percent passed the reading test, but only 43 percent passed the writing test. This compares to state rates of 80 for math, 83 for reading, and 64 for writing. Superintendent J.F. Poyner said he was surprised by the writing scores and had called Austin for details. He said he discovered that some of the more gifted writers had failed while less gifted students had passed, because the better writers had "gotten creative" and failed to follow instructions

The ninth-grade had the highest scores overall, with 85 percent passing math, 87 percent reading and 80 percent writing. These compare to state scores of 81 in math, 80 in reading and 63 in writing. The seventh-grade also fared well against state averages, with 83 percent passing math, 91 percent reading and 68 percent writing. State averages were 81 in math, 78 in reading and 66 in writing.

Of Forsan third-graders, 76 percent passed math, 87 reading and 76 percent writing.

This compares to state rates of 80 in math, 74 in reading and 76 in writing.

Evans also reported results in the 1986 California Achievement Test results, which were given to students in even-numbered grades. He said theoretically 50 percent should score above the national average.

In the overall score, which includes reading, math and language, 84.4 percent of second-graders scored above the national average, as well as 62.9 percent of fourth-graders, 54.5 percent of sixth-graders, 53.3 percent of eighth-graders, and 55.9 percent of 10thgraders

"I know of nine states — about 20 percent of our population that have deposit laws and they work.''

Facts released by the Environmental Action Foundation support Stripling's contention.

According to the foundation, beverage container litter was reduced 75 to 85 percent in states that have enacted deposit laws, and roadside litter was reduced 30 to 60 percent.

In Oregon, where the nation's first bottle law was passed 14 years ago, each beverage container carries a 2- to 5-cent

Bill Bree in the Oregon Department of Environmental Quality said from his office in Salem that the bottle law has widespread public support and has been instrumental in keeping the state's streets and highways clean.

Discarded beverage bottles and cans present a special litter problem. Broken glass is the most hazardous, and bottles and cans are the least biodegradable portion of the litter stream, the Environmental Action Foundation states.

While paper quickly degrades, an aluminum can takes 500 years to disintegrate, a glass bottle takes 1 million years and a plastic container never biodegrades

In 1984, Texas spent more than $20 million cleaning litter, mostly beverage containers, from its 72,000 miles of highways, according to the Texas Coalition for Container Deposit Legislation.

Big Spring's litter law has a maximum fine of $250, and police say they have issued eight littering citations this year Most councilmen and city of-senior class trip.

"They're not going to throw something out when there's a patrol car around," Councilman Harold Hall said at an April council meeting.

A council committee composed of Rutherford and Gary Don Carey intends to approach beer glass litter. Big Spring's two distributors received a letter Friday from the mayor asking them to meet with the committee to explore solutions.

Randy Howell, division sales manager for Coors in Big Spring, says he'll be happy to meet with the committee. "If there is a problem, I think there may be a logical solution to it," he says.

Stripling has suggested selling only long-neck, returnable bottles, which Howell says he considers a "viable alternative." Howell points out, however, that a health problem could develop as a result of bottles sitting indefinitely where they could be exposed to food bacteria.

What do retailers think about making beverage containers returnable? 'We're very negative towards it," says C.G. Evans, manager at Don Newsom's Food Center. "It would be bad news

"You're looking at space costs and time costs," he explained. "I'd rather see them outlaw Evans adds, "We don't like seeing them (bottles) on the street, but I don't know if a deposit law would stop it. Litter, whatever kind, may never be stopped. But Stripling asserts it can be slowed drastically. "I think if we make the effort, we can change it some. It's not something that'll change in a year, but I think we can make a dent in one year. If we can continue we'll change people's minds and Big Spring will turn around. It should be the prettiest city in West Texas.'

Runner for charity robbed

NEW YORK (AP) - A 24-year old Briton running around the world for charity found himself stranded in New York City after two men broke into his car and stole all his belongings, including his passport.

"I've made it through 20 countries, had my shoes stolen by monkeys in India, got stuck in a swamp in Thailand and got beaten up by some drunks in Australia a couple of days before Christmas,' said Henry Weston.

"We've come through a lot of hell to get here and now we lose absolutely everything in New York."

Weston, who has been accompanied by two people who filmed the run that began April 1, 1984, arrived in the city a week ago after a 16.000-mile odyssey through Europe, the Middle East, Southeast Asia, Australia and the United States.

He had been scheduled to leave Monday evening for Ireland, where he would begin the last leg of his

Bleachers collapse

GREENPORT, N.Y. - A circus bleacher collapse that sent at least 53 people to hospitals may have been caused by muddy ground beneath the 500-foot-long set of bleachers, an emergency official says.

The 10 rows of bleachers collapsed Monday while a crowd waited for a traveling show, the Toby Tyler Three-Ring Circus, to begin its show at a shopping center Monday evening, officials said

Some people fell 10 feet to 15 feet, said Columbia County Emergency Management Director Marty Tuczinski. One infant suffered a fractured skull, but officials described most AUSTIN — Despite a gubernatorial order asking agencies to slash expenses, state spending continued to increase during May, the comptroller reports.

It was the third month in a row that agency spending exceeded the monthly average recorded during the first half of the 1966 budget year, Comptroller Bob Bullock said

Spending from all funds, including those dedicated to specific purposes, was up 80.5 percent, Bullock said.

Spending from the general revenue fund, which finances most state agency operations, increased 2.6 percent during May, Bullock

Police arrest 24 people

TROY. Ohio - Police in riot helmets dispersed dozens of demonstrators in the third night of protests against the killing of a teenager by two police officers, and 24 people were arrested, authorities said today.

About 100 people, mostly teen-agers and young adults, gathered in the city's downtown Public Square after Monday night's City Council meeting, said Miami County Sheriff

L.B. Dunfee. At the meeting, residents had demanded answers to questions about the June 9 shooting of 18-year-old Kerry Helton. Police have said the two officers fired six shots each at Helton as he advanced toward them with a knife after the officers kicked in the door to a bedroom in his mother's home.

Woman dies from cyanide

AUBURN, Wash. - Extra-Strength Excedrin capsules were pulled from store shelves after authorities confirmed that a cyanide-laced capsule caused the death last week of a 40-year-old woman.

Sue Snow, a bank manager, was found collapsed in her home by a relative last Wednes-day, said Officer James Monnett of the Auburn Police Department. She died later that day at a hospital.

A fireman hoses down the last of the embers on a television helicopter that crashed in Jacksonville Monday morning. The pilot and a reporter were killed and the cameraman is in critical condition. The helicopter crashed during a live broadcast and motorists and workers who witnessed the crash pulled the victims out before the helicopter became engulfed in flames.

Helicopter crashes on live TV; two killed

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) - A traffic reporter and helicopter pilot died when their aircraft crashed during a live television broadcast as thousands of viewers, including the reporter's parents, watched spinning pictures from an onboard camera.

Monday's accident killed reporter Julie Ann Silvers, 26, known on the air as Julie King, and pilot William Buddy Smith, 34, said Duval sheriff's Sgt. Steven Cameraman Brett C. Snyder, 22, was in serious condition at University Hospital, said Katherine M. Green, a news producer for WTLV-TV.

Ms. Silvers, a reporter for WAPE radio whose traffic reports were also broadcast on WTLV, had just finished her report at 6:44 a.m. when she seemed to gasp, said WTLV producer Mary Johnson. She then uttered her last words: "Uh, we'll check on that condition," shortly before the Hughes 500 crashed and burst into flames, Ms. Johnson said.

In the seconds before the crash, viewers saw a live shot of the traffic from about 150 feet in the air, Ms. Green said.

"Then you see the picture begin to tilt upward away from the ground and toward the sky, and it's obvious at that point that the chopper is beginning to rotate," she said. "Then the picture begins to break up." The skewing of the picture was the only indication to viewers that something was going wrong, said Sharon Monroe, director of the show.

Witnesses saw the helicopter fall several hundred feet, spiral through trees and slam into a vacant lot, said George B. Banks, WTLV assignment manager. Passersby ran over and freed the occupants shortly

Mobs set fire to club

BELFAST, Northen Ireland - Rioters set fire to a Roman Catholic social club and a restaurant in Portadown during a rally early today by hundreds of Protestants protesting the British-Irish agreement on Northern Ireland, police said.

Elsewhere in Portadown, riot police were deployed to prevent youths from building barricades across streets, said Belfast police Sgt.

Mobs stoned firefighters who attempted to put out the two fires in the predominantly Protestant town located 25 miles southwest of Belfast, said the police spokeswoman.

11 blacks killed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - The government said today 11 blacks were killed during and after a nationwide general strike marking the 10th anniversary of the Soweto uprising, but claimed its security clampdown prevented widespread disturbances.

Millions of blacks stayed away from their jobs Monday to mark the anniversary. Hundreds of companies and stores closed, and few blacks were on the streets of Johannesburg. This morning, blacks returned to work.

"Nowhere was there mass unrest," government spokesman Leon Mellet said today.

Hero deserves TV show praise

A healthy society is one that remembers its heroes and honors them accordingly. So it says something good about America that Gen. Jimmy Doolittle is still paid appropriate honors four decades after his legendary exploits during World

Bob Hope told jokes. Jimmy Stewart, himself a decorated bomber pilot during World War II, reminisced. Such other entertainers as Phyllis Diller, Don Knotts and Rich Little did their bits. But the chief attraction had to be Gen. Doolittle, looking remarkably fit for his 90 years.

Younger Americans recall Jimmy Doolittle mainly from their history texts or from World War II documentaries. Those old enough to have lived through the dark days of early 1942 have more vivid recollections of what then Lt. Col. Jimmy Doolittle meant to his countrymen.

It seemed a suicide mission: Launching B-25 bombers from an aircraft carrier, bombing Tokyo with a mere 13 planes, and then flying on to land in China.

The raid was a brilliant success even though it caused only minimal physical damage. It stunned the Japanese and helped persuade them to strike at Midway, a decision that led, in turn, to the decisive American naval victory that blunted Japan's expansionist drive.

But the raid's most dramatic effect was the soaring boost it gave to America's then-sagging morale.

Jimmy Doolittle, a lieutenant colonel in the Army Air Corps at the time of the Tokyo raid, contributed impressively to the neighbors on the resort island of allied victory in World War II. Indeed, Gen. Doolittle kept on contributing to his country and to the newly established U.S. Air Force long after the war.

As direct memories of that war, the single greatest event of The bill would settle a 15-year-old the 20th century fade with time and distance, the deserved homage paid such heroes as Jimmy Doolittle becomes all the more fitting for him and for his country.

and JOSEPH SPEAR WASHINGTON — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and her Martha's Vineyard are the only clear beneficiaries of a bill introduced by her brother-in-law, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. Indian claim to a small portion of The land in question, 238 acres in the township of Gay Head, had been part of a reservation for the Wampanoag Indian tribe. But in 1870, Massachusetts opened the reservation for non-Indians, and whites eventually bought much of the Wampanoags' land.

Kennedy's bill would appropriate $1.5 million of federal funds (Massachusetts would provide an equal amount) to buy a tract of land in Gay Head that the Wampanoags could develop. In return, the Indians would quit their court battle for title to the entire 238 acres.

That lawsuit has clouded land titles and made it difficult for non-Indians to sell or mortgage their property, including some posh vacation homes.

Title to a 325-acre estate owned by Onassis also could be in question as long as the Wampanoags push their land claim.

But Kennedy apparently did not break any conflict-of-interest rules by offering his bill. The rules state that senators may not propose legislation "the principal purpose of which is to further only" the interests of themselves or their immediate families.

An ethics expert said that "only" is the key word, because Kennedy's bill, if adopted, will benefit unrelated landowners a well as the former first lady.

A Kennedy aide also argued that the senator became involved in the Wampanoag dispute several years before Onassis acquired her property.

The negotiated settlement at the heart of Kennedy's bill has bitterly divided the Wampanoags. Dissenters claiming to represent 100 to 170 Wampanoags — almost half the tribe — accused those who agreed to the settlement of giving away basic aboriginal rights, including exclusive access to the Gay Head cliffs, possession of the

Jack Anderson

Wampanoag leaders claim the dissidents number 20 percent of the tribe at most. One tribal negotiator, Donald Widdiss, explained to our associate Stewart Harris why the Wampanoags didn't try for more concessions before they settled.

It seems the Bureau of Indian Affairs has not yet ruled whether the Wampanoags are a bona fide Indian tribe. The decision is expected sometime this month.

Rather than gamble on the bureau's decision, Widdiss explained, the Wampanoags decided several years ago to settle with the state and the town; Kennedy's bill supposedly would nail down the settlement.

But the Indian bureau pulled the rug from beneath the Wampanoags when it announced recently that it will ask President Reagan to veto any settlement unless the tribe is given official recognition. The bureau's premise is that the federal government shouldn't be giving money to Indians who cannot prove their heritage.

What this means is that the Wampanoags may have negotiated away their rights for nothing. If the Indian Bureau rules against them, they come up empty-handed despite the settlement.
The Indians' attorney, Henry

Sockbeson of the Native American Rights Fund, said his clients feel as if the rules were changed midway through the game. But he said the Wampanoags are honor-bound to stick with the negotiated settlement, even though he agrees it's a poor one

This attitude infuriates Joan Patadal, a leader of the dissident Wampanoags. She blames the Native American Rights Fund for the settlement, and thinks that Kennedy's judgment was clouded by his special relationship with the widow and children of his slain brother, John F. Kennedy. Meanwhile, the Senate Select Committee on Indian Affairs is holding up the Kennedy bill until the Indian Bureau decision on the Wampanoags's status. None of the committee members co-sponsored the legislation. TELLTALE TAKEOUT: AS the designated custodian of the nation's priceless historical documents, the General Services Administration tried to get White House permission during a government readiness exercise to move the documents out of Washington well before the outbreak of mock hostilities. Permission was refused.

The GSA asked for authority to move the documents wihtout a White House OK, but the answer was still no. The reason, apparently, is that Soviet spies would report the removal and lead the Kremlin to think a U.S. first strike was imminent — and strike first instead.

CONFIDENTIAL: Hopeful successors are lining up to take over when Burma's 74-year-old leader, Gen. Ne Win, dies or steps aside. He's ruled the country since 1962.

Our intelligence sources say three military men in their 60s are his likeliest successors: San Yu, new vice-chairman of the rulig Burma Socialist Program Party; Aye Ko, the party's general secretary, and Sein Lwin, the joint secretary. None of three seems likely to change Burma's status as an international hermit cut off from both East and West.

MINI-EDITORIAL: We'd certainly hate to be classified as 'diehard'' Nixon haters, in Newsweek's phrase, but we were frankly appalled at the magazine's recent cover story announcing that Richard Nixon is "back."

To its credit, Newsweek did list all the various assaults on the Constitution approved by the former president. At the risk of seeming unforgiving, we'd suggest that the proper title for the puff piece should have been: "The Unindicted Co-Conspirator Is Back.

Keeping tabs on no-shows

It's June and weddings are busting out all over. The one thing I notice is that many parents tend to be more upset with those guests who don't come to the wedding than pleased with those who do.

And so it was with Bob and Kathie Parrish of Sag Harbor, N.Y., whose lovely daughter Kate was married last week

I found Bob and Kathie standing on the porch overlooking their palatial garden, filled with wedding guests. I expected them to be happy since everything was going so smoothly.

'Great party," I told them. "Ben and Hannah Mazer didn't come," Kathie said.

"How do you know that with so many people here?" I asked.

'They called and said they had jury duty.' 'On Saturday?"

Exactly. They could have told the truth and said they were going sky-diving.' 'Dave and Laurie Kramer aren't here. We went to their daughter's wedding, and we hadn't seen her since she was 2," Bob said. "I guess Dave's golf game is more important than listening to 'Oh Promise Me.'

"You people are really keeping score, aren't you?"

Bob said, "I've given up many a weekend to go to the weddings of my friend's children, even when I had tickets to a Jets game. I expect them to give me the same courtesy.

Standing on her toes, Kathie said, "I don't see the Sokals."

"They probably found a better wedding to go to after they accepted," Bob said.

'Wait a minute," I said. "I see Judy Sokal over there by the gazebo. You have to give her credit for being here."

Bob said, "We're only keeping track of people who didn't come. 'Do you see Mary Anne and Carlos Sullivan?" Bob said to Kathie. "Why should I see the Sullivans? I told you we were wasting a stamp when we sent them an invitation. They're much too hoitsy-toitsy to come to a wedding on Long Island. If it isn't Prince Andrew and Sarah Ferguson's nuptials, they're not interested."

"Forget the Sullivans, and give credit to those who are here like the Flicks, the Schicks and the Wicks.' Bob said, "We gave the Sullivans a damn nice wedding present, and never even got a thank-you note." "In spite of everything," I told "you have a lovely group of people here, and I doubt if you could accommodate any more guests. "The ones I hate the most,"

Kathie said, "are the friends who call up at the last moment and tell you that they have swine flu." "Why do you hate them?" I ask

Because we still have to pay the caterer whether they come or not.' 'You're ruining your day keeping score of all the no-shows at your reception," I said.

'Not me," said Bob. "I never take anything personally." Art Buchwald's humor and satire is distributionally by Los Angeles Times Syndicate.

NEW YORK (AP) - A woman's household cleaning equally when women said it was good that more place is outside the home, according to people who responded to a Media General-Associated Press

The increasing number of working women was seen as a positive trend by nearly half of the 1,473 adult Americans in the poll, while only one-quarter thought it was harmful.

However, when it comes to hiring and promotions, many of the respondents said they thought men still had an advantage over women.

All other things being equal, a man has a better chance of winning promotion than a woman, according to 55 percent of the respondents. Only one-third thought men and women had equal chances of being promoted.

Forty-four percent of the respondents said a man had a better chance of being hired than a woman, while 37 percent thought men and women had equal opportunities. Twelve percent said the woman would have an advantage, and the rest were unsure.

 Only 22 percent said they would prefer to work for a man; nearly three-quarters of the respondents said the sex of their boss was unimportant to them.

The poll also found:

 More than 9 in 10 respondents said spouses should share both work full-time outside the home. Yet in 57 percent of the households where both partners worked, women did most of the cleaning.

• Younger people were more likely than older people to accept women in the workplace. While 60 percent of 18- to 34-year-olds said the increasing number of working women was a good trend, only 36 percent of 55- to 64-year-olds felt that way. Only 28 percent of those over 65 years old thought it was a good trend.

 Fifty-eight percent of the respondents said women should have an equal chance to do any job men could do, while 39 percent said there were certain jobs women shouldn't do. Cited most often by those who didn't want women in certain jobs were heavy labor and construction, police and fire ser-vices, and other dangerous jobs like mining, combat or working with chemicals and explosives.

The number of women in the U.S. work force has more than doubled since the late 1950s, from 20.6 million in 1958 to 47 million at the end of 1985, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. In 1958, women comprised one-third of the work force; last year, they accounted for 44 percent of all workers.

An equal percentage of men and women were working outside the home, but women were far more likely than men to say that men held an advantage in hiring and promotions

Nearly two-thirds of the women said that a man had a better chance than a woman of being promoted when all else was equal. Less than half the men felt the same way

In hiring, 51 percent of women and only 37 percent of men said a man had an advantage over a woman of equal skill.

Men and women also differed somewhat on who they would prefer to work for. Seventeen percent of men and 27 percent of women would rather work for a man. Seventy-seven percent of men and 67 percent of women said they had no preference. And 3 percent of men and 4 percent of women would rather work for a Respondents in the Media General-Associated Press poll included a random, scientific sampling of 1,473 adults across the country April 3-11. As with all sample surveys, the results of Media General-AP telephone polls can vary from the opinions of all Americans because of chance variation in the sample.

Drugs and the pill are a risky combination

DEAR ABBY: I was very interested to read your column wherein a reader described the suppressing action of certain antibiotics on oral contraceptives.

As a member of the dental profession who considers himself wellread and who prescribes antibiotics routinely, I must confess that I was not aware of these facts. A quick survey of my colleagues suggests that it has yet to reach the dental profession in significant

Reader pleads for rehabilitation emphasis

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I hope you print this. I work in a nursing home for the elderly, mostly. I see lots of stroke patients. I talk with lots of families. I am constantly aware of the failure or total absence of rehabilitation efforts. Many times, family members wives, husbands, children, whatever — have just about bypassed rehabilitation or just given up too soon. We see the results. Occasionally, we see patients who have had extensive rehab that has failed or not worked well. But by and large, those are the minority. I wish you would impress on people the need to take advantage of rehab facilities early after stroke. — Mrs. I.Y. I'm pleased to run your letter.

Statistics constantly confirm what you say. The more we learn about rehabilitation, the higher the percentage of success we have with it. The latest reference I read stated that as many as 78 percent of stroke victims who get early and intensive rehabilitation do return to their homes and avoid nursing home living.

Beyond the obvious improvement of quality of life for them, there is a more selfish gain for us all, a sharp reduction in health care costs. So the first concern of a family of such a patient is to get an being the case. Proper care of the honest appraisal of the potential for return to function. Based on that, realistic goals can be set and worked toward.

H.E. asks me (in another letter) about use of electrical stimulation in trying to bring back muscle function. It is being used with some degree of success. The electrical current causes a muscle contraction and the patient can, at that moment, concentrate on enhancing the limb use

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My feet have taken on a pallid look. They seem shiny, including the ankle area. Now, I have been under care for diabetes for some years. I've always been told to watch my feet. Can this change in their appearance be related to the diabetes? — Mrs. P.F.

There's a good likelihood of that diabetic's feet is very important. And it is true that feet can be an indicator of diabetes control or lack of it. The feet can offer clues and alert the diabetic to approaching problems. Too often the clues are ignored and dire consequences ensue, like limb amputation.

Have your feet examined, and soon. Most such complications are related to either circulation or nerve disturbance associated with diabetes. Pallid, shiny feet, with absence of hair, is a sign of circulation deficit. Other signs for the diabetic to look for are sudden lack of feeling or an increase in problems such as bacterial or fungal infections of the feet. A foot with failing blood supply is often accompanied by a poor leg pulse.

Don't neglect these messages your feet are giving you. Have them tended to promptly. The booklet "Relief and Care of Your Feet" offers some tips on steps to take. Other readers may order by writing me enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.00.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I've heard that we have only a limited number of knee bends in our lives before they give way. How do you strengthen knees? — N.E.E.

Oh, no. Not another bank account theory of physiology! You've heard the heartbeat version of this, haven't you? It says that we have only a limited amount of beats in our hearts, so exercise depletes the bank too quickly, so we'd best stay sedentary. All such theories are nonsense, of course.

In fact, it is pretty clear that exercise helps joints. It can prevent degenerative arthritis. I'm not talking about rheumatoid type, but osteoarthritis, which has picked up the probably erroneous "wear-andtear" label

So don't worry about coming up with an insufficient-funds problem because of exercise.

In fact, knee strength comes from strengthening the surrounding structures, the muscles and ligaments that support them. The knee bend is but one exercise to accomplish that. The only rule is that you must not do any exercise that produces pain in a joint.

Millions of out-of-shape men and wemen desire fitness, but shy away from formal integrams because they think it's all too complicated and difficult. Dr. Donohue'e newest booklet, "Introduction to Fitness," puts the esoteric terminology of aerobics into plain language and offers a fitness program anyone, regardless of age, can adapt. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.50.

Reach the top with the right attitude By COSMOPOLITAN

A Hearst Magazine

Talent and luck are not enough to climb the ladder of success — you need the right attitude to reach top altitude in your career.

A group of 27 corporate executives revealed what they have learned about how to succeed in business by really trying in the June issue of Cosmopolitan, offering some do's and don'ts on how to press for success. Among them:

"I look for good old-fashioned work habits — punctuality, willingness to work overtime when you have to or to travel when asked, reasonable-to-low demands for time off," said Elaine H. Bond, senior vice president, Chase Manhattan Bank.

James E. Preston, president and CEO, Avon Division, Avon Products, advised:

"No boss likes to be surprised. Have you heard the saying, 'Bring me your troubles early, and you have a partner in finding a solution. Bring me a disaster late, and you've got a judge'? I'm not critical of people who have problems, but I sure have no time for people who try to cover up or delay while things worsen.'

Ruth S. Block, executive vice president, Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U.S., stressed the importance of communications skills, saying: "Even more important than having great ideas is the ability to communicate them both in writing and on your PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers traded all-star center Moses Malone to the Washington Bullets for Jeff Ruland and Cliff Robinson, and swapped their first pick in today's NBA college draft for Cleveland's eighth choice and the Cavaliers' Roy Hinson, The Associated Press has learned.

The stunning trades, made before a midnight Monday deadline, were to be announced by the 76ers at a press conference this morning, a source close to the team confirmed.

Malone, the 31-year-old, 6-foot-10 center, came to the 76ers in September 1982 from Houston and led the 76ers to the National Basketball Association title in his first season.

In exchange for the nine-time all-star, the 76ers will get Ruland, 27, a 6-10 center who played five seasons with Washington, and the 6-9 Robinson, 26, who has played seven NBA seasons with four teams, the last two with the Bullets.

Cleveland picks up Philadelphia's No. 1 choice, giving Philadelphia up their eighth pick overall along with the 25-year-old Hinson, a 6-9 forward who averaged 19.6 points and 7.7 rebounds per game last season while starting all 82 games for Ruland, who also plays forward, had a knee operation and played just 30 games this past season, averaging 19 points. Ruland, an all-star in 1984, probably would play center for the 76ers. Robinson, who averaged 18.7 points a game in the past season, was drafted out of Southern California by New Jersey in 1979 and played with the Nets, Kansas City and Cleveland before coming to Washington in 1984.

Malone, who turned professional directly out of Petersburg (Va.) High School in 1974, played one season each with Utah and St. Louis of the American Basketball Association. He played six seasons with Houston of the NBA before coming

He just completed the fourth year of a sixyear, $13 million contract with Philadelphia, but missed the last seven games of the regular season and the playoffs after he fractured his right eye socket.

Playing without Malone, the Sixers advanced to a seventh game in a second-round playoff series with Milwaukee before being eliminated. Sixers spokesman Harvey Pollack announced the 11:30 a.m. press conference early this morning, saying only that there would be a "major, major announcement."

Before the overnight development, the Sixers approached the draft figuring that after choosing North Carolina center Brad Daugherty, they would look for a small forward or guard.

Scouts and others aid there was plenty to choose from in this draft, in which Philadelphia and Denver were the only teams getting two opening-round picks.

'You can be picking at 18," said Golden State Coach George Karl, "and you'll probably have a starter in the NBA.

4A teams finally get chance to play

mired Class 4A state high school baseball tournament has been tentatively rescheduled for Friday and Saturday nights in Austin, assuming several Texas courts can process several pending lawsuits

If one or more court orders prohibit play by then, the 4A state tournament may be canceled for this year, University Interscholastic League director Bailey Marshall announced

He noted that the current school year has already ended across the state and "many of the players have obligations that will prohibit them from playing later in the

The new tentative schedule calls for semifinal games at Disch-Falk Field on the University of Texas campus at 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Friday, with the championship game at 7 p.m. Saturday, Marshall

"This schedule is being set on the assumption that all litigation is settled or dropped and that the court settlements allow the games to be played on these dates, times and location," Marshall said.

'We regret that these court actions have delayed the tournament and, for the sake of the players, we hope the tournament can be resumed and completed," Marshall said

Snyder, Brenham, Mercedes and Austin Westlake earned spots in the state tournament, but Westlake advanced after rain washed out the last two games of a scheduled best 2-of-3 series with Waco Richfield, which then went to court seeking completion of the series.

Several other court suits then followed, and injunctions kept the UIL from having 4A semifinals last weekend, when the championships

AUSTIN (AP) - The court- for 1A, 2A, 3A and 5A were

If litigation prohibits play by Friday, Marshall said, the UIL will "give serious consideration to cancellation of this year's Conference 4A tournament.

At least seven motions have been filed in four different courts over the disputed quarterfinal series between Austin Westlake and Waco Richfield.

In Waco Monday, State District Judge Bill Logue issued a temporary injunction barring the Eanes Independent School District and the UIL from proceeding with a hearing set for today in Austin.

Margaret Cooper, an Austin attorney representing the UIL, said the UIL would have no choice but to be represented at the hearing in Austin Tuesday.

State District Judge Juan Gallardo "has told us to be present (in Austin). Anything we do to obey one judge is going to be in violation of another judge," Ms. Cooper

The legal battle started after Westlake beat Richfield in the first game June 5 and rain prevented play in games 2 and 3. Pressed for time, the University Interscholastic League invoked a 27-year-old rule and decided that Westlake should advance to the state tournament.

Not happy with the rule, Richfield supporters filed suit.

Gallardo in Austin then ruled that the tournament could not proceed unless Westlake was one of the teams.

Later Wednesday, State District Judge Homer Salinas in Edinburg issued a restraining order on behalf of Mercedes, which would have faced Westlake, saying the tournament couldn't be played on artificial turf

Brazil stops Poland

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The fans were dancing in the aisles and the players were dancing around the defense and filling the net Monday for Brazil in the World Cup.

As the multitude of Brazilian fans in the crowd at Jalisco Stadium in Guadalajara moved to the beat of the samba played on tambourines, their banana-yellow shirts and yellow-and-green flags everywhere, the Brazilian soccer team was waltzing past Poland 4-0. Two teams worried about injuries got a little healthier Monday. The Italians will have captain Gaetano Scirea, a key defender, in the lineup against France after his groin injury was reported much improved. French goalkeeper Joel Bats, unable to practice because of a knee problem, also was in better condition Monday. But his status would not be known until just before gametime.

Tulane hoopster found innocent

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A six-member jury cleared John "Hot Rod" Williams of point shaving charges and the former Tulane University forward made plans for a professional basketball career that has been in limbo for a year.

Williams was acquitted Monday of five counts of conspiracy and bribery, charges that could have cost him 17 years in prison and $35,000 in fines. Tulane abandoned its men's basketball program in the wake of the point shaving scandal and allegations of sumerous NCAA violations disclosed at the same time.

Williams was arrested on March 26, 1985, indicted two days later and tried for the first time in August. That trial ended abruptly in a mistrial and Monday's verdict came on the sixth day of his second trial.

"It's been rough on me, but now I can get on with my life," Williams, 24, said Monday after being found innocent. The Cleveland Cavaliers gambled a second-round choice on Williams in last year's draft, picking him despite a letter circulated by the National Basketball Association warning that he could not play in the league as long as the legal cloud hung over

Cavs owners George and Gordon Gund have paid Williams' legal expenses, although they had to withdraw their contract during the preseason when Williams' first trial failed to clear up his legal status.

Monday, the Cavaliers said Williams is under contract to Cleveland.

"The Cleveland Cavaliers are delighted that John Williams has been found innocent of all charges," the team said in a release from its offices. "We have at all times been confident that John would be vindicated when the matter finally came to trial.

"The Cavs have signed a contract with John and look forward to him being an important part of the team in the years

"I'll be somewhere, and I'll make the team." he said.

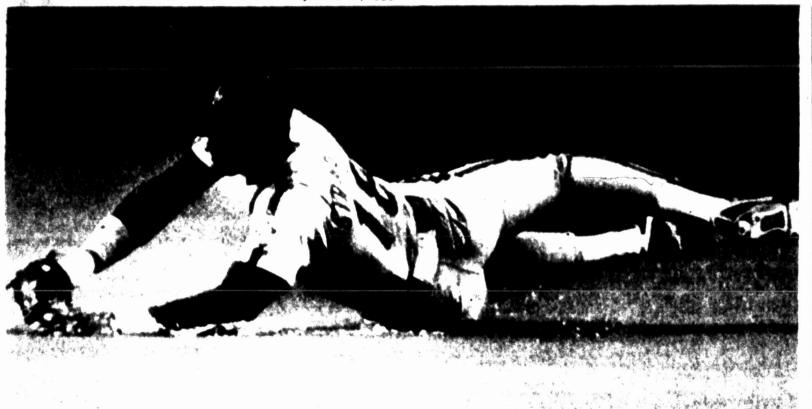

Williams' reluctance to answer was on the advice of his lawyers, an apparent ploy to use the threat of free agency as a bargaining wedge in contract

Williams, at 6-foot-11, is an inch taller and substantially bulkier in the upper body than he was when he left Tulane. He played center at Tulane and was used at power forward when he made the all-star team last year in the United States Basketball

Keith Lee, whose name figured prominently in Williams' trial, played both power forward and small forward for the Cavs last season.

"That's the quickest I've ever seen a game called in any league. This has to go down in the Guinness Book of World Records," Pirates General Manager Syd Thrift said after Monday night's rainshortened 4-1 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Darryl Strawberry singled home the tie-breaking run in the 10th inning as New York scored three times to beat Montreal in a game delayed for more then two hours by rain. The victory fattened the Mets' lead to 11½ games over the Expos in the National League East.

Wally Backman started the Mets' winning rally with a one-out single off Jeff Reardon, 6-4, and stole second to move into scoring position for Strawberry. One out later. Len Dykstra singled home two insurance runs for the Mets.

Doug Sisk, 1-1, pitched two innings to pick up the victory.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 18, 1966

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is the time to prepare for tomorrow when there are important planetary aspects in effect. Investigate all phases of what you can do to take advantage of those aspects.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get advice from seasoned persons in business on becoming more prosperous in the future. Come to an understanding with your mate.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Talk with associates and exchange views and make revisions. You will soon gain greater prestige. Be clever.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your mind is focused on your work if you are going according to the planets, so gain even greater expertise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Make sure you know what it best to do where recreation is concerned. Consider the cost well.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) There are situations at home that you do not comprehend and this is a good day to clarify them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your newspaper for information you will find useful in the future, and which will help you find greater success. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Find out where you are headed monetarily. Turn any problems into great stepping stones to success.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Work on your personal aims today since you have been too preoccupied with business and other matters of late. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Concentrate on how you want to live in the future and study ways and means for gaining such aims. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A dynamic and clever friend has ideas for better gaining your own aims, so get in touch with this person. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make sure you do not take any risks where your job and other important duties are concerned.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study your advanced ideas and get them on a workable plane and you can add to your abundance easily.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will possess a magnetic personality and will not be easily swayed from getting what is desired. A person with many good friends. The field of investigation is especially good here, or whatever else has to do with research.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Miller's is experienced in home, business decorating

Miller's Crown Decorating can help you with your home or commercial decorating needs, says Darell, E.G. and Virginia Miller. The family-owned business offers residential and commercial floor coverings, window coverings and wall coverings, as well as installation, equipment and products to service them.

Miller's is Big Spring's only authorized Cook Paint dealer. The store shops around for reputable installers for everything it sells if the customr wants professional installation. The owners take pride in not being wasteful with materials purchased by their customers. For example, when laying carpet, Miller's will figure how to install the 12-feet wide carpet in the house with as little waste as possible.

When quoting prices to customers, Miller's gives both the cost of materials for those who wish to do it themselves and the cost of materials plus labor for those who want professional installation. Often, the companies Miller's represents put products on sale. "We pass the sale on to the customer with the standard markup. The customer will realize more out of the sale than we do,' says E.G.

Miller's also sells and installs commercial wall vinyl, commercial and residential ceramic tile, and custom-fitted mini-blinds. An example of their work can be seen on the second floor of Malone-Hogan Hospital, which was remodeled in January. The store installed the wall vinyl and carpet.

"We are a family store," says Virginia, wife of E.G. and mother of Darrell. The three Millers have owned and operated Miller's Crown Decorating six years.

Welcome to a new B&I Advertiser!

E.G. has more than 35 years experience in painting, installing carpet and tile, and construction work. He taught his son the business of carpet laying, and it was Darrell's idea to open the home improvement business. "Darrell does the carpet laying, and his Dad and I run the store, Virginia says. Le Cafe has French pastries

A trip to Le Cafe's authentic French bakery is like a trip to France's bakeries. There customers can experience the tastes and aromas of authentic French pastries and sandwiches.

Herve Goillandeau began offering the delicious treats last week. His specialty is the French croissant, which is made with pure butter and is crispier and flakier than the croissants most Americans are used to eating. Along with all the other treats, Herve recommends the croissant for special occasions as well as everyday eating. "It is very good," he says in his native French accent.

Other delectable treats he serves are: French Apple Pie ("A different apple pie. You'll love it."); Napoleons ("Try it one time and you'll come back"); Several (blueberry, strawberry, pecan, cherry, chocolate and amaretto) French donuts; French bread loaves; cinnamon bread; and rolls. He also serves whole quiches, make-it-yourself crepes and French pizza to go, and sandsandwiches include: bacon, ham, tuna, turkey, and chicken.

Although he was unable to speak speaks fluent English with a also works at Le Cafe.

FRENCH FOOD — Herve Goillandeau of Le Cafe is now serving French pastries at his restaurant.

French twist. "I'm still learning,"

Herve has been in the restaurant wiches on homemade bread. The business most of his life. He has worked in French, American, Mexican and Chinese restaurants.
