Staff Writer Skies opened again over Big Spring Saturday, dumping more than 2 inches of rain, flooding roads, stranding motorists and causing power outages to more than 300 electrical customers

The National Weather Service in Midland reported a flash flood watch at 4:55 p.m. that was in effect until 9 p.m. in Borden, Howard and Martin counties.

According to a 3:25 p.m. weather report, showers and thunderstorms were in a 210-mile area extending from the Big Bend region northeasterly to Lubbock.

Division manager Hooper Sanders of Texas Electric Company said about 300 customers in the Wasson Road area were without electricity for about an hour because a power line was down in the old golf course at the Industrial Park.

He said power was knocked out temporarily in a few places throughout the city, but no other major outages occurred.

There were numerous police reports of vehicles stranded in high water in several locations throughout the city.

Police got a report from the sheriff's office around 5 p.m. about stranded motorists in Comanche Trail Park

Among the motorists was Phillip E. Manns of B&H Cleaners at 2601

Wasson Drive. He said he and his wife, May, were driving around the park in his van when he attempted to cross a dip in the west roadway.

The water rose over the vehicle's tailpipe, killing the engine, Manns said. Both he and his wife remained in the van for more than an hour before a local wrecker towed them

A Highland South Shopping Center roof drain that clogged during Saturday afternoon's torrential rain caused an undetermined amount of damage in Joy's Hallmark Card Shop and increased the anger of some mall leaseholders towards the building's owner. 'The roof has collected water over the years, and they (the building owners) have never done anything about it," said Joyce

Crooker of Mr. G's Garden Center. The building is owned by Tom Mackie of Strathmaver Industries in Fort Worth. When told about the leaking roof Saturday night, Mackie said from Fort Worth that he was "unaware of any water collecting on the roof."

"I don't know of the mall having any recurrent leakage problems," he said.

o seep into the mail would result from an overabundance of water collecting on a flat roof like Highland's Acting City Manager Hal Boyd, who owns and operates Joy's Hallmark with his wife, Joy, said at about 5 p.m. water began seeping in where the ceiling meets the wall on the southeast section of the mall. The seepage was caused by the heavy volume of rain collecting on the roof, Boyd said.

'We were afraid of water getting into the electrical outlets." Boyd said, as he and other mall merchants attempted to evacuate patrons.

Bill Crooker, who owns and operates Mr. G's Garden Center, said mall maintenance men climbed to the rooftop and attempted to unclog the drain.

'They tried to fill the drain and He said opportunities for water poked a hole through the roof," Crooker said.

The water then came pouring through a paneled section of the ceiling above the entrance area in Joy's Hallmark shop shortly before Big Spring firemen and Public Works Director Tom Decell arrived.

Joyce Crooker said she was called to her store, and "We covered everything with plastic.'

Boyd said he could not determine the amount of damage in his store. Card display areas were covered with plastic after the water started seeping in.

Other mall merchants and firemen were busy trying to remove the excess water that sopped the store's carpet and flooded out into the walkway.

AIDS education to begin in schools

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Public schools will begin teaching students about AIDS through health classes, as required by a new state law, said Tommy Langham, disease intervention specialist with the Texas Department of Health.

The requirement is part of a massive public education attempt by health officials to inform the public of the truths about AIDS, or Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, he said.

Langham was in Big Spring Friday, speaking at an AIDS workshop at the Veterans Administration Medical Center. About 77 people attended the workshop, mainly workers in health care and other professions that work with people.

The public better understands now that AIDS is not spread through casual contact, but is transmitted sexually and through the blood, Langham said, and the panic is decreasing.

West Texans seem to react with more compassion than others when dealing with someone with AIDS, he said.

"Our attitudes have changed totally since 1984," he said. Education is the best - and where there will be no one in this room who doesn't know someone personally that has AIDS." He estimated 300 to 400 people in the Permian Basin will have died of the disease by that

The spread of AIDS brings a host of community and social problems, not the least of which is the cost of treatment. The average cost of treatment for AIDS is $147,000 per person, Langham said.

Insurance companies, to protect themselves from monetary loss, have tried to refuse insurance to people who test positive for the AIDS antibody, which usually means they have been exposed to the virus. That would place the burden of paying for health care on the counties

Most states are making it illegal to refuse someone insurance because they test positive, Langham said, and Texas is considering such a proposal.

Insurance companies also have butted heads with health departments over the release of names of those with AIDS. Identities of AIDS patients are kept strictly confidential, Langham said, and are now protected by law even from subpoena by

However, screening for the AIDS antibody is becoming more common. The military screens everyone who enters it and everyone who goes

Warden wants changes after seeing execution

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) -Oklahoma State Penitentiary Warden Gary Maynard says he will recommend minor changes in the way executions are carried out in the state after viewing a similar procedure in Texas.

Gary Maynard and other officials traveled last week to the Huntsville unit of the Texas corrections department to talk to administrators there about policies and procedures used when carrying out the death penalty. Maynard said the Oklahoma officials also viewed the execution of death row inmate Kenneth Brock

Brock was executed by drug injection early Thursday.

Oklahoma law also calls for executions to be carried out by drug injection. No inmate in Oklahoma has been executed since 1966. Maynard said as a result of the trip to Texas, he would like to see changes involving the death chamber and the gurney onto which the inmate is strapped before the injection is administered.

Maynard said he hopes to have a one-way mirror built in the room in which the execution is carried out. so those administering the lethal doses can watch the process.

In that way, "if there's a malfunction, they can see it instantly," he said.

Maynard also said he would like to have a gurney fashioned after the one he saw in Texas; stainless steel, which is more sanitary, and bolted to the floor by a single pedestal like a hospital bed.

Although the policies and procedures for executions in Oklahoma are routinely studied and practiced, Maynard said he was surprised at the number of small details that are significant.

"Dealing with the media took more time," he said. "In meeting with the media, there are a lot of curious details they want to know - 'What's he doing now? What's he reading?' I was not prepared for that. That was interesting to me.' "A lot of details finally fell into place," he said. "I think all the questions I had were answered."

Maynard said the actual execution was "a more humane procedure than I had envisioned and very professionally handled.

'I was sort of impressed with the effectiveness and the manner in which they did it.'

Afghans get medical treatment in Texas

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Twenty-nine Afghans, some of them blinded or burned in the past six years in their fight against the Soviets, arrived Saturday in the Dallas-Fort Worth area to receive the medical treatment they couldn't get at home.

Greeted by placards and shouts from about 50 Afghan expatriates who live in the area, the group arrived at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport on a U.S. Air Force medical jet.

Some Afghans, speaking through interpreters, were forceful in their desire to return to their country to continue the fight against the Soviets.

One patient, who wore an eyepatch and had the name Mohammad Afzal written on a card taped to his chest, said of the Soviet soldiers, "The only thing they do is kill and destroy, even women and children. "They aren't even animals ... They are like beasts, all they do is kill and destroy," he said.

A man only identified as Afride, 27, suffered blast injuries when he stepped on a mine and was blinded in

"He wants to get treatment and go back to war," said an interpreter, who identified herself only as a student at the University of Texas at Arlington.

Most of the patients walked into the airport, but four or five arrived on gurneys. The group's arrival was an emotional one, bringing tears from several who were there for the arriva

Saturday afternoon.

The patients were dressed in robes and turbans, making it difficult to spot the exact nature of their injuries.

Dr. John Gavras, president of the Dallas-Fort Worth Hospital Council Coordinating Committee, which represents 80 North Texas hospitals, said most of them will need reconstructive surgery, because the operations they had received in Afghanistan were not done properly.

Twenty-three adults and one child were referred to Dallas-Fort Worth area hospitals, while five children were to be transported to Victoria for treatment, authorities coordinating the effort said.

UTA's health center diagnosed the patients and determined which hospitals they would go to.

A 10-year-old boy whose hip was grazed by a bullet, said that when he grows up he wants to return to his country and fight the Russians, an interpreter told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, who helped organize the treatment, had said earlier, "I've been over to that country a few times, and it's a recognizable problem that they have injuries that can't be treated there in Red Cross hospitals."

Wilson was on hand for the Afghan group's arrival

Clean city can help economy

Many appropriate comments have been made during recent weeks about Big Spring's litter and blight problem. And we agree with nearly all of them.

Some citizens remarked that Big Spring suffers from an unusually serious problem because litter here appears to be worse than in other cities.

Particularly pertinent was a declaration by the Howard County Strategic Planning Commission, identifying litter and blight as a major detriment to the quality of life in Big Spring.

We also agree with the statements emphasizing the need for changes in attitude and self-image, plus the development of community pride and educational efforts to stress the importance of a clean community. While they are important longterm solutions, the community needs immediate action as

It is a sad commentary on the city when community leaders admit they are ashamed to take visitors down certain streets and into some areas because of the unsightly appearance of those areas.

Most leaders seem to realize that we can't draw people or businesses to an area in order to make it attractive. It must be made atrractive first in order to draw interest in an area.

What has not been emphasized enough is that the poor appearance of a community can have a direct bearing on its ability to climb out of an economic slump. It decreases a community's ability to attract or keep the type of people who can development new businesses and industries in the area.

Big Spring and Howard County can not afford to turn away those who might create new jobs - both for residents unemployed or underemployed by the oil slump and for the community's young people as they become skilled in their chosen fields.

It's time for the community to take every step it can to eliminate or minimize the problem — even to the extent of every-weekend cleanup parties if necessary.

Also needed is much more stricter enforcement than eight litter citations in more than five months. Perhaps some heavy fines would be appropriate to help finance cleanup activities.

Until citizens and community leaders are ready to get that serious about the problem, the litter and blight can be expected to remain indefinitely.

Ball volunteers time appreciated

In a day when it seems that everyone is only concerned about themselves, it is refreshing to see that there are some who give of their time and money to work with

The men and women of Coahoma who have given of their time and talents to see that every boy or girl can play baseball or softball need to be congratulated. Unless you have a child playing it would be difficult for you to understand how many hours these people have given so that our children can learn about baseball. But even more important are the aspects of sportsmanship and teamwork.

I would like to say thanks for those who gave of their time for my two boys. A big special thanks needs to go to Ron Reeves, Jim Wright and Gary Roberts who coached my boys

Plaudits given Up With People

I congratulate Larry Bristo and the Dora Roberts Center for sponsoring the Up With People cast.

It was the best show that I have seen in Big Spring. It truly restores one's faith in the future leadership and youth of our country and, for that matter, the world. The kids work their hearts out and have a sincere love for their fellow man.

The past supporters of the Dora Roberts Center, the community leaders of Big Spring, and the people of Big Spring who did not attend the performance missed so much.

Our own James Bristo of Big spring was a member of the cast. which added a personal touch.

For two hours, Up With People put on a performance that will be unforgettable. They involved the entire audience, and the entertainment was enthusiastically received by the very young and the very old.

For those of us who were fortunate to be hosts, we were the benefactors of the insights and knowledge that we learned from this outstanding group.

Again, a warm thanks to Larry Bristo and the Dora Roberts Center. The people of Big Spring should seek a return visit of this group, and there should be a greater community involvement and attendance

Cisneros makes political hay with regional economy meet

By JESSE TREVINO Texas' battered economy may give politicians ample opportunity to advance their careers. Most notably, former governor Bill Clements continues to bang Gov. Mark White over the head for what Clements calls White's lack of vision in foreseeing this year's oil

San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros is going to profit from the depressed state of the state's economy, too. Cisneros may be getting a crack at building the second level of a political organization for what is expected to be a future race statewide for office.

Earlier this year, Cisneros announced an economic summit of 1.000 leaders to convene in San Antonio in August to search for ways to help untangle the muddled economies of West Texas, South Texas, the Coastal Bend and the Central Corridor

If so, he may be trying to forge an alliance between different and disparate regions of the state, using the economy as the building block for successful connections to hundreds of influential leaders in an area stretching from the Gulf of Mexico to El Paso.

The area Cisneros has targeted has high or significant concentrations of Hispanics, his natural base in Texas

With no other issue able to cross the economic and ethnic differences that characterize those regions, other than the economy itself, Cisneros has moved to do

But last week his plans ran into a problem in Austin when members of the Task Force on Border

The task force — a group of 23

Jesse Trevino

leaders from the border region was formed in December to study for a year what Cisneros' conference will do in two days. The members were selected by Gov. White, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis.

Given Cisneros' political and high visibility, his conference would overshadow the task force's work

The most well-known members of the Border Task Force are former lieutenant governor Ben Barnes, Laredo Banker Tony Sanchez and McAllen Bank President Glen Roney, plus a host of state senators and representatives.

In an attempt to assuage the feelings of task force members, Cisneros traveled to Austin and invited the task force to participate as co-host of the Aug. 15-17 meeting in San Antonio

Cisneros' made clear his political sophistication when he pointedly told the task force members that among the expected 1,000 participants at his conference will be many state senators and representatives

Those legislators, Cisneros emphasized, could form an important bloc of votes for any measures aim ed at helping the afflicted regions, should such proposals ever reach a vote in a session of the Legislature that is expected to be strapped financially

Some members of the task force were adamant that they go it alone, and the adroit Cisneros reportedly offered to cancel his August conference if the task force so desired.

After a typically impressive Cisneros presentation, preceeded by a private lunch, the task force agreed to accept Cisneros' invitation. Thus, the Cisneros conference is saved; the border task force continues its work and the resulting positive media coverage and good will from such a regional conference led by Cisneros can do no harm in helping weld a regional approach to a problem. It also develops the first contacts of a potential Cisneros network

As a result, the emerging image of Cisneros as consensus builder and leader with the best economic interests of Texas at stake, and one not tied to regional, ethnic or parochial interests, continues to

The Cisneros camp's earlier rejection of overtures that he serve as chairman of the original Border Task Force serves notice of his sensitivity to not being identified as merely a South Texas or Border leader The task force's work, limited to those counties adjacent to the border, could have been seen as putting Cisneros as head of too parochial a body Cisneros' new-found willingness to align himself with the Border Task Force is simply good politics as well as serving the primary interests of the economic development of Texas A potential misstep by Cisneros turns into a political success.

AUSTIN — The next time your spouse fusses at you for forgetting to take out the garbage or clean the house, try this: "Well, perhaps I did err, but only because I was so busy trying to figure out a way to prevent Texas from ever having a state income tax.'

The next time your boss asks you to do a difficult task, say: "I don't think I can do that, but I can assure you that Texas will never have a state income tax as long as I am working for you.'

If these lines work for you as well as similar ones do for our state's politicians, you'll never face another household chore and you'll win big promotions fast.

I doubt that either Democratic Gov. Mark White or Republican challenger Bill Clements has gone through one whole day recently without promising to defend us from a state income tax. The temptation is simply too great and the results too sure Ask White how the state is going to build more prisons to satisfy federal court orders when funding plans are in doubt.

He'll talk for 10 minutes without saying anything specific political talent for which White scores an 11 on a 1-to-10 scale and then he'll promise to veto any legislation that calls for a state in-

Ask Clements to reveal his secret plan" to balance the state budget without new taxes and without putting droves of state employees into unemployement

He'll talk for 10 minutes about "prioritizing expenditures" and accountability" without ever revealing any details of any plan a skill for which Clements' scores his own 11 on the above-mentioned scale. Then he'll promise that, if elected, he'll veto any legislation that provides for a state income

The possibility of a state income tax definitely is the red herring of the 1986 gubernatorial campaign.

Never mind that there is no immediate threat of an income tax in Texas. Never mind that no one with any power at all is promising to fight for one. Just raise the emergency flag, salute it and promise to fight against the evil tax. That apparently is good politics in Texas, and we're the ones who make it so.

Texans tend to hate taxes, maybe more than most other people. Or at least, we've been more successful at fending them off.

Texans carry one of the lowest tax burdens in this country. Part of the reason is that frontier spirit that tends to make us more selfsufficient than most, or at least it makes us think that we are.

Politicians seem to think that they can assure their election simply by playing off that opposition to taxes. Too often, they are

The state is going to have to raise more revenue somehow in coming years. The days of a mostly free ride on the back of energy taxes are over. Texas faces a true fiscal crisis, with rising needs and diminishing revenue resources. White says he hopes we can avoid a tax increase of any form. Clements says absolutely that there will be no tax hike in his hoped-for four-year term.

It's almost a certainty, however, that the winner eventually will have to back down and sign a tax bill to keep state government operating.

But are numerous revenueraising possibilities are to be considered before the Texas Legislature looks hard at a state income tax. The sales tax will go up and services that now are exempt will be put under it for the first

The threat of a state income tax vill become real somewhere down the line, but we shouldn't let politicians distract us from today's problems with tomorrow's tax threats.

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice John Hill Saturday defended the court's recently released child support guidelines that many attorneys and divorced fathers have criticized.

"We have heard many complaints already, and we expect to hear more," Hill told a group of family practice attorneys in the annual State Bar of Texas convention held in Houston this weekend.

But he said, "I have yet to receive one from a divorced mother trying to make ends meet on a small salary with nominal, irregularly paid support payments."

The Texas Legislature assigned June 1. Parents paying child supthe Supreme Court last year to develop a statewide uniform rate of child support after legislators voted in 1983 that child support guidelines could be adopted locally, Hill said.

With the help of a commission, Hill said the Texas Supreme Court decided that parents should pay child support based on a percentage of their gross income.

For example, parents will pay 17 percent of gross income to support one child and 25 percent for two children, according to the guidelines that went into effect port are also required to provide health insurance for their children.

Hill said many fathers, who may most of the child support, and their attorneys have complained the uniform percentage is too high and ignores the uniqueness of individual cases

"I have already heard that some trial judges have reputedly said they will not adhere to them (guidelines)," the judge added.

But Hill said judges can depart from the guidelines in specific instances only, such as when total child support payments from previous marriages add up to more than 50 percent of the parent's gross income.

He welcomed suggestions for improving the guidelines and said the Supreme Court will decide next year whether to revise them.

After the meeting, attorney Bette Pesikoff praised the guidelines, but said she would recommend some improvements.

'We're going to have kids write to you. That's no joke," she said. Wendy S. Burgower, head of a group of women attorneys, told Hill they want to meet with him to suggest ways to carry out the law.

Two French hostages freed in Lebanon

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Two French hostages freed by Shiite Moslem kidnappers in Lebanon after more than three months of captivity left Damascus on a homeward-bound plane today.

Television correspondent Philippe Rochot, 39, and cameraman Georges Hansen, 45, took off on a French government jet at mid-afternoon. They had been driven to Damascus from Beirut, the Lebanese capital, by Syrian intelligence officials.

The hostages were members of a four-man crew from France's Antenne-2 television network that was kidnapped in Beirut on March 8. Rochot and Hansen were released in west Beirut shortly before

Farm workers paid poorly, study indicates

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in two and a half years, the Agriculture Department has put together a new profile of hired workers on the American farm, including migrants who travel from

In 1983, the year in which surveys were conducted, about 2.6 million people 14 years of age and older did some kind of farm work for pay, even if the job lasted for only a single day.

The number of hired farm workers, which had shown a downward trend for years, has not changed significantly since leveling off at about 2.9 million in 1968. In 1950, for example, there were 4.3 million in the hired work force.

"Farm operators and their families still continue to make up the major share of agricultural labor," the department's Economic Research Service said in the new report. "However, hired workers have gradually replaced family workers over the past three decades even as the number of hired farm workers has declined." Some of the 1983 findings:

• Of all hired farm workers, 73 percent were white, 13 percent Hispanic, and 14 percent black or other racial-ethnic groups.

• 46 percent were heads of households. • 84 percent resided off the farm where they worked.

• 38 percent lived in the South, 28 percent in the West, and 26 percent in the Midwest.

• 50 percent of all hired farm workers were under 25 years of age, and 78 percent were male.

"Farm work is one of the lowest paying occupations in the United States," the report said. "Earning an annual average of $4,815 in 1983, farm workers received only about 33 percent of the $14,600 that the average non-agricultural private sector production worker received in the same year."

But the report noted that the majority of hired farm workers spent most of their time doing something else, including going to school or keeping house. Only 29 percent of the work force was primarily in farm work, and those averaged about $8,000 from farm earnings in

The report was written by Susan L. Pollack, an economist in the USDA agency's agricultural and rural economics division. It was the first comparable analysis issued by the department since November 1983, which examined the hired farm labor force of 1981.

Information in the report was based on supplemental information collected by the Bureau of the Census. The survey sample included all 50 states and the District of Columbia. About 59,000 households were interviewed, including approximately 1,500 which contained people who did hired farm work in

The information from the sample households was "expanded to provide estimates of the total hired farm working force" nationwide in that year

Middle East policy.
In Paris, French Prime Minister Jacques Chirac today credited Syria, Algeria and Iran with helping free the hostages.

The freed crewmen met in Damascus with Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk al-Sharaa, who told reporters, "We're very happy that our efforts have succeeded in obtaining the release of our friends, Rochot and Hansen. We shall not spare our efforts to obtain the release of all other hostages."

In Cyprus, the Public Information Office reported that two Greek Cypriot students kidnapped in Beirut nearly two months ago have been released by their captors and arrived in Cyprus today.

The two American University of Beirut engineering students identified as Stavros Yannakis and Panayotis Tirkas - had been missing since April 28.

Seven other Frenchmen, including the other two members of the Antenne-2 crew, remain in captivity. Five Americans, two Britons, an Italian and a South Korean also are missing and believed held by Moslem extremist groups.

The group that has said it kidnapped the Americans, Islamic Jihad, also has claimed responsibility for abducting four of the Frenchmen who are still missing.

Both Islamic Jihad and the Revolutionary Justice Movement, which claimed responsibility for kidnapping the French television crew, are believed made up of Shiite extremists loyal to Iran.

When the crew was kidnapped, policy has changed.

Islamic Jihad's demands have included a halt to French arms supplies to Iraq, Iran's enemy in the 5½-year-old Persian Gulf war.

The freed hostages arrived in Damascus escorted by Syrian army observers based in west Beirut. The Syrians took Rochot and Hansen from the Beau Rivage hotel on Beirut's seafront for the 56-mile to Damascus at 9.30 a.m.

Rochot told reporters in Beirut that the Antenne-2 crewmembers were well-treated by their captors.

"We read some ... French literature. We ate about three times a day. We got three cigarettes a day. We could shave, we could wash. There was a shower,' Rochot said.

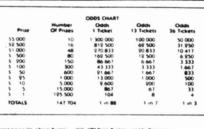

The Frenchmen did not know where they were held, Rochot said, but added, "We were not blindfolded. We were staying on a bed in a room."

Rochot was asked about the two crewmen still held hostage, 54-year-old Aurel Cornea and 34-year-old Jean-Louis Normandin. "I don't know when they will be released," he said.

AP Aerospace Writer SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - The elite crew who flies America's space machines has not been spared the shock and the selfexamination that jolted NASA after the Challenger disaster.

The accident grounded the shuttle fleet and sent the National Aeronautics and Space Administration into an agony of scrutiny, both from within and without.

In one moment, 5 percent of the nation's trained space explorers followed by a growing realization that many of their own dreams also died when Challenger exploded 73 seconds into its Jan. 28 flight.

Six astronauts have since left the corps and at least two others are preparing to go. One died in an airplane accident and another has been removed from flight status.

From an exclusive club that once numbered 102, the astronaut ranks have been reduced to 88. And the number is slipping.

Some, like Owen Garriott, 56, who resigned June 12 after 20 were gone. For the astronauts left years, are leaving because they no behind, there was grief and anger, longer want to wait for another space flight.

'There's no question that the long delay in the flight schedule is the primary reason that I've decided I'd rather be in space activities on the outside than wait for the possibility of another flight," Garriott said

Garriott made two flights. He had been scheduled to make a science flight this year, but that was scrubbed after the disaster.

'It will be at least a year and a half before the first flight," Garriott said, "and another year or two beyond that before we're flying a science mission.

James van Hoften, 42, a twoflight veteran who is leaving next month, said the waiting also shaped his thinking.

"If I were to wait two or three more years, I would have one more flight," he said, "but people (in industry) aren't interested in how many times you have flown.

"At my age, I feel I'm at a perfect time to transition into a whole new line of work," said van Hoften, who is going to work for Bechtel Inc. in San Francisco.

me than they were in the government. Overmeyer, who retired as an

Air Force colonel, was caught in an economic reality that affects all senior military astronauts.

Astronauts are not promoted beyond the rank of colonel in the Air Force, Army or Marine Corps, or beyond captain in the Navy. The military astronaut must return to regular military service to advance in rank, or face mandatory retirement.

Some have chosen to leave the June 1, saying, "Opportunities on military and take civilian the outside were more appealing to astronaut jobs, which carry a big pay cut. A Navy captain in the astronaut corps now receives about $58,700 annually, counting flight pay and housing allowances. A civilian astronaut without a medical degree starts at $42,653. A medical degree adds about $8,000 to the civilian rate.

> To private industry, particularly aerospace industries, astronauts are prized employees. One recently retired astronaut said he was routinely receiving $4,000 for five days of consulting work.

County to award annex bid

Howard County commissioners are expected to award a contracting bid for the county annex during Monday's meeting of the commissioner's court.

The meeting begins at 9 a.m. in the commissioner's courtroom on the second floor of the courthouse. County Judge Milton Kirby said Friday afternoon that Johnston Construction Inc. of Big Spring will probably be awarded the job.

The local construction company offered the lowest of 12 bids opened during a June 12 commissioner's court meeting.

Johnston Construction has offered to complete the work within 220 days at a price of $662,104.

Architect John Gary said the contractors would be responsible for restoring the exterior of the building to its original condition and renovating the interior to contain new offices.

The offices, which commissioners designated to be relocated in the annex, are: the county tax appraisal office, the county tax assessor's and collector's office, and the adult and juvenile probation offices.

Other business to be considered Monday includes:

 Resumption of discussion with Dr. James Woodall of the Howard County Health Clinic and County Sanitarian James Luck about indigent health care services the county will offer beginning Sept. 1. • A request from county tax assessor/collector Dorothy Moore to renew a policy charging a 15 percent attorney fee on delinquent Moore said the policy was initially adopted by the county in 1982 for the 1981 tax roll.

Train kills boy trying to help his girlfriend

IMPERIAL, Mo. (AP) — A teenage boy who stopped to help his girlfriend after she fell or a railroad trestle was struck by a train and killed, the girl's mother and authorities said Friday.

Stephen DeMeyer, 16, of Barnhart, Mo., was pronounced dead at the scene early Friday after the accident on a 156-foot-long railroad trestle over Glaize Creek, about 20 miles south of St. Louis, Jefferson County authorities said.

DeMeyer and his girlfriend, Dana Berger, 17, were in a secluded area near the tracks at about midnight Thursday when a train approached, the girl's mother said.

"If they'd stayed there, they probably would have been safe," Mrs. Berger said. "But they decided to try and outrun it."

Rice professors refuse to work on 'star wars'

By DONNA GEHRKE Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Only one professor in Rice University's Space Physics and Astronomy Departments thinks Star Wars can work, a faculty member said at a gathering Saturday that honored resear-

They have found the voices to speak out ... to say 'No,''' she said. Clayton said SDI supporters have touted the project for increasing jobs without showing how the defense project would benefit the country's current defense system.

Researcher Patricia Reiff, who signed the pact not to work on SDI projects, said she is afraid SDI will turn out to be an expensive boondoogle that will embarrass researchers in the years ahead.

Some Houston scientists, totally dependent on research grants, are caught in the middle of the controversy as they don't want to work on SDI projects but have families

Dad handcuffs, cages child

BALTIMORE (AP) - A father accused of handcuffing and caging one of his children in a dirty basement for days without food or water has been jailed and his 10 children have been taken from the home, authorities said Saturday.

Douglas Sparrow, 40, a carpenter, was being held on one count of child abuse in lieu of $25,000 bond, police said. The children's mother was not charged.

Social workers told police that a cage in the basement of the Sparrow's rowhouse had been used to imprison children without food or toilet facilities for as long as two days.

Sparrow was arrested Thursday after two Department of Social Services workers checked a neighbor's report that the children were being abused.

Toddler gets second heart

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — Doctors using a balloon catheter expanded the constricted artery of a 3-year-old Texas boy who has a second transplanted heart beating in his chest, a hospital spokeswoman said Saturday.

"Baby Nicky will not require further reconstructive surgery in the immediate future," said Anita Rockwell, spokeswoman for Loma Linda University Medical Center. Surgery had earlier been considered by doctors.

Texas, who received the heart of a 6-year-old boy Thursday, was in critical condition Saturday afternoon, "extremely ill and on maximal supportive therapy," Ms. Rockwell said.

Insertion of the balloon device into the aorta, the main artery carrying blood from the heart, brought an improvement to the mild residual constriction at a point in his aorta where repair surgery had been done more than a year ago, went his first transplant late Tuesshe said. #### A star we'll never know

The most amazing thing about the reaction of the sports world to Len Bias' death on Thursday was the enormity of the reaction. Amazing because most sports fans knew little about Bias as a player, and were even less familiar with Bias the person.

Fans did not "know" Len Bias, not the way we feel we know O.J. Simpson or Pete Rose or any one of a hundred sports stars who in an odd way are our friends, strangers or enemies. Sitting on the sofa, Joe Blow can turn on the T.V. and share special, emotional moments with his sports heroes. It's his privilege as a fan.

Where else but in sports can we see, arguably, the geatest moments in another person's life. Last weekend, there on the tube was Ray Floyd, choking down tears after winning the U.S. Open. Days later, Don Sutton exulted along with a stadium full of fans as he won his 300th game. Joe Blow could not have been faulted for getting a little teary eyed watching either scene.

But most fans had not yet shared such a moment with Len Bias. Because of this, it's more difficult to explain the profound and widespread reaction that accompanied his death. Nevertheless, as soon as news of Bias' death came out you couldn't help but feel its emotional punch. A new Len Bias story came over the wire every five minutes it seemed. ESPN constantly updated the situation, and spent the major portion of their one-hour sports center on Bias stories.

And yet the coverage, though extensive, was not sensationalized. The flow of stories represented more than a juiced up attempt to fill air time and column space, ala Baby Jesse. The grief and surprise expressed in the reaction of the media and the public to Bias' death was genuine.

The thirst for stories continues because of a very human need — the need to understand, the need to be able to put things in perspective. Why? How? Maybe the next story will explain. It didn't, but maybe the next will. Maybe it will make it all clear, and then we can bury the story because we've got it all figured out. We will no longer be so disturbingly mystified by the death of someone we knew so little about in the first place.

Of course, the cocaine rumors are now more than rumor. But cocaine neither made the Bias story any bigger than it already was nor does it satisfactorily explain his death.

An NBA scout called Bias the "stud of the crop" of this year's draft. The Boston Celtics and Red Auerbach made him their first pick in Tuesday's draft, and be assured the Celtics know what they're doing come draft day.

The Celtics pride themselves in their "family", and they are a family that doesn't draft problem people. If Bias had been a coke-head, Red Auerbach would have known.

Maybe the autopsy will explain. Maybe Bias had a thin valve to his heart, or had the bad fortune to snort poison cocaine. Whatever the scientific cause of death at 22, with fame and fortune a season away still won't make sense.

But why the fuss? Bias played for an average Maryland team that played in the shadows of ACC giants North Carolina and Georgia Tech, and Bias never received much national exposure.

If Joe Blow walked in a crowded restaurant and saw Magic Johnson, he might rush to his table and backslap him like an old friend. If it were instead Len Bias, he might look on with awe and respect, but the urge to chat would not be there. He wouldn't have known Len Bias like he knew Magic

And because he never will, there is grief, and a sense that the natural order of things has been cheated.

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

For the first time in three vears there will be more than one coach directing the Howard College Hawks basketball squad. The Howard College board of trustees recently hired Steven Boyd Sylestine as assistant basketball coach for the 1986-87

The 27-year-old Houston native will assist new Howard College mentor Larry Brown, who comes to Howard from Bryan High

Lewis fails at triple

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) - Texas A&M freshman Floyd Heard ruined Carl Lewis' bid for his second "triple" in the USA-Mobil Outdoor Track and Field Championships Saturday, winning the 200-meter dash, while Charlie Simpkins took the triple jump with the secondbest leap in history.

Heard, the NCAA champion, got out of the blocks swiftly, while Lewis, winner of the 100-meter dash and long jump Friday, never seriously threatened and wound up a badly beaten fourth.

Heard was timed in a wind-aided 20.03, with 1985 winner Dwayne Evans second in 20.12, 1985 national champion Kirk Baptiste third in 20.14, and Lewis next in 20.30.

Lewis had shown his vulnerability in Saturday's semifinals, placing only third in his heat, behind Dwayne Evans and Heard.

The victory earned Heard, a 19-year-old from Milwaukee, a trip to Moscow for next month's Good-will Games as a member of the United States team.

The triple jump, meanwhile, produced a series of remarkable jumps, just as it had last year, when Willie Banks set the world record of 58 feet, 111/2 inches at Indianapolis.

This time, however, all the big Field Championships. jumps were hindered by windy conditions, and cannot be considered for record purposes.

Simpkins, the 1985 World University Games champion and collegiate record holder, soared 58-91/4, the second-longest jump under any conditions. He also went 58-1, No. 11 on the all-time list.

Olympic silver medalist Mike Conley settled for second with a 58-61/2, the fifth-best jump ever and the longest ever for a non-winner.

It was the second consecutive day that Conley finished second with the best losing effort. He had been the runner-up in Friday's long jump at 28-334, behind Lewis' winning 28-51/2, with both jumps also wind-aided.

Banks wound up third Saturday

Carl Lewis hits the tape ahead of Lee McCrae (left) as he wins the 100 meters in 9.92 at the USA-Mobil Track and

Earlier, Darrell Robinson smashed the meet record in edging Roddie Haley and winning the men's 400-meter race

For the 22-year-old Robinson. timed in 44.47 seconds, it was his first major victory. He had finished second in the 1982 and 1985 national championships.

Haley, the 1985 NCAA champion and 1986 runner-up from the University of Arkansas, fell over the finish line and was timed in

Pam Marshall completed a sweep of the women's dashes, capturing the 200 in a wind-aided 22.24, well ahead of runner-up Randy

Diane Dixon shattered the University of Oregon's Hayward Field record in the women's 400-meter for the third consecutive day, clocking 50.41 in the final. Dixon also had broken the stadium record during Thursday's qualifying and Friday's semifinals.

American record holder Johnny Gray ran the fastst time in the world this year in the men's 800, clocking 1:44.73.

Steve Scott, the former American record holder in the men's 1,500, rallied to capture his sixth national title in 3:42.41. The veteran Scott swept past front-running Dub Myers, the NCAA champion from the University of Oregon, with about 100 meters remaining, then held off hard-charging Jim Spivey at the finish

Spivey took second in 3:42.99 and

Myers wound up third in 3:43.20. Doug Nordquist, a late entry, captured the men's high jump with meet record 7-73/4, beating American rebord holder Jimmy

Bo going baseball

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bo slot machines. Hey, what if I go Jackson "left millions of dollars on the table" by rejecting football and signing with the Kansas City Royals, team officials and his agent said Saturday.

Shortly after signing the 1985 Heisman Trophy winner from Auburn Saturday, the Royals vehemently denied rumors of a $5 million, five-year deal.

"It's not any different from any contract that a first-round draft choice would get," General Manager John Schuerholz said.

A highly regarded first-round draft choice, said one baseball executive, might expect about $250,000 in guaranteed money. Jackson was reportedly guaranteed more than $7 million from Tampa Bay, which made him the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft in

If he becomes a baseball superstar, Jackson would figure to have a longer career and eventually eclipse whatever he would have earned in football.

"Life is a gamble. You've got to take gambles in life," Jackson said before donning a uniform and slugging five balls over the fence in his first major league batting practice.

'My first love is baseball,' Jackson added. "It's like going to a casino. You've got your paycheck and you know your wife is at home waiting for you to bring that paycheck home so she can pay bills. But that check is just burning your hand to get over there to the over there and hit it big? I could get 20 times this paycheck. But I know if I lose my paycheck, my wife's going to kill me.

'He could have been a megamillionaire," said Richard Woods of Mobile, Ala., one of Jackson's agents. "He could have had security for life. But he went with his heart. He did what he wanted to do and turned his back on millions and millions of dollars. It's hard to believe, I know. You have to know Bo Jackson to understand how something like this could happen.

Jackson insisted in news conferences in Birmingham, Ala., and Kansas City Saturday that his football career is behind him. Asked in Kansas City if his Royals contract includes a buyout provision to return to football if baseball doesn't work out, he replied:

"Baseball will work out. I sincerely believe that if I devote myself to any one sport, I will be in there in the thick of things. Time

The Royals would say only that the contract contains no guarantee of when the power-hitting ourfielder will be promoted to the big leagues. Schuerholz angrily denied reports of a $5 million, five-year

"Whoever the jerk is who dreamed up that figure and got it in circulation ought to have his press card yanked out of his hands and burned in public," Schuerholz said.

Last Monday night at San Diego, Garrelts went five shutout innings before leaving because of hyperventilation, which drained his strength.

Chuck Hensley and Juan Berenguer finished. Berenguer retired five batters, allowing only a walk, for his third save of the season, all in the last four days. Berenguer has given up just one run in 25 relief innings this season.

San Francisco moved to within a half-game of Houston for the lead in the National League West.

Cubs 8, Mets 6

NEW YORK (AP) - Keith Moreland led of the ninth with a home run and Chris Speier's RBI grounder capped a two-run inning that gave the Chicago Cubs an 8-6 victory over the New York Mets Saturday.

The homer was Moreland's third hit of the game and his seventh homer of the year. It came off Jesse Orosco, 3-3, the Mets' third pitcher

After Moreland's homer, Jody Davis and Leon Durham singled, then Jerry Mumphrey walked. Speier's grounder scored pinchrunner Dave Martinez.

Davey Lopes and Ryne Sandberg also homered for Chicago. Lopes was 3-for-4, including his fourth homer and a triple. Sandberg hit his eighth homer Reliever Ray Fontenot, 3-2, pitched two scoreless innings. Lee Smith pitched the ninth for his 10th Lopes opened the game with a single, stole second and scored on Shawon Dunston's double. Dunston scored an out later on Moreland's single and Durham gave the Cubs a 3-0 lead with a two-out triple.

White Sox 7. Mariners 6

CHICAGO (AP) — Carlton Fisk's two-run double keyed a four-run fourth inning and reliever Bill Dawley closed with four perfect innings Saturday, leading the Chicago White Sox to a 7-6 triumph over the Seattle Mariners.

The victory was the first in two games since Doug Rader was named interim manager, replacing Tony LaRussa who was fired

Neil Allen, 4-0, was the winner and Bill Swift, 1-4, took the loss. Both were warned by umpire Ted Hendry about throwing at batters.

Dawley got his first save in his 22nd relief appearance of the year.

Tigers 4, Brewers 3

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Lou Whitaker's ninth-inning sacrifice fly drove in the winning run after three walks had loaded the bases and the Detroit Tigers defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 4-3 Saturday.

After one out in the ninth, reliever Mark Clear, 2-3, walked pinch-hitters Johnny Grubb and Darrell Evans. Dan Plesac relieved Clear and walked Dave Collins. Pinch-runner Pat Sheridam scored on Whitaker's fly.

Frank Tanana, Bill Campbell and Willie Hernandez combined to six-hit the Brewers.

ARLINGTON (AP) -Knuckleballer Charlie Hough pitched a three-hitter and Steve Buechele and Ruben Sierra homered as the Texas Rangers beat the Oakland A's 3-2 Saturday night for a club record 10th consecutive home victory

Two of the hits off Hough, 6-3, were solo home runs by Jose Canseco, his 18th, and Bruce Bochte, his fifth. The loser was Rick Langford, 1-7, as Oakland suffered its 13th straight loss on the Canseco's home run leading off the second inning gave Oakland a 1-0 lead. The Rangers scored twice in their half of the second on consecutive-pitch home runs by Sierra, his fourth, and Buechele, whose 10 homers have all come with the bases empty. The Rangers scored what proved to be the winning run in the third on singles by Scott Fletcher and Gary Ward plus Pete Incaviglia's sacrifice fly. Bochte's homer leading off the sixth cut the deficit

The complete game was the third of the season for Hough, who pitched 8 1-3 hitless innings against California in his previous outing only to suffer a 2-1 one-hit setback. He walked two and struck out nine.

The Chicago Cubs Davey Lopes steals second base on the New York Mets Wally Blackman during first inning action Saturday in New York

Braves 7, Reds 6

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ozzie Virgil's tie-breaking bases-loaded single in the eighth inning keyed a four-run uprising and the Atlanta

Braves snapped a four-game losing streak by holding off the Reds 7-6 Saturday night.

Chisox may have new boss

CHICAGO (AP) The Chicago White Sox scheduled a press conference for Sunday morning amid speculation Jim Fregosi would be named the team's new manager

Ken Harrelson, chief of baseball operations, fired Manager Tony LaRussa on Friday and named coach Doug Rader the interim manager. Sunday's press conference starts at 11:30 a.m. EDT, the White Sox said Saturday

At the time of LaRussa's firing, Harrelson said he had two people in mind as the new manager, but would not reveal their names.

However, the Associated Press learned that Fregosi was the only man being considered and that if Harrelson could not reach an agreement, he would be willing to conclude the season with Rader as the interim manager.

"I can live with the Rooster," Harrelson said of Rader, who previously managed the Texas Rangers from 1983 until he was fired in May 1985.

Fregosi, currently the manager of the St. Louis Cardinals' Class AAA team in Louisville, would neither confirm nor deny reports that he would become Chicago's new manager.

"I've talked to the White Sox and really at this time we have not reached an agreement," Fregosi said prior to Saturday night's game against Buffalo at Louisville. "I am interested in the job, I talked to Kenny and we're just going to see what happens, we should know something by tomorrow.

Parker's attorney seeks trial dismissal

PITTSBURGH (AP) - An at- players. Parker was granted imtorney for Cincinnati Reds slugger Dave Parker is asking a federal judge to dismiss the Pittsburgh Pirates' breach of contract suit against the ballplayer Attorney Louis Kushner said the suit should be handled through major league baseball grievance year 2007.

e reached for comment

The Pirates' new owners, known as the Pittsburgh Associates, sued Parker in Allegheny County Com- health while he was drawing the mon Pleas Court in April, accusing him of violating his contract as a League team. result of his admitted cocaine use.

His cocaine use was revealed last vear after a federal grand jury began investigating drug abuse munity for his testimony. The team owners hope to avoid paying the 35-year-old outfielder $5.2 million in deferred compensation from the five-year contract he signed in 1979. Payments are to begin in 1988 and continue until the The suit alleges that Parker, who

Pirates representatives could not signed with the Reds after the 1983 "misrepresenting his physical condition" and failing to maintain his highest salary on the National

The action was transferred to federal court last month since Parker lives outside Pennsylvania. Kushner, who filed the 30-page among major league baseball brief Friday, said the Pirates are seeking a forum that will be more likely to rule in their favor. He cited a similar case involving pitcher Vida Blue and the Kansas City Royals, which was settled in Blue's favor last year through an arbitration process spelled out by the players' contract.

"Since Blue was the prevailing party in that arbitration case, it seems clear that the plaintiff has engaged in forum-shopping in the present action to avoid the precedential effect of that decision." Kushner wrote.

The defense attorney said that to allow the suit to be decided in U.S. District Court would disrupt the collective bargaining process, which clearly defines how a dispute should be handled.

wins 4A state title

AUSTIN (AP) — Brenham's Carl Sullivan drove in three runs to lead his Cubs to a 6-1 win over Mercedes Saturday night for the Class 4A state high school baseball title.

Sullivan's single and double supplied all the offense needed by pitcher David Crowson, who held Mercedes to four hits in raising his record to 13-0.

Brenham, 30-3, got the go-ahead run in the fifth inning when Sullivan bounced a double off the center field wall to score Michael Watts.

State titles in the other four classes were decided last weekend. The 4A tournament was postponed because of courtroom battles sparked by Waco Richfield, which lost a rain-shortened series to Austin Westlake.

Richfield lost the court fight, which went to the Texas Supreme

Mercedes beat Westlake 2-1 in a Friday semifinal. Brenham moved to the title game by crushing Snyder 10-0 Friday

Brenham opened the scoring in the rally the third after Watts and Crowson grounded singles to right. Sullivan followed with a grounder to second that was booted by Rene Guajardo, scoring Watts from third.

The Cubs stranded runners at second and third when reliever Carlos Pimentel came in to quash

Mercedes evened the game in the fourth when Rick Arguelles sacrifice fly to center field scored Larry Morales from third. Morales had opened the inning with a single and moved to third on a single by Arnold Ramirez and a ground out by Rick Castillo.

Sutton overtakes Tewell

ATLANTA (AP) — Hal Sutton shot a 5-under-par 67 despite three bogeys and took a two-shot lead after three rounds of the $500,000 Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Golf Classic Saturday.

Sutton, the 1983 PGA champion who has won two tournaments this year and four in the last 12 months. had a 15-under-par 201 total for three trips around the hilly, 7,007-yard, par-72 Atlanta Country Club course.

Tewell, the second-round leader who was two shots ahead of Sutton at the start of the round, never got anything going, settling for a 1-under-par 71. Scott Hoch birdied the final hole after the live television coverage had ended for the day and moved into a second-place tie with Tewell at 203. Hoch shot a 70 on Saturday Sutton, recognized as one of the game's top young players after only 41/2 years on the PGA Tour, was in position to build a lead of several strokes before he three-putted for a bogey on the 14th and then failed to get down from a trip on the par-3 16th, where he took his third bogey of the day.

Playing in the final threesome with Tewell and Hoch, Sutton also birdied the finishing hole.

Tom Purtzer made one of the strongest moves of the day, firing a 66 that left him two shots off the lead at 204 and tied with Mark O'Meara, who had a 70.

'They shoot so many birdies here you're never out of it, but you also are never safe," Purtzer said. O'Meara shared the lead earlier in the round, before catching a creek on the 15th that cost him a double bogey 6. He also bogeyed the 17th, but birdied the 18th for a round of 70. There was a five-way deadlock at 205, four shots back, among Tom Kite, 67, Morris Hatalsky, 67, Bill Bergin, 70, Willie Wood, 70, and Bob Tway, 71. D. A. Weibring had a 68 to move into a tie at 206 with Andrew Magee, 70.

U.S. Open champion Ray Floyd and this year's leading money winner, Greg Norman, remained well back in the pack going into Sunday's final round.

Hal Sutton, from Shreveport, La., is the current leader in the Atlanta Golf Classic, Saturday Sutton shot a third round 67, giving him a 15-under-par for

Floyd had a 71 and was at 210, while Norman, the long-hitting Australian, was at 209 after shooting a

Andy Bean, second on the money list, had a 65 for a 9-under-par 207 total.

Chip Beck appeared headed for one of the day's best rounds before he took a triple bogey 7 on the 17th, but still finished with a 68 and a 54-hole score of many beat Mexico 4-1, shattering the championship dreams of the host country.

France meets West Germany on Wednesday in Guadalajara in the semifinals. Ironically, the Germans eliminated the French from the 1982 semifinals on penalty

Luis Fernandez ended 21/2 hours of drama in the first game by beating Brazilian goalkeeper Carlos on the final penalty kick of the shootout. The score was 1-1 after regulation and two 15-minute overtimes. The final score is determined by the results of the shootout, in which France scored four times and Brazil three. 120 minutes, German goalie Harald Schumacher stopped penalty kicks by Fernando Quirarte and Raul

West Germany's Klaus Allofs began the shootout with a goal, which was matched by Manuel Negrete. Andreas Brehme scored, but Schumacher got his leg on Quirarte's weak kick. Lothar Matthaeus beat goalie Pablo Larios to the lower left, and Schumacher easily dived to stop Raul Servin's low shot.

When Pierre Littbarski put his shot in the net, it was over.

The results meant three of the four finalists will be European teams. No European team has won the World Cup when it has been played in the Western Hemisphere.

On Sunday, Argentina plays England at Aztec Stadium here, and Belgium takes on Spain in

For France, the European champion, the win over Brazil was an especially significant victory.

Both France and Brazil claimed before the game that these were the two best teams in the field, and they played a game worthy of any World Cup final.

All of the players on both sides were at their best, but the hero's goalie Joel Bats. Fernandez put his Julio Cesar hit the left post. penalty kick high into the goal and the French fans at Jalisco Stadium in Guadalajara went wild. His teammates mobbed him, then turned their attention to the acrobatic Bats stopped a penalty kick by Zico in the second half, made a dozen superb saves throughout the game, then blocked Socrates' shot to open the shootout.

"I believe France is one of the new forces in world soccer. It is playing beautiful soccer," Zico said. "In those penalties, somebody had to be crucified. It was a brilliant game, with both teams trying to win, and unhappily, one of the two had to be eliminated '

After Bats foiled Socrates, Yannick Stopyra scored down the middle as Carlos dived left on France's first penalty kick. Brazil's Alemao. Zico and Branco all scored, while Manuel Amoros and Bruno Bellone connected for France. Bellone's shot hit the goal post, ricocheted off Carlos and bounded into the net.

Michel Platini, France's star midfielder celebrating his 31st birthday, was the fourth kicker and he badly missed his shot over the net. role fell squarely on Fernandez and That gave Brazil an opening, but Then Fernandez won it

Survey: Most families have two wage-earners

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wives of men with little or no income tend to bring home more money than women whose husbands earn somewhat more but the women with the best paying jobs are those married to the most affluent spouses, according to a new Census study

Overall, 42 percent of American families have two wage earners. with the wives of men in the highest and lowest income brackets earning more than those married to husbands in between.

According to the study of 1984 income, the traditional one-earner family now accounts for only 29 percent of families, followed by 15 percent with no one working; 10 percent with three wage-earners, and 4 percent with four or more people bringing home money.

Census officials have suggested that higher educational levels of both spouses could help account for the higher incomes of women married to higher income men.

At the other end of the scale, the wives of lower-income husbands may be responding to economic necessity in bringing home more money than wives of middleincome men, Bureau statisticians percent to $26,430, while the Consumer Price Index went up 4.3 percent from 1983 to 1984.

Nationally, the report said, median family income increased faster than inflation for the second year in a row in 1984. It climbed 7.1

'Increased employment and higher real earnings levels were important factors that helped boost real median family income," the study said.

"The proportion of families with a householder working year-round, full-time rose from 55 percent to 57 percent, and the proportion of families with two or more earners also increased slightly from 55 percent to 56 percent," the Bureau reported. "Two-earner families now account for about 42 percent of

The study found that working wives had median incomes of $9,437 in 1984. Median income means half made less than that amount and half earned more.

The highest-income group of women, with a median of $10,727, were wives of men earning between $35,000 and $50,000

Wives with the lowest median income - $5,785 - had husbands in the $5,000 to $6,000 income bracket.

But women with husbands who had no earnings at all had median incomes of $8,859, and wives of husbands in the levels of under $5,000 recorded median incomes in the $6,000 to $7,000 range

Only in the range of husbands earning more than $10,000 do wives' incomes climb back above

$8,000, the report shows.

Economic pressure to maintain a standard of living was cited as a likely reason for wives earning more than their low-income husbands by Edward J. Welniak of the Census Bureau, author of the

To maintain a decent standard of living someone needs to bring in income, and for families with lowincome husbands there may be a need for a kind of reversal of traditional roles, he said.

Suzanne Bianchi of the Bureau, who has studied wives who earn more than their husbands, said another possibility may relate to whether the wives are working full or part-time.

For the lowest-income husbands, the wives may have to work fulltime to maintain family income, while women whose husbands earn somewhat more may be able to work only part-time. That is especially true if they tend to have children at home, she added. So actually, the wage rates of wives of middle income men may not be less, but their participation in the labor supply differs, she

At the lowest end of the scale, she added, many husbands may be out of work, while among the highest income group, higher educational levels tend to produce women who earn close to or more than their

Another possibility, she said, might be a difference in ages among the differing groups of

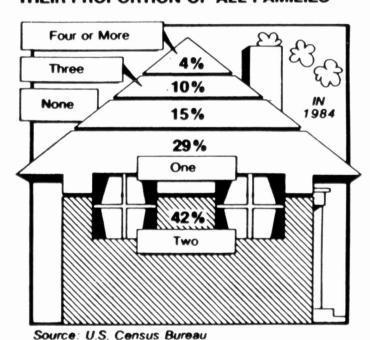

Wives of the men with the lowest income might be very young, and thus without children to keep them home some of the time, or might be older and married to men who are retired, she commented.

In the middle income groups, on the other hand, women could be dealing with small children at home, or just returning to the labor force after raising families

"It's hard to make a judgment without knowing the characteristics of these women. I would question whether there are important age differences between the groups of women, and differences in hours worked each week," she concluded.

62, widowed a year, after a long and happy marriage. Fortunately I have many supportive friends who have made my loss more bearable by their concern and attention.

My problem concerns two longtime friends of my husband. Both have come on to me with pompous offers to alleviate my "sexual trustrations." Can you imagine such unmitigated gall?

One I was able to deal with in short order. But the other is more persistent. I am unable to avoid him because his wife is a very good friend of mine and we see each other often, so I have been indulging in the following fantasy:

I set the time for our rendezvous. leaving the door to my house unlocked. He enters my house and gropes his way to my dimly lit gedroom, which I have generously

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman of sprayed with Chanel No. 5. As he approaches my bed, I reach up and turn on the bright overhead light. I am lying draped in my late husband's old government-issue bathrobe. My face is devoid of makeup, my hair is in rollers and my partial plate is on the bedside table. I smile widely, revealing the large hole left when I lost a front tooth in a skiing accident years ago. As I open my arms, my bathrobe falls open, revealing the orthopedic corset I wear to relieve the chronic pain of a bad back. "Come to me," I whisper huskily...

How's that for a seductive scene? Of course, I doubt if I'd ever carry it out - or should I?

Container plants are popular

By DON RICHARDSON County Extension Container Plants Make instant. Pertable Landscape Because of their portability and nited space needs, container ants continue to gain popularity. Flowering plants as well as egetable and fruit producing lants can be grown in containers. Container plants have been used for landscape enrichment throughout history. They can be highlighted in a prominent spot when at their peak and hidden from view when not needed or when in less than attractive condition.

Also, a wide variety of plant species having different cultural requirements may be grown on the same premises since individual soil, watering, pH, fertility, light and other environmental requirements can be provided for each container.

Almost any plant may be used as a container specimen so long as its cultural requirements are met. Placing a plant in a container tends to dramatize it and make it more important visually. Deciduous or evergreen trees, shrubs and vines as well as annual and perennial flowers may be used. The key is to determine where the plant will usually be located and the availability of sunlight, moisture and protection. Annual flowers usually prefer at least a half day's full sun, but most tropicals and evergreens do well with less.

The plant form needed is another consideration. Often clusters of similar plants and containers may be preferable to a single specimen plant. A large open-growing plant may look best with a groundcover of gravel or plants such as English ivy or ajuga. It is usually better ign to not combine several plant species in a single container since they often compete with one another visually.

When selecting from the wide variety of containers on the market today, choose those of simple design that do not compete with the plant but tend to feature it. For instance, plants in plain terra cotta ciny pots often are featured on beautifully designed terraces, patios and entrances. Fortunately, some of the most appropriate con-some or the most appropriate containers such as clay products are often moderately priced.

Container plants usually require more care than those grown in the ground. Frequent watering, often on a daily basis, is necessary for most species. most species, especially during hot weather. Thus arrangements hould be made for their care during vacation. Or they can be par-tially sunk into the ground in a shady, moist area.

Planting media should contain a lot of organic matter such as peat or compost. A good mixture includes five parts garden loam soil, four parts organic matter and one part coarse builder's sand. Most plants need to be repotted every three or four years in a new med since organic matter tends to break down and decor

Once the plant is well established, periodically add small amounts of a complete fertilizer. Be cautious against heavy applications since they encourage the plant to outgrow its container too

Since all parts of the container plant are above ground, they are more susceptible to cold injury than those growing in the ground. Thus these plants require added protection during periods of extreme cold.

Downhill running hard on knees

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Why is It said that downhill running is bad for you? It seems as though it would be easier on the legs. — B.B.

In jogging, there's bound to be some downhill running, for what goes up must come down. We can't always find long and level courses. But joggers should avoid long stretches of downhill terrain.

Running downhill exerts abnormal stresses on the legs and theatens the health of the knees. When we run downhill, we are constantly applying brakes, so to speak. We have to do that to maintain balance. The feet slap heavily on the ground. Then we have to tense the front thigh muscles (quads) to keep from keeling over forward. This forces the kneecap against the leg bones. Done to ex-cess that can cause a crumbling of the cartilage surface of the kneecap. Keep downhill running to

Dr. Donohue

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: With the emphasis on preventing osteoporosis, a lot of us women are going into exercise programs, since that is supposed to help keep bones strong. One question: I am told that swimming is not the best exercise for accomplishing this. Why not? -- Mrq. N.Y.

Swimming is a great exercise for many people, but not for prevention of osteoporosis, the loss of bone substance. For strong bones you need exercise that involves weight bearing. The buoyancy of the water eliminates the tug of gravity on the bones. That tugging is what en-courages bone mineralization and bone strength.

Now let's be clear that we are speaking here of prevention of osteoporosis. For the person with rheumatoid arthritis, who wants to maintain joint mobility without stress, swimming is fine exercise. For them, swimming fills the bill. And for some asthmatics the moist environment of swimming is ideal. Swimming is also one of the best cardiovascular conditioning exercises, bringing all the large muscle groups into play.

Not all back pains originates in the back. In his newest booklet, Dr. Denoise explains the spins, its superies and success of the property of the series of the property already history. # Smokers more likely to get cervical cancer

CHICAGO (AP) — Women who smoke two packs of cigarettes a day or who smoke non-filter cigarettes are twice as likely to get a deadly form of cervical cancer than non-smokers, according to a study published Friday.

Women who have smoked for 40 years also were much more likely than non-smokers to contract the deadliest form of the most common kind of cervical cancer, says a study in today's Journal of the American Medical Association.

Intermittent smokers and women who had quit smoking at least two years before the study were found to have the same risk as non-smokers, the study reported.

But the study noted that the relationship between smoking and cervical cancer is not as potent as for other smoking-related cancers, such as lung cancer.

The incidence of lung cancer among women has been increasing at about 6 percent annually, and is expected this year to surpass breast cancer as the leading cause of cancer deaths among women, authorities said.

Smoking also has been linked to cancers of the larynx, oral cavity, esophagus, bladder, kidney, pan-creas, and stomach, said Linda Anderson, a spokeswoman for the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md.

Louise A. Brinton, Ph.D., an epidemiologist at the cancer institute, and medical researchers conducted the study of 1,277 women between April 1982 and January 1984 in Chicago, Denver, Miami, Philadelphia and Birmingham, Ala. Of those, 480 had the cancer and 797 did not.

Brinton said in a telephone interview Thursday that the study is significant because it concerns the most severe form of the most common kind of cervical cancer, invasive squamous cell cervical

And she said researchers were able to screen out other factors linked to cervical cancer, such as sexual behavior. "They had detailed control of a large study population," Anderson

"They were able to have good control for other factors which could ruin an analysis, and could separate other factors out, particularly risks associated with sexual activity."

The study also found: Women who began smoking later in life are 60 percent more at risk for the cancer than nonsmokers. Women who inhaled smoke into their chests were at greater risk than those who did not inhale and had a 50 percent higher risk than non-smokers.

Couple marks long life together

LAUDERDALE LAKES, Fla. (AP) — Ben and Gussie Schwartz have lived a love story — a touching romance that's enriched their marriage of 70

Born in Poland 25 miles apart, they came to the United States as children, met at a dance in New York City, fell in love and married when they were only 14 years old.

"I love her," says Ben simply "I couldn't live without her." Across the living room of their Lauderhill Oaks apartment, Gussie smiles and says, "I need

To share their love affair is a warming experience. Both are effervescent, energetic and friendly. Ben dominates the conversation while Gussie's sense of humor and interjected quips reflect a youthful attitude and a zest for life.

The two were born in 1901 in southcentral Poland — Ben in Czestochowa and Gussie three towns away in Zawiercie. She emigrated to New York City, where her parents later ran a bakery in the basement of a Harlem walkup.

Ben, following a strong desire to join two older brothers already in New York, sneaked across the border into Germany and got a job as a galley worker aboard the steamship Potsdam headed for that city. He was 12 vears old.

Born with a talent and love for dancing, he performed for the ship's passengers during the Atlantic crossing.

"The people threw me money and I gave it to the sailors to buy beer," he says.

When the vessel docked in New York, the grateful crew located one of Ben's brothers, Abe, who took him home - to the building where Gussie lived.

However, Ben didn't see Gussie until a short time later when Abe, a bakers' union organizer at the time, took him to a union affair where Ben was to perform a Russian dance.

I looked across the dance hall," says Ben, his voice softening as he goes back in time "There was standing the most beautiful girl, her hair hanging down to her knees. I went to her and said, 'I love you.'

Gussie didn't pay much atten tion to Ben, even though they lived in the same building.

"I was a showoff," admits Ben, recalling how he would perform headstands on his bicycle whenever he saw Gus looking out the window.

With permission, the two went to Jersey City, N.J., obtained their license and were married April 20, 1916. Both were 14.

Ben's secret for longevity in marriage is a single word: love.

GOING INTO BUSINESS?

Do you get a tax deduction for starting a new business? Do you have "pre-opening" expenses or "post-opening" expenses? Are you investigating a new business or are you transacting business? Are you engaged in a hobby or in a

These questions are raised by the Internal Revenue Service to determine whether you have a current deduction on your tax return, an expenditure which is required to be capitalized and written off later, or a non-deductible expenditure.

Losses from an activity "not engaged in for profit" (hobby losses) are generally deductible only to the extent of income from that activity. If you have a profit in two out of five consecutive years, your activity will probably not be considered a hobby.

Taxpayers who incur "start-up" expenses for a business and who actually end up in that trade or business may elect to write off the start-up costs over a period of sixty months. Start-up costs include all those expenses incurred before business actually begins. Once you start transacting business, these same types of expenses become current deductions against your taxable income.

What happens to these expenditures if the business never develops? If you completely abandon a project, your expenses cannot be treated as business expenses. Because many 'would be'' business ventures never materialize, perhaps one should consider incurring all of these investigative expenditures under a corporate entity with a special provision referred to as Code Section 1244 Stock. Under this provision, an individual may deduct up to $100,000 in any one year. Furthermore, the deduction is treated as an "ordinary loss." This is the preferred tax treatment since it gives you a dollar for dollar offset against taxable income
