Liberty statue

Q. What is the story behind the small Statue of Liberty replica on the Municipal Auditorium lawn?

A. The statue was given to the city by the Boy Scouts of America Buffalo Trail Council in 1950 for the scouts' 40th anniversary, according to a news release from Trinity Memorial Park. The memorial park was responsible for the statue's restoration this year.

NEW YORK (AP) — The biggest blast of fireworks in America's history crowned an all-day birthday party for the Statue of Liberty and the nation Friday, booming across New York Harbor and the sailing and war ships that earlier had paraded in a majestic July 'What a glorious Fourth of July! One thing America knows how to do is throw a party, said Lee Iacocca, chairman of the Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation. There was pageantry on land, on sea and in the air, part of the four-day extravaganza marking the $66 million restoration of the statue and her 100th birthday

The scene in New York Harbor recalled the splendor of a bygone era as 22 tall-masted schooners, square riggers, barks and brigantines from 18 nations glided by the statue. On the island of Manhattan, the Harbor

Festival provided a giant street fair of food and entertainment through the afternoon. The Boston Pops led a musical tribute to the statue in an hour and 40-minute concert in Liberty State Park in New Jersey. The United States Marine Band provided accompaniment to the fireworks with a medley of patriotic After dark, the sky was filled by a dazzling shower of 40,000 shells fired from 42 barges in what was billed as the world's biggest pyrotechnics display. The fireworks glittered above the harbor, illluminating the thousands of small boats anchored at the statue's feet.

So many people jammed the Brooklyn Bridge and streets in parts of Manhattan and Brooklyn that police asked the media to warn spectators to stay out of the area.

"It's been said that we Americans count our blessings too seldom, but not this weekend," said President Reagan as he opened the extravaganza. "This weekend we celebrate, my friends, we cut loose."

New York Harbor harbor was jammed with vessels ranging from the USS John F. Kennedy, at 1,052 feet the Navy's largest aircraft carrier, to Chinese junks, tugboats, fireboats spouting streams of water, sailboats and even canoes. In all, the Coast Guard estimated there were 20,000 private pleasure craft.

A pleasure boat, the Trade Winds, collided with a Dutch sailing vessel, the Ohderhoek, injuring four people on the pleasure boat. One of the injured was hospitalized in good condition with a broken rib, while the others were treated and released. The flat-bottomed Ohderhoek lost a mast.

Police estimated that more than 1.6 million people lined both shores of the vast harbor to watch the scene on a gloriously clear day that had spectators speaking in superlatives.

'It boggles your mind to sit here and watch this. It just takes you back to the beginning of this country," said Rex Woodford, from Charleston, W.Va., who watched from Governors Island just off the tip of Manhattan.

One patriot, Anibal Rivera of Jersey City, N.J., carried a brass propane torch and a 3-by-5-foot American flag as he ran along the New Jersey side of the Hudson River in what he said would be a 26-mile marathon.

On Pier 86 at 48th Street, passers-by stopped to snap a photo next to a six-foot plastic model of the Statue of Liberty. Judd Scott, of Arlington, Texas, said he would save the picture as a memento. "This is probably the closest we'll come to it." he said.

The day began with Reagan and his wife, Nancy, boarding the USS Iowa, an 887-foot battleship. The ship steamed down the Hudson River as Reagan surveyed a line of warships from the United States and 13 other countries. Every third ship along the route fired a 21-gun salute, and the Iowa responded with reports from her 5-inch gun.

Third place was a tie between the Pillpushers, sponsored by Professional Pharmacy, and the Dynamic Ceramics team, both with 120 points. TOPS won fourth place with 110 points.

Trophies were given to the winners, and a gift was presented to Sparks: a weekend cabin and airfare for four to his choice of Horseshoe Bay or Ruidoso, N.M., said games chairman Bill Nehls.

Sparks has been involved with Summerfest for three years and has helped raise more than $40,000 for the center, Nehls said.

Air Force's Thunderbirds flying teams streaked across the sky information. A French aerobatic team trailed red. white and blue smoke, and a Harrier jet from the British carrier Ark Royal hovered briefly over the harbor.

Then the tall ships, led by the Coast Guard bark Eagle and accompanied by a flotilla of about 200 smaller ships, began their stately procession upriver. Even those aboard were moved by the spectacle. Crew members gawked at the sea of boats that surrounded Steve Masone, captain of the 103-year-old Gazela of Philadelphia, a 177-foot vessel believed to be the oldest and largest wood-hulled squarerigger still putting out to sea, called it "the most moving day I'll ever have afloat.

'We are sailing on history, we are sailing into history and we are celebrating history,' said Masone.

On the Belem. France's three-masted bark, young cadets in dress whites performed a low-kick dance step as they balanced themselves in the boat's yards.

Weather

Forecast

WEST TEXAS - Today's forecast calls for clear to partly cloudy skies through Sunday. Widely scattered thunderstorms are predicted in the Panhandle Saturday night. Otherwise isolated late afternoon and evening thunderstorms were predicted through Sunday. Temperatures will be a little warmer south Saturday, not quite as warm north Sunday. Lows Saturday night will be in the upper 60s Panhandle to mid 70s southeast and extreme south, except lower 60s mountains. Highs Saturday and Sunday will be in the 90s most sections to near 102 along the Rio Grande in the Big Bend.

State

Mostly sunny skies prevailed across Texas July Fourth as a weak ridge of high pressure continued to dominate the weather pattern across the state.

A few scattered clouds shielded the sun in some locations. A high pressure ridge was drifting slowly off to the east as a trough of low pressure developed over West Texas.

Gusty southerly winds were sweeping across most of Texas at speeds generally in the 15 to 25 mph range. Winds in excess of 30 miles an hour were reported over parts of North and West Texas.

Temperatures were in the 80s over the western mountain region and parts of East Texas while readings in the 90s were common across the rest of Texas. The late afternoon extremes ranged from 84 degrees in Longview to 99 degrees at both Laredo and McAllen

Dallas banks robbed

DALLAS — One man was in custody today following two apparently unrelated bank robberies within minutes of each other. Officers said they arrested a man a few minutes after the Swiss Avenue Bank was robbed Thursday, The man who held up the First Texas Savings office in north Dallas about 15 minutes later was still at large, officers said. Employees of the Swiss Avenue Bank became suspicious of the man before the bank robbery and called police, a spokesman said.

The man was arrested a few minutes later after witnesses directed officers to a dumpster where the man was hiding.

The robbery had taken place and the man had fled before officers arrived.

Officers said they found the man, $4,306; a holdup note and a plastic toy gun in the

GM fined for violations

LANSING, Mich. - The Michigan Department of Labor has cited a General Motors Corp. plant here for two safety violations discovered following the death of an employee.

A fine of $1,800 has been proposed for the Buick-Oldsmobile-Cadillac Plant 3 for one violation, department spokesman Gene Hashley said.

Larry Gillis was killed June 22 at the plant when he was struck on the head by a falling electrical panel, Hashley said.

The second citation, for which there was no fine, alleged the plant failed to ensure that forklift tires were used as recommended by the manufacturer, Hashley said. Investigators found one tire had pulled away from the rim.

McAuliffe gives speech

LOUISVILLE, Ky. - The husband of Christa McAuliffe, in his first speech since her death in the Challenger explosion, urged 7,500 teachers Friday to take political action to prevent the teacher-in-space program from becoming "a public relations ploy."

Steven McAuliffe brought tears to many eyes and was applauded and cheered during a brief speech before the delegates to the National Education Association's annual convention. McAuliffe, with his parents-in-law and his children, Scott, 9, and Caroline, 6, accepted a posthumous "Friend of Education" award to his wife. Mrs. McAuliffe, 37, selected to be the first "ordinary" citizen in space, died Jan. 28 along with the six other people aboard the space shuttle.

Willie hopes to raise millions for farmers

MANOR - Asking fans to make it "a great, historical day" for farmers, Willie Nelson staged Farm Aid II on Friday, hoping to raise millions for

About 12 hours into the show, Nelson said the fundraising appeared to be falling short of the $9 million collected by Farm Aid I in Illinois last year.

"According to the way the phone calls are coming in, I'd have to confess we're not approaching that now,' he said."I had hoped the phone calls would come in better than they are at this point.

He blamed it partially on fund-raising for the Statue of Liberty restoration project.

Event officials said about 45,000 people paid $20 apiece to get into the show at Manor Downs, a quarter horse track 11 miles east of Austin. The 18-hour show featured about 75 pop, rock and country artists, including Nelson, The Beach Boys, Waylon Jennings, Alabama, Judy Collins, Kris Kristofferson and Julio

The show caused a morning traffic jam that backed up to Austin, although several thousand people had camped overnight near the site.

Security director Mike Simpson said about 100 people were arrested, most for minor offenses. Many were held at the site and released after an "attitude adjustment," Simpson said.

Two ticket counterfeiters, with about $3,700 in cash on them, were arrested and taken to jail, he said. Temperatures soared into the mid-90s, and Dr. Red

Duke, a Houston physician and the concert's medical director, said up to 200 people had been treated by 4 p.m., most for heat-related problems.

"For the most part, it's problems with what people have ingested" combined with the heat, Duke said, referring to alcohol and marijuana use at the concert. The Rev. Jesse Jackson, a 1984 candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, told a backstage news conference that the concurrent centennial celebration for the Statue of Liberty, featuring a ceremonial re-lighting of the torch, was "an extravaganza for the very rich."

Farmers, Jackson said, "are the new huddled masses yearning to breathe free.'

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower told reporters, "The farm depression is a crisis that affects not just the snuff-dippers out there on the tractors, but the bean sprout-eaters in the cities as well."

Beginning the concert about a half hour after dawn. Nelson welcomed spectators to what he called "the AMRITSAR, India - Cunfire Milled 18 peope in Punjab state in less than 24 hours in the bloodiest outbreak of Sikh terrorism is weeks, police said Friday. In one encounter, 10 people were reported shot to death.

Police said Sikh extremists killed seven Hindus with bursts of automatic fire near this Sikh sacred city Friday, and then got into a shootout with police that left two assailants dead. A policeman also was reported killed.

Security forces called in a military helicopter to search for three other attackers who fled after being wounded in the gunbattle, the Amritsar police superintendent, Harkishen Singh Kahlon, said.

New probe chief named

MOSCOW - The director of the government commission investigating the Chernobyl nuclear accident has been replaced, a Tass report indicated Friday.

There had been rumors that the man replaced, Boris Shcherbina, 66, a deputy premier, was seriously ill from radiation exposure.

The Soviet newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda reported at the same time Friday that an accident during cleanup operations at Chernobyl showered firemen with dangerously radioactive water.

The official news agency Tass, in a report on discussions by the commission with other officials, did not announce a change in chiefs, but its report on Friday indicated a new man was in charge.

Shcherbina was named commission chief right after the April 26 disaster that killed at least 26 people.

Carter leads walkout

HARARE, Zimbabwe — Former President Jimmy Carter led a walkout of diplomats from a Fourth of July reception Friday after a Zimbabwean minister attacked U.S. policy on South Africa

Carter and Charge d'Affaires Edward Lanpher led about 40 Americans from the reception room after Minister of Youth David Karimanzira denounced U.S. and British foreign policy. Karimanzira accused Washington of indirectly supporting South African "terrorism."

More than 20 other diplomats, among them Britons and West Germans, joined the Americans in striding from the reception at the Meikles Hotel, where the Americans were

"It was offensive," Lanpher said later when asked about Karimanzira's comments. He declined further comment. Carter was not immediately available for comment after the episode.

NEA backs board plan

Delegates to the National Education Association convention heeded their president's plea and voted Friday by a show of hands to support a plan to create a national teacher certification board.

Mary Hatwood Futrell, president of the 1.8 million-member union, had forecast a tough floor fight, but Louisville, Ky., approved the resolution by about a 2-1 margin after a low-key, half-hour debate.

Albert Shanker, president of the rival American Federation of Teachers, opened his union's convention in Chicago by appealing to his members to accept the national board and other "revolutionary" the 7,448 NEA delegates in changes in the way schools are run.

"Oh Granny, Uncle Tray just won $25 in sumpthin" called a rodeo. He must be the best cowboy in the whole, wide world."

It was the 4th of July, 1883. And something mighty unusual was taking place next to the Pecos, Texas, courthouse. Right there on the lawn, stock from ranches like the Lazy Y, W, and Hashknife milled around nervously. Reckless riders dodged loco broncs, and wild-eyed steers were turned loose down Main Street. There were no chutes at the world's first genuine rodeo. A thousand folks crowded into town to see Tray

Windham win the top prize, by tying his steer in the middle of Oak Street in 22 seconds flat. The indestructible spirit of The Cowboy had launched an athletic contest that thrives in today's world championship circuits. At Southwestern Bell Telephone, we're well acquainted with what the human spirit can accomplish in Texas. That same spirit has launched a few circuits of our own. Take Daniel Clower's great drive of 1881 Leaving Dallas with a crew of men and wagon teams, Clower rounded up 400 poles from the cedar brakes at Five Mile Creek, then drove them back to build the first telephone exchange in North Texas.

The story of our growth in Texas will always be a story of people with the pride and zeal to get the job done right. Whether it's an all-out effort dealing with a disaster, or the daily challenge of providing quality telecommunications to our 4.8 million customers, the spirit of Southwestern Bell Telephone will always be on call

PBS series focuses on Russian lifestyles

By FRANK CREPEAU Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Rita is 21, an exemplary young Communist chosen to open a 12-part series on public television that takes a leisurely and often perceptive look at the Soviet Union and its people.

"Comrades." a special series for "Frontline," opens Tuesday with Rita Tikhonova. She is pleasant company, living with her parents in a two-room Moscow apartment, in love with Andrei; taking exams and beginning a teaching career.

Nothing startling, nothing profound. The filmmakers let Rita talk about her boyfriend, how she feels about love, her hopes for life and something about what things are like in the Soviet Union. The camera lingers on streets, subway trains and, most of all, on Rita, who must be an example of the "new" Soviet citizen the government would like to produce. Upcoming programs focus on a young soldier, a doctor, a Siberian hunter and the coach of an Azerbaijani soccer team who feels "sick as a parrot" when his team loses an important match. The series, acquired from the British Broadcasting Corp., could not be done without official approval and there is no indication either in the program or in the 10-minute discussion at the end how much control Soviet officials had in selecting topics and people. Is Rita typical? No, but there are many Ritas in the vast country. Are Private Krylov's barracks a shade too nice, perhaps a "Potemkin village" in the timehonored Soviet method of gulling foreign visitors? Maybe Soviet reality has been touched up a bit, but it hardly matters. There are many Private Krylovs, 18 years old, willing and proud to serve their country and believing that the Red Army "makes a man out of you. Richard Denton, the producer and narrator for the series, provides plenty of advice so the viewer knows "small Moscow flats produce their own rules." or that Soviet factories are often inefficient, abortion is a major method of birth control, store shelves are often bare and that there are many, many bleak industrial cities in the Soviet Union planned not for people but for fulfillment of the five-year plan. Some questions aren't asked.

Krylov and his family are not questioned about the war in Afghanistan. But, as good Soviet citizens, they would know the answer from the pages of Pravda and this series doesn't seem interested in wasting time on sterile discussions.

It is interested in showing the lives of Russians, Azerbaijanis and Ukrainians. You learn more about the Krylov family by watching them tenderly bid farewell to their son than from any discussion of of World War II.

The programs are not about superpower politics, political prisoners, Communist Party controls or the Sakharovs.

But the series will give you an idea of the rituals of Soviet power. Watch the Moscow children on their first day of school singing the national anthem. Look at the emphasis on World War II and the reminders of 20 million Soviet dead or the constant references to the "forces of imperialism."

But it's not as simple as that. It never is in the Matthew Hope novels, of which "Cinderella" is the sixth and the most complex of the lot.

Alternative energy forms explored

By PETER COY AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - On a 100-acre farm outside Naples, Fla., J.C. Caruthers and some friends are working on a Rube Goldberglike plan to make white yams into lighter fluid for backyard grills.

The farm's cattle produce manure. The manure gives off methane gas, which fires a boiler. The boiler runs a still, which makes alcohol from the yams. And the gunk left in the still feeds the cattle, which produce more manure. And so on.

The part-time entrepreneurs have not actually sold any yambased lighter fluid yet, but Caruthers says their Energy Research Institute will be wellplaced for the inevitable rise in the price of oil — and oil-based lighter fluid.

"The public is very lethargic. Next time we're hit, it's going to be hard," he said.

The Energy Research Institute, founded by Caruthers in 1980, is a non-profit organization of individuals and companies with an interest in alternative energy sources. Its specialty is making alcohol for fuel.

Visionaries such as Caruthers, who makes his living as an architect, are scarce these days. The halving of world oil prices since November has boosted the American economy but weakened the nation's resolve to develop alternative sources of energy.

The drop-off in research and development concerns energy experts, especially since it comes at a time of a rising appetite for energy, a sharp cutback in exploration for oil and natural gas and the plugging of low-volume wells whose output has become uneconomical.

"I think we're designing our next energy crisis," said Charles Hook, editor of the Review of New Energy Technology in Littleton, Colo.

Fred Ohr, an energy analyst for Alliance Capital Management Corp. in New York, said, "I hate to join the industry alarmists, but the fact of the matter is that ... our energy self-sufficiency is going to Elihu Bergman, executive director of Americans for Energy Independence, argues that the government should prop up development of alternative energy sources more.

"We're really not dealing in breakfast cereals and laundry detergent. This is an issue of economic security, an issue of national security," Bergman said.

But Ohr argues that government subsidies tend to create white elephants, pointing to the remnants of President Jimmy Carter's grand plans for oil shale and coal gasification. Carter's Synthetic Fuels Corp. officially died April 18, killed by cheap oil and technological glitches.

Most of the big spenders in energy research and development have reduced or flattened their budgets in recent years.

The petroleum industry's R&D budget, including projects unrelated to energy, has leveled off since the early 1980s at $2 billion or so a year, according to McGraw-Hill Inc.'s annual survey

The federal Energy Department proposes to cut its spending on nonmilitary energy research next fiscal year by about $340 million to slightly less than $1.5 billion, according to the department's budget office. The Gramm-Rudman deficitreduction act and weapons research spending have taken a Running against the trend the nation's electric utilities, which benefit from cheaper fuel, boosted their research budget about 10 percent this year. The dollar amount spending, however, is far less than the oil companies'. The industryfinanced Electric Power Research Institute in Palo Alto, Calif., is spending about $200 million in 1986 for research on energy generation, fuel sources and environmental controls.

Meanwhile, the focus of research is changing. Less money is going into renewable energy sources such as sun, wind and yams, which have never provided more than a fraction of 1 percent of the nation's energy needs. More money is going into traditional fuels such as coal, which produces 57 percent of the nation's electricity.

Favorite research projects these days range from a steam boiler that runs on a mixture of water and ammonia to a furnace that burns a coal-limestone blend roiled by giant jets of air. The latest experimental plants burn far more cleanly and cheaply than their predecessors.

Coal's contribution to U.S. electricity needs could rise to 70 percent by the end of the century, so building better coal plants could mean big savings in the nation's bill for energy and environmental Combustion of high-sulfur coal in older plants has been blamed by many scientists as a major factor in acid rain, which damages the environment.

In the high desert of Daggett, Calif., an experimental coal plant producing electricity for Southern California Edison Co. is burning cheap and dirty high-sulfur coal and still producing far less polluordinary coal plants

The plant converts pulverized coal into a gas, a process that throws off heat to power a steam turbine. The coal gas is cleansed of 97 percent of its sulfur and then burned to power a second turbine.

In another plant design, fluidized-bed combustion, coal is mixed with limestone and burned while suspended off the floor on jets of air. The churning helps the limestone absorb sulfur from the coal, reducing pollution.

After more than 20 years of study and setbacks, the first large-scale commercial use of the process for coal should begin this year at Northern States Power Co.'s Black Dog plant near Minneapolis.

Oil remains the nation's No. 1 source of energy, even though it produces just 6 percent of the electricity, according to the federal the 21st century while pinning its Energy Information Center. The story, in fact, dates back 73 years, to Thomas J. Watson Sr.'s rescue of the then-ailing Computing-Tabulating-Recording Company. IBM's factory feats are not a 36-month miracle of automation. They simply are the latest evolution of IBM's longstanding quest for improvement.

Despite an unparalleled success record, just-retired chairman John Opel openly fretted about worldwide competitiveness. So he launched the most sweeping, people-centered quality. improvement program in the U.S. Automation has helped to achieve astonishing results, but the main ingredient has been a radically altered frame of mind flowing from management's wholehearted commitment to embrace flawless quality — and attendant cost reduction — as a practical goal and IBM's payroll.

Three superb, recent data-rich books contradict Business Week's conclusions and are consistent with my view of the IBM story. First is 'The Chain of Quality' by John Groocock, TRW's vice president for quality.

Groocock shows that the onethird of TRW divisions whose products rate highest in their markets in quality outearn (by a three-toone margin) other divisions that make average and above-average quality products. Groocock makes a persuasive case that quality is the key to any American resurgence. The word "automation" does not appear in the book's extensive index. The pages are filled with stories of passionate champions pursuing quality, top management's commitment to

way of life for the 400,000 people on quality and an array of techniques and devices from competitor quality analysis to outlines of revolutionary producer-supplier partnership programs.

Jim Harrington's "The Improvement Process" also stresses crucial attitude changes, and also does not feature automation. Harrington, a senior IBM quality manager and president of the American Society for Quality Control, argues that an effective process begins with simple attention: "Look at your calendar. Are you spending as much time controlling the quality of your department's outpost as you are investing in cost and schedules?" Harrington claims that plant managers normally first address schedules, then cost, "and then quality — if there is time. If quality is really the most important factor, then it should be first on every agenda.

• Thomas D. Vick of 2305 Lynn Drive was presented with a 35-year service award at the Arco Oil & Gas Co. luncheon ceremony in Big Spring. Vick started work in Coahoma on June 12, 1951, as a roustabout. He entered military service in 1953 and returned to his roustabout job in 1955. He was promoted to truck driver in August, 1955, and to pumper in November of that year.

 The Big Spring chapter of the American Business Cub won rive honors at the national convention, held in Dallas with 6,631 people attending.

The club won the Superior Club Award, an award for overall excellence, said past president Dub Day. "That's the highest you can get." he said. He was presented with a watch for achieving the superior rating.

The club also was awarded the 100 Percent Blue Chip Award and was one of the Top 10 Clubs in the Nation, both for number of members gained, he said. The club won the Diamond 75 Award for passing the 75-member mark this year and the 100 Percent Living Endowment Award for exceeding the goal in collections for the national club's Living Endowment

More than $21,000 nationwide was collected for the fund, which goes to scholarships for physical and occupational therapists.

Attending from the Big Spring area were this year's president Kirk Kirkham, Marie Kirkham, Dub and Faye Day, district governor Bill Sneed, and Ray, Norma, Christy and Kim Alexander. Ray Alexander is a regional director. This year is the club's 50th anniversary, Dub Day said. • Deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District dropped a record amount in June. said Joe Pickle, secretary of the district. Continuous rains cut sharply into municipal demands, which plummeted 31.18 percent, he said. Economics also may have had a slight effect, he said. City customers took only 1,320,289,500 gallons in June. 616,426,000 gallons less than for dropped 8,609,000 gallons, or 4.7 percent. Total deliveries were 1,494,764,440 gallons, down 29.49 percent. Part of the decrease resulted from San Angelo's catching a net of 23,245 acre feet in its reserviors, dropping its draw on Lake Spence to 27,657,300 gallons, down 84.49

Lakes Spence and Thomas gained 53,120 acre feet.

During June, Big Spring took 231,706,000 gallons, down 27.49 percent; Midland 397,710,000 gallons, down 5.18 percent; Odessa 568,589,000 gallons, down 33.96 percent; Snyder 88,198,000 gallons, down 32.89 percent; Stanton 6,429,000 gallons, down 50.94 percent. Robert Lee, which took 14,192,000 gallons in June, 1985, used none this June.

The drop, however, did not precipitate an equal drop in revenues because of previous rate adjustments and fixed charges, Pickle said. The total of $1,077,476 was down only $66,963 for the month, or 5.85 percent.

 Motorists on Third and Fourth streets will have an improved route by late fall, through a State Department of Highways and Public Transportation project, a department news release said.

A resurfacing contract to begin in mid-July will provide a smoother surface with increased traction and will prolong the roadway's life, the release said. The entire length of Loop 402 through Big Spring, from Interstate 20 on the west to I-20 on the east, will receive an overlay of an asphalt, sand and gravel mix.

A contract for the 4.7-mile project was awarded to Strain Brothers Inc. of San Angelo, on a bid of $668,815.97. Revenues to fund the project are from increased motor fuel taxes and vehicle registration fees, approved by a special session of the state Legislature in 1984.

It wasn't that long ago, 1982 to be exact, that Lendl decided not to play Wimbledon because, he said, he was allergic to grass. He was the classic clay-courter, a man who played as if the baseline was an imaginary boundary that you were not supposed to cross.

This year, Lendl has been a serve-and-volleyer, taking the net at every chance, chipping and

It's a new Lendl, and a successful Lendl. Although he has been stretched to five sets in his last two matches, including Friday's thrilling 6-2, 6-7 (5-7), 6-3, 6-7 (1-7), 6-4, victory over Slobodan Zivojinovic, whose serve is as hard to handle as his name is to pronounce.

"I had a hard time swallowing the fact today that I broke him five times and he broke me once and we went five sets," said Lendl, who served 18 aces in the match, equaling the total of Zivojinovic.

His Yugoslav opponent created that oddity by winning tiebreaks in the second and fourth sets.

"I thought I was the one who was serving better and returning better," Lendl said. "Unfortunately, that doesn't always mean that you're going to win.

"I was lucky that I won." Lendl's next hurdle is yet champion Boris Becker of West Germany, who displayed his power game in his semifinal victory over Henri Leconte of France 6-2, 6-4,

On Saturday, Martina Navratilova will be going for a record-tying fifth consecutive women's singles crown when she takes on Czechoslovakia's Hana Mandlikova, the reigning U.S. open champion.

With the victory, Lendl erased more of the doubts about his ability to win close matches. He had lost the first five Grand Slam finals in which he played, but has won two of the last three. He captured the U.S. Open crown last September, to go with the French Open last Zivojinovic's hard serve and allaround powerful game gave Lendl all he could handle. But handle it. he did, although it took 3 hours, 26 minutes to close out the victory.

In the seventh game of the fourth set. Zivojinovic threatened to quit playing when David Howie overruled a line call and gave Lendl an ace to pull the game to deuce.

"I know the umpire was not right," the Yugoslav said. "I'm not saying anything bad about him. Everybody makes a mistake."

Referee Alan Mills and supervisor Ken Farrar went on to the court and told Zivojinovic, who had sat down in his chair, to continue to

"I'm not angry with him," Zivojinovic said of Howie. "I'm just disappointed. It was bad luck.' In the Becker-Leconte match, Becker broke his opponent at love in the seventh game and went on to take the second set. But, at the start of the ninth game, a fan hollered to Leconte in French: "Put your first serve in." The crowd broke into laughter when Leconte grabbed the head of his racket and pointed the handle toward the fan, a gesture that easily translated into, "You do it, if you

It was a game where the players were using new balls. And, as is the custom, Leconte, preparing to serve, lifted the ball to Becker. The left-hander then turned and showed the new ball to the fan.

He had the crowd in his hand. Becker, however, had the aces in his hand, and he used them to advantage, never dropping his serve in the match. Leconte's only victory came in the third-set tiebreak, which he won 7-4.

"Last year I was in the quarters and I lot to Boris," Leconte said. 'This year, semis with Boris. Next year, final with Boris, and in four years I'm going to win.'

His act also played well in the postmatch interview room.

'Boris has improved his game. He's very, very strong," Leconte said. "He has a big serve and it's difficult to return. Boris is stronger, and during the big points he's serving much better.

Gooden beats Astros

NEW YORK (AP) - Dwight Gooden did just what the New York Mets wanted Friday. He won, and he looked good doing it against the Houston Astros.

Gooden pitched a five-hitter, reaching back for something extra the only time he needed to, and the Mets won their eighth straight game with a 2-1 decision.

"When he gets his fastball in and out and gets his curve over he's dominant," Mets Manager Davey Johnson said.

Gooden, 10-3, breezed into the seventh with a three-hitter and a 1-0 lead but Kevin Bass' home run tied the score. The Astros went on to put runners on first and third with two out but Gooden ended the inning by overpowering and striking out pinch hitter Alan Ashby.

The Mets then scored the goahead run in the bottom of the seventh when Rafael Santana walked, took second on Gooden's sacrifice bunt and scored on Len Dykstra's second double of the

For Gooden, his eighth complete game of the season was a welcomed effort. Despite his winning record and a 2.58 earned run average, he had won just one of his previous four starts.

"After my first two seasons, people come to expect things," said Gooden, the 1984 National League Rookie of the Year and the 1985 Cy Young Award winner. "They expect me to win every time and strike out 10 each time. I can't do Gooden, who walked five and struck out four, won his seventh straight start against Houston and raised his career record against the Astros to 8-1. In doing so, he looked like vintage Gooden to Houston Manager Hal Lanier.

"Anyone who says he's in a slump is dumb," Lanier said.

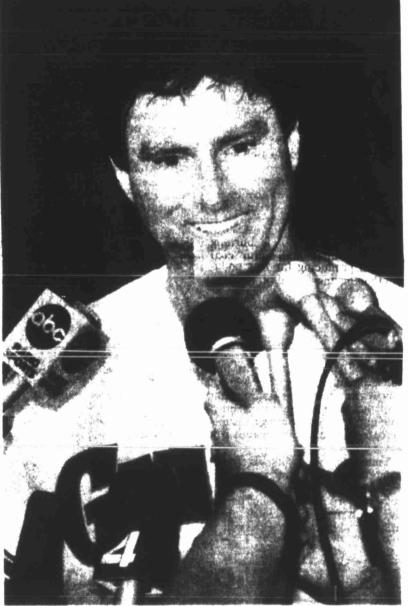

The Mets scored the winning run off reliever Dave Smith, who was defeats in 689 games. He won the pitching for the first time since June 22 because of a pulled muscle in his back. Smith, second in the league with 16 saves, took over in the seventh inning and his first four pitches to Santana were balls. "Those walks haunt you every time," said Smith, 1-5.

Houston starter Nolan Ryan, the all-time major-league strikeout leader, fanned six in five innings and raised his career total to 4.160. Ryan, making his third start since coming off the disabled list after an elbow problem, gave up one run on three hits - Dykstra's leadoff double in the first inning and Keith Hernandez's RBI single. The Astros have been limiting how much Ryan works while he comes back from his injury.

Gooden and Ryan had faced each other only once before on May 6, 1984, with Houston winning 10-1, Ryan pitched a six-hit complete game for the victory while Gooden was shelled for eight runs in 2 1-3 4-for-4 and drove in three runs Friday night before the major leagues' largest crowd in 13 years as the Cleveland Indians extended the Kansas City Royals' losing streak to seven with a 10-3 victory. The game and a fireworks display afterward attracted 73,303

The Indians had 15 hits in their fifth straight victory. Cory Snyder hit a two-run homer and Brook Jacoby had a two-run double.

The crowd was the largest in baseball since April 7, 1973, when the Indians drew 74,420 for their

The Indians also have baseball's third and fourth largest crowds of 1986, 61,411 and 61,340. Cleveland has drawn 683,323 in 38 nome dates, surpassing last season's major league low of 655,181.

Royals starter Danny Jackson, 4-6, surrendered five runs in three innings to take the loss as the defending champions moved to within one defeat of equaling the club's all-time longest streak.

Phil Niekro, 5-6, allowed eight hits, struck out two and walked one in his third complete game. His 305th career victory tied the 47-year-old knuckleballer for 15th place on the all-time list with Eddie

The Indians took a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Julio Franco walked, Joe Carter singled and Thornton singled home a run before Jacoby's double Angel Salazar doubled in the third and scored the Royals' only run on a Willie Wilson groundout, but Cleveland came back with two runs in the bottom of the inning as Thornton singled and came home on Snyder's sixth home run for a 5-1 Indian lead.

Cleveland scored three times against Mark Gubicza in the fourth. Leadoff singles by Carmen Castillo and Chris Bando preceded run-scoring singles by Tony Bernazard and Franco and an RBI groundout by Carter.

Franco singled in the sixth and scored on Thornton's 13th home

After loading the bases with one out, Vance Law singled home one run and Fitzgerald, who missed Thursday night's game because his wife gave birth, singled home two more. Youmans and Tim Raines followed with RBI singles.

Fitzgerald gave the Expos a 9-1 lead with a two-run double in the fifth. Montreal increased its margin to 11-1 in the eighth on Andre Dawson's two-run double before the Braves came back with three runs in the bottom of the inning in a rally highlighted by Dale Murphy's RBI double.

Reds 4. Phillies 1

Tom Browning allowed only two hits in 7 2-3 innings and Eric Davis homered and sparked another rally with a walk to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Friday night.

Until Browning, 6-7, gave up Von Hayes' bad-hop, base hit to right on a 1-1 pitch in the seventh, the lefthander had only allowed two baserunners, a walk to Hayes with one out in the fifth and a one-out walk to Ron Roenicke in the seventh Browning, a 20-game winner last year as a rookie, gave way to reliever Ron Robinson after giving up an RBI double to Gary Redus in the eighth. Browning had six strikeouts and three walks before Rebinson came on for his sixth save, allowing no hits.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, JULY 4, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The approaching MOON suggests it is best to utilize tedny to greatest pensible advantage whatever has already been put in motion but requires attention.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get busy with tasks around the house. Study your greatest deaires and know how to promote them now.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Saturday, July 5, 1986

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Morning is a fine time to finish writing important letters. Visit friends later in the day. It's due.

GEMBINI (May 21 to June 21) Complete those small jobs around the house. Dive into your bills, write the checks, and stop worrying.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul.

21) Restore your energies by exercise or whatever treatments are best for you. Pamper yourself.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Handle the secret personal tasks that are important. A good advisor can show you how to make greater progress. to make greater progress.

VanGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try to be more understanding of a friend who is having trouble. Be sure to dress with care.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good day to study your career. Be objective with one who can aid you with this.

Avoid getting too emotional. SCORP10 (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A fine morning to study your newspaper and other periodicals for data that can help your income. 8AGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You better finish the promises you have made. Handle little tasks that would please your mate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Talking with outsiders can give you a good idea. More action is required now n some civic affair.

in some civic ariair.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take any health treatments that you may need. Become more dynamic and cheerful thereby.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to make definite arrangements for recreational plans to work. Be kind and

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TO-DAY...he or she will subconsciously want to achieve a great deal but is apt to be slow and introverted. Give encouragement early and plan the right diet so your progeny can become a veritable dynamo, whether male or female. The mind is good, so educate it

MONDAY, JULY 7, 1886 MONDAY, JULY 1, 1995
GENERIAL TRANSMISSION DON'T SET INVOICED IN AN AREASTH DON'T MANY new ideas come to your consciousness just when you went to impieve your life.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 28) Try not to force a family tie to do something, lavite others into your home in the evening for some fun.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take a new course of action that will be pleasing to you and to others. See as many friends as you can.

GENTINI (May 26 to June 22) You can handle monotary affairs wisely in the afternoon. Get advice from someone who knows.

who knows.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul

micron Challetter (class 22 to Jul. 21) Your ego is great and you can do a great deal. Show your friends they mean a great deal to you.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Don't be worried but plan a new course to show off your abilities. The evening looks good for requance.

VINGO (Aug. 22 to dept. 2h) Don't neglect friends who can bring cheer in-to your life. Dress well, eat well, and be

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) The morning may be negative but it soon becomes favorable and you make real progress today. SCORPIO (Oct. 28 to Nov. 21) A partner could be angry for some reason and needs careful handling. A newcomer gives good advice. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)

A problem with your mate can be taken care of nicely. Business goes well for

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan how to come to a better understanding with a partner and then please this person. It will pay. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Yuor energies improve throughout the day and all is well. Perseverence wins the day for you. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You may be a morning grouch but don't vent your anger on others. The evening may be fine for romance.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TO-

DAY...he or she will do very well in sales work or the manufacturing of products, even though early in life will seem to have little interest in such. Give as fine an education as you can afford and the career here can be started quite early in life since there is a suggestion. early in life since there is eagerness

Your award, your wedding, your reunion, your engagement, your fund-raiser, your promotion, your seminar, your block party, your club meeting, your guest speaker, your scholarship, your honors, your bazaar.

GOOD FOR YOU

If it's special to you, your family or your organization, it's important to us. And we want to hear about it!

We want to know all about the good things that you do, accomplish and care about. We want to know about your club's activities, apecial events and fund-raisers.

We want to know about local people who are striving and achieving. We want to know about the special events in your life — the awards, the promotions, the weddings and engagements.

And, most importantly, we want to tell our readers all about it.

To the Big Spring Herald, this kind of news is "local" news. And local news is the very special kind of news you'll find in The Herald, every day. But we need your help to bring you even MORE of it. We're anxious to hear from you. Drop us a line and tell us the "who, what, where, when and why" of your special event. Send it to Darrell Berkheimer, Editor, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, TX. 79721. If you send it, we'll print it!

It's great news to us!
