BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) -A customer at a suburban pizza parlor gave diners an extra course, handing out $10 bills to everyone in sight to celebrate a favorable settlement in a laweuit

As the man left the restaurant in Vestavia Hills on Thursday night, he dropped a stack of bills that police said totaled $777 and refused attempts by officers to return it.

Restaurant manager Dennis Frennea said a man was flashing large sums of money and giving some of it away, according to policeman Rick Miller.

By the time officers arrived, the benefactor and another man had left in a truck. Miller said he stopped the truck and questioned them.

The man told Miller that earlier in the day he had been awarded a large cash settlement in an insylvance lawsuit. Miller said the man had copies of two checks, for $26,000 and $40,000, from a law firm.

Education panel eyes mergers

By KEN HERMAN

Associated Press Writer AUSTIN (AP) - The Select Committee on Higher Education turned its attention to possible mergers after deciding Friday against recommending closing any state universities.

In unanimous votes, the panel voted to urge that the 1987 Legislature preserve East Texas State University at Commerce, the University of Texas at the Permian Basin and Texas A&M University at Galveston.

On Thursday, the committee also voted unanimously against closing Sul Ross State University at Alpine.

After voting on the four schools, committee staff director Vic Arnold said his review showed "there are no institutions that deserve closure

Then the panel turned its attention to possible mergers that would pair the University of Houston and Texas Southern University; North Texas State University and Texas Woman's University; Sul Ross State and Angelo State: Texas Tech, UT-Permian Basin, West Texas State, Midwestern State and Sul Ross; UT-

Arlington and UT-Dallas. Arnold said the study of possible mergers included a look at keeping the merged schools open, but combining administrative functions.

Committee chairman Larry Temple said no votes on a long list of possible mergers would be taken Friday.

State Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur and a committee member, wanted to vote Friday on any changes discussed for Lamar University branch campuses at Orange and Port Arthur.

"You think they can go out and raise money with that dangling there?" he said of the possibility of changes.

The search is underway for a new curator at Heritage Museum a museum that soon may be mentioned in Guinness Book of Records, thanks to a pair of longhorn steer horns.

"We have about four applications in hand," said Wade Choate of 2707 Crestline Road, who serves on a five-member executive committee to replace Neil Allen. Allen resigned as curator effective July Katie Grimes of 1604 Osage Road, who also serves on the committee, said a new curator should be selected by the end of August.

Guest worker issue holds up reform regarding the horns.

By WILLIAM GARLAND

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau WASHINGTON - For the third time in five years, it will be a race with the congressional clock as backers of immigration reform fight for a measure that would make dramatic changes, especially in Texas and other border states. In prior years, the immigration debate in Congress has focused on amnesty for illegal aliens and sanctions for employers who hire them. While those remain key issues, more controversy has been stirred this year by proposals for "guest worker" programs. Should the United States legalize as many as 100,000 migrant farmworkers, virtually overnight, to help with the picking of perishable crops from the Rio Grande Valley to Central California?

Or should the country try to import as many as 350,000 temporary farmworkers each year for three years — without any legalization to satisfy the needs of growers who say they have too few domestic the legislation. workers to harvest their commodities?

The difference between those two radically varying proposals on the guest worker issue - the first passed by a House committee and the second by the full Senate — would have to be hammered out before an overhaul of immigration policy sional passage. could clear Congress and be sent to the president.

In late 1982, the immigration bill then dubbed Simpson-Mazzoli

In 1984, a similar measure again passed the Senate and narrowly passed in the House for the first time. But a highly-divided conference committee at the end of the year was unable to resolve differences in House and Senate versions of the bill for final congres-

This time, as Congress looks ahead to a schedule diluted with election-year holidays, the immigration bill has cleared the Senate and the important House Judiciary Committee. But several committees are expected to ask for a review of the bill - the same delaying tactic that pushed the legislation to the rear of the congressional agenda in 1982.

The House Judiciary Committee in late June approved the measure by a 25 to 10 margin.

Congressional aides said they could not yet predict whether the other committees - including the House Agriculture Committee and the Education and Labor Committee - would significantly hold up the legislation's progress.

Growers of perishable crops in Central California and other areas who use hundreds of thousands of migrant workers each year to harvest fruits and vegetables, have pushed hard for a guest worker program to replace many illegal aliens who now pick the crops. They argue that they cannot find enough domestic workers to do the job and that employer sanctions for the hiring of aliens would be unfair without laborers to replace the

Gov. White to assist small towns

AUSTIN - Gov. Mark White is scheduling additional "strategy sessions" with small Texas towns, including those in Howard County, to help them draw new business and industry.

A meeting for several West Texas towns will be 4-6 p.m., July 21. at the Mission Dorado, 1 Mission Boulevard, Highway 191, Midway, between Midland and Odessa

Representatives of the following communities have been invited: Midland-Odessa, Big Spring, Garden City, Rankin, Seminole, Stanton, Lamesa, Gail, Crane, Monahans, Fort Stockton, Pecos, Kermit, Mentone and Andrews.

White already has held several sessions, primarily in East Texas. Additional meetings also have been scheduled for San Angelo, Waco and Lubbock.

"Our communities are sufficiently varied to require that we set our goals based on a region's needs,' White said. "But at the same time, there are five key elements that can create a strong and healthy environment for business expansion.'

Humane Society purchases house, land

Staff Writer

Big Spring's own "Animal House" will soon be a reality. The local Humane Society closed a deal Friday on a house and two acres located at 4200 Wasson Road to serve as a shelter for homeless animals.

The society borrowed $34,500 to finance the property owned by former Big Spring residents Rayford and Janie Harrison of Brownwood.

After the organization becomes tax exempt, a donation by a society director, Dorothy Garrett, will pay the bank note. The new shelter should open in about 30 days when Karen McCarthy, a newcomer to the area, moves into the house, society president Margaret

Names in the news

By The Associated Press LONDON - Queen Elizbeth II, in a break with tradition, will personally award an honorary knighthood to rock singer BOB GELDOF in recognition of his work in African famine relief, Buckingham Palace announced Friday.

Ordinarily, the foreign secretary presents honorary knighthoods, but Geldof has been invited to the palace July 24 to receive his award from the queen, the palace said.

Geldof was severely critical of a speech the foreign secretary, Sir Geoffrey Howe, made on African famine recently to the United Nations

The Irish rocker, who organized the Live Aid concerts and other events that raised more than $100 million for famine relief, will not be able to call himself Sir Bob as he would if he were a British citizen and eligible for a full knighthood. Federation of Decency begins local chapter

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

A local chapter of the National Federation of Decency has been established in Howard County to inform the community on issues that the main chapter addresses nationally, said member Dennis Smith, an officer at Coahoma State

The National Federation of Decency was established in 1977 by executive director Donald E. Wildmon and is headquartered in Tupelo, Miss. Smith said the chapter's aim is to promote moral value in the community and to preserve the biblical ethic of decency. The next meeting will be at 7:30 for Hamby's advice.

m. July 28 at the Chamber of Commerce, 215 W. Third St. The chapter will be composed of three committees: education, legal and financial development. The education committee will gather information about issues the national chapter is addressing and exchange it with the public," Smith said Chapter members will present programs to civic organizations to spread the information, he said. Also, churches of all denominations will be asked to set aside a night for a presentation from the chapter, he said. The National Federation for

Decency has provided the chapter with two videocassettes, brochures and flyers for community presentations, Smith said. He said the education committee also will be responsible for writing letters to President Reagan and Attorney General Edwin Meese requesting enforcement of obscenity

Smith said the legal committee, directed by Louie Paulger, 1700 Scurry St., recently established a

"liaison" with Big Spring Attorney Lanny Hamby He defined "liaison" as a person who can serve in an advisory capacity by "talking the language and knowing the workings of the Paulger said she had contacted

Hamby because the national chapter recommends local chapters to seek local legal consultation. Paulger said Hamby consented to advise the chapter on the legality of certain protest forms, such as picketing establishments that sell Playboy and Penthouse magazines. She said no fees were involved

Smith said Hamby also would assist the chapter in interpreting and citing current state statutes regarding obscenity.

'If you start doing anything, it's good to have legal advisement,' Smith said

Hamby was unable to be reached Friday for comment.

One action the legal committee hopes to take, Smith said, is to establish "a strike force to implement the obscenity laws already on the books.

He said the state has obscenity laws that are not enforced.

'The national federation was very instrumental in accomplishing 7-Eleven's removal of pornography from its newstands,' Smith said.

The National Federation of Decency also endorsed the report released this week by the Attorney General's Commission on Pornography linking sex crimes and materials depicting sexual violence

Gib Lewis: No Texas agency is safe

AUSTIN (AP) — House Speaker Gib Lewis, in a stern warning to the state bureaucracy, Friday said no agency is safe from spending cuts and hinted that layoffs of state workers might be needed to balance the budget.

"Let no agency or program escape scrutiny," Lewis told a special House Appropriations Committee meeting as it began looking for ways to reduce the state's $2.3

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, also said higher taxes would be considered only as a last resort.

Lewis said many Texas businesses have been forced to cut back and suffer layoffs as the oil price slump has ravaged the state's economy.

"The people of Texas expect state government to respond just as their employers would to a period of lower sales — and that is to reduce spending and employment levels. Our government should be run like a business," Lewis said.

'Our constituents will not tolerate increased taxes from a government that has made no significant effort to get its own fiscal affairs in order.

"The House of Representatives has significantly reduced its own employee levels and spending, and I expect all agencies to do the same," Lewis said.

Bullock announced that spending increased again during June - the fourth straight monthly hike since Gov. Mark White issued an executive order calling on all agencies to cut spending by 13 percent.

Rep. Jim Rudd, chairman of the Comptroller Bob Bullock piled first half of the budget year. Spending from the general revenue fund was up 3.3 percent, he said.

Lewis said the cash-flow problem is one of his biggest concerns.

"We don't want to get ourselves in the position where we're writing hot checks. That worries me more than anything," he said.

Lewis also voiced anger with state agencies that failed to meet the governor's request for 13 percent spending cuts.

By Associated Press Actor given probation

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. - Actor Todd Bridges, who plays Gary Coleman's brother on the "Diff'rent Strokes" TV series, was placed on three years' probation Friday in the bombing of a car belonging to a man with whom he had done business.

Los Angeles County Superior Court Judge Robert Fratianne also ordered the actor to jail for one year, but he stayed the order until Jan. 7, when he will review a probation report and decide whether to suspend the jail sentence, clerk Vern Paul said.

Follower blames herself

FRONTERA, Calif. - Leslie Van Houten, the youngest of Charles Manson's murderous followers, on Friday told a parole board considering her release that she believes the 1969 Sharon Tate-LaBianca killings hurt the country badly and she blames herself for not preventing them.

Miss Van Houten, 36, answering two hours of questions from parole board members, said she did not come to terms with the enormity of her crime until after her death sentence was commuted to life in prison and she realized she would be spending her life behind bars.

"Until the death penalty was overturned, it was easy for me to stay lumped with the group and continue with Charlie's thinking," she said of Manson and his hippie "family" of young runaways and drug users.

Slice taken from shelves

NEW YORK — City officials began removing one lot of lemon-lime Slice soda from store shelves today after a caller to the 911 police emergency number claimed someone had put cyanide in it, authorities said.

The caller Thursday night said the poison had been put in lot number 6F18B23-82, Mayor Edward I. Koch said at a City Hall news

Police analyzed the 911 tape and were in contact with U.S. Food and Drug Administration, he said: Officials then decided that lot of soda should be removed from the shelves.

East Texas law enforcement officials check in as they drive through the central business district of Big Sandy. Escapee excitement

Residents would rather watch than hide

BIG SANDY (AP) — Residents in this East Texas town of 1,200 set up lawn chairs on their porches Friday to keep an eye on the biggest excitement they've seen in a long time — a manhunt for an escaped criminal.

"When I first looked out the door, there were nine police cars," said Helen Patterson. "I've just been sitting out here on the perch watching all the police cars and ambulances and horses and dogs coming in — and all the reporters."

Three-time convicted rapist and murder suspect Jerry Walter McFadden, who escaped from the Upshur County jail Wednesday night, continued to frustrate some 200 law officers who converged on this town of 1,258.

Armed police patrolled the streets Friday, while reporters stalked stories. Most businesses were open, while residents watched the drama unfold from curbsides, porches and front yards Mrs. Patterson, a 27-year resi-

PARIS - The Direct Action terrorist group claimed responsibility Friday for a bombing that killed an inspector and wounded 27 officers at a Paris police office, and sources said the claim was authentic.

The informed sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said experts determined that the original of the photocopied statement sent to the daily Le Monde was typed on the same machine used for statements claiming that Direct Action carried out bombings at the Paris headquarters of two major French companies last Sunday.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - An American missionary couple said Friday the government ordered them to leave the country by next week.

The Reverends Brian and Susan Burchfield of the American Lutheran Church said an official of the Ministry of Home Affairs handed them a letter Thursday night informing them of their expulsion.

"No reason was given," said Mrs. Burchfield, 39, in a telephone interview. "There are no charges pending against us anywhere and so we are completely in the dark. Our work permit was recently renewed until Oct.

Hobo gallery

New showplace displays work of local, other artists

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Big Spring has a new art gallery, which opened Monday in Big Spring Mall near the Armadillo Balloon Co.

"Big Spring has some fine artists," said Pauline Long, owner of the Hobo Art Gallery. She opened the gallery, she said, because, "I'd like to have a place for them to display their artwork.

Many local artists don't belong to Big Spring's two art associations, she added.

Hobo gallery deals in original paintings, handmade pottery, baskets, wallhangings and wood carvings, Long said. It has a gift area, with painted china and Indian jewelry, flower arrangements and pottery.

Most of the artwork is local, she said, but some comes from artists of other towns, and some of the pottery is from Africa.

Oil paintings are a bestseller, she said. The gallery deals in every type painting, including land and seascapes, still life, abstract and animals. Prices, she said, range from $5 to $1,000.

The continuous rod, 2,000 feet long, 1/2-inch in diameter, with two end fittings, was installed in Russell No. 2 well in Howard County. Fiberfex designed and assembled a specially equipped winch truck containing a large steel spool from which the rod was run into the well in about 90 minutes, less time than is usually required to install standard sucker rods.

Christopher said that because the rod has only two end fittings instead of many fittings as on standard rods, the cost per foot of a continuous rod is much less than that of a standard rod.

The lower cost will make possible applications where cost was previously a barrier to using fiberglass rods, he said.

Top 3 cut crude oil prices

NEW YORK (AP) - The nation's top three oil companies Friday cut the prices they pay for crude oil, reflecting the continuing glut in world petroleum supplies.

Texaco Inc., Exxon Corp. and Mobil Corp. announced the reductions in the so-called "posting price" they offer for various grade, including West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark domestic crude.

Texaco and Exxon each shaved $1 off their previous price, to $13; while Mobil dropped its level by 50 cents, to $12.75. The latest action followed similar moves by several other companies - including Shell Oil Co. and Citgo Petroleum Corp, a subsidiary of Southland Corp. and Diamond Shamrock Corp., earlier this week

The reductions, at levels mostly between $12 and $13 a 42-gallon barrel, "are lower than the last lows in posted prices," reached several months ago, said Warren Shimmerlik, an analyst with the securities firm Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner & Smith Inc.

"The world is awash in crude, the market is very weak, and OPEC is overproducing," he said. 'And at the moment, the outlook is for no relief in sight."

Last month, the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries failed again to come up with a formula to apportion a reduced overall output to jack up the price of crude.

Accordingly, industry analysts anticipated the cartel's effort to command a "fair market share" which began late last year - will result in increased production by an average 1 million to 2 million barrels a day by the end of this

Leading the trend of prices, is the near-month futures contract for West Texas Intermediate being traded on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Although trading in futures seldom results in actual exchanges of cash for "wet" oil, the prices reached in this market are generally seen as a guideline for real-life buying and selling between oil producers and refiners.

In Wednesday trading at the exchange, contracts for August delivery settled at $10.77, dropping below $11 a barrel for the first time since March 31, when the equivalent contract closed at

'Managing by wandering around' powerful tool

By TOM PETERS

I was lucky to trip over the term "managing by wandering around" (MBWA) about seven years ago at the Hewlett-Packard Company. In its most elementary form, it means managers should get out of the office and go down to the factory floor or service dispatch center, to find out first hand what's up. Critics take issue with the central place we've given MBWA. They correctly point out that it can cause managers to revert to peerover-the-shoulder, kick-em-inthe-"backside" (KITA), management of bygone decades. We attempted to address this criticism in a chapter about techniques for MBWA in "A Passion for Excellence." We explained that there is a wrong way to do it (KITA) and a right way, which stresses listening and facilitating. Despite any caveats, I have on excellence

The essence of MBWA is seeing and processing live data. Close up. Real time. To watch a Super Bowl become increasingly convinced the on TV is not the same as being there, as I learned when the game was in my hometown last year, in has become for me shorthand for Palo Alto, Calif. The Super Bowl is any activity that short circuits the as much — or more — the 30,000 or so nonticket holders and game tion that distance decision makers groupies who somewhat aimlessly wander the streets outside the stadium for days before the contest, as it is the 60 minutes of play. The game is almost incidental to the larger phenomenon.

On a graver note, I recently visited for the first time the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial in Washington, D.C. If you have not been there, please go - and horsecollar your congressman and 17-year-old son, if you have one. Seeing the memorial on TV dozens of times just isn't the same. My wife and I went at sunset on a humid June evening. Not 10 minutes passed before I dissolved into uncontrollable tears. I am a two-tour Vietnam vet. I did not suffer any postwar trauma. As a Navy Seabee, I was near, but not routinely in the heart of the action. So my reaction at the memorial was not because of memories of long nights on patrol. It was to seeing and feeling, close up, the individual 58,000 young people's names, carved one after another into imposing black grapite and half buried in a cut of earth within eyeshot of Mr. Lincoln's stately monument. It was watching a woman climb up a step ladder to do a rubbing of a name, perhaps of a relative, and wiping away tears as she did so. It was reading a letter from a close friend to a deceased Army major, left in tribute. The souls of those unsung boys and men loomed closer even than they did in unmarked, almost formless body bags that I saw from time to time during the real thing. I am not especially dovish, but I fervently wish that every congressman and senior federal official could be forced to slowly troop that memorial once a month, near dawn or dusk, in rain or sun, in humid heat or biting cold. The odds of taking precipitous action would be reduced, I feel certain. Closer to home, I walk the corridors of corporate America, preaching the gospel of unswerving customer satisfaction. I urge leaders to get in palpable touch with their customers, to see and touch the real thing - the raw complaint letters, for instance.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Bates Motel, complete with trick or treat shower, is once again open for business. Let the traveler beware. Norman Bates is managing the place once more. You remember Norman. He's that polite fellow who spent 22 years at the funny farm after a certain unpleasantness at the motel.

The continuing adventures of Norman Bates can be witnessed in "Psycho III," with which Universal is chilling the nation's theaters this summer. This time Anthony Perkins not only plays Norman but also directs a cast that includes Diana Scarwid and returnees Hugh Gillin (Sheriff Hunt), Robert Alan Browne (the diner operator) and Lee Garlington (Myrna the waitress).

Perkins' new status is symbolized by his office in the producers' building at Universal Studio. Dressed in executive clothes and lean as a college freshman, he came from behind the desk to discuss the new film and explained why yet another tale of Norman

'Because it has a story to tell," Perkins said. "'Psycho' was based on storytelling. Alfred Hitchcock told it to his dinner guests and kept them enthralled.

"Psycho II' had a good story, and that's why it interested me. I was even more impressed by the story that Charles Pogue wrote for 'Pyscho III.' After all, what can you do with the basic elements: the house, the mother, the motel, the girl in danger? Unless you can find something new and ingenious, you end up with a pointless story line that bores the audience.

Actress brings passion to prison in new movie

LONDON (AP) - Alice. Krige, the evil apparition who tormented four old men in "Ghost Story," is bringing pas-sion to prison in her latest movie.

Since October 1984, the South African actress has been doing writing and acting workshops at Dartmoor Prison in Devonshire in southern England.

Three scripts came out of the workshop. In September, one will be made by the British Film Institute. With a $600,000 budget, it has the tentative title, "Nonce." Prison regulations demand that inmates involved in the project remain anonymous. Miss Krige said the prisoner who wrote "Nonce" is quite talented.

About 50 percent of the cast will be inmates and they will be trained by director Paul Schoolman. The others will be professional actors.

"The men's work I think is breathtaking," the 31-year-old actress said in an interview. 'They work with great simplicity and directness. They just lay it down; it's there.

"It's the only prison drama I know of actually initiated by the men themselves. There's certainly been nothing that draws inmates into the creative process from the very beginning.

"Nonce," the story of a man who pleads guilty to raping his common-law wife, is the first film project Miss Krige has had a role in developing.

In April, she co-starred with Richard Chamberlain in the CBS miniseries, "Dream West." in May, she appeared with Vanessa Redgrave in the CBS movie, "Second Serve."

Alien sitcom will be fast flop or hit next year, ALF dolls and ALF lookalike contests will be the rage, or ALF will be just another pretty face who's been rejected by viewers and exiled from Hollywood with his tail between his legs. ALF, which stands for Alien Life Form, is the 3-foot-2, snout-nosed, smart-alecky, beer-guzzling star of his own NBC sitcom, appropriately called "ALF," which advertising agencies predict will either take off fast or fall flat faster.

The sitcom, from "Buffalo Bill" creator Tom Patchett and puppeteer-comic Paul Fusco, is the linear descendant of "Mr. Ed," the popular talking horse, and "Mr. Smith," the very verbal orangutan who was a gimmick whose time didn't come three years ago.

ALF also is related creatively to Robin Williams' Mork from Ork character and E.T., both of whom were appealing enough to interest kids and adults. With "ALF" preceeding "Amazing Stories" on tankerous personality, maybe akin ing a gamble on this unproven alien from the planet of Melmac who disrupts the lives of a relatively normal American family from the

"The research reaction to 'ALF' was a qualified yes," said Brandon Tartikoff, president of NBC Entertainment. "The reports came back that it was like the Los Angeles Lakers without Kareem Abdul Jabbar: Everytime ALF was off the screen, interest sagged."

In fact, when the "ALF" pilot was first shown at a presentation for ad executives in May, it began with several minutes introducing the humans around the dinner table. But when it was screened for TV reporters a month later, it started immediately with ALF's arrival. Patchett said a new scene will be shot to fill out the opening episode.

'The idea for the character was an alien life form who has a can-

NEW YORK (AP) — By this time Monday nights this fall, NBC is tak- to living with Archie Bunker as a child," Patchett said.

> Patchett likened the show's comic sensibility to the animated Rocky and Bullwinkle series 25 years ago. "There's a sort of hipness to it," he said.

ALF and the Tanners, his adopted family, face culture shock after the alien's spaceship crashes through the garage roof. Actually, ALF adjusts better than Willie Tanner (played by Max Wright of 'Buffalo Bill'') and his wife, although their two kids immediately befriend the furry creature.

For his part, ALF speaks fluent English - Melmacians had the language first, he says — and he knows all about U.S. culture from TV and newspapers.

"We get the 'Enquirer,' "he said at a recent press conference.

His TV taste runs from "I Love Lucy" ("It's in first run now" on Melmac) to "Happy Days." "I've always dreamt of meeting Anson Williams," ALF told reporters.

"We're just starting to get 'Happy Days' up there. It's wonderful. He's my idol."

His food tastes are more exotic, including cats and morning belts of Coors, can and all. But, he lamented, "You can't get a decent chili dog here.'

"Actually," he added, "I don't miss much. I'm sort of a bon vivant type of guy. I've looked at this as an opportunity to explore another lifestyle, another culture, as primitive as it is."

ALF doesn't sound overly awed about starring in a TV series. "It's a living. Beats what I did on Melmac," he said, explaining that Melmac's major exports were paintings on velvet and pocket lint. "We used to make pocket lint for new suits." he said.

ALF was miffed initially at the press conference because he expected to be interviewed by David Hartman and Joan Lunden of ABC's "Good Morning America."

Eight wild pitches with men on base spelled doom for the Texas League All-Stars as they lost 12-0 to a sharp Midland West team Friday night at International League

Midland West pitcher Raymond Domingues went the distance, striking out 11 Texas Leaguers. The hard-throwing Domingues made it look easy, coasting through four "three up-three down" innings and never facing more than five batters in a stanza.

Neither team scored in the first, and Domingues must have looked scary to the Big Springers as he struck out the side.

In the top of the second, Texas League pitcher Steven Robles hit what was probably the hardest shot off Domingues all night for a single. Paul Grigg was next up, and he hit it hard but at the pitcher. who caught it and threw to first to get Robles.

Robles was also throwing heat, but with less control than his counterpart. In the second with two out, first baseman Tammi Garcia dove for an infield fly, caught it, and dropped it. Benny Hernandez scored on the dropped ball and Midland led 1-0 after two.

Domingues struck out the side again in the third, and Midland West came to bat with Robles' control coming apart.

With one out, Juan Ramos singled and Domingues followed with a stand up double to deep left. Robles threw his first wild pitch, which catcher Michael Oliva recovered but threw wildly to second. Ramos and Domingues scored as Oliva's errant throw rolled into center Robles walked Sean Salois, and struck out Benny Hernandez. Bobby Buitta followed with a bad hop single that bounced over the second baseman. After another walk, Robles threw two wild pitches, both of which scored runs.

Pank Grigg took over in relief, but threw three wild pitches. Midland runners scored on the first two, but on the third Grigg tagged a distance Michael Bolton to end the Midland West baserunners cross

Midland added two runs in the fourth to end the scoring.

Sills, Mudd share Busch Classic lead WILLIAMSBURG, /Va. (AP)

- Tony Sills, playing his first tournament in five weeks, shot a 6-under-par 65 Friday for a share of the lead with Jodie Mudd after two rounds of the $500,000 Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic.

Sills, who finished second at Phoenix in January and third at Pebble Beach a week later, needed only 24 putts in his round to move to a 7-under 135 total on the 6,776-yard Kingsmill Golf Club course

Sills returned to the PGA Tour this week after spending some time in Los Angeles with his father, who is ill.

"If I could play real good, that will make him feel better, so that gives me incentive," said Sills, who shot a 70 Thursday.

Mudd, whose opening-round 65 tied him with rookie Adrian Stills for the early lead, carded a 70 Friday.

"It's not the kind of day I had yesterday, but I'm making progress," said Mudd, a five-year Tour veteran looking for his first

"I'm very surprised," Mudd said. "I thought 9- or 10-under would be leading by now. But with this hot weather out there, it's tough. Some players can get worn out.

Stills, at 28 the youngest of the black golfers on the Tour, was 8-under after seven holes Friday, but recorded back-to-back bogeys on Nos. 8 and 9 and finished with an even-par 71 for a share of second place one shot behind the leaders.

Tied with Stills were Mark O'Meara, Mark Hayes and Tony DeLuca. O'Meara tied a course record with a 63, a feat matched in 1984 by Wayne Levi, Willie Wood and Ronnie Black.

"To be truthful, this is not one of my favorite golf courses, O'Meara said. "But if I could shoot two more 63s, I'd love this course.

Hal Sutton and Roger Maltbie shot 67s to move to 5-under for the tournament. They were joined at that figure by Tim Simpson, Scott Hoch, Gene Sauers and Kenny Knox.

Mark Wiebe, John Mahaffey and Joey Sindelar — who finished first, second and third here last year - were all 4-under after Friday's play.

Also in the group at 138 were Fuzzy Zoeller, Craig Stadler, Denis Watson, Russ Cochran, Richard Zokol, Denny Hepler, Rick Fehr and Bill Bergin.

The cut was established at even-par 142, qualifying 70 of the 156 players for weekend competition. Among those who missed the cut was host pro Curtis Strange, who makes his home at Kingsmill and has yet to win the event.

O'Meara, starting on the par-35 back nine, birdied the 12th, 13th, 15th, 17th and 18th holes to make the turn in 30, then added birdies on Nos. 1, 5 and 7

Hayes, who opened with a 71, put together a five-birdie, oneeagle, one-bogey round for a 65 Friday.

"Actually I hit it about the same both days," Hayes said, "but I went to sleep three times yesterday and only once today.

DeLuca, a 26-year-old employee for Caesar's Resorts who got in the tournament as a local qualifier, followed an opening-round 66 with a 70.

Tyson KO's Boyd in second round

SWAN LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Undefeated Mike Tyson broke Lorenzo Boyd's nose in the first round and then scored a knockout at 1:43 of the second round in a non-title heavyweight bout at the Stevensville Country Club Friday night It was the 22nd knockout for Tyson, 24-0 and ranked No. 2 by the World Boxing Council.

"I saw the opening and I heard my trainer yell 'Right now.' And then I let it go," Tyson said of the knockout punch, a clean right up-

Tyson weighed in at 219, his heaviest for a professional fight. He battered Boyd with body punches from the opening bell and never let Boyd, 198, mount an attack.

Boyd did not attend a news conference after the fight. His trainer, Bo Williford, said the Cushing, Okla., fighter suffered a broken nose in the first round of the fight and was being treated by doctors. Boyd's record slipped to 16-6

HOUSTON (AP) — Von Hayes hit a two-run home run and Don Carman combined with two relievers on a five-hitter in his first major-league start, leading the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-1 triumph over the Houston Astros Friday night.

Carman, 4-2, pitched five innings and gave up one hit. He struck out three batters and walked one. Tom Hume went two innings, then Steve Bedrosian pitched the last two for his 11th save.

Loser Mike Scott, 9-6, pitched seven innings and gave up three runs and three of the Phillies' five hits. His personal three-game winning streak ended a day after he Cubs' first two runs, but Matthews' was named to the National League All-Star team

Scott struck out nine batters to bring his major-league leading The Phillies took a 1-0 lead in the second when Mike Schmidt walked, went to third on Hayes' single and scored on Glenn Wilson's sacrifice fly The Phillies increased their lead to 3-0 in the fifth when Ron Roenicke walked and Hayes hit his fifth home run of the season.

Houston scored in the seventh when Jose Cruz hit his first homer of the season. It was Cruz's first homer in the Astrodome since May 13 of last year.

The Phillies added a run in the eighth on a sacrifice fly by Juan Samuel that scored Gary Redus. Cubs 6 Dodgers 3 hit a grand slam and a three-run homer and Sid Fernandez pitched a two-hitter Friday night as the New York Mets routed the Atlanta Braves 11-0 in a game interrupted by a bench-clearing brawl in the first inning.

Mets 11, Braves 0 NEW YORK (AP) - Gay Carter

Carter's seven RBI in the game tied a career high and was one short of a team record. Carter took over the National League lead with 65 RBI and now has 16 home runs.

Fernandez, 12-2, won his seventh straight start and became the NL's top winner. He walked three batters and struck out nine as he threw his first career shutout, in his 59th career start. He did not allow a hit after the third inning

Fernandez also contributed two doubles, a single and an RBI to the Mets' 12-hit attack

Carter hit his three-run homer in the first and Braves starter David Palmer hit Darryl Strawberry in the right hip with his next pitch. Strawberry rushed the mound, where Palmer threw his glove at Palmer side-stepped Strawberry and home plate umpire Jerry Crawford pushed the pitcher aside as both benches and bullpens emptied. Order was restored within a few minutes and no one was ejected of the game in the next inning with his 10th career slam. Fernandez and Wally Backman singled and Keith Hernandez walked with two outs before Carter lined an 0-2 pitch into the Braves' bullpen in left field, almost the same spot where his first homer landed Carter responded to a loud ovation by stepping out of the dugout and pumping his fist in the air while staring at Palmer. Craig McMurtry relieved Palmer, who walked into the dugout to the taunts of the New York fans.

Yankees 9. Twins 3

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Rookie Doug Drabek earned his first major league victory and Mike Pagliarulo and Dan Pasqua hit home runs to lead the New York Yankees to a 9-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins Friday night. Don Mattingly had three doubles, giving him 31 for the season in 87 games, and knocked in two runs as the Yankees won their third straight game and dealt the Twins a third straight loss

Drabek, 1-2, a 23-year-old righthander, allowed just one hit over the first 5 2-3 innings before Randy Bush singled and scored on Kent Hrbek's double to cut the Yankees' lead to 2-1.

After walking Roy Smalley to lead off the seventh. Drabek was relieved by Brian Fisher, who earned his first save of the year. Drabek struck out three and walked two to top Minnesota's Neal Heaton, 3-8, who tied a career-high with 10 strikeouts.

Rickey Henderson, who had two doubles and a single, led off the third with a base hit and stole second before Mattingly doubled to score the first run. With two out, Mattingly scored from second when Gary Roenicke blooped an infield single just beyond second

But this year, Garvey, an 11-time National League All-Star, and Jackson, a 12-time Star, were not named as reserves Friday for the July 15th classic, despite both just missing being voted to the clubs by the fans.

St. Louis Cardinals Manager Whitey Herzog named Houston's Glenn Davis as the backup first baseman to starter Keith Hernandez of the New York Mets.

Kansas City Manager Dick Howser selected Toronto's Jesse Barfield and Lloyd Moseby, Boston's Jim Rice, Chicago's Harold Baines, and Oakland's Jose Canseco as substitutes for starting outfielders Kirby Puckett of Minnesota and New York Yankees Rickey Henderson and Dave Winfield.

Other reserves named Friday for the NL were outfielders Dave Parker of Cincinnati, Kevin Bass of Houston, Tim Raines of Montreal and Chili Davis of San Francisco. Also chosen were Los Angeles Dodgers second baseman Steve Sax, Montreal shortstop Hubie Brooks, Chicago catcher Jody Davis, Giants third baseman Chris Brown and Pittsburgh catcher Tony Pena.

The AL reserves include third baseman Wade Boggs and catcher Rich Gedman of Boston, Kansas City second baseman Frank White, Yankees first baseman Don Mattingly, Seattle third baseman Jim Presley and Blue Jays shortstop Tony Fernandez. Jackson and Garvey could not be reached for comment, but one other player who also was not selected, Boston pitcher Dennis "Oil

Boyd erupted into a rage Thursday night and left Fenway Park before the Red Sox' scheduled game with California when he learned he had been kept off the AL's pitching staff.

"I tried to talk to him. He was not under control. I couldn't calm him down," Boston Manager John McNamara said.

"He didn't want anything to do with anybody. I'm very disappointed with the way he reacted and the fact he left the clubhouse.'

The Red Sox responded to Boyd's outburst by suspending him without pay for three days on Friday.

The AL selected Baltimore's Don Aase, Boston's Roger Clemens, California's Mike Witt, Cleveland's Ken Schrom, Detroit's Willie Hernandez, Milwaukee's Ted Higuera, Yankees reliever Dave Righetti and Texas knuckleballer Charlie Hough.

Initially, Hernandez said he would skip the All-Star Game to give his sore shoulder time to rest, but later seemed to change his mind.

"My arm is getting better," Hernandez said Friday morning in a telephone interview from his hotel room. "With last night's rainout, it got more rest. I'm thinking I'll be OK for the All-Star game. I'll probably change my mind and go.'

But Garvey, who is hitting .237 with 13 homers and 37 RBI, and Jackson, batting .282 with seven homers and 31 RBI, do not have a choice.

Garvey was second to Hernandez in fan voting for the NL, finishing under 138,000 votes behind the Mets Gold Glove first baseman, who received 995,279. Puckett edged out Jackson, who finished fourth in fan voting, by 17,000 ballots.

Niekro's book unfit for Little Leaguers

ATLANTA (AP) — Cleveland Indians pitcher Phil Niekro, embarrassed by the extensive profanity in his ghost-written autobiography "Knuckle Balls," has warned parents that his memoirs may not be suitable for Little Leaguers.

The book, co-authored by former Pittsburgh Pirates publicist Tom Bird and released earlier this month, recounts Niekro's long association with the Milwaukee and Atlanta Braves and his 1984 and 1985 seasons with the New York Yankees. The text contains profanity in quotes from others and in the diary-entry musings of Niekro

In an interview with The Atlanta Constitution, Niekro said the extensive profanity came as a surprise to him when he read Bird's text.

"There's a lot of four-letter words in the book that I didn't think were necessary to make the book good," Niekro said. "I did end up cutting out a lot of stuff before the book went to press. But I felt that if I cut everything, it would ruin the flow of the book

"It's not that I'm that unhappy about the book. It's just that I wish it didn't have such harsh language in it."

Because of the language, Niekro got the publisher to include a disclaimer. A card included in sale copies of the book

'Watch out for some of the language in "Knuckle Balls." Some ball players occasionally use rough language, and it's sometimes captured in my book. If you'd rather that your child didn't read such words, I thought I'd warn you so you couldn't get caught unaware. (Signed) Phil

Niekro. Bird said the disclaimer may actually help sales. "Kids are going to see or hear about this warning, which will make them curious enough to go out and buy the book," he said.

Niekro said that if sales warrant a second printing, he wants changes made in the text. "I'm going to want to take some of the vulgarity out," he said.

But he noted that "there are a lot worse things written out there than my book. There are people who have said they liked it.

On Wednesday, Boyd had said he would understand if he were not chosen for the All-Star team and would concentrate on winning 20 games this season, according to The Boston Globe.

Howser reportedly did not pick Boyd because Boyd is scheduled to pitch for the Red Sox on Sunday.

Boston pitcher Al Nipper said that was "a cop-out. An All-Star is an All-Star, and that shouldn't have anything to do with it.' But Boston's Don Baylor, who

Soviets defeat women's volleyball team

Two American boxers win

MOSCOW (AP) - Michael Bent and Arthur Johnson scored opening-match victories to give America's politically wracked boxing team a boost, but the U.S. women's volleyball team was defeated by the Soviet Union Friday at the Goodwill Games.

Bent, the U.S. national champion heavyweight, outpointed Bulgaria's Svilen Rusinov 3-2, while Johnson, the national flyweight champ, took a unanimous decision over Hungary's Janos Varadi.

On the volleyball court, the powerful serves of Julija Salcevich helped the Soviets to a 15-12, 11-15, 15-4, 15-4 victory over the U.S., silver medalists in the 1984 Olympics,

The lone remaining member of that squad, Paula Weishoff, had to leave the match late in the first set with an ankle injury.

That typified the kind of day it was for the Americans at the international sports festival.

For the first time in the first eight days, an American failed to win a gold medal. In fact, the U.S. medal haul for the day totaled just

They won two golds - Nikolai Brozhzhin in the men's three-meter

springboard diving, edging former U.S. collegiate platform champion Kent Ferguson - and Viktor Manakov, in the men's 50-kilometer individual cycling

Britain won its first medal of the games, and it was gold, with Sally Hodge taking the women's 20-kilometer individual points

The day's other gold medal went · to Lutz Hesslich of East Germany, who defeated teammate Mikhael Hubner 2-0 in men's sprint cycling.

That event saw U.S. Olympic champion Mark Gorski beaten twice - by Hubner in the semifinals and by Australia's Gary Neiwand for the bronze medal.

After eight days, the Soviets had compiled 45 gold medals and 125 overall. The United States was second. with 31 golds among 88 medals, while East Germany was third with seven gold medals and a

Moscow suffered through a second consecutive day of rain and high winds, and similar weather at Tallin on the gulf of Finland forced officials to postpone the opening ceremonies in yachting. The ceremony was reset for Monday, two days after the scheduled first

And the games themselves encountered more bad financial weather

A financial analyst in Atlanta, Lee Wilder, predicted that Turner Broadcasting System, which is copromoting the games with the Soviet sports ministry, would lose $20 million on the event, twice the loss Turner, TBS president, projected just last month.

"The only good financial news about the Goodwill games is that they won't happen again for four years," Wilder said.

Arthur Sando of TBS said losses were now projected at $15 million.

Turner said he was not worried, and that the event's contribution to world peace overshadows financial considerations

Political and commercial considerations led the U.S. Defense Department last week to ban nine boxers - one marine and eight soldiers — from competing in the Goodwill games, and late substitutions had to be found.

Acevedo was the latest, being picked after the majority of the squad was already in Moscow. He arrived Thursday, got in some practice, then went to the Olympic indoor stadium for the night's first match. Chon beat him 5-0.

'The jet lag was still getting to me," Acevedo said. "I feel I could have otherwise done better.'

Soviet and American boxing officials criticized the Pentagon deci-

"That took a little bit out of us, but now we are fired up," Johnson

The volleyball battle between the U.S. and Soviets was controlled by the Soviets, and especially by Salcevich's left-handed serve.

The Americans 11-9 when Weishoff was injured. The Americans rallied to tie it, 12-12, but the Soviets then scored the last three points for the set.

In the second set, the U.S. fared better holding serve and fending off Salcevich's blasts, but in the third set the Soviets sped to a 14-3 lead and were never in trouble.

They split the first six points of the final set before the Soviets rolled off four in a row and never again

The Soviets will play peru for the gold medal Saturday. Peru beat japan in a marathon, 15-9, 12-15, 14-16, 16-14, 15-11. The U.S. and the Japanese, third place finishers at the Olympics, for the bronze.

Taras Liskevyich, the American coach, said the Soviets are "a very good team — but not one we can't beat in the future. They are very well coached. They have played with the best in the world.
