In 22 years as mayor, Dunn has performed 367 weddings and says he is going to write a book about some of the zanier ceremonies.

"One couple came in on their lunch hour, got married and then they both returned to work," he said Monday. "I've got some good stories. I married the same couple twice — three times if I'm not mistaken."

Cutback on watering urged

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

For the next several weeks, the city is asking citizens to water lawns every other day to conserve a reduced level of water in city reservoirs.

A corroded valve at the water treatment plant has malfunctioned, reducing the volume of water the city can pump into its distribution system, Public Works Director Tom Decell told City Council at a work session Monday afternoon.

Citizens whose house numbers are even are asked to water lawns on even-numbered days. Those with odd-numbered addresses are asked to water on odd-numbered days.

Working properly, the plant can pump more than 12 million gallons of water per day. But the crippled valve, frozen two-thirds open, limits the city's pumping capacity to 8 or 9 million gallons of water per day, Decell said.

"During these high demand days, we're demanding a lot more than that from the system," he explained.

"With the demand and consumption throughout the city, we're going to be constantly losing ground," he said.

About 7½ million gallons of water were in city holding tanks Monday afternoon, Decell said.

A citywide water shut-off was triggered in late May when another valve at the plant went awry while being serviced, causing a flood of the entire pump galley and damaging the plant's electric motors.

The water crisis cost the city about $34,500 in wages and electrical work.

This time, Decell said, the valve's manufacturer will advise the city on repair work. No time has been set for repairs to begin, he said.

In about 15 days, an alternate pumping system, in place for 20 years but not on line, should be functioning, Decell said.

The 1987 module consists of two pumps, allowing the city to pump an additional 4 million gallons of water daily, Decell said.

Meanwhile, work is proceeding that will let the city isolate the main pumping station so that several plant components can be renovated.

Renovation of the aging plant, directed by the engineering firm of Parkhill, Smith & Cooper, promises to boost the city's capacity to chemically treat water and improve its filtering process, Decell said last month.

Furthermore, a backup system of pumps at Comanche Trail Park will be brought on line, reducing still more the chances of reservoirs running dry.

Mexican supporters of the PAN Party rush past armed Mexican federal police Monday evening to block traffic across an international bridge into El Paso. Panistas were protesting what they called fraudulent elections in Chihuahua State. Demonstrations continued until late Monday night at bridges along the U.S. — Mexican border at El Paso.

Night moves

Panistas storm two international bridges

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD
Harte-Hanks News Service

CIUDAD JUAREZ — This large city across from El Paso was calm Tuesday morning after a night of confrontation between federal soldiers and National Institution Party (PAN) supporters who believe an election was stolen from them.

Angry Panistas stormed two international bridges Monday night, setting the stage for a tense two-hour confrontation with heavily armed army troops.

When the soldiers, in riot gear and some with semi-automatic rifles and tear gas guns, withdrew, the approximately 5,000 Panistas gathered in front of city hall and proclaimed a moral victory.

Descending from the bridge past the troops, PAN supporter Dora Luz Gonzalez Garcia told a reporter, "Tell the world what you have seen this day. We don't want this government. It stinks."

In a hoarse voice, Ciudad Juarez PAN mayoral candidate Gustavo Elizondo Aguilar stood on top of a van and shouted into a crackling microphone, "We will go from event to event to show them the will of the people."

"The PAN has declared widespread election fraud by the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI) in the July 6 state and city elections. Elizondo was the certified loser in a race with Ciudad Juarez industrialist Jaime Bermudez Cuaron of PRI. The PRI also claimed that its candidate for governor of the state of Chihuahua, Fernando Baeza Melendez, defeated the PAN's Francisco Barrio, former mayor of Ciudad Juarez.

PAN also called for a five-minute halting of vehicles in Ciudad Juarez Tuesday afternoon and for blocking of the Pan American Highway on Thursday.

Elizondo sparked the seige around 8 p.m. Monday during a protest rally in front of the city hall between the Santa Fe Bridge leading to El Paso and the Stanton Street Bridge entering Mexico.

He ended a speech by saying, "Let's take the bridges." The crowd charged past the federal police with ease at both bridges.

Several in the crowd said they heard a shot fired by police on the Santa Fe Bridge. There were no immediate reports of injuries.

The people on the bridges sat calmly for about an hour, when the expected army troops arrived and a tenuous tug of war began.

On the United States side of the Santa Fe Bridge, U.S. immigration officials warned persons on foot not to cross. Car traffic at both bridges was non-existent.

Wildlife office wants Stacy permit denied

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The Fort Worth office of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has recommended a permit be refused for construction of Stacy Dam, because the dam could endanger a species of water snake.

However, the service as a whole has not decided to recommend refusal of the permit, Jim Young, assistant regional director in the service's Albuquerque office, said this morning. The issue is being decided in Washington, D.C., this week, he said.

A public hearing is scheduled for July 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Ballinger High School auditorium.

Rod Lewis, assistant manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, said the recommendation is not critical to the Stacy project, but it is "causing some problems."

"If they (the Wildlife Service) ultimately prevail," he said, "Stacy would not be built." But, he said, he doesn't expect the service to prevail.

U.S. Secretary of Interior Donald O'Dell will make the ultimate decision within the next several months.

Lewis said "at some point there will be economic considerations" to balance the environmental ones in making a final decision.

David Curtis, assistant supervisor of the Wildlife Service's Fort Worth office, said the recommendation to refuse a permit was based partially on the recently released Corps of Engineers study.

The study determined that building the dam would threaten the Concho River water snake's existence by altering 48 percent of its proposed critical habitat.

The water district believes the study is inaccurate in stating that the snake will be endangered, Lewis said this morning.

"We feel like the snake and the reservoir can co-exist," he said. He cited the existence of the Brazos River water snake, a close cousin to the Concho River snake, which was once on the endangered species list. The snake is now thriving, living in Possum Kingdom and other area reservoirs, he said.

The Wildlife Service has listed alternatives to the proposed Stacy site, including building the reservoir elsewhere and piping in water from further away. But the alternatives are not economically feasible, Lewis said.

County to decide spillway funding

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

Howard County commissioners are planning a field trip sometime this week to Natural Dam Lake before deciding whether to subsidize work to increase the lake's capacity and control its overflow.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District has retained Grimmett Bros., a Snyder construction company, to gouge a 1,200-foot spillway around the north end of the dam to control overflow.

Grimmett Bros. also will raise the level of the dam four feet to expand the lake's capacity.

The water district plans to pay 50 percent of the cost and is asking the county and Big Spring to each pay 25 percent, County Judge Milton COMMISSIONERS page 2A

City Hall may move to community center

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Big Spring may gain a new City Hall but lose a community center if a plan discussed by City Council Monday afternoon becomes reality.

Councilman Harold Hall and Public Works Director Tom Decell outlined a plan for moving city offices to the Dora Roberts Community Center. The move would bring the city into compliance with a federal ultimatum that city offices be made accessible to handicapped people or the city will lose federal money.

Last year the city received about $1 million in federal grants for its airpark and another $380,000 for other city projects.

The deadline for cities to show compliance intent is Oct. 15.

Mayor Cotton Mize said this morning he sees merit in the proposal, but wants to compare the cost of fitting the present City Hall with elevators, ramps and wider doors with the cost of building office space in the community center.

Mize said Monday if costs are roughly the same, he'd "hate to spend money on our present City Hall with its limited space."

The plan met with favorable reaction from the council, although Councilman Johnny Rutherford was not convinced the present City Hall could not be fit with handicapped access at a reasonable cost.

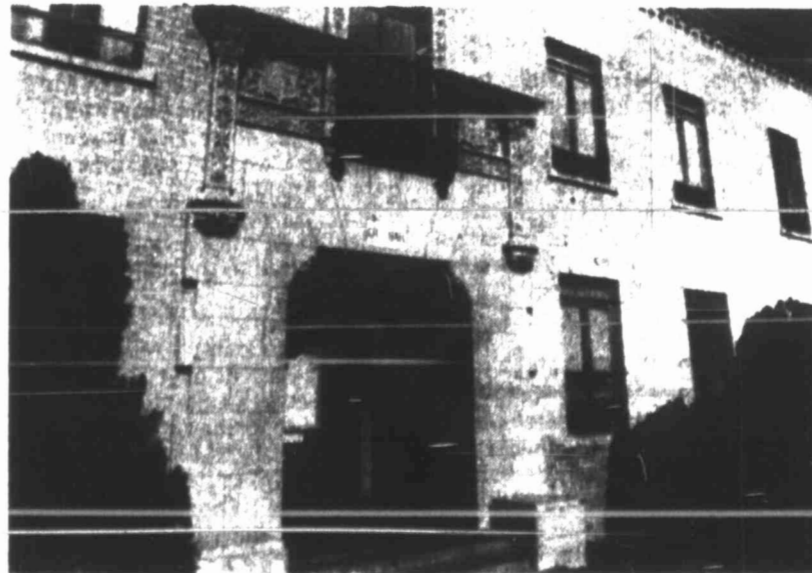

Rutherford said he would like to explore providing handicapped access through electronics as an alternative to moving city offices. The idea is to have a paging or phone system for the handicapped to contact city officials whose offices are upstairs.

Decell and Hall were skeptical that Washington would accept such a plan.

Moreover, Hall told the council that to equip City Hall with an elevator with would cost at least $80,000.

He contends the community center can be converted for a fraction of that.

"If we have to spend $80,000 for an elevator, I'd rather spend the money here (the community center) than downtown," said Councilman Gary Don Carey.

"I feel the same way," said Councilman D.W. Overman.

"To me, this is the cheapest and best solution," added Councilman Henry Sanchez.

Mize said before any decision is CITY HALL page 2A

Sales tax rebate dips

Sales tax refunds in Howard County are down slightly over last year, but rebates are up in area counties, according to a report from the office of Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Howard County's rebate is down 1.35 percent over the same period last year. Martin, Mitchell and Sterling counties all show increases ranging from 2.86 percent to 20.70 percent.

In Howard County, Big Spring's rebate decreased less than 1 percent, but Coahoma and Forsan's rebates are down more than 17 percent each.

Big Spring received a check for $79,207.55, bringing the year-to-date total to $855,749.26, down 0.77 percent. Last year's total to date was $862,363.75.

Coahoma received $1,424.70, bringing the yearly total to $16,537.01, down 17.64 percent

NEW YORK — Tony Award winner BERNADETTE PETERS, star of the Broadway hit "Song and Dance," has been honored by the city.
MAYOR EDWARD I. KOCH presented Miss Peters Monday with the city's Certificate of Appreciation. A show at the presentation on the steps of City Hall featured performers doing numbers from Miss Peters' shows.
 Miss Peters, a New York native, told an audience of about 1,000, "New York has always been good to me, but today I feel it's opened up its arms to me."

...honored by New York City

BALTIMORE — Senate colleagues and hundreds of former and current government officials paid tribute to retiring SEN. CHARLES MCC. MATHIAS JR. at a dinner.

Mathias, 63, a Republican, has served in the Senate since 1969. He earlier spent eight years in the House of Representatives, following one term in the Maryland House of Delegates.

Proceeds from the $150-a-person "Celebration of Statesmanship" dinner at the Baltimore Convention Center on Monday night will help endow a fund in Mathias' name at Johns Hopkins University's School of Advanced International Studies, organizers said.

Mathias, in an interview before the dinner, said he intended to give some lectures at Johns Hopkins and return to the practice of law after leaving the Senate. He said he also planned to "attack all those weeds which have been growing on the farm for the last quarter of a century."

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Actor KIRK DOUGLAS wrote to "DEAR ABBY" with a report of his experiences as an activist for the elderly and praising the columnist for publicizing "the hidden horror" of nursing home abuses.

Douglas, 67, who has worked on behalf of the elderly since he did research for the TV movie "Amos," wrote in response to "Amos," who said in a letter to columnist ABIGAIL VAN BUREN, that she couldn't send gifts to her mother in a nursing home out of fear they would be stolen.

"Helpless" said nursing home authorities claimed the thefts were beyond their control, and such incidents were standard.

"This is a lie," wrote Douglas. "Theft is not a normal part of the aging process. ... Once you accept theft as 'normal,' it is easier to accept bedsores, rapes and broken bones from beatings as 'normal.'"

Douglas said his activism has resulted in a flood of letters from the nursing home industry vilifying him, and more letters from people who claimed they were abused in nursing homes.

"Amos," broadcast this past weekend, starred Douglas as an elderly man who rebels against abuse inside a nursing home.

BOSTON — America and its music came about in much the same way — a blending of what the world had to offer, says CHARLES STROUSE, composer of "Rags," a new Broadway-bound musical about immigrants.

"Music is almost a metaphor" for immigrants assimilating different ways as their native backgrounds and cultures bumped against others in the New World, he said in a recent interview.

"American songs are played around the world (today). They're getting back what they gave us," said Strouse, who won Tony Awards for his music for "Bye Bye Birdie," "Applause" and "Annie."

"Rags," which opened last month at the Shubert Theatre and goes to Broadway on Aug. 7, stars TERESA STRATAS and LARRY KERT.

Former Stanton resident killed in accident

GIDDINGS — An involuntary manslaughter charge may result from a Sunday automobile accident in Lee County that claimed two lives, including that of a 25-year-old former Stanton resident.

Charles Lee Straub of Bryan, formerly of Stanton, was pronounced dead on arrival at Lee Memorial Hospital after he was transported from the scene by ambulance, said Department of Public Safety Trooper Bruce Oppermann.

The victim's 16-year-old brother, Raymond Lee Straub of Stanton, who was a passenger in the pickup driven by Charles Straub, was treated for shoulder bruises and released from Lee Memorial, Oppermann said.

A passenger in the other vehicle, Mark Williams, 11, of Bryan also was killed in the accident, Oppermann said.

Two other passengers,

Micheal Wyatt, 22, and Tywana Grant, 15, both of Bryan, were treated for injuries and released from Lee Memorial, Oppermann said.

The involuntary manslaughter charge may be filed against the other vehicle's driver, Charlotte Williams, 30, of Bryan, who suffered a broken pelvis and has been transferred to a San Antonio hospital, Oppermann said.

The trooper said the charge may be filed with District Attorney Steven Keng of Lee County for presentation at the next grand jury.

According to a DPS accident report, both vehicles were eastbound on Highway 21, about 16 miles northeast of Giddings. Williams was attempting to pass Straub from the inside lane when her vehicle veered into the outside lane, "sideswiping" the Straub vehicle, Oppermann said. Both Straub and Williams lost control of their vehicles as the units ran off the roadway, according to the report.

The Williams' vehicle smashed into a tree, and Straub managed to steer the pickup back onto the roadway before it rolled 1½ times, coming to rest on its side in the northside bar ditch.

Straub, who was not wearing a seat belt, was ejected from the vehicle, Oppermann said.

Williams was pinned in her car for about an hour, before she was pried loose with "jaws of life" equipment by Giddings volunteer firemen, Oppermann said.

The trooper said no citations have been issued.

"It was a minor accident that evolved into a major one when they couldn't control their vehicles," Oppermann said.

Rosary for Charles Lee Straub was set for 8 this morning at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Stanton. Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at St. Joseph Catholic Church with the Rev. Frank Colacicco officiating. Burial will be in St. Joseph Cemetery, directed by Gilbreath Funeral Home in Stanton.

He was born Sept. 20, 1960, in Stanton and was a student at Texas A&M University. He was married to Tyra Swanson May 18, 1985, in Victor, N.Y. He was a member of St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Survivors include his wife of Bryan; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Straub of Stanton; two brothers, Martin Ray Straub and Raymond Lee Straub, both of Stanton; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G.E. Anderson of Brady.

Man transferred to county jail

A 37-year-old Big Spring man was transferred to county jail Monday morning after he was arrested July 2 by police on two counts of burglary.

Juan G. Renteria, 1009 N. Bell St., has given statements to police and sheriff's deputies concerning a June 16 burglary of Giant Food Store and an April 3 burglary of Big Spring Country Club.

He remained in jail this morning in lieu of bonds totaling $10,000.

Police transferred David Salazar Rodriguez, 17, 101 Carey St., to county jail Monday morning after he was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Jerry Iden of Star Route in Ackerly told sheriff's deputies Monday afternoon that someone poured acid in a three-wheeler gas tank parked at his residence sometime within the last four to six months.

Damage amounted to $250, according to a sheriff's report.

Deputies returned Elazar Garza, 25, 1401 W. Fifth St., from El Paso County jail where he was arrested Monday.

Garza is charged in Howard County with burglary he was indicted for in January 1984. He was rearrested for the charge by El Paso County deputies because his bondsman withdrew bond.

He remains in jail in lieu of bonds totaling $10,000.

made, the council needs to discuss the matter with the Dora Roberts Foundation, the entity that donated the building to the city in 1970. The building is the former Cosden Country Club.

The property deed states the building and 64 acres of land around it must be used for public purposes.

There was some discussion about moving all city records to the upstairs of the present structure and using the downstairs for police records.

There was little discussion about what, if any, building would be designated for a community center, although Mize said this morning the city needs to make people aware of alternate places for community functions such as the county fair barn and Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

For the record

An item in Monday's Police Beat named Bob Price as the owner of Waterbeds Unique, where vandalism occurred between July 3 and 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

Price said this morning he owns the building the business is in, not the business itself.

Commissioners

Kirby told commissioners. Commissioner Paul Allen said water district officials estimated the cost at $60,000 but advised him that the cost probably would be less when the final amount is determined.

"Personally, I go along with everything" the water district advises, Allen said.

But Commissioner David Barr suggested further discussion because he believes the flooding problem isn't a taxpayers' responsibility.

Allen said the water district is concerned that water spilling from the dam will contain a high density of salt that eventually would seep into Lake Spence, increasing the amount of solids already in Big Spring's tap water.

In other business Monday, commissioners unanimously approved expanding the courthouse renovation contract to incorporate a cosmetic face lift, which would include painting and coating the limestone.

The request came from architect John Gary and involved the contract with Johnston Construction & Painting Service Inc.

Johnston's contract also includes remodeling the former Woolworth building at the northeast corner of E. Fourth and Main streets to serve as a courthouse annex. The work is to be completed by February 1987.

In other meeting action, commissioners:

- Unanimously approved County Tax Collector Dorothy Moore's June report. Moore collected $19,759.71 in county taxes during the month, plus $52,166.26 more under contracts with other taxing entities.

- Unanimously approved County Treasurer Bonnie Franklin's June report.

Judge revokes probation

A 20-year-old Gail Route resident will serve two years in the Texas Department of Corrections after District Judge James Gregg revoked his probation Monday morning.

McFadden wages strike

GILMER (AP) — Jerry Walter McFadden, whose escape from Upshur County jail sparked a two-day manhunt, threatened to flee again and waged a brief hunger strike after visitation rights were suspended upon his return, Sheriff Dale Jewkes said.

But this time, an escape won't be as easy, because officials at the jail have been warned to tighten up on security which was lax when McFadden gave them the slip Wednesday night, Jewkes said.

A door leading to the dispatching area where deputies Rosalie Williams and Stacey Mullinix were working was left open. It allowed McFadden easy access to his hostage, Jewkes said.

Scientists see star birth

WASHINGTON — Peering into a constellation thousands of trillions of miles from Earth, astronomers say they finally have witnessed a celestial event for which they have been searching for decades: the birth of a star.

Astronomers from the University of Arizona announced Monday they have directly observed the process of a star forming for the first time.

Using a radio telescope to pierce obscuring clouds of dust and gas, they say they detected part of a gigantic gas and dust cloud collapsing into a star-like object about 520 light-years from Earth.

A light-year is the distance light travels in one year at 186,000 miles per second, about 6 trillion miles.

Oklahoma bank sold

OKLAHOMA CITY — First National Bank & Trust Co. of Oklahoma City, tottering on the brink of financial disaster for months, reopens today as part of a California banking company after being closed by the comptroller of the currency.

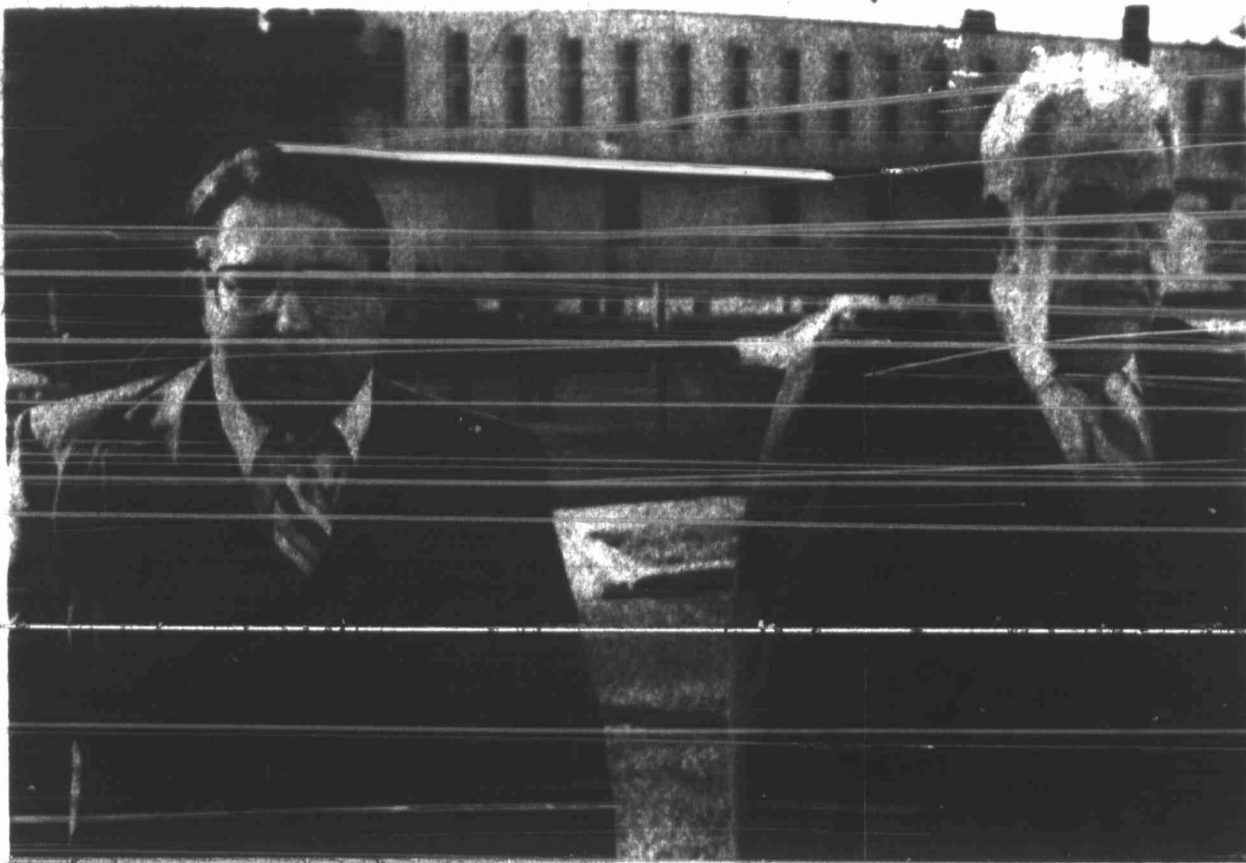

Federal regulators, scurrying to beat a deadline imposed by an expiring federal law, closed the bank Monday afternoon, then considered bids for several hours before selling the bank to First Interstate Bank of California.

Shuttle target is 1988

WASHINGTON — NASA says it's well on the way to fixing the things the Challenger accident commission found wrong and that it has set a new target — the first quarter of 1988 — for flying the space shuttle again.

"Instead of saying we will fix things that the Rogers commission felt were wrong, we are in the position of saying we are fixing things the Rogers commission found wrong," NASA Administrator James C. Fletcher told reporters Monday.

He and Richard Truly, head of the shuttle program, held a news conference hours after Fletcher delivered to the White House a report on actions NASA has taken since the Rogers commission made nine major recommendations last month.

Slave ranch trial

Jury continues deliberation today

KERRVILLE (AP) — A defense attorney argued that the case against three men accused of conspiring to enslave and kill a drifter on a Hill Country ranch hangs on the testimony of "baby-rapers, con artists, burglars and thieves."

A state district court jury resumed deliberations today in the trial of rancher Walter Ellebracht Sr., 54; his son, Walter Wesley Ellebracht Jr., 33; and ex-ranch worker Carlton Robert Caldwell, 21.

The three are charged under Texas' organized crime statute with conspiracy to commit aggravated kidnapping and murder in the March 1984 death of Anthony Bates.

The state claims Bates, a one-eyed drifter from Huntsville, Ala., was lured to the Ellebrachts sprawling Hill Country ranch with the promise of work then, like other hitchhikers, was forced into slavery.

Prosecutors also alleged Bates was tortured with a cattle prod, beaten, denied food and suffered from exposure until he died. Witnesses said his body was doused in gasoline and burned.

The credibility of the state's key witnesses was attacked Monday by defense attorney Ray Bass, who represents the younger Ellebracht. Bass was one of six attorneys who gave final arguments after nine weeks of testimony.

Bass mentioned Robert McCafferty and Travis Boyd, two drifters who said they were enslaved on a chain gang for a day at the ranch in March 1984. He also mentioned Paul Harvey Hicks, another former ranch worker who awaits separate trial.

"Baby-rapers, burglars, con artists and thieves," Bass said to the jury. "Those are the people on whose testimony the prosecution wants you to find these people guilty of organized crime." Bass claimed the case "is an abuse of the Texas organized crime law. This is not an organized crime case."

"The hope is you will be so stampeded by the pre-trial publicity and by what you heard on these tapes that you'll go in the jury room and return a verdict regardless of law," Bass said.

Pointing to tape recordings of torture sessions involving Bates, Bass said, "There may be some things on here that offend you to the depths of your soul. But it's not organized crime."

Witnesses testified during the trial they heard voices belonging to Caldwell and the younger Ellebracht on the tape.

District Attorney Ron Sutton defended his decision to seek organized crime indictments against the defendants.

"Mr. Bass told you the organized crime law is just not fair and it was at the whim and caprice of the district attorney's office to use this statute. I submit to you that is ridiculous," Sutton said.

"It was not the state that chose these defendants. It was the defendants who chose these people as victims. You don't see many priests hitchhiking down the highway. You don't see many bankers hitchhiking," Sutton said.

Sutton reminded the jury of the first torture session involving Bates. Caldwell testified the younger Ellebracht spurred the other ranch workers into action by saying "Come on boys, it's party time."

"You don't need an agreement written in stone to have organized crime conspiracy," Sutton said.

Ransom demanded

MANILA, Philippines — Moslem militiamen who abducted a U.S. missionary and 10 Filipino nuns today demanded $100,000 ransom. President Corason Aquino called the kidnapers bandits and vowed not to pay.

The kidnapers have presented themselves as politically motivated, but Mrs. Aquino characterized the abductions as common crimes.

The U.S. Embassy also rejected the ransom demand. Embassy spokesman Alan Croghan told The Associated Press, "As a matter of policy, we don't pay ransom.... We're depending on the Filipino authorities to get everybody released."

Boycotts continue

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Scattered labor unrest and school boycotts persisted today after the first mass black protests under a month-old state of emergency, but most students and workers reportedly were back at their classes and jobs.

The Labor Monitoring Group, an independent fact-finding body, said significant labor unrest was reported today only in the Port Elizabeth area. General Motors spokesman Mike Kileen said GM's plant in the Cape Province city was closed for the second day.

Kileen said about 2,000 blacks reported for work, but later asked to go home, apparently because they were worried about conditions in their townships, where student strikes were continuing.

Industrial designer dies

MONTE CARLO, Monaco — Raymond Loewy, who as prime mover in the streamlined look in modern industrial design put his mark on cars, appliances, trains and countless other products, has died at age 92.

His wife, Viola, told The Associated Press he died Monday at his Monte Carlo home due to natural causes. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Loewy's designs included the rakish postwar Studebaker car models, the silhouette eagle logotype of the U.S. Postal Service, and the Lucky Strike cigarette package.

Service held for guards

MADRID, Spain — Government and police officials today mourned nine civil guards killed in a terrorist bomb blast that was widely blamed on Basque separatists, and newspapers criticized the state for its failure to halt political violence.

A conservative opposition leader called for resignations in acting Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez's government, and one Madrid daily suggested Gonzalez consider replacing Interior Minister Jose Barrionuevo in the new Socialist Cabinet he is expected to form before the end of July.

Agent convicted of espionage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard W. Miller was a "tormented man" and not to be hated, said the judge who sentenced the only FBI agent ever convicted of spying to the maximum two life sentences plus 50 years in prison.

"I believe you are going to sentence me as if I committed these crimes," Miller told U.S. District Judge David Kenyon Monday. "I did not commit them." "I shall continue to assert my innocence with an appeal that I hope will result in a new and fair trial."

Kenyon, who described Miller as a tormented man ungrateful for the blessings life gave him, said his crime was so severe he should never again know the joys of freedom. In addition to imposing the maximum sentence, Kenyon imposed the maximum fine of $60,000.

Miller, 49, a portly, bumbling FBI agent whose lackluster 20-year career ended with his arrest in 1984, broke the silence he had maintained through his trial as he stepped to a lectern in the packed, hushed courtroom.

"I never intended to injure this country or benefit the Soviet Union," Miller said. "My conduct gain, betrays their country, should not walk again in this country as a free man," Kenyon said. "It is this court's intention to sentence the guilty with that in mind."

RICHARD MILLER...was a 'tormented man'

He specified that Miller serve at least one-third of his concurrent sentences. Bonner said the earliest Miller could be eligible for parole would be in 16 years.

Miller was found guilty June 19 of conspiring with his lover, Svetlana Ogorodnikov, 36, and her husband, Nikolay, 53, to pass classified documents to the Soviet Union. The government said he agreed to accept $65,000 in cash and gold.

It took two trials to convict Miller. The first jury deadlocked.

His defense at both trials was that he was trying to salvage his career by infiltrating the Soviet KGB intelligence agency. He claimed he had devised a James Bond-style scheme to become a double agent.

The Ogorodnikovs pleaded guilty in the midst of their spy trial last year and are serving federal prison terms.

Miller, whose battles with the FBI over his obesity were the subject of testimony, appeared to have gained at least 20 pounds in the month since his conviction.

Cut mosquitos at their source

Local residents may be growing and nurturing the very bloodsuckers they're complaining about this summer.

That observation came from Big Spring Public Works Director Dem Decell when he was asked about the local mosquito problem this year.

He noted that some residents may be growing their own mosquitos by allowing stagnant pools of water near their homes.

County Extension Agent Don Richardson reported the "best way to control mosquitos is to destroy their breeding grounds — leaking faucets, old tires, anything that holds water."

Decell added that residents can help the situation by turning over cans and other containers of water, or by putting a drop of kerosene or oil on the water to kill the hatching pests.

The two men agreed that the little winged beasts become more troublesome after heavy late spring and summer rains. But both also noted that city residents can reduce the problem in their areas by destroying breeding spots.

Perhaps if all of us heed their advice, our families and friends will suffer a little less.

Set a good example for scoffing parents

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My family has always been very cynical about religious people and scoffed at God. I grew up with the same attitudes, but recently I gave my life to Christ after reading the Bible for myself. But I am afraid to let my parents know because I know their reaction will be very negative. Am I wrong? — K.C.

DEAR K.C.: If you have truly given your life to Christ it is inevitable that at some time your parents will discover it — even if you do not intend for them to. For one thing, as a young Christian you need to grow in your faith — and part of that growth must come through your fellowship with other Christians in a church where Christ is preached.

Don't try to make it on your own; you need the encouragement and wisdom of other believers. It would be wrong to try to hide your involvement in a church or deceive your parents. And God wants you to be a witness for Him and use you to point your parents to Christ.

Therefore, you need to tell your parents of your decision for Christ — prayerfully, lovingly and calmly, without letting it degenerate into an argument.

They may react negatively at first and even feel a bit threatened because they may see your decision as a rejection of them and their ideas. But do all you can to assure them of your love for them. And pray that God will use your testimony to convince them of their own need of God.

Especially concerning your witnessing with your life, do not just your lips. Your parents will not be impressed with your new-found faith if it makes no difference in the way you live.

But if they see that Christ makes a difference in your attitudes and actions — even in little details, like cheerfully cleaning your room or being faithful in your homework — they may begin to realize that He is alive and can change their lives also.

Feds copy Kremlin tactics to soft soap nuke accident

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR
WASHINGTON — The Soviets have been criticized — rightly — for their reluctance to level with their own people and the rest of the world about the Chernobyl nuclear disaster.

Maybe they should have hired the public relations consultant that two U.S. federal agencies retained after the Three Mile Island nuclear accident of 1979.

The Energy Department and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission share regulatory responsibility for the plant outside Harrisburg, Pa., that came dangerously close to a meltdown. The agencies evidently were dissatisfied with the static they got from the media and from Congress immediately after the accident.

So in 1982, the two agencies laid out $10,000 for a "Witness and Media Skills Clinic" to teach their people how to do a better job of answering questions from both some reporters and members of Congress.

The three-day session, attended by federal officials and personnel from a private Three Mile Island contractor, was conducted at the Marriott Hotel in Harrisburg.

Our associate Corky Johnson has learned that the Dallas-based consulting firm that ran the seminar, Communications Counsel of America, has since conducted similar courses for several other contractors that have federal nuclear energy contracts.

The aim of the seminar was clearly to make the federal regulatory agencies look good, even if that meant hiding the seriousness of the situation.

According to various memos and course notes, the training sessions included:

- "Cold Turkey Mini-Hearings. With your teammates, you will respond to cross-examination by an attorney and members of another panel, defending your company against some of the charges expected to come from the opponents."
- "Mike-in-the-Mouth Interviews. On-camera (we) will conduct a 3- to 5-minute 'benchmark' interview with you. Use your interview as a tool to improve a 'second take' tomorrow and to track your progress."

• "Avoiding Traps in Media Interviews. Adapting the cross-examination model to interview situations. 'Bridge' to 'public benefits and to your game plan.'"

The consultants coached regulatory officials in detail on "composure techniques" to withstand the rigors of congressional hearings. Officials were advised to:

Accept that you are uptight," the agency bureaucrats were advised. "Lean away from the battle/confrontation slightly. Straighten spine, shoulders, back. Breathe! Make a comforting move (then) move body into battlefield."

If despite proper posture and breathing, the questioning seemed to be going downhill, the seminar participants were taught to watch for certain "alarm responses," which include breaking out in a cold sweat, quivering voice and irregular breathing.

To make sure these dreadful symptoms were easily recognizable, the seminar sessions were videotaped.

Some "Coaching Steps" for the seminarists included this succinct PR gem: "(Give) impression that things are going well. ... Avoid embarrassment. Avoid traps. Be careful you don't trap yourself. What position do you want public to hear?"

They also were told how to "handle questions for which I don't want to give the answer but I still want to look good," and were given this Kremlin-style warning: "Control what goes into the record or the minds of the listeners."

One star pupil was a TMI contractor executive, who acknowledged in a seminar test paper that TMI radiation detectors had malfunctioned and were potentially dangerous.

If talking to the manufacturer, he would say the devices had been "very misleading," he wrote. But "if critic is an anti-nuke" he would say that "these are radiation monitors, not safety-related equipment, and therefore are not required to operate correctly under accident conditions."

Are you listening, Gorbachev? Footnote: One of the consultants involved in the clinic said the training was necessary because "technical people do not tell their story very well."

An Energy Department official at Three Mile Island also claimed the seminar was an effort to help the nuclear energy specialists communicate "so the average person can understand us."

UNDER THE DOME: Talk about hostage-taking: The House Public Works Committee — the great pork barrel on Capitol Hill — approved a highway bill the other day that will raise the maximum cost of removing a billboard from a federal highway from $10,000 to $20,000.

We've reported earlier on the billboard lobby's cossetting of committee members; it clearly paid off. The amendment to pay billboard barons to remove or relocate their eyesores could block mass transit and highway projects unless Uncle Sam or state governments agree to pay the new, higher ransom.

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: According to a State Department study, Fidel Castro is doing his best to stamp God out of Cubans' lives. If children mention God in school, their parents are summoned and reprimanded for telling their kids about the "unscientific remnants of an obscurantist past."

If the parents are rash enough to insist on teaching their children about God, they face arrest for "ideological deviationism according to the revolutionary code," the State Department report charges.

How to be pet lovers by default

By ART BUCHWALD
When I rang the bell, Marge Bathurst answered it. She pulled me inside. "Shut the door. Hurry, shut the door."

"What's up?" I asked.
"I don't want the dog to get out."
"I didn't know you had a dog," I said.

"We do now. Our son Melvin brought him home from Penn State and dumped him in our laps. He said he couldn't leave Goliath on campus, and asked us to take care of him for the weekend while he went to Vancouver."

"When did all this happen?"
"I think it was eight months ago," she said.
"Marge's husband Jeff came in to the room. 'Jeff, when did Melvin leave Goliath with us?'"
"It must be 12 years by now," Jeff said.

Goliath, a very large sheepdog, entered the room, went over to Jeff and sniffed his pants. Then he shuffled over to me and licked my hand. Having worked up a good foam, he stuck his head into my lap.

"He likes you," Marge said.
"You can have him," Jeff told me. "I'll even give you his water dish."

Marge said, "Jeff, he can't have the dog. Goliath has only one master."
"If he means so much to him why did he leave him behind?" I asked.
"Because," Jeff said, "he didn't want Goliath kidnapped by Nicaraguan terrorists."

"Hush," Marge said. "Goliath will hear you."
Jeff grunted. "Maybe he'll run away and find Melvin like dogs do in the Walt Disney films."

"Don't listen to him," Marge said. "He loves the dog. He walks him every night."
"At 11 o'clock," Jeff said. "Do you know why? It's the only time little kids are locked safely in their houses, so Goliath can't roll over and crush them."

Marge said defensively, "Melvin would never own a mean dog."
Jeff said, "Forget the dog for a minute. Tell him about the mice."

"We're having a problem with Goliath because Melvin's sister Holly left five mice with us when she went to Newport for the summer."

"What's wrong with mice?" I asked.
Jeff said, "I'm allergic to mice."

"How can you have them in the house then?" I asked.
Marge said, "Those mice mean everything to Holly. Jeff can put up with a little allergy to keep his own daughter's pets safe from harm. Holly says she'll take them back as soon as she can find an apartment that permits animals."

"Did any of your other children leave their pets with you?"
Jeff replied, "Do parrots count — because if they do, we have one in the dining room."

Marge said, "It belongs to our youngest son, Gary, and it doesn't bother anybody."
Jeff said, "I don't know what 'bother' means, but there aren't many people who can live with a bird who says, 'Have a nice one,' all day long."

"As I see it," I said, "you people are going to spend your entire summer pet-sitting for your children."
Jeff said, "It figures. They would die if they had to give up their animals."

Turnabout is fair play in the on-going battle of junk mail

DEAR ABBY: For the benefit of "Too Much Mail," and others who want to know how to put a stop to being the recipient of unsolicited mail: punch five or six holes (use a large pin) in the card to be returned. The computer will reject it.

For years, my husband made contributions to a political party. After his death, I wrote "Deceased" on the card and returned it. Solicitations continued to come. A friend had the same experience and passed the above information on to me. It worked beautifully. The rejected card was obviously read, and my name removed from the files. Sign me.

VOICE OF EXPERIENCE
IN V.A.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: You told "Too Much Mail" that once her name is "in the computer" she's automatically solicited, in which case her only defense would be to ignore the solicitation. Not true! Here's how I handle junk mail: I just take those postpaid envelopes and return everything — including the envelope!

It's lots of fun, and it forces the sender to pay first-class extra postage to get their own junk returned!

A. BUHRER,
PORT CLINTON, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: I recently read the letter about the person receiving too much junk mail. Here is my solution to the problem at the sender's expense: Take the entire junk mail contents, including the outside envelope, tear it to shreds and mail it back to them in their postpaid envelope. Leave your name and address label in one piece so they'll know who it's from. They don't like the mess, or paying the postage. It worked for me!

NANCY J. KELLEY,
HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

DEAR ABBY: Please advise "Too Much Mail" to write "Refused — Return to Sender" on the envelope or package. The postal service will return it to "sender" and collect the postage due. She will be removed from the list. I've had my name removed from lists this way.

HELEN SHEPHERD,
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: I have a good way to get off mailing lists, or at least a good share of them. Especially the begging letters. If there is a U.S. stamp on the return envelope, I cut it off and use it. If it is a postage-guaranteed envelope, I seal the empty envelope, write my name on the back, and mail it.

They'll get the message after a while.

NO NAME IN WEATHERFORD, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: You gave the address for DMA's (Direct Marketing Association) Mail Preference Service as a solution to reducing the quantity of unsolicited mail.

I liked an alternative that I tried with success with one organization. If there is a return envelope with a permit number to pay return postage, just put something heavy in the envelope.

Expert says everyone has musical abilities

CHICAGO (AP) — There is no such thing as being too young or too old to participate in music, says Dr. Frank R. Wilson, a neurologist and assistant professor of neurology at the University of California School of Medicine, San Francisco.

"Humans are 'born musicians,'" he says, "because we all have the neurological and muscular capability to develop musical skills."

Wilson, who is also a special consultant to the American Music Conference based in Chicago, is a leading authority on the relationship between the brain and an individual's capacity to play a musical instrument.

He first became interested in music and its connection to neuromuscular control when he noticed his daughter's progress on the piano. "I realized that a remarkable physical and mental evolution was taking place in her which I couldn't account for," he says.

After several years of reviewing results of research on the brain's control of skilled movement and concluding that virtually everyone has the potential for developing musical skills, Wilson began taking piano lessons at the age of 40.

"I felt terribly clumsy during the first few months, but knew that I should see results by the end of the first year," he says. "I wasn't disappointed."

Another of Wilson's conclusions, discussed in his recently published book, "Tone Deaf and All Thumbs?: An Invitation to Music-Making for Late Bloomers and Non-Prodigies," is that there is "very little to distinguish the serious musician from the serious athlete."

The only difference between the two from a physical standpoint, he says, is that musicians are developing the smaller muscles of the body — especially those of the hands and mouth — and that they rely on their hearing more than on their vision.

"The one difference that really does count is the effect of age," he says. "Time is on the musician's side. They can look forward to continued maturation and refinement of their skills well beyond the age at which even the most durable football or basketball player has retired to the sidelines."

"The key to success in musical studies, as in sports, is having the right goals," he explains. "When the music student starts with his or her hopes fixed on immediately sounding like a professional, that attitude will be defeating. If the students are compelled by the knowledge that as they continue practicing they are reaching new limits and can share the experience with others such as in a band or group lessons, they are more likely to succeed."

"If they play a different piece more smoothly than before or move on to something even more challenging, that becomes a very valuable reward for their study."

"Time spent learning a musical instrument is never wasted," Wilson points out. "Musical experience easily transfers to other structured learning situations and can provide a powerful model for self-paced learning, mental concentration, memory skills, muscular development and more."

Adults can also have acne appearance

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I thought acne was the scourge of adolescence. You better include adults as well. I have the condition on my back, upper arms, and shoulders. My face has been spared. It's as clear as crystal. My father had this condition to the time he was 70, at his death. — D.W.C.

It's all acne, no matter where or where it appears.

Acne develops in hair follicles, each of which is endowed with oil glands. Their oil is food for bacteria, which when they feed on it release byproducts. Those byproducts are what irritate the follicle. If they get to the base of the follicle, which happens when they become plugged, then trouble begins. For then, white blood cells rush to the scene and soon you have fully-developed pimples.

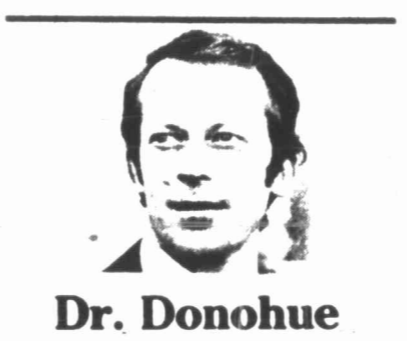

Doctors today have a lot more to offer for acne than in your father's day. Many times, acne will respond well to lotions and gels containing benzoyl peroxide or salicylic acid. A more recent one is Retin-A. Sometimes, antibiotics, in ointment or oral form, will solve the problem. And for resistant acne, there is isotretinoin. It's a new pill for the most serious and stubborn forms.

Working in a greasy environment can cause the skin, as on your back, to get plugged, setting the stage for the follicle problem. Pressure on the back can irritate and worsen as acne situation. Some people have rashes of various kinds from the pressure of car seat backs during long drives.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have been on diuretic medicines (water pills) for many years. I have developed gout. Should the diuretics be continued? — Mrs. R.R.

I can neither prescribe in this column nor be so bold as to tell anyone to stop taking a prescribed medicine. I'm sure you realize the common sense of that.

However, I can tell you some (not all) diuretics can be a factor in gout development. But this is for your doctor to determine. It is certainly important to tell the doctor who diagnosed your gout about the pills you've been taking. He can then evaluate things. He can have you switch to one of the other diuretics. You'll find the answers to your other gout questions (another part of your letter) in the booklet "Gout: The Modern Way to Stop It." Other readers may order by writing me and enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have a small lipoma in the palm of my hand. It is cosmetically unnoticeable. My doctor sees no reason to have it removed surgically. I opened it with a sterilized needle, and I tried to burn it out with rubbing alcohol. Nothing works. Thanks in advance for your reply. — L.F.

You're stirring memories of one of my commanding officers in the Army. He had ways of making mountains of molehills. I respectfully referred to him as Major Disaster.

Will you please leave your lipoma alone? It is only a harmless collection of fat cells under the skin. If it's large and causing problems, you can have it removed. I'm sure your doctor would prefer that than your digging and rubbing it. That can cause infection.

You're making this harmless condition into a major disaster. And you're making me nervous.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can perfume cause a person to have an asthma attack? My boyfriend complains that mine does that to him. Can a simple odor like that cause such a reaction? — S.S.

It's possible. A variety of odors can trigger an asthma attack. Most of the odors are the offensive kind, like cigarette smoke, gas fumes or car exhausts. However, perfumes are included.

Why this is so is not clear. There is a natural tendency for the upper airway tissue to contract in the presence of odors. It's a defense mechanism. Even cooking odors have been implicated in such reactions as your boyfriend's. You've left me and millions of readers wondering about the outcome.

Acne is a terrible problem for anyone growing up. If you are afflicted with it, or have children who are, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

The Schoolhouse™

The schoolhouse in the rural village was often funded by the church, and basics such as reading and arithmetic were taught. Classes were small, as only the wealthier landowners and tradesmen deemed it necessary for their children to read and write. It was not until the Civil War and the rise of Oliver Cromwell that education for the poor was acceptable.

Students repair school vehicles

HOUSTON (AP) — Both students and the Norin Forest Independent School District are benefiting from a vocational education class in which teen-agers gain experience repairing and repainting some of the district's minibuses.

The Smiley High School's auto body shop, which began last fall, saved the district between $14,500 and $18,000 in repairs by having 40 of its students, rather than outside experts, do the repair work.

"I go home and say, 'Am I really doing this?'" said Danny Roland, one of the five working this summer in the auto body shop.

District Transportation Director Sam Julian said he initially contracted for only 14 minibuses to be painted because he was concerned about the quality of the work. But after the auto body shop began working on the vehicles, the contract was expanded to 18 buses.

"Now we're thinking that next year maybe they can do the large buses," Julian said.

Roland said the students are proud of their work and they hope to enter some of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America competitions next year.

BIG SPRING HERALD CALL 263-7331

Sixth inning rally powers Americans

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

A six run, sixth inning explosion blew open a one run contest and propelled the undefeated Big Spring American League All-Stars past the Odessa North East Texas All-Stars 13-6 Monday night at International League park.

"That was the most offense I've seen in any of these games," said a hoarse American League coach Dub Clinton.

"But the defense really kept us in the game, especially that double play," he said, referring to a perfectly turned shortstop to second to first double play that squelched a potential Odessa rally in the fourth.

In the opening stanza, American Leaguer John Kennedy followed Jonathan Downey's pop out by walking. Cort Petterson, who has been hitting the ball hard all tournament, stepped to the plate against a stiff incoming wind and Odessa pitcher Perry Stanford.

Petterson nailed a Stanford fastball a mile high towards center field, where it looked like the wind would keep it in the park. But the high hit ball landed with a thud on a Dodge truck parked in home run territory, and the Americans led 2-0 after one inning.

The Americans started where they left off in the top of the second, with two walks and a Brian Gordon single loading the bases with no outs. Downey slapped a single, knocking in Patrick Martinez and Jeromaine Gonzales.

Kennedy drew a base on balls for the third free base issued by Stanford in the inning. Petterson returned to the scene of his first inning heroics, and drove in his third run with a sacrifice fly to right. Two batters later, Billy Bob Sumpter singled home Downey for the fourth and last run of the inning.

Down by six and with two outs and nobody on in the bottom of the second, the Odessa team put together a rally. Stephen Aguirre walked, and Lance Wolfe, Perry Stanford and Jason Cothwan all singled, and two runs were in.

With two on, Stormy Case slammed a homer to deep center, and before the inning was over, six Odessa All-Stars had scored. Numerous almost-outs and some uncharacteristically shaky fielding hurt the Americans in the inning.

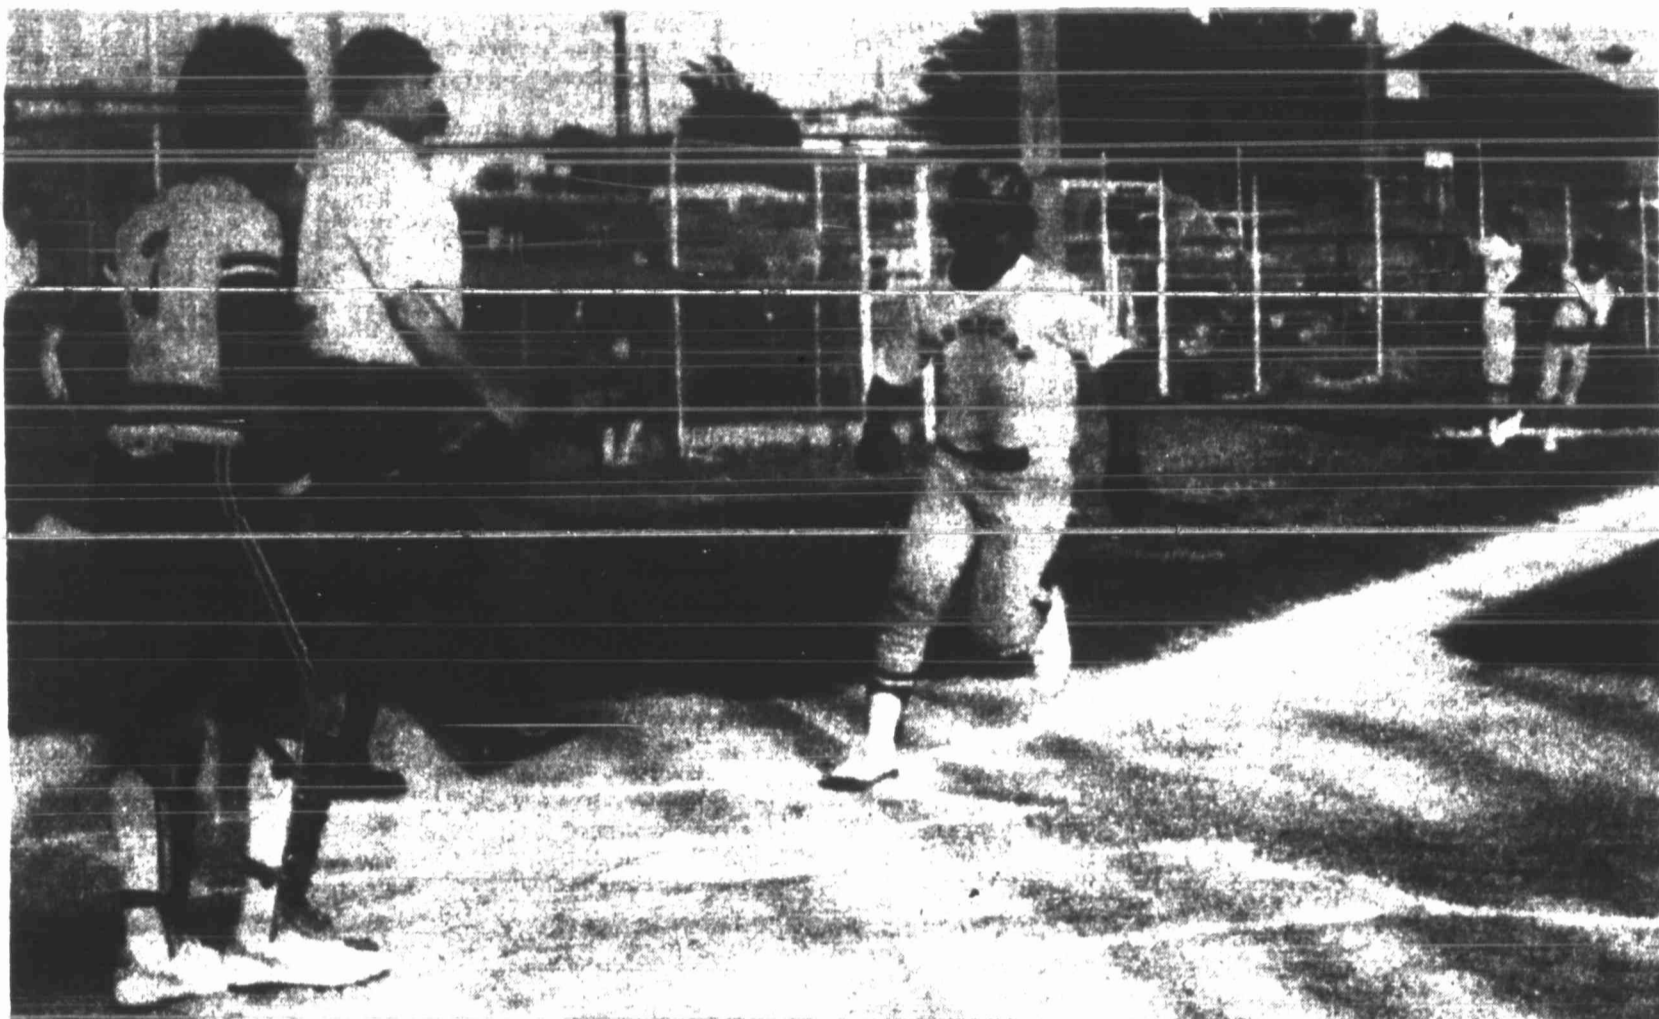

The contest quieted until the fourth, when Petterson singled to the fence and moved to third on a Travis Sinclear single. Petterson scored on a wild throw from the Odessa catcher, and Sinclear was thrown out at the plate on a close call.

Holding a one run lead going into the sixth and final inning, the Americans returned to the top of the order hoping for some insurance.

Downey led off with a single, and advanced on a balk. A Kennedy shot just outside the reach of the Odessa shortstop rolled into right, scoring Downey. Kennedy tried to stretch his single to a double and got caught for the first out. The red-hot Petterson followed with a single. Sinclear, the next batter, lined a stand up double to deep left.

Sumpter walked, loading the bases for Brant Laster. The American League fans, who arrived at the park in painted cars and cheered their team wildly throughout the game, lifted the energy one notch higher. When Laster singled, the fans were yelling volleys of "Charge!" as Petterson crossed the plate.

A catcher interference call scored Sinclear for the sixth and final run of the inning. What had moments before been a 7-6 thriller was now a 13-6 game heading into the bottom of the sixth.

Big Spring American League pitcher Jeromaine Gonzales crosses home plate as teammate Brian Gordon rounds third in second inning action last night at the International League Field against the Odessa North East Texas All-Stars. Gordon also scored on the single by Jonathan Downey. North East Texas catcher Billy Ramirez is waiting on the throw.

Odessa Alamo 0

At the National League park, Brian Rounding pitched scoreless ball as Midland North Central eliminated Odessa Alamo 3-0.

North Central scored all of its runs in the third inning. Richie Greth hit a two-run homer in the inning.

Gene Ontiveros was the losing pitcher for Alamo, who exits the tournament with a 1-2 record.

North Central sports a 2-1 record.

Midland Tower 3

At the American League park, Midland Eastern scored four runs in the top of the ninth inning to down the Midland Tower All-Stars 7-3. The loss eliminates Tower from the tournament, with a 1-2 record.

It was a matter of Tower pitcher

Robert Thorns winning the battle and losing the war. Thorns allowed only two hits while striking out 18. His main downfall was 13 walks.

Eastern pitcher Mario Rodriguez pitched a good game himself, allowing five hits, striking out 15 and walking six.

Tower was hampered by five errors. Eastern advances to the next round with a 2-1 record.

1986 All-Star Game

AL hitting power against NL pitching prowess

HOUSTON (AP) — The names are new, but the story is the same at the 1986 All-Star Game: American League sluggers against National League pitchers.

And tonight's meeting features a different twist — the Astrodome — the worst hitter's park in the big leagues.

"I had heard it was a tough place for home runs," Oakland's Jose Canseco, a rookie whose 23 homers lead the major leagues, said after batting practice Monday. "And I found out it was true."

"I thought the ball would be a little more lively. I found out it's kind of dead."

That was never more evident than the last time the All-Star Game was at the Astrodome. In 1968, an AL lineup featuring Harmon Killebrew, Carl Yastrzemski and Frank Howard was held to three hits in a 1-0 loss.

Since then, the fences have been moved in. The distances down the lines are now 10 feet closer at 330 feet, and the rest of the perimeter has been pulled in about eight feet, to 400 in straightaway center field.

Even so, fewer home runs are hit in the Astrodome than any other major-league park, even with increased homer totals throughout the majors this season.

"Those 10 feet might help me," California rookie Wally Joyner, who has 20 homers, said.

Joyner, the first rookie elected to start an All-Star Game since fans resumed choosing the team in 1970, joins an AL club that also boasts Jesse Barfield and Lance Parrish, both with 21 homers, and Jim Presley, with 18.

Glenn Davis is the only NL player with 20. Overall, the AL players have outperformed their counterparts 266-192.

The NL, however, has faced such muscle before. The counter has always been pitching, and the result has been a 36-19-1 edge, including 13 victories in the past 14 games.

Fastballing Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets, working with six days rest, will start for the NL.

"I think he's the best pitcher in baseball," AL Manager Whitey Herzog said.

Los Angeles' Fernando Valenzuela and his screwball or Houston's Mike Scott, whose split-fingered fastball has helped him lead the majors in strikeouts, probably will follow.

Gooden threw two scoreless innings in his previous All-Star outing, while Valenzuela has not allowed a run in 4 2-3 innings through four games.

"I won't worry about facing Gooden until tomorrow," Joyner said. "I want to have 24 hours to enjoy myself before I worry about All-Stars page 2B

U.S. wrestlers make strong showings

MOSCOW (AP) — Heavyweight Bruce Baumgartner knew exactly what he had to do in order to win a gold medal in freestyle wrestling competition at the inaugural Goodwill Games.

Baumgartner, John Smith and Dave Schultz provided the American team with their only victories Monday night in the competition otherwise dominated by the Soviets.

The Soviets, with wrestlers in all 10 finals, took seven gold medals and three silvers. The three golds they didn't get went to Americans — all in close bouts.

The wrestling results, along with the Soviet's sweep of the first three places in the men's all-around gymnastics competition, gave the Soviet Union a total of 145 medals, 59 gold, after the first 11 days of the games. The United States is second in both categories, with 99 medals, 34 gold.

Baumgartner, the 1984 Olympic champion in the 286-pound class, earned the gold by scoring the final point in a 4-4 match against David Gobezhishvili.

The 20-year-old Smith, the youngest member of the American team, defeated Khazen Isaev 6-3 in the 136-pound class. Smith's triumph marked the first loss in the tournament for any member of the Soviet team, which had won 31 consecutive bouts until that point.

Schultz, the 1984 Olympic champion at 163 pounds, rallied from a 2-0 deficit in beating Adlan Varayev.

Baumgartner said he expects to meet Gobezhishvili again in the world championships at Budapest in October, and build on his series margin over the Soviet. Baumgartner said he leads the series 4-2, while the Soviets claim it's only 3-2.

Baumgartner said he has torn ligaments inside both knees and needs surgery on them, but will wait until he retires from wrestling before having the operations.

Schultz, the leader of the American team, cuddled his 3-month-old son and smiled broadly during the playing of the national anthem at the awards ceremony following his comeback victory.

The American wrestling silver medalists were Kevin Darkus, 125 pounds, Andre Metzger, 149 pounds, and James Scherr, 198 pounds.

In gymnastics, Yuri Korolev led the Soviet's 1-2-3 finish with 117.50 points.

The United States opened the men's volleyball tournament with a 15-8, 15-9, 15-10 victory over Bulgaria. The Soviet Union defeated Brazil 15-9, 15-6, 15-3. Czechoslovakia rallied to beat Japan 10-15, 8-15, 15-11, 15-11, 16-14, and France downed Poland 5-15, 15-11, 16-14, 16-14.

In tennis, favorites Andrei Chesnokov and Larisa Savchenko, both of the Soviet Union, moved ahead with straight-set victories. Chesnokov defeated American Bobby Blair 6-4, 6-2, in a second-round men's match, while Savchenko beat Doar Rangelova of Bulgaria, 7-6, 6-4 in a women's quarterfinal.

In team handball, the American men beat Iceland 22-19, while the U.S. women lost to Denmark 23-22.

Cowboys safety missing

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Cowboys starting strong safety Dexter Clinkscale was missing from the ranks of Dallas veterans who reported this weekend to training camp, making the fifth consecutive year that a veteran missed at least the first day of camp.

Meanwhile, Mark Walen was on hold Monday, and the other two holdouts were still holding out as negotiations continued — sort of.

Clinkscale's agent Paul Schoonover said he planned to meet Clinkscale Monday night.

"Technically, he doesn't have to be there for several days, but I'm not saying that why he's not here," he said.

According to a section of the collective bargaining agreement, Clinkscale is not required to report to the club's training camp any earlier than 10 days before the team's first scheduled pre-season game or July 15, whichever is later.

Mike Sherrard and his agent haven't talked to the Cowboys in a week. Darryl Clack and his agent were scheduled to meet with team representatives this week — maybe. And Walen's fate depends on what they do.

"It's the same status it's been, although if you can continue to talk, that's fine," said Joe Bailey, the NFL club's vice president of administration who is in charge of negotiating contracts.

The problem is there have been no talks between Bailey and Leigh Steinberg, who represents Sherrard. Steinberg is looking for a 4-year contract for his client worth $1.76 million.

batting against him."

Boston's Roger Clemens, leading the majors with 15 victories and topping the AL in ERA and strikeouts, will oppose Gooden. He will be pitching after going nine innings on Saturday.

"I hope two days' rest is enough for my arm. I don't know if I'll go the full three," he said.

"I'm not going to go over any scouting reports or anything. I'm just going to throw."

Screwballer Ted Higuera of Milwaukee and knuckleballing Charlie Hough of the Texas Rangers are expected to follow Clemens.

"I know how good the National League team is and what they can do — I pitched against a lot of them when I was in that league," Hough said.

"But following a hard thrower like Clemens doesn't mean I have an advantage. I followed some pretty hard throwers before and I still got hit pretty hard if I didn't pitch well."

Clemens, Higuera and Hough are three of the 15 first-time All-Stars for the AL. The NL has 10 players making their first appearance.

The game, to be televised by ABC, will start at 8:35 p.m. EDT after Vice President George Bush throws out the first ball.

It is a sellout, with more than 45,000 fans expected.

The AL will be trying to win its first game at an NL park since 1962 at Wrigley Field. In the last 14 years, the AL's lone victory came against a team managed by Herzog, in 1963.

"It seems like every year I predict a victory for the American League and I've been wrong every year but one," AL Manager Dick Howser said. "So it's hard for me to predict what is going to happen. This is a good lineup."

The AL lineup was announced as: Kirby Puckett, cf; Rickey Henderson, lf; Wade Boggs, 3b; Lance Parrish, c; Wally Joyner, 1b; Cal Ripken, ss; Dave Winfield, rf; Lou Whitaker, 2b; Roger Clemens, p.

For the NL, it was to be: Tony Gwynn, lf; Ryne Sandberg, 2b; Keith Hernandez, 1b; Gary Carter, c; Darryl Strawberry, rf; Mike Schmidt, 3b; Dale Murphy, cf; Zie Smith, ss; Dwight Gooden, p.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Reinert Welding sells and services overhead doors

Reinert Welding and Steel Construction is expanding its steel fabrication business to include overhead doors sales and service.

"We install commercial and residential overhead doors and electric operators," says owner Ralph Reinert. The doors come in two styles: the rolling and the folding sectional. The folding sectional is available in a wood, fiberglass or steel-type door. Rolling doors are constructed of steel.

"We have the type of door that fits all needs, whether it be from the single car garage door to the multi-door warehouse type," he said. Reinert also handles several classes of commercial or residential electronic operators that are designed for specific use.

Reinert repairs and services all brands or types of overhead doors. Whether it be torsion springs, guide rollers, lift cables or damaged door sections, the firm can handle it for the customer.

Reinert Welding has been in the steel erection business since 1978. In 1985, Reinert expanded his business to include overhead doors and steel fabrication. The firm's steel fabrication centers around the fabrication of metal buildings and component structural steel for commercial buildings, to include reinforcing steel, columns, beams, bar joists, roof decking and miscellaneous steel items.

Reinert has 25 years of skilled experience in the construction business. The firm designs and builds the products to fit the job requirements. Cost estimates are available upon request.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 16, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when there can be some fixed obstacles that require very careful consideration before taking any action where matters have considerable scope.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Whatever your mate wants you to accomplish could be rather difficult, but friends are helpful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) An associate is not helpful putting across a plan that means much to you, but a friend helps.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A superior understands a problem and removes it. Clear up some outstanding credit matter quickly.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Not a good morning to plan amusements, but tonight you get a sudden opportunity for fun.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Await a better time and day to solve any problematic affairs at home and concern yourself more with business.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have to be wise in communicating. Be willing to accept the assistance of good friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may have practical annoyances to take care of but give them enough time and thought.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Use diplomacy today and don't try to be forceful with others. Be alert to whatever is going on around you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you fuss over something, you may injure your health. Your mate may be irked, so be calm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may need the assistance of a friend but the cost may be high. Go after your aims and get results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be wise and say very little in the business world. Don't try to be forceful with a prominent person.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have good judgment how to gain your aims. Avoid a scheme in the morning and be happy with friends tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be very capable at digging up the truth of any situation and would do very well at investigative professions, but should be taught early to use subtlety and secrecy. A position as a researcher or investigator would be fine for your son or daughter.

GOOD FOR YOU

If it's special to you, your family or your organization, it's important to us. And we want to hear about it!

We want to know all about the good things that you do, accomplish and care about. We want to know about your club's activities, special events and fund-raisers.

We want to know about local people who are striving and achieving. We want to know about the special events in your life — the awards, the promotions, the weddings and engagements.

And, most importantly, we want to tell our readers all about it.

To the Big Spring Herald, this kind of news is "local" news. And local news is the very special kind of news you'll find in The Herald, every day. But we need your help to bring you even MORE of it. We're anxious to hear from you. Drop us a line and tell us the "who, what, where, when and why" of your special event. Send it to Darrell Berkheimer, Editor, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, TX. 79721. If you send it, we'll print it!

It's great news to us!
