

Law sponsors move to restore provision

WASHINGTON — The sponsors of the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction law Friday announced plans to put teeth back into the measure by replacing the automatic spending-cut provision ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

"We got a flat tire on the way to the Supreme Court, and we're fixing the tire, that's all," said Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., at a press conference with Sens. Phil Gramm, R-Texas and Warren Rudman, R-N.H.

"This bill ... must have an action-forcing mechanism," said Rudman. "I think the economy is imperiled right now by these ($200 billion-a-year) deficits."

The three lawmakers said they were confident Congress would approve their plan to give the director of the Office of Management and Budget the power to order across-the-board spending cuts. Those cuts are required when Congress and the president fail to meet deficit targets in the law, which is designed to balance the budget by fiscal 1991.

Using an executive branch officer to order the cuts would address the court's main objection to the original law, the senators said. In its ruling, the Supreme Court said the Gramm-Rudman law violated the Constitution's separation of powers doctrine because an officer of Congress — the comptroller general — ordered the executive branch to make the cuts.

The lawmakers said they rejected one possible legal remedy, to change current law so the comptroller general could be fired by the president. Too many lawmakers objected to that, since the comptroller heads the General Accounting Office, an investigatory arm of Congress, they said.

Their proposal would be offered as an amendment to a bill to raise the national debt ceiling, which could be taken up in the Senate before the end of next week, they said.

The court ruling invalidated only the automatic cuts in Gramm-Rudman, and the rest of the law remains in effect. Under a fallback procedure, Congress would have to approve and the president sign the across-the-board cuts before they could take effect.

The first such action took place Thursday, when the House and Senate reaffirmed $11.7 billion in automatic cuts imposed last March.

Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., who filed the original lawsuit against Gramm-Rudman, said he objected to any system that would avert a congressional vote on spending cuts.

"I oppose all attempts to insulate Congress from its responsibilities by shackling it to automatic cuts," Synar said. "A Congress in chains is hardly the institution our founding fathers envisioned or my constituents elected me to serve in."

But Gramm said the automatic cuts kept Congress in a good position since it would have opportunities both before and after the cutback order to enact its own spending reductions or tax increases.

"The idea that this bill is an escape from decision-making is a complete sham," Gramm said.

President Reagan's budget director, James C. Miller III, said Friday he believed renewing the automatic cuts would require giving authority to one of the president's subordinates. He was ready to take that responsibility, as suggested by Gramm, Rudman and Hollings, but he said Congress might be reluctant.

The law tightly prescribes how the automatic cuts would be made, leaving little discretion for the OMB director.

Couple awards $1,000

NEW YORK — Two Kansans who were slashed by a man with a sword on the Staten Island Ferry bestowed a $1,000 reward and a kiss Friday on the retired policeman who captured their assailant.

Mayor Edward I. Koch took the opportunity to make the Kansans — who have refused to criticize the city — honorary New Yorkers.

In a ceremony at Bayley Seton Hospital on Staten Island, Richard and Connie Nichols of McPherson, Kan., thanked the retired officer, Edward del Pino, for his heroics on July 7.

Industrialist convicted

MIAMI — Industrialist Victor Posner, one of the nation's highest-paid businessmen, was convicted Friday of evading $1.2 million in federal income taxes on a gift of 22 acres to a small Christian college.

Jurors deliberated 14 hours over two days before returning the verdict of guilty on all 10 counts. The Miami Beach investor now faces up to 40 years in prison when sentenced Sept. 19 by U.S. District Judge Eugene P. Spellman.

Posner, who clenched his jaw when the verdict was read, was allowed to remain free pending appeal.

Posner, 67, was charged with four counts of income tax evasion, five counts of making false statements and one count of conspiracy to defraud the government. The prosecution said he evaded taxes by inflating the value of two tracts of land he donated to Miami Christian College.

Philly haulers to return

Philadelphia's sanitation workers agreed to return to work Friday after they were found in contempt for defying an order to start picking up garbage, while a judge in Detroit refused that city's request to order all 7,000 strikers back to work.

In Pittsburgh, meanwhile, union officials said a garbage workers strike was possible if no settlement is reached when the current contract extension expires at midnight Monday. City officials, however, said they'd didn't expect a walkout.

The first bargaining session since the strike began was scheduled for Friday afternoon in Detroit, but in Philadelphia, where negotiations broke down Wednesday, no new talks were planned.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Sharon Finch refused Friday to order all strikers back to work, but she began hearing arguments on the city's request that essential workers be ordered back.

Speaker of the House Gib Lewis (D-Fort Worth) comments Friday about his meeting with Texas Governor Mark White, outside the Governor's office. The two discussed the special session called for Aug. 6.

Budget crisis

White, Hobby and Lewis hold summit

By MICHAEL OLMES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — The state's top three officials held a summit meeting on the budget crisis Friday, but two participants said it ended with no decision on the best way to erase the looming $3 billion deficit.

"It's very early for us to make any kind of determination on what cuts are out there to be made," House Speaker Gib Lewis said.

"We met for an hour and a half. We just had a general conversation. We have budget problems," Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said, declining further comment.

Gov. Mark White would not answer questions about the meeting, said his press secretary, Ann Arnold.

White has called the Legislature to a special session beginning Aug. 6.

But during a speech and news conference Thursday night, White offered no specific plan of action he thinks should be taken.

"I thought he (White) was somewhat standoffish, I guess, as far as making any direct proposals until he had a chance to talk to the lieutenant governor and I," Lewis said.

However, Lewis said White also is waiting on legislative finance committees to analyze the budget for possible cuts that could be made.

"He's doing the same thing we're all doing — trying to let the system work the way the system is structured," Lewis said.

When they return to the Capitol, legislators will face what White calls "the most difficult time in this state's history."

With a substantial portion of the state's income directly tied to oil and gas prices, the worldwide oil price drop has decimated the state treasury, White said.

The deficit has ballooned from $1.3 billion in mid-February to $2.3 billion in June. Comptroller Bob Bullock is expected to release another estimate around Aug. 1, and White said that well could exceed $3 billion.

House and Senate leaders have sharply different views on the best way to proceed.

Nixon, Gorbachev meet

MOSCOW — Richard M. Nixon and Mikhail S. Gorbachev had a long talk about U.S.-Soviet relations Friday near the end of a private visit by the former president that coincides with diplomatic efforts to schedule a new summit.

A senior diplomatic source said the two countries were "looking toward" a September meeting of high-ranking ministers to prepare for the second summit between Soviet leader Gorbachev and President Reagan. They agreed in Geneva last November to meet this year in the United States.

Cocaine labs raided

LA PAZ, Bolivia — Bolivian police flown in by U.S. helicopter pilots raided and destroyed a jungle laboratory Friday that produced nearly 3,500 pounds of cocaine a month, Information Minister Herman Antelo reported.

He said the lab was being dismantled when the raiders arrived, and an airplane was confiscated. He would not give the location, but the U.S.-Bolivian anti-cocaine operation is based in Beni province, the heart of the cocaine industry in northeast Bolivia.

Antelo said the Bolivian anti-narcotics police known as the Leopards also destroyed six cocaine-paste labs and 50 coca-leaf crushing pits in the Chapare region in recent days.

China pressed by U.S.

PEKING — U.S. officials Friday pressed the Chinese government to explain the police detention of New York Times correspondent John Burns on suspicion of entering an area barred to foreigners. The Times reported he was suspected of espionage.

Burns, 41, a Briton, was placed in Peking's Paozhu detention center Friday after 15 hours of questioning at Peking airport. He was at the airport with his wife, Jane Scott-Long, and their two children to leave China on a vacation.

Safety head removed

MOSCOW — The Kremlin removed the head of the state atomic safety committee Friday, nearly three months after the Chernobyl nuclear disaster, and a news weekly said the accident has forced a review of atomic power policy.

The magazine New Times indicated radiation still is leaking in small amounts from the crippled Chernobyl reactor, about 80 miles north of Kiev in the Soviet Ukraine.

Central Bank is willing to push rates lower

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve, a week after cutting a key interest rate, gave new signals Friday that it stands willing to push rates lower still in an effort to spur a rebound in the sluggish U.S. economy.

The central bank announced that it was de-emphasizing a key money target as it works to keep alive the 42-month economic expansion.

The Fed's action came in its revelation of revised money targets for the rest of the year. The Fed plays a key role in controlling economic growth through its power over the nation's money supply.

The Fed said Friday it had decided it would not set a new target for growth of the basic measure of money, known as M-1, saying instead it would concentrate on the growth of two broader monetary aggregates, known as M-2 and M-3.

This move had been expected by economists, who said the Fed's concern over boosting economic growth would force the central bank to allow M-1 to grow far above its original target for this year.

Normally, the Fed would be worried that explosive growth in any portion of the money supply could rekindle inflationary pressures.

However, at the present time, the Fed believes that the need to boost economic growth outweighs concerns over inflation, economists said.

So far this year, M-1, which includes checking accounts and cash, has grown at an annual rate of almost 13 percent, far above the 3 percent to 8 percent target set by the Fed at the beginning of the year.

Last year, the central bank faced a similar problem with explosive growth in M-1 and decided to boost the target range. This year it has gone even further by deciding essentially to ignore M-1 growth and concentrate on the two broader measures of the money supply, which have been growing at a slower pace.

For M-2, which includes M-1 plus most types of personal savings, the Fed decided to retain the original growth target of 6 percent to 9 percent for 1986, lowering that slightly to 5.5 percent to 8.5 percent for 1987.

For M-3, an even broader measure of money which includes M-2 plus large certificates of deposit, the Fed set growth targets matching those for M-2.

However, the economic assumptions released Friday predicted a growth rate this year of 2.5 percent to 3 percent, and the central bank said even this modest forecast might not come true.

Dancers plan to travel different career paths

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
 Staff Writer

Dancing now occupies their careers as they perform this summer in the musical drama "Texas," being presented in the Pioneer Amphitheatre in Palo Duro Canyon State Park.

However, Katherine Evans, granddaughter of Mrs. E.C. Evans of 1700 Lancaster St., and John Paul Mauldin, son of Dr. and Mrs. Rex L. Mauldin of 623 Tulane Ave. see their respective careers taking different forks in the road.

"I would primarily like to focus my attention in theater and then dance," Evans says. "I would really like to act more in classical theater than modern theater."

But Mauldin says he is primarily a dancer. "I couldn't live without it," he adds.

Both performers are seasoned veterans with the musical that is now in its 21st year of production.

Evans, a third-year theater major at West Texas State University, is working her fourth year with the musical. The first two years she served on the hospitality staff before landing a role in 1984 as a dancer.

Her portrayal this season as Parmalee Flynn is a character Evans describes "as a real prissy who ends up as a manipulator."

Her part calls for a dance solo in the second act overture, she said.

Mauldin is performing in his third season as a ranchman at Uncle Henry's farm.

"Most of it is dancing," he said about the role.

He works an eight-hour day starting at 4 p.m. with preliminary stretching and warmups that are mandatory for dancers. Mauldin has danced professionally with Eglesvsky Ballet Co. in New York; Hartford, Conn.; Ballet; El Paso Ballet; and Fort Worth Ballet Company.

He lived in the upper west side of New York for four years and found the competition there extremely tough.

"I loved it though — I like to go back," he says about the city.

However, he hopes to graduate from West Texas State where he is a dance major studying under the tutelage of Neil Hess.

Evans said she hopes to transfer next spring to the University of Texas drama department. She is seeking "more competition in a metropolitan area."

Her immediate goal is to enroll in a renowned theater summer workshop.

"This has been the best season," Evans said about current audience turnout for "Texas."

"Audiences never run under 1,000, and on weekends we usually run 2,000," she said.

The musical drama runs Monday through Saturday nights and will end Aug. 23. Tickets, $10, are available at 2010 Fourth Ave. in Canyon, or by calling (806) 655-2181, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., or by writing P.O. Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015.

Compelling novel casts light on Audra

ACT OF WILL. By Barbara Taylor Bradford. Doubleday. 374 Pages. $17.95.

When Audra Crowther's daughter, Christina, is born, Audra vows to "give her the world."

This seems impossible. It is 1931. Great Britain is in the grip of a severe economic depression. Audra's husband is unemployed and they are living on welfare. But

In review

Audra is determined to give her daughter the best she can. Her determination becomes even more fierce when it later becomes evident that Christina is a talented artist.

Audra tells her husband: "She has a gift ... it must be trained. There can be no hesitation on our parts, none whatsoever. We must strive toward this goal, whatever the sacrifice. Christina must have that chance. And I for one, am going to make sure she gets it." Audra decides her daughter must go to the Royal College of Art in London, no matter what the cost.

In "Act of Will," Barbara Taylor Bradford tells the story of three generations of women.

Audra, trained as a nurse and a talented dressmaker, is a strong, honest, and hard-working woman. Her father died when she was 2 and her mother a few years later. She has had to work hard to support herself from very early age. Her first child died as an infant. For these, and other reasons, she becomes convinced that Christina must never be denied any opportunity because of a lack of money. So, Audra scrimps and saves every penny she can for her daughter's education. Ironically, once her daughter fully realizes all that Audra has sacrificed for her, she abandons her plans to become a landscape artist for a more lucrative career as a dress designer. Thus, the daughter frees her mother from the burden of having to support her, but, at the same time, destroys all of her mother's dreams.

"Act of Will" is a pleasant book to read. Bradford sets her scenes well, and writes in a style that moves the story along. The section of the book dealing with Audra's life from 1926 to 1951 is the best. It is here that the settings are the most vivid, the characters the most fully developed, the story the most compelling.

Christina's rise to fame and fortune as a designer is not nearly as interesting as the story of her mother; and the story of Christina's daughter, Kyle, seems a mere literary device, to make the story complete.

Sumpter, Americans wreck NET

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Just call Billy Bob Sumpter a one-man wrecking crew. At least he was last night in the Big Spring American League All-Stars 6-5 win over Odessa North East Texas at the National League field.

The AL center fielder had his best game of the District III Little League Tournament as he had a hand in all of his team's runs. He drove in five runs and scored one himself as the Americans eliminated Odessa North East Texas from tournament play.

Both of Odessa's losses came at the hands of the Big Spring Americans. The Americans defeated North East Texas 13-8 Monday night. The Odessa team exits tournament play with a 4-2 record, good for third place.

The Americans, now 4-1, will play undefeated Odessa Jim Parker tonight at 8 p.m. at the American League field. If they win, the tie-breaker game will be played Monday night at 8 at the American League field.

Big Spring got a strong pitching performance from lefty Jermaine Gonzales to capture the win. Ironically, it was Gonzales who was the winning pitcher in the first meeting between the two teams.

But the night belonged to Sumpter, who played all phases of the game well, including some nifty fielding in the outfield. He stalked the Americans to a first inning 1-0 lead when he walked with the bases full, giving him his first RBI of the game.

But the lead was short-lived as Odessa scored two runs in the second and added two more in the top of the third, taking a 4-1 lead. That's when Sumpter ignited a fire under his team that would burn the remainder of the game.

In the bottom of the third he came through with a two-run scoring single that cut the deficit to 4-3. Moments later, he scored from third when Gonzales grounded out to second base, tying the contest at 4-4.

In the bottom of the fourth Sumpter put Odessa to rest with a two-run scoring double, giving his team a 6-4 lead. Odessa scored a run in the sixth, but it was too little, too late.

Gonzales, who fired a three-hitter, got through the first inning unscathed. Meanwhile Odessa loser Stormy Case had his problems in the first inning. After leadoff hitter Jason Downey beat out an infield hit, Case walked three batters. Downey scored when Sumpter walked, giving Big Spring a 1-0 lead.

Odessa took a 2-1 lead in the be-cond on one error and one hit. Billy Ramirez reached base on an error by the first baseman and scored when catcher Perry Sanford singled. Jason Cothran was hit by a pitch, and scored when Michael Redwine grounded out to shortstop Patrick Martinez.

Odessa tried to take control of the game in the third inning, thanks to a good swing by Case. Case, who pitched a five-hitter, helped his own cause by blasting a

South Korean rookie leads LPGA tourney

DANVERS, Mass. (AP) — South Korea's Ok-Hee Ku, bidding for fame and fortune as a rookie on the U.S. women's golf tour, shot a second straight 4-under-par 68 to hold off Pat Bradley and retain the lead after two rounds of the $275,000 LPGA Boston Five Classic.

Ku, nicknamed "Cookie" after joining the LPGA Tour in January, has a 36-hole total of 136 on Tara Ferncroft's short, but exacting course.

That gave Ku a one-stroke lead over Bradley, who became the first player in LPGA history to reach $2 million in prize money this year while leading all players with earnings of more than $300,000 in the Tour's first six months.

Bradley, starting the second round three strokes behind after an opening 71, applied the pressure on Ku as an early starter. The former New England champion from near Westford shot a 6-under 66, finishing an outstanding round with an eagle 3 on the 485-yard 18th hole.

Rookie Deb Richard, a former U.S. Amateur champion, was third, two strokes off the pace. Richard had a 68 to go with an opening 70 on the 6,008-yard, par-72 course.

Val Skinner surprised with a 68 and was tied at 136 with Penny Plüz, who had a second-round 70.

Next, at 140, were Kathy Baker, who had a 68; Cathy Morse, who matched Thursday's 70, and Cindy Hill, who improved one stroke to 69.

Newly crowned U.S. Open champion Jane Geddes had a 70 to go with a first-round 71 and was tied at 141.

Ku said she was "tense" starting as a leader for the first time in the United States.

The 5-foot-1 Ku didn't show it. Starting on the 10th tee, she scored an eagle 2 on the 331-yard hole.

After a picture perfect drive, she holed out an 85-yard wedge shot to go 6-under par for the tournament, worth $41,250 to the winner.

Ku went on to collect two more birdies with short putts, then offset a bogey with another birdie to go 8-under after 27 holes.

The 30-year-old newcomer went 9-under with a 30-foot birdie putt on the 33rd hole, but two-putted from 25 feet for a bogey on her final hole.

Bradley, cheered on by hometown followers while seeking her first Ferncroft victory, was ecstatic over her 66, saying: "I'll take seven-under at this stage anytime."

"The key to this course boils down to putting because it's not an extremely long golf course," Bradley said after touring the front nine in 3-under 32 and then coming back in 3-under 34.

"When you take advantage of putting, you score well, and I scored extremely well," said the winner of three 1986 tournaments and second place finisher in five others.

Bradley used her driver only four times, the last on the day's final hole which she followed with a 2-iron shot and a 20-foot putt for her eagle.

Bradley sank birdie putts within 10 feet on three of the first seven holes.

She added a 10-foot birdie putt on the 10th hole, then took her only bogey when she hit into a bunker on the 11th. She picked up another birdie on the 16th green before her dramatic finish.

Defending champion Judy Clark Dickson had a 71 for 144. That tied her with a group which included LPGA millionaire Jane Blalock, a former New England champion.

The field of 133 starters was trimmed to 74 for the final 36 holes. The cut was made at 148.

Australia's Greg Norman putts for an eagle two on the 17th hole, but the ball had a mind of its own. With his second round score of 63 at the British Open, Norman equaled the course record set by American Mark Hayes in 1977.

Norman equals course record

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — Greg Norman, a day after complaining that Turnberry's Ailsa course was humiliating, matched the record for the layout with a 7-under par 63 and led the British Open by two strokes after two rounds Friday.

Even fashioning one of the greatest rounds ever played in a major tournament, which gave him a 3-under-par 137 total, did not satisfy him.

It was, "disappointing," said Norman. "I was trying to shoot 60."

The Australian scattered eight birdies, an eagle and three bogeys across his card in the 115th running of the most ancient of golf tournaments. Only a bogey on the final hole kept from having the best round in ever played in any of the four major tournaments.

There was not a single American among the top nine.

Gordon Brand, a 30-year-old English touring pro, was the only other man to break par for 36 holes.

He was at 139 after a second-round 68 in weather that improved greatly over Thursday's gales but remained chilly and breezy.

It was two more strokes back to Tommy Nakajima, who now ranks as Japan's best player, and Nick Faldo of England. Nakajima had a second-round 67, Faldo 70.

Bernhard Langer of West Germany, a former Masters champion, matched par 70 and was at 142.

At 144 were first-round leader Ian Woosnam of Wales, Anders Forsbrand of Sweden, Gregory Turner of New Zealand and Jose-Maria Canizares of Spain, who had a 68. Woosnam slipped to 74, Forsbrand had 73 and Turner 71.

Ray Floyd, the current U.S. Open champion, along with Payne Stewart, Bob Tway, Donnie Hammond, Gary Koch and D.A. Weibring were the best U.S. players at 145. Floyd shot 67, Stewart 69, Weibring 70, Tway and Hammond 71 and Koch 72.

The rest of the Americans were scattered out somewhere at the back of the pack, or on the roads leading to international airports.

PGA Tour Commissioner Deane Beman, making an appearance as a competitor after 12 years as one of golf's top administrators, struggled to a 78 and failed to qualify for the final two rounds at 153.

Former U.S. and British Open champ Johnny Miller (77-152), Tom Kite (74-152) and Larry Nelson, a former U.S. Open and PGA title holder (75-156) also missed the cut.

Jack Nicklaus, a three-time winner of this title, just made it. He again scored an eagle-3 on the 17th, shot 73 and was at 151, the cutoff figure.

Norman was by far the star of the day.

As the word spread through the gorse and over the dunes lining the Firth of Clyde, thousands and thousands of golf-mad Scots flocked to his side, clicking and burring in excitement.

"By the time we finished, we must have had 15,000 in the gallery," Norman said.

Even with that mob, there was no undue noise or distraction for the man who went to the gallery ropes to challenge some hecklers a month ago at the U.S. Open at Shinnecock Hills in Southampton, N.Y.

"All those people, thousands of them, and I was standing over a putt on the 17th and I couldn't hear a sound. It was as if there was no other golf shots being played on the course. It was eerie," Norman said.

Royals manager to have brain surgery

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dick Howser, manager of the world champion Kansas City Royals, will undergo surgery next week for a brain tumor, the baseball club announced Friday.

Howser, 50, was admitted to St. Luke's Hospital on Wednesday complaining of a stiff neck and headaches. He missed the Royals' game Thursday night.

"Neurosurgical consultation and a CAT scan of the head revealed a tumor of the left frontal lobe of the brain," said Public Relations Director Dean Vogelaar. "Surgery is anticipated for the middle of next week."

It would not be known until after surgery whether the tumor is malignant or benign, Vogelaar said.

Mike Ferraro, the third base coach and former manager of the Cleveland Indians, has been named interim manager.

Howser, who is in his sixth season as manager since moving to

Kansas City from the New York Yankees in 1981, had complained of a stiff neck for the past couple of weeks, the club said.

Royals trainer Mickey Cobb said the neck bothered Howser so much Wednesday that he had to leave Royals Stadium before an afternoon workout. "He didn't look good," Cobb said.

Howser led the American League to a 3-2 victory in the All-Star Game on Tuesday.

Briton to face Witherspoon for WBA heavyweight title

LONDON (AP) — Frank Bruno will carry the hopes of a nation into the ring when he challenges Tim Witherspoon for the World Boxing Association heavyweight title in the first hour of Sunday morning at Wembley Stadium.

"He doesn't want to let anyone down," manager Terry Lawless said of the 24-year-old power puncher, who will be trying to become the first British fighter to win a heavyweight championship in this century.

The last heavyweight title fight in London was Aug. 6, 1966, when Muhammad Ali knocked out Brian London in the third round.

A crowd of between 40,000 and 50,000 is expected for the scheduled 15-round bout, which will begin between 12:30 and 12:50 a.m. local time Sunday. In the United States, HBO will televise the bout live beginning at 7:30 p.m. EDT Saturday.

Bruno is aware of his role as a gloved crusader. But he says he must go into the fight thinking only of winning the title for himself and not thinking of letting anyone down.

"My mind is prepared for it, my body is prepared for it," said the challenger.

The winner will defend against Tony Tubbs, with the survivor of that fight meeting the World Boxing Council champion — currently Canadian Trevor Berbick — on the schedule of the HBO-Don King-Butch Lewis series of heavyweight title fights. The series concludes with the WBA-WBC bout winner fighting the IBF champion Spinks for the undisputed title.

Witherspoon's purse of $900,000 before cuts is the biggest of his career while Bruno will earn at least $750,000.

Bruno earned his title shot by knocking out South African Gerrie Coetzee, a former WBA champion, in the first round last March 4. That was the 27th knockout in his 28 victories.

There is no question about the power in his right and his left jab, but there is a question about Bruno's ability to take a punch.

In his only loss, he was knocked out by James "Bonecrusher" Smith in the 10th and last round here May 13, 1964, and he was wobbled by American Junior Cummings.

"His chin won't hold up," said Witherspoon, who has scored 16 knockouts in posting a 24-2 record. "His body might, but his chin won't."

As for Bruno's offense, Witherspoon said, "He can throw that 1-2 like a pro, but after that he does a lot of amateur things."

Witherspoon, who has shown he can take a heavy punch, scored a 12-round decision over Smith in a North American Boxing Federation title match, and he doesn't think Bruno can punch as hard as Smith. Witherspoon is expected to try to get inside on Bruno, to pressure him and take away his punching power.

"He wasn't able to get past Pinklon Thomas' jab," Bruno said, however.

Witherspoon lost the WBC title to Thomas on a 12-round decision Aug. 31, 1984. His other loss was to Holmes on a 12-round split decision in a WBC title bid May 20, 1983.

A major topic is whether Witherspoon is in good enough physical condition to pressure Bruno for long.

The champion has become annoyed with questions about his condition, which he contends is excellent. He did appear to have a slight roll about the middle earlier in the week, but he is a bulky man.

Witherspoon said he expected to weigh 224 pounds at the official weigh-in at 12:30 p.m. Saturday. That would be three pounds less than weighed when he won the WBA on a 15-round decision over Tubbs last Jan. 17 at Atlanta.

Bruno is expected to weigh 227. The two fighters are the same height — 6 feet-3 inches.

Tim Witherspoon, shown here after defeating Tony Tubbs, will be defending his World Boxing Association heavyweight championship against Frank Bruno in London's Wembley Stadium.

The only Briton to win heavyweight champion was Bob Fitzsimmons, who knocked out James J. Corbett in the 14th round March 17, 1897. Fitzsimmons was born at Helston, Cornwall, England, but left England at age 11 for New Zealand and never fought in Britain.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Please your mate before handling personal affairs. Improve your state of health.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Discuss with a good friend how to get ahead faster. You need to be thoughtful with your mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have the ability to get the home nicely arranged and will be willing to work in order to insure more security in the future. Give plenty of schooling that can give more theoretical knowledge.

THE STARS IMPEL... they do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you!
