NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Even the king and queen of Spain have no special privileges when it comes to paying off a debt, a city judge has ruled.

General Sessions Judge Bill Higgins on Monday ordered Spain's King Juan Carlos and Queen Sofia to pay $7,050 to a retired Nashville cab driver seeking payment on a 150-year-old Spanish government bond.

"The king of Spain is no different from you and me. If he doesn't pay, he gets sued," said W.T. Hardison, who said he received the 1836 bond, carrying a face value of $940, from a friend.

Higgins signed a judgment for $7,050 based on a calculation by Hardison of the accumulated interest.

Hardison said he filed suit against the royal couple April 18 after the Spanish embassy refused to answer questions about the bond.

Water woes

City reservoir levels dropping

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Big Spring citizens are asked to continue conserving water for the next several days while engineers devise a way to bypass a crippled 20-inch valve critical to the city's water distribution system.

On Sunday, storage tanks had 5 to 5½ million gallons of water, said Tom Decell, public works director. Reservoirs Monday had about 4 million gallons, and this morning the city's distribution system contained less than 4 million gallons, Decell said.

"We're not holding our own," he said. "We desperately need the public's cooperation to cease and desist all outside watering."

The city has closed the municipal swimming pool to save water, Decell said.

Despite an ample water supply, the aging valve, buried about six feet underground, has sharply reduced the city's ability to keep its seven reservoirs at acceptable levels.

Decell said engineers will be at the plant today to grapple with the situation.

City Manager Mack Wofford said Monday efforts are focused on rigging an alternate routing system to bypass the valve after it has been capped. He said city personnel and engineers are determining the most efficient way to do this.

Decell said the effort to fix the system is plagued by incomplete and inaccurate records of the water system's configuration. "We're dealing with a lot of inadequate information," he said.

One bright spot in the fight to keep water flowing is the addition of a pump separate from the main pump station.

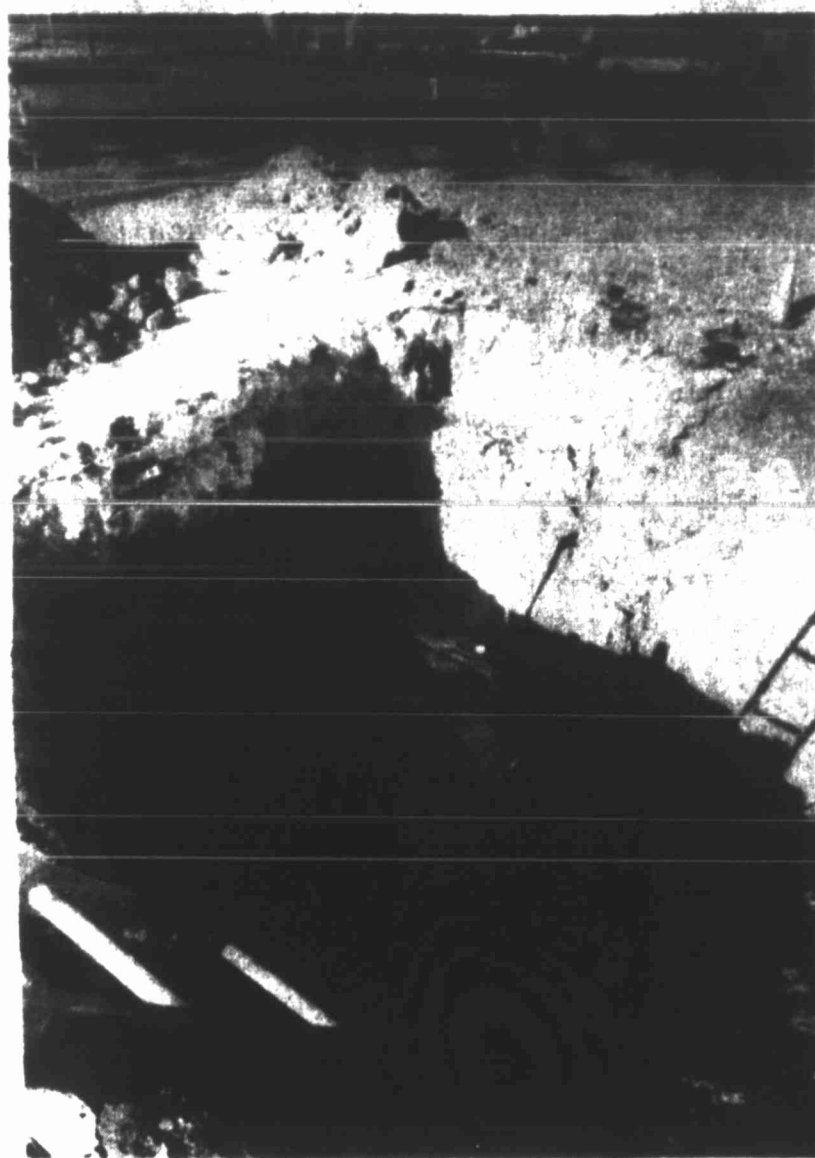

The pump, a 1967 model installed years ago but never put on line, has the capacity to pump 4 million gallons of water daily, according to its specifications, Wofford said. The turbine-driven pump has yet to work at full efficiency, however, and Wofford said the city is unable to tell how much water it is actually moving.

With the additional pump, water can be pushed to reservoirs while primary pumps are shut off to allow work on the malfunctioning valve.

Should the city lose its race against the diminishing reservoirs, residents in the Capehart addition and businesses at the Industrial Park would be first to lose water.

WATER page 2A

A 20-inch gate valve at the bottom of this hole is the culprit in the city's recent water woes. Engineers are in town today exploring options such as re-routing water to bypass the crippled unit, which would then be capped.

Council axes proposal to move offices

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

The proposal to move City Hall to the Dora Roberts Community Center appears to have lost steam, slowed mainly by a groundswell of negative public reaction.

A new idea, floated at a council work session Monday, is to equip City Hall offices with electronic access for the handicapped and to move council chambers to the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

Councilman Johnny Rutherford said federal guidelines allow for the use of electronic pagers or telephones to give handicapped people access to city offices. This approach, coupled with moving council meetings to the airpark, would give the handicapped access to the wide range of city functions, he said.

On July 14, Councilman Harold Hall and Public Works Director Tom Decell made a pitch that City Hall be moved to the Dora Roberts Community Center to meet a federal mandate to make city buildings and functions available to the handicapped by October or risk losing federal money.

But new information indicates the city may not face a cutoff of federal money.

Councilman Russ McEwen said in his five years as councilman, he had never before heard so many comments about an issue. "Not one person said 'do it,'" McEwen said.

Councilmen D.W. Overman and Gary Don Carey, who had been receptive to the idea when it was first presented, said they, too, had misgivings. The two council members said some of their constituents also voiced objections.

Rutherford, who studied federal policies on handicapped access to public places, said nearly all city buildings would be immune to the mandate because they were built before 1977.

Only the council chamber, which several years ago underwent renovation with $10,000 in federal funds, would fall under the mandate, he said.

Rutherford further noted that federal guidelines emphasize making public functions and programs rather than just buildings accessible to the handicapped.

The council bent at Monday's session was to open city offices to Big Spring's handicapped even if the city is not subject to federal policy.

"I think we should do what's morally right," McEwen said. He said he favors moving council chambers to the airpark and bringing city offices in reach of handicapped people.

Older women boost unwed mother rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Divorced women and those who put off marriage but want children before their age makes it risky are helping boost the nation's rate of unwed mothers to record levels, government statistics show.

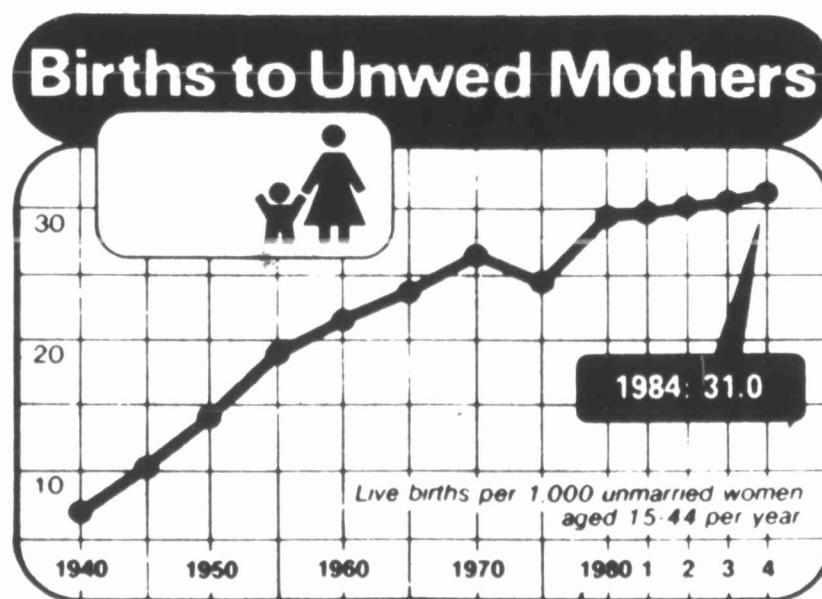

Childbearing by unmarried women in 1984 accounted for more than one baby in five, the highest level since the government began collecting data on the subject in 1940, according to the report from the National Center for Health Statistics.

"There were increases in the nonmarital birth rates for women of all ages under 40 years, except those aged 15-17 years," who marked the first decline since 1978, the study said.

While births and birth rates fell among the youngest group, the center noted that increasing birth rates for women in their 30s and 40s continued, as it has over the last decade or so.

This appears to be a result of "making up for delayed childbearing," said the study, noting a sharp rise in first births among women aged 35 and over.

"The growth in the population of unmarried women has outpaced that of all women because of the widespread tendency to delay marriage to increasingly older ages, as well as the increasing number of divorces," the report said.

For example, in 1974 about one in seven women aged 30 to 34 was unmarried. By 1984 that had risen to one in four.

While women have been delaying marriage, some seem to have decided to have children before their age makes that physically risky or impossible, according to population experts.

In addition, social pressure on single women to wed after becoming pregnant has declined in recent years as the stigma of having an out-of-wedlock child has lessened.

There were 770,355 births to unmarried mothers in 1984, up 4 percent from the year before, according to the new study. That was about 21 percent of the 3,609,141 live births in the nation in that year, the most recent complete statistics available. That amounted to 31 live births per 1,000 unmarried women, the highest rate on record.

Utah had the lowest proportion of unwed births, with 7.7 percent. Mississippi had the highest rate among the 50 states with 32.3 percent of all babies born to unmarried women. The rate of unwed births in the District of Columbia was 56.9 percent.

The figures from the Center for Health Statistics are higher than those of the Census Bureau, which a month ago estimated that unmarried women had delivered about 625,000 babies in the year ending June 1985. That would have constituted about 18 percent of the 3.49 million births it estimated for that period.

The Center for Health Statistics collects its data from birth certificates compiled in each state, while the Census report was based on a survey of 57,000 households in 729 communities.

Tax hike for BSISD below norm

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Independent School District's tax levy for the 1985-86 school year increased 4.8 percent, compared to a 13.3 percent hike for the average Texas school district.

That information comes from the latest issue of "Bench Marks for 1986-87 School District Budgets in Texas," an annual publication of the Texas Research League, a non-profit, educational corporation engaged in governmental research.

In area schools, the Coahoma tax levy increased by 12.2 percent, Forsan by 3.6 percent, Sands 5.5 percent, Stanton 2.9 percent and Glasscock County 19.4 percent. Taxes in Colorado City decreased 10.1 percent, and Westbrook taxes fell 2.2 percent.

The Big Spring district's budget workshops for the next school year begin at 7 tonight, and will continue nightly through Friday.

Last year, the district budgeted $3,342.15 per student based on 4,251 students in average daily attendance during 1984-85. The statewide average per student was $3,346.

In the area, Coahoma budgeted $3,961.41 per student for 961 students; Forsan, $6,193.39 per student for 490 students; Sands, $5,260.27 per student for 258 students; Stanton, $4,536.22 per student for 835 students; Glasscock County, $5,270.14 per student for 384 students; Colorado City, $4,029.52 per student for 1,354 students; and Westbrook $6,341.73 per student for 163 students.

Statewide, four of every five dollars were spent for salaries, averaging $2,705 per student, as

Commissioners attempt to trim expenses

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Howard County commissioners made a first attempt Monday afternoon to retain the current county tax levy of 22 cents per $100 valuation for 1986.

During a budget workshop, commissioners reviewed projected department expenditures in 1986-87 and attempted to trim those amounts to fit the money available.

"We're still trying not to raise taxes," said Commissioner David Barr. He said the county differed from other tax entities in planning its upcoming budget because it must begin providing indigent health care services in September. A loss of federal revenues is also projected, he said.

County Auditor Jackie Olson told commissioners they should budget $300,000 for indigent health care. The last state Legislature ordered that each county set aside 10 percent of its total annual budget for the program.

Federal government matching revenues also were projected to decrease about $250,000, Olson said, because of recent federal cutbacks. Cecelia McKenzie, executive director of Rape Crisis, and Carolyn McCarty, director of Spring City Senior Citizens Center, visited with commissioners and requested financial aid from the county.

McCarty told commissioners the center needs to raise $24,834 to cover operational costs next year. McKenzie requested about $2,500 to be used in applying for a Children's Trust Fund grant, a preventive and educational program centering on child incest.

WEST TEXAS: The forecast calls for continued hot sunny days and clear nights. Lows tonight will be 69 to 77, except near 60 in the southwest mountains. Highs Wednesday will be 100 to 104 in most sections, mid-90s in the southwest mountains, and near 108 in the Big Bend valleys.

State
 Temperatures well over the 100-degree mark were forecast for much of the state today, and humidities combined with high temperatures to produce dangerous heat levels in much of North Central and Northwest Texas.

Wichita Falls and Laredo reported statewide high temperatures of 107 degrees Monday, and 105-degree readings were reported at Childress and Waco. Houston reported 100 degrees Monday, while Galveston had a relatively mild 87, according to the National Weather Service.

More hot weather was forecast today under the influence of a persistent high pressure system. Afternoon temperatures as high as 109 were forecast for the western part of North Central Texas along the Red River and in the Big Bend area along the Rio Grande. Temperatures near or over 100 were forecast for the entire state.

The weather service warned that humidity could bring increased risk of ill effects from the heat.

Overnight temperatures cooled into the 70s and 80s, with a few 60s in West Texas and the Panhandle. Marfa was the coolest overnight at 54 degrees.

Only a few scattered high clouds were reported along the Southeast Texas coast this morning.

 compared to $2,661.12 for Big Spring. Payroll expense is a combination of salary levels and staffing patterns.

In area schools, Coahoma spent $2,977.92 per student for salaries; Forsan $4,542.11; Sands $3,882.85; Stanton $3,473.46; Glasscock County $3,747.79; Colorado City $2,953.55; and Westbrook $4,709.18.

The average salary for classroom teachers in Big Spring during 1984-85 was $22,300, compared to the state average of $23,281.

In area schools, Coahoma's average teacher salary was $23,677; Forsan, $26,683; Sands, $23,231; Stanton, $25,925; Glasscock County, $24,132; Colorado City, $21,156; and Westbrook, $23,948.

Although attention was focused on teacher salaries, statewide only two-fifths of the 1985 budget increase was used for that purpose.

The average salary for administrators in Big Spring was $37,769, with $26,678 for other professional support employees, such as librarians, counselors and nurses.

In area schools, Coahoma's average administrative salary was $35,791, with $26,640 for other professional support employees; Forsan $41,671 and $29,786; Sands $35,061 and $24,900; Stanton $41,044 and $27,768; Glasscock County $38,496 and $33,138; Colorado City $35,876 and $21,962, and Westbrook $40,184 and $0.

Big Spring provided one teacher for every 14.8 students, compared to a statewide average of 16.3.

In area schools, Coahoma provided a teacher for every 12.2 students, Forsan one for every 11.4, Sands one for every 10.7, Stanton one for every 12.8, Glasscock County one for every 11.3, Colorado City one for every 13.7, and Westbrook one for every 8.3.

Property taxes in Big Spring were 83.3 cents per $100 of appraised value, compared to 76.3 cents state average. Appraised value averaged 89.2 percent of market value statewide, but was 94.5 percent in Big Spring.

In area districts, Coahoma's taxes were $1.186 per $100, with an appraisal value of 97.2 percent; Forsan: 64.9 cents and 103.9 percent; Sands $1.002 and 106.6 percent; Stanton $1.117 and 97.1 percent; Glasscock County 54.5 cents and 90.8 percent; Colorado City 79.8 cents and 103.7 percent; and Westbrook 40 cents and 108 percent.

Thus the tax on a house in Big Spring that would sell for $80,000 would have been $644. If the homeowner were eligible for homestead exemptions, the tax would have been $411, and if owned by a person age 65 or older, the tax would have averaged $330.

Revenue loss statewide from exemptions totaled $915 million, which was $135 million more than the previous year.

Local property taxes plus state aid came to $2,937 per student in Big Spring, compared to $3,299 statewide.

In area districts, Coahoma had $4,878, Forsan $6,228, Sands $6,103, Stanton $5,095, Glasscock County $7,216, Colorado City $3,219, and Westbrook $6,192.

The main purpose of state aid is to equalize state and local tax resources among schools, according to the report. In 1985-86, tax resources ranged from less than $2,500 per student in 10 districts to more than $10,000 in 12 districts.

Man, pet dogs bitten by neighbor's pit bull

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
 Staff Writer

A Big Spring man said he will pursue all legal recourse available after he and his pet dogs were bitten by a neighbor's pit bulldog this morning.

Bob Lewis, 1508 Dayton St., was treated at Malone-Hogan Clinic for a bite wound and his dogs were treated by a local veterinarian, he said.

Lewis said he was working in his studio residence about 7 a.m. when one of his two dogs wanted to go outside.

Immediately after opening the door, Lewis said he saw a muscular, black pit bull on his property. Lewis' border collie and the pit scuffled, he said, and then his smaller dog joined the fight.

The pit bull threw the smaller dog "around like a rag doll," Lewis said. As Lewis attempted to separate the fighting dogs, he said he was bitten on the hand by the pit bull. His pet dogs received three to four bites each from the animal, he said.

The pit bull belongs to David Hildebrand of 805 W. 17th St., Lewis said. He said one of the Hildebrand boys was with the dog at the time of the incident.

Hildebrand could not be reached for comment this morning.

After Lewis pulled the scrapping dogs apart, he notified police and went to Malone-Hogan Clinic for treatment, he said.

Police Lt. Jerry Edwards said this morning the pit bull was in custody at the city's animal control shelter. Police had not yet submitted written reports about the incident, Edwards said.

women — the statisticians found a decline in the rates for women aged 15 to 29.

"Although the reductions in the rates were relatively small, the rates for teenagers 15-19 years dropped to the lowest levels observed in the United States since 1940, and for women aged 20-24 years, to the lowest levels ever observed. The rate for women aged 25-29 years was lower than for any year since 1976," the study said.

While the rates for unwed mothers go back only to 1940, records on overall birth rates have been kept since 1918.

Stephanie Ventura of the Center for Health Statistics noted that a decline in the number of young teenage women has helped reduce their total number of births, but reasons for the birth rate decline in that group are not obvious.

Perhaps these girls have increased use of contraceptives or abortion, she suggested in an interview.

The national rate of 31 births per 1,000 unmarried women aged 15-to-44 was up from 30.4 in 1983, the study showed.

For girls aged 15-to-17, however, there was a decline from 22.1 to 21.9 over the year, the only age group to show a drop from 1983, although women aged 40-to-44 held steady at 2.5 births per 1,000 unmarried.

The rates per 1,000 unmarried women in other age groups in 1984 were: 18-19 years old, 43.0, up from 41.0 in 1983; 20-24 years, 43.2, up from 42.0; 25-29 years, 37.0, up from 35.6; 30-34 years, 23.2, up from 22.3, and 35-39 years, 10.9, up from 10.3.

For all women aged 15-to-44, married and unmarried, the 1984 birth rate was 65.4 per 1,000 women, down from 65.8 a year earlier.

In Austin, where water conservation is mandatory, police ticket residents who disregard the rules, Decell said. He said he hopes "we don't have to get into that type of situation here."

Workers reject contract

DETROIT — The leader of 7,000 striking city workers called for outside help today after his members overwhelmingly rejected a contract endorsed by union officials, sending a municipal strike into its 14th day.

Members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees spurned by a 3-to-1 margin Monday a tentative, three-year pact reached during the weekend.

Approval would have ended a strike that has caused 40,000 tons of garbage to go uncollected and idled bus service for 200,000 commuters in the nation's sixth-largest city.

Democrats rip pact

WASHINGTON — Democrats say they are outraged by a Reagan administration tentative trade agreement to boost textile imports from South Africa at a time when pressure is growing for U.S. sanctions against the white-ruled nation.

"It's outrageous that, at the same time the American people are demanding an end to our economic support of apartheid, the administration has secretly agreed to increase that support," House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. said in remarks quoted late Monday by his aide, Chris Matthews.

Couple electrocuted

HUNTINGTON, Ind. — The electrocution of a couple in an outdoor fountain on the Huntington College campus resulted from frayed electrical wiring and a faulty grounding system, the coroner says.

Huntington County Coroner Gregory K. Sprinkle said Monday night that the deaths of Russell Lee Showen, 26, of Marion, and his fiancée, Carol A. Escher, 27, of Fort Wayne, were accidental.

Their bodies were found in the fountain Sunday evening by a 5-year old boy.

The boy's mother called state police and a trooper was shocked when he tried to retrieve the bodies.

Rehnquist begins quest

WASHINGTON — Supreme Court Justice William H. Rehnquist, his nomination to become the nation's 16th chief justice opposed vigorously by civil rights groups and some Democrats, is beginning his formal quest for Senate confirmation.

Rehnquist, named by President Reagan to replace the retiring Warren E. Burger as the nation's top judge, was to appear before the Senate Judiciary Committee today.

The hearing, originally scheduled for this morning, was delayed until 4 p.m. EDT to allow senators to attend services in New York for elder statesman W. Averell Harriman, 94, who died Saturday.

Astronaut aware

Pilot may have sensed shuttle disaster

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — At the instant space shuttle Challenger exploded, pilot Michael J. Smith uttered, "Uh-oh!" and then he and others in the crew breathed from emergency air packs during a 12-mile fall to the ocean, NASA officials say.

The astronauts survived the force of the explosion, which separated their cabin from the spacecraft, and some were able to turn on emergency breathing equipment, said Dr. Joseph Kerwin, an astronaut-physician who investigated the crew's cause of death.

The exclamation from Smith was the last utterance recorded on the spacecraft intercom system and provided "the first potential indication of awareness" of disaster among the seven astronauts who died Jan. 28, officials said.

Kerwin said that despite a probable decompression of the cabin at 65,000 feet, the crew could have had 6 to 15 seconds of "useful consciousness" during the fall toward the Atlantic.

He said the crew cabin smashed into the water at 207 mph, and that the destruction was so severe that the cause of death "cannot be positively determined."

An analysis of gauges on two of the emergency air packs, including Smith's, showed that three-fourths to seven-eighths of the five minutes of air had been expended "through normal breathing," said Kerwin.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration released a transcript Monday of the recorded intercom talk on the flight deck during Challenger's launch.

Smith's single utterance came at 73 seconds after liftoff, the moment the spacecraft came apart.

The tapes were recovered from wreckage on the ocean floor, and NASA and IBM engineers spent months analyzing the recorded data.

NASA associate administrator Richard Truly said at a Washington news conference Monday that until last week it was believed that the crew had not sensed the disaster.

Smith's remark, said Truly, could indicate "there was a moment of awareness," although he did not know positively what triggered the remark.

The last word received by ground controllers was from commander Dick Scobee when he responded, "Go at throttle up," to confirm that Challenger's main engines were at full power. Words on the intercom were not radioed to the ground.

There were no comments on the tape from three crew members, school teacher Christa McAuliffe, astronaut Ron McNair, and payload specialist Gregory B. Jarvis. The three were on the middeck of Challenger, and Truly said passengers riding there are routinely instructed to remain silent during launch.

Truly said the families of the astronauts were informed of the findings before they were released Monday.

Houston lawyer Ronald Krist, who is representing one of the astronaut families, said he found the new information "troubling."

Nicaragua files suit

THE HAGUE, Netherlands — Nicaragua has filed a complaint at the World Court against Honduras and Costa Rica, seeking a ban on anti-Sandinista rebel activity launched from the territory of its Central American neighbors, a court source said today.

Nicaragua's request to the U.N. tribunal, officially known as the International Court of Justice, comes a month after the court denounced U.S. backing for Contra rebels trying to topple the leftist Sandinista government.

That case was filed in April 1984 by Nicaragua, which claimed that the Contras were killing Nicaraguan civilians as part of a U.S.-engineered attempt to overthrow the Managua government.

Jenco meets with Pope

WIESBADEN, West Germany — The Rev. Lawrence Martin Jenco, said to be "emotionally fragile" after nearly 19 months of captivity in Lebanon, flies to Rome today for a meeting with Pope John Paul II, officials and relatives said.

U.S. Air Force spokesman James Mangum said the freed hostage and 10 relatives who were reunited with him on Monday would leave the U.S. Air Force hospital in Wiesbaden at 3:15 p.m. (9:15 a.m. EDT) to travel to the Rhein-Main Air Base outside Frankfurt for the flight to Rome.

After meeting with the pope on Wednesday, the Roman Catholic priest plans to fly to London to talk with the Rev. Robert Runcie, the Archbishop of Canterbury, said Andrew Mihelich, Jenco's nephew.

25 die in second bomb

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A car laden with explosives and mortar shells blew up in a bustling market in Moslem west Beirut today, and police said the blast killed at least 25 people and wounded 170.

The blast came one day after a white Mercedes-Benz sedan packed with a quarter-ton of TNT exploded in the city's Christian sector, fueling fears of renewed eye-for-eye attacks between Christians and Moslems in Beirut.

No one has claimed responsibility for this week's attacks.

Rock star pleads guilty

LONDON — Boy George, the flamboyant British singer famous for wearing makeup and women's clothes, pleaded guilty today to possessing heroin and was fined the equivalent of $370 by a London magistrate.

The millionaire rock star reportedly had been undergoing treatment for heroin addiction when police raided his home in north London's arty Hampstead district July 7.

The singer, looking pale, spoke only three times and in monosyllables during the hearing at Marylebone Magistrate's Court.

Due to the loss of my father, W.D. Miller, The Downtown Grill will be closed until Thursday, July 31st.

Bolivian effort stirs questions

It is bizarre that the United States is sending troops, radar, helicopter gunships and other armament into the Bolivian jungle to arrest and perhaps shoot Bolivians dealing in cocaine. The problem, as everyone knows, is not the drug industry in Bolivia; it is illegal drug use by American citizens in cities all across the United States.

It is so bizarre that it makes you wonder whether an attack on the drug traffic is the real motivation. Maybe the real target is not Bolivia but rather Nicaragua.

Published reports say the U.S. intends to spend $400 million to put a line of radar planes and dirigibles across the northern part of South America to detect drug smugglers. However, the same radar line could detect movements of arms and rebel activities in Central America, where President Reagan has said he intends to make Nicaragua cry "Uncle."

Critics of U.S. aid to the Contras in Nicaragua have said all along that the Contras can't beat the Sandinistas all by themselves. Maybe they won't have to.

Jail death raises issues

To the editor:

Wednesday's report concerning the inmate's death in the Big Spring City Jail left several unanswered questions.

Why is it that every time a person stubs his toe in Big Spring, it comes out in the Police Beat column, yet a man died in our city jail and it took five days to hit the paper?

And since when do nurses examine patients? And what does the term "natural causes" mean?

A person does not just pass on quietly from alcohol withdrawal — yet when asked how many times this man was checked on by staff, Acting Chief (Lonnie) Smith reports he does not know, but normal procedure is about two times.

Is there no specific requirement for checking on the inmates to ensure their safety and well being?

And after five days and an investigation "close-out" by both the City Police Department and the Texas Rangers, why can't Smith tell us how many times this man was checked on? Surely that would be determined in any competent investigation.

Reaganomics too costly

To the editor:

Texans have been on the receiving end of Reaganomics until they cannot survive much more. Last week Permian Bank of Midland closed and is in the process of liquidating. Thanks to the Democrats and President Roosevelt, no depositors will lose any money because of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation — unless their accounts exceed $100,000.

Nationwide, the Wall Street Journal predicts another 150 banks will close this year.

LTV, the second largest steel corporation in America, located in Texas, had to file for chapter 11 bankruptcy last week. The Wall Street Journal also predicts that Bethlehem Steel will have to take the same action by the end of the year unless vast improvement comes before then.

The Wall Street Journal also reported on July 16 that the Senate Finance Committee approved an increase in the national debt limit to $2.323 trillion. And we have gone from a nation priding ourselves that our exports exceeded our imports to a debtor nation — with more imports than exports.

In spite of all this, Reagan refuses an import tax on oil but turned around and put one on shake shingles imported from Canada, one of our best trading partners and neighbors to the north, and this has infuriated them.

Common market countries in Europe are shipping grain and other agriculture products to the U.S. Because of their subsidizing markets, we cannot compete with them, thanks to Reagan.

Reagan used to refer to Democrats as big spenders, but his national debt, just since his first term, exceeds that of all previous administrations put together.

Free trade would be great if all our trading partners would cease subsidizing industry and taxing American goods shipped to them. We should reciprocate in kind for every tax imposed on American goods.

In addition, why has not one of these corporate executives of companies caught padding defense contracts been sent to prison. The corporations are stopped for a short while from getting government contracts and then they start all over again like nothing had happened.

Radio Europe appointee linked to fascist congress

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — Radio Free Europe, the government-financed station that broadcasts to Eastern Europe, has stirred up controversy again with one of its appointments.

The organization has named as its coordinator for Protestant religious programming Rev. Dusan Toth, the executive secretary of the Slovak World Congress. The founders of this group included former officials of the Nazis' puppet "republic" of Slovakia during World War II.

Toth had no association with the fascist wartime state or with its leader, Father Joseph Tiso, a virulent anti-Semite who was hanged as a war criminal in 1947. But the Slovak World Congress has steadfastly refused to repudiate the Tiso regime, and Toth himself took strong exception to our recent column reporting the Democratic National Committee's embarrassment over "Slovak Independence Day."

We disclosed that, as a result of an error that was quickly corrected, the committee's "ethnic calendar" included among its noteworthy anniversaries the date in 1939 when Adolf Hitler annexed the western half of Czechoslovakia into the Third Reich and established the eastern half as a puppet state under his devoted toady, Tiso.

The date actually marked the brutal extinction of the Czechoslovakian republic's two decades of independence. Toth doesn't see it that way at all.

"Independence Day of Slovakia is deeply rooted in our history," he wrote us, "and I cannot comprehend why you would stoop so low and print such a narrow summation. I truly feel sorry for you... that you are so narrow-minded and incapable of finding even one positive fact regarding the Slovak Nation."

Obviously we weren't criticizing the Slovak people, who were themselves victims of Hitler and Tiso. In fact, thousands of gallant

Jack Anderson

Slovaks rose in rebellion against the fascist Tiso regime in 1944.

They were gunned down by Tiso's goons with the help of German troops. We consider the doomed rebellion a "positive fact" about the Slovak nation. Does Toth?

History records that Tiso's Hlinka Guard, modeled after Hitler's SS, rounded up tens of thousands of Slovakian Jews and shipped them off to the death camps — after first confiscating their property.

"The Jew is a boil on the body of the Slovak nation, and we have to get rid of that boil," Tiso declared.

Congressional sources told our associates Corky Johnson and Donald Goldberg that Toth's appointment has raised some serious questions on Capitol Hill. There have been complaints that Toth is not an American citizen (he is Canadian) and is not a member of any official Slovak Lutheran organization in the United States.

Toth has been praised by conservative Catholic political writer Michael Novak, a member of the board which oversees Radio Free Europe.

It is Toth's association with the controversial Slovak World Congress that has drawn the most fire. Rev. Jerry Mraz of the (Lutheran) Slovak Zion Synod complained bitterly about the appointment in testimony to the House Appropriations Committee.

The appointment "upsets the leadership and pastors" of the Lutheran synod, Mraz said, "and we raise objections to his appointment."

Mraz pointed out that Toth had been rejected for membership in the synod "because of his involvement with the (Slovak) World Congress."

Critics of the Slovak World Congress include Andrew Valuchek, former ethnic adviser to the Democratic National Committee and now an aide to Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., the House majority whip.

Jewish leaders also are concerned about the congress, noting that Holocaust survivors have been rebuffed repeatedly in attempts to get a written statement from the organization condemning the wartime Tiso regime.

WATCH ON WASTE: When a veteran's widow remarries, her Veterans Administration benefits are supposed to end. But the VA's inspector general compared Virginia marriage records with the VA's records of payments to surviving spouses as of September 1984, and found 62 widows who had not reported their remarriages from 1978 to 1983.

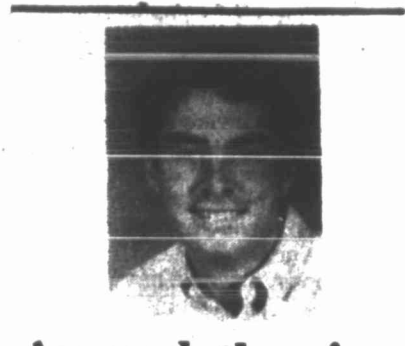

Based on the Virginia results, the VA figures as many as 1,820 widows nationwide pocketed a total of $27.8 million they weren't entitled to over that five-year period.

POINT OF VIEW: Most criticism of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission centers on the charge that it isn't tough enough on utility companies' safety measures. But at a meeting with federal agencies dealing with the Three Mile Island cleanup, a contractor offered this bilious critique of the commission:

"The NRC could find flaws in Brooke Shields. They are hipshooters, generally, and can always find some apparent budget, schedule or scope discrepancy."

Commission regulators were sitting next to the contractor.

It's just a hint that they're ready to wed

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

A message in a bottle to Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Alcorn, who are right this minute lying on a Hawaiian beach, honeymooning.

Dear Charlie and Sissy:

Just wanted to drop you a line to tell you how much I enjoyed your wedding, and to wish you good luck with the hard part.

The sun, the Pacific and the Mai Tai's, by the way, are not the hard part. Nor are the 11 o'clock wake-up calls.

I have all the confidence in the world in y'all. Though neither of you will agree, both of you seemed relaxed this past weekend, with your senses of humor intact throughout.

The weekend before you were married, another friend tied the knot. As I watched my good buddy in the days preceding his big leap, I remarked how relaxed Clifford seemed.

Rather than sweating and stuttering, Clifford laughed about old times and cooed with his sweetheart. When asked if he was nervous, Clifford replied, "If another person asks me if I'm nervous, I'm gonna get nervous."

A nearby wise man told me that if a couple is ready to get married, they mostly stay cool. He told of a friend who snapped at his buddies all through the big weekend, and couldn't loosen up enough to enjoy his own wedding. His point was that an uptight groom isn't ready for the role of hubby.

But, Big Chuck, you were ready. You were fun to be with, yet thoughtful throughout the weekend. You were even a good sport at the bachelor party.

Not once did I hear anyone express a regret that you and Sissy would soon be Mr. and Mrs. Y'all are just such an obvious couple.

But when you became engaged, I remember that Teague shook his head and said something like "another one bites the dust."

Teague — the intrepid world traveler, philosopher and educator — was regretting, vicariously, the loss of freedom that comes with marriage.

On the other hand, Teague probably hasn't had a date since the time we double dated in Atlanta in February. His date had a broken arm that the doctor told her to keep elevated. Every time we walked into a bar, Teague entered with this girl who looked liked she was waving at everybody.

To Teague, I say, "Teague, we gotta start making our freedom count before we go worrying about losing it."

But I congratulate you Charlie, as does Teague, Bubba, Cleghorn, Steve Belvin, Margie and Louis Rios, and everybody else who saw you walk down the aisle.

Good luck pal, and aren't we getting old.

Does Helms want the job?

By ART BUCHWALD

No matter how bad a military dictator you are, you can always find a friend in Sen. Jesse Helms.

Gen. Augusto Pinochet, Chile's strongman, is devoted to the senator and vice versa. Even when it comes to setting people on fire, the senator is in the general's corner.

Recently a teen-age boy and his girlfriend were doused with a flammable substance in Santiago and burned — the boy died and the girl is fighting for her life.

The crime was so heinous that the senator was one of the few people who could find anything good to say about the Pinochet government.

As a matter of fact, when Helms went to visit the good general in Santiago to pay his respects, he told reporters that he was incensed — not at what had happened, but at the way it had been reported. "I am ashamed of the media in my country," he said.

When questioned about a $500 million suit Pinochet was threatening against American newspapers, Helms said, "I assured President Pinochet that the major media in the United States have a tendency to be very unfair to anti-Communist governments."

What really boiled the senator was that the U.S. ambassador to Chile, Harry Barnes, attended the youth's funeral (which was tear-gassed by the government). This, Helms decided, was tantamount to going to a Communist rally. Helms wants the ambassador sent home for "planting the American flag into the heart of a Communist activity."

Art Buchwald

Before you get upset at Jesse Helms, let's look at it from his standpoint. Chile is one of the few solid Fascist governments we've got in South America. You don't turn your back on a head of state just because he keeps tear-gassing his country's citizens.

Is Jesse Helms interfering with our South American policy by giving aid and comfort to Augusto Pinochet at this time? Of course he isn't. But the senator couldn't have dropped in at a more auspicious moment.

The U.S. State Department has been trying to persuade the dictator general to get his country to straighten up and fly right, and this was making Pinochet feel lousy. When your troops are accused of kidnapping and jailing people it's always good to talk to a senator who understands your problems.

You can fault Sen. Helms for many things, but not his foreign relations know-how. In complaining to the Chilean press about our ambassador, Sen. Helms said that Ambassador Barnes had advised the State Department about the burnings of the two young people "in a manner calculated to produce criticism of the Chilean regime."

That says it all. Helms is going to do everything to get Barnes out. If he succeeds, there is only one person in the United States who is worthy of filling the post, and that is the senator himself.

Would Helms take it? That's the burning question they're asking in Santiago.

Volunteer firefighting brings joy to granny

By LAURA A. LAMBETH
The San Antonio Light
SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Some grandmothers enjoy special hobbies such as planting gardens or doing other "grandmotherly" things. Not Doris "Granny" Hale. She loves fighting fires.

As captain of the Harmony Volunteer Fire Department in southeast Bexar County, she has been fighting fires and answering other emergencies for the past 13 years.

"I love to fight fires," the 64-year-old said. "It's a hard job, and it's a thankless job; it's hot, dirty, filthy work."

"There's no glory in it, believe me. But it's the excitement of going, and doing what I can do that makes me feel good."

She was nicknamed "Granny" by fellow firefighters because at one time three of her eight grandchildren also were volunteers at the Harmony department.

"They (the grandchildren) called me Granny, so everybody else started calling me Granny, too," she said. "Now, nobody knows me except by Granny, or when I'm in my red (pumper) truck."

Volunteer firefighting is a family affair. Mrs. Hale's daughter, Charlotte Lambrides, is president of the Harmony VFD; her son-in-law, William Lambrides, is an assistant fire chief; and her husband, Ace Hale Sr., has been with the department 25 years and now is its treasurer.

When the Harmony department offered jobs to women 13 years ago, "Granny" Hale, standing 5-foot-3, did not hesitate to join.

"I thought it would be a good way to help out. I had to prove myself to the men," Mrs. Hale said of her early years as a firefighter. "But I've earned my respect now."

Wearing an emergency radio clipped to the waistband of her slacks when she is away from the emergency monitor she keeps at her home, Mrs. Hale keeps track of all fire calls in the county and is ready to jump to action when she hears a call in her community.

The Harmony department serves about 100 square miles, bounded by Sulphur Springs Road on the north, Salado Creek on the west, the San Antonio River on the southwest and the county line on the southeast.

Mrs. Hale's red fire helmet, jacket and rubber and steel boots always are out and ready for her to grab as she heads for her car and a fast trip to the fire station. There, she takes the wheel of the pumper truck and heads for the fire scene.

Mrs. Hale said she seldom leaves her home during weekdays, when many of the men in the department are away at their jobs, so she will be available for fire calls.

"There's been many a fire I've fought with the fire chief and three or four other women," Hale said. "During the day, I'm liable to be at the end of a hose by myself out there."

County Fire Marshal Carl Mixon said more women have joined local volunteer departments in recent years and estimated at least one-third of the county's volunteer firefighters are women.

Boyfriend's suicide threats frighten girl

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. I am a 16-year-old girl who has been dating a guy (my age) for two months. Last night we were talking on the phone, and I said I thought we'd better not see each other for a while, mostly because my parents are going through a painful divorce and I needed more time to myself. Well, he totally overreacted. He said, "Wait a minute," then he came back to the phone and said, "I have a handgun in my hand right now, and if you don't love me enough to keep on seeing me, I have nothing to live for. Goodbye." Then I heard a shot, and a noise like a loud thud — him falling.

I was so shocked, I fainted. When I came to, he was telling me he was OK, he didn't really kill himself, but he really would if I ever brought up the subject of breaking up with him again.

Right now I am so mad at him for frightening me like that and making me faint, I really don't want to keep going with him, but now I'm afraid he might go through with it and kill himself.

Abby, I want to get out of this relationship, but I don't want him to commit suicide, and I'm afraid he is crazy enough to do it. What should I do?

will be a senior in high school. I am very proud of her, but I am not very good at expressing my feelings. I want to give her a very meaningful, beautiful letter.

Please, Dear Abby, write a two-page letter for me. I will gladly pay you for your time.

Please, please, don't advise me to write the letter myself. I am not a very open person, and a letter writer I am not!

You may bill me for your time. Whatever the amount, it will be worth it. Thank you.

UNEXPRESSIVE MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: A single sentence written in your own words, straight from your heart, will be far more meaningful than two pages filled with fancy phrases composed by a stranger. Sincerity is eloquence at its best.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question I hope you can answer. Can a Protestant minister perform his own marriage ceremony?

I've been told it is unethical and it may even be illegal. Please find out and print your answer, as my mail is not as private as I would like it to be. Thank you.

FLORIDA READER
DEAR READER: According to Florida Statute 714, a minister may not perform his own marriage ceremony.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 17, pregnant and unmarried, I slashed my wrists in a suicide attempt. Now I'm married, in my 30s, and very self-conscious about the scars on my wrists. I was told by a veterinarian that there's no way of getting rid of those scars, so I guess I will have to learn to live with them.

What should I say to people who ask me what happened? I don't want to admit the real reason, but when I say I had an accident, they press for details. I fabricated a story, but I don't think it was very convincing. Please help me come up with a solution.

YOUR FAN IN THE SOUTH

DEAR FAN: Before you accept the word of the veterinarian, please see a plastic surgeon about the possibility of minimizing the conspicuousness of the existing scars. Bracelets might also hide them. And to those who press for details, a direct, "I'd rather not discuss it," is better than a fabricated story.

Body schedules red blood cell repletion

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I need some information on hemolytic anemia, specifically, treatment for it. — M.C.

Anemia is deficiency of red blood cells. Sometimes in discussing anemias, I wonder, really, if people understand what I'm talking about. Let's take hemolytic anemia. It means the body is not producing enough red cells to replace the ones that die.

Red cells live 120 days. That doesn't mean that every 120 days they all die and replacement begins. Rather, each day we use up 120th of them, and the body matches that loss with production of that many new ones. As I noted, with hemolytic anemia, this nice production schedule has been upset somehow.

The key word here is "somehow," for the disorder can occur in several ways. Treatment, then, depends on just how the blood cell deficiency is occurring. Let me give you some examples.

Suppose that a certain drug is causing premature death of the red cells. The answer would be to stop that drug. Suppose the body's own antibodies are causing the death of the cells. Sometimes steroids have to be given in treatment of that. Or suppose that the state of the red cells is making them more vulnerable to premature death. The answer then might be removal of the spleen, for that's where red cells are destroyed.

You can see what I am trying to say. It is that if you can give me the name of your kind of hemolytic anemia I'll be able to give you a more specific answer about the usual treatments for it. You might wonder what hemolytic means. It is a reference to the breaking up of the red cells, their death, in short.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have two questions about Metamucil.

Dr. Donohue

My doctor gives me the instant kind. I wonder if it is OK to take it with a glass of water (plain) along with the mix liquid? Secondly, I am sure it isn't, but can you assure me that this substance isn't habit forming? I am constipated. — Mrs. L.J.

Sure it's OK to take this with an extra 8-ounce glass of water. In fact, this might be helpful for some. It is habit forming only in the best sense of that word. I mean that it permits the bowels to work normally in their digestion of food. If you stop taking the medicine, you won't have a craving for it, if that is what you mean.

You may mean to ask if this will make your bowels accustomed to it and cause problems afterward. That won't happen.

Your Metamucil is not really a laxative. A laxative acts by chemically stimulating the bowel into activity. Your medicine merely helps it form more bulk and improve elimination that way. You might be interested in looking through the booklet "The Way to Stop Constipation." Other readers may order by writing me enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Could you please discuss the dangers of prolapsed bladder? It seems like mine is giving me trouble. I am a woman, 49 years old. I was told that to fix it a woman needs surgery. I do not want to go through that. What else can be done? — Mrs. P.D.

Urinary bladders sag into the vagina when their supports lose firmness. An unattractive but apt analogy might be of a couch that has supported too many people for too long and whose springs have given out. People now will sag almost to floor level when they sit on it.

But age is only one factor in bladder prolapse. A decline in hormones may bring it about, and the stresses of childbirth are a very important cause of sag.

Inability to completely empty the bladder on urination and sometimes involuntary loss of urine are two of the unpleasant consequences of bladder sag, but the most dangerous consequence is infection. Since the bladder may never empty completely, urine just stays in it too long. Bacteria can start to grow in the pooled urine. So treatment can be quite important.

Some women are helped with special bladder-strengthening exercises. Others may require the surgery you mention. That is to restore full bladder support by reattaching the supporting ligaments.

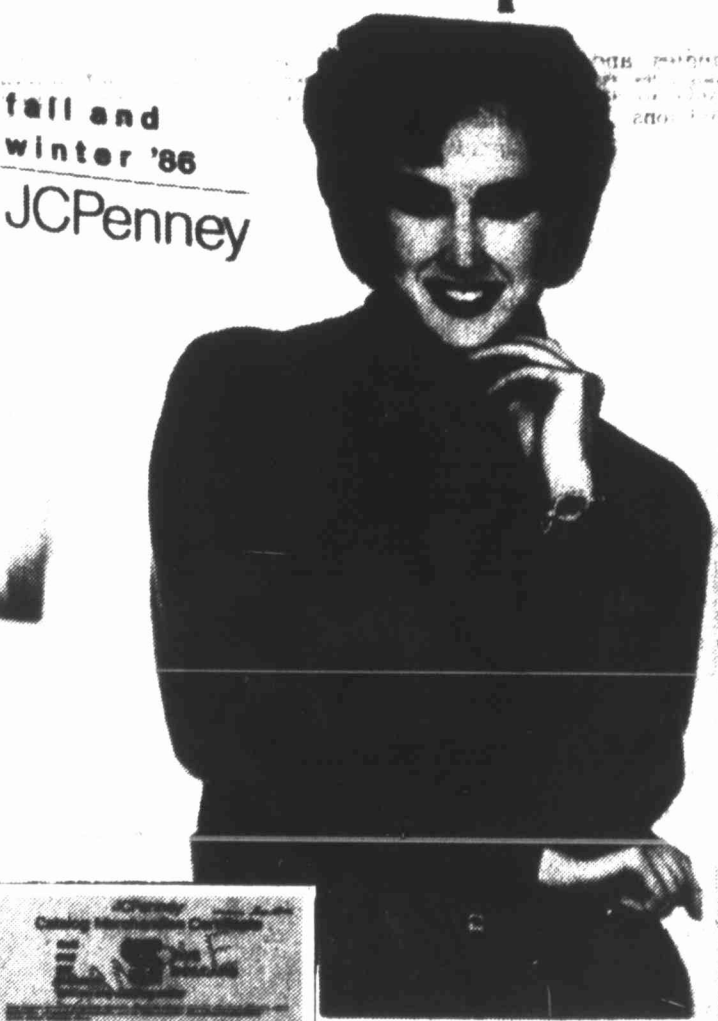

is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of The Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11216, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "You Can Control Angina." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.25.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Mighty Tyson has 'em talking

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The man who trained Muhammad Ali when the heavyweight jabbed and lived his way to the world title says a 20-year-old from upstate New York is bringing excitement back to boxing.

"People are talking about boxing again," said Angelo Dundee. "That's good for everyone in my profession. Thank you, Mike Tyson, for giving us that kind of excitement again."

Tyson's name was on a lot of people's lips Monday, two days after he knocked out Marvis Frazier in 30 seconds to run his professional heavyweight record to 25-0. The Catskill, N.Y., heavyweight has knocked out 23 of his opponents, 15 in the first round.

"He's one of the best heavyweights in the world," said CBS boxing analyst Gil Clancy Monday from New York City. "I would suggest that if you could put him in the ring with any of the heavyweight champions, he (Tyson) would be the betting favorite."

"He stacks up with all of them (the top heavyweights)," added Dundee, from Miami. "Who would have thought we'd have a 20-year-old with the stature of Marciano?"

A fight between Tyson and one of the three recognized heavyweight champions — Trevor Berbick of the World Boxing Council, Tim Witherspoon of the World Boxing Association and Michael Spinks of the International Boxing Federation — may not occur in the near future, however.

Although talks have been held between Tyson's managers and Berbick, it now appears that the first choice of the Tyson camp is a match between their young boxer and former heavyweight champion Larry Holmes. More talks with Holmes are scheduled this week, according to Tyson co-manager Bill Cayton.

Referee Luis Rivera stops a fight earlier this year between Mike Tyson, at right, and a beaten Jesse Ferguson during the sixth round of their fight in Troy, New York. Ferguson did better than most have done, as the undefeated Tyson usually knocks opponents out before the fifth round.

"He's ready for Larry Holmes or certainly Trevor Berbick," Clancy said. "He's not similar in any way to any fighter I've seen. He's short, he doesn't bob much, he just goes out and overpowers opponents."

It's the wallop that Tyson's punches carry that continues to turn the most heads.

"There's no disputing his power," Dundee said.

"I would say Tyson is the most devastating puncher around today," said referee Joe Cortez, who worked the Tyson-Frazier bout.

Even Joe Frazier, who bristled at comparisons between Tyson and himself when he held the heavyweight title, conceded Saturday "maybe he does punch like me."

Tyson, meanwhile, is clearly beginning to get more comfortable with his growing stature as a heavyweight contender.

After other bouts, Tyson had spoken to reporters in a barely audible whisper, praising his opponents and rarely speaking about his own abilities. After dispatching Frazier, Tyson proclaimed "I'm from Catskill, N.Y., and I'm the best fighter in the world."

Tyson's trainer, Kevin Rooney, said he's noticed a recent change in his boxer, a one-time juvenile delinquent who now wants to be the youngest heavyweight champion in history.

"Michael is reaching a maturity now where he's ready to fight any top 10 fighter in the world," Rooney said. "He's showing maturity now in the gym and in his last two fights that he's ready to step out and fight who ever wants to fight him."

Rooney added, "You haven't seen the best of him yet."

Tyson agreed. "I love fighting so much, I just love what I'm doing. I just want to get out there and get my hands on him (his opponent)."

Tyson liked to fight too much, in fact, as a young teen-ager growing up in the rough Brownsville section of Brooklyn. Eventually, after spending time in various detention facilities, he was sent to a state school for juvenile delinquents west of Albany.

Tyson was brought along slowly, fighting only 26 times as an amateur. But since turning professional in March 1985, the 5-foot-11, 217-pound Tyson has averaged a fight once every three weeks.

Only two men, James "Quick" Tillis and Mitch Green, have gone the distance with Tyson. Both lost 10-round decisions earlier this year.

Guerrero to return within a week, maybe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 1986 season has been a struggle for the Los Angeles Dodgers, who have been beset by numerous serious injuries to key players while attempting to defend their National League West title.

But Monday night, the Dodgers got some good news — slugging outfielder Pedro Guerrero, who suffered a serious knee injury just prior to the beginning of the season, apparently will be activated within a week.

The Dodgers will have an opening available — it was learned earlier in the day that outfielder Ken Landreaux will undergo arthroscopic surgery on his left knee and miss a minimum of three weeks.

Dr. Frank W. Jobe, the Dodgers' team physician who performed surgery on the ruptured patella tendon of Guerrero's right knee on April 4, a day after the 30-year-old outfielder was hurt during an exhibition game, made the announcement just before the Dodgers beat the San Francisco Giants 2-1.

"He's really doing extremely well," Jobe said. "He's now almost four months since surgery. We tested him again tonight. I'm not quite ready to let him come off the disabled list yet but I think he'll be off within the week. We hope so."

"His legs are the same size now. The strength of his legs isn't quite equal. They're close. I suspect that if we tested him before all that exercise, it would be closer."

Guerrero, who hit .320 with 33 home runs and 87 RBI last season to help the Dodgers win the National League West title, blasted several balls into the seats during batting practice just before he was examined.

Guerrero didn't sound as optimistic as Jobe concerning his condition when interviewed just before being examined and just after batting practice.

"It's not hurting right now but I'm not 100 percent," he said. "I don't like to guess (when he would return to action). I'm just going to go out there and play when I'm 100 percent."

One thing Guerrero doesn't appear to need much work on is his hitting.

"That's natural," he said with a smile when asked about his impressive batting practice display. "I can look bad anywhere else but at the plate, especially in batting practice, I'll do all right. It's easy when you know what's coming."

Guerrero said he isn't in pain, but added, "Sometimes, it feels different. When I run sometimes, it gets stiff."

When asked about Guerrero, Manager Tommy Lasorda said, "His hitting has been awesome in batting practice. He's running fairly good. He's a premier ballplayer, a guy who means a lot. He's the kind of guy who can carry a ballclub."

Herschel may switch to real estate

DALLAS (AP) — New Jersey Generals running back Herschel Walker says he might retire if the United States Football League loses its antitrust suit against the NFL and folds.

The Dallas Cowboys have Walker's NFL rights.

"I enjoy football, but I enjoy life, also," Walker told The Dallas Morning News from his parents' home in Georgia on Monday. "I just want everyone to know it's not 100 percent that I'm going to the Cowboys if the USFL folds."

"Right now, I'd say it's 50-50," he said. "I'm not sure what I'm going to do."

Walker, who won the Heisman trophy while becoming the University of Georgia's all-time leading rusher with 5,259 yards in three seasons, said he would consider working in real estate with Generals owner Donald Trump.

The Cowboys used one of their two fifth-round draft picks in 1985 to take Walker. His $6 million contract extension with the Generals would go into effect this season.

"If the Generals fold, I want to talk things over with my agent, wife and lawyer to decide what I would like to do," Walker said. "The last two years I've loved football more than anything else. In college, I liked playing, but never loved it."

"I've never had the opportunity to be just Herschel Real estate is an option."

Davis powers Astros

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

Glenn Davis, an emerging slugger desperately seeking anonymity, was a reluctant hero when it came time to take a curtain call following a game-winning homer.

"I didn't want to go out," the 25-year-old Houston first baseman said Monday night after his three-run eighth-inning homer gave the Astros a 4-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves. "It blew my mind. I did not want to get high on the cheers. I wanted to be low-keyed."

But Davis, whose homer was his 22nd this season, relented as a crowd of 24,597 at the Astrodome roared its approval. It was a touching scene for a man who contemplated suicide as a teen-ager.

"People have been digging up a lot of stuff from my past lately," said Davis, who as a teen-ager put a gun to his head and a knife to his stomach. "Maybe a psychologist could explain it, I don't know how to understand it."

"There's just a lot of things I haven't dealt with before. Your mind starts to feel the pressure." And pressure was what Davis was feeling against Atlanta's Doyle Alexander. He came to bat mired in an 1-for-20 slump, with the only hit a run-scoring single in the first inning.

Alexander, 1-3 since his acquisition from Toronto, had retired 15 batters in a row when Bill Doran doubled with one out in the eighth. Denny Walling walked and Davis followed with his homer into the left field stands.

Bob Knepper, 13-7, won his third decision in eight days, pitching eight innings, allowing six hits and two runs. Dave Smith pitched the ninth for his 18th save.

Mets 9, Cubs 2
New York, combining the tight pitching and clutch hitting that has become its trademark, increased its runaway lead to 16½ games over Montreal by mauling Chicago.

Bob Ojeda, 12-2, who leads the major leagues with a 2.28 earned run average, scattered five hits and struck out seven in as many innings. Roger McDowell pitched out of an eighth-inning jam for his 10th save.

Howard Johnson's three-run double keyed a four-run first inning against Chicago's Scott Sanderson. Rookie Kevin Mitchell went 3-for-3, including a solo home run, his ninth. Darryl Strawberry added a two-run homer in eighth, his 16th. Ryne Sandberg and Ron Cey homered for Chicago.

Dodgers 2, Giants 1
The Los Angeles bullpen, which has struggled nearly all season, was badly in need of relief. Enter Orel Hershiser, whose sixth complete game gave them just that against slumping San Francisco.

Hershiser, 10-7, pitched a three-hitter and singled in a run in the fourth inning. He also struck out 10 batters to equal his season high, and walked three in recording his 10th career shutout.

Houston Astro Glenn Davis is greeted by third base coach Dennis Menke after Davis' three-run homer in the eighth inning. Davis' bat was responsible for the Astros' four runs as he scored Billy Hatcher in the first and swatted in three runs as the Astros bested the Atlanta Braves 4-2 Monday night.

Cardinals 3, Phillies 1
Alan Knicely picked a nice time to hit his first homer of the season. It broke broke a 1-1 tie in the ninth inning at Philadelphia, and gave the victory to control artist Danny Cox, who pitched a three-hitter as St. Louis won its seventh straight game.

"I did everything right," Knicely said of the 408-foot drive over the center field fence.

Cox, 5-8, struck out eight, matching his career high, and walked none to extend his walkless streak to 25 innings.

Bruce Ruffin, 3-2, had allowed only two hits through eight innings for Philadelphia.

Padres 5, Reds 2
It hadn't rained for so long that it poured — home runs that is — for San Diego at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium. Solo shots by Tony Gwynn, Kevin McReynolds and Jerry Royster had Padres circling the bases for the first time in eight games.

"We'll take the home runs when they come, but we're still going to have to scuffle for runs," Manager Steve Boros said.

Andy Hawkins, 7-7, scattered seven hits over 8 1-3 innings as San Diego broke a three-game losing streak. He walked just one and struck out five for his first victory since July 6. Rich Gossage collected his 17th save.

Pirates 7, Expos 4
Switch-hitter R.J. Reynolds was happy because the RBI single he hit in a four-run seventh came as a right-handed hitter.

"I've been working hard all year long, trying to hit well from the right side," said Reynolds, who is batting .213 right-handed, but .330 from the left side. An earlier two-run double was hit left-handed.

Montreal's losing streak was extended to four games.

The Pirates trailed 4-3 entering the seventh, but Joe Orsulak and Barry Bonds singled to knocked out Bryn Smith, 7-6. Bob McClure relieved, but Johnny Ray, Sid Bream, and Reynolds all had RBI singles.

Jet lag hits Bears; Brits love the Fridge

LONDON (AP) — The Chicago Bears saw London from a tour bus, then jogged through Hyde Park as they kicked off preparations for Sunday's exhibition football game against the Dallas Cowboys.

The Super Bowl champions' Monday morning arrival at Heathrow Airport and afternoon run on the green attracted a throng of British news media representatives.

Many of them were apparently more interested in William "The Refrigerator" Perry's eating habits than in Coach Mike Ditka's patient explanation of American football.

"It's not like soccer or rugby, although there are similarities to rugby," Ditka said in one interview. "You ask why we wear the equipment. You'll see. If we didn't, guys would never get up."

Reporters and photographers swarmed to Perry as he headed for a bus at the airport, but he and his teammates were clearly tired after the seven-hour flight from Chicago.

Asked to name his favorite British food, Perry merely grunted.

"I feel like a wet noodle," said tight end Tim Wrightman moments after arriving at the airport.

Many of the 86 players grumbled about the two-hour bus tour that preceded check-in at their Hyde Park hotel, and some also complained about the late afternoon run in the park.

"This is a big joke," said Willie Gault. "They want us to get over jet lag by keeping us up all day. That's why they're making us run in the park. I don't know where they got that theory."

Two of the team's draft choices failed to make the flight to England.

Seventh-round safety Bruce Jones of North Alabama has apparently quit the squad. And the Bears said sixth-round running back Jeff Powell of Tennessee missed the takeoff because he was in a minor traffic accident on the way to O'Hare International Airport.

The Super Bowl champions will hold one practice a day to prepare for their NFL preseason game Sunday at Wembley Stadium.

Tickets for the match, billed as the "American Bowl '86," were sold out 10 days after they went on sale last May. About 80,000 fans are expected.

Morris hurls Tigers past Tribe

By The Associated Press
Detroit's Jack Morris, whose streak was broken after 44 2-3 innings without allowing an earned run, outpitched Cleveland's Ken Schrom, who lost for the first time since May 25 as the Tigers beat the Indians 5-1 Monday night.

Morris' streak began with three straight shutouts, and he allowed only an unearned run against the Minnesota Twins last Wednesday. He had last allowed an earned run in a July 4 loss to Texas. In that stretch, his earned run average dropped from 4.23 to 3.21.

Morris led Detroit as they won for the 10th time in 13 games. It was Cleveland's fourth loss in five games.

"I wouldn't advise anybody giving out that Cy Young Award yet," Tiger Manager Sparky Anderson said in alluding to Roger Clemens of the Boston Red Sox, who is 17-2. "They better be careful. I've seen this guy (Morris) go out and win 10 or 12 games in a row."

Morris, 12-6, allowed six hits, striking out six and walking one. Bill Campbell came in for the final two innings.

Schrom, 11-3, lost his first decision after eight straight victories. He allowed five runs — just three earned — in 6 1-3 innings.

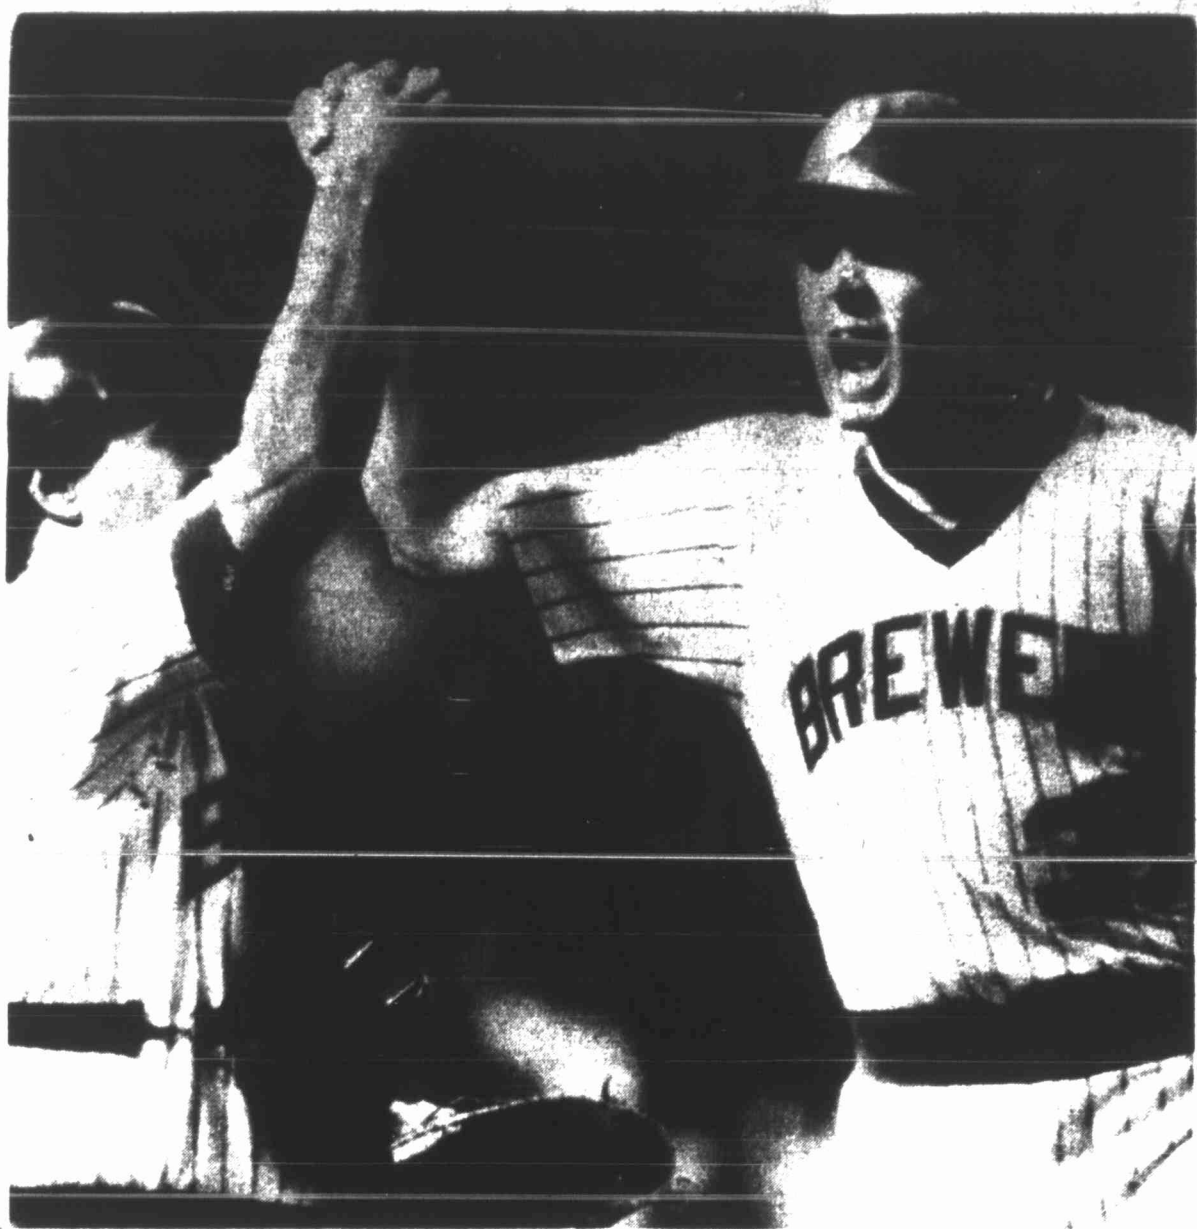

Darrell Evans' two-run single in the first gave the Tigers a 2-0 lead and Kirk Gibson's 16th homer made it 3-0 in the third.

American League
Red Sox 3, White Sox 1

A two-run homer by Don Baylor and a solo homer by Dwight Evans backed Al Nipper, 5-7, as Boston extended Chicago's losing streak to eight games. The victory was only the third in 11 games for the Red Sox. It also was the first time since July 10 that a Boston pitcher other than Clemens has won a game. Nipper, who allowed seven hits, lost his shutout bid in the eighth inning on Greg Walker's two-out RBI single.

Angels 6, A's 3

California's Doug DeCinces drove in three runs with a double and homer, and Kirk McCaskill, 12-6, put an end to Oakland's seven-game winning streak. Donnie Moore got his 11th save. homer of the year. Orioles 4, Rangers 3

An eighth-inning RBI single by Larry Sheets and the combined seven-hit pitching of Storm Davis and Don Aase paced Baltimore. Davis, 7-8, went seven innings to improve his career record against Texas to 9-0. Aase allowed two hits over two innings for his 27th save.

Blue Jays 6, Royals 0

Toronto's Jim Clancy pitched a four-hitter, and Tony Fernandez drove in four runs with a triple and a homer, helping Toronto break out of an offensive slump. Clancy, 12-5, won his sixth straight game and career victory No. 100 with three strikeouts and one walk. Fernandez, the leadoff hitter, hit a two-run triple in the fifth as the Blue Jays snapped a streak of 30 straight scoreless innings. He hit a two-run home run, his fifth, off Charlie Leibrandt, 9-7, in the seventh.

Twins 6, Mariners 5
Minnesota's Kirby Puckett drove in four with a three-run homer and an 11th-inning single that scored Greg Gagne. Keith Atherton, 5-3, allowed one run in three innings in gaining the victory.

Brewers 5, Yankees 4

Robin Yount drove in three runs with two triples, and rookie left-hander Juan Nieves won his 10th game for Milwaukee. Nieves, 10-4, scattered seven hits and struck out five Yankees before being relieved in the seventh inning by Dan Plesac, who got his ninth save.

Tribble surrenders to Maryland authorities

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — A attorney for Brian Lee Tribble, the man who prosecuted supplied the cocaine that killed Len Bias, says the $250,000 bond set for his client is too high.

Tribble, 24, surrendered to sheriff's deputies Monday and was jailed when he was unable to post bond. He was scheduled for a bond hearing today before a circuit court judge.

"It is the equivalent of no bail at all, due to (Tribble's) lack of resources," he wrote.

Tribble, who is scheduled to be arraigned Friday, was charged in a sealed indictment with distributing cocaine, possessing cocaine with intent to distribute, possessing cocaine and possessing PCP, his other attorney, William Cahill said.

Two of Bias' basketball teammates at the University of Maryland who were in the College Park dormitory room with the All-American when he died were served notice of their indictment, but were not required to turn themselves in, Prince George's County Sheriff James V. Aluisi said.

David Gregg, 19, and Terry Long, 22, were indicted by the grand jury and charged with possession of cocaine as well as obstruction of justice for "removing evidence from 1103 Washington Hall... during and after the commission of a crime," according to the indictment.

Jury still out on NFL-USFL trial

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal court jury began its fourth day of deliberations in the USFL's $1.69 billion antitrust suit against the NFL, and there are few indications what course, if any, the panel will take.

The five women and one man met for 10 hours Monday, finally leaving the federal courthouse shortly after 9 p.m. EDT. That brought to 25 hours the amount of time they have devoted to the case since getting it last Thursday.

Deliberations resumed today at 9:30 a.m. EDT.

The jurors sent only one message to U.S. District Judge Peter K. Leisure on Monday, but it indicated they hadn't progressed past the first two of 60 questions Leisure ordered them to answer before reaching a verdict. The jury asked Leisure to clarify his instructions about determining the relevant markets and submarkets for professional football.

In simplest terms, market encompass professional and college football? That is an important distinction, because if college football is included, the NFL's percentage of the market would be much smaller and its "monopoly" control lessened.

— Is the sub-market of television limited to the three major networks or is cable also included? The NFL argued throughout the 11-week trial that the USFL had access to cable and thus had other outlets even if the three commercial networks were tied up.

In their note to Leisure, the jurors said they wanted clarification of that part of Leisure's charge, which includes several complex legal points that even some lawyers have difficulty understanding.

Leisure later told the jurors that they could interpret both market and sub-market as broadly as they saw fit.

"America's Team" arrives tired and grumpy in London

LONDON (AP) — To the British, "America's Team" was just another team upon their arrival for an NFL exhibition game against the Chicago Bears.

The Dallas Cowboys, after traveling 10 hours and flying through eight time zones from Los Angeles to London's Heathrow Airport, were bleary-eyed on a dreary Monday.

And then the fun began. Instead of the usual autograph seekers, they were greeted by Oscar, a floppy-eared, dope-sniffing springer spaniel who suspected, of all people, team vice president Gil Brandt and public relations director Doug Todd.

The team was detained for 90 minutes before custom agents decided it would take too long to inspect every piece of luggage in the 200-member traveling party.

Moreover, the London tabloids made no mention of the Cowboys' and Bears' arrivals in Monday's editions.

"What team is this anyway?" a man asked while the Cowboys walked from their buses to the hotel after an afternoon workout.

Drivers of three buses delivering the Cowboys to a workout at the Crystal Palace National Sports Centre got lost, and didn't reach their destination until a pedestrian gave directions.

"I'm too tired to even talk and they want us to go out there and practice," said tackle John Dutton.

The Cowboys will play the Bears, who also arrived Monday, at noon CDT Sunday at 80,000-seat Wembley Stadium. A game is sold out. The game will be nationally televised by NBC.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Circle C has phones to match your needs

Whether you're in need of a phone for your home or business, a pay phone or servicing, Circle C Communications can help you with your telephone needs.

The independently-owned business offers a variety of telephones for sale.

For businesses needing a written up-to-date record of phone calls, Circle C offers the Privette made by International Communications Company (ICI). This telephone system combines a call-monitoring computer/printer with a cordless telephone. It provides the owner or vendor with a unique profit center while customers enjoy privacy, convenience and ease of use.

The Privette has a paper printout that records the information the owner wants, such as time and date the call was made, rates and how long the call lasted. "You program in there what you want it to do," says Travis Crow, owner of Circle C.

The Privette is great for restaurants, doctors, traveling salesmen, motels, beauty salons and many more businesses, he said. Any business that wants to keep an accurate, first-hand record of calls, whether for tax purposes or charging customers using the phone, can benefit from this telephone system. The Privette can be connected to a standard pulse or touch-tone line.

Circle C also sells and leases pay phones to anyone desiring one. They offer the Smart Set III by ICI, which can be programmed with the owner's own rates. It is a profit-making item, Crow says.

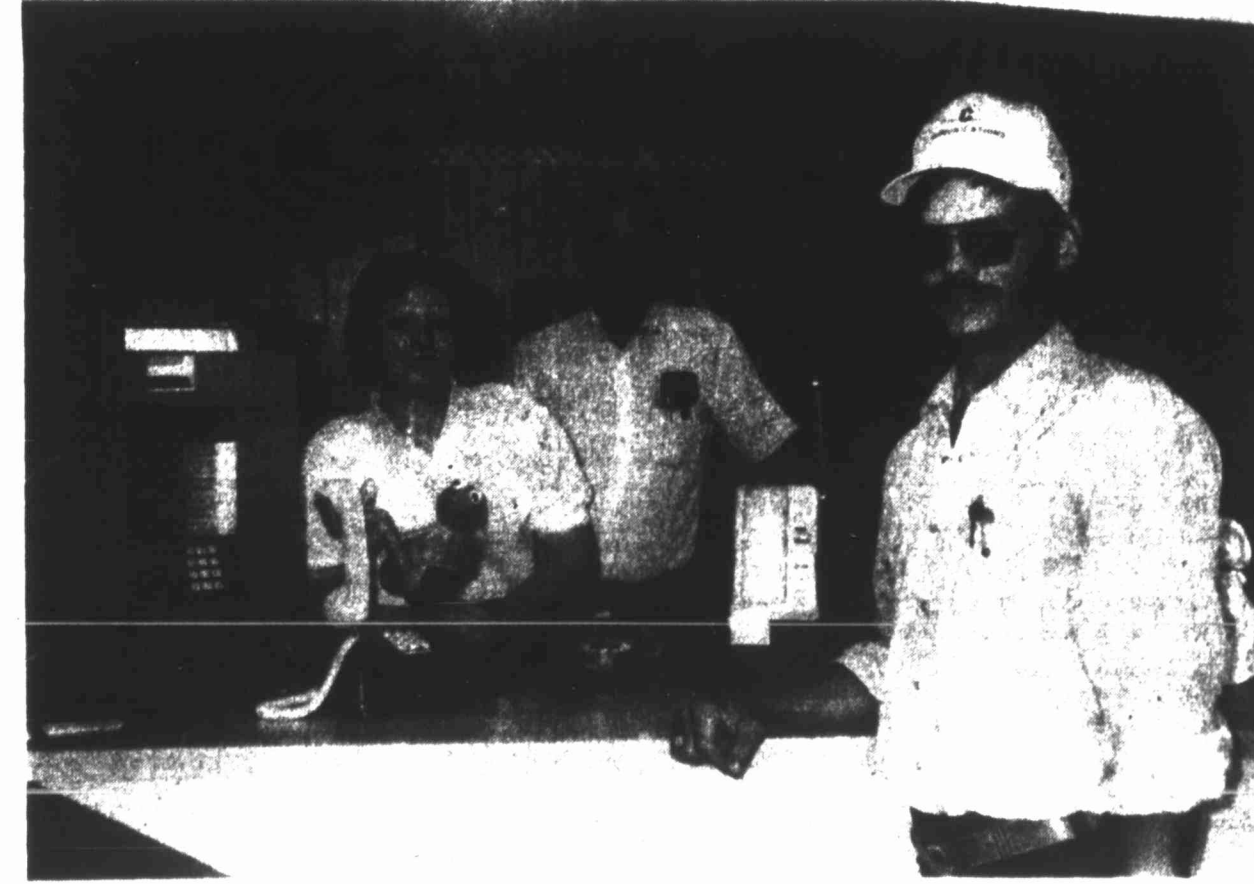

If you have a lot of people using the telephone to make local calls, you can set your own charge rate on it for the calls. It can be 20 cents a call if you want, instead of the 25 cents that Southwestern Bell pay telephones charge, he adds.

In addition to these two telephone systems, Circle C offers all types of telephones for residential and business use, including single-line residential telephones, cordless telephones and decorator sets. Telephone jacks, wires and accessories also are available.

The firm installs and services their own telephones, as well as provides maintenance to customers' existing equipment. Crow has 35 years of experience in installing and servicing telephones, key systems and PBXs.

For all your telephone needs, contact the family-owned and operated Circle C Communications at 267-2423 or 1002-B 11th Place. It is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. For after-hours emergencies, call the business number 267-2423.
