Malone-Hogan reduces staff

Change in hospital ownership results in layoffs, reorganization

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Two administrative heads at Malone-Hogan Hospital resigned and two other administrators lost their jobs when National Healthcare Inc. became new owners of the hospital effective at 12:46 p.m. Friday.

Keith R. King, a group vice president for National Healthcare, Inc., announced that he is acting as temporary head administrator until a replacement for Wayne Brannon is named later this month.

Brannon informed National Healthcare officers in May that he wished to remain with Hospital Corporation of America, the former hospital owner, King said. Hospital comptroller Barbara McMichael also told National Healthcare officers she wished to remain with HCA, King said.

Carmen Phillips, director of nursing services, was discharged, and personnel director Dick Hoolahan's position was eliminated. Also dismissed were 17 other hospital employees. King declined to name those persons.

He said reasons for terminating jobs ranged from consolidation of some positions to National Healthcare's option to not keep certain workers.

"They were never hired or fired by us," King said about the dismissals. He said HCA ran a final payroll Friday for its employees.

"We didn't elect to keep the director of nurses Carmen Phillips," King said, because "Hospital Corporation does things different from us."

King said Hoolahan will remain at Malone-Hogan for one month and serve as a consultant.

Others who lost their jobs Friday were: seven persons in the business office, two in the maintenance department, three laboratory workers, one radiologist, two employees in material management, one in utilization review, and one in medical records.

The restructuring also creates openings, King said. The hospital will expand its staff to incorporate 14 additional nurses. King said two more pharmacists will be hired, and the pharmacy will expand its hours and services.

An opening also has been created in the hospital's alcohol and drug treatment center, King said.

He said National Healthcare will re-open the third floor of the hospital Tuesday. Using the third floor will let the hospital separate surgical patients, he said.

The hospital was owned by Hospital Corporation of America since 1973.

The ownership transfer was finalized in Dolton, Ala., where National Healthcare Inc. is based, King said. Attorneys representing both hospital owners agreed to the terms of title transfer, he said.

The deal ended a three-month transition period after National Healthcare announced in May that it had signed a letter of intent to acquire Malone-Hogan and five other hospitals.

The $41 million transaction also includes seven medical office buildings and one home health agency, according to a news release.

Immediately after the transaction was confirmed, King said he requested a meeting of hospital department heads to inform them of an "internal shuffle" that complies with National Healthcare's management.

A new management team called the Frontier Group will take over hospital operations, he said. The team consists of a vice president, comptroller, nursing director and marketing-sales person.

National Healthcare will announce a new name for the hospital at 10 a.m. Tuesday at a Big Spring Chamber of Commerce reception, according to a news release.

Old settlers have gay old time

Ruth McNew of Box 107, Vealmore Route, spit tobacco juice 13 feet.

She won first place in the tobacco spitting contest at the Old Settlers Reunion Friday at the Howard County Fair Barn. Second place winner also was a woman — Gladys England.

"You men ought to be ashamed of yourselves," joked emcee Gertrude McCann, secretary/treasurer of the reunion.

At least the third place winner was a man — Paul Walker.

Ruth McNew swept two more contests, winning the husband-calling contest and most children and most grandchildren. Husband Jack helped out in the later victory.

McNew said she has nine children and 38 grandchildren. Charlie Ellis, also with 38 grandchildren, was awarded, too. Ethel Simmons won the award for most great-grandchildren. She has 31.

Contestants didn't have to be married to enter the husband-calling contest, though.

"Just make out like you've got a husband, or call your neighbor's husband — we don't care," McCann said.

McNew called for her husband to "come and get it or I'll give it to the dogs!"

Wanda Tubb of Uvalde took second place in the calling contest, Alma Coleman third, and Big Spring teacher Marianne Heffington fourth.

The native that journeyed farthest to get to the reunion was Susie Nevehart, all the way from Beaver, Penn.

Dr. and Mrs. P.W. Malone were the couple married the longest, 60 years, the doctor said.

Sheronna Kingston of San Angelo, left, and Don Tolle of Big Spring engage in an impromptu fiddling duet during the Old Settlers Reunion fiddlers contest at the Howard County fair barn Friday.

The oldest woman at the reunion was Jeannie Cauble, 98, born in 1888. Three men tied for the oldest man award. They were born the same year, only months apart. Ira Demint, Albert Rutherford and Aubrey Minfer, all 87, won the distinction of being the most elderly gentleman.

Leroy Day of Wasson Drive, wearing a light blue calico dress with a bustle and white, ruffled pantaloons, won first place for most authentic ladies' garb. The dress was made in 1949, she said. McCann said that reunion participants are "the best judges — because you old settlers know" authenticity.

Second place went to Gladys Appleton, whose long black dress had a white lace border.

Wanda Tubb, third place winner, wore a dress made by the late Mrs. R.W. McNew. McCann won an award for the dress at a reunion 12 years ago, McCann said. The dress was blue, with a mid-length skirt and a high neck. Old Settler men and children must have been shy this year — no contestants entered the authenticity contests for men and children. Likewise, horseshoes and washer contests did not take place this year, McCann said.

More than 450 people ate at the reunion, McCann said. Old settlers this year were almost disappointed, when the reunion was cancelled in July for lack of funds. But residents, refusing to let the tradition die, donated money, food and service.

State jobless rate drops to 8.7 percent

DALLAS (AP) — Texas unemployment in July dropped sharply to 8.7 percent, after a record jobless rate of 10.5 percent the previous month, the Labor Department said.

Figures released Friday by the department show 707,000 Texans were out of work in July — a decrease from the 846,000 recorded in June.

At the same time, the total number of people with jobs last month rose to 7.4 million.

Officials said unemployment in Texas has been above eight percent for six months.

Nationwide, unemployment dipped 0.2 percentage point to 6.9 percent last month, the Labor Department said.

Officials said a rebound in construction activity helped create 210,000 new jobs in July.

Employment rose to a record 109,882,000 as the labor force — those working or looking for work — declined for the first time in three years.

Most Texans back lottery, poll shows

By JANET WARREN
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Support for a state lottery has taken an extraordinary jump as the state's fiscal crisis worsens, with 68 percent of Texas voters now favoring it, according to a poll commissioned by proponents.

The number of Texans advocating a state lottery has climbed 17 percent since February and 8 percent since March, according to the July 28-30 poll taken by Shipley and Associates of Austin.

Also, opposition tumbled from 37 percent in February to 17 percent in July.

"It is clear that there exists in Texas today a very strong public demand for a lottery," said pollster George Shipley. Texans for the Lottery, a nonprofit group lobbying in favor of a lottery, commissioned the study.

Also, 71 percent of the people questioned said they would urge the governor to open the agenda of the August legislative budget session to consider a lottery.

Displaying a wad of voided Arizona lottery tickets at a Capitol news conference, state Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, and Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, said Friday they have asked Gov. Mark White to add lottery consideration to the August call.

If a lottery were approved and a constitutional amendment were considered by voters in November, a lottery could be operational by next March, Uribe said.

Wilson estimated that $450-$500 million would be raised in the first year of operation and that the money would begin coming in immediately.

A lottery is "a viable, reasonable alternative to the current fiscal malaise," Wilson said.

French connection

Foreigner, local girl share experiences across two continents

By HANK MURPHY

Nathalie Meissonnier and Kristina Hoolahan board a jetliner for France today. One is embarking on an exciting journey, the other is going home after spending three weeks in place she says she loves.

Home for Nathalie is Buc, France, a small town about 20 miles southeast of Paris. The place she loves is Big Spring.

Kristina, who did not apply for her passport until July 25, did not know until Friday she would be going to France with Nathalie. Her late application for a passport made the trip doubtful.

But Thursday night she got an indication in an indirect way that she might yet go. "I had a dream last night that I would be getting my passport," she said. Then Friday her passport arrived.

Nathalie is a bubbly 15-year-old who lived with Dick and Ella Hoolahan of 400 Hillside Drive as part of a high school exchange program.

The Hoolahan's daughter, Kristina, also 15, is a sophomore at Big Spring High School and a first-year French student. She said she has some anxiety about conversing with the French. Nathalie, however, said she'll do fine. "She speaks very good French," Nathalie said.

Despite weather that's too hot and boys that are too muscular, Nathalie has a fondness for this particular sector of West Texas. "I love Big Spring," she said.

For the past three weeks she's traveled Texas with the Hoolahans making stops in Austin, San Antonio, Corpus Christi and South Padre Island.

Austin, she said, is her favorite Texas city. There she saw Stevie Wonder in concert, strolled the campus of the University of Texas, visited the Capitol rotunda and walked along busy Sixth Street.

Other memorable events for Nathalie included dancing at a Corpus Christi teen club, the golden beaches of South Padre Island and

Names in the news

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK — Flamboyant pop star BOY GEORGE said he'll have to be strong, but feels he's conquered his addiction to heroin and hopes he won't be barred from visiting the United States.

"Nancy Reagan, are you watching this show?" the British singer said Friday in an interview from London on ABC's "Good Morning America."

"I'm not worried about drugs any more 'cause I'm off them," said the singer, who remains on unspecified medication as part of his treatment.

Boy George, whose real name is George O'Dowd, became an international music sensation a few years ago with his exotic attire and makeup. He pleaded guilty Tuesday to possessing heroin and was fined the equivalent of $370.

FORREST SAWYER
...ends stint as co-anchor

NEW YORK — MARIA SHRIVER and FORREST SAWYER ended their one-year stint as co-anchors of the "CBS Morning News" on Friday with an emotional farewell to viewers.

"It's not goodbye, because friends don't say that to one another, and that's what many of you have been to us," said Ms. Shriver. Turning to Sawyer, she said she would remain "your No. 1 fan."

He called her "my sister-in-arms," and said, "She has made the bad times better and the good times remarkable."

The show was a poor third in the ratings before they joined the broadcast last summer and has remained so, and last week CBS announced that its morning time slot would leave the control of the news division in January.

CBS News correspondents Bruce Morton and Faith Daniels will be the temporary "Morning News" anchors next week, but CBS News executives have said they want to find jobs for Sawyer and Ms. Shriver in the news division.

DOVER, England — A 76-year-old former Olympian from Argentina failed Friday in an attempt to become the oldest person to swim the English Channel.

DANIEL CARPIO was pulled from the water suffering from cramps about one-fourth of the way across the 21-mile divide between England and France, said Ray Scott, chairman of the Channel Swimming Association.

Carpio, who was in the water for two hours, 49 minutes, was returned to Dover Harbor and taken by ambulance to a hospital for a checkup, Scott said.

Carpio, who swam for the Argentine Olympic team four times between 1928 and 1948, has swum the English Channel twice before, in 1947 and 1951.

The oldest English Channel swimmer is American Ashby Harper, who was 65 when he made the crossing in 1982 in 13 hours and 52 minutes, compared with the average 12 hours.

LA CROSSE, Wis. — When a telephone call failed to reach an injured fan, members of the rock band .38 Special decided to visit the man's hospital room.

"They're really a decent bunch of guys," said James Steele, 20, of Soldiers Grove. He had tickets to the band's Wednesday night concert but fell under a wagon and was injured.

His sister asked if the musicians would call him at the hospital, but lead singer Don Barnes and drummer Jack Gronson paid a personal visit to him at St. Francis Medical Center when they couldn't get through on the telephone.

Barnes dedicated the concert to Steele, telling the audience "We made a new friend the other day, Jim Steele. It did our hearts good to visit him."

PARIS — Need tickets on the next Concorde? Having trouble booking a table at that three-star restaurant or a private tour of Versailles? Publicist YANOU COL-LART will take care of you.

To date, 15 of her friends have signed up for her exclusive services, including "Out of Africa" director Sydney Pollack, actress Kathleen Turner and "Rocky" producer Robert Chartoff, she said.

For $2,000 dollars each, Ms. Collart is offering 150 annual memberships in what she calls "Yanou's Choice," but members must be friends of hers, or come recommended by two of her friends, she said.

"I have to be sure that the people having this treatment deserve it," Ms. Collart said. "It's not being a client, it's being part of the family."

Price of Mexican oil falls to $8.26 a barrel

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government oil monopoly Petroleos Mexicanos announced Friday that the average price of its crude oil in July was $8.26 a barrel, well below the prices posted the previous two months.

It issued a statement saying the average price for June was $9.26 per 42-gallon barrel and $10.52 per barrel in May.

"The average for July is preliminary and is subject to adjustments from the shipments made in the last days of the month," the statement said. "The export prices for Mexican crude are fixed shipment by shipment, in agreement with a formula that takes into account the quotations of other crudes."

As a result, prices of Mexico's export brands, light Isthmus and heavy Maya, "have followed the tendency to fall that has been observed in the international petroleum market," the statement added.

Earlier in the week, the government news agency Notimex reported that oil exports rebounded in June to 1.3 million barrels a day, the target for overseas sales. It said the monopoly had contracts to sell a similar amount in July.

The company sold an average of 1.06 million barrels a day in March. Mexico has been hurt badly by the drop in oil prices on the world market. They have plunged as low as $8 per barrel from $32 in November.

It has depended in past years on oil sales to bring in about 70 percent of its foreign earnings and make payments on its foreign debt of nearly $100 billion.

Oil sales brought in $13.3 billion in 1985 but are expected to produce only $7 billion to $8 billion this year. As a result, Mexico has been forced to ask for additional financial from the international financial community and cut its spending.

France

the many parties she attended with Kristina.

Some big differences exist between life in France and America, she said. For instance, she said, the boys here "are very, very nice but ugly." They have too much muscle, which she considers unattractive.

Also, teens in France under 18 years of age are not allowed to date or attend parties unless they are chaperoned. And teen-agers driving cars and trucks is uncommon in France, she said. Nathalie said she likes the freedom enjoyed by American teen-agers.

Other Americanisms not found in her country include ice cubes, carpeted floors, ceiling fans, endless television advertisements and canned TV laughter.

Americans, she said, drink "alcoholic beverages" all the time. "And French people eat all the time, she said.

She said people here are friendlier than those in her homeland. "When I came here, (everyone) wanted to know me. In France, never."

Nathalie, who's the 15th ranked tennis player in France in the girl's 16 and under division, has played in the French Open. She said Big Spring's Figure 7 Tennis Center is nice, but under used.

Her favorite American foods are peanut butter, nachos, cheeseburgers and "squeeze" — ketchup in a plastic bottle.

Being with Kristina, her "sister for life," has improved her English, she said, and has given her new insights on how teens here, males and females, interact.

She's also learned to stay up until 2 a.m. and sleep late in the morning, she said.

Kristina will be in France for at least three weeks. While there she'll visit Paris and the French Riviera. "I'm very excited," she said.

Minister admits killing wife

MONAHANS (AP) — The Rev. Joseph Loduca Jr. pleaded guilty to the murder of his wife Friday, four days after being arrested, and was sentenced to 30 years in prison.

Loduca, who less than a month ago was installed in his first pastoral assignment at St. Paul Lutheran Church, initially told police that his wife, Mary Ellen, had committed suicide July 12 by placing a plastic trash bag over her head.

Loduca, 31, graduated from Concordia Lutheran Seminary in May and moved from St. Louis, Mo., to Monahans on July 1 with his 32-year-old wife and three children. He was installed as pastor at St.

Paul on July 6, and six days later his wife died of asphyxia, or lack of oxygen.

In his initial statement to police, Loduca said he returned home July 12 and found his wife in bed with a plastic trash bag over her head.

Police Chief David Mills said he investigated inconsistencies and discrepancies in Loduca's statement for 2 1/2 weeks, then talked with Loduca again on Tuesday afternoon.

Loduca implicated himself in a statement Tuesday afternoon, and was arrested on a warrant Tuesday night, Mills said.

Loduca waived his rights in state District Court Friday and pleaded guilty to murder, Mills said.

City to again attempt repair of water valve

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Crews will try again this morning to fix the malfunctioning gate valve that has been giving the city fits for more than two weeks, Councilman Harold Hall said Friday night.

Meanwhile, the city still requests that citizens conserve water by refraining from outside usage, he said.

Hall said crews will try to re-thread the valve stem that connects to the frozen gate mechanism by drilling down into the valve. The work is scheduled to begin at 8 this morning, he said.

If that procedure fails, workmen may try to freeze the line leading to the valve with carbon dioxide, he said.

Still another possibility is spending $10,000 to "balloon" the water line that connects to the valve.

"We're going to start moving pretty fast on this," Hall said.

An attempt to rectify the problem Thursday night and early Friday morning failed because the valve could not be depressurized.

Hall said the city had no luck Friday in finding the right valve to cut off pressure to the crippled 20-inch valve.

Insufficient city records blueprinting the whereabouts of pipe and valve configurations have stymied the city's efforts to fix the problem.

Panel passes sanctions

WASHINGTON — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Friday overwhelmingly approved sanctions against South Africa that ban new U.S. investment and prohibit Pretoria's airplanes from landing on American soil.

The vote was 15-3 for the bill, which also bars the importation of South African coal and uranium and sets up machinery for strengthening sanctions next year unless the white-controlled government makes progress to eliminate apartheid.

In addition, the legislation bans imports from corporations owned or controlled by the South African government, gives President Reagan authority to deny visas to Pretoria's leaders, and, in a non-binding step, authorizes him to sell U.S. gold to depress the world market price and reduce South African revenues.

Testimony challenged

WASHINGTON — Four men, including a former federal prosecutor, contradicted sworn testimony by Chief Justice-designate William H. Rehnquist, telling senators Friday they saw him participate in an effort to intimidate black and Hispanic voters in Arizona two decades ago.

James Brosnahan, a lawyer now living in Berkeley, Calif., testified that as an assistant U.S. attorney in Phoenix in 1962 he saw Rehnquist working as a Republican challenger of voters at a predominantly minority voting precinct.

Brosnahan said he had gone to the precinct with a FBI agent after receiving complaints about Rehnquist's conduct.

"Based on interviews with voters, polling officials and my fellow assistant U.S. attorneys, it was my opinion in 1962 that the challenging effort was designed to reduce the number of black and Hispanic voters by confrontation and intimidation," he said.

'Night Stalker' delayed

LOS ANGELES — Criminal proceedings against "Night Stalker" defendant Richard Ramirez were delayed so his attorneys can have more time to prepare their case, a judge ruled Friday.

Superior Court Judge Dion G. Morrow continued a hearing on a motion to dismiss the charges until Sept. 2, the day the trial had been scheduled to begin.

He also delayed until Nov. 3 a hearing on a defense request to move the trial outside of Los Angeles County.

Defense attorney Arturo Hernandez said he needed time to translate articles from foreign-language newspapers in Los Angeles to support his arguments that publicity in the case will make it impossible to find impartial jurors.

Ramirez, a drifter originally from El Paso, is charged with 45 felony counts, including 14 murders, stemming from the crime rampage that terrorized California last year.

Jenco delivers terrorists' secret message

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Lawrence Martin Jenco on Friday hand-delivered a secret message from his terrorist kidnappers to President Reagan, who welcomed him home from Lebanon and blasted those who held him hostage for 19 months.

After meeting privately with the Roman Catholic priest at the White House, Reagan said the captors will be held responsible for "all the remaining hostages." He added that their actions in holding at least three more Americans "bring no sympathy or honor to themselves or to the cause they profess to support."

Reagan and his wife Nancy met for just over a half hour with Jenco in the Oval Office and Jenco passed along the secret message. The contents were not released.

In a brief press appearance with Jenco before the meeting, Reagan said the priest's release last Saturday after 1 1/2 years in captivity was "an answer to a great many prayers by all of us."

His harsher comments were released in a statement later in the afternoon.

"Those who held Father Jenco in cruel confinement must realize that their objectives cannot be achieved by these means," he said in the statement. "They bring no sympathy or honor to themselves or to the cause they profess to support."

"It is time for them and those with influence over them to end this prolonged situation in the name of peace and justice."

Reagan added, "we will continue to work and pray for the release of the others, and we are prepared to continue our efforts at a dialogue leading to this end."

U.S. officials have insisted they will not negotiate for release of the hostages, arguing that to do so would only encourage more such kidnappings.

Jenco declared, "I'm not a politician, I'm a pilgrim," but used the press briefing in the White House Rose Garden to speak to the Moslem group thousands of miles away. He appealed to them to meet with Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite "to continue the dialogue aimed at resolving the situation."

Waite said Friday in London he would be returning to the Middle East in a new effort to arrange the hostages' release in light of the contents of messages the Moslem group had sent to Pope John Paul II and Archbishop of Canterbury

Freed American hostage Rev. Lawrence Martin Jenco bids farewell to Father Vincent Coyne of St. Mary's Priory, London, as Jenco left there Friday to return to the United States. Jenco, 51, of Joliet, Ill., had been staying at the priory on his way home after his release by kidnappers in Beirut.

Robert Runcie.

Those messages, also kept private, were delivered personally by Jenco earlier this week in a whirlwind tour that took him from Syria to Germany, Rome and London before he flew to Washington on Friday.

Delivering the final message to Reagan "completes my mission," Jenco said. He was to return to his home in Joliet, Ill., on Saturday after spending the night in Washington.

He appealed on religious grounds to his former captors to release the hostages with whom he'd shared a cell.

"I believe nevertheless that there is a resolution to the tragedy of Lebanon that is based on our common belief in almighty God," he said. "I appeal to those who held me captive, to those still holding Tom (Sutherland), Terry (Anderson) and David (Jacobsen) to end this situation."

"Our common beliefs dictate this. Our humanity demands it. I pray for those being held captive, and I also pray for my captors."

The 51-year-old priest had been described as appearing frail and needing support in an appearance earlier Friday in London. But he smiled broadly as he walked briskly between the Reagans from the White House to the brief ceremony before dozens of reporters.

Kidnapped Jan. 8, 1985, by a Shiite Moslem extremist group known as Islamic Jihad, Jenco said he had been held with three other Americans: Anderson, 38, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press; Jacobsen, 55, director of the American University Hospital in Beirut, and Sutherland, 55, the university's acting dean of agriculture.

"I never gave up hope," Jenco said. "I lived with faith and hope with these men."

Israel, Soviets to meet

TEL AVIV, Israel — The Foreign Ministry announced Friday that Israeli and Soviet officials will meet in Europe soon to discuss consular issues.

The move was viewed by Soviet-watchers here as a possible step toward restoring diplomatic relations after 19 years and a signal that Moscow may be seeking a role in the Middle East peace process.

Moscow, which cut ties with Israel after the 1967 Arab-Israeli War, is the main arms supplier of hardline Arab states such as Libya and Syria.

Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, the leaders of Israel's coalition government, met to set guidelines for the talks. Foreign Ministry spokesman Ehud Gou said Peres and Shamir discussed "contacts in the near future between Israeli and Soviet representatives on consular issues."

Waite goes to Lebanon

LONDON — Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite said Friday that the pope and the archbishop of Canterbury have asked him to return to Lebanon to try to win the freedom of Americans held hostage by Moslem fundamentalists since last year.

He spoke at a London news conference, accompanied by the Rev. Lawrence Martin Jenco, the American Roman Catholic priest who was freed last Saturday after 1 1/2 years in captivity in Lebanon.

Waite went to Beirut three times last year in fruitless attempts to negotiate the hostages' release. He said he would undertake the new mission as soon as he received positive word from the kidnappers.

"I now wait anxiously to hear from the captors," said Waite.

"God give you a good pair of pilgrim shoes and a very strong heart," Jenco told Waite.

Islamic Jihad, a radical Shiite Moslem faction, is known to be holding three Americans who were captured separately in Lebanon last year.

New restrictions made

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — President P.W. Botha amended his state-of-emergency decree Friday to allow police to issue new restrictions and curfews in place of those struck down this week by regional courts.

The military, meanwhile, switched on the electric current in a new 15-mile border fence designed to deter refugees from neighboring Mozambique. A Cabinet minister said strong action was planned against the estimated 1.3 million foreigners working illegally in South Africa.

The amended emergency regulations were published in a special edition of the government gazette after regional supreme courts in Johannesburg and eastern Cape province knocked down orders by divisional police commissioners issued under the June 12 state of emergency.

Surrogate Mom wants to keep child

NEWARK, N.J. — A surrogate mother who refused to give up her baby and fled to Florida vowed Friday to wage a custody fight against the couple who contracted to pay her $10,000 to bear the child.

"I only signed on an egg, I never signed on the life of a child," Mary Beth Whitehead said.

The 4-month-old baby girl was taken to her natural father, William Stern of Tenafly, and his wife, Elizabeth, after sheriff's officers took her Thursday from Holiday, Fla., where the natural mother was in hiding.

Mrs. Whitehead, 30, of Brick Township, N.J., fled through a back window of her home when six police officers tried to seize the child under a court order granting temporary custody to the Sterns.

Mrs. Whitehead since has been charged with contempt of court and custody interference. She said she was in the hospital with a urinary tract infection when the infant, whom she named Sara Elizabeth Whitehead, was taken Thursday.

"I'm going to go to court as soon as I'm well enough," she said from Martin Memorial Hospital in Stuart, Fla. "I want her back. I feel I have more of a right to her than them."

Life not so sweet at new halfway home

DALLAS (AP) — In their new, temporary home, life's a lot different for former Deputy Defense Secretary Paul Thayer and ex-stockbroker Billy Bob Harris.

The 13 months at a federal prison in Big Spring, where they had keys to their rooms in air-conditioned dormitories, was more comfortable than the Volunteers of America halfway house, modest quarters where felons try to read-just to a society reluctant to trust an ex-offender.

Thayer, the former head of LTV Corp., and Harris both pleaded guilty to obstructing justice after a Securities Exchange Commission investigation into stock purchases that netted $3 million.

So now the two sweat with the other 90 convicts from state and federal prisons who live as halfway house residents in the dark and stuffy second floor of the Lynn Hotel.

Residents of halfway houses say they learn that support can be distant. Their new start depends primarily on their own ability and desire to rebound.

Thayer and Harris will be eligible for parole in December, a U.S. prison spokesman said.

Until then, freedom must come in doses.

Volunteers of America officials say they can't discuss an individual client's progress because of a policy of confidentiality.

"Mr. Thayer and Mr. Harris do not want to speak with the press," said Vicki Daugherty, assistant director of the house.

They were not allowed to leave when they arrived Monday. They were in Phase I. A counselor was to meet with them, and they signed consent forms and received the rules.

Thayer and Harris are now in Phase II, a daily regimen in which the resident tries to get a job. After the former deputy defense secretary has made his bed and cleaned his bathroom each morning, a staff member inspects his room. He's allowed to leave the house but must be back by 5 p.m.

Thayer made it back with 10

Former stockbroker Billie Bob Harris is pictured here entering the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp in May 1985. Harris and Paul Thayer, former deputy defense secretary, were taken to Volunteers of America Halfway House in Dallas earlier this week.

minutes to spare on his first full day at the halfway house. He bounded up the musty carpeted steps in a yellow baseball cap and sport shirt, dropped his vinyl duffel bag on the desk and signed in.

When the resident director called him into the office, he fairly chirped.

"All-right-ee!" he said, tucking away his pen.

However, conditions at the house can cut into a bouncy outlook.

"I had to stand in line last night to take a shower, and I counted six roaches," said Duane Pippin, a 27-year-old convicted burglar. "It's got a real bad musty odor."

Moreover, each resident gets a $7 meal ticket, good at two establishments: Lynn's Coffee Shop, which adjoins the hotel, and the Metro Diner next door.

Local men to serve on ag board

Three local men have been selected to serve on a 15-member Odessa District Advisory Board established to provide input to the Texas Department of Agriculture on West Texas agriculture.

Rancher and cotton farmer Paul Hogger of Knott, and cotton farmer Larry Shaw of Knott are board members from Howard County.

Stanton's Gerald Hanson, who runs a seed and fertilizer company, gives Martin County representation.

And Mitchell County has a board member in Alton Raschke, a Colorado City cotton, grain and hay farmer.

With the new advisory board serving the 34-county district, the TDA says it will be able to direct new marketing initiatives in areas where they will help the economic development of the region.

Furthermore, with board input, TDA regulatory staff will be able to respond more quickly and effectively to the problems of the area, according to statements by Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower.

Hightower said the TDA has "successfully decentralized the programs and services of the department, moving them out of Austin and into the countryside."

The Odessa district is the eighth one to form an advisory board, according to the TDA. It will meet four times a year and direct its recommendations to district supervisor David Davis.

Nudists bare the heat wave

DAWSONVILLE, Ga. (AP) — The conventioners converging on this mountain hamlet packed light. Real light.

No loud suits or tacky ties here. And pinning on a nametag is out of the question.

Wearing nothing but smiles, bug repellent and sunscreen, hundreds of nudists from 18 states and Canada are attending the convention of the Eastern Sunbathing Association, a branch of the American Sunbathing Association.

Nude cookouts (watch those marshmallows), skinny-dipping and dancing cheek-to-cheek are just some of the activities on the agenda.

Up to 1,000 nudists, including many families, are expected to show up before the five-day convention ends Sunday, said Bob, owner of the backwoods nudist camp where the event is being held.

The hot, muggy weather will probably boost attendance, said Bob, who preferred not to give his last name.

"What else can you do in this heat?" Bob wondered. Well, you can attend the nude hootenanny or enter the pageant that will crown a nude king and queen. (Judging, they claim, is based on personality and nudist philosophy, but camp social director Charles Seago acknowledged a good tan wouldn't hurt.)

Conventioners, according to Bob and Seago, include a Georgia state trooper, preachers, doctors, lawyers, plumbers, truck drivers and a fireman.

"We do it for the sense of release, a sense of freedom," said Jinnie Thomas, a 41-year-old medical technician from Duluth, Ga.

"Guaranteed installation with pride and satisfaction" 20 years of service.

Rambo-like hero

Soviet star fights Americans in Moscow movie

MOSCOW (AP) — A Red Army "Rambo" who battles evil CIA agents and American soldiers trying to start World War III has become a summer hit in Moscow movie houses.

The violence-packed thriller "Solo Voyage" depicts U.S. officials as war-mongering madmen willing to do almost anything to protect their capitalist profits.

The film was released following a long-running Soviet press campaign accusing those who made "Rambo: First Blood Part II," "Red Dawn," and similar American movies of fostering violence and anti-Soviet hatred.

The American movies even came up at a December press conference with a ranking Kremlin adviser, Georgi Arbatov, who told reporters "Rambo" was depicting a negative image of communists. Soviet poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko claimed the American movies incited a new generation of Americans to mistrust and hate Soviets.

In "Rambo," Hollywood star Sylvester Stallone plays a Vietnam veteran who returns to Southeast Asia and is tortured by a sadistic KGB agent. In "Red Dawn," the Soviet Union invades the United States.

The official Tass news agency said both movies were inflammatory, simplistic and reflected a cult of violence in the United States.

But in some ways "Solo Voyage," a production of state-run Mosfilm, mirrors the "Rambo" theme.

At the start of the movie, CIA agents and American businessmen meet secretly on what is supposed to be a Florida golf course to plot ways of stirring up anti-Soviet public opinion.

Fearful that an improvement in U.S.-Soviet relations would jeopardize profitable defense contracts, they plan to sink an American cruise liner with 1,500 people on board and blame it on the Russians.

The plot backfires. U.S.

Red Army Major Shatokhin, the hero of "Solo Voyage," aims a bazooka during an attack on American commandos. The violence-packed film, which has become a summer hit in Moscow movie houses, depicts American officials as war-mongering madmen willing to do almost anything to protect their capitalist profits.

mercenaries sent to a secret South Pacific missile base on a mission decide to take over the base and plan to launch a nuclear rocket to start World War III.

They are stopped with milliseconds to spare by the hero, Red Army Maj. Shatokhin, and his four young commandos.

There is more graphic violence than in most Soviet films, including previous movies with CIA espionage themes. In one scene, crazed U.S. Army Maj. Jack Hassalt strangles his Oriental orderly, while the movie cuts to film clips of U.S. soldiers abusing Vietnamese.

In bloody action scenes, Shatokhin, fighting against overwhelming odds, kills American soldiers under Hassalt's command. The Soviet commandos hurl large knives, and fire their burp guns with deadly efficiency. But Shatokhin is a gentle figure at heart. When not dispatching his enemies, he speaks fondly of his Russian homeland. Those soliloquies usually come as Shatokhin stares at a picturesque sunset, and they are accompanied by a saccharine musical score.

The actors who play American parts speak in Russian-accented English, audible underneath a narrator's Russian translation.

They drink cans of Coca-Cola, show no feelings and use English obscenities.

"As we sat watching the movie it became clear to us that this was our version of 'Rambo,'" said a 19-year old Muscovite who watched with a group of friends. He asked not to be identified.

He said he had seen a black market video of the Stallone film in Moscow.

"This was horrible too," he added when asked about his reaction to "Solo Voyage."

But the film has proved popular. At the 250-seat Star cinema, on Moscow's Chkalov Street, an usher said the movie had opened about a week ago and was sold out every night.

It is also already available on videotapes for rent in the capital's three video salons.

"There are not too many (action) movies like this," said a student who identified himself only as Artur. "I liked it, but I did not think it was anti-American."

London tips her hat for Faye Dunaway

LONDON (AP) — London has given Faye Dunaway both theatrical success and a greater sense of balance, but now the Oscar-winning star of "Network" says it's time to go home.

"I'm an American, I'm an American actress and that's where my work really is. That's my home," she says.

But before she heads for the United States, she has a 10-week engagement on the West End, London's Broadway, starring in "Circe and Bravo," a two-character play by American writer Donald Freed.

The play was a six-week sell-out at the 173-seat Hampstead Theater on the North London "fringe," and won Miss Dunaway acclaim in her British stage debut.

Cast as a neurotic first lady code-named Circe, who is being kept under house arrest at Camp David, the actress was called "electrifying" in the Daily Mail, and "vivid and expressive" in The Guardian.

She said she was intrigued by the chance to work with the celebrated director Harold Pinter.

Miss Dunaway said her stage experiences energize her film work. A former member of New York's Lincoln Center Repertory Company under Elia Kazan, Miss Dunaway last appeared on Broadway in 1980 in William Alfred's "The Curse of An Aching Heart."

Business Businesses returning to Highland Mall

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Highland Mall has been the object of new merchant interest during the past year and is now 85 percent full, says manager Micah Goza.

When Montgomery Ward department store vacated its spot in the mall a little more than a year ago, and TG&Y left the mall this year, cutting back to just one store in College Park, he said, much of the mall was left vacant.

But Highland Lanes bowling center, scheduled to open sometime this summer, has been a catalyst to attract new business. Merchants are interested in the traffic the bowling alley will bring, he said.

The bowling alley will occupy about half the 60,000 square feet that Montgomery Wards formerly occupied, he said, and Highland Shop & Wash car wash occupies what used to be the Wards auto department.

The mall has a total of about 140,000 square feet, he said.

Customers are attracted to Highland Mall because of its home-owned atmosphere, he said — many of the customers and merchants know each other.

Fourteen new leases have been signed with the mall in the past year, since the Strathnaver management firm took over, Goza said.

Most of the new leases are with established businesses, he said. "That's what we're searching for," because they are less likely to go out of business, he said.

New occupants include Blum's Jewelers and Merle Norman cosmetics store, which relocated at the mall, and Winnie's Full Figure Boutique, which opened in June.

The Guy Next Door men's clothing store, owned by Mary and Randy Walls, is set to open next week. The two also own The Cottage, a women's boutique.

Other contracts are being developed. Goza said he is working on a deal with Mothers Plus, a locally-owned maternity shop. Burkland cotton candy vendors also have signed a lease to place a stand in the commons area, he said.

In addition, management is "talking about" attracting a shoe store, a pub, a specialty restaurant, a variety store and a women's boutique, he said.

Goza hopes to attract another anchor store to occupy the vacant space on the east end, near Sunshine Christian bookstore.

"The mall was built for that," he said.

Business briefs

• Morris Fraley, owner of Fraley Machine Works, is returning to air conditioner and heating repair service and may become a dealer by next year.

Fraley owned Fraley Heating and Air Conditioning for 15 years, but closed the business five years ago to open the machine works.

Fraley Machine Works manufactures oil field fishing tools, he said, and it was doing well when oil sold for about $35 a barrel. But now that the oil business has become depressed, "we decided we might like to go into the air conditioner business again," he said.

Fraley said he began offering air conditioner repairs about a month ago, and "we're already doing a pretty good business." The shop is located at 1314 E. Third St.

• A Big Spring group recently participated in three days intensive sales and product training in Dallas at Mary Kay Cosmetics 1986 national seminar.

The group, lead by independent sales director Dene Sheppard, included independent beauty consultants, Janelle Clark, Glenda Coker, Sharron Harrell, Kay Hepner, Lillian Hill, Betty Kelley, Annette King, Barbara Laird, Fairy McMahan, Bobbie Nix, Carolyn Pilgrim, Teresa Sheppard, Mary Smith, Charlene Voorhies and Beverly Warren, plus husbands Bill Sheppard and Dock Voorhies.

More than 25,000 Mary Kay directors and consultants attended one of four three-day meetings in Dallas between July 14-26.

Classes were held in product knowledge, color awareness, sales training, business management, goal setting and other business topics.

The Mary Kay company distributed more than $1 million in fur coats and jackets, vacations, shopping sprees and jewelry as awards during the seminars.

• KBST news director Denise Crenwelge has been presented with the Mark Twain Award for broadcast media by the Associated Press.

She won the award for her reporting efforts during Big Spring's water shortage in May. The award recognized outstanding achievement in cooperative news coverage for what was considered the top news story in Texas for May.

Texas broadcast editor Diana Jensen said Crenwelge was

This oil rig is in the Shengli oilfield in the eastern part of the People's Republic of China, near Midland's sister city, Dongying. The field is the second largest in China and accounts for nearly a fourth of that country's oil production. selected for the award for providing the AP Dallas Bureau with first word on the water shortage, and she continued to supply the bureau and AP network with updated information.

• The Chalet store, which benefits the Big Spring State Hospital, is having a half-price sale throughout August.

• There were 38 rigs actually making holes in District 8 West Texas, including Howard County, as of July 28, according to Hughes Tool Co. The figure compares to 29 rigs July 21, 32 rigs June 30, and 119 rigs July 29, 1985.

• American Petrofina Inc. has announced that net income for the second quarter of this year amounted to $4.432 million, or 37 cents per share, compared to $16.029 million, or $1.34 per share in the same quarter last year.

The company incurred inventory write-downs because of the continued decline of crude oil and product prices, according to a news release.

Kenneth W. Perry, president and chief executive officer, said the second quarter results showed improvement over those of the first quarter largely because of the company's petrochemicals and plastics operations, which performed at record rates.

Gross revenue for the first six months of the year was $983,337,000, as compared to $1,164,632,000 for the same period of 1985.

Advantages of managing innovation

By TOM PETERS

"Everything that can be invented has been invented," declared the director of the U.S. Patent Office in 1899. His remark, though amusing on the surface, aptly captures our skill at predicting and managing the course of innovation.

To begin with, innovation does not occur where it is supposed to. This was never better illustrated than in a landmark study 20 years ago by British professor John Jewkes and two collaborators who systematically examined a sample of 58 major 20th-century innovations, from self-winding wristwatches to jet engines, to penicillin and the computer. Forty-six of the innovations emerged from the "wrong" place — that is, not from the labs of a current industry leader. Instead, 38 poured forth from either a tiny company or independent individuals, five from a larger firm in an industry unrelated to the invention, and three from an unlikely corner of a firm in an industry that was associated with the invention.

As the Jewkes study implies, big firms fall miserably short in sensing the early winds of innovation. Long-time management consultant Richard Foster grimly reveals the primary problem in his superb new book, "Innovation: The Attacker's Advantage." Big firms stick too long with today's winners. If they are to have a chance at continued vitality, Foster argues they must "abandon the skills and products that have brought them success." They must "cannibalize their current products and processes just when they are most lucrative."

Instead, when a firm does produce a winner, the forces unleashed to guard it create the preconditions for subsequent failure. Entrepreneur and University of Miami business school professor Modesto Maidique found that following a big product success, a pattern of subsequent failure often ensues. Thus, Apple followed up the wildly successful Apple II personal computer with two consecutive bombs — Apple III and Lisa — before it was able to break free enough from its past to launch the successful Macintosh line. One reason, Foster suggests, is our financial tools leads us to overinvest in incremental improvements to today's profitable, predictable technology and ignore tomorrow's potentially profitable but unpredictable ones.

Even companies with more-forward-looking attitudes can stumble. Take Du Pont's experience in losing the huge tire-cord market to rival Celanese. While Du Pont had dominated the market — which had nylon as its base — for decades, some experts believed that making tire cords from polyester filament might be a more economical alternative. Celanese, with no nylon position to guard, charged ahead with polyester. Despite its grip on the market for nylon tire cord, Du Pont, too, decided to look ahead and explore the new polyester option. But because Du Pont's fledgling polyester research was conducted at its tire development laboratories, where the powerful industrial nylon division was in control, the project floundered.

In the face of this unrelieved bad news, what are the solutions? Do you plan more and spend more? No one has examined the innovation process more closely than Dartmouth business researcher James Brian Quinn, who has spent 35 years studying the issue at General Electric, IBM, Xerox and the like. Says Quinn: "Few, if any, major innovations come from structured planning systems."

Throwing money at innovation doesn't necessarily help either. Typical is General Electric's acquisition of Calma, a leading computer-aided design firm in 1981. To spearhead GE's drive to develop the factory of the future, it invested hundreds of millions in Calma's operation. The unintended effect: The once entrepreneurial firm became complacent, and product leadership vanished almost overnight.

Among giant companies the $8-billion 3M Company is a model of constant renewal. Not that it is without problem operations, but the company's well-diversified portfolio of small, independent business start-ups spreads the risks of failure in what is essentially a numbers game. At 3M every division general manager, in high and low-growth areas alike, must meet ambitious targets for the share of annual revenue that comes from new products.

Acquisition is another way for big companies to nurture innovation. While experts agree that most megamergers fail to achieve the synergy often predicted for them, acquiring small businesses can be an effective way for sizable firms to test the water in new areas. Thus, the 2,388-store chain The Limited stooped to acquire a single store — Henri Bendel in Manhattan — to serve as the window for entering a new market.

Despite such strategies, the surest source of innovation still lies with the little players. Studies suggest research effectiveness per dollar spent is four times higher in small firms than in large ones and the presence of a swarm of small start-ups is an unparalleled stimulant to the clumsy behemoths. MIT small-business expert David Birch warns government not to "try to influence the rate of job loss." Instead, he urges us to treasure our entrepreneurs "because it is from their unfettered and sometimes undisciplined efforts that job creation will come."

The picture of innovation that emerges is not tidy, and it flies in the face of most of the last 25 years' conventional theorizing on managements, with its emphasis on injecting even more orderliness, via planning, into the large firm. While some giant firms are trying to assume the 3M look, the most appropriate national policy should be to support small business and create a financial climate that spurs the stock market to provide capital for such ventures.

Drilling report

These are the latest oil and gas activity reports filed with the Texas Railroad Commission for the five-county crossroads country.

Howard County's Lomax Field will see more developmental action when the No. 2027 Fryer is spudded two miles southwest of the Lomax townsite. The well will be an 11,000-ft. Fueselman Formation test. Rosewood Resources Inc. of Dallas is the operator.

Pumping 74 barrels of 34-gravity oil per day on an open choke, the No. 84 G.M. Dodge has been completed in the Howard East Iatan Field by Chevron U.S.A. in a lease about six miles southeast of Coahoma.

The well made 251 barrels of salt water and a small volume of gas in addition to oil. It probed to a 2,985-ft. bottom and will produce from perforations in the Grayburg and San Andres Formations ranging from 2,164 to 3,894 feet into the wellbore.

An undrilled wildcat re-entry location has been abandoned in Howard County eight miles south of Coahoma. The well was designated as the No. 1 Avengeur "40" with Earle M. Craig Jr. Corp. as the operator. It was originally completed in the Wolfcamp Formation at a depth of 7,777 to 7,912 feet when finished in 1963. The operator had planned to seek new pay at a depth of about 6,500 feet.

Two new producers have been brought on line in Howard County's Moore Field by Enduro Oil Co. of Houston.

The wells are designated as the No. 3 and No. 4 Quins "35-NE", with depths six and eight miles southwest of Big Spring, respectively.

The No. 3 showed it can pump 16 barrels of oil daily plus 14 barrels of water, while the No. 4 potentialized at 18 BOPD with six barrels of water. Oil tested at 29-gravity.

Production intervals are in the San Andres Formation, ranging from 3,299 to 3,328 feet into the wellbore.

B&G Energy Inc. has abandoned an undrilled location in the Lomax Field, eight miles east of Stanton. Designated as the No. 1 Tidwell et al, the well was branded as a dry hole when originally completed in 1982 by Highland Resources Inc. It was drilled to total depth of 10,830 feet. B&G had planned to seek production further up hole at a depth of about 8,200 feet.

Enduro Oil is preparing to conduct a re-entry operation in Howard County's Moore Field, about five miles northwest of Big Spring. The well in question is the No. 3 Guitar "20," originally judged to be a dry hole when completed with total depth of 8,400 feet in 1984.

Taking over from Partee Drilling as the operator, Enduro will be seeking production at a depth of about 3,210 feet into the wellbore.

Showing ability to pump 31-gravity crude at the rate of 50 barrels per day, the No. 14 W. B. Settles "A" has been completed in the Howard-Glascock Field one mile southwest of Forsan.

Conoco Inc. is the operator.

Conoco took the hole to total depth of 2,700 feet and plugged back to 2,644. Production will be from the Grayburg and San Andres Formations, 2,104 to 2,584 feet into the wellbore. Besides the oil, the well made 420 barrels of salt water daily.

Enduro Oil of Houston has abandoned a total of five undrilled locations in the Moore Field, Howard County, from four to six miles northwest of Big Spring.

All five wells carried permit for 3,600-ft. maximum drilling depth. They had been designated as the Nos. 3, 6 and 7 Wilkinson and the Nos. 1 and 9 Burkett.

Mobil Producing has abandoned an undrilled location in the East Howard Iatan Field, seven miles southeast of Coahoma. The well carried permit for 3,800 feet of hole and had been designated as the No. 8 Georgia Bell.

Indicating ability to flow 68 barrels of oil with 519,000 CF casinghead gas per day on a 30/64 choke, the No. 1 Glascock "X" Fee has been completed in the Saint Lawrence Field, Glascock County, about three miles north of Saint Lawrence.

The well showed flowing tubing pressure of 170 PSI. Oil tested at 44-gravity.

With Texaco Inc. as the operator, the well probed to total depth of 10,000 feet and will produce from a perforated interval in the Strawn Formation 9,878 to 9,894 feet into the hole.

The same operator has finished the No. 4 Glascock "U" in the Roberta Field, Glascock County, 11 miles southeast of Garden City.

It pumped 53 barrels of 35-gravity crude per day plus a minor volume of gas and 52 barrels of waste water.

Bottomed at 1,740 feet, it will produce from a perforated interval in the Queen Sand, 1,704 to 1,713 feet into the hole.

First production data have been filed for the No. 24 Overton "A" in the Howard-Glascock Field, about three miles southwest of Forsan. Conoco is the operator.

The well potentialized at 32 barrels of oil and 569 barrels of salt water per day.

It was drilled to total depth of 2,830 feet and was plugged back to 2,584. Production will be from perforations in the San Andres Formation at 2,260 to 2,548 feet into the wellbore.

The No. 1 McKaskle is scheduled for spudding at a wildcat location in Martin County about 13 miles northeast of Stanton. The well carries permit for maximum hole of 10,730 feet. It is near existing production in the Cedar Bush Field and the Spraberry Trend.

Spectrum 7 Exploration is the operator.

An ill-fated Martin County wildcat has been written off as a dry hole in a lease four miles northeast of Stanton. It is the No. 1 N.R. Wright, spudded on April 12 of this year and bottomed dry at total depth of 11,500 feet.

With Chevron U.S.A. as the operator, the well has been plugged and abandoned.

Belco Developmental Inc. has driven stake for a Martin County wildcat three miles north of Stanton. It will be known as the No. 1 Meek with drillsite in the T&P Survey, Section, 47, Block 36. It carries permit for 12,000-ft. maximum drilling depth. The location is near production in both the Strawn and Fueselman Formations.

Cities Service Oil and Gas has abandoned an unspudded wildcat re-entry location in Martin County about three miles west of Stanton.

The well originally had been completed as a producer from the Spraberry Formation at 2,284 to 8,100 feet when drilled originally in 1962. It is designated as the No. 2 Graham "C."

Cities Service has planned to seek shallower pay at a depth of about 4,100 feet.

Drilling is nearing projected total depth at the No. 1 Kemper, a Martin County wildcat located about 12 miles northeast of Lenoirah. Drilling got underway on June 16 of with year with Davis Oil Inc. as the operator. The well carries authority for 10,900 feet of hole making.

A total of four new producers have been brought on line by Mobil Producing in Mitchell County's East Howard Iatan Field.

The wells are designated as the Nos. 187, 188, 189 and 182 Mary Foster. Locations are about 10, nine, nine and 10 miles southwest of Westbrook, respectively.

The 187 bottomed at 3,470 feet and was perforated to produce from the Clear Fork Formation at 2,385 to 3,157 feet into the hole.

It showed potential to pump 24 barrels of oil per day plus 278 barrels of salt water.

The 188 bottomed at 3,470 feet, was perforated at 2,482 to 3,152 and potentialized at 95 BOPD plus 286 barrels of salt water per day.

The 189 was taken to 3,485-ft. bottom, was perforated at 2,383 to 2,887 and showed ability to pump eight barrels of oil with 64 barrels of waste water daily.

The 182 bottomed at 3,480 feet and was perforated to produce at 3,275 to 3,410 feet into the well. It potentialized at 46 barrels of oil with 168 barrels of salt water per day.

Oil at all four wells tested at 30-gravity.

Mantooth ride sparks rodeo

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

A scary bullride by boys 12-and-under leader Will Mantooth of Southlake and consistently fast times by the girl barrel racers were the highlights of an exciting third night at the Howard County 4-H Club Junior Rodeo Friday evening.

Mantooth remained aboard the broncing bull for the required eight seconds, but got into trouble when his hand caught in the rope on his dismount. The bull shook Mantooth about as he struggled to keep up with the running bull. In danger of being pinned against the wall, Mantooth struggled free to avoid injury.

His score of 55 won last night's round, and Lovington's John Bland finished second with an exciting ride and a 46 score.

In the barrel racing, which includes boys and girls, the boys could have learned from the girls, who were for the most part far superior to the boys last night.

The Peirce sisters, from Miami, Texas, blazed the two fastest times of the night, with both girls winning their divisions.

Kara Pierce, in the 12-and-under girls competition, used smooth tight turns and fast straightaways for a 16.99 second run. Odessa's Tammy Stevens finished second in 17.76 seconds.

Kara's older sister Kimbra recorded the fastest time of the night. She made the most of a freshly dragged track to finish in a smoking 16.92 seconds and win the girls 13-15 division.

Iraan's Mecca McMullan finished a close second with a 17.4 second ride.

Odessa's Tonya Stevens won the girls 16-19 division with a 17.89 second run. Denver City's Shawna Schmid's 18.62 time was good for second.

In the boys barrel racing, the top finishers ran well, but the rest of the pack had horse communication problems. It seemed that several of the boys' horses just weren't in the mood last night.

Olney's Jeff Hilton, however, had a fast 17.09 second run to win the boys 12-and-under race. He edged Big Spring's Dane Driver, whose 18.04 second ride was good for second.

In the boys 13-15 bull riding, the bulls got the best of the cowboys, as all four cowboys landed before the buzzer. The 16-19 boys bareback bronc riders met a similar fate, as neither of the two cowboys received times.

For the third night, the 10-and-under goat sackers provided plenty of comic relief for the crowd. First, the kids were called for a false start.

Once reset, the goats attempted a different strategy from the two nights before, as the previous nights' shyness had done them little good.

Rather than huddle and wait, the goats charged the kids, who hesitated, then met the goats, who disappeared in a sea of youngsters and burlap sacks.

The rodeo will conclude tonight, with the Grand Entry preceding the competition at 7:30. Admission is $3 for adults and $1.50 for children.

Friday nights results were not available at presstime, due to a late slack. For Friday night's complete results, see Sunday's Herald.

Bennett hopes to direct Oiler attack

By JOE DON MCGAUGHEY
Harte-Hanks New Service

SAN ANGELO — Ben Bennett is pursuing a dream. Certainly not the impossible dream, but most definitely not a sure thing, either. The former record-setting quarterback at Duke University is trying to earn a spot with the Houston Oilers.

The same Oilers who carry proven veteran QBs Warren Moon and Oliver Luck on the roster.

The same Oilers who made Purdue phenom Jim Everett the third pick overall in the recent National Football League draft.

Bennett, then, is not exactly competing with Larry, Moe and Curly, but nobody told him things would work out when he signed with the Oilers.

"They've got a couple of great quarterbacks already and have drafted another one, so I knew it wasn't going to be easy," Bennett said after Friday morning's workout at Angelo State University. "But I've never been one to back down from a challenge of any kind."

That much is apparent, but what's not apparent is why Bennett didn't align with a team that is desperate for a quarterback, like Buffalo or Indianapolis, instead of signing with the Oilers.

"I made my decision after Houston expressed interest in me, and told me I'd have an opportunity, no matter how slim an opportunity it might turn out to be," Bennett said, adding the Oilers made contact with him back in March. "Since my senior year in college they had shown interest in me, but nothing ever came of it. Finally this year they took some time and things and gave them to Mr. (general manager Ladd) Herzog and he was willing to sign me."

Bennett had been out of football since being cut after two weeks in the Atlanta Falcons' 1985 training camp after being with them 4 months in the offseason.

"I had a lot of fun in Atlanta as far as the city was concerned, but I think I caused some concern with the coaching staff as far as my outside activities went," Bennett said without elaboration. "On the field I performed about as well as anybody, but I really had no opportunity to prove myself and they released me. But I harbor no resentment toward them."

And if you had to choose someone with good reasons to possess ill feelings, Bennett would be a prime candidate. Coming off a highly productive career at Duke, he looked to be on the verge of becoming a successful NFL quarterback.

"Oh, it certainly seemed that way," Bennett recalled with a smile. "I was projected as an early first-round choice and I was going to make millions and live happily ever after. But it didn't turn out that way."

Bennett shares a house in Houston with USFL quarterback Jim Kelly, who has a growing reputation as one of the best signal callers around. But despite being roommates with another high caliber QB, Bennett said Kelly had little to do with his return to pro football.

Ranger shortstop is Player of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — Texas Rangers shortstop Scott Fletcher, who hit .394 including a 19-game hitting streak, and Tigers right-hander Jack Morris, who was 5-1 with a 0.54 earned run average in July, were named the American League's Player and Pitcher of the Month on Friday.

After taking over as Texas' regular shortstop earlier in the year, Fletcher went 41-for-104 with 23 runs scored and hit safely in 24 of the Rangers' 26 games.

Morris had four complete games, three shutouts, allowed only 33 hits in 50 innings; struck out 47 and walked only eight. He also had a string of 22 consecutive scoreless innings and 44 2-3 straight innings without surrendering an earned run.

Baltimore's Cal Ripken and Toronto's George Bell were runners-up to Fletcher, while the Blue Jays Jim Clancy finished second behind Morris.

Hornung, Tarkenton, Lanier among inductees

Three former NFL players will be inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame's front steps.

Hornung, a halfback and a place-kicker, had been eligible for 15 years but was his induction was most likely delayed by a one-year suspension for gambling in 1963.

That indiscretion probably cost him the honor of becoming the first Packer from the Lombardi era to make it into the Hall.

Tarkenton, a quarterback for 18 years with the Minnesota Vikings and New York Giants after leaving the University of Georgia, holds every significant quantity NFL passing record — 3,686 completions, 47,003 yards and 342 touchdowns.

Walker, a Heisman Trophy winner in 1948 from Southern Methodist, was a do-everything back with the Detroit Lions. He led the NFL in scoring with 128 points in 1950, when he was rookie of the year. In his six NFL seasons, he played in the Pro Bowl five times.

Houston, a ninth-round draft choice in 1967 out of Prairie View A&M, played six seasons with the Houston Oilers and five with the Washington Redskins. He was chosen all-league 12 consecutive years.

Lanier, a 6-foot-1, 245-pound middle linebacker, starred with the Kansas City Chiefs after playing college ball at Morgan State. He was all-league every year but one between 1968 and 1976.

Hall of Fame

Willie McCovey, left, Robert Doerr, center, and Ernie Lombardie will be inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame, baseball's highest honor.

Sunday in Cooperstown, N.Y. Their induction will raise the total membership to 196.

McEnroe weds O'Neal in private ceremony

OYSTER BAY, N.Y. (AP) — Tennis star John McEnroe married actress Tatum O'Neal in a private ceremony Friday at an old stately brick Catholic church.

The 27-year-old groom, whose parents live in Oyster Bay Cove, has made headlines for his spectacular game as well as his angry outbursts at referees and officials or hecklers at his tennis matches.

But the McEnroes kept a curious crowd of 500 neighborhood residents at bay during his wedding as about a dozen private security guards and an equal number of hamlet police officers kept spectators off church property.

After the ceremony, McEnroe and O'Neal came to the doors of the church and waved to the crowd. McEnroe, who wore a black suit and a red bow tie, blew a kiss to the crowd. His wife, who wore a long white wedding gown, smiled and waved as the crowd cheered.

"You look in the eyes of people and you know they really meant what they were saying," said Rev. Joseph Byrns of New York, who performed the ceremony.

"They were a typical anxious couple. This is the culmination of them knowing each other so long," he said. "They were very touched by the ceremony and the depth of the commitment they were making."

The bride and groom were kept from the view of several dozen photographers and television cameras by huge blue curtains that covered an opening in the wall at the entrance to the church.

The limousine carrying O'Neal arrived at 5 p.m., accompanied by two police cars with lights flashing. After the car disappeared behind the curtains, the bottom four inches of four white dresses could be seen emerging from the car and entering the chapel.

Most of the 30 people who attended the ceremony arrived in cars and refused to answer questions. But tennis star Vitas Gerulaitis walked through the crowd to enter the church.

"We're very happy," Gerulaitis said. "It's been a nice day."

After the ceremony, Gerulaitis said, "It was a beautiful ceremony."

Actress Janet Jones, who stars in "American Best" and who came with Gerulaitis, said the couple was "beaming with happiness."

"It was absolutely beautiful," she said. Another tennis player, Peter Rennert, was best man. Serving as ushers were Peter Fleming, who teamed with McEnroe to form the world's top doubles team, and McEnroe's brothers, Mark and Patrick.

The maid of honor was Andrea Felstein, a longtime friend of the bride. Julie Feldman, Vicki Morgan and Danielle Earle served as bridesmaids.

The 22-year-old bride is a native of Los Angeles. An Oscar winner at the age of 10 for her performance in "Paper Moon," O'Neal has appeared in numerous movies.

McEnroe, 27, has won three Wimbledon singles titles and captured the U.S. Open singles crown four times. He was ranked first in the world for several years until he lost the U.S. Open title match to Ivan Lendl last September. In January, after suffering a first-round loss in the Nabisco Masters, he began a self-imposed sabbatical that will end next week when he competes in the Volvo International Tournament in Stratton Mountain, Vt.

Buechele RBI's propel Rangers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Steve Buechele drove in five runs and Bobby Witt scattered seven hits and struck out seven over 6 1-3 innings as the Texas Rangers beat the Milwaukee Brewers 7-2 Friday night in the first game of a doubleheader.

The loss snapped a four-game winning streak for the Brewers.

Witt, 6-9, needed relief help from Dale Mohorcic with one out and runners at first and second in the seventh. Mohorcic got the next two batters and went on to record his second save.

Milwaukee starter Tim Leary, 7-11, gave up four runs in 4 2-3 innings.

Buechele gave the Rangers a 3-0 lead in the second with a three-run homer over the 362-foot mark in left field. Leary gave up singles to Darrell Porter and Don Slaught before yielding the two-out homer.

The Brewers narrowed the gap to 3-2 in the bottom of the inning. Ernest Riles doubled and came home on Rob Deer's single. Left-fielder Ruben Sierra ran past the ball. Deer took second on the error, then came home on two successive flyouts.

In the Texas fourth, Sierra walked and scored on Buechele's triple past a diving Glenn Braggs in left field, making the score 4-2.

Buechele drove in another run in the Texas sixth off rookie Bill Wegman, a former starter making his first career relief appearance for the Brewers. Sierra hit a leadoff double, took third on Slaught's single and scored on Buechele's groundout.

Porter's two-out RBI single in the seventh made the score 6-2 and Pete O'Brien hit his 13th homer in the ninth for the Rangers' final run.

Indians 4, Yankees 3
CLEVELAND (AP) — Julio Franco's run-scoring bloop double snapped a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning and Phil Niekro pitched 2 1-3 hitless innings in relief for his 308th career victory, as the Cleveland Indians defeated the New York Yankees 4-3 Friday in the first game of a doubleheader.

Niekro, 8-7, relieved starter Bryan Oelkers with two outs in the sixth and tied Boston's Tom Seaver and 1880s pitcher Charles Radbourn for 12th place on the all-time major-league victory list.

Niekro walked three and struck out two. The 47-year-old knuckleballer had also won a game in his only other relief appearance, May 5 against Kansas City.

Ernie Camacho pitched the ninth inning and earned his 14th save.

It was the Yankees' fourth straight loss, following a three-game sweep by the Brewers in Milwaukee.

Indians 4, Yankees 3
Yankees 5, Indians 3
CLEVELAND (AP) — Don Mattingly lined a two-run homer to snap a 3-3 tie in the ninth inning Friday night, giving the New York Yankees a 5-3 victory and a split of their two-night doubleheader with the Cleveland Indians.

In the first game, Julio Franco hit a run-scoring double to snap a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning and Phil Niekro pitched 2 1-3 hitless innings in his second relief appearance of the year as the Indians won 4-3.

The games were played before a crowd of 65,934, largest ever to attend a two-night doubleheader in the major leagues. The previous mark of 62,355 was set by the same two teams in Cleveland on July 15, 1947.

The nightcap was tied 3-3 entering the top of the ninth, but Cleveland starter Tom Candiotti, 10-8, hit Rickey Henderson with a pitch to start the inning. After Henderson stole second, Mattingly drove his 20th home run into the right field seats, helping the Yankees snap a four-game losing streak.

Brian Fisher, 5-5, got the victory with 3 1-3 innings of one-hit, scoreless relief. He struck out four and walked none before giving way to Dave Righetti, who saved his

The Yankees took a 2-0 lead in the second inning on Mike Easler's solo home run, his ninth, and a sacrifice fly by Juan Espino, who was called up from Class AAA Columbus earlier in the day.

Cleveland tied it in the fourth when rookie Cory Snyder doubled in a run, continued to third on an error by Easler in left and scored on Pat Tabler's single.

Easler atoned in the fifth, putting the Yankees up 3-2 with a hard RBI grounder that glanced off Franco's glove at short for an error.

Cleveland tied it in the bottom of the inning on a bases-loaded wild pitch by starter Joe Niekro, Phil's 41-year-old brother.

In the opener, Phil Niekro, 8-7, relieved starter Bryan Oelkers with two outs in the sixth and registered his 308th career victory, tying him with Boston's Tom Seaver and 1880s pitcher Old Hoss Radbourn for 12th place on the all-time list.

Niekro walked three and struck out two. The 47-year-old knuckleballer had also won a game in his only other relief appearance, May 5 against Kansas City.

Ernie Camacho pitched a perfect ninth to earn his 14th save.

Orioles 7, Blue Jays 3
TORONTO (AP) — Rookie Tom Dodd hit a two-run homer and Juan Beniquez had a two-run double to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 7-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays Friday night.

Dodd's homer, the first of his major league career, and Beniquez' double highlighted the Orioles' five-run sixth inning which also featured a solo homer by hot-hitting rookie Jim Traber.

Starting pitcher Ken Dixon, 10-8, struck out four and did not walk a batter before being relieved by Rich Bordi with one out in the eight.

The Orioles broke the game open in the sixth with five hits to make a loser of Jimmy Key, 9-7.

Lee Lacy and Fred Lynn opened the inning with singles and one out later, Beniquez doubled to score both runners. Dodd connected for his homer on a 3-2 pitch that finished Key and after reliever Mark Eichhorn struck out Rick Dempsey, Traber drilled the first pitch over the right field fence for his sixth homer.

Traber, who also had an RBI single in the Orioles' two-run second inning, has hit six homers and driven in 17 runs since replacing Eddie Murray, who went on the disabled list July 18.

Red Sox 5, Royals 3
BOSTON (AP) — Jim Rice had three consecutive hits and drove in two runs, including the tie-breaker, in leading the Boston Red Sox to a 5-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals Friday night.

Southpaw Bruce Hurst, 6-5, weathered an outburst of solo homers by Hal McRae, Steve Balboni and Jim Sundberg in the fourth inning for his first victory since he suffered a groin pull in Minnesota on May 31.

Hurst allowed only three other hits, struck out six and walked one in 6 1-3 innings before needing relief help. Calvin Schiraldi and Joe Sambito finished up, with the latter gaining his 10th save.

After Rice put Boston ahead 4-3 with a two-out single off Kansas City starter Danny Jackson, 6-7, in the fifth, Tony Armas gave the Red Sox a two-run cushion with his fifth homer, off reliever Steve Farr in the sixth. The line shot into the bleachers in straightaway center was Armas' first homer since July 6.

Returning from a 3-10 western trip, the Red Sox scored a run in the first as Wade Boggs, ending a 1-17 slump, singled, took second on a wild pitch and came around on a single by Bill Buckner.

Boston made it 3-0 in the third on a walk, Boggs' pop double into the left-field corner and a single by Rice.

McRae hit his fifth homer, Balboni his 21st and Sundberg his sixth to tie the score in the fourth.

Phillies 4, Cubs 3
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jeff Stone's one-out home run in the 11th inning off reliever Frank DiPino lifted the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday night.

Ken Tekulve, who pitched one hitless inning, won his fourth game against one defeat. Loser DiPino, 1-5, who had entered the game in the 10th and struck out the side, struck out Gary Redus to open the 11th before Stone connected for his fourth home run of the season.

The Phillies took a 3-2 lead in the eighth on an RBI double by John Russell after a costly throwing error by shortstop Shawn Dunston. But the Cubs retaliated in the ninth with Jody Davis' leadoff homer off Steve Bedrosian. The homer was Davis' 14th.

Glenn Wilson hit a routine grounder to Dunston to lead off the Phillies eighth, but the shortstop threw the ball into the first-base seats, allowing Wilson to go to second. Russell then doubled off Ed Lynch.

Russell's hit was just the third in 7 1-3 innings against Lynch, who had given up a pair of fifth-inning homers to Mike Schmidt and Wilson. Don Carman allowed just four hits in eight innings before Bedrosian came on.

Patriots, Cardinals set for Hall of Fame clash

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Raymond Berry and Gene Stallings, who were high school teammates, will be the opposing head coaches Saturday when the New England Patriots play the St. Louis Cardinals in the Hall of Fame game, the NFL's exhibition opener.

Prior to the game's 4:30 p.m. EDT kickoff, Paul Hornung, Ken Houston, Fran Tarkenton, Willie Lanier and Don Walker will join 128 others enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Berry's Patriots are the defending AFC champions, while Stallings will be making his debut as coach of the Cardinals, who finished 5-11 last year.

Despite the successes of last year, the off-season was trying for Berry and the Patriots. The Sullivan family put the franchise up for sale, a previous drug problem on the team was uncovered, all-pro offensive lineman John Hannah retired and some key players are holdouts.

On top of that, Berry has not decided on his quarterback rotation.

Berry is expected to use third-string quarterback Tom Ramsey more than starter Tony Eason and second-stringer Steve Grogan, who started in the Super Bowl.

Stallings, on the other hand, is set at quarterback with Neil Lomax. A year ago, Lomax passed for 3,214 yards and 18 touchdowns. And this year, unlike most of last season, the Cards have a healthy Otis Anderson in the backfield and an uninjured Roy Green at wide receiver.

An interesting sidelight to the game is the background of the two coaches.

Berry's 82-year-old father, Raymond Berry Sr., said Paris is having a hard time picking a favorite in the game.

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS

You are hereby notified of the opportunity to request a public hearing and/or submit written comments concerning construction permit applications No. C-17411 and No. PSD-TX-720 by Power Resources, Incorporated to construct a gas turbine cogeneration facility at the existing Fina Oil and Chemical Company refinery near Big Spring in Howard County, Texas. The proposed location is on the northwest side of the refinery which is located on Interstate 20, one mile east of Big Spring.

The Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board (TACB) has determined that the proposed facility will not violate any state or federal air quality regulations and will not have any significant adverse impact on soils, vegetation or visibility. This includes a demonstration that the applicant will utilize "best available control technology" at each emission source and that compliance with all ambient air quality standards will be achieved.

Additional information is contained in the public notice section of this newspaper.
