MANCHESTER, Tenn. (AP) — You might call this sleepy town a bedroom community. After all, one person in 10 makes pajamas.

So, of course, Manchester is throwing a pajama party to celebrate.

"We've got two major manufacturers of pajamas here — Eden Industries and Pajama Corp. of America, the oldest industry in town and 50 years old this year," said Manchester Mayor Roy Worthington.

To commemorate Pajama Corp.'s half-century of business, as well as to tie into the state's Homecoming '86 celebration, town officials planned the party, 50s dances and parade Friday night that promised to be the cat's pajamas.

Prayer prescribed for economy

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

Harald Bredeesen prescribed prayer Friday night as a formula to reverse economic woes that have plagued Big Spring recently. "When the Christians in Big Spring become as famous with prayer as it was with oil — the results will exceed all your expectations," he told an audience of approximately 550 people at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Bredeesen is the featured guest during this weekend's "Community Under God" rally that continues Saturday at 8 a.m. with a mayor's prayer breakfast in the coliseum. ABC's documentary film of a world leader's call to prayer with Anwar Sadat and Bredeesen will be shown at the breakfast, and a prayer service will be conducted.

The rally continues 3 p.m. Sunday in the coliseum with a community church service that includes participation from a county-wide choir and orchestra.

Bredeesen, who has served as an advisor to several important heads of state and serves on the board of directors for the Christian Broadcasting Network, opened his talk with a reference to Apostle Paul.

"He was a specialist in tough times and would have a great deal to say to Big Spring," Bredeesen said.

He described Big Spring as one of those cities "where their two main industries, oil and agriculture, have been clobbered."

Citing personal examples from his own career and beginnings as the head of a humble congregation in Mount Vernon, N.Y., that eventually grew to 20,000 members, Bredeesen said he prayed for miracles that always occurred.

Among those miracles was a $27,000 donation to his financially starved church from "an agnostic 98-year-old stranger on his deathbed."

Another miracle Bredeesen spoke about was an order from God "to release you to the head of states." Shortly after receiving this divine message, Bredeesen said he met with Anwar Sadat prior to the Camp David Peace Talks conducted in 1978.

He told the audience that "God has you in Big Spring" for a specific purpose.

"If my people will humble themselves, seek my face and pray — I will heal Big Spring," Bredeesen said God's message is to the people of Big Spring.

Tim Thornton of the First Baptist Church who also served as music minister during last night's gathering, led the audience in prayer

Dream come true

Foundation grants wish of terminally ill Vincent youth

By HANK MURPHY Staff Writer

Having a wish granted is usually confined to fables and fairy tales. But that's not the case today in Vincent as a teen-ager there sees a wish become reality.

Fourteen-year-old Chad Williams' genie-in-a-bottle is the San Angelo chapter of the nationwide Make a Wish Foundation, an organization dedicated to giving terminally ill children any gift they desire.

"What's nice is to give a child something he wants more than anything else in the world, except the gift of life," said Helen Rogers of the San Angelo chapter.

Chad, who's slender and a little shy, is the son of Gaylon and Janine Williams. He was afflicted at birth with cystic fibrosis, a disease that attacks the lungs and abdomen, said his mother. He goes through a series of three respiratory treatments at home every day, she said.

The illness also makes Chad more susceptible to infections, she said. The infections, one of which he has now, are treated with antibiotics that can be administered at home, she said.

Besides lung and stomach ailments, Chad has liver trouble brought on by the disease, his mother said. A liver transplant is a possibility, but the decision to go through with it is on hold, she said.

Knowing a child has an illness that's usually fatal would devastate many families. But Mrs. Williams said her family's strong religious beliefs make coping easier.

"We're a Christian family," she explained. "We put it in the hands of the Lord. What will happen is his will. It's in the hands of God."

Despite having most of his activities confined to indoors, Mrs. Williams said Chad enjoys an active life. Last year he was named salutatorian of his eighth-grade class at Borden County Junior High School, she said. Soon he'll begin his freshman year at Borden County High School.

Chad's gift from Make a Wish is a VCR and a video camera/recorder. Chad said he considered asking for a trip, but his doctors "weren't thrilled about that."

Cousins convenience store in Big Spring has offered free videotape each month for one year, Rogers said.

Mrs. Williams said Chad became interested in making video recordings after he and his cousins shot their own videos while at her sister-in-law's house.

The video equipment is something he can enjoy indoors, she added.

Chad is treated locally by Dr. B.R. Owens at Scurie Memorial Medical Center and by Children's Medical Center in Dallas under the care of Dr. Claud Prestidge.

Prestidge and a Dallas social worker referred Chad's case to Make a Wish in San Angelo, Rogers said.

Terminally ill children usually are referred to Make a Wish by their doctors or social workers, Rogers said. The child's doctor is requested to sign a release indicating the child's disease is fatal; then Make a Wish sends forms for the family to sign and indicate the child's wish, she said.

Sometimes Make a Wish gets called directly by families with an ill child, she said. "We will go from there, but they must have a doctor's release," she said.

Make a Wish has 60 chapters nationwide and state chapters in Dallas, Houston, Amarillo and San Angelo, she said. San Angelo has sub-chapters in Lubbock and Odessa, she added.

Often, the chapter makes wishes come true by the generosity of companies and merchants.

Other times, the organization purchases the wish with its own funds. The San Angelo chapter has received donations from Budweiser — which gives the four-

Interstate banking bill set for hearing

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' low and middle class bank customers must be protected if the state goes for interstate banking, spokesmen for consumer groups said Friday.

Carole Barger, Southwest director for Consumers Union, said a House committee will consider an interstate banking bill Monday prepared by the banking industry without any consumer input.

"None of us will be able to support any bill coming out of that committee, which does not include consumer and community standards," Ms. Barger told a news conference.

Also taking part in the news conference were the Texas Consumer Association, the American Association of Retired Persons and the Gray Panthers, a senior citizens group.

Brad Wiewel, president of the Texas Consumer Association, said the group did not oppose in theory interstate banking, which would allow ownership of Texas banks by out-of-state banks or holding companies.

"What we oppose is the unregulated raid on Texas deposits by gigantic multi-state and multi-national banks," Wiewel said. "By opening the door to out-of-state banks, Texas will be a prime target area for many large banks looking for new markets."

Gov. Mark White said Thursday he was considering making interstate banking a subject of the special session. He said there seemed to be a consensus of opinion between Texas' independent banks and bank holding companies which had not been present in previous sessions.

Ms. Barger said she was told that the agreement between independent bankers and the holding companies was so "tenuous" that consumer input might endanger it.

"We understand the urgency with which many in the Legislature seek to find a solution to the current banking situation in Texas," Ms. Barger said. "Yet, lawmakers must not act so hastily as to neglect the financial needs of the public."

She said that any bill the consumer groups support must contain standards that:

— Require out-of-state banks to show their past support for community banking services before being granted a Texas charter.

— Require banks moving to Texas to make specific commitments to serve the credit and deposit needs of the local community, particularly low and moderate income residents.

— Require banks moving to Texas to commit to extending credit and to make investments to promote economic development and employment opportunities.

— Require the state banking commissioner to watchdog the performance of these new banks to ensure they comply with their commitments "to use Texas' money to serve Texans."

Elderly woman relies on crime to pay bills

HOUSTON (AP) — A 64-year-old woman who said her utility bills became too expensive for her $72 weekly salary as a maid turned to the more profitable business of selling marijuana, authorities said.

Gladys Ervin is in her sixth week of a four-month sentence in Harris County Jail on a misdemeanor charge of delivering marijuana. She also is charged with possession of marijuana, but has not been tried on that charge, a felony.

After Ms. Ervin was arrested in June and jailed for allegedly selling 10 marijuana cigarettes to an undercover officer, she said she decided to quit the business.

"I know I'll stop now," she said. "I'll be 65 next May, and then I'll get Social Security and it'll help pay my bills."

Attorney James Brooks said he is negotiating with prosecutors to allow Ms. Ervin to serve her jail terms concurrently if she is sentenced on the possession charge.

Ms. Ervin pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor charge without an attorney.

"I know I did this," Ms. Ervin said. "I thought I could make it right by telling the truth."

Ms. Ervin said she's never used marijuana or any illegal drug, but turned to the illegal trade for the money.

"I kept trying to catch up on my gas and utility bills," the elderly woman said. "I was paying just enough to keep them from turning it off."

On June 27, officers arrested Ms. Ervin and confiscated six ounces of marijuana at her Houston home after she allegedly sold marijuana cigarettes to an undercover officer.

"This was my first time in jail," Ms. Ervin said, "and it'll be my last time."

Assistant District Attorney Joe Magliolo, who will be handling Ms. Ervin's felony charge, did not know of any other charges filed against the woman in the past.

"From what I can tell, the only record she has is a parking ticket from 1968 or so," Magliolo said.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — When she walks down the aisle for the eighth time next week, she will not be marrying for love. Zsa Zsa Gabor admitted Friday.

"I like him a great deal. I'm not in love with him," the Hungarian-born actress said in a telephone interview with WABC Radio from her California home.

Ms. Gabor and Prince Frederick von Anhalt of Munich are scheduled to tie the knot Aug. 14 in Ontario, Calif.

"This is a good man for me," Ms. Gabor said. "He helps in the kitchen. ... This morning we both cleaned the oven. ... I have the feeling, frankly, since I'm not so madly in love, maybe it'll last much longer. ... Because when you are madly in love, then you always screw it up."

Von Anhalt's claim to royalty was questioned Friday by the New York Post, which reported that a German newspaper, the Neue Revue, said he was born Hans-Robert Lichtenberg, son of a police detective.

In 1980, the weekly said, he was adopted by last surviving daughter-in-law of Kaiser Wilhelm II, Marie-Auguste von Anhalt, but was supposed to pay her 100,000 marks for the title.

"She didn't receive a pfennig (penny)," said Eduard von Anhalt, head of the family.

"She got that money," the prince was quoted as saying in response.

PALMA, Majorca (AP) — The Prince and Princess of Wales cruised Mediterranean waters off this Spanish island Friday on the royal yacht Fortuna with members Anne-Marie and their three children also are vacationing at the Marivent Palace, the summer residence of the Spanish royal family just outside Palma.

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Russian-born violinist Nathan Milstein was born violinist as the 1986 recipient of the "Arie in Mando" award. The 55-year-old maestro will give a recital and accept the prize in Venice on Friday, a ceremony said. Previous winners of the annual award include conductors Karl Bohm and Carlo Maria Giulini, and guitarist Andras Segovia.

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, who left the hospital on Friday after surgery on her right hand, said she can sign documents but it would be some time before she could shake hands.

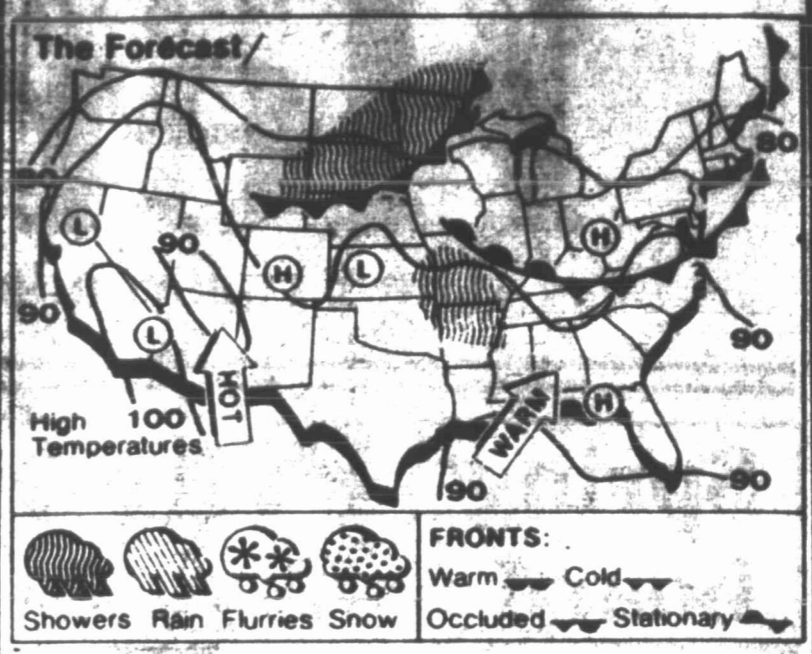

Mrs. Thatcher, 60, smiling and looking fit, left King Edward VII's Hospital for Officers with her arm in a sling and bandages on two fingers. A small crowd that had gathered applauded when she waved with her left hand.

Asked how she felt, she said, "Fine, fine," but added, "It's going to take a little time to recover."

The British leader, who is right-handed, underwent a one-hour operation Wednesday, under general anesthetic, to correct a condition known as Dupuytren's contracture. The progressive disease, sometimes mistaken for arthritis, pulls the little finger in toward the palm of the hand.

Doctors pronounced the surgery successful and said the hand was healing well.

State

By The Associated Press
Heavy thunderstorms ripped through New England on Friday, with tornadoes causing minor damage in New York state, Rhode Island and Michigan.

A tornado uprooted trees at Plum Island, N.Y., off the northwest tip of Long Island. In Rogers City, Mich., a twister destroyed a storage shed and uprooted a large tree. No injuries were reported in either storm.

The third tornado in two days struck near Providence, R.I., tearing a two-mile swath of destruction as it tore down trees and power lines. No injuries were reported from the twister, which hit North Smithfield just after 11 a.m.

About 20 people suffered minor injuries when a tornado hit downtown Providence on Thursday evening, causing damage estimated in the millions of dollars. Earlier, a tornado had struck the town of Cumberland.

Pea- and marble-size hail pelted Boston and Medway, Mass., and Winchester, N.H., on Friday and strong winds caused damage in New London, Conn. Three Boston workers were slightly injured when their construction trailer overturned in the high winds.

Heavy thunderstorms also swept through parts of the southeastern states, with hail and damaging winds reported in Selma, Ala., where an airport hanger and aircraft were damaged.

In Oklahoma, lightning sparked at least two house fires and heavy thunderstorms prompted officials to issue flood warnings in Bartlesville, where up to 8 inches of rain had fallen by early Friday. Showers and thunderstorms were scattered over the southern Great Lakes, the lower Mississippi Valley, the southern and western Plains, the central Rockies and parts of the southern Plateau.

Heavier rainfall during the six hours ending at 2 p.m. EDT included an inch and a quarter at Little Rock, Ark.; about a half inch at Alpena, Mich.; Blytheville Air Force Base, Ark.; Paducah, Ky., and Boston; and about a third of an inch at Pellston, Mich., Victoria, Texas, and Houghton, Mich.

The Plateau had sunny skies and warm temperatures, with early afternoon readings in the 80s and 90s.

Nation

Scattered thunderstorms and showers continued to plague North and Northeast Texas Friday, especially along the Red River and the low rolling and south plains.

Widely scattered thundershowers also dotted the Big Bend and the coastal plains, according to the National Weather Service. Skies were mostly cloudy throughout the rest of the state.

Afternoon temperatures were mainly in the 80s and 90s around the state. The 3 p.m. extremes were 75 degrees at Wichita Falls and 97 degrees at Temple.

Southerly winds at 5 to 10 mph were common over the entire state, although Southwest Texas had a north wind at around 5 mph, the weather service said.

The forecast calls for partly cloudy skies statewide through Sunday with scattered, mainly afternoon thunderstorms in Northwest, North Central and far West Texas. Daytime thundershowers should wet the coastal plains.

Daytime high temperatures should be mostly in the 90s through Sunday with overnight lows in the 70s, the weather service said.

Montford appointed to finance committee

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Most of the television news shots you see of the Texas Legislature show lawmakers voting or debating in the large general sessions, but most of the important work goes on in committees.

And Sen. John Montford is pleased that he'll now have a chance to help shape the state's future from a seat on one of the Legislature's most important committees.

This week the Democrat from Lubbock, whose 14-county district runs down through the Big Spring area, won an appointment from Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby to the powerful Senate Finance Committee.

The appointment wasn't a true surprise. Hobby had named Montford to the Legislative Budget Board several months ago and the Finance Committee was a natural next step.

The Lubbock senator said he welcomed the appointments because they now put him where the action always is in the Legislature, especially during the state's current financial crisis.

Finance Committee members handle all the budget work for the Senate and began meetings last week on ways to trim any fat from state agencies. Its role will be critical in reaching any compromise with the Texas House on how to handle the budget problems during the special session.

In the next few months, the Legislative Budget Board, composed of key members of both houses, will be drafting spending proposals for the coming two years. The Finance Committee, with Sen. Grant Jones, D-Temple, as chairman, will use the LBB's model to prepare the Senate's budget recommendations for the 1987 Legislature. A final budget for the next two years will come in negotiations with House budget leaders next spring.

Montford said his addition to Finance Committee gives him some clout in making sure that state belt-tightening measures don't discriminate against institutions in his district, such as Texas Tech University and Howard College.

It also doesn't hurt, he said, that he has a good working relationship with Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, who is chairman of the House Appropriations Committee and whose district overlaps Montford's.

"It makes a good balance for looking out after the district," Montford said.

Rogers said the foundation would appreciate donations from anyone whose wish is to bring joy to a sick child.

Senator seeks probe of school insurance

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said Friday he asked the State Board of Insurance to fully investigate liability insurance being sold Texas school districts.

"I am extremely concerned with the current so-called insurance crisis that taxpayers are possibly experiencing by paying for protection they are not receiving," Parker said in a statement.

In a letter to Lyndon Olson Jr., chairman of the State Board of Insurance, Parker, who is chairman of the Senate Education Committee, said "millions of taxpayer dollars have been spent for a contract of insurance called 'board of education liability and school district reimbursement policy.'"

"It appears that governing boards are being led to believe that they are fully insured and protected when they are not."

Parker told Olson that a 240th District Court jury in Fort Bend County recently found CNA Insurance Co., Chicago, and one of its subsidiaries guilty of bad faith in the handling of claims arising under a policy sold to the Katy Independent School District.

"I am concerned that many members of governing boards and officers of educational institutions in this state mistakenly believe that they are fully covered with liability insurance against claims and will be vigorously defended when claims against them are exerted," Parker told Olson.

For the record

Friday's story in the Big Spring Herald on the possibility of local gasoline prices rising contained errors in reference to local 7-Eleven stores.

Mike Rials is a district supervisor, not district manager, of 7-Eleven stores in Big Spring.

Also, the convenience stores sell regular gasoline for 69.9 cents a gallon and not 72 cents a gallon as reported in the Herald.

Rials said Friday he also was misunderstood when he commented on an increase in cost. His comment referred to an anticipated increase in wholesale prices and not an increase at the pump for consumers, he said.

• Big Spring's population is forecast to be 24,000 in 1990, not 2,000 as was printed in Wednesday's How's That? answer. The figure comes from a 1985 study by city planner Bob Lima.

Huge drug ring busted

HARRISBURG, Pa. — A federal indictment unsealed Friday charged 12 people with running a massive drug ring that used decoy planes and modified aircraft to smuggle at least 7½ tons of cocaine into the U.S. since 1980, netting at least $25 million in profits.

Attorney General Edwin Meese III said a two-year investigation resulted in the breakup of a ring responsible for the "largest documented amount of cocaine smuggled into this country by a single trafficking organization."

The ring used a Pennsylvania charter air service, Air America Inc., to fly the cocaine from four Colombian airfields into Florida, Pennsylvania and New York for sale in the New York City area, said acting U.S. Attorney James West.

Senate defeats test ban

WASHINGTON — The Senate refused Friday to extend a ban on anti-satellite weapons tests, while the House called for a halt to all nuclear testing as the two chambers worked on parallel versions of a Pentagon budget bill.

Halting anti-satellite, or ASAT, weapons and banning nuclear tests are long-time goals of arms control advocates and are opposed by the Reagan administration, which wants to go ahead with both programs.

The Democratic-controlled House and Republican-run Senate are working on bills authorizing the Pentagon's budget for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

Reagan sought $320 billion for the Pentagon, but the House package cuts it to $292 billion while the Senate would permit $295 billion.

Bees kill Miami student

MIAMI — A University of Miami graduate student was attacked by a swarm of killer bees in a Costa Rican jungle, and crawled into a cave and wedged himself under a rock overhang in a futile effort to escape the fatal stings.

Inn-Siang Ooi, a 24-year-old Malaysian who was working on his doctorate in biology, died July 31 during a field trip with 11 other students about 100 miles northwest of San Jose.

A coroner in San Jose counted about 46 stings per square inch of Ooi's body, said Dr. Charles Schnell, coordinator for the Organization of Tropical Studies in San Jose.

The Miami Herald on Friday quoted Schnell as saying Ooi had been out ahead of the rest of the students as they hiked along a steep trail. "The others saw a swarm of bees around his head, a cloud," Schnell said.

Reagan to undergo tests

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, who has experienced urinary tract problems dating back two decades, will go to a Navy hospital Saturday for urological tests, his spokesman announced Friday.

A local anesthetic will be used for the procedures, to be done on an out-patient basis at Bethesda Naval Medical Center.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said doctors would be "looking for some abnormality in the urinary tract of the bladder to see if there's a growth, a discoloration or stone or whatever there is."

He said he did not know whether the president had been experiencing any pain or symptoms of problems. "I'm not aware of anything and he told us he feels fine," Speakes said.

Scrapping plans for a weekend trip to Camp David, Reagan remained at the White House Friday and planned to deliver his midday radio address on Saturday from the Oval Office.

Dr. David Gillette, curator of paleontology at the New Mexico Museum of Natural History, examines tail bones of seismosaurus, which he said Friday was probably the world's longest dinosaur.

Supposed longest dinosaur bones found

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Bones from what may be the world's longest dinosaur were found in an ancient stream bed by a retired music teacher who said Friday he knew he had stumbled onto something unusual.

Arthur Loy, of Albuquerque, said he was hiking in the desert with a friend in the fall of 1980 about 60 miles northwest of the city when he came to the edge of a cliff overlooking a valley.

"I happened to look at my feet and these bones ... were sticking out, laying on their sides," he said.

He said he called to a companion, pharmacist Jan Cummings, to look at the beautiful scenery.

"I said, 'You might want to look down at your feet, too,'" said Loy, who taught music at an Albuquerque high school for 37 years.

The exposed bones, on public land controlled by the U.S. Bureau of Land Management, remained mostly buried until researchers were able to begin excavation in 1985. They have recovered some tail bones and a section of thigh bone.

Dr. David Gillette, curator of paleontology at the New Mexico Museum of Natural History, christened the beast "seismosaurus" — the Earth Shaker.

The dinosaur is larger than two other recently discovered dinosaurs, the "supersaurus" and "ultrasaurus," the so-called super-giants, he said.

"This one is absolutely breathtaking for its size," said Gillette.

The eight vertebrae from a 10-foot section of the middle of the tail, part of a thigh bone from the upper part of a hind leg and other unidentified bones have been recovered, he said.

The vertebrae resemble those from supersaurus from Colorado, but are 20 percent bulkier and considerably taller, he said.

The three tail bones were ready for display at the museum Friday. The thigh bone, which is one-half to two-thirds complete, still must be cleaned, but it was shown at a news conference Friday.

Gillette said researchers waited until they had all their facts compiled before revealing the discovery of the creature.

"I've seen others make mistakes from the field, and I don't like to shoot from the hip," he said. "I like to have all the information and I like to wait so ideas can mature." Gillette declined to reveal the exact location of the site to prevent amateur bone hunters from possibly destroying it.

The seismosaurus bones were found in the 150 million-year-old Morrison Formation, which is from the latest part of the Jurassic Period — the halcyon days of dinosaurs.

Seismosaurus probably was 100 to 120 feet long, 18 feet high at the shoulder, 15 feet high at the hip and weighed 80 to 100 tons, Gillette said.

Supersaurus was 80 to 100 feet long, 25 feet high at the shoulder, 15 feet high at the hip and weighed 60 to 70 tons, he said.

By comparison, a large bull elephant weighs about 7½ tons and a blue whale weighs about 100 tons.

Gillette said the name seismosaurus came to him while he was reading a scientific dictionary of Latin words. "I wanted something a little more appropriate to describe its size — something instead of super-dupersaurus," he said.

Seismosaurus appears to be closely related to diplodocus — a long, slender plant-eating sauropod, he said.

The super-giants probably lived in herds and, like elephants, the adults gathered around the young to protect their offspring, Gillette said.

"We have much more than the tail" still at the site, he said. "We cross our fingers and hope for a whole skeleton."

The bones were recovered from a what seems to be an ancient sand bar, and the top was sealed by iron ore, which helped preserve the bones, Gillette said.

"We had to use a jackhammer where the bones are," he said. "It's a blessing because the bones aren't crushed, aren't distorted."

Most of the bones could be locked in the same area, and they were so large they probably could not have been washed very far downstream, Gillette said.

If the whole dinosaur were found, "it would probably take about 10 man-years to prepare ... and $800,000 from excavation to mounting," Gillette said.

"We're going to try not to dig more than we can handle," he said. "We'll have another dig this fall and we have scheduled more for 1987."

Foreign policy changes

MOSCOW — The Communist Party has taken direct control of such major foreign policy decisions as timing of summits and arms control strategy since Mikhail S. Gorbachev came to power, Soviet and Western sources say.

The shift of responsibility from the Foreign Ministry to the party has been accomplished through carefully paced personnel changes that realign the network created by Andrei A. Gromyko in his 28 years as foreign minister.

A senior Soviet official and Western diplomats said the Kremlin also has rearranged ministerial portfolios, some of which dated from the czars, to make the ministry more similar and accessible to its foreign counterparts.

Accompanying the new design is a Western-style public relations campaign that has become a hallmark of Gorbachev's 17 months as party chief.

Although dramatic policy changes are not likely, the mechanics of decision-making have been altered significantly.

Mandela, other seized

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Two of South Africa's most prominent critics of apartheid, black activist Winnie Mandela and white Parliament member Helen Suzman, were detained briefly by soldiers Friday while visiting a Soweto school.

The two women, and nine journalists accompanying them, were released after about 30 minutes.

Mrs. Suzman, 68, who has joined black leaders in protesting recent deployment of troops at schools, said: "It must be extremely distressing for black students to be confronted at every turn by a man with his finger on the trigger."

Mrs. Suzman, who belongs to the opposition Progressive Federal Party, went to Soweto to visit Mrs. Mandela, wife of Nelson Mandela, imprisoned African National Congress leader.

Japan to build defense

TOKYO — Japan said Friday that it will accelerate its defense buildup in the face of a growing Soviet presence in the Pacific, while heaving to a defense spending ceiling that has irritated Washington.

In its annual report on defense issues, Japan's Defense Agency also said that with a new government in Manila, political and other developments in the Philippines are likely to affect the security of all of Asia.

The report was released publicly after the Cabinet approved it Friday.

It said Japan will keep its policy of spending no more than 1 percent of its Gross National Product on defense, despite U.S. demands that this island nation take on a greater share of the defense burden in the Western Pacific.

The agency said Japan's defense capability has yet to reach a level recommended in its 1976 outline on defense, of being capable of repulsing a small-scale, limited aggression.

Brezhnev's son retires

MOSCOW — The son of the late Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev has retired from his post as a foreign trade official at the age of 53 for health reasons, a government publication confirmed Friday.

The announcement of Yuri L. Brezhnev's long-rumored retirement, effective in late April, was published in the latest edition of a collection of government decrees.

The brief announcement said only that the "Council of Ministers of the U.S.S.R. has decreed: Comrade Brezhnev, Y.L., will be freed from the duties of first deputy minister of foreign trade in connection with his retirement for health reasons."

Mexican-American Democrats endorse sales tax hike

McALLEN, Texas (AP) — Texas Mexican Americans will support a proposed sales tax increase to balance the state's budget, but are against the "meat ax" approach to cuts in education, the chairman of the Mexican-American Democrats said today.

Ruben Bonilla Jr., a Corpus Christi attorney and chairman of the 11,000-member state organization, praised Gov. Mark White for asking for a temporary increase in the state sales tax to make up for a $3.5 billion budget deficit.

But Bonilla warned that Mexican Americans would not support cuts to education at universities with heavy Hispanic populations, such as Pan American University in Edinburg. Cuts in higher education could mean a loss of $7 million and layoffs of about 160 staff members at the university, school officials have said.

"The Mexican-American Democrats submit that the meat ax approach to dismantling of education programs in Texas is undesirable," Bonilla told a news conference. "Our resistance to wholesale, across-the-board cuts in public education and in higher education are non-negotiable points in discussion."

White proposed to lawmakers meeting in a special session that began this week that some of the budget deficit could be alleviated by temporarily raising the state sales tax from 4½ cents to 5½ cents. White also asked for multimillion-dollar cuts from state agencies, colleges and universities.

White and other top Democratic officials are scheduled to address the two-day meeting, which 500 MAD delegates are expected to attend.

Bonilla blasted former Gov. Bill Clements, a Republican, who Bonilla said has criticized White but has not come up with an alternative.

Bonilla also said the Republican Party is using San Antonio State District Judge Roy Barrera, a candidate for attorney general, to sway Hispanics into the GOP.

But Bonilla said Hispanic voters would not be tricked.

"Roy Barrera plays less of a role in the election than he did before the fiscal crisis," he said.

Comedian at development deal level

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — These days you can find Tom Hanks behind a desk in a spacious office at the Burbank Studio. He has achieved that symbol of a star's eminence: the development deal.

Quite a milestone for an actor who only a few years ago was appearing in such epics as "He Knows You're Alone" and "Mazes and Monsters."

What is a development deal? That's when a studio says to an actor or director: "Let's get together. Move into our building and we'll pay you to look for properties and develop scripts. If we like what comes out, we'll back the movie. If we don't, you can take it to another studio."

Hanks made his deal with Columbia Pictures, which had a similar contract with Sally Field, resulting in "Murphy's Romance." Hanks has no sure-fire project after a year, but he's still developing.

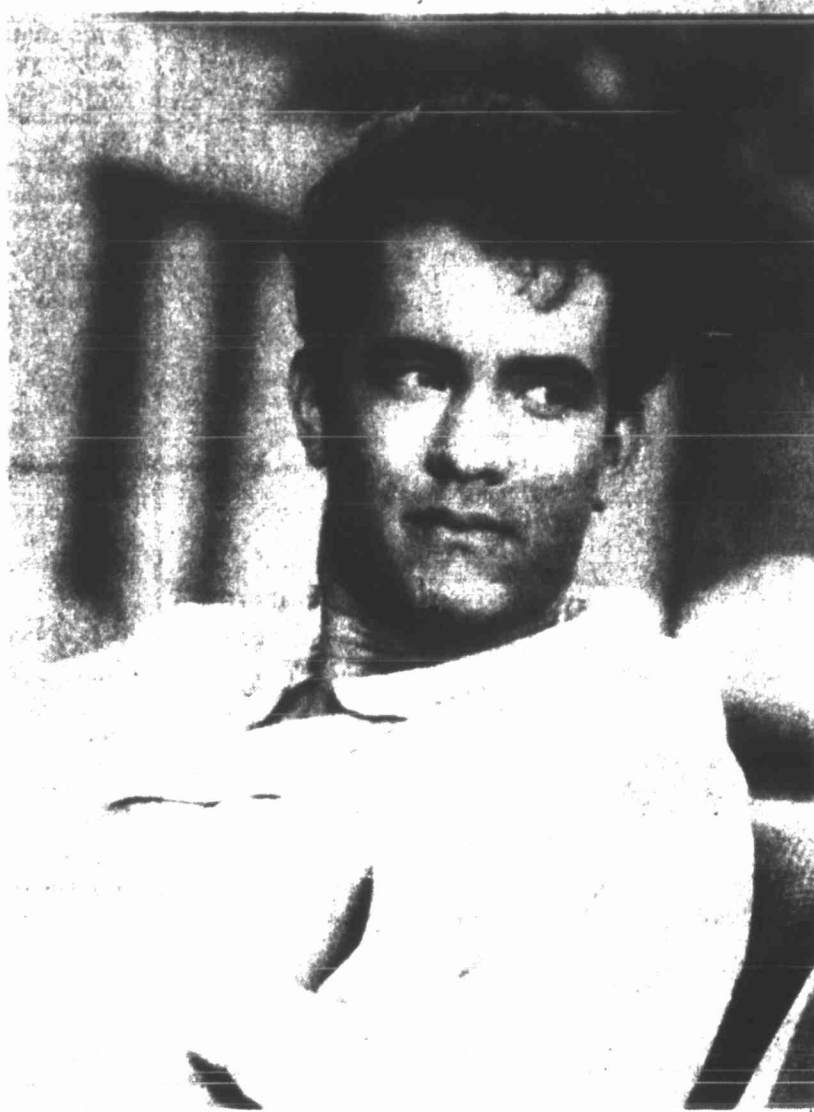

"Splash!" is the movie that made Tom Hanks a hot ticket. Since then he has had four releases with varying results, mostly bad.

"Bachelor Party" did OK, the actor said in an interview. "The Man With One Red Shoe" came and went fast. "Volunteers" was a disappointment. "The Money Pit" did better than it should have."

That's not exactly a sterling record, but Hanks pointed out the perils of making comedies, which is his field of endeavor. "You can make a dramatic movie, and even if it's nothing great, you don't get any adverse reaction. Show an audience a comedy and if they don't laugh, you're dead. There's nothing you can do about it. The word gets around, and people stay away."

"You can do interviews until you're blue in the face, you can take ads on the Goodyear blimp. Nothing you do is going to change the results," he said.

"But does that mean that the picture is a failure? Look at 'The Treasure of the Sierra Madre.' It lost money when it was first released," he said.

Actor Tom Hanks is shown on the set of the new movie "Nothing in Common," in which he stars as David Basner, a successful, young advertising executive. Hanks has made a deal to develop new projects for Columbia Pictures.

"The Wizard of Oz" wasn't a moneymaker at first. Some of my pictures are getting a second life, so I don't feel so bad about them."

The latest Tom Hanks movie is Tri-Star Pictures' "Nothing in Common" with a cast including Jackie Gleason, Eva Marie Saint, Hector Elizondo and Bess Armstrong. Hanks plays a Chicago advertising whiz whose life is disrupted when his parents separate. The director is Garry Marshall ("Young Doctors in Love," "The Flamingo Kid").

"Nothing in Common," said Hanks, required "my biggest investment as a business being of any role I've played so far." The film also allowed him to observe firsthand the legendary Gleason.

"There's no doubt that he is one of a kind, an idol in the literal sense as well as an idol of mine," said Hanks. "He represents not only his body of work but the whole history of television."

"Going in, I naturally wondered, 'Can I hold my own?' The intimidation factor was immense. But I found that Jackie — or I should say 'Mr. Gleason' — is not at all competitive. His only consideration is, 'What does this need? How can we give it a spark? Let's try to maximize this scene.' His way of working comes from his confidence, and it rubs off on you."

"He is not the kind of actor who can articulate the way he operates. I'm sure if he had to face 15,000 students at a university and advise them on acting, he'd say, 'Just go out there and learn it.'"

Tom Hanks' education in comedy came early. "I first realized I was funny was when I was 6 and I stood in line for handball," he said. "I took the stuff my older brother said and repeated it for my friends. They roared with laughter. My brother was very shy. I was never shy."

He continued his impromptu comedy while growing up in Oakland, Calif. At Sacramento State University he acted in plays for Vincent Dowling, who invited him to train at the Great Lakes Shakespeare Festival. "That was a great experience, where I could appear in comedies like 'The Taming of the Shrew' and 'Two Gentlemen of Verona,'" Hanks observed. "It's a great jump from working in theory and working in practice."

He moved on to New York where he did theater and schlocky movies. ABC brought him to Hollywood in 1980 for the short-lived but fondly remembered series "Bosom Buddies." Then, "Splash!"

Donahue goes prime time next week

NEW YORK (AP) — Phil Donahue is betting there's an audience for him in prime time, where he will be all next week exploring human relationships on "The Human Animal."

If he's right, the bars will be packed and the crisis hotlines will be busy come Friday, after five days of his gloomy and sobering look at America.

"The Human Animal," based on his book of the same name, teems with failed marriages, pregnant teen-agers, desperate farmers, unemployed steelworkers, lonely singles and impoverished mothers raising families alone.

Even amid the swimming pools and sprawling lawns of Richardson, Texas, Donahue finds children disturbed by divorce and alienated by their parents' headlong pursuit of career success.

"The series does call attention to what we believe to be a significant gathering storm, the damage of which will be expressed most painfully in the next century," Donahue said in an interview. "But this is happening at a time when we do seem to be looking the other way."

"Any perfunctory examination of the human animal reveals that we are endowed by our Creator to do much better than we are doing, and that we cannot begin to do better unless we become, at the very least, curious about who we are — something that this nation has not been altogether enthusiastic about."

The NBC series, starting Monday and airing on five consecutive nights at 10 p.m. EDT, begins with "Love and Sex," and continues with "Nature and Nurture," "War and Violence," "Woman and Man" and "Family and Survival."

"Nature and Nurture" describes Donahue's aim: to sort out whether violence, for instance, is inbred or is something we learn.

Skipping rapidly over the technical ground, Donahue makes his points more through closeups of individuals than through statistics and talking academic heads.

On the flip side, he talks with parents who wave flashcards of Italian phrases and historical arcana in infants' faces in hope of raising geniuses.

'Aliens' Warning: Cardiac patients should stay home

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

Nothing much happens in the first hour of the new 20th Century-Fox "Aliens": rescue of a survivor of an ill-fated space flight, preparations for another mission, plenty of U.S. Marine macho — male and female.

The last 75 minutes of the film, though, are non-stop, heart-pounding excitement. Cardiac patients, stay home.

Sequels are chancy. Only once in history ("The Godfather, Part II") has the followup exceeded the original. The 1979 "Alien" seemed hard to beat. Ridley Scott had invested the space adventure with extraordinary visual style as well as exquisite terror.

The winner and new champion, "Aliens." Credit James Cameron, who elevated the search-and-destroy film with the low-budget "The Terminator," with creating an original and totally involving thriller filled with awesome beauty and powerful performances.

Sigourney Weaver and her cat were the only survivors of a space mission that encountered unspeakable horror: otherworld creatures that invade human bodies.

She is rescued and agrees to lead another expedition to investigate the loss of a colony on a far-off planet. She is assigned a group of

In review

Marines who seem to have the capability and the weapons to handle any enemy.

They arrive at the beleaguered planet and find no survivors except a scared little girl (Carrie Henn). But the innards of the space colony are like a ticking bomb.

James Cameron, who directed his own script (based on the story he wrote with David Giler and Walter Hill), has crafted a near-perfect structure of suspense. Just when you think the survivors have reached safety, he springs another horrific surprise. Credit must also go to his producer-wife Gale Anne Hurd, effects creator Stan Winston and cinematographer Adrian Biddle.

Sigourney Weaver is merely terrific. Her strong presence and firm resolve keep the mission together against insuperable odds. When she straps on her armament to do battle with the aliens, she makes Sylvester Stallone look like a pipsqueak.

The supporting cast is largely unknown, but not for long: Carrie Henn, a great screamer as the lost girl; Michael Biehn as Weaver's principal aide; Lance Henriksen as the quirky scientist; the insidious civilian Paul Reiser; the Marine leader William Hope; the private, Jenette Goldstein.

The rating is R, and with good reason. Young children (and not a few adults) will be terrified by the slimy beasties. Also, the dialogue is peppered with obscenities, overly so. Running time: 137 minutes.

"It was magic when we made 'Singing in the Rain' and we wanted to recapture the magic," said Debbie Reynolds, as she and Donald O'Connor were interviewed recently on ABC-TV's Good Morning America show. ## True false confession of Claudia

By ROBERT BARR
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Claudia Yasko made fools of nearly everyone, both the cops who believed her confession to three murders and those who cried that she was entrapped.

Then she offered to tell her story to Daniel Keyes, and there were times when he thought the disturbed, seductive woman had made a fool of him, too.

Keyes stuck with it for two years, though, and tells in "Unveiling Claudia: A True Story of Serial Murder" (Bantam, $17.95) how she could give a detailed confession to a crime she didn't commit.

"She told the truth," Keyes said in a recent interview, "but she wove in enough fantasy to make the truth worthless."

Claudia, then 26, confessed to killing nightclub owner Mickey McCann, his elderly mother and go-go dancer Christine Herdman with a .22-caliber pistol at his home near Columbus, Ohio, on Feb. 13, 1978. She also implicated her heroin-addicted boyfriend and his buddy, a small-time hoodlum.

Her story was full of holes and contradictions, but she knew things — about the positions of the bodies, about hazel nuts on the floor and a blue cereal bowl in the kitchen sink — which even the police had missed.

The case attracted the attention of Playboy magazine, which concluded that Claudia was being railroaded and that her confession was largely fiction based on widely reported facts. The Playboy Foundation hired two investigators to look into the case, but Keyes said they turned up nothing beyond what police already knew.

While Claudia was in custody, her boyfriend and his pal passed lie-detector tests and one produced a firm alibi. And then another murder was committed with the same gun which killed Mickey McCann.

DANIEL KEYES

writes murderer's story

Eventually, 10 people died in the 22-caliber killings which terrorized the Columbus area that year.

The killers were caught when one tried to buy gifts with a murdered man's credit card. Once in custody, Gary James Lewingdon implicated his brother, Thaddeus Charles Lewingdon, and both were convicted.

Which explained everything except the confession of Claudia Yasko.

Very tall and strikingly beautiful, Claudia Yasko had been diagnosed as schizophrenic, was heavily medicated and had only a minute-to-minute grasp of reality. She dabbled in the occult and had starred in a cheap, pornographic movie.

When she was jailed during the murder investigation, Claudia believed she was starring in a movie. Only a beating from another inmate convinced her otherwise.

Four years after her arrest, she said she wanted to tell her story to Keyes, who had written "The Minds of Billy Milligan," a book about a case of multiple personalities, and the novel "Flowers for Algernon," which became the film "Charlie" with Cliff Robertson.

Claudia reminded Keyes of a character from a James Joyce short story, who was described as having a sly upward glance which made her look like a "perverse Madonna."

"To me, that was the image of Claudia all the way through," Keyes said. "That innocence and vulnerability attracts men, and they manipulate her. But then part of her manipulates men."

Claudia didn't just tell Keyes her story. She dropped hints, or suggested he talk to someone else. Sometimes she just lied.

As he pursued the threads of the case, the Ohio University English professor was drawn into a strange world.

"This is a world I never knew," he said. "These were street people, drug addicts, criminals, murderers. She did a soft-porn film and was involved with those people."

An energetic man who stands just 5-feet-5, Keyes admits his fear in interviewing one of the men Claudia had implicated in the killings — a brute well over 6 feet tall.

Keyes also portrays the conflicts among police departments which frustrated the investigation and tells how the police failed to react when Gary Lewingdon's wife came to them and told them that Thaddeus was the .22-caliber killer.

Keyes later learned that Gary Lewingdon wasn't caught by good police work, but had gone shopping with the intention of getting caught. The whole episode was set up by his wife's attorney, who knew who the killers were but was too scared to go to police.

Local business plans expansion

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Mike Arnett, owner of Golden Gate home improvements company of Big Spring, says he plans to expand the business by more than two-thirds.

By the end of 1987, Arnett expects to employ 90 to 150 people in the manufacture of storm doors and windows. The company now employs 34 people, mainly subcontract laborers, he said.

"Our goal is to become one of the biggest employers in Big Spring," he said.

Arnett said he plans to add a 7,500-square-foot building to the property now and another of the same size in about nine months.

The reason for the expansions he said, is that Golden Gate has expanded its wholesale market to include Oklahoma, New Mexico and other nearby states.

And a new vinyl-framed replacement window the company recently designed is "going over like hot cakes," he said.

The window includes the best features of many different designs, he said.

Its vinyl frame doesn't transfer heat or cold, he said, so it is energy efficient, unlike common metal or wood frames. Furthermore, vinyl is "virtually maintenance-free," he said.

The two layers of glass on the window are insulated, he said, and a spiral balance system makes the window easier to handle. An adjustment allows the window to be opened with more or less resistance.

The panes snap out of the frame to enable access from inside the house, he said.

The window opens from either the top or bottom, and a security lock prevents it opening further than desired.

If a glass pane is broken, it can be removed from the window and brought into the shop for quick replacement, instead of having to rely on a repairman to come to the building.

The window comes with a 50-year hail guarantee, a lifetime guarantee on the frame, and a 10-year warranty on the glass.

In the future, Arnett said, Golden Gate may manufacture garage doors and kitchen cabinets in addition to storm doors and windows.

Big Spring men will have a new source of fashions soon at Highland Mall.

The Guy Next Door men's clothing shop is scheduled to open soon, said owner Mary Walls.

Walls and her husband Randy also own The Cottage, which is, of course, next door to the Guy Next Door.

Big Spring had a need for a young men's clothing shop, Mary Walls said. She said Gentlemen's Corner, located at 223 Main St., was the only such shop in town, and while it carries a good inventory, it focuses on a more formal look.

The Guy Next Door will carry mainly casual clothes in a moderate price range, Walls said.

It's market is high school through young professional men, sizes 28 through 36, she said.

The store will carry Generra, Bjorn Borg cotton sweaters, Georgetown traditional wear and Girbaud lines of men's clothing, she said, in addition to sweatshirts.

The store is one of several recently opened in Highland Mall, which seems to be the object of new merchant interest.

"I don't think this mall ever died," Walls said. "People seem to enjoy shopping in a home-owned atmosphere. Almost every merchant here is home-owned."

The Cottage has been located in Highland Mall for five years, she said, after moving from downtown.

The Guy Next Door's hours will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The Guy Next Door men's clothing shop is one of Highland Mall's newest additions. It is owned by Mary and Randy Walls, who also own The Cottage.

Business briefs

• The Chamber of Commerce is accepting applications for the 1986-87 Leadership Big Spring program.

The program's purpose is to "educate, motivate and coordinate the future leadership" of Big Spring, according to the chamber newsletter.

The cost of the program is $250, and it is limited to 20 people.

Sessions will cover agriculture, history, health and welfare, education, recreation, culture and churches, the city, the county and state, transportation, communication, utilities, and the economy. Three optional sessions also are included.

The class will meet the second Tuesday of each month September through June from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

• Safeway stores today will sell 16-ounce root beer floats for $1 each, with proceeds benefiting the Texas Easter Seal Society.

The float promotion is part of a nationwide project sponsored this summer by Safeway, A&W Root Beer and Lucerne Ice Cream. An earlier promotion this summer raised more than $23,000 throughout the North Texas division.

The Texas Easter Seal Society is a non-profit voluntary health agency providing direct services to children and adults with physical disabilities.

• July's dry, hot weather wasn't enough to overcome the effects of an abnormally wet June, so water deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District declined 7.2 percent, said secretary/treasurer Joe Pickle.

The total of 1,967,092,430 gallons was down by 152,706,000 gallons from July 1985. Municipal demands were 1,776,590,200 gallons, down 8.27 percent. Oil and industrial use totaled 190,502,230 gallons, up 4.05 percent.

Big Spring, plagued by water plant and distribution problems all month, took 304,438,000 gallons, down 4.72 percent; Midland 417,880,600 gallons, down 0.38 percent; Odessa 786,929,600 gallons down 8.6 percent; San Angelo, which caught "a good supply" in its reservoirs, 121,588,000 gallons, down 31.99 percent; Snyder 136,481,000 gallons, down 3.86 percent; and Stanton, 9,270,000 gallons, down 29.26 percent.

For the first time this summer, demand topped the 60 million gallon mark, he said, from late July to Aug. 2, when weekend scattered showers brought a 40 percent drop in usage.

Revenues of $1,203,646 for July were up 5.17 percent over last year because of a rate adjustment at the start of this year.

At the end of July, Lake J.B. Thomas contained 26,732 acre feet of water with a net withdrawal of 2,842 acre feet and no inflow. Lake E.V. Spence held 214,230 acre feet, with an inflow of 347 acre feet, and a net withdrawal of 7,343 acre feet.

• This year's Permian Basin Oil Show is scheduled for Oct. 15-18 at the Ector County Coliseum complex in Odessa. More than 500 exhibitors plan to participate.

The first two days of the show will be reserved for those working in the petroleum industry. Those days, the show will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and no children will be admitted.

Other days the general public is invited. The gates will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. Oct. 17, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 18.

The oil show parade and opening ceremonies are set for 4:30 p.m. Oct. 15, later in the day than usual, to enable school bands to participate.

• Vincent E. Breland of Lubbock has been appointed executive

The foundation financially supports research to find the causes and cures of more than 100 different types of arthritis. It provides information and educational materials about the many forms of the disease, its treatment and medications.

More than 284,000 people in the West Texas area have some form of arthritis, the foundation says.

• A free seminar to help smaller Texas communities with wastewater management has been scheduled for Aug. 13 in Dallas at the Ramada Inn, Love Field, 6900 Cedar Springs. ## Predictability of the '70s gone for good

By TOM PETERS

In the time it takes you to read this column, about $250 million in foreign exchange dealings will take place. In part, that has fueled political unrest in Mexico. It has helped little-known Dart Group Corp. raise $4 billion to make an unfriendly takeover bid for giant Safeway ($20 billion in revenues); it has contributed to our $40 billion trade deficit with Japan; and it has something to do with why relatively small supranational banks of Dallas is outperforming USX Corp. (the former U.S. Steel).

The volume of foreign exchange transactions also explains why most management theories over the first seven decades of this century are proving to be millstones around our necks, rather than bedrock upon which to build.

Our theories are built upon the assumption of continuity and predictability. So are our factory and organization structures, our labor practices, our pension plans, our trade associations and our regulatory bodies.

Predictability of demand, competitive structures and exchange rates probably are gone for good. And without predictability, we are without anchors. We are left to grope for solutions and to race about in search of the perfect business portfolio — to little avail.

That $250 million being traded while you read this is part of an estimated $60 trillion to $70 trillion in annual foreign exchange dealings. The exchange dealings are largely transacted by the world's major banks, a group of "supranational" institutions, as Howard Wachtel calls them in his readable and thoughtful "The Money Mandarins."

Supranational banks and supranational corporations are part of the largely unseen, but powerful, supranational economy. They have evolved free of regulation since the U.S.-engineered Bretton Woods monetary agreement flew apart when President Richard Nixon decided in 1971 to let the dollar float free of gold.

By supranational, Wachtel means beyond any nation's reach. The financial spiders, crawling around the all-encompassing electronic network web, created a supply of Eurodollars that has grown to a trillion dollars. In fact, there are now three times as many Eurodollars flying about as the entire U.S. money supply.

Eurodollars can be moved and lent with ease. For instance, there are no reserve requirements associated with their lending, as there are with domestic banking. The Federal Reserve requires banks to hold 20 cents of every dollar you deposit, leaving banks to lend only four-fifths of what you give them.

Unanchored Eurodollars are always in search of a home. In the 1970s, bankers lent to developing countries with what proved to be reckless abandon. The world's bankers and government borrowers in Mexico were counting on a future of $35-a-barrel oil to insure payback. As I write this, oil's spot price is $8.75 a barrel.

When developing countries proved to be a poor home for this "stateless currency," as some call it, the search was on for another lending outlet. Though there are many reasons for the merger boom in the U.S. and abroad, a prime spur was the sheer availability of lendable dollars pulled out of the developing countries. Thus the Dart Groups of the world can line up billions of dollars overnight.

Likewise, there are many reasons for the trade deficit we run with Japan, not the least of which are lousy American product quality and our pitiful skills as exporters. This in part is because American management's response to unstable world financial forces has reinforced their preference for financial gamesmanship over product enhancement. Chieftains are rewarded who ceaselessly shuffle portfolios and create instant paper wealth for shareholders, rather than those who patiently improve their factories and their international trade relationships.

The new management skills are speed, adaptation, responsiveness, flexibility. Uncertainty and change are the core upon which every successful business organization must be built. The problem is that we are short of tried-and-true management prescriptions to implement these new skills.

'Ultraconsumers' found a potent buying force

By SKIP WOLLENBERG

AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Premium product makers and those who would like to be, take heart. One of the nation's leading advertising agencies says a creature called the ultraconsumer is ready, willing and eager to buy what you're selling.

In a new study, Grey Advertising Inc. says it discovered the group while trying to find out who was keeping new gourmet shops and clothing boutiques in business, bringing vintage wines to every cocktail party and depleting the store shelves of premium ice cream, popcorn, salad dressing and mustard.

It couldn't be a newly affluent society, Grey executives reasoned. That group hasn't grown much in the past decade, they said. Young urban professionals were also discounted as a major factor behind the move toward premium goods. The Grey executives said there are simply too few of them as well.

Grey researchers found instead a group that it calls ultraconsumers — estimated to be 26 million strong and hailing from a wide range of income, age and occupational backgrounds.

What they shared is an attitude. "As a group they feel they can, in fact they must, have it all," said Barbara S. Feigin, executive vice president at Grey and head of its marketing and research department.

Based on interviews with 181 adults making more than $25,000 a year and ranging in age from 21 to 50, Grey researchers found that a majority it called ultraconsumers demonstrated a distinct preference for premium products, from sparkling water to personal electronics and designer clothes.

While ultraconsumers have some traditional goals, they see themselves as being very different from their parents in how they live and spend their money, Mrs. Feigin said.

"My parents wanted the basics; I'm after the icing on the cake," she said was a common theme.

They place more importance on their personal careers, fitness and well-being than they do on having a family and home.

They are more apt to be single, childless and urban than their traditional counterparts, but ultraconsumers were also found among the married, those living with children and those living in small towns.

Even though they may have to go into debt for some premium items, the ultraconsumers are optimistic about the future and have a shopping wish list that "just won't quit," Mrs. Feigin said.

"In every category of wish fulfillment, from personal computers to weekend houses, from trips to Europe to memberships in health clubs, Ultras are light years ahead of the less acquisitive traditionalists," she said.

The group offers a rich market for advertisers, Mrs. Feigin said.

Ultraconsumers go for premium products even if the items themselves don't cost much — "inexpensive luxuries," noted Richard M. Karp, executive vice president for creative services at Grey. He said that makes ultraconsumers potential targets for a wide range of companies that decide to market their products as the best in the category.

Drilling report

These are the latest oil and gas activity reports filed with the Texas Railroad Commission for the five-county crossroads country.

The No. 1-9410 J.V.P. Waters, a 10,500-ft. developmental well, is scheduled to be drilled in Howard County's Southeast Luther Field. BTA Producers of Midland is the operator. The well will be spudded in an 80-acre lease ten miles northeast of Big Spring in the T&P Survey.

Drillrite has been staked for the No. 3-11 Love, a 2,000-ft. developmental well in the Moore Field, Howard County. The operator is Rosewood Resources of Dallas.

Davis Oil has given up on its efforts to make producers out of two wildcat wells in Howard County. They were designated as the No. 1 E.P. Driver, located six miles north of Big Spring; and the No. 1 Wright Ranch, located five miles north of Knot.

The Driver well was spudded last Dec. 19, and bottomed dry at 10,010 feet. The Wright Ranch well was spudded July 10, and probed to a dry bottom at 11,182 feet.

Exxon Corp. has abandoned 14 undrilled locations in the Howard-Glasscock Field, Howard County. The wells had been designated as the Nos. 4, 5 & 6 Patti Batjer; the Nos. 10, 11 & 12 Patti Batjer; "C"; and the Nos. 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 & 20 Patti Batjer. "B." The wells were to have been drilled 14 miles southeast of Coahoma, 15 miles southeast of Big Spring, and 15 miles southeast of Big Spring, respectively.

An 8,200-ft. developmental well is planned by Cox Oil & Gas of Dallas at a drillsite seven miles northwest of Westbrook, Mitchell County. The location is in a 337-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

Well's designation is the No. 1 Broadman "A." It will be drilled in the Westbrook Field.

Production figures have been revealed for the No. 9 T.A. Ross, a developmental venture in Mitchell County's Turner-Gregory Field. Hrubetz Operating is the operator.

The well showed potential to pump 17 barrels of oil per day, plus 110 barrels of water. It bottomed at 3,200 feet, and was plugged back to 2,770 feet. Production is from perforations in the Clear Fork Formation, 2,625 to 2,780 feet into the hole. Drillrite is six miles northwest of Westbrook in a 40-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

Exxon Corp. has abandoned two undrilled locations in the Westbrook Field, Mitchell County. The ventures had been designated as the No. 1 Gray "A" and the No. 1 M.T. Latimer "B." Drillrites were three miles southwest of Westbrook.

Shell Western Exploration and Production has abandoned two undrilled locations in the Westbrook Field, Mitchell County. The ventures had been designated as the No. 1 Gray "A" and the No. 1 SWEPI/TXPO Jones. Drillrites were 11 miles southeast and 11 miles northeast of Gall, respectively.

Martin County's Spraberry Trend Field gained a new producer when John L. Cox completed the No. 5 Dickenson "B" seven miles southwest of Tarzan.

The well indicated ability to pump 35 barrels of oil per day, along with 40 barrels of water. It was taken to a 9,180-ft. bottom, and will produce from perforations commingled in the Upper and Lower Spraberry Formations, ranging from 8,186 to 9,160 feet into the wellbore.

The operation is located in a 480-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

Belco Development of Midland has filed for permit to drill the No. 1 Mack "47," a 12,000-ft. wildcat well three miles northwest of Stanton.

Location is in a 640-acre lease in Martin County's T&P Survey.

location for the No. 1 Courtney Cowden, a wildcat well to be located 22 miles west of Stanton. With projected total depth of 13,200 feet, the well will be drilled in a 320-acre lease in the T&P Survey, Martin County. The operator is Heritage Resources.

Production at the No. 3 Schwertner-Daniel has been assigned to Glasscock County's Spraberry Trend Field. The operator is Petroleum Inc.

The well is located ten miles southwest of Garden City. Drillrite is in a lease in the T&P Survey.

The well potential at 82 barrels of oil per day, plus 32 barrels of water. Production is from perforations commingled in the Spraberry and Dean Formations, ranging from 8,506 to 8,033 feet into the wellbore. Bottomhole was at 8,150 feet, and the well was plugged back to 8,071 feet.

Big cities take certain things for granted. For instance, on any given winter night in San Antonio, Houston, New York, etc., the best athletes in the world play arguably the most exciting game in the world to stands half empty.

Of course, there are games in which the crowd goes nuts. It starts with a spectacular play with the score tight, and the special feeling early on that this one's going down to the wire.

The fans start buzzing. The players, playing hard, start playing a little harder. They sense appreciation, and this really gets them going. It becomes a give and take thing, with the players giving, the fans taking then giving back, and so on, back and forth, until the place is just rocking with energy and breakaway slams.

Fourth quarter, a minute left, the fans on their feet, and George Gervin dribbling, looking to shoot the game winner, with Michael Cooper on him like stink on a paper mill. Larry Nance cuts across the lane. He's wide open, and waving. Gervin, never one to pass, doesn't see him.

Gervin rises to shoot, but the pesky Cooper gets a full hand on the ball before the release, and it's all the struggling Gervin can do to dump it off to his nearest teammate, who happens to be Nance.

Nance, who's lost his momentum, reaches feebly for the pass, but it's not a good one. Fresh off the bounce, Johnny Dawkins, a little whippet of a guard, cuts through the passing lane, slaps the ball onto a new course and is off to the races. As an afterthought, Dawkins rises like a comet, spins 180 degrees, and jams home a reverse slam, tucking his feet under his butt and getting a look at the nine other players before letting gravity have its say.

When he does land, it's on the hardwood of none other than Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, smack dab in the middle of Big Spring.

This could easily be the case on Tuesday evening, Sept. 23, when a sampling of the NBA's best is scheduled to tip off at 7:30 p.m. for the NBA All-Star Shootout of Big Spring.

Larry Brown, the new men's basketball coach at Howard College, is responsible for the Big Spring Shootout. He and a friend called on players they had met at basketball camps, and with money from their own pockets and the will to make it happen, are on the brink of bringing professional basketball to Big Spring.

The proceeds will go to the Special Olympics and the Howard College Athletic Program, though the players will be paid.

"We need to get something here in Big Spring. This will be the first of several things to come. If we can pull this off, we can do more in the future," Brown said.

"We know it's going to be a success. But it depends on the community," he added.

Judging from the star-studded cast who have indicated they will definitely be here, it should be a success.

Dawkins, who led Duke to the NCAA finals last year and is headed for the San Antonio Spurs next year, is one of the top guards invited. Big Spring fans will be able to say they saw one of his first, if not his very first, professional game. San Antonio, eat your heart out.

Other Spurs in Big Spring will include Artis Gilmore, the 7'2" veteran center, and Mike Mitchell, a forward with a deadly touch from the perimeter.

Lance, who plays for the Phoenix Suns, is an awesome physical specimen with great leaping ability. He was the winner of the NBA's first slam dunk championship three years ago. Lance will be joined by Sun teammate Walter Davis, the scoring machine from North Carolina.

Michael Cooper is the lone Laker so far to make a commitment. Cooper's quickness and intensity make him one of the top, if not the top defensive player in the league. Larry Bird has said that Cooper is the only player who can stop him.

The Championship Series runner-up Houston Rockets will be well represented, with swingman Robert Reid and newly acquired forward Clyde Drexler. Reid's outside shooting and play at guard was instrumental in the Rocket's trouncing of the Lakers in the Western Conference final this year.

As for Drexler, the former Portland Trailblazer should be familiar to Houston Cougar fans. As a charter member of Phi Slamma Jamma, Drexler's flying slams propelled the Cougars into several Final Four appearances.

Gervin, of the Chicago Bulls but for years a San Antonio Spur, has won four NBA scoring titles. The "Ice Man" can score a lot of points in a hurry.

STRATTON MOUNTAIN, Vt. (AP) — John McEnroe brushed aside two challengers Friday to move into a semifinal matchup against Wimbledon champion Boris Becker in the $315,000 Volvo International tennis tournament.

Saturday's other semifinal will pit Ivan Lendl against veteran Jimmy Connors as the four top seeds survived the rain-plagued week that included a tornado watch on Friday.

In his first week back after a nearly seven-month self-imposed hiatus from the sport, McEnroe finds himself facing the 18-year-old Becker, the player who succeeded him as Wimbledon champion.

"I'm happy I have the opportunity to play him," McEnroe said. "I feel I have a good game to play Becker. And I think it (the confrontation) motivates a lot of top guys."

Lendl and Connors battled their way to a semifinal meeting early Friday, before a heavy rain and tornado watch halted play.

When play resumed, Becker completed a 7-5, 6-2 victory over qualifier Martin Laurendeau of Canada and McEnroe, playing his second match of the day, stopped the amazing run of 16-year-old Andre Agassi, another qualifier, 6-3, 6-3.

Lendl had his toughest match of the week, but eliminated No. 7 Brad Gilbert 6-2, 3-6, 6-2 as he continued his bid to reach the final of this Nabisco Grand Prix event for the second straight year.

Earlier in the day, Connors and two qualifiers — 16-year-old Andre Agassi and Canadian Martin Laurendeau — completed their third-round victories, while John McEnroe also advanced into the quarterfinals with yet another straight-set victory, this one over Australia's Wally Masur.

McEnroe almost lost his first set of the tournament, his first competitive appearance since the Nabisco Masters in January. But he saved off two set points in the ninth game of the second set, then won a tiebreak 7-5 to eliminate the Australian 6-2, 7-6.

For Connors, Friday's victory over Seguso was partial atonement for a surprising first-round loss to the player from Prairie Oaks, Fla., at Wimbledon last month.

Norman extends PGA lead to four

Nicklaus' 68 puts him in second and within striking distance

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Greg Norman, his lead expanded to four strokes despite a little lapse, took note that Jack Nicklaus was still challenging at the halfway point of the 68th PGA National Championship.

"Obviously, I'm in very good position. There aren't that many fellows ahead of me," Nicklaus said Friday after a 3-under-par 68 had put him among the leaders.

But Norman, the dominant figure in golf since losing to Nicklaus by a single stroke in the Masters at Augusta, Ga. in April, had a quick response.

"I gave him Augusta," Norman said. "I don't really want to give him the PGA Championship."

And, with that in mind, Norman put still more daylight — two more strokes to a total of four — between himself and the rest of the field.

Norman stretched his lead with a second-round 68 that produced a 36-hole total of 133, nine shots under par on the Inverness course that, he said, is beginning to regain some of its teeth.

Payne Stewart, who seems to reserve his best play for the game's major championships, and PGA Tour rookie Mike Hulbert moved into a tie for second at 137, five under par.

Stewart birdied the final hole for a 67 and Hulbert shot a 68.

The jaunty Australian did it Friday — just as he's done all summer — with a flourish and a flair. Just as it seemed he was ready to back off a bit, open the gates to potential contenders, Norman put on a blitz that produced three birdies on the last three holes.

Greg Norman gestures as he urges the ball toward the hole on the second green of Friday's second round of the PGA Championship at the Inverness Club in Toledo. Norman ended the day with a four stroke lead.

It came after Norman had this little lapse.

He three-putted from the fringe and made bogey on the 11th hole. It was his first of the week.

"When I made that first bogey, I lost a little concentration. For a few holes, I played on a bit of a walk-about," Norman said.

He missed a five-foot birdie putt on the 13th. He let an approach drift into a bunker on the 14th and made another bogey.

On the 15th, with his lead down to one shot, he let another approach get away. It found the deep rough behind the green and a bogey seemed likely.

Norman promptly chipped it in the hole, using the blade of his sand wedge to strike the ball, for a birdie instead.

His playing partner, defending champion Hubert Green, bowed in mock reverence.

And Norman, teeth gleaming in the late-afternoon sun, one-putted the next three holes, finishing birdie-birdie.

He was the only one of the seven leaders who played in the more difficult conditions of the afternoon brisk breezes and a couple of brief, heavy showers.

"I told myself that the people who played in the morning would have the best of the conditions, to just play a good, solid round and keep myself right there," Norman said.

The white-haired Australian exceeded that goal.

His fast finish enabled him to double his lead from two strokes to four.

"I played very solid again," said Norman, who opened this, the last of the year's four major tests of golfing greatness, with a 65.

"I had two or three more loose shots than I did in the 65, but I played well, drove the ball well, putted well.

"I'm enjoying myself out there. I know I'm playing well, and I'm comfortable on the golf course.

Astros whip Padres; Seaver, John win

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Scott pitched a six-hitter, and Jose Cruz drove in two runs, giving him 1,001 in his major league career, as the Houston Astros defeated the San Diego Padres 5-0 Friday night.

Scott, 12-7, struck out nine batters, boosting his major league-leading total to 216 and giving him 43 strikeouts in his last 33 innings.

Scott and the Padres Lance McCullers, 5-6, were locked in a scoreless duel through five, the Astros managing only two hits, but Houston scored four runs in the sixth inning.

McCullers gave up a leadoff double to Scott, then hit second baseman Bill Doran on top of the batting helmet. The wozy Doran finished the inning but left the game at the end for observations.

The Astros loaded the bases when Lopes' sacrifice turned into a safe-all-around fielder's choice. Denny Walling followed with a sacrifice fly, and after a walk to Glenn Davis and a single by Kevin Bass, Cruz drove in two runs with a single.

Houston added a fifth run in the eighth when Davis doubled and scored on a single by Bass.

The Padres only real threat came in the fourth when Tony Gwynn lined a two-strike single to center and John Kruk followed with a one-out walk. Scott retired the next two batters to get out of the jam. The only other Padre to get past first base in the game was Kruk, who had a two out triple in the sixth.

Montreal Expos catcher Dann Bilardello waits for the ball and then goes on to tag out New York Mets Darryl Strawberry at home for the third out of the fourth inning in Montreal Friday.

Rangers 9, Blue Jays 7
ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Scott Fletcher's two-run single with two outs and the bases loaded in the bottom of the eighth inning rallied the Texas Rangers to a 9-7 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays Friday night.

Fletcher's hit came off reliever Tom Henke after the Rangers had loaded the bases on a hit batter and two walks. Pete O'Brien added an RBI single.

Mark Eichhorn, 8-4, suffered the loss, after relieving Bill Caudill with one out and one on. Eichhorn walked pinch-hitter Darrell Porter and Oddibe McDowell before giving way to Henke.

Fletcher's hit made a winner of Greg Harris, 6-8, the third Texas pitcher. Harris replaced Dale Mohorcic after the Blue Jays had scored two runs in the seventh to take a 7-6 lead.

Jease Barfield, who had tied the game 5-5 in the fifth with a two-run homer, tied it 6-6 with a single in the seventh and scored the go-ahead run on Cliff Johnson's single.

The 28 home runs are a career high for Barfield, who twice has hit 27.

Toronto starter Dave Stieb was ejected by home plate umpire Steve Palermo after the Rangers had touched him for a pair of two-run homers in the bottom of the third, taking a 5-2 lead.

O'Brien's 17th homer of the season gave the Rangers a 3-2 lead, then Stieb hit Pete Incaviglia with a pitch. He argued to no avail that the pitch had hit Incaviglia's bat. One out later, Larry Parrish made it 5-2 with his 16th homer.

Stieb and Blue Jays manager Jimmy Williams carried on the argument between innings and both were ejected.

Toronto scored in the first and second innings on RBI singles by Lloyd Moseby and Tony Fernandez. Parrish doubled in the second and scored on a pair of wild pitches by Stieb.

Tony Fernandez's RBI groundout made it 5-3 in the fourth and Barfield tied it at 5-5 with a two-run homer in the fifth.

Incaviglia then gave the Rangers a 6-5 lead in the bottom of the fifth with his 19th home run, off reliever Luis Aquino.

Yankees 2, Royals 0
NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy John, pitching in the major leagues for the first time in two months, tossed five-hit ball for 7 2-3 innings in outdueling Charlie Leibrandt as the New York Yankees beat the Kansas City Royals 2-0 Friday night.

Willie Randolph's homer in the first inning was one of only four hits off Leibrandt, 9-9.

John, activated from the disabled list earlier in the day, last pitched June 8 before straining an Achilles tendon. He won his 263rd career game and is 16-7 lifetime versus the Royals.

The 43-year-old left-hander, 4-1, left after a two-out single by Willie Wilson in the eighth. Dave Righetti then retired George Brett and went on to get his 25th save, striking out four batters.

John walked one and struck out five. The most serious trouble he faced came in the sixth inning, but a strong throw by right fielder Dave Winfield ended the threat.

Lonnie Smith reached on an error by New York third baseman Mike Pagliarulo and stole second with two outs. After Hal McRae walked, Frank White lined a single to right. Winfield's throw to the plate stopped Smith in his tracks halfway home, and Smith was tagged out in a rundown.

The Royals have lost three straight games and eight of 11.

Randolph hit his third home run of the season with one out in the first inning. It was Randolph's first homer at Yankee Stadium since last Sept. 5.

Cardinals 3, Pirates 1
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Terry Pendleton had a career-high four hits, and Danny Cox allowed three hits over eight innings, helping the St. Louis Cardinals win their fifth straight with a 3-1 decision Friday night over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Pendleton, John Morris and Curt Ford drove in runs for the Cardinals. Pendleton was 4-for-4, all singles.

The St. Louis victory was No. 11 in a row at home, representing the Cardinals' longest winning streak at Busch Memorial Stadium. The Cards won 16 in a row in 1983 at old Busch Stadium.

Cox, 6-9, allowed just three singles, including Barry Bonds' leadoff hit in ninth, before Rick Horton came on to earn his third save. Cox struck out five to equal his season's best and extended his consecutive-innings streak without a walk to 30 2-3 before walking Bonds in the third inning.

The Cards, who banged out 15 hits, also made it 15 straight conquests of the Pirates in St. Louis since last losing to them at home Sept. 14, 1984. Rick Reuschel, 7-13, gave up 14 of those hits in seven innings.

White Sox 12, Brewers 6
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Daryl Boston drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single and Harold Baines and Tim Lulett added bases-empty home runs Friday night, powering the Chicago White Sox to an 12-6 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

There were seven home runs in the game, four by the Brewers and two of those two-run homers by Rob Deer, who now has 24 this season. Paul Molitor and Cecil Cooper also homered.

Chicago starter Joe Cowley improved his record to 8-6, scattering seven hits over six innings. Gene Nelson pitched three innings for his fourth save.

The White Sox staked Cowley to a 5-0 lead in the first. John Cangelosi led off with a walk, stole second and scored on Boston's single. Baines and Ron Hassey followed with singles, scoring Boston.

Braves 7, Giants 6
ATLANTA (AP) — Dale Murphy drove in three runs with a home run and double, and Ken Griffey hit a two-run homer Friday night as the Atlanta Braves built a 7-1 lead, then held on to beat San Francisco 7-6. The victory was Atlanta's fifth in a row.

Expos 5, Mets 3
MONTREAL (AP) — Tim Lincecum drove in two runs with a allowing Dawson to score on the play as well.

Montreal added a run in the second when Dann Bilardello led off with a single, went to second on Smith's infield out and scored on Raines' hit.

Red Sox 6, Tigers 1
DETROIT (AP) — Tom Seaver pitched a five-hitter and struck out nine batters, a season high, as the Boston Red Sox defeated Detroit 6-1 Friday and ended the Tigers' four-game winning streak.

Seaver raised his record to 5-10 after three straight losses, in his second complete game this year. He walked only one Tiger and was supported by Wade Boggs' homer, and a four-run, second-inning rally.

Seaver shut out the Tigers until the ninth.

Randy O'Neal, 1-7, took the loss for Detroit, which fell 5 1-2 games behind Boston in the American League East.

O'Neal, starting only three days after picking up his first save of the season, failed to last three innings. Boston scored its runs in the second, largely due to O'Neal's wildness.

After Don Baylor reached base on shortstop Alan Trammell's fielding error, O'Neal walked three straight batters, the last forcing in Baylor.

Rich Gedman's infield out brought home Dwight Evans, and Ed Romero's sacrifice fly scored Bill Buckner. Tony Armas then raced home, making it 4-0, when Barrett got the Red Sox' lone hit of the inning, a single to left.

Boggs touched Slaton for a leadoff home run in the fourth, making Boston's lead 6-0.

Reds 4, Dodgers 0
Reds 5, Dodgers 1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Kal Daniels hit a pair of solo homers, and Chris Welsh and Ron Robinson combined on a five-hitter Friday night as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-1 to sweep a double-header.

Bill Gullickson held the Dodgers to five hits in the opener for a 4-0 victory, the right-hander's first shutout since May 11, 1985 with Montreal.

The NBA

The Utah Jazz will be represented by guard Darrell Griffith, one of the best long-range jump shooters in the league and a great leaper, and center Mark Eaton, the best shot blocker in the NBA over the past two years.

Free agents scheduled to appear include Mike Gail, Derrick Gerwin (George's brother), Doug Ward, and Bruce Manson.

Annette Clendenen, the Community Relations Director at the Park Inn, is handling the promotions for the Shootout. She said Magic Johnson may come as Master of Ceremonies. She mentioned several other names, big names, who may play in the game.

She said the coaches will be former Spurs coaches Stan Albeck — he of the wild hairdo, and Mo McHone. The players will decide on the teams themselves, she said.

The tickets will cost $8 in advance, and $10 at the door. They will be general admission tickets, so the best seats will go to those who arrive earliest. There will be 4,500 tickets available, including 234 $15, VIP tickets at courtside.

Tickets go on sale next week, and ticket sales are being sponsored by the Big Spring Restaurant Association. They can be purchased next week at Rositas Fajitas, Cafe in the Park (Park Inn), Wendy's, Denny's, and the Big Spring Country Club.

The players will be arriving on the morning of Sept. 23, and a poolside autographing session is scheduled at 3 p.m. at the Park Inn.

Clendenen believes that Big Spring is lucky to be hosting the game. "Generally, they go to places like Minneapolis and Cincinnati. Big Spring is not the normal size town for an NBA all-star game like this," she said.

Can you imagine — Clyde the Glide on a breakaway, abusing Artis Gilmore with an in your face.

And Big Spring in the background, going bananas.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, AUGUST 10, 1986
GENERAL FORECAST: Changes in the nature of your day, or in the services of persons around you, are the operating aspects of the day. An alert attitude will receive difficulties.
AUGUST (Mon. 21 to Apr. 18) You may find it difficult to communicate with others today so remain poised and calm.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can have radically different viewpoints with one you love but this can be easily reconciled.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you put aside dull duties you can have a delightful time today. Be willing to compromise with others.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Have guests in today and enjoy them - provided you leave troublemakers out.
LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Contact those with whom you must have a meeting of minds with and use your best judgement.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) One of the best times can give you good advice about improving your property so be sure to follow it.
LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) You may be a little mentally confused today. You may still accomplish a great deal, especially socially.
SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) If you avoid friends who cost you too much money you can have a happy time with your mate.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't permit an outside matter to confuse you and then you can be happy with your friends.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't get into anything that is limiting. Plan credit matters so they work out well next week.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't mix into an argument between your mate and a friend since it will soon blow over.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan as much time as possible to be with the one you love. Schedule your time wisely for next week.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very magnetic and will also be able to study both sides of any matter before reaching a decision. Teach early not to mull over things so much. Also teach to look under the surface in any romantic alliances and not get fooled.
**The Stars impel; they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to you!
