Discipline bill gets House nod

AUSTIN (AP) — A school discipline bill backed by educators has won tentative House approval despite complaints from a lawmaker who says it makes it too easy to suspend students who commit minor infractions.
The measure won voice vote approval Thursday in the House, and faces another vote before going to the Senate, which approved a similar measure in 1985.
Gov. Mark White on Thursday expanded the call of the special session to allow consideration of the discipline bill.

Sponsor Bill Haley, D-Center, said it is needed to restore disciplinary power taken from teachers and administrators in the 1984 school reform bill. But Rep. Al Granoff, D-Dallas, who opposed portions of the measure, said it would allow suspensions for students who should be forced into in-school detention.
"To say it's discipline, and scary, to say to a problem-making 14-year-old, 'You can have a three-day vacation' is a joke," Granoff said during Thursday debate. "To tell them, 'You have to sit in a classroom and study' is (the real) punishment."

Haley said under the current law educators must place unruly students in "alternative education programs" in school before suspending or expelling them.
In order to suspend or expel a student, a hearing must be held in which it is must be shown that the child is "incorrigible."

Under Haley's bill, schools could suspend students without first trying an alternative program. The DISCIPLINE page 2A

School board

'86-'87 budget set at $1.4 million

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The Big Spring school board unanimously approved a budget of $1,740,700 for the 1986-87 school year after a public hearing Thursday night.

This year's budget is $296,930 less than last year's, said Don Crockett, assistant superintendent for business.

Of the budget, $629,160 is in federal funds granted for specific programs, he said.

The budget is based a tax rate of 88.2 cents per $100 value, the same rate as last year, but this year's tax rate has not been formally established.

Superintendent Lynn Hise said Commissioner of Education Bill Kirby advised school boards not to officially set the tax rate until the Texas Legislature concludes its special session.

The board expects to receive $276,866 less this year in local taxes, mainly because of a drop in mineral values, Crockett said.

State revenues this year are estimated at $271,234 more than last year, he said.

State revenue has helped offset the loss in local revenue, he said, but the board anticipates "there will be difficulty at the state level in maintaining even current levels of state support."

He said this year's budget is the first in a three-year period of reduced revenue sources.

"We have attempted to maintain cash balances and expenditures this year in anticipation of the declining revenues in the future," he said in a written budget summary.

The district budgeted a 1.1 percent increase in general fund expenditures, for a total of $148,609.

Payroll costs will increase by $386,828. Of that, the health insurance premiums will increase 25 percent, or $83,000. To balance the insurance increase, an $82,000 perfect attendance bonus was deleted from the budget.

In school building repairs, Lakeview Elementary School and Runnels Junior High roofing repairs have been postponed and a heating system upgrade for this year has been eliminated.

Funds for asbestos removal, however, were increased $119,300. Major capital outlay purchases this year will be three buses, security equipment, maintenance vehicle and ground equipment, library books and audio-visual equipment, instructional and administrative computer equipment, and cafeteria equipment.

In other business, the board:

• Approved a $22,050 contract with Narcotics Consultants Inc. for a drug dog program. The dog will make 45 visits this year to the high school, 27 each to Goliad Middle School and Runnels Junior High, and three to each elementary school campus.

• Approved this year's eligibility guidelines for free and reduced price school meals. An only child in a family that earns less than $6,968 per year is entitled to receive free meals. If the family earns less than $9,916, he is entitled to reduced price meals.

In a family of eight that earns less than $24,076, children are entitled to free meals. If less than $34,262 is earned, children are entitled to reduced price meals.

Reduced price lunches may not exceed 40 cents, and breakfasts may not exceed 30 cents, school BUDGET page 2A

Career ladder appeals denied

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The Big Spring school board ruled against two teachers who contested their career ladder standing at a meeting Thursday night.

Marianne Heffington and Gwendolyn "Susie" Craig, both special education teachers, complained that the board decision against placing them to career ladder Level II was made "arbitrarily" and "in bad faith," both of which are listed as grounds for appeal under district policy.

The board voted 4-2 against the change, with members Dock Voorhies and Billy Pineda dissenting. The two also had voted against adopting the policy for career ladder placement in April.

Board president Bill Brooks said the trustees were to decide if career ladder placements were done arbitrarily, capriciously or in bad faith, not whether the performance ratings were accurate. The teachers were represented by Alma Marshall of the Texas State Teachers Association.

She contended the decision against Heffington was arbitrary because the district "manipulated the scores."

Marshall was referring to the district policy that includes a curve system to account for the extra district or leniency of some evaluators.

Marshall also argued that had Heffington been evaluated as a special education teacher rather than an elementary teacher at Washington School, where she was working during the evaluation period two years ago, she would have been placed on Level II.

Last year, Heffington taught at Marcy Elementary School.

The evaluations were made during the 1984-85 year.
In Craig's case, Marshall said the career ladder decision was in bad faith because her evaluation covered areas other than instructional.

She said Craig's evaluation mentioned her appearance and her health, and that House Bill 72 says evaluations are to be on instructional matters only.

Heffington said she was not evaluated by two evaluators, as policy requires, but that she did one evaluation herself on the instruction of her supervisor.

Heffington added that all teachers on the Washington campus did the same, but others would not testify because they were afraid of losing their jobs.

Bill McQueary, assistant superintendent for personnel and instruction, said he believes the district's career ladder policy is "very lenient and very fair."

McQueary said the evaluation in Heffington's handwriting, produced at the hearing, was done in a conference with the principal and bore the principal's signature.

Heffington said she asked her evaluator what she could do "to im-

Food, games highlight Stampede

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Those who attend the second annual Crossroads Stampede festival this weekend in Comanche Trail Park will have the chance to nibble on tasty delights while viewing local and out-of-town wares.

"We have everything from homemade ice cream to turkey legs," said Elizabeth Taylor, director of the Chamber of Commerce Convention and Visitors Bureau.

The festival began this morning with a tennis tournament at Figure Seven Tennis Courts and continues tonight with a country-western dance at the County Fair Barn. Events also are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

In addition to a wide variety of food, Taylor said an advertisement campaign in art publications throughout the state has resulted in many out-of-town arts and crafts workers coming to display their wares.

Exhibitors include a Houston woman who will paint portraits and an Orange couple who will sell woodwork, swords and shields, Taylor said.

Local artists and merchants also will display their products, Taylor said.

They include Dewey Sigmon of 806 Lorilla Blvd. who will display crochet and wind chimes; James P. Hill of 1506

Phillips who will display woodcraft; and David Jansch of 1500 Stadium Ave. who will display miscellaneous shirts, jewelry and hats.

Others participants will be City Pawn Shop, Spring City Uniforms and William A. Sprinkle Jr. of Sprinkle Printing Company who will sell photo buttons, Taylor said.

She said at least 18 food concession stands will be operating at the festival.

Edible delights include cotton candy, hot dogs, snow cones, barbecue, burritos, sausage on a stick, watermelon, hamburgers and funnel cakes.

She said vendors also will sell lemonade, soda pop and beer.

"It's your basic fare for a weekend," Taylor said.

Saturday's activities begin at daybreak with a cookoff to be held north of the swimming pool at the park. The golf tournament is set for 8 a.m., followed by the tennis finals at 8:30 a.m. Various contests and games will take place from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

A street dance is scheduled for 9 p.m. with live entertainment. Cookoff winners will be announced at that time.

Sunday events begin with golf finals at 8 a.m. and other contest finals at 1 p.m. until 4 p.m.

The festival will conclude at 5 p.m. Sunday with the announcement of awards.

Wholesale prices dip in July

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices dropped 0.4 percent last month as fresh declines in gasoline prices more than offset slightly higher food costs. For the first seven months of 1986, wholesale prices fell at an annual rate of 6.2 percent.

Prices had held steady in June and, in fact, had fallen for five months this year.

Gasoline prices, after rising 2.9 percent in June, plunged 19.3 percent last month. That was the largest decline since a 22.0 percent drop in March.

The Labor Department's Producer Price Index for July did not reflect the temporary agreement reached last week by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to cut production and raise prices — an action analysts say will add 10 cents or so to retail gasoline prices by summer's end.

Food prices rose 1.9 percent last month.

The biggest increases were a 10.5 percent rise for poultry, a 6.4 percent gain for beef and a 5.1 percent rise for pork.

Analysts said that the higher prices for these meats resulted from unusually hot weather, which resulted in the fewer animals being brought to market.

Prices for goods other than food and energy rose 0.3 percent.

If last month's 0.4 percent drop continued for 12 consecutive months, it would be equivalent to an annual price deflation rate of 4.9 percent.

The overall Producer Price Index stood at 288.0 in July, meaning that an assortment of goods that cost $10 in 1967 — the base period — would have cost $28.80 last month.

In July 1985, the index was 294.8 — meaning that prices for an identical assortment of goods fell 68 cents over the year.

The Labor Department index reflects the wholesale prices that domestic producers receive for their finished products. It does not include the prices of imports or costs charged by service industries and professions, such as restaurants and doctors.

Thus, the wholesale price calculation usually shows less inflation than the Consumer Price Index. Due out later this month for July, that index includes prices for imports and services, areas that have shown an annual inflation rate of around 3 percent for most of the year.

While lower inflation has been good news to consumers, salaries have also been growing slowly.

"Wages and salaries were only up 2.7 percent in the spring WHOLESALE page 2A

Names in the news

By The Associated Press
LOS ANGELES — Twenty-two years ago, actress RUTA LEE helped her grandmother move to America from behind the Iron Curtain. Now she is returning to Lithuania in hopes of rescuing more family members.

As she packed Thursday for today's trip, Miss Lee said her return to the Baltic country, part of the Soviet Union, was prompted by a letter she received from relatives there.

"The information was very sketchy, but apparently a cousin I had visited in Vilnius three years ago had been arrested, along with her husband, and their house had been confiscated," she said.

"Apparently, there was going to be some kind of trial this month. I can't just sit here and do nothing," she said.

"If all else fails, I have a court of last resort," she said, pointing to an autographed photo of her friend, President Reagan.

Miss Lee has appeared in such films as "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" and "Funny Face." She recently returned from a Texas tour in "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas," and has been appearing in an HBO series, "First and 10."

AUSTIN — WALTER CRONKITE is getting a chair in communications named after him at the University of Texas at Austin, where he studied journalism from 1933 to 1935.

The university's regents on Thursday agreed to match gifts and pledges totaling $501,999 to establish the Walter Cronkite Regents Chair in Communications.

The former CBS News anchor is an adjunct professor on the university's College of Communication faculty.

LONG BEACH TOWNSHIP, N.J.

— Former President RICHARD M. NIXON is vacationing with relatives in a rental house in this island township's exclusive Loveladies section.

Nixon's daughter, JULIE NIXON EISENHOWER, was playing on Wednesday with one of her three children on the beach in front of what locals call the "pyramid house," referring to its shape.

"We're having a wonderful time," said Mrs. Eisenhower. "We love it here. It's a beautiful place."

She said Nixon wanted a private vacation with his family.

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. — Interior Secretary DONALD HODEL joined a group of New Mexico Boy Scouts in planting pine seedlings in a section of burned forest in the Bandelier National Monument.

The seedlings were planted Thursday where a 1977 fire destroyed 15,000 acres.

Hodel praised the Scouts and others for their volunteer efforts to help clean up and maintain parks and recreation areas.

"I believe the lands in the park ... can handle many more people than they presently do, but that's only true if everybody conducts himself well while he's there," Hodel said.

Sheriff's log

Man released by deputies

Sheriff's deputies released Micheal L. McDaniel, 31, of 1612 State St. to Louisiana law enforcement officials this morning. He is charged in that state with driving while intoxicated.

McDaniel was arrested Tuesday by sheriff's deputies on a governor's warrant.

Deputies released Robert Carlos Gonzales, 22, of 807 W. 18th St. from county jail Thursday morning. He was sentenced to jail after his probation from a DWI conviction was revoked last month.

Deputies released John E. Allison, 61, of Odessa from county jail Thursday afternoon on $7,500 bond authorized by District Judge James Gregg. He was ordered to appear in district court Aug. 21 for a revocation of probation hearing, Gregg said. Allison is on probation for indecency with a child.

A Department of Public Safety trooper arrested Billy R. Gossett, 37, of Forsan on a Waller County warrant charging him with theft by check. He was released on $500 bond.

Two men plead guilty, placed on probation

District Judge James Gregg placed two men on probation after they pleaded guilty Thursday in 11th District Court.

Elazar Garza Jr., 25, 1401 W. Fifth St., was placed on 10 years probation after he pleaded guilty to burglarizing a building on Oct. 4, 1983.

He was scheduled to stand trial for the felony Monday.

According to Garza's criminal file, he burglarized a building at 606 San Jacinto owned by Ed Lawson.

Robert L. Johnson, 23, of Brookport, Ill., pleaded guilty to burglary of a motor vehicle and was sentenced to two years probation. According to the terms of his probation, if he successfully completes the two-year term, the offense will be removed from his record.

He was arrested earlier this month at 2911 W. Highway 80.

"But once inflation edges back up to 3 percent or more, this will translate what might have been OK increases in salaries into declining purchasing powers. Earnings have been so weak that even a modest increase in inflation will wipe out real gains."

Fire burns living room

A fire Thursday night caused $5,000 damage to the home of Manuel Sosa, 901 N.W. Fourth St., according to fire department reports.

The fire was reported at 9 p.m. Most of the damage was in the living room, with only smoke damage to the rest of the house, said Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles.

The cause has not been determined, he said.

For the record

Glen Redmon of Big Spring, a Department of Public Safety trooper who has been promoted to sergeant of the DPS office in Borger, is married to the former Claudia Nichols, daughter of Ray and Marie Nichols of 11 Coachman Circle.

The Herald published outdated information provided by the Midland DPS Regional office, which listed Redmon's former wife.

New county residents who wish to vote here in the November general election must be a resident of Howard County for 30 days and not six months as reported in the Herald on Thursday.

 State Board of Education would set the procedural rules.

The bill also would give teachers increased power to remove students who repeatedly interfere.

Haley told the House that his bill would not destroy the alternative education programs that have worked well in some districts. But he said it would eliminate the "long drawn-out process" now required to suspend a student.

Granoff said his view of suspensions was bolstered after he met with juvenile delinquents at a Texas Youth Commission facility.

 board guidelines say.

Refused a waiver to high school home economics teacher Alma Wrightsil. Bill McQueary, assistant superintendent of personnel and instruction, said she failed the required Texas Examination of Current Administrators and Teachers.

The waiver would allow her to keep her job until she can pass the test. McQueary said under state law, a waiver can't be granted unless the district establishes emergency need and that need can't be established unless no other applicants are available.

He said Wrightsil would have another chance to take the test.

The district had three teachers fail the test, McQueary said. One will be on next month's agenda because she didn't ask for a waiver in time, he said.

The other, Bernice Daniels, who was to teach at the new Kindergarten Center, was granted retirement by the board.

Approved employment of nine teachers: Thelma Blake of Sweetwater, Mickey and Patty Finley of Callisburg, Peggy S. Skiles of Conroe, Carol Ann Chilian of Midland; and Cynthia Bryant, Kari Eggleston, Janie Froman, and Douglas Wagner Jr., all local residents.

Approved resignations of Betty (Cluck) Anderson, Brenda Carr, Kathy Lohn and Lucy Odom, and granted a maternity leave to Deede Cauley.

Awarded a $14,525 contract to low bidder Hartford Casualty Insurance Co., Stripling-Mancill firm, for insurance on the district's vehicles.

Approved a rate of $1.05 per mile cost for bus transportation, not including driver costs. The figure is the basis for reimbursement to the Transportation Fund.

Took no action on a designated radio station for athletic contests. Hise said David Wrinkle, general manager of KBST radio station, who had requested a hearing, asked to be taken from the agenda.

Approved a transfer to Big Spring High School for Wilson Connell Edwards, who now attends Garden City High School. Edwards' father, Wilson C. Edwards, said the family lives closer to Big Spring than Garden City, and transportation in emergencies would be less of a problem. Edwards said he owns and operates Places and Pleasures Travel and Edward Petroleum.

Appeals

 prove myself," and he replied "you better pray somebody dies."

Craig said her evaluator penalized her for wearing the same pant-suit three different times. She said at the time her wardrobe was limited because she was suffering from hyperthyroidism, causing her to gain a lot of weight.

She said her health was mentioned on the evaluation for her benefit, because she had been absent to the point she was concerned about losing her job.

She added that when she questioned her supervisor on such matters, he would say, "Where are you going to be working next year?"

McQueary said the district does not have a high record of firing people and that "the record speaks for itself."

He said this morning that many of Heffington's and Craig's allegations either were not true or "stretching the truth."

But he said the district will investigate the allegations to be sure. The district's attorney, Tracey Whitley of the Hairston and Walsh firm in Austin, countered that the board hearing was not the time to mention evaluation problems. She said the teachers should speak to their principals on the matter.

Whitley further said the commissioner of education, Bill Kirby, has upheld curve system evaluations for the career ladder.

McQueary said this morning that Kirby has ruled that evaluation issues are not issues for career ladder hearings.

Mary Kay Lamont, president of the Austin Federation of Teachers and a former Big Spring resident, also attended the hearing.

She said teachers everywhere have spoken of their fear of losing their jobs if they make trouble.

"You guys (Heffington and Craig) can make a difference," she said.

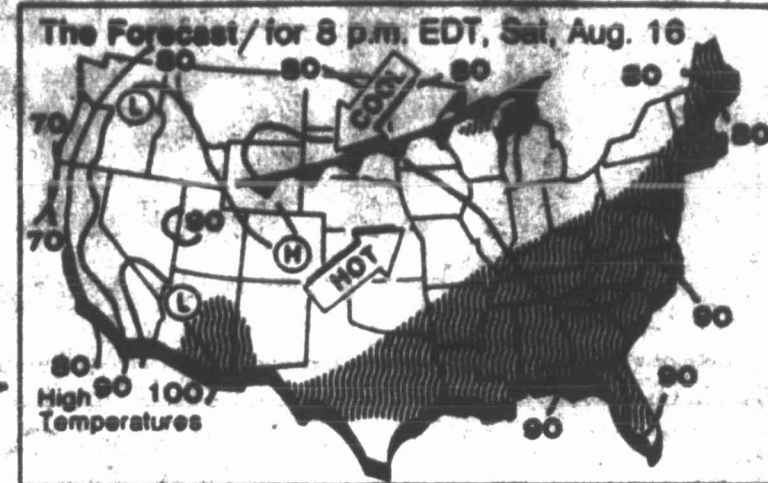

After the hearing, Lamont said that teachers everywhere are becoming more assertive on harassment issues. She said harassment will force teachers to unionize, and pointed out unions already have been organized in Lubbock and Midland.

Marshall said she wasn't surprised by the board's decision.

She added she will consult with legal counsel in Austin to determine whether to request a hearing by the Texas Education Association.

If the two teachers win a pending case before the TEA, they will be placed on the ladder, and further action will be unnecessary, she said.

Weather

Forecast

WEST TEXAS: Thunderstorm will be widely scattered to scattered. No important temperature changes. Highs will be in the 90s. Lows tonight will be in the 60s most areas.

State

Scattered thunderstorms and showers continued today over much of the low rolling and high plains of West Texas. This shower area remained nearly stationary along a trough of low pressure.

Skies were clear along the coastal plains with a few scattered thundershowers over the gulf. The remainder of the state was under partly cloudy skies.

Winds were generally south at 5 to 15 mph statewide. Temperatures were mostly in the 60s in West Texas and in the 70s and 80s elsewhere around the state. Overnight extremes were 64 degrees at Marfa and 81 degrees at Laredo.

The National Weather Service said skies should be partly cloudy and hot, with widely scattered thunderstorms in West Texas and Southeast Texas.

Nation

Drenching rain from wide-ranging thunderstorms touched off flash flood watches in sections of Oklahoma and Texas today.

The band of showers and thunderstorms extended from northwest Texas across parts of Oklahoma and Kansas into central Missouri. Flash-flood watches were posted in sections of northwest Oklahoma and northwest Texas, where the ground already was soaked.

Thunderstorms also were scattered from the southern Rockies to western Kansas and from southeast Nebraska to Michigan.

Thunderstorms lingered near the central and eastern Gulf Coast and along the southern Atlantic Coast, while a few showers dotted the lower Mississippi Valley.

Clear skies prevailed west of the Rockies, across the northern Plains and across the mid-Atlantic Coast states.

Today's forecast called for showers and thunderstorms scattered from Oklahoma across Missouri, Illinois and the Great Lakes region into New England; and thunderstorms scattered from the lower Mississippi Valley through Florida, Georgia and South Carolina as well as from the southern High Plains across the southern Rockies.

Police beat

31 windows reported broken

Police received 31 reports of windows broken on cars and residences Thursday morning. Vandals went on a rampage with what appears to have been a BB or pellet gun, according to police.

Police have no leads or suspects in the criminal mischief, Lt. Jerry Edwards said this morning.

The vandals must have been in a car, he said, because the damage occurred throughout Big Spring, with some areas hit heavier than others.

No damage reports were listed, but Edwards said the cost to replace a car window is $200 to $300.

Someone stole a $375 evaporative cooler from Billy McDonald of Horseshoe Bay. The cooler was taken from 1603A Lamesa Highway Wednesday night.

A tape player, 90 tapes and three cameras were stolen from Harold J. Knapp of Elizabethtown, Ky. The items were taken from his car Wednesday night while it was parked at Motel 6 on west Interstate 20. The tapes were valued at $366, the player at $35, and the cameras at $8, $30 and $250 each.

Thieves stole a computer and equipment from the Big Spring High School library over the weekend. The theft was reported Thursday morning. Taken were a $986 Apple computer; two disk drives, valued at $669; a $295 color monitor; a $380 printer; and a $125 super serial card.

Two rifles and a scope were stolen from a vehicle owned by Paul Hutchings of 1904 E. 25th St. No. 215 Wednesday night. The thief also damaged the vent glass.

A semi-automatic weapon, valued at $100, and a shotgun, valued at $200, were stolen from David Pace of Big Spring Trailer Park No. 18 between Aug. 1 and Sunday night. The theft was reported Thursday morning.

Terry Allen Dillow, 31, of Louisville, Ky., was arrested at 1610 Gregg St. Thursday night on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and unlawfully carrying a weapon.

Travis Lee Pittman, 25, of 1905 Wason Drive was arrested at 2100 W. Third St. Thursday night on suspicion of DWI. He was taken to the county jail and released on $1,000 bond.

Lisa Ann Carson, 17, of 1407 S. Scurry St. was arrested at 1600 S. Scurry St. early this morning for driving without a license.

Kimberly Butler, 28, of 2602 Langley Drive was arrested at her home Thursday morning on a warrant for parole violation.

Senators serve as jury

WASHINGTON — For the first time in half a century, the U.S. Senate will serve as a jury, deciding the fate of a federal judge who cheated on his income tax.

Ninety-seven senators were sworn in Thursday, marking the first step in the impeachment trial of Harry E. Claiborne, a U.S. district judge in Nevada who was convicted of four counts of income tax evasion.

Claiborne is serving a two-year sentence in a federal prison at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., but refuses to resign and continues to collect his annual salary of $78,700.

Madrid visit goes well

WASHINGTON — This week's visit of Mexican president Miguel de la Madrid has done little to ease the undercurrent of uneasiness in U.S.-Mexican relations.

The visit got off to a good start Tuesday when Secretary of State George P. Shultz, returning from an appointment in San Francisco, arrived at Andrews Air Force Base precisely five minutes ahead of de la Madrid, thus enabling Shultz to give him the appropriate high-level welcome.

Child accuses parents

TUSTIN, Calif. — A couple charged with drug possession after being accused by their 13-year-old daughter have been freed from their own recognizance while the teen-ager stays at a county shelter.

Bobby Dale Young, 49, a bartender, and Judith Ann Young, 37, a clerk in U.S. Bankruptcy Court, were arrested after their daughter, Deanna, walked into a police station Wednesday with a plastic trash bag full of pills, pot and cocaine she said belonged to her parents.

"My perception of what this girl did was she was trying to do something that she felt would help her parents," Mulgrew said. "And I think that the system ought to give them the opportunity to provide the help they need, if they need it."

Jury gives youth life

HOUSTON — A jury deliberated more than three hours before sentencing an 18-year-old youth to life in prison for the brutal torture slaying of a friend.

Harold Glenn Smith also was fined $10,000 by the jury in State District Judge George Walker's court Thursday, bailiff D. Buffington said.

Jurors took 45 minutes Wednesday before convicting Smith in the Aug. 6, 1985, death of 19-year-old Dennis Keith Medler.

Prosecutor Jim Peacock said five members of a gang planned for three weeks to torture Medler to death just to watch him suffer. He said Smith was chosen as the victim because he had recently evicted Smith from an apartment.

Rehnquist

Here comes the Supreme Court judge!

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's nominations of William H. Rehnquist to be the nation's next chief justice and Antonin Scalia to fill a Supreme Court vacancy are in position for expected Senate confirmation next month.

The Senate plans to begin floor debate on the nominees Sept. 9 after it returns from an upcoming recess.

If bipartisan predictions are accurate, both men will be confirmed and assume their new jobs when the court begins its next term on the first Monday in October.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved the nominees Thursday, but not before attacks on Rehnquist were renewed by five Democrats who voted against elevating the 15-year associate justice to chief justice. Two Republicans who voted for Rehnquist also expressed some misgivings.

Scalia, a conservative federal appeals court judge and former law school professor, won unanimous support in the committee.

Reagan selected Rehnquist, 64, to succeed the retiring Warren E. Burger as the nation's 16th chief justice. Scalia, 50, would fill the opening created by Burger's departure.

Scalia is the first Italian-American named to the court and would become its youngest current member.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said of the Judiciary Committee action, "We are extremely pleased. We look forward to early, full Senate action."

The 13-5 committee vote for Rehnquist followed attacks by Democrats on his candor, his ethics and his commitment to equal rights for minorities and women.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said Rehnquist "misled the committee ... in 1971 (when he was appointed to the court) and again in 1986" by denying he challenged the credentials of black voters in Phoenix, Ariz., elections in the late 1950s and early 1960s.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., charged Rehnquist with a violation of ethics.

He said Rehnquist cast a deciding vote in a Supreme Court case involving surveillance of anti-Vietnam War protesters soon after Rehnquist left the Nixon administration in 1971. Leahy said Rehnquist was instrumental in formulating the surveillance policy as a Nixon administration lawyer and should have disqualified himself from considering the issue as a justice.

Death squad arrested

SANTIAGO, Chile — A judge ordered the arrest of a former junta chief, 37 active or retired military officers and two civilians, saying they formed a death squad that abducted Communist leaders a decade ago.

Thursday's arrest order was praised by Chilean civil rights activists, who said it was the first judicial action in 13 years of military rule to support charges that the armed forces had systematically kidnapped and eliminated dissidents.

Carlos Cerda Fernandez, a civilian appeals court judge, said a three-year investigation of 10 missing Communist activists determined that top military commanders formed a group named the Joint Command to battle the Communist Party.

Destruction continues

LAHORE, Pakistan — Anti-government protesters today stormed and burned government facilities in several towns and five people were shot in a gun battle with police in the second straight day of clashes, witnesses said.

The most prominent government opponent, Benazir Bhutto, remained in jail after being arrested in Karachi on Thursday after addressing a protest rally and trying to lead an anti-government march.

From hiding, other opposition leaders issued a call for a nationwide general strike. Some shopkeepers and business owners in Karachi, Pakistan's largest city, were reported to be supporting the strike.

Refugees left Germany

HAMBURG, West Germany — The 155 Sri Lankan refugees rescued off the coast of Newfoundland began their voyage in West Germany and not in India as they have claimed, police said today.

The Sri Lankan Tamils departed from the harbor of Brake, 20 miles northwest of Bremen, on July 28 in the Aurigae, a Honduran-registered ship, Hamburg police chief Dieter Heering told a news conference.

Two Tamils arrested Thursday in Hamburg have confessed to involvement in smuggling out the refugees, Heering said.

600 protest charges

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — About 600 people detained without charge under the nationwide state of emergency have launched a hunger strike at Modderbee Prison east of Johannesburg, a newspaper reported today.

The Weekly Mail, an outspoken anti-apartheid publication, quoted two lawyers who represent some of the prisoners as saying all 601 detainees at the prison began the fast Thursday.

The paper said the hunger strike was organized to demand that the emergency decree imposed June 12 be lifted and the thousands of detainees held nationwide be released.

Baker 'not sure' about election

Former Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker says he won't make a final decision about whether to run for president until after the November elections. But get a load of these quotes from a recent speech at the National Press Club:

"I would like to run for president in 1988."

"I plan to run for president in 1988."

"I want to run for president in 1988 and, unless I stumble and fall, I guess I will run for president in 1988, and I think she'll be right there with me campaigning."

Aw, c'mom senator, just say it: "I'm running to become the next president of the United States."

Gratitude expressed for weekend

To the editor:

We have lived in Big Spring more than five years now. We came with prayers in our hearts as we left our nation's capitol. The home and friends we left behind were very precious. The call to move on to a new home was clear. We came because we knew it was right to do so.

Gratitude for all that Big Spring is wells up in our hearts. Our children have been blessed by the stability of a community that cares about its youth. The teachers and leaders in school, church and youth organizations have been of the highest caliber.

Our own adult needs have been met. Our public library, symphony, recreational facilities, home town newspaper and churches have provided countless enjoyable growth opportunities. We like it here.

The past weekend in Big Spring was one of the highlights of not only our five years in Big Spring but also our lives. To see our community unite under Divine Guidance to share spiritual ideas was an exciting experience. Our civic, business and spiritual leaders joined together in the promotion of a time for our community to become more united in our efforts to bring good into our lives.

Harold Bredeson, known worldwide for his dedication to seek and share truth with his fellowman, became for us a friend and counselor of infinite importance. We as individuals and a community cannot be the same because of the impact of this past weekend.

One of the highlights for me was when 12 of us, including Mayor Cotton Mize, stood on Scenic Mountain overlooking our city and opened our minds and hearts to pray with the guidance of the Holy Spirit. We were oblivious to the blazing five o'clock desert sun for the Son of Righteousness attended our prayers.

We feel we are expressing the thoughts of many when we say thank you to every single individual who in any way facilitated our Community Under God Weekend. Especially we express sincere gratitude to business man Everett Bender through whom the light of creative thinking and acting shined.

God's reputation not in jeopardy

To the editor:

I am writing in response to your front page article Aug. 10, about the mayor's prayer breakfast, specifically the remarks of Harold Bredeson. Mr. Bredeson is quoted as saying: "If we were to do it once a month, God's reputation would be at stake," and He would be motivated to restore Big Spring's prosperity.

First, I find that anything we can do puts God's reputation at stake, if not blasphemous. If God has to depend on human beings for his reputation, He is in big trouble.

Second, while I believe that God always answers prayer, there are many times when we do not like the answer we receive. If God always answered prayer the way we would like, it means that we would be able to manipulate God. Surely God is above our ability to manipulate him and use him for our own purposes, however noble we may think they are.

Finally, I do not pretend to know God's will for Big Spring. In fact, I doubt he has one. But I have no doubt that He has a purpose for the people who live in Big Spring. It is summarized very nicely in the Great Commandment — to love God and to love (and care for) our neighbor.

I have no quarrel with all of us pulling together to improve the quality of life in our community. But let's not pretend that God's reputation is being put on the line in the process.

Dallas adoption agency specializes

To the editor:

In reference to the Lifestyle article regarding adoption, published on Aug. 10, I would like to provide those who might be interested in adopting with some additional information. This information is especially of interest to those who might be interested in or those who might consider a transracial adoption or adoption of a child or infant with special needs.

A privacy agency in Dallas named Agape Social Services specializes in special needs adoptions that include, but certainly aren't limited to, children of mixed racial background, older siblings groups that need placement together and children with physical, mental or intellectual handicaps.

The cost varies depending primarily on the medical treatment received prior to placement, but the customary fee is $5,000 to $6,000, which includes medical treatment for the infant and mother, legal fees for termination of the parental rights, foster care if any is necessary for the mother and/or newborn, agency fees and home study. Final legal fees are in addition to those fees.

This agency also appears able to expediate placements, generally taking less than nine months. There is no discrimination based on age, marital status or race if the prospective parents can be approved through a social service home study. Transracial adoptions are available in the United States and there are many children including infants who are not adopted because prospective parents are unaware of their availability.

It breaks my heart to know that children in America are going without homes and that parents are waiting years to adopt because of this lack of awareness. Agape is only one of many agencies in the United States that have developed a more open attitude about placement of children, but it is the agency with which I am most familiar. As a single adoptive parent I really appreciate the agency and the work it does.

Regulation of loan agencies juggling act for government

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — One of the toughest jobs most American families face is meeting the monthly mortgage payment. And one of the toughest jobs in the federal government is regulating the 3,200 savings and loan institutions that hold the lion's share of those home mortgages.

Edwin Gray is chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and his Mission Impossible is to rescue the literally hundreds of thrift institutions across the country that are technically broke. Even though their problems are mainly the result of the S&L executives' own greed, Gray must try to keep the thrifts from shutting down, because that would wipe out the dwindling reserves of the fund that insures S&L depositors up to $100,000 apiece.

A bank board official told our associate Michael Binstein that thrift industry big shots have tried to pressure Gray into going to the taxpayers for a handout. He refused. What's worse from the bankers' point of view is that Gray has imposed a special assessment on the S&Ls to shore up the insurance fund.

What it boils down to is that the S&L industry wants a cheerleader, not a federal regulator who will crack down on risky and abusive banking practices. But that's not Gray's style — and with good reason.

Using federal deposit insurance as a safety net for their high-wire acts, S&L financial speculators have been sinking their depositors' money into such questionable ventures as windmills, mushroom farms, Arabian horse sperm banks, fast-food restaurants, oil fields and tire-retreading companies. They have used the government-insured funds to finance casinos, cruise ships, broadcasting stations and corporate takeovers of dubious value.

Jack Anderson

To his credit, Gray has not only resisted the S&L freebooters' piteous whines to be left to their own acquisitive devices, but he has taken some positive steps to trim their sails. Thrifts have been ordered to set aside profits to increase their capital; restrictions have been placed on their ability to make reckless investments, and the bank board has increased significantly its disciplinary actions against shady practitioners in S&L board rooms.

Thrift-industry executives who expected Gray to be a lap dog have been cruelly disillusioned by his junkyard-dog tendencies. They don't like his sober, no-nonsense economic forecasts, which undercut the misleading, pie-in-the-sky optimism that supports their high-flying financial acrobatics.

If the hostility of the S&L industry weren't daunting enough, Gray has also managed to enrage the big Wall Street brokerage houses. They want to compete with the S&Ls for consumer dollars and mortgage financing, but Gray has sturdily defended the status of the thrift industry for the lucrative home mortgage field.

A measure of Gray's success is that fellow bank regulators, who once considered the entire thrift industry a hopeless basket case, now think there may be some hope for it after all.

Gray still has miles to go before he can sleep through the night without dreams of phone calls that summon him to a crisis that could cause a chain-reaction disaster. According to a recent General Accounting Office report, the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. would be at least $7 billion in the hole if the country's 239 feeblest banks closed or had to be merged to keep them from closing.

The only good news Gray can cling to is the GAO's conclusion that 1,900 of the nation's 3,200 S&Ls are in good shape and actually growing healthier.

UNDER THE DOME: On Capitol Hill, success has many proud parents; embarrassment is an orphan. We reported recently that Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa., had, at the behest of Public Works Committee leaders, introduced legislation that would pay a North Dakota businessman to remove billboards the courts have said he should take down without compensation. Obviously discomfited, Shuster protested to a reporter: "It wasn't even my amendment ... I didn't even know anything about it." He said the amendment was sent over by North Dakota's two senators. But both senators told us they knew nothing about it. Another miracle of political parenthogenesis.

EVEN IN CHINA? Chairman Mao must be turning in his mausoleum. A group of environmentalists has organized to protest a major hydro-engineering project in the wildly beautiful Yangtze River gorges. Their power is obviously limited, but the communist regime has felt it necessary to answer the group's objections publicly. Officials in charge of the project have been trotted out to assure the public that the magnificent scenery in three of the gorges will not, as the environmentalists claim, be spoiled by the project.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Sale of wheat contradiction of policy

President Reagan, who has inflicted a trade embargo on Nicaragua for the Sandinistas' Marxist-Leninist bent and their close ties to the Soviet Union, has announced that the taxpayers of the United States will have the privilege of spending $52 million to subsidize a shipment of 4 million tons of American wheat to ... the Soviet Union.

What's wrong with this picture? The problem lies in the president's willingness to subordinate American security interests to Republican electoral fortunes. The wheat sale is strange as foreign policy and ridiculous as economics. Worse still, it may be only the prelude to a full-scale orgy of export subsidies. Its only excuse is to help the GOP in a handful of farm states in the November congressional elections.

The sale illustrates the absurdity of federal farm programs. Thanks to federal price supports, the price of wheat in the U.S. is about $105 per ton, which is $10 to $20 more than the cost of wheat in most of the rest of the world. American farmers, given a choice between getting $95 a ton to sell to foreign consumers and $105 to sell to the Department of Agriculture (which is obligated to buy), are partial to the latter.

To bring American farmers together with foreign buyers, the government has to make up the difference between the U.S. price and the world price. Here, the Soviets get some free government-owned wheat as a bonus for buying a large shipment, effectively cutting the price they pay — though not the price American farmers get — by about $13 a ton.

The effect, as Secretary of State George Shultz pointed out, is to make American wheat cheaper for Soviet citizens than for Americans. The complaint is not so much that the deal makes the Soviets better off — they could buy wheat from elsewhere for the same price. Still, it's hard to reconcile Reagan's anti-communism with his decision to spend money to reduce the price Moscow pays for our wheat. Even more bizarre is the fact that, as the World Bank reports, Western Europe and the U.S. provide $23 billion a year in subsidies of food sales to East Bloc nations.

And helping wheat producers probably hurt other farmers. Even Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., who pushed the deal, fears it will cut sales of corn and soybeans. His solution? Provide subsidies to other crops and to other nations. That makes sense only by the weird logic of U.S. farm subsidies. The government has a lot of surplus wheat it would like to unload, and this is one way. But why does the government own so much grain? Only because it is committed to buy whatever the farmer can't sell above the federal support price. Lately, it has bought a lot.

The point is to help farmers. The effect is to produce an avalanche of federal spending that helps some who need the help and many who don't, while steadily enfeebling the

Reagan promises to help oil industry

WASHINGTON — President Reagan told Rep. Beau Boulter, R-Texas, and two others in a White House meeting Thursday that he would try to prevent reduction of current tax incentives for the oil and gas industry as part of tax reform.

"Reagan said he would not let a bill happen that would damage the oil and gas industry," said Boulter.

However, Reagan did not indicate specifically whether he would veto a tax overhaul measure that reduced current incentives or whether he would be willing to compromise, said Boulter.

Boulter, Robert D. Gunn of Wichita Falls and Ray Hefner of Oklahoma City met with Reagan and other top administration officials for about 25 minutes in the Oval Office, Boulter said at a press briefing after the meeting.

"They (Reagan and other top administration officials) have drawn a line in the sand but I'm not totally certain where the line is" on oil and gas tax incentives, said Boulter.

He said the officials specifically said they would not accept a compromise on oil and gas incentives that "split the difference" between the House version of tax reform and the Senate version.

The House bill would significantly reduce the percentage depletion allowance for independent producers and royalty owners and the current deduction for intangible drilling costs that promotes investment in drilling operations. The Senate bill would retain the incentives as they currently exist.

A House-Senate conference committee, reconciling differences between House and Senate versions of the historic legislation, is expected to complete its work this week.

Boulter said Reagan and the other officials pledged to continue their effort to convince House and Senate conferees on tax reform of the need to keep the industry incentives.

Reagan told Boulter and the oilmen that a letter this month from his national security affairs adviser to Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, "clearly reflects his policy."

The letter from national security adviser John D. Poindexter stated that the loss of the oil and gas tax incentives could cost the country 700,000 barrels per day of oil production and that they should be retained to avoid further dependency on foreign imports.

Attending Thursday's meeting besides Reagan were Vice President George Bush, Poindexter, Treasury Secretary James A. Baker, Energy Secretary John S. Herrington.

Boulter and Hefner, who is president of the Independent Petroleum

Association of America, said that Baker talked about the need for a floor under oil prices to stabilize the domestic oil and gas industry.

Boulter said Baker "volunteered the need to do something to stabilize prices. I think they're willing to look at anything."

They said Baker talked generally about the possibility of an oil import fee or granting tax credits for marginal oil production as well as exploration for oil and gas.

The officials said they wanted to hear about recommendations from a special task force appointed last week by IPAA that is considering solutions to the oil and gas industry's problems.

Hefner said the task force could recommend, and IPAA could endorse, an oil import fee for the first time.

Police seek details in slaying of suspect

EL PASO (AP) — Authorities here are trying to gather more details from Mexican police about the murder of a man who was once a suspect in a slaying now attributed to Henry Lee Lucas.

Yovany Valenzuela Chavez, who once confessed to the 1983 killing of Librada Apodaca in El Paso, was beaten to death Sunday night across the border in Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, police there say.

Both Valenzuela and Lucas recanted their confessions involving Apodaca's death, but Lucas has been charged with capital murder in the case.

On Wednesday, Mexican police charged Guadalupe Olivas Salgado with killing Valenzuela.

"We're trying to find out the circumstances," Assistant District Attorney Bill Moody said Thursday. "We have no reason not to believe what the Juarez officers are telling us as far as (Olivas killing Valenzuela).

"The only thing is, is there any connection between this guy (Olivas) and the Apodaca case?" Moody said.

The State Judicial Police in Juarez said Olivas, a laborer, told them he had quarreled and fought with Valenzuela over an alleged robbery of Olivas' mother's home.

An autopsy report on Valenzuela said the cause of death was a cerebral hemorrhage, said Arturo Guerrero, chief of the Juarez department of Averiguaciones Previas, the department that receives police investigation reports.

Juarez authorities said they were unaware of any other motives in Valenzuela's death.

Lucas was once believed to be deadliest serial killer in U.S. history, until evidence turned up which showed many of the murders could not have been committed by him. Lucas also recanted his confessions to all but one of the hundreds of murders.

FDA warns about deadly cheese

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time this week, the Food and Drug Administration is warning consumers to be alert for dairy products contaminated with a potentially deadly bacteria.

The FDA on Thursday warned consumers in 10 states — New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Virginia, Georgia, Texas, Vermont, Maine and Massachusetts — that a French semi-soft cheese may contain Listeria monocytogenes bacteria.

The cheese is called Morbier Ripoz. It was produced by a French company called Unicopa, the FDA said, and imported by Crystal Food Import Corp. of East Boston, Mass., which issued a recall.

On Tuesday, the FDA said Marigold Foods Inc. of Minneapolis had recalled ice cream products distributed in 11 Midwestern states — Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky — because of Listeria contamination.

Listeria is a bacteria that killed more than 80 people in California last year and has since prompted at least a half dozen food safety recalls. It is a nuisance to most people, but deadly to some.

In healthy people, Listeria usually causes only mild flu-like symptoms. But in pregnant women, their fetuses, small children and vulnerable elderly people, Listeria can cause a potentially fatal illness, listeriosis.

It was Listeria contamination that caused state and federal health officials in California last year to recall Mexican-style soft cheeses manufactured by Jalisco Mexican Products Inc. Listeriosis was blamed in 239 illnesses and 81 deaths in California.

At least two other producers of Mexican-style soft cheeses were forced to close because of Listeria contamination in subsequent weeks.

Earlier this year, the FDA announced a series of recalls of French soft cheeses, primarily Brie, because of Listeria contamination.

And last month, the FDA announced recalls of Polar B's chocolate-covered ice cream squares because of Listeria. That was followed by Tuesday's Marigold recall announcement.

The FDA said the French cheese that was the subject of Thursday's recall was imported in 12-pound, uncoded wheels.

The recall covered 82 wheels, and 26 have been recovered, the agency said. But it said some of the cheese apparently is in the hands of consumers, and it warned consumers to be wary.

In a related development, the FDA said the Marigold ice cream recall was being extended to three additional brands besides the long list of brands released Tuesday.

Plane runs out of fuel; 6 escape serious injury

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Six Texas men aboard a single-engine airplane that crash-landed a half-mile short of a runway at Tulsa International Airport after running out of fuel have escaped serious injury.

The men, all from Austin, were en route from Austin to a meeting of the Kiwanis Club in Tulsa.

"I thought he was gonna make it," said Neal Hopkins, 57, one of the passengers aboard the rented plane, a Cessna Centurion II.

Hopkins was one of three men injured. He was taken to Hillcrest Hospital where he was treated and released.

The pilot, Carroll R. Fultz, was the only one in the airplane who was hospitalized.

The Rev. Rex Kyker, 64, was taken by helicopter ambulance to St. Francis Hospital after the crash. Hospital officials said he was treated and released.

William Gordon, Charles Jones and Gilbert Gallatin took a cab to the hospital and were examined for possible injuries and released.

Firefighters said Fultz apparently knew he was nearly out of fuel because they were notified by airport traffic controllers of a landing emergency before the plane went down.

Oklahoma Highway Patrol Lt. Dennis Dutsch said the pilot had been cleared for landing when the plane lost power shortly before 10:30 a.m. The craft went down on railroad tracks north of the airport.

A Tulsa Fire Department spokesman said officials quickly notified a railroad dispatcher to halt traffic on the line.

"He was just getting ready to send someone (a train) through there," said the fire department dispatcher, who would not give his name. He said there was no fire at the crash.

Man's sexual assault history makes sister fearful for daughter

DEAR ABBY: I have a 40-year-old brother (I'll call him Ned) who is a convicted rapist. After serving a prison sentence on that charge, he was released, and then he sexually molested his 11-year-old step-daughter. He is now in jail on that charge, but he'll be out soon.

My mother insists to this day that Ned is innocent — and in both cases it was the girl's fault!

I have a 6-year-old daughter, and I don't want Ned anywhere near my house or my daughter. I would rather have her think she has no uncle. This is causing me no end of problems.

I'm afraid to let my mother babysit for my daughter for fear Ned will come over. To complicate matters, I offered to rent my upstairs to my aunt (my mother's sister), and when she found out I didn't want Ned around, she hit the roof. She said I have no right to limit her visitors, he's in my house. I fear him because I don't trust him.

I would rather not break ties totally with my mother and her family, but I feel like I'm being backed into a corner.

Please give me some objective advice.

PENNSYLVANIA PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: Your reasons for not wanting your brother near your home or your daughter are valid, and you have an obligation to do whatever is necessary to protect your daughter. Hold firm and don't give an inch!

***

DEAR ABBY: In the fall, my mother-in-law is moving into a small apartment directly behind our home. We will share a common yard and gardens. The woman is very nice, and even though elderly, is very self-sufficient. The problem: our privacy.

My husband and I have been married for only a year and a half. I know his mother won't be pestering us all the time, but I'm trying to find a nice way to tell her we need our privacy, should the need arise.

My husband and I both realize that we must extend certain "courtesies" from the very beginning, but how do we inform his relatives that just because they come to visit his mother doesn't necessarily mean that our doors are always open to them? His mother loves to talk, and I don't relish being "cornered" in the yard for hours listening to her go on and on about things I have no interest in.

Would it be advisable to lay down some ground rules for my mother-in-law and her family right from the start?

STARTING TO WORRY
DEAR STARTING: Yes, but do it with a minimum of militancy and a maximum of diplomacy. As my sainted mother used to say: You can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar.

***
DEAR ABBY: I'm in my late 60s and profoundly deaf, but that is not my worst problem. I have a severe case of tinnitus, which is a chronic ringing sensation in my ears. My case is unbelievable. The sounds might be compared to a bad LSD trip without the psychedelic visions. They last sometimes as long as four days.

You, like most people, will probably think I'm a nut case. I hear music or singing, or both. The same compositions over and over. My last attack was a duet with a mezzo and a bass baritone. (Incidentally, the bass baritone was wonderful!)

Now, you probably think I am a nut for sure.

Would you be good enough to consult one of your authorities to verify the fact that I am not crazy?

I believe that would be an otorhinolaryngologist. The very small town in which I live does not have such a specialist.

Hoping you can help me...
HEARING THINGS
IN YORK, S.C.

DEAR HEARING: The American Tinnitus Association, P.O. Box 5, Portland, Ore. 97207, will refer you to the specialist nearest you. It will be well worth the trip. Please enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: Can you advise me as to the difference between borrowing and begging?

We have a good neighbor who has "borrowed" everything from the proverbial cup of sugar to kindling. Among things borrowed from us are garbage bags, hair combs, six eggs, a quart of milk, bread, garden tools, a tire pump and shampoo. Nothing was returned except the garden tools, and we had to go and get them ourselves.

I have always thought that when people borrowed things they returned them. Since we are senior citizens and these neighbors are young, I'm wondering if the younger generation may not know the difference between begging and borrowing.

My question: What can I say that will not hurt the feelings of the children who are always sent to do the borrowing?

BORED WITH BORROWERS

DEAR BORED: The next time a child is sent to "borrow" something, don't be sharp, simply say, "Not right now, but please have your mother call me." And when she calls, tell her that when one borrows something there is an expressed or implied intention of returning the same or the equivalent. Some good people need to be reminded.

Polycythemia: That says it all

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Last winter, my husband began spitting up blood. We went in to the emergency room at our local hospital and our doctor was called. He sent us to a local medical center by ambulance. My husband was admitted, and after many days and numerous tests we were informed his condition was polycythemia. Not knowing much about this condition, cause, etc., we are turning to you. Will you please shed some light on the subject? He has had phlebotomies done since then. — Mrs. G.M.

Dr. Donohue

Polycythemia. Now there's a word that says it all. Too bad it has to be Greek. It means too many blood cells — poly (too many), cyt (cells), heme (in the blood).

We usually stress the fact that there are too many red cells, but white cells and platelets are also overproduced in this illness. I'd better stop right here and explain the platelet business. They are usually instrumental in clotting, so one wouldn't expect such bleeding as your husband had, would you? The fact is that in polycythemia, the platelets produced are a defective kind, and that leads to the bleeding.

Otherwise, as a consequence of the bone marrow's cell overproduction, blood becomes thick. That causes the usual symptoms of headache, dizziness, itching and, in some, even the pain of angina pectoris. The blood, which becomes like a sludge, just isn't getting into circulation as efficiently. The condition usually comes on in mid-life or later.

That's really all there is to know about polycythemia. Often the only treatment is what your husband is having done, the periodic blood removal — the phlebotomy. That stops the symptoms from occurring.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: In one of your columns you stated there is a single-dose antibiotic therapy for urinary infections. However, you did not identify the medication. I discussed this with my doctor (who has been treating me). He is not familiar with this therapy. Kindly advise so that I may bring it to his attention. — F.D.V.

Single-dose antibiotic therapy doesn't work for all women, or in all urinary tract infections, it's effective for bladder infections, but if the kidney is also infected the single-dose therapy won't work. If it is only the bladder, it usually does.

A commonly-used antibiotic is actually a combination of trimethoprim and sulfa. You have to be given a bigger-than-normal dose. It all should be left up to your doctor. In fact one of the reasons for using the single-dose approach is to avoid inconvenience of the multiple doses over several days. Many patients may stop taking their medicine as soon as their symptoms subside and the infection can then recur as a result.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I hope you can give me some information on the high blood pressure medicine I am taking. The doctor has me on Timolide. What I would like to know is the side effects. I have been on this medicine for two years — Mrs. R.W.

Timolide is a combination of two drugs. One is a beta blocker. That lowers blood pressure and slows the heart. The other drug in it is a diuretic, which, as I'm sure you know, helps your body get rid of sodium and excess fluid.

Every chemical substance you put into the body has the potential for producing side effects. That's a line I really grow weary of writing, but it is true! And every drug has a long list of side effects that may have been noted in some users.

Timolide is no exception. Does it sound cavalier for me to say that after two years of use without side effects, it's unlikely that you will have adverse reaction in the future with it? Both components of the medicine have been used by many people for a long time now. But I will give you two side effects that are possible. One is a lowering of body potassium levels (from the diuretic part). The other is a very slow heartbeat (from the beta blocker).

Your doctor will look for them. This is one reason why you have to get renewals of such prescription medicines from time to time.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am 12. Last year I fell off my bike and knocked myself out in a parking lot. Ever since, I've been having blackouts and really bad headaches. Should I go and see a doctor? — M.I.

Yes; your story is alarming. After a head injury, a clot can form in the brain covering (dura). That kind of clot does not go away, as with other bruises. It presses on the brain and has to be removed. I don't know if this has happened to you, but you can't take chances. Show this column to your parents.

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To learn more about it, write to Dr. Donohue for his booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his columns whenever possible.

Used cars: Where to find quality

WASHINGTON (AP) — Folks looking for an older-model used car buy do best by shopping with friends and relatives, or buying from dealers who handle both new and used models, a Federal Trade Commission study indicates.

Commission economist James M. Lacko found the lowest average used-car quality among older cars purchased from strangers through newspaper ads.

Dealers who handle both new and used cars, he reported, with the best cars sold either by dealers handling both new and used cars, and by people who sold to friends and relatives.

The differences in quality primarily affected older cars, that is vehicles more than seven-years-old, Lacko said. For newer models less difference in quality was found among the various sources of the purchase.

But the older models, those bought from strangers were more likely to need repairs, and the fixes cost more, than cars bought from other sources, said the study released by the Commission last week.

For cars over seven years old, 62 percent of those purchased through newspaper ads required repairs after purchase, the study found. It said the average cost of repairs for these cars was $265.13.

By comparison, autos bought from used-car dealers required repairs in 47 percent of cases, at an average cost of $152.71.

The repair incidence was 37 percent both for cars bought from friends or from new-and-used-car dealers, but the dealer-cars cost $65.20 to fix, while those bought from friends and relatives were a bit more costly, at $79.99.

The investigation of a continuing FTC study shows that newspaper ads are the highest quality of the cars offered for sale both by dealers and by people selling to friends and relatives, Lacko reported.

"Friends and relatives engage in many types of continuing non-market interactions that provide strong incentives against cheating and misrepresentation," he says in the report.

In purchases from strangers located through newspaper ads, on the other hand, "buyers and sellers do not know each other and are engaged in a one-time transaction. There is no opportunity to develop reputations" and such assurances as offers of warranties are unlikely.

"This does not imply that a lemons market necessarily exists in newspaper ad sales," Lacko notes, only that market forces such as reputation that might prevent such problems do not apply.

Used car sales by dealers, Lacko adds, lie in between the two extremes of sales by strangers and those by friends and relatives. Dealers are not necessarily well-known to their customers, but do usually seek a continuing relationship through the hope of repeat business.

Thus, he points out, "dealers sell many cars and have the opportunity to develop reputations that can prevent the lemons problem."

Dorsett apologizes for outburst

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — A contrite Tony Dorsett admits he flew off the handle over Herschel Walker's contract and the Dallas Cowboys running back wishes the outburst was uncharacteristic.

"The contract surprised everybody," Dorsett, a 16-year veteran, said. "I flew into a rage. I showed a lot of immaturity."

Dorsett, who asked to be traded and warned he could be a "disruptive force" on the team, said Thursday instead of popping off publicly "I should have gone behind closed doors (with club president Tex Schramm). I might have handled it a lot better."

Then he laughed at his quick temper, saying "I wish I could say it was uncharacteristic of me."

Schramm said he will not trade Dorsett no matter how much he protests Walker's five-year, $5 million contract.

"I told him I didn't even intend to talk about trading him," Schramm said. "We'd never trade Tony. He is too much a part of our organization."

"Tony would like to pull back what he said," Schramm said. "He feels sorry he let it flow out. He didn't mean it. He was just mad and being egged on by the media."

"My feelings haven't changed a great deal," Dorsett said. "I had a nice conversation with Tex so they would know where my head is at and I know where they are at."

Dorsett did not repeat he wanted to be traded but did not take it back.

Schramm said he and Dorsett "shook hands before he left. Sure, he was still a little hurt but he'll be OK. He's a good kid, a good man."

Schramm said things would be fine once Walker, who agreed to a guaranteed contract Wednesday, practices in a Cowboys uniform for the first time today.

Asked if he would renegotiate Dorsett's contract, Schramm replied, "I feel comfortable with his contract."

Dorsett, who had fallen into financial trouble over several sour business ventures, missed training camp last year until the Cowboys renegotiated his contract.

Dorsett, who has a salary of $450,000 per year, had originally welcomed the thought of playing in the same backfield with another Heisman Trophy winner, but was steamed when details of Walker's contract came out.

Schramm said he can remember grumbling among the Cowboys when Dorsett was signed in 1977.

"It's just a historic thing," Schramm said. "Tony came in as the Heisman Trophy winner out of Pittsburgh and got a big salary and some of the veterans started grumbling. It happens every year with No. 1 draft choices. It's a fact of the game."

Walker, 24, the 1982 Heisman Trophy winner, set a professional football rushing record for one season with 2,411 yards for the USFL New Jersey Generals in 1985.

Walker has yet to comment on Dorsett's remarks but said earlier he had a lot of respect for Dorsett.

Defensive tackle Randy White said he didn't mind Walker making more than he does.

"You don't get mad because somebody else gets a better deal," White said. "I was happy when I signed my contract two years ago and I'm still happy. Besides, I think Herschel can help us get back to the Super Bowl."

Will Hagler retire or fight Leonard?

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP) — The question of whether middleweight champion Marvelous Marvin Hagler will fight Sugar Ray Leonard or retire is the subject of guesswork by fans as well as Hagler's promoter, Bob Arum.

"I don't know what the status of Marvin's future plans are, except that he is going to make an announcement this weekend," Arum said Thursday on his way to Brockton to meet with Hagler's managers, Pat and Goody Petronelli.

"What the announcement is going to be, whether he is going to fight Leonard, (James) Kinchen, (Thomas) Hearns or retire, at this point, I really can't say."

Arum said he would meet today with the Petronellis, but he warned boxing fans against high hopes about what has been billed as a possible $15 million Hagler-Leonard bout.

"The fact that they (the Petronellis) have asked me to come shouldn't be interpreted to mean that Marvin will fight again," he said, "because if Marvin decides to retire, I owe it to him, I owe it to the Petronellis that the statement announcing the retirement is handled in the best possible way."

Asked to make an educated guess about what Hagler, who has been undefeated for 10 years and says he wants to spend more time with his wife and children, will decide to do, Arum answered: "Retire."

Hagler's current record is 62-2-2 with 52 knockouts.

Leonard has fought only once in the past 53 months, scoring a ninth-round TKO over Kevin Howard in Worcester on May 12, 1984. He announced his retirement at the post-fight news conference.

But on July 9, Leonard said he was training for a fight with Hagler that he said seemed to be in the cards.

Astros increase lead to five over Giants

By The Associated Press

The Houston Astros keep looking like a championship team. They get timely hitting, consistent pitching and have another trademark — they can come from behind to win.

"We've just got something started that won't seem to stop," Glenn Davis said after his RBI single capped a three-run comeback in the eighth inning Thursday night for a 3-2 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The late surge, against Fernando Valenzuela, gave the Astros a five-game margin in the National League West, matching their largest lead of the season. San Francisco is in second place while Los Angeles, after losing three out of four in Houston, is nine games behind.

"You have to capitalize to take advantage of any situation no matter what inning," Davis said. "We've just been fortunate to do it in the late innings recently."

The Astros have won 13 of their last 17 home games. Nine of those victories have come in Houston's final at-bat.

Valenzuela, the top winner in the NL, had a two-hitter and 2-0 lead after seven innings. But Dickie Thon led off the eighth with a single and Bill Doran singled one out later.

Billy Hatcher followed with an RBI single and Phil Garner drove in a run with a groundout, tying the score. That brought up Davis, whose sharp single to center put Houston ahead.

"We just got something going on him," Davis said of Valenzuela, 15-8. "He was still pitching just as effectively."

Larry Andersen, 2-0, pitched three innings of perfect relief for the victory and Dave Smith worked the ninth for his 23rd save.

Bill Madlock's two-run homer off starter Jim Deshaies in the fifth inning put Los Angeles in front. It was Madlock's seventh of the season.

Houston's Kevin Bass went 0-for-2 with two walks, ending his hitting streak at 20 games, the longest in the league this season.

Mets 4, Cardinals 3

Cardinals 5, Mets 1

Rick Horton and Pat Perry teamed on a three-hitter and Andy Van Slyke hit a two-run homer, giving St. Louis a second-game victory and a split of its doubleheader in New York.

In the first game, Kevin Mitchell hit a two-run homer and singled home the tiebreaking run in the ninth inning.

Horton, 2-3, allowed three hits in seven innings. He struck out six, walked one and retired 17 straight batters at one point before Perry finished up.

Van Slyke's seventh homer came during a three-run first against Rick Anderson, 1-1.

Mitchell, whose two-run homer in the seventh inning gave the Mets the lead in the first game, singled home the game-winner against Todd Worrell, 7-9. Worrell had not Rafael Santana led off the bottom of the ninth with a double, but was thrown out at the plate by center fielder Vince Coleman on Mookie Wilson's one-out single. But Wilson went to second on the play before Mitchell followed with his game-winning single.

The Cardinals had tied the score 3-3 in the top of the ninth when shortstop Santana made a bases-loaded error. St. Louis then squandered a chance to take the lead when Ozzie Smith missed a suicide squeeze bunt, and pinch-runner Van Slyke was tagged out between third and home.

Upsets rock Players International tourney

TORONTO (AP) — The remaining cast at the $625,000 Players International tennis tournament doesn't bear much resemblance to the one that promoters and fans expected for the quarterfinals.

Among those on the outside looking in after an upset-laden Thursday are top-seeded Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, the No. 1 player in the world; No. 3 seed Yannick Noah of France; No. 5 seed John McEnroe of the United States; No. 7 seed Brad Gilbert of the U.S.; and No. 8 seed Jimmy Arias, also of the U.S.

Only wins by second-seeded Boris Becker and Sweden's Stefan Edberg, seeded fourth, saved the day from being a total loss for the top seeds.

The biggest shock was the loss by Lendl, who fell to hard-hitting American Kevin Curren.

Curren, a top-10 player two of the last four years, is a former finalist at Wimbledon who has one victory to his credit this campaign.

The big server outgunned Lendl and played an attacking style on the big points to win both sets in tiebreakers, 7-6 (7-5), 7-6 (8-6).

Curren, currently ranked No. 29, was grateful he didn't have to play a third set. "I've got a little flu bug and feel a bit weak," said the South African native. "The conditions favor him (Lendl) the longer he stays out there."

But behind his serve, which accounted for 15 aces and numerous service winners, he didn't have to do much running or engage in long rallies.

"I served awfully well, my placement was fantastic," he said. "I served well enough to where I didn't have to stay out there too long."

Curren, who has beaten Lendl in all three lifetime meetings, applied great pressure throughout the match.

"Ivan has great shots, but if you get him under pressure, he sometimes doesn't hit them as well as he should," said Curren.

Lendl was disappointed with his game and unhappy with the tournament, which is using slower Dunlop balls instead of the Wilson balls that will be used at the U.S. Open.

"I played pretty lousy," said Lendl. "I didn't do too many things right. I ran well and hung in there but that's about all I did. He didn't do anything. He was just serving. Then he took chances in both tiebreakers. He would come in on anything and hope I wouldn't pass, which happened."

Both McEnroe and Noah could offer excuses for their losses. Each was coming off a long hiatus — McEnroe's a seven-month layoff that was self-imposed and Noah's a three-month rest because of an ankle injury.

Robert Seguso, the No. 12 seed, grew more confident as the match wore on and broke McEnroe in the deciding game to forge a 4-6, 6-3, 7-5 victory.

"John wasn't as sharp as he usually is," said Seguso. "He was hitting the ball all right but he needs more matches. A lot of shots he was unsure of himself. He wasn't as good on the big points."

McEnroe appeared shocked by the loss, and said his comeback is far from being complete.

"I think it's going to be harder than I expected," he said. "But I think it's too early to say how successful I'll be."

"It's a big test for me as a person. I'm pretty sure that that's where it's taken me right now, that God is working in mysterious ways with me right now. He's giving me the ultimate test on the tennis court. That's the way I see it right now."

In McEnroe's previous tournament he advanced to the semifinals last week at Stratton Mountain, Vt. before losing to Becker.

Jonathan Canter beat an indifferent, unsure Noah, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4 while Schultz defeated Gilbert 3-6, 6-3, 6-3 and Steyn downed Arias 6-3, 6-1.

Becker, who has looked unbeatable thus far, wiped out Francisco Maciel of Mexico 6-3, 6-3 and Edberg turned back Tim Wilkison, the 13th seed, 6-3, 6-4. In the other match, Marcel Freeman bettered Sammy Giammalva, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3.

Red Sox bats come alive in 11-6 over KC

By The Associated Press
The Boston Red Sox, carried by their pitching most of the season, figure it's about time their bats came alive.

ty Royals that improved Boston's lead to four games over New York in the American League East.

Our offense came alive when it had to," Boston Manager John

McNamara said. "We scored in all but two innings, and that's not bad. It was a tough ballgame until we got those three in the eighth."

Despite their strong offensive production, the Red Sox did not take the lead to stay against Kansas City until the sixth inning when Don Baylor broke a 6-6 tie with a single after Wade Boggs tripled off Bud Black, 4-7.

The Red Sox jumped on Kansas City starter Dennis Leonard for five runs in 2 2/3 innings. Gedman hit his 11th homer and Boggs had an RBI single in the second before Armas homered in the third to make it 5-0.

Kansas City tied the game with five runs in the third, two of them on a homer by Jorge Orta, his seventh, and two on a double by George Brett.

Armas hit a sacrifice fly to give Boston a 6-5 lead in the fifth, but the Royals tied it again in the bottom of the inning on Brett's run-scoring triple.

After Baylor's go-ahead single, the Red Sox added an insurance run in the seventh on an RBI single by Boggs and they added three more in the eighth on a two-run homer by Evans and an RBI single by Ed Romero.

Al Nipper, 8-7, was the winning pitcher with relief help from Calvin Schiraldi, who picked up his fifth save.

Rangers 4, Brewers 2
Texas collected five consecutive hits in the second inning off 15-game winner Ted Higuera before Ruben Sierra capped the six-run rally with a three-run homer off Milwaukee reliever Chris Bosio.

Higuera, 15-8, whose shortest stint in 24 previous starts this season was 2 2/3 innings on June 23, was relieved without retiring a batter in the second, and he was charged with five runs. Don Slaught had an RBI double and Steve Buechele added a two-run single for the Rangers, who moved to within 1 1/2 games of idle California in the West.

Texas rookie right-hander Mike Loynd allowed one run on five hits in seven innings, the longest outing by a starter since Charlie Hough went eight innings on July 28.

Loynd, 2-0, gave up an RBI single to Gorman Thomas in the first. Thomas hit his 15th homer in the ninth off reliever Greg Harris.

Dale Mohorcic pitched the eighth inning for Texas and tied an American League record with appearances in eight consecutive games. The record was set by Boston's Bennett Flowers in 1953.

Orioles 12, Indians 2
Storm Davis pitched his first complete game since April 20 and was backed by a 17-hit Baltimore attack, including four by Lee Lacy and three by Eddie Murray, that handed Cleveland its fourth straight loss.

Twins 14, Mariners 1
Mickey Hatcher knocked in four of his career-high five runs with a double in Minnesota's four-run third inning and a single in the seven-run fourth against Seattle.

White Sox 8, Tigers 2
Ron Hassey drove in three runs with two doubles and Jose DeLeon continued his comeback with his third victory in four decisions as visiting Chicago bombed Detroit.

Pocono 500 has problems

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — If it isn't rain, it's politics. If it isn't politics, it's rough pavement.

Pocono International Raceway, the site of the Domino's Pizza Pocono 500, the third race in the Indy-car Triple Crown, always seems to have some problem boiling beneath the calm surface.

Thursday, about 40 minutes after practice began for Sunday's race, two small holes were discovered in the asphalt surface on the straightaway leading to the second turn of the 2.5-mile tri-oval.

With the cars traveling at speeds well over 200 mph at that point, a quick fix was necessary.

There was a three-hour delay in practice while the area in question was patched with a special asphalt compound. That was just the latest problem at the track.

There had been warnings from several of the drivers who tested here in recent weeks that the track surface was dangerously rough, particularly in Turn 2, where the track is above a tunnel, and in Turn 1.

"The track is terrible," Josele Garza said. "Even on the (front) straightaway, the car is moving back and forth."

But CART officials insisted Thursday's problem with the track surface, which has been patched extensively since the tests to ease the situation, was not related to roughness.

"When the workmen were patching Turn 2 earlier this week, they apparently had some equipment that spilled diesel fuel," John Evenson, CART's director of public relations, said. "Diesel fuel apparently eats away at asphalt and that's what we had happening out there. It had nothing to do with the patch in Turn 2."

That patch, which was finished earlier in the week, is 150-feet long by 30-feet wide.

J. Kirk Russell, director of operations for CART, said, "I think we've corrected the most troublesome situations. There are some bumps left that will give some people some troubles. But there are situations we have in Indy-car racing that you just have to deal with. We try to bring the surface within some set of standards, but you have to get your car working on the bumps and in the corners."

Johnson beats Lewis for third time

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — A year ago, Ben Johnson outran U.S. track star Carl Lewis for the first time. This season, the shy Canadian sprinter is already 3-and-0 in the continuing rivalry.

"It's about time someone started running those Americans off the track," said the 25-year-old Johnson, after repeating last year's 100-meter dash victory at the Weltklasse (World Class) meet, part of the IAAF-Mobil Grand Prix circuit.

"I eased up about seven meters from the finish line," he said. But that was still enough to win in 10.03 seconds and relegate 20-year-old Nigerian talent Chidi Imoh to second place with 10.22.

Lewis, the quadruple gold medalist at the 1984 Olympics, came in third, another .03 second behind. Fourth was fellow American Calvin Smith, the world record-holder over the distance in 9.93 seconds.

Much further away from securing a third personal world record was Norway's Ingrid Kristiansen, though she also established this year's best 3,000-meter performance for women with 8:34.10 minutes.

Kristiansen, who set world bests over 5,000 and 10,000 meters this summer, led at the halfway mark when rabbit Paula Ivan dropped out. Zola Budd, the South African-born British runner, fell behind after about 2,000 meters, leaving Kristiansen and Maricica Puica running neck-and-neck.

The bleached-blonde Romanian overtook Kristiansen with half a lap to go but with a kick in the home stretch, Kristiansen left her opponent 30 meters behind to win.

American top sprinters Evelyn Ashford and Valerie Brisco-Hooks dualed in the women's 200 meters, with Ashford leading all the way to head a 1-2-3 American sweep in 21.97 seconds. Brisco-Hooks was second in 22.26 and Pam Marshall came in third in 22.56.

Ashford, 29, who is making a comeback after giving birth to a daughter last May, set the second-best 200-meter mark in the world this year.

Pole vaulter Rodion Gataulin failed on three attempts to better fellow Soviet Sergei Bubka's world record of 19 feet, 8 3/4 inches, finishing with a 19-2 1/4.

Italian long distance ace Alberto Cova pushed through in the finish stretch to take the men's 5,000 meters.

Men spread the Word in Haiti

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

Buster Keaton, 1988 Wason Dr., and Bruce Odom, 6411 R. Box 474, said they were used as vehicles of the Lord while on a recent crusade with James Robison in Port Au Prince, Haiti.

Buster Keaton, left, and Bruce Odom share their thoughts and experiences of their recent crusade in Haiti.

"I felt in my heart that the Lord wanted me to go," Keaton said.

They went to Haiti over the weekend of Aug. 1-3, Odom said.

The two men, both 45, are active in door-to-door evangelism in Big Spring, Odom explained.

"So we didn't do anything different than we do in Big Spring, five days a week."

But they had to have an interpreter to spread the Lord's word, because the native language in Haiti is Creole — a mixture of French and the native African language, Keaton said.

Life in Haiti is remarkably different than life in the United States, he said.

"It's pitiful — the living conditions over there," he said. "The people live in little shacks, what I'd call a shack, but it's worse than a shack. I can't even describe it — the filth they have to live in. And their bodies are so undernourished."

But Keaton fell in love with the people, Odom said. To Keaton they were "beautiful, friendly and sweet," he said.

While in Haiti, their main function was ministering to the people, Odom said. "We were support. We prayed with everyone," he added.

They passed out fliers and witnessed to the people on the streets and at little churches in villages outside of Port Au Prince, they said.

"Sixty thousand people came to the seminars (conducted three nights)," Odom said. "We saw the Lord do so many things. The things we saw were the things in the Bible."

"I believe God is saving Haiti and setting them free," Keaton said.

He reported many Haitians have been devil worshippers for more than a century. They believed in witch doctors, healing people and practiced voodooism, Keaton said.

"But, the devil is defeated and the Lord is having his way. Jesus is exalted and the people are being released from the demon. He is healing the people," he added.

The men said that while in Haiti, they witnessed two girls who were healed — one a little 5-year-old who was comatose for two years; the other a deaf and dumb girl who spoke her first words.

Odom said he felt it was a great honor to be a part of James Robison's Crusade. The Haitian crusade will be aired on James Robison's TV show sometime in September, he added.

The two men credit the prayers and support of their pastors of the church (Leo Free, pastor; Lanny Hamby, senior pastor; and Rob Parks, outreach director) plus the brothers and sisters of the church for making their trip a reality.

Keaton and Odom said they would like to be a part of another crusade.

"The people in James Robison's crusade said they're praying to go to India, and we'd like to be a part of that," Keaton said.

Television's Donahue holds on to faith

NEW YORK (AP) — He senses a loss. Not totally, but partly. Television's Phil Donahue says he hasn't lost his faith, but he has lost confidence in the ways of the church that nurtured him. That saddens him.

...loses confidence in the church

"The mandate of the people is to reclaim the church," he says, recalling his years of Roman Catholic education, his once devout commitment, his past dedicated work for the church and struggles to implement its principles.

But "the bishops are insulated from the will of the people," he said in an interview. "The church has a lot of atoning to do in its attitude toward women, in its attitude toward homosexuals."

Donahue, 51, a sensitive, thoughtful man in denim shirt and jeans, sat at his desk in his casual, cluttered office at NBC, where he has become a star of studio rap sessions with his audiences. He said he was grateful for his church roots.

"I was very fortunate," he said, arms folded on his chest, his gaze reminiscent.

"I had good teachers, nuns, brothers and priests whom I'll never be able to repay for the time they spent with me, even overtime, trying to give 'little Philly' every opportunity possible.

"But it does not follow that I have a moral obligation to surrender to the status quo in the church. The greatest gift I gave me in 16 years of Catholic education was encouragement to think for myself.

"That, when I'm criticizing the church, is exactly what I believe I'm doing."

Donahue, who has become a sort of popular TV philosopher, grappling frequently with basic issues in his give-and-take discussions with audiences, said theology had fascinated him.

"It was one of my most exciting classes," he said, recalling his days at the University of Notre Dame, a Catholic institution. "I loved it, theology and philosophy."

He said his favorite professor, the late Rev. James Smyth, encouraged students in his theology course to read books on the church's Index of Forbidden Books, since abolished.

"It was exciting and dangerous," Donahue said. "He was a good theologian."

Donahue recalled that he had done a term paper on the "Holy Trinity," a highly complex Christian concept of one God in three manifestations, as Creator, Son and Holy Spirit, and got an A-plus.

However, to the suggestion that Donahue now has a powerful pulp himself in talking with his TV audiences about various, often serious issues, he leaned back and threw up his hands, exclaiming,

"Outrageous!"

"A congregation doesn't get to boo the preacher," he said. "But my audience gets to boo me, and does so often."

He said he had an innate aversion to TV personalities "taking themselves too seriously. Sure, I take issues seriously. I wave my arms and express opinions. But I don't impose them on the audience."

"There are too many messianic people running around thinking they have the answer to everything. I may be one of the last people God talks to. I'm concerned when people say they talk to God everyday and he talks back."

In his early days on radio and television in Dayton, Ohio, variously as announcer, newscaster and reporter, Donahue was devotedly active in his suburban church, serving on the parish council, heading its communications committee, editing the parish newspaper.

He gives a vivid account of it in his candid, often touching autobiography, "Donahue," published by Simon & Schuster, dedicated to his four sons and daughter, and to his second wife, Mario Thomas.

However, his energetic church life in the civil rights and Vietnam War turmoil of the 1960s, including organizing an activities center for inner-city black youngsters and an integrated summer camp, ran into opposition.

He and some fellow parishoners protested plans of his mainly white suburban parish, the Church of the Incarnation in Centerville, to build an elaborate new church, costing $1 million, instead of doing more for the needy and blacks.

Risking his job as an impartial journalist, he joined in picketing the bishop. But the efforts were rebuffed, an overall experience that turned him away from direct church involvement.

"The anger has diminished but the commitment is beige," he writes. "I am not suffering, but I am not at peace either."

He describes the agony of the 1975 breakup of his marriage of 17 years with the mother of his children. He says he had regarded divorce as an impossibility, tried to avert it, blamed his ambition and demands of his career, changed his work habits, even saw a psychiatrist, but the break came.

Getting back into radio-TV and conversation shows, he moved to Chicago, where he also became caretaker of his four sons, not remarrying for six years.

Now residing in Manhattan, he said in the interview that "a lot about the church is not inspired," that it doesn't sufficiently distribute its resources to "the least of these," that it is unfair to women.

"The men lead, the women serve," he said.

"An atmosphere in which only men say Mass, run the parish, run the prayers and only men can enter holy orders, with 'father this and father that,' leads to the conclusion that men are better than women.

He said, "There's not enough robust criticism of organized religion. That weakens the institution. Let's hear it. The church will survive. The church will live and continue to do so as long as human animals roam the Earth."

Community Under God rally attracts many

More than 3,000 people attended the "Community Under God" rally, held Aug. 8, 9 and 10, said Everett Bender, coordinator for the event.

Mayor Cotton Mize said.

Speaker for the weekend, Harald Bredesen said, "when you stop and think that these people only had three weeks to decide whether or not to have the rally, plan it and promote it, it's amazing to see what was accomplished."

Jonny Rutherford, finance chairman for the rally, said the rally brought in $3,693.26 and the total expenses were $3,214.06. That left $679.14 for an honorarium for the speaker. Another $682 was raised in book sales, but the speaker had to pay back the publisher for their cost.

So much enthusiasm has been generated for a monthly Mayors Prayer Breakfast that plans are being made to organize it, Mize said.

Church briefs

Revival to begin Sunday

Evangelists Ric and Christy Freeman will lead revival services at the First Assembly of God, 4th and Lancaster, Aug. 17-22.

Freeman, an ordained minister with the Assemblies of God in Oklahoma, and his wife served as associate ministers and as interim pastor before becoming full time evangelists. They have traveled as evangelists for more than nine years.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Advertisement addressed to the Honorable Mayor and City Council of the City of Big Spring, Texas, will be received in the office of the City Secretary, City Hall, Big Spring, Texas, until 3:00 P.M. Sept. 8, 1986, for furnishing all necessary materials, machinery, equipment, superintendence, and labor for constructing certain improvements at the Big Spring McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark, Big Spring, Texas.

Immediately following the closing time for receipt of bids, proposals will be publicly opened and read aloud. Any bid received after closing time will be returned unopened.

The work to be performed under these documents will be constructed under two separate contracts. All improvements are for Runway 7-35, unless otherwise noted. Proposal I, Paving Improvements, consists of a Base Bid and one Additive Alternate. The Base Bid consists of the application of approximately 30,115 square yards of herbicidal treatment, cleaning and sealing approximately 10,000 linear feet of random cracks in existing bituminous pavement, construction of approximately 20,115 square yards of a single course bituminous seal coat, construction of approximately 14,000 square yards of a 1 1/2-inch bituminous overlay with some bituminous leveling, runway marking, and other related items of work. Additive Alternate No. 1 consists of the construction of approximately 8,900 square yards of a single course bituminous seal coat.

Proposal II, Lighting Improvements, consists of the removal of existing Runway 7-35 lighting, installation of new stake-mounted medium intensity runway, taxiway and threshold lighting; installation of underground electrical cable and counterpoise, installation of miscellaneous electrical vault equipment, and other related items of work.

A bid or proposal guaranty is to accompany the bid, thereby guaranteeing the good faith of the bidder and that the bidder will enter into the written contract. The guaranty is to amount to ten percent (5%) of the total bid and must be in the form of cash or certified check, issued by a bank satisfactory to the City of Big Spring, or a bid bond. If in the form of cash or certified check, it is hereby expressly understood and agreed that the City of Big Spring are given the right to retain such as liquidated damages if such bidder withdraws his bid anytime after such bid is opened and before official opening of such bid or if successful in securing the award thereof, such bidder fails to enter into the contract and furnish satisfactory performance bond and payment bond. If a bid bond is submitted, it shall be executed on forms contained in these contract documents by a corporate surety authorized to do business in the State of Texas, and acceptable to the City of Big Spring and accepted according to the latest list of companies holding certificates of authority from the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States of America. Proposals submitted without bid guaranty in the form of certified check or bid bond for 5% of the maximum bid will not be considered.

In case of ambiguity or lack of clearness in stating the prices in the bids, the Owner reserves the right to consider the most advantageous construction thereof, or to reject the bid. Unreasonable (or "unbalanced") unit prices will authorize the Owner to reject the bid.

Bidders are expected to inspect the site of the work and to inform themselves regarding all local conditions.

Minimum wages and labor rates for the construction of the proposed work have been established by the Secretary of Labor, and a schedule of labor classifications and wage rates to be paid are included in the specifications and will be made a part of the contract.
