How's that? Employment

Q. Where can I submit a job application for the new cogeneration plant to be constructed at Cossan refinery?

A. That question is still to be resolved, said Kyle Britt, spokesman for Falcon Seaboard of Houston, which is building the plant.

He said for the plant's construction, the company will probably use local contractors. The Herald will be informed who is responsible for employment when the issue is decided, he said.

House bill reduces Big Spring cuts

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer
Some cuts approved last week by the House would not be as bad for Big Spring as previously anticipated, according to state Rep. Larry Don Shaw.

The Big Spring Democrat spoke Tuesday to members of the press about the $680 million cut from the state budget in a bill the House passed last week.

An amendment attached to the bill eliminates most of the cut sought for the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. The amendment would cut only 1.6 percent of SWCID's budget, Shaw said.

SWCID had been threatened by a 9 percent cut, the same percentage targeted for junior colleges, which "would have devastated SWCID," he said.

Shaw also said a good chance exists that cuts to parks budgets, including that for the Big Spring State Park, will not be so severe as to result in closing of the park.

Budget cuts for parks will be about $10 million, not the $25 million first proposed, he said.

In addition, Shaw suggested that a long-range idea for "better use" of the park is overnight camping. That would bring in more traffic and more revenue, he said.

The House-passed bill also drastically reduces the proposed 47 percent cut from county extension funds, which would have eliminated most 4-H programs, he said.

Instead, the bill cuts about 13 percent, Shaw said.

The state legislature is in special session this summer to deal with the budget shortage. The bill passed by the House next goes to the Senate.

Shaw said the state may face a shortage of $6 to $7 billion next year — even after today's budget cuts.

But if oil prices rise by January, the shortage might not be that severe, he said.

He noted the House and Senate disagree on what measures to take to balance the state budget, and on where and how much to cut.

House members believe the budget should be trimmed as far as possible before new taxes are considered, he said, while senators favor more taxes and fewer budget cuts.

"The House has found its limit to cuts," he said.

Shaw added he hopes to see true negotiation between the House and Senate.

If the House and Senate fail to agree on a bill, another special session may have to be called, he said.

Shaw said he was disappointed because no one is debating "what do we do to create new jobs? What do we do to get out of this" situation that created the budget crunch? he

Forsan OKs $3.5 million budget

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer
Forsan School Board Monday night unanimously approved a 1986-87 budget of $3,548,104, based on a tax increase of 14.5 cents per $100 of property valuation.

The tax increase, from 62.5 cents to 77 cents per $100 valuation, also was approved unanimously. But the new rate will not effectively increase or change the amount collected, board members said.

The board anticipates a deficit of $358,000 that will reduce the district's reserve fund.

"We built a reserve for a rainy day, and that rainy day is here," said Superintendent J.F. Poyner as he referred to the $2.1 million reserve the district accumulated during the boom years.

Tax rate raised 14.5 cents

The budget represented a $9,000 increase from the one tentatively approved in June. But it is $48,196, or 1.3 percent less than the 1985-86 budget of $3,596,300.

It includes $700,000 in bond and interest payments on building programs and $245,212 for the special education budget for Forsan and the five surrounding local school districts that send their special education students to Forsan.

A tax rate of 87 cents would have been required to meet the forecasted budget without a projected deficit, but 83 cents was the highest rate considered by the board. Board members Rip Patterson and Jim Alexander both said the 83-cent rate was too high, and urged a lower rate.

Board member Jack Howard moved that the board adopt a 77-cent tax rate, and the motion passed unanimously.

In other business, the board:

• Approved the Driver Agency as the insurance carrier of the district's building, fleet and legal insurance during the coming year. Bids were submitted by the Driver Agency, the Parks Agency, and the Texas School Services Foundation, but Poyner recommended the Driver Agency because its combined bid was the cheapest.

Both the Driver Agency and the Parks Agency are Big Spring companies.

• Considered the fuel bids of Thurman Oil and Park Oil, both of Big Spring. Because Park Oil's bid was nearly six cents a gallon cheaper than Thurman's, the Park Oil bid was accepted unanimously.

• Voted unanimously to reinstate the end-of-year trip to Six Flags for students who make all A's, and for students without an absence or a tardy during the year.

The trip had been canceled at an earlier meeting, but board member Morrison Donaghe returned the matter to the board's attention because he believed the trip

Nobel laureates assail teaching creationism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teaching religious ideas under the label of science is harmful to scientific education, say Nobel laureates who are asking the Supreme Court to keep creationism out of the classroom.

In a friend-of-the-court brief filed Monday, the group of 72 American winners of the Nobel Prize and 24 scientific organizations attacked a Louisiana law requiring public schools teaching evolution to teach "creation-science" as well.

"Teaching religious ideas mislabeled as science is detrimental to scientific education: It sets up a false conflict between science and religion (and) misleads our youth about the nature of scientific inquiry," the brief states.

The brief represents an extraordinary organizational effort by Murray Gell-Mann, a California Institute of Technology professor, who in 1969 won a Nobel Prize in physics. He assembled what he called the "largest group of Nobel laureates ever to support a single statement on any subject."

Evolution teaches that the Earth is billions of years old and that life forms gradually began developing millions of years ago. Creation-science is linked closely to a literal translation of the biblical book of Genesis, teaching that the Earth and most of its life forms suddenly came into existence about 6,000 years ago.

Louisiana enacted legislation in 1981 requiring public schools to "balance" the teaching of evolution with the teaching of creationism.

A federal trial judge and the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals invalidated the law as a violation of the constitutionally required separation of church and state.

Last May, however, the Supreme Court agreed to review the lower courts' rulings, setting the stage for its decision sometime in 1987.

In seeking the Supreme Court review, Louisiana authorities had argued, "Creation-science is non-religious... the concept of a creator is not a necessary part of presenting creation-science and is not central to creation-science in any event."

The state's appeal asserted that "evolution and creation-science are comparably scientific," and that the 1981 law's primary effect would be to advance students' "academic freedom to receive scientific evidence."

Bikers battle disease

Denny Fuller, left, of 3201 11th Place, and his son, Matthew Fuller, 5, a victim of leukemia, received $800 raised Saturday by area motorcyclists. Riders sped to five check points within a 100-mile radius and collected a card at each site. The biker with the best hand at ride's end was the winner. Matthew's disease is not terminal, said his mother, Lisa Fuller. Medical expenses for such diseases are extremely high.

GNP climb lowest in four years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy, held back by a worsening trade performance, grew at a barely perceptible annual rate of 0.6 percent from April through June, the weakest advance since the last recession, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said the rate of growth in the gross national product, the broadest measure of economic health, was the smallest since GNP had fallen at a 3.2 percent rate in the July-September quarter of 1982. That came during the depths of the last recession.

The second quarter advance matches a 0.6 percent rise in the fourth quarter of 1982 as the country began to pull out of the recession.

The 0.6 percent performance marked a sharp downward revision from an initial estimate made last month, when the government projected that the economy had expanded at a 1.1 percent annual rate from April through June.

The revision painted an even gloomier picture of an economy pulled down by a disastrous trading performance and a steep slump in the oil and gas industry.

The 0.6 percent increase from April through June was less than one-sixth of the 3.8 percent rate turned in from January through March.

While the rate of growth was dropping dramatically, the news on inflation remained upbeat. The government said that an inflation index tied to the GNP rose at a 1.9 percent annual rate in the second quarter, the slowest advance since the spring of 1972. The good showing was attributed to the big plunge in energy prices.

For the first six months of the year, the economy grew at an annual rate of 2.2 percent, far below the Reagan administration's original prediction of 4 percent growth for all of 1986.

Earlier this month, the administration trimmed its forecast for this year to show growth of just 3.2 percent, while saying the slower growth would contribute to giving the government a record budget deficit of $230.2 billion.

To achieve the administration's scaled-back growth estimate, however, the economy will have to expand at a 4.2 percent annual rate in the final six months of the year, a pace far higher than most private economists expect.

Many private analysts believe the country will be lucky to reach growth of 3 percent in the final six

Resolution urges oil tax proposal

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate approved a resolution Monday urging the Texas congressional delegation to support a federal proposal for an oil imports tax on petroleum to protect Texas' oil industry.

The resolution by Sen. John Sharp, D-Victoria, was sent to the House on a 27-2 vote.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, voted against the resolution, saying, "It's a waste of time because Sen. Gramm is not going to pay any attention to it."

Sharp has said that he understands all members of the Texas congressional delegation favor an oil imports fee except Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas.

BISMARCK, N.D. — MENACHEM MEIR, a member of the Israeli Philharmonic and son of the late ISRAELI PRIME MINISTER GOLDA MEIR, wants to become the Bismarck-Mandan Symphony Orchestra's principal cellist, a spokeswoman says.

The 62-year-old Meir, who studied with Pablo Casals, made his desire known during a telephone call last week from Tel Aviv, Israel, said Nancy Swenson, the orchestra's executive director.

"This is the first time we've had a person of this stature apply for our orchestra," Mrs. Swenson said. The position last year paid between $11,000 and $15,000 for the 64-member ensemble's eighth-month season, she said.

Mrs. Swenson said when she talked with Meir she noted his credentials were above those required for a small orchestra.

He still expressed interest in the full-time position and sent a resume and audition tape, she said.

She said she did not know why Meir wanted to leave Israel, but she understood he had relatives in the United States.

"He is looking for a position in this country," Mrs. Swenson said. "It did sound like his family wanted to move here."

OMAHA, Neb. — The new commander of the Strategic Air Command says he never expected the Air Force to be his life's work, and entered reserve officers' training to avoid the draft during the Korean War.

"As a boy, I wasn't interested in making model airplanes," GEN. JOHN T. CHAIN told the Sunday World-Herald. "I never wanted to fly."

The Korean War was on when Chain entered Denison University, a small liberal arts college in Granville, Ohio.

"I went through ROTC basically to stay out of the draft," Chain said. "If Denison had had Navy ROTC, I might have wound up being a sailor."

A weak pressure field was dominant over Texas today, triggering thunderstorms along the middle and upper coastal plains.

Most of Texas was under clear skies, however, with light and variable winds across the state.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 60s to the 80s, with overnight temperatures ranging from 61 at Marfa to 83 at Austin.

The National Weather Service said skies should be mostly sunny to partly cloudy through Wednesday, with hot temperatures in West and Central Texas.

Tropical storm Charley sent rain into New England today as it aimed out toward the north Atlantic, and heavy thunderstorms drenched sections of the Plains.

Heavy rain prompted flood watches in northern Connecticut and western Massachusetts.

asked.

He said the tax system and the economy lean too heavily on oil and should diversify.

"Every time the price of oil fell $1 a barrel, we lost $100 million in tax revenue," he said.

He said Texas has a tough battle ahead to achieve diversification, but he believes it will be done.

He reported the cuts approved by the House last week include a 13 percent across-the-board reduction for state colleges and universities, and 9 percent for junior colleges, but no cuts in public school financing.

The cuts include elimination of a 3 percent pay raise for state employees, abolition of five state agencies, and a 13 percent cut in House and Senate operating budgets.

Amendments attached to the bill deal with energy conservation, state publications and unfair business practices.

The energy conservation measure affects state property and provides for a savings of $41 million, said comptroller Bob Bullock.

Drug abuse program scheduled Thursday

The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission is sponsoring a six-hour alcohol and drug abuse training institute Thursday at the Texas Tech Regional Academic Health Science Center located at 800 W. Fourth St. in Odessa.

The program, "World of Addiction," is divided into three two-hour parts: the physiological, psychological and sociological causes and effects of alcohol and drug abuse.

The training seminar will be presented by three heavy weights of the drug treatment field — Dr. Lawrence H. Wharton, Medical Director of the Faulkner Center in Austin; Dr. Thomas McGovern, assistant professor of psychiatry at Texas Tech University; and Dr. Rudy Arredondo, director of the chemical dependency program at the Texas Tech Health Science Center in Lubbock.

The program is designed to provide fundamental knowledge and improve the skills of drug and alcohol counselors, social workers, nurses, school teacher, school counselors, law enforcement personnel, probation officers, parents and the general public.

The program begins at 8:30 a.m. and concludes at 4:30 p.m.

Registration of the program at the door is $30. Pre-registration by telephone by August 19 is $20.

Man arrested for assault

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested Paulino Rivera, 39, 1405 Virginia St., Monday night on an assault by threat warrant. He was released on $200 bond.

Police transferred Aurora Renteria Collins, 25, 609 George

St., to county jail Monday night after she was arrested for suspicion of driving while intoxicated and failure to maintain financial responsibility. She was released on bonds totalling $2,500.

County given safety award

Howard County has received the Texas Association of Counties Occupational Safety Award.

The award was announced during the Texas Association of Counties Biennial Conference in Austin by Tolly Moore, chairman of the association's Workers' Compensation Self-Insurance Fund.

Howard County was one of 70 of the state's 254 counties recognized for reducing the number of employee on-the-job injuries during 1985.

In announcing the award, Chairman Moore said that "Judge

Milton L. Kirby and Commissioners O.L. "Louie" Brown, David Barr, Paul Allen and William "Bill" Crooker are especially commended for this record, because it appropriately reflects these county leaders concern for the safety and well-being of their employees."

This is the first year for the awards by the association.

According to state figures, Texas public and private employers paid more than $1.5 billion for employee injuries in 1984. That amount is expected to be even higher for 1985.

Democrats elect officers

The 28th state senatorial district Democrats elected officers Saturday during their first organizational meeting in the Cactus Room at Howard College.

Officers who were elected were: Leon Cohorn of Lamesa as chairman; Natalie Roginstein of Odessa as vice chairman; and Wanda Thompson of Morton as secretary-treasurer.

State Representative Larry Don Shaw reported on the special session of the Legislature and answered questions.

Agreed to meet on Friday, Aug. 29 at 7 p.m. to amend the 1985-86 budget. Poyner said the meeting had to be before Aug. 31, which is the end of the 1985-86 school year. The board couldn't amend the old budget last night because the budget will not be final until the last week in August.

Economy

months of the year. The pessimism is based in part on a belief that the country's poor trade performance has shown no signs of improving.

This was a major factor in the downward revision in second quarter growth. The GNP report said that the country's trade deficit had swelled to an annual level of $150.5 billion, subtracting $24.6 billion from domestic growth. A month ago, the government had estimated that the trade deficit had subtracted $4.2 billion less from total output.

Part of the deterioration in trade came from a revision in exports, which the government said were falling at a 5.6 percent annual rate instead of rising at a 3 percent rate as originally thought. The weakness came from a plunge in agricultural sales abroad.

Another large negative factor in the April-June quarter was a $28.3 billion plunge in inventories, primarily coming from efforts by the auto industry to reduce a record backlog of unsold cars.

Bennett: Run schools as small businesses

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Education William J. Bennett said Tuesday America's schools should be run like small businesses, said those that can't deliver what the public wants should be shut down.

To loud applause from 1,800 delegates to the White House Conference on Small Business, Bennett declared: "We must have greater accountability in the schools."

"You know about accountability," he told the entrepreneurs.

Analysts say while this subtracted from GNP growth in the April-June quarter it will help growth later this year as businesses begin to rebuild inventories to meet consumer demand.

Personal consumption spending, one of the few bright spots in the economy, was growing at an annual rate of 6.5 percent in the second quarter.

Investment spending by businesses, however, fell during the second quarter at a 2.3 percent annual rate, after falling an even sharper 15.1 percent in the first quarter. The government said much of this decline resulted from cutbacks in oil and gas exploration and production caused by the dramatic fall in energy prices.

In a separate report, the government said after-tax profits of American corporations rose 4.1 percent in the April-June quarter, reversing a 3 percent decline in the first quarter.

The various changes left the GNP, after adjusting for inflation, at $3.66 trillion in the second quarter.

"You know that if your product isn't good, if your services aren't good, you're going to go out of business. We need something more like that in education."

Bennett himself has had no success in trying to sell Congress on the Reagan administration's ideas of giving parents tuition tax credits to help defray the cost of private schools, or vouchers to help the disadvantaged afford a school of their choosing.

Pope to visit Texas

SAN ANTONIO — Texas Catholics will get a letter from their bishop this month asking for contributions to underwrite the anticipated $2.5 million cost of Pope John Paul II's visit to the state next year, officials said.

The pope is scheduled to visit San Antonio on Sept. 15 and 16, 1987, as part of a 10-day U.S. visit, according to an official itinerary released Friday by the Vatican.

"The bishops are going to the grass roots for contributions for the expenses of the pope's trip to Texas," said Steve Landregan, a member of the arrangements committee and director of the Archbishop Sheen Center in Dallas.

Good Samaritans killed

NEW YORK — A hit-and-run driver struck four people who had stopped to help a stranded motorist Monday night, killing three and critically injuring one, police said.

The four people were driving south on the Bronx River Parkway when they noticed a motorist requesting help in the northbound lanes, said police Lt. William Kennedy.

The four stopped and helped the stranded driver. They then climbed back over the divider and were walking across the southbound lane to their car when they were hit about 10:30 p.m., Kennedy said.

Three people died at the scene and a fourth was taken to a hospital in critical condition, Kennedy said.

Spy attempt suspected

CHICAGO — U.S. authorities reportedly are investigating whether Israeli military officers tried to steal plans for a sophisticated airborne spy camera system from a suburban defense plant.

The U.S. Customs Service is investigating the alleged theft attempt, ABC News reported Monday and the Chicago Tribune said in Tuesday's editions.

The alleged scheme, the Tribune reported, was discovered May 27 when security officers at ReconOptical Inc. in suburban Barrington stopped three Israeli air force officers as they were leaving the plant and confiscated 50,000 pages of technical drawings and notes handwritten in Hebrew.

Garbage workers protest

HOUSTON — Mayor Kathy Whitmire is asking some 900 sanitation workers who called in sick Monday in a protest of increased work caused by layoffs to return to work today, city officials say.

But this morning, only 54 out of 402 garbage workers scheduled to work today had left from a city service center to pick up mounting trash.

"A lot of them are there, but they haven't gone out," Solid Waste Management Department spokeswoman Juanita Howard said today. Out of 82 collection trucks, only 18 rolled off the center this morning, she said.

Lawmakers indicted for merrymaking

NEWTON, Iowa — A state legislator who was the guest of honor at a bachelor party that resulted in his indictment and that of another lawmaker and three other people on misdemeanors says he'll be cleared of the charges.

A Jasper County grand jury on Monday indicted state Reps. Ed Parker and Al Sturgeon, a lobbyist, a dancer and a bartender on one misdemeanor count each ranging from indecent exposure to violating the state's gift laws.

If convicted, each could be sentenced to a year in prison and a $1,000 fine, prosecutor John Billingsley said.

The indictments are in connection with an April 17 bachelor party for Parker at the Back Forty lounge in Mingo, 26 miles northeast of Des Moines. It was attended by 25 of the 100 state representatives, legislative staffers, lobbyists and two news reporters.

"I will not apologize for getting married nor for the fact that many friends held a party in my honor," Parker, a Mingo Democrat, said after being charged with violating the state's gift laws. "If it were not for the fact that I'm in the political arena, none of this would have gone this far."

"I did nothing wrong."

Sturgeon, chairman of the House Human Resources Committee charged with indecent exposure, said: "My attorney has allowed me only to tell you what I plan to do. That is to plead not guilty."

"My family has been 100 percent behind me from the very start," said Sturgeon, a Democrat running for the state Senate in November.

Jim Pribyl, a lobbyist for Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., was charged with violating the state's gift laws; Dawn Wilson, one of two dancers at the party, was charged with indecent exposure; and bartender Chuck Maher was charged with permitting exposure of a female breast or genitals.

Pictured above are Dawn Wilson of Des Moines, top, and State Representative Al Sturgeon, of Sioux City. Both were indicted for indecent exposure by the County Grand Jury Monday.

Because the charges are misdemeanors, the defendants have not been arrested and do not have to appear at a hearing scheduled for Sept. 8, Billingsley said.

Vatican punishes priest

WASHINGTON — The Vatican, in punishing a prominent American priest-theologian, is declaring strict limits for all American Catholics on dissent and sexual practices.

Catholic University of America professor Charles Curran, target of the church action announced Monday, was decreed unfit to be a Catholic theologian because of too-liberal views on sexual issues — a verdict that will cost him his job at the Vatican-controlled university.

There was a wider warning also, however. Curran had complained he was being singled out unfairly, that his views deemed unacceptable by church leaders on birth control, abortion, divorce and other sexual issues were publicly shared by numerous other Catholic theologians.

Polis have shown that many of the U.S.'s 52 million Roman Catholics tend to ignore church declarations on such matters.

The Vatican's response, sent to Curran by Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger after approval by Pope John Paul II, didn't directly address the objection that he is but one of many.

Ratzinger merely quoted from a letter he sent Curran last fall, stating: "The authorities of the church cannot allow the present situation to continue in which the inherent contradiction is prolonged that one who is to teach in the name of the church in fact denies her teaching."

That statement came after two pages of arguing that neither Curran, nor any other Catholic, has a right to such dissent.

Divorce, after a church-sanctioned, consummated marriage, is wrong, Ratzinger told him. Abortion is an "unspeakable crime," he said, quoting from church documents.

And it makes no difference, as Curran has contended, whether such decrees have been declared infallibly true by any pope, Ratzinger wrote.

He said the Second Vatican Council of the early 1960s had decreed that a particular position is infallibly true upon the world's Catholic bishops' agreement on the subject.

And he added, taking in all Catholics as well as Curran, "the faithful" must submit their "intellect and will to the teaching which the Supreme Pontiff or the college of bishops announce on faith or morals," even if those leaders "do not intend to proclaim it with a definitive act."

Call for peace rejected

MOSCOW — The United States' swift rejection of Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev's call to join the extended Soviet moratorium on nuclear weapons testing is disappointing, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said today.

Gorbachev on Monday announced the extension of the Soviet Union's unilateral year-old testing halt until Jan. 1, and called on the United States to reconsider its refusal to join it.

But White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters in Santa Barbara, Calif., where President Reagan is vacationing, that a moratorium "is not in the security interests of the United States, our friends or our allies."

Inspections accepted

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — The Soviet Union today told the Stockholm security conference it is prepared to accept some on-site inspections of military movements, marking an important breakthrough at the start of the final session of the 32-month-old talks.

"We could... agree to the conduct of on-site inspections," Soviet Ambassador Oleg A. Grinevsky told the opening session.

Delegates said the 35-nation conference, after being essentially stalled since its opening in January 1984, appeared set to reach an East-West agreement before it closes Sept. 19.

President leaves post

OUAGADOUGOU, Burkina Faso — President Thomas Sankara dissolved the government and appointed three outgoing ministers as "general coordinators" to act on his behalf, officials in this West African nation said today.

In a decree issued Monday night, Sankara said day-to-day affairs in the ministries would be handled by senior civil servants in liaison with "committees for the defense of the revolution" until a new government is named.

A presidential spokesman, Babou Paulin Bamouni, said the action did not indicate a governmental crisis, but followed a "revolutionary logic established previously" by the National Revolutionary Council, which is headed by Sankara and rules this impoverished former French colony once known as Upper Volta.

Senator visits Aquino

BACOLOD, Philippines — Sen. Richard Lugar flew to impoverished Negros island today to visit a sugar plantation, a child feeding center and a malnutrition ward, saying he wanted to find out how the United States could be of help.

Lugar, R-Ind., met with President Corason Aquino on Monday and described her afterward as a "strong leader."

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee came to Negros after morning talks in Manila with Vice President Salvador H. Laurel, Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and Armed Forces Chief Gen. Fidel V. Ramos.

U.S. files protest with Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States filed a diplomatic protest with Mexico, charging a U.S. narcotics agent was illegally held and beaten by police in Guadalajara, and the government said it was investigating the allegations.

The note was delivered Monday night to Foreign Minister Bernardo Sepulveda by U.S. charge d'affaires Morris Busby, the ranking American diplomat in Mexico. The contents of the note were not released here.

At issue is the Wednesday detention of Drug Enforcement Administration special agent Victor Cortez by Jalisco state judicial police in Guadalajara, 360 miles west of the capital.

A U.S. Embassy news release said Cortez "was illegally detained, interrogated and tortured by Jalisco state police officers."

Mexican officials last week said Cortez was detained by the police, but strongly denied that he was tortured. They said he was released after three hours, while U.S. officials say he was held twice that long.

The Cortez incident occurred while President Miguel de la

Madrid was in Washington meeting with President Reagan to promise increased Mexican cooperation in a joint anti-drug war.

"We have given them the proof and now we will wait to see what they do about it. Nobody wants to rock the boat at this point," said one U.S. Embassy official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

"On behalf of the U.S. government, charge (d'affaires) Busby protested these unprovoked, brutal, criminal acts against an American official accredited to the government of Mexico," the embassy news release said.

Indians should manage funds

An election year usually brings a lot of rhetoric calling for change, but it is usually just that — rhetoric. Few proposals are specific and even fewer offer anything truly new.

Rick Lavis, a Republican candidate for the 1st Congressional District seat in Arizona being vacated by John McCain, offered one of those rare, bold political ideas at a recent forum in Mesa, Ariz.

Lavis called for the abolition of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the distribution of the annual BIA appropriation to the various Indian nations, to establish their own programs for their people.

He also called for incentives for the Indians to help educate their young people and reduce reservation unemployment with the BIA funds.

A former deputy assistant secretary of the Interior for Indian Affairs, Lavis believes federal paternalism toward the Indians should be eliminated. The tremendous overhead of a bureaucracy like the BIA can be eliminated and the money more efficiently used by tribal governments to further individual tribal priorities.

The Indian nations are treated as sovereign entities on most matters. Yet, the most crucial portions of their existence, the implementation of social reform, education and economic assistance have been kept in the hands of white bureaucrats in Washington. They have little sense of Indian culture or priorities; all they have is money.

With access to the BIA funds and their knowledge of their needs and desires, a big step toward eliminating poverty, unemployment and ignorance on the reservations may be at hand.

Regardless of whether Lavis wins the seat, or even his party's nomination, we commend his approach to one of the great social problems of this country.

By The Associated Press—

Today is Tuesday, Aug. 19, the 231st day of 1986. There are 134 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Aug. 19, 1812, the USS Constitution — also known as "Old Ironsides" — defeated the British frigate Guerriere in a naval battle east of Nova Scotia during the War of 1812.

On this date:

In 1848, the New York Herald reported the discovery of gold in California.

In 1929, the comedy program "Amos and Andy," starring Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll, made its network radio debut on NBC.

In 1934, a plebiscite in Germany approved the vesting of sole executive power in Adolf Hitler.

In 1942, more than 1,000 Canadian and British soldiers were killed in a raid against the Germans at the port city of Dieppe, France. (While an Allies' disaster, the Dieppe raid is credited with providing information that made the D-Day invasion a success.)

In 1951, the owner of the St. Louis Browns, Bill Veeck, sent in Eddie Gaedel, a 3-foot-7-inch midget, to pinch-hit in a game against Detroit. Gaedel, whose function was to draw walks, was later barred from play by American League President Will Harridge.

Last names truly last in youth culture

(Art Buchwald has taken a few weeks off. He left behind several columns which he found in his trunk.)

One of the most fascinating things that is taking place in America's youth culture is that no one knows anybody else's last name. The fact that American children consider last names irrelevant seems to drive parents up the wall.

My friend Zinner tipped me off to this phenomenon. His 15-year-old daughter was giving him a hard time in his living room the other night when I came to pay a holiday visit. It concerned a ski trip she wanted to take, but she dashed out in tears before I could discover what the argument was about.

Zinner filled me in.

"I guess I'm one of those old-fashioned parents of the non-permissive school," he said. "The argument you just walked in on is about a rule I've laid down that Ellen cannot go skiing for more than 24 hours with any boy whose last name she does not know."

"The question arose," Zinner said, "because Ellen wanted to go on a three-day ski trip with Betsy, Therese, Randy and Steve. By some freak accident, she knows Betsy's and Therese's last names but all she knows about Randy is that he lives in Virginia and Steve lives in Baltimore. For two days we've been arguing about 'Randy of Virginia' and 'Steve from Baltimore.'"

"It probably wouldn't be a problem if she just knew one Steve, but she knows three. There is also 'Steve, Who Works in the Carry-Out Shop' and 'Steve, the Cousin of Tina.'"

"Tina who?"

"That's the problem. She doesn't know Tina's last name, either."

"Maybe Ellen isn't good on last names."

"It isn't only Ellen. My 16-year-old daughter Mitzi is just as bad. The other night she asked to sleep over at the house of a girl she goes to school with, named Karen. I suggested we call Karen's parents to see if it was OK."

"Mitzi said she didn't have Karen's telephone number. I said we could look it up in the telephone book, but Mitzi said she didn't know Karen's last name. As a matter of fact, the only thing she knew about Karen was that her family had a house in Nag's Head, N.C."

"So, now we have to refer to Mitzi's friend as 'Karen, Whose Family Owns a House at Nag's Head, N.C.' You have to admit that's a mouthful."

"My son, Chris," said Zinner, "is no better. He went up to New York last week with 'Bruce, Who Owes Him 15 Dollars' and 'Jim, Who Plays the Drums in Some Band,' and 'David, Who Got Kicked Out of School.'"

"Does Chris use his last name?" I asked.

"I don't believe so. The other night I picked up the phone and the person on the other end of the line asked if 'Chris, Whose Father Worked for the Government' was home."

Zinner's 15-year-old daughter Ellen came back in the room. "His name is Steve Jackson," she said angrily.

"And what's 'Randy from Virginia's' last name?" Zinner asked.

Ellen started crying again. "I knew you wouldn't let me go skiing in the first place."

Public's expectations may surpass Aquino's abilities

By JACK ANDERSON

MANILA — A question hangs like the sword of Damocles over President Corazon Aquino: Are her apron strings strong enough to hold the Philippines together?

Not long ago, she would pour the coffee while the men talked politics. Now she has become the chief topic of their discussions — a modern Joan of Arc whose dramatic rise from housewife to president has made her appear larger than life.

Public expectations may have soared beyond her ability to make good. She has no magic cure for the bleak poverty that holds three-fourths of the Filipino people in its grip.

Someday, those hungry people will forget that she inherited the economy that she didn't cause their misery. In fact, the euphoria that followed President Ferdinand Marcos' ouster is already beginning to fade.

Meanwhile, she has formed a Good Government Commission to recover the ill-gotten wealth that Marcos squeezed out of the Filipino economy for himself and his cronies — loot estimated at more than $10 billion. The commission has seized assets or placed its people on the boards of 180 companies.

This has sent a nervous tremor through the business community, which largely supported Aquino's takeover. Now, businessmen are worried about government control — a fear that has also scared off foreign investors.

Aquino also freed political prisoners and opened talks with communist insurgents, who merely intensified their guerrilla attacks. Army officers, whose lives are on the line, complained to me that Aquino is naive.

I found Mrs. President, as she likes to be called, in firm command at Malacanang. She spoke with quiet authority, wasting no words on political finery. I asked many questions, all centered on one overriding issue: Can this delicate but determined woman, this housewife-turned-president, quell a communist insurgency and heal a ravaged economy?

I think so. I sensed a character of steel beneath her silken manner, also a pragmatism that keeps her idealism in check. Aides told me about the time she put her male advisers in their place. She had listened patiently while they, talking down to her, explained some political issue and told her what she should do. She responded ever so softly, "Gentlemen," she said, "this is the last time you'll tell me what to do."

Yet, this remarkable woman cannot put Humpty Dumpty back together again by herself. She will need the help of the United States, which gave the Philippines its independence and its democratic traditions.

President Aquino isn't asking for aid. She believes the payments now coming from Washington ($900 million under a five-year agreement) should not be counted as aid but as rental for the use of Clark Air Force Base and Subic Bay Naval Base, the two largest U.S. military bases outside America.

She also hopes to increase trade with the United States, particularly the sale of sugar. The Philippines have been shipping sugar to America ever since the trading ship Astrea brought back the first cargo in 1796. Until Cuba went communist in 1961, the United States bought sugar only from the Philippines and Cuba.

Then the market was divided up among several countries. Still, the United States continued to buy more than 25 percent of its imported sugar from the Philippines until President Reagan cut the amount in half four years ago. This has brought economic devastation to the sugar cane fields.

The country that benefited most from the Philippines' loss was the Dominican Republic. Coincidentally, the Dominican government hired as its fixer in Washington Reagan's former aide and adviser, Mike Deaver. But other countries, including South Africa, also got sugar quotas at the Philippines' expense.

All President Aquino asks is that her impoverished country be given back its historic sugar share and also be given fair trade treatment. As she would like to remind Washington, poverty is the mother of rebellion, and the best way to defeat communism in the Philippines is to fight poverty.

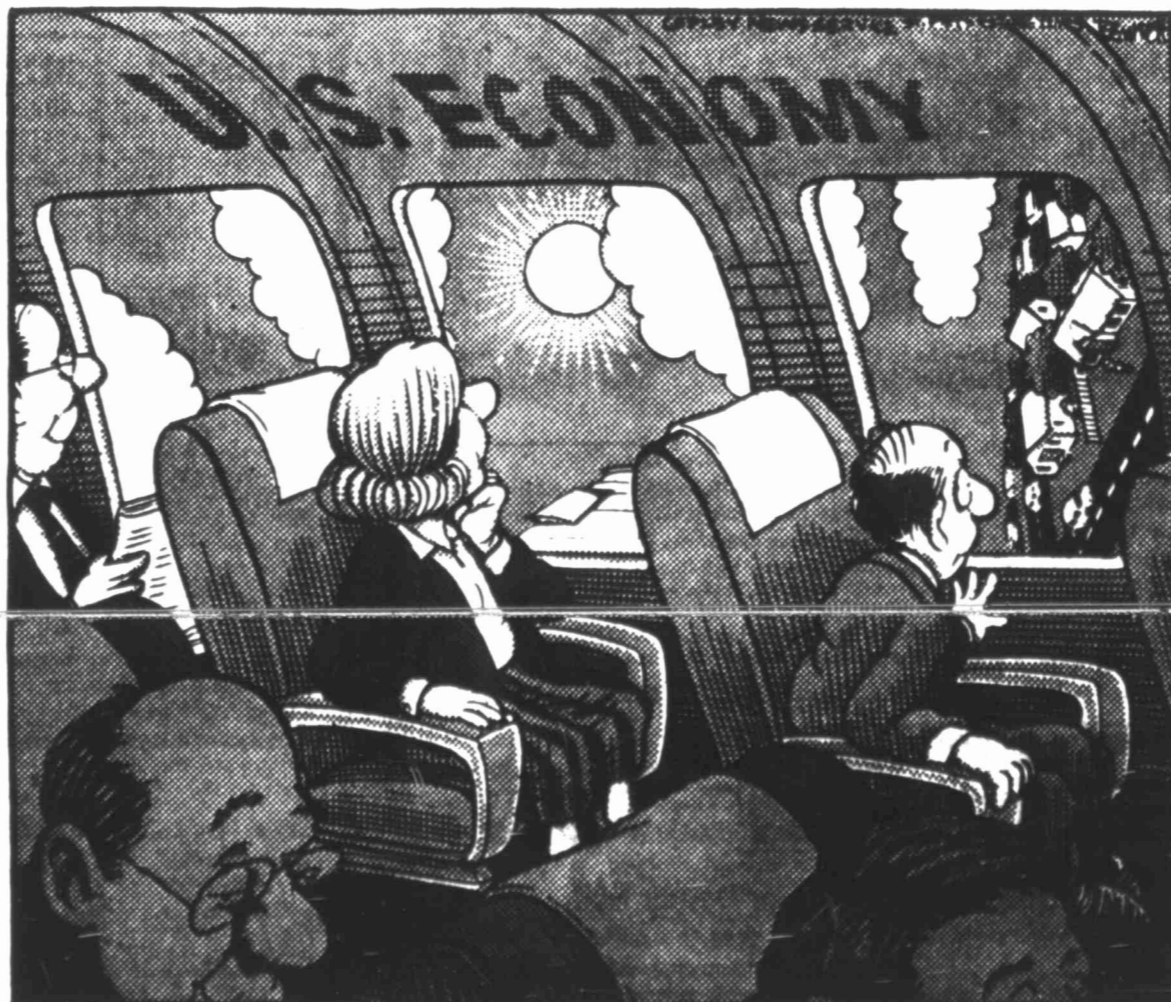

AQUINO'S RIVAL: The gossip in Manila is that Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile is merely waiting in the wings for the right moment to brush President Corazon Aquino aside and take her place in Malacanang.

I found Enrile to be a world-class politician who spoke frankly about his situation. He made it clear that he would be available if his country should call. But he has no intention, he said, of staging a military coup to replace her. She can count on him, he said, to be a loyal member of her cabinet.

THOUSANDS OF TERRORISTS: From the army's chief of staff, Gen. Fidel Ramos, I learned the dimensions of the communist insurgency. Of the 55 million people who inhabit the Philippines, an estimated 20,000 would like to transform it into a communist archipelago.

Perhaps 5,000 of these could be described as hard-core revolutionaries. At most, they could probably field about 17,000 armed troops. Yet in America, we panic over a couple dozen reported terrorists.

Boy attends diabetic camp

COAHOMA — Travis Bingham, 12, attended the Texas Lions Camp in Kerrville for 10 days of camping and medical education.

Bingham, a diabetic, was among 200 other diabetic children who were taught how to give their own insulin injections, balance their diets and test their blood sugar levels by a medical team of doctors, nurses and dieticians from the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston.

Activities at the camp included swimming, nature study, team sports, horseback riding, arts and crafts, shooting sports and an overnight campout.

The Texas Lions Camp is a non-profit organization which has served more than 4500 diabetic children since the program began in 1971, according to a release by the Texas

Lions League. It is funded by contributors interested in providing recreation and education for handicapped and diabetic children.

Counselor receives award

Jo Anne Forrest, vocational rehabilitation counselor at Big Spring State Hospital, was honored recently with the Meritorious Service Award at the Texas Rehabilitation Association Annual Conference in Corpus Christi.

Forrest is a member of the Texas Rehabilitation Counselors Association and serves on the legislative network committee.

One of her projects has been to design and distribute t-shirts with captions that read "You can't do it if you can't get to it!"

She also served on a long range planning committee for the State of Texas Rehabilitation Plan and helped establish handicapped parking at public buildings.

A personal project of Forrest's is discussing the needs and special problems of handicapped children and adults in the schools.

Martial art eases pain of arthritis

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — June Harms is learning the ancient Chinese martial art of T'ai Chi Chuan. But at age 62, she's not preparing to toss muggers over her shoulder; she's easing the pain and stiffness of rheumatoid arthritis, diagnosed four years ago.

T'ai Chi Chuan is a gentle martial art, emphasizing slow movements accompanied by deep breathing and intense concentration. In China, it's used as a treatment for arthritis, respiratory ailments, heart disease and stress-related disorders.

Harms participated in a recent research project to determine the effects of T'ai Chi Chuan on rheumatoid arthritis, at the University of Illinois College of Medicine in Rockford.

The study, conducted by Andrew Kirsteins, a junior at the college and practitioner of the art, had promising results, he said.

His research showed that after 10 weeks of practicing T'ai Chi Chuan, seven people decreased the amount of time it took to walk 50 feet by 17.7 percent; their grip strength increased by 32.6 percent in the right arm and by 40.7 percent in the left arm; and the amount of joint tenderness fell by 37.5 percent.

"The movements are graceful and slow and synchronized with deep breathing," Kirsteins said of the martial art. "The movements flow together so you don't see any stops. It emphasizes inner awareness that is achieved through total relaxation of mind and body."

Harms says she does the exercises 10 to 20 minutes every day after a hot shower, which loosens her muscles. The T'ai Chi Chuan movements produce warmth in her fingers and help relieve the pain.

"It gave me a challenge, which all arthritics need," she said. "We don't know what abilities we have until we challenge them."

"It increases your energy, and you feel rejuvenated," he said. "You can do it anytime you feel like it. You can stop and do deep breathing anytime."

T'ai Chi Chuan must be learned from a qualified instructor, Kirsteins said.

Woman's breast-implant surgery turns into a bustache

DEAR ABBY: I am beginning to think I am going crazy. I'm 38 years old (married) and have had three breast implant operations — now I need a fourth. I'll start at the beginning:

First, I wanted to increase the size of my breasts. Well, the plastic surgeon showed me the various sizes, and I am sure he used bigger implants than the ones I picked out because I came out looking so top-heavy. I hated myself. I couldn't wait until my doctor redid the operation. (By the way, he is a board-certified reconstructive plastic surgeon, has a good reputation and is not cheap.)

Disappointment No. 2: For some reason, he replaced the too-large implants with ones that were too small. I knew right away they weren't what I ordered, so I had a third operation.

This one has me looking lopsided. My left breast is about four inches higher than my right. When I told my doctor he would have to do it for an evaluation, or possibly some corrective surgery. If you don't know one, inquire at the Cosmetic Surgery Information Service, 500 Via de la Paz, Suite B2, Pacific Palisades, Calif. 90272. The national hotline is: 1-800-221-0088. In California, call 1-800-824-3042. Good luck.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I'm a receptionist in a busy beauty salon, and this is my beef: When a client who has an appointment comes into the shop, I always say, "Please have a seat; I will tell your operator that you are here."

Invariably, she says, "Oh, that's all right," and proceeds to walk straight through to be near her operator. She then finds an unoccupied shampoo chair or one under a hair dryer and engages her operator in conversation — disregarding the fact that her operator is working on another patron.

At this shop, we feel that the patron has paid for the operator's time and full attention, and it's rude and presumptuous for another person to burst in and usurp the operator's time and attention that rightfully belongs to another client. I hope you find room for this letter, Abby. Receptionists everywhere will be grateful.

DESK GIRL: Find room? I'll make room. Now a word to whom it may concern: Matinee, if you see yourself in the above picture, color yourself a blushing pink, and please mend your ways.

DEAR ABBY: After reading about the woman who refused to say "thank you" to people who tell her that she would be beautiful if she lost a little weight, I want to add my 22 cents' worth.

All my life I've been skinny. Not sickly skinny — just skinny with a few curves. I find it annoying when people say, "You would be so pretty if you put on a little weight."

Well, I have tried. Believe me, I eat like a horse, but I can't put on an ounce. I have accepted myself as I am, and even considered myself lucky, so why do other people feel the need to tell me I look terrible?

Just as it hurts overweight people to hear "fat jokes," it hurts thin people to be cut down with skinny jokes. Please print this, Abby, for all the skinny people who are sick of hearing, "You are skin and bones; you would look so much better if you put on a few pounds."

SKINNY MINNIE

(Problem? Write to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Abby, P.O. Box 2000, Hollywood, Calif. 90028. All correspondence is confidential.)

over again, he refused, saying "I'm sorry, I don't think I can please you."

Now what kind of a doctor is he? And what should I do about this situation? I certainly can't go around looking the way I am.

LOPSIDED IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR LOPSIDED: I think you should see another plastic surgeon

Pregnant woman wants to smoke

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My question is this. I am four months pregnant (for the first time). I'm a healthy 26-year-old woman. My only fault is I smoke, and my husband doesn't. He won't stop nagging me about it. I know it's not good for my baby, but won't it be worse if I stopped and came under stress because of it? I smoke a half a pack a day.

— J.R.K.

I'm not going to nag you, even though I'd very much like to see you quit during your pregnancy. Your husband is right, you know. Babies born to cigarette-smoking mothers have lower birth weights. They also tend to be born prematurely, be less fully developed, and have more emotional problems.

Smoking pregnancies (if I can use that term) are also prone to greater complications. For example, the placenta separates from the uterus earlier than normal. Membranes rupture earlier. If I am scaring you, I'm terribly sorry, but I must add the fact that children of smokers during pregnancy are more apt to have sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS).

I refuse to buy your quitting-stress proposition. Any mental stress you might have from quitting could not begin to match the physical stress smoking causes the baby you are carrying.

I guess I've ended up nagging you after all, haven't I? Please write back and tell me your success story.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can a mother who has vaginal herpes breast-feed her baby? I had to be delivered by C-section because there was evidence of active herpes at that time. — Mrs. P.F.

Your own doctor is the one to ask, and this is more than a gratuitous brush-off. The herpes virus is transmitted by direct contact. Generally, if there are no herpes lesions in the breast area, then breast-feeding may be done. Another reason for checking with your pediatrician is to be sure any medicine you might be using is not harmful.

The breast-feeding mother with herpes has to take extra precautions. She must be extra careful about handling the baby, washing her hands frequently to avoid transfer of the virus from her body to the infant. The booklet, "Herpes: Don't Panic," answers some of your questions regarding sexual intercourse. Other readers may order by writing me and enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.25.

Lady Steer spikers open season

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Big Spring Lady Steers will open up their season today when they travel to Levelland to tangle with the Levelland Lobos.

It will be the first official test for coach Elaine Stone's squad. This is Stone's first year as head coach for the Lady Steers. The West Texas State University graduate has served as junior varsity coach for the past three seasons.

Coach Stone inherits a team that has four returning letterwomen from last year's district winning team that finished with a 23-9 record. That's the good news. The bad news is that all four returners are nursing injuries.

Leading the way for the Lady Steers will be seniors Sheri Myrick, Michelle Husted and Lisa Hale. Katrina Thompson is the lone returning junior letterwoman.

Myrick, a 6-1 center blocker, has a pulled groin muscle. Stone said the all-district performer is questionable for the contest. Hale, a 5-5 setter, has a sprained ankle, and will see limited action.

Husted, a 5-8 spiker, has a pulled calf muscle, but will play. Thompson, last year's District 4-3A Sophomore of the Year, is recovering from a knee injury suffered in softball action this summer. But she will also play.

"We'll let the injured girls play a little, not that much because we don't want to risk serious injury in a pre-season game," said Stone.

The Lady Steers suffered a serious blow when Tab Green decided to pass up her final year of volleyball. Green was Sophomore of the Year in '84 and all-district last season. This leaves Stone with a need for spikers in her 5-1 and 6-1 offenses.

"We are short on spikers that's for sure. Lisa (Hale) is about the only true spiker and we are turning Priscilla Banks, a spiker, into a setter." Last week the Lady Steers went through some tough two-day workouts, which will continue this week. "We worked hard on the fundamentals. Our younger players were lacking in fundamentals," Stone said.

Monday the Lady Steers went to San Angelo for scrimmage matches against San Angelo Central, Bronte and Miles. No points were kept, each team played one hour against each other.

"The scrimmage really helped a lot. The girls saw some of the areas they need to work on. It's easy for me to see what we need to work on. But when the players can see, then I think we're getting somewhere."

For today's 3 p.m. game, Stone will go with Hale as setter and Thompson, Banks, Michelle LeGrand and Nikki Rodriguez as spikers. Husted or Myrick will round out the starting lineup.

SHERI MYRICK

LISA HALE

Rounding out the varsity are Ida Montez, Cary Brooks and Kathryn Burrow.

The freshmen and junior varsity teams will play before the varsity contest. "I don't have a set lineup yet," Stone said. "All of the players are so equal in talent so the starting positions are wide open. This is really a challenge for me. I've got a good group of girls with some good attitudes. I think we'll give the rest of the district a run for the title."

A Houston Oilers rookie sits under the goal posts, pondering his fate, after a recent workout in San Angelo. Like many first year players, it's a day-to-day thing, whether they get cut or not.

For whom the bell tolls

Herald sports writer Eddie Curran visited the Houston Oilers training camp in San Angelo last week, and this is the third part of a four part series from that visit.

Larry James played wide receiver at Texas A&I. When he joined the San Antonio Gunslingers of the USFL, they asked him to change positions. "Larry, you're going to be a safety," they said.

He started at safety for San Antonio for two years, but the recent verdict in the USFL-NFL trial relegated the Gunslingers to little more than Trivial Pursuit fodder. So James, who's from Galveston, approached the Houston Oilers and asked for a tryout. Sure, they said, but there's one condition. "Larry, if you make this team, it will have to be as a linebacker."

Linebacker? Now wide receiver to safety is not unheard of, and safety to outside linebacker doesn't seem an impossible transition. But wide receiver to linebacker? Victims of Paul Warfield and Drew Pearson backing up the defensive line just don't jibe.

"Sure, I can play linebacker," James said, and he's spent the last month trying to prove he can.

James' first priority was to increase his weight. He's listed at 6-3, 210 pounds in the Oilers roster, but he's up to 218, and doing what he can to add five to ten more.

James is battling with two others for the remaining outside linebacker spot. He's both optimistic and philosophical about his chances.

"I ran a 4.4 (second) forty on grass, and I've been working on my strength. The coaches like my one-on-one ability with the tight ends and backs. They seem to have patience with me, and I'm thankful for that. I'm catching on pretty quick."

At 6-3, 218 pounds, and not one of 'em hanging over his belt, James is a physical specimen. His broad shoulders look like they could easily handle the extra weight he hopes to add, and his long legs look like they could get him anywhere in a hurry.

If he were to stroll down Highland Mall, he would hear oohs and aahs, and maybe a "Damn that's a big guy." But at the Oilers camp, rubbing shoulders with 6-5, 280 pound linemen, he appears very human.

He speaks softly, and has a bright, kind smile. It's possible that he's a little awed by being here, but he's certainly not afraid of anything. Rather, he seems to have a quiet intensity.

"I'm trying to concentrate so much — I'm staying within myself. A lot of 'em know they're going to be here, and they're relaxed." (He nods at some of the veterans watching television, one of whom is singing along with the music video.)

Others, like myself, are off by themselves, studying, and taking notes at meetings. There's a lot of pressure. One mistake, and your job could be on the line. Mistakes will get you cut quicker than anything," he explains.

If James makes the team, it will be because he was able to overcome two obstacles — the change in position, and the transition from the USFL to the NFL.

"They're a little bit quicker here, especially the running backs. Pinkett (Alan Pinkett, third round pick from Notre Dame) is like a bolt of lightning, and strong," he said, shaking his head a little.

But I learned a lot at San Antonio. I got experience, and that helped me out a great deal. He added.

Rams defeat 49ers 31-17

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — A rejuvenated Steve Bartkowski would answer a lot of the questions the Los Angeles Rams have about a quarterback this year.

The former Pro Bowler showed that he still has some life in his throwing arm during the Rams' 31-17 exhibition victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

Bartkowski, starting in place of an injured Dieter Brock, completed 11 of 15 passes for 147 yards and two touchdowns in one half's worth of work Monday night.

His performance has to place him atop the Rams' depth chart at the quarterback position, which has been one of the club's biggest question marks this preseason.

On the Rams' first possession, Bartkowski gave them a 7-0 lead with a 22-yard pass to Ron Brown.

Bartkowski's second touchdown pass was a 26-yard strike to Bobby Duckworth in the second quarter.

The 13-year veteran was signed as a free agent during the offseason.

Seaver hurls win for Red Sox

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Boston Red Sox are in good hands with the Tom Seaver Insurance Co.

For three straight outings, the Red Sox have reaped dividends from the 41-year-old right-handed insurance policy they acquired June 29 from the Chicago White Sox.

"He's doing exactly what Boston got him for — he's leading them to the pennant," Minnesota Manager Ray Miller said after Seaver allowed only three hits in 8 2-3 innings as the Red Sox defeated the Twins 3-1 Monday night. "One veteran can lead the way."

Seaver's victory gave the Red Sox a 5½-game lead over the idle New York Yankees in the American League East.

Seaver is 7-10 overall but 5-4 with a 2.80 earned-run average since joining the Red Sox. In his last three starts, he pitched a five-hitter to beat the Detroit Tigers, allowed nine hits in beating the Kansas City Royals and stifled the Twins in the Metrodome.

He gave up a first-inning single to Kirby Puckett and, after the Red Sox took a 1-0 first-inning lead on Ed Romero's leadoff single and Marty Barrett's RBI double, surrendered Roy Smalley's game-tying homer — Smalley's 19th of the year — in the third inning.

Seaver didn't allow another hit until Randy Bush's two-out double in the ninth. Bob Stanley relieved and struck out pinch-hitter Tom Brunansky for his 15th save.

While Viola wasn't thrilled about losing the pitching duel to Seaver, he marveled at his opponent's mastery.

Indians 10, Brewers 4
Tony Bernazard and Mel Hall drove in three runs apiece and host Cleveland beat Milwaukee for its fourth straight victory.

Bernazard led off the bottom of the first inning with his 12th home run. He hit a two-run single in the third inning and Hall added a two-run triple later in the inning. Hall drove in his third run of the game with a fifth-inning groundout.

Tom Candiotti, 12-9, tied for the AL lead with his 11th complete game, giving up 10 hits and three walks. He has won nine of his last 12 decisions.

Chris Bando had three of Cleveland's 13 hits, including two doubles. He drove in a run and scored one.

Cleveland, now 62-57, has not been five games over .500 this late in the season since 1968.

The Indians scored their first six runs were off Chris Bosio, making his second major-league start. Bosio struck out nine batters in 4 1-3 innings.

Rick Manning and Dale Sveum homered for the Brewers.

Mike Scott, leading the majors in earned run average and strikeouts, finally beat the team with the worst record in the big leagues.

Scott pitched a four-hitter and struck out 10 Monday night as the Houston Astros defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0.

The victory marked Scott's first win in nine career decisions against Pittsburgh, including a loss and a no-decision this season. He entered the game with 5.73 career ERA against the Pirates.

"Now I have everybody in the league," Scott said. "These guys were the toughest."

Scott raised his record to 13-8, increased his strikeout total to 233 and lowered his ERA to 2.23. It was his fourth shutout this season and marked the 15th time he's struck out nine or more batters.

Scott broke into the major leagues in 1979 with the New York Mets and was traded to Houston in 1982. He blossomed last year, posting an 18-8 record after the Astros requested that he learn the split-finger fastball.

He went to Roger Craig for tutoring shortly before Craig became the manager of the Giants. Now, Scott's success is helping Houston hold off San Francisco.

The visiting Astros won for the eighth time in 11 games. Jose Cruz hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning against Bob Walk, 5-7. Cruz' fifth home run of the season followed a two-out single by Kevin Bass.

"Jose's really come on and picked up the whole ball club," Lanier said. "He's been getting the hits in key situations and he's back to being the hitter he's been his whole career."

The Astros scored a run in the third when Scott singled, advanced to third on a walk and an infield out and scored on Denny Walling's infield hit.

Pittsburgh's most serious threat came in the seventh when Sid Bream singled and continued to second on center fielder Billy Hatcher's error. Bream advanced to third on a groundout, and was stranded when Scott retired the next two batters.

Mets 5, Dodgers 4
Darryl Strawberry snapped out of an 0-for-24 slump with a two-run homer and RBI single and Keith Hernandez also homered as New York started a West Coast trip by beating Los Angeles.

Strawberry put the Mets ahead with a run-scoring single in the first inning off Orel Hershiser, 12-9, then capped a three-run fifth with a two-run homer, his 17th of the season, for a 5-0 lead.

Hernandez, who made it 2-0 in the third inning with his 11th homer, preceded Strawberry's homer with an RBI single.

Bob Ojeda, 13-4, won for the seventh time in his last nine decisions. He left after the Dodgers' four-run fifth inning, highlighted by Bill Russell's two-run single. Three relievers finished, with Roger McDowell getting the final three outs for his 13th save.

Reds 6, Padres 5
Buddy Bell hit a three-run homer and host Cincinnati withstood San Diego's five-run rally in the ninth inning.

John Denny, 11-10, took a three-hitter and 6-0 lead into the ninth. But Tony Gwynn's two-run homer and Terry Kennedy's two-out, RBI double pulled San Diego within 6-3 and knocked Denny.

John Franco yielded Kevin McReynolds' pinch-hit, two-run double before striking out Garry Templeton for his 20th save.

Denny had an RBI single in the fifth off Dave LaPoint, 0-1, making his first start since being traded to the Padres from Detroit on July 9.

Bell homered in the seventh off Gene Walter. It was Bell's 14th homer of the season and his fifth in the five-game series with the Padres, extending his hitting streak to 16 games. Bo Diaz also homered for the Reds.

A day with the Oilers

Houston, 5-11 a year ago, enters '86 hopeful

At 2:45, in the heat of the day, the Houston Oilers — a varied assortment of Goliaths and speed merchants, and many that look like both — begin strolling onto the field at San Angelo State for their afternoon practice.

The receivers play catch with one another, throwing perfect spirals and telling each other how good they were as high school quarterbacks. Many of the coaches and linemen congregate under the tent, drinking Gatorade and giving each other a hard time. Though it's preseason, and many of the players won't be around in a weeks time, the mood is light.

"Heeey!" bellows offensive coordinator Dick Jamieson, a big man with a bigger voice. The players scatter into six groups, and walk through their assignments for Saturdays game. Warren Moon, the Oilers quarterback, jogs by the defense on his way to the offensive backs.

"Nice to have you out here Warren," several defensive players say.

"Ya'll are just ten minutes early," he laughs back at them, and continues his slow pace.

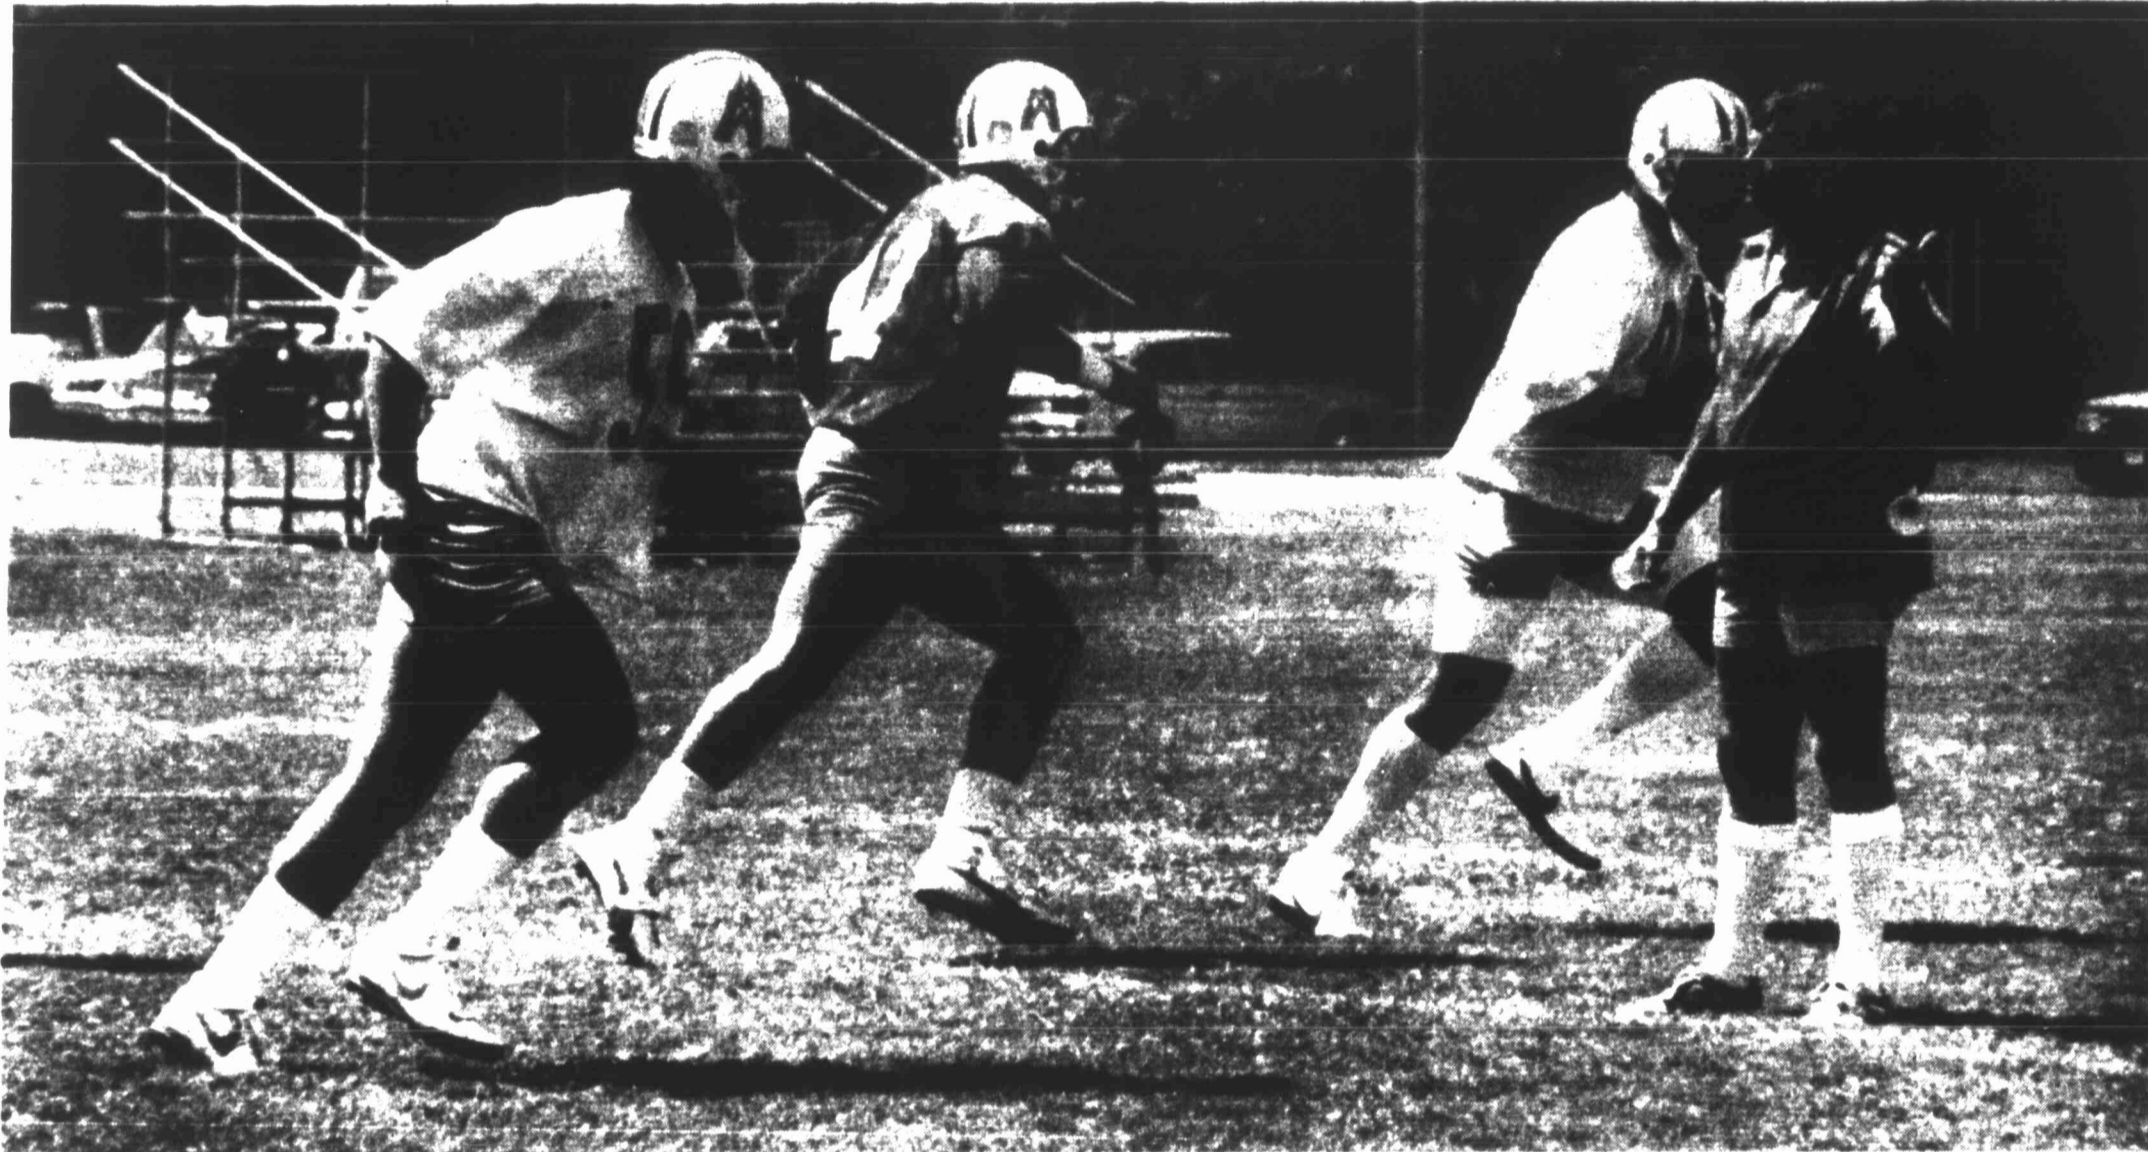

Coach Jerry Glanville, who looks like a small version of Billy Kilmer, runs around to each group, alternately yelling, laughing, and giving instruction.

He jogs by the wide receivers and says to coach Milt Jackson, "Coach, lather 'em up. Run 'em all deep," and chuckles to himself. "You cannot be paying attention to screw up!" Jamieson is screaming at an offensive back.

Glanville honks his horn, the signal for the players to congregate, and 80 abnormally big and fast men rumble towards Glanville for a powow.

The practice is an easy one, because the game's but two days away. But it's still hot, and underneath the calm surface, a lot of the players are very worried.

First year Oiler head coach Jerry Glanville hurries to make a point as three of his players run by him. Glanville coached the Oilers for last two games of 1985 after Hugh Campbell was fired.

Running back Butch Woolfolk plays catch before practice. It must help, because Woolfolk was third in the AFC last year in receptions, with 80.

Cornerback Steve Brown stretches before practice. Brown returned an interception for a touchdown against the Bills Saturday night.

Defensive tackle Doug Smith (99) and linebacker Johnny Meads (91) rise from their seats after hearing Coach Glanville's horn signalling the start of practice.

Former Heisman trophy winner Mike Rozier cools off with Gatorade and shade before returning to work. Rozier is being counted on heavily this year to improve the Oilers running game.

 ed, about the league's demise, "I kind've saw the writing on the wall. They had the right idea, but they didn't stick to it."
 About the move to linebacker, a position he had never played before but which was necessitated by the Oilers depth in the secondary. He said it hasn't been all that difficult.
 "The coaches have been teaching me technique and responsibilities. They've been doing an excellent job. But I'm not use to all this hitting. I didn't hit this much from the safety position."

 Though the odds are against James making the team, he's not the kind of guy you worry about. He's nice, level headed, and doesn't appear to be the type who'll drink a fifth of whiskey if he gets cut.
 "I'm 26, and this is probably my last shot. If I don't make it, I'll probably go into law enforcement. I worked about eight months (in law enforcement) in San Antonio, and I liked it. It pays excellent.

 While he appears ready to step into police work, there's no indication that he's resigned himself to being cut. Clearly, there's hope.
 "I have my confidence up, and that's when you can really take off. The new guys spend too much time thinking, while the old guys are just reacting, implying that he's at the point now where he can go out there and trust his instincts.
 "It's depending on the games now. This weekend could tell a lot for me. I'm on most of the special teams, and that should help. I'll just have to do what I gotta do.

 "Depending on how I do in this game, I might smile a little more and open up," he said, and cracks a quick mischievous grin, as if to add, "it'll be about time."
 In tomorrow's Herald, the series on the Oilers concludes with a talk with new head coach Jerry Glanville.
 Note: Just before deadline, it was learned that James was one of ten Oilers cut yesterday afternoon.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

LOTS OF PAINT — Industrial Park Hardware has too much paint and needs to sell it, says owner Bob Noyes, pictured right. Noyes and

Industrial Park Hardware has supplies for projects

Industrial Park Hardware, an independently-owned hardware store, carries the supplies needed to complete most all your projects.
 The store, which opened in May, is a Trustworthy Hardware Store—The Problem Solver. It handles a full line of electrical and plumbing supplies, paint, nuts, bolts, screws, specialty hardware, hardwood plywood and hardwood lumber.
 Industrial Park Hardware has received a new paint line of products, "Trustworthy Paint," manufactured by Valspar. It includes interior wall and trim, exterior latex and oil, stain, varnish, and a full line of tintable finishes.
 Because of its association with Bob's Custom Woodwork, the store sells furniture repair and cabinet lumber not available anywhere else in this area and special trims for cabinets and paneling. The store's plywood comes in 1/2-, 3/4- and 1-inch thicknesses in ash, oak, birch, whitewood and mahogany. Plywoods are kept in stock most of the time.

 Industrial Park Hardware has specialty hardware supplies, stripping products and veneers for the do-it-yourselfer, remodeler and furniture repair person. Its supply line includes: a line of standard pulls, catches and shelf standards; hard-to-find hardware for furniture repair, trunks, chests and other antique pieces; and drawer guides and slides. For kitchen organization, Kitchen Aids' line of lazy Susans, sink pull outs and cookbook racks are available.
 The store also is a distributor of Alcoa Building Products including siding, roofing, trims, soffit and fascia, aluminum, cedar shake roofing, Fashion carports, and patio covers. Instead of costly painting consider Alcoa building products.

 Industrial Park Hardware sells the things needed to do the job.

Store hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Owned and operated by Bob and Jan Noyes, the store is located at 613 N. Warehouse Road in Big Spring.
