College budget of $5.7 million revised slightly

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

A leaner budget of $5.7 million, based on revenues $250,000 to $400,000 less than last year, was adopted for Howard County Junior College District Tuesday. Final figures for the 1986-87 budget differ only in miniscule amounts from preliminary figures revealed at last month's meeting, said Terry Hansen, vice president for fiscal affairs. The budget will be $5,719,960, or about 5 percent less than last year's budget. •

Changes come mainly in two recently filled positions in which a new employee was hired at a lower salary than the previous employee earned, he said.

But he said that no layoffs or salary cuts are planned, in accordance with the preliminary budget. The reason for the leaner budget is a decreased tax base Preliminary figures showed the district might get $250,000 less in local taxes this year than last year, but Hansen said new estimates showed the figure could go as high as $300,000 to $400,000.

The district's assessed value decreased this year by $163,898,226,

In addition, tax collection rate might not be as high this year. Last year, about 96 percent of taxes due the district were collected, he said, but this year the figure could decrease to 91 or 92 percent.

This year's tax rate has not been set pending results of the state legislature's special session.

Last year's tax rate was 16 cents per $100, and the preliminary budget showed no change in this year's rate.

Hansen declined to comment on whether a rate increase is possible, saying he would not second-guess the board.

The state legislature is considering a 9 percent reduction in funds to iunior colleges. The budget had planned for a 5 percent cut, Hansen

A reserve figure of 10 percent, $750,000, still stands, he said. In other business, the board:

Settles Hotel for sale by developer Cuadra

Staff Writer

The Settles Hotel and five other downtown properties are for sale, said owner and developer Gil Cuadra Tuesday. He said the property is being sold so that the growth of downtown Big Spring will not be impeded.

Other reasons he gave for selling the property were lack of money and that his investment group is "swamped with work" while renovating several apartment complexes throughout the state.

'We're not looking to abandon Big Spring," Cuadra said. "If there's someone on the block who wants to take over the driver's seat, we're offering them that chance.'

He said several persons had inquired about leasing space in the Settles and his other property.

He said it's possible the investment group may have the money a year from now to begin its restoration plans, but the buildings should be placed for sale because progress in Big Spring should not be stopped.

Ralph Kelley, a Cuadra employee, said Tuesday afternoon he will be in Big Spring next week to post "For Sale" signs on the downtown properties.

"We bought the property at an attractive price," Cuadra said about his six purchases in the downtown area from 1984 to 1985. "We're willing to finance redevelopment projects for investors or cash out," he said about purchase agreements.

Cuadra would not say what price

he seeks for the property. Tuesday's announcement broke a long silence from the San Antonio developer who was quite vocal about Big Spring downtown restoration a year ago.

In July 1985, Cuadra announced he wanted to create an "Old Town" historic preservation district in can't have my way right now, I'm downtown to draw tourists.

By SCOTT FITZGERALD He told business leaders, public officials and merchants last year that the first two ground floors of the Settles Hotel would open within > Kelley initiated civic interest by announcing at a press conference that developers, with the aid of the Howard County Historical Commission, would select 55 prominent families to name hotel suites after.

The developers also announced they were seeking artists to paint eight murals to be showcased in the renovated hotel.

However, Cuadra never obtained building permits for any of his downtown purchases. Work in the Settles halted after junk and trash were removed from the lobby.

In October 1985, Cuadra said restoration of the Hotel Settles had been placed on hold because the project lacked community support. He was especially critical then of community and city planning and said he would "sit on my investment in Big Spring," until "infighting" between different political and interest groups in Big Spring was resolved. In January, the city and the Chamber of Commerce's Downtown Steering Committee hired Teri Quinones, a downtown development coordinator.

Quinones said progress has been made in forging a coherent plan for downtown renovation.

Robert Lima of Lima Planning Associates, Inc. in Lubbock was hired in June and last month presented the first stages of a downtown master plan to civic

"I'm not going to attempt to speak for them (Cuadra),' Quinones said Tuesday when asked about his announcement. "They've got to consider the pace of Big Spring," she said, explaining that Cuadra expects results too fast.

She said his reasoning is, "If I not going to play with you."

Coahoma schools will work with budget of $4.6 million

By EDDIE CURRAN Staff Writer

Coahoma School Board Tuesday night unanimously approved a 'bare bones budget'' budget of $4,637,034 for 1986-87, Superintendent Jerry Doyle said. A proposed tax increase of 10 cents per $100 valuation is the basis for the budget, but the board hasn't yet set the tax rate.

The board plans to set the tax rate at a September meeting. Last year's rate was $1.22.

Though the tax rate will be increased, Coahoma actually will $4,743,724. collect $300,000 less than last year with a $1.32 rate. An effective rate of $1.35 is needed to collect the same as last year, Doyle said.

The board anticipates tax revenues of $3,135,724, which is the amount of revenue due multiplied by a projected collection rate of 97.25 percent.

With the addition of state and federal monies, miscellaneous expenses, and a $142,000 balance from the 1985-86 school year, the board projects 1986-87 revenues of

The projected fund balance as of Aug. 31 1987 is $106,690.

Two oil industry representatives at the meeting asked to board to whittle down the $1.32 rate and pursue a high collection rate. The request came from Tom Clifton. representing Amoco, and Mary Blessing of Atlantic Richfield.

Doyle replied, however, that he is afraid to go above a 97.25 percent collection rate in difficult economic

Senate OKs post, but nominee quits, leaves

AUSTIN - Dominick V. Bonura, former dean of students at Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf in Big Spring was approved Monday by the Senate Nominations Committee for a gubernatorial appointment to the Texas Commission for the Deaf.

From staff and wire reports

Bonura, however, recently resigned from the commission and has taken a job in Pennsylvania.

Bonura, 50, left his position at SWCID in July to take a position as assistant headmaster with Pennsylvania School for the Deaf in Philadelphia. He had been with SWCID since the fall of 1981, said a spokeswoman there.

He was appointed by Gov. Mark White to the commission in February for a term to expire Jan.

Mary Ryan, head of the governor's appointment office in Austin, said it's standard procedure for all administrative appointees to undergo senate confirmation even though they may have resigned or died before the confirmation process takes place.

Cities may gain from sales tax ruling

From staff and wire reports

AUSTIN — Big Spring and other Texas cities stand to gain substantial revenue if a ruling by the State Attorney General on interest on local sales tax is upheld and acted on by the Legislature.

But House Speaker Gib Lewis says the Legislature probably will move to keep $204 million that Attorney General Jim Mattox says belongs to Texas cities and counties.

Last year Big Spring collected almost $1.6 million from local monthly sales tax rebates, said Tom Ferguson, city finance director. Between the time the state collects the taxes and the time it refunds them to local government, the taxes are held in the state treasury and draw interest. Ferguson said he could not say how much interest the city could conceivably collect because he said he has no way of knowing what interest rate the money draws or how long the bulk of it stays in account before being refunded. But Ferguson said a move by lawmakers to refund interest would be a real financial boon for the city.

Comptroller Bob Bullock asked Mattox for a legal opinion on the interest earned on local taxes that are collected by the state. Bullock wanted to know who gets the Mattox held Tuesday that interest earned on local taxes collected by the state should be credited to local taxing units.

"Interest earned on all taxes collected on behalf of local taxing units must be credited to those taxing units," said the opinion returned by the attorney general's department.

'Any interest previously deposited in the general revenune of the state treasury must receive specific legislation appropriation before such interest can be remitted to the various taxing units," the opinion added.

'must appropriate the money to the local government before it could be released." 'Until the Legislature acts, the money is to be held by the state in a suspense account," Mattox said.

"I think the Legislature probably will change the law to keep the money," Lewis

Bullock estimated it would cost the state $19 million a year if the money should go back to local jurisdictions.

Retroactively, on local taxes collected since 1968, it would cost the state $204 million, Bullock said. However, Mattox said the Legislature

The honor, the highest Indiana's governor can grant, was given by GOV. ROBERT D. ORR Tuesday night before Nelson performed at the Indiana State Fair.

"As governor of one of America's most productive agricultural states, I want to thank Willie Nelson for all he has done to heighten awareness of the plight of the farmer," said Orr. "To honor him with a Sagamore is the best way we know how to say thanks for all he has done."

Nelson organized the Farm Aid concerts in Illinois and Texas to raise money for troubled farmers.

College board replies to citizen's criticism

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

The Howard County Junior College District board of trustees approved the 1986-87 budget Tuesday after a one-hour public meeting dominated by citizen comment and criticism. Bill Sprinkle, former Howard College instructor and board candidate, said the district should raise faculty salaries to insure higher quality instruction.

He criticized the college for what he says is an overabundance of administration, and for recent statements about the athletic program that he said were false.

Sprinkle said a recent study shows the district's salaries are just above the bottom fourth in the

He said accreditation studies done over a 21-year period show that the number of administrative personnel increased by a whopping 338 percent while the number of students in the district increased 21 percent and the number of faculty

He said the board should re-order its priorities to place instruction at the top of the list, should scrutinize administrative and staff positions, eliminating any unnecessary ones or duplications, and should perform a "thorough, honest and objective" study of the athletic scholarship program to see if the benefits are worth the cost.

Vice chairman Don McKinney said the salaries study cited by Sprinkle includes community colleges in huge metroplexes like Tarrant County in addition to smaller

He said the board's decision is valid because it takes into account the size of the junior colleges.

'We have got to compare apples to apples, not apples to oranges,'

On the worth of the athletic program, board member Harold Davis said the board has carefully considered the matter and believes the program is worth the expense. Dr. Charles Hays, former president of Howard College, also spoke at the meeting. He said the board had considered the athletic program carefully when it adopted the program, and he believes it worth the expense.

"Athletics are indeed a part of a comprehensive college," he said. Hays also said he agrees with Sprinkle that the faculty to staffadministration ratio should be studied, and that "salaries for our teachers are not what they should

But he said that the load of administrative duties has increased dramatically over the 21-year period in question.

The district 21 years ago didn't have the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf or the programs in Del Rio, Snyder or San Angelo, he said.

"You can't do it any more" with the levels of administration of 21 years ago, he said.

Sprinkle said statements made by Dr. Bob Riley, Howard College president — that the athletic scholarship program breaks even are false

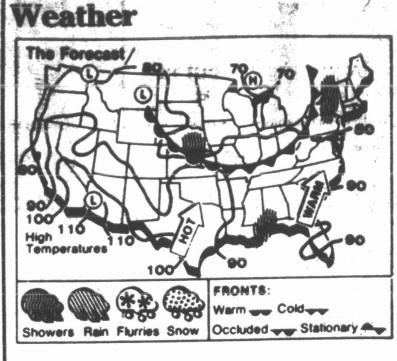

He said the statements, made in recent "How's That" column in the Herald, are a smoke screen to conceal from the public how much the programs cost taxpayers.

Riley had said the $80,000 in athletic scholarships the college pays yearly begats $250,000 in state contact-hour funding, based on a rate of one student in contact with one faculty for one nour.

Sprinkle said part of that figure is generated by athletes taking courses in academic subjects such as English.

Riley said that part of the $250,000 contact-hour funding is indeed generated by athletes taking academic subjects, but it is counted as athletic revenues because "those kids wouldn't be here" without the athletic program.

Board member Dr. P.W. Malone said "We have a wonderfully wellbalanced program," and he believes the community agrees

"I'd like to tell the people fighting against the death penalty to continue their work," he said in a final statement. "I'd like to say I'm sorry for the victim and family and I wish I could make it all right."

Woolls was the 16th Texas inmate executed since the state resumed the death penalty in 1982. He was the sixth this year.

Gunman kills 14

EDMOND, Okla. — A part-time postsi worker facing dismissal opened fire in a post office this morning, killing 14 people and wounding at least four before taking his own life, police said.

The gunman, identified by police as Pat Sherrill, 44, was hired last year and was about to be fired, said postal officials in Washington. Sherrill's body and those of 14 others were found inside the post office and in the back parking lot of the post office after police mov-ed into the one-story brick building about 9

Shuttle budget in doubt

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. - The chairman of a House space subcommittee says he doesn't know where the money will be found to build a fourth space shuttle, but he is emphatic it will not come "out of the hide of NASA's budget."

Rep. Bill Nelson, D-Fla., said the $272 million that President Reagan authorized for construction startup money in the fiscal year starting Oct. 1 will have to come from other departments in the government.

"In a trillion dollar budget, when you're looking for $272 million, all kinds of wrinkles might occur," Nelson told a news conference Tuesday. "There will be some slack in the defense budget, and that's where you may find some of the money."

Medical board evaluated

AUSTIN - Because of "unanswered questions," the Senate Nominations Committee has scheduled an unusual third hearing for eight appointees to the State Board of Medical Examiners.

Five members of the 15-member medical rexaminers board appeared Tuesday to a sanswer probing committee questions about what kind of job the board has done to police Texas physicians.

But after almost five hours of testimony. committee chairman Chet Edwards said, "There are still unanswered questions.

Political consultant Dick Minard views a commercial to draft Pat Robertson for president featuring cowboy and fast-food restaurateur Roy Rogers and his wife Dale Evans. Minard, who until recently worked for Robertson, told reporters in Washington Tuesday that the commercials were "just the beginning" in the campaign to draft the television evangelist.

Roy Rogers urges presidential draft

WASHINGTON - Roy Rogers, the cowboy hero and fast-food restaurateur, is urging Americans to "join Dale and me as members of the National Committee to Draft Pat Robertson for President.'

Rogers and his wife, Dale Evans, are starring in a television commercial Robertson supporters are running in seven states in an effort to drum up support for the television evangelist.

Political consultant Dick Minard, who until recently worked for Robertson, previewed the commercial Tuesday and said, "Our goal is to convince the American public Pat Robertson is a legitimate candidate.

Minard resigned June 27 as national director of Robertson's Freedom Council. He described the commercial as "just the beginning" of an effort to convince Robertson to run for president, but there appeared no need to urge him to seek the 1988 Republican presidential nomination.

"There is a fapulous groundswell of enthusiasm for my getting into the race," Robertson said Sunday on the CBS show "Face the Nation." He has formed a committee called Americans for Pat Robertson that is accepting contributions to finance his preliminary activities as he explores the prospect of a presidential candidacy.

At the same time, Robertson has conceded there is "an antipathy in this country against ministers, as such, a clergyman, a parish priest, if you will, getting involved in politics.

To counter that, he has said he will stress his background as a businessman and broadcaster, with degrees in law and economics.

Robertson has claimed that his supporters won a plurality of Republican precinct delegate contests earlier this month in Michigan — an assertion disputed by supporters of Vice President George Bush and Rep. Jack Kemp of New York.

Minard said the Rogers commercial will run in Alabama, California, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas. nhe committee also plans to promote a Robertson candidacy with billboards in Tennessee, Indiana, South Carolina and Oklahoma.

He said the committee was spending about $20,000 on the initial round of advertising. He said Rogers and Miss Evans had donated their services and that the committee was talking to other entertainment and sports figures about appearing in subsequent ads. Minard refused to name any of the individuals he has approached.

Chernobyl fire reported

MOSCOW - A Soviet newspaper today disclosed a fire broke out May 23 in the building housing the Chernobyl nuclear reactor that was destroyed by an explosion and fire nearly a month earlier.

The report said firefighters were forced to work in a high-radiation zone to stop the flames from spreading to an oil storage area.

The newspaper Leninskoye Znamya, a publication of Moscow's Communist Party, reported the May 23 fire in the middle of an article about firefighters working at the Chernobyl nuclear plant in the northern Ukraine.

It was the first report of the May 23 fire. The newspaper said the fire broke out early in the morning in the building housing the No. 4 reactor, the one involved in the April 26

Two commit suicide

VANCOUVER, British Columbia - When two young east Indian women committed suicide together to avoid arranged marriages, their deaths raised concerns about how the community was adapting to a new society.

Karamjit Mahil, 19, and her 20-year-old friend Pritpal Brar had been promised to men they didn't love, the Canadian Press news agency reported this week.

"Hope you guys will be all happy now. Life really wasn't worth living around here," Ms. Mahil wrote in a short suicide note last year.

As British Columbia's east Indian population has grown in the last 15 years from a few thousand to nearly 80,000, so have their problems dealing with Western society.

OPEC quota cut ultimately futile

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has agreed to impose production quotas on its members. They would cut oil output by nearly 4 billion barrels a day for two

The agreement is an important but probably hopeless attempt to establish stability in world oil markets. If it succeeded, it would greatly benefit both OPEC and the West.

OPEC feared that if it adjourned its Geneva summit without acting, prices would fall by another 50 percent - to $5 a barrel. (They were above $27 a barrel last Jan. 1.) This threatened both economic and political ruin for many of its member

If the latest agreement sticks and, more important, is extended by agreement at OPEC's next summit in October, it may slow, although not end, the depression in the U.S. oil industry and save major American banks from having to liquidate their loans to oil-producing Third World debtors, which would be bankrupted by $5 per barrel oil.

While an effective production-sharing agreement within OPEC might eventually raise prices to as high as $15 a barrel, consumers wouldn't feel the effects soon.

Oil was selling for $35 a barrel only last August, and it is unlikely to return to that level without unimaginable discipline within OPEC. The benefits of the price reduction that has already occurred will largely be retained.

But if prices fall much more, the magnitude of the change could prove too great and the pace too quick to serve anyone's

Unfortunately, most of OPEC's members need money in the short run and have routinely exceeded their production quotas in the past to earn it.

They are likely to do so again. Thus OPEC probably can't establish stability.

So the United States and the world face yet greater change at ever more dangerous rates of speed.

Study links alcohol intake to air crash survivability

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — Could that second in-flight cocktail prove fatal in an emergency? Federal Aviation Administration investigators were startled to discover an apparent correlation between survivability in an airplane crash and the amount of booze a passenger had consumed. No one lives through a planeshattering crash or midair explosion, of course. But the unpublished portion of an FAA investigation on a 1983 emergency landing in Cincinnati indicates that in survivable plane accidents the heavierdrinking massengers are more likely to perish.

Air Canada DC-9 in June 1983. The deaths were caused by fumes from burning material in the cabin. The plane crash-landed and the survivors fled through the escape

As a result of the findings, the FAA has ordered that planes with 20 or more seats be fitted with slower-burning, more fireretardant materials. Existing planes must conform by 1990.

But what was left out of the final 98-page report was the toxicological study done by experts at the FAA's Mike Monroney Aeronaturical Center in Oklahoma City, Okla. The study turned up surprising links between passenger deaths and the amount of alcohol in their bodies.

Of the 23 who died, three had more than enough alcohol in their bloodstreams to be declared legally drunk in most states; one had enough to be legally drunk in some states; eight had some alcohol in their blood and 11 had none. Tests on 18 of the 23 survivors on the other hand, showed none who

any state and only four with any alcohol at all in their blood.

A spokesman for the FAA's Civil Twenty-three people died after Aeromedical Institute told our fire broke out in a lavatory of an associate Les Whitten that the statistics were not conclusive enough to state with certainty that booze can be a factor in survivability. Such other factors as distance from escape hatches, lighting indicating the hatches' locations and cabin attendants' training can also determine who lives or dies in a walkaway accident It's because the scientific and statistical evidence is still too sketchy for definite conclusions that the alcohol content of the Air Canada passengers' blood was left out of the final draft of the report, the spokesman said

SLIPPERY POLLUTERS: About half of the vessel owners responsible for oil spills in U.S. waterways manage to escape the cost of cleaning up their mess, according to a report by the Transportation Department's inspector general.

As a result, from 1971 to 1985, the Coast Guard spent about $60 million of unrecovered funds to clean up onshore and offshore oil spills. The inspector general identified four chief reasons for the would have been legally drunk in government's failure to collect from the oil spillers: Legislative limits on vessel owners' liability Unidentified perpetrators. Delays in processing oilpollution court cases.

 Insufficient public awareness of the effects of oil spills.

Not only does the Coast Guard lack the "deterrent effect of criminal prosecution," the inspector general found, but even civil penalties have not been assessed for the many spills on the Outer Continental Shelf. That's because the Environmental Protection Agency has yet to define "harmful quantities" of spilled oil, as it was ordered to do nine years ago.

Congress is considering legislation that would set up a Marine Oil Pollution Compensation Fund, financed by user fees, to shift the burden of unrecovered cleanup costs from the government to the private sector

A TEAM FOR ALL SEASONS: At the risk of seeming to nag, we'd like to remind the Justice Department and other supposedly interested parties that it wazs well over a year ago that the world was promised a conclusive report on the exhumation of skeletal remains declared to be those of Dr. Josef Mengele, the infamous "Angel of Death" at the Nazis' Auschwitz death camp in World War II.

The team of distinguished scientists who went to Brazil and studied the bones issued a preliminary finding that the remains were Mengele's to a "scientific certainty." They said their final report would be issued in the fall of 1985. The months went by, and rumors of controversy were stoutly denied. Any inconsistencies were distinctly minor, officials declared. The report would be out in the winter.

Prodigal daughter seeks forgiveness

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: When I found out I was pregnant I was very afraid to tell my parents, so my boyfriend and I ran away to another city. Now we are married, and I have come to realize what I did must have hurt my parents greatly. I ache inside wanting to see them again and let them know they have a grandson, but I just can't bring myself to pick up the phone for fear they will reject me.

What should I do? — Mrs. R.H.S. DEAR MRS. R.H.S.: You now know something of what it means to be a parent and how deeply parents can love their children. Don't you think your parents have the same feelings and concern for you, in spite of what you have

Yes, by all means contact them although it may be that you can express yourself better in a letter at first (and include a picture of the baby!) But don't just let them know what has happened to you. Let them know that you realize you were wrong in what you did and you know you have hurt them, and ask for their forgiveness. Let them know also of your deep desire to be reconciled to them and to renew your relationship. I suspect they will be like the father of the prodigal son who had run away from home but finally decided to return: 'But while he was still a long way off, his father saw him and was filled with compassion for him; he ran to his son, threw his arms around him and kissed him" (Luke 15:20) But more than that, I urge you to seek God's forgiveness for what you have done and be reconciled to Him. God loves you, and although you cannot remake the past, He wants to help you rebuild your life and base your marriage and your family on His way of living. You and your husband need Christ; your child also needs a home where he is taught about God's love for him. Get on your knees together and commit your lives to Christ, and He will forgive you and make you part of His family forever.

Drug law kills victims to save them

Picture yourself as the victim of an incurable, fatal disease. You have only months to live. You learn of a new drug that may provide a cure. It may mean the difference between an early death and a long, normal life. There's only one catch: Your doctor may not give you the drug because scientists don't know yet if it will harm or kill you. To protect you from those hazards, the law in effect sentences you to die.

This is no macabre fantasy out of Joseph Heller. For tens of thousands of Americans dying of acquired immune deficiency syndrome, or AIDS, it is a ghastly reality. Because existing laws mandate thorough testing of drugs before they can be given to pationts, thousands of Alle victims will die when they might be saved.

AIDS is one of the most deadly epidemics in American history, killing 200 people every week. So far nearly 13,000 Americans are known to have died of it, a figure that probably badly underestimates the real total. Another 1.5 million already have been infected by the virus, of which about 300,000 can be expected to get the actual disease. By 1991, experts predict, this epidemic will have killed 179,000 Americans — the equivalent of wiping out the entire city of Las Vegas.

Given current scientific knowledge, contracting AIDS its results. If anyone with AIDS means certain death. No one has recovered from it. Yet federal troin getting drugs that noid out might get only a placebo. some hope, however slight. Although the Food and Drug Administration apparently is doing everything it can to speed up testing, the process is still lethally

One drug, azidothymidine, shows some promise in helping AIDS patients. Some of them can get it through the clinical tests being conducted to gauge its ultimate value. But only about 4,000 AIDS patients — fewer than one in four — will get the chance to participate in these trials. For these, there is yet another cruel irony.

Like all FDA drug tests, these are "double-blind," requiring that for every patient getting the drug, another one must be given a worthless placebo. Neither the patients nor the doctors running a test know who is getting which until after it's over. For AIDS victims, that may be too late

The thinking behind this approach is not entirely crazy. Thorough testing is needed to measure the safety and effectiveness of new drugs, and doubleblind test are the most illuminating. If all patients in a study got the drug, there would be no benchmark from which to judge were allowed access to the medicine, no one would be willing regulations prevent most victims to participate in a test in which he

Some exceptions to this policy are allowed as a matter of compassion. But as Stanford's Dale Gieringer wrote in a recent monograph for teh Washington-based Cato Institute, the FDA is generally stingy with such exceptions, and no AIDS drugs are available under this

What is forgotten in the FDA's by-the-book approach is that drug tests exist for patients, not patients for drug tests. In this case the end, protecting patients, has been subordinated to the means, testing bureaucratic mind than in the law The fundamental flaw in our existing drug policy is that it denies individual patients the freedom to decide what risks they will accept. The result is to elevate drug safety above all other concerns, including the saving of lives. It would be nice if we could allow all AIDS victims access to potentially useful medicines and conduct informative tests of those drugs. But the choice must be made between the two, and the only sensible choice is the one that provides immediate hope to the dying.

The right policy is to allow the drugs to be prescribed to anyone suffering from the disease or the virus. Patients should be fully informed of the uncertain value and possible hazards of taking any experimental medicine, but the final decision over whether to take those risks should be the patient's, not the government's. If the worst case is realized and the drugs prove harmful or even deadly, AIDS victims hardly will be any worse off than they would have been with nothing.

It is the people afflicted with this disease who now face the prospect of an ugly, painful death. No one should presume to judge for them what risks are worthwhile in trying to save their lives.

suppers: Chilled soup and truit dishes

By CARLEEN EVERETT Lifestyle Editor

Chilled soup and fabulous fruit salads can make an incredibly delicious summer supper.

Who says soup has to be hot? Chilled soup is more popular than ever and just right for warmweather menus. Since it's ready to serve straight from the refrigerator, it's a great makeahead recipe

To avoid the hustle and bustle of preparing complicated desserts and salads, turn to fresh fruit. We all know fruit is wonderful eaten as is, but it's equally tasty sliced or peeled and prepared in these simple recipes.

Patrons must do their own speaking up

DEAR ABBY: What can you do for those of us who find ourselves being "robbed" in a new way? In the last two weeks, I've been to a concert, a movie, a Protestant wedding and to my own place of worship — a Catholic Mass. I was robbed.

The worst was in church, where I found it necessary to pray fervently the entire time to keep from behaving in an uncharitable manner that would have been at odds with the very purpose of attending church. In each instance, I was seated near people who whispered, talked and giggled with an utter disregard for those around them.

I protested once in the movies and once at a concert to the noisemakers who robbed me of my concentration. My complaints

DEAR SILENCE: Sorry, each of us who feels "robbed" must do his own speaking up. At a theater or concert, report the offenders to an usher or the manager. And if no action is taken, demand that your money be refunded.

Removal of heart tumor improve's life chances

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have been diagnosed as having atrial tumor (tumor of the heart). I'm supposed to have surgery. In your opinion, what are my chances without surgery? What are my chances with it? Isn't it rather rare? I'm in my mid-60s. Isn't it almost always fatal? I have a great difficulty breathing. Is this due to the tumor? How long does a person have this before it gives them problems? I'll really appreciate your concern in this matter. - R.A.

I'm presuming what you have is atrial myxoma (AY-tree-uhl mix-OH-muh), a rare tumor that most often occurs in the heart's upper lett chamber, the left atrium.

In fact, your breathing difficulty is a common consequence of such a tumor. We don't know the cause. It's a soft gelatinous type (the word, myxoma, is Greek for mucus, in this case mucus-like tissue) of tumor. The location in the atrium is fraught with danger. Into that chamber enters blood that has passed through the lungs for reoxygenation. The myxoma acts like a plug to block proper blood entry. Blood eventually backs up in the lungs. You become short of breath.

There's another reason for wanting to get rid of this tumor as soon as possible. If a piece of it breaks off it can lodge in arteries distant from the heart. If, for example, that vessel is one serving the brain,

So you have two strong arguments for the surgery. And by the way, shake your doctor's hand. He discovered a condition whose rarity places it low on a long list of possibilities during diagnosis.

When Herschel Walker signed with the Cowboys last ek, "Touchdown Tony" lost his cool. For the first time, thought he wasn't the top man in the backfield. The Sawboys signed Walker to a five-million dollar contract over the next five seasons. What a slap in the face to Dorsett, who has always been in the limelight. He's been one of the top names in the sport since '74, when he rushed over 1,500 yards as a sophomore at the University of Pittsburgh.

Now he thinks he may no longer be the future star running back behind Walker. Too bad he is the third highest paid member in the backfield, behind Walker and Danny White, who will receive $600,000 this year.

It's total humiliation, Dorsett believes, for the man who could become the second leading rusher in NFL history to take a back seat to anyone.

Tony is missing the boat on this one.

No doubt about it. Tony Dorsett is the greatest running back to ever don a Cowboys uniform, one of the greatest to ever play the game. His transcript has already been aiready written for Canton, Ohio.

Tony is forgeting that just because an untested player signs a million dollar pact, doesn't mean that player will replace him in the hearts and minds of Cowboy fans, nor in Tom Landry's game plan. When it's all over, Tony ole boy, you'll be judged for the 15,000 yards you'll have run for in your career. Not how much you money you made.

What Tony is overlooking is the positive outlook of the whole deal. Herschel Walker is a great athlete. At 24 he's at the prime of his life. Dorsett is 32. The career expectancy of NFL running back doesn't usually exceed age 30. With rschel around taking some of the heat off him, it could add four more good years to Dorsett's career.

Those poor defenses. A sagging Dallas offense will be revived by Walker's battering-ram physique and world class speed, in addition to Dorsett's quick feet and superstar

Dorsett should have thought about this before he made his public outburst last week. For a seasoned veteran and team captain, he didn't handle it very well. "I'll renegotiate or be traded," he said. "I can be a very distruptive force on this team.'

A very unclassy move, Tony.

I'll give him credit for being a man the next day, when he admitted that his outburst was immature. "Instead of pubicly popping off I should have went behind close doors (with club president Tex Schramm). I might have handled it a lot better."

But then again, the outburst goes back too taking so much success for granted. Wasn't it last year Dorsett was having all kinds of financial problems. Something about not being able to wisely invest his mere $450,000 a year salary?

Well, the story went like this. The Cowboys bailed him out. Instead of facing a possible prison term, the Cowboys gave him a raise, kept him away from the fast-talking con men, and invested his money in stocks for him.

But a year later Dorsett wonders how the organization could pay a player who has never gained a yard in the NFL the a salary twice as high as his.

Let's see, I think it was 1977 and the Cowboys signed a 'flashy' running back to a lucrative five-year pact, making him the highest paid Cowboy. And the thing about it was, that guy had never gained a yard in the NFL either. How soon we forget.

When Ron Darling finally fell to earth, he found himself pitching in Dodger Stadium for the first time in his three major league seasons.

"I'm usually a level-headed guy and I don't get too excited," the New York Mets' right-hander said, "but tonight I was."

Darling pitched seven innings. allowing eight hits, to win his first major league start in Los Angeles, 6-4. He also doubled off the wall in left field and scored the tiebreaking run ahead of Lenny Dykstra's single in the sixth inning.

Admitting he always has been a Dodger fan, Darling said he was nervous for the first since time he made his 1986 debut.

"Even when I was drafted by the Texas Rangers in 1981, I was hoping that the Dodgers would draft me somehow, some way," Darling said. "Everytime I've faced them, it's always a special game for me. When I was growing up, it always seemed like they were on TV and in the playoffs.

Darling now has won five of his last six decisions to go 12-4, and the Mets lead the National League East by 18 games.

League, Houston blanked Pittsburgh 1-0, Atlanta downed Chicago 7-2, Cincinnati defeated St. Louis 6-1, San Diego beat Montreal 7-1 and Philadelphia edged San Francisco 6-5.

White turns Rangers blue with seven RBI's

By The Associated Press It will likely be a long, long time before another pitcher yells at

The veteran of 12 outstanding season put on probably the best performance of his career Tuesday, driving in seven runs and winning the game in the 11th inning with his second homer of the night as the Kansas City Royals defeated the Texas Rangers 9-8.

"If I had a better game, I can't remember when," White said.

White singled in a run in the first inning, but it all really started in the second against Rangers starter Mike Loynd.

"The second time out, when he struck me out, he started yelling at me," White said. "I don't know wanted to show me up. I started to to do.

shout back at him, but I didn't. "I just believe in the oldfashioned approach.

So White gave the Texas pitchers an old-fashioned whipping. The Rangers took a 7-1 lead, but White doubled in two runs in the fifth and hit a three-run homer in the sixth, giving the Royals an 8-7 lead.

Texas tied it up in the seventh, but White led off the 11th with a line drive over the left-field wall.

"I just wanted to be aggressive up there," White said. "I wanted to show that guy who yelled at me that I had been around for a while and that he needed to be around for a while before he could do that."

It was the fifth time the 35-yearold White has hit two homers in a game. The seven RBI tied a team what he was yelling at, I guess he record. It was the traditional thing

"That's why I don't come out (to acknowledge standing ovations). The old way is best," White said. "You don't want to show anybody up. When he yelled at me, he hadn't been in the big leagues that long and it fired me up. Twins 5, Red Sox 1

The Twins, leading the majors with 154 homers, are now the only team with three 25-homer men. Kirby Puckett and Kent Hrbek hit back-to-back homers in the third inning and Gary Gaetti added a two-run homer in the sixth. For each, it was home run No. 25.

Brewers 5, Indians 3 Milwaukee's Paul Molitor hit two home runs and two doubles. He was 4-for-4, scored three times and drove in three runs, extending his hitting streak to 12 games, as the Brewers dumped Cleveland.

Bills trade Cribbs to 49ers

came down to a choice between halfbacks Greg Bell or Joe Cribbs - and the Buffalo Bills selected Bell and sent Cribbs to the San Francisco 49ers.

Cribbs, unhappy since returning to Buffalo last year after a twoseason stint in the United States Football League, was dealt for a 1987 third-round pick and a 1988 fifth-round pick, according to published reports.

Cribbs was unavailable for comment, but Bills Coach Hank Bullough said Tuesday that there wasn't room for both Cribbs and Bell in the same backfield.

'When you have two players of that stature, you've got to make a choice about who's going to start,' said Bullough.

Control health care costs by being aware

By NAOMI HUNT

County Extension Agent Controlling Health Care Costs It's no secret that hospital care is expensive. Patients complain about the high price of medical care and pay the bill. But they should also check the bill carefully

Although all efforts are made for accuracy, mistakes in hospital bills can occur. For example, one woman whose operation was canceled, later received a bill for anesthesia. And such examples are not isolated.

Equifax Services, an Atlanta company that checks hospital bills for insurance companies, reported that 97% of 13,000 bills they audited had errors. Because of figures like these, some insurance companies

Here are four errors to check

• that the length of the hospital stay as shown on the bill and the type of room are correct. • that services are not listed

• that the price of service is

• that the services listed on the bill were actually performed. Other Care Options Try a clinic run by a group of doctors with shared facilities. This could cost less than one doctor with private facilities. When visiting a clinic, you might not see the same doctor every time you visit but your records would be stored by About half of the medicines the clinic for use by any doctor prescribed are not taken correctly minor surgery you can go home right after the surgery without being hispitalized.

Short stay surgery is another cost cutting measure used by some hospitals. Patients and families are instructed in how to care for the patient at home. A visiting nurse or sitter may be used to provide trained assistance

Home Health Care is another option. Depending on need, a nurse visits the patient up to twice a day during recuperation. Check with your doctor about the advisability of home health care. The doctor has to order it.

offer incentives to people who spot treating you. In some cases for or not taken at all. Medicine in the bottle doesn't do you any good until you swallow it.

Ask your doctor about generic substitutions for brand name drugs. This can save at least 30%. The prescription form has two places for the doctor to sign. One lines says "dispense as written". If the doctor signs here, the pharmaci- must sell you the brand name drug. The other line says "product selection permitted." If the doctor signs here, the pharmacral is allowed to sell you the generic form of the drug which can be arich sheaper.

BREATH-TAKING BONAIRE

For the water-sport enthusiast, Bonaire, in the Caribbean, is a paradise. In fact, this island is one of those rare places that is better known underwater than it is ashore This fact is a testament to the island's magnificent living reefs and windowpane water. It is a mecca for scuba enthusiasts from all over the world. Ashore, nature displays pink flamingos and hundreds of other kinds of birds in an extensive bird sanctuary. Hotels cater mostly to divers, and have the most modern services and equipment. Other water-related activities are available for non-divers. Many of the reefs are so close to shore, however, that even the least avid snorkeler would find them hard to resist.

Under or over the water, from the desert to rain soaked forests to the cool temperatures of Alaska, there is only one place to come to make your travel dreams come true .. that is BIG SPRING TRAVEL, 608 Courry, Let us discuss what you like to see and do and then we can help you select the destination points that will make it all come together. # Phlebitis: Deep or surface veins?

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have phlebitis. The veins in my legs somehow got inflamed. My doctor feels only the surface veins are involved, and he prescribed support hose and warm soaking of the leg. My girlfriend says I should be on medicine? What kind is used? Are blood-thinners proper for this? -Mrs. K.D.V.

I'm not here to second-guess your doctor from this distance. I'm sure he has a handle on your situation. But I can tell you about phlebitis in general.

Almost always, phlebitis begins with formation of a clot in the vein. As they do whenever trouble arises in the body, white cells rush to that area. That creates the inflammation.

What can be done? It depends on where those inflamed veins are situated. If they are just under the surface, treatment is more conservative than if they are deep-lying. And the surface-vein problem is easily noted. In addition to the pain, you can notice redness and warmth. The veins, in fact, can be felt as sinuous ropes under the skin.

For this type of phlebitis, the treatment is much as your doctor is recommending - the soaks and the stockings, and perhaps mild pain medicine. Phlebitis of surface veins is not considered dangerous.

Not so with deep-vein phlebitis, where the danger exists of a bit of the clot breaking off (embolization). That bit can drift off to the lungs and disrupt circulation there. As you know, the lungs are the destination of venous blood.

In the face of this threat, treatment is more aggressive. Here is where the blood-thinners you mention come into play. They prevent further growth of the clot and keep things in control.

You didn't ask (but others have) about causes of phlebitis. They include aging, obesity, pregnancy, connective tissue disease, and clotting problems, as in polycythemia (discussed recently). Any instance of sluggish blood flow can lead to

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I was experiencing a brownish vaginal discharge for a few days a while back and had it checked out. My doctor, who is a thorough person, gave me a good examination. He said I was fine, that the discharge was physiologic. He said I am a healty 27-year-old female. But what did physiologic mean? I meant to ask, but felt a little foolish. - P.F.

He meant to say that after his examination, he concluded that the dischrage you had was a normal part of your menstrual cycle. Some women may have such a short duration discharge of this type from changes in their hormone levels during their cycle. It could have meant only a premature shedding of your endometrium (uterine lining). That can happen just before the regular menstruation.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: The question that is bothering me at the moment is, what is palindromic rheumatism? — D.V.H.

Today the word, palindrome, is more familiar in reference to the literary device in which a statement reads letter for letter exactly the same backwards and forwards: "Able was I ere I saw Elba'' is the example my Webster's cites of a palindrome.

You don't run across that phrase much today. It used to mean (and I assume it still does) short episodes of joint pain with long periods of complete relief from all symptoms. It may evolve into rheumatoid arthritis. As you may have guessed, palindrome is a Greek word, meaning returning. I guess we don't hear that phrase today, for now we get right at the rheumatoid arthritis diagnosis without having to use vague descriptions.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 35-year-old female, I'm 5 feet, 2 inches and weigh 110 pounds. That looks fine on paper, but actually I'm all flab. Forget about "pinching an inch." I can grab a double handful of abdomen or thigh. I can still look OK in winter, but summer clothes are merciless.

I have never counted calories, but I am nutrition conscious. I've dabbled in aerobics and Nautilus, not sticking with either. I realize now that I've got to do something. With two preschoolers and a parttime job, time to myself is sometimes scarce. What is the best route for someone like me to take?

I've nothing magical for you, K.B., just a couple of suggestions. You have to do more than dabble. You have to get serious. You have to become a calorie counter. But that's not all. If you conscientiously cut your calorie intake and increase your activity (exercise), you will lose weight. And both are important.

If you diet, but don't exercise, your metabolism slows.

When it's time to replace your old air conditioner, it'll probably only take you a little while to find a new one that looks pretty good and doesn't cost much. But it'll take a lot longer to realize a quick bargain is likely to cause a slow burn on your wallet every month.

A high-efficiency air conditioner could make a difference in your cooling costs this summer and every summer. A high-efficiency choice means steady savings because you're getting the same amount of cooling using less electricity than with a low-efficiency unit. On top of this, you'll get a valuable rebate from your electric company if your central air conditioner or window unit me ets our Energy Action standards.

See your recognized Energy Action air conditioning contractor or dealer for help in choosing a high-efficiency air conditioner or heat pump. Tomorrow, you'll be way ahead of the game.

West Texas Hearing Aid Center

"Come in and hear the difference."

Modern audiological research has shown that locating the hearing aid in the ear-the place provided by nature-offers the best possible help for hearing impairment.

By means of an in-the-ear aid, sound is received at the most natural place.

An in-the-ear aid is very comfortable, and since there are no dangling cords or tubes, the user has a feeling of unlimited security in everyday life, even HEARING AID. during sporting activities.

The Annual Howard County Fair will be Sept. 15-20 and that's right around the corner

A new feature this year will be the Country Store, which is aimed at county gardeners, farmers, homemakers, etc. in allowing them to have an opportunity to sell their garden produce, eggs, canned goods, handwork, etc. and at the same time add a new attraction to our fair

Mrs. Zula Rhodes is our fair board director coordinating this event and Mrs. Helen Larson will be in charge of the store. Everyone is very excited about this new fair attraction and we encourage everyone's participation in it. We want to be of assistance in helping interested persons prepare for it and to do so, we will be having an informational meeting for all interested persons at 7:30 p.m. in the Dora Roberts Fair Building on Wednesday, Aug. 20. Mrs. Rhodes hand to answer questions about the store and Dr. Austin Stockton, our Extension Horticulturist, will be here to offer assistance in helping to prepare produce for a market

If you need more information on this Country Store, please contact the Howard County Extension Office at (915) 267-7761 or 267-1821 for more information

Speaking of the fair, don't forget about the usual attractions. All of these will be offered once again. Our horticultural show, which features beautiful house and garden plants plus very attractive arrangements will again be featured. Mrs. Edna Womack is in charge of this event. The Agricultural Products Division will be hosted this year by Mr. and Mrs. Gene Perry. Such entries as garden produce, field crops, etc. will be featured in this division. Agricultural Appreciation Day will be Wednesday, September 17. A and Mrs Larson will both be on community Bar-b-que will be
