Ducks

Q. Who takes care of the ducks in Comanche Trail Park?

A. Public Works Director Tom Decell said no one is responsible for taking care of the ducks. The ducks are self-sufficient, Decell said, and he has no idea how they took refuge in the park.

SAN FRANCICO (AP) Humphrey the wayward humpback whale, who last fall mistakenly swam into San Francisco Bay and spent more than 20 days wandering inland waters, apparently is in the area again

The 40-foot whale was spotted near the coast Thursday by researchers who identified Humphrey by his markings, said Stan Minasian, president of the Marine Mammal Fund.

"The marks are just like a human fingerprint," Minasian said Friday. "Of all whales, humpback whales have the most readily identifiable patterns on the back of the flukes."

Humphrey was spotted in San Francisco Bay last Oct. 11. After roaming the bay, the whale wandered up the Sacramento River delta, apparently getting lost among the many sloughs and islands there. After days of trying, researchers, volunteers and Navy and Coast Guard officials managed to chase Humphrey back to sea on Nov. 9, 25 days after he was first sighted in the bay.

Minasian said the chances of Humphrey returning to the bay this year "are somewhere between nil and non existent.

Spring White, Lewis at odds over taxes

Gov. Mark White shows a silver bullet to reporters outside the Governor's Mansion in Austin Friday. White says he gave a silver bullet to Speaker Gib Lewis for his 50th birthday earlier in the day because it was time to

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Mark White on Friday gave House Speaker Gib Lewis, the key holdout against a sales tax increase, a silver revolver cartridge and urged him to "bite the bullet."

Not persuaded, Lewis said the tax standoff continues.

"I noticed it was an illegal bullet. I told him this morning it's one of those dumdum bullets that we had outlawed," Lewis said. "I am opposed to taxes."

As the third week of the Legislature's special session ground to a close, Lewis said the House remains firmly opposed to new taxes to solve the state's $3.5 billion budget deficit.

White and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who presides over the Senate, both favor a tax increase. White has proposed boosting the sales tax from 41/8 cents to 51/4 cents for one

But Lewis says a solid House maare necessary now. He continued ly will draft the final version.

Friday to suggest that the current 30-day special session might end in an impasse on the tax issue.

"Everybody is a little worried, a little edgy right now. We may be here for two or three months, but we'll get it all worked out," he said.

An aide to Hobby, who asked not to be named, described the nature of the tax stalemate, saying, "There's no fallback position. There is no compromise position. There is no middle ground. That's the problem."

Lewis called the weeks of meets 'very cordial," but he said the talks weren't changing his mind.

"Not much progress on the tax bill," he said. "But there's a great deal of progress being made on the spending cuts."

The House last week approved about $740 million in spending reductions. The Senate Finance Committee is working on a reduction plan of its own. A joint conjority doesn't think higher taxes ference committee almost certain-

White said he met with Lewis Friday morning and gave him the bullet as a 50th birthday present.

"I gave him a very personal present. I gave him a silver bullet and suggested he could either fire it or bite it and I hoped he'd bite it." White said.

The governor sounded optimistic about legislative progress being made on balancing the budget.

"I've had conversations with the speaker today and the lieutenant governor as well, and they seem persuaded they are working toward a solution on the cuts. Then they will turn their attention to solving the deficit that inevitably arises because we cannot cut into education." White said.

Although House members have received heated criticism from senators who think the budget cuts go too far, Lewis seemed unimpressed. "I guess I have got some asbestos clothes on," he said. "It doesn't bother me. I've been cussed and discussed so many times."

Higher education cuts eyed by Senate body

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted 11-1 Friday to cut 1987 appropriations for Texas colleges and universities by 4 percent, or by about $83.4 million.

Debate on the reduction continued as the committee approached its final decisions on a Senate bill that will be substituted for purposes of debate for a House-approved appropriations bill.

The House bill cut about $300 million out of higher education for 1987, about 13 percent for senior colleges and universities and 9 percent for community The Legislative Budget Board staff had recommended the Senate committee cut higher education Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, made the motion, saying he believed colleges and universities could make the 4 percent cuts without employee 'Rather than make drastic cuts in our higher education system now, this will allow us to balance our budget and then see what the Select Committee

Another provision approved would allow the College Coordinating Board to use a $10 million contingency fund to help out universities and colleges whose revenues in 1986 did not reach the levels estimated by the 1985 Legislature when it increased all tuition rates.

Earlier, the committee approved a bill that would require this special session to leave the state with a balanced budget.

The bill, which goes to the full Senate and then the House for consideration, requires Comptroller Bob Bullock to certify that any appropriation bill passed by this Legislature is covered by expected state

The balanced budget bill, by Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, has been endorsed by Lt. Gov. Bill

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Temple, finance committee chairman, said there is nothing in state law or the constitution that requires the state to remain in a balanced budget situation throughout a two-year fiscal period.

The pay-as-you-go provision of the constitution only requires the comptroller to certify an appropriation bill at the time it is passed.

"In other words, one Legislature and the governor could leave a $2 billion deficit for the next Legislature and governor to handle," said Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur.

"That's right," said Farabee. "Unless we change it to make them handle the obligations as they go along, the day of reckoning could come."

Air Force launches anti-satellite rocket

Force successfully tested its antisatellite weapon Friday even though the test remained within restrictions imposed by Congress, the service announced.

The anti-satellite, or ASAT, test used the energy source of a distant star as the target, the Air Force

The test was conducted by a high-flying F-15 jet from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

It was the fourth test of the weapon, which sits at the end of a small, two-stage rocket carried aloft by the fighter. After the plane fires the weapon, the ASAT is supposed to slam into its target at high speed.

Last year, congressional arms control advocates succeeded in winning enactment of a ban on tests of the ASAT weapon against a target in space. That ban, which extends through the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, came after the U.S. ASAT successfully destroyed an aging scientific satellite in the only attempt thus far to knock out a

The ASAT test ban would be extended through the next fiscal year in the Pentagon budget bill approved last week by the Democraticcontrolled House.

No such ban is part of the companion measure passed earlier by the Republican-run Senate and a House-Senate conference committee will try next month to iron out differences between the two bills. President Reagan has threatened to veto any final version of the bill if it contains the ASAT test ban or

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Air four other amendments added in the House by arms control advocates.

The Air Force said Friday's test provided data on the ability of the weapon's sensor to track an infrared heat source closer to the earth's horizon than previous tests.

The test was the fourth in which the ASAT weapon was actually fired and comes in the wake of 35 other demonstrations in which the weapon was simply carried aloft by the F-15.

The three previous tests involved the destruction of the satellite last year and two 1984 tests. In one of those, the ASAT was launched at a predetermined point in space and in the other it locked on heat emitted from a distant star.

The Air Force said Friday that it plans another test before the end of next month against an "infrared source" in space, along with three tests against targets in fiscal 1987. Those tests would be blocked if the House ban is enacted into law.

Reagan and the Pentagon argue that the U.S. weapon, which has been in development for eight years, is needed to offset what they say is an operational Soviet ASAT weapon and force the Kremlin to bargain seriously for a ban on ASAT weapons.

But opponents contend that the Soviets have not tested their weapon since 1982 and that it is far more crude than its U.S. counterpart and thus would not make an effective weapon.

Both superpowers depend heavily on satellites for spying, communications and early warning of nuclear attack.

Drowned man the father of 3 local boys

An apparent drowning victim in Bandera County is the father of three Big Spring children.

Although the official search has been discontinued, citizens in the area of Medina Lake, about 30 miles northwest of San Antonio, continue to watch for the body of Joseph Brim Sr., 34 of San Antonio.

Brim is the father of Joseph Jr., 16, Shane, 13, and Justin, 7, who live with their mother, Mrs Judy Black, 2523 Dow Drive, Big Spring. Shane and Joseph Jr. have been carriers for the Herald since 1984.

Brim apparently drowned on Aug. 8 when boating with two companions near Angel Cove where "he decided to go for a swim off the side of the boat," Bandera County Sheriff Guy Pickett said in a report to the weekly newspaper - The Bandera Bulletin.

In the newspaper report, the sheriff said, "His friends knew immediately he was in trouble. They tried to save him. They got him to the side of the boat, but he got loose and went under."

The boys' mother is the wife of Michael Black, an employee of Western Container Corp., who was raised in Big Spring.

The sheriff and his deputies are continuing to keep a close check on the lake surface in the Angel Cove area for the body to surface, the newspaper account

State to consolidate suits filed by teachers

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawyers for the state want to consolidate several bids to keep on the payroll teachers who failed this year's mandatory competenecy test, officials said Friday.

The Association of Professional Educators, other teacher groups and individual teachers have filed or indicated plans to file lawsuits in various courts around the state.

Lawyers for the Texas Education Agency said they wanted to combine the cases and have them heard before an Austin judge. The Texas Examination for Current Administrators and Teachers. TECAT, was administered in March and June. Those who failed lost their jobs. The test was required by the Legislature in school reform laws passed in 1984.

that are being filed. "We hope the Texas Supreme Court and other courts dealing with TECAT lawsuits will put an end to the controversy surrounding the HOUSTON - Singer DAVID CROSBY, recently paroled from a Texas prison on narcotics and weapons charges, joined his former partner, GRAHAM NASH. for an emotional concert reunion at a Houston nightclub.

"Thinking about this is what kept me going," Crosby told the enthusiastic audience Thursday after he came on stage midway through Nash's set.

"I've been waiting for this for almost a year," Nash replied.

Crosby, who gained fame as a member of the Byrds in the mid-1960s, later teamed with Nash as part of another hit group, Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young. They sang several songs from their Crosby also sang a song he composed during his five months in prison. He was convicted in 1983 after being arrested in Dallas on charges of possession of cocaine and possession of a firearm.

"I don't regret any of it," Crosby said told the crowd Thursday. "But don't do it again," one au-

Local radio stations sued

Big Spring radio stations KBYG and KUFO were named as defendants in a civil law suit claiming the communications company they are a part of defaulted in payments for equipment repairs.

Frank Del Vecchio, doing business as The Hallicrafters Co., petitioned the 118th District Court on Tuesday requesting the court grant him $10,877.90 in repairs, $1,350 for conversion of property, interest, attorney fees and court costs from The Giraffe Communications Inc. of Big Spring.

The petition claims Del Vecchio's business repaired 30 items of radio station equipment and the business has a right to repossess the items because the defendants' default made it necessary to do so.

"The suit is totally without foundation," said Dick Fields, owner of KBYG and KUFO and a majority stock holder in the company.

Fields declined to elaborate on claims made in the petition. "There's a lot more I could say,"

Fields said, "but I was instructed by legal counsel to say nothing

Commissioners to discuss indigent health contracts

Howard County commissioners will discuss contract proposals regarding indigent health care services during a regular meeting at 9 a.m. Monday in the commissioners courtroom on the second floor of the county courthouse.

Howard County Judge Milton Kirby said Friday afternoon that he had received proposals from Scenic Mountain Medical Center regarding hopitalization and emergency room services.

Local pharmacies have also requested contracting with the county, Kirby said. He said he had received four proposals from local pharmacists, but declined to discuss terms of those contracts and Scenic Mountain's proposal.

Dr. Jack Woodall of the Howard County Health Unit is also scheduled to be present at the meeting. Commissioners have discussed ways of implementing the program with Woodall and County Sanitarian James Luck. During the Aug. 11 meeting, with a tentative budget outline of how county funds could be implemented to serve indigents. Commissioners acted on his recommendation and unanimously approved a motion to hire a practitioner nurse at $22,000 per year.

Luck presented commissioners September.

Commissioners also appointed county welfare director Katherine Hise as a screening officer. The county is required by state law to begin serving qualified indigent health care needs beginning Sept. 1.

Kirby said a budget hearing scheduled for Monday's meeting may be delayed because county auditor Jackie Olson may be absent because of personal reasons.

Commissioners discussed during the Aug. 11 meeting of raising county revenues by increasing the tax rate from 22 cents per $100 valuation to 26 cents.

Kirby said a final budget must be approved by commissioners and filed with the county clerk's office sometime towards later

US tightens embargo

WASHINGTON - President Reagan has taken steps to seal cracks in the U.S. trade embargo against Cuba and put a stop to its "trafficking in human beings" trying to get out of the country, it was announced Friday.

Reagan ordered an end to Cuban immigra tion to the United States from third countries a practice for which the State Department said Cuba sometimes charges emigres or their families in excess of $30,000 a head.

The measures designed to tighten the 1960 embargo against Cuba "will make it more difficult for the government of Cuba to obtain U.S. dollars and American goods by unlawful means," State Department spokesmen Charles Redman said.

"The objective is to tighten enforcement of the embarge, denying to the Castro regime economic benefits from the United States while Castro continues to ignore international obligations and to pursue policies inimical to

Ms. Silkwood, a lab analyst at the Kerr-McGee Cimarron Plutonium Plant near Crescent, died in an auto accident Nov. 13, 1974. The 28-year-old employee was on her way to meet with a New York Times reporter to discuss alleged safety problems at the plant. She had been contaminated by plutonium several days earlier.

"Any hint of impropriety that could adversely affect air safety must be treated with the utmost seriousness," he said.

Nurses go on strike

BOSTON — Nurses used a 24-hour strike against the city's three hospitals Friday to press demands for higher wages and freedom from such non-medical duties as answering telephones and emptying wastebaskets.

About 100 nurses picketed the large Boston City Hospital and the city's two small chroniccare hospitals, according to Steve Mazur, spokesman for Local 285 of the Service Employees International Union, which represents the nurses.

He said the nurses planned to return to work at 7 a.m. Saturday.

U.S. Coast Guardsmen board a boat they stopped in New York Harbor Friday. The Coast Guard is stopping and searching craft in New York Harbor to check for illegal drugs, especially crack, an inexpensive and potent form of cocaine. The operation has not found any drugs.

Blockade

New York Harbor sealed for drug search

NEW YORK (AP) — The crackdown on crack prompted the first blockade of New York Harbor since the War of 1812, but federal agents who halted scores of vessels recovered no illegal drugs and made just one unrelated arrest, a spokesman said Friday.

"I can tell you, anyone trying to bring drugs into New York will be arrested," said Coast Guard Capt. Arthur Henn, who headed Operation Glass Eye. 'We're out to catch those people bringing drugs into the port and poisoning our children.

But the blockade produced just one suspect from the first 90 ships boarded. Thomas Hall, 27, of Asbury Park, N.J., was arrested when a computer check turned up an outstanding warrant for armed robbery.

Despite 45-minute stem-to-stern searches of 80 pleasure boats and 10 commercial craft, no drugs were recovered. The Coast Guard ordered one recreational boat to end its voyage because of safety violations, said Loren Bullard, a Coast Guard spokesman.

In two years, the Coast Guard has made only five drug-related arrests in the New York harbor, said Bullard.

Mayor Edward I. Koch blamed publicity for the lack

The search "wasn't a very well kept secret on the part of the Coast Guard, because everybody I met Thursday told me about it," Koch said. "That's no way to run an operation. That's got to be done very Bullard said the blockade was merely the start of intensified efforts to stop drugs from coming into the harbor. He said random searches and blockades would occur in the future

"The primary focus of this operation is to let people know that we're going to be out there looking for them and they won't know where or when," he said. "We may not get you tomorrow, but we're going to get

Fifteen Coast Guard boats and cutters, joined by four city police boats and two from U.S. Customs, stopped each boat as it entered the harbor through the Verrazao Narrows between the boroughs of Staten Island and Brooklyn. Searches were conducted at Coast Guard piers on Staten Island.

The program started about 8:45 p.m. Thursday, and was to continue until sundown Friday. Henn, calling every craft that enters the harbor a potential smuggler, said the program was sending a message to drug

"On a day-to-day basis, Coast Guard boats are out in the harbor making random boardings," Henn said. 'So people never know when they'll be stopped."

Hall was arrested aboard the fishing vessel Savage, which ignored signals to steer to the pier. The 75-foot boat ran aground as a Coast Guard cutter headed toward it and had to be brought in by a tugboat, said Petty Officer Richard Schnurr, a Coast Guard spokesman.

The harbor blockade, the first since the British blocked off the waters in 1815, was the latest effort in the city's battle against drugs, particularly crack, the highly potent, inexpensive cocaine derivative.

On Thursday, police teams went through 200 retail outlets and seized 40,000 crack pipes, and prosecutors announced the establishment of a special "crack court," created to handle only cases involving the

Plant safety discussed

MOSCOW - U.S. and Soviet atomic energy officials signed an agreement Friday to revive formal exchanges on nuclear energy and add nuclear plant safety to their discussions

The signing culminated the weeklong meeting of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Joint Committee on Cooperation in the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy, which had not met since 1978 because of the chill in superpower relations.

American delegates got a two-hour briefing on Moscow's report on causes of the Chernobyl nuclear disaster but told reporters at a brief news conference that they learned little beyond what the Soviets already made public.

The report is scheduled to be presented to the International Atomic Energy Agency on Monday in Vienna

The American and Soviet officials agreed to exchange visits of nuclear-safety specialists in the near future, starting with a visit to the Soviet Union by a team from the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

USSR, Chinese clash

TOKYO - A Japanese newspaper today reported that Chinese and Soviet border guards exchanged fire along the western sector of their frontier last month, and that one Chinese guard was killed and another injured.

In a dispatch from Peking, the Yomiuri Shimbun newspaper quoted an unidentified source as disclosing the July 12 clash on Thursday.

Minor gunfights often have occurred along the tense border between the two communist giants, but none has previously led to bloodshed, the newspaper said. It linked the shooting incident to a visit by a Soviet official to China later in July and to Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev's recent call for better relations with Peking.

Aid sparks squabbles

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras — Honduras is awash in charges that its military is squabbling over the $100 million approved by Congress for Nicaraguan rebels.

Some Honduran and foreign analysts contend top officers are simply fighting among themselves for a possible share of the bonanza earmarked for the anti-Sandinista Contras.

Others say deeper issues divide the army, including U.S. policy in Central America and eventual leadership of the Honduran armed

But Gen. Humberto Regalado, commander of the army, says such talk is absurd, insisting the officer corps is neither divided philosophically nor trying to muscle in on rebel aid money.

Turnouts at rallies organized by the political opposition declined on the day of Zia's scheduled return from a Moslem pilgrimage, with riot police often outnumbering protesters.

Only one person showed up for what had been billed as a major protest in Rawalpindi and was seized by scores of waiting police. About 300 people gathered in Karachi but were quickly dispersed.

Album 'plays to the Moodys'

By MARY CAMPBELL Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK - Some writers have looked down their noses at the Moody Blues, calling their music "pomp rock" and saying it weaves majestic sounds with pretentious

However, a recent Rolling Stone review of the group's latest LP, "The Other Side of Life," puts it somewhat more kindly: The album, the review said, "plays to the Moodys' longstanding musical strengths: luscious symphonic textures; rich, stately melodies, and densely overlaid yocal arrangements.'

"The Moodys for a lot of people are a very personal kind of thing,' said singer-guitarist-songwriter Justin Hayward, who joined the 22-year-old British group with bassist John Lodge just before "Nights in White Satin," one of the group's greatest hits, in 1967.

The song was from the landmark "Days of Future Passed" LP, which was recorded with the London Symphony and regarded by many as pretentious.

"A lot of people discovered us through radio and concerts, not through hype and pictures of the guys everywhere. We've never been rammed down everybody's throat. We wanted to let the music

Filopino. Pasco and Clem met on the beach. Or was it the village? Memory blurs after 42 years. Clem, a 24-year-old from Dallas, stumbled from the water naked, dazed, half-starved, begging for water. In a flush of pity, Pasco, then 30, removed his shorts and gave them to Clem.

They never dreamed they would meet again. But last week, in Pasco's small apartment in Arl-

"You look a little bit different," Clem said as he stepped in the apartment and hugged the small, grinning Pasco.

Clem and Pasco, chatting like friends but probing like strangers, didn't pretend to recognize each other. In a sense, with memories fogged, it was an act of faith. They couldn't be totally certain they had met on the beach. But the coincidence of facts practically assured it.

"I cannot forget what you said to Philippines surrendered in April me," Pasco said.

Joined by Pasco's wife, Gavina, their son, Tom, and Clem's wife, Julie, they talked about that brief encounter on Mindanao Island Sept. 7, 1944, and the aftermath of the war. Clem unfurled a map of Sindangan Point, where the sinking and meeting had occurred. They drank Coca-Cola, which Clem had brought as a gift, and joked.

Terry Lee Fischer, 32, escaped from a fenceless camp near the New Mexico state line operated by La Tuna federal prison. Both facilities are about a 30-minute drive on Interstate 10 from El Paso.

Bill Messeramitch, the warden's executive assistant, said Fischer was discovered missing on Aug. 17 during at 9:30 p.m. MDT count at the camp.

Fischer was sentenced May 31, 1985 in federal district court in Denver for conspiracy and possession with intent to distribute a controlled substance, Messersmitch said.

He arrived at La Tuna, a medium-security prison, on June 12, 1985, was released under custody and later returned, he said. Messersmitch said he did not know where Fischer had been taken at the time but supposed it was for a court appearance.

Last May 20, Fischer was sent to the 275-bed minimum-security camp nearby. Prisoners without a record of violent crime are screened to determine whether they can be trusted at the camp, which is near Anthony, N.M., he said.

the cleanup of a Harris County hazardous waste site although a city inspector says more work needs to be

The Environmental Protection Agency gave its conditional approval Wednesday of the southeast Houston waste site after an on-site inspection, pending removal of one pocket of contamination.

But city water pollution inspector told officials with the EPA, Texas Water Commission, and Dow Chemical Co., who is conducting the cleanup, that additional work was still needed.

"It would be nice if the cleanup could be perfect," Tim Underwood, EPA's project manager, said. "But our main concern is with any threat to the environment, and I think any threat to the environment has essentially been eliminated."

Texas Water Commission Inspector Jay Lanahan said he was deferring to the EPA on the cleanup issue, but the state agency apparently is now satisfied with the cleanup.

Dow signed a 1985 agreement with the EPA to clean up the Superfund site at its own expense because some Dow wastes may have gone to the site. The cleanup has cost the company about $300,000.

After removing about 6,200 tons of contaminated soil to a company landfill, Dow announced early this month that the cleanup had been completed. But officials questioned the job's thoroughness, which led to Wednesday's meeting.

Joe Ramon, 51, of Edinburg, said he was lured to Mexico City last weekend to present a real estate proposal to potential investors. Instead, he said, he was abducted, threatened at gunpoint, handcuffed and told to have family members come up with $60,000 or he would be killed.

"I convinced them ... I was worth more alive than dead," Ramon told a news conference Thursday. "I did everything they wanted me to do. I promised them the moon to get over here.'

Ramon said Mexican clients made up about 30 percent of his business and that his pledge to avoid Mexico will hurt.

"The only mistake that I made was I went over there without knowing who it was I was supposed to see," Ramon said. "I don't ever want to go back to Mexico. I will not go back to Mexico.

Today's entrepreneurs try to share risk

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The entrepreneurs who start today's new companies seem to be very different from those who founded the great corporations at the turn of the century or before.

The oldtimers, biographies indicate, created their companies to own, manage and develop. But newcomers, a survey suggests, are very much interested in sharing the risk with the public rather than going it alone.

Asked at a meeting earlier this year, 30 of 37 entrepreneurs said they expected their companies to be acquired in the next five years. Most said they had been approached about a business combination in the preceding year.

This, perhaps, didn't displease the author of the survey, Baltimore-based New Enterprise Associates, a venture capital firm that runs big risks with small companies - many destined to fail in search of a rare big payoff.

Like others in the venture capital business, NEA believes it cannot know enough about the companies it finances. It examines all the figures, and it sits on the boards. It monitors executive performance. Sometimes it fires.

It has access also to the various studies of psychologists, sociologists, economists, behaviorists and others who have examined the species in recent years with probing questions about parentage, neuroses and the like.

But NEA, which invests for limited partnerships, sought to know its own entrepreneurs rather than acquire redundant information about the species in general. It invited 40 of its entrepreneurs to a gathering at Napa, Calif.

The average age of the companies surveyed was 2.6 years, with average by an average of 291 percent last year; this year they are expected to grow 176

The entrepreneurs are a confident bunch, as expected.

At a time when larger companies are paring payrolls, they expect to increase their work forces by 39 percent. And they plan to spend no less than 34 percent of revenue on research and development.

Overall, they aren't especially worried about a recession. Asked to express their concern about a possible recession, only 13 percent said they were very concerned. Sixty-three percent said "not at all."

view their venture as a major emotions risk, even more so than a financial risk Asked if failure would mean a grea financial loss, 21 percent said ye if it would be a great emotional appropriate percent responded affirmatively.

They worry especially about the new tax proposals, which would penaltie the capital gains that so many of them seek as individuals, and eliminate the investment tax credit, which they rely on to finance their growth.

By TOM PETERS

Hewlett-Packard co-founder David Packard earned fame by creating a remarkably innovative and decentralized operation. It is ironic that after a year of studying how to improve the military's organization, Packard would ignore the formula for his own success and recommend that the Pentagon create not one, but two new bureaucracies!

According to the just-released report of the Packard Commission (apparently accepted by the President), there will be a new undersecretary of defense for acquisitions, with appropriate staffs, of course. A new vice chairman level also will be added to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, under an existing chief whose powers will be increased and centralized as well.

What a disappointing outcome, given the military reform movement that has been in the wind in Washington for several years and that has rallied support from those on the left and the right. The movement's bellwether book is "The Pentagon and the Art of War," by analyst Edward Luttwak. Presidential-aspirant Gary Hart teamed with conservative analyst William Lind to produce the recent book "America Can Win." Respected New York Times reporter, Arthur Hadley just added "The Straw Giant" to the reading list, which also includes another half dozen major works published in the last two years.

All these distinguished commentators find strategic weaponsystem productivity to be low, and rate our tactical performance a failure in Iran, Lebanon and Grenada. The books also find similar reasons for our military snafus. Our officers are bureaucrats, not leaders of men. We pay too much attention to frontend technology and not enough to training and logistics. Our weapons systems are so complicated that adequately test those that we do

Washington and in the field, are wildly overstaffed.

Regardless of political persuasion, the analysts all cry for more training, more attention to logistics, greater honor (and power) to field commanders, simpler weapon systems (the absence of a goldplating bias allows the Russians to get much more bang for the buck than we do), and a pared-down, cleaned-up and cleaned-out chain of

Interestingly, these critiques match one for one my assessment of the private manufacturing sector's problematic management

Evidence of the problems conpolicy analyst Adam Yarmolinsky revealed that in order to save diminishing support for massive new weapons systems, Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger has submitted a 1987 budget that "cuts spare part purchases for the Air Force by 39 percent; the Navy, 22 percent; the Army, 32 percent. Funds for ammunition, tactical missiles, and critical support equipment were slashed almost as

A few days later the Sunday Boston Globe carried one piece that criticized the Packard Commission. Another damning article attacked the super-secret Stealth bomber, whose good, simple design it said is now so loaded up with bells and whistles that the original purpose of the aircraft is in grave

Why does Mr. Packard, father of effective decentralization of largescale enterprises, think that more staff and more centralization will save the military? The textbook answer now making the rounds in Washington is that this new bureaucracy is a separate bureaucracy that will take power out of the hands of the garbled bureaucratic mess that exists

Fat chance! That always has been the rationale for every new bureaucracy. The new mess will save us from the old mess. But old bureaucrats — and their elaborate systems - don't die so quietly. A new bureaucracy never fails to spawn new counter-bureaucracies, regardless of any policy to the

Despite the unanimous diagnosis from outside analysts, there is no obvious cure. I greatly sympathize with Secretary Weinberger. If he tried to buy simpler systems and provide greater training support Congress doubtless would cut back the numbers of both drastically. That's a fact of life in the budget negotiation game. Also, to be fair, technology forces increases in system complexity, although we have not come to grips with its consequences and how to have it working, ready and supportable should we need it.

The conundrum: Centralization inevitably will make things worse; but simplification is not politically feasible. Congress feels helpless The Defense Department feels helpless.

No market mechanism goads defense toward incremental improvement. Sadly, the odds are high that we will wind up paying for defense mismanagement after we don't buy many and we don't it's too late for repair. The time for radical pruning of the defense bureaucracy and an about-face in Overlapping commands, in weapons acquisition policy is now.

New tax law limits incentives

NEW YORK (AP) - There has debt now owed by Americans, and Whereas the borrower obtained a been no greater incentive to cer tain investments in recent years than the possibility of a tax deduction.

Future present

And now, with Senate and House agreement on tax reform almost a certainty, the days of the creative tax deduction seem numbered. Tax deductions have been things of beauty for millions of Americans, and with the assistance of lawyers, financial advisers and tax specialists they have sought them out in real estate, feedlots, the oil patch and elsewhere. An entire industry, its expertise being a knowledge of the tax code and the loopholes in it, grew up to support the quest of Americans for deductions, with its practitioners advertising that a tax dollar saved was a dollar earned.

The alleged purpose of the incentives was to steer money to what were considered socially desired projects, such as housing. But in many cases, the evidence suggests that such attempts at social engineering were badly designed.

Incredibly, for example, debt became an investment because the costs of debt — mainly the interest represented a deduction on federal income tax returns. To owe the general high inflation. In many instances a $10,000 loan financed a $100,000 property, which then quickly rose in value to $110,000, thus fully covering the loan. Meanwhile, the borrower repaid the fixed-rate loan with in-

AP forecasts 8-8 season for Cowboys

NEW YORK (AP) - Jack Kent Cooke thinks the signing of Kelvin Bryant from the USFL puts his Washington Redskins in the Super Bowl, Football-crazy Dalias thinks Herschel Walker will do the same for the Cowboys.

But listen to George Young, general manager and architect of the New York Giants, preseason favorite in the division Bryant and Walker will enter — the NFC East: "We," he says, "had our USFL

The last steps came from the USFL — center Hart Oates and guard Chris Godfrey, two unsung members of an unsung offensive line that may be one of the NFL's

Add to them punter Sean Landeta and fullback Maurice Carthon, a devastating blocker who had a lot to do with Walker's 2,411 yards with the New Jersey Generals. Give all but Godfrey - a 1984 signing — a full six months off after back-to-back USFL-NFL seasons, and expect even greater impact this year.

Dallas Cowboys quarterback Danny White is thrown for a loss by blitzing Pittsburgh Steeler linebacker Mike Merriweather in the first quarter Friday night in Irving. See story below. An Associated Press prognosticator picked the Cowboys to go 8-8 this year.

EAST

The Cowboys, Giants and Redskins were all 10-6 last year with the Cowboys winning the title in a playoff, the Giants earning a wildcard and the Redskins missing out entirely. This year, the Cowboys may be the odd-team out.

'The only people who don't know how good the Giants are the Giants themselves," Bobby Beathard, general manager of the Washington Redskins said last year, when New York outgained all but two of its 18 regular-season and playoff opponents, yet lost six times, largely because of let-downs by the defense in key situations.

the draft to a defense that was second only to Chicago's last year. Four of them —linemen Eric Dorsey and Erik Howard, cornerback Mark Collins and safety Greg Lasker — may crack the starting lineup by year's end.

Even with Joe Morris's holdout, the Giants are adequately protected at running back by secondyear men George Adams and Lee Rouson. Phil Simms, with tight end Zeke Mowatt apparently healthy after missing all last year with a knee injury, seems primed for his best vear.

Of the two big USFL signees, Bryant may have the more im- alternate with Tony Dorsett or nediate irimace simuly because spell him.

more solid team. The Redskins also added receivers Derek Holloway, Ricky Sanders and Clarence Verdin, plus quarterback Doug Williams as insurance for Jay Schroeder at quarterback

Schroeder, who won five of six starts after taking over for the injured Joe Theismann last year is the key. If he can repeat his success of last year, the Redskins may fulfill Cooke's prediction; if he can't, they may be sitting home and watching the playoffs again.

In Dallas, Walker will either been better off if Walker had been an offensive lineman - Kurt Peterson, probably the best member of the unit, already has been lost to injury. They've also lost second-year man Kevin Brooks, who was scheduled to provide a transfusion for an aging defensive unit that statistically was just 20th in the NFL last year.

Philadelphia went 7-9 last year against a schedule far easier than the one the Eagles face this season. Still, new coach Buddy Ryan is predicting a division title.

It's difficult to see how.

Ryan himself is the major new face and it may take his team a full season to pick up the intricacies of his "46 defense." When and if firstround pick Keith Byars is healthy, the running attack will be improved immeasurably, but that doesn't seem enough in one of the NFL's two toughest divisions.

St. Louis, one of the favorites to win the division title, instead collapsed to 5-11 and cost Coach Jim Hanifan his job.

New Coach Gene Stallings has one advantage — the Cards face the last-place schedule and don't have to play the AFC West, a headto-head face off with the other tough division that could cost teams in both a wild-card shot.

PREDICTION: Giants, 11-5, Redskins 11-5, Cowboys 8-8, Eagles 7-9, Cards 7-9.

CENTRAL

No team has won consecutive Super Bowls this decade and only the 1982-83 Redskins have even gone to the championship game twice in a row. But the Chicago Bears have a start on breaking that

The Bears, probably won't go 15-1 again, but they have a schedule that contains only two teams that were better than .500 last year and they play in a division where none of their four rivals is better than mediocre.

Coach Mike Ditka has been complaining about quarterback Jim McMahon's excess weight, and he needs to replace wide receiver Dennis McKinnon and cornerback Leslie Frazier, gone for the season with knee injuries. But there's no way a team with players like Walter Payton, Mike Singletary, Richard Dent and Dan Hampton is going to lose enough to make the division interesting.

The major question may be how many positions William Perry

Minnesota (7-9) is probably the best of the rest.

Jerry Burns is the third new coach in three years, returning after Bud Grant came out of retirement to return the Vikings to mediocrity following the 3-13 Les Steckel disaster. Burns has some assets, like a quick offense geared to Tommy Kramer's short passing, but the defense, which registered just 33 sacks last season, needs major help.

Green Bay has finished 8-8 the last four years there has been a full NFL season. They probably won't be this season.

The Packers are adequate on defense, but far less than that offensively. Their major impact player is wide receiver James Lofton; but is Randy Wright really a quarterback who can utilize Lofton's talent? Rookie Robbie Bosco may be a long-term answer.

Detroit's biggest asset may be the Pontiac Silverdome, where last year the Lions beat teams like the Dolphins, Cowboys, 49ers and Jets in an 8-8 season. But this year's a holding action, with Eric Hipple hanging in at quarterback until Chuck Long develops.

Tampa Bay (2-14) doesn't even have Bo Jackson to develop — the first pick in the NFL draft opted for baseball over football leaving the Bucs to hope for improvement from quarterback Steve Young. But Young may have to give way to perennial stand-in Steve DeBerg for a while.

PREDICTION: Bears 1843; Vikings 8-8, Packers 6-10, Bucs 5-11,

Steelers wnip Cowboys 41-28

Hinkle returned a blocked field goal 65 yards for a touchdown and Rick Woods scored on a 22-yard interception return as the Pittsburgh Steelers defeated the Dallas Cowboys 41-28 in an NFL preseason game Friday night.

The victory was the first in three exhibition appearances for the Steelers, while the Cowboys fell to 0-4.

Hinkle picked up the blocked kick by rookie Max Zendeias. who is trying to unseat veteran Dallas placekicker Rafael Septien, and ran untouched into the end zone 58 seconds before halftime.

Woods earlier picked off a pass from Dallas quarterback Danny White and scored as time ran out in the first quarter.

White hit Tony Hill with a 77-yard scoring strike in the second quarter.

Veteran Dallas tailback Tony Dorsett, who said he wants to be traded because of the signing of former USFL star Herschel Walker, ran 22 yards for a first-quarter touchdown.

Walker began practicing with the Cowboys this week but did not suit up for the nationally televised game.

Dorsett, who received a loud chorus of boos when introduced to the Texas Stadium crowd of 54,299, set up the Steelers' first

> After Dorsett's miscue, Steelers quarterback Mark Malone hit John Stallworth for a 18-yard gain, setting up Steve Morse's 1-yard touchdown run. John Anderson kicked field goals of 39 and 20 yards for Pittsburgh.

The Cowboys, who scored only one touchdown in their first three exhibition contests, pulled to within 24-21 early in the third quarter when Bill Bates picked up a fumble by rookie Steelers quarterback Bubby Brister and dashed 37 yards for a touchdown.

But Dallas lost a chance to go ahead in the third quarter when the Steelers recovered a fumble by fullback Timmy Newsome at the Pittsburgh 1.

The Steelers pulled ahead 34-21 when Malone hit Stallworth with a 21-yard scoring pass with 11:48 left.

Wide receiver Gordon Banks scored Dallas' final points when he caught a 2-yard touchdown pass from backup quarterback Steve Pelluer with about six mintues left.

Pittsburgh running back Walter Abercrombie scored from the 1 yard line with three seconds left shortly after safety Bill- Callahan intercepted a Pelluer pass.

Brown arrested for beating his fiancee

ARLINGTON (AP) - Gary Ward broke a fourth-inning tie with a two-run double and reliever Jeff Russell shut out Chicago on one hit for four innings as the Texas Rangers beat the White Sox 11-3 Friday night.

It was the seventh win without a loss for Texas against Chicago this season.

Ward's double, which snapped a 2-2 tie, made a loser of Chicago lefthander Floyd Bannister, 7-10, who lasted only 3 2-3 innings.

Russell, 5-2, replaced starter Mike Mason in the fifth after the Rangers' starter had given up consecutive singles to Tim Hulett, Harold Baines and George Foster with no outs, cutting Texas' lead to Russell got Carlton Fisk to hit into a double play and retired Russ Morman on a grounder to end the rally. Russell blanked the White Sox from the fifth through the eighth innings.

Foster, playing in his seventh game for the White Sox, had two hits and drove in two runs.

Chicago got a run in the first an RBI single by Fisk, but Texas went ahead 2-1 in the second on the first of three Pete Incaviglia singles, a walk to Ward, an RBI single by Larry Parrish and Don Slaught's double-play grounder.

Chicago tied it 2-2 in the third on singles by Hulett and Baines and Foster's groundout.

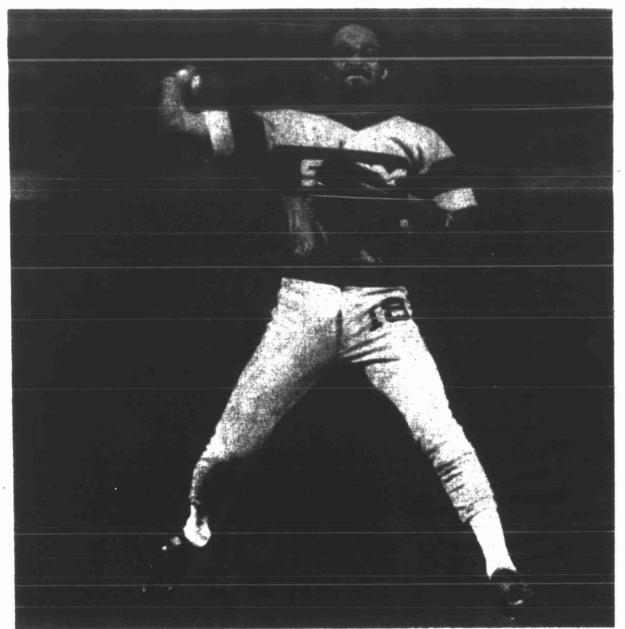

Ward broke the tie in the fourth with his double following singles by Pete O'Brien and Incaviglia. A triple by Oddibe McDowell and Scott Fletcher's groundout made it 5-3 in the fifth.

The Rangers, who had 14 hits, turned the game into a rout with six runs in the eighth. Ward stole home, Toby Harrah hit an RBI double, Fletcher had a run-scoring single, Pete O'Brien hit a two-run single and Ruben Sierra had a sacrifice fly

Holtz the big story in Midwest

By JOE MOOSHIL AP Sports Writer

Though Michigan and Ohio State are back as Big Ten favorites this season, center stage in the Midwest belongs to Lorenzo White of Michigan State and Coach Lou Holtz of Notre Dame.

White, the Spartans' junior speedster who gained 2,066 yards rushing last season, hopes to wrap up '86 with a Heisman Trophy. Holtz hopes to resurrect Irish football fortunes, which hit bottom under Gerry Faust. Michigan and Ohio State are expected to battle for the Big Ten title but, as Wolverine Coach Bo Schembechler says, "There's a big difference from now and the old It may be that he's yearning for the days when the conference championship almost always went to the winner of the Michigan-Ohio State game. Nowadays, other teams can and do win. Iowa tied for the championship in 1981 and won it outright last year. And Illinois broke through with an undefeated championship two years ago "Michigan is one of a half dozen teams that can win the Big Ten,' said Schembechler, dean of conference coaches. "Ohio State is talented, Michigan State, Wisconsin and Minnesota return veteran quarterbacks. And if anybody thinks Iowa and Illinois are out of the race because they lost their quarterbacks, they have another thing coming."

The national championship?

Schembechler sees Michigan as "one of 25 or 30 teams" with a chance to win.

Notre Dame, which finished last season 5-6, isn't among them. Great things have always been expected of the Irish because of the school's ability to attract blue-chip talent. But Holtz doesn't have season, nor the type of quarterback he likes to run the option. "I can't live up to other peoples' expectations," he said. "Those expectations are a tribute to Notre Dame and its tradition

Holtz has designated veteran Steve Beuerlein as his starting quarterback, though Beuerlein is a passer and not a runner

Aside from Michigan and Ohio State, the Big Ten doesn't have any likely challengers for the national title unless Michigan State has a run of good fortune. Michigan has 15 starters returning — none more important than quarterback Jim Harbaugh, who led the nation in passing efficiency "Harbaugh understands what it takes to play and be a quarterback," Schembechler said. "There is no quarterback in America I'd rather go into the season with than Harbaugh.

Ohio State will have a balanced team led by quarterback Jim Karsatos and "as strong a defense as we've had since I've been at Ohio State," Coach Earle Bruce said.

He also is high on his receiving corps, led by Cris Carter, and fullback George Cooper. The question marks are in the offensive line where, Bruce said, "We can't afford any injuries.

Always a slow-starting team, Ohio State had better change its ways. The Buckeyes take on powerful Alabama in the Kickoff Classic on Aug. 27, and then face Washington, Colorado and Utah before hitting Big Ten competition.

Coach George Perles has been building slowly at Michigan State and this could be the Spartans' year. In addition to White, they have an experienced quarterback in Dave Yarema. When Yarema missed four games last year, the Spartans won only one. When he returned, they won the last five.

"He's at the top of the heap. He should be one of the better quarterbacks in the league," Perles said.

season and Perles might go to more passing this year to take some of the pressure off. 'That's too many carries," he said. "Plus I think people will set their defenses with him in mind." White finished third in Heisman Trophy balloting last year, behind Bo Jackson of Auburn and Chuck Long of Iowa. He wants to finish first, of course, this year.

"I've aways wanted to win the Heisman." White said. "It means a lot to me. I want to go out and do it if I can.

The Big Ten lost three big passers with the graduations of Long at Iowa, Jack Trudeau at Illinois and Jim Everett at Purdue. As a result, there should be more running in the conference this Mark Vlasic will take over at

Iowa. Shane Lamb at Illinois and freshman Jeff George at Purdue. Indiana has 17 starters returning and Coach Bill Mallory hopes the experience will allow improvement on last year's campaign, which began with four victories and ended with seven defeats. Three new coaches round out the rest of the conference. John Gutekunst takes over for Holtz at Minnesota, John Hilles replaces the late Dave McClain at Wisconsin and Francis Peay takes over at Northwestern for Dennis Green, who resigned last spring to go to the San Francisco 49ers.

Wisconsin has experience on both offense and defense and could be a factor in the race since they catch Michigan and Ohio State at Madison. The Badgers have an experienced quarterback in Mike Howard and running power in Larry Emery and Joe Armentrout to go along with nine returning starters on defense

Minnesota has quarterback Rickey Foggie along with 15 other returning starters.

Women fans go nuts over the Von Erichs

DALLAS (AP) - Inside the wrestling arena, a heavy pall of smoke is cut by the tang of suspense, beer and sweat. Teenage girls bedecked with buttons sporting pictures of their favorite stars cluster expectantly in the aisles To the beat of martial music,

Kevin Von Erich, the Golden Warrior, strides toward the ring, his path strewn with girls who scream fervently as he stops to bestow a It is Friday night at the Sportatorium, a weather-beaten wrestling landmark on the outskirts of downtown Dallas, and one of the brothers Von Erich is about to put away another challenger. In this match, the combatant is the Grappler, attired in tight black pants and a sinister black and silver face mask. Before the first blows are exchanged, the crowd is at fever pitch, a full-bodied roar punctuated by the smack of colliding flesh and the thump of bodies hitting the floor. There are some tense moments when Kevin staggers into the ropes but, in a few flips, the Grappler is dispatched to the floor. It's nothing new, really, for the Von Erich wrestling dynasty - victory over villians in the ring.

But father Fritz and his wrestling sons, Kevin, Kerry and Mike. have fought some of their toughest bouts outside the ropes.

One son, Jack Jr., was killed in 1959 in a freak electrocution accident, and another, David, 25, died in February 1984 in Tokyo during a wrestling tour of Japan. Thousands of fans flooded his funeral in Dallas.

Mike, 22, almost died after contracting toxic shock syndrome following surgery in August 1985. Stricken fans jammed the telephone switchboard at his Dallas hospital with as many as 100 calls an hour. Extra operators were called in to man the phones, and guards were posted at elevators and entrances.

As Mike recuperated this spring, 25-year-old Kerry's motorcycle slammed into the back of a police undergone shoulder surgery several times.

And the youngest family member, Chris, 16, has been hospitalized because of asthma.

"I have been tempted to surround them, to just put them all in a circle and handcuff them together and not let anybody Dave's the leave," says mother Doris Kevin says.

car and he severed a nerve in his Adkisson, who does not use the Von right foot. He already had Erich surname adopted by other family members as a stage name.

David's death was devastating, family members say, but they joke about the other setbacks. Kerry says he has regained feeling in his injured foot and expects to be back in training within three months.

"We've all been killed, but Dave's the only one who died,"

Jack "Fritz" Adkisson says the family's religious faith has carried them through their troubles and adds, "I look at this, all of it as the Lord's getting our attention."

The Von Erich wrestling tradition stretches back to 1954, when Adkisson gave up a sports scholar-ship at Southern Methodist University to get married. As Fritz Von Erich, he developed and became famous for the "Iron Claw," a hold in which the wrestler spreads his hand across his opponent's face and squeezes.

Adkisson started training his young sons at the family's Lake Dallas estate and, eventually, Kevin, Kerry, Mike and David all good high school athletes turned to wrestling.

"Football was really my love, but you know I guess down inside I always wanted to be like my Dad," Kevin savs.

Kerry, noted for a flying drop kick, has been All-Asian Champion, winning the heavyweight title in Japan this spring. Kevin's trademark is the flying body press, accomplished by stepping outside the ring, climbing on top of a turnbuckle and swan-diving onto his opponent. He has been American Heavyweight Champion, And Mike was Middle East Champion before he became ill.

Their father says Kevin and Kerry gross about as much as a top football quarterback, and the family raised more than $2 million for charity in 1985, he says.

Since the Von Erichs stepped into the ring about five years ago, the team of handsome, strapping brothers has attracted a new audience to the matches.

Wrestlers have become better looking, more agile and more athletic, says sports promoter Eric Sieb of Dallas. He says wrestling makes ideal television because of its larger-than-life quality.

"They've created a totally emotional environment with a soap opera theme and real life cartoon characters," Seib says.

But the Von Erich brothers adamantly defend their bouts as genuine tests of skill, despite allegations that the outcome of most wrestling matches is

"To tell you that there's not showmanship in wrestling would certainly be misleading you, but there is showmanship in every box office sport there is today," Adkisson says.

Hard-core wrestling fans pack into the Sportatorium on Friday nights and into the Will Rogers Col-iseum in Fort Worth on Monday nights to watch the gritty spectacle first-hand. But a secondary audience watches the matches through hyped telecasts.

That second audience has ballooned during the past three years, says producer Shari Del Mazo, whose local show recently began airing on the cable sports channel ESPN.

The show reaches an audience of 48 million, including overseas markets, with the Von Erichs a particular hit in Israel, says Ms. Del Mazo, general manager of Continental Syndication.

Kevin says thousands of fans caused traffic jams wherever he went when he visited the Israeli city of Nazareth recently to lay the cornerstone in a family center named after his brother David.

The brothers aren't bashful about citing instances when they have been mobbed on the streets. and credit fan loyalty to a solid family image and a down-to-earth approach to wrestling.

Adkisson says the public watched the boys growing up as he incorporated them into his own popular wrestling career, taking them along to matches and television

Now wrestling fans think of the grown-up brothers almost as members of the family, he says.

"That's really the secret to our success. We have the true family image and it's for real," Adkisson says. "It's such a personal thing with wrestling. We are guests in their living room every Saturday night and Sunday morning.'

'We know why we made it in wrestling and that's becaue the people have always been behind us so much.
