Mailboxes

Q. Which side of the road is the proper side for mailboxes? I live on Garden City Route and have been asked by my carrier to move my box to the other side of the road.

A. According to Post Office Supervisor Jessie Crane, the carrier on that route asked residents to move the box to the other side of the road without consulting the postmaster. Regulations mandate that the carrier must deliver the mail in the same direction as traffic. However those boxes which were moved will stay put. He recommended that in the future residents consult the post office when requested to move their boxes by a carrier.

LINCOLN, Neb. — Some people delight in traditional summer amusements, but out here on the Plains people get invited to play such games as a greased zucchini toss or zucchini softball, or work out in zucchini aerobics.

There was even a contest for boats carved out of the oblong, green-skinned summer squash. It was all part of Sunday's second annual Zucchini Festival sponsored by The Acreage, a business near Lincoln.

Nathan and Phillip Kolterman, both of Seward, won the "most unusual" trophy with sailboats. Jim Lee of Lincoln carved a figurehead on the bow of his Viking ship to capture the "most amusing" award, while Sheila Mason of Lincoln let flowers power her boat to the "most beautiful" prize.

However, a zucchini submarine sank to the bottom of the waterlily pond.

Colleges see tax bill as a disaster

AUSTIN (AP) — Higher education officials are attacking the latest federal tax reform bill, saying it could cost the nation's universities hundreds of millions of dollars in donations.

The tax revisions approved in committee this month are the "greatest catastrophe for higher education in 25 years," says Sheldon Steinbach, counsel for the American Council on Education.

"As a matter of public policy it might seem like a good idea, but as a matter of social policy it's just terrible," said Steinbach, whose group represents 1,500 colleges and universities.

Officials also are complaining that the tax bill would impair the ability of large private schools to raise money for buildings and put new burdens on students who rely on financial aid.

A provision of the bill that most concerns educators would eliminate the tax advantages of gifts of appreciated property, such as real estate or stocks that have increased in value since the donor bought them.

"Appreciated property is where many of the biggest gifts are coming from, but the change in the tax law would make it more expensive to give away your property than to sell it," said Patricia Hayes, president of St. Edward's University and chairman of a national tax policy committee for independent colleges and universities.

Steinbach estimated that the change could cut as much as $600 million from the $6.5 billion in donations the nation's colleges receive each year.

In the University of Texas System, the change could affect as much as 10 percent of the $100 million in gifts received each year by system institutions, said Don Leverly, who represents UT in Washington.

Higher education officials also are concerned about provisions of the bill that could make charitable gifts less attractive in general.

Taxpayers who don't itemize could no longer deduct charitable contributions, which might deter new alumni from getting into the habit of giving to their schools, officials said.

But Rick Eason, vice president for development at Southwestern University in Georgetown, said the lower tax rates could result in increased donations from some people.

"A lot of people budget their gifts to Southwestern monthly, so if their tax burden is reduced there is a possibility they will have more money to give away," he said. "While I'm really concerned about the proposed bill, I also think it's too early to tell exactly what the net result is going to be."

College officials also said students — especially in graduate or medical school — could be hurt by a provision that would alter the tax exemption for scholarships and fellowships. Only the portion of a student's aid that was used for tuition or course-related equipment would remain tax-exempt.

Large private universities say their construction programs could be devastated by a provision that would bar them from issuing more than $150 million in tax-exempt bonds — generally used to finance new buildings or renovation projects.

County OKs increases in indigent care

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

The county approved Dr. Jack Woodall's threefold request for funds for the required indigent health care program Monday morning, despite opposition from commissioner O.L. Brown and a citizen.

Woodall, who will be the director of the indigent care unit, asked the commission for: an increase in salary for the nurse practitioner from $22,000 plus benefits to $26,000 plus benefits; an allotment of $15,000 to $20,000 for possible "start-up costs"; and he asked commissioners to consider the pharmaceutical bids for the unit.

An indigent health care program, to be paid for by the county, has been mandated by the state. The county is required to allot 10 percent of its gross tax levies for the program. For Howard County, that 10 percent is $340,000. The money to pay for the nurse's salary and initial costs is not included in the $340,000.

On Aug. 11, the commission allotted $22,000 for the nurse practitioner position. Today, Woodall said he had interviewed 11 nurses qualified for the position, but that "one in particular" stood out.

Woodall said this candidate would require a $26,000 salary. "We should wait to raise her wages. She has to prove herself first. I don't believe in a raise. Where will it all end?" Brown said.

Ray Abelar, of 110 Jonesboro Road, also opposed the raise as an unnecessary expense to the taxpayer. In addition, Abelar said the $15,000 to $20,000 to be allotted for starting costs was unnecessary. Abelar said he didn't believe the indigent care unit would be busy enough to mandate the expenses being considered.

County Sanitarian James Luck, who had proposed the $22,000 figure at the Aug. 11 meeting, said he had "way undershot" the nurse's salary.

"I regret we're considering this a raise. I submitted the $22,000, and I apologize," he said, adding that he believed the indigent care unit would stay busy.

Commissioner W.B. Crooker said the increase in salary was not a raise, but that it reflected the labor market. He said that if the woman was well-qualified then she Jim Tindall, 13, of Phoenix waits for a flight Sunday night at Denver's Stapleton airport. Jim, his mother and older brother were stranded for more than two hours after Frontier Airlines ceased operations.

Frontier strands travelers

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — William and Joyce Helland counted on being greeted by a smiling Frontier Airlines ticket agent when they reached Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport for a flight home.

Instead, they were met by a white posterboard sign that read, "Frontier Airlines has ceased operations. Contact other airlines for transportation."

Frontier, owned by People Express, halted operations early Sunday morning because of financial difficulties. The only warning for many travelers were the signs at the airport.

Frontier normally carries 17,000 passengers on 325 flights per day.

The Helland family, of Minot, N.D., planned to take an 11:10 a.m. flight back home when they found the Frontier ticket counters closed.

"They stranded us," said Mrs. Helland, who was taking her first flight.

After scrambling around the airport trying to find other airlines to accommodate them, the Hellands discovered that only Republic Airlines and "what used to be Frontier" fly to their hometown.

The trip home would cost them $240 each, but they only had enough cash for one ticket.

"We have people on the other end trying to get money. As it is, if we get the other tickets bought up there, it will be 11 (p.m.) or so before we get there," Helland said.

"They told us it (the possibility of a shutdown) had been in the news, but I didn't think we missed the news that much. We always had the car radio on," Mrs. Helland said. "It's a helpless feeling."

Some passengers said they were reassured by Frontier ticket agents on Saturday that the airline would be operating Sunday.

Vita Willeke had planned to fly to Midland, Texas, on Sunday. She said relatives were waiting at the Midland airport to drive her home to Eldorado, Texas.

"I'm stunned, I guess. I called yesterday and the agent assured me the news media was wrong (about Frontier going out of business)," she said.

Near-pandemonium reigned at Stapleton International Airport in Denver, Frontier's main hub. About 6,000 people flew Frontier out of Stapleton on 110 flights per day.

Short-tempered travelers milled in front of the empty Frontier ticket counter shouting questions at a People Express representative, who kept repeating that Frontier was closed for business.

Lines more than 100 people long quickly formed at Continental and United outlets. Those airlines, scrambling for the Frontier market, announced they would honor Frontier tickets on a standby basis.

Big Spring pelted by 2-inch rain

Thundershowers this morning poured as much as 2 inches of rain on parts of Big Spring, but other parts of Howard County didn't receive a drop.

In Coahoma, which received about a half inch of rain, wind knocked down power lines leaving about 39 electrical customers without power for several hours, said Hooper Sanders of Texas Electric Service Co.

This morning's rain in Big Spring, which began about 6:45 accompanied by loud thunder and flashes of lightning, was measured at 2 inches by B.G. Barber, 15th and Settles streets; 1.8 inches by Chuck Benz, who lives on Apache Drive in the southwest part of town; and 1.9 inches by J.M. Lee, 1600 State St.

South of town on Sterling City Route, H. Boyce Hale reported .38 of an inch.

Rainfall was measured at .89 inch at the U.S. Department of Agriculture Research Service located on the north service road of Interstate 20. That brings this year's rainfall in Big Spring to 15.10 inches, well above the 12.22-inch average for this time of year, but just under the 15.74 inches for the same time last year.

Wendell Shine of Coahoma said that area received about a half inch of rain. But people in Lomax, in the southwest part of Howard County, did not get any precipitation, according to Mrs. Neil Fryar of Lomax.

The rain was welcomed by area cotton farmers, whose crop generally is average to fair, said Tim Hall, U.S. Agriculture Department Stabilization and Conservation agent. Hall said that in parts of the county that have received more rain, the crop is better still.

Tiny rattlesnake puts local Scout through surgery

A 13-year-old snake bite victim was listed in stable condition this morning at Scenic Mountain Medical Center after surgery Sunday.

Billy Mears, the son of Robert and JoAnn Mears, 610 E. 12th St., was bitten by a small rattlesnake Friday while on a Boys Scout camp out at Moss Creek Lake, according to family friends and relatives.

Billy is under the care of orthopedic surgeon Dr. Raj Reddy who performed an operation on the boy's bitten arm Sunday, the family reported.

The boy's grandmother, Sarah Broussard, said he may need additional surgery. A spokeswoman at the hospital, however, said doctors were not contemplating further surgery this morning.

The teen was bitten on the finger by an 8-inch-long snake after he turned over a log and picked up the reptile, according to friends of the boy.

They said he was reluctant at first to report the bite to scout leaders. When he did, they killed the snake and cut off its head.

The boy's hand was packed with ice and he was taken to Scenic Mountain where he was treated and observed until noon Sunday when he had surgery.

Volcanic gas seep kills 2,000

YAOUNDE, Cameroon (AP) — At least 2,000 people were killed by toxic gas seeping from a volcanic lake in northwest Cameroon, and survivors were fleeing the area and being evacuated, the government said today.

There was no word on the number of injured. A 17-member Israeli army medical team arrived in this West African nation today as part of international relief efforts that the Cameroon government said would also involve the United States, Britain and France.

"As far as we know, volcanic activity is still going on," medical team leader Dr. Michael Weiner told reporters on the plane from Israel, which was carrying Prime Minister Shimon Peres for a state visit.

Cameroon Information Minister

Georges Ngango told reporters that military authorities in charge of rescue operations filed a preliminary report of at least 2,000 dead.

He said villagers from a wide area were being evacuated and others were fleeing, and that rescue workers were wearing gas masks. Ngango said the death toll could rise as rescue workers advanced into the affected area.

On Sunday, the government said the toxic fumes killed 40, although travelers from the area said as many as 1,000 may have died.

The leak of hydrogen sulfide — a flammable, colorless gas that smells like rotten eggs — from Lake Nios near Wum, about 200 miles northwest of Yaounde, the capital, was a "geological catastrophe," a government communique said Sunday.

Hydrogen sulfide is often found in volcanic gases. It often is formed during the decay of animal matter decay. Lake Nios lies in a volcanic crater.

At least three villages were affected by the leak, which began Friday, according to a communique read Sunday over state television. President Paul Biya toured the region Sunday and declared it a disaster area, the communique said.

The Cameroon government called for international aid to cope with the disaster and said the United States and Britain agreed to supply logistical support for evacuation of villagers and "appropriate types of equipment." France offered unspecified help.

Foreign technicians and equipment were expected to "get into effective rescue operations" by today, Sunday's communique said.

Weiner said the Israeli team would try to establish a base outside the contaminated area and treat casualties as they were brought out.

Peres, interviewed during the nine-hour trip from Israel, said that when he offered to bring a medical team and supplies, Biya "was very excited and appreciative."

The back of the plane was filled with bottles of oxygen and boxes of medical equipment.

A Western diplomatic source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said there was still no precise information on the disaster, adding, "Local attention right now is VOLCANIC GAS page 2A merited the $26,000 salary. Commissioner David Barr agreed with Crocker. "I can see where the $4,000 might save the county $40,000," he said.

The commission voted 3-1 to accept Woodall's requests, with Brown dissenting.

In other business, the county voted unanimously to support the expansion of Highway 87 as requested by representatives of the Chamber of Commerce.

Representatives from the Chamber of Commerce are going to Austin — along with representatives from Sterling, San Angelo and Glasscock County — to ask the highway department to expand a 38-mile stretch of Highway 87 from two to four lanes.

Chamber President John Arrick told the commission that 12 miles of the proposed expansion is in Howard County. He estimated the county's costs for rights-of-way and easements would be $900,000 to $1,000,000.

He said a bond election would be necessary for such an expenditure, but he said four lanes would bring in tourist and trucking dollars.

"We're here for your help," he told the commissioners.

focusing on Peres. The issues are being treated next to each other, but in the capital, it (the gas leak) is less present."

Peres was expected to announce a resumption of diplomatic relations between the two countries during his four-day state visit to this tropical country.

In Washington, State Department spokeswoman Anita Stockman said Sunday, "We are prepared to provide assistance to the government of Cameroon based on what we've seen from press reports. The Cameroon government will be assessing the damage, and at that point we'll know what the needs are."

Cameroon is an oil-producing nation the size of California with natural gas reserves estimated at 3.5 trillion cubic feet. It has a population of 9.2 million, including the members of 24 tribes who predominately work in agriculture.

Biya visited Bamenda, 30 miles south of Wum, to oversee rescue operations, and returned to Yaounde late Sunday, the communique said. State-run radio said his trip was to show solidarity with the "disaster-stricken population."

The communique said government relief teams of doctors and specialists were rushed to the region, but a later report monitored in Ivory Coast said the teams had not been able to reach the site because they lacked proper equipment to deal with the fumes.

On Aug. 16, 1984, toxic fumes from a lake in a volcanic crater in Djindoum killed 36 people, according to reports at the time. That lake lies in the same mountain chain as Nios.

American also said it would honor tickets including travel on Frontier that were issued by other airlines.

Continental ticket agent Bob Bennett said at least 25 people had traded their tickets by late morning.

"They're irritated as well as we are," Bennett said. People Express was not honoring the tickets, and ticket agents for the carrier would not comment.

Talks that could save the airline from bankruptcy broke off today without agreement to resume. The talks between the union representing Frontier's 600 pilots and United Airlines had begun Sunday evening in a Chicago suburb.

People Express announced early Sunday that Frontier would file for bankruptcy today if no agreement was reached between United and the Air Line Pilots Association.

The shutdown of the Denver-based airline, which served 55 U.S. cities west of Chicago and four Canadian cities, idled nearly 4,700 workers, 1,000 in Colorado.

Last month, United had offered $146 million for the 40-year-old regional airline provided it could reach agreement with Frontier's five labor unions.

Talks with the pilots' union, however, ended over how soon Frontier pilots would receive the same salaries as United pilots, said United spokesman Matt Goning.

A Boeing-727 captain at Frontier makes about $68,000 a year compared with $115,000 at United, United spokesman Joe Hopkins said.

United's latest offer would have closed the gap in five years, but the union wanted it closed by April 1988, Hopkins said. "How many people do you know who get a $47,000 pay raise in 18 months?" he said.

Wreck victim listed critical

A 22-year-old Big Spring woman was listed in critical condition in surgical intensive care this morning at Lubbock General Hospital, after she was involved in a one-car accident Sunday 12 miles south of Big Spring.

Sherrie Delaine Baird, 3201 Cornell Ave., underwent surgery this morning at Lubbock General for what a spokesman there called multiple trauma including several broken bones. She was transferred to Lubbock from Scenic Mountain Medical Center by Lee Ambulance

Sunday night.

According to a Department of Public Safety report, shortly after 4 p.m., Baird was traveling west on Farm Road 821 at a speed estimated in excess of 80 miles per hour, when she lost control of her car and went off the road.

Baird's car rolled over four times before coming to rest in the middle of the road, about 490 feet from where she originally left the road, the report stated.

She was not wearing seatbelts, the report indicated.

Forecast

By The Associated Press
West Texas: The weather will be mostly cloudy with scattered thunderstorms tonight, becoming partly cloudy with thunderstorms scattered in the Panhandle and isolated elsewhere on Tuesday. Lows tonight will be in the lower 60s in the Panhandle and mountains, in the middle 60s in the south plains, Permian basin and far west, and in the upper 60s in the Concho Valley. Temperatures will be in the lower 70s in the Big Bend lowlands. Highs Tuesday will be in the middle 80s, except in the upper 80s in the Concho Valley and far west. Temperatures will be in the lower 90s in the Big Bend valleys.

State

An upper-level disturbance triggered scattered showers and isolated thundershowers across the Lone Star State early today and forecasters expected rainfall to continue through the beginning of this week.

Showers dampened Southwest Texas from the Big Bend to the Concho Valley and South Plains. Elsewhere, scattered thundershowers were detected in the central part of the state between Abilene and Austin.

High clouds were visible over the rest of Texas except for low clouds spreading northward from the Hill Country.

Winds were south at 10 mph or less, pumping moist Gulf air into the state. Predawn temperatures ranged from the 60s in West Texas to the 70s elsewhere. Temperature extremes ranged from a cool 54 degrees at Marfa to a warm 82 degree reading at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.

Scattered showers and thundershowers were expected tonight. Otherwise, skies should be partly to mostly cloudy through Tuesday.

Rainfall was expected to be most numerous in west and northwest parts of North Texas. Lows tonight should be 70 to 74, with highs Tuesday 92 to 98.

Highs in the Big Bend valleys of West Texas were expected to reach the lower 90s.

Nation

A high pressure system lowered temperatures from the Midwest to Northeast today while rain was widely scattered from New England to the Rockies.

Rain fell in northern New England and the western Great Lakes region while showers and thundershowers were scattered across eastern Mississippi, southwest Texas and the Rockies.

The high pressure, over northeast Ohio, dropped temperatures into the 50s to low 40s across the eastern Great Lakes region, the upper Ohio Valley and Northeast and into the 40s in northwest Pennsylvania and western New York.

The combination of the high pressure and a low pressure system over New Brunswick produced strong northwest winds in New England, with gusts of more than 40 mph at Worcester, Mass., Block Island, R.I., and Plattsburgh, N.Y.

Fair skies prevailed in the Pacific Coast states, central Plains and from the lower Mississippi Valley to the mid- and south-Atlantic Coast states.

Today's forecast called for scattered showers and thundershowers across the Rockies, Utah and Arizona; from the central Gulf Coast region across Florida and southern Georgia; and from the southern Plains across the lower Missouri Valley, the middle and upper Mississippi Valley to the Great Lakes. Maine should get scattered showers.

Working-mother's kids OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Children of working mothers tend to do better in school, are absent for fewer days and have better communication skills, according to a nationwide study by four Ohio researchers.

But women who don't have jobs outside the homes are more likely to be confident they are good mothers, and their children report better relationships with them, the study said.

Overall, the child benefits when the mother works, said the researchers, who presented their findings to the American Psychological Association in Washington over the weekend.

"All significant differences in social and academic criteria favored children of employed mothers," they wrote.

The "traditional" American family — with the father as sole breadwinner and the mother a full-time homemaker — is becoming a rarity, the researchers said.

"By the year 1990, only 14 percent of the households in America will live in this family pattern," they wrote.

Minority scores better

HOUSTON — As minority children post rapid gains in math and reading scores, heavily minority school districts are closing the gap in statewide test results, according to a recent survey.

But although the study still shows those areas score lower than other districts statewide, "we're not frustrated. We're making progress. We're seeing results," said John Sawyer III, superintendent of the predominantly black North Forest school district in Harris County.

His district posted the biggest gain in math and reading scores among Texas' 63 largest districts surveyed by the Texas Education News, a weekly industry newsletter. But it ranked near the bottom among Houston-area schools.

Two escape; flee west

HOUSTON — A convicted murderer and an armed robber who escaped from a Louisiana prison abducted two women as they fled west into Texas, authorities said.

Police continued their search today for the inmates, who were armed and considered dangerous. The men abducted a woman and forced her to drive to Houston, where they abandoned her and kidnapped another woman, officers said Sunday.

Danny Weeks, 33, and James Colvin, 32, were discovered missing along with a third inmate during a count Saturday night at the Louisiana Penitentiary at Angola, said Warden Frank Blackburn.

14 Deere plants close

MOLINE, Ill. — Fourteen Deere & Co. plants in Iowa and Illinois were closed today, idling 12,000 workers, after the United Auto Workers called strikes at three factories, the company said.

"Deere & Co. considers the union's decision to strike three of its facilities as a strike against all Deere factories under the UAW master agreement," company spokesman Bob Shoup said Sunday.

'Hands' emptyhanded

LOS ANGELES — Hands Across America has raised only $16 million for needy people because it was a media event that didn't require enough commitment from participants, the leader of another charity says.

"The problem with Hands Across America is that it was a lot of publicity hype," Millard Fuller, founder of Habitat for Humanity, said Sunday in a telephone interview from Turrell, Ark.

"I participated in Hands Across America, but it was like all this buildup and (in) 30 seconds it was over. It didn't take much of a commitment on the part of people who participated in it."

Delaware Governor Michael Castle (left) and Massachusetts Governor Michael Dukakis listen intently during Sunday's meeting of the National Governors' Association at Hilton Head Island, S.C. The governors compiled a policy for education reform to be carried out within the next five years.

Governors

Education report gets high marks

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. — The nation's governors have gotten generally high marks for their new educational reform package, although there are some notations in the margin of the report card.

Education Secretary William J. Bennett noted a "growing ecumenical spirit" around the conference table Sunday when he praised the National Governors Association for the study — "Time For Results: The Governors' 1991 Report On Education."

"This may be the single most important event in American education in the last five years," he said. "By 1991, their recommended reforms should be visible in every school in the land."

But the proposals will not succeed unless the governors "keep the heat on ... and don't brook any nonsense," he said.

The report, written by a committee of governors after hearings around the country, sets a goal for states to restructure their schools during the next five years. Adoption of the report by the association at the governors' meeting here is expected to be a virtual formality.

The report recommends giving more control of the schools to educators who would be held accountable for what students learn. The governors proposed state intervention when local school districts reach "educational bankruptcy" by failing to meet minimum standards.

Mary Hatwood Futrell, president of the National Education Association, endorsed the report's recommendations to end emergency teaching certificates, create a national board of professional teacher standards and give teachers more decision-making authority.

But she said proposals that tie teacher salaries directly to student performance are unrealistic at present.

"When teachers can be assured that those who come to our classrooms are free of drugs, free from hunger, free from worries and the effects of other social problems, ready and alert to learn, this dialogue might be appropriate," she said.

Mrs. Futrell also cautioned the governors on their proposal to give parents choices in which public schools their children attend. Unrestrained choice could result in taxpayers' money going to private schools, she said.

While the report recommends giving parents more choice over which public schools their children attend, in order to increase competition among schools, it stops short of urging partial public financing for students to attend private schools.

Chernobyl discussed

VIENNA, Austria — A weeklong conference of 900 nuclear industry officials from more than 50 countries convenes today to discuss a 382-page Soviet report on the Chernobyl disaster and its causes.

The five-day conference on the power plant accident in the northern Ukraine is closed, but some of the contents of the report have already been made public by the news media and the Soviets.

"More information will probably come out in dribs and drabs during the course of the week," said an official of the sponsoring International Atomic Energy Agency, a Vienna-based U.N. organization that provides expertise and support for the peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

Protestors meet ships

SASEBO, Japan — A flotilla of protesters swarmed around the U.S. battleship New Jersey as it cruised into this port city, and thousands massed on land to demonstrate against the nuclear weapons they claim are aboard.

Two other U.S. warships capable of firing Tomahawk missiles, the sea-borne version of the cruise missile, arrived at other Japanese ports on Sunday, and were also met by demonstrators.

No major protests were scheduled for today, authorities said.

Aquino goes abroad

JAKARTA, Indonesia — Philippine President Corazon Aquino, traveling abroad despite concerns of a possible coup attempt at home, met with Indonesian leader Suharto today to discuss strengthening ties.

The talks at Merdeka (Freedom) Palace were expected to focus on promoting economic cooperation between the two Southeast Asian archipelagos, according to Indonesian officials who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Killer taught riflemen

LONDON — The Oklahoma man who shot dead 14 postal workers and then killed himself spent two weeks this summer at a U.S. Air Force facility in Britain teaching soldiers to fire rifles, a base spokesman said today.

A statement issued by the public affairs office at RAF Mildenhall in eastern England confirmed a report in the Sunday Times of London which said Patrick Sherrill trained soldiers to use the M-16 rifle.

"Technical Sergeant Patrick Sherrill served two weeks at RAF Mildenhall beginning July 19. He was among 104 members of the Oklahoma National Guard who served their required two weeks' annual training at the base," said the statement issued by public affairs officer Geoffrey Halik of the U.S. Air Force.

Reagan studying plans for overhaul of budget program

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — White House chief of staff Donald T. Regan, faulting the federal budget process as an inefficient, "Mickey Mouse system," says President Reagan is studying plans for a major overhaul of the nation's budget program.

Regan, in California with the vacationing president, said proposals to revamp the system put forward by top White House aides last week "definitely" caught the eye of the president.

The White House has found fault with the budget process for years, but has not put forward a specific reform package because of intense opposition in Congress, which jealously guards its budget-making authority.

The president would put his ideas before Congress in the next State of the Union address and make it one of his top priorities for his remaining two years in office, Regan told reporters during a weekend meeting.

"We have a crazy hodgepodge of a budget," Regan complained. "No state has a budget system, no other nation has a budget system like we do."

"We do many things in the federal level that would be considered dishonest and illegal if done in the private sector," the chief of staff said.

Regan, the former Secretary of the Treasury, was head of Merrill Lynch, the nation's largest investment firm.

"We say receipts coming into a trust fund are receipts to the federal government and count to the budget or budget deficit. That is not right by any budgeting sense," Regan said.

The chief of staff said concern on Capitol Hill, in the past wary of such proposals, may change because of the $200 billion-plus deficits and the pressures of the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law.

"I think the atmosphere might be changing where people are saying, 'This is a Mickey Mouse system,'" Regan said.

He said the proposals included renewing a push for the balanced budget amendment, creating a separate capital budget for construction projects and eliminating trust fund receipts — such as for Social Security and unemployment benefits — from the general U.S. treasury.

Another possibility would be creating a two-year budget cycle instead of the current single-year system, Regan said.

Congress has consistently rejected Reagan's pressure for a line item veto — which would give the president authority to veto special items in spending bills. Under the Constitution the president is only allowed to veto entire bills.

Regan said the president's push for budget reform was expected to take second place, however, to his anti-drug effort.

"The analogy will be ... drugs will be what tax reform was to the first two years. That will be the major item, with other important ones under it, including budget," Regan said.

The White House has been considering proposals for mandating drug testing of federal employees in sensitive positions, and encouraging other employees to undergo testing. But no proposals have been approved by the president's domestic policy council or gone to the president as yet.

Regan, on the subject of South Africa, said the administration "will be announcing an ambassador shortly, we hope."

Although he refused to comment further on a possible nominee, Regan said the administration had sought a black nominee in the past "because a black American who understands both sides of a terribly complex issue could build bridges better than someone who does not understand it."

The chief of staff argued that many prominent black American leaders have traveled to South Africa and gained an understanding of the problems there.

"A black American might be able to further the process better than a white American," Regan said.

He said the administration's goal is to get both black and whites to enter negotiations to settle their disputes. The imposition of economic sanctions would not advance that process, he said.

September is deadline for 4-H enrollment

By DANA DOLAN
Forsan 4-H

School is about to begin and so we will need to get started up with our 4-H programs, too. Each club member and all new members need to fill out a new enrollment form and turn into the county agent's office by Sept. 30th. This is the way that you will be put on the current mailing list and receive all your 4-H mail.

September is going to be a pretty busy month. On Sept. 1, the registration forms for the 4-H Horse Leader Training Workshop are due. Also, the entry forms are due for the Southwestern Livestock Exposition and Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo Scramble.

So if you are planning to attend either of these, please contact the agents office and get your forms in.

The Permian Basin Fair will be held September 11-14, in Odessa. In conjunction with this fair will be a horticulture, art, women's division, Santa Gertrudis Breeding Clinic, prospect shows for lambs, steers, burrows, and the Miss Permian Basin Fair Queens Contest. If you are interested in participating in these contests you should contact the County Agent's office.

The Howard County Fair will be held September 15-20, at the Howard County Fairgrounds. We will be having prospect shows for steers, rabbits, lambs, goats, horses, and burrows. We will also have an agriculture produce show, country store for our local people to sell their extra produce, canned goods, and homemade items, barbeque cook-off, hobbies and crafts, baked goods, canned goods, art, photography, horticulture, sewing divisions, pet show, sew with cotton contest, and the Miss Howard County Fair Queens contest. We will also have as added entertainment Clyde Foley Cummins Band to play each night.

Another attraction at the fair is the 4-H omelet supper. Bring the whole family out for supper and help support the 4-H projects in Howard County at the same time. The supper usually consists of a three egg omelet, salad, toast, and iced tea or coffee.

The 1986 Texas Make It Yourself With Wool Contest will be held Oct. 11, at the Sunset Mall in San Angelo. Categories are determined by age and include: preteen — age 10-13; junior — age 14-16; senior — age 17-21; adults — over 21. You may enter as many garments as you like but each must be accompanied by a separate entry form.

Entry forms are available at the extension office. Garments may be sewn, knitted, or crocheted, woven, or felted from at least 60% wool. Wool includes the hair of sheep or the following specialty fibers: mohair, cashmere, alpaca, camel, llama, and vicuna. Contact Naomi Hunt for more information and entry forms. This is a good project for our sewing project people to do so extra sewing during the year.

Congratulations are in order to Tonya Bridge for winning the 1986 Howard County 4-H Junior Rodeo Queen Contest. Tonya is a member of the Forsan 4-H, is a seventh grader at Forsan Jr. High.

The Howard County 4-H Shooting Sports Club have just returned from the state shoot and have brought home many honors. Congratulations to all who participated in this meet. We will be able to have more information on this later, and who all participated in the meet.

The Texas 4-H Rabbit Show is Oct. 10-13 at the State Fair of Texas Poultry Building in Dallas, Texas.

Nursing home thievery is a national shame

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure my letter will not command as much attention as Kirk Douglas' because I'm not a movie star, but after reading his letter, I had to write because I also had a mother in a nursing home.

Mr. Douglas' mother was in a nice nursing home. He could afford the best. My mother was in a convalescent hospital that was little better than a pigsty, although it cost a considerable amount of money. The poor souls were kept medicated to keep their demands at a minimum.

My family visited our mother three or four times a week, and we observed that nighties, sweaters, toiletries and slippers kept disappearing.

We give billions of dollars to foreign countries to upgrade their standard of living; we send billions for ammunition so they can slaughter each other. And on the Fourth of July, millions were spent to honor the Statue of Liberty. But where is the money to honor our own fathers and mothers? Shame on all of us for allowing this to happen.

Dear Abby

G.K., COSTA MESA, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: My husband spent the last three years of his life in a nursing home. During that time he experienced problems I never would have believed existed. It was shocking, frightening and sad.

When his condition was critical, an employee removed his wedding ring and wristwatch. His walker, hand-knit afghan and wallet also mysteriously disappeared; along with a basket of goodies he had just received for his birthday. My complaints to the administration were ignored. Only after I wrote to the state ombudsman and the editor of The Deseret News did all the missing articles mysteriously turn up! One week to the day, he was buried — with his ring on.

CLEO P. MOLLINET,
SALT LAKE CITY

DEAR ABBY: Kirk Douglas advised people to go to their department of public health and demand to see the state inspection reports before deciding on a home. That is a joke.

I worked at a private nursing home that had a superior rating. Now let me tell you about the inspector. He used the side door because we locked up at 9 p.m., and he never arrived before 10 p.m. One night he arrived drunk (as usual) and fell over the nurses' station trying to hug his favorite nurse. He asked her to witness him signing the inspection form. She laughed and said, "Why, you devil, you haven't inspected anything," after which he picked up a wastepaper basket, peered into it, put it down and said, "There! I've made an inspection, and everything is fine!" He signed the state ombudsman and the editor of The Deseret News did all the missing articles mysteriously turn up!

EX-EMPLOYEE

DEAR ABBY: I could write a book about the thievery that goes on in nursing homes. Would you believe someone came into my mother's room and carried away her TV set? (Police report enclosed.) Her little refrigerator had been unplugged — apparently that had been targeted as well. I took the owner of the home to Small Claims Court and won. I moved my mother to another home where I had to sign a form stating that they were not responsible for anything that was "lost." The help in most homes are paid peanuts. The work is awful. I couldn't do it — not for a million dollars a day.

Opinion

Views of other Texas papers

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the state:

Stacy Dam case of live and let live

Mankind wins one. The decision of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to refrain from interfering with the Stacy Dam project understandably was greeted with great expressions of relief by West Texas community leaders. Fish and Wildlife had insisted previously that the dam be moved or the project be abandoned because it threatened the continued existence of the rare Concho River water snake. But now, thanks no doubt to the intercession of U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Fish and Wildlife has reconsidered and will not try to block the project, if the dam sponsor takes steps to protect the snake.

An expert on reptiles must be hired to work for the snake's survival. And that could mean some extra costs and some plan alterations.

That is a small price for residents of Odessa, Big Spring and other communities in the region to have more and better-tasting water.

Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Texans count American blessings

A surprising survey shows only about a fifth of Texans believe our state would have been better off had it retained its independence.

If Texas had not been annexed in 1845 (and there is still doubt in some circles about who really annexed whom), it would have become a powerful OPEC member and among the leaders in gross national product. Yet OPEC membership is a mixed blessing, and if people like New Englanders and Californians weren't fellow citizens, they would be even harder to deal with than they are now.

While the "Republic of Texas" does have a magnificent ring to it, we must be satisfied in the knowledge that being pre-eminent among the 50 states isn't bad.

The Houston Post

Budget solution says tighten belts

Now, prisons are something on which no one wants to spend much money. In that spirit, the House Appropriations Committee proposed and the full House approved $33.7 million in spending cuts for the Texas Department of Corrections.

There's just one little problem: As a TDC spokesman pointed out to the lawmakers, such cuts would make it impossible for the prison system to implement improvements specified in a federal court order.

The unhappy fact is that there is simply no way that Texas can get by on the cheap — nor should it. All the wailing and gnashing of teeth notwithstanding, Texas is still one of the more lightly taxed states. The Legislature therefore ought to heed the leadership of Gov. Mark White and enact the temporary tax increases and other revenue-raising measures that are needed to get the state through its current financial troubles.

Herschel: newest Cowboy on block

Dallas Cowboy fans everywhere had hoped it would happen, and now it finally has. Herschel Walker is a Cowboy.

In a move that many criticized as a "wasted draft pick," the Cowboys have come away smelling like a rose on this deal. It was good to see a quick contract settlement, as the Cowboys need Walker's presence in the offense and Walker needs to get back to work.

Walker is one of those rare athletes that has the pure talent and ability to be one of the best to ever play the game.

The Cowboys showed a lot of class in doing what that had to sign him. Chances are, he'll be worth what they're paying him.

The Lufkin Daily News

U.S. should put squeeze on Castro

The United States should make good on its threat to put the squeeze on Cuba to force Fidel Castro to abide by a 1984 agreement, which he suspended last year over a radio broadcasting dispute.

Two years ago, Castro agreed to accept the return of 2,700 Cuban prisoners — those mental patients and hard core criminals he so generously released from institutions and put on boats in the 1980 Mariel boatlift. In return, the United States agreed to accept 3,000 Cuban political prisoners, many of whom have been long in jails, and 20,000 immigrants each year.

Surely Castro wants to have these fellows back. The administration should feel free to do all necessary in "encouraging" Castro to live up to the 1984 agreement.

The El Paso Times

Iron Curtain monument to failure

As the Berlin Wall so cruelly proclaims, the Soviet system places no value on the individual human being and maintains allegiance only through coercion. But there is no denying that the wall has accomplished its purpose.

Before the Berlin Wall went up, three million East Germans fled to the West.

"Before I built a wall I'd ask to know, What I was walling in or walling out," wrote Robert Frost in his poem "The Mending Wall." East German authorities knew full well what they were walling in when they erected the high concrete barrier across Berlin.

But in their desperation, the East Germans and their Soviet bosses failed to grasp that they were building something far more important than a crude concrete wall. They were creating a monument to the failure of Soviet communism.

Bush must win nomination without Reagan's support

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — President Reagan will not endorse Vice President George Bush as his successor unless and until Bush makes it out of the 1988 Republican Convention as the party's candidate.

The president's reasons are both personal and political: Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., one of Reagan's closest friends and a conservative's conservative, has decided to seek the GOP nomination.

Reagan has told his super-loyal vice president, gently but firmly, that he must fend for himself through the caucus and primary season and the convention itself.

An unequivocal statement from Reagan that he considers Bush the best man would give the vice president a tremendous advantage.

"More than once," a high-level administration source told us, "the president (told Bush), 'Obviously I'm going to stay neutral until after the convention, and then I'm going to work for whichever candidate comes out.'"

Sources close to both Reagan and Bush say the vice president, out of a sense of propriety, has never asked the president for his endorsement. "I just couldn't imagine Bush asking the president for an endorsement and expecting to get it," said one well-placed source.

It's been Reagan's personal policy not to intervene in party primaries. But White House sources early last year predicted that Reagan would make an exception for Bush, as recognition of the vice president's unflinching loyalty to the president in defense of his most controversial decisions.

Reagan privately told confidants more than a year ago that he would have no difficulty endorsing Bush over the likeliest Republican candidates: Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole of Kansas, former Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee and Rep. Jack Kemp of New York.

But that was before Laxalt surprised everyone by announcing last August that he would retire from the Senate this year. This aroused immediate speculation that he might try for the White House in 1988.

According to close friends of the senator, he has responded affirmatively and without equivocation more than once when asked if he planned to run.

Even without Reagan's hands-off decision, Laxalt's entry into the nomination race will do serious damage both to Bush and to Kemp, who has been touted as the true keeper of the conservative flame — a Reaganite before Reagan. Laxalt could well rob Kemp of this mantle.

As for Bush, his stock in trade has been his almost slavish devotion to the programs of a president whose favorable rating remains overwhelming. Asked once if he might strike out on a more independent course and actually differ with Reagan, Bush replied: "I'm too far gone for that; I'm too pregnant."

Bush's loyalty has even won him the grudging support of hard-core conservatives who considered him too "moderate." But they were mainly accepting him because he so obviously had the president's support, or seemed to have it.

Now Laxalt's entry into the race, coupled with Reagan's non-intervention policy, has released Bush's reluctant conservative supporters from their misery. Reagan's non-endorsement of Bush will be tantamount to an endorsement of Laxalt in their eyes.

Has Reagan's coyness soured relations with his vice president? Not according to those who are close to them both.

"Knowing Bush as well as I do," one source told us, "I would doubt if the guy would ever break down (over this). You see, Bush is not the type. If anything, Bush tells jokes. He's happy. He's upbeat with the president most of the time. When they get serious, they're serious. I can't see George Bush ever breaking down and crying over it."

ARMS AND THE NEW BOY: Brazil is making inroads into the world arms market, which has been dominated by the superpowers (and Israel) for years. State Department sources say the Brazilians have made a reputation for manufacturing cheap but rugged weapons for Third World countries — including some customers courted by American arms merchants.

Saudi Arabia is buying Brazilian, as is Iraq; they supply Brazil with oil in return. The State Department is unhappy about rumors that Brazil also is selling weapons to another oil producer: Libya. Some sources believe this trade is quite heavy.

MINI-EDITORIAL: One man's expose is another's disinformation scheme. It was reported recently that, back in 1981, the new Reagan administration's warlike rhetoric convinced the old men in the Kremlin that the United States was about to launch an attack. Only when President Reagan softened his language did the Soviet leaders breathe easier.

The source of this hair-raising information was a Soviet defector. Within days, analysts garnered by a conservative newspaper denounced the expose as a clever Soviet disinformation plant, intended to encourage detente and soften us. This, we guess, is why August is called the "dog days."

Guest columnist

D.C. creates interesting specialists

LUFKIN (AP) — It's amazing what you can learn by visiting our nation's capital as I did recently and having the opportunity to meet and converse with experts in almost any field of endeavor.

For instance: heretofore, I wouldn't have had the least notion how you would go about shipping a frozen dog from Washington to Texas.

But it just so happens that an old friend of mine who now makes his home in Washington has become the leading authority on exactly that subject.

As is so often the case it started in a small way, cats being smaller than dogs.

There he was at the office one morning when the phone rang. He hardly got to say hello before his girlfriend was screaming, "She's dead! She's dead!"

He responded as any rational man would. He started screaming back, "Who's dead?! Your grandmother? Your mother?!"

"No, no!" she sobbed. "Pussywillow!"

Right away he calmed down. He didn't actually know Pussywillow all that well. I mean, they were friends but not close.

So what do you do with a dead cat? I've read there are no less than a 101 possibilities. But this fellow, conservative that he is, suggested a rather traditional procedure: burying it.

His girlfriend readily agreed, at least as to what they should do. Where they should do it was something else — indeed, somewhere else.

She, being the Texas woman that she was, insisted that the only proper burial for Pussywillow, being the Texas cat that she was, would be in the Lone Star State. It fell his lot to get the deceased back home to the family plot.

No problem for my friend. He wrapped her up nice and neat, packaged her in a shoebox, arranged for relatives to meet the plane in Dallas and carted it down to air express office.

And when the shipping clerk asked for a description of the contents, he suggested, "Why don't we just say it's personal effects."

Whereupon the shipping clerk inquired as to exactly what kind of personal effects.

"Believe me, you don't want to know," my friend said.

"I have to know," the shipping clerk insisted. "It's my job to know."

"OK, it's a dead cat," my friend said.

The shipping clerk paused a moment and then nodded. "Why don't we just say it's personal effects," he said.

After that, all went well and the dead cat went to Texas where to day it soundly sleeps in its native soil.

But that wasn't the end of the story. Next time around, it was a horse of a different color — actually, a brown dog. And wouldn't you know, a Texas dog at that.

To further complicate matters, it had died at the vet's while my friend was out of town. In order to keep the dog in a semi-acceptable condition, the vet did the only thing he could: he froze it solid.

"No shoebox this time," my friend told me. "Frozen, that dog weighed no less than 128 pounds."

What he did was build a large crate that would hold the carcass and enough dry ice to last from Washington to Dallas, and made the special arrangements necessary for an airplane ride for a frozen dead dog. (I won't bore you with all those details. Besides, if I told you then everybody would know and my friend would no longer be the only expert in this particular field of endeavor.)

Anyway, that's the end of the story at least for now. But there is yet one other pet which most definitely is a horse of a different color — to be precise, a sorrel mare.

"Truth to tell," my friend said, shaking his head. "I find myself worrying more about its health than I do mine."

(OK, I know what you're probably wondering. What did he tell the shipping clerk the second time around? I hate to admit it but I forgot to ask. If I had to guess, though, I'd say puppies.)

Shula, Ryan go at each other

By The Associated Press
Buddy Ryan says Don Shula can't count on his advantage of his status as one of the NFL's most powerful coaches. Shula says Ryan talks too much.

It may have been a preseason game, but Saturday night's 20-15 Dolphins victory over the Eagles certainly sparked strong words from both sides.

Ryan, who was hired as head coach in Philadelphia after masterminding the Chicago Bears' '46 defense, was upset with what he considered a clear violation of the rules by Shula and his Miami team.

"The rules in the National Football League are that you can huddle 11 guys," Ryan said. "He huddled 15. This is crazy what they let him get away with just because he's on the rules committee."

Shula and Pittsburgh's Chuck Noll are the only coaches on that committee.

In other late games Saturday, St. Louis beat Chicago 14-7 in a game marred by a fight; the Los Angeles Rams took San Diego 20-17 in overtime; Cleveland downed Atlanta 27-21; the New York Giants defeated the New York Jets 20-16; Indianapolis slipped past Detroit 20-15; Buffalo beat Kansas City 13-6; Houston clipped New Orleans 24-13; and Denver defeated San Francisco 14-9.

The exhibition season concludes next week.

Dolphins 20, Eagles 15

Asked how many times Shula flouted the rules, Ryan claimed "about 18." But Shula said he could think of only two instances in which the Dolphins had late substitutions which might have confused Philadelphia.

"I didn't know we were doing anything different than we've been doing in the past or anybody else has been doing," Shula said. "We're a team that uses substitutes on almost every play, and when you put substitutes into the ball game, the people already in the huddle don't know they're out until the play is called."

"There is a provision (in the rules) that if the referee thinks you're lingering or deliberately stay too long, he can warn you and then penalize you. We weren't

Pohl escapes with golf title

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Dan Pohl was the first to acknowledge that he won the World Series of Golf with an escape act.

"I had a little bit of Houdini in me," Pohl said Sunday after he turned a scrambling, erratic 1-over-par 71 into a one-stroke victory, his second of the season.

Pohl hit only four fairways and seven greens on the revamped Firestone Country Club course, constantly coming out of the woods and weeds, the trees and traps and trouble.

But he was never headed down the stretch as former World Series champion Lanny Wadkins couldn't get the putts to fall and Donnie Hammond disappeared on a string of five bogeys over the last seven holes.

"I don't know if anybody knew if they wanted to win the golf tournament," Pohl said.

"I was never comfortable out there. I was moving the ball around in my stance. I'd hit it left. I'd do something else, and I'd hit it right."

"But it was very rewarding to get it up and down when I had to, to make the shots I had to make when I had to make them."

It was rewarding to the extent of $126,000, the winner's share of the total purse of $700,000, and a 10-year exemption into any PGA Tour event.

"Very rewarding," said Pohl, who was making his first appearance in this elite event and scored his second career victory with a 3-under-par 277 total.

The biggest check of his career pushed Pohl's earnings for the season to $440,563, more than double his best previous season.

"I wasn't thinking about the money. I really wasn't," he said. "A few years ago, when I was struggling, yeah, sure, I'd have been thinking about it."

"But this time I wasn't. It's been a successful season and I was just thinking about winning, about competing, about playing the shots I had to play."

He won it with a scrambling par form a bunker on the 13th, dropping a 15-foot putt, while both Wadkins and Hammond — the only men with any real chance of overtaking him — both made bogey.

That gave Pohl a three-shot lead. His various escapes, from a bunker on the 15th, from the woods and the gallery and the rough behind the green on the 16th, kept him there.

Wadkins, with a 2-over-par 72, eventually finished second at 278, closing to within one only when Pohl made a meaningless bogey on the 18th.

South African Bobby Cole came on with a solid 70 that lifted him to third and made him the only other man to break par. He finished one under at 279. John Mahaffey was next at 71-280.

Hammond's 74 sent him back into a tie for fifth at 281. Also at that figure were Australian Rodger Davis, Andy Bean and Tim Simpson.

Masters champion Jack Nicklaus hopes for a sixth World Series title disappeared on a string of four consecutive bogeys — three of them on 3-putts — on the front.

Australian Greg Norman, the British Open champion and the man who dominated golf for most of the summer, shot 75-286, tied for 20th and ended his American season with a record $653,829 in winnings.

Dan Pohl blasts from the sand to within a foot of the hole on the 15th green at Firestone Country Club, on his way to winning the 25th World Series of Golf.

Netters gear up for U.S. Open play

Lendl downs 'Mac' in Hamlet finals

JERICHO, N.Y. (AP) — Ivan Lendl says his latest victory over John McEnroe has no particular significance to the outcome of the U.S. Open tennis championships starting this week.

"It is no indication of what will happen in the Open," Lendl, who replaced McEnroe as the world's No. 1 player, said after beating him 6-2, 6-4 Sunday in the $150,000 Norstar Hamlet Challenge Cup invitational. "McEnroe can come out and start playing very well on Tuesday and it's possible we can meet again in the Open quarterfinals."

McEnroe said he isn't playing well enough yet to win the Open.

"Putting my priorities first is more important," McEnroe said. "I don't think at this stage I can win the Open. I think Lendl, who has earned his No. 1 spot, or Becker will win."

Lendl overcame strong, gusty winds to easily overwhelm McEnroe, who earlier this month ended a seven-month layoff.

"I told myself not to get upset and I worked on it with my coach, Tony Roche, in the morning," Lendl said. "Tony is a left-hander like McEnroe and I practiced service returns."

McEnroe, who started the match with two double faults and never recovered, said, "The wind affected my game. I can't hit serves through it, but I know I have to face all kinds of conditions and accept them."

"I had a negative start and it took me awhile to get going. It gave him more confidence.

"I used to pride myself on quick starts. If I'd had one it would have been a different match. I couldn't get my serve in. It was difficult to place the ball and I couldn't keep him off balance. You can't get away with a slow start against the No. 1 player in the world."

Both players are scheduled to start their play in the Open on Tuesday. McEnroe will meet Paul Annacone of Bridgehampton, N.Y., who he beat in the Hamlet, 6-3, 6-2, and Lendl faces Glenn Layendecker.

Lendl broke McEnroe's serve three times in the first set, winning the last four games while losing only five points.

They each overcame wind problems and misses to hold service until 4-4 in the second set although a frustrated McEnroe slammed his racket to the hard court three times and once place-kicked it over the baseline. He also got called for three foot faults and committed six double faults.

Then in the ninth game of the second set, Lendl hit three outstanding returns of service and broke McEnroe at love.

Lendl then went up 40-0 in the 10th game, setting up three match points. McEnroe had two respites as Lendl hit into the net twice. But McEnroe then hit an overhead from the baseline that sailed out to end the match.

The tournament title was Lendl's eighth in 1986 and he has a 53-4 match record along with earnings of $707,675, including the $35,000 first prize here.

Wilander tops Connors for ATP title

MASON, Ohio (AP) — It wasn't Mats Wilander's serve or his slicing backhand which contributed most to his victory in the ATP Championship. He said the key to winning the tournament came from golfing.

The 22-year-old Swede said he played five rounds of golf this week. "It's very important for me to enjoy the outside life as well as the court. Golf helps me to relax," he said.

Wilander was relaxed enough Sunday at the Jack Nicklaus Sports Center to defeat Jimmy Connors 6-4, 6-1, and take home a $48,000 prize.

Wilander, ranked No. 2 in the world, is the only player to win the Association of Tennis Professionals title more than once. After winning back-to-back titles in 1983 and 1984, Wilander lost to Boris Becker in the finals of last year's tournament.

Connors credited Wilander's victory to solid play. "He played well today," Connors, 33, said. "He served well. He's got good legs. He gets to a lot of balls."

Unforced errors were Connors' downfall. He made 30 such mistakes, with several coming on easy drop shots. Wilander committed six unforced errors.

Connors approached the net 20 times in the first set and won 18 of those points. However, he became less aggressive in the second set, approaching the net six times and winning three points. Wilander owned the final set, breaking Connors' serve three times.

It took 1 hour and 21 minutes for Wilander to defeat the sixth-ranked Connors, who has not won a title in more than two years.

Both players held serve through the first three games of the first set. Wilander broke Connors' serve in the fourth game. Connors had a chance to break Wilander in the fifth, when he was ahead by two game points, but let Wilander even the score on unforced errors. Wilander fired two aces to finish the game.

Each player held serve until the ninth game of the first set. Wilander led 5-3, but Connors tied the game after approaching the net on Wilander's next serve. Connors brought the set back on serve by coming to the net on the next two points for winners.

Wilander broke back in the next game to win the set.

Wilander took the first three games of the second set, breaking Connors once. Connors won just one point in those three games.

Wilander broke Connors again in the fourth game to go up, 4-0.

Connors broke Wilander in the fifth game on a line call which was overruled in his favor by the umpire. Connors complained to the umpire about line calls throughout the set, at one point asking that a line judge be removed.

Wilander broke Connors for the third time in the second set to go up 5-1, then fired two aces in his next service game to win the match.

Connors was the only non-Swede to reach the semifinals of the $375,000 tournament. Mikael Pernfors, Stefan Edberg and Wilander rounded out the final four.

Wilander said his domination of the Swedes doesn't end at the boundaries of the tennis court.

"I started playing golf before them," he said. "So still beat them."

Giants break Mets winning streak

By The Associated Press
Mike Krukow used to beat the New York Mets alot, which wasn't so extraordinary, but he still can do it, which is.

Krukow, 13-7, beat New York for the third time this season without a loss, throwing a four-hitter Sunday as San Francisco cruised to a 10-1 victory and ended the Mets' six-game winning streak.

Krukow, 16-6 versus the Mets lifetime, has apparently not been bothered by New York's resurgence in recent years. The right-hander pitched his ninth complete game of the season, striking out five batters and walking only one.

"Pitching against the Mets is no different," Krukow said. "It feels good to beat anybody, so there's nothing special about beating the Mets."

Krukow preferred to talk about Candy Maldonado, who drove in five runs Sunday with a homer, double and a single.

"Candy is absolutely intimidating," he said. "He's a money hitter. I'm sure glad to have him on my team. The big things today were his three-run homer and our scoring 10 runs."

The Giants, who won for the second time in eight games, scored three times in the bottom of the first against Rick Aguilera, 6-6, on Maldonado's 12th home run of the season.

Rob Thompson singled with two outs in the fifth, stole second, and scored on Maldonado's single for a 4-1 lead. Maldonado hit a run-scoring double in a four-run seventh.

Phillies 6, Padres 5
Milt Thompson hit a two-run single in the ninth inning, scoring Steve Jeltz and Ron Roenicke, finishing a rally for the visitors from a 5-0 deficit.

Kent Tekulve, 7-3, pitched two innings for the victory and Steve Bedrosian recorded his 18th save.

Astros 5, Cardinals 1
Jim Pankovits tied a career best with four hits and Dickie Thon had two singles and drove in two runs as Houston snapped a three-game losing streak.

Jim Deshaies, 9-3, allowed four hits and four walks over five innings for the visitors and Aurelio Lopez gave up three hits over four innings for his fifth save to go with a 3-1 record and 2.79 earned run average in 30 appearances for Houston.

The Cardinals became the first team since the 1915 Detroit Tigers to steal 200 bases for a fifth straight year. Sunday's crowd of 33,667 put St. Louis' attendance over the two-million mark for the fifth straight year — 2,013,419.

Reds 7, Cubs 1
Cincinnati scored six runs in the top of the eighth inning on six singles, two of them by Eric Davis, Barry Larkin's tie-breaking double and a walk. Ron Davis, 0-2, gave up four of the runs.

Pirates 4, Braves 3
Pittsburgh won its fourth straight as Joe Orsulak went 4-for-4 and Bob Walk scattered six hits over seven innings. The Pirates used two errors by Omar Moreno to score two runs.

Pittsburgh cut the Braves' lead to 2-1 in the bottom of the fifth when Moreno let Rafael Belliard's single get under his glove for a two-base error, scoring Junior Ortiz. With the score 2-2 in the sixth, Ortiz hit a single to right that skipped past Moreno allowing Jim Morrison to score.

Dodgers 3, Expos 2
Dave Anderson's 10th-inning double, his second of the day, scored Mike Scioscia, who had singled, from second base.

Anderson, who had been on the disabled list, was making his first start in more than two months.

Brian Holton, 1-0, pitched one-third of an inning to get the victory for the home team. Loser Tim Burke, 8-6, entered the game in the 10th in relief of Andy McGaffigan.

Rangers make sweep of Chisox

By The Associated Press
The Texas Rangers' ability to manhandle the Chicago White Sox is keeping them in the race for the American League West pennant with just over a month left in the season.

The much-maligned Texas pitching staff held the White Sox to a total of six runs in sweeping a three-game weekend series. Charlie Hough and Mitch Williams combined on a four-hit, 3-2 victory Sunday night that improved the Rangers' record against the White Sox this season to 9-0.

"I sure can't explain why we've done so well against them," Rangers Manager Bobby Valentine said after the Rangers maintained a three-game deficit behind first-allowed 36 runs. "I told you our guys were too good to stay in that kind of a streak. Now it appears a lot of the problems in our pitching staff are solving themselves."

The Chicago-Texas game was delayed 90 minutes after one inning. When play resumed, the White Sox quickly took a 2-0 lead.

Hough hit Ozzie Guillen with a pitch and when third baseman Steve Buechele threw Jose Cruz's grounder away, the Sox had runners on second and third with one out. Mike Karkovice then drove the runners home with a single to right.

But the Rangers tied it in their half of the second against Joe Cowley, who faced four batters in the inning and failed to retire any of them.

Larry Parrish led off with his 20th home run of the season and after Don Slaught walked and Buechele singled, Toby Harrah tied the game and chased Cowley with a single.

Reliever Dave Schmidt, 1-5, took over for Cowley and held the Rangers scoreless until the fifth. Pete Incaviglia walked, took second on Parrish's infield hit and scored the game-winner on Don Slaught's single.

Angels 4, Orioles 3
Kirk McCaskill allowed five hits in 8 2-3 innings and California took advantage of Baltimore mistakes for two runs.

McCaskill, 14-7, who struck out eight batters and walked five, needed ninth-inning relief help from Donnie Moore, who got the last out for his 16th save after giving up an RBI single to John Shelby.

Indians 5, Red Sox 2
Phil Niekro, recovering from a sore elbow, held Boston to five hits for seven innings and Joe Carter and Julio Franco each hit two-run homers for Cleveland.

A's 11, Yankees 4
Aifredo Griffin tripled with the bases loaded and Mickey Tettleton finished a five-RBI game with a three-run homer as Oakland scored four runs in both the eighth and ninth innings to beat New York.

Mariners 3, Tigers 1
Detroit also failed to make up ground on the Red Sox as Seattle got a home run from Alvin Davis and a strong pitching performance from Mark Langston.

Langston, 11-10, struck out eight and allowed seven hits in seven innings. He left in the eighth after being hit in the left shoulder by a line drive off the bat of Larry Herndon. Langston, who also was hit in the shin earlier in the game, beat the Yankees in his previous start while striking out 14.

Blue Jays 7, Twins 5
Ernie Whitt broke a 4-4 tie in the 10th for Toronto with a run-scoring single and Garth Iorg added needed insurance with a two-run single later in the inning.

The Blue Jays took a 4-3 lead into the ninth, but Roy Smalley sent Minnesota into extra innings with a two-out RBI single off Tom Henke, 8-3.

Brewers 3, Royals 2
Paul Molitor and Robin Yount doubled on consecutive pitches from Dan Quisenberry in the 11th inning, giving Milwaukee a victory over Kansas City.

Quisenberry, 1-5, also allowed the tying run in the eighth by allowing a walk and an RBI groundout by Jim Gantner.

Mark Clear, 4-4, gained the victory with one inning of hitless relief after starter Teddy Higuera allowed seven hits in 10 innings and struck out a career-high 13.

George Brett drove in both Kansas City runs with a double and a sacrifice fly. Young singled home the first Milwaukee run in the fifth.

Hough, 11-8, went 6 2-3 innings and allowed both Chicago runs — only one of them earned — on four hits, with three walks and eight strikeouts. Williams earned his fifth save with 2 1-3 innings of perfect relief.

warned or penalized."

Trailing 15-10, Miami took its first lead on Lorenzo Hampton's 19-yard scoring run with 8:22 left in the third quarter. That finished an 80-yard drive led by backup quarterback Don Strock, who played the second half in relief of Dan Marino.

Marino completed 10 of 17 passes for 123 yards and one touchdown.

Cardinals 14, Bears 7
Except for the fighting, all of the action was packed into the first half. The Cardinals went ahead when wide receiver Roy Green took a lateral from quarterback Neil Lomax and hit Big Spring native J.T. Smith with a 31-yard touchdown pass in the first period. Only 30 seconds later, Chicago's Mike Tomczak threw a 23-yard touchdown pass to Willie Gault.

Lomax' tie-breaking nine-yard touchdown pass to Ottis Anderson with 24 seconds left in the half was the winning score.

The brawl began with 4:40 remaining in the third quarter. Keith Van Horne of the Bears, who was ejected, claimed he saw teammate Keith Ortego get kicked.

Jim Laughlin outfought San Diego's Kellen Winslow for a pass 20 seconds into overtime and returned the interception to the Chargers' 10. Immediately, the Rams went for the field goal and Mike Lansford hit from 27 yards.

Bills 13, Chiefs 6

The Bills won a preseason game for the first time since Aug. 11, 1984, snapping an eight-game slide in which they managed only one tie. Cornerback Ron Pitts intercepted a pass by Todd Blackledge and returned it 76 yards for a touchdown just before the end of the first half to give the Bills the lead for good.

Oilers 24, Saints 13
Houston showed some offensive and defensive consistency for once, while New Orleans' passing game was abysmal. The Saints completed only five of 18 passes.

Meanwhile, Mike Rozier broke a 68-yard touchdown run and quarterback Warren Moon completed 16 of 21 passes for 177 yards, including a five-yard touchdown pass to Willie Drewrey.

Broncos 14, 49ers 9

Three field goals by Ray Wersching gave San Francisco a 9-7 lead, but third-string quarterback Steve Stankavage engineered an 87-yard march, helped by four 49er penalties. Steve Sewell surged in from the 1 for the clinching score with 42 seconds left.

Stankavage, who has been cut and re-signed six times by Denver since 1984, also led the Broncos to their first touchdown in the third quarter. After a San Francisco fumble, Stankavage passed 24 yards to Steve Watson, then hit running back Gerald Willhite on a screen pass that covered 23 yards for the score.

Orioles star wants to be traded

WASHINGTON (AP) — First baseman Eddie Murray, who has more runs batted in over the past seven years than any other major leaguer, has asked the Baltimore Orioles to trade him, according to a published report.

Murray made his request at a meeting with Orioles General Manager Hank Peters Friday, The Washington Post reported in Monday's edition. Sources told the Post the announcement came as a shock to management.

Both Peters and Murray refused comment, but neither would deny that Murray had asked to be traded.

"There'll be no public statements on anything regarding Eddie," Peters told the Post. "He's still a member of the Baltimore Orioles."

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said he was unaware of Murray's request.

The team's response to the request remains unclear, the newspaper reported. Sources close to the team told the Post Murray definitely won't be traded before season's end if then.

A source high in the front office told the newspaper Murray's five-year, $12.7 million contract, which begins next season, makes him almost impossible to trade.

Newspaper sources close to Murray have said he is upset with the way his medical problems — including an injured ankle — have been handled this season.

"He heard some things like, 'How's your vacation?' a player told the Post. 'You don't know how much that burns him up, and he believed it was coming from management,'" the player said.

This season, the 30-year-old Murray was placed on the disabled list for the first time in his 10-year career. He had pulled a hamstring, then reinjured it while testing the leg's strength on a Cybex machine.

When he told the club he was ready to get back on the field, he was instructed to wait an additional 48 hours.

Murray, who before this season became the Orioles' first-ever captain, also has been booed at least twice at Memorial Stadium this season. According to his friends on the team, he's also upset by comments callers to nighty sports talk shows in Baltimore have made about whether he should be traded. "I think he just feels he has to play somewhere else for fans here to appreciate how good he was," a Baltimore teammate said.

Sources said the team has been unhappy with his continued refusal to speak to reporters. And, comments from Orioles owner Edward Bennett Williams, who told reporters Wednesday he thought Murray was having a bad year and that he intends to speak with him about the need for an offseason conditioning program, have made the situation worse, the newspaper reported.

This season, although he is batting .303, Murray's extra-base hits have dropped off. He has 14 doubles and 12 homers in 98 games, with one home run in his last 27 games and six extra base hits in his last 26 games.

Several Orioles officials privately said Murray's statistics are not up to his own standards, and say his injuries are to blame.

EDDIE MURRAY
...unhappy in Baltimore

Murray, in his 10th season, entered 1985 with a .298 career average and 258 homers.

Notre Dame hoopster stable after accident

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) — David Rivers, the leading scorer on the Notre Dame basketball team the past two years, was reported alert and in very stable condition after undergoing surgery at Elkhart General Hospital following an automobile accident.

"He's doing very well, is alert and able to talk," Gladys Brill, a nursing supervisor at the northern Indiana hospital, said late Sunday night.

Rivers, a 6-foot guard who was the leading scorer as a freshman and sophomore, received a severe cut to the abdomen early Sunday morning after the van in which he was riding with former Irish player Ken Barlow ran off a county road and overturned, authorities said.

Rivers, 21, of Jersey City, N.J., was thrown through the windshield of a 1979 Chevrolet van driven by Barlow shortly after 1 a.m. Sunday, according to William Nowatzke, a dispatcher for the Elkhart County Sheriff's Department.

Rivers was taken to the hospital's intensive care after his surgery, the hospital said.

Barlow, a 6-10 forward who graduated from Notre Dame in May, was treated for minor cuts at the hospital and released, a nurse said.

Barlow, a former high school star in Indianapolis was a first-round NBA draft choice of the Los Angeles Lakers and was then traded to the Atlanta Hawks.

He told police he swerved to avoid an oncoming car as the two athletes were returning from the campus, about 15 miles northwest of where the accident occurred.

The accident was still under investigation and results of tests for alcohol on both men were not immediately known, Nowatzke said. Rivers was expected to remain in the hospital for 10 days to two weeks, according to John E. Heisler, associate sports information director for Notre Dame.

"Basically it was a pretty clean cut, about a foot long right across the midsection from going through the windshield," Heisler said. "The doctors said he was pretty lucky it didn't hit any major organs."

"In terms of playing again, it's hard to tell," Heisler said. "He's not going to be shooting any jump shots for awhile, that's for sure."

Registration at Notre Dame began today and classes were scheduled to start on Tuesday, Heisler said, adding that Rivers would not be able to return to school for at least three weeks.

Both men were working for an Elkhart County caterer during the summer and were rooming together at a house south of Elkhart, Heisler said, adding they were returning home when the accident happened.

They had been on campus Saturday when Barlow helped Rivers move his things back into a dormitory and the two played pickup basketball and visited friends, according to Heisler.

The accident occurred when the van, headed south on a two-lane county road about 10 miles south of Elkhart, went off the right side and traveled 126 feet before going back onto the road, according to Nowatzke, quoting a police report of the crash.

The van then crossed the centerline of the road and went airborne, slamming into an embankment and rolling several times before stopping 89 feet from the road, the report said.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"If I'd known about all these hills, I would have brought my skateboard."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, AUGUST 26, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to be very careful how you handle and attend to financial or other practical matters and interests since delays and judgment can cause mistakes.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Before you make investments study them well. An advisor is not on the right track, so be careful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't be forceful with others to gain your own way. Try to be only with proven associates socially.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Keep your frustrations to yourself or others could resent your airing them. Be kind to your mate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You feel that a friend is working against your interests. A more above-board attitude could get results.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Try not to irk one who can help you. Take no risks whose credit matters are concerned. Creativity is high.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are eager to make changes and get into new activities, but this is not the right day for such.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Try not to argue with one in business because you feel you are being cheated since you may be the one in error.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be tactful with one who is as stubborn as you about some matter. Later you compromise for good results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be careful in handling any work you have to do and avoid damage. The evening can be very pleasant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't be forceful with your friends in order to go out together to have a good time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try to have more harmony at home and remove the cause of friction. Be more considerate of others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be most careful in communications of any sort. If not, a misunderstanding could ensue and prove costly.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to work hard and long to gain whatever the wishes may be, but will think that others will do as much for him, or her. Teach early to depend pretty much on own efforts. Give every advantage in education and teach to counter the materialistic.
