Flooding yields much cleaning

One killed as homes damaged

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

A Big Spring woman was drowned Saturday night when flood water swept her pickup off the road, and residents near Big Spring Draw were busy cleaning mud, water and damaged carpet and furniture from their houses this morning.

Mary Gutierrez, 43, address unknown, died when she was swept away by the strong current in the 2000 block of Birdwell Lane Saturday night, according to police reports.

A man and child, believed to be her husband and child, who also were in the pickup, were saved when they grabbed a tree branch, but Gutierrez was unable to hold on.

Rescue attempts were impossible because of the strong water force and the possibility of the dam breaking, the report said.

Gutierrez was found about 300 yards east of the road at approximately 7:40 a.m. Sunday after a search by hundreds of law enforcement officials and volunteers was organized earlier that day. She was pronounced dead at approximately 8 a.m. by Justice of the Peace China Long.

Also, Comanche Lake dam breached Saturday night, sending torrents of water through the area. Local law enforcement officials evacuated some areas near the draw.

Disaster aid unlikely in city's flood

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Government disaster funds are unlikely and city officials said at a news conference this morning that the city lacks sufficient money to repair all the structural damage left in the wake of Saturday night's storm.

Meanwhile, the Red Cross has established a relief shelter at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 1005 Goliad St., to aid victims of the deluge.

Public Works Director Tom Decell said engineers will be in town Tuesday to examine Comanche Lake Dam, which was breached during Saturday's torrent, spilling massive amounts of water into Big Spring Draw.

Decell said the earthen dam, built in 1914 and later deeded to the city, may have to be rebuilt to new government standards. However, nothing definite will be determined until Comanche Lake is drained and the dam inspected, he said.

Should the dam need reconstructing, the city most likely will bear the brunt of the cost, he said, since it belongs to the Big Spring.

The job of draining the lake should be made easier as two-thirds of it emptied into Big Spring Draw after the 7-foot breach opened Saturday.

Decell added that surface damage was done to Birdwell Lane and major structural damage was done to Goliad Street, south of Farm Road 700. Parts of Goliad will have limited access for some time to come, Decell said.

City Manager Mack Wofford said the city does not have funds budgeted for the extensive repair work necessary.

"All the estimates are not in, but it appears we do not, (have money for the repairs)," he said. "It appears that we have no dollars dedicated to that sort of thing."

Wofford said it was premature to discuss the city's financial options until all engineering estimates are in.

Some citizens reported water gushing into their homes Saturday night from city sewage lines, and Wofford and Mayor Cotton Mize said they did not believe the city is Water continued to pour from the break in Comanche Lake dam (left photo) Sunday afternoon after heavy rains Saturday evening caused the breach. The high water flooded Highway 87 for several hours and uprooted the guardrail (above) on the east side of the road. Big Spring Public Works Director Tom Decell said at a press conference this morning that the lake probably will have to be drained in order to build a new dam. He said engineers will be examining the dam on Tuesday.

Multitude of activities end summer

By The Associated Press

The lid was put on the year's final summer bash today after a weekend filled with sun, surf and state fairs as Americans celebrated Labor Day with crab races, a sober picnic and a boomerang competition.

Unseasonably cool weather across the East on Sunday held down beach attendance. But on the West Coast, a beach riot broke out when police went to the rescue of six women whose bathing suit tops were torn off by unruly youths. Police said at least 100 rampaging teen-agers set fire to five police vehicles and a lifeguard Jeep.

More than 400 people in Albany, N.Y., attended a free Sunday picnic. Everyone was invited, especially welfare recipients and others "who cannot afford a cookout," said organizer Roland Bennett.

"They can't have a picnic, they have to go out and buy school clothes," he said. "I don't want to see them sit back and have no picnic at all."

Police mounted special efforts to reduce traffic fatalities during the holiday weekend, but 270 people had lost their lives on the nation's roads by midnight Sunday. In California, 12 of the first 14 people killed on the highway weren't wearing seatbelts, the Highway Patrol said.

In Palenville, N.Y., about a dozen boomerang throwers, many wearing T-shirts reading "Many Happy Returns," competed in the last U.S. Boomerang Association Tournament of the season.

Several hundred people turned out in Milwaukee for Soberfest, a three-day festival of dances, lectures and concerts for people who want to have a good time without having a drink.

"We wanted to have something to show folks that alcoholics aren't sitting in a corner waiting to die," said Lou L., executive director of the Milwaukee Alcoholics Anonymous central office. He did not give his last name, in keeping with AA traditions of anonymity.

Chilly weather kept people away from the many East Coast beaches. Baltimore on Sunday had its fourth consecutive day of record low temperatures, with a low of 49, and records also were tied or broken at Atlanta, 55; Macon, Ga., 59; Mansfield, Ohio, 46; Monroe, La., 60; Pensacola, Fla., 64; and Shreveport, La., 60.

"It's very, very quiet," said Linda Byers of the Beach Control in Seaside Heights, N.J., where the beach crowd numbered only 802 people.

Maryland's mountainous Garrett County had its earliest frost in four years, damaging corn that was nearing maturity, said extension agent James Simms.

In Huntington Beach, Calif., the weather was fine as the Op Pro Surfing Championships attracted about 100,000 people.

The surfing tournament at Huntington Beach Pier 35 miles southeast of Los Angeles drew an estimated 100,000 people Sunday.

But a riot began behind bleachers set up for the event when police tried to rescue six young women whose bathing suit tops were torn off by unruly youths, officials said.

Revelers hurled rocks and bottles at the officers, then a swelling crowd chased them into lifeguard headquarters, a spokesman said. Police said they had the riot under control three hours after it began. Two officers suffered minor injuries.

On Saturday, an estimated 600,000 people crowded Southern California beaches and were greeted by waves up to 8 feet.

Flooding

According to figures from the American Red Cross, 15 single-family homes and one mobile home sustained major damage, and 49 houses sustained minor damage, the majority around Monmouth and Colby Avenues and Baylor Boulevard.

Damage to private property was estimated at $75,000 to $100,000. Cameo Homes, Highland Pontiac and the Spring City Do-It Center also suffered an unknown amount of damage.

The Red Cross provided help to 145 people Sunday, mainly in the form of meals. No injuries were reported.

Several auto accidents were reported in heavy rains Saturday night, but the only injury reported was a minor injury to a 12-year-old girl who refused medical treatment.

The lake at Comanche Trail Park lost about two-thirds of its water, said public works director Tom Decell.

He said Goliad Street and Birdwell Lane suffered significant damage.

Sheriff A.N. Standard said the terrain in Big Spring is not designed to handle torrential rains. Such rains cause great amounts of runoff from the high places, which travels into the populated areas and "creates problems," he said.

Cleta Britton of 2300 Marshall Drive said she got about six inches of water in her house, but the water line on the door was near 18 inches.

Her carpet is ruined, she said, although she doesn't believe her furniture is damaged. And the insurance will not pay because they say the damage was by flood, she said.

She said she believes the city of Big Spring ought to pay for the damage.

"We left just before it hit" at about 8:30 p.m. Saturday, she said. She spent the night with relatives.

She said she is angry because Assistant City Manager Hal Boyd and police Lt. Jerry Edwards told her that if it was all right to go home, the dam wasn't broken.

But when she got back home, the street was blocked and "the whole area down here was full of water."

"One neighbor just threw everything away. They said their house was just floating," she said.

But some houses on her street had no water inside at all.

"We can't figure out why," she said. "They may be blocked by other houses."

Britton said she had lived there more than 20 years, and never had any water damage to her house. Water has run over the spillway in the past, but no damage was sustained, she said.

Mrs. John Kennemur of 1306 Monmouth Ave. said she had about a foot of water in her house. Monmouth is further southwest than Marshall Drive.

"We have to replace everything we have," she said. She added that several neighbors were effected much worse than she.

Mrs. Lowell Jones of 1310 Monmouth Ave. said that "we were pretty fortunate" that the water was only baseboard-deep inside her house. She lost her carpet.

"Our house is pretty tight, or it would have been" worse, she said. She said pieces of lumber were floating all over, she believes from the nearby Spring City Do-It Center.

A neighbor's boat floated down the street, a car was turned over by the floods and a pickup was turned around nearby, she said.

Jones said water got into a car in her driveway, but "it's a matter of drying it out. It smells kind of bad," she added.

She said she has lived there five years, and although the streets have been flooded before, this was the only time she had damage to her house.

Mary Hallman of 1304 Monmouth Ave. said she and a next-door neighbor, Kenneth Yates of 1302 Monmouth Ave., were the only ones on her street that didn't get water in their houses.

So far this year, Big Spring has received 19.66 inches of rain, significantly higher than the normal-to-date of 12.82 inches. Last year at this time, 15.79 inches had been recorded.

Red Thomas of 107 E. 13th St. measured 0.7 inches of rain Sunday night after receiving 5.3 inches Saturday night.

Tommy Hart of 1750 Purdue reported 0.7 inches Sunday night after his report of 5.67 inches Saturday night.

Jeremie Ebersole (above right), 11, of Big Spring and Ryan Graham, 6, of Odessa find that a bulldozer, no matter how small, comes in handy for removing mud off the sidewalk in front of 1307 Monmouth Ave., after the mud was washed there by flood waters that hit the neighborhood Saturday evening. The southbound lane of Goliad Street, below, leading to Highland South was closed after water undermined the road foundation, with officials fearing the surface could collapse. Only residents of the Highland Hills area were being allowed to use the road.

Police beat

Woman reports stolen cycle

A $1,200 Suzuki four-wheel motorcycle was stolen from Rebecca Dorton, 2508 Carol Drive, between Saturday and Sunday nights.

A stereo with AM/FM radio, cassette and 8-track tape players, a turntable and four speakers, value unknown, was stolen from Jimmie Nelson of Ponder. The theft occurred at 1205½ Harding St. between Thursday and Saturday.

Rosalinda Moreno of Stanton told police thieves stole her handbag, containing a wallet, credit cards and car keys, from her 1981 Datsun 200SX at the 300 block of Jones Street Sunday afternoon.

Someone stole a $90 boys bike from Armalinda Ramirez, 2405 Alabama St., Sunday afternoon.

Emilio Munoz Soto of Midland, no birth date listed, was arrested on suspicion of theft Sunday night at 1101 Lamesa Highway.

Juan Puentes, 1805 Hamilton Ave., reported the theft of a tire and rim, valued at $175 each, off a 1980 Pontiac sedan at his home.

J.D. Burkes, 50, 2309 18th St., was arrested on suspicion of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon early Sunday morning at liable for damages. "This is considered an act of God," Mize said.

August G. Koenning, a DPS regional officer of emergency management, said the city may be able to secure funds from the Small Business Administration or the Texas Department of Community Affairs.

The TDCA, he said, "seems to have a lot of disaster money." Sweetwater received a great deal of TDCA money when a tornado devastated the town earlier this year, he said.

But Koenning said federal disaster funds probably won't be made available because the city's damage was not great enough.

David Clark, Regional Field Service Manager for the American Red Cross, estimated flood damage to residential property at $75,000 to $100,000.

The Red Cross relief headquarters at St. Mary's Episcopal Church will help feed those whose homes were inundated with flood water. The Red Cross also will assist homeowners in making insurance claims, Clark said.

Mize said the Red Cross will appreciate food donations for flood victims. The Red Cross can be contacted at 267-8201.

Clark said 145 people were aided by the Red Cross Sunday.

He said 15 homes sustained major damage and 49 more had minor damage. A mobile home also was moved off its base on Country Club Road, he said.

"We've had a lot of setbacks and hard times," Mize said. "But this is one of the times that we can as a community all pull together, and all of us can help share in this loss."

Mize said it is important for flood victims to talk to their insurance companies before they start hauling away damaged items.

Weather

State

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast for most of Texas as the Labor Day weekend drew to a close.

Showers and thunderstorms, some of them heavy, were reported over much of the state at dawn.

Flash flood watches were issued for the Concho Valley in West Texas and in southwestern portions of North Texas because heavy rainfall was expected in areas where the ground was saturated from earlier rainfall.

The heavy showers and thunderstorms at dawn were located over the Permian Basin in West Texas and southwestern portions of North Texas, mainly between Corsicana and Waco.

Fog in Northwest Texas, accompanied by drizzle in some areas, reduced visibility to less than a mile, prompting the National Weather Service to issue travelers advisories for the areas.

A weak frontal system over southern sections of North Texas that extended westward into the Trans-Pecos was triggering the shower and thunderstorm activity.

It was to be mostly cloudy statewide through tonight with scattered showers and thunderstorms continuing into the evening.

Lows tonight will be mostly in the 60s and 70s. Highs Tuesday will be mostly in the 80s and 90s.

Early morning temperatures were in the 60s in West Texas and the 70s over most of the rest of the state with a few readings above 80 degrees in South Texas. Extremes ranged from 61 at Amarillo to 83 at Corpus Christi.

Legislators facing possible second call

AUSTIN (AP) — A special session to solve Texas' financial dilemma is almost over, but senators and representatives aren't turning in their hotel room keys.

They expect to be here a while longer. The session began Aug. 6, but if it ends in deadlock at midnight Thursday, Gov. Mark White has said he will immediately call a second 30-day session.

As a result, most eyes were on the governor's office this Labor Day as the 181 legislators returned from a recess that gave them Saturday and Sunday with hometown voters.

Three current senators and 37 representatives, including Speaker Gib Lewis, a Democrat from Fort Worth, are opposed in the Nov. 4 general election. They have been carrying on re-election campaigns in addition to struggling with state finances in the special session.

When House and Senate members began their weekend recess on Friday, there had been no decisive action taken on 1987 spending cuts and no action at all on tax increases asked by White and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

A 10-member conference committee trying to settle a $322 million difference between Senate and House bills on budget cuts also took Saturday and Sunday off.

Lewis said Friday he is still opposed to new taxes, which must originate in the House.

Lewis also said he saw no chance for White's proposal of $1.4 billion in 1987 budget cuts and a temporary sales tax increase of 1.125 cents.

"It would be very difficult to do at this point," Lewis said, adding that, to his knowledge, White did not even have a House member to sponsor his plan.

Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which would handle any House tax bill, said Friday he sees no need of a tax bill until the 1987 regular legislative session, after the November elections.

Schlueter predicted a tax bill could get two-thirds support of legislators in 1987, enough for immediate effect, if the economy does not improve and the state budget is still in trouble.

Teachers go on strike

Bargainers who represent Indiana teachers marked Labor Day by going out on strike today, while teachers in Michigan and Indiana vote tonight on whether to walk off the job and extend summer vacation for 65,000 students.

Walkouts by 580 teachers, meanwhile, continued today in school districts serving 9,800 students in Pennsylvania and Michigan.

The 39-member team that bargains for the 38,000 members of the Indiana State Teachers Association struck the teachers' union today after negotiations failed to produce a contract, said Steve Stewart, a spokesman for the striking Professional Staff Organization.

Rioters besiege cops

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif. — Police going to the rescue of several young women whose bathing suit tops had been torn off by unruly youths Sunday were overpowered by the rioters, who torched six emergency vehicles.

About 30 officers, besieged by a crowd estimated at between 2,000 and 5,000, took refuge in a lifeguard station until as many as 220 reinforcements showed up and dispersed the crowd, said Huntington Beach police Sgt. Ron Jenkins.

"The officers saw some people forcibly taking off their tops and went to rescue them — then the riot started," Jenkins said. He said five or six young women had their tops yanked off by young men they didn't know.

US protests arrest

NEW YORK — The Reagan administration is planning to retaliate against the Soviet Union if it does not promptly free an American reporter accused by the Kremlin of espionage, according to a report published today.

Nicholas Daniloff, Moscow correspondent for U.S. News & World Report was in a Moscow prison today. He was arrested Saturday immediately after a Soviet acquaintance gave him a closed package that turned out to contain maps marked top secret, said his wife, Ruth.

Leaks irk White House

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — The White House, angry at news leaks about its arms control proposals, says administration officials who reveal secret negotiating strategy are doing a disservice to President Reagan, the American people "and the cause of world peace."

A harshly worded statement aimed at officials within the government was issued Sunday after The New York Times reported the administration was preparing to soften arms-control demands to narrow differences with the Soviet Union.

Mid-air plane crash kills at least 70

By JOHN ANTCAK
Associated Press Writer

CERRITOS, Calif. (AP) — Emergency crews picked through burned-out houses today, searching for bodies and people missing after an Aeromexico jetliner and a small plane collided and smashed into a suburban neighborhood, killing at least 70 people.

Sunday's crash killed 58 passengers and six crew members on the Aeromexico DC-9, three people in a single-engine Piper PA-28 and at least three people on the ground in Cerritos, about 20 miles southeast of Los Angeles International Airport.

Searchers expected to find more dead on the ground, Los Angeles County Sheriff's Deputy Roxana Schuchman said today. She didn't know the victims' names or ages.

County Fire Department spokesman Rob Smith said at least seven neighborhood residents were missing and may have been killed. The search for bodies continued in a six-by-eight-block section of an upper-middle-class neighborhood where streets, homes and trees were littered with steel, flesh, charred cars, luggage and ashes.

"It's going to be extremely difficult to determine if there were any deaths in the homes," Los Angeles County sheriff's spokesman Dave Tellez said early today. "The problem is that it's a three-day weekend and some of these people might have been away.... There are still body parts in some of the homes; we just don't know if they are residents, visitors or people from the aircraft."

The fiery rain of wreckage set 20 homes ablaze, destroying nine of them. Firefighters went through the homes room by room, looking for bodies and making sure no survivors were trapped inside.

About 25 to 30 families displaced by the crash were sent by the Red Cross to hotels or went to stay with relatives.

"We are staying with these people... we have counselors with them... seeing them through the psychological trauma," said Red Cross spokesman Ralph Wright.

Witnesses said they saw the smaller plane crash into the tail section of the jetliner. Though there was no exact nationality breakdown available, the passengers were described by Aeromexico officials as a mixture of Mexican nationals and U.S. tourists, including at least one infant and seven children.

It was the worst air disaster in the history of the Los Angeles airport and the worst U.S. air crash since 137 people were killed Aug. 2, 1985, when a Delta Airlines L-1011 TriStar bound from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to Los Angeles crashed on landing at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

It was also the second major accident of a Mexican commercial airliner this year.

Non-aligned hold talks

HARARE, Zimbabwe — Leaders of the world's non-aligned nations, including Fidel Castro of Cuba and Daniel Ortega of Nicaragua, today begin a week-long summit aimed at increasing the clout of a resentful Third World.

Zimbabwe Prime Minister Robert Mugabe, leader of Africa's newest nation, is to assume the chairmanship of the 101-member non-aligned movement from Rajiv Gandhi, the prime minister of India, shortly after the group's triennial summit opens.

Sculptor dies at 88

LONDON — Henry Moore, widely acclaimed as the greatest sculptor of his age for monumental carvings exploring the mysterious link between human forms and landscape, has died at the age of 88.

His works in stone, bronze and wood often depicted human figures pierced with rounded holes and small heads surmounting massive torsos and limbs. They stand on display in some 90 cities and in most prominent modern art galleries.

Moore's attorney Charles Crowe said the English sculptor died peacefully early Sunday at his home in the village of Much Hadham, 28 miles north of London, where he lived and worked for nearly 40 years.

Iran claims offensive

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Iran today said its forces launched a ground offensive against Iraq in the northern sector of the battlefield and claimed hundreds of Iraqis had been killed, wounded or captured.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, said the offensive in the mountainous Haj Omran region of the 733-mile battlefield between the Persian Gulf neighbors began Sunday night.

The agency did not indicate the scale of the push or whether this was the so-called "final offensive." Iranian leaders have been saying was imminent.

Gadhafi blasts Reagan

TRIPOLI, Libya — Moammar Gadhafi, marking today's 17th anniversary of his rise to power, branded the Reagan administration a "new Nazi empire" and threatened to form an international army to fight America worldwide.

In a three-hour speech to about 5,000 people that lasted until early this morning, the Libyan leader also praised the Soviet Union, saying it stood by its responsibilities toward Libya.

Wearing khaki combat fatigues and gesturing with a metal pointer while speaking in Tripoli's central Green Square, the 44-year-old Gadhafi said he was prepared to die as a "martyr in a sacrificial cause."

Affirmative action cases before high court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employers are anticipating important affirmative action rulings from the Supreme Court in the next session, including one that presents the court with its first look at alleged sex discrimination against men.

Despite three major affirmative action decisions announced before the court concluded its 1985-86 term in July, there still is uncertainty among employers over affirmative action in the work place, and the justices will explore the issue anew in two cases this fall.

In a case from California, the court is considering an appeal by a man who claims he was passed over for promotion by the Santa Clara County Transportation Agency in favor of a less-qualified woman.

The transportation agency started an affirmative action plan in 1978 for minorities, women and the handicapped. One goal was to promote women to jobs previously held almost exclusively by men.

The Reagan administration said the Santa Clara plan is unlawful — even under the Supreme Court's latest rulings — because the county agency has not admitted past discrimination against women. Justice Department lawyers also argued that men deprived of promotions under the plan are bearing the full sacrificial brunt in the "pursuit of gender balance."

In another case from Alabama, the court is examining a ruling that the state police must promote one black trooper for each white promoted until blacks comprise 25 percent of upper-rank officers.

CHINA

The vastness of China challenges the claim of any traveler that he has seen it all. This ancient country, emerging from a generation and a half of seclusion, is now offering the personal thrill of discovery to anyone who visits. The residues of China's long history are exhilarating. There are the heavy walls, graceful roofs and pagodas of the Forbidden City in Beijing. There are the mist-enshrouded limestone cliffs of Guilin. There is the majesty of the imperial army of clay soldiers parading through the 2,200 year-old tomb excavations of Xi'an. Shanghai and Canton cluster with commerce as the first cities to open to the west. After its beginnings in the fourth century B.C., there is still the Great Wall. No other destination offers so much.

China, as well as numerous other countries of interest, provide a travel destination for the vacationer as well as the business person. If you travel for business reasons, time is money. At BIG SPRING TRAVEL, 606 Scurry, we provide the attention to details that save you time and money as well as alleviating burdensome worries and concerns so that your journey can be filled with relaxation and successful business transactions. ### Austin awaits buses with seat belts

AUSTIN — Of 515 school buses being used by the Austin Independent School District to transport 22,000 children, the only ones with seat belts are those used to transport special education students, but that will change soon.

A district official said all 50 of the new school buses the Austin school district plans to order this month, for use in the 1987-88 school year, will be equipped with seat belts.

The buses will be delivered in nine to 14 months, acting transportation director Dan Roberts told the Austin American-Statesman.

The new buses also will have high-backed seats designed to reduce head and facial injuries and to prevent children from being thrown over seats in case of accidents.

The new buses will cost about $33,000 apiece — $1,000 to $1,100 more than buses without belts, Roberts said.

Officials blame lack of safety seats

HOUSTON — The number of children killed in Texas traffic accidents in the first six months of 1986 jumped by 59 percent over the same period of 1985, and state highway officials blame parents who fail to properly restrain their children in safety seats.

Department of Public Safety records show that 35 children under the age of 5 died as a result of automobile accidents in Texas the first six months of the year.

The fact that 23 of the 35 dead children were not restrained and evidence that some of the others were improperly restrained "could be considered an indictment of some people's failure to comply with child seat legislation," department spokesman Mike Cox said.

In the 12 Texas cases this year where the children were listed as "restrained," only five were strapped into child safety seats, Cox said. The other seven restrained children, including two younger than age 2, were using only the automobile's seat belts, Cox said.

Whipped cream gave him away

SAN ANTONIO — Whipped cream on his lips gave the suspect away, but a charge of stealing a piece of strawberry shortcake was thrown out of court after a prosecutor decided against making a federal case of it.

Federal marshals armed with a warrant arrested James Wash, 44, Friday at the Audie Murphy Memorial Veterans Administration Hospital and brought him before U.S. Magistrate Jamie Boyd.

Wash, according to records, was charged with "willful removal of government property without authorization: To wit, the strawberry shortcake."

The U.S. attorney's office quickly decided to recommend that Boyd dismiss the case, which he did.

"We thought there were other ways to address the problems he presented. After all, there was no need to make a federal case out of it," Assistant U.S. Attorney Mike Hardy said.

"We can serve a letter that bans him from the dining hall, or something," Hardy said.

The saga began when a short man in a purple vest and black beret was seen taking the short cake from a cart in the dining hall June 6.

Security officers said they later spotted a man matching the description near a second-floor elevator. "He was wearing a purple vest and had what appeared to be whipped cream on his lips," the report stated.

The man was taken back to the dining hall where witnesses identified him as the one who purloined the cake.

Neighbor held in stabbing deaths

DALLAS — A neighbor has been jailed in the stabbing deaths of an elderly Dallas couple whose bodies were found in their home, police say.

The 22-year-old man had lived with his parents near the victim's home for several years, officers said. He was being held for investigation of capital murder, according to homicide investigator Rick Silva.

Officers found the bodies of James and Lillian Boots, both in their 70s, early Saturday after an alarm was triggered in their home.

Police have not been able to establish a motive, but Silva said relatives were taking an inventory of the couple's possessions. Several rooms had been ransacked, he said.

Officers speculated that the assailant had knocked at the door and was admitted without a struggle.

Friends and relatives said the couple feared burglars and had installed a security system after two burglary attempts in recent months. The alarm apparently was not triggered until after the killer was inside the home, Silva said.

She weds knight in shining armor

EL PASO — Once upon a time, Kathleen Elmore dreamed of marrying a knight in shining armor.

Little did she know the dream would come true.

At noon Saturday in Album Park, Kathleen, "wearing a medieval-style gown she'd embroidered with forget-me-nots, was married to Brian Donnelly, attired in chain mail he'd forged himself.

The vows were traditional. The trappings were storybook.

Attending were about 75 friends, relatives and costumed members of Amtgard and the Society of Creative Anachronisms, organizations whose members adopt medieval garbs and customs.

"Lords, ladies, gentles all," proclaimed Len Nelson, a Viking herald, "pray attend to this wedding of two people who dared to dream."

Kathleen arrived in a litter and marched down the aisle to a drum cadence. After the ceremony, guests feasted on roast meat, pastries and a castle cake, which Brian cut with a sword.

The bride and groom are both 1979 graduates of Eastwood High School. Their courtship began when they were anthropology majors at the University of Texas at El Paso.

Mal Smith, left, and Jay Daigle show their new long-life crawfish bait that they invented. Both employees at the Du Pont Sabine River Works, they said the bait last 5-7 days in traps.

Texas pair develops long-life crawfish bait

By JOHN BARNETT
Beaumont Enterprise
ORANGE, Texas (AP) — Crawfish, the small, lobster-like crustacean that is tempting the tastebuds of many Americans, is becoming part of a new business for Du Pont.

The company, with the help of two enterprising workers at the Du Pont Sabine River Works, is manufacturing and selling bait that attracts the little critters into traps.

But while other companies also manufacture and sell bait, Du Pont's formula creates a new long-life bait that does not deteriorate in water and lasts 5-7 days in the trap.

The start of a million-dollar business frequently is accomplished with a single idea. Jay Daigle's idea, combined with Mal Smith's laboratory experience, launched the new business for the company in record setting time.

"The secret of this was the idea that we could use a polymer to accomplish what we needed," says Smith. "It was the recognition that the industry wanted this and there was a need for it. Once the idea was generated, we already had the technology within Du Pont to create it."

Daigle, then a part-time lab analyst, went to Smith with the idea that a polymer could act as an adhesive and hold the bait together without disintegrating in the water. A polymer is a chemical product that is used for a variety of consumer products, such as plastic food wraps, eyeglass frames and even the covering of golf balls.

Since Du Pont already produced a polymer that was not water soluble, the development consisted of creating a formula of the usual bait materials — fish meal, fish byproducts and fish oil — that could be held together by the polymer until the crawfish consumed it.

"There was a need for it," says Daigle, a crawfish farmer for five years. "I have my own crawfish pond and was tired of working with the messy fish all the time. I needed something that would last longer."

Working on their own time at first, and later with Du Pont's stamp of approval, the two men developed the bait in about two years, compared with the standard product development time of about 10 years.

Seven die in plane crash over ranch

CIUDAD VICTORIA, Mexico (AP) — A prominent South Texas rancher and his son might have survived a plane crash if they had allowed rescuers to take them to a Mexican hospital instead of insisting they be driven more than 200 miles to a hospital in the United States, officials said.

Of seven people aboard a twin-engine plane that crashed while trying to land on an airstrip on a Mexican ranch Friday afternoon, only three were still alive when rescuers ran up to the craft, officials said.

But Rene Martinez Sr., 48, of San Diego, Texas; his son, Rene Martinez Jr., 26, of San Diego; and veterinarian David Bartlett of Tom Bean, Texas, "said they wanted to go to Brownsville. They didn't want to go to a hospital in Mexico," said Brownsville police Lt. Charles Hoskins.

A witness drove the three to Brownsville, but they died en route, Hoskins said.

The three men were pronounced dead by a justice of the peace in Brownsville and autopsies were ordered, Hoskins said.

Wanna-be fathers start wearing boxer shorts

DEAR ABBY: I just read an article in the Los Angeles Times stating that men who wear tight underwear greatly decrease their chances for fathering children. It rang a bell with me. I'm sure you wrote a whole column about this about five years ago. Please run it again. It was great.

H.S. IN L.A.

DEAR H.S.: I did. And here it is:

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter from "Childless Couple," who were considering artificial insemination. This may help:

For four years my wife and I tried without success to have a child. We were both tested. She was fine, but the doctor said that because my sperm count was so low, my chances for fathering a child were slim. That's when we considered artificial insemination.

I saw a fertility specialist. He asked me what kind of shorts I wore. I told him I had worn jockey shorts for years. He suggested that I switch to boxer shorts, the loose fitting kind, instead of the snugly fitting jockey type. When he explained why, I thought he was crazy, but I took his suggestion, and four months later my wife conceived! Our baby is due in March. I'm signing my real name, but please don't use it. Just sign me...

FUTURE FATHER

Dear Abby

DEAR FUTURE: When I read your letter, I laughed and threw it into my wastebasket.

But I quit laughing (and quickly retrieved your letter) after reading several more bearing the same incredible message!

Read on for a short story that may help some for whom pregnancy is inconceivable:

DEAR ABBY: I just hung up from a long-distance call that I must share with you. When I answered my phone, the fellow on the other end said, "Dick, I'm calling to thank you. My wife is pregnant!"

I realized instantly what he meant. Early in February, while I was interviewing him for a story, I had asked routinely if he had any children.

"No," he replied, "but my wife and I have been trying for a long time." So I quipped, "You have got to quit wearing jockey shorts."

That broke him up, of course, and after admitting that he did wear jockey shorts, he asked what his shorts had to do with it.

I said he had obviously missed the Dear Abby column in The Cleveland Plain Dealer in which you stated that jockey shorts reduced a man's sperm count.

I promised to send him a clip of your column, and he said that while it sounded a bit crazy, he and his wife were desperate enough to try almost anything.

In his call today, he said that when his wife learned she was pregnant, they counted back and found that she conceived a month after he switched to boxer shorts! He also said if they have a baby girl, they may name her "Abby."

DICK ELLERS, REPORTER

DEAR ABBY: I recently read an article in a medical journal stating that if men continue to wear jockey shorts and tight jeans, the need for artificial insemination will increase drastically!

It stated: "The male anatomy was created so that the testicles draw close to the body in cold weather and drop in hot weather. It is a natural thermostat at work. Interference with this causes a serious drop in sperm." The article indicated that American men have increasingly lower sperm counts, and the problem is compounded by the wearing of tight clothing.

For population control throughout the world, wouldn't it be a great idea to export tight jeans?

B. McG. IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR ABBY: May I comment on your men's underwear debate? We, in our brief-type Fruit-of-the-Looms remain fruitless, while our brothers in their boxer shorts remain "heir-conditioned."

ROBERT W. IN WALTERBORO, S.C.

DEAR ABBY: The fact that too tight jeans may cause male sterility is nothing new. I wrote this little jingle back in 1970:

If your jeans are too tight in the crotch

Your parental potential is bad.

Better let out your seams just a notch

If you hope to be somebody's dad!

Fear of having AIDS grips young wife

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am desperate for help. Please answer. My question concerns the AIDS screening test. How long from possible exposure does it take the test to show a positive result?

Here's the reason for my anxiety. I am a woman, 28, married, and the mother of one child. About a year ago I made an awful mistake of submitting to the advances of another man. It was not premeditated and I regretted it, even at the time. I have yet to forgive myself.

We want to have another baby, so you can see where my fear of AIDS fits in. To allay fears, I had the antibody test done. It was 10 months after my stupid mistake. It was negative. I had it done again months later. Still negative. I had lymphocyte testing done. That turned out normal. I have no symptoms.

The "other man" was one I had known for years, not in any of the "high risk" groups. He has female friends. I refuse to become pregnant until I resolve this. Do you think I should believe the test results? I can hardly bear the pain I'm in. — Mrs. A.N.

Those are (at your request) some brand new initials for you. Now I want you to adopt a brand new attitude.

The time from exposure to AIDS virus to the appearance of the telltale antibodies in the blood is not known with absolute certainty. Antibodies may not appear for as long as nine months. You are well past that time. Most authorities would not think I was climbing out on any limb to tell you you are perfectly free of AIDS infection. The tests, perhaps not 100 percent certain (no test is), are good ones, and reliable.

You did not have relations with an at-risk man, so you were not courting exposure. But I can't let my answer stand there.

AIDS is a fatal illness, so your concern over exposure to an at-risk man would have been understandable. In these circumstances, I would have to call your fears irrational. I hope there are not a great many others like you. Hysteria over AIDS is not acceptable. Your chances of having caught AIDS is as close to nil as I can imagine. Yet because no one can with scientific precision tell you there is no chance at all, fear will grip your heart. I only ask you to consider all the other unlikely catastrophes we all face in ordinary life each day, and place your fears in that perspective.

Get this specter out of your mind. You are suffering from a "complication" of AIDS — unreasoned fear of it.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a woman of 70. I have arthritis and am now taking calcium supplements to hopefully ward off getting osteoporosis. My mother has it. My question is, is it harmful to take the calcium with my arthritis? — S.D.F.

No, it's not harmful. You may have heard that calcium goes into inflamed joints in an attempt by the body to protect the area. But that has nothing to do with the calcium you eat or take as supplement. The reason for the calcium in the joint is the inflammation there. It would get there whether you ate it or didn't. And taking calcium won't cause any further joint calcification if it's there already.

FOR A.I. — I cannot say. It is often difficult to separate symptoms of indigestion (heartburn) from those of angina pectoris, the heart circulation deficit problem. Because of this, you do not assume either as a cause of the pain without having an examination to determine the state of your coronary arteries. That gives you the answer.

Opinion

Other papers give opinions

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the state:

Prison statistics become tragedies

The statistics about prison overcrowding and early paroles never seem to excite people. What does cause an uproar is when those statistics boil down to one person — one person out on parole who is charged with committing a crime. For years now, prison officials and district attorneys have been complaining about this situation. Even in the years when the state budget was flush, the Texas Department of Corrections did not get the funds it sought. In the next legislative session, money will be tighter than ever.

It's a matter of priorities — where the tax dollar is spent. And it's a matter of statistics — until a woman is attacked and charges are filed against a parolee.

—The Houston Chronicle

Legislators risk state education

It's much nicer to live in Fantasyland rather than accept the bitter medicine required to cure an illness.

House Speaker Gib Lewis and GOP gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements have chosen to live in Fantasyland, insisting that Texas can solve its deficit crisis without a tax increase.

Texas cannot eliminate $3.5 billion from its budget without destroying essential state services, such as education, road repair and social services.

The Legislature should revamp proposed cuts to higher education.

Texas' future rests on the shoulders of its youth. If Texas uses education money to solve this deficit crisis, it will begin destroying the state's future.

—The Beaumont Enterprise

Horse racing may be new industry

Both the House and Senate leadership are championing the bit. Gov. Mark White has only to trigger the starting gate, and chances are better than ever that Texas will soon have pari-mutuel horse and dog racing.

The Senate Economic Development Committee has approved a racing bill for floor action; Senate passage is all but assured. The House leadership is poised to do the same — if Gov. White broadens the special session call to include the subject. What racing would mean for the state is impressive.

What Texas would be doing is creating a new industry — carrying out the diversification Gov. White and just about everybody else agrees is necessary to stabilize the economy. Increased tourism statewide, higher sales tax revenues, stimulated economies — it's a growth industry Texas shouldn't pass up.

—The Corpus Christi Caller-Times

Second session's value doubted

Gov. Mark White should keep the heat on the Legislature to complete its work on the state's budgetary shortfall during the last eight days of the special session, which ends at midnight on Sept. 4. He has warned he will call another 30-day session if the lawmakers fail to respond to his agenda, but we hope he will not have to do that.

Frankly, we question at this point whether another special session would be productive. If the House of Representatives and Senate cannot reach a compromise on a combination of spending cuts and revenue measures during the next eight days, it is doubtful they would be able to do much better in an additional 30-day period, particularly with the Nov. 4 general election just around the corner.

—The Dallas Times Herald

United effort may help air problem

El Paso cannot meet Texas Air Control Board standards. Among other pollutant problems, it has the highest level of carbon monoxide in Texas. It is spewed into the air by vehicles in both El Paso and Juarez. El Paso's contribution should be reduced as a result of anti-pollution device inspections and emission checks of tailpipes, which begin next year.

What can be done about the Juarez contribution is only speculation now. Mexico has no pollution regulations and since Mexico City probably is the most air-polluted city in the world, federal attention to the problem here is limited.

However, the new monitoring station is being provided by Mexico's Department of Urban Development and Ecology and its officials in Mexico City, Chihuahua City and Juarez are meeting with their counterparts in U.S. border cities and states. The Juarez-El Paso Air Quality Task Force has been meeting for two years and is training Juarez environmental workers in methods for testing air samples and vehicle emissions.

With its efforts and improved data, El Paso and Juarez will be better equipped to seek assistance in the state and federal capitals of both countries.

Media uses medical records to disclose truth about man

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — A blizzard of mail has swept into our offices questioning our journalistic ethics. At the heart of the controversy is this question: If an accused public figure seeks sympathy from the public and clemency from the courts by claiming he is suffering from a specific disease, should the press have the right to use his medical records to determine whether he's telling the truth.

That, we confess, is what we did. We reported that an embattled Roy Cohn — who has since died — had AIDS. Quoting from his medical records, we proved that he had lied when he insisted repeatedly that he had "liver cancer," not AIDS.

Most readers conceded, as one put it, that "Roy Cohn is a hateful man and has been guilty of monstrous deeds." But they contended, in the words of a New York City reader, "this is no excuse for getting hold of and publishing data from highly confidential medical records." Was this, as the reader suggests, a media abuse that "threatens the rights of all of us?"

We agree that the media has no business obtaining or publishing confidential medical records of private individuals. But there are times, we think, when the medical ailments of a public figure need to be aired.

Roy Cohn was a superlawyer who spent most of his life in the public spotlight. In the 1950s, when Sen. Joseph McCarthy was rumormongering through government closets in search of communists, Cohn was at his ear, whispering. He went on to become an attorney for the rich, the famous and the notorious, including mob figures.

A pattern of legal misconduct finally caught up with Cohn last October. A New York judicial disciplinary panel recommended he be disbarred for "dishonesty, fraud, deceit and misrepresentation." Court testimony alleged, for example, the Cohn had flown to the hospital bed of a dying multimillionaire and induced him to sign a document naming Cohn as trustee of his estate. According to the testimony, Cohn told this 84-year-old man — who was partly paralyzed, nearly blind, semicomatose and drugged — that the paper had to do with his divorce proceedings.

Cohn denied it all, offering a more benign version of events and blaming his accumulated enemies for hounding him on his sickbed. In a plea for clemency, he presented affidavits from doctors that he had a "life-threatening" disease.

Thus began a spate of stories and interviews with Cohn. As The Washington Post aptly reported last December: "Loathed or lionized, the legendary Roy Cohn is dying a very public death." He vociferously denied his ailment was AIDS and threatened to sue anyone who said so.

It was legally defensible to report "rumors" that Cohn had the dread disease. This is what "60 Minutes," for example, did. We decided to publish the story only if we could obtain incontrovertible proof. After weeks of effort, Dale Van Atta obtained confidential medical records that provided the proof we needed. So we reported that Cohn had engaged in a public fraud; contrary to his denials, he had AIDS.

But there was an even more important issue that troubled us. The National Institutes of Health are required to choose their patients for medical, not political reasons. We frankly were skeptical that Roy Cohn, who had powerful friends in the White House, just happened to be one of the 28 patients who would be admitted to the taxpayer-funded NIH program and be administered a promising experimental drug called azidothymidine.

Discover magazine in its current issue describes the efforts by desperate AIDS victims and their families to beg, borrow or steal this drug. Yet of an estimated 10,500 victims who were dying of AIDS, Cohn just happened to be one of 28 patients who were selected at NIH for this life-prolonging program. Now the Wall Street Journal has charged that the White House intervened to move Cohn ahead of other potential candidates.

Every expose means disgrace for some human being who is typically weak rather than evil. Most of the time we are convinced that the trade-off is necessary to maintain a free society. But there are seasons when it seems a close call. In the case of the late Roy Cohn, we believe the truth needed to be told.

Today

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Sept. 1, the 244th day of 1986. There are 121 days left in the year. This is Labor Day.

Today's highlight in history:

On Sept. 1, 1939, World War II began as Nazi Germany invaded Poland. Great Britain and France declared war against Germany two days later.

On this date:

In 1807, former Vice President Aaron Burr was found innocent of treason.

In 1878, Emma M. Nutt became the first woman telephone operator in the United States, for the Telephone Despatch Co. of Boston.

In 1905, Alberta and Saskatchewan became the eighth and ninth provinces of Canada.

In 1923, the Japanese cities of Tokyo and Yokohama were devastated by an earthquake that claimed some 150,000 lives.

In 1932, New York City Mayor James J. "Gentleman Jimmy" Walker resigned following charges of graft and corruption in his administration.

In 1945, Americans received word of Japan's formal surrender in World War II. (Because of the time difference, it was the morning of Sept. 2 in Tokyo Bay, where the surrender took place.)

In 1972, American Bobby Fischer won the international chess crown in Reykjavik, Iceland, by defeating Soviet player Boris Spassky in their final match.

In 1983, 269 people were killed when a Korean Air Lines Boeing 747 was shot down by a Soviet jet fighter after the airliner entered Soviet airspace.

Ten years ago: Democratic U.S. Rep. Wayne D. Hays of Ohio resigned from Congress in the wake of a scandal in which he admitted having an affair with a secretary, Elizabeth Ray.

Five years ago: Albert Speer, a close associate of Adolf Hitler's who ran the Nazi war machine, died at a London hospital at the age of 76.

One year ago: South Africa froze nearly all foreign loan repayments until the end of the year to give itself time to reschedule its debts.

Today's birthdays: Former Defense Secretary Melvin Laird is 64. Actress Yvonne De Carlo is 62.

People are quick to criticize

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why is it people are so quick to criticize their pastor? We have a fine man as the new pastor of our church, and yet already some of the people are making critical remarks about little things and gossiping about his family. I am afraid it will stir up trouble if it is unchecked. Do you think we ought to alert him to this?

— Mrs. G.H.

DEAR MRS. G.H.: I am afraid there is a lot of truth in the old joke that says most Sunday dinners consist of "roast preacher"! Seriously, the Bible stresses that gossiping of any kind is wrong — but this is especially true when it is directed against a person who is obeying God's call. God's command is clear: "Do not touch my anointed ones; do my prophets no harm" (Psalm 105:15).

Why do some people seem to take delight in criticizing their pastor? There may be many reasons. For example, some people feel superior when they gossip — although in fact they are only proving how small and petty they really are. Others may actually be resisting the Word of God because they do not want to repent and they hope to keep God's Word at a distance so they will not be confronted with its truth.

You should help those who are criticizing your pastor to see that what they are doing is wrong, and to repent. You or one of your church officers should go to them and confront them in love, as well as challenge them to pray for their pastor and do all they can for the good of the church.

'Flat' Connors loses in straight sets

Sixth seeded Jimmy Connors lunges for a volley against Todd Witsken during the U.S. Open tennis match Sunday at the National Tennis Center. Witsken eliminated Connors, beating him in three sets, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5.

NEW YORK (AP) — It wasn't supposed to happen this way.

Jimmy Connors, the highest-rated American tennis player in the world, the sixth seed at the U.S. Open — which he has won five times — at least should have been in the tournament semifinals. He always is.

Not this time, thanks to Todd Witsken, the No. 84 player in the rankings, who knocked Jimbo out of the national championship 6-2, 6-4, 7-5 Sunday. It was the first year since 1974 that Connors did not get to the Open's final four.

"Flat as day-old beer," was how Connors described his performance on a day in which No. 13 Anders Jarryd of Sweden also was eliminated by an unheralded American — Gary Donnelly. "I haven't been flat very often in my career. It was just one of those days."

Today, the feature matches included top-seed Martina Navratilova against No. 11 Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina, followed by Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, the men's No. 1, vs. No. 15 Brad Gilbert.

Connors couldn't explain his lethargy.

"I just didn't have that something extra to lift my game that I needed," said Connors, who hasn't won a tournament in nearly two years. "I couldn't lift myself to win three or four games in a row."

"He didn't do anything today, he was just keeping the ball in play."

Connors stayed off five match points in the final game, but Witsken clinched the match with a superb backhand drop shot and then by forcing Connors to hit long.

Witsken, in his first Open, took advantage of Connors' problems returning serves, usually Connors' strength.

And the Carmel, Ind., native was not intimidated by playing what he called "a legend."

"It takes more than one good tournament to establish yourself and to feel that you belong in the top ranks," said Witsken, a 6-3, 6-0 loser to Connors when they met in Fort Myers, Fla., in March. "I'm getting there and I feel more comfortable. It's just a matter of time."

Witsken, like Donnelly, is in his first Open. They joined five other Americans in the final 16, but only Gilbert is seeded.

Donnelly, of Scottsdale, Ariz., is best known as a doubles player — he teamed with Peter Fleming to make the finals at Wimbledon this year. But he found some confidence in singles on the satellite tour and through his success in doubles.

On Sunday, he eliminated Edberg 6-4, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3, certifying that for the third straight Open a qualifier made the fourth round.

The other remaining Americans are Aaron Krickstein, Dan Goldie, Tim Wilkison and Matt Anger.

Tom Gullikson, at 34, was playing in his final tour event and was the oldest player remaining in the field. He lost to Anger. On match point, his forehand down the line was called good by the linesman but was overruled by the chair umpire, Joyce Johnson of Evansville, Ind.

As Gullikson screamed in horror and raced to the other side of the net to show where the ball landed, Johnson left the chair and walked off the court to a storm of boos from the grandstand crowd.

"It's a terrible way to end my career," Gullikson said. The surviving men's seeds on Sunday were No. 2 Mats Wilander of Sweden, No. 3 Boris Becker of West Germany, No. 7 Joakim Nystrom of Sweden and No. 16 Miloslav Mecir of Czechoslovakia.

Wilander beat Christo van Rensburg of South Africa 5-7, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. Becker defeated Sergio Casal of Spain 7-5, 7-4, 6-2, and Nystrom surged back for a 5-7, 4-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2 win over Eric Jelen of West Germany. Mecir eased past Eddie Edwards of South Africa 6-0, 6-3, 6-3.

Chris Evert Lloyd led a surge of women's seeds. The second-ranked Lloyd, seeking her seventh Open crown, routed Mary Joe Fernandez 6-4, 6-2.

Defending champion Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia, the fourth seed, ripped Elena Reinach of South Africa 6-4, 6-2. Helena Sukova, Mandlikova's countrywoman and the seventh seed, crushed Lisa Bonder 6-2, 6-0; Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany, seeded sixth, defeated Jo Durie of Britain 6-2, 6-3; No. 9 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria ousted Camille Benjamin 7-6, 6-3; No. 12 Zina Garrison had no trouble with Melissa Gurney in a 6-3, 6-2 victory, and No. 14 Catarina Lindqvist of Sweden came back for a 3-6, 6-2, 6-0 triumph over Tine Scheuer-Larsen of Denmark.

Casal had a set point against Becker, who wasn't ready at the outset of their match.

"I thought I was going to win easily and that was a mistake," Becker said. "I came into the match too relaxed."

But he prevailed, helped by encouragement from a fan with whom Becker conversed.

"In the first set, he said he had a big bet on me, and that I should win," Becker said. "At match point, I turned my head and asked him, 'For how much?'"

Royals promote Bo to the big leagues

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bo Jackson, the Heisman Trophy winner who spurned fortune in the NFL and found fame in baseball's minor leagues, is to join the Kansas City Royals today.

Jackson was to be added as major league rosters are allowed to expand to 40, team officials said Sunday.

Jackson, out of Auburn, was offered millions of dollars by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, spent most of the season playing for the Memphis Chicks of the Southern League.

Jackson is one of four successive Heisman Trophy winners who passed up the NFL after college — the others are Herschel Walker, Mike Rozier and Doug Flutie. He is the first to reject football altogether since the Army's Pete Dawkins in the late 1950s.

After a 4-for-45 start, Jackson batted .338 at Memphis, finishing with a .277 average, seven homers and 25 runs batted in.

Jackson has been nursing a pulled hamstring muscle but team physician Dr. Paul Meyer said after an examination Sunday that he was "in good shape."

"He's all right," Meyer said. "We'll see how he feels tomorrow. If he feels like it, he'll play. He'll work out tomorrow and run, and then make a decision."

Doctors examine Davis

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston All-Star first baseman Glen Davis was to be examined here today after suffering a back injury as the first-place Astros traveled to Chicago for a three-game series.

The injury occurred in Houston's 8-2 loss to the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday. Davis' status was listed as day-to-day.

The Astros lead Cincinnati by seven games in the National League West.

Davis, who is second in the league in home runs with 26 and leads the Astros with 80 runs batted in, injured his back in pregame warmups, then aggravated the injury while swinging at a pitch in the fourth inning. The injury was initially diagnosed as a pinched nerve in the lower back.

Veteran first baseman Dan Driessen will join the club Monday in Chicago from the Astros Triple-A farm club in Tucson, Ariz.

Driessen, a 13-year veteran, is hitting .303 with four home runs and 30 RBI for Tucson. Driessen is a .288 lifetime hitter with 151 career major league home runs. Driessen started the year with the Giants but was released in April.

Landry 'relieved and scared' after winless preseason

By BILL BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Tom Landry saw enough of the Dallas Cowboys in their last preseason game to both relieve and scare him.

On the plus side, Landry saw the arrival of USFL superstar Herschel Walker and the Cowboys outgain the undefeated Houston Oilers 381 yards to 227.

On the minus side, however, the Cowboys' coach saw his team lose to Houston 17-14 Saturday night. It was their fifth straight defeat and their first winless preseason since 1962.

Even worse, he saw four lost fumbles, including one at the Houston 9-yard line by quarterback Danny White as Dallas drove for the potential winning touchdown with 1:22 left.

"You are always concerned when you go 0-5," Landry said. "We played better, and when we get set I think we will be a better team. But 0-5 should concern everybody. It concerns me, but I think we will get better."

Walker saw most of his action in the second half, rushing for 40 yards on 10 carries and catching one pass for nine yards. "He showed that when he gets the blocking scheme down, he will be an excellent runner," Landry said.

White, who completed 19 of 29 passes for 305 yards and two touchdowns, was not discouraged by the losing streak.

"We're 0-0, not 0-5," White said, looking ahead to Dallas' regular-season opener against the Giants on Sept. 8. "That's the way everybody feels. And that's the way we are going to play."

White said the crucial fumble was his fault.

"The ball hit squarely in my hand and popped out," he said. "It was just one of those things. It was not a bad snap. Otherwise, I was very, very encouraged by the way we played. But once again, we self-destructed at times."

The Oilers finished 4-0 in exhibition play, their first unbeaten preseason since 1965 and a confidence-builder after years of futility.

"For this team it means more than most teams, because we're young and we need to establish confidence," quarterback Warren

Moon, who completed 11 of 20 passes for 152 yards and a touchdown, said. "One way to do that is to win, especially with a new coach and a new system. You want to make the players believe that it will work."

Bears 31, Bills 17

Chicago controlled the scoreboard, but Bears Coach Mike Ditka was unhappy with the way Buffalo pushed around the defending Super Bowl champions.

The Bills outgained the Bears 440-319 overall and 205-78 on the ground, but a 21-point burst in the second quarter, aided by two touchdowns by Walter Payton and a Buffalo fumble on a kickoff, carried Chicago to victory.

The Bills used $8 million rookie quarterback Jim Kelly for the first time in the preseason and he completed five of nine passes for 60 yards and also scrambled three times for 52 yards.

"He did a good job," Bills Coach Hank Buhlough said of Kelly. "He hasn't played in 14 months and he's been in camp less than two weeks. He can play quarterback."

Buhlough said he wasn't sure how much Kelly, who hasn't played since the summer of 1985 with the USFL's Houston Gamblers, would play in the regular-season opener next Sunday against the New York Jets.

Giants 17, Steelers 3

New York welcomed running back Joe Morris back and he responded with a solid performance against Pittsburgh.

Morris, a holdout until the middle of last week, scored the Giants' first touchdown and finished with 53 yards on 11 carries.

Meanwhile, the New York defense held the Steelers to 80 yards rushing and forced seven turnovers. Phil Simms gave the Giants a 14-0 lead in the third quarter with a 13-yard touchdown pass to Mark Bavaro.

Patriots 16, Patriots 9

New England quarterback Tony Eason's five-yard touchdown pass to Stanley Morgan with 3:03 left broke up a battle of field goals, three by each team.

The touchdown gave the Patriots a 13-9 lead, and Tony Franklin's third field goal, from 39 yards after a fumble by Green Bay quarterback Lynn Dickey, closed out the scoring with 1:25 to go.

The Patriots played cautiously, with 10 players injured before the game and four more hurt against the Packers. New England took only 40 plays to the game, including just three running backs.

"We'll be ready to go next week. I'm not worried," Morgan said. "We just have a few nicks and bruises. We'll be ready to roll next week."

Saints 13, Chiefs 10

Bobby Hebert, dazed by a hard hit moments earlier, hurled a 41-yard touchdown pass to Eric Martin on a fourth-and-18 play with 27 seconds left, giving New Orleans a victory over Kansas City.

"He got hit in the head before that," Saints Coach Jim Mora said of Hebert. "He got hit in the head and was a little woozy there at the end. On the touchdown pass, he was spinning."

Hebert, who relieved starting quarterback Dave Wilson in the second half, was 4-for-7 for 77 yards in the 86-yard drive that resulted in New Orleans' winning touchdown.

The Chiefs had taken a 10-6 lead with 6:06 left on a one-yard touchdown plunge by Jeff Smith.

Kansas City quarterback Bill Kenney was 3-for-3 for 70 yards in that drive, including a 41-yarder to Stephane Paige that set up the touchdown.

Vikings 23, Colts 20

Minnesota's Chuck Nelson, who failed to win a job in a tryout session with Indianapolis in 1984, kicked a 23-yard field goal, his third of the night, to end the game at 2:22 of overtime.

The Vikings dominated in total yardage, outgaining the Colts 513-165, but had to rally from a 20-10 halftime deficit. Indianapolis managed only one first down and 23 yards in the second half behind reserve quarterback Jack Trueman.

"I am most pleased with the comeback," Vikings Coach Jerry Burns said. "I thought we could run the ball. It was in the game plan and it kind of happened that way, especially in the last two drives."

Darrin Nelson led Minnesota rushers with 96 yards on 12 carries, while quarterbacks Tommy Kramer and Wade Wilson combined for 338 net yards passing.

Red Sox win, but streaking Toronto stays close

By JONATHAN VITTI
AP Sports Writer

The Yankees made a run at Boston and fell back; Detroit threatened and fell back. Now it's Toronto's turn.

The Blue Jays won their eighth straight game, defeating the Minnesota Twins 7-5 on a Sunday that also saw the Red Sox defeat Cleveland, 4-3.

"I think Boston is feeling like we were last year when we were three or four games up," said Lloyd Moseby, who hit a grand slam for Toronto. "They have to keep playing ball and say to themselves, 'They have to catch us, we don't have to catch them.'"

"But it's still early and what we have to do is win every game we can and then on October 5th, look to see who's ahead."

In other American League games, California took a 5½-game lead in the West by beating Detroit 5-3, as Texas lost to Chicago, 3-1. Kansas City beat Milwaukee 6-1, Oakland shut out Baltimore 7-0 and Seattle beat New York 6-2 in Sunday's other action.

Red Sox 4, Indians 3

Mel Hall let Don Baylor's fly to right field fall in for a single with two outs in the ninth inning, bringing Wade Boggs home with the winning run.

"They usually play me to pull the ball and I was just hoping it would find a spot," Baylor said after his 13th game-winning RBI of the year.

"He should have had it, but maybe he didn't see it in the sun, I don't know," Cleveland Manager Pat Corrales said.

"We didn't know if he lost it in the sun, or what, we were just happy to see it fall in," said reliever and winning pitcher Calvin Schiraldi.

"I saw the ball, but I thought it was hit harder than it was and I just couldn't catch up with it," Hall said. "The error in the seventh, though, was the whole ball game."

Cleveland held a 3-0 lead through six innings on Julio Franco's second-inning homer, but Boston scored three unearned runs in the seventh, tying the game.

First baseman Pat Tabler's one-out error on Spike Owen's grounder in the seventh opened the door for Boston. Wade Boggs' groundout, otherwise the last out of the inning, scored one run and Marty Barrett and Jim Rice doubled in the tying runs.

Blue Jays 7, Twins 5

Trailing 4-0, Toronto tied the game in the third on Moseby's second career grand slam. Minnesota starter Mark Portugal walked the first three batters, then Minnesota Manager Ray Miller visited the mound.

"I told him 'Just execute good pitches,'" Miller said. "He threw the ball to Moseby and on the next pitch, there goes your four-run lead."

Moseby hit his 20th homer, making 1986 his first 20-homer season.

The Blue Jays took the lead in the fifth when Willie Upshaw and George Bell doubled. Upshaw led off the seventh with his sixth homer of the season, and Tony Fernandez singled in a run in the eighth.

Toronto relievers Luis Aquino,

Oakland A's Bruce Bochte (right) extends his hand to congratulate A's pitcher Joaquin Andujar after he pitched his first American League shutout against the Baltimore Orioles Sunday in Oakland. Andujar allowed five hits in the 7-0 Oakland victory.

1-1, and Mark Eichhorn pitched 7 1-3 innings of four-hit, one-run relief.

Angels 5, Tigers 3
California won its seventh straight, completing its first four-game sweep of Detroit ever. The winning streak is the Angels' longest since May 1983 and left them with their biggest lead of the season, 5½ games over Texas.

With the bases loaded, the score tied and two out in the eighth inning, George Hendrick lined a three-run double beyond the dive of center fielder Chet Lemon.

John Candelaria, Gary Lucas and Donnie Moore, 3-5, combined to five-hit the Tigers. Hendrick's double was only the sixth hit off Walt Terrell, 11-11.

Ruppert Jones, whose last 11 RBI have come on seven home runs, homered leading off the Angels' first inning. It was the 10th time an Angel had led off a game with a home run — the fifth time by Jones, one of seven leadoff batters California has employed this season.

Chicago 3, Texas 1

Richard Dotson, 9-13, limited Texas to four singles in 7 1-3 innings, striking out 10 batters — a career high. The White Sox won only the second of their 13 games with Texas this year.

"We're 2-5 since I've been here," Chicago Manager Jim Fregosi protested.

Carlton Fisk and Tim Lincecum singled in runs in the first, the only inning Texas rookie Mike Loynd, 2-2, pitched.

Royals 6, Brewers 1

Steve Balboni hit a single, double and his first triple since Aug. 28, 1985 and Scott Bankhead, 8-7, pitched six-hit ball for eight innings.

"They wore our pitching out — and with their second-line players, no less," Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger said. "No Brett, no Wilson, and no McRae. Amazing. What did we score, five runs in the entire series? We're lucky to come out of here with one win."

Balboni singled in a run in the third, tripled and scored in the sixth, and doubled home a run in the seventh. Lonnie Smith had four of the Royals' 17 hits.

A's 7, Orioles 0

Joaquin Andujar pitched a five-hitter for his first AL shutout while Jose Canseco and Carney Lansford homered. Andujar, 8-6, allowed only singles, let only two runners to reach second base and walked only one batter.

The Orioles lost five of six games in the weekend series in Oakland. Lansford's three-run homer was his 16th of the season. Canseco's 27th homer of the year, a two-run shot, raised his major league-leading RBI total to 99.

Mariners 6, Yankees 2

Jim Presley and Harold Reynolds drove in two runs apiece and Mike Moore pitched a nine-hitter with 10 strikeouts as Seattle defeated New York.

A throwing error by Reynolds allowed Mike Fischlin to score an unearned run in the third inning, but Reynolds put the Mariners ahead to stay with a two-run double in the fourth off Doug Drabek.

Ken Phelps hit a run-scoring triple and Presley a sacrifice fly in the fifth to extend the lead to 4-1 and Presley drove in another run with a single in the seventh.

Astro's Davis injures back in costly 8-2 loss to Pirates

By JOHN NELSON
AP Baseball Writer

The biggest loss the Houston Astros suffered over the weekend might not have been one of the two blowouts to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

During Sunday's 8-2 defeat at the hands of Pittsburgh, the Astros lost the services of first baseman Glenn Davis, who leads the team in home runs and runs batted in.

Davis hurt his back in pregame warmups and had to leave the game in the fourth inning. He will remain in Houston for X-rays today while the team travels to Chicago.

The weekend was one big problem for the Astros, who gave up 21 runs and 29 hits in two days to the last-place team in the National League East.

Despite the loss, the Astros maintained a seven-game lead over Cincinnati in the NL West, and Pirates Manager Jim Leyland said he thought Houston was capable of winning the division and the league playoffs.

"Anybody who doesn't believe Houston can win it is foolish," Leyland said. "This club will not be an embarrassment to anyone."

In the rest of the National League, it was St. Louis 9, Cincinnati 3; Los Angeles 7, New York 4; San Diego 4, Montreal 1; Philadelphia 4, San Francisco 3; and Atlanta 4, Chicago 3.

Jim Morrison drove in two runs with two hits to lead the Pirates.

After the game, Houston Manager Hal Lanier held a private meeting with his players. Afterward, he refused to discuss what was said. "The meeting was strictly between me and the players," Lanier said.

Leyland, however, did not let Davis' injury color his prediction that Houston would win the West.

"I've got the feeling that no matter what happens, they will win it," Leyland said. "I think they will play above it all, injuries or otherwise."

Billy Hatcher homered for the Astros, extending his hitting streak to 10 games.

"We have to concentrate on the fundamentals, like hitting the cutoff man and taking the extra base," Hatcher said. "We haven't been doing that the last two nights, but I am confident we will wake up."

Cardinals 9, Reds 3

Terry Pendleton had three hits, including a triple, scored three times and had two RBI in St. Louis' biggest run-scoring effort in 38 games. Cincinnati now has lost two in a row after winning six straight in pursuit of Houston.

Andy Van Slyke and Tommy Herr also had two RBI each to help back Bob Forsch, 13-8, who scattered eight hits.

Kal Daniels had a home run, a single and two RBI for the Reds.

Dodgers 7, Mets 4

Fernando Valenzuela beat the Mets for the first time in three decisions this year, scattering nine hits for his league-leading 17th victory and major league-leading 16th complete game. Reggie Williams homered and drove in three runs for the Dodgers, who had lost nine in a row to the Mets after winning the first two games of the season.

The Mets, meanwhile, saw a five-game winning streak end but still lead Philadelphia by 19 games in the NL East.

Valenzuela, 17-9, struck out seven and walked one, evening his career mark against the Mets at 7-7.

Padres 4, Expos 1

Kevin McReynolds and Tony Gwynn drove in two runs each for the Padres. McReynolds had a solo homer, his 20th, and an RBI infield hit. Gwynn drove in both of his runs with a third-inning double.

Right-hander Ed Wojna, called up from the minors Thursday, allowed just four hits over seven innings before needing help from Craig Lefferts and Lance McCullers, who pitched the final 1-3 innings. Wojna retired nine of the first 10 men he faced.

Phillies 4, Giants 3

Juan Samuel hit a one-out homer in the seventh inning to break a 3-3 tie and give the Phillies a three-game sweep of the Giants. It was the fifth straight victory for the Phillies and their 11th in 14 games.

Samuel hit his 14th homer of the year on an 0-2 pitch from Vida Blue as the Phillies came back from a 3-1 fifth-inning deficit. Mike Schmidt also homered for the Phillies, his 29th of the season and No. 487 lifetime.

Braves 4, Cubs 3

Pinch-hitter Ted Simmons hit a 1-2 pitch from reliever Lee Smith into the right-field seats to lead off the bottom of the ninth inning and boost Atlanta over the Chicago Cubs. Simmons was hitting for winning pitcher Jeff Dedmon.

Shawon Dunston hit a three-run homer for the Cubs in the second inning. Dale Murphy hit a solo homer, his 25th, and the Braves tied the score in the sixth on a sacrifice fly by Andres Thomas and an RBI single by Ozzie Virgil.

Houston Astro Billy Hatcher dives back to first base in time to beat the throw from Pittsburgh Pirates pitcher Bob Walk to first baseman Sid Bream in the first inning Sunday afternoon in the Astrodome.

LSU coach captures U.S. Open Amateur

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — It was a victory that could be quite beneficial for Buddy Alexander's golf program at Louisiana State University.

"I hope it will help, but I didn't come here to enhance my golf program at LSU," the coach of the Tigers said Sunday after beating Chris Kite 5 and 3 to capture the 86th U.S. Amateur Championship.

"I was here this week as a competitor much more than as a coach," he said. "I'm just another amateur golfer this week."

The former pro, who had his amateur status reinstated on July 24, had a 2-up advantage during the morning round in which neither competitor played especially well over the 6,981-yard, par-72 Shoal Creek course.

However, both had it going in the scheduled 18-hole afternoon round, with Alexander going to six under when his seven-foot uphill putt fell for a birdie 3 that closed the match on the 15th green.

Kite, 22, the No. 1 player on Wake Forest's national collegiate championship team this year, was two under over those final 15 holes.

"I put myself in a hole and couldn't dig myself out," Kite, no relation to pro golfer Tom Kite, said. "You got to have a winner and you got to have a loser. I gave it my best. He deserved to win."

It was an amazing boost in confidence for Alexander, the player.

He tried to make in on the PGA Tour, but never earned his card.

He never made a PGA Tour cut, but did have three second-place finishes in pro events — twice in the Georgia Open and once in the Florida Open.

"Something like that sort of pales with something like this," Alexander said.

How about his LSU golf team capturing the Southeastern Conference championship last May?

"Certainly this is easily my biggest moment in golf," he said. "Winning the SEC this year as a golf coach was big for me, but this is bigger than that."

He now reaps the spoils of the Amateur crown — a spot in next year's U.S. Open, a possible spot on the U.S. Walker Cup team, an invitation to next year's Masters and a spot in the British Amateur.

American tennis hurting

Connors and McEnroe losses raise questions

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven Americans made it to the final 16 of the U.S. Open this year. None of them named McEnroe or Connors.

In fact, few of the names are recognizable to even avid tennis fans. And No. 15 Brad Gilbert, the only seeded American in the fourth round, isn't exactly a marquee name.

There's even a feud brewing between John McEnroe and Jimmy Connors and the USTA in what has been a distressing year for this nation's top players, a year in which the popularity of the sport in this country is being tested.

What's happening to American tennis? And, is it a major problem for the sport?

Connors is the only American male ranked in the top 10. Seeded sixth for the Open, he was eliminated Sunday by Todd Witsken of Carmel, Ind., the 84th-ranked player in the world, in the third round.

Connors has managed to stay in sight of the top despite a 10-week suspension earlier this year after he quit during a match with Ivan Lendl. But he hasn't won a tournament in almost two years.

McEnroe, a first-round loser to Paul Annacone in the Open, spent more than half the year on the sidelines during a sabbatical. He came back for four tournaments, not winning any and making just one final. Now, he is pondering whether to continue on the circuit after dropping out of the top 20.

In addition, Davis Cup non-playing captain Tom Gorman is feuding with USTA president Randall Gregg about who can and can't represent this nation in the event.

American men's tennis appears to be in a mess. That disturbs several highly ranked players, not just Connors and McEnroe and not just Americans.

"It's essential for the game to have an American right up there," Lendl, the No. 1 men's player in the world from Czechoslovakia, said. "It's like golf, the sport is played outside of America but not on the same level in terms of competition, sponsorship, number of tournaments."

"If some young guy from the U.S. is number three or four, it would be great."

Second-ranked Mats Wilander of Sweden agreed.

"Tennis is run by Americans, mostly," he said. "The Pro Council is mostly Americans and a lot of sponsors are American. And they have so many Grand Prix tournaments in the U.S."

"You can say that France is a very big tennis nation, but there are only three or four Grand Prix tournaments. In the States, there are at least 20."

"I think it really is important that America gets some good players soon. Otherwise, it's going to kill the interest in tennis on the American side."

"That would be very bad because the Americans are very good supporters. They can live on McEnroe and Connors, but I think soon they're going to have to get someone else."

Perhaps sooner than they think.

McEnroe was not a force in the Open for the first time since 1978. He isn't certain when — or if — he'll play on tour again this year. And though he has expressed interest in helping the United States in Davis Cup play, Gregg doesn't want him on the team because of McEnroe's past behavior problems.

Connors, who is not one of Gregg's fans either, can't figure that out.

"I think it's kind of cutting off your nose to spite your face," the 33-year-old, five-time Open champion said. "If the idea is to go in and have the best players play and win the Davis Cup ... the USTA is not right on all hands either."

Three ranked teams, all from Florida, win openers handily

By The Associated Press

It was an auspicious debut for the Florida contingent of the Top 20.

The first Saturday of the 1986 college football season saw only three ranked teams in The Associated Press poll. All of them were from Florida and all won handily.

No. 3 Miami defeated South Carolina 34-14, No. 11 Florida State blanked Toledo 24-0 and No. 13 Florida bombed Georgia Southern 38-14.

"I think we're just going to get better and better each week," said Miami quarterback Vinny Testaverde, who completed 17 of 30 passes for 231 yards and one touchdown. "Our team has the talent to go all the way. If we continue to play this way there's no telling how far we can go."

"We moved the ball when we had to," said Florida quarterback Kerwin Bell, who passed for three touchdowns and ran for another. "When they scored a couple of times near the end, we pulled together and moved down the field. I think that's the essence of a championship team."

"I have to give Toledo a lot of credit," Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden said. "They came down here and we had every advantage. They didn't have a single one."

In other games Saturday, it was Louisiana Tech 22, Tulsa 17; Texas-El Paso 64, Northern Michigan 29; Air Force 24, Hawaii 17; Angelo State 20, New Mexico State 14; and Nevada-Reno 49, Fullerton State 3.

Miami 34, South Carolina 14

Testaverde shared the Miami offensive spotlight with Melvin Bratton, who carried 10 times for 105 yards and scored on runs of 34, 12 and 2 yards, and wide receiver Michael Irvin, who caught six passes for 101 yards.

Defensively, the Hurricanes held South Carolina's new pass-oriented run-and-shoot attack to 82 yards in the first half while Miami pulled ahead 17-0. First-period interceptions by Bennie Blades set up Bratton's first two touchdowns.

Florida State 24, Toledo 0

The Seminoles warmed up for next Saturday's showdown with No. 8 Nebraska by crushing Toledo.

But Bowden was disappointed in his team's six turnovers.

"If they (Nebraska) play like we did tonight we've got a chance," Bowden said. "We made enough mistakes to scare me."

Florida 38, Georgia Southern 14

Bell completed 14 of 23 passes for 160 yards for the Gators, then admitted that they held back some of their offense against the Eagles.

"We probably used only six or seven running plays. We just stayed with the basics," the Florida quarterback said. "We felt like we could manhandle them and we didn't want to show Miami anything flashy."

Bell marched the Gators 67 yards on five plays in the game's opening drive, scoring on a 16-yard scramble just 1:27 into the game.

He passed to Ricky Nattiel for a 28-yard touchdown in the second quarter, connected with Eric Hodges on a nine-yard scoring pass in the fourth quarter and added a one-yarder to Darrel Woulard with 1:36 left in the game.

Winning Form

Chris Evert-Lloyd smashes a backhand to Mary Jo Fernandez during action at the U.S. Open on Sunday. Evert-Lloyd won 6-4, 6-2.

Estrapade races to Budweiser millions

By The Associated Press
"You win one of these races, you become five years younger," said 73-year-old trainer Charlie Whittingham after a 6-year-old mare named Estrapade put some spring into his step with an impressive victory in the Budweiser Arlington-Million at Arlington Park.

Estrapade, ridden by Fernando Toro, led the 14-horse field into the stretch, then simply ran away with first money of $600,000, scoring by 4½ lengths over Divulge, with Penine Walk third.

Allen E. Paulsen's Kentucky-bred winner raced the 1¼ miles on the grass turf in 2:00 4-5 under 122 pounds, and paid a winning mutual of $6.20 for her second win in six starts this year. She raced as part of a four-horse entry because of cross ownership involving four horses.

Meanwhile, Precisionist polished up his Horse of the Year credentials Saturday at Belmont Park by charging past the filly Lady's Secret in the stretch and winning the $332,000 Woodward Stakes by 4¾ lengths. Personal Flag was third, finishing ahead of Lady's Secret's stablemate Roo Art.

Fred W. Hooper's Precisionist, the 1985 sprint champion ridden by Chris McCarron, carried high weight of 126 pounds over 1¼ miles in 1:46, just three-fifths of a second off the track record set by Secretariat under 124 pounds in 1983. He paid $4.40.

In another stakes Sunday at Arlington, Mourjane, $14.20, beat Will Dancer in the $125,000-added Arlington Handicap over 1¼ miles on the grass.

The stars of Arlington's Saturday doubleheader were Smile and the 4-year-old New York-bred filly Queen Alexandra.

Smile, ridden by Jacinto Vasquez, took the lead on the final turn and won the $118,800 Equipoise Mile by five lengths over Taylor's Special. Red Attack finished third. The winner carried 121 pounds over the mile in 1:34 and paid $4.60.

Queen Alexandra, hung on for a half-length win over Mr. T's Tune in the $185,700 Matron for fillies and mares as Bessarabian finished third. Queen Alexandra raced the 1¼ miles in 1:48 2-5 and paid $5.80.
