Lighter side

BIG LAKE, Texas (AP) — Don't be fooled by that oblong patch of blue on area maps, residents say. "Big Lake" is neither big nor a lake.
 "We get calls all the time from Midland people who want to bring their boats down to the lake," says Cindy Joyce, manager of the local chamber of commerce.
 But then they learn that the last time the lake bed — 64 miles south of Big Spring — was filled with enough water to support any fish was in 1977.
 Two signs now greet passing motorists. One reads, "Who pulled the plug on the Big Lake?" Another features a bored fisherman near a marker indicating poor fishing conditions.

Flooding shifts to city's west side

By HANK MURPHY Staff Writer

Businesses and homeowners on the city's west side were coping with flooding this morning, as water spilling over Natural Dam Lake west of town has poured into low-lying areas via Beals Creek.
 The new flood area encompasses nine blocks of West Third and Fourth streets from Bob Brock's Ford to Algerita Street and areas of West First and Second streets.
 City officials said this morning they have been monitoring the situation but that there is little they can do.

Many citizens have been forced to evacuate their homes as water continued to rise this morning.
 One of those was Lucy DeMerville, 1100 W. Second St., who said water began entering her home at 4:30 this morning. At 10 a.m., water was a foot deep and still rising.
 "It's still coming up," she said of the water that had entered electrical receptacles and her refrigerator motor.

Don Smith of Tate Plumbing, 1000 W. Third St. said employees were sandbagging the business to keep water out.
 Smith guessed the flooding is being caused by some kind of blockage in the Beals Creek — restricting the flow of water and forcing a backup into that area of town.
 Chuck Cawthon of Chuck's Surplus, 904 W. Third St., said more than 20 businesses along Third and Fourth streets were forced to close this morning because of flooding.

 The Harley Davidson Motorcycle Shop, 908 W. Third St., was partially submerged, Cawthon said. His business also was making barriers of sandbags to block the water, he said.
 Cawthon said he felt there should be better drainage in that part of town, and added, "we've never had it (water) come back up like this."
 He said business in that area of town has been hurt, and he'll ask the tax appraiser to reassess the value of his property since it is so susceptible to flooding.

 Cawthon said Mayor Cotton Mize and City Manager Mack Wofford have been keeping citizens advised of the situation.
 Albert DeAnda of Albert's Upholstering Inc., 1208 W. Third St., said water seeped into a business storage area and got upholstery materials wet. DeAnda said traffic was being rerouted near San Jacinto Street because streets there were impassible.

County OKs pharmacy for indigents

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

Commissioners unanimously approved motions this morning relating to health care services, but stalled on discussing or setting an effective rate tax rate for the 1986-87 fiscal year.
 The county will extend its contract with Lee Ambulance Service and selected the Medicine Shoppe to fill indigent patient prescriptions.

Charles Ginn, president of Lee Ambulance Service, told commissioners the ambulance service needed a $3,000 monthly county subsidy to continue providing its advanced life support treatment.
 The treatment differs from basic life support systems, Ginn said, in that it allows certified ambulance attendants to administer intravenous tubes, drugs and electrical heart stimulation treatment to patients before they reach an emergency room.
 Administering treatment to an emergency patient in the field, Ginn said, increases chances for saving lives.

Ginn said a major problem encountered since purchasing the ambulance service a year-and-a-half ago was uncollected bills. The bad debts total $65,000 and Ginn said $35,000 of that is classified "due and payable."
 When asked by Commissioner David Barr about seeking legal recourse on bad debts, Ginn said attorneys had advised him that individual accounts were not high enough to file in a state court. The cases had to be referred to justice of the peace small claims court, he said.

A justice of the peace is not granted authority to levy punishments or garnishee money for bad debt cases, Ginn said.
 "I'm becoming a charity case like everyone else," Ginn told commissioners.
 He also told commissioners he was hoping to know within 60 days about subsidies he has requested from the Veterans Administration Medical Center for transporting veterans to that hospital.

Ginn declined to discuss the terms of his VA Center request, but told commissioners he was willing to renegotiate the terms of the contract with the county after learning the VA Center's decision.
 Also, the county agreed to pay The Medicine Shoppe 10 percent less the average wholesale price of prescription medicines set in the American Druggist Red Book.

Texas House Speaker Gib Lewis leans on his gavel during special session activity by the 69th Legislature in Austin. The key question awaiting a decision at the second special session, which opened today, is what Lewis will do on new taxes.

Senators feel confident at second meet

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Senators sitting on the budget conference committee emerged from a meeting Monday morning confident that the second special legislative session to bridge the budget deficit will end before its 30-day term expires.

Sen. John T. Montford, D-Lubbock, said he expected the session, which began at 11 a.m. today, to last 15 days to 3 weeks.

Montford said the major obstacle is the House refusal to consider a tax bill.
 "It will take hard work, statesmanship and a lot of persuasion, to pry a tax bill out of the House," Montford said.

"Once we have demonstrated to (Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth) the Speaker of the House that we have cut as far as we can cut and convince him there is no fat left and part of the muscle is gone then I think he'll have to look at a tax," Montford said.

Montford said he expects the conference committee to reach an agreement on the amount of cuts, but added "We've got some pretty good battles ahead."

Although state leaders have agreed that the committee should produce a $580 million budget cutting package, the conferees have yet to tackle differences in their respective appropriations bills over higher education and the Texas Department of Corrections.

State Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, said in an interview that he wants progress as quickly as possible.

"I think folks rightly are kind of tired of it," Shaw said of the impasse between the House and Senate on how to handle the budget crisis.

"They realize we've spent 30 days down here not doing what we're supposed to do," Shaw added.
 Shaw said he's "ready to get the job done because we can't afford for the state to bounce checks."
 Shaw said he has received a "pretty clear message" from people in his district that they want the budget crisis taken care of by the Legislature with as little delay as possible.

Public motivational seminar scheduled Tuesday at hospital

Persons interested in the art of motivation are invited to attend Bjorn Secher's seminar on "How to Be Motivated for the Rest of Your Life," at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the East Room in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The free program is sponsored as a community service by Scenic Mountain Medical Center and Healthcare Inc.
 Secher is the author of two books, "Your Appointment with Success" and "Success is Luck ... Ask Any Failure."

According to a Scenic Mountain news release, Secher has had business achievements in Europe and was responsible for bringing a heavily losing international import-sales company back to solid financial ground.

Secher's ideas, according to the release, increased company sales 900 percent after reestablishing a new sales force in 11 Southern states.

Keith King, acting administrator of Scenic Mountain Hospital, suggested that local business and industry representatives may want to take advantage of Secher's ability to develop leadership, stimulate creativity, generate new ideas, new energy, drive and vitality for an organization.

Reagan studying Daniloff case options

By MICHAEL PUTZEL AP White House Correspondent
 WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is being urged to begin expelling Soviets attached to the United Nations — a few at a time — until the Kremlin agrees to release American journalist Nicholas Daniloff, administration sources said today.

The proposal, pushed by some administration hard-liners, is among the options Reagan is reviewing after the Soviets' lodging of formal espionage charges against U.S. News & World Report's Moscow correspondent, who has been jailed in Moscow, the sources said.

The president's list of options also was said to include a general reduction in the size of the Soviet embassy staff in the United States and cancellation of a scheduled summit-planning session later this month between Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze.

One step described by an official who asked not to be identified would include periodic, perhaps daily, expulsion of Soviet officials attached to the U.N. headquarters in New York. The U.S. arrest of one such official on espionage charges preceded the Soviets' arrest of Daniloff.

The expulsions could continue for weeks or months if the journalist were not released, the source said. He emphasized it is only one of several recommendations being put before the president.

The proposal for continuing expulsions was described by one source as the recommended course of action by some hard-liners in the government.

Apparently, no consensus has been reached at the State Department on what steps — if any — to take against the Soviets.

Measures ranging from the postponement of visits by American officials and journalists to the trimming of the Soviet diplomatic corps in this country were proposed last week. But an official who demanded anonymity said Shultz still was considering what recommendations to make to the president.

"There are people tugging in two or three directions," one source said.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes on Sunday refused to specify what steps the United States might take to put pressure on Moscow for Daniloff's release. However, he said planning meetings for a U.S.-Soviet summit will go on as scheduled.

"I think we will continue to review our options, to look at what we can do to influence this event, to impress on the Soviets that it is indeed a matter of utmost seriousness to the United States and ... could have an effect."

"I'm not setting a timetable except to once again indicate that we want immediate release and that we do regard it as very, very serious," said Speakes, who was with the president on vacation in Los Angeles.

Meanwhile, Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III suggested today that continued detention of Daniloff "would make it awfully difficult" to hold a U.S.-Soviet summit.

AUGUSTA, Maine — Publisher MALCOLM FORBES led a motorcycle club called the Capitalist Tools as a mass of leather-clad bikers roared into town in a Toys for Tots rally.

Forbes also brought an airplane, helicopter and support vehicles on Sunday for the United Bikers of Maine's 5th annual run, which drew 2,000 to 3,000 bikers. Riding among the bikes was a motor home, with the basket to the Forbes magazine publisher's hot-air balloon mounted on top. Overhead, Forbes' plane did a fly-over. Motorcyclists drifted from their shiny machines to admire the adventurer's green helicopter.

"Anybody in their right mind is glad for an excuse to come to Maine," said Forbes, who was wearing a black leather suit.

The motorcyclists converged on a Salvation Army truck to turn over their gifts, which will be distributed to poor children at Christmas.

LOS ANGELES — Jazz singer ELLA FITZGERALD probably will spend about a week at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center recovering from open heart surgery, a hospital spokesman said.

She has begun taking a few phone calls from close friends and should be able to start reading the hundreds of cards and letters that have been received at the hospital since doctors performed a coronary bypass Wednesday, spokesman Ron Wise said Sunday.

Miss Fitzgerald, 68, was resting comfortably since her transfer Saturday from intensive care to her room, Wise said.

"She'll probably spend the next week or so in that room moving

NEW YORK — After winning the U.S. Open, MARTINA NAVRATILOVA said she wishes she could shed the image of being a foreign-born tennis star. "It actually amazes me because every article which is written about me, even if it's four sentences, they say, 'Navratilova, originally from Czechoslovakia but now living in the United States,'" she said Sunday.

"That is where I was born. This is my home... I had to earn it. I had to take a test," said Navratilova, who is a naturalized American.

"Like they have to put the tag there. Why not just Martina, period? But I am an American. You don't have to remind

LEE MERIWETHER ... Miss America 1955, encouraged daughters to participate everybody where I came from. I think I'll still be that when I'm 80 years old."

LONDON — PRINCE EDWARD begins a year-long Royal Marines commando training course this week in southern England, roughing it like everyone else in the rugged outfit.

Early Wednesday, he will start what his instructors at the commando training center at Lympstone call "the real thing," living in a spartan 8-by-12 foot cabin.

Edward, 22, a recent Cambridge graduate, will spend cold winter nights under canvas, swing from ropes and plunge through tunnels filled with icy water.

At the end of the year, if successful, the prince will lead a commando unit of up to 33 men for a year.

NEW YORK — The first Miss America crowned on television, LEE MERIWETHER, says she tried to talk her daughters into trying for the title.

As this year's Miss America contest looms this Saturday, Meriwether, 51, told People magazine that the contest still has lots of advantages for young women.

"It's more than a beauty pageant. It's the world's largest scholarship foundation for women, giving away $5 million a year. It's the grande dame of the pageants, the classiest," she said in this week's People.

Meriwether, who produces plays, said her daughters weren't interested when she tried to persuade them to enter the competition.

Weather

Forecast

By The Associated Press

Skies will become partly cloudy in the afternoon and continue tonight and Tuesday. Widely scattered thunderstorms will be in the southeast this afternoon and early tonight. Fair in the far west through Tuesday. Temperatures will be warmer Tuesday. Lows tonight will be in the upper 50s north to near 70 in the Big Bend valleys. Highs Tuesday will be in the lower 80s in the mountains and north to mid 90s along the Rio Grande in the Big Bend.

State

A cold front stretching across the Lone Star State triggered thundershowers early today and kept early-morning readings mild, while forecasters predicted additional rainfall later.

Canadian air flowed behind the front that extended from Longview to Del Rio early this morning. Temperatures north of the front were in the 50s and 60s. To the south, readings were in the 70s.

Thundershowers were occurring in South Texas over much of the lower Rio Grande Valley and waters off the Coastal Plains.

Showers covered the Edwards Plateau and parts of the Hill Country. Skies were clear over East, North and far West Texas but mostly cloudy over the remainder of the state.

Winds were generally northwest throughout the state except for a south wind in the Panhandle at 5 to 10 mph. Higher gusts were recorded in the Trans-Pecos.

Temperature extremes at 5 a.m. were 52 degrees at Amarillo and 79 degrees at McAllen.

It should be mostly sunny by the afternoon in most areas with scattered thundershowers and heavy rain possible along the Rio Grande.

Increasing cloudiness was expected tonight in North Texas with widely scattered showers or thundershowers developing west and south. Lows will range from around 60 to the upper 60s. A chance of thundershowers areawide on Tuesday with highs ranging from the upper 80s to near 90.

Nation

A strong high pressure centered over eastern Kansas cleared skies and pushed Midwestern temperatures to record lows today as Tropical Storm Danielle gained strength.

Cool air was spreading south behind a cold front that extended across the Gulf Coast and Atlantic Coast states.

Temperatures early today dipped into the 30s to 40s from the northern Plains across the Great Lakes and northern Ohio Valley into New England.

A flash flood watch was posted in southwest Texas, which was having light rain after earlier drrenchings.

Showers and thundershowers were scattered across the Rockies and Florida Keys while rain was scattered across the mid-Atlantic Coast states and Tennessee Valley.

Record lows were set early today in Chicago, 45, breaking a record of 46 set in 1883; Peoria, Ill., 43, breaking a 1956 record of 45; Rockford, Ill., 40, down from 41 in 1949; Topeka, Kan., 42, breaking a 1956 record of 43; and Youngstown, Ohio, 37, a degree lower than a 1951 record.

Danielle was centered about 150 miles east of Grenada or 75 miles south of Barbados, the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables, Fla., reported early today.

Conditions remained favorable for continued strengthening, said forecaster Miles Lawrence. With maximum sustained winds of 50 mph and gusts reaching 63 mph, Danielle was moving westward at 20 to 25 mph and expected to move through the Windward Islands in the Caribbean today.

Foul fumes invade Texas

GAINESVILLE (AP) — Smelly, acrid fumes that authorities said were probably hydrogen sulfide gas spread across hundreds of square miles of North Texas, sending at least 14 people to a hospital.

Emergency management officials warned people with respiratory or heart problems to leave the area after residents began complaining of difficulty in breathing, headaches and nausea about 7 p.m. Sunday.

Authorities urged residents to stay indoors with their air conditioners off. There were unconfirmed reports that the fumes had killed livestock in the area.

"We feel there was some hydrogen sulfide from an unknown location that came in over the northeast portion of Cooke County and traveled down through a small community, Callisburg," said Tom Watson, Cooke County emergency management coordinator. "Then it came into Gainesville and went further south out of Cooke County. We heard reports out of Denton County."

He said a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency team and county sheriff's officers were searching for a gas leak near the Red River at the Texas-Oklahoma border and taking air samples.

An EPA spokesman said, however, that fumes had dissipated and could not be measured when testing was performed early this morning.

"There's no danger. These people have gone to a local hospital, been checked by a physician and given a clean bill of health," said David Grey.

Hydrogen sulfide is a poisonous, flammable gas that smells like rotten eggs. Air that contains only 1/200 of a part of the gas can kill a person who breathes it. Officials said the gas can leak from petroleum wells.

A spokeswoman for Gainesville Memorial Hospital said 14 people were treated in the emergency room for poisoning symptoms and later released.

Flooding

Continued from page 1A through a series of small lakes and Beals Creek, has been unable to recede because the ground is saturated and Beals Creek contains a vast and fast-moving amount of water.

Mize said despite the flooding of the west end of town, Big Spring was lucky the spillway at Natural Lake Dam was constructed, or damage from lake overflow or dam failure could be far worse.

Wofford said the city has been in contact with the Colorado River Municipal Water District, which has been monitoring the situation.

Joe Pickle, secretary/treasurer of the water district, confirmed the district has been closely watching the situation and is keeping city officials informed.

Sunday filed spy charges against him. The charges could carry the death penalty.

"If you think he is innocent, we can learn pretty soon because there is going to be a trial," Genadiy Gerasimov, a spokesman for the Soviet Foreign Ministry, said on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation."

"Daniloff is innocent," Speakes said. "If the detention of Nick Daniloff continues, it could have serious implications for U.S.-Soviet relations."

"There will be no trade" of Daniloff for a Soviet physicist arrested on spy charges in New York, Speakes said.

Mortimer Zuckerman, chairman and editor-in-chief of U.S. News & World Report, said he was angered that the Soviets were ignoring Reagan's letter.

"I think it's an outrage that is going to have a substantial reaction in this country, and I suspect and believe there should be retaliatory measures if he is in fact put on trial," he said, appearing on "Face the Nation."

He called the Soviets' evidence against the reporter "transparently flimsy."

Reagan, at a political appearance Sunday night, made no mention of the Daniloff matter.

Despite repeated U.S. calls for Daniloff's release, the Soviets on "Whatever effectiveness a letter like that might have had is undercut by its being publicized," the official said, refusing to be identified by name. "The Soviets probably interpreted it as a propaganda ploy. That's the way we would interpret it."

Speakes said Reagan "is determined to see a successful resolution" of the Daniloff case.

"He is determined to impress upon the Soviet Union that he is personally involved in the matter and that he regards it as serious," Speakes said Sunday. "He is concerned."

Streisand hosts rally

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barbra Streisand sang for Sen. Alan Cranston, and President Reagan stumped for Republican challenger Ed Zschau as politicians raised a whopping total of $3 million in two nights.

"It is fitting that as I head into the last major campaign of my political career... that I am here with you," Reagan said. "It all comes down to the Golden State. If we win this California Senate race, we will keep control of the U.S. Senate. I'm asking you to win just one more for the Gipper."

Miss Streisand's Saturday night invitation-only concert at her Malibu ranch was a major event in the entertainment as well as the political world: it was only her third performance before a live audience in 20 years.

Five inmates escape

WARTBURG, Tenn. — Five inmates, one a convicted murderer and two of them rapists, cut through a prison fence Sunday, but one was killed by a prison guard as the other four made good their escape, officials said.

The escape occurred at 8:30 p.m. at the Morgan County Regional Correctional Facility, said Correction Department spokesman John Taylor.

A guard shot and killed 26-year-old Ronald G. Kaywood, who was serving 100 years for aggravated rape, robbery and grand larceny, Taylor said.

Kansas man turns 99

TOPEKA, Kan. — A cane is his constant companion since he broke a hip 3½ years ago, and his hearing and eyesight sometimes inhibit conversation. But time has not robbed Alf Landon of his wit and insatiable appetite for news.

Landon observes his 99th birthday Tuesday, a milestone he never thought he'd reach. Now, he thinks he'll see 100.

As he turns 99, Landon is aware of his place in Kansas and American political history as 1936 Republican presidential nominee, two-term governor of Kansas and father of Sen. Nancy Landon Kassebaum, R-Kan.

Tragedy marks reunion

NEW YORK — Holocaust survivors celebrated their arrival in America 40 years ago at a Liberty Island gathering, but their reunion was overshadowed by terrorism against U.S. and Jewish targets that claimed 39 innocent lives.

The 3,500 Jewish survivors and their children were addressed by Jewish leaders who said the only response to terrorism was force.

"We are outraged, disturbed and shocked. We call today upon the leaders of the free world to find ways to combat and stop these murderous acts before it is too late," Benjamin Meed, president of the American Gathering and Federation of Jewish Survivors, said Sunday.

Pan Am Hijack

Passengers tell story of ordeal

More than 100 passengers of Pan Am Flight 73 returned home tired, unshaven, some with bandages and other grim reminders of the hijacking that ended in a flurry of gunfire and grenades and the deaths of 15 people.

"I actually felt a certain relief when the hijackers finally opened fire," said 48-year-old Jay Grantier when he arrived home to Colorado on Sunday night. "We knew that something had to happen."

"The hijackers were just firing randomly at us. I had never been fired at before. It seemed interminable," said Grantier, of Parker, Colo., who said he just wanted to shower, shave, and catch up on his sleep.

Families and friends crowded New York's Kennedy International Airport late Sunday to embrace 112 survivors of the ill-fated Pan Am jetliner that was seized Friday night by terrorists in Karachi, Pakistan. In addition to those killed, 127 people were wounded when the hijacking ended Saturday.

"When the shooting went off, I just tried to escape with the kids," said another survivor, Zeba Hamit, of Duncan, Okla., a mother of two.

Mohammed Tariq, of Cleveland, who was on the plane with his wife, Sonina, sat in a wheelchair with his right hand and right leg bandaged.

Tariq was hurt leaping from the plane, a move he said saved his life. After the plane's lights went out, he said, passengers "were shouting and shooting, crying and yelling — and I just jumped."

"They (the terrorists) were animals. They were not human beings," said Tariq, his wife's arms around him.

Catherine Dumas, of Lafayette Township, N.J., had only one worry during the crisis: "for the people who were worrying about me."

"My father is elderly. He has a bad heart," said Mrs. Dumas. She said she was thinking, "Damn you if I go home to a father who's sick or dead."

Heminder Ahluwalia, 18, said he had hurt his elbow sliding down the escape chute. His father's briefcase was shot through, leaving a hole in a letter he was planning to mail.

Ahluwalia said his family lived in a Cleveland suburb for four years but returned to India two years ago. They were en route to visiting relatives in Westwood, N.J.

Some families were upset over the lack of information they received trying to find out the fate of loved ones.

In Huntington Beach, Calif., the family of an American shot to death by the terrorists learned Sunday evening that the man's grandmother also was dead.

Relatives of Rajesh Kumar, 29, said they were angry that they were not told for three days that Kumurben Patel, 80, also had been killed. They also were furious that she had been cremated without authorization.

"We are very upset with the way the authorities are handling the case," said Di Patel, 29, Kumar's cousin. "Somebody is hiding something from us."

A memorial service was planned today at Friends World College on Long Island, N.Y., for Syed Nesar Ahmad, another victim of the hijacking. The 44-year-old professor was a Pakistani citizen and a permanent U.S. resident.

Dr. P. Regunathan of suburban Chicago, who worked for his wife, Santha, and son, Arun, said: "I had no help from the State Department. I had help from my congressman. But I only found out the real story by calling Pan Am in Karachi."

Six killed at wedding

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A hand grenade exploded during a wedding inside a crowded Roman Catholic church on southern Mindanao island Sunday, killing six people and wounding 50 others, the Manila newspaper Philippines Daily Inquirer reported Monday.

The newspaper, quoting military reports, said two men were seen running away moments before the explosion ripped through the church in Lala town, Lanao del Norte province, 520 miles southeast of Manila.

Militiamen fired at the two but the newspaper did not say whether they were hit or not.

Gunmen still unknown

ISTANBUL, Turkey — The two Arab gunmen who killed 21 Jews and wounded four others in a suicide attack at Istanbul's main synagogue apparently had ties to Lebanon, not Libya, Turkey's premier said.

Conflicting claims of responsibility were made on behalf of Palestinian, Shiite Moslem and Arab unity groups. Istanbul's deputy police chief, Mehmet Agar, told The Associated Press that investigators were certain only that the gunmen were Arabs in their 20s.

Spy agency bombed

COLOGNE, West Germany — A powerful bomb exploded outside West Germany's counterespionage agency today, and authorities said they suspected the Red Army Faction or other leftist terrorists were to blame.

The blast heavily damaged the building and slightly injured a passerby.

The bomb was placed either in or underneath a car outside the Constitutional Protection Office, and went off at 3:45 a.m., police said.

It ripped a hole large enough for a man to stand in in the building's outer wall and shattered windows in a high school 150 yards across the street, Cologne police spokesman Alfons Zelt said.

Tutu made archbishop

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — Desmond Tutu was installed as the first black to lead the Anglican Church in southern Africa and said in his sermon, "We shall be free, all of us, black and white, for it is God's intention."

The Sunday ceremony formally installing Tutu as the new archbishop of Cape Town blended religious pageantry with a celebration of the anti-apartheid movement.

Tutu condemned violence from both sides in South Africa's political conflict but contended that "the primary violence in this country is the violence of apartheid," the system of racial separation he described as evil and un-Christian.

Chilean assassins fail to kill president

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The military junta declared a state of siege after guerrillas unsuccessfully tried to assassinate President Augusto Pinochet and killed five of his bodyguards. Gen. Pinochet said today he was slightly injured in the attack.

In an interview on state television from his official residence in the capital, Pinochet said he suffered cuts on his left hand during the ambush on his motorcade Sunday on a winding road in the Maipo Canyon, 18 miles southeast of Santiago.

Ten bodyguards also were injured in the ambush, the government said. It was the first officially reported attempt on Pinochet's life during his 13-year presidency.

The 70-year-old president, his voice trembling and his left hand heavily bandaged, said the guerillas "attacked with rockets, grenades and shooting... from all sides."

He said he dove to the floor of his beige Mercedes, covering his 10-year-old grandson, until his security detail repelled the attackers in "an extremely intense shootout."

The attack came four days before the 13th anniversary of the coup led by Pinochet, the army commander, that ousted the elected government of the late Marxist President Salvador Allende. Pinochet said the ambush would not change plans for the rally.

Interior Minister Ricardo Garcia announced that the ruling four-man military junta, meeting in emergency session, approved an immediate nationwide 90-day state of siege to combat "a state of deep internal convulsion."

A giant portrait of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, who died a decade ago, still adorns the Gate of Heavenly Peace in Peking. China's current leadership has departed sharply from Mao's radical line, but still credits his early efforts with speeding the Chinese revolution.

China Politics still a mystery after decade

An AP News Analysis
By BARRY SCHWEID
AP Diplomatic Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A decade after the passing of Mao Tse-tung, the enigma that is China remains largely a mystery to American scholars and State Department policy-makers.

Reading the same tea leaves, they come up with varying conclusions about the course of reform under Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping and what it portends for U.S. relations with the world's largest country.

Basically, these analysts agree China is a more open society. And yet, "it's still not a government of laws, rather than men," said Harold C. Hinton, political science professor at George Washington University.

"Mao's nuttiness, which developed after a serious illness in 1953, is all gone," Hinton said in a recent interview. "They've got rid of all of Mao's personal barnacles on the ship of state."

But the professor also discerned in the ministry of state security, set up by Mao's successors a few years ago, unpleasant reminders of the Soviet KGB secret police.

"If its name is mentioned," Hinton said, "people look back over their shoulder."

Ray Cline, a former deputy CIA director, said Americans were so impressed with China's recovery from the "pathological situation" under Mao they leap to the conclusion Peking will be a friendly power in Asia.

But, the onetime intelligence specialist said, "the Deng regime makes it absolutely clear they do not consider themselves in any way an ally of the United States."

China is equally critical of Washington and Moscow, as it seeks advantages from both sides, Cline said. Mao's declining years were marked by purges, paranoia and anti-intellectualism. The country's economy faltered. China drew inward. Foreigners and their technology were viewed with deep suspicion.

This has changed in the 10 years since Mao's death on Sept. 9, 1976. Relations were established with the United States in 1979. American firms flocked to China, where they are received warmly.

But they must grapple with a bureaucracy that is long on red tape and short on decision-makers.

Joyce Kallgren, chairman of UCLA's Center for Chinese Studies, found in China enormous progress, particularly in the countryside. Production is up and the farmers no longer are called peasants.

They are freer to make decisions. And yet, Kallgren, who has visited China almost every year since 1974, saw little interest in democracy.

Interestingly, she found many Chinese yearning for the wares they now can see on television from Hong Kong and Japan. But, the University of California-Los Angeles scholar also detected a fear among some Chinese that in the rush to westernize, the country might lose its special character — a process called "spiritual pollution."

To a State Department official, who was willing to discuss post-Mao China only anonymously, "the major changes are a greater openness to the outside world and a willingness to tolerate differences at home and abroad."

For the average Chinese, he said, there is more individual flexibility — the official pointedly shied away from the word freedom — and "greater latitude for individual initiative."

China's stance toward the Soviet Union worries Cline.

"The Chinese Communists have been quite receptive to the initiative of Secretary General (Mikhail) Gorbachev to put differences aside and to cooperate in the Soviet effort to diminish American influence in the whole region of East Asia and the Western Pacific," he said.

As a result of some Soviet concessions, Cline said, Peking is willing to work in greater harmony with Moscow economically and politically "and that's bad for us."

Kallgren's analysis is that China is warming up its relations with the Soviet Union to have more leverage with the United States.

But, she said, the improvement in relations with Moscow is beneficial to America because it reduces strains in East Asia and could encourage Peking to spend less on a modern military and more on a modern economy.

"The United States cannot pretend that the only way to have good relations with the Chinese is their being enemies of the Russians," she said.

Is China trying to maintain an equal distance between the two superpowers?

Officially, that is the doctrine of the Deng government. But Hinton was skeptical.

"They are much closer to us," he said. "The Soviets are still perceived as a threat. Secondly, we are making an important and indispensable contribution to their development."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Barry Schweid has visited China three times in reporting on diplomacy for The Associated Press.

Lamesa may lose railroad

LAMESA — This West Texas city could be at the end of the line if Santa Fe Railroad abandons part of its rail system, officials say.

Santa Fe, whose merger plans with the Southern Pacific system would create the nation's third-largest rail system, wants out of the city of 12,000 because it says the line between Lamesa and Slaton, a few miles southeast of Lubbock, is unprofitable.

Santa Fe has filed an abandonment petition with the Texas Railroad Commission, but has yet to submit it to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which must approve it.

Lamesa officials hope the ICC never gets to rule in the case.

Sakowitz gets extension

HOUSTON — A federal bankruptcy judge has given Sakowitz Inc. until February 1987 to file its reorganization plan, a move the company says was greatly needed.

Company Chairman Robert Sakowitz was pleased with Bankruptcy Judge R.F. Wheel's decision last week, which allows the high-fashion clothing company to file its own reorganization plan and avoid the possibility of several competing reorganization plans being filed.

Attorneys for Chase Manhattan Bank, however, said the bank was concerned that granting the extension would allow Sakowitz's value to decrease and reduce the bank's chances of recovering $10 million owed by Sakowitz.

Lucas trial on trial today

EL PASO — Henry Lee Lucas' attorneys say they will try to convince a judge to throw out their client's confession to an ax murder in a trial that county officials complain is pointless and costly.

Lucas, who is already on Texas' death row for the 1979 murder of an unidentified hitchhiker, is accused of slaying 72-year-old Librada Apodaca at her El Paso home in May 1983.

The final round of pre-trial hearings — which at orneys say could linger up to 10 weeks because of the 350 defense and prosecution witnesses who have been subpoenaed — is scheduled to begin today.

Fair displays documents

DALLAS — Texas State Fair officials say the state Declaration of Independence and the William Barret Travis letter shared a bombproof suitcase with the Magna Charta as they were transported to an exhibit case.

Officials said the three priceless documents joined a printed broadside of the U.S. Declaration of Independence, on loan from the Chicago Historical Society, for what could be a blockbuster exhibit.

"It's an impressive representation of all people's struggle for freedom and liberty," said John Crain, director of the Dallas Historical Society, which helped organize the exhibit for the State Fair.

"This is the first, and probably last time these documents will ever be shown together," said Crain.

Mayor to take drug tests

SAN ANTONIO — Mayor Henry Cisneros said he will undergo drug testing today to set an example for police officers who may soon be subject to random, mandatory drug screenings.

"I am perfectly supportive," the mayor said Sunday of the tests. "I think we need to work together with the police chief. We need to work out the details."

Cisneros agreed to the testing after officials with the police union, the San Antonio Police Officers Association, said they favor random drug testing of officers.

Interest in drug testing of city employees followed the arrest of a police patrolman last week in connection with federal drug charges.

Officer charged with DWI

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Police suspended a detective without pay after he was charged with drunken driving and official misconduct for allegedly making sexual advances on a man he had detained.

Abel M. Vasquez, a 21-year veteran, was arrested after his car collided with a Park Ranger's car that was chasing him after the incident allegedly occurred Friday.

Sgt. Paul Buske said Vasquez was relieved of duty without pay pending outcome of the criminal charges.

Trade talks may be tough

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are forecasting tough going at an upcoming 92-nation conference in Uruguay, once billed by President Reagan as signaling the "green light" for a new round of global trade talks.

Since Reagan made that pronouncement at last May's economic summit in Tokyo, efforts to put together an agenda for the week-long talks, to begin on Sept. 15 in the seaside resort of Punta del Este, have been chaotic.

One major complication, from the U.S. vantage point, is that the Reagan administration's decision to subsidize wheat sales to the Soviet Union has angered a number of U.S. trade allies.

At the least, the move will make it harder for the United States — the staunchest supporter for a new round of world trade talks — to press its demands for a reduction of agricultural export subsidies by other nations, U.S. officials concede.

Reagan administration trade officials are now raising the possibility that the talks might collapse entirely. The result could be a major weakening of the international pact that has governed trade for four decades, the General Agreement for Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

"Nothing is a foregone conclusion," said one top U.S. trade official, who spoke on the condition of anonymity. "There remains the possibility that the meeting will become a bit of a mess, and you won't have a new round launched."

And if that happens, the official added, "the pieces will be so spread on the floor that they may be impossible to pick up."

U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter called the conference "the most critical round in trade negotiations that we've had since World War II," adding, "It's going to be a tough meeting."

"Agriculture in general is really a disaster area," Yeutter said.

The GATT system was set up in the late 1940s to provide rules and discipline under which trade in much of the world is conducted.

But U.S. officials have contended that GATT has not kept up with the times — that it currently doesn't cover enough sectors, that many nations have stopped abiding by its rules and that drastic changes are needed to prevent further deterioration of the system.

The last full GATT round, held in Tokyo, ended in the mid-1970s. Officials expect that, if a new round is launched at the upcoming conference, it could last for five or more years.

A new trade round is central to the Reagan administration's trade policy of opening more overseas markets to U.S. goods rather than legislating protectionist barriers to imports.

But with the monthly U.S. trade deficit in July hitting a record $18 billion, and the annual deficit approaching $200 billion, protectionist fervor in Congress is expected to be rekindled when Congress returns from its Labor Day recess this week.

That could make it harder for the administration to win the congressional authorization it needs to participate in a new trade round, U.S. officials suggest.

Preliminary talks held so far for the upcoming talks have failed to resolve any major areas of disagreement.

France remains adamant in its opposition to lowering agricultural subsidies, a position it has taken for several years. And a group of Third World nations, led by India and Brazil, have indicated firm opposition to efforts by the United States to broaden GATT rules to include investments and services, like banking.

Careful contact prevents spreading of herpes

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to "Al-ice's Husband" — the guy who was considering telling his ex-wife's potential suitors that she has genital herpes. However, you wrote, "I assume that you, too, have herpes, and are aware that a person with herpes can live quite normally with it between occasional outbreaks."

Dear Abby

Abby, I don't believe you can assume that because a married person has genital herpes, his or her spouse also has it.

I should know. I have had genital herpes for 10 years and have been married for eight years. I told my wife about it before we became intimate, and she has not contracted it because we have been careful. Herpes is contagious only during an outbreak. There are visible "signs" of an outbreak, and if one refrains from intimate contact during those times, there is no danger of infecting his or her partner. I get these outbreaks only two or three times a year, and they last for three to four days at the very most.

...olutely right. I was wrong to assume that because his ex-wife has genital herpes he also has it. He said that he thought it was his "duty" to warn all the men who wanted to date his ex-wife that she had genital herpes, so I assumed that he was motivated by anger because he had been infected by her.

Many readers wrote to say, "When you assume something, you put an 'ass' before 'u' and me." They were right.

DEAR ABBY: My husband was helping his mom clean out her attic when they came across some stuff his father had brought home from World War II. (His father died 20 years ago.) One of the things was a hand grenade, still intact. It had never been used. My husband wants to keep it as a souvenir.

You can probably guess what my problem is. I'm scared to death the thing is going to blow up, but my husband says it has been in the attic for nearly 40 years and nothing has happened yet, so there is no danger.

Can you ask your experts what might happen to it if it just sits around any longer?

My husband says maybe we should have it deactivated. That would be all right with me, but whom would we take it to?

I've been losing sleep over this. Sign me...

SITTING ON THE BOMB

DEAR SITTING: Phone your local police department immediately and tell them what you've told me. They will send someone over from the bomb squad to deactivate it. Do not touch it. Just call the police immediately and let them handle it.

DEAR ABBY: You frequently counsel your readers to seek the sympathetic ear of their pastors. Though it's sound advice for the most part, I would caution them to ask first what the fee will be.

In deep unhappiness I recently sought solace by talking with a "certified pastoral counselor," only to be handed a bill for $65 at the end of the session. I could ill afford that amount, and it was not covered by my insurance.

This man came recommended by our church, and I was too naive to consider that a pastoral counselor might expect me to pay for his closer affinity to God.

Needless to say, it was not an uplifting experience. So please advise your readers to always ask ahead of time, "How much?"

STUNG IN NEW HAMPSHIRE
DEAR STUNG: Thanks for the tip. Readers, listen to "Stung," so thou shalt not be stung.

Local girl wins national title

Jill Beall, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beall, was crowned Queen of Queens and won the modeling and talent competition for ages 14-17 at the National Charisma Girl Pageant in Hollywood, Calif.

JILL BEALL stands with Joe Guttery, mother of the pageant

The Queen of Queens title was awarded to the girl who received the highest scores in the pageant.

Prizes for winning the modeling and talent competition were a $500 scholarship, a fur coat and a diamond necklace. For winning the Queen of Queens title she received a $1000 scholarship and a trip for two to Hawaii.

Beall, who has been competing in pageants since she was 8, has won local, state and national titles.

She has also been involved in photo layouts, done print work and will be starring in a movie "Midnight Holiday" to be released next year. Beall was also an extra in the TV special "The Early Years of the Ewings."

The Big Spring High School

senior is also teaches children modeling, dancing and phases of pageantry at her talent studio.

Rocky Mountain Fever still around

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When we were younger we heard a lot about a disease called Rocky Mountain spotted fever. It even caused some deaths in our area (Western U.S.) I don't hear the term anymore. Is it eradicated? — A.L.

Dr. Donohue

Unfortunately, it is still around. Antibiotics have made it less life-threatening than it was years ago, and perhaps that's why you don't hear too much about it today.

It's a tick-borne parasite infection. When the parasite gets into the body, it proliferates, causing the symptoms, via infection of the bloodstream.

The illness gets its name from its peculiar rash, a spotted affair, typically starting on the wrists and ankles, then spreading to soles and palms, and finally becoming generalized. The early rash spots are usually blanchable, meaning red spots that whiten when pressed with a finger. Fever may be quite high as the infection progresses. The most common symptoms are swellings and severe headache.

Early detection is important, for some of the serious complications occur where the early rash is missed or mistaken for some other ailment — measles in youngsters, for example. The elderly are particularly prone to some of those complications.

With the popularity of outdoor activities, like "roughing-it" vacations, we may be seeing more of Rocky Mountain spotted fever. People who spend time in tick areas should know the symptoms.

Despite its name, the illness is not confined to the Western U.S. It has been reported in all states except Alaska and Hawaii. When exposed to ticks, check the skin carefully and remove any imbedded ones with prescribed methods. You have to be careful, for improper technique can result in further imbedding of the ticks.

FOR A.L. — Yes, some people are allergic to proteins in egg whites. They differ from the kind of protein in the yolk. And yes, an allergy can provoke hives, lip swelling, wheezing, vomiting or diarrhea. The usual answer is to avoid the substance, either whole or as an ingredient in other foods.

Opinion

Texas papers share opinions

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the state:

School cuts opposed across state

A statewide outpouring of opposition most likely has doomed House Speaker Gib Lewis' plans to solve Texas' budget shortfall by raiding the educational trust fund. But the budget cuts the House Appropriations Committee has proposed for state colleges and universities still pose a major threat to the quality of education in Texas. This means state schools will not be competitive with institutions of higher learning in other states. All the progress of the last two decades will have been lost, and Texans will have to suffer a mediocre, third-rate system of state colleges and universities. Texas must have first-rate universities to compete in a national economy that has become thoroughly knowledge-oriented. Texas should not dismantle its institutions of higher learning at a time when unemployment is high and the state is desperately in need of additional industry. —The Orange Leader

Traffic dispensations plan disliked

There are two strikes against a plan to sell $100 license plate tags that would allow drivers to go 70 mph on freeways and interstate highways. First, it's a harebrained idea that must have been introduced by State Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, as a joke. Second, the approach is too limited: If you're going to do it, why not do it right? Traeger says the measure would bring $500 million into state coffers. But think how much more we could make if we offered a whole list of idispensations — say $1,000 for a DWI, $10,000 for vehicular homicide. Possibilities are boundless if we carry the idea to its logical conclusions. Let's drop it right now. —The Houston Post

Test ban considered a dead end

Suppose the United States and the Soviet Union had agreed 20 years ago to halt all testing of nuclear weapons, as Mikhail Gorbachev is proposing. Would the world be safer today? In earlier years, there was legitimate fear that bombs would fall into the hands of terrorists, or be launched by a deranged military officer. But improvements in warhead design, realized through testing, have produced "permissive action links," safety features that today prevent unauthorized detonation of U.S. weapons. After thinking through the consequence of a test ban, it is hard to see Mr. Gorbachev's unrelenting campaign for a permanent moratorium as anything other than an arms-control dead end. It certainly is no substitute for negotiated reductions coupled with stronger strategic defenses. The immutable reality of the atomic age is that the United States must rely on nuclear arms to defend itself and its allies. As long as that remains the case, a test ban is an aimless detour from the overriding goal of making sure that nuclear weapons are never used. —The Harlingen Valley Morning Star

Harsh sentence though justified

It is hard to quarrel with the federal judge who gave convicted spy Jerry Whitworth 365 years as his sentence and ruled that he must serve a minimum of 60 of those years in prison. The 47-year-old Whitworth, the former Navy radioman who sold secrets to the Soviet Union, presumably will never be a free man again. This society executes criminals who have been responsible for taking the life of a single human being. Whitworth and his fellow members of the Walker spy ring deliberately and for personal profit committed acts that potentially could have resulted in the deaths of thousands, even millions of their countrymen. Whitworth's sentence is harsh, but it should carry a strong message for others about the seriousness of treason. —The Dallas Morning News

Spy arrest may prove claims true

For years, many U.S. leaders have agonized that the United Nations hasn't served world interests, much less U.S. interests, although this country pays for the whopping portion of the bill. Along with those complaints came others about the Soviet delegation at the United Nations, claims that many were just spies, a nest of KGB agents in our midst. That claim now is proven just as valid as the first. FBI agents arrested a Soviet employee of the United Nations on espionage charges. Agents believe he works for the KGB. The man was apparently seen buying classified documents on a U.S. Air Force jet engine from an informant on a subway platform in New York City. The man, Gennadiy Zahkarov, is supposedly a scientific affairs officer assigned to the Center for Science and Technology for Development at the U.N. Secretariat. And he is only one of hundreds. —The El Paso Times

People hit kids more than pets

From South Kingston, Rhode Island, comes the story that reports parents are more likely to hit their children than pet owners are to strike their dog or cat. "They're much more likely to hit their kids, shout at their kids or withdraw affection from their kids," Albert said. "If they get mad at their pets, it's a very brief encounter." The $16,000 study, however, fails to say whether it is best to balance out this inequity by beating the pets more or the children less. For 16 grand, it should come with some advice. —The Austin American-Statesman

Federal agency to rescue small banks for first time

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — When federal bank regulators announced last month they would spend $130 million to keep afloat the failing Bank of Oklahoma, it marked only the eighth time in more than half a century that they have come to the rescue of a struggling bank instead of allowing it to fold. We have learned, in fact, that the action marks a shift change in policy. For various reasons, fewer banks will expire in the future because the feds will be giving more transfusions.

Jack Anderson

In the case of the Bank of Oklahoma, officials of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., the key banking regulatory agency, were concerned about the entire regional economy. The banking community in the Southwest has been teetering on the brink of disaster for months because too many loans are dependent on the sagging oil and farm markets. Allowing a major Oklahoma bank to shut its doors could panic skittish depositors and investors, thereby creating a run on deposits in banks throughout the state. Another reason more banks will be bailed out in the future is that regulators have decided it is time to "democratize" the system, to give the small institutions the same guarantees of survival that the big banks have always had. There are only two ways for the feds to handle a bank failure — pay off insured depositors and let the bank die, or repair it and merge it with a healthier institution. The regulators will always opt for saving the big banks because they simply cannot afford to make good on the insured accounts, and because such a failure would be too disruptive to the economy. It has been unwritten policy for years: The big banks are fail-safe. All this has now been conceded — on the record and for the first time — by one of the nation's top bank regulators, William Seidman, in a recent interview with our associate Michael Binstein. Although Seidman has been day in transactions — is crucial to the whole economy. Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker warned two months ago that the failure of a major bank could "interrupt a long chain of payments and dramatically and unexpectedly affect other unrelated institutions." Now, Seidman said, the small banks are going to enjoy some assurance of survival. Whenever possible, he said, the FDIC will try to keep a failing small bank open until new owners are found. All depositors will be protected and small towns won't lose their banks. "We believe we ought to treat small banks in the same way (as big ones) to every extent possible," Seidman said. EXECUTIVE MEMO: FBI budget cuts could have a severe negative impact on local and state law enforcement. Hundreds of police officials from across the country attend classes at the FBI Academy in Quantico, Va., every year, courtesy of Uncle Sam. But now the locals are going to have to pay $2,500 each for the 11-week course, a sum that many local and state agencies cannot afford. As a result, bureau officials expect enrollment to drop 70 percent next year. Budget restraints will also force the FBI to reduce funds for training in law enforcement management and forensic sciences, and for the National Law Institute. UNDER THE DOME: Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., the 46-year-old chairman of the House Health and Environment subcommittee, is a zealous non-smoker who has railed against the tobacco industry for years, with mixed results. He recently won one when he complained to the Architect of the Capitol that non-smokers had only 98 or 444 seats in a Capitol Hill cafeteria. The eatery was rearranged to give the non-smokers 212 seats. And the indulgers now have a room in the back all the themselves.

Texas inmates number two in recidivism

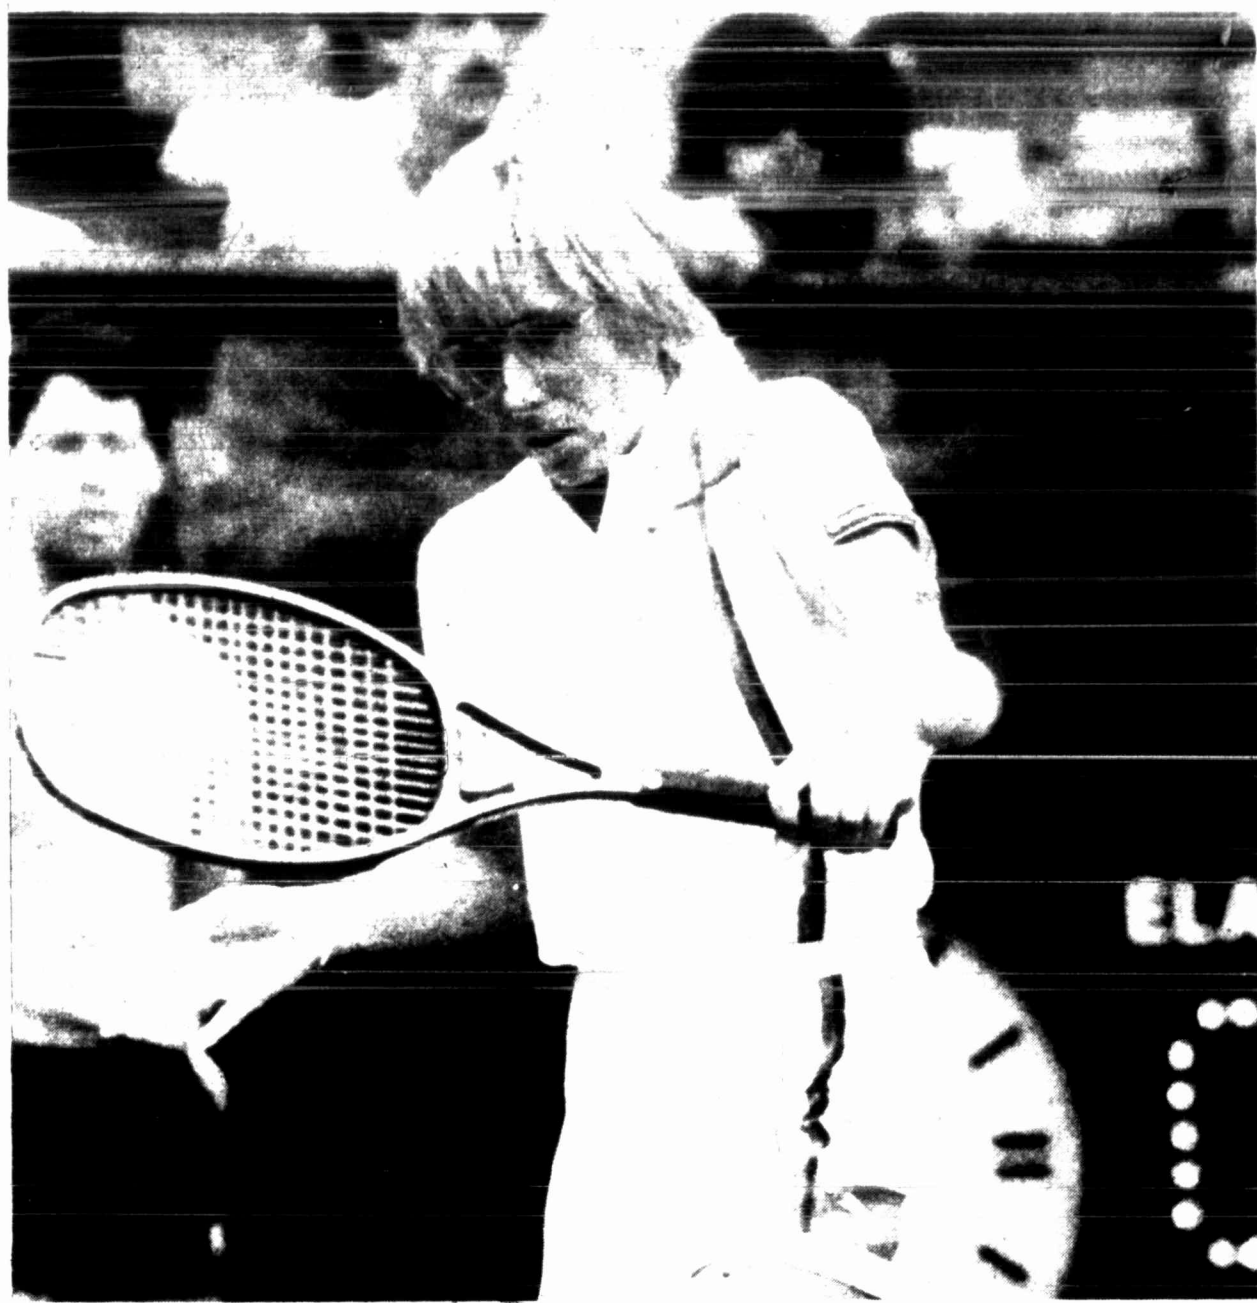

WASHINGTON — Sixty percent of Texas prison inmates were rearrested within three years of their release and 40 percent of those were reconvicted, a study of 463 former inmates shows. Texas was second to California in recidivism, according to the study of patterns of former inmates being returned to prison in those two states and Michigan. A follow-up study of 286 convicts in California first imprisoned in 1978 showed 76 percent were rearrested within three years and 60 percent of those released were convicted of new crimes. Michigan trailed third with 53 percent of a sample of 274 prisoners being reconvicted. The study was conducted by the Rand Corporation, a California-based, nonprofit research institution, and funded by the U.S. Justice Department. "California's higher recidivism rate may stem from its apparent policy of allowing offenders to develop a longer record of prior offenses before imprisoning them," said Stephen P. Klein, principal author of the report released Sunday. The report showed that 54 percent in Texas, 43 percent in California and 29 percent of those reconvicted in Michigan were found guilty of committing or attempting to commit homicide, rape, kidnap, assault, robbery or burglary. The remainder were convicted of crimes which range from such felonies as auto theft and major drug trafficking to misdemeanor drug offenses and driving without a license. "Released inmates, as a group, pose a very serious threat to public safety, but we cannot predict with useful accuracy which inmates will recidivate," the study said. "The high degree of recidivism among released offenders indicates that crime could be reduced substantially by incarcerating more offenders or incarcerating them longer, but it would be difficult to do this at present because prisons are overcrowded and becoming more so," the report added. The researchers suggest that to reduce crime and crowding at the same time, more resources need to be directed to prisons and less expensive methods of incarceration should be developed. "Using additional resources to apprehend and convict serious offenders makes sense only if we can incarcerate them or discover another way of slowing their criminal activities," the report said.

Career choices are confusing

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: In a few weeks I will be going to college, and I want to become a public school teacher. My friends all tell me I am crazy, however, because it is a very hard job and doesn't pay very well. They say I ought to think about myself more. How do I know what is right for me to do? — N.B.
DEAR N.B.: The most important question you can ask is this: What is God's will for my life? If it is God's will for you to be a teacher in a public school, accept His will thankfully and do it, for only then will you have fulfillment and happiness. "You have made known to me the path of life; you will fill me with joy in your presence, with eternal pleasures at your right hand" (Psalm 16:11).

Martina Navratilova hits a shot to Helen Sukova of Czechoslovakia Sunday during the women's finals of the 1986 U.S. Open Tennis Championships at New York's National Tennis Center.

Martina bounces Czech; Lendl also goes to bank

NEW YORK (AP) — After all the upsets and the failure of America's best players, the U.S. Open ended as expected — with the world's best players securing their places on tennis' throne.

Martina Navratilova and Ivan Lendl, the foremost products of the prolific Czechoslovak tennis system, scored easy victories Sunday to capture the Open singles titles. Both Navratilova, who has become an American citizen, and Lendl, who lives in Greenwich, Conn. and plans to remain in this country, beat rising players from their native land.

Navratilova downed 21-year-old Helena Sukova, the daughter of her former coach, 6-3, 6-2. The one-hour match was almost directly the reverse of her epic semifinal struggle against No. 3 seed Steffi Graf of West Germany, which Navratilova won 6-1, 6-7, 7-6 on Saturday after fighting off three match points.

Lendl successfully defended his Open crown with a 6-4, 6-2, 6-0 dismantling of No. 16 Miloslav Mecir, a 22-year-old who had upset three players seeded above him to make the final.

It was the third Open title and 15th Grand Slam championship for Navratilova. Lendl, who was defending champion in the Open, has won four Grand Slams.

"To win the U.S. Open will always be special," said Navratilova, who won her seventh Wimbledon — and fifth straight — in July.

Navratilova put the lid on her No. 1 ranking and this Open by capturing seven consecutive games after falling behind 3-1 against Sukova, who has lost 16 of 17 meetings with Navratilova. Her only victory was in the 1984 Australian Open, when she snapped Navratilova's run of 74 victories.

"I think we gave them their money's worth," she said of Saturday's crowd. "I was thrilled to be a part of it."

And she was thrilled that Sukova, the seventh seed who upset Chris Evert Lloyd in the semifinals, didn't put up more of a fight in the final.

"I knew she didn't play that well and she looked a little shell-shocked," Navratilova said. "I told her that she'll be here again and I hope she wins it. But not against me."

Against Lendl, except for the first six games of their match Mecir was out of his element.

The magic he worked against No. 2 Mats Wilander, No. 3 Boris Becker and No. 7 Joakim Nystrom had deserted him. Mecir's assortment of offspeed shots and passes from near the baseline was gone.

"Once I won the first set and had a break in the second, I saw him giving me a little bit of no interest tactics," said Lendl, who was appearing in his fifth successive Open final.

Lendl's game was at its peak here. While Mecir complained about being uncomfortable and homesick in the United States — he played the European circuit this summer rather than cross the Atlantic too far before the Open — Lendl was at ease and enjoying himself.

"These two weeks are the best I've ever played," said Lendl.

Lendl called his second Open crown "just something tremendous ... impossible to describe."

While Lendl and Navratilova — who also won the women's doubles with Pam Shriver but lost in the mixed doubles final — capped a masterful showing by products of the Czechoslovak tennis system, it was a depressing tournament for Americans. Shriver was the only native-born American winner.

Oilers drill Packers, 31-3

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Coach Forrest Gregg warned anybody who would listen last week that the Houston Oilers were a good football team.

The Oilers proved Gregg right Sunday, dominating the favored Packers 31-3 in their National Football League season opener and sending notice that they aren't the same 5-11 Oilers of a year ago.

Despite going 4-0 in the preseason, "we still haven't got much respect," said quarterback Warren Moon, in his third NFL season after a stint in the Canadian Football League.

Moon said he doesn't mind being underestimated. That, he says, will allow Houston to keep surprising the oddsmakers. "People can keep taking us for granted," said Moon, who completed 14 of 21 passes for 218 yards.

Moon threw two touchdown passes — of 29- and 44-yards — and ran 3 yards for another score. "He looked like a winner," Gregg said.

"Moon made it very tough on us," said Packers defensive back John Sullivan. "He can throw with great accuracy with almost no effort. He just sits back there and picks you apart."

Moon did it after being sick all day Saturday as the result of something he ate before leaving Houston. Much of the early success of the 1986 Oilers is given to Coach Jerry Glanville, who has instilled a winning attitude in the team.

"These guys are tired of losing," said wide receiver Drew Hill, who caught six passes for 97 yards Sunday, including a 44-yard touchdown pass from Moon in the fourth quarter.

"The approach has been business-like," Hill said. "Jerry Glanville makes sure of that every day."

Glanville, in his first full year as an NFL coach, was pleased about all aspects of Sunday's game.

"We're going to have a real good year," he declared. "People didn't know we were for real. I think we're for real."

The Packers found out first hand.

The Oilers spotted the Packers a 3-0 lead after Moon threw an interception. Then the Oilers offense went to work: it was 7-3 at the end of the first quarter, 14-3 at the half and 24-3 entering the final quarter.

The Oilers converted third downs to first downs an amazing 79 percent of the time. Moon's timely passing was helped by a solid running attack — 157 yards — led by Mike Rozier, who gained 83 yards.

"Our defense just got knocked around," Gregg said.

"It was pathetic," Gregg moaned. "Everytime you looked up and saw third and eight, you'd almost cringe because you know what's going to happen. We'd get our hopes up and they'd be shattered again."

Houston's Drew Hill gets a lift from Allen Pinkett (20) as he celebrates with Butch Woolfolk (40) following a 44-yard touchdown pass in the final quarter of the Oilers 31-3 victory over the Green Bay Packers. Hill caught the scoring pass from Warren Moon.

Troubled Cowboys open with Giants

IRVING (AP) — The defending NFC East champion Dallas Cowboys will apparently be without three members of their secondary from last year against the New York Giants tonight as Channel 2 8 p.m.

Monday Night Football starts its 18th season.

The Giants got some good news on Sunday when running back Joe Morris, whose agent had threatened a possible holdout from the game because of contract problems, boarded the plane for Texas.

The Cowboys, who had been a one-point favorite early in the week and is now a one-point underdog, will be sending a green secondary against New York quarterback Phil Simms.

"We'll work things out one way or the other," Dallas Coach Tom Landry, whose team lost all five of its exhibition games, said. "Nothing surprises me in this business any more."

Dallas strong safety Dexter Clinkscale never reported to training camp and will be replaced by Bill Bates. Clinkscale has been told by Landry that he will not be allowed to return to the team and will be traded.

Dennis Thurman was waived by the Cowboys, effectively breaking up "Thurman's Thieves," the nickname for the 1985 secondary. Thurman has since signed with the St. Louis Cardinals.

This week, All-Pro cornerback Everson Walls walked out in a contract dispute. If he doesn't return he will be replaced by Johnny Holloway, a rookie who was a wide receiver at Kansas last year.

Walls has asked to be traded but Cowboys President Tex Schramm isn't saying what action might be taken.

"This is the first time I've been around a player who left his team on the eve of a game," Schramm said. "He has a contract offer and if he isn't here he will be suspended."

The Cowboys say they have made four offers to Walls.

There is some unhappiness on the other side of the field as well. Morris, who is asking for a $2.5 million contract, said "The Giants should trade me if they don't want me."

Morris reported to training camp Cowboys page 2B

Bias' father angry with media attention

BALTIMORE (AP) — The families of University of Maryland All-American Len Bias, who died of cocaine intoxication, and of his close friend Brian Lee Tribble, who faces charges of supplying the drugs that killed Bias, are angry that their sons' names have been besmirched.

James Bias, in an interview with The Baltimore Sun from his Landover home, said he still has trouble accepting his son's June 19 death and finds it the hardest to cope with the portrayal of his son that has come out of coverage of investigations both on and off the College Park campus.

Tribble's family has objected to accusations about their son. Tribble, who faces drug charges, told the Sun he never supplied Bias with cocaine.

"Not guilty, not guilty, not guilty, not guilty," he told The Sun in an interview last week from his parents' home in Washington. "I just didn't do it."

"I think I have the ability to deal with this better than the average person. I just take it day by day. Since I didn't do anything, my conscience is pretty clear."

Bias' father is plagued by the memory of what he saw. Recalling the moments after his son was rushed unconscious to the hospital,

JAMES BIAS ...upset with media he said, "It didn't seem real. It didn't seem like they were talking about Len Bias, about my son, or about any human being. They were talking about respiratory systems and things like that. And I had only left him six or seven hours before. So I said I wanted to see him. And I went into the operating room and I saw him lying on the table and then I knew it was real and it really was over," he said.

"Later that day the detectives came and asked me to sign a form for an autopsy. They said drugs might be involved. I didn't believe it. I couldn't believe it and I still can't believe it," he said.

"There was no sign of drugs. Nothing. Nothing. I would have done something if there was," he said.

"I wouldn't have cared about adverse publicity. I wouldn't have given a damn about that. I would have dealt with it, done anything, sold this house, anything. But there was nothing."

Bias still doesn't believe his son took the drugs of his free will. He holds out slim hope that an autopsy might indicate it was slipped into a drink.

He finds it difficult to accept that his son died just hours after they had returned together from Boston and a visit to the Celtics, the team Bias had joined as the No. 2 overall pick in the NBA draft.

Bias says that what hurts him most is the media portrayal of his son as a caricature of a bad boy: fast-living, high-rolling, marijuana-smoking, drinking, dancing and carousing.

Marijuana use is "possible, anything is possible," and Len Bias even may have tried cocaine before the night he died, his father told The Sun. He liked to go out and was "a great ladies man."

"They say he lived two lives, like he was some kind of split personality. They make it out like one minute he's down dancing at discos, the next minute he says he's a Christian," Bias said. "All young men like to dance and party and disco. There's nothing wrong with doing that even if you are a Christian."

In all, Bias says he's trying to cope.

"I've been through hell. But I have to look at it in the positive sense. I still have three children, a beautiful wife and a home. Lenny's dead. But he'll always be there."

Tribble's mother, Loretta Tribble, 49, finds that the grand jury investigation into Bias' death and the accusations against her son follow her around. Everywhere the family goes, they're approached by people asking questions. "It is very, very tough. It has hurt us all very much ... The pressure gets to you. You get to a certain point and then you explode."

"We are a household name," said Thomas Tribble Jr., Tribble's older brother. He said the story has influenced his own employment as a designer and builder of window curtains and valences.

Quinn's Quarter

Big Spring Steers head coach Quinn Eudy had these comments about last Friday's 21-12 win over El Paso Riverside and this week's game against Lubbock Estacado.

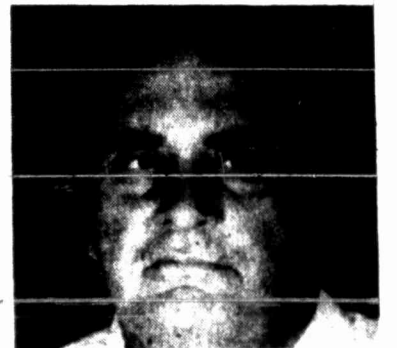

"We made the big plays offensively and defensively when we had to make them. We moved the ball fairly well, especially in the first half. We had two good long drives, unfortunately we had fumbles that killed them."

We must hold on to the ball better, but a lot of that can be attributed to the wet weather. We did have some pitches that we just mishandled.

Our offensive line played well and we had good balance in our running game.

Defensively, I thought we played well, especially in the first half. We sort of lost our concentration in the third quarter. They came back and made a game of it. We could have folded but we made a heck of a comeback. James Weaver's interception at the goal line was a big play. Another big play was when we held them on fourth down on their next possession after their first touchdown.

Estacado is ranked number one in the state by the Harris

QUINN EUDY

Poll. It's a thrill to play them. They are the fastest team we'll face. They are a better team than last year for the simple reason they have the same people back. They are well-coached and our kids will be grinning when they run out on the field Friday night.

Anybody that can't get excited about this game doesn't like watermelons and girls."

In last Friday's game, Riverside running back David Samaniego was carried on the field on a stretcher with a neck injury. Ex-rays showed he had a pinched nerve in his neck. He will be out for a week, said Riverside offensive coordinator Tom Work.

Kelley loses in debut; Miami gives up 50.

By The Associated Press
Quarterbacks Dan Marino and Jim Kelly had a lot in common on opening day of the NFL season.

They both threw three touchdown passes. They both made a lot of money. And they both lost.

Marino, who signed a six-year, $9 million contract with Miami late last week, and Kelly, the former USFL superstar who was lured into the NFL by Buffalo's offer of $8 million for five years, saw their teams' defenses crack Sunday. The Dolphins lost 50-28 to San Diego and the Bills fell 28-24 to the New York Jets.

"The biggest thing you have to remember about Kelly is that he's only been in uniform three weeks," Bills Coach Hank Bullough said after Kelly completed 20 of 33 passes for 292 yards against the Jets. "No quarterback can learn a whole playbook in three weeks."

"They just played an incredible game and you have to give them credit," Marino said of the Chargers. "It looks like we have a long way to go before we start winning some games. We're going to have to get a lot better."

Kelly threw a two-yard touchdown pass to Greg Bell in the first quarter, a 55-yard scoring pass to Andre Reed early in the fourth period and a four-yard touchdown toss to Pete Metzelaars.

The pass to Metzelaars got the Bills within four points, but Jets quarterback Ken O'Brien, who passed for 318 yards and three touchdowns, threw two key completions to keep the ball out of Buffalo's possession in the last 3:55 of the game.

"I was happy with the way I played, but we still lost and you never feel happy losing," Kelly said. "I've never been on a losing team and I don't want to start now," Kelly said.

O'Brien twice burned the Bills with long touchdown pass plays. He hit Al Toon with a 46-yarder in the second period and Wesley Walker with a 71-yarder in the final period, giving the Jets a 28-17 lead before Kelly led a 53-yard drive that concluded with the scoring pass to Metzelaars.

Dan Fouts threw three touchdown passes and reserve running back Buford McGee rushed for two touchdowns as San Diego rolled to the most points ever against a Don Shula-coached Miami team.

Fouts, who completed 23 of 35 passes for 293 yards, threw touchdown passes of 18 yards to Gary Anderson, seven yards to Wes Chandler and 17 yards to Pete Holohan.

The Chargers jumped ahead 17-0 in the first quarter and the Dolphins got no closer than nine points the rest of the way despite Marino's two touchdown passes to Mark Clayton in the second period. Marino also had a scoring pass to Nat Moore in the third quarter.

Bears 41, Browns 31

Dennis Gentry returned a kickoff 91 yards for a Chicago touchdown after the instant replay official awarded Cleveland a touchdown, and Walter Payton rushed for 113 yards and scored twice for the defending Super Bowl champions.

Payton scored on a two-yard run and an 11-yard touchdown pass from Jim McMahon, and Wilber Marshall returned an intercepted pass 58 yards for another Bears touchdown.

On the third play from scrimmage, the Browns' Al Gross was credited with a touchdown after a bad snap from center by the Bears bounded into the end zone. The officials on the field did not call a safety or a touchdown until they got the word from the replay booth that it was a touchdown.

McMahon was removed from the game in the fourth quarter after suffering an injury to his right shoulder. X-rays were negative and his status for next week's game against Philadelphia is indefinite.

Ram 16

Cardinals 10

Eric Dickerson ran for 193 yards and two touchdowns on a career-high 38 carries, and Los Angeles held off a fourth-quarter rally by St. Louis, which was on the 1-yard-line when the game ended.

Dickerson scored on runs of one and 16 yards while the Rams' defense blunted St. Louis, playing their first game under Coach Gene Stallings, until fourth period.

The Cardinals scored their only touchdown on a four-yard run by Ottis Anderson with 9:25 left, then drove to the Rams' 1 in the final minute before time ran out.

49ers 31, Bucs 7

Joe Montana passed for 356 yards and one touchdown and Tampa Bay quarterback Steve DeBerg suffered seven interceptions against San Francisco.

The 49ers secondary, despite playing without injured Pro Bowl cornerback Eric Wright and starting two rookies, intercepted DeBerg four times in the first half.

Montana, who missed three weeks of the preseason with a sprained right ankle, completed 32 of 46 passes, including a four-yard scoring toss to Mike Wilson in the first quarter. Roger Craig had two one-yard touchdown runs for the 49ers.

Broncos 38, Raiders 36

Denver rallied from a 19-7 deficit as John Elway threw two touchdown passes and caught another from running back Steve Sewell against Los Angeles.

Elway's seven-yard pass to running back Gene Lang with 9:49 left proved to be the game-winner, giving Denver its first lead since the opening minutes of the game.

The Raiders went ahead 36-28 on Marc Wilson's third touchdown pass of the day, a 57-yarder to Rod Barksdale, but a 51-yard field goal by Rich Karlis got the Broncos close enough to win on Lang's touchdown catch.

The Raiders' Marcus Allen rushed for 102 yards and established an NFL record for consecutive 100-yard games with 10.

Patriots 33, Colts 3

New England quarterback Tony Eason threw for 252 yards and a key third-quarter touchdown to Stanley Morgan.

Despite the lopsided result, Indianapolis still was in the game midway through the third quarter.

Cleveland Browns Brian Brennan (86) flies over Chicago Bears Mike Richardson (27) during fourth quarter action Sunday in Chicago. The Bears beat the Browns 41-31.

Redskins 41, Eagles 14

Jay Schroeder threw for two touchdowns and ran for another and Kelvin Bryant scored two touchdowns for Washington.

Bryant, playing his first game for the Redskins after a successful three-year tenure in the USFL, caught a 36-yard touchdown pass from Schroeder in the first quarter and ran 16 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter, giving the Redskins 34-14 lead.

Philadelphia Coach Buddy Ryan, the defensive coordinator of the Super Bowl champion Chicago Bears last year, saw his new team give up 433 yards in total offense, including 104 yards rushing to Redskins' running back George Rogers.

Lions 13, Vikings 10

James Jones rushed for a career-high 174 yards and scored Detroit's only touchdown while the Lions' defense held Minnesota to 62 yards rushing.

Jones, whose previous career high was 116 yards last season, gained 45 yards, including 39 on one play, to key a 76-yard drive late in the first half. He completed the drive with a two-yard scoring plunge.

The Vikings, playing its first game under new Coach Jerry Burns, didn't score a touchdown until Tommy Kramer hit Jim Gustafson with a five-yard pass with three seconds left in the game.

Falcons 31, Saints 10

Dave Archer threw two touchdowns passes and only three incompletions as Atlanta spoiled the New Orleans coaching debut of Jim Mora.

Archer completed 13 of his 16 passes for 207 yards, including touchdown passes of 17 yards to wide receiver Charlie Brown in the first quarter and 19 yards to An-

Rahl stays calm; wins Molson Indy

ST. PIERRE, Queec (AP) — Bobby Rahl drove his own race, waiting patiently while confusion reigned and tempers flared all around him.

His calm attitude paid off Sunday in the Molson Indy at Sanair Super Speedway. Rahl took advantage of a 20-second caution-period penalty called against Al Unser Jr. and sped to his second victory in eight days and his series-leading fourth of the season.

"I had enough on my mind out there without worrying about the rules," said the Indianapolis 500 champion after beating Unser to the finish line by 13.74 seconds, nearly a full lap on the .826-mile trioval. "I pretty much let (team manager) Steve Horne take care of it and I just concentrated on running the best I could on the race track."

That was good enough for his 12th career victory, and the 1-2 finish moved Rahl and Unser into a tie atop the CART-PPG standings with 107 points apiece.

Danny Sullivan now stands third with 106, followed by the father-son duo of Mario Andretti and Michael Andretti with 102 each. There are five races remaining in the 17-race series.

There were several early caution flags in the 225-lap, 187-mile (300-kilometer) race, but the confusion didn't begin until Rahl and Unser, running 1-2 at the time, each pitted on lap 136 during the fourth of eight caution flags.

The pace car moved onto the track while the two were on pit road. Unser took on only fuel and beat Rahl back onto the track. The 24-year-old second-generation driver found himself in the lead but illegally ahead of the pace car.

He was credited with leading laps 137 through 188, with Rahl second, the only other car on the lead lap. Meanwhile, both teams and CART officials had a series of hurried conferences and the confusion deepened.

On lap 157, during another caution period, Rahl, who was somehow ahead of Unser on the track, was waved past the pace car — twice. I went by once, then slowed and allowed the pace car to go by again.

"I knew Al was leading the race because I knew he beat us out of the pits on that stop," said Rahl, who won a race in July at Toronto despite being assessed a similar penalty. "I said to Steve, 'I think I've seen this movie before somewhere.'"

Finally, Unser, who has won twice this year, was shown a black flag on lap 188. That meant he had to make a mandatory pit stop. CART officials then held him in his pit for about 20 seconds.

"I didn't know what we were going on," said Unser, who lost the series title last year by one point to his father. "I just got black-flagged."

As for the violation, Unser shrugged and said, "I just got lost in the pit stop. I come in, make a stop and leave, and there is the pace car. I didn't know what was going on."

Wally Dallenbach, CART's chief steward, said, "I know all he (Unser) was trying to do was get ahead of Bobby. But I'm enforcing the rules to the letter." Asked why it took 52 laps to get the situation under control, Dallenbach replied: "There aren't any timeouts in racing."

Unser was penalized under the rule that forbids a driver "use of the pit lane to solely improve his position."

By the time Unser got back onto the track after his final stop, Rahl had the race well in hand. He went on to win $76,110 as he averaged 103.157 mph.

"I had a misfire at the start and a couple of guys got ahead of me," Rahl said. "But our car was just great, handling fantastic. I could just go anywhere I wanted to on the track."

"But there were an awful lot of pretty crazy moves going on out there and I didn't want to get involved in that. I tried to just stay out of trouble."

Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil was third, two laps down, followed by teammate Kevin Cogan and, another two laps down, Sullivan, Michael Andretti, Johnny Parsons and Mario Andretti.

The race started on a down note when Dennis Firestone tangled with Canadian Jacques Villeneuve and Dale Coyne in the first turn of the first lap. Firestone suffered a dislocated shoulder and was treated at a Montreal hospital and released.

The 1985 Molson Indy also finished in confusion when the race was restarted part way through the final lap after a long caution period. Pancho Carter passed Johnny Rutherford to take the checkered flag, but two weeks later lost the victory to Rutherford when an appeals panel ruled that CART had violated its own rule in restarting the race when it did.

On Sunday, Rutherford was eliminated on lap 118 when he and Roberto Guerrero of Colombia, who led 23 laps early in the race, banged together then hit the wall. Neither was injured.

Carter went out with engine trouble on lap 147 and Rick Mears, who set a track qualifying record Saturday in winning the pole position and led the first 23 laps, went out after just 79 laps with an engine problem.

The crowd on a cool, partly sunny day was 17,432.

Cowboys

Morris' backup is Lee Rouson, who rushed for one yard last year. Cowboys running back Tony Dorsett was also mad in training camp after Dallas signed former United States Football League running back Herschel Walker to a five-year, $5 million contract.

However, Dorsett will start and Landry said he won't split time with Walker.

"We will use him more in a receiving capacity than we will as a basic runner in the backfield," Landry said of Walker.

Dorsett has averaged 77.6 yards in 16 games against the Giants, including seven touchdown runs. Dallas owns a dominating 32-13-2 record over the Giants. Since the 1960s, the Giants have swept the Cowboys in their annual two-game series just once, in 1984.

The Giants dominated the Cowboys statistically last year but still lost 30-29 in New York and 28-21 in a division title showdown game in Texas Stadium, where the Giants have won just once in 10 years.

The Cowboys have the best opening-day record in NFL history, 21-4-1, and they have won 20 of the last 21 openers.

Rice helps Bosox slam Twins

By The Associated Press
AMERICAN LEAGUE

Jim Rice, continuing his season-long plan, keeps hitting baseballs hard to the opposite field. Lately, those drives have been landing in the Boston bullpen at Fenway Park for grand slams.

"Right now, I'm enjoying hitting to right. Last year, I didn't see the holes there. This year, I see holes you could drive two trucks through," Rice said after his grand slam Sunday sent the Red Sox to their eighth straight victory, a 9-0 trouncing of the Minnesota Twins.

Rice's second slam in three days helped Boston take a 6½-game lead in the American League East over Toronto, which lost to Chicago, 4-3.

White Sox 4, Blue Jays 3
Harold Baines singled home the tying run and Jerry Hairston then drew a bases-loaded walk as Chicago rallied in the seventh inning to beat Toronto.

Angels 7, Yankees 2
Don Sutton pitched six strong innings and Brian Downing homered and drove in three runs, leading California past New York.

Royals 5, Rangers 2
Angel Salazar drove in three runs, two with a tiebreaking double in the sixth inning, and Frank White homered as Kansas City won in Texas in a night game.

Salazar's double off Charlie Hough, 12-9, came after White singled with two outs and Mike Kingery walked. Salazar, who had an RBI single earlier, strained his knee while running out the double and left the game.

White homered in the eighth, his 19th of the season and sixth against the Rangers this season. Danny Jackson, 10-10, pitched his second complete game of the season.

Ruben Sierra knocked in both Ranger runs, including his 11th homer and second in two nights.

Orioles 8, Mariners 0
Eddie Murray drove in his 1,000th career run and John Shelby, Mike Young and Floyd Rayford hit home runs as Baltimore defeated Seattle.

Brewers 7, Indians 2
Pete Vuckovich won his first game since Aug. 8, 1985, and Robin Yount and Rick Manning hit home runs as Milwaukee beat Cleveland and ended an eight-game losing streak.

Vuckovich, 1-1, pitched six innings and gave up two runs on six hits in his second start of the season.

A's 8, Tigers 4
Jerry Willard hit a three-run homer, capping a five-run burst in the fifth inning that carried Oakland over Detroit. The A's have won eight of 11.

Carney Lansford's RBI single broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth and Bruce Bochte drove a bases-loaded walk from Dan Petry, 4-8. Reliever Jim Slaton struck out Dave Kingman, but Jose Canseco hit a sacrifice fly and Willard hit his third homer.

Curt Young, 11-8, gave up four runs in 6 2-3 innings and Bill Mooneyham closed for his second save.

Darrell Evans and Chet Lemon hit two-run homers for the visiting Tigers. Evans' homer was his 28th.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
The Houston Astros believe the rest of the National League West is simply playing catch up now.

With a 6-3 victory Sunday over the St. Louis Cardinals, the Astros took an eight-game lead over the Cincinnati Reds in the division. The teams begin a two-game series in Houston tonight.

Jim Pankovits' grounder drove in Kevin Bass, who had two hits, to break a 3-3 tie in the bottom of the fifth inning.

Cubs 11, Reds 3
The Cubs ended their seven-game losing streak with 19 hits against the Reds, including eight off Bill Gullickson in 1 2-3 innings, his shortest outing of the year. Ryne Sandberg and Shawon Dunston had three hits apiece for the Cubs, and rookie Greg Maddux allowed 11 hits in going the distance in his first major-league start.

Giants 1, Expos 0
Mike Krukow, who had a two-hitter, outdueled Floyd Youmans, who allowed just one, a double by Mike Aldrete in the top of the first inning that drove in the game's only run.

Mets 7-6, Padres 1-5
The Mets' double-header sweep gave them a 21-game lead over the Phillies in the NL East, the biggest lead by any NL team since divisional play began in 1969. The 1975 Cincinnati Reds had a 20½-game lead in the NL West. The 1969 Baltimore Orioles hold the major-league mark at 22½ games.

The Mets won the opener behind Dwight Gooden's four-hitter and a three-run double by Kevin Mitchell. The complete game was the 10th for Gooden as he won for the fourth time in five decisions to go 14-5.

The only run off Gooden, who struck out five and walked two, came on Dane Iorg's solo homer in the top of the sixth inning. Mitchell's bases-loaded double came in the second and made the score 5-0.

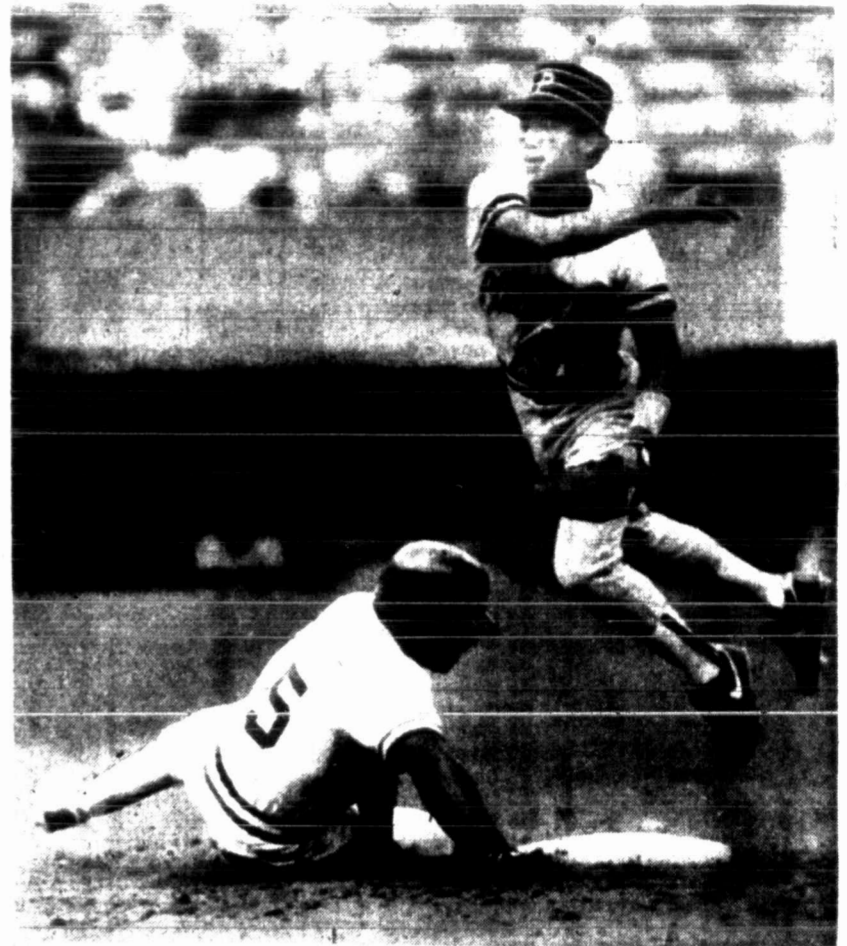

In the second game, Keith Hernandez and Wally Backman each had three hits, and Hernandez drove in three runs. Ed Hearn walked with the bases loaded in the sixth inning to break a 4-4 tie. The Mets scored three times in the inning to overcome a 4-3 San Diego lead.

Phillies 2, Dodgers 1
Ken Howell walked pinch-hitter Ron Roenicke with the bases loaded in the ninth inning to lift the Phillies over the visiting Dodgers. Juan Samuel opened the ninth with a single. Samuel went to second when first baseman Bill Madlock mishandled Howell's pickoff throw, and Howell walked Greg Gross intentionally. A walk to Steve Jeltz loaded the bases, and Roenicke walked on four pitches.

The Phillies took a 1-0 lead in the first on Milt Thompson's home run, and the Dodgers tied it in the sixth on Larry See's infield hit for his first major-league RBI.

Pirates 3, Braves 1
Bob Kipper and Barry Jones combined on a five-hitter that allowed the Pirates to salvage the final game of the three-game series in Atlanta.

Kipper, 4-7, worked 7 2-3 scoreless innings, allowing four hits, and Jones gave up a ninth-inning run on a double by Bob Atlanta Braves Billy Sample slides into second as Pittsburgh Pirates Rafael Belliard fires to first in a vain effort to double up on Braves Ken Oberkell.

Horner and two grounders. Rafael Ramirez got the RBI.
Mike Diaz's 11th homer, with one out in the ninth off Gene Garber, gave the Pirates their third run. Junior Ortiz and Johnny Ray drove in the Pirates' first two runs in the third inning.

Ex-Cowboy collapses in jail

DALLAS (AP) — Former Dallas Cowboys football player Larry Bethea was hospitalized for nearly 12 hours after collapsing on the floor of his jail cell, where he has been held for a month on grand larceny charges, officials said.

Bethea, a former Cowboys No. 1 draft pick, was returned to the Dallas County jail Friday night after doctors at Parkland Memorial Hospital found no medical reason to keep him overnight, a hospital spokesman said.

Bethea, 30, complained of severe headaches and remained under observation in the emergency room until about 6:30 p.m., night administrator Claude McCain said.
