Shigella cases strike Big Spring

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Howard County Sanitarian James Luck confirmed this morning 12 cases of shigella have been reported in Big Spring and five produce distributors serving the Permian Basin area are being investigated as the origin of the bacterial infection.

Lab results have confirmed shigellosis in three reported cases, Luck said. Two cases are now undergoing lab analysis and the remaining seven cases need further investigation, he said.

Of the 12 reported cases, seven persons ate at Chili's in Midland and one person ate at the Taco Villa in the Odessa mall, Luck said. However, one person contracted the infection in Big Spring, he said.

The bacteria are primarily transmitted by eating such produce as onions, tomatoes and lettuce, Luck said.

"Lettuce itself was the criminal," Luck said about sampling, testing and laboratory analysis of the food stuffs conducted by members in the epidemiological bureau of the State Health Department in the Permian Basin region.

Gary Cox, owner of Taco Villa and Texas Burger in Big Spring, said this morning testing conducted of his food products have proven negative as sources transmitting the bacteria.

His restaurants purchase their produce items from the Cox Marketing Commissary located at the Midland Air Terminal. The food items are inspected daily by two microbiologists, Cox said, in addition to testing recently conducted by state health officials.

"We've taken extra measures in our restaurants regarding sanitation and disinfecting procedures," Cox said.

The bacteria also can be transmitted through close contact with another person, Luck said.

A person who contracts shigella suffers from severe diarrhea and high fever, for up to five days. Other symptoms of the bacterial infection include headaches and vomiting. People with shigella will also exhibit lackadaisical behavior, Luck said.

A high number of unreported cases may be likely, Luck said, because persons contracting the bacteria think they have an intestinal flu and treat it as such.

The diarrhea and high fever can be treated with drugs, Luck said. Physicians treating the disease will usually depend on the body's immune system to eventually eliminate the other bothersome side effects, he said.

MHMR may lose millions

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation would lose about $26 million under a complex compromise hammered out Thursday by the House-Senate budget conference committee.

Committee members said, however, through adjustments and bill collections the agency could offset most of the reduction and end up losing about $5.5 million for the current fiscal year.

A.K. Smith, superintendent of the Big Spring State Hospital, could not be reached this morning to comment on the possible effect of such cuts on the local facility.

The five House and five Senate members earlier rejected a proposal that would return House-proposed cuts to the prison and corrections system.

In a 5-4 vote, House members turned down the proposal to put savings from the Texas Department of Corrections back into the agency and probation services. Sen. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington, was absent during the meeting.

The committee also failed to take up the issue of cuts to higher education. On Tuesday, the Senate offered a compromise 9 percent reduction.

Committee Chairman Sen. Grant Jones, D-Temple, said the panel plans to meet again Friday and Sunday in hopes of producing a final budget outline for both houses by early next week.

Some senators believe delivery of the compromise budget cuts will coax a tax bill out of the House to help solve the projected $2.8 billion budget deficit.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, said the Senate budget compromise has shown the House "we are not inflexible." In addition, he said, Texas House Speaker Gib Lewis, who has avoided a tax increase, "has indicated he is not inflexible."

Montford said the negotiation process must continue to lift the state from its fiscal problems. "We can produce a sparkling baby in a pearl-lined crib or we can hatch a gerbil," he said.

State to help with flood repair funds

City Manager Mack Wofford said today the city will probably work with the Texas Department of Community Affairs to secure financing for repairing and rebuilding municipal property damaged by the Aug. 30 flood.

Wofford, Mayor Cotton Mize and Mayor Pro Tem Harold Hall were in Austin Thursday for a flood funding meeting arranged by State Sen. John Montford and State Rep. Larry Don Shaw.

Wofford said Colorado River Municipal Water District manager Owen Ivie and district president John L. Taylor also attended the meeting.

"It appears the TDCA has a disaster fund to handle things of this nature," Wofford said. The agency is expected to work with the city and will probably send representatives to Big Spring for a meeting next week, he said.

Civil engineers from the Lubbock firm Parkhill Smith & Cooper set municipal property damage at approximately $1.3 million, the bulk coming from damage to Comanche Lake Dam with a rebuilding price tag of about $800,000.

There seems little possibility of direct federal money for financing flood repair, he said. For that to happen, the Governor must request the location be designated a federal disaster area, and then it must be decided so by Washington. Chances are slim that will happen, Wofford said.

The city might seek Texas Water Commission planning grants in the future, Wofford said.

Gross sales down by 42 percent

Gross sales for the first quarter of 1986 were on the rise in all four counties surrounding Howard County, while local revenues declined by nearly 42 percent.

The Texas State Comptroller of Public Accounts' county analysis of sales and use taxes showed increases ranging from 10.2 to 156.6 percent in gross sales for Borden, Glasscock, Martin and Mitchell Counties.

At the same time, Howard Count-ty sales declined by 41.9 percent during the first three months of 1986.

The information was released by the Comptroller's office today.

Across the state, gross sales declined by 3.3 percent during the first quarter.

Howard County sales that period totaled $111,178,445, compared to $191,477,468 during the same period one year ago. There were 822 reporting outlets in the county during that time, according to the Comptroller's figures.

Sales in the state totaled $69,094,495,812 during the quarter. The same period a year earlier showed sales of $71,466,069,932 fr 295,994 reporting outlets.

The largest percentage increase occurred in Borden County, which also features the fewest reporting outlets. The eight outlets reported $181,530 in first quarter sales, compared to $70,736 the year before.

That increase represents a 156.6 percent change, the Comptroller reported.

Glasscock County's first quarter sales by 97 reporting outlets totaled $5,791,915, a 25.8 percent increase over the $4,602,341 recorded the first quarter of 1985.

Martin County sales also showed an increase, growing from $13,462,676 a year ago to $14,834,816. That 10.2 percent increase represents a 10.2 percent in-

Farmers from other nations look to copy methods here

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Methods used by farmers in Howard County and throughout West Texas may be applied some day to help feed hungry people in parts of the world where dry conditions limit food production.

About 24 representatives from the World Bank and the Office of International Cooperation and Development were in Howard County this week to study dryland farming techniques and methods of limiting soil-wind erosion.

Representatives from Belgium, Great Britain, East Africa, Czechoslovakia, and other nations are touring dryland research stations at Bushland, Big Spring and Temple.

The World Bank is an international lending agency that makes funds available for improving economies and agriculture in developing nations.

The tour, sponsored by U.S.

Department of Agriculture, visited the Larry Shaw, Albert Long and Rich Anderson farms Wednesday.

Dr. John Hayward, a British crops advisor to World Bank, said members of the multinational tour are looking for "technology developed here that's applicable to developing nations."

"I think the important thing is the technology here is being well-developed," said Dr. Hayward.

Of special significance to the international group are the tools and methods used by local farmers in limiting soil-wind erosion, Hayward said.

The climate here, he said, is similar to many West African nations where wind carries away precious topsoil.

The physical properties of wind erosion and ways to curb it have been demonstrated by researchers and farmers here, he said.

He cited this area's use of a machine called the "sandfighter," which roughens soil by rapidly moving across its surface punching small indentations into the land. Hayward said the machine has a major impact in preventing wind erosion.

Bill Fryrear, Research leader of the Agricultural Research Service in Big Spring, said tilling practices, proper tools and when and how they are used play a big role in managing topsoil.

Local farmers, he said, basically do a good job of keeping topsoil on the fields and out of the atmosphere.

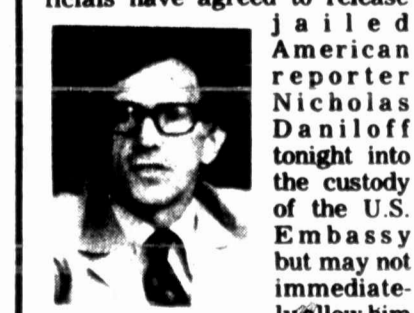

Worldwide, the amount of land suitable for irrigation has reached its limit, Fryrear said. "There's a tremendous number of countries that will always be in a dryland farming situation," he said.

The exchange between these dryland areas is "a two-way flow of information," said Dr. James Parr, the Agricultural Research

Service's research leader in Big Spring. The tour, sponsored by U.S. Farmers page 2A

Daniloff to be freed

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet officials have agreed to release to leave the Soviet Union, his wife said today.

In Washington, administration sources said the release was part of a deal under which a Soviet citizen arrested in New York on spy charges would be freed into the Soviet ambassador's custody.

Ruth Daniloff announced her husband's pending release in a telephone interview before leaving for Lefortovo Prison, where the reporter has been held 13 days on espionage charges.

She said Daniloff originally was to have been released at about 7:30 p.m. (11:30 a.m. EDT), but that the process was running late due to prison formalities.

Mrs. Daniloff said the conditions of her husband's release were unclear, but that he might not be allowed to leave the Soviet Union immediately.

"I'm ecstatic but he's still a hostage," she said. "I really won't be able to believe this until I see Nick walk out of that prison."

Mrs. Daniloff left her apartment with U.S. general consul Roger Daley, and they planned to go to the prison with U.S. charge d'affaires Richard Combs. Ambassador Arthur Hartman was in the United States.

She said she thought Daniloff would not be confined to embassy property but would be allowed to return to their apartment.

Bill would set March primary

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate has approved a bill to establish a March presidential primary in Texas so the state can jump in the front seat of national politics.

Texas would join 11 other Southern states in holding a primary on the second Tuesday in March in presidential years, starting in 1988.

The Senate bill was sent to the House on voice vote Thursday, after a test vote of 21-2 showed virtually no opposition.

"I couldn't resist a feeling of wry amusement watching that bill float through here when I remember 1979 and the Killer Bees and all that furor," said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Hobby also presided over the Senate in 1979 when 12 senators hid for 4½ days, leaving that body without a quorum and blocking a bill that would have set up a presidential primary separate from the regular primary for state and local races.

It was Hobby who named the absent senators "the Killer Bees."

The new proposal would move all primary elections from the first Saturday in May to the second Tuesday in March in even-numbered years.

"I would much prefer to have a split primary — have a general state primary in August or September or something like that," Hobby told reporters.

Prison inmates to move Farmers

AUSTIN — Texas prison officials are planning to move as many as 300 prisoners to a Mineral Wells National Guard barracks and quickly set up portable housing for 2,000 inmates to avoid overcrowding, Gov. Mark White said Thursday.

In addition, the Texas Board of Corrections is developing plans to move 150 illegal aliens out of prison and into detention centers, White said.

"I asked the Board of Corrections to find ways to increase capacity on an emergency basis to deal with the burgeoning prison population," White said.

The prison population totaled 38,317 as of midnight Wednesday, a prison spokesman said. The Prison Management Act takes effect once that number reaches 38,449, speeding up the release of prisoners to reduce the population.

"The board is taking these steps in response to the unprecedented increases in prison admissions that have occurred in recent weeks. Admissions are up 20 percent over the prior year. The increase represents a 36 percent jump over the forecasts given to the Legislature and the governor last year," White said.

White said Texans have indicated, through the sentences handed down in state courts, extra prison capacity is needed. "I support the board's move to find emergency additional prison capacity," White said.

A White spokesman said a newly-developed plan to buy "oilfield worker" type housing for existing state prisons should accommodate 2,000 inmates. That is in addition to another board plan to build 10 trusty camps.

He said the latest plan would move inmates into the new housing more quickly than the earlier proposal. Inmates possibly could be moved into the portable housing before the year's end. He said he believes the other camps will not begin opening until next spring.

The temporary trusty facility at Fort Wolters, the Army National Guard camp in Mineral Wells, could house 200 to 300 non-violent, minimum-security prisoners, a prison spokesman said.

Some prisoners could be moved there as early as next week, the spokesman said. Once some trusty camps are completed, the Fort Wolters inmates could be moved to those camps, he said.

The idea of moving 150 illegal aliens out of the prison system originated with Al Hughes, board chairman, according to a prison spokesman.

Service leader and coordinator for the World Bank tour.

Parr said certain strains of drought-resistant West African sorghum are being grown near Lubbock.

Larry Shaw, who farms about 2,220 acres in Howard and Martin counties, said the visiting tour group "asked a lot of questions," mainly about cropping techniques and the economics of Texas farming.

"They asked how many farmers would go broke around here," he said. Shaw said he told them farmers in this area are more fortunate than most, but that some do have a "carry-over problem."

Shaw also said he explained reasons why another dust bowl is unlikely here.

"We have the mechanical means to stop it from happening," he said, adding that he has and uses a sandfighter.

"More are going on the drawing board all the time," Shattuck said, adding that Payless and K mart are confident the concept will prove profitable.

The stores will sell clothes, shoes, toiletries, over-the-counter drugs, hardware, auto supplies, sporting goods, candy, tobacco, pet supplies, greeting cards and toys.

What makes Wonder World different from other discount variety stores, he said, is their line of frozen, fresh and packaged food.

"It's going to be a fun venture for us," he said.

Shattuck recently moved to Big Spring after serving as manager of a Payless Drugs store in LaGrande, Ore.

Two arrested for tampering

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested Rudy Garcia Gutierrez, 39, and Guadalupe Gutierrez, 32, both of 406 S. Benton, Thursday night on warrants for tampering with governmental records. They were each released on bonds of $1,000.

• Deputies released Terry DeWayne Huitt, 20, Garden City

Route Box 127, from county jail Thursday noon after he served a 90-day jail sentence for a driving while intoxicated judgment.

• Police transferred Raymond Leonard, 70, 3801 Calvin St., to county jail Thursday morning after he was arrested for suspicion of DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Egg production increases

Texas egg producers reported production of 275 million eggs during July, an increase of 10 percent from a year earlier and the highest July level since 1945, according to the state farm statistics service.

Production for human consumption, 248 million eggs, represented 90 percent of the total and a 12 percent increase over last year. Hatching eggs totaled 27 million, unchanged from a year ago.

The number of layers during July averaged 13.40 million, a 3 percent boost from last year but down slightly from June, according to the statistical service. Egg production per 100 layers averaged 2,052 eggs, compared with 1,915 last year.

Despite error, Coahoma tax rate will remain unchanged

COAHOMA — The 1986-87 city tax rate will remain at last year's rate of 64.98 cents per $100 valuation, Mayor Eleanor Garrett said Thursday.

The Council had voted unanimously Tuesday night not to raise taxes, but had done so with the understanding that the 1985-86 rate was 67 cents. City Clerk Karen Bell discovered the error Wednesday morning, and notified Garrett.

Garrett said Thursday she had called all the Council members but Jerry Brockman, and they remained opposed to raising taxes. She said Brockman had been strongly opposed to a tax raise, and she was sure he would be satisfied with the 64.98 cent rate.

"It would be a little less than what we figured, but they said they'd rather have their decision as it was," Garrett said.

Planning two cotton events

The Dryland County Promoters will host its annual Country Kids show Saturday, 10 a.m. at the Big Spring Mall. The morning event will be followed with the "Sew It With Cotton" competition at 2 p.m., Promoters' president Loray Jeffcoat said.

The events are open to the public. The Country Kids, composed of those five years of age and younger, will be displaying cotton clothing.

Sew It With Cotton, open to all seamstresses in the county, will be judged, with the winners to be announced at the Agriculture Building at the Howard County Fair Wednesday, 6 p.m., she said.

Orr: Ticket instead of jailing

AUSTIN — A new member of the Texas Jail Standards Commission said Thursday that many persons who commit minor crimes should be ticketed and fined rather than locked up.

Roy Orr, former county commissioner in Dallas, told a Senate committee that it's too expensive to lock up everyone who is arrested for a criminal act.

"Persons who commit some minor crimes shouldn't be taking up room in jail," Orr said. "Why lock them up if you know they're going to get out in the morning?" Dallas County arrests approximately 300 people a day, Orr said, "and I would say that at least half or more get out in the morning."

Orr was speaking to the Senate Nominations Committee, which was reviewing his recent appointment by Gov. Mark White to the nine-member Texas Jail Standards Commission. The commission enforces state regulations for city and county jails.

Orr won unanimous committee approval and will be considered by the entire Senate next week. Committee chairman Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, introduced Orr as "a neighbor of mine ... an excellent appointment."

Orr said he knows he risks being called soft on crime because of his ticketing proposal, but he said he just wants to make room in jail for more serious criminals.

Weather

The Forecast for 8 p.m. EDT, Sat, Sept. 13

Forecast

By The Associated Press

Mostly fair skies are expected tonight and Saturday. Temperatures will be warmer this afternoon. Isolated thunderstorms are expected in the mountains Saturday afternoon. Highs through Saturday will be 81 in the mountains to 85 in the Panhandle to 96 in the Big Bend. Lows tonight will be 52 in the mountains to 60 in the Panhandle to 70 in the extreme south.

State

A cold front moving southeastward through Texas early today brought showers and some heavy thunderstorms in its wake, and forecasters expected additional rainfall later.

The front stretched across the Lone Star State from Del Rio to Lufkin and into Louisiana. Skies were partly cloudy in areas close behind and just ahead of the front. Further behind the front, North and West Texas had clear skies.

Clear skies also prevailed over the Rio Grande valley of South Texas.

Soviets display more openness

The world reacted with consternation — not surprise — when the Soviets were slow to acknowledge the nuclear accident at its Chernobyl plant. This was the familiar side of the Soviet Union, the paranoid side of a government that shrouds its failures and mistakes in secrecy.

But recently, the Soviets did the unexpected. Their scientists issued an amazingly candid critique of what went wrong at Chernobyl. Gone was the earlier government spiel that the damaged reactor was under control and that the disaster hadn't affected the Soviet's nuclear energy program.

Instead, Soviet scientists gave a blow-by-blow description of how Chernobyl technicians made a series of six mistakes that led to a nuclear catastrophe. They detailed radiation levels that continue to poison the countryside around the plant and threaten the water supply in the entire Ukraine region. They predicted that thousands would die prematurely as a result of the accident and estimated losses of about $3 billion.

These were painful admissions for any government to make, much less the normally closed-mouth Soviet regime. Why did they behave so uncharacteristically?

Was the Chernobyl accident report a sign of a major policy shift toward openness? Or was it an isolated phenomenon for propaganda purposes?

It's too soon to determine, but there are encouraging signs that Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev may be lifting the veil of official silence and censorship just a bit. To be sure, some of the new "openness" appears more for the benefit of the international community than for his own people.

Better-educated and more sophisticated than his predecessors, Gorbachev understands the value of public relations to Western societies. And, since assuming power in March, 1985, he's used the international media to create for himself the image of a modern, vital chief of state.

But the Chernobyl disaster represented a severe setback for Gorbachev. How could he look credible when Sweden, rather than the Soviet Union, was the first to reveal the existence of the cloud of fallout drifting from Chernobyl? Gorbachev began to look suspiciously like the Soviet's Old Guard. The Chernobyl report was undoubtedly meant to help him regain a measure of international respect. He's also using it to advance his proposals for an arms control agreement.

The accident report, however, isn't the only example that Gorbachev is less repressive.

Of course, none of this means the Soviet Union has turned into a free society — or will do so anytime soon. But these small moves toward tolerance certainly deserve our encouragement.

LULAC sponsors clean-up effort

To the editor:
Please be advised that L.U.L.A.C. (League of United Latin American Citizens) had, prior to the announcement of the park clean-up by Hayes Stripling, already discussed strategy for the same project. At a meeting Monday, Sept. 8, it was decided that we would go ahead with our own scheduled Friday, Sept. 12, at 5 p.m. We also will join forces with Mr. Stripling on Sept. 20.

Several people attended this meeting and Valentine Torres, who had also started a group, has joined with us in our efforts. It was so good to see so many people who were thinking as we were. We have assembled our ideas and objectives and will put them into action this Friday.

One thing was crystal clear at this meeting, and that was the firm belief that we are in trouble and we need to join together to correct as much of mother nature's destruction as we can. We are obligated to do whatever is in our power (manpower) to help in times of need.

In addition, I would like to challenge all of the teen-agers who use the park on weekends to come out and assist us in our labor. This is your park. You use it in good times. Are you willing to help in bad?

Bring your hoes, rakes, shovels, etc. If more show up, I'll guarantee we will put a big dent on that mess and still have time to go out and support our Steers. We will meet at the Old Settlers Pavilion at 5 p.m.

Lions Club says thanks for success

To the editor:
The members of the Big Spring Evening Lions Club want to thank the Big Spring Herald for the excellent publicity prior to the Football Barbeque held in the high school cafeteria Friday, Sept. 5.

The members also want to thank the radio stations for their generous support that aided in making the affair a success.

The patrons who bought tickets and attended the annual affair are greatly appreciated by the Evening Lions, who will use the profits to continue its community projects.

Girls softball gives belated thanks

To the editor:
In a thank you note from United Girls Softball Association — to the many people and businesses who helped the three girls' softball teams go to Monahans for National Finals, we forgot to thank some businesses that helped with donations to get the girls to Andrews. Had the girls not played in Andrews they, would have never have made it to Monahans for Nationals.

Those businesses are: K-Mart, Pizza Hut, Pizza Inn, Godfather's, Burger King, Al's Bar-B-Q, Casa Blanca, and Circle J Drive In.

We really appreciate everyone who made it possible for four teams to go to Andrews and then three teams to go on to Monahans.

Senator's trivial trips earn junketeering award

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., is our choice for the 1986 Allen Ellender Memorial Trophy.

This is our own junketeering award, named for the late Louisiana senator who bewildered foreign leaders and drove U.S. diplomats to distraction as he careened around the world, often lecturing heads of state in impenetrable Cajun French dialect.

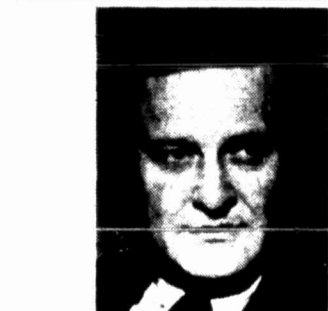

We've reported on Pressler's two-day exercise in personal diplomacy in Monte Carlo, when he learned of Prince Rainier's deep resentment of plans to close the U.S. consulate in Nice, France.

The stopover in Monaco was only part of Pressler's swing through Italy and environs during a 10-day investigation last spring of U.S. relations with the so-called "mini-states of Europe."

Actually, Pressler has a long way to go before he'll match the influential Ellender, whose voluminous reports of stupefying banality were always properly published by the Foreign Relations Committee. When Pressler prepared a modest report on his Easter junket, the committee refused to publish it — a stunning setback for the chairman of the subcommittee on European affairs. Pressler had to make do with entering it in the Congressional Record, like any local newspaper clipping or constituent's wedding anniversary congratulations.

Pressler's trip appears to have created maximum confusion among the Foreign Service personnel who had to make arrangements for his whistle stop tour. No one seems to have had a clear idea of Pressler's purpose.

According to cable traffic seen by our associate Lucette Lagnado, the Rome embassy was initially under the impression that Pressler was looking into "consulate closings." This sounded plausible, since consulates were to be shut down in Nice and in Seville, Spain, and Trieste, Italy. However, one cable noted, "the senator did not manifest any interest in visiting Trieste." Few people do.

Then the Rome embassy was informed that the point of Pressler's visit was to "expand his sensitivity to Northern Italy." In line with this laudable goal, he would visit Florence, Milan and Bologna.

Next the embassy learned that Pressler, who is also a member of the Special Committee on Aging, wanted to investigate Italy's treatment of the elderly.

While he was in the neighborhood, Pressler decided to drop in on the Most Serene Republic of San Marino, a tiny hillside nation completely surrounded by Italy, and notable chiefly for having had a government dominated or heavily influenced by the Communist Party for the past 40 years. As luck would have it, Pressler's visit coincided with the semi-annual pageantry surrounding the inauguration of the two co-regents who rule the little county.

The Florence consulate cabled Washington that the senator would be "warmly welcome" at the festivities, but warned: "Senior San Marino officials are generally unavailable for bilateral discussions during the inauguration period, due to ceremonial responsibilities."

Undeterred, Pressler went to San Marino and met the country's secretary of state, who solemnly informed him that mini-states are in a position "to offer solid moral and idealistic contribution in the biggest of battles undertaken on the international scene," according to Pressler's unpublished report.

Finally, the senator was invited to dinner by U.S. Ambassador Maxwell Rabb and his wife in the elegant Rome embassy. There was one disappointment, though, involving a movie actor who apparently is sometimes available for celebrity duties. "Roger Moore and wife regret they will not be able to return to Italy in time to dine with the senator," the embassy cabled to Washington.

Footnote: Pressler did not return numerous calls.

UNDER THE DOME: Opposition is growing in Congress to the administration's openhanded sale of Stinger anti-aircraft missiles to military forces it supports.

It's no secret that the deadly hand-held weapons have gone to the Afghan guerrillas. What worries congressional critics is that Stingers in the wrong hands could easily be used for terrorist purposes, such as shooting down commercial airliners.

The missiles remain in working condition for up to 12 years, which means tight security is needed. Yet that's just what most rebel groups lack. The White House opposes any move by Congress to curb its sale of Stingers to approved rebel armies.

Around the rim

Corporate lifestyle little fun

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer
The ship is sinking at Black Rock.

Or so they say in this week's Newsweek magazine cover story "Civil War at CBS — The Struggle for the Soul of a Legendary Network."

Before you plunge into the story detailing thrusts for stock control and power, it might be wise to ask Newsweek's interest in the alleged mayhem within one of the leading stalwarts in the communication industry.

It wasn't so long ago, we were reading about inner turmoil at Newsweek. William Broyles, darling of the Texas magazine world, wasn't impressive enough in his role as editor-in-chief.

He charmed Chairman of the Board Katharine Graham, but probably snubbed his nose at those nine-to-five guys he rubbed shoulders with.

Pin stripe shirts available from the Brooks Brothers haberdasher down the street a few blocks from Newsweek just didn't give Broyles what he probably needed most — the power look.

Midtown Manhattan corporate life. I'm remembering its beat.

In 1978, I interviewed with Holt Rinehart & Winston publishing company on Madison Avenue. I felt like I was trying for a chairman-of-the-board position in my quest for a position as a typesetter.

HRW is a publishing company owned and controlled by guess who — CBS.

"We want you to become a member of our family," said interviewer Madeline. She had the voice of a Lana Turner, the appeal of a Greta Garbo.

That did it. I said yes to two years of minimal wages and dizzy circumstances.

The charm of 10-pennies-in-your-pocket-feeling-like-$10,000 quickly wore off.

Soon, I was out on the street, like 700 people fired earlier this summer within CBS.

They will have to do much like I did — march to the tune of a different drummer.

And lower themselves to purchase Brooks Brothers pin stripe shirts by mail order only.

More choice in education needed

One of the distinguishing features of American public schools is their captive constituency. Parents don't decide where to send their children; government officials do that for them.

That control maximizes the power of educators, at the expense of those they are supposed to educate. So when government officials offer to delegate power to parents and students, the reversal is gratifying.

The proposal comes in a report from the nation's governors who, like most Americans, are alarmed at the decline of public education. Many of their ideas are familiar: raising teacher salaries, stressing the acquisition of basic skills, expanding early childhood development programs, making better use of computers in the classroom, using schools year-round.

All of these measures may help. But they pale in significance next to the recommendation that schools be required to compete for students. Only greater freedom to choose can correct the principal defect of public schools, which is their near-monopoly status.

The governors note that educators name "more parental involvement" as the most important factor in raising student achievement. But they argue that "parents of students in the public school system recognize that they have no choice, and they reason that they have no responsibility.

Parents who choose their children's schools generally take a greater interest in them. The system of "compulsory, packaged education," the governors insist, "is an enemy of parental involvement and responsibility."

Past experiments provide other arguments for expanding choice. By ensuring a closer fit between a school's strengths and its students' needs and interests, it creates an environment in which young people work harder, learn more and behave better. By encouraging a diversity of educational approaches — some schools emphasize strict control, others small classes — it caters to those students who would be shortchanged by the conventional model.

Even Albert Shanker, head of the American Federation of Teachers, notes that "attendance is much higher and dropout rates are much lower in those public schools — vocational and optional academic high schools — that students themselves have chosen to go to."

The only flaw in the idea is that it doesn't go far enough. The governors are willing to allow parents and students greater freedom only in choosing among public schools, not between private and public ones. They and Shanker regard choice like cholesterol: A little is necessary, but a lot can be fatal.

As might be expected of government officials, they are intent on protecting the near-monopoly status of the public school system, though not of individual schools.

But why not expand the choice of schools still further? Because of their freedom from government control, private schools can offer still more diversity. In some places, they are the only reasonable option for parents dissatisfied with public education.

This group includes those best acquainted with the public schools: In Chicago, 46 percent of public school teachers living in the city send their children to private schools, double the city average.

These institutions are handicapped, though, by their comparatively high cost. While public schools are guaranteed a steady supply of tax dollars, enabling them to provide "free" education, private schools must charge tuition to survive.

The striking fact is how many poor parents are willing to spend $2,000 or $3,000 a year to avoid the public schools. Chicago's Heartland Institute found that here, "schools that are closest to poor neighborhoods have the highest enrollments, the longest waiting lists and the greatest need for expanded facilities." The governors concede that the greatest support for a program facilitating choice between private and public schools comes from "low-income families and black parents."

It is these people who have suffered most from the deterioration of public schools, and it is they who would gain most from the broader options that would be provided by education vouchers or tuition tax credits. Those broader options also would compel the public schools to do better. The governors are wrong in thinking of competition like cholesterol. It's really like learning: You never can have too much.

Woman becomes a wife in exile when stepdaughter comes home

DEAR ABBY: My world is about to fall apart. I'm 68 and "George" is 70. We both lost our mates, and found love again with each other. It was like a dream. Then this came to light: George has a 38-year-old, twice-divorced daughter who is self-supporting but has moved back "home" with a girlfriend to look after her father and run his house. "Stella" is spoiled rotten and bosses her father around as though he were a child. He's a kind, gentle man who had been bossed by his deceased wife for 43 years, and now this daughter is taking up where her mother left off.

Dear Abby

45-year-old habit — correcting you for your own good. But since it was done with your consent, you should waive the right to complain.

DEAR ABBY: My problem may seem rather odd, and you'll probably think I'm weird, but here goes: I am going to be married soon and I have already designed my wedding gown and plan to make it myself. It's going to be black lace and taffeta. I've told only a few people and have already been ridiculed, asked if I was "crazy," and I was even accused of being a Satan worshipper. I am not. I believe in God, I just happen to like black.

I know from history that white was not always the traditional color for brides. In our culture black is worn by mourners, but I am not superstitious. In other cultures, white is worn for mourning, so why not black for weddings?

I have had only one positive reaction from a friend who heard I was going to be married in black. She said, "It figures. You always were different."

I would appreciate your opinion. DIFFERENT IN INDIANA

DEAR DIFFERENT: What does your fiance think? His is the only objection you need. If he has no objection, go with the black and good luck.

George will not stand up for himself, hoping the situation will solve itself. He doesn't want Stella to know that he bought me a new car and a lovely piece of jewelry as a wedding gift. He told her I already had them. I don't like all this deceit.

We have been married for seven months, and we are not even living together because his daughter is there and he says it will be too crowded with me there, too. Abby, I am his wife!

I didn't know all this was going to happen. George says neither did he, but Stella is his daughter, and he can't say no to her. So where does that leave me?

HUMILIATED

DEAR HUMILIATED: That leaves you outside looking in, which is where you will remain unless George sends Stella packing and moves you into his home where you belong.

Unfortunately, this is hardly a realistic expectation from what

DEAR ABBY: Recently my mother was sitting in my kitchen when my telephone rang. She listened casually while I carried on a brief conversation with a friend. When I hung up, she said, "Do you want me to help you to be a more refined lady?" So I said, "Sure." Then she said, "You say OK too much. Your father would never allow his secretary to use OK. It's not ladylike."

I was dumbfounded and think my mother was wrong to criticize me. I am 45 and Mother is 73. What is your verdict, please?

OKEYDOKE

Breast soreness common during menstruation

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is it a danger sign for a woman to have breast soreness during menstruation? My wife, who is 28, has this problem. — A.V.

It's not usually a danger sign. Hormones influence fluid retention at these times, and that produces a tightness of the breast tissue. Your wife should make a note to report her distress to her doctor the next time she's in. Don't worry about it. If the soreness is causing her great distress, she can get advice on alleviating it with medicine and other steps.

Dr. Donohue

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: How is strep transmitted? What is a strep carrier? — M.H.L.

Strep germs spread from person to person in droplets of saliva or nasal secretions. They can spread in food also. They are not spread by contact with inanimate objects.

A strep carrier is one who has the germ in his throat, but no symptoms of sore throat. We don't know why it happens. A person treated for strep throat may have some germs linger after signs of infection are gone. Those germs don't cause infection spread. The germs have more or less pooped out.

Prayer Breakfast to continue

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

As a result of the success of the "Community Under God" rally, Big Spring citizens are "asking for more," said Everett Bender, coordinator of the event.

In response to their request, the city's leaders and concerned citizens are going to give them more.

A Mayor's Prayer Breakfast will be coordinated each month on a Saturday morning and will feature a local individual who will share his testimony, Bender said.

This month's prayer breakfast will be tomorrow from 8-9 a.m. at the Homestead Inn, South Service Rd. I-20, one mile west of U.S. 87. A continental breakfast will be served for $2.

"Mayor Cotton Mize will share his testimony and tell what God has done in his life."

"This is going to put the Mayor in a different light. The Mayor is seen as human. He isn't only the political leader, but the spiritual leader as well," said Tony Jamar, minister of Christ Fellowship.

The response extends beyond Big Spring. Mayor Don Carter, Odessa and Midland Mayor Carroll Thomas are planning to attend, Bender said, with intentions of beginning such programs in their respective cities. He said that Mize indicated the occasion will mark the first time the three mayors have been together in a long time.

"This is an ongoing opportunity for people of every church to unite in prayer for individual and community needs and be inspired to go back into each of our own churches, jobs and homes and work for the Lord in each of our own ways," Bender said.

The prayer breakfasts will be organized and staffed by laymen in the area. "Pastors also can be refreshed and inspired," he said.

A unique aspect of the prayer breakfasts, said Bender, is its location. It will be conducted at The Homestead Inn, in an effort to provide "neutral ground. We don't want a denominational slant."

The Inn is operated by B.J.

Bateman, a former inmate of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp. He is "now serving the Lord and has dedicated his business to the Lord."

Recent area rain is one of the results of the initial rally, in the opinion of the organizers.

"We prayed for rain at the rally because we were having a drought," Bender said.

Other benefits they cited include:

● Tony Jamar was inspired by the rally and made Life Line, a local Christian radio broadcast on KKIK, a reality.

● James Robison committed to lead a one night rally in Big Spring Oct. 14 upon an invitation from Eddie Thibedaux.

● Jamar says attendance at the Ministerial Fellowship has increased since the rally and local pastors have agreed to meet each Monday morning to pray.

"We feel we have a need to work closer together," he said.

While 250 people attended the first rally, Bender said, it's difficult to forecast how many people will attend the Sept. 13 breakfast.

Nuns' habit

East Texas nuns live life of prayer and service

BEAUMONT (AP) — In a country with so much emphasis on sex, wealth and freedom, not many would choose chastity, poverty and obedience.

"We're a mystery to some people — not to Catholics — but to others who think the thing to do is to get married and have a family," says Sister Carmelita, one of 15 nuns who live in the convent adjacent to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

The women made their choice in another time and place. They are American citizens now, but their voices still carry the lilting rhythm of their Irish homeland. Some of them joined the Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word more than 50 years ago, right after graduating from high school.

Teachers or relatives influenced some of the sisters, but their choice came as "a calling," they say. They think that, just as some people are born to be policemen or teachers, others are born to be nuns.

"I knew in the back of my mind since I was very young that I wanted to be a nun," Sister Celsus says. "I had never seen one. I didn't know what it was all about, but I knew. When the occasion opened up, I just walked into it."

"I could never see myself as anything else," Sister Carmelita says.

They say they don't miss having husbands and children.

"We have such a large family now," Sister Anselm says, referring to the other sisters and the hospital's patients.

The main difference between their life and that of people outside the convent is that, without the demands of a family, they can devote more time to their work.

Sister Carmelita says.

But looking at convent life from the outside, the biggest difference might appear to be the sister's vows of chastity, poverty and obedience.

The nuns wear gold wedding bands to symbolize their marriage to God, and their celibate life.

They are not allowed to own anything, but live in a mansion donated by the Phelans that cost $250,000 to build in 1925. It still is resplendent with chandeliers, marble floors and stained glass, but to the sisters it is just a convent. Their bedrooms are small and simply furnished.

But "I never feel like I'm confined or deprived," she says. "We never want for anything. When I needed a new suit of clothes, I went down to the store and charged it on my convent MasterCard."

The order also paid for the college education that enables her to be administrator of St. Elizabeth Hospital. With nine children in her family, finding money for school would have been difficult, she says.

"I may never have gotten this far." Life in the convent is more structured than that led by most people. The sisters get up at 4:30 every morning, pray in their room from 5 until 6, then attend morning praise and mass in the convent's chapel.

They bow their heads at individual prayer stations in a ballroom that once swirled with lavish dances.

Their breakfast is prepared in the hospital kitchen, and hospital employees wash their dishes.

At 7 a.m., most of the sisters go to work at St. Elizabeth. As administrator, the energetic Sister Carmelita is in charge of the hospital, overseeing its 18 construction projects and taking part in numerous meetings.

The books near her bed show she faces problems any other manager has; she's been reading "The One Minute Manager" and "Coping With Difficult People."

Her nun's habit doesn't stop anybody from disagreeing with her during meetings, Sister Carmelita says. "I get shouted down as much as anybody else."

Like most of the sisters at St. Elizabeth, Sister Carmelita began her service as a nurse. When the order had more members, all the nurses at church-owned hospitals were nuns, she says. But now most of the sisters serve as patient representatives, checking on the patients every day to be sure they have everything they need, and sharing their warmth and cheer with the sick and their families.

"Mainly we listen; listen attentively and keep the confidence of the patients up," Sister Celsus says. The nuns joined the order to spread their faith to others, but since many of their patients are not Catholic, they do not push their religion on them.

"We still have patients who think we're evangelical. They're a little cagey of us," Sister Anselm says. "We leave the door open, and if they want to ask us about it. They may ask us for a prayer."

The nuns wear veils and black, blue or white habits, but while working as patient representatives they also wear lab coats. They wear street clothes when "off duty," but prefer to wear the habit any time they go out in public.

"How is that person going to know she's a sister (if she's not wearing a habit?)" Sister Pulcharia asks. "To me, a sister looks beautiful in her habit. She looks like a witness to the world, like hope for the world."

Rather than being cloistered in the convent, the nuns take part in community activities and are very aware of what is going on in the world. They gather to watch the national news after evening praise at 5:15, and they tch-tch over most of it, from news about Libya to new divorce statistics to a story about a child with AIDS.

After dinner, the sisters are free to walk about the grounds, work in the garden, do needlework or whatever they want. There's a swimming pool for warm evenings, and sometimes the sisters sing and dance.

"With the rotunda shape of the roof, music goes around the building like a stereo. It enhances it to move your feet a little, one way or another," Sister Pulcharia says.

"We do have a lot of fun; we really do," Sister Carmelita says. But fewer women are choosing this lifestyle. The order once had more than 500 members; it now has only 360.

"People don't make long commitments anymore," Sister Anselm says. Instead of dedicating their lives to service, Americans volunteer on a short-term basis, to work in the Peace Corps or a local soup kitchen.

Sister Carmelita describes the nuns as an endangered species. But the order has new blood from Texas, California and Utah, and young recruits are joining missions in Guatemala, El Salvador and Africa. The sisters have faith their work will be continued despite their shrinking ranks.

"God will take care of it," Sister Finola says.

Wesley Church to have fair booth

Wesley Methodist Church will feature a fair booth especially for children at the Howard County Fair Sept. 15-20.

More than 65 people will work at the booth to give away 3,000 helium balloons, children's picture Bibles, children's audio cassette tapes of Bible stories with picture Bibles, children's video tapes of animated Bible stories.

The booth will be open Mon. through Fri. from 5-9 p.m. and Sat. from 10 a.m.-9 p.m.

'Round-up Sunday' to be Sept. 14

First Church of God, 2009 Main St., is having "Round-up Sunday" on Sept. 14.

At last Sunday's service Hungry Hiram, a real ranch hand (portrayed by Jody Rivers), came to church to round-up the cows. Nelda Reagan, Sunday School secretary, explained to Hiram that the round-up was for people, not cows.

Each Sunday school class is urged to round-up members who may have strayed during the summer months and bring them to Sunday School.

Everyone is welcome to come dressed in western clothing, but Pastor Delmer Loy requests, "no guns or spurs, please."

Following Sunday School, which begins at 9:45 a.m., and worship service at 10:45 a.m., there will be a free barbecue dinner on the grounds. A pony ride and a petting zoo for the children will be included in the day's festivities. Price for pony ride photos is $2.

Photos will be taken by the youth group to raise money for their activities. The class with the most children who attend will get to rope the pastor.

The public is invited to attend.

Church women plan Tasting Tea

Church Women United is sponsoring a Tasting Tea on Sun., Sept. 14 from 2-4 p.m. in Garrett Hall at the First United Methodist Church, 14th and Scurry.

Estacado (1-0) at Big Spring (1-0)

The Lubbock Estacado Matadors will waltz into Memorial Stadium tonight as the number one team in the state. They're not big, but they'll be the fastest team the Steers will face this year.

Last year, the Matadors racked up 440 yards on the ground in beating the Steers 41-12. Edward Walker and Jimmy Doss did most of the damage last year, and they'll be back aiming to pad their stats and maintain their top ranking.

It won't happen. The Steer defense is bigger this year, and they'll know what to expect. But to win, the Big Spring linebackers and defensive ends must contain the Matador speedsters and string out the sweeps. Speed is more frightening than strength, and the Steers must adapt to the Matadors quickness in a hurry. If they don't, it will be a long night.

The offense must control the ball for long stretches, and wear out the smaller Matadors. The Steer running backs, themselves a threat to break the big play, will have to find their holes and hold onto the ball.

They will.

Big Spring 24, Lubbock Estacado 21

Seminole (1-0) at Colorado City (0-0-1)

Last year, Colorado City edged Seminole 10-6 in Seminole in a game in which the stats were even closer than the score.

A week ago, Seminole beat Coahoma, and the Wolves tied Slaton, but outplayed them in the last three quarters.

Tonight, a bigger Colorado City team, frustrated from last week and playing at home, will wear down Seminole. A fourth quarter touchdown will make the difference against the tired Indians.

Colorado City 13, Seminole 9

Stanton (1-0) at Coahoma (0-1)

Against Seagraves, Stanton proved to be a team that can take gifts, such as fumbles, and turn them into points. That's how Georgia won the national championship a few years back.

Coahoma edged Stanton 8-7 in a baseball score last year, and tonight's battle with their old rival should again be a defensive struggle.

But until Coahoma proves they can put points on the board, they'll always be the underdog. Stanton scored 26 points last week, and they're the safe pick over a Bulldog team that was shutout last week.

Stanton 9, Coahoma 6

Forsan (1-0) at Plains (1-0)

Forsan proved last week they can win without playing well — that's what separates the good teams from the average teams. This week, however, the Buffaloes must play their best to beat Plains. Because Plains, as Coach Jan East knows, is not Roscoe.

Plains returns 14 starters from a 5-5 record in AA play. This season they drop to single A, and they should be strong. In QB Shane McWinn, Forsan faces a passer touted as a possible all-stater.

But if you're going to start making a habit of betting against Forsan, you might as well cut a hole in your pocket. Wayne Wright is an awesome force on both sides of the line, and QB Brant Nichols is due after a frustrating game against Roscoe. This week, he'll get the ball to 6'5 receiver Lee Morris, and the rest is academic.

Forsan 20, Plains 14

Garden City (0-1) at Grandfalls (0-1)

Both teams are searching for their first win. Last year these two hooked up in a defensive struggle with Garden City coming away with a 12-0 win.

The Grandfalls Cowboys are much better than last year's 1-9 team. They return 19 offensive and defensive starters. Their offense is much improved with the return of fullback Corey Turner and halfback Hipolito Holquin.

The Garden City Bearkats will be trying to revive an offense that gained less than 100 yards last week. The Bearkats offense will score this week, but it won't be enough.

Grandfalls 14, Garden City 6

Jayton (1-0) at Klondike (1-0)

The number one Jayton Jaybirds come to town and they sure better be ready to play, because the Klondike Cougars will be fired up.

Last week the Cougars won their first game in a year, and they looked good doing it, defeating a good Amherst team. But a balanced Cougar offense will be hurt by the loss of quarterback Kurt Tidwell, out two weeks with a shoulder injury.

The Cougars will put up a gallant fight against the defending state champs, but Jayton will keep its 29-game winning streak alive.

Jayton 55, Klondike 27

Blackwell (0-1) at Grady (0-1)

This should be another learning experience for a young Grady Wildcats football team. Coach Mike Mathis has his hands full at Grady with one senior, three sophomores and 11 freshmen.

Meanwhile, Blackwell returns a host of lettermen from last year's 1-9 team. Blackwell will get its first win of the season.

Blackwell 50, Grady 12

Sands (0-1) at Borden County (1-0)

This should be a good game. Both teams fared better than anyone expected last week.

Borden County displayed a strong defense in its win over McCaulley. Sands proved it could play with the best when it outscored Jayton 27-8 in the second half of its game.

It will be a stout Borden County defense against an explosive Sands offense. This week the explosive offense will prevail.

Pats crush listless Jets

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — It might not look that way on the scoreboard, but everyone at Giants Stadium knew the New York Jets had been manhandled by the New England Patriots.

The final score Thursday night was 20-6. It could have been 40-6 for all that it mattered. The AFC champion Patriots dominated the Jets, who also lost star running back Freeman McNeil for four to six weeks with a dislocated right elbow.

The Patriots, who got a pair of touchdown catches from Tony Collins, have allowed only three field goals in two games. They are 2-0 and will lead the AFC East regardless of Sunday's results.

"We're more confident this year," Blackmon said after the Patriots held the Jets to 33 and 47-yard field goals by Pat Leahy and didn't allow New York close to the end zone in the second half. "We believe in each other, that we can do anything we put our minds to."

The Jets, now 1-1, managed a decent drive, covering 26 yards in six plays following a 14-yard punt return by Kurt Sohn. Leahy extended his team record to 14 consecutive field goals with a 47-yarder, making it 7-6 at halftime.

But the Jets had nothing in the second half. And the Patriots had a trick play in their repertoire that clinched it.

With a fourth-and-1 on the New York 10, New England called time out to discuss what to call. The play, called by backup QB Steve Grogan, was "438 pass," another option throw by James. He rolled right with a handoff from Eason, the linebackers and secondary bit at the run, and James lofted a pass to a wide-open Collins at the goal line.

"They're not trick plays," James said. "It's part of the offense. We try to keep the defense guessing.

That play clinched the win because the Jets were having no success against New England's staunch defense.

"It seemed like the whole game we were down," Hector said. "We didn't play up to our potential — like we were asleep and just couldn't wake up. We knew it would be a dogfight but we just couldn't get up for the game."

Tony Franklin added field goals of 45 and 42 yards later in the half.

The first game official's decision to be overruled after consultation with a television replay occurred in the third quarter.

With a third-and-18 at the New York 41-yard line, O'Brien threw to Toon on the right sideline. Toon caught the ball and was ruled out of bounds.

After NFL supervisor of officials Art McNally consulted the instant replay — which is being used for the first time this season in the NFL to decide possession or out-of-bounds calls — he overruled the on-field call, saying Toon was in-bounds.

Tired Wilander fears burnout, takes vacation

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Ranked third in the world, Mats Wilander of Sweden has become the latest tennis star to decide to take a rest from the sport.

"I feel tired of tennis and everything about it," Wilander, 22, said. "It's not fun to practice any more. You risk a burnout if you don't take a break and I hope to rest one or two months every year from now."

Wilander said Thursday that he will take a seven-week sabbatical from Nabisco Grand Prix events.

The right-hander, winner of four Grand Slam titles — two French Opens and two Australian Opens — said he will make his comeback in the Stockholm Open scheduled for Nov. 3-9.

Wilander hinted during the recent U.S. Open that he might take time off. He also had talked about the possibility of taking a hiatus in July after losing the Swedish Open final to Emilio Sanchez of Spain.

He also will miss Grand Prix events in Hamburg, Barcelona, Sydney and Paris. He has declined to play for Sweden against Czechoslovakia in their Davis Cup semifinal in Prague later this month.

"I have always enjoyed playing Davis Cup for Sweden and I feel sorry about missing the match against the Czechs," said Wilander, who led Sweden to the Davis Cup championship the past two years. "The Davis Cup is something special. But there is no point to make an exception for the semifinal in Czechoslovakia. I need to rest completely from tennis."

Hans Olsson, Sweden's Davis Cup captain, agreed with Wilander.

"Mats has felt tired of tennis for a long time," Olsson said. "I think he has made a wise decision before it's too late. Of course, Mats is our first-stringer, but we also have many other strong players."

Earlier this year, John McEnroe took a nearly seven-month sabbatical from tennis, returning last month in Stratton Mountain, Vt., where he reached the semifinals before losing to Wimbledon champion Boris Becker.

Valenzuela beats Astros for 19th win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fernando Valenzuela's 19th victory of the 1986 season was a less than memorable affair for the Los Angeles Dodgers' left-hander.

The Houston Astros would like to forget the game all together.

One person who will want to remember the Dodgers' 14-6 victory Thursday night will be Pedro Guerrero, who hit his first home run of the season.

Pinch-hitting for Valenzuela in the seventh, he blasted a 1-2 pitch from Julio Solano into the left-field seats. The Dodger slugger stood, ala Reggie Jackson, and watched the ball fall into the seats before circling the bases to a standing ovation from the crowd of 34,816.

"It's always a good feeling," Guerrero said afterward. "Every time I hit a home run it's a great feeling. Because it's the first home run after the injury, it's a great feeling, of course."

The crowd continued its ovation until Guerrero stepped out of the Dodger dugout and waved.

Prior to the homer, Guerrero had one hit in 12 at-bats this season, which has been cut short for him by a pre-season knee injury. His last home run came on Sept. 28 of last season.

There were five home runs in all Thursday night, three by the Dodgers. Before Guerrero's four-bagger, Reggie Williams hit a three-run homer in the fifth and Greg Brock added a solo shot in the seventh.

For the Astros, Kevin Bass hit a two-run homer in the sixth and Glen Davis added a solo homer, his 29th of the year, in the eighth.

The victory gave the Dodgers a two-game sweep over the division-leading Astros, who still hold a nine-game edge.

"We played sloppy in both games," said Houston pitcher Bob Knepper, 15-11, who took the loss Thursday night.

Valenzuela never found his rhythm command as he struggled to overcome the three runs he allowed in the first two innings. He gave up five runs, four earned, and nine hits, while striking out six without issuing a walk.

His 19 victories equal a career high for Valenzuela, who was 19-13 in 1982.

Knepper, slumping of late, was tagged for seven runs, five earned, before leaving after four innings. In his last five starts, Knepper has lost three without a victory.

Giants 2, Reds 1

Chili Davis hit a two-run homer and Kelly Downs and Scott Garrelts combined on a five-hitter. The Giants' fourth victory in five games pulled them within one-half game of the second-place Reds in the NL West.

Davis hit his 11th homer of the season in the fourth inning off Bill Gullickson, 13-10.

Downs, 2-4, allowing a run on four hits. Garrelts earned his ninth save.

Padres 9, Braves 1
Ed Wojna, 2-0, allowed only three

Los Angeles Dodgers' pitcher Fernando Valenzuela pitches his way to his 19th victory Thursday night against the Houston Astros in Los Angeles. Valenzuela became the National League's first 19-game winner as the Dodgers defeated the Astros 14-6.

singles and two walks in his first major league complete game. He also made two errors, one of them allowing Atlanta's run.

The crowd, 6,187, was San Diego's smallest since Sept. 2, 1982. Atlanta starter David Palmer, 11-9, gave up seven runs in 2 1/3 innings, ending his winning streak at six.

Red Sox lose, but increase lead

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer
Even when the Boston Red Sox lose, they win.
Boston's 11-game winning streak ended Thursday night with an 8-6 loss in Baltimore, but the Red Sox still increased their lead in the American League East, because runnerup Toronto dropped a doubleheader to New York. Boston's margin over the Blue Jays grew to nine games.
The third-place Yankees, with their 3-1 and 7-5 victories, moved within 10 games of Boston. The Red Sox begin a three-game series in New York tonight.
"The three games this weekend against Boston mean a lot more now," said Yankees Manager Lou Piniella, a member of the New York team in 1978 that overtook the Red Sox in the final month.
The California at Cleveland game was rained out. The Angels lead the AL West by nine games over Texas.
In Baltimore, the Orioles scored twice in the seventh for a 6-6 tie and then won it in the eighth.

Don Aase, 6-7, pitched two innings for the victory.
Bill Buckner hit two homers and drove in three runs for Boston. Jim Rice hit a sacrifice fly in the first inning for his 100th RBI, the fourth straight year he has reached that mark and the eighth time in his career.
The victory, ending Boston's five-game winning streak in Baltimore, was just the ninth in the last 34 games for the Orioles since they closed within 2 1/2 games of the Red Sox on Aug. 5.
Yankees 3, Blue Jays 1
Yankees 7, Blue Jays 5
Pinch-hitter Dan Pasqua's three-run double in the ninth inning rallied New York to victory in the second game for a doubleheader sweep in Toronto.
The Yankees won the opener as Doug Drabek pitched five-hit ball for 7 1/3 innings.
Dave Rigetti saved both games, giving a total of 38, in sending Toronto to its fourth straight loss.
Ron Kittle homered in both games for New York. His first two homers since joining the Yankees on July 29 gave him 19 this season.

Don Mattingly went 2-for-3 in the first game and reached the 200-hit mark for the third straight season. The only other Yankee with three consecutive 200-hit seasons is Lou Gehrig.
Tigers 8, Brewers 0
Jack Morris pitched a three-hitter and recorded his league-leading fifth shutout as Detroit downed Milwaukee.
Darnell Coles hit a three-run double in the first inning and Kirk Gibson, Alan Trammell and Tom Brookens homered for the host Tigers.
Morris, 17-8, gave up three singles and did not allow a runner past first base. Rookie Juan Nieves, 10-10, lost his sixth straight decision and remained winless in eight starts since July 28.
Gibson hit a two-run homer in the eighth. It was his 25th homer and third in two nights.
A's 2, White Sox 1
Joaquin Andujar threw a six-hitter and Dusty Baker went 3-for-3, leading Oakland past Chicago.

Andujar, 10-6, won his third straight decision with his third complete game in a row. Rich Dotson, 10-14, took the loss despite pithing a five-hitter.

Royals 7, Mariners 6
Willie Wilson tripled home the winning run with one out in the 10th inning as Kansas City beat visiting Seattle.
Twins 6, Rangers 2
Mark Salas hit two homers and drove in four runs, helping Minnesota's Frank Viola to continue his domination of Texas.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, SEPT. 13, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to busy yourself at whatever your usual Saturday tasks are. Take some time out to plan your future activities so you make the most of them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A day to get into the activities you have long procrastinated. Learn to be more industrious in the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Some investigation into what can help you make progress is wise today. Try to make new allies.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study into reports so they are handled accurately. Do something practical that will please your mate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Take time to converse with outside associates. Handle some public affair you have been avoiding.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) An ideal day to analyze how well you have been keeping promises to others. Do something for fellow workers.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day to improve on hobbies that please you. Know what it is that your mate wants of you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have domestic chores to handle so do them precisely. Treat friends nicely and be happy with them tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get shopping and other errands handled early. Later take little trips to see your good friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A fine day for studying your property. Look into ways on how to make more money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Gaining personal aims is easy today. Be with persons like you and put more humor into your life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get into personal tasks and whatever is most pressing. Your mate may require work from you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good day to see your friends and do whatever will make them happier and more devoted to you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have every ability to handle whatever is practical in any project that is of interest to him, or her. It would be wise to give business courses in school and add psychology and philosophy to the curriculum in order to understand others better.

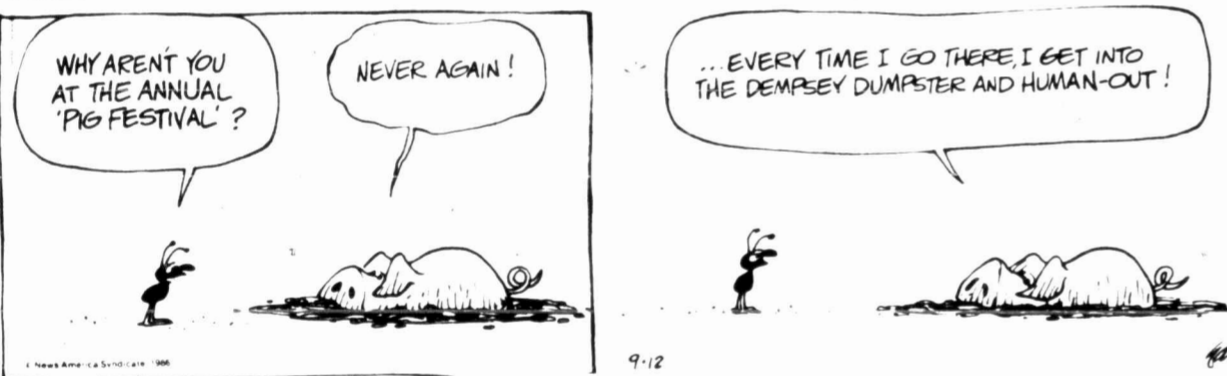

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Hospital reviews security

TEMPLE — Officials at Scott & White Memorial Hospital said they will review security at the facility after an infant was taken from a viewing room at the nursery just hours after he was born.

Jeremy Scott Bobo was abducted from the viewing room about 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, eight hours after he was born. The child was found at a residence west of Temple Wednesday evening, and two suspects taken into custody, police said.

Valerie Elaine Dach, 19, was charged with kidnapping Thursday, and was being held at Bell County Jail on $100,000 bond. Her common-law husband was not charged in the kidnapping, but faces a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle because the truck the couple were in was reported stolen from a Temple car lot, police said.

Hunts return to Dallas

NEW ORLEANS — The billionaire Hunt brothers, fighting to keep 23 banks from foreclosing on $1.5 billion of their property, lost a round in the battle when a federal appeals court moved their bankruptcy cases to Dallas.

The Hunts had wanted to keep Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceedings in New Orleans, where they filed petitions on Aug. 29. But the banks' attorneys argued to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that the Hunts were trying to complicate an already complicated case.

"The game isn't to win. The game is to spread things out," said attorney Melvyn Cantor, representing Manufacturers Hanover Trust.

In ruling that the Hunts must transfer the Chapter 11 case to Dallas, the 5th Circuit upheld an earlier order by U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders of Dallas.

Murder charge rescinded

DALLAS — A 22-year-old man on trial for a Carrollton convenience store killing that was videotaped and later broadcast nationwide has been cleared, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

The newspaper, in a copyright story, said Marvin Maurice Wells is scheduled to be released today.

The Times Herald quoted unidentified sources on Thursday as saying that new evidence indicates Wells, charged with capital murder, is not the man who killed 17-year-old Matt McKay of Oklahoma City.

McKay, who was a customer in the store, was shot during the Nov. 21 robbery and died 18 days later, authorities said.

Sources told the newspaper it was "determined conclusively" this week that Wells was not involved after investigators found his voice did not match that of the robber shown on the videotape.

Bomb scare box de-fused

AMARILLO — A suspicious package bound for the Pantex nuclear weapons assembly plant that forced the evacuation of a United Parcel Service center turned out to be hardware parts, officials said Thursday.

Police were called to the UPS distribution center shortly after 6:30 p.m. Wednesday after doubts arose about the parcel, which was in a delivery truck.

But FBI special agent U. Specht said the package was legitimate and was supposed to go to the plant. "It was suspicious because the address label was missing," Specht said.

Major drug case tried

AUSTIN (AP) — A federal judge Thursday meted out 38 years in prison sentences and $80,000 in fines for five men convicted in what officials said was one of the most complex drug cases ever uncovered.

The sentences resulted from an Internal Revenue Service investigation that found a drug and money-laundering ring that now has produced convictions of about 40 people from Austin, Houston, Miami, Washington, Atlantic City, Denver and California, according to the IRS.

An IRS release Thursday called the case "one of the largest, most complex drug cases uncovered."

Drug war bill approved

DALLAS — As U.S. Border Patrol agents in four states finished anti-narcotics training and anticipated more weaponry in an effort to beef up the fight against drug smuggling, the U.S. House gave final approval to a bill designed to further escalate the war.

Provisions related to the U.S.-Mexico border included in the bill, approved late Thursday night in the House and now headed for the Senate, are instructions to the President to send military forces to U.S. borders to stop drug smuggling and give them power to make arrests.

Coastal cleanup planned

AUSTIN (AP) — State elected officials and coastal senators will put on old shoes and gloves and join thousands of other volunteers Sept. 20 in cleaning up beaches from South Padre Island to Fort Arthur.

The first statewide beach cleanup is sponsored by the Center for Environmental Education, a non-profit marine conservation organization based in Washington, D.C., with a regional office in Austin.

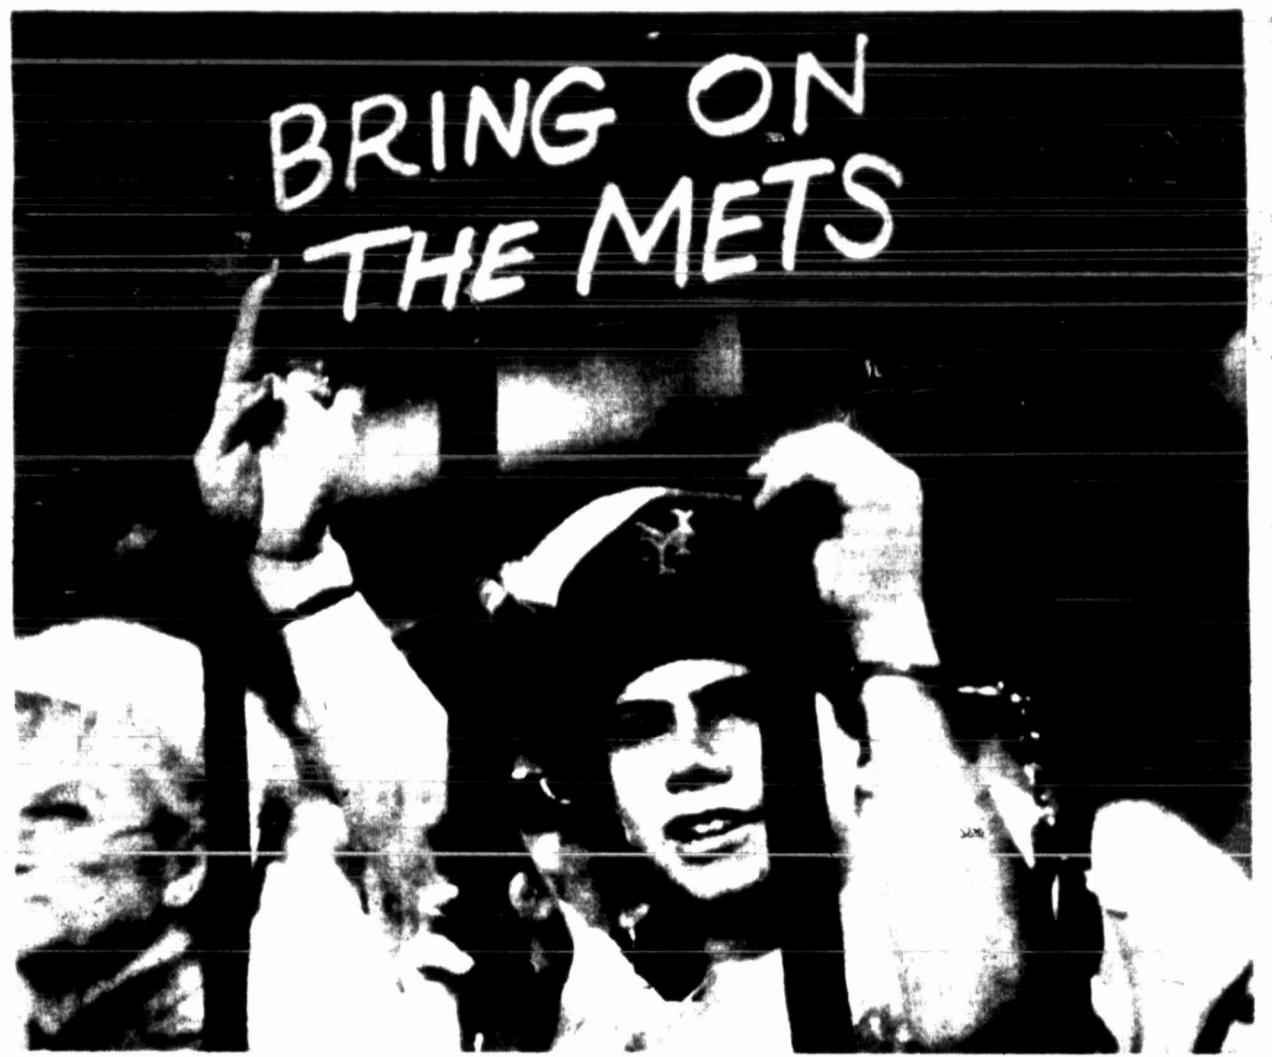

The coast has been organized with 14 volunteer zone captains coordinating 10 beach cleanups.

Murder confession given

ARLINGTON — Two hours after a woman dying of multiple stab wounds told police her boyfriend attacked her, the boyfriend drove up to an officer on Interstate 20 and admitted the crime, officials said.

Arlington police were traveling to Fort Worth to find John Betliskey Jr., 22, suspected in the death of his 26-year-old Arlington girlfriend, when they received a teletype that he had been arrested in Ranger, about 90 miles farther west, said Arlington police spokesman Dee Anderson.

The suspect had pulled up behind a patrolman issuing a speeding ticket to another motorist on I-20 in Ranger and said he killed his girlfriend in Arlington, Ranger police said.

Crowds are coming into JCPenney stores across the country for the exciting EB5 Wrinkle Cream, developed by Pharmacist Robert Heldfond. He is pictured above in a JCPenney cosmetic department showing his cream.

Wrinkle Cream Great Success

It's an exciting story of a pharmacist who developed a wrinkle cream which women all over the country are clamoring for.

Robert Heldfond is making cosmetic history with his EB5 cream. His dream since pharmacy school has resulted in a wrinkle cream which is enjoying record sales in department stores and is praised very highly among cosmeticians and customers.

Research lab tests show that by daily use, morning and night, EB5 cream smooths facial lines. Thousands across the country are so pleased to find that EB5 is 5 creams in 1 jar... EB5 is a wrinkle cream, a night cream, a moisturizer, a day cream, and make-up base... all in one.

Pharmacist Heldfond's EB5 cream is greaseless and leaves the skin soft, velvety and younger-looking. It contains Liprogen and other effective ingredients.

If you are concerned about your skin appearing to be aging too quickly, hurry and find some EB5 cream. One jar lasts for months and is sold with a money-back guarantee.

Note: EB5 cream is available in Big Spring at JCPenney at Big Spring Mall, 267-3811.
