Lighter Side

TWIN LAKES, Colo. (AP) — Mike Hansen of Vail, Colo., was the only one left standing when the last tomato was thrown in the fifth annual Great Colorado vs. Texas Tomato War.

Hansen's victory on Sunday means that Colorado has won every year.

The war is an excuse for trading barbs and throwing a weekend party in this tiny town 30 miles east of Aspen.

Forty-two tomato soldiers were left "alive" after Saturday's round — 33 Coloradans out of 400 and nine Texans of more than 200 starters. According to organizer Taylor Adams, owner of the Inn of the Black Wolf, the outnumbered Texans put up an especially tough fight this year.

A warrior "dies" when hit by a tomato in the torso.

"There's always just one survivor, and whatever team he's on, that is the winning team," said Inn employee Jeanne Saucer. "They get a free night in the inn, and they can do whatever they want."

Anderson refutes Shaw charges

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

State Rep. Larry Don Shaw launched his re-election bid Sunday with a stinging attack on Republican opponent John R. Anderson while touting his own experience and record as a conservative Democrat.

Shaw made those comments at an afternoon press conference from campaign headquarters on the second floor of the Permian Building, 113 W. Second St.

The 33-year-old 69th District Democrat, said of Anderson: "My opponent at best offers you the inexperience of a freshman member during one of the state's most critical periods and a philosophy that is both unclear and confusing."

Shaw charged, "One time Rich Anderson is a member of the fringe Constitutional Party running against... George Mahon. Another time finds him running as a Republican, while still another time finds him supporting a Lyndon LaRouche candidate for chairman of the Democratic party."

Anderson this morning called

Shaw's charge that he supported a LaRouche candidate untrue. "I don't know where he got that," he said.

A spokeswoman at Shaw's Austin office said Anderson sponsored with paid advertising in the Big Spring Herald a June, 19, 1982 public meeting featuring Nick Benton, a candidate for Democratic Party chairman, whom she called a Lyndon LaRouche supporter.

At the meeting, Benton, who was introduced by Anderson, spoke on the dangers of a second Great Depression. According to a June 20

Herald story, Benton said he was a member of the National Democratic Policy Committee, headed by 1980 presidential candidate Lyndon LaRouche.

Shaw, a three-term House representative, pounded hard on what he said was Anderson's inexperience.

"My opponent offers you no seniority and the guaranteed confusion that will come as a freshman tries to set up a new office, hire new staff and figure out who to talk to when problems hit our district," Shaw said.

"In the Democratic controlled House, I offer this district my influence as a member of the Executive Committee of the Democratic Caucus and the proven teamwork with our Democratic Senators, John Montford and Bill Sims. My opponent offers you a weaker role of a freshman member of the minority party," Shaw added.

"I've had more business experience than Larry Don has ever had," Anderson responded. "In fact, he's never had any. I've had SHAW page 2A

Texas Air will buy People Express

NEW YORK (AP) — Texas Air Corp. today announced that it has agreed to buy financially ailing People Express Inc. for about $125 million in securities.

Texas Air also said it agreed to acquire the assets of Frontier Airlines, a subsidiary of People Express that has been closed and put into bankruptcy court reorganization.

Texas Air said it would try to find work for laid-off Frontier employees, but no details were immediately available.

Texas Air also is in the process of trying to acquire Eastern Airlines. The federal Department of Transportation rejected the first merger agreement, saying it was concerned about competition on the Northeastern air shuttle route. However, Texas Air announced an agreement Friday to sell more of its airport slots in the Northeast to Pan American World Airways for use in Pan Am's planned shuttle business.

Texas Air owns Continental Airlines and New York Air, which competes with Eastern's Northeastern shuttle flights linking Boston, New York and Washington.

The announcement came at a news conference in New York called by Frank Lorenzo, chairman of Texas Air, and Donald Burr, head

Big Spring district gets good grades

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Big Spring Independent School District drew mixed grades when the Texas Federation of Teachers put out its "Report Card on Reform."

School districts across the state were graded based on questionnaires returned by teachers and on various data collected from the districts. TFT President John Cole said Friday. The plan was to learn how well districts had implemented school reforms mandated by the Legislature, Cole said.

Teachers were surveyed by mail, with 26,626 replying from a field of 183,000. They were asked to grade their districts in eight key areas, with an "A" being outstanding, "B" good, "C" passing, and "F" failing.

Some districts declined to cooperate and some data is incomplete, Cole said.

"The statewide summaries show that, on the average, teachers think the duty-free lunch has been the reform that districts have implemented most effectively," Cole said. "Teachers gave implementation of that reform a 'B-plus.'"

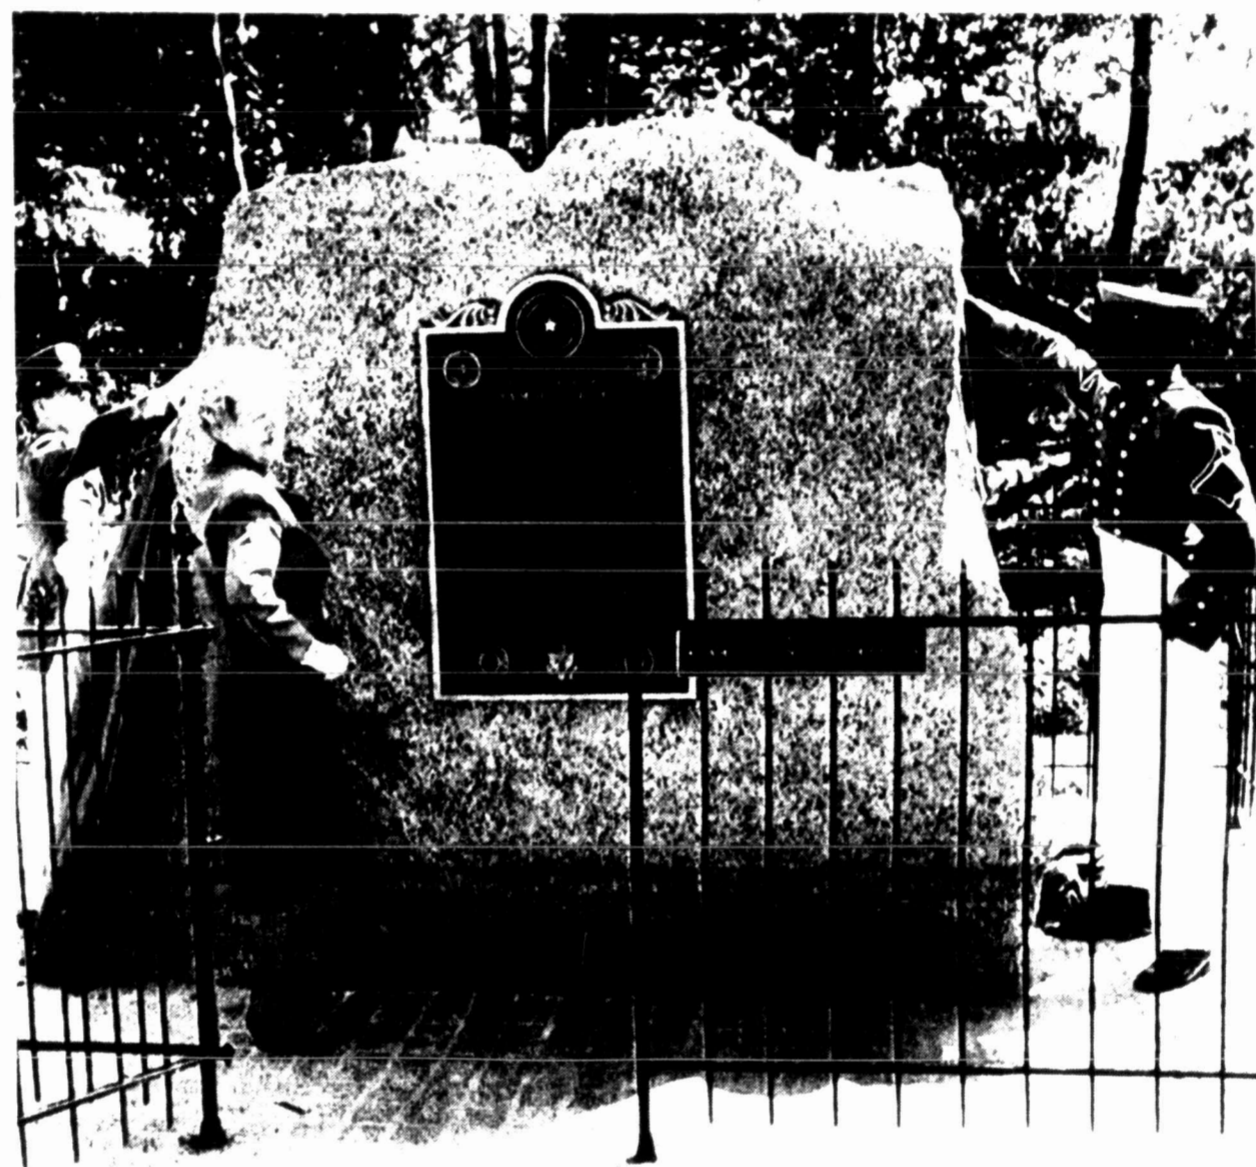

Tutorial programs ranked second with a 'B' and career ladder implementation came in third, with a 'B-minus.'"

Grades for Big Spring ISD were: Class Size: C. Tutorials: B. Student Discipline Management: B.

Career Ladder Implementation: C.

Paper Work Reduction: C. Duty-free Lunch for Teachers: B.

Salaries: A. Local Tax Effort: B.

Charlotte Williams Darby, great granddaughter of Texas legend Sam Houston, unveils a marker that denotes Houston's birthplace north of Lexington, Va., during ceremonies Sunday. She was assisted by two cadets from Virginia Military Institute. A group of 60 Texans donated to pay for the project that was co-sponsored by civic groups in Houston.

New marker honors Houston

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — A military band played "Texas, our Texas," as a 38,000-pound granite statue was unveiled Sunday to mark the birthplace of Sam Houston.

The ceremony was at the Sam Houston Wayside at Timber Ridge, a small settlement five miles north of Lexington.

It was the second dedication ceremony for a monument honoring Houston. The original statue was destroyed by vandals in 1979.

Fund-raising efforts by Don Kennard, a former Texas senator, netted $9,000 for the new monument. Donations largely came from Texas politicians, lawyers and businessmen. "We have a very deep feeling for Sam Houston and what he did in Texas, and he's always been a great hero to many of us," Kennard said.

He said he began the fund drive 1 1/2 years ago when he heard about the damage to the old monument. Kennard said Houston's plea for statehood for Texas and against Southern states seceding from the Union showed Houston's vision and courage.

"He always seemed to be right in going against the tide," Kennard said. "He just fought overwhelming odds at almost every turn and usually won." The monument was unveiled by the granddaughter of Sam Houston, Charlotte Williams Darby, 78, of Houston. Ms. Darby dedicated the original monument in 1927.

More than 400 spectators heard speeches by Texas Democratic Rep. Charles Wilson and Diana Hobby, wife of Texas Lt. Gov. William Hobby Jr., during the 90-minute ceremony. Texas Gov. Mark White sent greetings.

"Sam Houston probably was the most remarkable politician in the nation," said Texas state treasurer Ann Richards.

Senators begin impeachment trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators opening the first impeachment trial in a half-century today heard federal Judge Harry E. Claiborne depicted as a convicted tax evader and defended as the victim of a government vendetta.

Claiborne himself, temporarily released from a federal prison in Alabama, sat under the glare of television lights in the historic Senate Caucus Room as the 12-member Senate Impeachment Committee began hearing the case against him.

"We simply cannot let a convicted felon sit on the federal bench and make judgments of others," argued Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., who said Claiborne had "engaged in a pattern of conduct designed to conceal his true income from his accountant and the Internal Revenue Service."

Claiborne, who appeared at the trial in the custody of U.S. marshals, shook his head and smiled faintly while Rodino, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, made opening arguments on behalf of nine committee members who will serve as prosecutors at the impeachment trial.

The full Senate has deputized the 12-member panel to receive evidence and hear testimony in the case this week.

Claiborne's attorney, Oscar

Goodman of Las Vegas, Nev., defended his client as a "fair but tough" judge who had made many enemies in Nevada who had vowed to put Claiborne behind bars.

Goodman said government prosecutors, notably FBI Agent Joseph Yablonsky, "set out to get Harry Claiborne's head on a silver platter."

Goodman said government officials were guilty of "grave misconduct," including breaking into Claiborne's home to gather evidence illegally, in a "governmental vendetta" against the judge.

The Senate panel deferred a ruling on a Claiborne motion crucial to his defense against impeachment. That is the judge's contention that the Senate should consider his claim that he was framed by overzealous prosecutors.

House prosecutors argued that the Senate should limit the evidence to details of Claiborne's 1984 conviction of falsifying his federal income tax returns for 1979 and 1980 by failing to report a total of $106,651.89 in income from legal

City awaits funds OK in disaster

City manager Mack Wofford said this morning city officials are optimistic that the Texas Department of Community Affairs will grant funds soon for major repairs resulting from recent floods in Big Spring.

The city's eligibility for state financial relief was enhanced Friday by Governor Mark White's declaration of Big Spring as a natural disaster area.

Wofford said city officials and engineers will meet representatives from the TDCA later in the week.

City officials, with the help of the Red Cross and civil engineers from Lubbock, last week assessed combined commercial, residential and municipal flood damage at $2.67 million. That figure, however, did not include the recent flooding of the city's east and west sides along Beals Creek and Union-Pacific Railroad tracks.

Dave Clark, field service manager for the Red Cross, said Friday that 22 homes had received water-related damage from flooding of Beals Creek.

A number of west side businesses also have suffered from flood water lingering since Sept. 8, as water today continued to pour from the spillway at Natural Dam Lake, located seven miles west of Big Spring.

Wofford said he spoke with Colorado River Municipal Water District officials Friday, and was told the volume of water spilling from the lake was diminishing, but it would be two weeks before it decreases to a level satisfactory to the district.

Water district officials could not be reached for comment this morning.

Meanwhile, the area received .54 of an inch of rain Sunday night, according to the Agricultural Research Service in Big Spring.

The field service said this year's total rainfall is 24.37 inches — a 10.31-inch increase over last year's year-to-date total.

H. Boyce Hale of Sterling City Route Box 157-F received .27 of an inch — increasing his year's total to 27.28 inches.

Elton Hartin, 203 N. Nolan St., received .50 of an inch and J.J. Richardson, 1003 Lancaster St., measured .16 of an inch.

That conviction, the House insisted, is "an independent and sufficient basis for his removal from office" and that allegations of misconduct by government prosecutors are irrelevant to the question of whether Claiborne should be impeached.

Claiborne, 69, a Democrat who was nominated by President Carter in 1978, has refused to resign as chief U.S. district judge for Nevada. He continues to draw his $78,700 annual salary while he serves a two-year sentence in a federal prison at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

Under the Constitution, a federal judge, who is appointed for life, can be removed from office only if convicted at a Senate impeachment trial. The Senate's decision cannot be appealed in any court.

The last federal official to be impeached and removed from office was U.S. District Judge Halsted L. Ritter of Miami, who was convicted in 1936 of judicial misconduct. Altogether, the Senate has IMPEACHMENT page 2A my own business since I was 26 years old."

Anderson noted that he serves on the board and Executive Committee of the National Cattleman's Association and is a board member of the Texas and Southwest Cattle Raisers Association.

Shaw said he supports the education reform bill, House bill 72, and was instrumental in its formation. He charged that Anderson labeled the reforms "a disaster" that "should be done away with."

"I never made that statement,"

Anderson said, adding that he called some features of the bill objectionable because its impact on rural schools was not good and because it took away local control from the school board.

The reform bill also engendered a tax raise that people did not know had passed, Anderson said.

Shaw is vice chairman of the House Resources Committee, vice chairman of budget and oversight for the Science and Technology Committee and serves on the powerful House General Investigating Committee.

Impeachment

conducted 13 impeachment trials since 1803, but only four, all involving federal judges, resulted in convictions.

Claiborne is the first person to undergo an impeachment trial after conviction and imprisonment for a crime.

The Senate Impeachment Committee, headed by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., is expected to take all this week receiving evidence and hearing testimony. It then will report its findings to the full Senate, which is scheduled to begin final floor proceedings the week of Sept. 29.

A major issue to be resolved by the full Senate, which makes its own impeachment rules, is whether it will accept the panel's evidence as the basis for a quick summary judgment on convicting Claiborne or whether it will order further testimony in a full-blown trial on the Senate floor.

In either case, Claiborne will be entitled to a floor seat to observe the proceedings and even to testify at the Senate's request on the charges against him.

Board of Education says it has plenty of teachers

AUSTIN (AP) — Education Commissioner Williams Kirby says he has a list of 3,000 qualified teachers who want a job and are eager to get back in the profession.

Kirby told the State Board of Education Saturday almost all of the 6,500 teachers who failed competency tests have been replaced without problems.

Only 52 of those who flunked the Texas Examination for Current Administrators and Teachers (TECAT) have been given emergency permits to teach another year.

"Across the state there is just not the teacher shortage to necessitate the waivers," Kirby said.

The only waivers granted were for specialized teachers in building and industry trades, Kirby said.

The controversial TECAT testing was ordered by the 1984 Legislature to see if current teachers were capable of holding their jobs. The tests were first given the state's 210,000 teachers in March. A second test was given in June for those who failed.

Kirby said 99.1 percent of the state's certified teachers ultimately passed the exam on reading and writing with 1,875 educators failing both tests. He said 6,579 failed the March test and 676 of these did not choose to take the second test.

School districts unable to replace the failed teachers could ask the Texas Education Agency for a one-time, one-year emergency extension of a teacher's permit.

Kirby said Saturday that 72 districts requested exceptions for 231 administrators and teachers who had failed the tests. The TEA granted the request to 26 districts, involving 52 teachers.

Seven district requests are pending.

"We have in our computer banks the names of 3,000 certified teachers who registered when they took the TECAT test and said they wanted to come back into the profession," Kirby said.

"Then we have schools advising us, like Houston, that they are having as many as 200 applicants a week for teacher jobs."

It was the second time this year that Texas Air has bid for People Express.

People Express, the pace-setting discount airline that ran into trouble when it overextended itself, rejected a $235.8 million takeover offer from Texas Air in July.

Cuban prisoners freed

MIAMI — A plane carrying more than 100 Cubans, including some jailed since Fidel Castro seized power 27 years ago, arrived here today on a flight to freedom that followed two years of negotiations.

The 111 people, among them the nephew of a former president, made up one of the largest single groups of Cubans to arrive in the United States in years. Many seemed on the verge of tears as they went through the Miami International Airport terminal.

"I can say I'm in my country," said Rene Gonzalez Herrera, an elderly man in a wheelchair, after getting off the chartered plane. "I feel very happy after 28 years in prison."

Rock traps teen-ager

ST. LOUIS — A teen-ager who was pinned for 18 hours beneath an estimated 30 tons of rocks and boulder at an abandoned iron mine was reported in serious but stable condition today after surgery on both legs.

Gerald Dwayne Easter, 17, who had recently moved to Pilot Knob, 90 miles south of St. Louis, was trapped at 3 p.m. Saturday while exploring the mine on the crest of a mountain near the town, said authorities and a companion. He was freed at 9:15 a.m. Sunday with the help of a heavy hydraulic jack.

Wrong number called

NEW YORK — A man whose telephone number is the same as the KGB's was deluged with calls after a newspaper published the listing.

"Somebody even called me collect and wanted to abuse me and have me pay for it," said James E. Marra of the Long Island community of Wantagh. "I told him I won't accept the charges."

Minutes earlier, his phone had rung for at least the hundredth time with a caller asking, "Is this Moscow?"

"They say we're Communists, and curse at us," Marra said Sunday.

Candidate gets the worm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pierr S. du Pont IV, who opens the 1988 presidential campaign this week by declaring himself a candidate for the Republican nomination, will get a jump on what are certain to be crowded fields for both the Republican and Democratic nominations.

Du Pont, better known as Pete, plans to make his announcement in Wilmington, Del., on Tuesday — exactly seven weeks before Election Day 1986.

A day later, one of Du Pont's potential Republican rivals, the Rev. Pat Robertson, plans to discuss his presidential plans in a speech during a three-hour presentation that will be beamed to 216 locations nationwide via closed circuit television.

President and Mrs. Reagan check notes in preparation for their speech last night in an unusual address from the White House. The speech focused on the war against drug abuse.

Says no in no uncertain terms

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today ordered the heads of each government agency to establish mandatory drug-testing programs for "employees in sensitive positions" and endorsed a House-passed measure that provides the death penalty for some drug-related offenses.

"This is the federal government's way of just saying 'no' to drugs," the president said, taking a line from his wife as he signed an executive order and sent his own legislative package to Congress, which is rushing to enact new measures to combat drug abuse before the November elections.

Officials said they could not estimate how many of the government's 2.8 million civilian employees would be affected, but some published reports have put the number as high as 1.1 million.

Reagan, unveiling his own plan for combatting drug use as Congress rushes to enactment legislation of its own before the November elections, said he would allocate $500 million in additional spending for law enforcement and drug interdiction efforts in the Southwest border region and in the Southeast. He earmarked $100 million to help local schools eradicate drug use and a like amount in grants to the states to enhance drug abuse treatment facilities.

One day after joining his wife, Nancy, in exhorting Americans to "rise up together in defiance against this cancer of drugs," Reagan proposed legislation and administrative steps that would add nearly $900 million in additional resources to combat drug abuse, bringing the cost of all federal anti-drug programs to $3.2 billion for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

The president said that all the money would be redirected from other federal projects and that no new appropriations would be necessary.

The House has approved a $2 billion package of anti-drug measures, including establishment of the death penalty for some drug-related crimes and assignment of a bigger role for the military in combatting the flow of illegal drugs into the country.

Reversing his position as announced by a spokesman last week, Reagan endorsed the provision in the House bill providing for the death penalty "for those who intentionally cause death while committing an offense" under what is known as the "drug kingpin" law.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes had said Reagan favored use of the death penalty for some drug-related crimes but would not propose it in order to avoid controversy that could block adoption of his other proposals.

Rebels refuse talks

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Salvadoran leftist rebels on Sunday pulled out of peace talks scheduled this week aimed at ending their country's nearly 7-year-old civil war.

Salvadoran President Jose Napoleon Duarte said he and his delegation would keep the Friday date at Sesori, 95 miles northeast of the Salvadoran capital of San Salvador. The two sides had agreed to the time and place of the talks at a Aug. 20-22 meeting in Mexico City.

Police station bombed

PARIS (AP) — A bomb exploded at police headquarters in the center of Paris today, the fourth bombing in the French capital in a week, and fire department officials said 36 people were injured, six seriously.

The explosion, which came one day after the government spelled out new anti-terrorist measures, rocked an area where driver's licenses are issued.

"It was a very violent explosion," said one police official, speaking on condition of anonymity. "Several persons were thrown several meters (yards). The windows blew out windows, even the ones at the counters separating the public from those working here."

Aquino visits U.S.

MANILA, Philippines — President Corazon Aquino left today for a nine-day visit to the United States, and the army chief of staff said the military was on full alert to foil any coup attempt while she was gone.

In a brief departure statement, the president said she would try to convince U.S. leaders that the economic, social and political problems of her strategic country were "as much their concern as ours."

She dismissed widespread rumors of a possible attempt to bring down her 7-month-old government during the U.S. visit, her first since the Feb. 25 ouster of Ferdinand E. Marcos. She said democracy in the Philippines "will never be lost."

Korean bomb kills five

SEOUL, South Korea — President Chun Doo-hwan today visited the Seoul airport site where a powerful explosive device killed five people, and called for increased security precautions for the Asian Games, an official said.

Kimpo International Airport, where the blast occurred Sunday, is the main arrival point for foreign visitors to the games, which are scheduled to begin Saturday. However, all of the people killed in the blast, as well as the 29 injured, were said by police to be Koreans.

A special prosecution unit set up earlier to deal with possible crimes related to the Asian Games said it was believed the explosion in the Kimpo terminal building was caused by a time bomb placed in a trash can.

Prison population rising slower

WASHINGTON — The number of inmates in Texas prisons rose at a much slower rate in the first six months of this year than the increase in the number of prisoners nationally, according to Justice Department statistics released Sunday.

The prison population in Texas at the end of June rose slightly since the end of 1985, but the number of Texas prisoners declined by almost 1 percent since last summer, according to the statistics.

There were 37,760 prison inmates in Texas facilities at the end of June, compared to 37,532 in the facilities at the end of December. At the end of June last year, there were 38,028 prisoners in the prison system.

The figures represent a 0.6 percent increase in the number of prisoners since Dec. 31, and a 0.7 percent drop in prisoners since June 30, 1985.

Nationally, the number of inmates in all prisons rose by more than 5 percent during the first six months of this year.

The number of prisoners in the United States on June 30 reached an all-time high of 528,945, with an increase of 25,630 prisoners since Jan. 1.

State prison populations on June 30 ranged from a low of 411 inmates in North Dakota to a high of 55,238 in California.

California had the highest number of new inmates. The state's prison system reported 5,127 new prisoners since the beginning of the year, representing 20 percent of the increase in inmates nationally.

The other largest percentage increases in the number of prisoners also were in Western states, with a rise of 14.2 percent in the number of inmates in Wyoming, 13.6 percent in the number of prisoners in Nevada and 10.4 percent in Utah, along with the 10.2 percent increase in California.

During the six-month period, Western prisons grew in population by 7.9 percent, compared to 3.1 percent in the South, 4.5 percent in the Midwest and 5.1 percent in the Northeast.

Another statistic released by the Justice Department showed that there were 227 prisoners in Texas per 100,000 population, about average among the 50 states.

In states bordering Texas, the number of prisoners in the first six months of 1986 rose by 7.6 percent in Oklahoma, 2.4 percent in Louisiana, 1.5 percent in Arkansas and 3.3 percent in New Mexico.

Steven R. Schlesinger, director of the Bureau of Justice Statistics, said the increase in prisoners nationally represents a prison space demand of about 1,000 new beds per week.

Bear mauls two hikers

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK, Mont. (AP) — A helicopter and armed park rangers were searching for a grizzly bear that mauled two hikers in Glacier National Park, authorities said.

If rangers find a grizzly showing aggressive behavior, it would be killed, relocated or tagged with a radio-transmitting collar, ranger Rene Morey said Sunday.

"It depends basically on whether the bear is definitely aggressive," she said.

The victims were in stable condition and improving after undergoing additional surgery over the weekend, said Camille Scott, a nursing supervisor at Kalispell Regional Hospital.

Jeff Brown, 25, of Lake Placid, N.Y., and Patricia Duff, 23, of Kingston, N.Y., were hiking Thursday when they came upon the bear, which charged and mauled them.

Both hikers sustained numerous cuts and puncture wounds, but were able to walk away to seek help.

Opinion

Comments given on Texan issues

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the state:

Lawmakers must meet halfway

House Speaker Gib Lewis may be right that the easiest thing to vote for in Austin is a tax increase, while the hardest thing is spending reductions. But right or wrong, that doesn't change anything. It should be apparent by now, as the Legislature embarks on a second special session with big revenue shortfalls still looming ahead, that only a combination of judicious cuts and temporary tax hikes will rescue Texas from the current fiscal year's budget crisis and allow the next Legislature to deal with the situation on a more lasting basis. What does lend hope to the proceedings is Lewis' newly expressed willingness to compromise — to go partway if not halfway to meet the Senate, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Gov. Mark White. —The Fort Worth Star-Telegram

Betting bill criticized as too late

The concern over pari-mutuel (betting) is not the morality of state-subsidized gambling or the possible involvement of organized crime — the argument should never even reach these levels — but over the feasibility of legalized betting as a source of deficit-reducing revenue. Texas needs a financial shot in the arm now, and legalizing pari-mutuel betting will be too little, too late. The state doesn't have three or more years to spare in resolving our budget shortcomings. Three and a half billion dollars is too large a debt to be paid off at the track. Letting state revenues ride on horse and dog races is not a safe bet. —The (Texas A&M) Battalion

Two factors cited in 55 mph issue

President Reagan has said it might be time to take another look at the national speed limit of 55 mph. If Congress gets around to looking, it should take care to separate the issue into its two components. The first component has to do with a state's right to use its good sense to regulate its own affairs. The other component — whether 55 represents the maximum safe highway speed — is more complex. As it stands now, many Texans — if not a majority — routinely exceed the speed limit. By doing so they endanger both themselves and slower drivers who stay within the speed limit. On the other hand, the 55 mph limit has clearly saved lives by drastically reducing the number of highway fatalities. Since highway and driving conditions vary greatly from state to state, it seems logical to let the states resume their responsibility for regulating the speed limit. There is nothing magic and everything arbitrary about the number 55. —The Houston Chronicle

Disapproval of drinking law given

The end is here. The deed is done. Texas' drinking age officially has increased to 21. Congress, in one of its typical blackmail maneuvers, told states either to increase their drinking ages to 21 or face the loss of federal money. Supporters of the higher age limit say it reduces accidents caused by drunken drivers. Opponents claim that people who can vote and serve in the military should be able to drink alcoholic beverages if they wish. As usual, money speaks louder than arguments. Will a higher drinking age stop those younger than 21 from drinking? No. Nor will it educate them about the dangers of drinking. But Texas needs the federal money. Oh well, that's just how it goes. —The Beaumont Enterprise

Roach sizing contest getting bigger

Not long after the Smithsonian Institution placed a 2-inch cockroach in its insect zoo, after it had distinguished itself as the largest cockroach in Dallas, somebody from Florida came up with a bigger roach. Now there's a contest in Louisiana to find a cockroach that's even bigger than the Florida bug. This big roach business is starting to get serious. State pride is at stake. Dallas roaches shouldn't represent Texas. Dallas roaches are punts. What self-respecting roach would live somewhere referred to as a Metroplex. Hill Country roaches could be saddled and ridden to the Smithsonian except all the tame ones are being used to pull cedar stumps. —The Austin American-Statesman

Citizens appear lax in child safety

It looks like a lot of parents need to resolve to get in compliance with the child safety seat law, not only because it is a state law, but because the safety of their own child or children is at stake. Some of those "Caution: Child on Board" signs might need to be put up on the front hood instead of in the back window. Figures showing 22 children died in accidents in the state during the first half of the year without the extra chance provided by proper seat restraints also should be a signal to law enforcement agencies to do a little closer checking for violations of this law. —The Tyler Courier-Times-Telegraph ing to get serious. State pride is at stake. Dallas roaches shouldn't represent Texas. Dallas roaches are punts. What self-respecting roach would live somewhere referred to as a Metroplex. Hill Country roaches could be saddled and ridden to the Smithsonian except all the tame ones are being used to pull cedar stumps. —The Austin American-Statesman

Approval of redfish ban given

Thankfully, the national marine fisheries service has proposed banning the taking of redfish in federal waters until 1988, at which time permanent controls would be adopted. The secretary of commerce should quickly approve the plan; it's the best way to avoid destroying the species. The ban until 1988 will allow time to make certain that the redfish population has not been permanently depleted by overfishing. It will allow young fish to mature and swim offshore to replenish the breeding stock. And it will provide time for the redfish craze to diminish in restaurantsd the country, offering hope that once fishing is scheduled to resume, supply and demand will keep the catch at sustainable levels. The fisheries service has not rushed to regulate; if anything, it has been too slow to act. But it is taking the right step now. —Corpus Christi Caller-Times

New military expansion takes civilian business

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — The Pentagon's exuberant expansion into the fast-food franchise business on military bases has dismayed civilian restaurant owners in nearby towns who are getting shot down by competition from the taxpayer-subsidized hamburger joints. But Congress, through carelessness, laziness or both, has effectively abdicated any control over the situation.

Jack Anderson

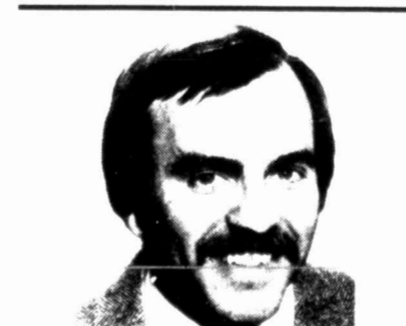

In the past two years, 45 McDonald's restaurants have been opened on Navy bases and 54 Burger Kings on Army and Air Force bases. The number could triple by 1990. The fast-food outlets are built by the military, partly with appropriate funds. The restaurants pay neither property, sales nor corporate income taxes. The result is that they can sell their burgers and other items for less than identical McDonald's or Burger Kings off the base. Add to that the convenience of an on-base source of hamburgers and the military's franchise outlets have an unbeatable edge. Briefly concerned by complaints from businesses suffering from the competition, Congress imposed a one-year moratorium on the Pentagon's fast-food franchise expansion in July 1985. The military was instructed to submit a report defending its expansion plans. Not surprisingly, the Pentagon justified its fast-food empire by claiming that "these nationally known restaurants help develop a sense of pride and satisfaction in the military community" by bringing "a bit of America" to service personnel, especially those overseas. What was a little surprising, though, was the Pentagon report claim: "There is no evidence of any substantial or direct impact on sales in the local civilian community." The military investigators obviously didn't talk with small-business owners in Lawton, Okla., the closest town to Fort Still. Our reporter Jim Lynch did. "They're taking our tax money and competing with us," complained Allen Trueblood, owner of two off-base Burger Kings in Lawton. Since the Burger King on the base opened, Trueblood's restaurant near Fort Still has lost about $15,000 a month, he said. His lost customers include civilians as well as soldiers. Because Fort Still is an open installation, anyone can drive or walk in and buy a Whopper for 13 cents less. Percy Pulliam opened a pit barbecue restaurant near the base, and his lunchtime business has dropped by one-third since the on-base Burger King opened, he said. If Lawton's small-business owners think they're being burned by unfair competition, they have a point. Two months before the military Burger King opened, the base commander announced that a new Army regulation banning the wearing of fatigue uniforms off-post would be strictly enforced. Since the troops wear fatigues most of the time, the effect was to put the off-base restaurant off-limits. The Army and Air Force Exchange Service splits its considerable profits on the Burger King franchise with the commanding generals of the bases, who put the money into the "morale, welfare and recreation fund." Fort Still's Burger King has racked up sales of about $150,000 a month, and has contributed about $26,000 to the rec fund. Worldwide, the exchange service reports, its Burger King sales totaled $45 million from last February through July, with a profit of $7.4 million. Meanwhile, other nationally known businesses, from car rental agencies to ice cream parlors, also have or plan to have outlets on military bases. And the Army is quietly looking into the idea of having hotel franchises on its bases. UNDER THE DOME: Reform-minded senators are still hoping that Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., will work harder for the bill he co-authored with Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., limiting political action committee donations to congressional candidates. The bill sets a cap on PAC receipts of $100,000 for House candidates and $175,000 to $750,000 for Senate candidates, depending on state population. A preliminary vote carried, 69 to 30, but several of Goldwater's oldest pals voted against it. Backers of the bill figure Goldwater put his name on the bill more from principle than passion, but are hopeful of a better effort by "Mr. Republican." Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Airlines the better for deregulation

Airlines going bankrupt, midair collisions in congested skies, mergers and failed mergers, chronic delays in overtaxed airports — all these raise basic questions about our air transportation system: Was deregulation a mistake? Is it time to return commercial air travel to the tidier, more predictable environment that existed before? No one thinks the existing system is beyond improvement, but the answer to both questions is no. Some of the more aggravating problems are temporary ones that have little to do with the deregulation enacted in 1978. And while it has produced a wide-open market in which competitors emerge and disappear with bewildering frequency, the new system is much better for air travelers than the old one. The most dramatic change in the industry has been a sharp drop in fares, bringing air travel within the reach of millions of people who couldn't afford it before. Over the past decade, the average ticket price has fallen by 20 percent, after adjustment for inflation. Marvin Koster, an economist at the American Enterprise Institute, estimates the yearly savings to consumers at between $5 billion and $10 billion. One of the frequent complaints is that the new fare structure is so complicated that fliers have a dif-

icult task finding the lowest price. But it's not hard to find a bargain of some sort, which is why 88 percent of passengers fly on discounted tickets. These days, only the feeble-brained and last-minute travelers pay full fare. And a complicated fare system is still better than the old regulated system, which gave consumers no bargains at all. The problems created by deregulation result from success, not failure. One big reason for the frustrating delays that plague major airports is this unforeseen deluge of new travelers. The number of passengers on commercial flights has risen by 100 million since 1980, an increase of 34 percent. The number of flights has grown by 31 percent. The bottlenecks largely can be alleviated by expanding existing airports and building new ones. More air traffic controllers also would help. Despite the crowding in the skies, the Federal Aviation Administration has 12 percent fewer air traffic controllers than it did in 1981, when the controllers went on strike and were fired en masse. The money is there to hire them, but the administration refuses to spend it, lest it make the budget deficit look bigger. Despite this reduction, safety apparently hasn't suffered. In the seven years from 1972 through 1978, before deregulation, 1,079 people died in accidents on scheduled carriers in the U.S. From 1979 through 1985, just 804 died — even though the number of people flying rose substantially. During that same period the fatality rate, which takes into account the increase in traffic, fell by 44 percent. The recent demise of Frontier Airlines, like past closings, shouldn't be grounds for worry. Granted, a few air travelers are stranded briefly every time this happens, but it's a small price for the competitive pressure provided by deregulation. Under the old system, airlines never went out of business, because their survival practically was guaranteed by the Civil Aeronautics Board. Today, airlines hustle to attract and satisfy

Around the rim American team special ballot presented

By TIM APPEL
"America's Team." I hate that phrase. The term, used to describe some professional sports teams, was coined by the media, for some reason yet unknown. But am I not a member of the media also? No one asked for my opinion. Therefore, this is the official ballot for my "America's Team" picks. Perhaps I should send it off to Pat Summerall or the Monday Night Football crew. When one says "America's Team," the first sports franchise that comes to mind is the Dallas Cowboys. This may have been true when Roger Staubach led the team and Tom Landry had a fuller head of hair, but this was back in a time in Dallas when Larry Hagman still dreamed of Jeannie. In these days of the Rambo and Rocky movies, Americans no longer associate themselves with the clean-cut computerized robots that the movie producers portray the communist bad guys as, and that the Cowboys were known for when they were the darlings of football fans everywhere. The common man now roots for the wild rebels who make life interesting and eventually triumph in the end. Therefore, my vote goes to the Chicago Bears, their All-American Super Bowl Shuffle, their history and their future. And after last year's 44-0 destruction of Dallas, I wouldn't even claim the Cowboys as "Iceland's Team." In baseball, the Atlanta Braves are supposed to be known as "America's Team," but only because the owner of the team also owns the television network that broadcasts this nonsense to those gullible enough on the other end of the tube. Americans not only cheer for the winners, but for the underdogs as well. And the biggest underdog of all? Why it's got to be the Chicago Cubs and their unit field (though I am a White Sox fan myself). Basketball? How about the city that represents the best and worst of our capitalistic society: Los Angeles. The Lakers are always a good stop between a day of surfing and a night at Disneyland. Finally we come to hockey. How can you have an "America's Team" in hockey? Of course you can, and that team has to be the Montreal Canadiens. I mean, any team that has won 23 championships and is owned by a brewery can't be all bad.

Customers because the alternative is bankruptcy. That's how firms operate in most other sectors of the economy. It's a potent motivator. Some experts, including deregulation architect Alfred Kahn, worry that the disappearance of some carriers will lead to an oligopoly — a market dominated by a few big airlines charging unreasonably high fares. So far, that fear is a long way off, with about 100 carriers doing business, nearly three times as many as in 1978. Most of the actual and proposed mergers should help preserve competition by creating more formidable carriers to take on giants like American and United. In any case, the best discipline is the constant threat of new competition. If a major airline, having eliminated its rivals on a particular route, tries to gouge its customers, it invites other airlines to swoop down and snatch them away. If American carriers should get fat and complacent, as Kahn notes, Washington always can open the domestic market to foreign airlines. The transition from regulation to deregulation hasn't been painless, but overall it clearly has benefited consumers and the economy. Going back to the old arrangement is an expensive way to prove it. —Steve Chapman is a member of the Chicago Tribune editorial board. His commentary is distributed by Tribune Media Services.

Racial tension high in rape case

KOUNTZE — At least three crosses have been burned since the arrest of three blacks in connection with the alleged rapes of two white teen-aged girls, and officials said that for the suspects' safety they would try to move them today out of this Southeast Texas town.

Tensions were high over the weekend, but eased on Sunday, and Hardin County Sheriff H.R. "Mike" Holzapfel said he had ended extra patrols by officers. He also lifted a ban that he had imposed Saturday on sales of liquor after 10 p.m.

However, black residents expressed concern that the Ku Klux Klan or others might cause problems, and the sheriff said he would attempt to move all three suspects today from Kountze, which is about 25 miles northwest of Beaumont.

'Radio Watch' helps policemen

BEAUMONT — When the body of Beaumont businessman and photographer Chris Owens was found, police asked a utility company official to be on the lookout for Owens' car.

Basil Jackson, security coordinator for Gulf States Utilities Co., spotted the vehicle later and made a quick call to police that authorities said led to the recovery of the car and arrest of a man in connection with the crime.

Jackson's help is typical of the help that Beaumont officials say they've received from members of the Neighborhood Radio Watch program, which helped authorities investigate 75 crimes and make four arrests in its first year.

The program, at no cost, provides some 350 extra men and women on the streets reporting crimes, accidents, drunk drivers or suspicious events, Jackson said.

School district voids prediction

HOUSTON — Enrollment in the Houston Independent School District surpassed the steep decline district officials were projecting.

The latest statistics show the district is down fewer than 100 students from 191,218 enrolled during the same period last year.

District officials had been predicting as many as 4,000 fewer students would show up because of the oil-related recession.

"The enrollment decline that was projected certainly did not happen," Superintendent Joan Raymond said. "It will help us on the revenue side, but more than that, we will not have to alter the program" and consider further cutbacks.

She said she expects the numbers to keep increasing over the next couple of weeks.

The official enrollment figures will be taken in October. The state uses those statistics to award money to school districts.

Moody grants are investigated

HOUSTON — The Texas Attorney General's office is investigating the possible misappropriation of about $1.1 million in Moody Foundation grants that may have bypassed standard screening procedures, officials said.

State officials are focusing on eight grant applications considered between late 1984 and early 1985, said John Vasquez, chief of the attorney general's charitable trusts division.

Investigators will meet Tuesday and Wednesday with foundation staff members in Galveston, he said.

"We asked them to investigate," foundation attorney Irwin "Buddy" Herz said. "We don't know where the funds ultimately ended up. They may have been spent on matters not within the grant application."

Foundation officials turned over the results of a five-month internal probe to the attorney general's office in late July, the attorney said.

Six killed in I-35 fiery collision

DALLAS — Authorities say a fiery collision involving four vehicles on Interstate Highway 35 resulted in the deaths of six people and an undetermined number of injuries.

A spokesman for the Dallas County sheriff's office said four vehicles were involved in the collision shortly after 8 p.m. Sunday.

The names and hometowns of the victims were not yet available pending notification of next-of-kin, said sheriff's Sgt. N.M. Allen.

Authorities said three adults and three children died in the wreck.

Allen said the deaths occurred near the southern border of Dallas County.

"There was a fire at the scene of the wreck," he said, "but I don't know which vehicle was burning."

Reports indicated all the deaths occurred in one of the vehicles, which may have crossed the center median of the interstate.

Allen said an investigation into the wreck was continuing.

Vivisection may save people but it's not the only choice

DEAR ABBY: I have always been a big fan of yours, but we have come to the parting of the ways on the subject of vivisection.

If operations on a dozen or so live animals might reveal the key to curing thousands of human beings who are afflicted with a fatal disease, would you save the animals and let the people die?

Closer to home, suppose it is a question of your very own adored son, condemned to die of a disease if a cure cannot be found. Medical authorities know that a certain enzyme may effect that cure and the only probable source, outside of living human donors, is in the spleens of living tortoise-shell cats. You have a tortoise-shell cat whom you love as your own flesh. What is your choice?

MRS P.C., SANTA BARBARA

DEAR MRS. C.: I take it you read my column urging my readers to write their elected representatives and ask them to support the Humane Product Testing Bill (H.R. 1877).

In response to your question: I would, of course, value the life of a human (relative or not) over that of an animal, but that's not the issue. Bill H.R. 1877 does not eliminate the use of animals for product testing. It would promote the use of non-animal alternatives to the cruel lethal-dose 50 percent test used by companies to test household products and cosmetics. That test requires that animals be force-fed products such as bleach until the lethal dose that will kill 50 percent of the group is reached. Prominent toxicologists agree that the results of this test hold no comparison to the effect of a substance on a human being. Yet companies continue to use it.

The animal rights movement is growing, and one of its prime concerns is the use of animals for cruel and inhumane testing. I share this concern for the needless suffering

DEAR US: First I'll tell you what not to say: "What have you done to yourself? I hardly recognized you! I thought you were your daughter." Or, "Who did it?"

It is, however, permissible to say, "My, you're looking marvelous." Period.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you never had a problem like this. You have my permission to put this in the paper, but don't use my name. I am 80 years old. I had a brother (four years younger), and we loved and respected each other. He passed away last week after a long illness. His funeral happened to fall on the same day as the wedding of one of my favorite grandsons. I was torn between going to my brother's funeral and my grandson's wedding. The funeral was in town, but I had to travel to another state for my grandson's wedding, so I couldn't go to both.

Well, I chose to go to the wedding, and now my name is you-know-what with some of my relatives. They said that out of respect to my brother I should have gone to his funeral.

Please tell me if you think I did wrong by going to my grandson's wedding instead of to my brother's funeral.

American reporter Nicholas Daniloff and his wife, Ruth, stand together in front of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow Saturday. Daniloff spoke of his experience Sunday in a news conference and denied any participation in CIA activities. Two Senators are calling for 'retaliatory action' with the Soviet Union. See all three stories this page.

Daniloff denies charges of CIA participation

MOSCOW (AP) — American reporter Nicholas Daniloff, saying he went "through a wringer" while imprisoned by the KGB, denied Soviet reports that he had admitted to his interrogators his participation in a CIA operation.

The 51-year-old U.S. News & World Report correspondent gave his first detailed account of his Aug. 30 arrest and 13 days in Soviet prison at a Sunday news conference at the U.S. Commercial Office, a building near the U.S. Embassy.

Daniloff said his Friday release into the custody of the U.S. ambassador "is a great relief from the sort of mental torture that I have had to bear over the last two weeks."

"I am terribly anxious to get back to the United States, to be back with my children... Frankly, I feel like a sneaker that's been through a wringer," Daniloff said.

The newsman repeatedly denied he ever worked for the CIA or had any connection to an intelligence agency. "And that, please believe me, is the God's full truth," he said.

Daniloff noted that he still faces a three-count espionage indictment, must be available for questioning and is not permitted to leave the Moscow area.

Similar restrictions apply to Gennadiy Zakharov, a Soviet U.N. employee charged in New York with espionage. He was released in the pretrial custody of Soviet Ambassador Yuri Dubinin in exchange for Daniloff's conditional release in Moscow.

The Moscow correspondent reiterated his contention that he was set up by the KGB as an attempt to gain Zakharov's release.

He said Soviet acquaintance Mikhail A. Luzin, called Misha, gave him a packet, and that he did not know what was in it. Daniloff

Senators call for halt of summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senators are calling for tough measures against the Soviet Union unless American journalist Nicholas Daniloff is allowed to return home, including a halt in discussions of a superpower summit, a cutoff of subsidized grain sales and expulsion of Soviet spies.

Sen. Richard Lugar, calling for "retaliatory action" against the Soviets, said Sunday the Reagan administration should refuse to discuss anything but the Daniloff case at a pre-summit planning meeting with the Soviets this week unless Moscow frees Daniloff.

Lugar, R-Ind., speaking on ABC-TV's "This Week With David Brinkley," did not specify what he meant by retaliation other than refusing further discussions with Moscow about a summit.

But Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., appearing with Lugar on the same show, said it should include curtailing subsidized grain sales to and cultural exchanges with the Soviets and arrests of more Soviet spies in the United States.

"We could pick up 500 of those people in the next week, and if we have to, we should," Moynihan said.

"We expect Daniloff to come out," Lugar said. "That would be the purpose of our taking retaliatory action, of our saying before (Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard) Shevardnadze arrives here, if he does arrive this week, that we anticipate the situation is going to be cleared up or the agenda for the meeting would be Daniloff alone."

Shevardnadze is scheduled to meet in a pre-summit planning session with Secretary of State George Shultz in New York on Friday and Saturday.

Deputy Secretary of State John C. Whitehead, appearing on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation," said negotiations were continuing and "we're continuing to insist that Daniloff be set free."

He declined to discuss details of the talks, but insisted there would be no trade. "You can be sure if Daniloff is not free by the time that meeting begins that this subject will be very high on the agenda."

Whitehead added: "If they refuse to set him free, the world must go on. This is an important issue, but of course it's not the only issue. ... If we terminate all discussions with the Soviet Union, then we can't make progress on this case or on anything else."

Daniloff, a reporter for U.S. News & World Report, was freed from a Moscow prison Friday in a diplomatic arrangement in which Gennadiy Zakharov, a Soviet U.N. employee charged with spying, was released in New York.

They were turned over to the custody of their respective ambassadors and they remain charged with espionage.

Reporter describes prison and KGB 'mental torture'

Nicholas Daniloff said his 13 days of detention in a Soviet prison showed all Western reporters in Moscow were potential KGB targets, and spoke of the fears and "mental torture" he experienced while in confinement.

Daniloff, flanked by his wife, Ruth, and by Henry Trewhitt, deputy managing editor of U.S. News & World Report magazine, emphasized he was never physically abused during his stay at Lefortovo Prison.

But Daniloff said the loneliness and the 30 hours of interrogation took their toll.

"The end result is that when you go back to your cell, you can't get your mind off of the problem, the misfortune which has occurred to you," he said.

"And frankly, I have to tell you, it's mental torture, mental torture."

The 51-year-old reporter, who says he was framed by the KGB in revenge for the FBI arrest of a Soviet spy charges in New York, also had a sober warning for fellow journalists:

"All of you are potential targets for this sort of action, and it's deplorable. One has to ask: is this an acceptable way of behaving, snapping up people off the street in order to gain political leverage in some other case?"

Daniloff described in detail his arrest by eight KGB agents on Aug. 30 after a meeting with a Soviet acquaintance called Misha, a nickname for Mikhail A. Luzin.

Daniloff gave Luzin some American novels as a farewell gift. Daniloff said that to his surprise, Luzin gave him a package that Luzin said contained newspaper clippings. The envelope contained secret maps and military photographs.

Asked whether he had second thoughts about taking the packet, Daniloff replied: "Well, you know, once you have been sandbagged by eight men on a street, totally unsuspecting, put into a van, your hands pinned behind your back, your hands in handcuffs, of course you wonder — why the hell did I do that?"

THE PASSPORT DEFINED

Even the most seasoned travelers know very little about passports. Most travelers know only that a passport must be presented when leaving or entering countries. They know it sometimes gets stamped but, many times, it is merely looked over. It establishes who one is. It also identifies one as an American citizen. Having been identified as an American citizen allows one to enter and to pass freely and safely through their domain. One also is afforded the protection of American diplomatic and consular officers. In effect, it is the American government's permission for one to travel.

Now that you have "permission" come to BIG SPRING TRAVEL, 808 Scurry, for the people who can help you get wherever you want to go. Let us make your wildest travel fantasies come true. From around the world to around the corner, we have the people and resources to make all the arrangements you need to have an enjoyable and memorable journey. ## Dorsett, Cowboys crush Lions PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — While NFL fans have gone ga-ga over the intramural duel between Herschel Walker and Tony Dorsett, the Dallas Cowboys have quietly become a pretty good football team.

The Cowboys handed the Detroit Lions a 31-7 thrashing Sunday with solid performances from a lot of people — including the celebrated running backs.

Dorsett, playing on a badly sprained left ankle, ran the ball 23 times for 117 yards and a touchdown. Walker ran only six times but still got 51 yards and a TD on the ground. He also caught five passes for 35 yards.

But there were plenty of other Cowboy heroes in this one-sided contest.

Quarterback Danny White completed 20 of 31 passes for 184 yards and a TD with two interceptions. He also ran 1 yard for a score.

On defense, Dallas linebacker Jessie Penn recovered both of James Jones' fumbles while tackle Jim Jeffcoat made the hit that caused Garry James' fumble and had two quarterback sacks.

The Lions contributed greatly to their own downfall by losing three of four fumbles and taking eight penalties for 70 yards. As a result, Dallas controlled the ball for 37:13, leaving Detroit 22:47 to get something going.

The Cowboys improved to 2-0 while the Lions slipped to 1-1.

The Cowboys took advantage of two key Detroit mistakes for 17 points in the second quarter.

Dorsett swept around right end for a 5-yard touchdown one minute into the second quarter after the Cowboys had recovered a Jones fumble.

"Dorsett is a tough, tough running back," Lion's coach Darryl Rogers said. "Some of our guys go down with a sprained ankle and they come back in two or three weeks. Dorsett sprains his ankle and he's back up in seven days. He has never been given credit for how tough he is." Dallas made it 14-0 with 1:01 remaining in the second quarter when White hooked up with Timmy Newsome on a 15-yard TD pass play.

Moments later, Detroit punter Mike Black fumbled at the Lions' 9 yard line and Rafael Septien kicked a 27-yard field goal with one second remaining in the half.

Dorsett appeared to have scored on a 34-yard run with 12:41 remaining in the game, but officials ruled he was stopped inside the 1 after checking a television replay. White dived in for the score on the next play.

Walker, who was used sparingly in the contest, scored on a 7-yard run with 8:07 remaining for a 31-0 lead.

Jones scored on a 1-yard dive for Detroit with 3:00 left in the game.

The Lions started with Eric Hipple at quarterback and switched to Joe Ferguson at the start of the second half, but neither could solve the tough Dallas defense.

Rogers said Hipple would remain the No. 1 quarterback.

Despite their advantage in possession time, the Cowboy's longest scoring drive was only seven plays. That was late in the second quarter when White hit second-down passes of 11, 9 and 11 yards to Hill, Newsome and Doug Cosbie, respectively, before finding Newsome open and alone in the right flat for the score that made it 14-0.

Walker had a 34-yard run in the five-play drive that ended with his touchdown run.

Montana to miss season

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Joe Montana and the San Francisco 49ers face an uncertain future today.

Receiver Dwight Clark said at first, he didn't believe Montana when the 49ers' quarterback told him how bad he injured his back in last week's season opener against Tampa Bay.

"At first I thought he was kidding, but he said, 'This is serious,'" said Clark, favorite target of the man who's led the 49ers to two Super Bowl victories and one of the most impressive records in recent NFL history.

The 49ers players were told Sunday, right after their 16-13 loss to the Los Angeles Rams at Anaheim Stadium, that Montana would require disc surgery on his lower back and may be out for the rest of the season.

There was also some question whether Montana, who joined the 49ers in 1979 and has been selected to the last five Pro Bowls, would ever be able to play football again.

Montana, 30, wrenched his back while running left but throwing to his right in the 49ers' 31-7 victory against the Buccaneers in which he completed 32 of 46 passes for 356 yards.

Surgery was scheduled for today, but the names of the surgeon and San Francisco-area hospital involved were kept confidential Sunday.

"Although the results (of the surgery) are fairly predictable, nothing is assured," said Dr. Michael Dillingham, the team's orthopedic specialist. "He probably should be able to play in the future, but there's no guarantee."

Within 24 hours after the surgery, doctors should be able to determine the severity of Montana's injury and how long it will keep him from playing, he said.

Rams edge 49ers in grudge match

Jeff Kemp almost pulled off the understudy's dream. Now, he has to think about being the leading man for a while.

Kemp, for five years a quarterback with the Los Angeles Rams, was traded to San Francisco in the offseason. His role, until Sunday, was as a backup to Joe Montana.

But Montana has a back injury which requires disc surgery and, suddenly, Kemp is No. 1 in San Francisco, something he rarely managed with the Rams. And he performed his chores well in a losing effort Sunday as Los Angeles edged the 49ers 16-13 on Mike Lansford's 18-yard field goal with two seconds remaining in the game.

Kemp was 19-for-24 for 252 yards, including a 66-yard TD pass to Jerry Rice. But it wasn't enough.

On Thursday, it was New England 20, the New York Jets 6. Tonight's game has Denver at Pittsburgh.

Rams 16, 49ers 13
Kemp impressed the man who traded him.

"I thought Jeff did a good job," Rams Coach John Robinson said. "He's like an old friend to us; all of us with the Rams respect him."

The man who replaced Kemp, veteran Steve Bartkowski, struggled most of the game, then came alive in the final moments. He took the Rams on a 92-yard drive by going 4-for-4 for 60 yards in the air. Bartkowski was only 9-for-20 for 54 yards prior to the winning drive.

Bartkowski hit Bobby Duckworth on a 35-yard pass to the 4 with 1:11 left. On that pass, the officials initially ruled that Duckworth, who rolled into the end zone, had scored, then by use of TV replay reversed the decision.

The Rams ran out most of the clock before Lansford won it.

Bears 13, Eagles 10, OT
The return to Chicago of Buddy Ryan featured, appropriately, a tight defensive game. Ryan, who designed the Bears' 46 defense which helped them to an NFL championship last year, left to become the Eagles' head coach last January.

His former players went out of their way to greet and chat with Ryan, a far different greeting than he got from Bears Coach Mike Ditka. Ditka and Ryan ignored each other.

Ditka admitted he couldn't concentrate and coached a bad game. Ryan, following an impromptu meeting outside the locker room with Bears linebacker Mike Singletary, called off his first news conference to compose himself.

Kevin Butler, who missed four of five field goal tries in regulation time, kicked a 23-yarder 5:56 into the extra period after Charles Crawford fumbled the kickoff to begin the overtime.

Walter Payton ran 34 times for 177 yards and went over 15,000 yards in his career and scored his 100th career TD.

"It was a typical Buddy Ryan defense," Payton said. "They were very aggressive and kept them in the game. I knew it was going to be a close game."

Bengals 36, Bills 33, OT
Jim Breech's 20-yard field goal early in overtime ended the wild game in which both teams staged comebacks. Buffalo has lost 18 straight road games.

The Bills, behind Jim Kelly, scored 24 points in the second half for a 33-23 lead. Kelly connected on a bomb with Chris Burkett covering 84 yards for a touchdown.

But Boomer Esiason led a 74-yard march in less than two minutes and ran into the end zone from the 2 with 22 seconds to go to force overtime.

Kelly threw a pass right to linebacker Carl Zander on the first play of overtime, giving Cincinnati the ball on Buffalo's 17-yard line. Two plays later, Breech won it.

"That's part of football," said Kelly, who was 13-22 for 228 yards. "You throw interceptions. It's just, why does it have to happen at that time?"

Redskins 10, Raiders 6
Two high-powered attacks were ineffective against tough defenses in a game decided by one big play in the fourth quarter. A 59-yard pass from quarterback Jay Schroeder to Clint Didier brought the Redskins to the Raiders' 9. Two plays later, George Rogers scored from the 3 with 7:27 left.

Didier slipped behind Raiders safety Stacey Toran and caught the ball in stride along the left sideline. It was the longest pass completion of Schroeder's career and Didier's biggest gain ever.

Washington, 2-0, had five sacks and Los Angeles, which is 0-2, had four.

Redskins running back Kelvin Bryant sprained his knee and will be examined today.

Falcons 33, Cardinals 13
Gerald Riggs and William Andrews shared the spotlight with David Archer Sunday for 2-0 Atlanta. Riggs had 111 yards on 29 carries, while Andrews, back after Chicago Bears' quarterback Mike Tomczak (18) celebrates Walter Payton's 100th career touchdown during the third quarter of Sunday's game against the Eagles in Chicago. Payton rushed 34 times for 177 yards and scored the Bear's only touchdown on a one yard dive. The Bears won 13-10 in overtime.

missing more than two seasons with a knee injury, scored his first touchdown of the year. Archer connected with Charlie Brown on a 17-yard score and clinched the victory with a 22-yarder to Anthony Allen with 5:59 left in the game.

The Cardinals, who fell to 0-2, were blanked in the second half.

Browns 23, Oilers 20
Cleveland, known as a running team, went to the air to rally against Houston. Trailing 13-9, the Browns rebounded as Bernie Kosar threw a 55-yard touchdown pass to Reggie Langhorne with 2:10 to play.

On the next kickoff, Houston's Willie Drewrey fumbled and Earnest Byner capped a 20-yard drive with a 1-yard touchdown dive with 1:30 to go.

The Oilers had six turnovers. "We stumbled around defensively in the first quarter," Cleveland Coach Marty Schottenheimer said. "But then we came on and played some strong defense. We were always in a position to make the big play and, fortunately, we were able to make some."

Saints 24, Packers 10
New Orleans stole five passes by Randy Wright and two by Vince Ferragamo to stymie the Packers. Dave Waymer had two of the seven interceptions.

Wide receiver Eric Martin accounted for 156 yards and a touchdown on his first two catches, going 72 yards for a TD 92 seconds into the game. His second reception from Bobby Hebert was an 84-yard pass play on which he beat Ken Stills on a 16-yard crossing pattern, and added 68 yards with some open field running before being hauled down at the 7. Four plays later, Morten Andersen booted a 20-yard field goal.

"We had pressure and sacks and good coverage, and that equals turnovers," Waymer said. "I don't know that it was so much disguising what we were doing. We just went back and started working on the things we did before and did them well."

A&M title hopes go bust at LSU

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M will attempt to show this week that it can bounce back from a 35-17 loss to Louisiana State that all but destroyed the Aggies' hopes of a national football championship this year.

The Aggies were able to shake off an opening loss to Alabama last year and rally to capture the Southwest Conference title and a berth in the Cotton Bowl, where A&M defeated Auburn.

The Aggies entertain North Texas State next Saturday and will be heavy favorites. But Aggie fans are still asking what happened to the vaunted Aggie defense last weekend. How could Louisiana State put 35 points on the scoreboard against A&M?

Texas A&M, with nine starters back from the best defense in the Southwest Conference, surrendered 401 yards to the Tigers. The Aggie offense put the defense on the spot with five turnovers, but that's a lot of yards.

The Aggies were done in by a redshirt freshman quarterback, a junior journeyman making his first start at running back, and a freshman tailback.

Quarterback Tom Hodson, making his first collegiate start, made LSU fans forget about graduated Jeff Wickersham. Hodson survived a shaky start to complete 15 of 21 passes for 193 yards and two touchdowns.

Sam Martin, a 170-pound junior, made his first start at tailback after starting part-time at wide receiver last year. He ran for 62 yards, averaging 5 yards per carry, and a touchdown, and also caught a pair of touchdown passes.

To add insult to injury, freshman Harvey Williams made a successful debut against the school he nearly joined.

Williams, who was one of Texas' most-sought-after schoolboy stars while playing for Hempstead, just down the road from Texas A&M, was expected by most observers to attend A&M.

He went to LSU, instead. He took some ferocious hits from the Aggies, but still ran for 56 yards and scored the go-ahead touchdown on a 1-yard run.

However, LSU did most of its damage through the air. The Tigers finished with 17 of 24 passing for 269 yards and three touchdowns.

"They did a good job blocking our defensive people up front," A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill said. "We didn't put much pressure on the quarterback."

A&M got two sacks, but most of the night Hodson was all alone in the pocket.

Quinn's Quarter

Big Spring Steers head coach Quinn Eudy had these comments about Friday night's 56-6 loss to Lubbock Estacado and this week's game against San Angelo Lakeview.

"We broke down in our kicking game — our punting team. We'll work on that, and we should be able to get that down with hard work."

"We'll work on getting more continuity in our offense, and on defense we need to tackle better. The defense is on the verge of being a real good defense — they just need to work a little harder on their tackling and on being aggressive."

"On offense, we'll spend more time on the passing game. It's our job to get the doubt out of the quarterbacks' minds."

"They're (Lubbock Estacado) an awful good football team. I can't take anything away from them. They'll be more talented than anybody else they play, but that's an awful tough district they play in. "This is our first district game, and it's against one of the playoff teams from last year. They're going to be excited, and they're going to work hard, and we're going to coach hard."

Phillies stall Mets celebration

By BEN WALKER
AP Sports Writer

What a weird weekend for the National League leaders.

The New York Mets, needing to beat Philadelphia just once to win the NL East championship, saw their title drive take a slight detour as they got swept in a three-game series by the Phillies.

Philadelphia won 6-0 Sunday, leaving the Mets with six cases of cooled-off champagne and their magic number still at two.

"I don't care when we clinch," New York Manager Davey Johnson said as the Mets left Philadelphia and headed to St. Louis.

In San Diego, Mike Scott of the NL West-leading Houston Astros struck out a career-high 14 and walked none. But the major-league leader in earned run average and strikeouts lost the game 3-2 when Padres pinch-hitter Carmelo Martinez lofted a two-run homer in the ninth inning.

"An out's an out — you still have to get 27 of them to win," Scott said. On Saturday night, San Diego scored three times in the bottom of the ninth to beat the Astros, 4-3.

Houston is seven games ahead of runner-up Cincinnati. The two teams begin a three-game series in Cincinnati beginning Tuesday night.

But, the strangest doings of the day came in San Francisco. Bob Brenly tied a major-league record by making four errors in an inning, yet atoned by hitting two home runs, including a solo shot with two outs in the ninth that gave the Giants a 7-6 triumph over Atlanta.

"I was the comeback player of the year in one afternoon," Brenly said.

The Mets had hoped to wrap up their first division title since 1973, and thousands of their fans drove two hours from New York to Philadelphia on Friday night, then Saturday night and again on Sunday wanting to see the clinching victory.

It never came, though, as Philadelphia beat ace Dwight Gooden on Friday, top reliever Roger McDowell on Saturday and 15-game winner Sid Fernandez on Sunday.

New York Mets manager Dave Johnson ponders the situation as he watches his team go down to defeat against the Philadelphia Phillies 6-0 in Philadelphia Sunday. The Mets were swept 3-0 by the Phillies and thus failed to clinch the National League Eastern Division title.

Padres 3, Astros 2
Kevin Gross pitched a six-hit shutout and lined a two-run triple for the second-place Phillies, who are 19 games behind. Gross, 10-11, capped a four-run fourth inning with his triple.

Mike Schmidt hit a run-scoring single and sacrifice fly. He leads the majors with 112 RBI and moved in to 33rd place on the all-time list.

Giants 7, Braves 6
Brenly's fielding troubles put San Francisco behind early in the game, but he came back with two home runs and a two-run single that led the Giants to victory.
Brenly, a veteran catcher, made four errors while playing third base in the fourth inning. He became the first player to make four errors in an inning since Lenny Merullo of the Cubs on Sept. 13, 1942, and tied the major-league record for errors by a third baseman in a game.
Brenly bobbled three grounders, and on one of the plays also made a throwing error.
The next inning, Brenly and Bob Melvin hit consecutive home runs. After the Braves went ahead 6-2, Brenly capped a four-run seventh with a two-run single.
Then, with two outs in the ninth, Brenly won the game by connecting off Paul Assenmacher, 6-3, for his 14th homer.

Reds 4, Dodgers 3
Eric Davis' RBI single capped a two-run comeback in the ninth inning that led Cincinnati past Los Angeles.
The visiting Reds rallied against Tom Niedenfuer, 6-5, who took over to start the ninth. Dave Concepcion and Barry Larkin opened with singles and Buddy Bell's sacrifice fly made it 3-3.
Cardinals 10, Expos 2
Willie McGee went 4-for-5 with a solo homer and RBI double and Mike Laga hit his first NL home run as St. Louis trounced Montreal. McGee and Vince Coleman each scored three runs. Coleman stole his major league-leading 95th and 96th bases, but was also thrown out by rookie catcher Wilfredo Tejada.
Pirates 5, Cubs 2
Sid Bream hit a two-run single during a six-run fifth inning and Pittsburgh went on to beat visiting Chicago.
Rick Reuschel, 9-16, pitched seven innings and gave up one run on six hits.

Yankees 11, Red Sox 5
Mike Easler knocked in three runs with a homer and a single and Dave Righetti set a save record for left-handed relief pitchers as New York defeated Boston.
Ron Guidry, 8-10, allowed four runs and eight hits in six innings, walked four and struck out four as the Yankees cut Boston's lead in the AL East to nine games.
Righetti got the final four outs for his 39th save, breaking John Hiller's record (Detroit) for left-handers, set in 1973. Right-handers Dan Quisenberry and Bruce Sutter share the major-league record with 45. Righetti has successfully converted his last 22 save opportunities.

Tigers 7, Orioles 0
Frank Tanana and Bill Campbell combined on a five-hitter and Pat Sheridan hit a two-run homer to lead Detroit over Baltimore for a sweep of their three-game series.
Tanana, 11-7, struck out nine and walked one in seven innings as Detroit equaled its season-high fifth straight triumph. Campbell pitched the final two innings.
Indians 5, A's 2
Ken Schrom scattered seven hits in 8 1/3 innings and Tony Bernazard homered and singled and drove in four runs as Cleveland beat Oakland, winning for the 10th straight time over the A's.
Cleveland's streak over the A's includes all nine games with Oakland this year and the final game between the teams last season.
Twins 7, Rangers 6
Pinch-hitter Al Woods and Kirby Puckett delivered key hits in a two-run eighth inning to lead Minnesota over Texas.
Jeff Reed singled and Woods lined a two-out double into the right-won his second game in two days.

An RBI single by Denny Walling in the first and Bass' 20th homer in the fourth made it 2-0. Padres rookie Gary Green doubled and scored in the fifth.

Bo whallops tape measure homer

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Bo Jackson will no doubt remember his first major-league home run. The way he hit it, others will remember it, too.

"That ball was hit well over 500 feet," said Royals interim manager Mike Ferraro after Jackson's prodigious homer Sunday triggered the Royals to a 10-3 victory over the Seattle Mariners. "I was in awe. It was simply amazing."

Officials said that Jackson's 475-foot drive high onto a grassy knoll in left-center field at Royals Stadium was the longest hit at the stadium, landing approximately three to five feet further than a tape-measure blast by former Chicago White Sox slugger Dick Allen in 1974.

"I knew it would come," the onetime Heisman Trophy winner said about his homer. "It was a flat slider and I was using the bat I'd used in batting practice. It was one of Willie Wilson's bats that I'd taken from his rack."
Jackson's homer off Mike Moore, verted his last 22 save opportunities.

Tigers 7, Orioles 0
Frank Tanana and Bill Campbell combined on a five-hitter and Pat Sheridan hit a two-run homer to lead Detroit over Baltimore for a sweep of their three-game series.

Twins 7, Rangers 6
Pinch-hitter Al Woods and Kirby Puckett delivered key hits in a two-run eighth inning to lead Minnesota over Texas.
Jeff Reed singled and Woods lined a two-out double into the right-field corner which was misplayed by Texas right fielder Pete Incaviglia for an error, allowing Reed to score the tie-breaking run. Puckett followed with a single to score Woods with the Twins' seventh and eventual winning run.

The rally made a winner of George Frazier, 1-1, who pitched the final two innings. Dale Mohoric, 2-3, took the loser.
Texas' Don Slaught had tied the game 5-5 in the top of the eighth with a solo homer off Frazier, his 13th of the season.
White Sox 3, Angels 1
Ron Hassey's second-inning double keyed a two-run rally and Joe Cowley pitched a six-hitter to lead Chicago over California.
Brewers 5, Blue Jays 0
Cecil Cooper went 4-for-4. Dale Sveum hit a two-run homer and Teddy Higuera pitched a five-hitter to pace Milwaukee over Toronto.
Higuera, 19-9, pitched his fourth shutout and 12th complete game of the season. He struck out four and walked three.
Cooper hit his 400th career double in the first inning and singled in each of his next three at-bats to drive in a pair of runs.

Breland, Biggs beat up overmatched opponents

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Former Olympic gold medalist boxers Mark Breland and Tyrell Biggs remain undefeated as professionals after Breland scored a knockout in a welterweight bout and Biggs won a unanimous decision in a heavyweight match.

Biggs, the 1984 Olympic super heavyweight champion from Philadelphia, beat Percell Davis of Detroit in a 10-round match Sunday night at Harrah's Marina casino hotel.

Breland stopped Reggie Miller of Lake Charles, La., with a right-hand barrage at 1:41 of the second round of a scheduled 10-round welterweight bout.

Biggs, 11-0 with seven knockouts, unloaded a torrent of body shots and left hooks to the head against Davis, who weighed 253 1/2 pounds.

Davis, 13-5 with nine knockouts, inspired an early slugfest and landed some solid left hooks to the head but fought to survive after Biggs landed scores of unanswered combinations in the fifth.

"I felt no fear in the right hand," said Biggs, who suffered a broken collarbone in a March triumph over Jeff Sims. He was reluctant to use the right hand in an August knockout of Rod Smith.

"I hit the guy with everything and he didn't go, but I was still satisfied," Biggs said. "If he wants to fight backing up, I'll just take the win."

Breland, from New York City, the welterweight gold medalist in 1984, became 14-0 with nine knockouts as a pro.

Breland floored Miller with a right in the opening round.

Giants 20, Chargers 7
San Diego went from scoring 50 points last week to only a touchdown this time out as the Giants defense was overwhelming, forcing seven turnovers. The Chargers lost the ball on each of their last six possessions.

Joe Morris scored on a 1-yard run and Phil Simms tossed a 12-yard TD pass to Lionel Manuel for the Giants. Kenny Hill and Terry Kinard each had two interceptions.

The Chargers lost cornerback Danny Walters with a ruptured Achilles tendon.

Vikings 23, Bucs 10
Turnovers also killed the Bucs, who are 0-2 this season and have lost 40 of their last 50 games. Linebacker Chris Doleman returned an interception of a Steve DeBerg pass 59 yards for a touchdown. Tommy Kramer passed 10 yards to Mike Mularkey for another TD and a James Wilder fumble set up Chuck Nelson's 31-yard field goal 70 seconds after Mularkey's score.

Dolphins 30, Colts 10
Lorenzo Hampton scored on runs of five and 21 yards, Dan Marino passed for 254 yards and a TD and rookie James Pruitt returned one punt for a 71-yard touchdown and went 35 yards with another to set up a field goal for Miami. The Dolphins, who had allowed 224 yards rushing to San Diego in a 50-28 opening-day loss, held Indianapolis to 75 yards on the ground.

"We told them before the game to play like this was our season opener," Miami Coach Don Shula said. "There was nothing we could do about last week now. Last week was a disaster. This week, we saw a lot of good things."

The Colts saw a very bad thing — quarterback Gary Hogeboom suffered a separated shoulder in the third period and will require surgery.

Seahawks 23, Chiefs 17
Safety Ken Easley took charge for Seattle, 2-0. He intercepted a Todd Blackledge pass on the Kansas City 29 and ran it to the 5 to set up Curt Warner's 1-yard TD run in the third quarter. Norm Johnson kicked field goals of 53, 35 and 34 and Dave Krieg connected on a 6-yard touchdown toss to Daryl Turner.

Horned Frog runner has 'dream' game

FORT WOTH, Texas (AP) — Former Texas Christian All-American Kenneth Davis was watching Saturday when Tony Jeffery rewrote his Horned Frog rushing records in the SuperDome at New Orleans.

"I made a promise to myself I'd break Kenneth Davis' records," said Jeffery, who rushed for an SWC record 343 yards. "He told me 'Go for it.'"

Jeffery and Davis were teammates at TCU before Davis was kicked off the team last year for accepting payments from alumni. Jeffery had a poor sophomore season, gaining only 695 yards. He got almost half that much in one game on Saturday.

On Saturday, Davis' presence seemed to spark Jeffery. Davis had three games at TCU in which he rushed for over 200 yards but never reached the 300s.

Jeffery, a junior from Gladewater, Texas, scored on touchdown runs of 11, 38, 32, 81, and 67 yards in a 48-31 victory over Tulane.

"I didn't know how many yards I had," said Jeffery who was just 13 short of the national record. "I was really surprised when I found out. It was just a dream day."

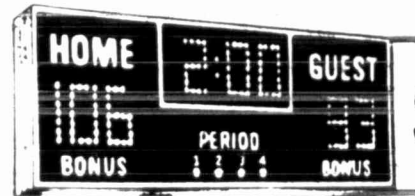

Davis said he was happy to see Jeffery's big day.

"TJ has the ability and potential to have any kind of game he wants," Davis said. "I think people may have already forgotten about me. But if they haven't, T.J. really buried me today."

The five touchdowns by Jeffery was a school record.

Davis was in New Orleans as a member of the Green Bay Packers who play the Saints on Sunday.

Jeffery was just 14 yards short of the NCAA record single game rushing record set in 1984 by Washington State's Rueben Mayes.

Mexico quake: historic murals survive

By CONCEPCION BADILLO
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — As devastating as last September's great earthquake was to Mexico City, art restoration teams have found that only two of the 600 murals registered with the government were destroyed.

Murals are part of Mexico's artistic heritage. They began to appear after the Mexican Revolution started in 1921, most of them based on social or political themes. The teams from the National Institute of Fine Art's center for conservation found 92 murals that suffered from cracks, air pockets or other damage. Of those, 33 were removed from collapsed buildings and the remainder were left for repair at their original locations.

"Despite everything, of the great magnitude of the tragedy, Mexican muralism is the great survivor of the earthquake," Tomas Surian, the center's director, said in an interview.

Some of the murals were painted directly on the outside or inside walls of buildings. Others were done on panels that later were placed on the walls of schools, libraries, markets, hospitals and other buildings.

"For the government it was important, basically, to rescue the murals because losing them meant in a certain sense harming national identity," Surian said. He noted that Mexican art after the arrival of the Spanish conquistadors had little international impact until the development of the mural movement.

The muralists hit their peak between 1921 and 1950, with a powerful aesthetic impact that placed an international spotlight on Mexican art. The three best known muralists were Diego Rivera, David Alfaro Siqueiros and Jose Clemente Orozco.

The earthquake that hit Mexico City at 7:19 a.m. last Sept. 19 had an intensity of 8.1 on the Richter scale. The government says 6,000 people were killed but other estimates go as high as 9,500 or more. Hundreds of buildings were destroyed and thousands of Mexico City residents were left homeless.

Workers started to track down damage to the murals quickly. The conservation center, however, has proposed that the government adopt new regulations that would allow art restoration teams immediate access to any buildings in the event of any future disaster.

The case described as the most dramatic by the art restorers involved the higher floors of the Communications and Transportation Department's building, where work done in colored stone in 1954 by Jose Chavez Morado and Juan O'Gorman was practically pulverized.

Murals by the Costa Rican artist Francisco Zuniga on the building's lower floors suffered only slight scratches.

The first reports were that the building would be demolished. However, an agreement was reached leaving intact the five lower floors so that murals could be saved.

Of the 23,000 square feet of murals in the building, 2,640 square feet were destroyed and almost 6,600 square feet removed. Surveys still are being done on the building to see if some of the removed sections can be returned to their original sites.

Surian said the "most painful and frustrating experience" for the restoration teams was in the Benito Juarez Housing Units, a complex of apartment buildings that was devastated in the hard-hit Roma neighborhood. A relief mural there by Guatemalan Carlos Merida based on the Mayan texts known as the

The lower floors of the Communications and Transportation Department's building in Mexico City were preserved to keep intact their murals. The upper floors were demolished, causing one of the most serious losses to the city's murals from the Sept. 19, 1985, earthquake.

Popul Vuh could not be saved.

The murals were placed in such a way that their removal would only have hastened the building's collapse. The complex eventually was demolished with explosives.

One proposal had been to demolish the building but leave the decorative staircases standing as a memorial to earthquake victims. However, studies concluded that would not be feasible because the staircases would have collapsed in any future quake.

Among the damaged murals that already have been restored are those by Rivera, probably the best known muralist, in the National Palace, La Raza Medical Center and the Public Education Department.

Work was particularly difficult at the heavily damaged National Medical Center, where such monumental works as "Apology of the Future Victory of Science over Cancer" were saved. That 230-square-foot mural in the Cancer Hospital was painted in 1958 by Siquieros.

Many of the retrieved works still are in fragments and remain in storage waiting for relocation and final repairs.

Probably the best known murals in Mexico City are those on the outside of buildings at the National Autonomous University of Mexico, but those buildings are in southern Mexico City in an area unaffected by the disaster.

Quake aid will be audited

SAN ANTONIO — A Mexico envoy said officials in his country will begin a penny by penny audit of earthquake relief aid from San Antonio to document where the contributions went.

Mexico's Comptroller General Francisco Rojas said Saturday he will present the Mexican consulate with a computerized list of how every package of earthquake relief aid was received, where it was stored, and who signed for it in receipt.

Rojas, head of a mammoth "moral renovation" campaign, was in San Antonio as the personal envoy of President Miguel De La Madrid to the Mexican Independence Day festivities this weekend.
