FRIDAY

First East-West pact in '80s

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) -The 35-nation Stockholm conference today formally adopted the first East-West security agreement of the decade, an accord designed to reduce the risk of an accidental war in Europe.

Delegates celebrated after the session with champagne toasts.

During this morning's final session of the 32-month conference, the clock remained at 10:56 p.m., the time it was stopped on Friday, the original deadline for the conference. Delegates said they had to 'freeze'' time because several issues were unresolved.

Agreement was reached late Sunday when Soviet and U.S. negotiators compromised on arrangements for notification, observation and on-site inspection of military maneuvers.

According to military experts, the final document will enable NATO, the Warsaw Pact and neutral European nations to foresee and judge with greater precision than before all sizeable military maneuvers and movements in Europe.

"There were issues we fought for and did not achieve but the result is definitely a step forward. It enables us to check the real will to build confidence," said a NATO military expert, who spoke on condition he not be identified further.

The agreement, an offshoot of the 1975 Helsinki accords, is the first East-West security agreement since the SALT II document on superpower strategic arms signed by Jimmy Carter and Leonid Brezhnev in Vienna in 1979. That agreement was never ratified by the U.S. Senate.

NATO delegates, headed by U.S. chief negotiator Robert L. Barry, and Soviet delegation head Oleg Grinevsky, speaking for the Warsaw Pact, hailed the agreement Sunday as an example to be followed in arms control.

Barry and Grinevsky said they were not totally satisfied, but agreed they got more than was expected.

The negotiations, formally called the Conference on Security-and Confidence-Building Measures and Disarmament in Europe, brought together delegates from the United States, Canada, the Soviet Union and all European states except Albania.

Negotiators stopped the clock to get around the original Sept. 19 deadline for an accord and worked through the weekend to break deadlocks.

Barry said in a statement: "We have taken an important step toward reducing the risk of military confrontation.' SECURITY page 2A

Reagan condemns Daniloff affair to U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - President Reagan told the United Nations today that there has been movement in U.S.-Soviet negotiations to reduce nuclear-missile arsenals, but condemned Moscow's detention of an American reporter as "a particularly disturbing example of Soviet tran-

The president said there is no similarity in the cases against Daniloff and Gennadiy

Lighter Side

AUSTIN (AP) - For years there have been rumors of an alligator living in Lake Austin, and officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department have been hearing recently from those who say they have seen it.

"The reports that we have had are from concerned citizens,' said Lt. Wayne Chappell of parks and wildlife. But "there haven't been any reports of it attacking anyone.

A search is concentrating about two miles up the lake from a city park on the shore. Officials said they are not sure where the alligator came from or how long it has been in the area.

Service work will reduce TV reception

Big Spring Cable TV customers may be without ABC affiliate WFAA Channel 8 for the next three weeks, said Big Spring Cable systems manager Larson Lloyd this morning.

Lloyd said the station went off the air early Saturday when the West Texas microwave transmitter for Channel 8 malfunctioned.

Big Spring Cable gets its feed from WFAA in Dallas, the owner of the transmitter, LLoyd said. The cable company wasn't notified of the problem until it called Dallas Saturday for an explanation, he said

It may take three weeks for the transmitter to be replaced, he added

Meanwhile, Lloyd said customers will receive Country Music Video on Channel 8 until the change is completed.

Approximately 75 citizens clean Comanche Park

Scores of hard-working citizens labored for about five hours Saturday to help restore Comanche Trail Park — which sustained an estimated $185,000 damage when powerful flood waters tore through it Aug. 30.

The clean-up, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Beautifacation Committee, was attended by an estimated 70 to 75 people, said LeRoy Tilery, the Chamber's executive vice president.

While citizens provided the muscle to move picnic tables and benches, the city provided the machinery to haul tons of trash from City Park.

Tilery said he was extremely pleased with the outcome of the effort, saying the park is nearly back to its pre-flood condition.

Workers last week escavate the site for the new Salvation Army building at West Fifth and Sixth steets just east of San Antonio Street. Today, crews began pouring the building's foundation. The 8,160-foot building is scheduled to be completed in March and will house all the Army's youth services, offices and will let the organization expand its summer feeding program. It will also be a temporary crisis shelter. Including furnishings, the new building is expected to cost about $320,000, according to projections given earlier this year. The group is renting its current building.

EPA's mileage list

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new car mileage figures are out, and the Chevrolet Sprint ER took top honors again, joining nine other Japanese imports among the 10 cars going the farthest on the least amount of fuel.

As usual, the worst mileage was recorded by a Rolls-Royce.

"There is no question that customers are placing a higher priority on performance of the vehicle," Bill Ball, director of the government relations staff for General Motors Corp., said in an interview

At press previews, "all the general managers said they expected increased sales of large engines and turbos (turbochargers)," Ball said.

The Sprint ER gets 54 miles per gallon in city driving and 58 mpg on the highway, according to the EPA tests conducted each year as part of the agency's checks on auto exhaust pollution. One model of the Honda Civic HF gets 52 mpg and 57 mpg, the same results recorded last year. A Rolls-Royce in last place got 8 mpg and 10 mpg.

The Sprint ER's results are worse than last year's figures of 55 mpg and 60 mpg. EPA said it had not changed its test procedures, and Ball said he had been told by Chevrolet engineers that the lower mileage reflected "normal testing variability.

As part of the emphasis on performance, in the coming model year the Sprint and its Pontiac and Suzuki nameplate twins will be offered with a turbocharger, Paul said. That pushes the mileage down to 37 in the city, 43 on the highway, according to EPA. The car is made by Suzuki Motors, a GM affiliate.

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) - The supersonic jetliner Concorde drew an estimated 30,000 spectators to the finish of its first commercial flight to Southern California, despite a 5½-hour delay that pushed the landing into darkness

The British Airways Concorde arrived Sunday at Ontario International Airport on a onetime visit to pick up passengers for a package tour that includes a return via the Queen Elizabeth 2.

Crowds jammed the streets around the airport hoping to catch a glimpse of the jet on its way in for a scheduled 2:30 p.m. landing, said Police Department Technician Jerry Autry.

Falwell threatens exit

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) - Business leaders, fearing a loss of jobs and dwindling sales of everything from cars to carpets, are fighting to keep one of central Virginia's biggest industries: the Rev. Jerry Falwell.

The evangelist, who employs about 2,000 people here, has threatened to move most of his enterprises from the city of 65,000 unless he gets tax exemptions for his Liberty University, Old-Time Gospel Hour television show and Liberty Godparent Home. He also wants forgiveness of a $1.4 million tax debt.

Corruption trial begins

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) - A powerful New York City Democrat and four codefendants go on trial in federal court in a case stemming from the city's worst corruption scandal in decades.

Bronx Democratic Chairman Stanley Friedman, one of the city's most powerful political bosses, and the others are accused of turning the city's Parking Violations Bureau into a racketeering enterprise that solicited and accepted bribes.

Another top politician implicated in the case, Queens borough president Donald Manes, killed himself March 13 as the scandal was reaching its height. He is listed as an unindicted co-conspirator.

Jury selection begins today in the trial, which is expected to last two months. It was moved to New Haven because of extensive publicity.

The case is expected to hinge on the testimony of former parking bureau Deputy Director Geoffrey Lindenauer, who has already pleaded guilty to two counts of a 39-count indictment charging he collected more than $400,000 from companies the city hired to collect overdue parking fines.

Woman in coma awakes

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 44-year-old woman awoke 112 months after she fell into a strokeinduced coma and six days after a judge refused her husband's request to disconnect her from life-support systems. "I was shocked," the Rev. Harry Cole said of his wife, Jacqueline. "I asked her if she was awake and she nodded yes. ... I asked her to smile and she did. I kissed her and asked her to kiss me back and she did.' Mrs. Cole had specifically told her husband that were she to become sick and unable to live a full existence, she would want lifesupport systems disconnected. Supported by her four children whom he adopted nine years ago, Cole asked in May that her physician remove the life support.

ABC's "Moonlighting," which led going in with 16 nominations, was shut out Sunday in the 38th Emmy Awards at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium, winning just one award - editing - in crafts categories announced two weeks ago. It was the same fate suffered last year by NBC's "Miami Vice," which had 15 nominations but won only for supporting actor Edward James Olmos.

ABC had just one Emmy, matching PBS, while CBS had 10.

"Cagney & Lacey" won for best drama series; for outstanding lead actress, Sharon Gless, who plays Detective Christine Cagney; supporting actor John Karlen, who plays Detective Mary Beth Lacey's husband Harvey; and a directing award for Georg Stanford Brown, co-star Tyne Daly's real-life husband. It was the second consecutive best drama award for the show NBC's first-year comedy series, "The Golden Girls," beat out "The Cosby Show" and garnered five Emmys, while NBC's "Peter the Great" was named best miniseries and its "Love Is Never Silent" was named best drama or comedy special. Baby gets new heart

LONDON - A 2¹/₂-month-old boy has received a new heart and lungs, making him the youngest person ever to undergo such a transplant, Harefield Hospital in London announced today.

The boy, who was not identified, had the operation Saturday and was listed in 'satisfactory'' condition this morning, a hospital bulletin said.

The operation was performed by Magdi Yacoub, Britain's leading transplant specialist, the statement said.

The baby, from northwest London, was born with a single ventricle in his heart, transposed arteries and a missing mitral valve, the bulletin said.

"A transplant was the only solution," the hospital said.

Asian ministers meet

SEOUL, South Korea - Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone of Japan said he had an "extremely useful" 90-minute meeting with President Chun Doo-hwan Sunday during a two-day visit widely regarded as a fencemending mission.

Nakasone arrived in Seoul Saturday to attend the opening ceremony of the 10th Asian Games, but the trip was also intended to patch up relations between the two countries after a Japanese minister was quoted as making remarks that South Korea considered outrageous

Education Minister Masayuki Fujio was quoted in a Japanese publication earlier this month as saying Korea should share responsibility for Japan's annexation of the country in 1910 which led to 35 years of colonial rule that ended with Japan's defeat in World War

Nakasone dismissed Fujio after the reported remarks touched off a furor in South Korea

Soviets talk business

BRUSSELS, Belgium - The Common Market and the Soviet-led COMECON, Europe's top economic blocs, today resume a formal dialogue broken off six years ago with talks that could lead to greater East-West business cooperation.

The three-day meeting, to be held in Geneva, comes after COMECON, or the the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance, indicated it was interested in establishing formal ties with the 12-nation Western European trade bloc

The two groups had broken off talks in 1980, in part because Moscow refused to recognize the West's largest economic community as a legitimate entity.

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) - A 9-year-old girl who worked on her homework during 28 hours in a box in the woods helped to unravel an elaborate kidnap plot that the FBI said fell apart at the final detail: picking up the $1.5 million ransom.

Four men were arrested - one at his wedding - in connection with the kidnapping of Amanda Mueller, whose great-great grandfather founded the C.F. Mueller Co. noodle business, authorities said.

The plot, involving one of the largest ransoms ever sought in the United States, was planned as revenge for a failed real estate deal involving Amanda's father that cost one of the men a lot of money, said FBI agent William Wells

"We believe they had a breakdown in their communications," said Wells. "They were confused as to where they were exactly supposed to be. ... I'd say they knew what they were doing, they were very detailed, up to the

White should let voters have say

Unless he finds a flaw that would faces in the current biennium. ake pari-mutuel racing out of the hands of Texas voters, Gov. Mark White should stand back and let the voters have their say on the question in 1987.

White is right in criticizing the Legislature for spending time on this issue in Special Session I. The assignment was to confront the state's budget deficit, and though pari-mutuel racing could raise some money in the future, it doesn't figure into the fix Texas

Nonetheless, now that the bill has been passed it is time to see the issue through. White's only valid reason for vetoing such a measure would be if it contained a loophole to allow the Legislature to circumvent the public's wishes, statewide or locally

If that concern is satisfied, Texans should be allowed to vote.

Church tax seen as loss of freedom

The American Atheists organization is preaching that the pulpits are ripe for the picking as a means of solving the state's budget woes.

The group espouses that churches statewide have had a taxexempt ride for far too long and claims that by imposing some taxes on religious organizations and their property holdings, nearly $2 billion could be pushed into the Texas treasury.

Specifically, the atheist group has proposed the Texas Legislature tax churches by dropping exemptions on land holdings; taxing income from bingo games; drop tax funding for all religious institutions; and tax all stock and bond portfolios of religious entities. Church and state long have been separated in our country by design and reason. We are guaranteed freedom of religion, meaning we can practice the faith of our choice or none at all if that is what we choose to do.

By putting lawmakers in the position of demanding money from churches, the state indirectly begins to wield some measure of control on our individual religious choice

And that is where we draw the line.

Some people will steal anything that's not tied down. This case was worse — thieves used a masonry saw and maybe a jackhammer to cut out blocks of stone containing dinosaur tracks made 100 million years ago. All that was left of three footprints in a creekbed near Austin were 2 ¹/₂-foot-square holes six inches deep.

A pity the creature wasn't around to defend its legacy to humanity; the beast that made the 14-inch footprints was a carnivorous Acrocanthosaurus that probably could have made short work of dinosaur track thieves. The blocks containing the tracks were recovered later, one in fragments, and three men were arrested. But the damage was done to that limestone creekbed, to reminders of our planet's distant past and to our faith in our fellows.

'Hands' deemed an empty gesture

When a group of eminently wellintentioned celebrities and social activists announced their intention to combat hunger and homelessness by forming a human chain across America, there were snickers and some outright guffaws from the cynics. However pure the motives of the organizers, they hooted, they could never hope even to make a dent in the problem.

The project, which aimed to raise $50 million to $100 million, had as of the last accounting succeeded in raising only $16 million.

The $16 million is a mere pittance compared with the magniture of the problem of poverty in America: what's more, it doesn't even meet the amount budgeted by the organizers of expenses, when corporate contributions for expenses are factored in the calculations.

Grand gestures like Hands Across America can be useful in focusing attention on these problems, but they haven't a hope of solving them.

Getting older doesn't mean forgetful

Psychologists now say that older people aren't nearly so forgetful as had been assumed. Previous studies were flawed, the psychologists say. Now psychologists think that memory, especially about things that are important to an individual, is pretty constant.

Earlier studies were based on tests that showed only how well young and old people did in solving trivial problems, not real-life ones. New studies indicate little difference between young adults and old ones concerning real-life problems.

In fact, it now is believed that older people may be better than young ones at deciding what is not worth remembering, a useful approach to the vast amount of information — and misinformation — a person is exposed to by the time he has lived 60 to 80 years or more. That seems to translate into the adage that with age comes wisdom. H.L. Mencken said that the older he became, the less convinced he was of the accuracy of that adage. But that rather proves the adage, no?

Our associate Donald Goldberg has obtained a series of candid, internal World Bank appraisals of each Cabinet member, based on confidential interviews, economic analyses and staff visits to the Philippines.

In general, according to one high-level memo, World Bank officials have found "a somewhat confused situation, in which most senior officers are either completely new, or 'holdovers' who do not expect to be retained for long." Men's fashion fads create confusion

The New Subtlety. What is that? It's the latest trend in men's fashions. All I need to know is that I haven't got it, that I stand little chance of ever acquiring it and that if by some stroke of luck I should do so, it will be as obsolete as bellbottoms. By then the trend will be the New Gaudiness or the New Ultra-Subtlety or something equally improbable and, to fashion failures like myself, elusive.

My information on these matters comes from The New York Times, which every so often stuffs its Sunday edition with a fat magazine called "Men's Fashions of the Times." Its purpose is to provide an excuse for running dozens make that hundreds - of lavish advertisements for extravagant men's clothing. Its effect is to remind us that fashion is something heeded by maybe one-fourth of 1 percent of the nation's population

Consider the description of "the new subtlety": "It begins with details: a richly woven necktie, a pair of French cuffs, a fabric whose fine crosshatching creates an illusion of texture and depth. These are some of the elements that comprise a more nuanced approach to dressing for fall, a polished but relaxed style that invites inspection at close range. ... Ideally their effect is artless and uncon-trived, but not without novelty."

I'm sorry, but when descriptions of men's clothes start to sound like comments from a wine tasting, I despair of achieving even minimal competence at dressing myself. And how do I go about finding clothes of this sort? Do I walk into ly shirts that create the illusion of smooth shallowness, without a hint of nuance," or 2) sprint out of the latest style from the photographs is no easier. One features a man in a gray suit, white shirt and navy tie. He could be your accountant. To my untrained eye, he is dressed like half the men on Chicago's Michigan Avenue on any given weekday. So the new subtlety seems about the same as the old drabness. Shouldn't be hard to achieve, I think, until I look at the price of the suit: $875. That's as subtle as a two-by-four over the head.

What's more, a lot of the stuff in the ads and photos doesn't seem to fit the description. One man wears plaid socks and what look like brown Hushpuppies, though at $250 they couldn't be. Another, who is seen embracing a woman dressed like Jane in the old "Tarzan" movies, has shucked a pair of fireengine-red shoes, the real subject of the ad. Another sports purple socks loud enough to burst an eardrum.

It is amazing to me that purple socks could be regarded as stylish business wear, but it is even more amazing that the Times can find men who are willing to discourse at numbing length about their wardrobes. But in an age when unknown married couples are discussing their sex lives for the readers of USA Today, this should be no surprise.

One advertising executive confides that he regards himself as sartorially daring for wearing tan suits, which seem about as daring as tuna salad. Two twins in the furniture business confess a taste for what the Times calls "exotically patterned pocket squares and Hermes neckties." Explains one: "They have a complexity, a threedimensional quality that suits us because we both deal and identify with three-dimensional objects. Huh?

One "60-year-old New York photographer and writer" informs the Times that style is "a reflection of how people feel about themselves. ... I adore pullovers, sleeveless sweaters, cardigans and polo shirts. I prefer knit underwear and I collect knit ties." He used to collect clothes in purple shades (there's that color again), but "now I want blues - light blues, sky blues, robin's egg blues, turquoise, aquamarine." Like anyone else. I wouldn't mind looking presentable, but if I'm going to have to search constantly for complex three-dimensional items to add to my wardrobe, not to mention learning the difference between turquoise and aquamarine, then the whole thing is just too much trouble.

acclaim has come to Chris Yerby, 18, and Chris White, 16, since word got out in the past week how they discovered they were brothers after meeting by accident at a Corpus Christi high school.

The newly found adopted brothers are scheduled to appear Tuesday on ABC-TV's "Good Morning, America" program.

"I had no idea anything like this would happen," Chris' mother Margaret White told the Corpus

CORPUS CHRISTI - National Christi Caller-Times, "I mean, we're just ordinary people."

The brothers' story appeared first in the Corpus Christi Caller-Times last week, then was circulated nationally by the Associated Press, including Saturday's issue of the Big Spring Herals.

Newspapers across the United States have featured their story, including front page articles in Cincinnati and Austin.

Litter campaign successful so far

AUSTIN (AP) - Visitors and Texas residents alike seem to be obeying the "Don't Mess With Texas" campaign originated by the Texas Highway Department, a survey shows.

The amount of litter found along Texas highways has dropped 29 percent since the campaign began in November 1985, according to Dan Syrek, director of the Institute of Applied Research, which con-ducted both the initial and followup litter surveys. The 29 percent decrease is the largest one-year reduction the institute has ever measured in a litter survey, Syrek told the Austin American-Statesman.

"It is also the first time any researcher has been able to identify the effects of an advertising from farm-to market roads to incampaign alone," said Syrek, who has conducted 34 litter surveys in 16 states and two Canadian provinces since forming his institute locations revealed a reduction based in Sacramento, Calif., in mainly at the rural sites, with no 1973.

UFWA boycotts Texas grapes

SAN ANTONIO – Cesar Chavez, leader of the United Farm Workers of America, said the nation's grape growers may have poisoned many people by spraying pesticide on their crops. Chavez appeared in Dallas over the weekend and again in San Antonio on Sunday as part of a fourday Texas tour to publicize the union's latest grape boycott.

Consumers should be wary of grapes contaminated by pesticide residue, Chavez said as about 20 supporters clapped and cheered "Viva Cesar" at a news conference in San Antonio. "Nobody knows how many people have been poisoned," Chavez said.

Chavez claimed in a Dallas Peace Center conference, attended by 120 at Southern Methodist University, that pesticides sprayed on the fruit in California may cause birth defects, cancer and other ailments.

Thousands help in clean up

CORPUS CHRISTI - Officials estimate that several thousand people took part in a statewide cleanup of Texas beaches over the weekend.

Despite intermittent rainshowers and the steamy sea air that prevailed in between, the wave of trash pickers swarmed a three-mile stretch of Padre and Mustang islands on Saturday, leaving behind dozens of stuffed garbage bags.

Inside the bags were items like

HOUSTON - Eighteen people were arrested four hours after they allegedly stormed an abortion clinic, chained its front doors and partially blocked a back door with a van, police said.

When the three women and 15 men refused to leave the West Loop Clinic, they were arrested Saturday, police said. One man was not arrested after he left the building voluntarily, police said. Dozens of other demonstrators

But clinic director Evicel Ortega said that about half the 20 scheduled abortions were completed and many others were rescheduled. The clinic, one of 17 performing abortions in Houston, already has been bombed and another man arrested for trespassing, the director said.

Research needs funding

AUSTIN (AP) - When Texas leaders decided they wanted the state to have a reputation as a national center for research and high technology, legislators treated the notion more as a measure of pride than need.

chanted slogans and picketed out-

So when 16 "high-technology" bills promoted by Gov. Mark White went to lawmakers in 1985, the Legislature passed only one requiring new money.

But now the status of the technology bills has changed, supporters argue. In the wake of the oil-price drop that has left the Legislature battling a projected $2.8 billion deficit, business and university leaders throughout Texas are arguing that the state must invest in diversifying its economy. 'Business as usual is out of business," said Pike Powers, formerly a state representative and now an attorney with Fulbright & Jaworski in Austin. "It is imperative that the state develop the technologies needed to make it competitive.'

During the next two months, two key state groups - the Select Committee on Higher Education and the governor's Texas Science and Technology Council - will map strategy for how the Legislature should support research and technology during the regular session in January.

'Advanced technologies combined with the traditional entrepreneurial abilities of Texans will form the base for a new Texas economy," says a draft report of the governor's Science and Technology Council.

The council proposes three fiveyear plans for raising the state to national prominence in science and technology.

The argument is hardly new. Lawmakers heard it in 1982 with the Texas 2000 Report, and again during the 1985 session.

But policy leaders admit today that Texas has done little compared to other states such as North Carolina and Pennsylvania, which spent more than a decade developing their research and technology to boost their economies.

"In every single respect you can think of, we're coming from behind," Jurgen Schmandt, a political scientist at the LBJ School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas.

"We've not only had to fight tooth and nail with Harvard and MIT,' said Gerhard Fonken, vice president of UT, "we've had to fight with our own Legislature, which still views research with suspicion."

Last week, a task force of the select committee presented recommendations to ask the Legislature to spend $80 million more on research during 1988 and 1989, bringing the total state research spending to nearly $300 million over the two-year period.

The initiatives will be debated by the full committee next month.

The 28-member Texas Science and Technology Council debated its draft report, which will recommend similar increases, on Thursday. The plan seeks increases of at least $15 million in research and a $5 million plan for a new state organization to coordinate entrepreneurial activities.

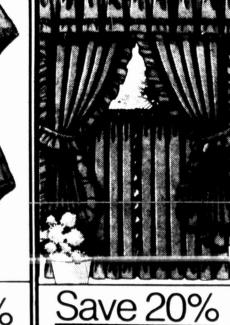

Some gains are being made. Earlier this month, the UT-Dallas received a $10 million grant from the Department of Defense to support research on a gamma ray laser

Vaccines don't cause mild illness

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A question in vaccinating children. Does the vaccination cause a mild case of the illness against which it protects? Please answer in connection with measles and mumps vaccine. Mrs. L.P.C.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is the distinction between live and dead virus vaccines? Why are there two kinds? - L.S.P. You don't get the actual illness from vaccine. That's a common misunderstanding The idea behind vaccines is to stimulate the body's defense so that when the actual virus assaults at some point in the future it is zapped immediately. You might get a low-grade fever and feel a little achy for a day after getting certain (live virus) vaccines. But most people don't even experience that.

Now for L.P.'s questions. Some vaccines do use live viruses of the illnesses which they are meant to prevent. Mumps and measles vaccines use live viruses. But they have been weakened and can't produce the illnesses. Other vaccines may use killed viruses, ones that nevertheless can also stimulate defense against future exposure to the live organisms.

I can hear the question: Why aren't all virus vaccines made with dead viruses? Since live virus vaccines tend to cause the mild reactions in some people, using dead viruses for all vaccines would eliminate that problem. The answer is that live viruses give greater and longer lasting protection than dead ones The next logical question is: Why not use live viruses exclusively in making vaccines? The answer is that not all viruses can be weakened for such use. We haven't learned how to tame each and every virus diet pill for a long time. It contains "phenylpropanolamine." My question is, am I doing myself any harm in taking this over a long period of time? - C.A.W.

You're taking an appetite suppressant pill. They work best when used for short periods of time, and even then the amount of weight lost under their influence is quite small

I'd rather see you take another approach to your weight problem, and I mean sensible dieting along with exercise. Am I sounding like a broken record on this issue? I don't mean to bw. But the only long-term answer to weight control is a diet that teaches you how to eat properly and remove the up and down weight yo-yo syndrome. Phenylpropanolamine has been used for many years as a nasal decongestant. If you use it for a long time, then stop suddenly, you can become tense and depressed. It is, after all, a stimulant. You shouldn't use it if you have high blood pressure (it can elevate pressure), or if you have heart or thyroid problems or diabetes.

You may not be doing yourself any serious harm taking such pills, but I doubt that you are doing vourself any good in terms of longrange weight control.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can you

settle this guestion for us? Is it true or false that head lice have the ability to "leap" out of one child's lead onto anothers? - Mrs. W.M.

Lice do not have leaping ability. They do get transferred from one head to another, but they need a mode of transportation. A common one is communal use of things as hats. Other items of transfer include hair brushes, combs, and, interestingly, the headphones so popular today with youngsters. In families, the sharing of beds by children with head lice should be discouraged. That's another transmission mode

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Does a fat meal prevent a person from getting drunk from alcohol? - D.D.

Fat delays stomach emptying into the intestines, from where alcohol is absorbed into the blood. So a fat meal might delay tipsiness. However, since the alcohol eventually findss it way to the intestine, you're only delaying the inevitable event.

For T.I. - Lung capacity depends on age, height and sex. You test it by taking a deep breath, then blowing out. What you blow out is measured. Normal for someone your mom's age (64) is around three liters. With her recorded capacity, you can see why she has such trouble breathing. It's quite low.

DEAR ABBY: Years ago, when my widowed mother came to live with me and my husband, she made our lives so miserable that I was determined that I would never bring such misery to my children if I ever had to live with them. I tucked it away in an old book and forgot about it. I've been widowed and self-sufficient for six years, but now I was recently forced to give up my job and go live with my oldest daughter. The Houston Oilers, knocked on the ropes by a 27-0 Kansas City lead, had rallied for two quick touchdowns and fought to a secondand-goal from the 1-yard line. With almost 13 minutes remaining, all the momentum suddenly belonged to the Oilers.

Radecic, a third-year linebacker, braced for the next play, expecting something up the middle. But guarterback Warren Moon took the snap and turned to his left to pitch to Chuck Banks, who headed for the flank Radecic recovered from his surprise in time to shed a blocker and throw Banks for a three-yard loss. After that play, two passes fell incomplete, the Chiefs regained possession, and settled down to take a 27-13 victory that brought their record to 2-1.

The Oilers, who face winless Pittsburgh next week, fell to 1-2.

"I was surprised they went wide," Radecic said. "I sort of expected Moon to take it up the middle, although they have run that play down close before.'

Moon then misfired on two straight passes, and the Chiefs' offense ran onto the field to take possession.

"In that situation, the difference in being at the 1-yard line and the 4-yard line is tremendous," Radecic said. "It changes the entire offensive strategy. That may Hill, cut by the Oilers two years ago, may look back on his 26-yard touchdown return as his own alltime favorite.

'Once I had the ball in my hands I knew I was going to score because it was clear sailing," he said. "This was a sweet, sweet victory. It was vengeance for me. There's not a team I'd rather beat."

Falcons beat Cowboys in wild and wooly affair

IRVING (AP) - Atlanta rookie Floyd Dixon said his "Hail Mary" reception from Dave Archer is called a "nine route" in the Falcons' playbook. The answered prayer put the Dallas Cowboys six feet under

"I didn't look up and just kept running and hoping Dave could throw it that far," Dixon said Sunday after his 65-yard reception helped defeat the Cowboys 37-35 in a wild NFL joust of unbeatens.

Archer could and did. 'I didn't realize he had it for a second." Archer downfield and time expired by the time he ran out of bounds at the Falcons' nine.

"I was trying to stop the clock," Hill said. "It was a judgment thing. Dallas Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry called the Archer-to-Dixon connection the same kind of "Hail Mary" pass that Roger Staubach used to throw to Drew Pearson.

"He had a lot of time and just threw the ball as hard as he could throw it," Landry said. "It was a 'Hail Mary' throw.

"We didn't have any time outs," Archer said. "We caught Dallas coming on a blitz and Dixon (a sixth round draft choice from Stephen F. Austin) just got behind his man

"I liked him when I saw him in training camp and I was hoping we were going to keep him.

Archer wanted some revenge for last year's 24-10 loss to the Cowboys

"It was a big game for us," Archer said. "We didn't want to leave here with the Cowboys thinking we were out of their league. Dallas said some things about the way they intimidated us last year. I didn't like it. I've remembered it for 12 months. I think I play better when I have something to prove.

He added, "Texas Stadium and Miami are the two toughest places to win on the road in the NFL.'

It was Atlanta's first victory in Texas Stadium and left the Falcons with a 3-0 record. Atlanta is now 2-8 all time against the Cowboys. It was the Falcons' first victory against Dallas in 10 years.

The Cowboys stand 2-1 with an unhappy Landry. "This one hurts," Landry said. "We had the game under control. But you have to give Atlanta credit. The Falcons made the big play.'

Floyd's reception to the Dallas two-yard line set up Mick Luckhurst's 18-yard field goal with 20 seconds remaining.

Needing to get within field goal range, the Cowboys tried to answer with a Danny White-to-Tony Hill "Hail Mary" pass. Dallas was at its 31 with only 10 seconds remaining when the last play began. Hill caught White's pass on the Atlanta 35, but he headed

'If it comes down in your hands, you win. If it doesn't, you don't.'

Dallas led 35-27 with 9:05 to play after White's fourth touchdown pass of the day, a 22-yarder to rookie Mike Sherrard.

Atlanta rallied on Gerald Riggs' two-yard scoring run with 3:28 remaining.

The Falcons got the ball with no time outs remaining with 1:39 on the clock.

Ken Whisenhunt caught a 21-yard pass from Archer, and then Dixon made his big catch.

Atlanta Coach Dan Henning said Dixon "made an excellent adjustment to the ball. There are five guys that Archer has a choice to throw the ball at on that play becoming the sixth player in NFL history to join the 11,000 yard rushing club.

"The day I'm looking forward to is passing O.J. Simpson and Jim Brown," Dorsett said.

Luckhurst also hit field goals of 47 and 33 yards. The Atlanta defense produced touchdowns on Mike Pitts' 22-yard return of a White fumble and Bobby Butler's 33-yard interception return.

White's other touchdown passes went 4 yards to Thornton Chandler, 2 yards to Timmy Newsome and 7 yards to Hill.

Jets outlast Miami in overtime, 51-45

By The Associated Press The record book and the Miami Dolphins took a beating at the hands of Wesly Walker and the arm of Ken O'Brien.

In the highest-scoring overtime game in NFL history, the New York Jets outlasted Miami, 51-45. Sunday.

Miami's Dan Marino, who needed to throw eight passes to qualify as the league's top career percentage passer, hit 30 of 50 passes for 448 yards and six touchdowns. O'Brien responded with 29 of 43 for 479 yards and four TDs - all to the speedy Walker.

Between them, the two teams had a record 884 net passing yards, surpassing the former mark of 883 yards set by San Diego (Dan Fouts) and Cincinnati (Ken Anderson) in 1982.

But it was O'Brien-to-Walker who combined to send the sellout crowd of 71,025 into a frenzy - not once, but twice.

"I was down on myself because I fumbled the ball. I thought I lost the game for the team," said Walker, whose bobble led to Miami's go-ahead touchdown at 45-38 late in the fourth quarter. "I was just grateful I was given the opportunity to make it up.

That came on a 21-yard pass from O'Brien to knot the score at 45-45 with no time showing on the clock.

'When I came down (with the ball), I knew I had to lean," Walker said. "I couldn't believe I wasn't hit immediately. When I realized I was in the end zone, it was instant shock. I didn't even realize there was no time left on the clock."

And that set up the game-winner, a 43-yard bomb launched by O'Brien as Walker sailed past free safety Bud Brown down the right sideline.

'Any time Wes gets a step on a defender, he's gone," O'Brien said. "I just threw it and the next thing I knew, people were jumping all over me. 'This should end any talk about Wesley being over the hill. This should answer all the questions. And he's not even 100 percent," the quarterback said.

Those were also Walker's two shortest TD catches of the day. His first two were for 60 and 50 yards.

"It could have been a better day if I helped the team get a first down with a minute left," Marino said of the Dolphins' last drive in regulation, when they were forced to punt from the New York 37. That set up Walker's tying TD.

Walker has been plagued by a strained groin muscle, but he didn't look hobbled Sunday. In all, the 10-year veteran had 194 yards on six receptions for the biggest day of his career, while Al Toon caught seven O'Brien passes for 111 vards.

Marino's targets included Mark Clayton, who grabbed eight for 174 yards, and Mark Duper, who caught seven for 154 yards.

"We've got to play much better real fast or we don't win much,' Marino said. "That's the way it is." Miami, 1-2, lost its first game 50-28 to San Diego.

"It's a shame to waste a performance like this by Marino," Miami Coach Don Shula, "We let it go down the drain.

Quinn's Quarter

Big Spring Steers head football coach Quinn Eudy had these comments about the Steers' 33-13 district opening win over the San Angelo Lake View Chiefs and this Friday's game against the Sweetwater Mustangs.

"The offensive line had a great game. They did a good job of coming off the football and provided good pass protection. When you get that kind of play the offense will move the ball.

"I felt like we had to dominate the offensive and defensive lines to win the game, and that's just what we did. We didn't give them the big play on offense and our kicking game was better. The punt return team's play was poor, but the rest of the kicking game improved.

"Our skill people's play was good. We ran the option well. For some reason most of the teams we've played that used a split front defense, have had problems defending the option.

'Sweetwater has great tradition, they play real hard. They are ranked number five in the state. We need to get real excited and beat

"They (Sweetwater) are a different team this year. They have a new offense and defense. Last year they ran the Wishbone, this year they run the I-Formation. Last year they ran a 6-1 defense, this year they run a 50-defense.

"It's too early to say this game is for the district championship, although whoever wins this will make a big step towards it. But there are are lots of good teams in this district."

Packers-Bears renew rivalry

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) - Theoldest rivalry in professional football usually is enough to motivate the Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers.

But memories of last year's games are adding spice to tonight's NFL matchup - the 132nd meeting between the two NFC Central Division teams.

The Bears, 2-0 this season, recall what they term cheap shots administered by the Packers in the second game last season.

"It's not going to be like last year," Bears Coach Mike Ditka said. "We're not going to be the hittees. We're going to be the hitters. That's fact

The 0-2 Packers, struggling in a rebuilding year, are mindful that one year ago on a Monday night in Chicago they helped make a national celebrity out of an overweight defensive lineman playing the backfield.

William "The Refrigerator" Perry ran for a touchdown and twice bulldozed linebacker George' Cumby, paving the way for Walter Payton touchdowns.

Cumby now is with the Buffalo Bills, one of the many veterans cut by Packers Coach Forrest Gregg in the off-season. But the Packers haven't forgotten.

We were embarrassed for a defensive lineman to get all that publicity," defensive lineman Donnie Humphrey said. "It was national TV; Monday night; Coach Ditka had his chance to embarrass us and he did it."

Rookie one-hits Astros

2-B

By The Associated Press NATIONAL LEAGUE

After a mediocre minor-league season, Jimmy Jones hoped he could make his major-league debut a memorable one for himself, his family and friends.

With his wife wearing his gooodluck color, Jones pitched a onehitter Sunday as the San Diego Padres beat the Houston Astros 5-0.

"I wanted to try to last a little while so my family could watch me. Everything worked out perfectly," the Texas resident said after breezing in the Astrodome.

Jones allowed only one baserunner, a third-inning triple by pitcher Bob Knepper over the head of right fielder Kevin McReynolds. The 22-year-old right-hander struck out five and retired the final 19 batters.

Jones became only the fifth pitcher since 1900 to throw a onehitter in his major-league debut and the second to do it in the National League. Hall of Famer Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants began his career with a onehit victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in 1960.

Jones' wife Judy was one of 20 family members and friends in attendance. Judy was dressed in pink, a color she started wearing during midseason when Jones was struggling at Class AAA San Diego.

"Whenever she wore pink, I pitched well," said Jones, who finished with a 9-10 record in the minors. "The funny thing about it is, I'm color blind.

Houston's magic number for clinching the National League West remained at four. The Astros are 10 games ahead of Cincinnati and San Francisco.

The Padres, in breaking a sevengame losing streak on the road, scored three times in the second inning against Knepper, 16-12. Jerry Royster had an RBI single and John Kruk delivered the first of his four hits, a two-run single.

Phillies 7, Mets 1

Marvin Freeman pitched one-hit ball for seven innings in his second major-league start and Philadelphia again beat New York. Freeman, won his first career decision, allowing only a secondinging triple by Darryl Strawberry. In the middle of the game, Freeman learned that his Ron Oester and Eddie Milner hit home runs during a five-run rally in the eighth inning that carried Cincinnati over Los Angeles.

Leon Durham broke a seventhinning tie with his 20th home run of the season and Chicago beat Pittsburgh.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

To sweep the Boston Red Sox in a series requires more than just playing well. It means you usually have to beat Roger Clemens.

"He's been our insurance policy all season," Boston Manager John McNamara said after Clemens again followed a Boston defeat with a victory, this time with a 3-2 triumph over Toronto on Sunday. "For the last two weeks we've been trying not to get swept by the people behind us," McNamara said. "If they'd won today, they still would have had a fighting chance. This was a very satisfying win.

Clemens, 24-4, who pitches after Boston's No. 5 starter, has taken streak to 20 games. Mattingly leads the mound after 16 Boston losses in the AL with a .350 batting average. his 31 starts this season. He has back-to-back homers for California.

Candelaria, 8-2, allowed only one hit and a walk over seven innings. He retired the last 16 batters he faced, then Donnie Moore finished the two-hitter for his 20th save.

With their 20th win in 25 games, the Angels cut their magic number for winning the American League West to five.

Rangers 2, Twins 1

Rookie Bobby Witt, 9-9, earned his fifth straight victory, combining on a five-hitter with Dale Mohorcic and Greg Harris finished. Harris got his 18th save.

Ruben Sierra singled in both Texas runs with the bases loaded in the third inning. Mark Portugal, 5-9, allowed five hits and struck out 13 batters, besting his previous career high by six.

Brewers 5, Orioles 4

The Brewers snapped a sevengame losing streak.

Charlie Moore reached first base on catcher's interference in the 11th inning and reached third when Baltimore botched a rundown for the second time in the game. He scored when Eddie Murray bobbled a grounder to first.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An ability to get both men and women to go along with your important ideas should be quickly seized as very soon a matter from the past may cause nervousness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you have any problems this morning, solve them wisely and handle outside affairs.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get your appearance improved and then solve some problems with another. Enjoy social life.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Look for those persons who can assist you the most in your endeavors and they will cooperate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Being with good pals who comprehend your needs is wise. Study your social life.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Handle material affairs most wisely. Make a new associate and pool your experiences for future success.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Your ideas are fine for progressing in your line of endeavor. Improve your personal life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Follow your intuition and handle business matters much better. Discuss financial affairs with mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can cement better relations with partners and later handle the problems that have been vexing you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you are enthused about your activities, start the day beautifully but watch for a problem.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make plans for interesting amusements in the days ahead. Handle tasks that are important.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Tonight do something that will please your mate. Try to please your family, also.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get to the core of problems with other individuals and you can solve them quickly and tactfully.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be highly magnetic and others will cooperate with whatever plans your progeny may have. Try to give as fine a combined course of education as you can that will prepare your progeny for almost anything your he, or she, may tackle. ...

Good Samaritan lady aids wanderers

By LISA LEVITT RYCKMAN Associated Press Writer

GREEN RIVER, Utah (AP) -When the walking dead and the defeated road warriors wander in from the wasteland, the woman who people call the Highway Angel takes them under her wing.

In the unforgiving desert of southeastern Utah, heaven is where you find it. For more than 5,000 lost souls in six years, the pearly gates have been chain-link, and salvation has been waiting in seven aging trailers at the desolate intersection of Interstate 70 and U.S. Highway 6 just west of Green River.

The unlikely looking guardian angel at the door is a 65-year-old Chippewa Indian with sunken cheeks and wire-rimmed glasses, black hair streaked with gray and a heavy crucifix around her tanned neck.

A steady parade of life's castoffs have found with Helen Murray solace and a sandwich, a bed for weary bones, a cool drink for parched throats and a moment of acceptance in a world full of rejection.

"I call them the walking dead because their minds are gone," Murray said. "And when your mind is gone, why, the only thing that's left is your body, and you're putting one foot in front of the other.'

Many of the wanderers are military veterans or mental patients released from institutions, people who don't know where they're going and don't know where they've been, who talk to themselves or punch holes in her walls.

Sometimes Murray cruises the highways, sharp eyes on the lookout for people who haven't had a ride all day. Sometimes, people with nowhere left to go walk down a hill to the trailers where she acts as a 24-hour security guard for two companies' abandoned buildings.

"At night, you can't see any lights down here, and I asked them, 'How did you know I was down here?' and they would tell me, 'There's a light at the top of the hill.' But there's no light up there," Murray said. "And I thought, well, if there's a light at the top of the hill, and I didn't put it there, and nobody else put it there, then God must have put it there, and there was a reason for it.'

She used to have an arrangement with the Emery County sheriff's office, which would refer transients to her. This year, they stopped doing that, citing liability worries. Emery County officials "tell me I cannot do the work God set in front of me," she fumed in an interview. "I can and I will. What I do in my own house is my own business. You still have the right to have who you want in your house, whether it's a bum or a millionaire." Murray said she plans to move her trailers to property she owns in neighboring Grand County.

Tom Kuehne, unit supervisor of Grand County social services, said the county informally supported Murray's efforts but had the same liability concerns as Emery County.

"Honey, you only have to have what you need to survive," she said. "When you have what you need, if you have a need for something more, a way will come.'

A way always has come for Murin Kansas with a corn crop ready to come in - but she didn't hang onto it for long. "These people came along, they didn't have a place to stay, no place to go," she said. "They had these two kids, and the kids were hungry. I bedded them down and I fed them and the next morning I got up and I took the deed to my property and signed it over to them. It was the Blalack placed in the top 50,000 of more than one million participants in the qualifying test of the 32nd annual Merit Program, according to Murray Murphy, principal.

Participants entered the current Merit Program by taking the PSAT/NMSQT in October of 1985, when most of them were juniors. Although their qualifying test scores are high, the 35,000 young people throughout the nation who are Commended

Students scored slightly below the level required for Semifinalist standing in the Merit Program.

An officer of NMSC, which conducts the program, stated, "The very high test performance of the young men and women who are honored as Commended Students in the Merit Program is indictive of exceptional scholastic ability.

"Being named a Commended Student in this keen competition is a credit to these young citizens as well as to their schools, which play a key role in their development."

Only the 15,000 Semifinalists, whose names were announced on September 11, will continue in the competition for some 6,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in the spring of 1987.
