WAYNOKA, Okla. (AP) — Water, water everywhere, but if you drink a drop you lose. That's the only rule at the jalapeno-pepper-eating contest at Waynoka's Mexican Festival.

"The winner will be the person who eats the most peppers before taking a drink of water," said Brenda Marsalis, coordinator for Saturday's festival.

The three survivors — uh, winners — will get trophies.

Saturday's festival marks the revival of a festival that hasn't been held in 21 years. The festival had been an annual fund-raiser for the Catholic Church in Waynoka for 20 years, but it was discontinued because it was too successful.

Ms. Marsalis says 35 church members used to feed more than 5,000 people. "It was just too much work," she said.

Ammonia leak injures 10 in FW

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An ammonia leak that spread toxic fumes through an oil processing plant in the Fort Worth Stockyards area Friday injured at least 10 people, five critically, authorities said.

A valve broke and leaked liquid ammonia, which immediately became gas and spread to a nearby area where several workers were on break, Fire Department spokesman Charlie McCafferty said.

The injured were taken to John Peter Smith and Harris hospitals in Fort Worth and St. Joseph Hospital in Dallas. Authorities said five patients were in critical condition, while two others were in good condition. No reports were available on the victims taken to Harris.

Authorities said the victims received respiratory burns during the leak shortly after 11 a.m. at the Bunge Edible Oil Corp. The spill occurred on the third floor of the five-story building.

Fire Capt. W.E. Dunkin said a large cloud of ammonia spewed out, trapping five employees in the break room a few feet from the valve.

"I work in the office on the third floor," said 32-year-old Debra Waldrop. "There were some construction workers from outside the company working. They hit and broke a valve ... and ammonia came out and we got the heck out of there."

McCafferty said the situation was under control shortly before noon and rescue crews wearing protective gear were sent into the evacuated building to make sure no victims remained inside.

An employee was working on a 1-inch ammonia line with a pipe wrench when an attached half-inch line suddenly snapped, said District Fire Chief David Carr.

He said most employees who were overcome "were trapped in there before they knew it."

Carr said small amounts of ammonia were still coming out of the pipe at 12:10 p.m., and pockets of the gas remained throughout the plant. He said it took firefighters 15 minutes to turn off the ammonia line.

Authorities said more than a dozen pieces of fire equipment and at least 35 firefighters were dispatched to the leak.

Officials said an ammonia odor was strong blocks away from the leak and winds blew fumes over a large portion of the Stockyards area.

About 160 people work at the plant, which produces baking shortening, frying fats and margarine. Authorities said the plant was evacuated.

Ammonia in high enough concentrations can cause burns on the throat and lungs and even death, said Lena Day, director of the North Central Texas Poison Control Center.

The stockyards, which once handled livestock transactions, are now largely a tourist and entertainment area north of downtown.

Library project near end

Computerization of the Howard County library circulation system has reached the halfway point, and Librarian Judith Gray expects that the project will be completed before the end of October.

It is designed to aid library patrons in quicker renewal of books and a more efficient method of avoiding overdue materials, she said.

Upon completion, Howard County Library "will be the first public library in West Texas to automate the circulation of materials," she said, noting that Lubbock, Midland and Odessa libraries are not yet automated.

In order to complete the project, Gray said, the library's public hours have been reduced since late July. At that time, the library began a 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday schedule for public use of the facility.

The reduced hours, said Gray, have allowed library employees to apply bar codes to materials and enter computerized data between 8 and 10 a.m. each morning. The reduced hours will continue through the completion of the computerization process.

Once the computerization changeover has been completed, the library will return to its former hours, she said.

"The patience and cooperation of the public has been greatly appreciated and I hope that it will continue," Gray said.

She estimated that approximately two-thirds of the bar coding process is complete, and about one-fourth of the computer entries are done.

Patrons will benefit from the system, she said, through a quicker and more thorough accounting of the materials they have checked from the facility. In addition, patrons will be able to re-check materials more quickly under the new system.

Besides the benefits which patrons will notice, computerization will aid employees in enforcing the 10-item per patron limit, as well as maintain a better inventory.

"We'll know what's being used the most," she said, which she expects will help the library augment its inventory in particular fields.

Right to die advocates push for California referendum

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Advocates of the "right-to-die" principle took their cause into the political arena Friday, unveiling a campaign to get on the California ballot in 1988 with a proposal to make it legal to help a terminally ill person commit suicide.

The right to die in a manner of your own choosing is the ultimate human right," said Derek Humphrey, executive director of the Hemlock Society.

Humphrey told the society's national conference, in suburban Virginia, that a new political group has been spun off to campaign for a spot on the California ballot.

"The purpose of Americans Against Human Suffering will be purely political, to get on the books the right to die," Humphrey said.

He said the 6-year-old Hemlock Society has donated $50,000 in seed money to the new organization, to be headed by Los Angeles lawyer Robert Risley, author of a proposed Humane and Dignified Death Act.

The initial aim is to amend the California constitution to add a provision guaranteeing the right for terminally ill persons to choose death, Humphrey said. The target is the California ballot in 1988, with the campaign to spread to other states thereafter.

Humphrey said that doctors and family members who assist a dying person in ending their lives face the possibility of legal prosecution.

"We want law reform, not lawbreaking," he declared.

"There has been an appalling rise in violent mercy killing, of double suicides," in families with someone terminally ill, Humphrey said, "there must be a better way."

He said in an interview that assisting someone to die would include whatever action is appropriate, whether unplugging life-support systems, injecting a drug or providing drugs for the dying person to take. The timing and method of death would be left up to the physician and the patient, he explained.

Under the proposed law, a physician would have the right to refuse such help, but would then have to discharge the patient from his care so that the individual could seek out a doctor who would help end his life.

"We do not encourage suicide for any other reason than to end hopeless suffering. We do not subscribe to the right of suicide for unhappy or mentally ill persons," Humphrey added.

Founded in 1980, the Hemlock Society advocates changing laws to allow terminally ill people to seek help from their doctors in committing suicide.

The group drew considerable attention and criticism a few years ago for its book "Let Me Die Before I Wake," which discussed the topic of suicide and ways to do it.

"There are people dying today who can't wait for legislation ... who cry out to us for help," said Humphrey of the book.

Although criticized when first issued, today the book is widely available in public libraries and is used in many colleges, he said.

The book is designed to help people know how to leave the world with dignity. Knowing this, knowing they have an escape route, can actually prolong life by giving a person the strength to battle on against illness, he said.

While that effort was aimed at coping with the everyday problems of people who are dying, the political effort is aimed at the future, said Humphrey.

"Life is difficult, death is difficult. Like anything, you work toward a solution," he said.

Children abandoned in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — A state welfare worker said three youngsters abandoned by their mother join a growing list of cast-off children.

The children — identified as 5-year-old Frank, 4-year-old Tina and David, 2½ — are among nearly a dozen children deserted in Dallas so far this year, said Carol Duncan, caseworker for the Texas Department of Human Services.

"The numbers don't only cover this kind of case, so I can't be specific, but we are seeing more of them," said Ms. Duncan.

Officials said the three were left by their mother's boyfriend at a Dallas social agency on Aug. 29. Ms. Duncan said that, because they were neither abused nor left in dangerous surroundings, the 23-year-old mother does not face criminal charges.

Ms. Duncan said she could only speculate on why parents are abandoning children, listing the slumping economy and drug addiction as possible causes.

"There are so many different reasons for these things happening," she said.

Weather

Forecast

West Texas — Widely scattered to isolated late afternoon and evening thunderstorms mainly southeast through Saturday night; otherwise mostly fair but some late night and early morning cloudiness south plains and parts of Permian Basin Saturday. Highs 80s north and mountains and 90s south. Lows 57 Panhandle to 71 Concho Valley.

State

Scattered thunderstorms and isolated showers dotted most of East Texas Friday after heavy downpours across the Hill Country washed away cars and flooded highways.

A very heavy thunderstorms developed in Southeast Texas, while other storms were scattered over the Gulf of Mexico along the coast. In West Texas, a few scattered showers developed in the low rolling plains.

Earlier Friday, thunderstorms dumped around 9 inches of rain on parts of Kerr County in the Hill Country. No serious injuries or damage was reported, but floodwaters washed away cars from a parking lot just west of Hunt, authorities said.

Department of Public Safety dispatcher R.D. Wallace said a 9.1-inch downpour was reported at a ranch house west of Hunt and other areas in the Hill Country reported up to 4 inches.

Portions of Texas Highway 39, Texas Highway 41 and Farm to Market Road 1340 were closed early Friday after low-lying areas were flooded, the DPS said.

Skies over West Texas were mostly clear, while cloudy to partly cloudy conditions prevailed over the rest of the state. A stationary front was across the western third of Texas, but no major weather activity was noted along the line.

Afternoon temperatures ranged from 78 at El Paso to 98 at McAllen. Most readings were in the middle 80s to lower 90s. Southerly winds blew at speeds ranging from 10 to 20 mph over all of the state except far West Texas, where westerly breezes were noted.

The forecast called for partly cloudy skies over most of the state through Saturday. Widely scattered thunderstorms were forecast over Southeast Texas, while isolated showers and thunderstorms were possible over the rest of the state.

Nation

Thunderstorms whipped the Great Lakes region with winds up to 50 mph Friday, while workers sandbagged the Milk River in northern Montana where up to 8 inches of rain in 18 hours caused widespread flooding.

Showers and thunderstorms were over much of the upper Ohio Valley and from northern Illinois to central Oklahoma, and were widely scattered over the Southeast.

Rain and snow showers were scattered across the Western states, with locally heavy snow at higher elevations.

The storms carried hail, high winds and torrents of rain as they swept across Wisconsin, Michigan and northern Illinois.

In southern Wisconsin, high winds downed trees in Marquette and other communities.

Heavier rainfall totals included 1.7 inches at Naperville, Ill., and 1.4 inches at Flint, Mich. Lansing, Mich., received two-thirds of an inch of rain in less than five minutes.

A tornado touched down Friday afternoon in Elkhart, Ind., near Elkhart Central High School and overturned at least one school bus, but injured none of the four children inside, officials said.

The torrential rains in north-central Montana on Thursday left one person drowned, many animals dead and major highways closed. The National Weather Service called the resulting floods the worst in 30 years along the Canadian border.

A flash flood warning was issued for Kerr County in south-central Texas, where 6 to 8 inches of rain fell across the upper end of the North Fork of the Guadalupe River. Some roads were flooded.

The Wasatch Mountains of northern Utah received unusually heavy snow this week, with a total of 40 inches falling at the Snowbird ski resort. Powder Mountain and Park City received 24 inches of snow. The resorts typically receive 4 to 5 inches of snow during September.

Elsewhere in the West, Crater Lake, Ore., received 2 feet of snow overnight. Heavier snowfall totals in the mountains of Colorado included 4 inches at Frisco, 6 inches at Jasper and 11 inches at Platoro Reservoir.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 p.m. EDT ranged from 32 degrees at Yellowstone, Wyo., to 99 degrees, at McAllen, Texas. The nation's low Friday morning was 27 degrees, at Ely, Nev.

The morning low of 54 degrees at Tucson, Ariz., broke the previous record for the date of 55 degrees, set in 1973.

Saturday's forecast called for scattered showers and thunderstorms across much of the eastern half of the nation, with numerous showers and thunderstorms in the Great Lakes region and northern Ohio Valley. Showers should be scattered from the northern half of the Pacific Coast region into the northern high Plains and central Rockies, with showers most likely across Idaho and northern Utah. There should be snow over some of the higher elevations.

Temperatures should warm into the 80s in the desert Southwest and from the southern high Plains through the middle Mississippi Valley to the middle Atlantic Coast, with temperatures in the 90s from the lower Rio Grande Valley through the lower Mississippi Valley to the southern Atlantic Coast.

Anti-drug bill debated

WASHINGTON — The Senate began fashioning a $1.4-billion anti-drug bill Friday amid pleas by some moderate Republicans to resist controversial House-approved proposals they said would "trample our Constitution" and violate civil liberties.

These proposals included imposing the death penalty in drug-related murders, stepped-up use of the armed forces to halt drug smuggling and easing the "exclusionary rule" that prohibits courtroom use of illegally obtained evidence.

In contrast to the $3-billion bill approved by the House on a 392-16 vote Sept. 11, the scaled-down Senate version would pour more money into drug interdiction, eradication, education and treatment, outlaw laundering of drug profits and stiffen penalties for drug possession and distribution.

Air compressor blamed

CASTLE DALE, Utah — The 1984 fire that killed 27 workers in the Wilberg Mine was caused when an air compressor was inadvertently turned on with its heat sensor disconnected, officials said Friday.

Herschel Potter, chief investigator for the federal Mine Safety and Health Administration, said a heat-sensor switch which would have automatically shut off the compressor had been "rendered inoperable" before the fire.

"We don't know how the compressor caught fire," Potter said in announcing preliminary conclusions of a 21-month investigation. He said he did not know why the heat sensor and the on-off switch had been disconnected.

However, he said the compressor, located about 200 feet from the entrance to the half-mile section where the victims were working the night of Dec. 19, 1984, had been turned on at least 48 hours before the fire and had been running unnoticed.

Immigration bill dies

WASHINGTON — A sweeping immigration bill became unglued Friday over an amnesty plan for foreign farm workers, and was quickly swept off the House floor.

After only two hours and eight minutes of preliminary debate, lawmakers voted 202-180 to disallow further discussion and then told reporters the measure was likely dead for this session.

"In my view, (the vote) kills it," said Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., a key negotiator of the agricultural language.

Drug charges filed

MIAMI — Twenty-two current and former Eastern Airlines employees and one Mexicana Airlines worker were indicted Friday on charges they helped smuggle nearly $1 billion worth of cocaine through Miami International Airport.

The 45-count federal indictment said the defendants used their jobs as cargo and baggage handlers to prevent detection of shipments of cocaine coming into the airport.

Meanwhile, Eastern announced the firings of 50 other ramp and airport service workers here because of drug-related infractions of company work rules.

The indictment, resulting from a Drug Enforcement Administration undercover probe, accused the Mexicana employee and four of the Eastern workers of being organizers of the scheme.

First woman to dogsled to pole

By MARK EVJE
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pam Flowers says she likes solitude, and it's a good thing: she hopes to spend two months becoming the first American and the first woman to make a solo dogsled trip to the North Pole.

"It's taken me a long time to acknowledge that I'm really happier alone and I really enjoy being out there with my dogs and the challenge of solo trips," she said Thursday.

Being the first American and first woman to make the solo trip would be "really something to be proud of and I look forward to that," said Miss Flowers, who was in Los Angeles to give a slide show about her last two training expeditions.

The first man to make the trip was Naomi Uemura, a Japanese explorer who completed the trek in 1978.

A National Geographic story on Uemura "sort of inspired me and I got into it and kind of got carried away," said Miss Flowers. She started driving dog teams in Washington state in 1980, before she moved to Willow, Alaska.

She raced in the Iditarod Sled Dog Race, a 1,200-mile race from Anchorage to Nome, Alaska, in 1983, and in March 1985, completed a 1,300-mile sledging trip.

The 40-year-old woman plans to leave in February for Resolute Bay in Canada's Northwest Territory to establish a base camp, from where supplies will be flown to her every two weeks during her trek.

The respiratory therapist and her 10-dog team will spend several weeks there getting acclimated to the extreme polar weather.

"Seventy degrees below zero (Fahrenheit) is about the coldest it could get at the time I'll be there (at the pole)," Miss Flowers said. "Most of the time it will run about 40 or 50 degrees below zero."

She and her dogs will fly to Cape Columbia, the northernmost point in North America for the 475-mile journey to the top of the world.

"It actually becomes more like 900 miles by the time you steer around all the obstacles," she said. "I think it will take about 60 days to get there, then I'll fly back. That's accepted these days as not cheating."

Pressure ridges, places where the ice has come together to form small mountains up to 50 feet high, are the main detours. Miss Flowers said she either will find a way around them or hack out a path with an ax.

The trip will cost about $160,000, mostly for transporting supplies to her en route, Miss Flowers said. It is being underwritten by 23 business sponsors, many of which are donating supplies like dog food and clothing.

Although she enjoys the solitude of the Arctic wilderness, Miss Flowers said not seeing another person for two months can take its toll.

"Depression is probably the biggest single enemy out there," she said. "I just start singing until I feel better. It's a form of self-discipline, but for me it works."

"There's also a lot to think about out there, like how to move around a pressure ridge of ice, and you're always watching the dogs to make sure they're not injured or aren't exhausted."

Anti-terrorism steps

UNITED NATIONS — The foreign ministers of India and Sri Lanka on Friday called for regional efforts to combat terrorism in South Asia similar to recent cooperative actions in Europe.

However, in speeches to the 41st U.N. General Assembly, they drew distinctions between terrorism and liberation movements.

India and Sri Lanka are members of the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation along with Pakistan, Bangladesh, Bhutan, Nepal and the Maldives. They are to hold their second summit in India in November.

Protests continue

SEOUL, South Korea — Students hurled stones and gasoline bombs and clashed with police Friday in the fifth consecutive day of protests against the Asian Games and the government of President Chun Doo-hwan.

There were no reports of injuries or arrests. At the Seoul Municipal College, police used tear gas to disperse a demonstration by a small group of students, and witnesses at Ewha Women's University said demonstrators hurled gasoline bombs while shouting criticism of the games and the 1988 Seoul Olympics.

Over a period of several weeks, militant students have criticized the Asian Games, which opened last Saturday and will continue through Oct. 5. They have said the games are intended to boost the image of the government at the expense of the poor.

Palestinian gets 25 years

LONDON — A Palestinian doctor was convicted Friday in what was described as a Libyan-backed terrorism plot. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison.

"The mind shudders to contemplate the devastation, carnage and heartbreak that you were intent on causing," Judge Simon Brown said in pronouncing sentence on 43-year-old Rasmi Awad.

Awad, a Palestinian holding both Jordanian and Spanish citizenship, was found guilty of receiving four grenades for use in bomb attacks in Britain.

Nassar Mohammed, a 28-year-old Palestinian student tried as his accomplice, was acquitted. The Home Office said he would be deported for reasons of "national security."

Shaky coalition survives

JERUSALEM — Confounding predictions it wouldn't happen, Prime Minister Shimon Peres is keeping a promise to hands over the keys of his wood-paneled office to his rival, Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

Israelis dubbed the experiment in joint-rule government "rotatazia," the Hebrew word for rotation. It culminates Oct. 14 when Peres swaps jobs with Shamir in keeping with a 2-year-old coalition pact.

The power-sharing accord was the outcome of an electoral stalemate in July 1984 in which neither of Israel's two large parties could form a government without the other.

Caught in an uncomfortable alliance of clashing ideologies, the two rivals and five smaller parties agreed to form a government.

With a long history of mutual distrust, Peres' Labor Party and Shamir's Likud bloc designed a system of checks on each other. They gave ultimate authority to a 10-member committee within the Cabinet in which each party had veto power.

White ad draws attack from opponents

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Rallying to defend former Gov. Bill Clements, three Republican lawmakers Friday charged Democratic Gov. Mark White with waging a negative, mudslinging re-election campaign.

Rather than tout his own record, White prefers to attack his opponent, said Rep. Terral Smith, R-Austin.

"It is just amazing to me that Mark White has been governor for four years and is supposedly proud of his record, and yet all of his ads have to do with Gov. Clements and are distortions of Gov. Clements' record. That is mudslinging," Smith told a news conference.

But a spokesman for White said the Democrat's campaign obviously is on target.

"The truth hurts," said Mark McKinnon, White's campaign press secretary.

Terral Smith was joined at the news conference by Reps. Bill Hammond, R-Dallas, and Richard Smith, R-Bryan.

They joined Clements' aides in protesting a new White television commercial which they said implies that Clements would devastate education.

The ad shows a little girl stumbling in the middle of reciting her ABCs, and a voice goes on to say that if Clements is running against White "to get even, that's his business. If he takes it out on education, that's your business."

The ad also says Clements hasn't told the public how he would balance the state budget that faces a $2.8 billion deficit.

But the GOP lawmakers said credibility is the issue in the race.

"The issue is not an issue on balancing the budget. It's an issue of credibility, and whether one candidate is going to totally distort the record of the other and make up things that he knows are not true," said Richard Smith.

McKinnon, however, said Republican attacks over the education commercial demonstrate that White is making his points about education and Clements' "secret plan" to balance the budget.

"The fact is, Bill Clements still has not come forward with a plan. He has said he's opposed to any new revenue and at the same time he won't tell the people where he will cut. Until he does that, all we can do is make an educated guess," McKinnon said.

He said White's record on education funding, including the 1984 teacher pay raise, is superior to that of Clements.

"Bill Clements fought teachers at every turn. Mr. Clements' record on education is one that leads us to the conclusion he's not willing to stand up for education," McKinnon said. "Everybody knows who the education candidate is in this race. Gov. White's the one who went to bat for teachers and education."

In other political developments, a law firm representing Texas Monthly magazine Friday asked the Clements campaign to quit distributing copies of part of an article from the magazine about White.

In a letter to Clements campaign manager George Bayoud, lawyer R. James George Jr. said the magazine discovered that part of the article about White was being distributed, but not another section about Clements.

"We demand that you ... immediately cease the use of, the circulation of, and the reprinting of any portions of the October 1986 issue of Texas Monthly magazine," the letter said.

Managing as symbolic action

By TOM PETERS

Len Bias was not just another drug-overdose victim. Rock Hudson was not just another AIDS victim. The arrival of the planet's 5 billionth human citizen is not just another birth.

On the other hand, we don't even know who that 5 billionth person was, or, in fact, whether he or she was born late spring or will be born late this fall. And Bias and Hudson rate only routine entries in the official record books of Maryland's Prince George's County and Los Angeles County. Nonetheless, each of these occasions extends beyond their simple statistical significance, toward the broader and graver issues of drug abuse, AIDS and overpopulation.

Each of these three events was statistically trivial. But on a symbolic level, each had the impact of a bombshell. Macho superstar Hudson with AIDS! The new pride of the Celtics is dead at age 22, one day after signing a multi-million-dollar NBA contract and a shoe endorsement! There are five billion people!

People, including managers, do not live by pie charts alone, nor by bar graphs nor three-inch statistical appendices to 300-page reports. People live, reason and are moved by symbols and stories — "little knots of meaning," as the late Gregory Bateson, the noted psychologist, called them.

We read ceaselessly about President Reagan's talent as a storyteller. Even his fans occasionally blush at the variance between statistical reality and his chosen story. But no one, friend or foe, snickers at the skill and power with which our master storyteller has created compelling images which have moved the nation and spearheaded controversial policies.

Management is a symbolic activity. It involves energizing people, often large numbers of people, to do new things they previously had not thought important. Building the case — to really deliver a quality product or to double the investment in research and development or to cut middle-management bloat by 75 percent — is an emotional process at least as much as it is a rational one.

It requires us, as managers, to get people to share our sense of urgency in new priorities; to develop personal, soul-deep animus toward things as they are; to get up the nerve and energy to take on the forces of inertia that bog down any significant change program.

The best managers, almost without exception and at every level, are, like the current White House incumbent, master manipulators of stories and symbols.

Football coaches prominently post newspaper columns from the opponent's hometown the week before the big game — "We're going to knock the socks off those lucky wimps." The object is to provide a tangible target at whom they can charge. Legendary boxing champ Joe Louis used to put a picture of his next ring opponent on his bureau, and stare at it hour after hour, month after month, before the fight. And to jolt a quality program into action, numerous managers I know have saved up defective products for a week and piled them on the factory floor in plain view of all involved; or even carried them by the bucketful into a board of directors meeting.

The point is, symbols are it when it comes to moving people toward action. I believe the would-be effective manager must learn to think about the management of symbols. Here are some suggestions.

Get customer complaint and compliment letters sent directly to you. If your business or business unit is over a quarter million dollars in size, I'll bet each week will bring forth at least two or three specific examples which, in turn, permit you to reinforce exemplary actions or chastise inappropriate ones.

If you can't get direct customer feedback that way (or if you run an internal department), call three or four customers or users of your service each week. Again, I'll bet my bottom dollar that something will surface, at least a story or two, that you, as teacher/symbol manipulator, can use to exhort your colleagues to a higher level of performance.

I certainly am not suggesting that you quit collecting statistics. The numbers are important. Moreover, I suggest that you ensure that your "story of the week" bears strong relation to overall trends, that it is a valid outcropping of an old — or, better yet, emerging — trend. Finally, some stories backfire. They strike people as contrived or beyond the reasonable. Avoid them.

Fortunately, or unfortunately, the average day or week serves up a set of good-news and bad-news stories that are plausible and that conform to harder, more systematically collected data.

Remember, then, that people do not reason by pie charts alone. In fact, people don't reason, much less become emotional and committed, by graphs and charts at all.

Drilling report

These are the latest oil and gas activity reports filed with the Texas Railroad Commission for the five-county crossroads country.

Flowing 173 barrels of oil per day, plus 69,000 CF casinghead gas, the No. 2 Griffin was completed in Howard County's Griffin Field by Meridian Oil.

Drill site is five miles southwest of Vincent.

The well was drilled to 8,220-ft. total depth and will produce from a perforated interval in the Pennsylvanian Reef Formation, 8,031 to 8,092 feet into the wellbore. Production tests were run on an 18/64-in. choke.

The location is in a 480-acre lease in the H&TC Survey.

A new producer has been brought on line in Howard County's Southeast Luther Field, with BTA Oil Producers as the operator.

Located ten miles northeast of Big Spring, the well is in an 80-acre lease in the T&P Survey. It is designated as the No. 1-8410 JV-P Waters.

The well showed ability to pump 93 barrels of oil per day, plus 102,000 CF casinghead gas. It bottomed at 10,020 feet and was plugged back to 9,934 feet. Production will be from perforations in the Silurian-Devonian Formation, 9,884 to 9,896 feet into the wellbore.

Enduro Oil finalized two oil producers six to seven miles northwest of Big Spring. They are designated as the Nos. 95 and 143 Guitars "B".

Locations are in a 1,200-acre lease in Howard County's Bauer & Cockrell Survey.

The wells showed potential to pump oil at the combined rate of eight barrels per day. Total drilling depths were 3,305 and 3,310 feet, respectively. Production is from perforations in the San Andres Formation, ranging from 3,182 to 3,208 feet into the wellbore.

The No. 11 Coleman Ranch "A," a 2,000-ft. developmental well, is scheduled to be drilled in Mitchell County's Sharon Ridge Field. Mrs. W.M. Keck, Jr. of Lafayette, La., is the operator. The well will be spudded in a 130-acre lease in the H&TC Survey. Location is three miles northeast of Cuthbert.

At a location 18 miles southeast of Gail, Lakewood & Fulton of Midland has finalized a new oil producer in Borden County.

The wildcard well is designated as the No. 1 Wolf, flowing 73 barrels of oil per day. The well also showed potential to make 46,000 CF casinghead gas and 18 barrels of water per day. Production tests were run on a 10/64-in. choke.

Location is in a lease in the H&TC Survey. Bottomed at 7,200 feet, the well will produce from a set of perforations at 6,194 to 6,200 feet into the wellbore.

TXO Production has abandoned an undrilled location in Borden County. The well had been designated as the No. 5 Hunt-Clayton, and was to have been located 11 miles southwest of Gail.

Conoco Inc. is planning to conduct a work-over operation at its No. 5 T.J. Good "37", a developmental well in Borden County's Good Field. Drill site is 16 miles southwest of Gail in a 160-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

Conoco originally completed the well May 2, 1984. It bottomed at 8,409 feet and was plugged back to 8,393 feet. The well flowed 215 barrels of oil per day from perforations in the Canyon Reef Formation at 7,988 to 8,044 feet into the wellbore.

The operator will seek production at approximately 7,970 feet.

The same operator is planning to conduct a work-over operation at a Martin County developmental well. The No. 40 J.R. Grishman & J.M. Greeman is located six miles northwest of Stanton in the Spraberry Trend Field. The well is in a 6,640-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

Conoco previously completed the well October 31 of last year. It pumped 184 barrels of oil per day, along with 2,816 barrels of water from Fossilman Formation perforations at 11,348 to 11,358 feet into the wellbore. The original total depth was 11,805 feet. The operator will be seeking pay at approximately 8,200 feet.

Conoco Inc. is based in Midland.

Point Petroleum has hung the "dry hole" sign on the No. 2 Cities Kelly "B", a wildcard well in Martin County. The well was located five miles west of Stanton in a 190-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

Spudded April 1, the well probed to a dry bottom at 12,400 feet.

Dr. George Mullendore, veteran cotton extension specialist at Mississippi State University, has begun working on a new project to help development and application of the GOSSYM-COMAX computer cotton crop simulation model.

Under the three-year project, he will work with researchers, state extension cotton specialists, and the National Cotton Council in tests, validation, and follow-up with growers in each Cotton Belt state.

The GOSSYM-COMAX will enable producers to become more efficient managers by allowing them to enhance the growth of their cotton with the use of a computer. The model uses data on temperature, solar radiation, soil nutrients, plant density, soil type and moisture to help the producer make crucial farm management decisions regarding such inputs as fertilizer, irrigation and timing of harvest-aid chemicals.

Performers can't wait

Orchestra members like Big Spring audiences

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Performers with The Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra are "honestly looking forward to their Big Spring visit," said Music Director and Conductor John Giordano.

"I think it (Big Spring audience) is one of our best audiences," he said about the chamber orchestra's anticipation of performing here on Oct. 2.

"We're never assuming that people in Big Spring, Snyder or Sweetwater don't have a high level of sophistication and taste for the arts," Giordano said about traveling to and performing in smaller towns.

"People in Big Spring love the orchestra. We always feel a tremendous appreciation here. You feel it when you're performing," he said.

Thursday night's 8 p.m. performance in the Big Spring High School Auditorium marks the fourth visit here by The Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra.

The concert is sponsored by The Big Spring Symphony Association in cooperation with the Cultural Affairs Council of the Chamber of Commerce as part of an October Artsfest celebration.

Tickets for the concert are $9 for adults and $5 for senior citizens and students. They are available at The Accent Shop, Blum's Jewelry, Jay's Farm & Ranch Service Center and the Chamber of Commerce office.

Concert goers will be treated to the legendary sounds of Ludwig van Beethoven.

Giordano who founded the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra in 1973 said the performance will begin with 12 of John Giordano, music director and conductor of the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra, conducts the unit in an April 1980 Carnegie Hall performance.

Beethoven's contredanses that are "very popular and charming."

Concert Master Robert Davidovici, a native of Romania, will perform Beethoven's violin concertos, which are "probably the most comprehensive and difficult pieces for a violinist to perform," Giordano said.

Following intermission, the chamber orchestra will perform Beethoven's Symphony

No. 1 in C, he said.

The concert is expected to last about two hours, Giordano said.

The 35 members of the chamber orchestra have rehearsed Thursday's night performance 12 to 13 hours, Giordano said. The total number of solo hours each performer has practiced runs well over 100, he said.

The chamber orchestra will have performed Thursday night's program "a couple of times" before they arrive here, Giordano said.

Does Giordano favor conducting Beethoven over other legendary greats such as Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart?

"It doesn't really matter what composer you conduct. It's like comparing the great painters. They're just different," he said.

A cosmic flight to the top

Vollenweider generates exciting new sound

By KILEY ARMSTRONG

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK — From underwater bubbles and the hissing steam of a rain forest to the lilt of a woman's laughter, the music of Andreas Vollenweider is strongly influenced by nature.

His mystical, mesmerizing music — laced with recorded nature sounds, an electro-acoustic harp and revamped instruments from ancient cultures — has sold around 4 million records worldwide.

He has been a hit in South America, Japan, Australia and Europe and has sold out concerts at Carnegie Hall, Radio City Music Hall and the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

His album, "Down to the Moon," has sold more than 300,000 copies in the United States since its release in July. However, the lack of a musical category has heaped his works into a hodgepodge of hit-or-miss marketing.

Vollenweider, though, who hates the term "new age music" and harbors an artist's rebellion against all such labels, is delighted that his eclectic, evocative sound defies categorization.

"To me, this music is very personal," says the 32-year-old composer-musician. It is an intimate moment we share with other people. It would be an insult to categorize it."

The 1981 "Behind the Gardens ..." and the 1983 "Caverna Magica" were simultaneously listed on Billboard's classical, jazz and pop charts in 1985 — an American first. "White Winds" neared the top of the jazz charts and went gold this year.

Vollenweider likens his fantasy-filled music to a mental painting.

Affirmative and lush, it spins a kaleidoscope of tango, rumba, bossa nova, Afro-Cuban, East Indian, Caribbean and Oriental themes. The melodies are punctuated with playful surprises — tinkling wind chimes, warbles and hoots, roaring ocean waves, a mirage of prehistoric creatures.

The glue is a barely noticable

Andreas Vollenweider performs on the electric harp during a performance in St. Louis. He has sold more than 4 million records worldwide and features a mixture of recorded nature sounds, a harp, and a host of updated instruments from ancient cultures.

synthesizer that sounds more orchestral than electrical.

Vollenweider's harp has microphones for each of its 47 strings. A customized damper transforms it into a more percussive instrument, allowing a rhythmic animation associated with the electric guitar.

He also has developed a new playing technique: fingers fully extended, instead of nearly in a fist as the classical harpist is trained.

The changes make him able to play more rhythmically, and a little less celestially. But he preserves one part of the harp's other image: "the children's perspective of angels or elves. To have a certain dimension of the child within a grown-up's life, it's a very precious treasure."

His five backup musicians command almost equal attention on their specially built instruments: variations of Chinese violins, flutes, zithers, mandolins and lutes. Vollenweider also plucks a huge, stringed instrument similar to the Chinese cheng or Japanese koto while sitting on the floor.

His loose-fitting clothing, cherubic face and cascade of curly hair give him image of hippie, and a peace-and-harmony philosophy permeates his music.

"I like to encourage people, listeners of our music, that it is possible to believe in the good whole of human beings," he said.

His critics snipe that his work resembles "elevator music" or Muzak.

"These are the cynics — the natural enemy of this music," he said. "I feel sorry for these people. ... But I don't care, because I know at the end of an evening what took place."

The son of Hans Vollenweider, one of Europe's leading organists, Andreas learned music through osmosis.

"I grew up in a family (surrounded by) a lot of musicians, dancers, painters. There was a lot of artistic expression around me. I was somehow involved in all of the (art forms) There were a lot of musical instruments there — I've tried many of them."

He performed with the Swiss collective, "Poetry and Music," from 1972 to 1978 and has had more than 50 European TV films and documentaries.

Mixed media spawns new Vollenweider sounds. He begins by playing whatever comes to mind. When a theme emerges, he creates drawings, paintings and stories to help it evolve. Then the group polishes the theme into a musical work.

Onstage, rapture lights his face. The harp plays him.

"If I start to think, I have to try to get rid of the thought. The music should naturally flow," he explains. "I'm totally free — as free as one can be."

The audience shares his cosmic flight. After a recent concert at Radio City Music Hall ended, many fans remained happily, hypnotically in their seats until ushers gently evicted them.

"The last part of the concert is meant to remain and sustain. ... I like to share this — it is what music is meant to be," said Vollenweider.

Steers rally downs #5 Mustangs

By STEVE BELVIN

Friday night at Memorial Stadium the Big Spring Steers gave the Sweetwater Mustangs a feeling they aren't accustomed to — the feeling of defeat.

For 48 minutes the Steers and Mustangs staged a gridiron war that kept the near capacity crowd on the edge of their seats. When it was all over and the final buzzer had sounded, the Steers walked away with a come-from-behind 22-17 win.

The loss snapped a 15-game winning streak for the Mustangs, and was only the defending state champions fourth loss in their last 32 games.

The Steers did it with a relentless defense and an offense that came through when the chips were down. The Steers defense, which spent more than their share of time on the field against the Mustangs Power-I attack, bent but did not break.

The defense was led by noseguard Todd Coker, end Victor Pruitt, tackle Jay Burcham and cornerback Eric Thompson. The "D" stood the test, especially in the first half, when they allowed the Mustangs only 10 points. What was so amazing about the feat was that Sweetwater had the ball inside Big Spring's 30-yardline six times during the first 24 minutes of play.

The Steers offense, which struggled miserably at times, came through with two fourth quarter touchdowns to overcome a 17-7 Sweetwater lead.

"It was a total team effort," said a happy Steers coach Quinn Eudy after the game. "It's just what I've been saying about these kids all season — they never quit. They played their tails off."

Down 10 points with just over seven minutes left in the contest, the Steers started their drive towards one of the biggest upsets in the state.

Sweetwater punter Lee Morris got off a 45 yard punt driving Steers return man Phillip Mathews back to his own 40. Mathews set up the first Sweetwater defender for his blocker, followed a wall down the sideline, leaped over the last defender at the Sweetwater 20 and galloped in for a 60-yard touchdown return.

This sent the highly vocal Steer crowd into a frenzy as the Steers narrowed the lead to 17-13.

The Steers gambled and went for the two-point conversion. It was a piece of cake, as Mathews followed a good clearing block by Charles White into the end zone. This cut the lead to 17-15 with 7:23 left in the game.

"That was the key play of the game," said Eudy. "Phillip did a great job. His return pumped us up."

So it did, because a swarming Steers defense forced Sweetwater to punt one minute later, thus setting the stage for Big Spring's march to victory. And what a march it was. Quarterback Paul Decker led his team 68 yards in 11 plays, eating up 4:30 on the clock.

It was nothing fancy, just hard running by Mathews and White. White was Big Spring's leading rusher for the game, earning 86 tough yards in 20 carries.

Decker was extremely cool during the drive, twice completing third down passes for first downs. The first was a four-yard screen to flanker Shawn Shellman. The other was the winning scoring play.

Facing a third and 13 from the Sweetwater 24, Decker went back to pass, moved up in the pocket and drilled a pass to split end Cedric Banks across the middle at the 10. Banks never broke stride, sidestepped a defender and waltzed into the end zone, completing a 24-yard scoring play.

Big Spring Steers running back Charles White (22) eyes the line of scrimmage as he runs for yards against the Sweetwater Mustangs Friday night at Memorial Stadium. White led all Big Spring rushers with 86 yards in 20 carries as the Steers defeated Sweetwater 22-17.

"We sent Cedric (Banks) under their pass coverage," said Eudy of the winning touchdown pass. "The line did a great job of keeping them out and Paul (Decker) didn't bail out, he stayed in the pocket and threw a good pass." John Olsen's point after touchdown gave Big Spring a 22-17 lead with 1:26 remaining. Olsen was also a force with his punting. In fact, he was Big Spring's best offensive threat in the first half. His punts of 60 and 51 yards kept Sweetwater from having good field position. The Steers started the game the way they finished it, with an impressive scoring drive. The Steers took the opening drive and went 74 yards for the score. It was a picture perfect drive,

By EDDIE CURRAN

GRADY — The young Grady Wildcats, whose offense gave up an average of 37 pounds per player to the Loop defense, fell 70-25 to the Longhorns Friday night in six-man action in Grady.

Loop scored first just 1:14 into the game, when Jesse Garza raced 29 yards for the touchdown. The PAT missed.

Following the kickoff, Grady pulled the old hideout play, and almost tied the game. As the Wildcats headed for the sideline after the return, they huddled loosely by the sideline and waited for the whistle. With the Loop defense in the middle of the field waiting for the Wildcats, Walton Stone took a lateral and ran 52 yards before the alerted Loop defense caught him.

"We called it the Loop Special, and we should have scored on it. We had to bring some tricks out of the game just to spice up the game," said Grady head coach Mike Mathis.

The Wildcats failed to score when Moriy Scott intercepted and returned the football 57 yards for the score.

Down 14-0, the Grady offense came to life. Stone, the lone Grady senior, hit Scott Terrell on a 29 yard pass on fourth and long for a first down. Moments later, freshman Scott Glaze eluded the Longhorn rush, and threw complete to freshman Julian Valle. Valle cut inside on his man, and scored from 30 yards out. Grady missed the PAT, and trailed 14-6.

Glaze and Valle hooked up for another touchdown in the first quarter, but the first stanza belonged to Loop. They led 40-12 at the end of the quarter.

"I thought we played fairly good. Our offense played better, but on defense we had some opportunities to hit some people and we didn't, and that let us down a little bit. But we move the ball better," Mathis said after the game.

Grady quarterback Walton Stone struggles to get rid of the ball as a Loop defender brings him down in six-man action in Grady Friday night. Grady lost 70-25 to the Longhorns.

Grady played with 10 freshman, four sophomores, and one senior. Stone, the senior, could not play the second half because of diabetes. On offense, Grady started one senior, one sophomore, and four freshmen. The average weight of the offense was 127 pounds. The Loop defense, with three seniors, one junior and two sophomores, averaged 164 pounds per man.

"We came away unscratched, and that's one of our main objectives — to get no one seriously hurt," Mathis said. "We can throw and catch. We're just young, and sometimes they get too excited and don't think. But they've improved," he said.

Mathis added he was especially proud of the play of Kenneth Garza, Glaze, and Chad Wells.

Glaze and Stone, the two Wildcats passers, ended the night with 295 yards on 23 completions. Grady finished with 92 yards rushing.

In the remaining minutes of the half, Grady trailed by 40, and was within one Loop touchdown of having the game called of the 45-point rule. At the :43 mark, Glaze provided breathing room with a five-yard run up the middle. The half ended with Loop leading 52-18. Glaze, who had a big night for the Wildcats, scored once more at the 5:46 mark on a 32-yard scamper around right end. That ended the Wildcats scoring.

The 45-point rule was invoked to end the game with four minutes on the clock and the score 70-25.

The Longhorns ended the game with 341 yards on the ground and 39 yards passing. They intercepted five Wildcat passes.

Mathis said he believed his freshman would be much improved next year, and he expressed hope for the future.

"In the future, we hope we can return some favors," Mathis said.

Rosario destroys Bramble with early KO

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Edwin Rosario won the World Boxing Association's lightweight title Friday night on a second-round knockout of Livingstone Bramble and also stole the thunder from Hector "Macho" Camacho, who kept his title on a unanimous 12-round decision.

In a savage display of power punching, Rosario became a champion for the second time by putting Bramble down for the count at 2:28 of the second round.

Then Rosario joined a crowd of about 5,000 at the 9,000-seat outdoor Abel Holtz Stadium to watch Camacho outpoint Cornelius Boza-Edwards and keep the World Boxing Council lightweight title.

It looked as if Camacho would also score a spectacular victory as he knocked the 30-year-old Boza-Edwards down with the fight less than a minute old. But then the champion seemed content to jab and move and settled for a one-sided 12-round decision.

Camacho wore sequined turquoise trunks and boots, but his costume was far flashier than his performance.

The victory by Camacho seemed to set up a rematch with Rosario. However, Camacho said immediately after his fight that he wants to move up to junior welterweight because he has trouble making the 135-pound lightweight limit.

In their previous fight, Camacho kept his title on a 12-round split decision over Rosario, who once held the WBC title.

The 23-year-old Rosario, of Puerto Rico, credited the Camacho fight with his sensational performance Friday night.

"After the Camacho fight, everyone came to me and said I had him in trouble and wanted to know why I didn't put him away when I had the chance," Rosario said.

Wylie pulls away, tops Coahoma

COAHOMA - The Coahoma Bulldogs managed to tie at the end of the first period, but the Abilene Wylie Bulldogs pulled away with three touchdowns and a field goal in the next two periods. The result was a 28-6 win for the visiting Bulldogs.

It was the first 5-AAA district game for each team. Coahoma is now 0-4, while Wylie is 2-2.

Wylie opened the scoring with a quarterback sneak by Jeff Quick with 6:26, followed by a failed PAT kick. Nearly five minutes later, Coahoma's sole scoring drive ended with a five yard by fullback

John Douglas. Craig Wallace's PAT kick was no good.

Abilene scored twice in the second period, first on a 43-yard touchdown pass from Quick to end

Mark Odom early in the quarter and the kick failed; and later on a 25-yard Quick field goal with 26 seconds remaining.

The third quarter yielded two Wylie scores. With 8:20 remaining, Quick hit Mike Chapman for a three-yard score. Seven minutes later, Coahoma appeared to have their visitors in trouble when Chapman escaped for a 77-yard scoring burst off tackle and followed with a successful PAT kick.

Coahoma hosts Colorado City next Friday.

Sands rolls in offensive display

DAWSON - The Sands Mustangs rolled to 362 yards in a powerful offensive display against the Dawson Dragons to claim a 40-12 District 4-A West opener Friday.

Halfback Jay Fryar had a storybook night, running 171 yards on 21 carries for three touchdowns and completing six of 13 passes for 106 yards. Two of those passes were good for touchdowns and came from his halfback spot.

Chad Nichols wrapped up the Sands scoring, receiving a pair of touchdown passes. He had 72 yards on four receptions.

Fryar and Nichols hooked up first with 7:20 left in the first quarter. With only 2:55 remaining in the half, Nichols took the ball over from three yards out. Sands succeeded on one first half PAT

Dawson remained scoreless through the third quarter, while the Mustangs scored twice that period. Fryar ran one in from five yards out with 5:50 in the third and he and Nichols connected for the two-point PAT.

Less than two minutes later, Fryar took it in from the Dawson 45. The PAT pass attempt failed.

With 8:15 left in the fourth period, Fryar went in from 44 yards out and passed to Damiean Zarate for the two-pointer.

Dawson finally lighted the scoreboard with a four-yard Rene Rivas run with 6:37 left in the game. The kick failed.

Sands' final score came with 1:21 left when quarterback Jerry Long hit Nichols for the TD and Fryar kicked the extra point.

Retaliation came quickly by Dawson, as Junior Morales responded with a 55-yard kickoff return 18 seconds later. The Dragon's kick attempt again failed.

Long stood out on the Sands' defense with eight tackles and one forced fumble, while Zarate claimed three tackles and three interceptions.

Stanton smashes Plains 14-12

PLAINS - The Stanton Buffaloes won a tough road game to stay undefeated at 4-0 as they ruined Plains homecoming, 14-12, here Friday night in a nondistrict action.

The Buffaloes scored all their points in the first half. Quarterback Skip Hopkins threw a 24-yard pass to split end Carlos Ortiz with 11:07 remaining in the second quarter. The kick attempt by Salvador Reyna failed.

However, the Cowboys were not to be denied. With 6:54 remaining in the half, defensive tackle Donald

The Buffaloes came storming back when tailback Eddie Jordan scored on a 1-yard run. Jordan's run for the two-point conversion was successful with 3:28 remaining in the half.

Plains bounced back in fourth period with 11:02 remaining. Fullback Billy Spears raced 47 yards on a scoring run. Their chance for a tie vanished when Micheal Diaz's pass attempt to Joe Rivera was unsuccessful on the two-point conversion attempt.

C-City turnovers prove costly

COLORADO CITY - Ballinger made use of seven Colorado City turnovers on the way to a 32-7 District 5-AAA game on the Wolves' home field last night. Each of the visiting Bearcat scores followed a Colorado City giveaway.

The only C-City touchdown came with 2:02 remaining in the game when Ismael Silva capped an impressive 74-yard drive with a 21-yard completion to senior tight end Reggie Gardner. Silva kicked the extra point.

The Ballinger offense was fueled by a 78-yard production by all-state senior running back Terry Strambler. Tim Kozelsky had 60 yards in nine carries, three of those carries good for Bearcat scores.

Although victorious, Ballinger had trouble converting its point-after attempts. The visitors missed their first three PAT kicks, due to problems with their snaps. They ran their final two attempts, making good on the first.

Kozelsky scored the first three Ballinger scores. His first came on a 14-yard run with 5:04 left in the first period, following a C-City fumble; his second early in the second period on a two-yarder following an interception; his third with 6:42 into the third from four yards out following another interception. Strambler took the PAT run in after that TD.

James Clayton, who pirated two of the Wolves' pass attempts, returned the second one 66 yards to wrap up the Ballinger scoring with 4:08 left in the game.

C-City is now 0-3-1, while Ballinger is 4-0. The Wolves will travel to Coahoma next Friday night for another district game.

Steers beat winless Garden City

ROBERT LEE - The Robert Lee Steers proved to be too much for Garden City's Bearcats as they won a 27-6 in District 6-A football game here Friday night.

Garden City remains winless for the year with an 0-4 record. Robert Lee boosted their record to 3-1.

The Steers scored their first points when J.P. Skipworth ran 12 yards for a touchdown. Skipworth was successful with the extra point kick.

In the second quarter, Robert Lee added two more scores when Robert Runion threw a 30-yard

The Steers added another tally with 4:05 remaining in the half when defensive lineman Kelly Tomlinson plucked an errant football out of the air and rumbled 35 yards for the score. The kick failed.

Garden City's only scoring came in the third quarter when Kenny Bennett ran in from 1-ard out. The kick attempt by Bobby Medrano failed.

Robert Lee capped the scoring when Wes Hood took the ensuing Garden City kickoff and sprinted 80 yards for the score. Skipworth's kick was good.

eating up 5:13 of the clock in 14 plays. Decker and White got most of the rushing yardage and Decker completed two passes. The first was a 12-yarder to sophomore tight end Kenneth Banks and the second was a 25-yarder to wide receiver Jimmy Casey. Casey's reception carried the ball to the one.

On the next play, White bulled in. Olsen's PAT gave the Steers a 7-0 lead with 6:47 remaining in the first half.

But it would be the last time the Steers would move the ball effectively in the half. From that point on the Steers would manage but two more first downs in the half.

Meanwhile the Mustangs moved the ball up and down the field, but the Big Spring defense stopped four of the six drives inside the 30. Defensive backs Byron McElreath and Thompson killed two drives with interceptions. Thompson returned his interception 43 yards to the Sweetwater 47.

Safety Brian Mayfield picked off a pass in the second half. He also made a touchdown saving tackle on a first quarter kickoff.

Sweetwater tied the game up in the second quarter. The Mustangs, behind the running of quarterback Mark Davis and tailback Rufus Smith, drove 96 yards in 9 plays for their first score.

Davis and Smith carried the ball eight times for 90 of the yards. Smith got the score on an option pitch from Davis. His 20-yard run came with 4:13 left. Morris' PAT tied the game at 7-7.

Smith was Sweetwater's workhorse, gaining 109 yards on 22 carries. He had 78 yards on 15 carries at the half. Davis ended the game with 68 yards in 15 carries. He lost 15 yards on three sacks by the Steer defense.

The Mustangs took the lead just before the half. They drove from their own 36 to the Big Spring 17 yard line. The drive ended with a 33-yard field goal by Morris with 56 seconds left in the half. The Mustangs silenced the Steers crowd by taking a 10-7 halftime lead.

Things started to look bleak for the Steers when Sweetwater scored in the waning seconds of the third quarter. Smith went in from five yards out. Elmer Green's PAT gave Sweetwater a 17-7 lead.

The score was set up when linebacker Dural Rather intercepted Decker's pass at the Big Spring 20 and returned it to the 10.

But after that the game was all Big Spring as the Steer defense completely stopped the Sweetwater offense and the Big Spring offense came alive, thus giving the Steers a upset over the state's No. 5 ranked team.

The Steers are now 3-1 for the season and 2-0 in District 2-4A play. Sweetwater falls to 2-1 overall and 0-1 in district.

Childrearing must be learned

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent

Almost any adult can become a mother or father, but parenting has to be learned. And in families where parents care about childrearing, they will make the effort to learn what they can about this important job.

The foundation for developing parenting skills is understanding the developmental stages children go through. Relating to your children — as well as teaching, guiding and disciplining them — will be easier once you understand the basic principles of growth and development.

There are many places you can get information about child development.

Yet even after you have informed yourself about child development and parenting, you may be among the many parents who never feel completely comfortable with their skills their best.

Part of the reason for this

Focus on family

discomfort is that parenting styles are in a state of flux. Today parents may raise their own children one way, but see and hear about many other approaches in the homes of friends, on TV, in books and magazines and in classrooms and parent groups. No wonder many parents are confused.

Children can and do thrive under many different styles of parenting. The choice of an effective style is not a matter of "either-or," but of finding a comfortable and consistent balance.

AVOID THE PERFECT PARENT TRAP

There's no such thing as a "perfect" parent, and trying to fit unrealistic expectation may mean you no longer enjoy what can be a fulfilling role.

Here are some ideas for avoiding the perfect parent trap:

- Honestly assess your goals. Do you expect too much of yourself? No one is perfect at everything — including parenting.

- Be willing to accept children's help. Even young children can put away toys, help set the table or make their beds. It may not be done to your standards, but remember there are steps to learning all tasks. Encouragement will motivate the child to improve.

- Recognize that you are not instantly equipped with parenting skills. Most jobs require a training period. Parenting is no exception, but the training usually is done on the job. Just about the time you learn a skill, the children grow and change, requiring you to learn new skills.

- Develop a sense of humor. Perfectionists tend to take themselves and their children too seriously. Recognize that children are messy, active, become tired and sometimes make mistakes.

- Learn to accept what can't be changed. Each day has 24 hours and only so much can be accomplished in that time. Parents may try so hard to get everything done that they don't feel good about what they are doing.

- Learn to relax and find some time away from the children. It's important for parents to sometimes make changes to cope with the daily demands of parenthood. Relaxation will allow you to tackle your parental responsibilities with renewed enthusiasm.

- Enjoy your children. Their growth and development can be one of your greatest pleasures.

Young pecan trees need care

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

There are 100 acres of commercial pecans in Howard County. Weeds severely limit the growth of young pecan trees by competing for water and nutrients. Sandbur and rescue grass are problem annual grassy weeds on cultivated or disturbed soils, including pecan orchards in Howard County.

Preemergent herbicides have been successfully used in other fruit and nut production areas of the world. The herbicides reduce the need for mechanical cultivation by inhibiting seedling growth of weed seeds shortly after germination. This effectively reduces the competitive effects of orchard weeds. Norflurazon (Solicam®, Zocon Corporation) prevents plant pigment formation (carotenoids), thus inhibiting chlorophyll function via photodegradation in developing weed seedlings. Oryzalin (Surflan®, Elanco Products) prevents plant cell mitosis which inhibits root and shoot development of weed seedlings. Both materials require .5 inch of irrigation or precipitation for incorporation and activation. Oral LD50 mg/kg values exceed that of aspirin by 10X, i.e. pharmaceutical aspirin taken orally has been rated as potentially more dangerous than the preemergents. Both herbicides used at label rates on labeled crops with the labeled methods of application have proven safe to the crop in other production areas. Used in the proper manner herbicidal fruit and nut residues have been nonexistent.

For your garden

Preemergent herbicide use, from an economic and weed control standpoint, has been under-evaluated and perhaps under-utilized in West Texas. Objective of this result demonstration were:

- 1) Compare weed control efficacy of 2 preemergent herbicides at labeled rates with mechanical cultivation.
- 2) Observe crop for any phytotoxicity symptoms associated with herbicide treatments.
- 3) Determine the feasibility of timing preemergent herbicide applications with historical rainfall patterns.

DEMONSTRATION DESCRIPTION

Preemergent herbicides were applied at various rates in a Howard County pecan orchard belonging to Mr. Roy Hester of Big Spring. In October of 1985 Surflan (4 qts./acre) and Solicam (3.75 and 5 lbs./acre) were applied with a CO<sub>2</sub> powered, fixed boom sprayer delivering 40 gallons of water per acre with a nozzle pressure of approximately 30 psi. A 5 foot band of herbicide was placed down selected sides of tree rows. Untreated areas were left for control. The remainder of the orchard was mechanically cultivated. Orchard soil is a sandy clay loam. Perennial bermuda grass and Johnson grass were spot sprayed by the cooperators shortly after preemergent treatments were applied.

The pecan orchard is drip irrigated. Herbicide treatments received sufficient precipitation for incorporation and activation within 1 day of application.

DEMONSTRATION RESULTS

Visual observations and estimates of weed populations were made in early April 1986. Preemergent herbicides, at the highest labeled rates, applied on the Roy Hester pecan orchard controlled 99 percent of the winter and spring annual weeds present in control plots. There were no apparent differences in weed populations in the 5 pounds/acre Solicam and the 4 quart/acre Surflan plots. Solicam at 3.75 pounds/acre, provided approximately 60 percent of the control achieved at higher herbicide rates. Puncture vine, sowthistle, star thistle, Russian thistle, prostrate pigweed, London rocket lamb's quarters, annual evening primrose, Tahoka daisy, foxtail, rescue grass, coreopsis, bee blossom, stork's bill, southern corydalis, sandbur and prickly poppy were absent from treated high rate plots.

Preemergent herbicides have usually been applied in the spring in most nut producing areas. This result demonstration indicates a high degree of weed control can be achieved in West Texas by timing fall herbicide applications with historical rainfall patterns.

It is extremely difficult to eradicate annual weeds with mechanical cultivation alone. The soil contains a large bank of weeds capable of germinating throughout the season. Cultivation removes established seedlings while planting and exposing other seeds for germination. Deep mechanical cultivation damages tree roots and is detrimental to optimum growth. There were no herbicide phytotoxicity symptoms observed on any trees in the orchard.

Banded treatments of the preemergent herbicides (12 feet down the tree row) would range in cost between $12-$18 per acre per application. The economic aspect of using preemergent herbicides in bands down the tree row and shredding row middles may be attractive.

Bank popular target for robbers

DALLAS (AP) — Bandits have targeted a small east-side bank five times since January 1985, making it the most frequently robbed financial institution in the city, police said.

"I don't know what it is about that bank, but they do like it," said Dallas police robbery analyst Bill Hamby.

Officers said a teen-ager with a shaved head and an ex-convict were among suspects in robberies at the Swiss Avenue Bank. They said the robberies, including one this week, are puzzling because the bank does not fit the profile of an institution ripe for robbery.

FBI statistics show that in 1984, nearly 90 percent of the 6,796 banks robbed nationwide were branches, not main offices like Swiss Avenue Bank. And federal authorities said almost half the robberies occurred in commercial districts.

But the Swiss Avenue institution's neighborhood is a mixture of small businesses, apartments and single-family homes.

"It's tucked in a nice, quiet residential area," said FBI Agent

Mark Wohlander of Dallas, who gives security talks to local bankers. "It's got easy access to Gaston Avenue," a major street.

"You can disappear into that transient area on Gaston Avenue or you can be on Interstate 30 in a matter of minutes," he said.

Bank president Carl Schieffer said he and other Swiss Avenue officials believe they know why so many robberies have occurred at the bank. But he said he would not disclose the reasons and risk tempting potential robbers.

"There are some things that are going on that don't need to be known," he said.

Schieffer said the robberies "have changed the way we are going to be thinking about (security measures) in the future."

One businessman said the robberies are not surprising. Theron Harris, a pawn shop operator, said he has had to tolerate "drifters, drunks and a lot of hell-raising."

"It's drifters," he said. "When people come to town down and out, the only place they can afford is East Dallas or South Dallas."

Independents move to halt bank changes

By DANA PALMER
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A group of independent bankers vowed Friday to use public opinion and the courts in the coming months to stop Texas from allowing interstate and branch banking.

With the help of state Reps. L.P. "Pete" Patterson, D-Brookston, Tom Waldrop, D-Corsicana, and Lloyd Criss, D-Galveston, the group has asked for an attorney general's opinion on the constitutionality of a new law effective Jan. 1 that allows out-of-state banks to acquire Texas banks.

Those new banking laws were approved this summer during the special legislative session.

"We'll probably file suit before Jan. 1 whether (Attorney General Jim) Mattox rules by then or not," said East Texas banker Gary Tongate of Whitehouse.

In addition, he said, the group, now numbering 75 to 100 independent bankers and growing, would raise funds for a media campaign to fight the Nov. 4 vote on a proposed constitutional amendment to allow establishment of up to three branches in the county in which the main bank is located.

Should the group, known as the Independent Bankers for Texas, fail, Tongate said, consumers will lose the most because eventually the changes will lead to higher loan rates, steeper service charges, a drain of local capital to out-of-state owners and a loss of local control.

That has happened in other states, he said, especially California.

However, Tongate acknowledged that at first, the increased competition from new out-of-state banks and more branch banks could benefit consumers. But that won't last for long, he said.

"They'll come in under predatory pricing...with the exact intent of driving out community banks in that area," he said. "In this situation, it's a monopoly, and that's what they're out to gain. And I don't think that's best for the community."

Those owned by bankers in New York or California or Saudi Arabia, Tongate said, may decide to cut off certain types of loans the community needs or certain types of service accounts, and ultimate loan decisions won't be made in the local community any more.

• Cadet Oren K. Upton, son of Charles Upton and Louree Sperry of Colorado City, has completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

Field training, attended by cadets normally between their second and third year of college, gives an opportunity to evaluate each student's potential as an officer, according to an Air Force spokesman.

The summer's curriculum consists of orientations on jet aircraft, career opportunities, human relations education and equal opportunity training. Physical fitness and survival training is also emphasized.

The field training is four weeks, but cadets in the two-year ROTC program receive an additional two weeks of instruction in the development of air power and the contemporary Air Force.

Upton is a student at Angelo State University, San Angelo.
