Starting Wednesday, school taxes will be collected by the office of Howard County Tax Assessor/Collector Dorothy Moore.

Prison proposal could bring jobs

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

A suggestion submitted recently to the Federal Bureau of Prisons could result in an expansion of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp to house approximately 300 to 350 female offenders, said camp Superintendent Anthony Belaski.

"We have somewhat of an interest to see it happen," Belaski said about his suggestion, submitted to J.D. Williams, director of the bureau's southcentral region.

Belaski said he hoped to have a response within a month.

He anticipated the proposal, if approved, would create between 60 and 80 new jobs here, Belaski said.

The proposal calls for lease or purchase of about 60 acres from the city and the remodeling of three existing buildings in Big Spring Airpark on property adjoining the south end of the prison camp.

Webb Bowling Alley would become a dining hall and kitchen. The former academic hall and a former consolidated mess hall would be remodeled into inmate dormitories, Belaski said.

Female prisoners would be of the Level One classification, thus qualifying them to be housed in a minimal security atmosphere. Level One involves minimum security prisoners and is the lowest level of the six-level federal prison system.

The women would be kept in separate facilities from male prisoners, Belaski added.

Federal prison officials are looking for a camp setting to house 300 to 350 females now housed in a Fort Worth federal prison, he said.

Transferring low security females to Big Spring could create additional bed space in Fort Worth for Level Two male offenders who are facing expected overcrowded conditions, Belaski explained.

"We're pressed for Level Two space throughout the country," he said.

He noted it would be considerably cheaper to remodel three buildings here than to build a whole new facility from the ground up.

In outlining the plan to Bill Longley, district manager for 17th District Congressman Charles W. Stenholm, Belaski estimated the cost for the facility at Big Spring would be $1 million plus, compared to $8 million to $10 million for an entire new facility.

He added that inmate labor from the prison camp would help save in the renovation. PRISON page 2A

$1.2 million in flood claims brought against Big Spring

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Aug. 30 flood negligence claims totaling more than $1.26 million have been filed against the city by almost 30 local property owners, and the total is expected to climb.

Six of the claims have yet to specify the amount sought from the city.

The city will submit all claims to its insurance company, the Texas Municipal League.

Each claim basically contends the city failed to maintain the Comanche Lake Dam spillway, the Big Spring Draw drainage area, and failed to heed an Army Corp of Engineers warning that Comanche Lake Dam, which breached the night of the flood, was unsafe.

City officials say a torrent of flood water swept over the dam and the breach had no significant bearing on the volume of water that cascaded over Highway 87 and down Big Spring Draw.

They cite the devastation of Comanche Trail Park as an indication of the huge "wall of water" that rushed into Comanche Lake from the area around the Big Spring Country Club.

Local attorney C.E. Thomas is handling the bulk of the claims. Big Spring attorney Wayne Basden is representing three claimants and Abilene lawyer Christopher Cannon has filed nine claims.

Property owners making claims include:

• Highland Pontiac, FM 700 — $305,000.

City inn faces loss of water

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

A business behind in its water bill and taxes faces the prospect of having its water turned off while city officials continue to investigate the recent spate of water charge complaints.

City Council heard Monday from B.J. Bateman, manager of the Homestead Inn, which owes the city $4,645 for water and thousands more in back motel occupancy taxes, according to City Finance Director Tom Ferguson.

Bateman told the Council that a group that's in the process of purchasing the property from owner Vern Johnson intends to settle its tax and water debt with the city.

The group, a corporation called People Loving People, intends to "pay what we rightfully owe" when and if the purchase of the motel takes place, said Bateman, who is a member of the group.

Ferguson said the Homestead Inn is three quarters behind in paying its motel occupancy tax. Based on the motel's tax paying history, the amount owed is about $13,000, he said.

Bateman, however, said he understood the figure owed by Johnson was $4,487, and was contained in $59,000 in debts Johnson owes to numerous local creditors.

Bateman said PLP is obligated to pay those debts as part of the proposed purchase agreement.

By checking state tax records,

Ferguson said he will be able to determine precisely how much the Homestead Inn owes.

Council was asked by Bateman if it would allow PLP to pay the back taxes over several months, should CITY INN page 2A

Hurdle on special session's horizon

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - A final hurdle to the end of the special session appeared on the horizon Tuesday as a Republican senator threatened to filibuster a tax bill.

"You're going to have plenty of time to go play a round of golf," Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson, told a group of reporters prior to Senate consideration of the tax bill.

Brown and other Senate Republicans are unhappy with the tax bill, saying that further cuts in the state budget should be considered before levying more taxes.

Brown said, "I know we cannot kill the bill, but it never hurts to make your argument a little more clear."

Because of the economic slump, Brown said, people should not be expected to pay more taxes. "To add this answer to our economic problems is wrong," he said.

Brown said he would filibuster at least until 6 p.m. Tuesday. He said he told his fellow Senate members that they could plan to go home later Tuesday night.

The Senate was scheduled to take up the House-passed tax bill Tuesday, with approval seen as the door to sending legislators home after two special sessions to deal with a state budget crisis.

Attempting to kill the bill through a filibuster, or non-stop talking, would be difficult at this point since the effort would have to continue through the official end of the second session on Oct. 7. Sometimes legislators use small filibusters to call public attention to legislative items they oppose.

The House approved the tax bill Saturday.

Lawmakers currently are in the second special session to solve the state's fiscal problems caused by the dramatic decrease in the price of oil.

Beginning in August, lawmakers fought for 30 days to a stalemate over budget cuts and the question of taxes. Gov. Mark White then called another special session and the House approved a $869 million tax bill. House and Senate budget conferees, meanwhile, agreed to about $582 million in spending cuts for the current fiscal year.

Senators were prepared to approve both the spending reductions and tax bill Tuesday.

Under the tax package, Texans would see tax increases at the cash register and gas pump. The state sales tax would rise from 4 1/2 cents to 5 1/4, while the tax on a gallon of gasoline would rise from 10 cents to 15 cents.

Russian's leaving; pleads 'no contest'

By KIM MILLS

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet U.N. worker Gennadiy Zakharov pleaded no contest today to three counts of spying and must leave the country within 24 hours, according to an agreement entered in U.S. District Court.

During a four-minute appearance in Brooklyn before Judge Joseph M. McLaughlin, sentencing was waived on two of the counts. On the third, McLaughlin suspended sentence and placed Zakharov on five years' probation.

"It is a condition of probation that the defendant depart the United States within 24 hours and not return to the United States for the entire period of probation," the judge said.

Zakharov spoke only when asked by the judge if his plea was voluntary and if he understood the agreement. "Yes," he replied.

The no-contest plea means he neither pleaded guilty nor innocent to the charges. U.S. Attorney Andrew Maloney outlined the terms of the plea agreement.

The plea was the apparent next step in a carefully choreographed scenario that previously led to freedom for American journalist Nicholas Daniloff.

Sources in Washington and at the United Nations had said Zakharov would be freed after what one called "some sort of judicial proceeding," but no one would reveal what evolved during intense negotiations between Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze.

Shultz announced today that Zakharov's release would trigger the immigration of Soviet dissident Yuri Orlov and his wife. And President Reagan announced that he and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev would meet in Iceland Oct. 11 and 12. He said Zakharov would leave this afternoon.

Daniloff, the Moscow correspondent for U.S. News and World Report, was allowed to leave the Soviet union on Monday, and flew with his wife, Ruth, to West Germany. He was due in the United States today.

The spy case began Aug. 23, when the 39-year-old Zakharov was arrested on a subway platform as he allegedly tried to pay an FBI informant $1,000 for classified documents on military jet engines.

In the rubble

Pastor W. John Peterson, St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Enid, Okla., stoops down beside his 5-year-old daughter, Nicole, and explains to her how lightning from a storm last night blew a steeple off the building, scattering large chunks of concrete across a half block area. The explosion, which took place about 9:30 p.m. Monday, caused no injuries.

U.S. newsman Nicholas Daniloff hugs Alexander Rattray, U.S. consulate general, at Frankfurt airport today, as Daniloff is about to board a plane for Washington. Daniloff came from Moscow, suddenly set free nearly a month after being accused of espionage.

Sheriff's log

Fight Forsan oil tank fire

Forsan and Lomax firefighters fought an oil tank fire this morning at the Mobil Unit in Forsan. Sheriff's deputy Jack Howard said the fire started as a result of an internal combustion in the heater treater. Deputy Robert Stapp, on patrol, noticed the fire at 6:18 a.m., Howard said. Firefighters had it under control by 7:30 a.m.

No one was injured and the damage has yet to be determined, Howard said.

John Roger Turner of Route 1 Box 452 told sheriff's deputies Monday night that someone stole five motors from the M.H. O'Daniel lease B near Coahoma. The motors are valued at $2,250.

Chris Christensen of Mobil Plant on FM 821 told sheriff's deputies Monday morning someone entered the company yard and stole tools from trucks parked in the yard. Value of the missing items is unknown.

Deputies arrested Rene Arrendonado, 35, 807 Wyoming, Monday morning on a theft of service charge. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Deputies released John Roland Danko, 26, 504 1/2 Goliad from county jail Monday morning on bonds totalling $31,000. He was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and possession of marijuana.

Police transferred Dennis Wayne Brashear, 28, of San Angelo to county jail Monday morning after he was arrested for suspicion of driving while intoxicated. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Deputies released Ronnie Gaskins Jr., 19, of Sterling City Route T32, from county jail Monday afternoon on orders from District Judge James Gregg. Gaskins was arrested on Aug. 21 for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Deputies released Alvin Banks, 45, of Odessa, to Nolan county sheriff's deputies Monday afternoon after he served a jail sentence for a DWI offense. He is wanted in Nolan County for a criminal trespass charge.

Department of Public Safety troopers arrested Jackie Wayne Owens, 45, of Ackerly, on suspicion of DWI Monday night. He was arrested on the north service road of Interstate 20. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Belaski also indicated a savings could be reaped as a result of a single set of administrative officials. For example, a department head for recreation could supervise both the male and female programs, he said.

Belaski added the project here could be completed in about nine months to a year in contrast to three to four years for building a facility from scratch.

Chamber of Commerce President John Arrick, who has reviewed the suggestion, said the Chamber and its civic organizations "would support it 100 percent."

He said his perception of an enthusiastic response from the community is based on "the relationship with the existing facility — everything is positive."

Belaski's estimate regarding the new jobs includes a median annual salary figure of $25,000, Arrick said.

"New jobs could add revenue to all types of services such as motels, restaurants and fuel — that's a benefit," Arrick said.

Police arrest parolee

Officer Steve Frontiero arrested Wallace Terry Viasana, 31, 1910 Scurry St., on an emergency parole violation warrant Monday night.

District parole officer David Harman said Tuesday the warrant was issued because Viasana is suspected by police of assaulting his wife, Elva Carrasco, and their 10-year-old daughter, Deloris, at 3 a.m. Sunday morning at her home. Viasana is being held in city jail without bond pending a parole revocation hearing, Harman said.

Viasana was released on parole in April from the Texas Department of Corrections. He was first sent to prison in September, 1981 for burglary, according to Harman.

He was released on parole in October of 1983 but was sent back to prison for assaulting his wife in September of 1985, Harman said.

Etta Renee Nolting, 107 W. 21st St., told police Monday afternoon that someone stole a .22 caliber rifle and two knives from apartment 17 at 1002 N. Main St. between 6 p.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Saturday.

Dan Proffitt, 707 W. 18th St., told police Monday morning that someone stole a $160 weed eater from his backyard between Sept. 24 and 11:30 a.m. Monday.

Renae Burg, 2507 Ent Drive, told police Monday morning that someone stole $500 worth of clothing from her residence between 12:15 p.m. Friday and 11 p.m. Sunday.

Kelly Draper, owner of Faye's

Flowers, 1013 S. Gregg St., told police Monday morning that someone stole a $315 TV, $100 in cash and a $45 cash drawer. A plate glass door sustained $139 damage and a greenhouse door had $100 damage during the break-in, according to police. The burglary occurred between 2:30 p.m. Sunday and 7:55 a.m. Monday.

The Elks Lodge, 701 Marcy Drive, reported Monday morning that someone stole $400, a safe and damaged a lock during a break-in of the lodge between noon Sunday and 7:20 a.m. Monday.

Sara Rubio, 111 N. Nolan St., told police Monday night that someone stole a $129 bike from her residence between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday.

Charles Bradley, 1206 Elm St., told police Monday afternoon that someone stole a color TV and a number of United States and Mexican coins from his home between 10 a.m. and 5:05 p.m. Monday.

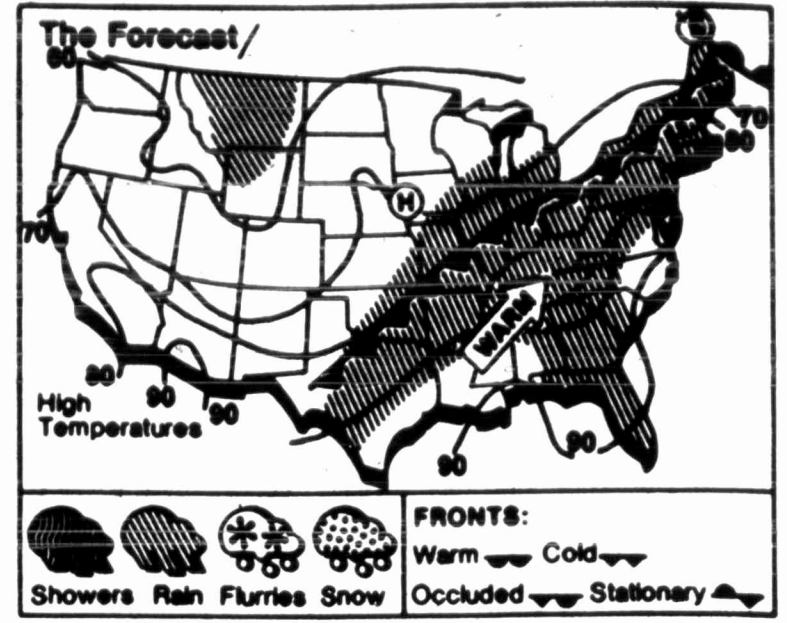

Sears reported Monday night that someone stole a $440 TV and damaged a plate glass window during a Monday night break-in.

Joanna Valles, 19, 410 E. 18th St., was arrested on traffic warrants Monday night.

Joe David Barree, 27, 2211 Runnels St., was arrested on a public intoxication and failure to appear warrant Monday.

Adam Gilbert Jaramillo, 19, 1323 Mesquite St., was arrested on suspicion of being a minor in possession of alcohol early this morning.

55 mph speed bill lumbers to Senate

Wire and Austin Bureau AUSTIN — Moving like a 18-wheeler that's late on a delivery, legislation that could lead to abandonment of the 55 mph speed limit cleared the Texas House and a Senate committee on Monday.

On the Senate side of the Capitol, however, the bill faced an uncertain future as legislators rushed toward a closing of the second special session of 1986.

If it passes and is approved by Gov. Mark White, the legislation would prepare the state — in case Congress lifts the 55 mph limit — by maintaining the Texas Highway and Public Transportation Commission's power to set state speed limits.

Currently, the commission may change speed limits to meet federal requirements for highway funds, but that authority would lapse if the national 55 mph limit is repealed.

Rep. Dudley Harrison, D-Sanderson, House bill sponsor, said he did not know whether the federal government would change the limits. He said he called Washington, D.C., on Monday morning and found that the U.S. House, which did not approve removing the limit, is appointing a conference committee to meet with the U.S. Senate, which proposed the change.

Whether federal lawmakers will agree is uncertain, "but if they do, this will let it go into effect immediately," Harrison said.

Harrison also noted that when White opened the special session to the legislation, he said "speedy passage preferred."

Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, was a co-sponsor of the state House legislation.

Texas leaders say the higher speed limit is needed, especially in West Texas.

"Texas constructed its interstate highway system to the highest engineering standards to ensure maximum cost benefits and maximum utility for users. The system was designed to safety standards at speeds greater than 55 mph," said Ray Stoker Jr., highway commission member.

According to the commission, driving time from San Antonio to El Paso would be cut by 90 minutes if the speed limit is raised to 65 mph.

Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, argued for the Harrison-Shaw bill in the Senate State Affairs Committee Monday afternoon.

For the record

A police beat item Monday reported that David Michael Bitner of San Angelo was arrested Saturday night on local traffic warrants.

Police said this morning the man arrested Saturday night was Michael Warren Lockhart, 30, no address given. According to police, Lockhart told the arresting officer that he was Bitner. Bitner was not in Big Spring Saturday night, said his mother.

Lockhart was arrested again

Sunday for failing to identify himself to police, and local and DPS warrants.

Charges have been dropped against Phillip Burchan, 1905 Alabama St., who was arrested July 21 on an assault by threat warrant. Municipal Judge Gwen Fair, who issued the warrant, and acting Police Chief Lonnie Smith said the incident was a domestic dispute and the threat allegation was unfounded.

City inn

the property transaction eventually occur.

Several councilmen seemed receptive to the idea, but Councilman Johnny Rutherford said he favored seeking a lien against the property to force payment of the back taxes from Johnson before the property could be sold.

Rutherford charged that Johnson, who, according to Bateman, is in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., defrauded the public by using tax revenue to operate the business. He said the city should pursue every means possible to collect taxes from Johnson, even if it means putting him in jail.

Rutherford also questioned why the Homestead taxes were allowed to become so delinquent before action was taken.

"Why are we so weak-kneed? There should be something there for us to sink our teeth into," he said of the policy on late tax payment.

In the matter of the water bill, which is disputed like hundreds of others throughout Big Spring, Rutherford urged that water be turned off at the inn if the overdue bill is not paid within a week of notification by the city.

Councilman Russ McEwen said taking such action might close the business and put employees there out of work, to which he has "an aversion."

Ferguson said the bill may be reduced because Bateman told him the motel had a number of leaks. Ferguson added that a five-year old city ordinance allows customers a billing break if a plumber certifies water was lost through leaks.

Furthermore, Bateman contends the meter there was malfunctioning, Ferguson said.

Council, critical of the 1981 provision, instructed the city staff to eliminate the adjustment provision. Formal action is expected later.

With respect to the hundreds of other water bill complaints, City Manager Mack Wofford speculated citizens may be feeling more painfully the effects of a sewer rate increase passed last October. Bills, he said, are averaging 30 percent higher than last year.

Wofford told Council the city is pouring over data on 400 to 500 accounts. So far, no patterns or correlations in the higher billings have been found, he said.

The possibilities of faulty readings, air in the lines and malfunctioning meters virtually have been ruled out, he said.

White, Clements trade barbs

By DAVID SEDENO Associated Press Writer SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Gov. Mark White and former Gov. Bill Clements gave each other bad grades on educational matters Monday as they campaigned before a group of educators and administrators.

They told the joint convention of the Texas Association of School Boards and the Texas Association of School Administrators that they needed their support to improve public education.

They each took credit for implementing legislative measures to deal with teacher pay raises, student discipline and local control of school districts.

The two gubernatorial candidates, who face each other on Nov. 4, wasted no time in criticizing each other.

"My opponent is a master of nuance and innuendo. He was trained that way," Clements said in his 25-minute speech.

Clements said that the education reform bill passed in 1984 and spearheaded by White needs work, especially in the area of the controversial "no pass, no play" rules.

"I am for House Bill 72. It's a great step forward for Texas, but House Bill 72 needs fine tuning," Clements said, adding that White was unwilling to compromise.

"As I review House Bill 72, I see that Mark White has flunked the course and should not be allowed to play," Clements said.

White, meanwhile, said that dur-

BILL CLEMENTS... "White has flunked"

MARK WHITE... "All he has done is criticize" ing Clements' administration the state dropped to 46th place in student achievement scores, and that his administration has worked hard to improve the scores.

"Bill Clements said I flunked the course, but at least I took the course," White said upon taking the podium. "I want to brag on Bill Clements for a minute. It won't take long."

White said Clements damaged many of the educational programs. "I know that House Bill 72 asked a lot of educators and students. It had to. We had so many difficult challenges to overcome. It's been tough on everyone," White said.

Clements said he was insistent on spending 51 percent of the state's budget on education and criticized White for wanting to cut education and raise taxes during the state's fiscal crisis.

"I have told Mark White from many a podium that he is suffering from a Mondale mentality, meaning tax, tax, spend, spend," Clements said.

The state has a projected $2.8 billion budget deficit because of the drop in oil prices and oil revenue. Legislators are meeting in the second special session to try to balance the state's budget.

White praised the legislators and said Clements has yet to produce a secret plan he said would balance the budget.

Free speech at stake

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — A Yale University junior placed on probation for a poster that defended some homosexuals will get a second hearing after challenging the punishment.

Wayne Dick, 20, of Brooksville, Fla., said the school's new president, Benno C. Schmidt Jr., encouraged him to seek the new hearing, set for Wednesday.

Schmidt, an authority on the First Amendment, endorsed the need for freedom of expression at universities during his Sept. 20 inaugural speech.

The campus' own guidelines on freedom of speech, issued in 1975, were meant to "permit saying the unsayable and challenging the unchallengeable," said the main author of the guidelines, retired Yale professor C. Vann Woodward.

Woodward, a Pulitzer Prize-winning historian, is acting as Dick's faculty adviser at Wednesday's hearing, which is closed.

This spring, Dick anonymously distributed posters that were a takeoff on the campus' annual Gay and Lesbian Awareness Days, known as GLAD. He advertised a fictional "Bestiality Awareness Days (BAD) Week."

DOE having Nuke test

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — As former President Jimmy Carter condemned the U.S. failure to ban nuclear tests, federal officials announced a major test today at a desert base near here.

Today's explosion, dubbed Lab Quark, was to have a yield of up to 150,000 tons of TNT, the largest test allowed under the Limited Test Ban Treaty.

On Monday, Carter told scientists and physicians attending the American Public Health Association meeting here that the United States should join the Soviet Union in a test-ban treaty.

The failure of the United States to join in a test ban is "an embarrassment and a serious mistake," Carter said.

The test was scheduled hours before about 200 physicians planned to gather in the desert to protest continued U.S. nuclear testing.

Safeway assets for sale

SAN FRANCISCO — The holding company acquiring Safeway Stores Inc. in a $4.2 billion buyout says it will sell part of the company to meet its debt payments.

Kohlberg Kravis Roberts, the New York investment banking firm that led the buyout, said it does not expect to have enough money to make required payments on its debt after the merger is complete.

In the documents filed Monday with the Securities and Exchange Commission, Kohlberg did not specify what assets might be sold.

Safeway Stores Holdings Corp., the holding company formed by Kohlberg to take over Safeway, the nation's biggest supermarket chain, borrowed about $3 billion from banks to buy 73 percent of Safeway stock.

Kohlberg also announced Monday that the holding company will issue $1 billion in new bonds to help pay for the merger.

Bombings

Police lack leads in Idaho blasts

By BERNIE WILSON
Associated Press Writer
COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP) — Residents of this small resort community gathered in stores, bars and on street corners to discuss three bomb explosions, and one businessman compared the town to war-torn Beirut.

Police said they had no leads in the Monday morning explosions that damaged the federal building, a store and a restaurant. There were no injuries.

A fourth bomb discovered on the roof of a building housing armed forces recruitment offices was defused safely.

The explosions came two weeks after the bombing of the home of a priest who has been an outspoken critic of the white-supremacist Aryan Nations group, based in nearby Hayden Lake.

"I'm not making any suppositions if there are any connections," Police Chief Frank Premo said, adding that Monday's bombs were not similar to the pipe-bomb that damaged the home of the Rev. Bill Wassmuth.

Last month, a bomb that exploded in a Fargo, N.D., post office slightly injured four workers and police defused a bomb that had been sent to a judge.

Premo did say authorities were looking for a white car and a maroon pickup seen in front of the federal building just before Monday's first blast.

Wassmuth is head of the Kootenai County Task Force on Human Relations, which has battled negative publicity spawned by the presence of the Aryan Nations.

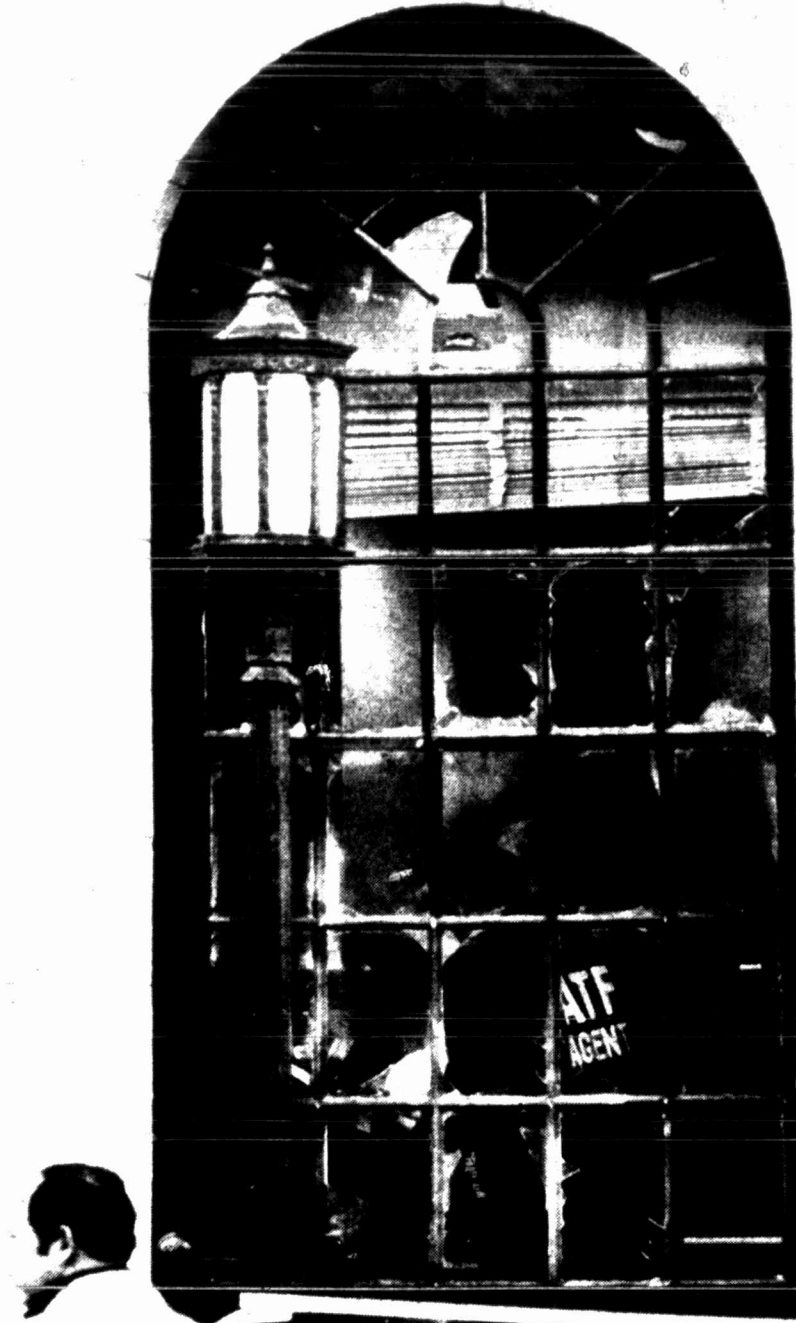

The Rev. Richard Butler, head of the Aryan Nations, said the bombings were "an old tactic of the Marxist left" designed to destroy his group.

"We would have nothing to gain and everything to lose," he said.

The Aryan Nations was the springboard for the militant group The Order, whose members were accused of bank and armored car robberies, murders, bombings and counterfeiting in late 1983 and 1984. Ten Order members were convicted of racketeering last year and 12 others pleaded guilty.

Residents have reacted to the bombings with "more anger than fright," said Steve Myklebust, vice president of Myklebust Clothing, about two blocks from the federal building.

"It's getting so close, it's like Beirut or something," Silas Petty was standing at the counter of his candy store across the street from the federal building when the first bomb exploded in a basement window well in the government building.

Shattered panes frame an agent from the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Monday at the federal building in Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, where one of three buildings was damaged by bombs. A fourth bomb was found at another building and defused. The FBI joined ATF, state, county and local police in investigating the incidents in this northern Idaho resort community.

He said someone walking on the sidewalk could have been killed, and called the bombings a form of intimidation.

"My first reaction is that it makes me angry someone is doing something like this in my town," Petty said.

Nine minutes after the first blast, an explosion detonated inside the Gibbs Mercantile about 16 blocks from the federal building. Another went off nine minutes after that, outside Jax Restaurant, five blocks east of the federal building.

Authorities believed the bombs, equipped with timing devices, were tossed from moving vehicles, Premo said.

Damage was heaviest at the Gibbs building, where the bomb blew a 3-foot hole in the ceiling.

Rebels chief caught

MANILA, Philippines — Military intelligence agents arrested the 39-year-old commander-in-chief of the communist New People's Army guerrilla group outside a hospital in downtown Manila, the Defense Ministry said today.

A ministry statement, issued by spokesman Silvestre Afable, said Rodolfo Salas, also known as "Commander Bilog," was arrested with his wife, Josefina Cruz, and a driver in front of the Philippine General Hospital Monday night.

The statement said Salas had gone to the government clinic for a checkup after goiter surgery last week.

Afable identified Salas as commander-in-chief of the New People's Army, the military wing of the Maoist-oriented Communist Party of the Philippines.

The NPA has been waging a 17-year-long "people's war" to establish a Marxist state in this Asian island nation.

Death toll now at 10

PARIS — A young woman wounded in the bombing of the Tati clothing store has died from her injuries, raising the death toll in the September wave of terrorist attacks to 10.

Officials at Val de Grace hospital, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Audrey Benghori, 20, a French citizen originally from Morocco, died Sunday from her injuries. Five other people died within hours of the Sept. 17 explosion.

The bombing of the Tati outlet in the Montparnasse district was the bloodiest of the September attacks. Besides the two men and four women killed, 35 people were injured, including 24 with serious wounds.

Police said witnesses reported seeing a man throw the bomb into a garbage can from a passing BMW automobile. They said the bomb-thrower had been identified from photographs as Emile Abdallah, a brother Georges Ibrahim Abdallah, one of three men whose freedom is sought by one of the groups that has claimed responsibility for the bombings.

Israeli power to shift

HADERA, Israel — Prime Minister Shimon Peres said today he will submit his resignation on Oct. 10 to allow for the scheduled transfer of power to Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

Peres, addressing high school students, outlined the procedure for carrying out the power-sharing accord signed in 1984 between his left-of-center Labor Party and Shamir's right-wing Likud bloc. Peres is to become foreign minister under the plan.

The unprecedented coalition agreement was reached after neither side gained sufficient votes in general elections to rule alone.

Peres, visiting this town 32 miles northeast of Tel Aviv, said he would meet with Shamir next week to discuss the composition of the new government.

The 25-member Cabinet, composed of equal numbers of Likud and Labor representatives as well as members of five smaller parties, is expected to remain virtually the same.

Police seek leads in killings manhunt

WRIGHT CITY, Mo. (AP) — Police have scaled back their week-old manhunt for a former mental patient sought in three killings, saying their best lead turned up nothing.

Only 25 searchers were looking today for Michael Wayne Jackson, down from 100 early Monday, and roadblocks were removed from highways into the town of 1,200 people.

"The men are tired. We don't believe the roadblocks are effective anymore," said Sgt. Bill Kelems of the Highway Patrol. "Sometime in the near future we could decide to call it off, but I can't tell you when that might be."

The decision to scale back the dragnet came after a disappointment at dawn Monday, when special weapons and tactics teams stormed a house one block away from the police command post and found the house empty.

Officers had staked out the three-story house throughout the night after bloodhounds trailing a scent believed to be Jackson's led them to the structure, which has been vacant for several years.

Thirteen families in the neighborhood around the house were evacuated before three SWAT teams stormed the house.

After the house was searched, FBI Agent Hal Helterhoff said no evidence was found to indicate that Jackson had ever been there.

The bloodhounds led authorities to the house from a mobile home that had been burglarized Sunday.

Officers found used disposable razors and hair in the trailer, leading officers to think Jackson may have shaved his thick beard and cut his long hair.

Jackson is a suspect in three slayings, five abductions and two robberies that were committed Sept. 22 as he fled from his home in Indianapolis across Illinois and into eastern Missouri.

Residents said Monday that they were more frustrated than ever because the latest lead had been a failure. Some also said they were glad that the search was being cut back.

"I'm glad they took the roadblocks down," said Harry Prior, who operates a market in the town about 45 miles west of St. Louis. "You can only scare people for so long. I don't know how long the community can take this pressure."

California scientists claiming plagiarism

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California scientists who lost a competition for a $25 million grant for an earthquake research center are accusing Eastern researchers of copying their work to win the money.

The California team wants the competition reopened, and the National Science Foundation, which awarded the grant last month, said it would investigate the allegations, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

A consortium of California universities sought to locate the Earthquake Engineering Research Center at the University of California in Berkeley, but lost out to a group of schools in New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey that plan to put the center at the State University of New York in Buffalo.

An official of the Buffalo school said some copying occurred but said it was an oversight.

Paul C. Jennings, a seismic researcher and chairman of the California Institute of Technology's division of engineering, made the charge of copying in a Sept. 19 letter to the foundation.

Time for assign speed to states

We were delighted with action last week by the U.S. Senate that would allow state legislatures to raise the speed limit to 65 mph on rural portions of interstate highways.

And we were just as disgusted by the U.S. House's failure to agree with the plan — even for a five-year test period.

Speaking in favor of the action were Senators Phil Gramm, R-Texas; Steve Symms, R-Idaho; and Max Baucus, D-Mont., whose comments were quite pertinent.

Gramm said: "If easterners don't want to drive in the West, they don't have to."

Symms added the 55 mph speed limit was unrealistic not only in the wide open spaces of the West but on expressways in the East as well.

Baucus said: "This is an example of easterners foisting a solution on the West that makes no sense in the West."

Their comments aptly point out that the issue has become a geographical one, which is why the proposal makes sense — because it allows the decision to be made by the individual state legislatures.

Opponents have argued that changing the speed limit is guaranteed to cost lives.

In all honesty, we must admit that they're probably correct. But if we used that same line of reasoning, wouldn't we be considering a 45, or even a 35, mph speed limit?

So why aren't we considering lower speed limits, instead? Simply put, the answer is that lower speed limits aren't practical.

Likewise, we believe that the 55 mph limit is not practical in the wide open rural areas of our interstate system. And it isn't practical to the extent that many state troopers in those areas ignore motorists who travel between 55 and 65 mph.

Most of the statistics on lives saved by the 55 limit come from the National Safety Council. But we wonder how they compute with Safety Council and national insurance company reports that say a majority of fatal accidents occur within short distances of the victims' homes.

Other statistics also have shown that the interstate system is safer than state and local roads.

With those facts in mind, we say it's time to stop penalizing the long-distance travelers who must traverse those wide-open areas. And we think it's time to put the issue back into the hands of the states, where it belongs.

Political 'dissertation' draws fire

To the editor: Having served on many boards with Rich Anderson — to which we had been elected by our peers — I don't ever recall seeing him sign his name other than John R. Anderson, which of course stands for John Richard Anderson. His friends have always called him "Rich", in spite of the appellation that his mother and father gave him as his legal name.

I must wonder at the two-column by 10-inch dissertation expounded by D.A. Brazel. Is this the same ex-union organizer that we all know as "Dave" who resides at 2617 Crestline Road?

What does the A. stand for, Dave? Why are you hiding behind the "D.A." When we all know you as "Dave"?

But then we never had the chance to vote for "Landslide Lyndon" either, did we Dave (or D.A.)? Yessir, that old boy always had his name appear as Lyndon B. Johnson on the ballot even if we did know different.

Police receive vote of confidence

To the editor: In regards to Mr. Allen's letter in the Sept. 17 issue, unless he was sitting at his friend's house 24 hours a day, watching the streets and alleys, how does he know no one checked by the house?

And if he was and he feels that the police department does such a poor job, or he feels like they need to stay in their cars instead of house watching, why didn't he volunteer to watch his friend's house.

Apparently he feels he could have done a better job.

I personally feel that if he is so observant that if he saw a bunch of patrol cars gathered at the coffee shop, it probably wasn't city cars or there was only one, because to my understanding not more than one officer at a time (unless two are working in the same car) are allowed to take coffee or lunch break at the same time.

Besides, these people deserve to take a break, whether it is lunch or coffee, just like anyone else who works. They are no different than the local banker.

I personally wouldn't want their job and apparently Mr. Allen doesn't, either. I'm sure there are more people than myself that feel the police officers have been doing a fine job.

If Mr. Allen has so much time to drive by the coffee shops looking for the police, why doesn't he take the time and see all the work these people do in a 24-hour period. I think he would find that it is a lot of work for 3 to 4 people a shift to do.

I am glad they are arresting people for DWI because I don't want them on the street to run over me or some of my family. And I don't think Mr. Allen does, either.

So instead of trying to find any little thing he can wrong with these people, I think we all should give them the admiration and respect they deserve.

Is that your vehicle phone, or a television broadcast?

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — Lobbyists for the cellular phone industry have been spreading misinformation on Capitol Hill to boost the image — and the sales — of their trendy product. And the campaign is working.

A compliant House already has passed the Electronic Communication Privacy Act of 1986, which, among other things, would make it a crime to eavesdrop on cellular phone conversations. But even the law's supporters acknowledge that it would be unenforceable.

The simple truth is that cellular phones, by their very nature, cannot assure strict privacy. They use FM radio frequencies that overlap UHF television bands, and thus can be monitored by anyone who tunes into their frequencies.

In fact, an "all-channel" UHF television set can receive cellular phone conversations if it's tuned to channels 80 to 83 and the antenna is adjusted. The length of a conversation that can be heard by a single TV listener depends on the distance between the TV set and the car with the phone.

If the cellular phone caller is stuck in traffic — as the TV commercials depict — and the traffic jam is near your house, you could listen in on an entire conversation that the proud phone owner thought was private.

What, you might ask, is the point in passing legislation that will make criminals out of millions of bored adolescents and stay-at-homes who tire of game shows and soap operas and decide to snoop on an intimate telephonic romance or a highpowered business insider's strategy session?

"There will be the illusion that these (conversations) will be private," explained Benn Kobb, editor of Personal Communications Technology. He added: "They are not. They are being broadcast FM across the city."

Obviously, the lack of privacy is not a feature the cellular phone industry emphasizes. Even the trendiest customer might balk at buying an expensive device that has all the privacy of an office intercom with the switch left on.

Jack Anderson

So industry representatives do their best to convince the public — and Congress — that cellular phones offer privacy, or can be eavesdropped on only with expensive radio equipment.

The major opposition to the communications privacy bill has been provided by a small group of radio hobbyists — the Association of North American Radio Clubs. The group's only lobbyist, Robert Horvitz, said the cellular phone advocates are "misleading the public" and "misleading the Congress."

One congressional aide recalled that eight cellular phone lobbyists began giving him the spiel about privacy, and he told them he had monitored cellular calls just the night before on his 3-year-old TV set. He said they acted as if they didn't believe him.

Our reporter Courtney Brinkerhoff was assured by a saleswoman for AT&T that it is impossible to listen in on a cellular phone conversation. Another saleswoman, informed of the ease with which calls can be overheard, suggested that the phone had been installed improperly.

A Bell Atlantic salesman admitted that it's possible to intercept cellular phone calls, but insisted that "a $10,000 scanner is almost essential."

Justice Department officials said they're not planning to spend extra money on a crackdown if the bill becomes law. If they did, commented Rep. Mike DeWine, R-Ohio, "I think we would all question their sanity."

Why have the law, then? The legislation "will discourage an attitude," said Barbara Phillips, an industry lobbyist.

A congressional aide who favors the legislation shrugged off the unenforceability of the legislation, saying: "There are often bills passed that the Justice Department does not enforce. They use them as a message."

The message here, the aide explained, is that eavesdropping is improper.

It might be easier just to have cellular phone owners send the message — to all their listeners.

WARNING ON WARNING: A study done for Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, arrives at a scary conclusion: For at least the next six years, the Pentagon's main system for warning of an incoming nuclear attack will be relying on obsolete computer parts.

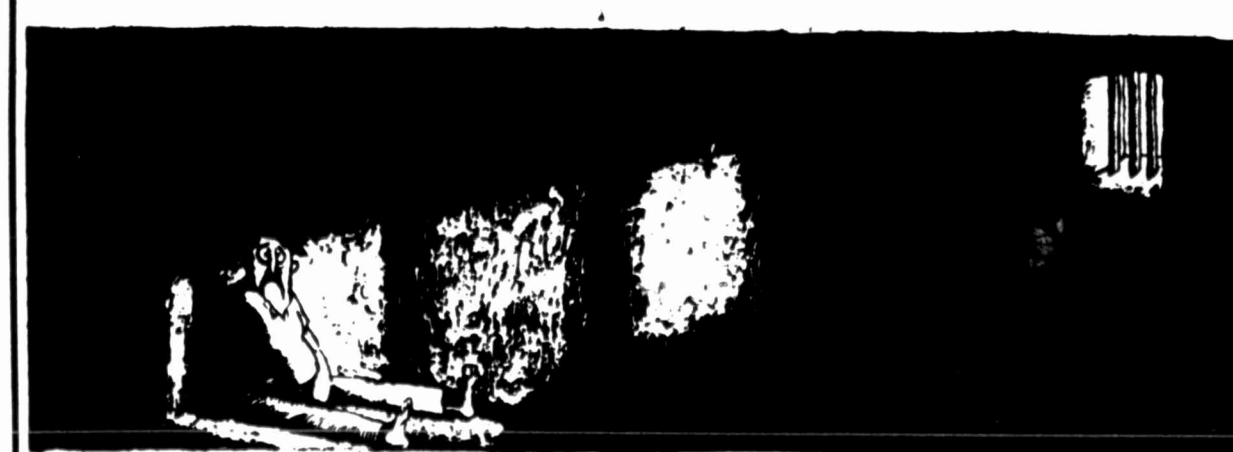

The program to update NORAD (North American Aerospace Defense Command) is far behind schedule — dangerously so in the computer area. These are the computers that will supposedly pick up Soviet missiles and track them in the event of war. The computers won't be fully modernized until 1992 at the earliest.

MINI-EDITORIAL: In Iran, the Moslem fundamentalists execute those who doubt their dogma. In Costa Mesa, Calif., the Christian fundamentalists of Biblical News Service-Christian Voice are less draconian. They merely publish a "Biblical Scoreboard" tabulating congressional votes on "biblical-family-moral" issues (as defined by BNS-CV, of course).

Those who voted to withhold funds from the Library of Congress for a Braille edition of Playboy were deemed to have taken the "pro-biblical" stance. So were those who oppose the Equal Rights Amendment, favor capital punishment and voted to give guns to the Nicaraguan contras.

God save us from Holy Men.

How airlines sliced their own throats

By ART BUCHWALD

I didn't know why the airlines were in so much trouble until I talked to a seat-mate while waiting to take off from La Guardia airport.

He told me he was the former president of East Chop Airlines before it went bankrupt.

"We were a very successful carrier," he said, "and made a very good living, not only serving the large cities, but the smaller ones as well. We had an impeccable safety record and gave our passengers their money back if we were more than two minutes late."

"One couldn't ask for anything more," I said as we moved up to the 39th position on the runway. "Then what happened?"

"The government decided to deregulate the carriers. After that it was every airline for itself. At first, deregulation seemed like a good idea, because it is no secret that the public benefits from competition."

"As soon as we were deregulated, I cut out all flights to the smaller cities so I could use the planes to service the lucrative routes to California and Hawaii," he added.

"That was a smart business decision," I said.

"It seemed that way until all the other airlines did the same thing. TLC Airways, United Cream and the Flying Panthers not only chose identical routes but they also decided to leave at the same time. Even so there might have been enough business for us except that an upstart company called Pizza Airlines announced that it would fly anyone from New York to Honolulu for $9.95."

We were now 31st in line on the runway.

The ex-airline president continued. "As might be expected, Pizza filled up every plane even though it was losing $100 a passenger."

"What did you do to meet the competition?"

"We cut back on maintenance. When we were regulated, we kept our planes in the hangars for seven days for an overhaul. After deregulation, we only let the mechanics work on them for 15 minutes."

"That's enough," I said.

"We might have gotten into the black with the new maintenance schedules, except one of our laid-off whistle-blowers told the Department of Transportation we were cheating. So we were fined $10 million."

"That seems unfair," I said. "Since all you were trying to do was compete in a free market."

"To make matters more difficult, Reagan fired the air controllers causing two- and three-hour delays on the runways, which burned up all our fuel before we could get into the air."

"What was your answer to all that?"

"We chose to undercut Pizza Airlines and sell tickets to Hawaii for $4.50, which could also include a free week at a deluxe hotel and a rental car for eight days."

"A very fair price."

"So fair," he said, "that I had to put East Chop Airlines into bankruptcy."

"Why didn't you sell it to Pizza Airlines?"

"Because they went bankrupt, too. So did TLC, United Cream and Flying Panthers. Thanks to deregulation, everyone has gone bust except for the line we're flying on right now."

"We're number one for takeoff," I said, excitedly.

But then the pilot's voice came over the loudspeaker. He said, "Ladies and gentlemen, I'm getting off the plane because I haven't been paid in a month. You can take this flight and shove it."

My seat-mate said, "I told you deregulation isn't what it's cracked up to be."

Man says 'war' between sexes began with invasion of privacy

DEAR MS. VAN BUREN: You really are a funny little old lady. Both you and "Disillusioned," who lost her cool when her husband "violated her privacy" by looking through her purse, must have conveniently short memories, or else you've never lived in the real world with the rest of us.

From the year one, women have gone through men's pockets and wallets looking for something they hope will give them yet another reason to nag. And in the past two decades, women in general have been on a crusade to invade every aspect of men's privacy, from his pockets to his private club.

You broads go out of the house wearing fake faces and other kinds of fakery, and yet you have the utter gall to talk about "deception." Sometimes a man might get curious as to what's under all the sham. Does she carry it all in her purse? It's big enough!

STANLEY W. HAYNES, BOTHELL, WASH.

DEAR MR. HAYNES: If you are trying to justify a man's looking through his wife's purse — even after she has asked him not to — you'll have to do better than the above. By the way, are you married? If you're a bachelor, please stay that way. And if you have a wife, please give her my condolences.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I have read your column for years, but I cannot believe that I am writing to you. I am a middle-aged wife and mother. I work full time at a job that I like. I am active in church and community work and have many friends.

I am suddenly faced with a situation so bleak that I am overcome with depression. My only child will be leaving for college soon. My favorite aunt is fighting a losing battle with cancer. My mother and husband are both in poor health. My pets are elderly, and I know their days are numbered.

I know there is nothing you can do about any of this, but just unloading my feelings helps. We live in a small town and counseling is not available. The only source of help is prayer, and sometimes my faith grows weak and I become so depressed that even prayer doesn't help.

I am fine all day while I'm at work, but when I go home, depression sets in. How do others handle the loss of their children when they leave home?

Thank you for listening.
DEPRESSED
DEAR DEPRESSED: Every parent who raises a child must face the day when that child leaves home. Letting go is never easy, but it's essential to every child's emotional growth and ultimate independence.

During our lifetime, we all lose beloved family members, and pets, as well, but death is a natural part of everyone's life. While prayer can be comforting, your depression may be due to a chemical or hormonal imbalance. I urge you to see your family physician immediately. You need to be examined physically. There are many antidepressants available that could be enormously helpful. Don't delay. Good luck.

Elbow Club elects new officers

The Elbow Community Club elected new officers at its first meeting on Sept. 23.

Officers for 1986-'87 are: Bill Lewis, president; Mrs. Jimmy Hopper, vice president; Mrs. Joel Lane, secretary; and Mrs. Dennis Bristow, treasurer.

The annual Fall Festival will be Nov. 1. Mr. and Mrs. David Roman will lead the committee. The public is invited.

The club will sponsor basketball for the fourth, fifth and sixth grade students. David Roman will lead the committee. Parents from 4th, 5th and 6th grades are asked to volunteer their time. Howard College students will be hired to referee the game.

Mrs. Mark Hedges will head the committee to sell the Forsan Buffalo tee-shirts. Anyone interested may call Elbow School office, 268-6444.

A $30 donation will be given to each teacher at Forsan and Elbow School to help purchase prizes and incentives for their students.

Next meeting will be announced. The meetings are open to all parents and teachers of Forsan and Elbow Schools.

Salt restriction and exercise can help to combat water retention

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please send me information about water retention. I take water pills, but would like to be able to eliminate them and keep water off naturally. I know cutting salt helps, but I try that and still retain water. I am 54 years old, a female, and have had this problem since I was 30. Thanks. — L.A.M.

I don't know why you retain water; there are many reasons exist for it. I think it's time for you to find out. Let me tell you why this might happen with an otherwise healthy person.

Some people, especially women, healthy in all other respects, retain as much as one to four pounds of water in a single day. If you can document such a weight gain over a normal 24-hour period, you may have what is called idiopathic cyclic edema. Idiopathic means no one knows why it happens. Cyclic means it comes and goes, and edema, of course, refers to the retention and swelling.

If this is what you have, it would be nice to know, for there are ways to combat it. Your salt restriction can help. And exercise on a regular basis helps, too. Resting during the day — lying down with feet elevated above heart level — is another way to get rid of the excess fluid. An upright position retards water excretion.

Your water pills, if your doctor says they're OK, may help hasten water elimination. For this specific problem (idiopathic cyclic edema) the pills are most effective when taken early in the evening. If you lie down for the remainder of the evening, the diuretic effect of the pills is enhanced.

I do want to stress for you and for other readers that I am referring here to the retention problem in an otherwise healthy person. A kidney disease can be behind a continuing water retention problem. That would not be "idiopathic," by definition. The first thing I want you to do is see if some illness is causing you to hang on to the fluid in your body.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I don't plan on having it done, but I am fascinated by the idea of actually suctioning fat from the body. Can you explain just how it's done? How much is taken at a time? A pound, two pounds? I assume one would have to be hospitalized, right? What about complications? — Mrs. J.L.

Suction lipectomy is the procedure. It has been done for six years since being introduced in Europe.

This is a straightforward suctioning of fat tissue from beneath the skin in selected areas, the most popular being the thighs. Many women develop undesired fat deposits on the outside of their thighs.

To do it the surgeon attaches a (tube) to a suction pump. He inserts the tube into the fat tissue and withdraws cells.

How much is taken? As much as a pound or two has been removed in selected areas, all depending, of course, on the patient and the specific area.

The chief possible complications are infection or disturbance of skin blood supply. I can't give you any statistics, but risks are enough to prompt caution. This procedure is not for everyone and it is not for general weight loss. It is to correct fat deposition problems in specific areas.

Hospitalization is recommended, although some physicians have done this as an office procedure. A potential undesired cosmetic side effect is excess skin in the operated area.

Would suction lipectomy have affected the prosecution's brief in Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice"? It would seem to have answered the defense objections to the taking of a "pound of flesh."

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Texans relive Mayberry days

By CHARLOTTE HELDENBRAND
Longview Morning Journal

LONGVIEW (AP) — "Nip it in the bud" or "Pipe Down, Otis" might not mean anything to some people, but "The Andy Griffith Show" fans would understand and possibly respond with "Where's my bullet?" or "Check your oil, Andy?"

Ronnie Morrison, Van Craddock, Spike Buie and Harry Perkins understand the language. They are members of the local chapter of the worldwide The Andy Griffith Show Rerun Watchers' Club.

Morrison works for Texas Eastman and is president of the city council. Yet he still manages to find time for TAGSRWC. He and Craddock established the Mayberry Union High chapter of the club in Longview.

The purpose of the organization is as clear and clean as Aunt Bee's living room windows, according to Morrison. "We help promote the showing of 'The Andy Griffith Show.' As far as making any contributions to society — we don't. It's really just a kind of fun thing," he said.

"I saw a story about the fan club in The Dallas Morning News. I wrote him and Van wrote a column about it," Morrison explained. "We then got a charter. We're named after the fictional high school that Andy and Barney attended."

He has 25 tapes of the shows. "I watch it every time it comes on. It's on Channel 6 at 3:30 and WGN. They're on during the day, so I set the timer and tape the show," he said.

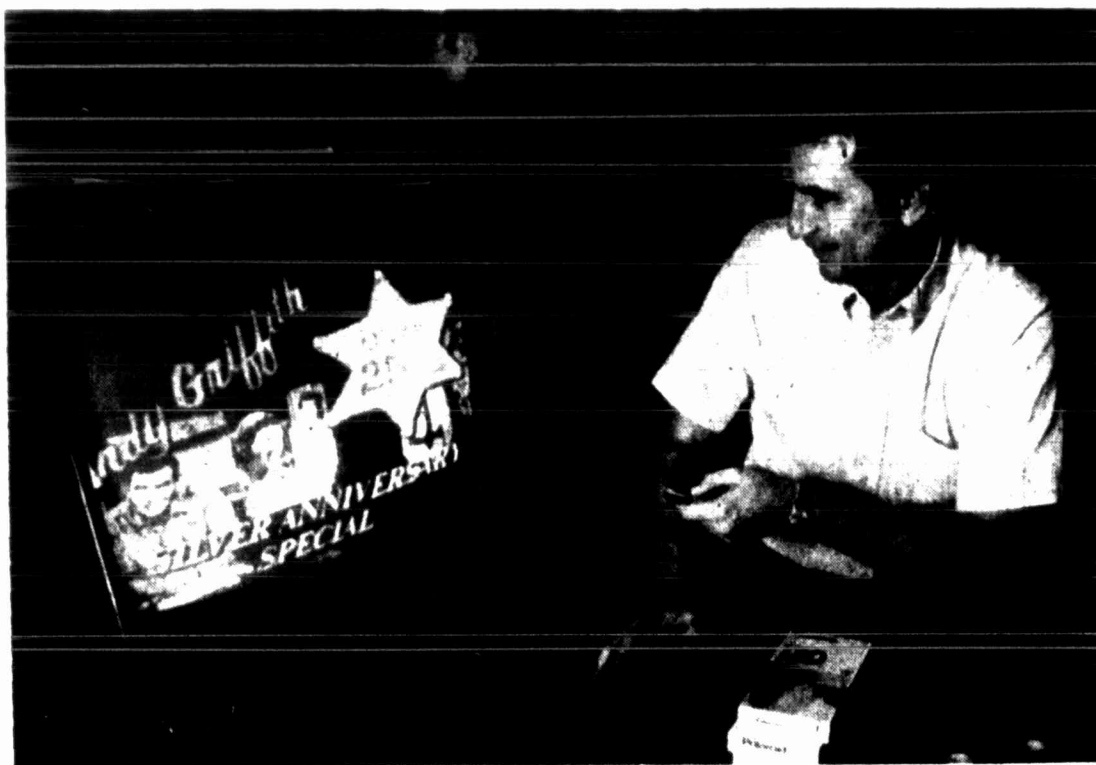

He wants to eventually have all the shows on tape. His goal is not taken seriously in the Morrison household, however. "My family gives me a hard time with where I'm going to store my Andy Griffith tapes," he said.

There are 249 episodes of "The Andy Griffith Show," according to Jim Clark, originator of TAGSRWC in the club headquarters of Nashville, Tenn., and co-author with Ken Beck of "The Andy Griffith Show Book." The first 159 were black and white. The last 90 were color. The show was on the air for eight years, from Oct. 3, 1960 to Sept. 16, 1968, he said.

"New generations of viewers are growing up with 'The Andy Griffith Show' and finding the same believability, humor, and warmth that show conveyed years ago," Clark commented.

"As viewers, we can feel the warmth of the characters, their humor, and their sadness. We sense that the characters really like each other, and that makes us want to visit Mayberry whenever we can," Clark added.

Morrison agrees. "It's good clean entertainment. My kids (14 and 10) have gotten to be fans. They watch it with me. My wife will watch it every once in a while." The show takes him back to his youth, he said.

Ronnie Morrison of Longview looks over one of his Andy Griffith tapes at home recently. Morrison is a member of the local chapter of the worldwide The Andy Griffith Show Rerun Watchers' Club.

"I enjoy it because it reminds me of growing up and going to high school. It's simple entertaining comedy. It kind of allows you to sit there for 25 to 30 minutes, go back in time and not be concerned about the terrorist of the day," Morrison continued.

"I enjoy the characterizations of Don Knotts and Andy Griffith in the show. When the show was first started, Andy Griffith said he was supposed to be the comedian. He became the straight man. Don Knotts was terrific as the comedian," he said.

The national fan club conducted a poll and found the membership's favorite episode was the show featuring Barney adding a motorcycle to the Mayberry police force, he said.

"Most of the top 20 had Don Knotts in them, so that kind of tells you his contribution to it," Morrison said. Don Knotts left the show after 5 years, but returned in five episodes, according to Clark.

"Van and I liked the episode where Andy and Barney go to a high school class reunion. They go through their annual and start talking about these people. They decide to get them reunited. One of Andy's sweethearts shows up and their romance is kind of rekindled," said Morrison.

"Then they realize the reason they grew apart is she is a city girl with a career. They see that he is, by golly, a small town boy who only wants to tend his flock." After all the guests have left the reunion, Andy and Barney sing the alma mater and "we got to thinking that that would be a good name for our club," Morrison said.

But the Longview chapter could not have formed without the inspiration of Clark.

"I'm convinced that the actions of Jim Clark and this club is what got NBC interested in the reunion show," Morrison commented. "It was the driving force of the movie and its success. They're supposedly making a second one."

The club's popularity is sobering enough that it might even make Otis seem coherent. The organization, which began in 1979, has over 12,000 members around the country and the world, according to Clark.

Club members' main goal is to keep the show running. "Our purpose is to keep it on the air and keep people entertained. As far as an organized club effort, we haven't done much. In fact, we haven't done anything," Morrison said.

He has written letters to stations asking them to air the show and to sponsors thanking them for sponsoring the show, he said.

Sports plant raid Nets 244 illegals

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Federal authorities have arrested 244 people at a Fort Worth sporting goods manufacturing plant. It was the largest number of illegal aliens ever apprehended in a single raid in the North Texas area.

William Noland, deputy district director of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization office in Dallas, said that only about 30 employees remained in the Nash Manufacturing Co. plant when authorities completed the raid Monday.

The plant manufactures water skis, roller skates, skateboards and other sporting goods.

Noland said those arrested, including 58 women, appeared to be Mexican nationals and said they were paid the minimum wage.

Barton Napier, vice president of Nash Manufacturing, said he believed some of those arrested did not work at the plant, but were looking for work at the time of the raid.

"We have numerous people in this area that are always around looking for work," he said. "We could have easily 100 people standing around looking for work on the streets in this vicinity."

The company official said he did not suspect that his employees were illegal aliens and declined to say how many people the company employs.

"Any time you lose a good employee, it's certainly going to set you back a bit," Napier said. "We certainly intend to work with the immigrations people in terms of improving the situation."

Women found hacked to death

LANCASTER (AP) — Two transients used a hatchet and a steak knife to hack a woman, her blind aunt and another woman to death after being allowed to stay in her secluded frame home, police believe.

The three women — one of whom was found Monday sprawled in the grass outside the home in this Dallas suburb — had been dead for at least 24 hours after what Police Chief John Whitehead called a "crime of passion or rage."

"It's a brutal murder, as brutal a murder as has occurred anywhere," he said, adding that police are searching for two transients mentioned in one of the last entries in Donna Jester's diary.

Ms. Jester, 37, who lived in the neighborhood 15 years, had a history of generosity toward stray animals and stray people.

Neighbors said she sometimes took transients into the tree-shaded home she shared with her 64-year-old invalid aunt, whom police did not identify.

The third slaying victim, a 20-year-old woman known so far only as "Laura," was a hitchhiker Ms. Jester had befriended earlier in the summer, the diary indicates.

Oil bill to be Reagan meet topic

OKLAHOMA CITY — Republican Sens. Don Nickles of Oklahoma and Phil Gramm of Texas were scheduled to meet with President Reagan this afternoon at the White House to discuss an oil revitalization bill sponsored by the two senators, a spokesman for Nickles said Monday.

Nickles spokesman Paul Lee said three Oklahoma oil producers also would attend the meeting.

The meeting was scheduled for 3 p.m.

Nickles said he would ask the president for his support of the Nickles-Gramm Oil Revitalization Bill.

He and Gramm are expected to try to get the bill passed by the Senate before Congress adjourns, now scheduled for Friday, Lee said.

Among other things, the bill would repeal the Fuel Use Act and the windfall profits tax, and makes some regulatory reforms to aid the oil and gas industry.

Three masked men rob Waco bank

WACO (AP) — Police in Central Texas were searching for three masked men who robbed a Waco bank of a "significant amount" of money.

The men robbed the MBank Financial Center Monday morning. There were no customers in the bank and no one was injured, officers said.

Police were searching for three black men who were armed with wooden-handle revolvers.

Bank employees described the men as clean-shaven and in their late 20s or early 30s, police said. One robber was wearing a stocking cap and the other two wore red bandanas over their faces, police said.

Police and bank officials were attempting Monday night to determine the amount of currency taken and details of the robbery.

The bank has a security camera system that may have caught the robbers on film, Hulse said. He said he had not reviewed the film Monday night.

Inmate caught after hole escape

CONROE (AP) — A capital murder suspect who greased his body with oil and slithered out of jail through a hole six inches wide is in custody today after being recaptured.

Jesse DeWayne Jacobs, 36, eluded Montgomery County authorities for 18 hours before dogs tracked him to a patio at a house just south of Conroe Monday afternoon, said Bob Morrison, spokesman for the sheriff's office.

"If they had not had the dogs, they might not have found him," Morrison said.

Jacobs, still wearing his jail clothes, offered no resistance and was not armed. He told authorities he knew he was caught when he heard the dogs that were borrowed from the Texas Department of Corrections.

Crossroads Chalk Talk

Crossroads County teams finished the weekend with a 4-5 record, including a win and a loss from Borden County's surprising win over Klondike.

In addition to Borden County, Sands won, as did Forsan and Stanton. Forsan and Stanton both sport perfect 4-0 marks as 1986 approaches midseason.

Coahoma, Colorado City, Garden City and Grady lost. All four teams have yet to garner a win.

Here is what area coaches had to say about last Friday's games and their upcoming opponents.

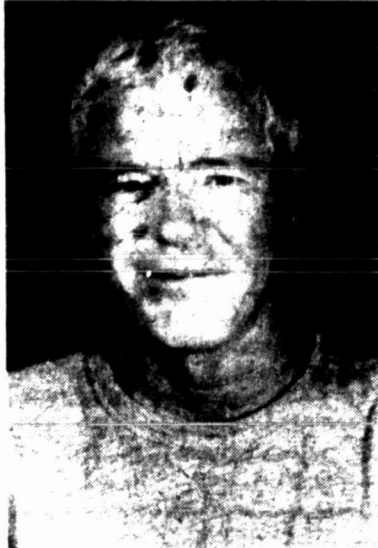

Jan East, Forsan, on the Buffaloes 21-14 win over Greenwood.

"We were able to get some turnovers and convert them to touchdowns, so we had a real good first half. We didn't do a real good job defensively in the second half, but it's hard to play with the same intensity with a 24-point lead.

"We've been trying to throw the ball, and they were giving us the pass, so we just took it. We're going to start throwing more. We've got kids who can catch the ball.

"(Before the season) I would have taken a 3-2 pre-district record, but now we want 5-0. These kids are coming on."

Tom Ramsey, Colorado City, on the Wolves 35-6 loss to Ballinger.

JAN EAST

TOM RAMSEY

"The first downs were about the same, about 13 each, but the ballgame was played on our end of the field instead of their end. When we got the ball, we were looking at 80 yards; when they got the ball, they were looking at 20. They never had to crank up a drive.

"And there were the turnovers — four interceptions and four lost fumbles. It poured down raining before the game and made that ball slippery. They fumbled four times too, but they got on theirs and ours too. But they had a good football team, no doubt about that."

"Coahoma and Colorado City (this week's game) are always big on throwing out records and rolling up their sleeves and getting after it."

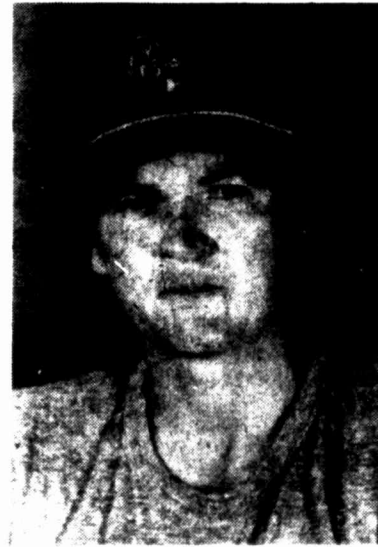

Dale Ruth, Stanton, on his teams 14-12 win at Plains.
"We had a real tough time getting out of there. It was their homecoming and they were ready for us — they were really getting after us.

"I feel like we played well enough to win. We scored twice in the second quarter and that kept us in it. In the fourth quarter though, we couldn't make the big plays and that held us back."

"They had an excellent defense, but we were able to throw on 'em for 103 yards, which is pretty good for us."

Coahoma Assistant Coach Kim Nichols, who is filling in for an out of town Billy Kidd, on Coahoma's 28-6 loss to Abilene Wylie.

"We moved the ball well at times, but it was the same old story — stopping ourselves with penalties. It's something mental we just have to work on. And they did a good job of double-covering Jimmy King.

TONY STRICKLIN

JOHN BLAIR

"We felt like it was as good a defensive ballgame as we've played all year even though they scored 28 points. We just had a couple of breakdowns. Long passes set up a couple of scores and an 80-yard run in the third quarter kind've busted things open.

"The kids attitudes are good, and they're working hard. We just have to keep plugging."

(About next week's game against Colorado City) "Lots of our players know their players and our coaches know their coaches. They're better than 0-3-1, but we feel like we're better than 0-4 too."

Borden County Coach Joe Bond, on the Coyotes 57-32 win against Klondike.

"I really expected a tougher time. We had scouted them a couple of times and I had seen them a week before and I thought they had a good little ballclub.

"We were very excited and ready to play. Of course, we had a week off, and were anxious to get back in action.

"The boys are excited about playing them again (Sands, which beat the Coyotes 40-26 earlier in the year). They remember what happened with four seconds left (Sands surprised Borden County with a score at the end of the game). I'll be reminding them of that quite often this week."

Garden City coach Tony Stricklin, on his teams 27-6 loss to Robert Lee.

"On the first possession, we took it down to the 29, and were getting after it, but we threw an interception and it was downhill from there. We just can't find a way to get more points on the scoreboard.

"We took the second half kickoff and moved the ball to the four and fumbled and held them on downs. We got the ball back and scored, but let them run the kickoff back and that was too many points to overcome.

"It's disappointing to be 0-4, and we're looking at three killers in a row — probably the best three teams in the district. We try to keep their heads up and stay after it. We have people who are doing a good job. But we don't have any game-breakers, and that hurts."

Grady coach Mike Mathis on his teams 70-25 loss to Loop.

"I thought we played fairly good. Our offense played better, but on

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Thanks, in part, to the problems of a struggling opponent, the Dallas Cowboys remain close to the pace they'd like to maintain.

"I think we're on the verge of exploding offensively," quarterback Danny White said after exploiting the St. Louis Cardinals' defense with three touchdown passes in a 31-7 triumph Monday night.

MISSED FIELD GOALS—Dallas, Septien 42, St. Louis, Lee 42.

"We haven't come close to fulfilling our potential. It was a closer game than it seems," White said. "Our defense made some big plays. So far, we have done the things it takes to win."

The Cowboys, who led 10-0 at halftime, saw their lead cut to three points when St. Louis took the second-half kickoff and drove for its only touchdown. They responded by burying the Cardinals.

Gordon Banks' 56-yard kickoff return gave the Cowboys good field position at the St. Louis 42. White followed with a touchdown pass of 13 yards to Tony Hill and found Herschel Walker with an 8-yard scoring pass 8½ minutes later that broke the Cardinals' backs. Next to Banks' electrifying kickoff return, the play that hurt the Cardinals the most occurred just before halftime.

St. Louis Cardinals' running back Otis Anderson (32) puts his hand down after being tripped up in the third quarter of Monday night's game against the Dallas Cowboys. Cardinals' Joe Bostic (71) tries to keep Dallas' Ed Jones (72) away from Anderson.

St. Louis quarterback Neil Lomax scooped a shovel pass to Earl Ferrell on third-and-6 from the Cowboys' 8. Ferrell lateraled back, and Lomax' pass was picked off in the end zone by Dallas rookie Johnny Holloway.

Nonetheless, St. Louis breathed fire and brimstone briefly after Dallas' kickoff 20 yards to open the third quarter.

A roughing penalty against the Cowboys helped launch a 76-yard touchdown march requiring seven plays. Ferrell ripped off a 21-yard gain to the Cowboys' 46, and Lomax found J.T. Smith for 17 yards to set up Anderson's 10-yard scoring jaunt up the middle.

Smith, a former Big Spring native, caught four passes for 42 yards. But White, who connected on 16 of 29 passes for 223 yards, with two interceptions, went to work following Banks' return and found Hill on the fourth play of a sweep to make it 17-7.

Dallas' back-breaking scoring drive, which climaxed with 11:15 left, was even easier, as White found Walker open in the left corner to cap a 39-yard advance.

The Cowboys' rout became complete when cornerback Ron Fellows intercepted a Lomax pass and sped 34 yards down the right sideline to the end zone with 2:15 left.

"We had much better field position due to our defensive play. St. Louis has a much better defense than the score indicated," White said sympathetically.

Stallings said he could not disagree, citing woes with an offense hamstrung in large part by the absence of wide receivers Roy Green and Pat Tilley, who are on injured reserve. The Cardinals used two receivers who just joined the team last week, and Lomax said that affected the Cardinals offense.

Keying Dallas' attack with White, who has 10 touchdown passes for the year, was the versatile Walker, making his first NFL start as a fill-in role for injured Tony Dorsett.

Stallings graciously called the Cowboys 3-1, "the best football team we've played so far" despite the Cowboys' modest bulge of only 287-225 in total yards.

"We had a hard time in the first half. St. Louis kept the pressure on us," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry, whose NFL sideline success was his 256th to tie him with Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins.

"In the third quarter, our offense started to jell," Landry said. "After they scored in the third (quarter) and then we came right back and scored, it kind of shifted the momentum our way."

Miami takes over number one spot

AP Football Writer
The Miami Hurricanes blew past Oklahoma 28-16 Saturday and roared into first place today in the Associated Press college football poll while No. 19 Fresno State made the Top Twenty for the first time in 44 years.

Oklahoma's defending national champions slipped from first place to sixth as Alabama moved up from third place to the runnerup spot.

Miami, which had been No. 2 behind Oklahoma for the past three weeks, received 56 of 58 first-place votes and 1,156 of a possible 1,160 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

"It's obviously early in the season and there's a lot of football left to be played," said Miami Coach Jimmy Johnson, who took exception Monday to postgame comments by Oklahoma's Barry Switzer that the Hurricanes "shouldn't stub their toe the rest of the way with the schedule they have."

Miami's remaining seven regular-season opponents are Northern Illinois (0-5), West Virginia (2-2), Cincinnati (2-2), Florida State (1-2-1), Pitt (2-1-1), Tulsa (3-2) and East Carolina (0-4). Only Florida State has been in the Top Twenty this year.

"It's ironic that statements have been made about the rest of our schedule," Johnson said.

Longhorn back in the raw

AUSTIN (AP) — University of Texas running back Edwin Simmons was booted off the team indefinitely after police arrested him standing nude in someone's back yard.

Police said at the time of Simmons' arrest Saturday, in which he was not charged, he told officers he didn't know who he was or where he was. He said he had been smoking marijuana, according to a police report.

UT coach Fred Akers said Monday he was suspending Simmons from the team for disciplinary reasons, but he declined to elaborate.

Akers didn't specify the length of the suspension, saying the running back would play when he wanted him to.

Simmons, a 21-year-old senior

"Before we beat Florida and Oklahoma, everybody talked about how tough the West Virginia and Pitt games would be on the road and Florida State at home. Now they're thinking we're some kind of super team and we've only played four games."

"I look at Miami of Ohio beating LSU and I know that in this game you'd better be ready to play every week. I know how good West Virginia, Pitt and Florida State can be. Florida State lost to Michigan by two points in Ann Arbor so I know how tough that game will be."

"It's a lot tougher schedule than people think. West Virginia bothers me, Florida State plays really well here (the Seminoles are 11-2 in Miami since 1962) and I don't care to be playing Pitt in the cold weather."

Alabama, which was idle but has a 4-0 record like Miami, received one first-place vote and 1,058 points. Nebraska, a 48-14 winner over Oregon, jumped from fourth place to third with 1,020 points.

Michigan rose from fifth place to fourth with 953 points after defeating Florida State 20-18 and bumping the Seminoles out of the Top Twenty for the first time in three years. Maryland also fell out while North Carolina State, which defeated the Terrapins 28-16 and is a surprising 3-0-1 under first-year Coach Dick Sheridan, made it for the first time since Oct.

15, 1979. Penn State received the other first-place ballot and vaulted from seventh place to fifth with 908 points by trouncing East Carolina 42-17. Oklahoma is sixth with 891 points and Washington, which had been No. 6, dropped to 12th after losing to Southern California 20-10.

Auburn avenged last year's loss to Tennessee by whipping the Volunteers 34-8 and climbing from eighth place to seventh with 819 points. Arkansas, a 42-11 victor over New Mexico State, rose from ninth to eighth with 716 points and Southern Cal went from 12th to ninth with 707 points.

Arizona rounded out the Top Ten. The Wildcats, who also were 10th a week ago, edged Colorado 24-21 and received 629 points.

The Second Ten consists of Iowa, Washington, Baylor, Texas A&M, UCLA, Arizona State, Michigan State, LSU, Fresno State and North Carolina State.

Last week, it was Arizona State, Southern Cal, Maryland, Texas A&M, Iowa, UCLA, Baylor, LSU, Michigan State and Florida State.

Fresno State, which failed to make last year's Top Twenty despite an 11-0-1 record, boosted its 1986 slate to 3-0 by defeating Louisiana Tech 34-10. The Bulldogs' only other appearance in the AP Top Twenty was Nov. 2, 1942, when they were No. 18 with a 7-0 record.

The Big Spring Lady Steers will be in district volleyball action tonight at 8 against the Sweetwater Mustangs at Steer Gym. The Lady Steers are 2-5 in district play and 6-11 overall. They are coming off a 13-15, 10-15 loss to Andrews Saturday. Freshmen action begins at 5 p.m., followed by junior varsity play at 6:30 p.m.

Runnels B drops Pecos

PECOS — The Runnels B team ran its record to 2-1 with a 24-0 victory over Pecos in football action this past weekend.

Joe Miramantez scored on runs of 55 and 33 yards to pace the victory. Greg Green scored on a 47 yard reverse and Roy Gomez scored on a 38 yard pass from Shane Myrick.

The Runnels A team fell to 0-3 with a 18-16 loss to Pecos. Pecos scored two TD's in the last 1:14 of the contest to capture the win. Neal Mayfield led Runnels with 216 yards rushing and both TD's.

Goliad record spotless

MONAHANS — The Goliad A and B teams won one and tied one in football action against Monahans last Thursday.

The A team ran its record to 3-0 by taking a 28-0 win. Coach E.C. Robertson credited Travis Sincclair, Kevin Rogers, Gerald Cobos, Pat Chavarria and Ralph Labrew with having good games.

The B team ran its record to 2-0-1 with a 0-0 tie.

Blyleven dishes up record 49th gopher

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Bert Blyleven has never enjoyed pitching in the Minneapolis Metrodome... and now he has even more reason to dislike it.

"I don't like this ballpark; I'm a fastball pitcher and the ball carries here," the Minnesota right-hander said after Monday night's 6-5 victory over Cleveland, in which he established a major league record for home runs allowed in a season.

Blyleven served up three gopher balls to bring his season's total to 49, three more than the mark set by Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies in 1956.

Blyleven said: "Bell hit a fastball. It wasn't a bad pitch — it just carried."

Blyleven also gave up a homer to Joe Carter in the fourth and one to Brett Butler in the eighth. Butler's homer gave the Indians a 5-4 lead over Blyleven, 16-14, going into the bottom of the inning.

Then Minnesota rallied to pull it out. Kirby Puckett singled and took third on Gary Gaetti's single. Doug Jones relieved Greg Swindell, 4-2, who had won four straight after a 24-5 loss to Boston, and allowed the tying run to score on Tom Brunansky's sacrifice fly.

Gaetti tagged and went to second and, one out later, pinch-hitter Randy Bush singled to score Gaetti with the winning run.

Yankees 8, Blue Jays 1
Dennis Rasmussen pitched a six-hitter and Ron Kittle hit his 21st home run of the year, leading New York over Toronto. The Yankees moved into second place in the American League East, a half-game ahead of Toronto.

Don Mattingly, who is battling Boston's Wade Boggs for the AL batting crown, went 0-for-3 with a sacrifice fly and an intentional walk, dropping his average to .349.

Dave Winfield's two-run single highlighted a five-run seventh, giving Winfield 101 runs batted in this year. Winfield became the first Yankee to drive in 100 or more runs for five consecutive years since Joe DiMaggio did it seven straight times from 1936 to 1942.

Texas Rangers rookie right fielder Pete Incaviglia leans back away from an inside pitch Monday during American League play against the Oakland A's in Arlington. Incaviglia's first inning home run scored the game-winning RBI and put him in the team lead in home runs this season.

Red Sox 7, Orioles 5
Wade Boggs drove in three runs with a double and a single and raised his American League-leading batting average to .353 as Boston defeated Baltimore.

Boston, which clinched the AL East title Sunday, scored the game's first three runs in the second inning and never trailed despite several Baltimore comebacks.

Boggs, who started the game batting .352, went 2-for-4, to take a four-point lead over Mattingly in the AL batting race.

Rangers 3, A's 0
Edwin Correa and Jeff Russell combined on a four-hitter and Pete Incaviglia hit a two-run homer in the first inning, his 29th, as Texas beat Oakland.

Correa, 12-13, went six innings and allowed one hit, a two-out single by Rusty Tillman in the second. The rookie right-hander ran his consecutive scoreless inning streak to 23 2-3 before leaving the game complaining of stiffness above the right elbow.

Russell came on at the start of the seventh and earned his second save.

Correa walked three and struck out eight. He also uncorked a wild pitch, giving the Ranger staff 91 for the season, a major league record. The Houston Astros set the old record of 90 in 1970.

Royals 2, Angels 1
George Brett doubled home the winning run and Mark Gubicza scattered eight hits through 6 2-3 innings to lift Kansas City over California.

Mavrick's rookies to battle

DALLAS (AP) — Seven Dallas Mavericks draft choices and free agents go head-to-head in their competition to become the 12th man as the NBA team's training camp gets under way today.

Barring a trade, 10 Mavericks veterans and rookie first-round pick Roy Tarpley, who has not agreed to contract terms and won't be in camp today, are assured of jobs.

That leaves one opening, and coach Dick Motta says he is going into training camp with an open mind.

"We have some flexibility with our 12th spot," Motta said. "The last couple of years, we've kept someone, more or less, for practice... Our basic need for the future is to groom a point guard to take Brad's (Davis) place whenever he retires."

The leading guard candidates for the 12th man are second-round pick Milt Wagner (6-foot-5, 180 pounds) of Louisville and fourth-round choice Myron Jackson (6-3, 175).

Mavericks rookies and free agents went through physicals and their first team meeting Monday. Rookie camp, which is closed to the public, begins today at Southern Methodist University's Moody Coliseum. Veterans report Friday.

Dallas, which finished third in the Midwest Division, made two lineup changes last season. James Donaldson, acquired from the Los Angeles Clippers, became the starting center, and Derek Harper became the starting point guard.

"One of our biggest drawbacks last year was that we had too many small forwards," Motta said. "A lot of times, I was forced to make substitutions when I really didn't want to, just to give players minutes. I hope that problem has been alleviated."

Rookie brothers duel in Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Maddux brothers put the City of Brotherly Love to a severe test.

Greg Maddux, a 20-year-old right-hander, defeated 25-year-old brother Mike in a battle of sibling rookies Monday night as he pitched the Chicago Cubs to an 8-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

It was believed to have been the first time brothers have faced each other as rookie pitchers. The last time brothers faced each other at all was on Sept. 13, 1982, when Houston's Joe Niekro beat older brother Phil Niekro, 5-4.

"I really didn't think about it during the day," Greg said of the historic meeting. "I made believe it was just another game. I just wanted to win because I've lost three straight starts."

Greg allowed 10 hits in 7 2-3 innings, struck out seven and did not issue a walk. Brother Mike left with no one out in the fourth inning after giving up three runs on six hits, walking one and striking out one.

"I really felt for him," Greg said. "I know the feeling. But I'm sure he'll bounce back."

Batting against his brother in the third inning, Greg laid down a sacrifice bunt. "That was fun," he said. "I really wanted to get a hit."

In the bottom of the third, Greg got Mike on a fly ball to right field.

"I really wanted to strike him out," Greg said. "He broke his bat on a changeup."

Mike Maddux was upset about losing, but even more upset about leaving the game in the fourth.

"A couple of good pitches got hit, but nothing real hard," Mike said. "They just found the holes."

Speaking of his brother, Mike said, "He's my brother, I want him to do well. He threw a good game and deserved to win."

Mike thought there was too much buildup about the brothers facing each other. "Things were blown out of proportion," he said. "It was the Cubs against the Phillies. It'll happen again, and next time I'll get him."

The Maddux brothers planned to meet after the game.

"He's waiting for me," said Greg Maddux. "We're going to dinner. It should be interesting."

Dodgers 10, Padres 6
Orel Hershiser scattered eight hits for his first shutout in more than a year, helping lift the Dodgers out of a last-place tie with the Padres in the NL West. Pedro Guerrero, Jose Gonzalez and Mike Scioscia hit home runs.

Guerrero's homer was his third in three days, although only his fifth of an injury-shortened season. Hershiser had not pitched a shutout since Sept. 3, 1985.

Bears regain '85 form with Bengal win

Early trends indicate Redskins, Broncos will be tough; Dolphins won't

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

A warning to those other NFL teams with championship ambitions: with the first quarter of the 1986 season gone, this year's version of the Chicago Bears isn't much different than last year's.

It's not so much that the Bears have finished the first quarter unbeaten and have a soft schedule that makes 14-2, 15-1 or even 16-0 a distinct possibility. It's that they went from 3-0 to 4-0 in the same manner they won last year — faced with a threat to their dominance, they crushed the challenger.

Sunday's score in question was Bears 44, Bengals 7, in a game that was supposed to be Chicago's toughest after undistinguished efforts against Cleveland, Philadelphia and Green Bay. In fact, at least half the nation's all-knowing pundits picked the Bears to lose.

Instead, the result was the same as last year when Chicago would stumble against Tampa Bay and Indianapolis, then go out and beat the good teams by 44-0 (Dallas), 45-10 (Washington) or a combined 91-10 (Giants, Rams and Patriots in the playoffs).

"That's the world championship team we saw out there," said Cincinnati Coach Sam Wyche, whose team was done in by a couple of factors — the return of Jim McMahon, who threw for three touchdowns and renewed intensity that might have been a reaction to those people who picked the Bengals.

defense we had some opportunities to hit some people and we didn't, and that let us down a bit. But we moved the ball better.

"We can throw and catch. We're just young, and sometimes they get too excited and don't think. But they've improved.

"We came away unscratched, and that's one of our main objectives — to get no one seriously hurt. In the future, we hope we can return some favors."

Sands coach John Blair, who returned to coach his team after missing the previous week's game because of kidney stones. Sands beat Dawson 40-12.

"Their kids did a tremendous job in the first half. We were only leading 12-0 at halftime. Sam Adams (Dawson coach) — he's about as good as there is, and he had us pegged. But in the second half we changed our offense and got it rolling.

"We're playing Borden County next week. They're going to be real tough. They sure did a job on Klondike."

Tom Ham, Klondike, on the Cougars 57-32 loss to Borden County.
"We didn't play well, but we don't want to make excuses, because Borden County just beat us.

"We didn't get fired up for the ballgame. We came out just flat, and Borden County was higher than a kite and ready to play."

A police report from officer Guillermo Cano says Simmons was arrested at 4:40 a.m. Saturday behind a house after police responded to two prowler calls.

Cano said Simmons was arrested on suspicion of burglary after police found a window screen pulled off the house, but he was released eight hours later without being charged.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, OCT. 1, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early morning drowsiness can soon give way to a real chance to delve into whatever course of action you are interested in that requires considerable perfection.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Put any new ideas to work that will help you to become more efficient in routine work.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You wish to look more up-to-date and should see your barber or beautician and stylist. Use wisdom.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study how to improve your home so that everything becomes more ideal and functional there.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You get a fine idea how best to improve outside routine work that brings regular income.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A good day to study your status where practical affairs are concerned. Check to insure bills are paid.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan how to improve your personal life and physical well-being and become more successful and peaceful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good middle of the week day to handle matters you have delayed; soon they are behind you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Good day to contact those persons you have not seen in a long time and strengthen the relationships.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An early start in the outside world can gain you the business and personal favors you need.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to further study into a new plan of action before you can make it work successfully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be more concerned with the business side of life and forget about being so gregarious for a while.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Sit down to long conversations with associates and cement better relations. Rid yourself of friction.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have every ability to study any problem or situation well and then handle it very wisely. This one would do well in architectural, electronic or artistic work. Give a fine education and add psychology to this which will teach how to deal with people successfully.

Jets kicker on a roll; has kicked 19 straight

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Baseball batters, golfers and tennis players call it "the zone." It's that Utopian place an athlete's mind sometimes journeys into where nothing can go wrong. Concentration, rhythm and confidence are perfect; so are the results.

Pat Leahy is in "the zone." "This is the best streak of my career, certainly the longest," says Leahy, who kicked four fields goals Sunday in leading the New York Jets past Indianapolis 26-7. The 35-year-old placekicker, now in his 13th season in the National Football League, has made his last 19 field goal attempts.

It is the third-longest such streak in history. Washington's Mark Moseley hit 23 in a row over parts of the 1981 and 1982 seasons and Miami's Garo Yepremian hit 20 twice, with Miami in 1978 and New Orleans the next season. Leahy hasn't missed since the 10th game of the 1985 season, when he botched three kicks against Miami.

"I'm really kicking the ball well right now," he says. "I think I've always been a good kicker, but that doesn't mean you'll always get the results." Leahy's certainly been getting them during the streak. The longest kick of his career came last December when Leahy hit from 55 yards against the Bears, and he connected from 48 and 47 yards against the Colts.

"The talent level (among kickers) pretty much is the same," says Leahy, who ranks second only to Moseley in NFL experience among active kickers. "It's who handles each situation best that determines who will do well. I've got the experience that I think I can handle those situations. I've been in them before."

His stint with the Jets accounts for all of Leahy's football experience. His college days were devoted to soccer, playing on three NCAA championship teams at St. Louis University.

He had a tryout with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1974 but couldn't beat out Jim Bakken. But during that period, he appeared in a preseason game against the Jets. When New York's regular kicker, Bobby Howfield, was injured in the eighth game that season, Leahy was signed.

He's been with the Jets ever since, despite a shaky debut.

"I remember in his first game, Pat came in to kick and I was blocking," says Randy Rasmussen, a former All-Pro guard and now a broadcaster for the team. "He kicked a low line drive that barely made it over the crossbar. I remember hearing the ball go whistling past my head."

Leahy has improved since then and is the Jets' career scoring leader. He even survived 10 years of kicking at Shea Stadium, with its shifting winds that drove many kickers crazy.

"Shea wasn't the best place to kick in, but if you didn't let the winds get to you and you learned them, you had an advantage over another kicker," Leahy says.

Despite the handicaps of Shea Stadium, Leahy had some superb seasons there. In 1978, he led the AFC in scoring with 107 points, hitting 22 of 30 field goals and 41 of 42 extra points to earn All-Pro honors.

In 1981, he made an astonishing 25 of 26 field goals and 38 of 39 points after touchdown for 113 points.

Last year, kicking on artificial turf in 13 of 16 games, Leahy had his best scoring season. He accumulated 121 points by making 26 of 34 field goals and 43 of 45 points after. And he added several yards to the length of his kickoffs.

"He's a good team player and he knows the streak can't come into consideration during a game," Jets Coach Joe Walton says. "If we need to have him try a long one, we will send him in to go for it."

"Pat works hard, is in good condition and takes care of himself. He is a real pro."

Even though the record is within reach, Leahy isn't worrying about it.

"I know I'm going to miss somewhere down the line," he says. "But I'm not going to think about anything but making them."

Rockets sign first round pick

HOUSTON (AP) — Alabama forward Buck Johnson, the 1986 first-round pick of the Houston Rockets, signed a three-year contract with the NBA club today.

Terms of the contract were not announced.

Johnson, 6-7, 190, was the 20th pick overall in the draft after finishing his career at Alabama as the Tide's fourth highest scorer with 1,869 points and the No. 6 all-time rebounder with 933.

The Tide played in four consecutive NCAA tournaments during Johnson's career.

Johnson is one of four NBA first-round picks from the Southeastern Conference. The others are Auburn's Chuck Person, Indiana; Kentucky's Kenny Walker, New York and Louisiana State's John Williams, Washington.

Johnson led Alabama with 20.7 and 8.4 rebounds per game last season.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Home Realtors offers many services

Kay Moore of Home Realtors has stated "The American consumer is wiser and more demanding than ever, a person making what is possibly the largest purchase of their lives. Today, they are demanding and are entitled to receive additional services from their Real Estate firms."

Home Realtors' staff is experienced and well-acquainted with the many aspects involved in selling, buying and financing a home. In addition to this, they have many services to offer. They are members of HMS (Homeowners Marketing Services, Inc.). Through HMS, Home Realtors can now offer home warranties to its sellers and buyers which will eliminate the possibility of major costly repairs during the time the home is on the market and for the first year of occupancy for the buyer.

Home is exclusive local agent for RELO Relocation Service, the nation's largest referral network of independent real estate brokers, headquartered in Chicago. As a result, the company is actively involved in providing tips and advice to home owners.

Kay says that no one enjoys the potential trauma associated with the prospect of moving, but with careful planning one can avoid or at least minimize unnecessary frustration and aggravation.

Kay points out that many things are easily overlooked, which could prove disastrous and expensive if not accomplished in time. This is where a good realtor is very helpful.

The sales associates at Home Realtors never "rest on their laurels." Each one continues to develop expertise in the field through the firm's own training programs as well as industry seminars.

When you need a realtor, drop by Home's office at Coronado Plaza and get acquainted.
