In addition to the Thursday night concert, the Big Spring Symphony Association is sponsoring the orchestra in a student concert. Students in grades 4-5 from Big Spring, Coahoma and Forsan may attend at no charge.

Conducting Friday morning will be George del Gabbo.

On the program are selections by Vivaldi, Bach, Rachmaninoff and others.

Deaf couple shares changes in life

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of Herald articles in conjunction with national Deaf Awareness Week. "Deaf in a hearing world" begins with a report on a Big Spring couple who has faced deafness all their lives.

By ALISHA GOLDMAN

In most respects, Burl Lea and Marchie Settles are like their peers. They talk to their six grandchildren on the phone, read the newspaper and watch their favorite TV programs. There's a difference, however.

They are deaf. Burl Lea, a Big Spring native, was born Nov. 9, 1912. Three years later, he was stricken by spinal meningitis and nearly died. One price of survival was his loss of hearing.

When Marchie was born March 11, 1925, in Saint Jo, she joined an all-deaf family. Her father had been deaf from birth and her mother lost her hearing from illness.

The couple, residing at 2301 Goliad St., has seen tremendous changes in their lifetime, having lived through the Depression, two world wars, and the vast progress of recent decades.

Technological advancements affecting their silent world were among those changes.

Television, with closed captioned shows, has had a significant impact — perhaps more than any other development. Such programs provide a visual script on the television screen.

Deaf education sees changes

By ALISHA GOLDMAN

Like many deaf children, Burl Lea Settles Sr. and his wife, Marchie, attended school away from home in Austin at the Texas School for the Deaf.

Burl Lea, who attended in the '20s, and Marchie, in the '30s, agree: Education for the deaf has changed greatly since then.

Among the differences is the emphasis on learning to speak in order to communicate.

"They wanted us to learn how to talk ... those children who could speak went to speech classes. I learned, but with outside people I never used my voice, because I was afraid I'd sound funny — like someone from Japan," Marchie recalled.

Burl Lea said, "We were forbidden to sign when I went to school. If they saw us they would grab us and we'd get demerits; we'd be punished for one week for signing."

Marchie explained the difficulty she had with the rule. "With my parents being deaf, I would come home (to visit) and Mom would sign to me, and then I'd go back to school and I'd be signing away and they'd slap my hands with a ruler because we were signing. They'd say 'With hearing people you talk!'"

Not until age 12 were the children allowed to use sign language.

Today, the schools have done an about-face and encourage the children to use sign language. "They want communication," said Marchie.

Sign language itself has changed as well. "They are teaching the children better English," she said, which includes adding new vocabulary to sign language.

Leaving home for school was a painful experience for Marchie.

"Each year it was heartbreaking. At first, we'd cry and cry ourselves to sleep. Then home at Christmas, but then we'd have to go back to school again and start all over again with the homesickness. Oh, it was hard. I still get goosebumps (thinking about it)," she said.

Public school systems throughout the state today integrate the deaf while TSD was the DEAF EDUCATION page 2A

Marchie Settles is pictured at age 18 at work in a factory during World War II. As a deaf person, she was required to wear a special arm band with the letter "T" for security reasons. Both Marchie and her husband, Burl Lea, were productive members of the work force during their lifetime and, consequently, have seen many changes for the deaf.

Attorney answers firemen

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Big Spring's firefighters deceived the city in attempts to secure a 3 percent pay hike along with a 3 percent boost in city retirement contributions, argues attorney Drew Mouton.

Mouton presented that argument in a brief filed recently in response to a firefighters' lawsuit against the city.

The suit, filed in 118 District Court Aug. 28 by Austin attorney B. Craig Deats on behalf of the Firemen's Relief and Retirement Fund, contends the city has illegally deprived firefighters of pay and benefits by deducting matching money for retirement from salaries.

The firefighter petition asks the court to rescind a disputed ordinance and order the city to pay firefighters' salaries and benefits lost as a result of the city's action.

Mouton, retained by the Council in August, requests the city's action be upheld and its attorney fees paid by the firemen's retirement fund.

State law requires the city to match up to 9 percent salary deductions earmarked for retirement. The city had been matching 6 percent in salary deductions.

At spring budget deliberations, Councilmen anticipated a firefighter request for a bigger retirement contribution. Former City Attorney Doyle Curtis drafted an ordinance upon Council request authorizing the city to trim pay in proportion to any increase firefighters elected to put into their retirement fund.

Councilmen reasoned that unstable economic conditions did not make it feasible to give firefighters both a 3 percent raise and a 3 percent boost in retirement contributions. Furthermore, to give firefighters both increases amounted to a 6 percent pay raise, while other city employees received only a 3 percent pay hike, Council argued.

In April, firefighters were given the option to take either a 3 percent pay raise, a 3 percent increase in their pension fund, or a split.

"The firefighters were fully informed as reflected by the minutes of their retirement board meetings, that the budgetary restraints on the city prohibited the city from giving them a 3 percent increase in salary and a matching 3 percent increase ... to the retirement fund," Mouton claims.

He contends that on April 22, firefighters voted 32 to 10 to accept a 3 percent pay raise and not increase the contribution to their pension fund. City Council, he said, budgeted accordingly.

Several weeks later, however, firefighters voted to increase their contribution to the retirement pool from 6 to 9 percent, Mouton charged. Such action, under the state law, required the city to match the additional 3 percent.

Should the city be ordered to pay both the salary raise and the 3 percent in matching money, "the firefighters will have fraudulently caused (Big Spring) to pay the entire 6 percent increase in contributions to the retirement fund," Mouton states.

Firefighters' attorney Deats' position is that by taking away 3 percent of the firefighter's pay for retirement fund purposes, firefighters are forced to contribute 12 percent of their salary, while the city matches just 6 percent.

United Way clears 20 percent of goal

The United Way of Big Spring-Howard County has collected more than 20 percent of its goal for this year, said campaign chairman Paul Petterson.

A total of $45,630 of the $215,000 goal has been collected, 21.2 percent.

Petterson is hoping to get the majority of the money raised by November, he said, to help the agencies funded by the organization.

"We're trying to keep it in front of the public during this period of time," he said.

Sherrie Bordofsky, executive director, said collections are proceeding as usual. She said usually after the first month of the campaign, which began Sept. 3, more money is collected.

The agencies the United Way serves are: the American Red Cross, the Boys' Club of Big Spring, Northside Community Center, the Boy Scouts, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, the Girl Scouts, the Salvation Army, West Side Community Center, the YMCA and West Side

Day Care Center.

Strategies to get more people involved include sending letters to small businesses with a pledge card for each employee. Donated money can be taken from the employee's paycheck each month instead of given in a lump sum.

United Way representatives visit the business to collect the cards, Petterson said.

Representatives also are making presentations and showing filmstrips to the larger local organizations, such as schools, Howard College and Cosden refinery, he said.

Another new strategy is providing entertainment, with proceeds benefiting the organization. Petterson said although it has been done before, "this is the first time of this magnitude."

Among the planned entertainment is a concert by Louise Mandrell Nov. 8. at 8 p.m. at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Special sessions called successful

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — In eight weeks of special session lawmaking, state legislators raised taxes, cut some spending, fell about $680 million short of balancing the budget and passed a mixed batch of other bills.

Left in their wake as the House and Senate adjourned Tuesday were measures that would do everything from moving the 1988 primary elections to letting voters decide whether to legalize horse race gambling.

Gov. Mark White, who convened special sessions Aug. 6 and again Sept. 8 to deal with a revenue shortfall brought on by falling oil prices, said Tuesday he was delighted with the outcome.

The 53 days of lawmaking, White said, "may be the most successful session we've seen in a number of years, and I'm very proud in the leadership of the House and Senate."

Key accomplishments, legislative leaders said, were actions taken to solve the state's financial crunch.

Lawmakers passed an $872 million increase in the sales and gasoline taxes, which White has indicated he will sign into law.

They also approved $582 million in spending cuts as another key move aimed at making up the estimated $2.8 billion state budget shortfall.

However, Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee said that action still left them about $680 million short of eliminating the total projected deficit.

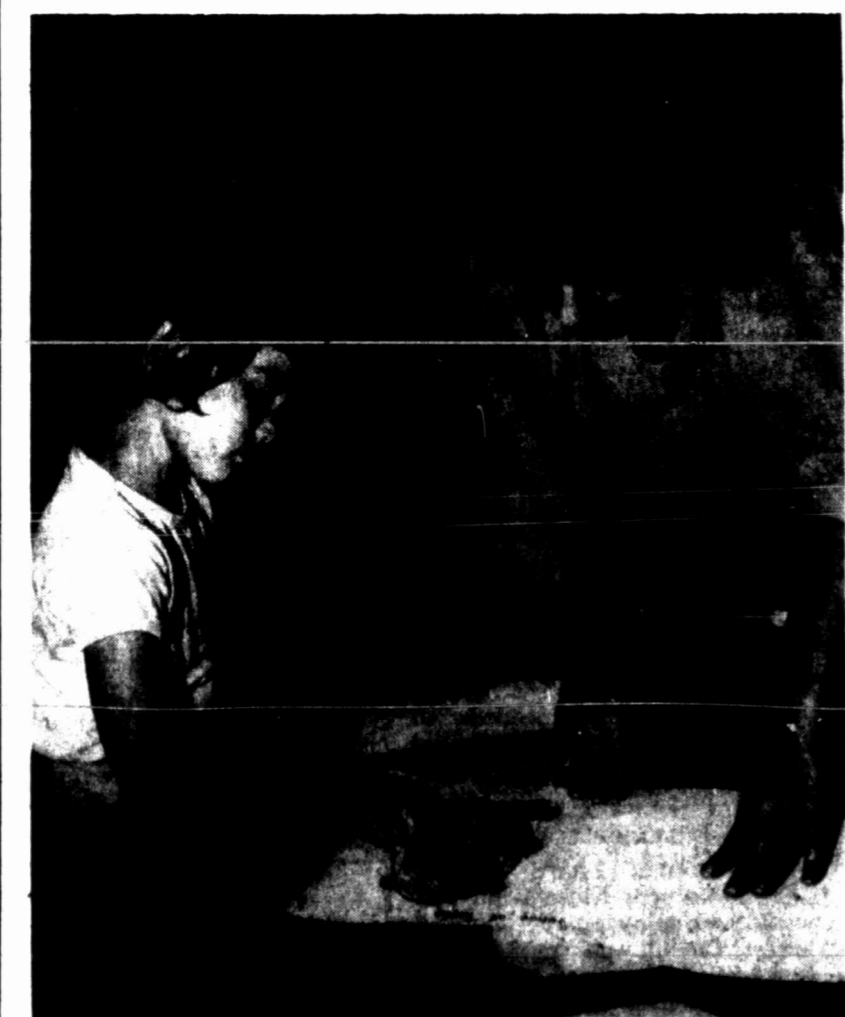

Here, in brief, are summaries of major legislation passed during the two special sessions:

• TAXES — The $872 million, temporary tax package would raise the sales tax from 4 1/2 percent to 5 1/2 percent, and add 5 cents to the dime-per-gallon gasoline tax. Both would take effect Jan. 1 and expire on Aug. 31.

Also included is a provision to allow counties and cities not now collecting a transit tax to add a half-penny to their local sales taxes to provide property tax relief.

The bill was signed by the governor.

• SPENDING CUTS — After more than 400 hours of negotiations, often behind closed doors, SESSIONS page 2A to us," said Marchie. "There were so many times I wondered what they were saying on TV, and now I can always watch the closed-captioned programs."

Her favorite program is 'Highway to Heaven,' while Burl Lea's is football.

"He loves football," Marchie chides. "He's married to those football games. Sometimes I have to turn off the TV to get a conversation going, and he gets so mad at me."

They are not limited solely to closed-captioned television shows — some captioned movies are available at video stores as well.

In their work lives, they've been able to overcome the disability.

Marchie went to work attaching lights to plane wings at the Tulsa, Okla., Air Force Base during the war effort in 1942, soon after she turned 18.

"I loved my job," she said. "There were about ten deaf people in my department. We had to wear patches to give a sign that I was deaf," for security reasons.

"One day I showed my badge to get in and I rushed along to get to my department because it was raining. One of the guards missed seeing my badge, and as I ran through the door a policeman grabbed me. He had been chasing me all the way, and people were just hysterical," she recalled.

Burl Lea had graduated from Texas School for the Deaf and had worked with his father's trucking firm. He soon began deliveries for the Pacific Freight Co. of Big Spring.

"When the war was over, the moving vans came in and I drove all over moving people — Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Colorado. I drove for 45 years."

As fortune would have it, Marchie was among those he moved, and that's how the couple met.

Trucking is among the changes he cites as detrimental to the deaf.

"Today it is more difficult for a deaf person to drive a truck because of the role of the CB in the industry," said Burl Lea.

"Also, more insurance companies are against the deaf and so they won't insure the driver," he said.

After retirement in 1972, he decided to stay in Big Spring, working for a time in maintenance for Howard College.

Their family relationships, however, were very different.

"My family members didn't learn to sign," he said. "When I was little, my mother would just use her own home signs. She would just gesture for me to do something, like pretend to grab a chicken and wring its neck to tell me to kill it for a meal that day."

To tell his mother he wanted to go to the movies, he would laugh and simultaneously point to an imaginary screen.

Although he could hear slightly when young, a diving accident eliminated what little hearing capability he had.

Marchie and Burl Lea raised two hearing sons, both of whom were graduated from Big Spring High School. Burl Lea Jr. is assistant fire chief for the city.

The Settles noted they have had a telephone for the deaf in their home since the '70s. With compatible equipment in the homes of their children and friends, they can communicate easily.

"We found it was so much easier because now he (their son) doesn't have to come over to our house to tell us something, and it's so wonderful," Marchie said enthusiastically.

Writing, however, remains a primary method of communication for them.

"I used to just write out my notes before SWCID (SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf) was here (and began providing interpreters) when I went to the doctor ... there were times when I wished I had an interpreter, but I got in the habit of writing notes," explained Marchie.

Only under special circumstances, such as going to a lawyer or when she had surgery recently, does the couple call on an interpreter.

"One day recently I went to the doctor by myself. He said 'You're the only one here!' and I just wrote him a note. We can communicate by notes.

"We always keep paper and pencil handy and I'll hand them to someone who comes to the door," said Marchie. "But it's like the hearing person doesn't want to write and I'll wonder if they can write, and then they leave."

But there are times when even pen and paper do not help bridge the gap between the deaf and the hearing. Marchie recalls an incident when a blind man came to the door.

"I thought, How on earth can we communicate? He's blind and I'm deaf. And we felt so lost and had no idea how to communicate. I looked at him and ... he left. I felt so badly. At that time, my boys were already grown and out of the home, and I wish they could have been there to help me."

only choice when she was young for the deaf who sought education, she said.

Marchie's daughter, also deaf, attended TSD before graduating from SWCID. She now lives in Dallas. A deaf granddaughter attended a mainstream school in Dallas until she was 12 and then transferred to TSD.

"She found she enjoyed public school," said Marchie.

"In the old days, we didn't have mainstreaming ... so all of the deaf children went to one school — in Austin. But today there are many, many schools throughout the state with programs for the deaf."

Opportunities for higher education also are available now.

"Deaf people today have more education than ever before. Many more opportunities today. In our time we didn't have colleges. There was only one college for the deaf and that was in Washington, D.C., at Gallaudet. But today we have programs in Dallas and here, and throughout Texas," she added.

Some things may never change, however, like taking their favorite subjects.

"When I went to school, we had to learn to play the piano," said Burl Lea. "We would sit down and close our eyes and we'd have our hands on top of the piano and we'd have to tell them the name of the song."

"By feeling the vibrations of the piano, the children would identify the song."

"I'd often know a song and I'd say, 'Hey! I know the name of that song!'" he recalls.

"I loved music," he said, reciting the words of his favorite song. "I saw the moon, and the moon saw me, and God blesses the moon, and God blesses me." I loved that song. But we had to sing the song. Not sign."

Burglars hit pickup truck

Martin Kirkpatrick, 706 Rosemont St., told police Tuesday morning that someone burglarized his pickup between 7:30 p.m. Monday and 10 a.m. Tuesday and stole $3,000 worth of high pressure cleaning tips and a wallet containing $30.

Helene Bonura, 1304 E. 18th St., told police Tuesday noon that someone caused $50 damage to a window and screen at rental property at 2505 March Circle Sept. 18.

The First Presbyterian Church reported damage to a window during a break-in Tuesday afternoon.

David Canales, 23, 1206 E. Fifth St., was arrested on a public intoxication and failure to appear warrant Tuesday morning.

Police transferred Kimberly Kay Madry, 21, of San Angelo, to county jail Saturday night after she was arrested for making alcohol available to a minor. She was released on $500 bond.

Tarp taken from trash truck

Clem Jones of P.O. Box 1911 told Howard County sheriff's deputies Tuesday morning that someone removed a tarp from his trash truck without his permission between 5 p.m. Monday and 7 a.m. Tuesday.

The alleged theft occurred at Gamco on Highway 350.

Deputies are investigating.

- Deputies arrested Paul William Schlipf III, 23, of Route 2 Box 27, Tuesday morning on possession of more than two ounces of marijuana. He remained in jail this morning in lieu of a $696 fine.

- Deputies arrested Sammy Muniz, 21, of Coahoma, Tuesday morning on a warrant for a driving while intoxicated judgment. He owes the county $431 and was sentenced to 30 days in jail by County Judge Milton Kirby.

Police transferred Kimberly Kay Madry, 21, of San Angelo, to county jail Saturday night after she was arrested for making alcohol available to a minor. She was released on $500 bond.

Teen volunteers sought

Golden Plains Care Center needs teen volunteers. Director of nurses Linda Johnson is beginning a teen volunteer program.

Volunteers would visit with the residents, read to them, write letters for them, feed them and so forth, she said, but wouldn't be responsible for any direct care.

The object of the program is "to bring them (older and younger people) together, so they can both not see many older nursing home residents, and so they "just kind of write them off."

Orientation classes will be from 4 to 5 p.m. Thursday, Tuesday, and Oct. 9. Anyone who would like to participate may fill out an application at the care center, or just attend a class, she said.

Johnson said she is looking for at least 20 to 30 teens, age 14-20, to volunteer for shifts from 3:45 to 6:15 p.m. Monday through Saturday, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday, or from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

House and Senate negotiators agreed on a spending-cut plan that to trim the state budget by $582 million, eliminate nearly 2,000 state jobs and wipe out a 3 percent state employee pay raise scheduled for 1987.

This awaits White's anticipated signature.

- GAMBLING — Lawmakers passed, and White allowed to become law without his signature, a bill that could legalize pari-mutuel wagering on horse and dog races.

In November 1987, voters statewide will decide whether to OK the plan. If they do, local elections also must be held in areas where race tracks want to locate.

Dog racing would be allowed in only three counties — Galveston, Cameron and Nueces.

- SPEED LIMIT — Legislators allowed the State Highway Commission to raise the speed limit on rural interstate highways from 55 mph to 65 mph should Congress in the future permit such action. White has said he favors the higher speed limit.

- PRIMARY ELECTIONS — In 1988, Texas would join about a dozen other Southern states in the so-called "Super Tuesday" presidential primary, a move backers say will give the nation's third-largest state considerably more clout in presidential politics. Other state primaries also will be shifted from the first Saturday in May to the second Tuesday in March.

Sponsors said White indicated he will sign it.

- EDUCATION — The governor already has signed a bill to give teachers and school administrators increased power to maintain discipline and get incorrigible students out of the classroom.

He also signed into law legislation that will reduce paperwork chores previously required of public school teachers.

- BANKING — White signed bills passed during the summer's first special session that could lead to major changes in the state's banking system.

One will allow voters to decide this November whether county-wide branch banking should be allowed.

Another bill allows — for the first time in Texas history — out-of-state banks to purchase Texas banks and bank holding companies. Backers said the out-of-state money is needed to help stimulate the state's ailing economy and provided needed cash for some financially troubled institutions.

A third allows Texas savings and loans to do business in other states.

- PAROLE LAWS — The Legislature sent White a bill that would keep some inmates in prison longer. The bill would prohibit early release of inmates convicted of violent offenses such as capital murder, aggravated kidnapping, aggravated robbery and aggravated sexual assault. The governor signed the bill Tuesday night.

West Texas - Locally heavy rain possible southeast tonight. Partly cloudy north, scattered thunderstorms south Thursday. A little warmer north Thursday. Lows tonight upper 50s mountains and Panhandle to lower 70s southeast. Highs Thursday mid 80s north to upper 80s south, except upper 90s Big Bend.

State

Warm temperatures continued early today from Florida to New England, while severe thunderstorms dropped baseball-size hail over parts of Oklahoma and dense fog made traveling hazardous in Texas. Gusts of 80 mph accompanied the storms and hail around Oklahoma City.

The risk of more locally heavy rains from thunderstorms have prompted flash flood watches across parts of the southern Plains and Mississippi Valley.

Flash flood watches were in effect for much of Oklahoma and Missouri and parts of Arkansas and Kansas. Much of the region has received from 3 inches to 10 inches of rain during the past few days and any additional rainfall will increase the chance of local flooding.

Thunderstorms Tuesday evening produced between 3 inches to 5 inches of rain at Lowell, Kan., that resulted in flooding.

Flood warnings continued across lower Michigan along the Grand River at Ionia and the Tittabawassee River at Midland. Heavy rains since Monday continued to cause the rivers to flood in places with both rivers not expected to crest until late tonight or early Thursday.

The East sweltered in summer-like heat Tuesday as temperatures soared into the 80s and 90s from Maine to Virginia.

The temperature in Norfolk, Va., reached 102 degrees, breaking a 102-year-old record. New marks were also set in New York City; Worcester, Mass.; Hartford, Conn.; Boston; Baltimore; Newark, N.J.; Portland, Maine; Richmond, Va.; and Providence, R.I.

Travelers' advisories were posted in the Texas Panhandle, where the fog reduced visibility to less than a quarter mile.

Elsewhere, scattered showers and thunderstorms struck New England, New York, Pennsylvania, the Ohio Valley, western South Dakota and Nebraska.

Six months for second DWI

A second-time driving while intoxicated offender was sentenced to six months in county jail and a 41-year-old woman who delivered a controlled substance was ordered to serve a 10-year probation sentence during court proceedings Tuesday.

- County Judge Milton Kirby sentenced Carlos B. Marquez, 26, 610 N.W. Eighth St., to six months in county jail after the defendant pleaded guilty to DWI — a second offense.

In addition, he was fined $300 and ordered to pay $131 court costs.

Jane Overman of the county attorney's office said Marquez had a previous record of outstanding warrants for failure to maintain financial responsibility and no driver's license.

He also had bond forfeitures and "likes to run," Overman said.

"If he can't show up, he can stay with us," she said.

Overman said also that Kirby was getting tired of DWI second time offenders and was increasing the severity of their penalty.

- Louis A. Miramontez, 41, 509 N.E. Ninth St., pleaded guilty to DWI in county court Tuesday afternoon and was placed on a six-month probated jail sentence for two years.

In addition to the probation sentence, Kirby fined him $400 and ordered Miramontez to pay $131 court costs.

He was arrested on Sept. 3 by Department of Public Safety troopers on N. Lamesa Highway at N.W. 10th St.

- District Judge James Gregg ordered Gwendolyn Dee Vanderbilt of 205 N.W. Third St. to serve a 10-year probation sentence after she pleaded guilty to delivery of a controlled substance.

In addition to the probation sentence, Gregg fined her $2,000 and ordered her to pay $352 court costs.

She was arrested by police on July 18 and indicted by the grand jury on Aug. 20.

Liftoff transcript out

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Challenger's astronauts, waiting for liftoff through a series of delays, joked about the chill of the Jan. 28 morning and complained gently about lying on launch couches for three hours with heads down and feet up.

"Wow, boy, the sun feels good this morning," pilot Mike Smith said, laughing.

The comment was in a transcript of cockpit conversation released Tuesday by NASA.

Temperatures were near freezing at the Florida launch pad, and winds whipped against the spacecraft as the crew settled aboard Challenger at 8:36 a.m.

"Kind of cool this morning," observed Ellison Onizuka. "My nose is freezing."

"They're probably making a fortune selling coffee and doughnuts out at the viewing area," said Gregory Jarvis, referring to an open area three miles away where friends, family, press and other spectators awaited launch.

The conversation transcript began as the crew strapped themselves into their launch couches and continued until two minutes before the 11:38 a.m. launch.

Gay law opposed

ATLANTA (AP) — When Jim Zauderer went to the City Council to seek repeal of a gay rights ordinance, his brother publicly announced to the meeting that he is gay.

Doug Zauderer, 35, describes himself as "a very low-profile," non-political person who probably would not have spoken out Monday night except for a newspaper ad purchased last week by Citizens for Public Awareness, a group headed by his brother.

The $9,100 full-page ad in The Atlanta Journal and The Atlanta Constitution attacked the ordinance intended to protect homosexual city employees from discrimination and asked, "Why should our city government condone homosexual sodomy when it is illegal in the state of Georgia?"

After learning of the ad and an appearance by his brother on television urging repeal of the ordinance, Doug Zauderer, who is a florist, said he called the Atlanta Gay Center and offered to speak at Monday's hearing.

Drinking deadline arrives

Eight states that failed to meet today's deadline for raising the drinking age to 21 will lose nearly $70 million in federal funds this year, while Mississippi college students lamented the end of an era with a final bash.

In addition to Mississippi, the minimum drinking age Tuesday went to 21 in Georgia. The District of Columbia Council last week passed emergency legislation that raises the drinking age to 21 for 90 days.

Although the deadline to avoid losing federal highway money was 12:01 a.m. today, Congress has yet to pass a budget. When it does and highway funds are disbursed, states not in compliance will receive 5 percent less than the allocation.

Former President Jimmy Carter gives Vette Reddick a kiss on the cheek after she gave him a birthday card during a visit to the Carter Presidential Center Tuesday in Atlanta. The Center was dedicated today, on Carter's birthday.

Carter Center

President to attend dedication

ATLANTA (AP) — Jimmy Carter celebrated his 62nd birthday today with something special planned: the dedication of the Carter Presidential Center.

In public ceremonies that were to include President Reagan and his wife, Nancy, the former president and his wife, Rosalynn, were to turn over to the National Archives and Records Administration the deed to almost half of the 130,000-square-foot complex.

The rest of the center, which also houses offices for Carter, two foundations and a public policy "think tank" which he chairs, will remain in the hands of an operating foundation.

While acknowledging his deep political differences with Carter, Reagan praised his predecessor for his faith and hard work.

"You gave yourself to your country, gracing the White House with your passion and intellect and commitment," Reagan said in remarks prepared for the dedication.

"In a certain sense we can be proud of our differences, proud because they arise from goodwill itself — from love of country, from concern for the challenges of our times, from respect for, and yes, even outright enjoyment of, the democratic processes of disagreement and debate," Reagan said.

Warren Christopher, the former deputy secretary of state who handled the Iranian hostage crisis while Carter was president, was to deliver the keynote address during the dedication ceremony.

Today's activities were also to include a ceremony dedicating a Japanese garden, designed by master gardener Kinsaku Nakane, and a founder's breakfast for the 45 business figures who contributed $15 million of the $25 million in private donations which paid for the center's construction.

Carter said last week that he and his wife conceived of the complex after they left the White House in 1981 as their gift "to the people of our nation for having given us the honor of the highest political office."

The center, construction of which began two years ago, is a complex of four interconnected round buildings set in a loose semicircle around a formal Japanese garden nestled on the side of Copenhill, the hill just east of downtown Atlanta from which Union Gen. William Sherman watched his Civil War troops burn the original city.

The Carter Presidential Library and Museum houses more than 27 million pages of documents from the four-year Carter administration as well as exhibits on Carter's life and the issues he dealt with as president.

The museum exhibit, run by the National Archives and Records Administration, will be open to the public after the dedication ceremony. Tickets are $2.50 for adults, while children under the age of 16 will be admitted free.

In addition to Carter's offices, the center will house offices for Global 2000 Inc., a foundation which sponsors international programs on energy and natural resources conservation; the Carter Center of Emory University, a public policy "think tank," and the Carter-Menil Human Rights Foundation.

More evidence found

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Four armed men who hijacked a Pan Am jumbo jet and killed 20 people were on a suicide mission and may have planned to destroy the plane in flight, a government official said today.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the investigation into the Sept. 5 hijacking of the Boeing 747 in Karachi turned up evidence that the hijackers intended to blow up the plane and kill the approximately 400 passengers and crew members once they were airborne.

"There is now an indication they would have blown up the plane in the air," said the spokesman, who spoke on condition of anonymity. He declined to describe the evidence that led to that conclusion.

Grace period given

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Many of the 25 Soviet U.N. diplomats the United States ordered expelled by today for purported spying have left, but U.S. officials said they heeded a Soviet request and gave those remaining a two-week grace period.

The announcement of the expulsion delay came Tuesday after the superpowers resolved the dispute over American reporter Nicholas Daniloff and Soviet physicist Gennadiy Zakharov, a U.N. employee.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz, at a news conference in Washington, said the Soviets had requested the grace period during the course of his discussions with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze.

Summit host pleased

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Iceland, a North Atlantic island nation of 240,000 people, known for its rich fisheries, normally is far removed from world events like the superpower summit to be held in Reykjavik this month.

The last time this country was the focus of global attention was in 1973, when it was host for the world chess championship in which American Bobby Fischer won the title from Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union.

But Iceland's leaders said Tuesday they were pleased the spotlight will once again center on their country, at a summit between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev on Oct. 11-12.

Peace process slow

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The Middle East peace process was like a broken-down car chugging to a stop, says President Hosni Mubarak, and he and Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres just gave it a push to get it rolling again.

Nevertheless, Mubarak said in an interview Tuesday, the international peace conference both leaders endorsed at their Sept. 11 summit conference will take a long time to organize because each participant has its own national ax to grind.

Opinion

Route 87 work seems overdue

We commend those members of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and our Legislature who went before the state highway commission to seek completion of Highway 87 as a four-lane, divided roadway.

It seems obvious to us that completion of that work is long overdue when it was recalled that the four-lane stretch north of Big Spring was completed in 1964, and that much of the four lanes between Sterling City and San Angelo were finished by late 1974.

Actually, those facts raise the question of why action hasn't been taken since 1974 to fill the gaps.

Bill Willig, chairman of the San Angelo Chamber of Commerce transportation committee, pointed out that the highway commission is well aware that U.S. 87 in the Big Spring and San Angelo areas is one of the worst stretches of highway in the state.

Arnold Marshall, chairman of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce transportation committee, added that the agriculture-related traffic on the highway is quite heavy.

And both men emphasized that the widening would help the West Texas economy by putting people back to work and boosting tourism.

In addition, John Arrick, president of the Big Spring chamber, reported that county commissioners have agreed to provide the necessary right-of-way, saving the highway commission an estimated $1 million.

Highway commissioners, after observing that "the cost figures are good," agreed to examine the request and vote on the issue within the next 60 to 90 days.

"That gives our staff time to review the presentation and make a recommendation," said commission spokeswoman Rosemary Neff.

That also gives West Texas residents and businesses an equal opportunity to notify the commission of how much they favor the project. If enough strong support is voiced during that period, we foresee the project gaining approval and swift action.

Free speech seen at new limit

To the editor: It has always amazed me to what extent we can take the term "free speech". In America you don't have to say anything that makes sense, or that is even true, and someone will go along and print it.

Mr. Brazel's letter of Sept. 25, however, seems to have reached a new limit of free speech with its falsehoods and inaccuracies.

Fact 1: The debate at Howard College was between Rich Anderson and a colleague on one team and two members of the Democratic Party on the other. It did not include Mr. Brazel. After rudely interrupting the dialogue because he did not agree, Mr. Brazel was asked to leave.

Fact 2: "The group" that he referred to that walked out on Mr. Anderson at the City Auditorium consisted of Mr. Brazel and one other liberal sympathizer who did not agree with what Mr. Anderson had to say — hardly a group.

Fact 3: Mr. Anderson did not at any time embrace or in any other way show support for Gary Mauro's opponent, who Mr. Brazel has referred to as a La Rouché candidate.

Fact 4: Mr. Brazel implied that Mr. Anderson ran for Congress on a ticket with Lyndon LaRouché for President. Check the records, Mr. Brazel, and you will find John Anderson ran for Congress in 1962

(not a presidential election year) and was on the Constitutional Party ticket.

Mr. Brazel seems to have a preoccupation with the man's name and with party labels, while ignoring the ideas that separate John Anderson and Larry Don Shaw.

Shaw has had his chance in Austin, and if Mr. Brazel looks deep enough he will find that Shaw is regarded there as a political wimp who does nothing to represent the people of West Texas and believes in the liberal spending policies that went out of style with Hubert Humphrey and Lyndon Johnson.

Mr. Anderson, on the other hand, is a businessman who believes quite simply that: 1) Our government's purpose is specified and limited in certain documents such as the Constitution, all other rights resting with the people (meaning that government should keep their noses out of it), and 2) That any government should run its affairs as any business must if it is to survive — not spending more than it takes in.

Cast my vote in November for John R. Anderson.

Today

By The Associated Press Today is Wednesday, Oct. 1, the 274th day of 1986. The year has 91 days left.

Today's highlight in history: Twenty-five years ago, on Oct. 1, 1961, Roger Maris of the New York Yankees earned a place in the record books alongside Babe Ruth as he hit his 61st home run in a 162-game season, compared to Ruth's 60 home runs in a 154-game season. Maris' 61st homer was off Boston's Tracy Stallard at Yankee Stadium.

On this date: In 1800, Spain ceded Louisiana to France in a secret treaty.

In 1885, special delivery mail service began in the United States.

In 1903, the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the home team Boston Pilgrims (Red Sox), 7-3, in the first World Series game. Boston, however, went on to win the series, five games to three.

In 1908, Henry Ford introduced the "Model T" to the market — at a basic cost of $850.

In 1936, Gen. Francisco Franco was proclaimed the head of an insurgent Spanish state.

In 1943, Allied forces captured Naples during World War II.

In 1949, Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung raised the first flag of the People's Republic of China in a proclamation ceremony in Peking.

In 1962, Johnny Carson took over as host of NBC's "Tonight" show.

A tale of a town initiating annual mosquitoes safari

By ROBERT WERNSMAN I was fairly warned before I arrived. Things are bigger in Texas — wide open spaces, pride in the state, even the 10-gallon hats seem bigger.

While those may be intangibles, one "bigger" is very real: the mosquitoes.

Maybe the nasty things find the pickings sweeter around here, or perhaps it is the longer growing season they enjoy. That second possibility was never a concern when I was living in Iowa.

That is one state that knows all about the business of having a genuine, brutal winter — the type that tests the endurance of any human, to say nothing of a mere insect. Any mosquito surviving such a seasonal change likely deserves to live another summer.

For some in the state of Iowa, waiting for winter to do the job is simply unbearable. "Smitty" Messersmith is one of those.

A longtime newspaper publisher in Riceville, he discovered the advantage of taking the situation into his own hands.

Three years ago, the Riceville City Council addressed the community's problem of a huge mosquito population. Even aerial spraying was discussed. Municipal budgets being what they are, however, prevented such an effort.

That was when Smitty stepped

two years — a retail value of about $2,300.

There's more to this, however, than simply killing pesky bugs.

The mood was established by a citywide evening picnic from 5:30 to 6:30. It gave the mosquitoes one last shot at the citizenry and likely eased the combatants' consciences about the task.

Then, 30 minutes after the picnic — the residents having returned home, the tornado siren was triggered.

Imagine: 919 Ricevillians marching out of their homes, holding spray cans high, and letting loose with their chemical warfare?

Smitty would have you believe that the result requires city dump trucks to be called out; front end loaders needed to handle the cleaning task. He also would like you to believe a CPA firm was employed to audit the destruction, verifying the demise of 1,929,003 mosquitoes.

He and I both know, however, that it's unlikely you will believe very much of that. So, try this: once a year, the people of Riceville gather, enjoy a community picnic, get rid of a bunch of mosquitoes and have a generally good time.

In the process, they also prove that mosquitoes are no better than humans at learning from mistakes — more of them keep coming back for more, each Iowa summer.

Ex-pal may unseat Gadhafi

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Libyan dictator Moammar Gadhafi, already on the ropes from a shattered economy and the fear of future American bombing raids, now has a potential knockout punch to worry about: open opposition by the man he most feared would challenge him.

Abdel Moneim al-Huni, one of the original dozen Libyan officers who helped Gadhafi seize power in 1969, recently issued a call to his former army colleagues and others to overthrow the dictator.

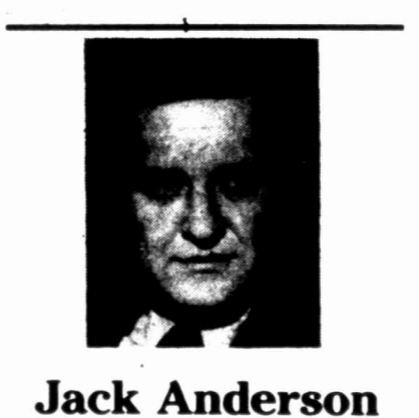

Al-Huni made his declaration from exile in Cairo, announcing at the same time the formation of a "Libyan Committee for National Salvation." Thousands of leaflets bearing his call to arms were distributed throughout Libya.

Why is al-Huni's action significant? Because the army's support is crucial to any attempted ouster of Gadhafi, and al-Huni, unlike the exiles leading any of the two dozen earlier anti-Gadhafi groups, has strong ties of friendship among army officers in Tripoli.

Last November, in fact, we identified al-Huni as "the man most likely to succeed Gadhafi" — while the CIA was backing a loser, Mohammed Youssef Magarieff. This English-speaking flashy dresser has consumed at least $7 million in CIA and Saudi Arabian funds without noticeable effect on Gadhafi.

Once vice president, interior minister and intelligence chief, al-Huni was Gadhafi's No. 3 man when he split in 1975 in disgust over the regime's corruption and Gadhafi's persecution of dissidents and minorities. Gadhafi was so furious at al-Huni that he tried to have him assassinated in Cairo in 1976.

Since then al-Huni has laid low, resisting all suggestions that he lead the opposition to Gadhafi. But last January he made a secret trip to Washington and conferred with Reagan administration officials.

Insiders described the talks as "inconclusive." But they did establish two important policies: The United States would not oppose any attempt by al-Huni to unseat Gadhafi, and there would be no CIA funds for him (which would have wrecked his chances for popular support in Libya).

In short, al-Huni was given free rein, but wouldn't have to carry the CIA on his back.

After the U.S. raid on Libya in April, intelligence sources tell us Gadhafi sent an urgent message to al-Huni in Cairo. He begged him to let bygones be bygones and to rejoin the ruling military council in Tripoli. It was an offer al-Huni could not and did not refuse, though he condemned the U.S. raid on his country.

Having observed Gadhafi's erratic behavior since the bombing, al-Huni obviously feels the time is ripe to take his opposition out of mothballs. He timed his proclamation for Aug. 30, just before the 17th anniversary of the Libyan revolution on Sept. 1.

"No Libyan citizen who remains faithful to Libya (can) remain silent after today," al-Huni began.

"The majority of our citizens know that on the dawn of that day (Sept. 1, 1969), we did not represent anything but the will of the people. The successive events and the activities of our 'comrade-in-arms', Col. Moammar al-Gadhafi, soon made clear to us the 'deviation' that he has followed due to his egotism, lust for power, weakness in the face of personal greed and personal hatred...."

"The freedom which was the first objective of our military uprising has changed to slavery, bondage, persecution (and) despotic dominion over every citizen who is honorable, honest and moral.... We demand that Gadhafi relinquish power immediately...."

"I send this message to my Free Officers... all non-commissioned officers and soldiers. I ask them to... move immediately to force Col. Gadhafi to relinquish power and surrender authority." Al-Huni's open opposition could seal Gadhafi's doom.

MINI-EDITORIAL: The elite establishment that runs the Smithsonian Institution evidently chafes at its role of playing host to the hordes of tourists who visit the grand museums along the Mall in Washington. So the last of the Smithsonian's 947 off-street parking places are now being closed to the public and turned over to employee parking.

This typical display of Washington "insider" selfishness is justified on the patently absurd grounds that it will make things tougher for terrorists who may want to blow up the nation's cultural heritage.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Around the rim Spy charge reveals real Soviet worry

By HANK MURPHY Staff Writer

The Daniloff affair appeared little more than a reporter-for-spy act of Soviet retaliation. But the Soviet approach reveals something much deeper.

While circumstances of Daniloff's arrest support the superpower tit-for-tat theory, his detention also underscores a basic difference between American and Soviet society — and one of the most distinguishing characteristics between free and repressive nations.

In Soviet eyes, Nick Daniloff may well have been a spy — in line with their perception of most western newsmen there. The Soviets suspect espionage of anybody who seeks information beyond that which is spoon-fed by the Communist Party.

Information, like most elements of the totalitarian world, is closely controlled and monitored. Repressive regimes are made insecure and feel threatened by information gleaned by independent news organizations.

The saying, "the pen is mightier than the sword" is not lost on them — they seek to wield that power to continue thought-control of their people.

That's largely why more than 150 journalists in 33 countries were arrested or imprisoned and hundreds more threatened and harassed last year, according to the Committee for Freedom of the Press.

Three years ago, Ethiopia's most popular journalist, Solomon Kifle, was forced to flee the country for his life. His crime? Broadcasting news of the famine that killed more than one million of his countrymen. The Marxist government had banned reporting of the misery, which could have been construed as a policy failure.

A free and vigorous press is the vanguard of freedom, yet it's one of the first things to come under attack when so-called "liberators" seek to impose their views on a nation.

In June, the Nicaraguan government closed indefinitely the daily newspaper La Prensa, leaving the country with virtually no forum for opposing views.

The government also silenced a magazine of the Catholic Church, seized its printing press and closed its radio station, according to the protection committee.

Fifty-five countries have what's considered a free print medium, and 39 of those also have a free broadcast medium, according to Freedom House, a New York-based freedom monitoring agency.

Not surprisingly, Executive Director Leonard Sussman said about 55 nations are considered free. Those that restrict broadcasting are somewhat less so.

Most Americans seem to understand the correlation Sussman spoke of. And they know that threats to freedom from without are protected by the military, while threats from within are checked by laws under the watchful eye of the press.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Soviet-U.S. meeting administration's best-kept secret

By TERENCE HUNT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's decision to meet Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Iceland was one of the most tightly held secrets of his presidency, touching off a rush of preparations for a summit in Reykjavik just 10 days away.

White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan told aides at a meeting Tuesday morning that only about five people had known in advance of Reagan's intention to accept a secret proposal Sept. 19 from Gorbachev for a two-day meeting.

In Iceland, Prime Minister Steingrímur Hermannsson and Foreign Minister Matthías Mathiesen said the first they knew of the summit plans was Monday, when the U.S. and Soviet ambassadors inquired whether it was possible to hold a meeting there.

Reagan's decision was part of the U.S.-Soviet bargain leading to the release of American journalist Nicholas Daniloff in Moscow and Soviet United Nations employee Gennadiy Zakharov in New York.

"The release of Daniloff made the meeting possible," Reagan said Tuesday. "I could not have accepted and held that meeting if he was still being held."

Usually, a meeting of the super-power leaders would be planned months in advance and the agenda would be carefully arranged. However, preparations are just now getting under way for Reagan's second encounter in a year with Gorbachev.

A White House survey team was to leave Washington today to assess problems in security, logistics and communications.

An advance team, which will plan arrangements for the staff and press coverage, is to depart Thursday.

The two leaders are to confer at the 162-room Saga Hotel in the center of Reykjavik, a seaside city of 97,000 people in southwest Iceland. Hotels were booked solid within hours of Tuesday's announcement.

The White House cautioned reporters that "because of limited seats aboard the aircraft and because of limited facilities in Iceland, signing up (for the trip) does not necessarily guarantee a seat aboard Air Force One or the White House press charter."

"Those members of the press whose request to travel cannot be honored will be notified."

Reagan announced the meeting with Gorbachev in a surprise appearance in the White House press briefing room shortly after 10 a.m.

However, the official Soviet news agency Tass beat him to the punch, making its own announcement with a bulletin from Moscow several minutes earlier.

"This is not a summit," Reagan insisted. "All we've agreed upon is that we're going to have a meeting."

Although Reagan and Gorbachev had agreed last year that their next meeting would be in the United States, the Soviet leader proposed Sept. 19 that they confer in a neutral country.

'Sivers' bill seeks annual legislature

By DANA PALMER
Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — In view of the two special sessions needed this year to help solve budget deficit problems, the Texas Silver Haired Legislature passed its first major resolution Tuesday, calling for a budget session of the Texas Legislature in even-numbered years.

Currently, the Legislature meets only in odd-numbered years, unless the governor calls one or more 30-day special sessions.

However, having extra budget sessions in even-numbered years "could be one of the best things the state of Texas could do," said Dena Tufares of Wichita Falls, the only member of the Silver Haired Legislature who also served in the Texas Legislature.

Tufares, a member of the Ways and Means Committee that drafted the resolution, added that "if they go according to our resolution, the second session would only be to set up budgeting and appropriations, and they couldn't go into anything else."

Speaker J. Raleigh Jackson of LaGrange, who personally opposes annual sessions, said the resolution is only one of dozens expected to be passed by the Silver Haired Legislature.

Why is Shaw running an underground smear campaign against Anderson?

The people of this district deserve to know the truth. Why has Mr. Shaw stooped to such insidious, low tactics?

If you personally have gotten a phone call or letter from Mr. Shaw's campaign full of deception, distortion, innuendos and half truths please let Anderson know right away or call any of the community leaders in Big Spring and ask them what the truth is.

Anderson is a hard-working, dedicated family man and community leader. It is sad that Mr. Shaw is trying to tear down Anderson's good reputation.

Anderson is running a campaign strictly on the issues and on his long and distinguished record of service to his community and this great state.

People are sick and tired of politicians like Mr. Shaw who try to run down their opponent in every way possible.

Anderson Challenges Shaw To A Debate In Every City And Town In The District

At these debates, Mr. Anderson would like to discuss Shaw's false accusations and the true issues, face-to-face, with Mr. Shaw in front of the voters.

Accountability is essential in this important campaign.

Anderson will debate Mr. Shaw at mutually agreed on times and places.

Popcorn: More 'pop'ular than ever!

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

October is National Popcorn Month and I'm going to share with you some a-maize-ing facts about popcorn.

Americans consume more popping corn than anyone else in the world — 693 million pounds in 1985 alone. This amounts to 46 quarts for every man, woman and child. And it's easy to see why popcorn is so popular.

• It's economical. For a mere 18 cents you can pop enough for the entire family.

• It's nutritious — naturally loaded with fiber, protein and carbohydrates with no sugars, salts, additives or preservatives. In fact, the American Cancer Society, the National Cancer Institute, the American Diabetes Association and the American Heart Association all have endorsed popcorn as a healthy addition to the diet.

• It's versatile. Just about any spice, flavoring or topping can be added to popcorn for exciting taste treats.

• It's easy to prepare — especially in a microwave. In five minutes you can pop up a bag of hot, tasty popcorn with no mess or fuss.

So, now that you know all the benefits of popcorn, now you can feel good about eating it.

In this week's recipe exchange, I've included some popcorn recipes from Orville Redenbacher's collection and one of my favorites.

Happy popping.

Recipe exchange

64) 4 quarts popped popping corn
1/2 tsp. cream of tartar
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking soda

Remove unpopped kernels, if any, from popcorn. In a 2 1/2-quart saucepan, combine brown sugar, corn syrup, butter, cream of tartar and salt. Bring to boil, stirring, over medium high heat. Stirring constantly, boil rapidly to hard ball stage, 260 F. (about 5 minutes). Remove from heat. Stir in baking soda quickly but thoroughly; pour at once over popcorn in large roasting or baking pan. Stir gently until all kernels are coated. Bake at 200 F. for one hour, stir two or three times during baking. Turn out at once on wax paper; spread apart and allow to cool completely. Break apart; store in tightly covered container. Makes 6 quarts.

Note: When using salted microwave popcorn, remove salt from recipe.

Harvest Pumpkin Ball is a delicious treat. Served with steaming cider it will disappear quickly after a football game on any autumn day — it's a definite "winning" snack.

Popping Tips

- Electric Popper or Skillet
- 1 — Select your popper. Whether it's an electric popper, a good old-fashioned pot, pan, skillet, Dutch oven or automatic fry pan, make sure the bottom is heavy and the lid vents steam.
 - 2 — Measure three parts popping corn, for each part oil. Be careful though — if you put too much corn, it may lift the lid and start popping all over the room.
 - 3 — Pour the oil into your popping utensil, add the popcorn, cover and heat at medium temperature.
 - 4 — Let off steam! Make sure you lid has venting holes or is slightly ajar to release steam. If the steam can't escape, your popcorn may end up soggy.
 - 5 — If using a skillet or pan, shake the pan to make sure every kernel gets heated so it will pop. When popping slows, remove the pan from heat (or unplug your popper.)
 - 6 — Salt and season your popcorn to taste. In addition to butter, lots of toppings — cinnamon, oregano, cheese — taste great on popcorn. Experiment and concoct your own popcorn topping recipes.
 - 7 — Dig in and enjoy!

Osteoarthritis may cause joint, muscle discomfort

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: If osteoarthritis is a disease of the joints, why do I ache in places between the joints, such as the upper arms? — M.M.B.

That's a good question, and there's a pretty good answer for it. Osteoarthritis is, indeed, a joint disease. But when a joint is inflamed and starts hurting, the muscles around it tense. Those muscle spasms add to the total pain complex. In fact, much of the relief from arthritis pain consists in relieving the concomitant muscle spasm and irritation. So in addition to using the normal anti-inflammation and pain relief medicine, the patient is advised to use hot soaks and other remedies.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When our father passed away, our mother, who still lives in the same house, alone, had trouble sleeping. She was getting only an hour or two a night of sleep. We insisted she ask her doctor for some pills to let her sleep. She is using them, and that was two months ago she got them. Now we are afraid mother is going to end up dependent on the pills. What do you suggest? She appears somewhat used to the idea of daddy's being gone. What should we do for her? See her doctor? — Mrs. W.N.L.

It's always a serious matter to have to depend on pills to sleep. Pills are justified when serious insomnia threatens general health. They have a place in helping a person get over such events as death of a loved one, or other severe psychological stress.

You should probably talk this over directly with your mother. After all, you were the ones who suggested she might need the medication. Pills are prescribed for finite periods. And there is a danger of habituation.

You might explain to your mother that when she stops using the pills she possibly will revert to insomnia for a day, or two or three. She should be patient during that period. She will eventually resume normal sleep habits. The real reason for prescribing short-acting sleeping pills in such situations as your mother's is to prevent a temporary insomnia condition from developing into a chronic one, which would be more difficult to overcome. See the booklet, "Why Can't You Sleep?" Other readers may order by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Our little boy has a high fever that is staying on. His doctor suspects spinal meningitis. He is going to do a spinal tap. Isn't that dangerous in someone so young? Why is it being done? — H.S.

A spinal tap (or lumbar puncture) sounds dangerous, but it isn't, really. And it is essential to find out what's going on so the doctor can tell what to do.

In the spinal tap, a very slender needle is inserted through the back muscles into an area next to the spinal cord. Spinal fluid is removed. The back is anesthetized. You feel nothing more than you feel when the dentist works on your tooth after freezing the area around it.

Without that precious bit of spinal fluid, the doctor will never know for sure if your boy does have spinal meningitis. Nor would he know what kind of antibiotic to use.

if he does have an infection. The bacteria causing meningitis will be present in the fluid.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: You were asked by a reader to explain the connective tissue disorder, Ehlers Danlos syndrome. You did a beautiful job. May I bring to your attention that a foundation exists for people with this and their families. There are probably many people within your reading distance who may have this condition and don't know where to turn for help. I hope you will print the foundation's address. — N.A.H.

Glad to. It's the Ehlers Danlos Foundation, P.O. Box 1212, Southgate, Mich. 48196. I hope you send a copy of your literature to me.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Club notes

Gold Star Mother's Day observed

The Big Spring Chapter of American Gold Star Mother observed Gold Star Mother's Day, proclaimed by Mayor Cotton Mize on Sept. 28.

The proclamation was presented to the chapter by Mrs. Edna Peacock, Dorothy Tischler, department president in El Paso, and Betty O'Brien, installing chaplain, installed new officers.

Officers for 1986-'87 are Odell Turner, president; Kathryn Thomas, first vice president; Elida Hernandez, second vice president; Martha Moody, chaplain; Edna Perkins, secretary; Edna Peacock, treasurer; Viola Burchett, Americanism chairman; and Annie Smith, historian.

Chapter members will assist the Salvation Army with dressing of the dolls for underprivileged children.

Hospital chairman reported that refreshments were served at the VA Medical Center on Sept. 18 by Martha Moody, Edna Peacock, Kathryn Thomas and Annie Smith.

Next meeting will be Nov. 13 at the home of Mrs. Moody.

Comparable work topic at meeting

Rose von Hassell spoke about economic self-sufficiency to the Business and Professional Women's Club at their recent meeting.

She said, "Women must realize that comparable work means protection for their future, something all women deserve. If the fight for pay equity continues, by the year 2,000, pay equity will exist. We will look back and say how could we ever have accepted this 59 cents on the dollar salaries for women."

Approximately 13 states have laws that require public and private employers to pay equally for comparable work, von Hassell said.

Education is essential for affected legislation change, she added. It was announced at the meeting that National Business Women's Week is Oct. 20-26. It will be observed with a Dutch treat buffet breakfast on Oct. 25 at 8:30 a.m. at the Park Inn.

The club voted to raffle tickets for $1 to give away a $50 bag of groceries. The drawing will be Nov. 11. The winner doesn't have to be present.

Mary Watson, president, announced the District Eight meeting in Midland, Oct. 11 and 12.

Secretaries discuss memberships

The Big Spring Educational Secretaries Association met Sept. 22 and discussed the correspondence from the state educational secretaries association.

State membership for last year was 5,334 with a goal of 6,000 members for 1986-'87. The state theme is "New Horizons — Don't Miss the Boat."

Colors are blue and gold; the emblem is the Texas star; and the flower is the bluebonnet.

Members were encouraged to attend the TESA Fall Conference in Richardson on Nov. 7, 8, and 9.

Programs were presented by Mildred Puckett, Charlotte Dalton, Darla Swindell, Micky Butts and Ima Dell Williams. They gave reports of sessions they attended at the TESA Summer Work Conference in June.

Refreshments were served by the executive board.

Grandma says yes to baby-sitting demands

DEAR ABBY: My brother and sister each have two hard-to-handle children under 5 years old, who (too frequently) are left with my mother to watch. In a few weeks our family will have a reunion at our cabin. This should be a time of rest and relaxation for my mother, who takes round-the-clock care of her own frail mother.

I overheard my brother and sister talking about getting together with other family members to go golfing at the cabin. I'm sure they expect Mom to watch their kids while they play golf.

My mother is the type who can't say no, especially to her family. Poor Mom looks so tired most of the time, and I know it's because her grandchildren run her ragged. I've hinted about this to my brother and sister, but they pay no attention, and I always end up baby-sitting when Mom can't stay awake any longer. At her age, she shouldn't be taking care of kids eight hours a day.

Maybe if they see this in print, it will sink into their thick heads.

T.S. IN ST. PAUL

DEAR T.S.: Don't bet on it. Obviously your hints are not getting through to your brother and sister. It's kind of you to want to help your tired old mother, but unless she herself gathers the courage to say "Enough!" and you quit rushing in to rescue her, nothing will change.

DEAR ABBY: I am so mixed up and hurt I thought I would write to you for advice.

I've been going with this man for five years. (I'll call him Joe.) We both lost our mates seven years ago. I care for him very much and I know he cares for me. We are both in our 60s and have a good relationship.

I got a call from his cousin the other day. She told me that when Joe goes up north, he is going to see another woman. Abby, I need some advice. Should I come right out and tell him what I heard? Or should I keep my mouth shut?

His cousin delights in telling me catty little things about Joe, knowing it upsets me.

ALWAYS THE LAST TO KNOW

DEAR LAST: I don't know what your "good relationship" with Joe involves. If you are his one and only, and he is supposed to be yours, tell him what you heard. And be sure to tell him who told you. If you have no commitments to each other, keep your mouth shut.

DEAR ABBY: I applaud your response to the letter from "Clean and Not Worried," advocating a law requiring everyone to submit to drug testing. You are one of the few people I've heard of who is not willing to jump on the bandwagon in favor of mandatory urine testing.

As a staff sergeant in the U.S. Air Force, I am subject to no-notice, routine drug testing. I have seen what happens when the presumption of innocence and the need for probable cause are disregarded.

In the Air Force, one positive urine sample (which is tested twice but is still not 100 percent reliable) results in a less than honorable discharge. Duty performance is not a consideration. Many lives and families have been ruined by a policy that is based on the false premise that a person is only as good as his/her bodily waste. I would hate to see everyone in this country living with the constant fear and uncertainty that I do.

Too many people in our great country are willing to relinquish the rights that I have pledged to give my life to defend. What a sad state of affairs.

CLEAN BUT WORRIED IN TACOMA

DEAR ABBY: My 30-year-old college-educated wife of eight years continually insists on using my toothbrush, knowing full well how much it disgusts and angers me.

I have begged, pleaded and yelled with no success. How can I stop her? Or is it me?

DAVID IN STATE COLLEGE, PA.

DEAR DAVID: The obvious answer would be to "give her the brush" (a little pun there), but that seems rather extreme for such a minor infraction. The other option: Buy yourself a new toothbrush, and hide it. She may bristle, but it is a solution.

(To get Abby's booklet, "How to Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old," send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (3¢ cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 38823, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.)

Fall Art Show slated for Oct. 17-19

Sheree Moates discussed a seminar she attended at a recent meeting of the Crossroads Fine Arts Association.

Moates attended a seminar instructed by Dalhart Windberg in South Texas. She discussed the possibility of the artist coming to Big Spring.

Plans were finalized for the association's Fall Art Show. It will be Oct. 17-19 at the Big Spring Mall. Jerry Provenza will chair the show.

Next meeting of the Crossroads Fine Arts Association will be Oct. 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the art department of Howard College.

Ax murderer arrested for DWI

LANCASTER — After three women were hacked to death in this far south Dallas suburb, police believe, the killer got into a station wagon belonging to one of them and sped south on Interstate 45, where he was arrested about 100 miles away in Leon County for driving while intoxicated.

But it was Monday morning, 36 hours later, before the grisly murder scene was discovered. By the time an all-points bulletin could be released with a description of the stolen car, the man had already been released from jail, authorities said Tuesday.

The man, described as the only suspect in the triple killing, was believed to have hitchhiked to Houston after his release about 10 a.m. Monday, officials said.

The Leon County sheriff's department in Centerville, halfway between Dallas and Houston, didn't know about the triple slaying when it freed the man, dispatcher Bob Gresham said.

Bill to curb early prison release

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill approved on the final day of the special session makes violent offenders ineligible for a program that triggers automatic release for many inmates.

The House and Senate Tuesday sent the bill to Gov. Mark White, who signed it into law Tuesday night.

Under current state law, inmates must be released under the "mandatory supervision" of the parole board when their actual time served plus "good-time" credit equals their prison term.

Opponents of the law say dangerous criminals are being returned to the street by the program. They cited the case of Jerry "Animal" McFadden, who was out of prison after his third rape conviction when he was charged with murdering one of three Hawkins youths found slain last spring.

McFadden later escaped and led authorities on a three-day manhunt in northeastern Texas before he was captured. He has since been convicted of aggravated robbery in another case and sent back to prison.

Under the bill approved Tuesday, inmates convicted of crimes such as capital murder, aggravated kidnapping, aggravated robbery or aggravated sexual assault would no longer be eligible for the "mandatory supervision" release program.

House sponsor Bob Melton, D-Gatesville, said the bill "unties the hands of the Board of Pardons and Paroles" by guaranteeing it will review all violent offenders before they are released.

"It makes them do the job they are there for, to say whether someone is rehabilitated enough to be released," Melton said.

The House added an amendment that revises the state's Prison Management Act. That act, approved in 1981, requires the release of some inmates when the state's prison population hits 95 percent of capacity.

The population has teetered near that level in recent weeks.

Under the House amendment, later approved by the Senate, the release provisions of the Prison Management Act, would not take effect unless the prison population remained at 95 percent for five consecutive days, or 20 days in a 30-day period.

Papal visit expected to rally church

AUSTIN (AP) — Next year's visit by Pope John Paul II is an opportunity for Texas Catholics to instill new vitality into the church in the state, the bishop of El Paso says.

The Most Rev. Raymundo J. Pena said Texas Catholics should rally behind the scheduled papal visit and begin a renewed effort toward evangelizing, or bringing the word of the Catholic faith to others.

"Because his visit will be historic, it is most important that we make it possible for this great event to be the beginning of a new era in Christianity in Texas," Pena said.

Pena's speech was the keynote address Monday for the 20th annual Texas Catholic Conference being held this week. The conference is the statewide organization of the 13 Texas Roman Catholic Dioceses.

Pena said all Catholics should be responsible for the renewed emphasis on evangelization, and he said the process should include all ethnic groups and cultures.

"It is the responsibility of this church — it is our responsibility — to evangelize the Lone Star State. Our challenge is to evangelize the culture, the ethos that is Texas," he said.

A change has come

"I was born by the river, in a little tent, just like the river I've been running every since. It's been a long, a long time coming, but I know a change is gonna come. Yes it is."

Those are the lyrics of a 1965 song by the late-great Sam Cooke. It was one of my favorite tunes in my early youth. Early Saturday morning, after I missed a 1:30 p.m. deadline by almost an hour, I started to hum that tune for some reason.

Then I started to think back on the Big Spring Steers' 22-17 win over the Sweetwater Mustangs. Three years ago, when I first arrived in Big Spring, the Steers were a joke in District 4-5A, and had a home crowd that left in the fourth quarter.

This year the Steers are 3-1 and in first place in their district, coming off an upset over the defending state champions.

All of a sudden the crowds are staying until the final buzzer, and there's a whole new attitude of confidence and dignity in the Spring City.

And don't think it will go to the team's head and make them believe they're invincible. The success has been too hard to come by. The Steers will be willing to do anything they can do to keep that success, because they are just getting a good taste of it.

With their 22-17 win over the Mustangs, the Steers proved to those who doubted that they are for real. They proved to all non-believers that they are a team that knows how to dig deep, to get that winning edge.

It would have been so easy for them to fold when Sweetwater held a 10-point lead near the halfway point of the fourth quarter. They could have said "Oh well, we played them a good game, let's hope we win the rest of our games." But they didn't.

Instead, they came out fighting, like a boxer punching to survive in the corner. They hit the Mustangs with a stout jab when Phillip Mathews returned a punt 60 yards for a score. They fired another sharp jab when Brian Mayfield intercepted a pass at the Big Spring 32-yardline.

Then the Steers K-O'd their opponent with a roundhouse right when they marched 68 yards in 11 plays for the winning score.

When it was all over it was a sight to behold. Thousands of Steer fans standing on their feet cheering and the Steers celebrating in the middle of the field. It was a much welcomed sight from previous years of seeing the team file quietly to their bus and hearing the fans mumble about what could have been if this and that had happened.

But all of this didn't happen on a stroke of luck or a "hot streak". It all started three years ago when Coach Quinn Eudy and his staff started drilling into their players' heads that someday they would be winners.

And now they are winners.

Now I know why I started humming that tune.

'Stangs dump spikers

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Last night at Steer Gym, the Sweetwater Mustangs hardly resembled a team that was 1-6 in league volleyball play. What they did resemble was a talented team led by three spikers, as they gunned down the Big Spring Lady Steers 11-15, 15-8, 15-7 in District 2-4A action.

Led by Cheryl Owens, Angela Goodman and Sharon Smith, the Mustangs spiked and blocked their way to victory over the home team. With Owens leading the way, the trio combined for 23 kills.

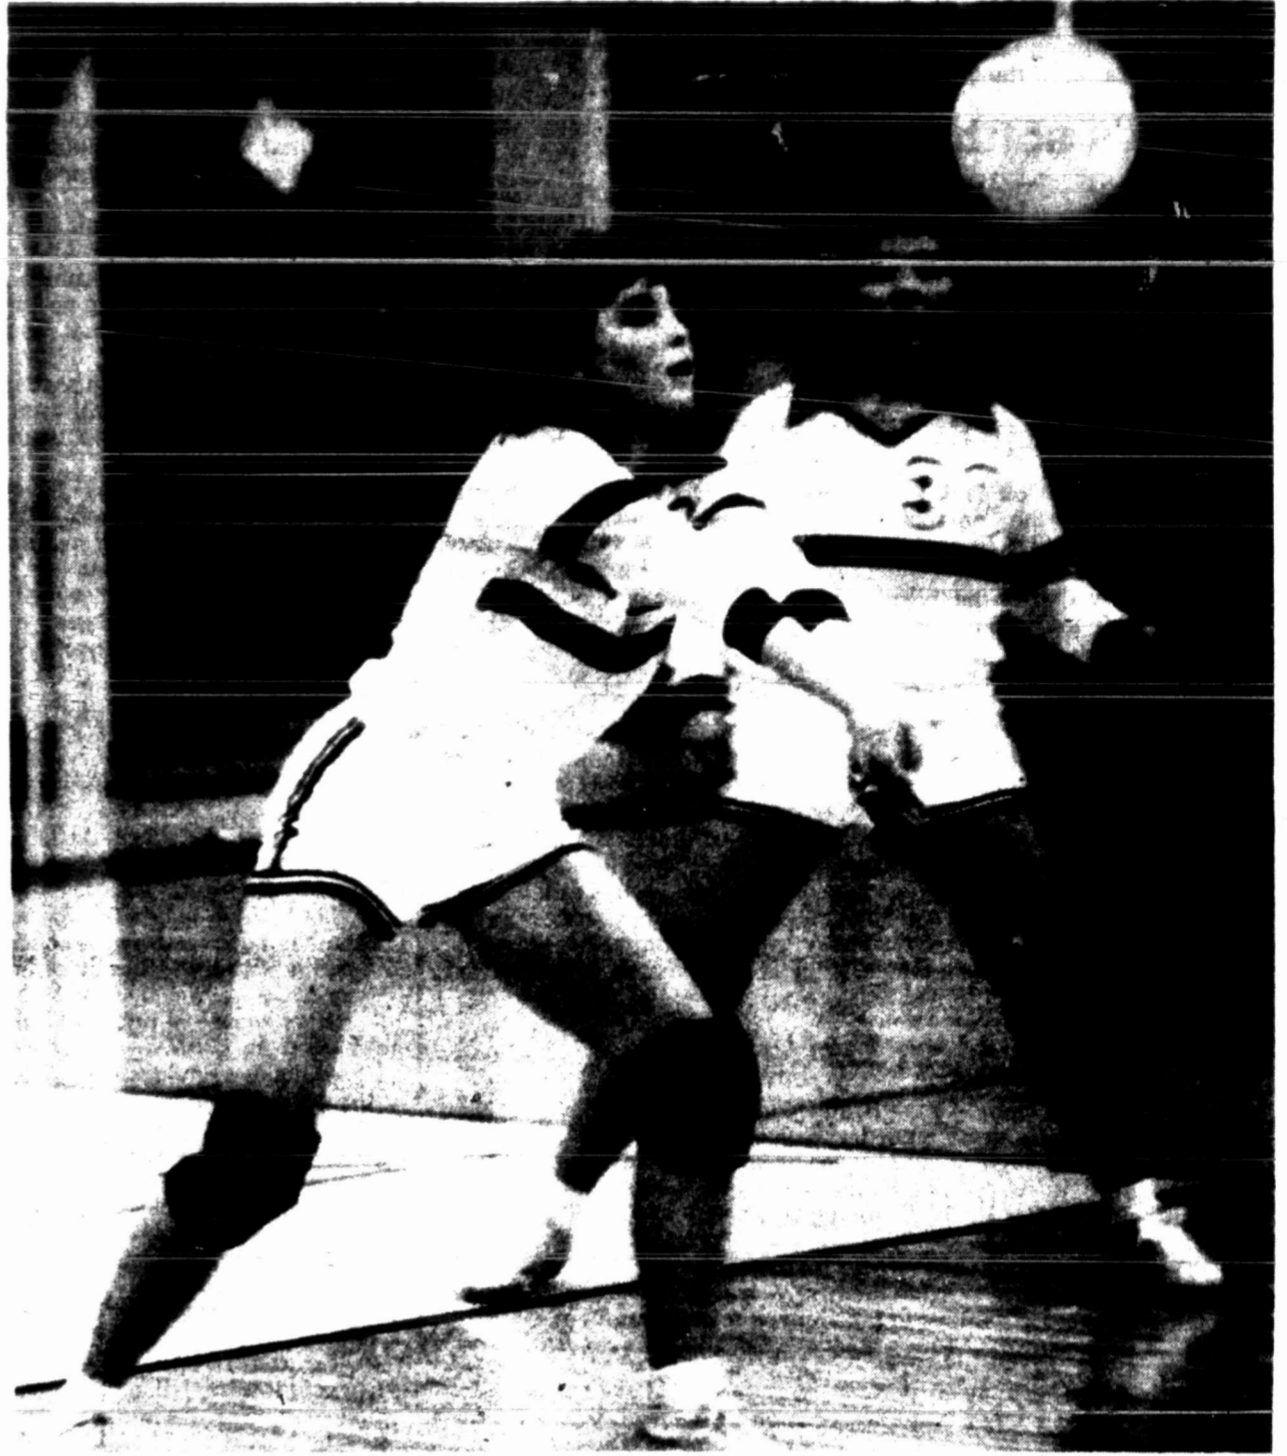

Owens, a 5-9 senior and a star athlete in basketball and track, burned the Lady Steers defense 11 times in 22 kill attempts. Goodman, a 5-6 junior, downed 6 of 10 kills and had three blocks. Smith, a 5-9 sophomore, downed six spikes in 10 tries.

Sweetwater coach Sylvia Wallace said with her team's recent play, there was no doubt in her mind that it could come out of Steer Gym with a win. "We just came off winning the Vernon tournament this weekend. The girls were really fired up," she said. "We're on a roll. Winning the tournament and this game built up our morale and confidence. Now I think we'll come on as a team."

The Lady Steers got off to a fast start, jumping out to a 5-2 lead and winning the first game 15-11. Led by Katrina Thompson, the Lady Steers tried the Sweetwater defense time after time with kills. In the end, too many Sweetwater mishits led to Big Spring's victory.

Thompson, who downed three spikes in the opening match win, finished the game with seven kills in 11 attempts. Big Spring downed 12 of 27 attempts in the first match while Sweetwater converted on 11 of 19 kills.

In the second match, Owens, Goodman and Smith started to assert themselves even more. They constantly banged away at the Lady Steer defense. With the exception of Sheri Myrick and Kathryn Burrow, who combined for six blocks, the Lady Steers had little success in blocking their hard hits. Myrick played a strong game, getting four blocks and downing six of 15 spike attempts.

Sweetwater jumped out to a 5-1 lead, stretched it 12-1, and it was clear sailing after that. Sweetwater downed eight of 13 kills in the second match. Big Spring was seven of 16. In the end, Sweetwater won the spiking war, making good on 27 of 49 attempts, for 55 percent. Big Spring finished the game with 26 kills in 60 attempts, for 43 percent. The rubber match, was much like the second. Sweetwater jumped out to a 6-4 lead and soon stretched it 12-5. By that time the Lady Steers were trying so hard they were making mistakes on easy plays.

And then there was Owens, Goodman and Smith, who continued to pound away at a weary Lady Steers defense. The trio combined for five kills shots as took a 6-4 lead. Then they combined for four more as Sweetwater built up an insurmountable 12-5 lead. From then on it was only a matter of time until the visitors put Big Spring away.

The Lady Steers fall to 2-6 in district play and 6-12 overall. Sweetwater evens its record to 8-8 for the season.

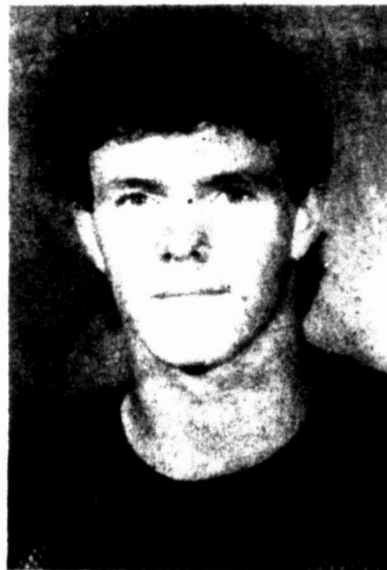

JV's win, freshmen lose
In other action at Steer Gym, the junior varsity Lady Steers hung on for a 14-15, 15-10, 17-15 win. The win raises their district record to 4-4. They are 8-8 for the season.

The freshmen Lady Steers fell to Sweetwater 12-15, 15-10, 11-15. The freshmen are now 3-11 for the season.

The frosh, JV and varsity will play Pecos Tuesday at Steer Gym. The frosh's next game will be Saturday at 10 a.m. in Steer Gym versus Seminole.

Forsan QB, Sands DB head honor roll picks

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

A Forsan quarterback who passed for three touchdowns and a Sands defensive back who made three interceptions top this week's Honor Roll of the outstanding performances in the Crossroads County area last Friday.

Forsan's air attack came alive in the Buffaloes' 24-14 win over Greenwood, due to an outstanding game from junior quarterback Brant Nichols. Nichols completed 15 of 22 passes for 196 yards and three touchdowns to lead the Buffaloes to their fourth win without a loss. For his efforts, Nichols gets the nod for the Offensive Player of the Week.

Damien Zarate, Sands' sophomore safety, intercepted three Dawson passes and had three tackles in the Mustangs 40-12 district opener win at Dawson. Zarate's ability to be at the right place at the right time earned him this week's Defensive Player of the Week Award.

In Forsan's win, Nichols benefited from strong performances by his receiving corps. Lee Morris caught six passes for 95 yards and two touchdowns, and Brandy Bryan caught four for 48 yards and one score. Wayne Wright ran the ball 21 times for 91 yards to balance the Buffalo attack.

Sands' Jay Fryar is becoming a regular in the honor roll. Against Dawson, Fryar had what is an average outing. The junior runner ran through the Dragons six-man defense for 171 yards on 21 carries and three touchdowns. He also completed six of 13 passes for 106 yards and two touchdowns. Teammate Chad Nichols had a good game himself, catching four passes for 72 yards and two touchdowns.

Starring offensively for Borden County in its big 57-32 win over Klondike was Brice Key, with 106 yards on ten carries, and Rocky Harbar, with 98 yards on 14 carries.

For Klondike, Cisco Arrendando ran for 231 yards on 24 carries in the losing effort. Colorado City tight end Reggie Gardner also had a big game in a losing effort, catching four passes for 65 yards, including a 20-yard touchdown catch for the Wolves lone score.

Stanton, like the other Buffaloes from Forsan, remained undefeated, beating Plains 14-12. Skip Hopkins completed five of 12 passes for 103 yards and one touchdown. That's a 20-yards per completion average. Carlos Ortiz caught three of Hopkins' passes, including the touchdown. On the ground, Greg Barnhill gained 88 yards on 17 carries for the Buffaloes.

Defensively, Coahoma linebacker Anthony Hernandez had a big game in the Bulldogs 28-6 loss to Abilene Wylie. The junior HONOR ROLL page 2B

Steers strongman returns

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

Even before the Big Spring Steers practiced for the first time in early August, the coaches knew their senior defensive front line of Todd Coker, Dickie Kelley and Jay Burcham would be one of the team's major strengths. On the first practice in full pads, that powerful front line took a big blow.

Burcham, the 6-3, 239-pound strongman, was giving a blocker a head shiver when he caught his finger in the blocker's helmet. As Burcham tells it, the blocker fell one way, he fell the other, and his finger was "ripped down the middle." It was the third time Burcham had broken that hand. As a result, Burcham missed all of preseason and the first two games.

"I hated it. Sitting on the bench was the hardest thing I've done in my life," Burcham said. Burcham had practiced the week before the Lakeview game, but did not work out in pads. Nevertheless, the big tackle played two quarters in the district opening win and was satisfied with his first effort. Needless to say, his coaches and teammates were happy to have him back.

"They really have to double team Jay because he's going to whip them one on one. When teams double team him and Coker then the linebackers are free. And we feel like any time they single team them, they should make the play," said Steer defensive coordinator Mickey Finley.

Todd Coker, who lines up next to Burcham at the noseguard, couldn't have been happier to have his big partner back. "It keeps us all fired up when we're all three in there, me, Dickie and Jay. We feel strong when all three of us are playing — we're real solid up front."

...Steers def. tackle

Burcham is glad to be back for a multitude of reasons. For one, he has received letters from all the Southwest Conference schools except Arkansas, and has also been contacted by big football schools like Nebraska, Alabama and Georgia. This weekend, Abilene Christian invited Jay and his family down to Abilene for the game against Southern Missouri. A few nights later, Southern Missouri called. They want the Burchams there too.

Burcham has an 87.3 average, and plans to major in psychology. He wants to go to a school that will give him a good education, and he realizes his parents want him to stay close to home so they can see him play. Of all the schools, Abilene Christian has contacted Jay the most, but...

"Playing Southwest Conference ball sounds great. It would be a dream come true," Burcham said, and it's easy to tell from the sparkle in his eye that he's hoping for the big time. Nevertheless, most of Burcham's thoughts are on the immediate future.

"My main goal for this year is for Big Spring to go to state, because I think we deserve it more than anyone else. We've been waiting a long time to win. This group (the seniors) has won together alot. In seventh and eighth grade we were undefeated. And we feel unstoppable right now.

"The way we played last week and the momentum we have — we don't think anyone can beat us. And we want to play Estacado again. That's our main motivation."

Burcham said he's had only one truly lousy game in his career, and that was last year's Estacado game, when the injury plagued tackle had his sternum cracked. This year, Burcham, Mike Cahill, Danny Williams, Robert Sumner and James Harlan missed the Estacado game, and everyone knows what happened.

If he does get another shot at Estacado, Burcham will play his game — the power game.

"My strength is my strength, really. I can overpower anyone I go against. I feel like I can intimidate anybody I play. It's never bothered me going against Permian or Lee."

Burcham doesn't sound like he's bragging when he speaks these words. He can bench press 440 pounds, and he's just telling it like it is. But Burcham also knows what it's like to be the small guy on the line. When he started on the offensive line as a sophomore, he weighed just 170 pounds. He said it was not uncommon to line up against a 250-pounder from Permian or Lee.

Burcham's size and strength, he's quick to point out, is all natural.

Sports briefs

Cross-country team has meet

The Big Spring Lady Steers cross-country team has a meet Saturday at 10 a.m. at the old Air Force base.

Men's softball tourney

STANTON — The Stanton Fall Classic Men's Slow-Pitch Softball Tournament will be this weekend at the Stanton softball field. Entry fee is $100 per team and the first five teams will receive team trophies. The first three teams will also receive individual trophies. There will also be awards for an all-tournament team, MVP, golden glove and sportsmanship.

To enter call Robbie Dickenson at 756-3240 (home) or 756-2681 (work).

Chicano golf tourney planned

The Chicano Golf Club will have its Grand Tournament Saturday and Sunday at the Comanche Trail Golf Course. The tournament is for members only.

The tee-off is scheduled for 11 a.m., or before. A barbecue dinner will be served after the tournament. After the tee-offs, other golfers will be able to begin playing.

Hockey comes to Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Wayne Gretzky, who helped draw a sellout crowd of 16,656 to Reunion Arena in a special NHL Texas exhibition, earned an assist on Paul Coffey's goal, but failed to score despite repeated chances as the Edmonton Oilers defeated the Detroit Redwings 3-1. Edmonton's Coffey blasted home a screened shot from the blue line midway through the second period to lead the Oilers Tuesday night in the first National Hockey League exhibition played in Texas.

Jari Kurri, last year's leading NHL goal-scorer, added an insurance goal into the Detroit net with just under a minute to play. The goal capped a period in which Edmonton swarmed over the Red Wings and held them to just four shots.

Cavaliers sign Daugherty

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Brad Daugherty, the first player taken in this year's NBA draft, signed a six-year, $6 million contract today, making him the highest-paid player in Cleveland Cavaliers' history. Daugherty averaged 14.2 points and 7.4 rebounds a game in four years with the Tar Heels, including 20.2 points and nine rebounds a game as a senior.

The Cavaliers did not disclose terms of the contract, but it was reported to be worth $500,000 the first year, with raises each year bringing Daugherty's salary in the sixth year to $1.5 million.

linebacker tackled 11 Abilene runners and intercepted a pass. In Colorado City's 32-7 loss to Ballinger, sophomore linebacker Jerry Hulme had a busy night with 19 assisted tackles, three unassisted tackles and one sack.

In Garden City's 27-6 loss at Robert Lee, Doyle Schaefer intercepted a pass, and Mike Kenyon continued to show steady improvement from the defensive end position.

For Borden County, Mickey Burkett turned in another fine defensive performance. The senior linebacker had 13 tackles and one interception. Brice Key had 11 tackles, and Shannon Bond had ten. Substitute defensive back Kerry Fryar came in and made a big play in the first half, intercepting a Klondike pass and returning it for a touchdown.

Though the young Grady Wildcats lost 70-25 to Loop, they did have several outstanding offensive performances. Walton Stone, the lone senior on the squad, had a 52-yard run on the hideout play. Stone and freshman Scott Glaze combined to complete 23 passes for 295 yards. Two of Stone's passes went to freshman Julian Valle for touchdowns. Glaze also had two touchdowns rushing.

Kareem to extend contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, at 39 the NBA's senior player and all-time leading scorer, is on the verge of signing a one-year extension of his $2 million contract with the Los Angeles Lakers, it was reported Wednesday.

But the 7-foot-2 center told the Los Angeles Times that serious financial problems he's faced in recent years aren't forcing him to extend his playing career.

"At the end of this season, if I feel good about next year and the Lakers feel good about me coming back, then I'll come back," Abdul-Jabbar said. "I'm playing now because I want to play, and the Lakers want me to play. I think I belong."

"I'm not going to play just to be taking down a check," he added. "I still want to contribute, and if I have something to contribute, I'll stay another year."

Abdul-Jabbar is suing Tom Collins, his former agent and business manager, for $55 million. He alleges that mismanagement of funds and fraud have left him unable to pay debts, but said he is not seriously in debt.

"At this point, I can't speak forever, but the financial thing we've been able to keep at bay,"

Abdul-Jabbar said. "But it's been very difficult and it's still not resolved yet. That's all I can say about it."

Abdul-Jabbar averaged 23.4 points per game last season, his best since 1981-82, and was named to the All-NBA team for the 10th time.

Abdul-Jabbar had previously indicated he would retire after the coming season. But he said in the interview that he's talked to Lakers General Manager Jerry West for more than a year about extending his contract, and that serious negotiations began in July.

West said Tuesday that "the signing of Kareem is imminent." He indicated that Abdul-Jabbar will earn at least $2 million for the 1987-88 season.

Abdul-Jabbar's lawsuit against Collins, filed July 18, alleges that Collins mismanaged Abdul-Jabbar's finance to such an extent that Abdul-Jabbar was frequently required to borrow money from Collins in order to meet living expenses.

Collins allegedly had complete control over Abdul-Jabbar's personal and business finances from Nov. 15, 1980, to Jan. 31, 1986.

The suit alleges that Collins made a series of multimillion-dollar real estate deals on Abdul-Jabbar's behalf, and also had Abdul-Jabbar sign bank notes obligating him for complete liability even though he did not have controlling interest.

Collins, who filed a cross-complaint against Abdul-Jabbar Aug. 22 for breach of contract, denied all of Abdul-Jabbar's charges in an answer to the complaint.

The Times said repeated attempts to reach Collins failed, and that a spokesman contacted by phone at Collins' office said he was out of town.

Donald P. Rivers, Collins' attorney, said Collins "is obviously hurt and disappointed by this. He and Kareem had a pretty good relationship for a long time, but it's too bad it had to end with a lot of finger-pointing."

In addition to Abdul-Jabbar, the Times said that Ralph Sampson of the Houston Rockets, Terry Cummings of the Milwaukee Bucks, Alex English of the Denver Nuggets, Brad Davis of the Dallas Mavericks and Ricky Sobers of the Seattle SuperSonics are among those who've had Collins as an agent.

According to an unidentified source quoted by the newspaper, all but Cummings have dropped Collins as an agent in recent months.

"I despise steroids — it's a stereotype for weightlifters. I've had more people ask me if I use them, and that really bothers me," said Burcham, who has been working out with weights with his father since he was 12.

"It's because of him that I'm as good as I am — he spends three hours a day pushing me in the weight room."

"Jay is an extremely strong boy, but he works hard at it. Jay Boy's done it on his own. We've encouraged and helped him, but nobody works like Jay," said Jay's father Skip, who's no skinny weakling himself. The big father can bench press 425 pounds.

"He used to have two-a-days (practices), and then lift with me. You don't make a kid do that. They have to want to do that, and Jay Boy wants to do it."

Jay's father didn't let him start working with weights until he was 12, and started letting Jay work with him as soon as he could bench press 245. At 15, his sophomore year, he set a school record with a 405 pound bench press. He will only be 17 when he graduates (the colleges surely must like that), and hopes to grow and increase his bench press by next year.

"I'd like to about 6-5, 260, and solid muscle," Jay said, adding that he hopes to bench 520 by next year.

"Me, Todd and Dickie Kelley are the strongest people, both physically and mentally, in the district. There's no doubt in my mind — we have a tough defensive line.

"You could go to the weight room on any given day, and find James (Weaver), Deeg (Young), Todd and Dickie. That's why we're doing so good this year, because we lifted weights all summer."

"We're the fastest, biggest and meanest defense in the district. We don't take cheap shots, but if we have the chance, we're going to tear their heads off," Burcham said, possibly as a warning to the offenses in District 2-4A.

Burcham and his teammates are off this weekend, which gives Cahill and Williams a chance to get well and join Burcham as a more than welcome returnee to a defense that should only get better as the season gets older.

Burcham, for one, can't wait to get on with the season. The Sweetwater win only increased his desire.

"That's the most people I've ever seen (at one of our games.) That's what boosted us along more than anything, because it's a lot easier to play when you have people cheering for you."

"And almost as much as to beat them in front of our people we wanted to beat them in front of the Sweetwater crowd — they were so cocky."

"The Odessa win (last year) doesn't even compare. We got recognition for this. It was great, great," Burcham said. It's clear he won't soon forget what happened on Sept. 26 in Memorial Stadium, in front of the home crowd.

Landry's 'all business' against assistants

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Tom Landry has former assistants throughout the NFL, but he doesn't buy them dinner when his Dallas Cowboys come calling. It's business, you understand.

"I don't think you can concentrate in a social atmosphere," Landry says. "That's why I don't see 'em until I see them across the field. We don't go out to dinner or socialize."

For the second straight week, Landry will be taking on a former assistant. This time it's Denver Coach Danny Reeves in a Sunday afternoon game in Mile High Stadium. They've never matched X's and O's against each other before.

Landry is fresh off a 31-7 victory Monday night over another former assistant, Gene Stallings.

"It's always a special game to go against someone you worked with," Landry says. "But you don't think that much about it when the game starts."

Landry is 11-2-1 against his former assistants.

Asked in a telephone hookup with the media if that bothered him, Reeves said, "Coach Landry has a record like that against everybody else, too. I thought he should have been Coach of the Year last season for winning the NFC East."

Reeves said it is nevertheless exciting to go against Landry.

"We're trying to mold our organization here like the Cowboys," he said. "Just about everything I do I learned from him."

Reeves joked that the only time

Landry let him call plays from the press box "was when it was third and long. I never got to call any of those first-and-10 plays."

The Cowboys, who are 3-1 overall against the Broncos including a 27-10 victory in Super Bowl XII in 1978, lost 41-20 to Denver in 1980.

"It's tough to play a Monday night game then go there," Landry said. "We just tell our players not to think about the altitude. We don't worry about it because there is no way you can get used to it."

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, OCT. 2, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: During the daytime you find you will have considerable ingenuity in organizing and arranging your business and personal affairs in a very orderly fashion.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get fine advice from influential people how best to further your own interests. Enjoy a hobby you like.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get into some new form of pleasure and also show your creative talents. Plan that trip you want.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get home conditions improved so that those who dwell with you will be happier there, too.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Contact outside partners and talk over plans for the future and bring success.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You can see ways to have a greater income by doing some extra work or earning a raise. Listen to co-workers.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make appointments for the social life that you like and tonight do whatever will build your vitality.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Try to add to the tranquility you now enjoy at home and make your life more ideal. Please your family.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get together with associates and clear up any misunderstandings. Avoid a scheme this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can get some fine suggestions on how to handle some important matter, so see an expert.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have personal ideas that are good and should put them in motion to gain great benefits.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Rid yourself of responsibilities you no longer want to be bothered with. Help your mate.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try to be of assistance to both partners and friends today and you can further your own interests.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will early be able to get conditions around him, or her, well organized so that they will run smoothly. Teach to be aware of the motives behind any undertaking, or your progeny could later in life be expending energy on something wrong without knowing it.

Planning Senior Games at Stanton

STANTON — The Stanton Care Center will host the Regional Senior Games for several Permian Basin nursing homes at the Stanton Buffalo High School football field Oct. 11 at 1:30 p.m.

The following nursing homes are scheduled to compete: Golden Plains of Big Spring, with 20 competitors; Four Seasons of Odessa with five; Andrews nursing center with four; Terrace West of Midland with three; Deerings of Odessa with four; and Stanton Care Center with twelve.

The Stanton Center released information about the event recently. To kick off the event there will be a parade of banners from each nursing home. The Stanton Boy Scouts will present the colors, and Cleo Wolf, activity director of Terrace West, will sing the Star Spangled Banner and lead the Pledge of Allegiance.

Stanton Mayor Danny Fryar will welcome the honored guests and dignitaries. Forest Scott of Andrews, who is the Silver Haired Legislator for the elderly in Austin, will be among the dignitaries.

Balloons will be released before the games begin. The four events will be the discus (Frisbee), shot-put (softball), wheelchair races and the 50-yard dash.

Those who have made the games possible include: the Stanton Jaycees, the Noon Stanton Lions Club, the Rho XI Sorority, the Omega Gamma Sorority, First United Methodist Youth, and the First United Methodist Women.

Participants are scheduled to begin arriving at 1 p.m. Entertainment will include clowns, bands, singing groups, and cheerleaders. Everyone is invited.

In case of bad weather, the games will be conducted in the Martin County Community Center in Stanton.

Diving Lady Steers fall to Mustangs

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Lady Steers dove for balls, hustled and played with emotion, but it was not enough to overcome an offense which produced just three successful spikes and one dink in two games as the Lady Steers fell 15-13, 15-10 to Andrews Saturday afternoon in Steer gym.

In game one, Sheri Myrick had seven sets and three hits. Melanie Payne, a sophomore recently brought up from the jayvee, also had seven sets in the opening game.

The Lady Steers settled down and started playing good defense and making Andrews earn their points. With Katrina Thompson diving for balls, and the Lady Steers playing error free if not spectacular volleyball, the Big Spring girls closed the Andrews lead to 7-6.

Andrews' Lea Hamilton, however, strung together six points from her serve, and just about ended the Lady Steers' hopes by extending the Andrews' lead to 13-7.

The Lady Steers fought right back, with Michelle LaGrand serving low and hard for three points to close the lead to 13-10.

Andrews, though, won the next point for a 14-10 lead and match point. The Lady Steers staved off two match points, but could not gain ground on their service. Andrews closed out the match for their second district win and third win of the season.

The Lady Steers dropped to 2-5 in district play, and 6-11 overall.

Earlier, the Lady Steers jayvee lost 15-12 in the third game against the Andrews' jayvee.

Weddings

Jones-Meyer

Cindy Jones of Big Spring became the bride of Bruce Meyer of Big Spring at an evening ceremony on Sept. 27 at Hillcrest Baptist Church with Logan Peterson, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. E.L. Jones, 405 Pennsylvania. Bridegroom's parents are Joy Meyer and the late Bill Meyer, Rt. 3 Box 108.

The couple stood beneath an archway decorated with greenery, a seven-branch candelabra and two large arrangements of dusty rose flowers and greenery.

Organist was Beth Spence of Big Spring. Tammy Lockhart was vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a silk, sheer gown with embroidered lace fashioned with a molded bodice embellished with lace and pearls. It also featured a sheer, high yoke and standup collar of embroidered lace and mutton sleeves with lace lower sleeves. An A-line skirt with motifs of embroidered lace and pearls fell to rows of wide ruffles that edged the skirt and up the back of the chapel-length train.

She carried a cascading bouquet of silk ivory roses and baby's breath with English ivy and Swedish ivy.

Matron of honor was Vonda Lockhart of Big Spring. Bridesmaids were Lou Campbell, sister of the bride, of Abilene; Donna Henry, sister of the bride, of Big Spring; and Deborah Baremore, sister of the bridegroom, of Snyder.

Flower girls were Lindsey Lockhart and Ashley Baremore, niece of the bridegroom, both of Big Spring. Ring bearer was Jason Wright, nephew of the bridegroom, of Cullman, Ala.

Best man was Michael Meyer, brother of the bridegroom, of Panama City, Fla. Groomsmen were David Baremore, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, of Snyder; Jimmy Wright, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, of Cullman, Ala.;

MRS. BRUCE MEYER
...formerly Cindy Jones

and Charlie Burdette, uncle of the bridegroom, of Big Spring.

Ushers were Jeff Thompson and Ken Henson, both of Big Spring. Candlelighters were Allen Carlile of Big Spring and Kyle La Rochelle of Abilene, nephews of the bride.

Following the wedding, a reception was hosted at the fellowship hall of Hillcrest Baptist Church. The bride's table, draped with a burgundy underlay and lace cloth, featured a three-tiered wedding cake topped with bells and doves.

The bridegroom's table, draped with an ivory lace cloth, featured a German chocolate cake.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed at Big Spring Tire and Wheelco, Inc.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Coahoma High School and owns West Texas Off Road and Specialty Shop.

After a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will make their home in Big Spring.

Other Bourbons are just distilled. W.L. Weller is bred.

In Kentucky we nurture W.L. Weller every step of the way. We use only naturally-filtered limestone water and the finest grains. Then, to ensure smoothness, we add a touch of American wheat. The result is a Bourbon with the lineage of a champion since 1849, a handmade Kentucky sour mash that's bred for greatness.

Wedding

Eddins-Isaac

Lisa Marie Eddins, Rt. 1 Box 359A, and James (Jamie) D. Isaac, Cherry Point, N.C., exchanged wedding vows Sept. 6 at the First Presbyterian Church of Coahoma with Ray Bell, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Rick Eddins, Rt. 1 Box 359A. Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Isaac of Deane, Ky.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with two 12-inch spiral brass candelabras accented with white roses and blue ribbons with greenery.

Organist was Mrs. Woods.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white, formal-length gown of satin accented with a lace overlay and seed pearls. A fitted bodice was fashioned with lace and seed pearls and the long sleeves were made of sheer lace. Her headpiece featured a half cap highlighted with a long veil.

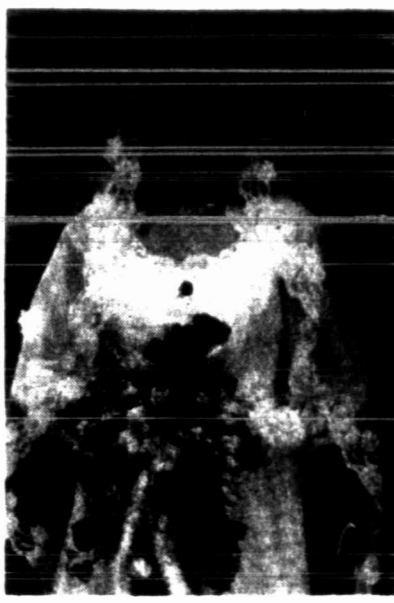

She carried a bouquet of white roses with baby's breath and white streamers of ribbon with a baby blue ribbon.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Karen Woods of Big Spring. Best man was James Isaac, father of the bridegroom.

Flower girl was Lori Eddins, sister of the bride. Ring bearer was Derrick Isaacs, brother of the bridegroom.

Ushers and candlelighters were Jim Kestermeier of Big Spring and Mark Breeding of Corpus Christi.

Following the wedding, a reception was hosted at the First Presbyterian Church. The bride's table, draped with a lace cloth, featured a two-tiered cake. A bouquet of roses in a brass container, crystal champagne glasses, brass candlesticks, blue candles and white flower rings decorated the table.

MRS. JAMES ISAAC
...formerly Lisa Eddins

The bridegroom's table featured a chocolate cake decorated with a picture of Jamie and Lisa in blue. Baby blue and white flowers, brass candlesticks, blue candles and white flower rings decorated the table.

The bride is a graduate of Coahoma High School.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Fleming Neon High School, attended the University of Kentucky and is serving the United States Marine Corp.

The couple will make their home at the military base in Cherry Point, N.C.

Performers can't wait

Orchestra members like Big Spring audiences

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Performers with The Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra are "honestly looking forward to their Big Spring visit," said Music Director and Conductor John Giordano.

"I think it (Big Spring audience) is one of our best audiences," he said about the chamber orchestra's anticipation of performing here on Oct. 2.

"We're never assuming that people in Big Spring, Snyder or Sweetwater don't have a high level of sophistication and taste for the arts," Giordano said about traveling to and performing in smaller towns.

"People in Big Spring love the orchestra. We always feel a tremendous appreciation here. You feel it when you're performing," he said.

Thursday night's 8 p.m. performance in the Big Spring High School Auditorium marks the fourth visit here by The Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra.

The concert is sponsored by The Big Spring Symphony Association in cooperation with the Cultural Affairs Council of the Chamber of Commerce as part of an October Artsfest celebration.

Tickets for the concert are $9 for adults and $5 for senior citizens and students. They are available at The Accent Shop, Blum's Jewelry, Jay's Farm & Ranch Service Center and the Chamber of Commerce office.

Concert goers will be treated to the legendary sounds of Ludwig van Beethoven.

Giordano who founded the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra in 1973 said the performance will begin with 12 of Beethoven's contredanses that are "very popular and charming."

Concert Master Robert Davidovici, a native of Romania, will perform Beethoven's violin concertos, which are "probably the most comprehensive and difficult pieces for a violinist to perform," Giordano said.

Following intermission, the chamber orchestra will perform Beethoven's Symphony No. 1 in C, he said.

The concert is expected to last about two hours, Giordano said.

The 35 members of the chamber orchestra have rehearsed Thursday's night performance 12 to 13 hours, Giordano said. The total number of solo hours each performer has practiced runs well over 100, he said.

The chamber orchestra will have performed Thursday night's program "a couple of times" before they arrive here, Giordano said.

Does Giordano favor conducting Beethoven over other legendary greats such as Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart?

"It doesn't really matter what composer you conduct. It's like comparing the great painters. They're just different," he said.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Home Realtors offers many services

Kay Moore of Home Realtors has stated "The American consumer is wiser and more demanding than ever, a person making what is possibly the largest purchase of their lives. Today, they are demanding and are entitled to receive additional services from their Real Estate firms."

Home Realtors' staff is experienced and well-acquainted with the many aspects involved in selling, buying and financing a home. In addition to this, they have many services to offer. They are members of HMS (Homeowners Marketing Services, Inc.). Through HMS, Home Realtors can now offer home warranties to its sellers and buyers which will eliminate the possibility of major costly repairs during the time the home is on the market and for the first year of occupancy for the buyer.

Home is exclusive local agent for RELO Relocation Service, the nation's largest referral network of independent real estate brokers, headquartered in Chicago. As a result, the company is actively involved in providing tips and advice to home owners.

Kay says that no one enjoys the potential trauma associated with the prospect of moving, but with careful planning one can avoid or at least minimize unnecessary frustration and aggravation.

Kay points out that many things are easily overlooked, which could prove disastrous and expensive if not accomplished in time. This is where a good realtor is very helpful.

The sales associates at Home Realtors never "rest on their laurels." Each one continues to develop expertise in the field through the firm's own training programs as well as industry seminars.

When you need a realtor, drop by Home's office at Coronado Plaza and get acquainted.
