How's that?

Parking

Q. Why do Big Spring High School students have to pay to park on the school parking lot?

A. The fee was enacted about 1966, with the concept that taxpayers are obligated to furnish the students an education, but not a place to park their cars, said Superintendent Lynn Hise.

The money is used to hire someone to be at the gate, to provide some security for the vehicles, he said.

Calendar

Prayer

TODAY

• The senior citizens dance will be 8 p.m. at Industrial Park Building No. 487. The Country Jammers band will play, and guests are welcome.

SATURDAY

• A mayor's prayer breakfast will be conducted from 8 to 9 a.m. at the Homestead Inn. The fee is $2. For reservations, call the Inn at 267-6303.

• The Howard County Youth Horseman Club will have an open playday at the club arena on Garden City Highway, with barrels, poles a flag race and a potato race. All area riders are invited. Entries will be accepted at 1 p.m. A concession stand will be open. The club will meet at 1 p.m. before the event begins.

• A bake sale from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at K mart and Giant food store will benefit the Headstart preschool program.

• A coffee reception will be held for 1910 through 1940 Big Spring High School graduates at 10 a.m. Saturday in the highschool library as part of Big Spring High School 1986 Homecoming activities. For more information, call Mildred McFall at 267-2437.

Inn back taxes under dispute

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

A newly formed corporation called People Loving People has taken possession of the Homestead Inn and the motel's back tax burden in the bargain.

At the same time, PLP corporation member and former motel manager B.J. Bateman is at odds with the city over how and when the taxes should be paid.

Meanwhile, the issue of the motel's three-month-old water bill was resolved when the property changed hands, said City Finance Director Tom Ferguson. In late September, City Council had threatened to turn off water to the business if a $4,645 bill wasn't paid promptly.

The inn's $4,645 water bill was adjusted to about $3,400 because a plumber's statement indicated the building's plumbing had leaks, Ferguson said. The bill has been sent to the Inn's former owner, Vern Johnson, who is now in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and its new owners have begun with a clean water slate, he said.

The motel's tax slate, however, remains clouded.

City tax records show Johnson owed the city more than $15,000 in hotel/motel occupancy taxes. The money represents the city's 7 percent tax share of the motel's $215,000 in revenue for the last quarter of 1985 and the first two in 1986, according to finance director Ferguson.

An ordinance passed in April by City Council makes property buyers liable for the former owner's back property taxes.

Bateman told Council on Sept. 29 that the corporation intends to "pay what we rightfully owe" to the city, along with $59,000 in debts to local businesses incurred by Johnson.

He reiterated that position Thursday but bristles at what he said was the city's turnaround on when the tax payment is due.

After talking with City Finance Director Tom Ferguson on one occasion, Bateman said he was left with the impression that under the ordinance, the $15,000 in back taxes could be subtracted from the motel's purchase price.

Under the purchase agreement, payment to Johnson is not due to 1991, according to both Bateman and Ferguson. According to Bateman, Ferguson told him the city would allow the corporation until 1991 to pay the tax.

Bateman said Ferguson later

Local store accused of tape pirating

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

A Big Spring videotape rental store is named in a lawsuit for alleged illegal duplication of videotape movies and their rental.

A civil lawsuit filed last month in the U.S. District clerk's office in Abilene accuses P&P Stereo videotape rental store of "duplicating videotape movies from legitimate videotapes and renting illegal copies," a field representative with the Film Security Office of the Motion Picture Association of America said today.

As a result of the suit, U.S. Attorney officers seized about 750 video cassettes, two VCRs and a copy machine from the store, 5 Highland Mall, on Oct. 1, the field rep said.

The suit names S.G. Peach and P&P Stereo as defendants.

Peach referred Big Spring Herald inquiries this morning to his attorney Richard Milstead.

Milstead refused to comment about the suit and said he "wouldn't disclose any information concerning his client's files."

P&P Stereo also declined comment.

Plaintiffs named in the suit include: Walt Disney Co., MGM Entertainment Co., Universal City Studios Inc., Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp., Warner Brothers Inc., Paramount Pictures Corp. and Columbia Pictures Ind. Inc.

The field rep said he had investigated P&P Stereo for a year. He said the alleged illegal rental copies distributed by P&P Stereo lacked factory labels and "heat stamps" used for identification purposes by legitimate videotape manufacturers.

He said the seized copy machine was utilized by store personnel to make photocopy labels for the phony rental tapes.

P&P Stereo is accused of violating the law by allegedly reproducing or distributing more than 65 "pirate tapes" within a 180-day period, the field rep said.

He said that civil federal statutes call for a $250 minimum fine each time an illegal videotape is reproduced or distributed.

School board OKs health insurance

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

A new employee health insurance plan was approved Thursday evening at a meeting of the Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees.

The plan had been presented and tabled at a Sept. 26 special meeting of the board.

Don Crockett, assistant superintendent for business, said the new plan will help contain future health care premiums. In the past six years, costs have more than doubled, he said.

"The utilization is not imprudent, but it appears to be increasing," he said.

Blue Cross representative Cliff Kammerdiener said the new plan will save money because it is more flexible than the old one.

Blue Cross literature shows that the new plan's premium, including the district's and employees' contributions, would be $759,104. Under the old plan, it would have been $781,599 this year.

The school district will pay approximately $500,000 under the new plan, while the old plan's cost for this year would have been $474,000.

Although the new plan represents a 7 percent increase over the old package, Crockett said at the Sept. 26 meeting that school officials anticipate it will save the district money in coming years.

Those employees who chose the higher priced package of the old plan will pay less, while those who chose the lower will pay more under the new plan, he said.

The vote was four in favor of the new plan, with board member Jimmy Anderson abstaining, to avoid a conflict of interest, he said. Anderson is a partner in a corporation which owns three local pharmacies.

In other business, the board: • Approved a new form for the evaluation of district administrators, counselors, librarians and other personnel who don't have classroom responsibilities.

Superintendent Lynn Hise said the form is an improvement. He said it "cuts to the heart of ad-

Immigration bill closer to passage

By LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Immigration legislation is entering a House-Senate conference, with sponsors confident of success but mindful that they came tantalizingly close to agreement two years ago — and failed.

The stage for another session-ending cliff-hanger was set Thursday night, when the House voted 230-166 for a bill designed to slow massive illegal immigration to the United States.

Congressman Charles Stenholm voted against the measure.

The bill has new wrinkles — a temporary amnesty for refugees from El Salvador and Nicaragua and provisions for foreign farm workers — but its foundation has not changed from past legislation.

The cornerstones remain a program of penalties for employers who hire undocumented workers; and amnesty for illegal immigrants who have held jobs, paid taxes and raised families here for many years.

As the 98th Congress drew to a close two years ago, immigration conferees reached agreement on

Boy survives near-drowning

OAKDALE, Calif. (AP) — A 2-year-old boy was submerged in a bone-chilling river for nearly 1½ hours and spent another two hours in a hospital emergency room before his heart started beating again, officials said.

Allen Smith was in critical condition early today at the University of California at Davis Medical Center in Sacramento after his Thursday afternoon ordeal.

A medical helicopter crew spotted his motionless body, face down and snagged on a rock 10 feet to 15 feet below the surface of the Stanislaus River. Rescuers in a boat pulled him to the surface.

The family lives near the river, and the boy's mother, Lynn Smith, had told her children never to play near the water.

The 90-minute search began when Allen's 4-year-old brother, Dennis Smith Jr., ran crying to his mother that the boy was in the river.

The toddler apparently survived because of a natural reflex, said Betty Larrabee, an emergency room nurse at Memorial Hospital here where the boy was first taken. If it is cold enough, the body shuts off its functions and the throat constricts, she said.

"If your heart stops you're not getting oxygen," she said. "But your body doesn't need any oxygen either." In this condition, little or no water enters the lungs.

Doctors and nurses initially told the Smiths that Allen probably wouldn't live.

"But they told us not to give up hope," said the father, Dennis Smith, 24.

The boy was placed under temperature-controlled lamps, and two hours later, Allen's pulse returned.

Late Thursday, his pulse was strong and his lungs were clear, hospital officials said. Although in critical condition, he was stable enough to be transferred to the Davis medical center.

Oakdale rural fire department Chief Tim Hubbel carries two-year-old Allen Smith from the Stanislaus River Thursday after the boy was submerged for nearly 90 minutes. The child was taken to a Modesto Hospital where his heart began beating after two hours. Doctors said his chances look good, but the next 24 hours are critical.

Conferees agree on water bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional conference committee has reached agreement on a comprehensive $15 billion national water projects bill that would be worth $724.5 million to Texas, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen announced.

Construction of eight new Texas water projects to provide flood control, navigational aids and recreational facilities are partially funded under the version agreed to by the conferees, said Bentsen, D-Texas.

If the compromise bill is passed by both houses and signed into law by the president it would be the first major water projects bill passed in ten years. Bentsen's office said total funding for the bill would be around $15 billion.

"I am pleased that the first major water projects measure since 1976 — the Water Resources Development Act — includes eight new Texas projects valued at $724.5 million," Bentsen said.

Texas taxpayers would be asked to share the cost of most of the projects, but the bill requires the federal government to pay fully for two of them.

Texas projects authorized for construction under the bill are:

—Brazos Island Harbor, a $31.8 million deep draft navigation and recreation project in the Port of Brownsville.

—Texas City Channel, a $199.7 million navigation project in Galveston Bay.

—Boggy Creek, Colorado River and tributaries, $23.9 million for a flood control and recreation project in the Austin area.

—Lake Wichita-Holliday Creek, $39 million for urban flood control in Wichita Falls.

—Lower Rio Grande Basin, $195.7 million for a joint Corps of Engineers-Soil Conservation Service flood control project in Hidalgo, Willacy and Cameron Counties.

—Sims Bayou, $126 million for flood control and recreation within the city limits of Houston, South Houston and Missouri City.

—Buffalo Bayou and tributaries, a $92 million flood control project providing protection to suburban Houston.

—Cooper Lake and channels, $14.8 million for mitigation of anticipated habitat losses from construction of the Cooper Lake project near Commerce.

Tax argument

told him the tax payment is due now.

Ferguson confirmed discussing the tax situation with Bateman on both occasions. He said he tried to tell Bateman during the first talk that the ordinance allowed back taxes to be shaved from the purchase price, but the property's new owner still assumed immediate liability for the back taxes.

Ferguson said Thursday that under state law, the city has the option to close the motel if its taxes aren't paid.

Bateman said he may seek a U.S. Attorney General's ruling on the legality of how the law applies in this case.

The motel's plans to convert to a Christian senior citizen village and drug awareness center for juveniles may be stalled because of regulations imposed by City Hall.

The motel would need to have a "special inspection for a senior citizen center," Bateman said he was told.

"I think the city has tried to be our masters and us the servants," he said.

"They're not responsible to anybody, but they're going to be, come election time," he said.

Blood drive begins Saturday

West Texans use 60-75 units of blood every day, not accounting for catastrophes, according to United Blood Services of San Angelo, the blood center for this area.

An estimated 60 percent of the population will need blood sometime during their lives, the service said.

To help replenish the blood supply, a community blood drive will be conducted this month.

The drive begins Saturday at St. Laurence Hall, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The drive schedule continues: Oct. 13, 1-5 p.m. at Dora Roberts Health Center; Oct. 22, 4-8 p.m. in Knott and 9-11 p.m. at Howard College; Oct. 23, noon to 6 p.m. at Hall-Bennett Hospital; Oct. 27, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Scenic Mountain Medical Center; Oct. 28, 1-5 p.m. at Western Container; Oct. 29, 9 a.m. to noon at the Howard County Courthouse and 1:30-4:30 p.m. at Wall Industries.

Donating blood takes about 30 minutes and begins with a brief interview of medical questions and a mini-physical, according to United Blood Service literature. A trained professional will check the donor's temperature, pulse, blood pressure and blood iron level.

A certified technician collects one unit of blood, about a pint, while the donor relaxes. The average person has between eight and 12 units of blood.

No disease can be contracted by donating blood, the blood service said, because all materials used in the donation process are sterile, and they are only used once.

Test preparations questioned

TYLER (AP) — Some East Texas teachers are using copies of competency test questions obtained from other teachers to study for later exams, the Tyler Morning Telegraph reported.

Some of the teachers have reported paying as much as $5 a page to get the booklets from unauthorized sources, said the copyright story.

The newspaper said it had learned that an unknown number of test booklets from tests given in March and June had gotten into the hands of several East Texas teachers.

Dr. Nolan Wood, director of teacher assessment for the Texas Education Agency, said in Austin Thursday that the TEA was investigating.

He said that if any test questions are found missing, those booklets will not be used in any future Texas Examination of Current Administrators and Teachers. The exam is given every four months.

"We have evidence that we did not get back all our tests on March 10," Wood said. "When we went into the tests, we just assumed we would not get all the booklets back."

On the TECAT test, each teacher is given a booklet of questions and records his or her answers on a different sheet. Teachers are instructed to return both documents to the test supervisor.

The teachers, along with a representative from the Texas State Teachers Association, claim many educators had copies of the TECAT before the test was readministered June 28. They said the copies were used as study aids, the Morning Telegraph reported.

Two former East Texas teachers who asked to remain anonymous said copies of the tests came from a Houston educator, who supposedly left a test site with a booklet in March.

Neither teacher could provide the identity of the original source.

Some educators said they paid up to $5 a page for the copies. One teacher, who failed the exam but plans to take it again, claims what she bought was the test she took June 28.

"If they took the test in June, they took a totally different test," Wood said. "This test version is secure. There are no copies of it out."

Vance Rogers, regional representative for TSTA, said he was contacted in August by several East Texas members claiming the TECAT was out and he was provided copies of various tests.

Rogers has represented several TSTA members who failed the test, in appeals hearings with employers. He said teachers revealed they saw copies of the test after it was given, at one hearing.

Wood said there are seven versions of the TECAT and at least two of the 10 questions in each skill area could be seen on three different tests.

Flooded rivers recede

The Mississippi River receded today after inundating towns near St. Louis, and forecasters say the worst of the flooding that has swamped the Midwest for more than two weeks appears to have passed.

"Things are looking up. They really are," said Lou Chiodini, emergency manager for the Army Corps of Engineers at St. Louis.

"But what we have to do now is hope we don't get any more rain," he said late Thursday. "We'll still be watching the river 24 hours a day."

No rain was expected today in the St. Louis area, where the worst of the flooding Thursday in 11 states was reported. The forecast called for a 40 percent chance of isolated thunderstorms on Saturday and a continued chance of rain Sunday.

Amtrak train derails

FALL RIVER, Wis. — An Amtrak train carrying more than 300 people derailed while changing tracks, killing one person and injuring 33 others, and authorities investigated whether a switch was in the wrong position.

Crewmen worked through the night under floodlights to clear the wreckage blocking the track. Trains, meantime, were being detoured to Stevens Point, 80 miles north.

The Seattle-to-Chicago train was pulling 15 cars, including five private cars carrying railroad buffs to a convention in Milwaukee, when it derailed Thursday afternoon.

Gays plan to buy town

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — A county commissioner has criticized a plan by a group of homosexuals to buy a small ghost town and convert it into a gay community.

"I don't think we want that kind of community in our county and I personally am very upset at the idea," said Nye County Commissioner Robert Revert. "This isn't San Francisco."

Stonewall Park Inc. of Reno wants to buy the town of Rhyolite, about 120 miles northwest of Las Vegas. A booming mining town earlier this century, Rhyolite today consists of a bar and decaying buildings on a patch of desert near Death Valley.

CIA: Hasenfus coerced

WASHINGTON — A top State Department official says Nicaraguan authorities coerced a captured American into making a false claim that CIA personnel are illegally involved in resupplying anti-communist rebels.

Hours after the detained American, Eugene Hasenfus, made the allegation at a Managua news conference Thursday, Assistant Secretary of State Elliott Abrams said, "I hope no one will believe anything Hasenfus says until he can speak freely."

"There is only one reason to keep a man from our consul, and that is to keep the pressure on," Abrams said.

Medals returned as Nicaragua protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barbara Graves says the Bronze Star she left behind at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial isn't as important as bearing witness against the "mounting lies being invented" about U.S. involvement in Nicaragua.

Graves, 73, a Berkeley, Calif., psychotherapist and Quaker activist, earned the medal in 1945 for her Red Cross work during World War II setting up rest homes for wounded airmen in France and England. She said she was the first civilian woman to receive the award, normally given for combat valor.

On Thursday, she left it propped against the long black granite wall memorializing the dead of a war 20 years before the one in which she was involved and 20 years before the war she fears is coming.

Three Vietnam veterans joined her, and together they left more than 70 medals, service ribbons and commendations renounced by other veterans from California to Maine.

At a rally on the steps of the nearby Lincoln Memorial, she compared the silence of Germans in the Nazi era with the lack of protest now in the United States.

"The Vietnam war was born and bred of lies and ... our current Contra war against the Nicaragua nation is also being born and bred of the mounting lies being invented by our federal administration before our very eyes," she said.

"And I find myself realizing, unhappily, that this must be how it happened in Germany: that Nazism was born of just such mounting lies. Where were the German protesters? Where are our protesters?"

From the rally, Graves and the veterans attempted to march to the nearby Vietnam memorial, but were prevented by Park Police from carrying signs or staging a demonstration there.

They were allowed to set their medals in a neat row along the memorial's base and stand, their arms around each others' shoulders, in silent meditation.

They were accompanied by two yellow-and-white-garbed Buddhist nuns and two Buddhist monks who beat prayer drums and chanted what they said was a prayer for world peace and justice.

George Mizo, 40, of Boston, gave back a Purple Heart and a Republic of Vietnam Gallantry Cross. He and three other veterans have been protesting U.S. policy in Central America by fasting on the steps of the Capitol. He said he has lost 44 pounds since Sept. 1.

"We don't need medals for war. If anything, we need medals for peace," he said.

Arthur James, 37, acting postmaster of Chewsville, Md., renounced a Silver Star awarded in 1970 after he pushed other members of his infantry patrol aside and received most of the shrapnel from a grenade.

Stephen Fournier, 41, a bookstore owner in Portland, Maine, returned two Purple Hearts awarded while serving with the Marine Corps in Vietnam in 1967 and 1968. He also left 19 medals given to him by Vietnam and World War II veterans from Maine.

Minister Peres resigns

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Shimon Peres resigned today, beginning an unprecedented transfer of power to his rival, Yitzhak Shamir. Hours before the resignation, both men underscored the fragility of the next government.

Peres, leader of the left-leaning Labor Party, will head a caretaker administration until Shamir, currently foreign minister and head of the rightist Likud bloc, is sworn in by Parliament, probably on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Defector threatened

MOSCOW (AP) — A newspaper today published what it said was a death threat letter received by Arnold Lockshin, the American cancer researcher who defected to the Soviet Union with his family this week.

The scheduling of the news conference and the publication of the two articles appeared to be a concerted effort to defuse criticism of the Kremlin's human rights policies on the eve of the U.S.-Soviet summit meeting in Iceland.

The daily Sovetskaya Rossiya published what it said was one of several threatening letters received by the Lockshin family before leaving their home in Texas.

A picture showed a facsimile of an envelope addressed to Lockshin in Houston, and a sheet of paper with the words "death to traitors, Dr. L." Spelled out with letters cut from magazines.

Tass commentator Yuri Kornilov said Lockshin told him the letter was only one of the threats made against him and his family.

Gorbachevs arrive

REYKJAVIK, Iceland — Soviet Leader Mikhail Gorbachev, promising to search for solutions "to the burning problems" of the world, arrived today for a summit with President Reagan hailed by both sides as a chance to make progress on arms control and other issues.

Gorbachev held on to his hat to keep it from being blown away by blustery winds as he stepped off his Aeroflot jet with his wife, Raisa, Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and other officials.

In brief comments at Keflavik Airport, Gorbachev said, "We have arrived here to start this meeting imbued with a sense of responsibility owed to people around the world."

Hasenfus: CIA involved

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — American Eugene Hasenfus, captured after the Sandinistas shot down his cargo plane, said he was on a CIA-coordinated mission to carry supplies to the Contra rebels. The CIA has denied involvement.

The U.S. Embassy meanwhile criticized as "ghoulish" the way Nicaragua handed over the bodies of two Americans killed when the C-123 transport plane was downed Sunday.

Wrinkle Cream Great Success

It's an exciting story of a pharmacist who developed a wrinkle cream which women all over the country are clamoring for.

Robert Heldfond is making cosmetic history with his EB5 cream. His dream since pharmacy school has resulted in a wrinkle cream which is enjoying record sales in department stores and is praised very highly among cosmeticians and customers.

Research lab tests show that by daily use, morning and night, EB5 cream smooths facial lines. Thousands across the country are so pleased to find that EB5 is 5 creams in 1 jar... EB5 is a wrinkle cream, a night cream, a moisturizer, a day cream, and make-up base... all in one.

Pharmacist Heldfond's EB5 cream is greaseless and leaves the skin soft, velvety and younger-looking. It contains Liprogen and other effective ingredients.

If you are concerned about your skin appearing to be aging too quickly, hurry and find some EB5 cream. One jar lasts for months and is sold with a money-back guarantee.

Note: EB5 cream is available in Big Spring at JCPenney at Big Spring Mall, 267-3811.

Paper carriers crucial to press

Ever since the time of Socrates and Confucius, two of history's earliest philosophers, the youth of each generation has been the target of complaints and criticisms by adults and older citizens.

All of us can recall these complaints, such as: "What is this younger generation coming to? You can't trust today's kids to do anything right. And they're so lazy. You just can't depend on them."

We heard these comments when we were young, and most of us occasionally will catch ourselves saying the same things today, now that we're older.

Yet each generation has succeeded in improving our human lot as its members took over the leadership in our community, national and international affairs.

Probably all of us are guilty of emphasizing the failures of each generation of youth while overlooking their accomplishments and successes.

One often overlooked accomplishment — each day — is the service provided by our newspaper carriers.

Newspapers are multi-million dollar businesses — businesses that long ago would have been forced to cease operations were it not for the dependability and service of many youth throughout our nation who each day deliver our newspapers.

It's a positive comment on our times when we realize that without those young newspaper carriers and their reliability, large corporations wouldn't exist.

It's also a positive comment on their development as entrepreneurs as each carrier learns the basics of operating his or her own business.

And it's only fitting that we recognize these achievements today, because Saturday is International Newspaper Carrier Day.

President Reagan, in issuing the annual salute to newspaper carriers, said:

"Our participatory democracy depends on a free press serving a free people. Newspaper carriers are part of America's news distribution system that gets more news to more people than any other system in history."

The President added that their efforts "ensure that the American people will have the information they need to make intelligent choices in self-government."

We can only add that carriers everywhere prove daily that many of our youth are developing just as well as the generations that preceded them.

Cultural arts member says thanks

To the editor:

I want to thank Carolyn McCarty and the Hot Potato Band for their performance downtown on Saturday, Sept. 27, during the Arts-fest mural painting kickoff.

The group obviously loves what they do whether they perform before an audience of 10 or 100. They are an asset unique to Big Spring. I hope everyone has a chance to see their enthusiasm first-hand.

Special thanks also goes to Leonard and Debbie Hadley for satisfying everyone's sweet tooth with their home baked cookies.

Those same cookies swept away all the awards at the County Fair.

Finally, thanks to the kids who came downtown with paint brush in hand ready to go. The kids' mural will be displayed at the Big Spring Mall, Oct. 17-19, during the Open Area Art Show.

Next Spring we can all look forward to a new mural downtown. The new mural will be located just north of the future park, courtesy of Horace Tubbs.

Flood reactions compared to Oedipus

To the editor:

It is a sad tale the way some people react when tragedy befalls them. They are quick to shun all blame and responsibility from themselves and point the finger of guilt towards the most convenient entity.

Maybe they should read the story of Oedipus the King. When tribulation befell his kingdom, he was quick to condemn the man responsible. As the story revealed, it was the blind actions of Oedipus himself that brought the plague upon his land. Oedipus did not fare well from his own trial and final conviction.

The question now is: "How much better will those who buy a home or build a business in a flood plain, and then when the flood comes, cry for the retribution of others?"

Appreciation for police expressed

To the editor:

This is a belated letter of appreciation to the Big Spring Police Department for their patrolling our house while we have been on vacation.

The neighbors were impressed and pleased with their efforts, and commented on how good it made them feel.

We hear of and see so much crime and violence, it's comforting to know that the average citizen is offered this valuable service by our local law enforcement agency.

CIA exposes magazine bribe by Mexican official's minion

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON — The CIA has learned that a Mexican Cabinet member's subordinate tried unsuccessfully to bribe the editors of a Mexican news magazine to kill a critical story on the Cabinet official.

Informed CIA and Mexican law enforcement sources have told us they uncovered an attempt by the former chief of the Federal Directorate of Security, Jose Antonio Zorilla, to pay the editors of Proceso $2 million worth of pesos, with a promise of $2 million more if they agreed to spike a story they had obtained on Zorilla's boss, Interior Minister Manuel Bartlett Diaz.

The story is currently unfolding for both Mexican police and CIA agents with the publication in Mexico City of an autobiographical book, "The Presidents," by Proceso's respected publisher, Julio Scherer.

As we reported recently, the book contains the full story that Proceso never printed: the 1983 kidnapping of Bartlett's teenage niece and nephew from a religious commune in Venezuela, arranged by the interior minister as a favor to his sister, the children's mother.

In his book, Scherer also tells how Bartlett's minion, Zorilla, succeeded in intimidating Proceso's editors with threats of violence. Mexican reporters and columnists have been threatened often in the past by government officials, and some have even been killed.

But Scherer did not relate the unsuccessful attempt at a bribe by Bartlett's emissary. Proceso's editors would not comment on the matter — "especially to an American reporter," one of them told us.

However, our CIA and Mexican police sources said that Zorilla later bragged to fellow police officials that he had gotten Proceso's editors to kill the Bartlett story without paying them "a single peso" of the $2 million pesos he had in cash. It is not established whether Bartlett had authorized the bribe attempt.

Bartlett is the "iron hand" of President Miguel de la Madrid's Cabinet — and his possible successor. In a secret profile, the CIA has this to say about him:

"A self-described political animal, Bartlett is probably one of de la Madrid's closest advisers on domestic political affairs. (He) had the ear of the president in a wide range of issues..."

"As de la Madrid's campaign manager and de facto head of the (ruling party) during 1981-82, Bartlett established control over many of the party mechanisms, and he directed the vote-rigging operation during de la Madrid's election. Bartlett is frequently described as a survivor..."

Here's how the CIA report describes the police force that allowed Zorilla (and Bartlett) to intimidate Proceso's editors: "The most effective civilian internal security force is the Federal Directorate of Security (DFS), subordinate to Manuel Bartlett... The DFS fields about 1,300 agents at its Mexico City headquarters and at branches in all of the states."

"Better trained and armed than other civilian security personnel, DFS teams... had stepped up infiltration of opposition political groups."

"The directorate's main responsibility is to monitor suspected dissidents and opposition groups with a view to discovering and investigating any possible subversive efforts. The DFS does not hesitate to conduct searches and seizures and even to detain and interrogate individuals suspected of subversion..."

Our CIA sources note that the DFS — which has been renamed the Federal Judicial Police — also taps phones and otherwise harasses and spies on critics of the government. The agency is also legendary for the corruption that permeates its ranks.

Footnote: Zorilla has disappeared and is believed to be living in Spain.

WHAT'S TO HIDE?: In a disturbing decision, a Nuclear Regulatory Commission administrative judge recently denied Cindee Virostek, of Apollo, Pa., permission to testify at an upcoming hearing on plans by Babcock & Wilcox Co. to build the nation's first commercial, lower-level incinerator for nuclear waste.

The company filed a lengthy brief objecting to Virostek's request to testify; the commission hasn't said why it agrees with the company. It could be because Virostek has compiled a thick file of documents showing problems that have occurred over the years with Babcock & Wilcox nuclear fuel plants in Apollo.

UNDER THE DOME: The White House and congressional anti-drug deal seems to have bent Sen. Alfonse D'Amato's nose a bit out of shape.

The New York Republican, who evidently believes he's entitled to recognition for his years of pushing the issue, produced a press release with the headline, "President and Congress Adopting D'Amato's Proposals To Fight Drugs."

MINI-EDITORIAL: How is it that slow learners continue to run General Motors and Ford even as their policies are demonstrable failures?

The auto giants are in trouble again, with a skidding share of the market, so the resident geniuses have opted to raise prices — again.

The price hikes earlier this year were such a bust that the automakers had to subsidize their customers' loans to sell their 1986 overstock. But that didn't teach them anything. Dare we suggest that cutting prices might be a way for American car makers to compete with the Japanese?

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Daniloff case shows denial of realism

On May 20, 1985, having agreed to free 1,150 Arab prisoners, including some terrorists, in exchange for three Israelis captured during the 1982 invasion of Lebanon, Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres conceded mournfully, "The price is unbearable."

On Sept. 29, 1986, having agreed to expel a Soviet citizen indicted for spying in exchange for American journalist Nicholas Daniloff, seized on phony charges by the Soviet government, President Ronald Reagan crowed, "They blinked."

The two cases don't differ in principle, only in scale — and, of course, in public depiction. The Israeli government made a straightforward deal, defending it as the lesser of the available evils. The American government made a covert one and pretended it had stood firmly against compromise.

The dishonesty grows out of Ronald Reagan's inability to accept unpleasant facts.

The problem is not that Reagan made the wrong choice. His conservative critics are right to regard paying a ransom for a hostage — which is what the administration did here — as morally repellent.

But if paying ransoms were more abhorrent than the alternative, there would be no such thing as kidnapping. That crime's durability rests on its fiendish exploitation of the victim's best instincts. No parents, asked to pay a sum of money to preserve their child's life, could refuse. No American president, asked to give up a suspected spy to rescue an innocent American from the Gulag, could do anything but what Reagan did.

It is a sound policy to declare in advance that you will not negotiate with people who take innocent hostages, whether they are shadowy terrorist groups or sitting governments. But it is not necessarily a sound policy, in extremes, to stick to the pledge.

Even Israel, inured as it is to terrorism, sometimes finds itself with no choice but to barter.

The choice to expel suspected Soviet spy Gennadiy Zakharov in order to free Daniloff was even more compelling because the practice of expelling suspected Soviet spies is the norm, not the exception. This time, the administration did under compulsion what ordinarily is done by choice. If it had deported Zakharov to start with, it could have saved itself a lot of trouble.

Reagan's portrayal of the swap was a lame attempt to fend off attacks from conservatives. But what solutions did they offer?

George Will said the proper reply to Daniloff's arrest was: "No talks about anything, no subsidized grain sales, no credits, no cultural exchanges, no support for the United Nations, no Soviet ships in U.S. ports, no landings here by Soviet airlines, no nothing until Daniloff is released, unconditionally."

This proposal has two defects. The first is that some of the transactions (like subsidized grain and credits) are a bad idea under any circumstances, and, if Will had his way, none of them would be available because they would have been canceled long ago. The second is that it leaves few options for escalation. Having done all this, what are we supposed to do when Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski cracks down again on Solidarity? Obliterate Leningrad?

The conservative discontent is understandable. In past eras, it is conceivable, though not likely, that such a flagrant act of state terrorism as the seizure of Daniloff would have triggered war. But in the nuclear age the risks of military action against the Soviets far outweigh any possible benefit.

Americans should have no trouble understanding that. It is the job of a leader to acknowledge such facts honestly and to realistically adapt policies to accommodate them. In trading for Daniloff while pretending not to, President Reagan has done the latter but not the former.

Antique buttons have interesting backgrounds

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

Members of the Extension Homemaker's Club did all but button-up when they shared stories about their antique buttons.

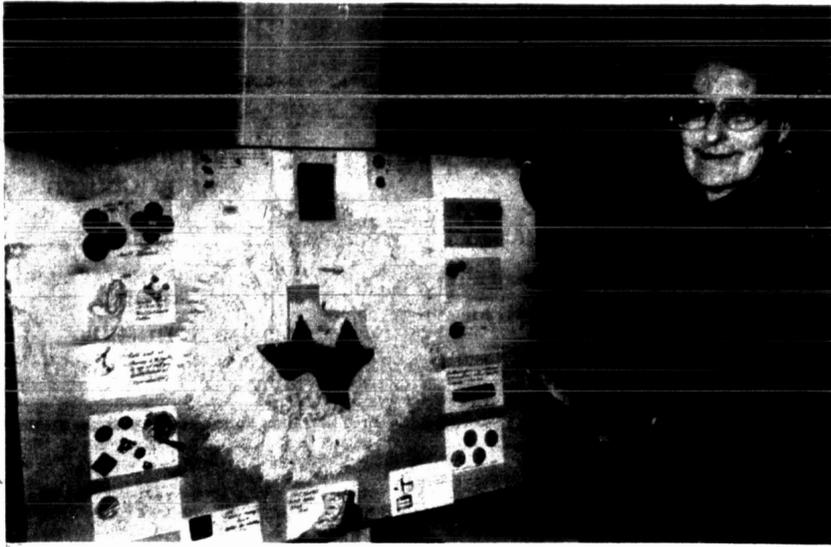

Members shared old buttons for an antique button display. Some buttons date back to the early 1900s, said Mrs. Ross Callihan, president of The City Texas Extension Homemakers Club of Howard County (TEHA).

The oldest button was on a cuff-link that was worn by Thomas J. Wilmoth, grandfather of Opal Wooten. "He wore it up until his death at the age of 103," Wooten said.

The next oldest button was made of pearl. It was worn by Francis Zant's mother on her wedding day in 1912. She also shared two buttons that were cut off of bathing suits by her father that were found in the river after the Ben Ficklin flood in the early 1900s.

Other buttons had interesting stories.

Mrs. Dolores Norrad displayed a black button with sapphires that she wore on her going away jacket after her wedding in 1912.

Mrs. Ross Callihan, describes the antique buttons at a meeting of the Council of the Extension Homemaker's Club Monday.

The shoe with buttons was worn by Neil Norrad in 1914. It was his first baby shoe.

Jean Cantrell shared a button from her World War II women's army corp uniform. She was assigned and worked as a teletype operator with the headquarters Third Bombardment Division 304th Signal Company in England.

The center of the display was decorated with a doily, crocheted by Mrs. E.G. Couble in the early 1940s and a picture painted by Mrs. Alkton Underwood.

Heart's wiring system has harmless quirks

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have joined a new firm and the physical examination I had would have done NASA proud. I am in great health, and thought I'd pass with flying colors. But they found what is called a right bundle branch block in my heart. It was touch and go for awhile, until the doctors confirmed the fact that it was not serious. It was explained to me in terms of my heart's "wiring" being a bit off. Can you comment further. P.S. I got the job. — P.O.

Dr. Donohue

You mention elsewhere that your field is electronics, so you should be able to follow the explanation easily.

As you know, the heart if actually two hearts — two upper and two lower chambers all joined together as a single large muscle. Both the right and left pairs of chambers have their own independent wiring, if I may use your phrase. Actually, the wiring systems really are bundles of special tissue that conduct messages from the upper to the lower chambers. They are the right and left bundles.

If either of these bundles has a short (a block), the message has to travel to the lower chamber via a detour. But it eventually gets where it has to and the heart goes on beating.

A block in the right bundle is not as serious as one in the left, for, as you know, the left lower chamber is the especially vital one that pumps blood out to the body via its chief artery (the aorta). But any block, in whichever chamber, has to be evaluated. In some, a right bundle block may indicate a larger problem of poor heart blood supply. In infants, a right bundle block may indicate an opening in the partition between the two upper chambers.

If a doctor detects a right bundle branch block, he wants to do further testing. If the heart seems otherwise normal and the block has existed without symptoms for some time, he can conclude that it is only a harmless quirk. I'm happy that everything ended well for you.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Your article about being persistent in management of the diet of a youngster with celiac disease (no gluten products) was of more than passing interest to me. My son had it and he improved with the diet. When he got older, he got into running. He expanded his diet to include all the forbidden grains. Sure enough, he developed the same symptoms of celiac disease again. He figured he had beaten the problem and it couldn't happen. He went back on his old restrictions and improved again. I write only because this may be important for other parents of such youngsters to know about. — E.M.

I am happy to print your letter, for your point is worth making. I should note for other readers that celiac disease is a problem in which the digestive system cannot handle certain grains — those with gluten, a protein. It's found chiefly in wheat and rye. Substitute grains, such as rice, are used.

Did you know that 80 percent of stroke victims resume to some degree their former lives? The booklet "Stroke Recovery — Hope and Help" describes the causes and treatment of stroke. For a copy write Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing $1.00 and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Diner has had bellyful of pregnant waitresses

DEAR ABBY: A few weeks ago my wife and I had dinner out to relax and forget about cooking. In the cocktail lounge of this very nice restaurant we were served by a pleasant young lady who was well along in her pregnancy. Then in the dining room, an equally pregnant young lady served us dinner.

I believe that women and children are important — to be loved and cherished — but being served by two pregnant women in one evening was, I thought, a little too much.

My wife had a "so what?" attitude. I was upset. Do you think my reaction was wrong? And if so, why?

STORK-RAVING MAD

DEAR MAD: As a man who claims to "love and cherish women and children," perhaps the sight of two pregnant women working so far along in their pregnancies made you feel guilty. Or were you embarrassed to be reminded of how babies get here?

If you still cling to the notion that pregnant women should not show themselves in public, consider this: Pregnant waitresses would rather be home soaking their swollen feet, but they continue to work because they need the money. Examine your feelings. Then you will know why you were upset.

DEAR ABBY: I have a mother-in-law problem. When "Joe" and I announced our engagement, his mother gave us a down comforter. It wasn't a new one; it was one she had had for a long time that belonged to her mother. My own mother gave us a brand-new down comforter, not knowing that I had already received one.

Joe and I have been married a year and we're using the comforter we got from my mother. My mother-in-law was at the house yesterday and noticed that we were using the new comforter, so she asked me to give the one she had given us to her daughter who didn't have any.

Abby, the one from my mother-in-law has a lot of sentimental value attached to it, and just because we're not using it doesn't mean we don't want it. I suppose you'd call me selfish if I have two and refuse to give one to my sister-in-law who doesn't have any, but I don't really think I am. What should I do?

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: Once a gift is given, it becomes the property of the recipient to use, put away, throw away, sell or whatever.

However, with two comforters, you have more comfort than you can use, so why not give one to your sister-in-law to warm and comfort her? Were you to keep them both, I would not call you "selfish," but there's much to be said for keeping peace in the family.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old guy with an important question. Why are your readers so hung up on sex? I like your column, but it seems that about one-third of your letters are about sex. Personally I think bowling is a lot more fun. Judging from the few times I've had sex, I thought it would get more enjoyable, but it didn't.

Unfortunately, high school peer pressure about this overrated activity is still with us. "Who did you score with?" is still a hot topic at school.

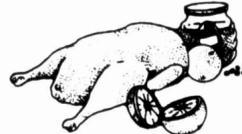

I think sex is boring. Besides, with AIDS to worry about, it's not worth the risk. Also, the world already has more people than it can feed.

Give us more letters about people who are too fat, too tall, too short or were born on Christmas. Or hassles with the phone company, the neighbor's dog barking at 3 a.m. — anything besides sex for a change.

OPTING FOR ABSTINENCE
DEAR OPTING: Thanks for the candid input. I appreciate knowing my readers' preferences. Readers?

Use of color is topic for Study Club

The 1941 Study Club of Coahoma met Oct. 6 at the home of Mrs. Ovis James with Mrs. Quail Dobbs co-hosting.

The program was introduced by Mrs. Dwayne Clawson. J.L. Love of Casual Corner in Midland and Odessa presented a program on the use of color to beautify and clarify the image of the woman.

Love is an image consultant and a flight attendant for American Airlines. Using members of the club, she demonstrated how color enhances or injures the image a woman projects. She showed how a scarf, a belt or a piece of costume jewelry can tie together an outfit of contrasting colors.

Mrs. Phil Wynn, president, presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Larry Hudson's resignation was read and accepted.

Five guests and 16 members were present. Guests were Mrs. Jasper Gibson, Mrs. Bobby Dodson, Mrs. Tim Tindol, Mrs. Ross Roberts and Mrs. Pat Nash.

Women's group stands for tradition

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

Concerned Women for America are taking charge.

"I think the whole concept for Concerned Women for America was born that night I heard Betty Friedan say on television that she represents the women of America," recalled Beverly LaHaye, in a recent Saturday Evening Post interview.

"I knew in my heart that, yes, she represents a small segment, but she certainly doesn't speak for the vast majority of women I know. That's when I decided to start educating my peers through meetings in San Diego (Calif.) I wanted to talk about women's issues," said LaHaye, founder of CWA.

"The traditional ladies weren't being represented by the politically active ladies who were lobbying for women in America," says Debbie Perkins, local prayer chapter leader.

"As I look back on it, I'm sort of ashamed that I didn't have a broader vision. But maybe that's been the uniqueness, because no one set out to form a national organization that would become the largest women's group in America," LaHaye said.

Formed six years ago, CWA has active chapters in all 50 states. The organization is comprised of more than 535,000 homemakers, professional women, single parents, married women, retired women, college students, members of both political parties and women of various races and religious beliefs, according to a release.

The membership is bound by several issues. The organization is pro-life and opposes child abuse; members favor a voluntary prayer amendment but oppose an equal rights amendment; they deplore laws that grant special protection to homosexuals; and they champion parents' rights to direct the upbringing of their children in matters of education and religion. They share common concerns, although priorities may vary from chapter to chapter, according to the Post article.

"We seek to inform each other of needs on the national, state and local levels for the purpose of prayer and through prayer we look for constructive avenues to handle problems," Perkins says.

"CWA is trying to monitor things that can affect the family, churches, schools and government," says Sandy Dirkes, secretary of the local CWA. "We want to protect our freedoms."

Locally, the group wants to know what's going on.

"We want to know things like what the community has to offer us and what type of education our children are receiving in the schools," Perkins says.

Instead of complaining about something, Perkins says that CWA is a positive, constructive outlet that works within the political structure to take action.

"Anyone can belly-ache, but to say they now that we recognize the problem, what can we do about it is what we're really trying to achieve. To discuss the concern as gently and positively as we can."

The group encourages its members to be actively involved in things and to be aware of what's going on in the community, the state and the nation, Dirkes says.

For many members, the foray into the world of laws, legislators and lobbyists is a new one and is best taken in small steps. Some novice CWA recruits prefer a passive role and merely read the monthly newsletter and various educational materials sent from CWA headquarters on Capitol Hill.

Others participate in local prayer and action chapters and choose to influence legislators from their homes via telephone calls and letters. Still other members are undergoing intensive training in Washington to become part of the "535 Program," an effort to assign CWA volunteer lobbyists to the 535 members of Congress, according to a Saturday Evening Post article.

Unlike many organizations, CWA does not have weekly or monthly meetings.

"It isn't a social gathering," Dirkes says. "Once a month the ladies get a newsletter and the group meets quarterly."

The group functions through prayer chains and as a need comes up members call each other to encourage prayer about specific issues, Perkins says.

When asked if the group has received any negative criticism, Perkins says they haven't but she doesn't doubt that they will because people have "directly opposing opinions."

Some people probably feel that one person can't make a difference, but Perkins related a story about a lady who went to a state representative who was pushing for a bill to pass.

She went to his office and said, "This is how your bill is going to affect my Christian family if it passes. The representative told her he had never thought of that way and he promised her that bill would not pass — and, it didn't," Perkins said.

Forty-foot dog

Jimi Dorland serves Jeff Atkerson, not one, but two hot dogs from the 40-foot hot dog created by the youth department of Christ Fellowship Church. The hot dog was complete with chili, cheese, onions and relish. The event, a fundraiser for the youth department, was a success and the youth raised almost $100. "We challenge any other youth group in Big Spring to make one longer and tastier," said Jimi and Angela Dorland, youth directors.

Religion roundup

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A committee set up to recommend a new national headquarters site for the United Church of Christ has narrowed its possible choices to Cleveland, New York and St. Louis.

At a meeting here, the committee on location eliminated two other cities, Chicago and Indianapolis, from the prospects, saying the other three cities best met criteria for the selection.

The 1.7-million-member denomination currently has national offices in New York. The committee is to make its final recommendation in March, prior to the denomination's governing

Church briefs

'CPR' services to begin Sunday

St. Paul Lutheran Church will begin "Celebration Praise Renewal" (CPR), a series of special worship services, on Oct. 12.

The short services will begin Sunday at 8:30 a.m., 10:45 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. and will continue daily at 7:30 p.m. until Thursday.

Guest speaker is Rev. Glenn O'Shoney, president of the Texas District in Austin. After moving from his native Illinois, he was called to establish a mission congregation in Amarillo where he organized Faith Lutheran Church in 1962.

In 1967 he was called to begin a new mission congregation in north Houston.

He has served for many years on circuit and district committees, served as executive director of the board of mission administration of the Texas district and was installed as president of the Texas District in 1978.

The theme for this year's CPR services is "Found and Celebrating!"

Mayor's Prayer Breakfast slated

The Mayor's Prayer Breakfast will be tomorrow at the Homestead Inn from 8-9 a.m.

Tim Thornton, minister of music at the First Baptist Church, will provide the music. Opal Wilkerson, owner of Herman's Restaurant, will share her testimony.

Cotton Mize, mayor of Big Spring and host of the prayer breakfast, says "Opal Wilkerson has been a real inspiration to a lot of folks because she has been through some

Environment discussed at meeting

Betty Reagan, missionary education director of the Women of the First Church of God, directed the program "Blessed are the Caretakers," written by Lucille Falling.

She presented various problems related to protection of our environment, the conservation of natural resources and their impact on future generations.

Renae Loy presented the worship using Psalm 96.

Next meeting will be Nov. 3 in the church sanctuary.

Missions Conference to be hosted

Faith Baptist Church, 1209 Wright St., will host a Mission's Conference Oct. 15-19 at 7:30 p.m.

Speaker will be Mike Andrews, missionary to the Philippines. Special music will be presented.

Campaigners ready for polygraphs

AUSTIN — It's a race to the lie detectors now as the Clements and White camps deny any knowledge about who put the electronic bug in the office of a Clements campaign consultant.

Gov. Mark White said Thursday he and his staffers would take the polygraph exams if it would further the investigation.

Reggie Bashur, spokesman for Bill Clements, said two top officials in the GOP campaign are ready to pay for privately administered lie detector tests to prove they did not plant the bug.

Preacher holds press conference

FORT WORTH — Clad in a burlap slipover like the sackcloths of biblical times, a fugitive fundamentalist preacher vowed not to turn himself in to authorities until God tells him to.

The Rev. W.N. Otwell, wanted on a contempt-of-court citation for refusing to license his church-run boys' home through the state, appeared at a Thursday press conference by videotape only as he continued his attack on Attorney General Jim Mattox.

"God didn't tell me to go to jail," the 49-year-old Otwell said as Tarrant County Sheriff Don Carpenter looked on with the two deputies he'd brought to arrest Otwell if he showed up.

Fraternity investigation continues

AUSTIN — A civil investigation that could result in the closing of a University of Texas fraternity house has been launched by the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

Joe Darnall, general counsel for the commission, said Thursday that the investigation will center on the death of one of the fraternity's pledges who suffered a fatal alcohol overdose.

Darnall said that if the investigation shows that the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity "habitually" violated the state's drinking laws, a state district judge could order the house vacated and closed for up to a year.

The court also could order that the fraternity house be allowed to remain open but monitored closely so that the state's drinking laws would not be violated, he added.

The investigation was triggered by the death of Mark Thomas Seeberger, 18, of Dallas Sept. 18, Darnall said.

Coast Guard reopens ship channel

DEER PARK — A mile-long stretch of the Houston Ship Channel has been opened by the U.S. Coast Guard to one-way traffic while firefighters continued to battle a stubborn chemical blaze.

Coast Guard officials said a body was found Thursday floating under a pier close to where there was an explosion that started the fire.

The body had not been positively identified but was believed to be that of a man thrown off a Panamanian tanker during the explosion.

Seven workers were injured in the fire and two explosions on the Barge Hollywood 3003 early Tuesday during a transfer of the product to another barge, which did not catch fire, Coast Guard Ensign Lia Debetencourt said. The cause of explosions had not been determined and would not be until the flames were out, officials said.

Officials said the fire had stranded more than two dozen ships, and the bigger vessels were losing up to $30,000 a day.

Central rift to be drilled for oil, gas

DENVER — Two Denver companies and a private investor have started drilling two Kansas wells that they describe as the first test of oil and gas potential of the Central North American Rift System in two years.

In a statement released Thursday, Bellwether Exploration Co. and Kinney Oil Co. say they'll drill 10,000 feet deep in the wells in Marshall County and Riley County.

Geologists for Bellwether and Kinney say analogous production to the rift system exists in the Soviet Union, which has two fields with estimated recoverable reserves in excess of 130 million barrels of oil and 2.2 trillion cubic feet of gas.

Amoco Oil, Chevron USA, and Texaco all have given financial support to the new drilling program. The wells are being operated by Producers Engineering Inc., of Houston.

College budget campaign begins

DALLAS — A campaign for increased higher education budgets next year began in earnest as Jess Hay, chairman of the University of Texas System Board of Regents, urged more money after the special legislative session cuts.

The decreases are "extremely serious but not devastating," Hay said. Still, sizeable increases will be necessary next year for "a full-scale and unrestrained pursuit of excellence" by the state's universities, he said.

Among the budget adjustments approved Thursday were transfers of money that resulted in a net amount of $6.5 million being taken from UT-Austin and distributed among other UT institutions in Arlington, Dallas, El Paso, San Antonio, Tyler and Midland-Odessa.

The regents also redistributed $22 million among the six UT medical institutions.

The transfers were approved by the Legislature so the governing board of an agency could decide for itself how best to deal with the overall cuts.

Residents declare war on drugs

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — There's growing dismay among some residents of this free-wheeling, upscale resort nestled among Colorado's finest ski slopes because of the town's reputation as a drug haven.

Sheriff Dick Kienast, a lawman with a master's degree in theology, has become the target of that dissatisfaction because he won't force a deputy with a cocaine habit to reveal his drug sources.

Drug investigations are rare in Aspen, where a diverse mix of residents make the community as conservative as it is free-wheeling. Kienast has said he considers undercover operations "morally reprehensible."

Many of the 3,600 residents are 40 or younger, and many migrated from the East seeking an independent life. But a significant number of residents look for a more traditional lifestyle.

Spurred by President Reagan's crusade against drugs, about 70 residents rallied Wednesday to call for authorities to stop looking the other way when it comes to illegal substances and for an investigation of the sheriff.

"Aspen is promoted as a party town for adults, so kids party, too. They're not stupid. They see what goes on here," said Larry Parsons, a high school principal.

The 47-year-old Kienast, who admits he has sampled cocaine, doesn't fit the mold of rough-and-tumble Western lawman with his Notre Dame theology degree and libertarian outlook.

"If you trust people, you will be regarded with trust," he has said. "If you distrust people, you invite distrust in yourself."

His 1982 re-election campaign literature carried the headline "Police and the pursuit of happiness," and cited a libertarian philosophy drawn from writers that included Aristotle and Louis

Mary Martin, wife of retired Lt. Gen. Bill Martin, gathers signatures on a petition she and her husband have started to rid Pitkin County from corruption and drugs in the well-known ski area of Aspen, Colo. The couple are spearheading a movement against Sheriff Dick Kienast, who has admitted to using cocaine and other drugs, which the community feels conflicts with his position as sheriff.

Brandeis.

"He is not off the wall," said Rep. Mike Strang, R-Colo., a former stockbroker here. "He has a libertarian philosophy that is well thought out and one in which he believes deeply."

Kienast is no stranger to controversy over his drug policies. In 1979, he was the target of a federal grand jury investigation into allegations he was soft on drugs. No indictments were returned.

That year, when the herbicide paraquat was sprayed on marijuana in an effort to control it, Kienast tested residents' marijuana as a safety measure and returned it to them if it was safe to smoke.

Kienast triggered another outcry last week when he said he would not demand that Deputy Skitch Rounsefell reveal his drug sources after he admitted using cocaine and sought treatment.

"He has no more obligation to uphold the law than any other citizen, and citizens here aren't turning in drug dealers," Kienast said. "People get drugs on the basis of personal friendship... And snitches are universally disliked."

"The bonds of friendship in a community are a more fundamental thing to worry about than whether someone breaks the law," Kienast said.

The sheriff didn't attend Wednesday's rally and wasn't at the sheriff's department. A dispatcher said he might come to the office today.

Several speakers at the rally blamed the community for allowing drugs to become acceptable.

"We can't blame Kienast," said Don Helmich. "We need to blame ourselves. We've been in a minority and we've been silent. We should have done more."

David Harlin, a 29-year-old chef, said "there comes a time when you have to say, 'Enough!' Even Aspen has to recognize there is a line there."

Ryan falls to fired up Mets

Ojeda pitches gem to knot series at one apiece

HOUSTON (AP) — The New York Mets were looking to explode. Met center fielder Len Dykstra provided the ammunition and Houston pitcher Nolan Ryan set off the trigger.

"The fire — I've seen it a few times this year," New York infielder Wally Backman said. "Tonight was the fire we wanted to see. We were going to win at any cost. That's what was going through our minds."

Ryan may have inadvertently given the Mets a wakeup call when he buzzed Dykstra with a fifth-inning knockdown pitch. Dykstra picked himself up, dusted himself off and slapped a single that helped trigger a three-run outburst which carried the Mets to a 5-1 victory over the Astros Thursday night.

The win evened the National League playoffs at one game apiece with the next three games at New York, beginning Saturday.

With the Mets leading 2-0, two out and pitcher Bob Ojeda on first base, Dykstra drilled a Ryan fastball foul, deep down the right field line into the upper deck.

Ryan came in high and hard on the next pitch, sending Dykstra sprawling.

"I think it's a purpose pitch," Dykstra said. "Sure it's going to wake us up. It sure woke me up."

Dykstra responded by drilling a single to left. Backman followed with a sharp single to center, scoring Ojeda, and both came home on Keith Hernandez' triple to right center.

That made it 5-0 — and the Mets were home free, as Ojeda scattered 10 hits in going the distance.

"I was staring at him," the 160-pound Dykstra said. "Anytime you mess with someone's life ... I just got out of the way. It's not a good feeling. I was just going to hang in there — not give in. But it's a little different when he throws at your head."

"I think Nolan might have gotten a little upset," Mets' catcher Gary Carter said. "I think because Len is such a little guy. It was a real key to the win."

New York Manager Dave Johnson said he could feel his team's intensity rising after the knockdown.

"I sensed some emotion in our dugout," he said. "That inspired us to go out and score more runs."

Ryan didn't exactly deny throwing intentionally at Dykstra. "I was just trying to get in inside a little bit," he said.

Ryan, however, thought Carter's fourth-inning double, which scored Backman with the Mets' first run of the series, was the most damaging blow.

"It was nice to make some contact," said Carter, who struck out three times Wednesday against Houston's Mike Scott and started out against Ryan with another strikeout. "I was starting to shake my head."

Ryan, who retired the first 10 Mets before giving up five runs and seven hits in the fourth and fifth innings, said he was disappointed but thought he had good stuff. "But I let it get away from me," he said.

Manager Hal Lanier agreed. "He threw the ball well, but not where he wanted it," Lanier said.

Backman, who picked up two hits, said he felt the pressure was on after the Mets lost the series opener.

"We had the killer instinct tonight," he said. "We weren't going to wait around to see things happen. We were going to make things happen."

"There was no way we were coming out of here down 2-0," Backman said. "It doesn't matter who was out there. He (Ryan) is not going to intimidate us."

"We don't take losses very well," Backman added. "We didn't have that great a season and then come to lose four games."

"We didn't want to go home down two games," Hernandez agreed. "I was nervous last night. Tonight I settled down and relaxed."

Lanier said he thought the key to bringing the series back to Houston for possible Games 6 and 7 was scoring runs. His club has tallied only twice in two games while blowing numerous opportunities.

"When you only score two runs in two games you are fortunate to have won one," Lanier said.

"What we didn't do tonight was get the big hit," Houston third baseman Phil Garner said.

Garner, who singled in the Astros' only run in the seventh, said Ojeda kept the Astros off-balance by changing speeds.

"He had a kind of sixth sense out there," he said. "When you'd look for an off-speed pitch, he'd bust you with a fastball."

Johnson called Ojeda's performance gutsy.

"He didn't have the command he usually has, but he made the pitches he needed to make when he got into a jam," he said.

New York Mets first baseman Keith Hernandez watches the ball after he hit a triple in the fifth inning to drive in two runs against the Houston Astros Thursday night in Houston.

Friday Football Forecast

Compiled by Herald Sports Staff

Big Spring (3-1) at Lamesa (2-3)

In the Steers' first ever district 2-4A games they have handily defeated the preseason district favorite and edged the defending state champion. Not bad.

Now the Steers are ranked 13th in the state in the Harris Poll (last week they were ranked tenth), and they find themselves in the somewhat unaccustomed position of top dog. When's the last time the Steers walked onto a field on game night with such a lofty ranking?

At Lamesa, the Steers will face a team dramatically overmatched on the weight scales — Big Spring is a much bigger ballclub. There is a feeling around town that the Steers are expected to win, much in the way Texas is expected to whip Rice. It's a nice feeling, though it could prove dangerous.

As coach Quinn Eudy would tell you, the entire district schedule is one big storm, and a tornado is no lull. Lamesa has the leading quarterback and receiver in the district, and a running back who runs 100 meters in 10.4 seconds. And according to their defensive coach, they like to hit.

How will the Steers play now that they are burdened with legitimate expectations? How will the Steers play after an off week? Do the Steers have trouble with fast teams (like Estacado)?

Big Spring 21, Lamesa 17

Coahoma (0-5) at Clyde (2-3)

Coahoma is winless, but last week's battle with Colorado City provided testimony that the Bulldogs are neither a bad team nor are they ready to quit.

The Bulldogs came within a foot of a fourth quarter first down that would have put them 20 yards away from their first win. That indicates that Coahoma is a team that can win football games — they just haven't so far.

Clyde has won twice, but were beaten badly by a powerful Ballinger squad last week. They'll be fired up to unleash their frustrations on Coahoma, and they should win.

But they won't, and that's why this is the Upset Special.

Coahoma 12, Clyde 7

Ozona (2-3) at Forsan (5-0)

In the district opener for both teams, Forsan has to be the favorite. The much lauded Buffaloes' passing attack started slowly in opening wins over Roscoe, Plains and Coahoma, but the running game and the defense were there from the start.

In the last two games, however, quarterback Brant Nichols and receivers Lee Morris and Brandy Bryan have been putting San Diego Charger-like numbers on the board. Add a dangerous passing game to Forsan's Larry Csonka-like runner Wayne Wright and you have the most balanced offense in the Crossroads Country area.

Unless the unexpected happens and Forsan comes out sluggish or overconfident, Ozona will fall.

Forsan 28, Ozona 14

Stanton (4-1) at Eldorado (1-4)

Last week an undefeated Stanton team played a fired up Crane team that had been playing below preseason expectations. The Cranes finally put it all together, and the Buffaloes collapsed.

Stanton should end their losing streak at one, because they're playing an Eldorado team that has been outscored 121-19 this year. The Buffaloes could use an impressive win to heal last week's wounds and restore confidence. The angry Buffaloes will stomp Eldorado.

Stanton 35, Eldorado 3

Brady (4-1) at C-City (1-3-1)

It's homecoming at Colorado City, and the Wolves are coming off an emotional first win at Coahoma.

The emotional edge of homecoming has long been overestimated. Actually, with pretty girls and slow dancing swimming in a player's head, he's probably a little less effective. The Wolves' players would do best to forget their Donnas and Mary Lous and think about Brady.

The Bulldogs stomped Abilene Wylie 38-12, and Wylie beat Coahoma with room to spare. Look for Brady to beat Colorado City with a big second half, when the emotional high drops and the party gets close.

Brady 28, Colorado City 8

Garden City (0-5) at Eden (2-2)

The Garden City Bearkats are still searching for their first win. The Eden Bulldogs will be a hard team to get that win against. Two weeks ago the Bulldogs caught everyone's attention by playing the powerful Bronte Longhorns a tough game. Bronte managed to squeak out a 14-8 win. Last week the Bulldogs got their first district win by downing Water Valley 21-7.

Unfortunately, the Bearkats don't have much offense and it will be a long night for the Red and Black.

Eden 28, Garden City 0

Mid. Christian (2-3) at Klondike (2-3)

This is a non-district game for the Klondike Cougars and a welcome change from the two previous tough opponents (Sands and Wellman) they lost to.

The Cougars have a very good team when they can put together four good quarters. The past two weeks they have played two good quarters each game.

That will change this week. With a relaxed attitude in front of the homecoming crowd, Klondike will romp.

Klondike 45, Midland Christian 24

Sands (3-2) at Wellman (5-0)

The Sands Mustangs are still smoking over last week's 30-24 loss to Borden County. Now they know they must play hard from now on to make the playoffs.

The Wellman Wildcats are a good team, indicated by their perfect record. But they'll feel the wrath of the Mustangs.

Sands 40, Wellman 32

Grady (0-5) at Dawson (0-5)

Right now this game is the battle for the cellar. Both teams need this win to get some kind of momentum going. The Grady Wildcats are improving every game. This week all the hard knocks and hard work pay off.

Grady 48, Dawson 46

Loop (3-2) at B-County (3-1)

The Borden County Coyotes showed just what kind of character they have when they drove for two touchdowns in the fourth quarter in a win over Sands. The win was a definite shot in the arm for them.

The Coyotes don't have an awesome offense, but they have a nasty defense. Loop will soon find that out.

Borden County 36, Loop 20

'Oil Can' versus 'Candy Man' tonight

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — John Candelaria of the California Angels and Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd of the Boston Red Sox were studies in contrast as they prepared for their starting assignments in Game 3 in the American League playoffs.

Candelaria, leaning casually against a podium, said he wasn't feeling the least bit nervous.

Boyd, on the other hand, fidgeted, wiggled his fingers incessantly and said he's going to try to "key down."

The best-of-seven series is tied 1-1 heading into tonight's 8:25 p.m. EDT contest at Anaheim Stadium.

"I'm not nervous," Candelaria said Thursday while talking at an informal news conference prior to the Angels' workout. "I'll just go out there and throw the best I can and hope I'm throwing well. I'm looking forward to it. I haven't had this opportunity (to pitch in the playoffs) for a few years."

Candelaria, who last threw in a postseason game in 1979 with the Pittsburgh Pirates, came back from elbow surgery early this season to post a 10-2 record with a 2.55 earned run average.

Boyd rebounded from some mid-season personal problems.

He was suspended by the team on July 11, one day after throwing a tantrum in the clubhouse when he learned he wasn't selected for the All-Star team. He apologized to the team on July 13 and was set to return when he was suspended again on July 16, 24 hours after an alleged altercation with police near his home. He admitted himself to a hospital for a series of tests, including some for possible drug use.

The Red Sox reinstated Boyd on July 31, paying him for the previous 17 days, and establishing a counseling and support program for the right-hander.

He had an 11-6 record before the first suspension and finished with a 16-10 mark and 3.78 ERA.

Boyd, 27, who said he sometimes just gets too excited when he's pitching, said he hopes to hold his emotions in check when he takes the mound for his first playoff appearance.

"It's going to be hard," Boyd said at a late-afternoon news conference. "I'm real keyed-up. Sometimes when I'm pitching, the manager lets me know, holds his arms up and signals me to slow down."

"I just want to key down and go out there and throw the baseball." Asked if a good performance might blot out some of his past problems, Boyd said that he wasn't thinking in those terms, but added, "When you win, everybody jumps on the band wagon, pats you on the back."

Boyd, talking about his approach to a game, said it was sort of him against the world.

"I want to beat the hitter, beat the umpire, feel like I want to beat everybody," he said. "And that's not pressure; I like that."

Candelaria, 32, had arm surgery early this season, but the left-hander said, "I think I'm throwing it better now than I have in seven or eight years. I don't have the same fastball I did 10 years ago, but I've got better control, and I understand the game better than I did."

Both pitchers might get an early edge since Game 3 is starting in the twilight to accommodate television. Unlike Wednesday's second game in Boston, where the midday sun bothered the fielders — and apparently contributed to the Angels' defensive collapse in the 9-2 loss — a twilight start at Anaheim Stadium can make it tough on the hitters because of the shadows and fading sunlight.

"I personally don't like starting the game then," Boston third baseman Wade Boggs, who led the majors in hitting at .357, said. "You can't see the ball and can't pick up the spin on it very well. You really have to concentrate."

Meanwhile, McNamara announced that Roger Clemens will start Game 4 with only three days' rest, opposing the Angels' Don Sutton in Saturday's contest.

Sub varsity roundup

Goliad B 6, Monahans 6

For the third time this season the Goliad B football team battled to a tie. But with its 6-6 tie with Monahans Thursday at Blankenship Field, Goliad remained undefeated, with a 2-0-3 record.

Earlier this season in Monahans, the two teams tied 0-0. The other tie was also a scoreless battle with Sweetwater.

Goliad's lone touchdown came on a 10 yard-run by Watu Todd in the second quarter. "We should have won, we blew two scoring chances inside their 10," said Goliad coach E.C. Roberson. The Mavericks fumbled once at the four and once at the five.

Roberson credited Tim Duffy, Joe Franco, Charles Meyer, Todd, Rocky Ortega, Moses Luna and Darrius Hill with playing good games.

Goliad A 22, Monahans 0

The Mavericks A team kept their scoreless streak going by gaining their fifth win with a 22-0 drubbing of Monahans. The Goliad defense has played 20 consecutive quarters of scoreless ball.

Kevin Rogers led the way with touchdown runs of four and five yards. The last Goliad TD was a "flea-flicker" which featured quarterback Gerald Cobos pass to wide receiver Pat Chavarria, who lateraled the ball back to receiver Cort Petterson. Petterson took the ball in to complete a 68 yard play.

Travis Sinclear and Ralph Labrew each ran in a two-point conversion.

Roberson said that Rogers, Petterson, Cobos, Chavarria, Labrew and Sinclear all played good games. He also credited Lance Reeves, Freddy Williams, John Downey, Paul Ugstad and Fernando Alvarez with fine performances.

Both Goliad teams will be in action Saturday, Oct. 18 in Pecos. Grandfalls JV 28, Garden City JV 0

Pete Cahill and Raul Dominguez each scored twice to lead Grandfalls over Garden City in JV action Thursday.

In the losing effort, Bearkat Edward Lopez ran for 105 yards on 14 carries.

The teams battled to a first quarter tie, but Cahill ran 60 yards with 7:48 remaining in the game to open the scoring. Dominguez scored four minutes later on a 3-yard run.

In the third quarter, Cahill again ran 60 yards for a score.

With :11 remaining in the game, Dominguez capped the scoring with a 2-yard run.

The Bearkats averaged 41 yards on four punts, and lost the ball twice on fumbles. Garden City had four first downs, while Grandfalls had seven.

Martina found innocent

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (AP) — A jury found that tennis star Martina Navratilova did not injure a 44-year-old photographer when she took his camera and exposed his film at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships in 1982.

The six-member jury, however, did award Arthur Seitz $50 for the roll of film that Navratilova exposed during a skirmish following her quarter-final loss to Pam Shriver on Sept. 7, 1982.

Seitz had claimed in a $2 million suit that Navratilova injured his elbow and shoulder during a battle for his camera.

Rain delays Pensacola Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Heavy rain forced suspension of the first round of the $300,000 Pensacola Open with about half of the 156 golfers still on the Perdido Bay Resort golf course.

The first round will be completed Friday and the second round will be delayed until Saturday. A decision will be made at that time whether to play 36 holes Sunday or a single 18-hole round that would reduce the tournament to 54 holes, PGA officials said.

Tied for the lead with 6-under-par scores of 65 were, Ernie Gonzalez, Curt Byrum and Jeff Sluman.

America II loses in America's Cup

FREMANTLE, Australia (AP) — New Zealand beat previously unbeaten America II in preliminary competition of the America's Cup that will determine the challenger to Australia.

Stars & Stripes, the only other undefeated boat, scored its fifth win in a row with a come-from-behind victory over USA.

In other races, Azzurra scored its first victory by defeating winless Courageous IV, White Crusader beat Challenge France, Italia trounced Heart of America and Canada II edged French Kiss.

Ex-boxer charged with extortion

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A former light heavyweight boxing champion was arrested and charged with extortion and making threats to try to collect a debt.

Albert Michael DiPiano, who fought using the name Mike Rossman, was arraigned in Superior Court along with Richard E. Burnside, 24, of Ventnor. Both were charged with extortion and conspiracy to commit extortion.

DiPiano was also charged with making terroristic threats, in the form of promising to "break the legs" of the victim if he did not pay the remaining half of a $1,000 debt.

DiPiano held the World Boxing Association light heavyweight title for about six months beginning in 1978. His last fight was in 1983.

More fem athletes using steroids

CHICAGO (AP) — The use of male hormones by female athletes is a big problem, and a test should be developed to keep those who have used the substances from competing in the Olympics, a U.S. Olympic team official says.

"The abuse is worldwide," said Dr. Robert O. Voy, director of sports medicine and science for the United States Olympic Committee.

"There is a total ban (on use of the hormones), but there ought to be total testing," he said in a telephone interview from Dallas.

The hormones, in the form of anabolic steroids, are used to increase muscle mass.

Voy said the problem with steroids is worse than cases of genetic males trying to sneak into women's events in world athletic competition.

A Finnish researcher reported in today's Journal of the American Medical Association that genes alone do not determine who is a woman, and he recommended that the test used to ensure that female Olympic competitors are really women be altered if it is continued.

"The procedure is not only inaccurate but also discriminatory, in that it excludes women who should be allowed to participate," writes Dr. Albert de la Chapelle of the University of Helsinki.

The test, he added, does not screen for women strengthened by male hormones.

Voy said the genetic test is only the first screening used, and he knows of no inaccurate results after a full examination.

"Done in its usual form, and done very confidentially, it is probably... fair as long as people understand that it isn't the only test used," he said.

Since 1968, the International Olympic Committee has required "sex chromatin screening," or genetic testing, for female athletes. Other athletic competitions have also used the test of genetic material in cheek cells.

But in rare disorders, such as testicular feminization, in which a male's sex organs fail to develop normally, an athlete's genetic makeup may be male, while the muscle structure and upbringing are female, said de la Chapelle.

Four factors — chromosome structure, sexual organs, characteristics such as muscle structure and psychosocial indicators such as appearance and behavior — determine if someone is a man or woman, said de la Chapelle.

The fundamental failure of the testing used is that it deals only with chromosome structure, he said.

Dr. Joe Leigh Simpson of the University of Tennessee said in an editorial accompanying de la Chapelle's report that the practice of gender screening should be reconsidered.

"Eliminating screening would probably have little or no practical effect, and it might restore a few personal dignities," he said.

A retired doctor in Brunswick, Maine, Dr. Daniel Hanley, was on the International Olympic Committee's medical commission when the testing was first used.

"They ought to forget sex screening," Hanley said. "If some kook wants to dress like a girl and run around the track, let him. The world isn't going to stop if he gets a medal in one race."

PUBLIC NOTICE

Statement of non-discrimination
 Cap Rock Electric Cooperative, Inc., has filed with the federal government a Compliance Assurance in which it assures the Rural Electrification Administration that it will comply fully with all requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Rules and Regulations of the Department of Agriculture issued thereunder, to the end that no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color, sex, religion, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination in the conduct of its program and the operation of its facilities. Under this Assurance, this organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the ground of race, color, sex, religion, or national origin in its policies and practices relating to applications for service or any other policies and practices relating to treatment of beneficiaries and participants including rates, conditions and extension of service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in any meetings of beneficiaries and participants, or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization.
 Any person who believes himself, or any specific class of individuals, to be subjected by this organization to discrimination prohibited by Title VI of the Act and the Rules and Regulations issued thereunder may, by himself or a representative, file with the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, DC 20250, or the Rural Electrification Administration, Washington, DC 20250, or this organization, or all, a written complaint. Such complaint must be filed not later than 180 days after the alleged discrimination, or by such later date to which the Secretary of Agriculture or the Rural Electrification Administration extends the time for filing. Identity of complainants will be kept confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of the Rules and Regulations.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SAT., OCTOBER 11, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You come under very good aspects for making long-range plans to put into motion ways to show your experience. This will help you forge ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get worldly affairs organized well. Be more concerned with personal things to bring greater happiness.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Talk over your new ventures with those you have met recently. Get at your work enthusiastically.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get your vital bills paid with alacrity and gain the good will of others. Get into new ventures.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Some kind thought for an outside partner can bring excellent results. Show your talents.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You can bring your talents before the public and gain recognition. Avoid one who may be trying to fool you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be thoughtful of your mate. Later be off with a co-worker who has good ideas for improving work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get your home fixed up so it is more charming and comfortable. Use your talents to gain popularity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Write little notes that can please your friends. Influential persons should be welcomed into your home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how to improve your property. Tonight enjoy a hobby that you like very much.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You rise with a feeling of well-being and can communicate nicely with others. Be practical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make a plan that will help you to please friends and relatives. Enjoy any recreation that you like.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Give support to a good friend who has an enterprise that is important. Get your fine talents working.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will become very interested in long-established business courses. He or she should specialize in business school. It will add much to the natural talents here. When mature, your progeny will have more success than others in this field.

Washington or bust! says wagoner family living in Peacetrain

Like their forefathers, the Hibler family has set off in a homemade covered wagon to discover their country, but this time headed east instead of west.

The Nebraska family decided to start the "Little American Peacetrain" as a goodwill mission and expect to arrive in Washington, D.C., by mid-November.

Pictured top left, motorists along U.S. 40 between Effingham and Altamont, Ill., pass the covered wagon that Angelina and David Hibler and family are driving to Washington. They hope to meet President Reagan.

The Hibler family poses (left) in their covered wagon. "All along the way, people ask us what we're protesting," say the Hiblers, "but we're not protesting anything." They say their wagon represents a reminder of American cultural heritage and a symbol of goodness, "characteristic of the majority...of Americans."

Above, David Hibler washes himself during a stop with the family's covered wagon in Effingham County, Ill. The wagon, built by Hibler, measures eight by 20 feet and is pulled by a pair of Belgian draft horses. Two of the horses are normally worked at a time.

Study done on abortion worldwide

NEW YORK (AP) — Women who want abortions will get them no matter what the law allows, says a researcher who estimates that 10 million to 25 million illegal abortions are performed every year around the world.

"Once women have an unintended pregnancy, it's very difficult to prevent them from turning to abortion," said Stanley Henshaw, deputy research director of the Alan Guttmacher Institute.

"There's no place in the world where abortions don't occur, regardless of what the laws are."

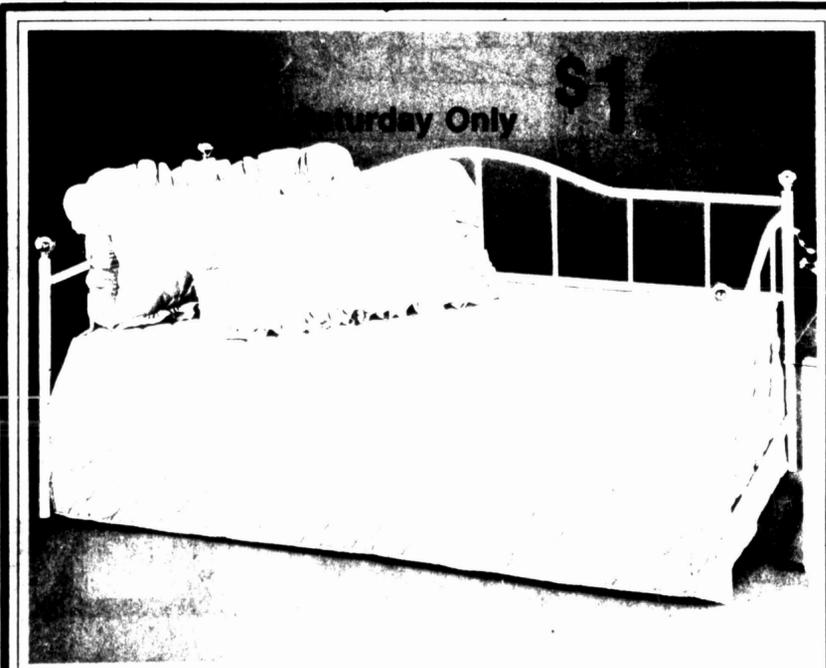

The institute, which supports legal abortion as one means for limiting family size, released Henshaw's study of world abortions Wednesday.

The study estimated that 40 million to 60 million abortions a year are performed around the world. Of those, legal abortions amount to 30 million to 40 million a year, Henshaw said.

Illegal abortions are probably usually performed by non-medical personnel, especially in Latin American and some Asian countries, Henshaw said. Higher maternal death rates can accompany illegal abortions, he said.

The study also said the United States had about 1.5 million abortions in 1983. The American abortion rate is about 27.4 per 1,000 women aged 15-44, while the world's rate for legal and illegal abortions is between 37 and 55 abortions per 1,000 women in that age group, the institute said.
