ID's for checks

Q. Why are regular customers at Winn-Dixie required to show identification every time they pay with a check?

A. David Parker, store manager at Winn-Dixie, said there are four reasons Winn-Dixie asks for identification. 1) It's a nationwide company policy: 2) The County Attorney requests that all merchants request I.D.; 3) Checking I.D. protects customers who have lost their checkbooks; and 4) Because of the high turnover of checkers, many employees don't know the regular customers. Checkers who take bad checks without identification must either pay the amount or lose their jobs.

No water bill refunds, says Council

By HANK MURPHY Staff Writer

City Council decided Monday it prefers the certain prospect of facing a bitter and resentful public rather than adjusting city water customers' accounts.

Council, however, indicated a rebate or bill adjustment program will be considerd if future findings uncover a water system problem.

There is no assurance, however, such a discovery will ever surface. Also, after meeting with County

O.L. Brown, councilmen decided to seek bids for ambulance services before agreeing to pay a higher monthly subsidy requested by Lee Ambulance, which serves the city.

Initially, it seemed Council was posturing for some type of relief measure for people who complained of exorbitant water charges. At the outset of the nearly 2-hour discussion of water bills, Councilman Russ McEwen advanced a

Depending on the month, the rebate would cost the city from $49,000 to $34,000, said City Finance Director Tom Ferguson.

The suggestion was rejected, however, like many rebate for-

COAHOMA — A standing-room-only crowd of some 500 people packed the Coahoma elementary school cafetorium Monday night at which the School Board assuaged citizen fears about the closing of the school in what Superintendent Jerry Doyle called "an information sharing session.

However, Superintendent Jerry Doyle said the school tax could rise by as much as 67 cents to $1.99 per $100,000 property valuation if oil prices remain at present levels.

Doyle said in addition to a significant tax increase, the Coahoma ISD would have to consider cutting teachers, reducing salaries and making "some miscellaneous cuts.

Although many citizens expressed concern about the school's future, early in the meeting it became clear the crowd was supportive of the Board and of continuing a school system in Coahoma.

Manuel Gomez stood and said no education was complete without athletics, then thanked the Board for doing a "damn good job." The crowd thundered in applause.

Doyle said the Board will not know the extent of the cuts for the 1987-88 budget until Jan. 1, the benchmark day for land values. Doyle said the 1987 tax levels will be determined by the property values in Coahoma as of that date. He said the Board would begin planning sessions before that time, but would not look at specifics until February or March.

C. Roy Wright said he believed part of the school's problem was that too many people were complaining and spreading rumors.

Band wins first place at festival

The Big Spring High School Steers' marching band won the first place trophy in Class 4-A Saturday at the Texas Tech Marching Festival in Lubbock.

The Steer Band received two Division I ratings and a Division II rating, for a composite rating of Division I, he said. The band triumphed over Lubbock Cooper, Lamesa and Fort Stockton to claim the first place title.

The contest was established 10 years ago to give area bands the chance to perform their University Scholastic League marching contest show under UIL-type conditions, with UIL judging standards, said band director Ricky Mitchell. Steve Waggoner and Pat Daniel also are band directors. The band will perform at 4 p.m. Saturday during participation in the UIL marching contest in Odessa. Big Spring Band Boosters are forming a car caravan to travel to Odessa and support the band.

Giles of Austin strode through Big Spring Monday with a 70-pound backpack strapped around his torso. He said he's on a walk - a walk to Idaho the long way around.

Giles, a willowy 29-year-old, plans to hoof it to New Mexico and spend the winter, if permitted, on the Mescalero Indian Resevation.

He said he wants to learn the Indian's philosophy of living with the land. Also, he said he hopes to do some painting and perhaps sell some work. Ultimately, Giles plans to hike to the Washington coast, and then south to Oregon. From there he will return to his home state of Idaho,

$18-per-barrel won't help oil slump

HOUSTON(AP) — The proposed $18-per-barrel standard being considered by OPEC oil ministers meeting in Geneva will do little to improve the plight of the domestic energy producers, a recent survey by Arthur Andersen & Co. says. "At $18 per barrel, you do not Richard Adkerson, managing director of oil and gas services for the accounting firm. "It appears the goal of Saudi Arabia is to shut off exploration, particularly in the United States

The accounting firm's annual survey of domestic oil companies released Monday shows sharp drops in capital expenditures and re-investment and deteriorating replacement of reserves, with independent producers taking the hardest hits.

"The lower level of expenditures will result in lower addition of reserves in 1986, 1987 and 1988," Adkerson said.

In 1985, according to the survey less than 65 percent of the nation's oil was replaced. In prior years, it was more than 100 percent

"The excessive supply of oil worldwide, the depressed demand for energy, and the challenges caused by deregulation have let to this situation," he said. Despite slump, campaign funds raised

By DARLA MORGAN Austin News Bureau

Texas is in an economic slump, but that hasn't stopped Mark White and Bill Clements from raising an anticipated $17 million this campaign year in the race for governor.

In the 1982 match between White, a Democrat, and Clements, the Republican incumbent, the two candidates spent about $16

However, when the final five weeks of current campaign fund-raising are reported, this could prove to be the most expensive governor's race in Texas history

While Clements outspent White in 1982 by almost a 2-1 margin, White so far is ahead this time with about $8.5 million. This compares with $6.3 million for the Clements' campaign.

25, the two candidates have raised about $6 million, with Clements bringing in $3.2 million and White $2.8 million. Campaign finance reports filed with the Texas Secretary of State's Office verify the amounts.

Clements reported loans of $346,000 from two Dallas banks during the reporting period, and White reported $132,000 in loans.

Reggie Bashur, Clements campaign spokesman, said the lower campaign budget is partially intentional and partial because of the state's sagging economic conditions.

"Our campaign is more of a grass-roots effort. We have 5,000 phone bank volunteers in 50 locations around the state. In part, the smaller budget reflects the fact that it's tougher to raise money because of the economic situation," Bashur said.

The campaign has abeen on a pay-as-you-go basis, he said.

"We are raising money as we need it," Bashur said.

Clements, who was defeated by White in 1982, reported paying about $1.4 million of his campaign funds to the political consulting firm of Bailey, Deardourff, Sipple and Associates of Washington, D.C., for advertising on radio and television.

Shannon Ratliff, who serves as White's campaign treasurer, acknowledged that the downturn in the economy made his task more difficult, but said he is very satisfied with the fund-raising effort.

In his campaign expenditure reports, White reported paying nearly $1.3 million to David Sawyer & Associates of New York, his media consultant.

'The alternatives discussed will satisfy only a few," said Councilman Johnny Rutherford. "I can't find anything equitable."

He said allowing rebates amounted to a "give away program" for political purposes and later suggested councilmen were trying to "buy back our credibility.

The current ambulance agreement calls for the two governing entities to pay about $98,000 annually for the service. The city's monthly share is $5,690, which includes dispatcher service, $200 for phone calls and space at the Central Fire Station, according to Fire Chief Carl Dorton

While generally pleased with the service of Lee Ambulance, councilmen said it was in the city's best financial interest to go along with commissioners and entertain bids.

Also, Council followed Crooker's recommendation and said it would keep closer tabs on the ambulance company's books and to examine its operating expenses and revenues. Crooker said Ginn has been willing all along to make the company's records available.

GM decision qualified

DETROIT — General Motors' decision to sell its assembly subsidiary in South Africa follows several years of losses that Chairman Roger Smith said were unlikely to reverse under worldwide pressure against apartheid.

General Motors South African Ltd., the car and truck assembly subsidiary that General Motors Corp. said Monday would be sold to a group headed by South African management, is the No. 2 U.S.-based employer in South

No. 1, according to the Investor Responsibility Research Center, a private watchdog group in Washington, D.C., is Mobil Corp.

U.S. forms retaliation

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration is nearing a decision to retaliate for the expulsion of five U.S. diplomats from Moscow on spying charges, U.S. officials say.

A meeting was held Monday at the White House. Among the measures considered was the expulsion of Soviet diplomats from their embassy here, said U.S. officials who declined to be identified.

An announcement is expected shortly, perhaps as early as today.

Nuclear plants bilked

SEATTLE - A pipe manufacturer and several suppliers bilked nuclear power plants and other customers of up to $4 million through a conspiracy to pad their bills, federal officials say.

Six corporations and seven individuals were charged in U.S. District Court on Monday with involvement in a scheme to jack up the costs passed along to customers in cost-plus contracts for pipe.

U.S. Attorney Gene Anderson said the probe into the pipe fabrication industry would continue and he expected further indictments.

German official visits

 ${\bf WASHINGTON-West\ German\ Chancellor}$ Helmut Kohl is visiting here intent on encouraging President Reagan to continue efforts to achieve a nuclear arms reduction agreement with the Soviet Union.

But Kohl has sad he would oppose any agreement that left Western Europe vulnerable to attack by powerful Soviet bloc conventional forces.

Reagan's talks with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Iceland were expected to dominate Kohl's meeting today with the president and his luncheon with Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

Kohl was especially interested in Reagan's account of the discussions on reducing intermediate range missiles because of the pivotal role assigned to West Germany, among NATO countries, in the deployment of these weapons.

Sandinistas put American on trial

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — The Sandinista government opened its case against Eugene Hasenfus, the first American captured in the Washington-backed rebel war, with a scathing review of the history of U.S.-Nicaraguan relations.

No details of the government's evidence against Hasenfus were revealed in the 14-page accusation read Monday in a "People's Tribunal" that specializes in judging those charged with counterrevolutionary acts.

In a sweltering courtroom packed with reporters, Hasenfus sat stonily at a table with court president Reynaldo Monterrey. He listened as he was formally charged with terrorism, criminal association and violating the public order and security on behalf of the

"I have nothing to say until I talk with my lawyer," Hasenfus, dressed in a black T-shirt, dirty blue jeans and combat boots without laces, said after the accusation was read first in Spanish, then in English.

The 45-year-old American from Marinette, Wis. was captured Oct. 6 after Sandinista soldiers shot down a C-123 military transport plane carrying supplies to rebels fighting the leftist Sandinista government. Two other Americans and a third man, still unidentified, Hasenfus, who met for the first time with defense attorney Enrique Sotelo Borgen after the session, has two days to enter a plea. The lawyer said he would ask permission to talk with his client again today

Justice Minister Rodrigo Reyes gave the court a four-page document identified as Hasenfus' confession, as well as a recommendation that the American be sentenced to 30 years in prison, the maximum penalty for the charges.

"In flying over Nicaraguan territory with the object of supplying forces financed and directed by the North American government who act against the legally constituted government of Nicaragua ... (Hasenfus) is carrying out acts that impair the independence, the sovereignty and the integrity of the nation," said the accusation read by Monterrey

The document recounted the United States' military occupation of Nicaragua from 1926-33, its support for the 34-year Somoza family dictatorship and its attempts to undermine the Sandinistas since they ousted Anastasio Somoza in 1979.

"We will demonstrate that the actions imputed (to Hasenfus) are indissolubly linked to the official policy of the government of the United States towards the Republic of Nicaragua," the accusation read.

It said the United States had violated "the sacred basic principles of our internal laws and the charters of the United Nations, the Organization of American States and other treaties in force, as well as the basic principles of customary international law.

"Since the middle of the past century," it said, U.S. armed forces have "caused the losses of thousands of (Nicaraguan) lives, shattering not only in the material sense, but also to the cultural and spiritual heritage of Sotelo Borgen criticized the emphasis on the United States, saying, "This is not the place for that. This shows this (trial) has a political and propagandistic

President Daniel Ortega hinted at the nature of the trial during a weekend speech denouncing President Reagan's signing Saturday of a bill containing $100 million in new aid for the rebels, who are called

"I insist that the greater criminal, the godfather, is Mr. Reagan and that Mr. Hasenfus is a victim of that political terrorist. But justice must be done,

34 dead in plane crash

MAPUTO, Mozambique - Thirty-four people, including four Soviet airplane crew members, died in the plane crash that killed President Samora Machel, the government

The toll in Sunday night's crash earlier was placed at 29. But an official list of casualties issued today said 33 people in addition to Machel were killed when the plane slammed into a rainswept hillside in South Africa.

In Zimbabwe, thousands of youths who apparently blamed South Africa for Machel's death rampaged through Harare, attacking diplomatic missions, including those of the United States and South Africa. There were no immediate reports of any casualties.

NATO meeting begins

GLENEAGLES, Scotland - NATO defense ministers today begin discussion of the alliance's strategic future in light of huge reductions in nuclear arms offered, but not agreed upon, by the United States and the Soviet Union at their Reykjavik summit.

The two-day meeting at Gleneagles, a golf resort, is the first time the Western allies have met formally since the Oct: 11-12 summit. The near-deal on deep nuclear weapons cuts, including the removal of U.S. cruise and Pershing-2 missiles from Western Europe, has alarmed some of the allies — particularly West Germany, which considers itself particularly vulnerable to a hypothetical attack from Soviet-bloc forces.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinbeger, whose tasks at Gleneagles include reassuring the European allies that Washington will not abandon them, arrived Monday by helicopter.

Arabian king referees

GENEVA — Saudi Arabia's King Fahd has stepped into the deadlocked OPEC oil negotiations in an effort to resolve a bitter dispute threatening to unravel a nearly completed

The 13 ministers from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries failed in a lengthy series of formal and private meetings Monday to end the stalemate, which centers on Kuwait's demand for a bigger share of OPEC's total oil production.

Several hours later, the Saudi government issued a statement in Riyadh saying King Fahd had initiated contacts with the leaders of neighboring states on the Arabian Peninsula with the intention of "finding a way out" of the dispute in Geneva.

The statement did not say the king had a compromise proposal, but it appeared to indicate the Saudis were increasing pressure on Kuwait, their close ally, to soften its bargaining stance.

Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and the other OPEC members on the Arabian Peninsula — Qatar and the United Arab Emirates — usually act as an alliance in cartel negotiations.

Ozone dropoff disturbing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever is causing protective ozone to disappear over the South Pole, it probably isn't the sun and the wind, according to scientists on the frozen continent. They said Monday they believe a chemical process is behind the puzzling, recently discovered drop in ozone concentrations every October. But they are not ready to blame man-made chemicals yet. The Antarctic discoveries, confirmed earlier this year, set off a flurry of scientific and governmental activity because ozone is necessary to support life as we know it, and the "hole" was the first concrete evidence of damage to the ozone layer despite more than a decade of warnings from some scientists. The ozone dropoff also appears to be occurring over the North Pole, another study has shown.

The formation of ozone - a pollutant at ground level — by ultra-violet rays high in the atmosphere keeps most of those rays from reaching the surface of the Earth, where they could be deadly to some life forms. The Environmental Protection Agency estimates that each one percent decline in ozone at high altitudes means 200,000 more skin cancers around the globe every year.

In a telephone hookup from the U.S. base at McMurdo Sound to a news conference sponsored by the National Science Foundation, Susan Solomon, leader of a special expedition to study the October ozone drop in Antarctica, said she was "more concerned" than she had been before the expedition, because science has been "unable to come up with an explanation.

But she said her group believes it can rule out two theories put forward to compete with the chemical

One of those two theories proposes that the 11-year solar cycle is somehow responsible, through triggering chemical reactions that have a cumulative effect. This would explain why the Antartcic "hole" did not appear before the mid-1970s

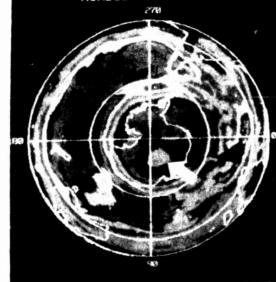

The other postulates that slight changes in wind patterns resulting in an upward movement of air masses could be responsible.

The leading competitor of these two theories states that chlorofluorocarbon compounds used as refrigeration fluids are deleting ozone around the globe, through the release of chlorine from these long-lived molecules when they reach high altitudes.

One problem is that none of the several computer models used by scientists who believe this theory predicted the October Antarctic "hole" - which is actually about a 40 percent decline in ozone concentration over much of the continent. If the solar cycle were driving ozone down, large amounts of nitrogen dioxide should be found at altitudes where the ozone is disappearing — but "the nitrogen dioxide abundances inside the ozone hole are the lowest we have observed anywhere in the world," said Ms. Solomon, a chemist at the Boulder, Colo., lab of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. If changed wind patterns and rising air masses were the cause, nitrous oxide should be found in abundance. But that substance also is "extremely low inside the ozone hole." In addition, tracking of fine particles in the atmosphere by a University of Wyoming team on the expedition shows no evidence of the upward movement of air that would support the wind theory. Though winds may play a role, "We believe that a chemical mechanism is fundamentally responsible for the formation of the hole. "I am definitely not saying" that chlorofluorocarbons or man-made chemicals are the cause, she said in response to a question.

In December, major producing nations are meeting in Geneva to consider control measures for chlorofluorocarbons. Other nations refused to go along with a U.S. regulation that banned the chemicals as aerosol propellants in 1978.

Just a scheme to take money

Any drinker who puts his trust in a "breath buster" mouthwash to protect himself from being charged with drunken driving is asking for trouble — and he would deserve

The idea of a super mouthwash, powerful enough to consistently fool a breath-analysis test for alcohol, is no doubt appealing to some people who make a practice of drinking and driving. But there's not much future in it for drinking drivers. For one thing, informal tests of one such product sold in some bars in the Plains states have been inconclusive.

That shouldn't be surprising. A breath test measures the amount of alcohol expelled by the lungs when a person exhales. At best, any effect of a mouthwash would be temporary.

For another thing, a drunk with sweet-smelling breath is just as dangerous behind the wheel as a drunk whose breath smells like a brewery — perhaps even more dangerous.

If using a breath buster gives a person the feeling that he doesn't need to worry about being asked to blow into a balloon, he might be tempted to have one more drink for the road. He might be inclined to take fewer precautions after he gets in the driver's seat.

The tooth fairy doesn't exist. There's no pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. And the Big Rock Candy Mountain is a figment of somebody's imagination. The same is true of the idea that it's possible to drink excessively and, using a wonder product, avoid the consequences.

Excessive drinking causes intoxication, and the only responsible way of avoiding the consequences of that is to exercise moderation.

Comment stirs apology request

I for one, along with about 500 or more other people, would like to take an exception with City Councilman Harold Hall on his statement in the Big Spring Herald.

Since when do people on a limited income not know when they are gone, or how much water they use? We, who are on the paying end and living on a very limited income, have to live on limited utilities, while we watch others allow water from their lawn sprinklers to run down the street past our homes, wasting our water.

My water bill went steadily up every month although I lived alone. The water was not available because of a valve, and the rains came. And I among dozens of others had to borrow to pay my bill because I do not draw a paycheck in the summer months when not driving the school bus.

Lance pays banking fine A case of the duck with check that bounces

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON - Former Budget Director and Georgia banker Bert Lance, who got into trouble with federal banking regulators for leiting friends and relatives write rubber checks, paid his $50,000 fine to the comptroller of the currency with a check that

The fine was part of a settlement ptroller last February on charges of check kiting and other illegal use of funds at the Calhoun, Ga., First Sources at the agency told our associate Michael Binstein that United Amrican Bank in Memphis. Lance has made good on the check that bounced last summer.

Lance, who was President Carter's close associate and adviser, also resigned as chairman and director of the Calhoun bank and announced his intention to sell his stock in the bank

For more than a decade, Lance had been locked in battle with federal bank regulators over his good-ole-boy banking practices, which included allowing overdrafts for favored customers — including himself. In his defense, Lance charged that the comptroller of the currency has been carrying on a vendetta against him.

Lance claims that a confidential report on the Calhoun bank's financial situation was leaked to the press last year by a comptroller employee in an intentional attempt to damage Lance

The report revealed that the bank honored checks that Lance and his relatives wrote against accounts with insufficient funds. It also disclosed that Lance had recommended his bank buy $4.5 million in loans from banks controlled by Tennessee financier Jake Butcher at a time when Lance had significant loans from Butcher

Butcher now is doing time for embezzling $1.5 million from his

The settlement charged Lance with check kiting — a practice used by many Americans who write checks that can't be covered until a deposit is made subsequently. It takes advantage of the few days of lag time in banks' clearance of

If the deposit clears before the check does, you're OK; if it doesn't, the check bounces. When a banker kites checks, the day of reckoning can be delayed almost indefinitely by using "cover" checks as deposits from a succession of accounts.

In addition, Lance was accused of having a Calhoun bank employee take out a loan and turn the money over to Lance, thereby evading the strict limitation on the amount a bank officer can borrow from his own bank under federal law.

The comptroller of the currency cited several instances in which these loans put Lance well above his legal borrowing limit as a bank

As part of the settlement last winter, the Calhoun bank must limit its lending to Lance, restrict his checking account activities and pay a total of $32,000 in civil penalties.

Meanwhile, in a separate action last month, Lance entered into a consent decree in U.S. District Court, where he agreed to refrain from further violation of U.S. securities laws without admitting that he had broken them previously.

That case stemmed from a complaint last year by the comptroller of the currency that Lance, as chairman of the Calhoun bank, had filed misleading annual reports and proxy materials that failed to show how he and others were engaged in insider loans and other conflicts of interest.

GOOD NEWS, SORT OF: A top expert on terrorism who regularly briefs high administration officials had some qualified good news for them recently. There is, the expert said, no evidence that terrorist groups have targeted the United States for bombings, assassinations or other forms of violence.

In fact, according to our sources, the expert's briefings on the possibility of domestic terrorism have all but stopped.

Not we get to the other hand, though: Officials are at a loss to explain our good fortune, and warn that we're still as vulnerable as ever to terrorism. So enjoy the good times while they last.

A warning is sent to biographer

By ART BUCHWALD

The word on the street is that Kitty Kelley, Frank Sinatra's unofficial biographer, is looking for another fascinating subject to write about.

Well, Ms. Kelley, this is to warn you that I'm not cooperating with you, and you're just wasting your time if you think you can do to me what you did to Sinatra.

I've told all my close friends not to talk to you, and this goes for Ava, Mia, Lauren, Jili, Victoria, Shirley, Angie, Dinah, and Walter Annenberg.

Unlike Frank, I do hold grudges, and if I read one word in your book about me going skinny-dipping with Madame DeGaulle in the fountains at Versailles, I sue. You think, Ms. Kelley, that just because I am an outstanding public figure with a worldwide following, you can steal my life story and and appropriate it as your own. Well, you can't do it, and if I am unable to stop you, I have friends who can.

What if I told you the entire Chilean navy owes me a favor? If you have doubts, just write about the orgy we all had with the Bartles and Jaymes Brothers and see if someone doesn't shoot a torpedo up your word processor.

I believe in freedom of the press as much as the next woman, Ms. Kelley, but there are certain things better left unsaid when writing a AIR SAFETY AND DRUGS: We biography. And that includes the shouting match I had with Mother Teresa when I jumped the line in Wagshal's Delicatessen.

Ms. Kelley, you have no more right to include that as you have to say I was one of the great ear-lobe kissers of the '60s. Having read your book about

Frank, I am worried that you may be more interested in scandal than Like Warren Burger, I have plenty of skeletons in my closet. I've never claimed that I was a saint, but I did a lot more than fall off the golden chairs at the White House. Behind all this craziness was a man who knew how to make Phil Donahue cry "uncle.

I don't know why I'm even writing this, since the only reason you are interested in me is because my life sells books.

Well, Ms. Know-It-All, just because I always took the fast lane doesn't mean I am in the public domain. Win or lose, I had a good time, and you can check that with the Mormon Tabernacle Choir.

The reason why I refuse to cooperate with you is because you can mess somebody up badly. You could take a little story about me stiffing a Vietnamese hatcheck girl and make it into a Gulf of Tonkin resolution

Ms. Kelley,. I can't stop you from writing the book, but I will do everything in my power to see that no one buys it. I have friends among the street people, and I'm going to see that all of them stretch out in front of Waldenbooks store until it closes for the night.

Don't think flattery will get you anywhere either. You can publish that I am the greatest unmined biographical subject in the country, and you can say that my married life was vivid and unforgettable, and you can employ that I was a womanizer and wildly lavish

You can even say I was complex and misunderstood, and it wouldn't bother me. But then you are going to have to write about my private life, and that's when you get to talk to my lawyers.

So the purpose of this letter is to make sure you understand that I will not cooperate with your biography even if it is a fully documented, highly detailed, penetrating love story that will capture the hearts and imagination of the American people.

After this warning, if you insist on going ahead with the project, my wife would like you to title the book, "I Did It Your Way.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband, who is 50, was told last year by his doctor that he has an enlarged prostate. At that time the doctor didn't advise him to have anything done about it. Recently, he has started feeling pain there - now and then, not all the time. My husband is hesitant to have surgery because it might affect his ability to have sex. So far, the enlargement has not affected his sexual performance. Can you tell us more about this condition? Has he waited too long, now that he feels the pain?

A certain amount of prostate enlargement needs surgery, but that still makes it fairly common procedure. It's done when the symptoms from the enlargement become intolerable, or sometimes when there is malignancy.

Of course, repeated infections that cannot be controlled or tht threaten damage to the rest of the urinary tract are an indication for surgery. As I noteld, prostate pain, while not a usual symptom, can mean such as infection.

It is natural for men to be upset by the prospect of prostate surgery. It usually stems from apprehension over the so called TUR procedure (transurethral route).

I am asked why this access to the gland is utilized. It is chosen because of its very slight aftereffects. Impotence almost never happens, althouigh fertility is sacrificed. For a man in his 50s, fertility is usually of little concern. Form ost, the consequences is in ejaculation, which thereafter is directed backward, into the

Encourage your husband to have tributing to his infertility. It can, you know. Such veins are called varicoeles. If this is the case, the remedy is a simple surgical procedure. This is not to say that the hormone problem is not a factor. Both factors could be at work.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Does food in the stomach affect absorption of medicine, all medicine? Explain, please. - K.W.

Some medicines lose absorption in the presence of food. Some are only partially affected, for example, causing a delay in absorption. Some food may actually increase absorption.

To further complicate the subject, certain foods may affect certain medicines and not others. What I'm saying is that if food instake is a significant factor in lowering the effectiveness of a particular drug, that fact is usually listed in the manufacturer's instructions to doctors.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can you tell me why the Adam's apple is larger in men than in women? -

It's a secondary male characteristic. It does not, as some may think, relate to the nearby thyroid gland. It has to do wit how cartilage fuses to form that part of the male voice box. It gives males the deeper voice.

The female voice box is smaller and the thyroid cartilage smoother. Female voices, therefore, are higherpitched.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband is 76 and has some memory loss. His doctor wants him to have a CAT scan to help him. How does the CAT scan help memory loss? He doesn't want the test. - A.R.T.

A CAT scan does not treat anything or cure anything. It is a test, and it stands for computerized axial tomography. The body is viewed axially, meaning from every angle, thus giving a complete picture in depth. It would tell the doctor if there is any condition of the brain that might be contributing to memory loss and which might be treated. A brain tumor is an example of what I mean by that.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Why do some people (me) crave sweets? I have all my life. I am healthy (I think). Am I? — E.E.

Probably. A sweet tooth seems to be an all but universal defect. I don't know why some like sweets more than others. If you wish to explore this further, look into a book,

'The Carbohydrate Craver's Diet," by Dr. Judith Wortman. It's in paperback. She says carbohydrates (sugars), by triggering insulin release, cause an amino acid, tryptophan, to enter the brain, where it's converted to a brain chemical, serotonin. Serotonin shuts off the carbohydrate craving.

I guess some people have an innate need for more serotonin in their brains. They are carbohydrate cravers.

End to hot romance leaves woman in daze

DEAR ABBY: I met a really neat guy at the beginning of the summer. (We're both 20.) We were immediately attracted to each other and spent every moment we could together - laughing, talking and having fun. I hadn't had such a fulfilling relationship with a guy in years, and I knew his feelings were as strong as mine.

He went away to college, and we agreed to phone when we could afford it and to write often.

To date I have written five very long letters and called him six times, but he has made no effort to contact me. When I called him, he didn't seem the least bit excited and acted like he was in a hurry to get off the phone. He said he'd call me back that night, but he never did. I was in tears. I called him the next day to find out what was wrong, and he said, "Nothing," but didn't give me a reason why he didn't call back. (Again he was in a hurry.) Everything was wonderful before he left; I can't understand his lack of communication. This isn't the same guy who left in August. Or is it?

IN THE DARK IN IOWA DEAR IN: Yes, it's the same guy, but his feelings have changed. Don't hassle him. If you put him on the spot, he'll be forced to tell you it was just a summer romance. (So far he hasn't had the guts.) Save your pride and forget him. What was, was. This happens to every

You had a piece in your column (Vancouver Province) warning readers that old grenades, shells and other potentially explosive war souvenirs could possibly still be dangerous and to call their local police department and ask that they be picked up and disposed of properly.

Well, years ago we inherited a 'brassy looking' object, heavy as a dumbbell, about a foot long just the thing to use as a doorstop! After reading your column I recalled that my doorstop was an old cannon shell, so on the chance that it could be dangerous, I called the authorities and had it removed.

To make a long story short, the shell was taken to the Explosive Ordinance Disposal Unit at a Canadian Army base and was identified as a 57mm anti-tank cannon shell the type used by the Allied Forces in World War II. The shell was wisely taken to a gravel pit and exploded by remote control. We later learned that the TNT charge in that shell had a killing radius of 23 meters or 76 feet! Poll: Americans OK religion in books

By LAWRENCE KILMAN Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Most Americans welcome textbooks that expose students to varied religious beliefs and do not think schools need to provide alternative books for children whose parents object to textbooks on religious grounds, according to a Media General-Associated Press poll.

Three-quarters of the 1,464 adult Americans in the nationwide telephone poll said school children should be exposed to religious beliefs that may not necessarily be those of their families.

And 72 percent said parents who object to textbooks on religious grounds should not be able to force schools to provide different books for their children.

The issue recently surfaced in a lawsuit in Greeneville, Tenn., where seven Christian fundamentalist families have objected to the reading books provided by the Hawkins County school system. The suit contends the books violate the families' religious beliefs, and they seek alternate primers for their children.

The parents object to stories they say are about feminism, the occult, evolution, magic, pacifism, oneworld government and other religions. Among other things, the parents said they were offended by the description of magic in Cinderella, a suggestion in "The Diary of Anne Frank" that all religions are equal, and the appearance of a "good witch" in 'The Wizard of Oz.'

The books in dispute are the widely used "Holt Basic Readings" for grades one through eight, published by Holt, Rinehart & would likely be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

In the Media General-AP poll. only 16 percent of the respondents said textbooks should not expose students to beliefs outside the religious beliefs of their families. Eighteen percent said schools should provide alternative textbooks for student whose parents object on religious grounds to the books their children are using.

Protestant respondents were slightly more likely than Roman Catholic respondents to support alternative texts, but large majorities of both groups said that all classmates should use the same textbooks.

Both Catholics and Protestants strongly supported teaching students about a variety of religious beliefs.

There were too few Jewish respondents in the sample to draw conclusions from their answers.

For the most part, parents with children in school are happy with the textbooks their children are using. Seventy percent said they reviewed their children's textbooks, and only 14 percent said they had any objections.

Respondents in the Media General-Associated Press poll included a random, scientific sampling of 1,464 adults across the country Sept. 8-17. As with all sample surveys, the results of Media General-AP telephone polls can vary from the opinions of all Americans because of chance variation in the sample.

For a poll based on about 1,400 interviews, the results are subject to an error margin of 3 percentage points either way because of chance variations in the sample. That is, if one could have questioned all Americans with telephones. there is only 1 chance in 20 that the findings would vary from the results of polls such as this one by more than 3 percentage points.

Of course, the results could differ from other polls for several reasons. Differences in exact wording of questions, in the timing of interviews and in the interview methods could also cause variations.

Refugee house prepares for quake victims

SAN BENITO - A devastating earthquake in El Salvador will trigger an influx of Salvadorans to a new Catholic Church-sponsored shelter that is busting at the seams even before it reopens, church officials said.

"There are a lot of Salvadorans who have family and friends here and that's why I think they will be coming soon," he said.

Celaya Cruz and hundreds of other Central Americans are restricted to a nine-county area in South Texas that church officials have called a giant detention center. The travel restriction has caused overcrowding at the church facility

Crossroads Chalk Talk

It was another rough week for Crossroads Country football teams, as they suffered through a 3-5-1 record. But the big story happened in Big Lake, were the Forsan Buffaloes played the number eight Big Lake Owls to a 13-13 tie. The win leaves Forsan undefeated with a 6-0-1 record.

6-0-1 record.

The Stanton Buffaloes remained in the playoff hunt by taking an 8-6 win over Rankin. Stanton is now 6-1 for the season. The other two area win was Sands' 58-22 drubbing of Klondike and Borden County's 76-28 slaughter of Grady.

Here is what area coaches had to say about last Friday's games and their upcoming opponents.

John Bond, Borden County, on his team's chances for a playoff spot.

"We are right back in the playoff picture with Wellman's win over Loop. We are now tied with Loop for second place. It will probably come down to the last game of the season when we play Wellman.

"The kids were down after losing to Loop, the win against Grady got them excited again. We scored the first three times we touched the ball, in less than two minutes, we had a 20 point lead. It gave us a chance to let our young kids play.

"We'll catch Dawson (next opponent) for our homecoming. I hope we don't get caught napping again."

Tony Stricklin, Garden City, on his 47-0 loss to Bronte, his team's third straight district contender. — "It's hard to say if Bronte is the best team in the district. Irion County is coming on, it will probably be between those two teams.

"Bronte is a very good defensive team. They've only had eight points scored on them the whole season. Offensively they are real strong and quick. But we can't expect to win with three interceptions and one fumble. Two turnovers led to touchdowns.

"We've played the hard part of our schedule the last three weeks in Menard, Eden and Bronte. I think we've got a shot a Water Valley (next opponent). If the kids don't get down we have something to look forward to the next three weeks. We can play with these teams."

Tom Ham, Klondike, on his team's 58-22 loss to Sands — "They had the better ballclub, they just beat us. It was a rough week for us, first we lost three players to Housebill 72 and our starting center was out because of sickness. We had 11 kids in uniform Friday night. All of this kind of dissrupted out schedule.

"Loop (next opponent) will be another tough game. I think we'll play better because there's no playoff pressure now. We'll just enjoy ourselves and the rest of the season. Hopefully we'll play good ball." Jan East, Forsan, on his team's tie with Big Lake — "I really don't know if it was our best game of the season. We kind of played two games. The first half we didn't play well and we got after it the second half.

"We probably should have won the game, we did have two scoring chances in the first half and we didn't take advantage of them. At halftime I told them they had a job to do, and go out and do it. They (players) thought about it for a little while and they went out and did the job."

Stanton (next opponent) has a good football team. They run the Wishbone well and play good sound defense. It's a situation where we must win to get into the playoffs."

Coahoma coach Billy Kidd could not be reached concerning his team's 34-0 loss to Sonora.

TOM RAMSEY

Tom Ramsey, Colorado City, on his team's sto Merkel. "Merkel was just too tough for us. They cheve they really played well."

"I didn't think their offense would be so balanced. I figured we must shut down their run and make them pass, but they passed the ball well against us. We're telling the kids not to give up because no team's going to feel sorry for you. If they give up, we'll get beat even

"Clyde (next opponent) is tough. They beat Brady Friday night and Brady was undefeated in district. Clyde has a balanced attack. Eventually we'll win another game, we just have to hang in there."

Mike Mathis, Grady, on his team's 76-28 loss to Borden County.—
"Borden County is pretty tough, just like most teams, they were too big and strong for us. They scored three touchdowns on interceptions and they didn't have too far to go on the rest of their scores."

"We threw the ball well, we had to scramble around, but we didn't do a bad job. Our kids played about as well as they could.

"In Wellman (next opponent) we go from one tough feam to another. Wellman really has an excellent team. They have the type of team I hope we'll be like in a couple of years. They are not real big or fast, but they are quick. The defense goes to the ball well. If one

Jets bust Broncos

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — From the very beginning, it was clear that the New York Jets were ready to do something special.

What they did was shut down the NFL's highest-scoring team, ram the ball forward on the ground against the league's best rushing defense, and generally dominate the Denver Broncos in a 22-10 victory Monday night.

The win upped the Jets' record to 6-1 for the first time ever and kept them two games ahead of New England in the AFC East. It was the first loss for Denver, the NFL's last unbeaten team, which leads the AFC West by one game over Seattle. The Broncos host the Seahawks Sunday.

"You get out quick and get some points and you can control the game," Jets quarterback Pat Ryan said. "It makes a great difference"

So does an unyielding defense. The Jets struck for all of their points in the first half and allowed the Broncos a mere 24 yards of total offense and two first downs in the first 30 minutes.

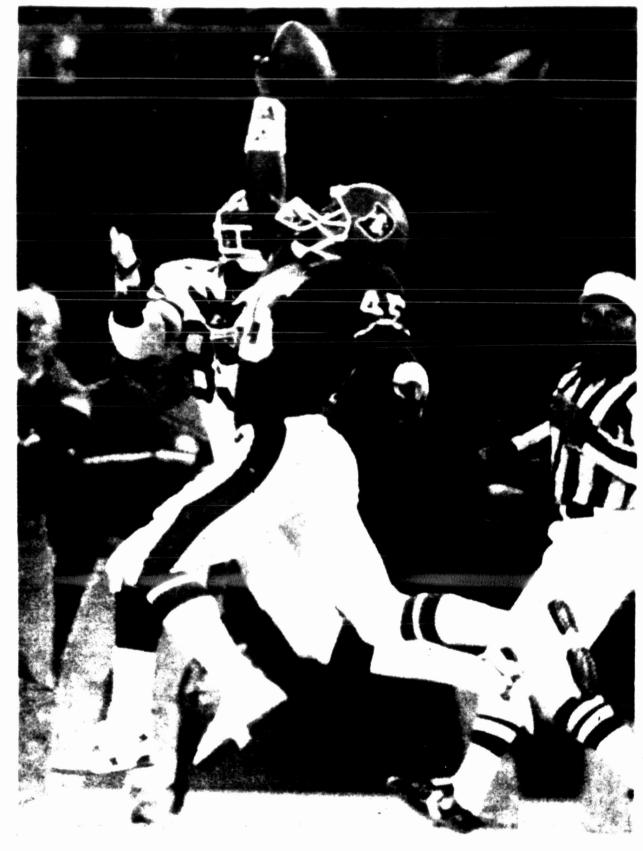

"It was awfully close to perfect," defensive end Barry Bennett said of the opening half. "We'd get them 1-2-3 and punt, then our offense took it and scored."

Denver ran nine plays, including two punts, in the first quarter. The Jets marched 65 yards in 12 plays to a 1-yard touchdown dive by Johnny Hector and 56 yards in 10 plays to a 27-yard field goal by Pat Leahy in the opening period.

"I've got to take my hat off to the Jets," Broncos Coach Dan Reeves said. "They did a great job, controlled the tempo of the game, jumped out to an early lead and put it to us."

The second quarter wasn't much better for Denver, which fell behind 22-0 when Leahy added a 25-yard field goal following a 14-play, 49-yard march. Ken O'Brien replaced an injured Ryan and hit Wesley Walker with a 23-yard scoring pass, and Bobby Humphery sacked Denver quarterback John Elway in the end zone for a safety.

Down 2-0, Mets really have backs against wall

BOSTON (A) — If ever there was a home-field advantage in the World Series, the Boston Red Sox have it tonight at Fenway Park.

have it tonight at Fenway Park.

They have a 2-0 lead, the fans on their side and designated hitter

Don Baylor back in the lineup.
All the New York Mets have are their backs against The Wall.

"Now we can play with our lineup, the club that got us here," Boston Manager John McNamara said. "We don't have to mess around with things like having our pitchers bunt."

Baylor, who hit 31 homers and drove in 94 runs, did not play in New York, the victim of a new rule that does not allow the DH in games played in the National League park.

But he will be back in the No. 5 spot tonight as the series moves to the American League site.

"It'll be nice to get back in there and do my job," Baylor said before hitting a few balls over the imposing 37-foot left-field wall at Fenway Park during a Monday workout.

Channel 13 7:30 p.m.

The Mets were supposed to practice Monday, but did not. Pitching coach Mel Stottlemyre, whose staff got racked for 18 hits in a 9-3 loss Sunday night, said the team wanted a day off "to evaluate the position we're in."

"I think maybe we've underevaluated the Boston Red Sox a little bit." he said tle bit," he said.

The Mets, the winningest team in baseball this year, now find themselves in a situation that is serious and getting close to desperate.

New York Manager Dave Johnson, who said before the series started that he would not rush his young pitchers back on three-days rest, has changed his mind.

After left-hander Bob Ojeda pitches tonight, Ron Darling will make a rare start on three-days rest in Game 4. Dwight Gooden is then scheduled to work on three-days rest for the first time in his major-league career in Game 5—if that one is necessary.

"It might be a bit of a gamble with Dwight," Stottlemyre admitted.

McNamara, meanwhile, has done the opposite with his rotation, pushing everyone back a day.

Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd will pitch tonight, and Al Nipper, who has not started since Oct. 4, will pitch Game 4 Wednesday night. Bruce Hurst, the Game 1 winner, would follow on four-days rest, and then it will be Roger Clemens, also with four days off.

"The decision was based on being up 2-0," McNamara said. "We can do what we want now."

What the Red Sox want to do is bury the Mets, and Boyd thinks they have a good chance against Ojeda, who did not enjoy the close confines of the "Green Monster" when he pitched for Boston.

"We used to talk in the outfield. I remember 'O' saying he didn't throw sliders down-and-in to righties," Boyd said of Qjeda.

"That kind of thing broke him down a bit. He wasn't afraid to say it."

Ojeda said the wall used to intimidate him, but "you can't dwell on it."

"The main thing is you can't walk people. If you give up a walk, then a bomb and then a wall-ball, you're in trouble."

Ojeda said he had not talked to many of his teammates about playing in the cozy ballpark.

"Nobody has really asked me too much." Oieda said. "They're more worried about winning."

Boston's victories, along with cold weather, helped take the home crowd out of the games at Shea Stadium. But that won't be the case tonight as the Fenway Park throng greets its team, trying to win its first World Series since 1918.

The Mets will use left-handed hitting Danny Heep as their designated hitter. Heep hit five home runs with 33 runs batted in in part-time duty this season, not much compared to Baylor's production.

"I'm already late to school,"
Baylor said. "I'm ready."

Public has chance to buy Celtics

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics reportedly plan to sell a 40 percent share of the championship National Basketball Association team to the public and hope to complete the sale by the end of the year before the tax laws change.

The stake would be offered under an unusual arrangement called a master limited partnership, The Wall Street Journal reported Monday, attributing the report to unidentified sources. By selling it before the end of the year, the club's owners would avoid an increase in capital gains taxes Jan 1.

The Hartford (Conn.) Courant reported Friday that the proposal to sell the stake is on the NBA Board of Governors agenda.

A number of other professional sports teams have had public sales of their stock in recent years. However, the Journal said, the Celtics sale would be unusual because the shares would trade on an exchange.

The Celtics are owned by Don F. Gaston, Paul. R. Dupee Jr. and Alan N. Cohen. The team won the NBA championship last season.

NBA board thinking about expansion

Commissioner David Stern says he favors expansion, but it's up to the league's Board of Governors to decide if any of six cities will get a new franchise.

Representatives from Minneapolis, Toronto, Miami, Fla., Charlotte, N.C., Orlando, Fla., and Orange County, Calif., each made 30-minute presentations to the board's advisory and finance committee Monday. The 23-team league, which hasn't expanded since 1980, is expected to make its decision today. Eighteen votes are needed for final approval.

"I think that expansion would be a good idea. But if it was next year, I think one (team) would be all I would recommend," Stern said. "I'm supporting the issue of expansion. We hope to have a firm and positive response to the subject of expansion before we close these meetings.'

Board members said they will examine each city's strength of ownership, playing facilities, population growth, market area and projected fan support before casting their votes.

"It's a lot for the owners to absorb. They're still in the middle restraint and caution and the owners are reading that back to me. It's a normal businessman's caution. We've tried very hard to tell each of the cities that they were welcome to apply, but we didn't tell them to build massive media campaigns. How much money they spent is not going to determine anything.

Toronto has NBA Hall of Famer Wilt Chamberlain as one of its financial backers and plans to play in Maple Leaf Gardens, which seats 16,182 for hockey.

The Toronto Huskies hosted the first NBA game in 1946, but the city's team folded after the 1946-47 season and league officials are skeptical of competing again against hockey.

Nick Mileti, who owned the NBA's Cleveland Cavaliers from 1970-80, heads the Orange County group that hopes to build a 20,000-seat Westdome Arena in Anaheim.

League officials, however, said they are hesitant to add a third NBA team to the Southern California area. The Los Angeles Lakers and Los Angeles Clippers are already there.

Former Philadelphia 76ers of discussing the pros and cons of player and coach Billy Cunnexpanding at this time," Stern ingham is a partner in the Miami Los Angeles.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — NBA said. "I've been preaching group, with ex-76ers General Manager Pat Williams involved with Orlando's bid.

> Miami already has its nickname of "Heat" chosen, has started construction on a 15,300-seat arena and has down payments on about 8,000 season tickets. Orlando has the nickname "Magic," down a partially refundable $100,000 payments on about 14,000 season tickets and is ready to break ground for a 16,930-seat facility if it gets a franchise.

The Charlotte group, backed by business magnate George Shinn, has started building a new 23,500-seat arena and has sold more than 7,000 season tickets. But with a population of about 300,000, Charlotte is the smallest of the six cities seeking an expansion franchise.

Minneapolis hopes to have an 18,000-seat downtown arena built in two years while its team plays in the Metrodome.

Harvey Ratner and Marvin Wolfenson are trying to bring the NBA back to Minnesota after unsuccessfully trying to buy the Utah Jazz last summer for $25 million. The two businessmen once owned about 3 percent of the Minneapolis Lakers in 1957-60 before the team transferred to Minneapolis, Miami and Anaheim all had teams in the old American Basketball Association while the ABA Carolina Cougars played some of its games in Charlotte before eventually moving to Denver and becoming the NBA's Nuggets.

Each of the six groups has paid application fee.

Dallas was the last city to be granted an expansion franchise, six years ago. The Mavericks were second in the league in attendance last season at 16,904 per home game.

Stern said 20 of the league's 23 existing clubs "are operating with a profit" and "it's a much healthier situation than it's been.

'But our business turnaround hasn't completed that cycle. Whether it's time to respond with a full-blown expansion plan is the issue on the table. You don't make money by grabbing a few bucks by expanding. Just because there are more cars in the parking lot doesn't mean you have to expand.

'The response of the owners has been a cautious one so far. But what their resolution will be, I'm not prepared to say. Anything can happen."

lowa drops out of AP poll top 10

By The Associated Press Iowa's last-second loss to Michigan caused the only Top 10 shakeup in The Associated Press' college football poll this week.

The first seven teams -Miami, Alabama, Nebraska, Michigan, Oklahoma, Penn State and Auburn - maintained their positions Monday.

Iowa, No. 8 last week, lost 20-17 to Michigan and fell to 11th, opening the way for Washington, Arizona State and Texas A&M to move up one place to eighth, ninth and 10th, respectively.

With their 45-13 victory over

Cincinnati, the Miami Hurricanes remained No. 1 for the fourth consecutive week. They received 55 of 59 first-place votes and 1,174 of a possible 1,180 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. Meanwhile, Alabama crushed Tennessee 56-28 and received three first-place votes and 1,111 points. Last week, Miami led 56-2 in first-place votes and 1,175-1,099 in points.

Nebraska held onto third place with 1,024 points by trouncing Missouri 48-17. Michigan stayed fourth with 997 points.

Fifth-ranked Oklahoma blanked Oklahoma State 19-0 and received 937 points. The other first-place vote went to No. 6 Penn State, which routed Syracuse 42-3 and received 902 points. Seventh-ranked Auburn trimmed Georgia Tech 31-10 and polled 861 points.

Washington swamped Bowling Green 48-0 and climbed from ninth to eighth with 704 points, Arizona State jumped from 10th to ninth with 695 points by downing Southern California 29-20 and Texas A&M rose from 11th to 10th with 606 points by edging Baylor 31-30.

After Iowa, LSU, Mississippi State, Arkansas, Arizona, Clemson, UCLA, Stanford, Southern Methodist and North Carolina State finished the Second Ten.

Last week, it was Texas A&M, LSU, Mississippi State, Arkansas, Southern Cal, Arizona, Clemson, North Carolina and UCLA, with Baylor and SMU tied for 20th.

Southern Cal, which bad been in the Top Twenty the last four weeks, suffered its second consecutive setback against Arizona State and dropped out of the rankings. North Carolina's 35-34 loss to North Carolina State cost the Tar Heels their ranking and enabled the Wolfpack to move back in after a one-week absence. Baylor's one-point loss to Texas A&M knocked the Bears out of the Top Twenty for the first time this season.

Stanford also reappeared in the Top Twenty after dropping out following a loss to Washington. The Cardinal is 5-1 after routing Oregon 41-7.

said, "especially in the first half. Sometimes you run into a good football team and they play better than you. That's what happened

Nothing good happened for Elway, who left the game in the fourth quarter after being hit on a scramble and suffering a possible concussion. He finished 13-for-28 for 145 yards and was sacked five

"It's frustrating to play against him because he can hurt you by passing or running," Bennett said. "He's a two-dimensional player and we tried to get after him. You don't let a guy like him get out there because he's tougher than nails when he's on the run. The only effective running being done Monday was by Hector and Freeman McNeil, who returned from a dislocated elbow which cost him four weeks on the injured reserve list. Hector ran for 76 yards, 19 more than the average yield per game for Denver. McNeil added 44.

"It's a great help having Freeman back there with me,' Hector said. "The defense has to respect both of us. They couldn't load up on just one of us.

"The first half was ours," McNeil said. "To be able to run as well as we did against Denver, which has a great defense, is a credit to our offensive line."

But Denver also finished with five sacks, the most damaging of which was by Karl Mecklenburg on Ryan late in the second period. Ryan suffered bruised ribs and did not play again, winding up 9-for-10 for 73 yards.

O'Brien, the regular starter who missed last week's win over New England with a knee injury, took over. On his second play, he found Walker streaking past safety Dennis Smith down the right sideline for a 23-yard score.

"The pass was all arm," said O'Brien, who was disappointed in his 5-for-12 for 52 yards showing. "I just threw it up there. All I did was lay it up there and Wesley made the play.

It was Walker's sixth TD of the season, one fewer than Hector, who is tied for the league lead with Stanley Morgan of the Patriots. Leahy's two field goals gave him 22 straight, one short of the NFL record set in 1982 by Washington's Mark Moseley

The Broncos got a 47-yard field goal by Rich Karlis early in the third quarte and Elway led them to the New York 8 a little later, but was intercepted by Kyle Clifton.

Denver's only touchdown came in the fourth period on a 20-yard pass from backup quarterback QB Gary Kubiak to Sammy Winder that Winder caught after tight end Clarence Kay had tipped it.

Neither team placed any longterm significance on the outcome at least not yet. "I don't know if we established ourselves as the best team in the AFC," Ryan said. "Give them credit," Reeves said. "They're a good football team; they have a lot of weapons. We'd like to play them again.

The only way that could happen this year would be in the playoffs. Both teams, of course, would welcome that

Ex-linebacker files suit against Pokes

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) -Former Dallas Cowboys linebacker Billy Cannon Jr. has filed a $9.6 million lawsuit, claiming that the career-ending back injury he suffered eight games into his rookie season was the result of negligence by the National Football League team.

Cannon, the Cowboys' No. 1 draft pick in 1984, played collegiate football at Texas A&M and is the son of Billy Cannon Sr., who won the Heisman Trophy while playing football at Louisiana State University. He later played professionally for the Houston Oilers and the then-Oakland Raiders.

Cowboys President Tex Schramm said he was not aware of the suit, but said he was not surprised.

"It's the typical plaintiff lawsuit that is causing all our insurance rates to soar," Schramm told the Dallas Morning News. "It comes out of nowhere, as far as I'm concerned. It doesn't surpirse me; it's typical of our times.

Cannon's attorney claims the suit, filed in U.S. District Court here Monday, is the first of its kind in the nation and could change player-safety rules.

"There's going to be a lot of intriguing legal questions that have to be hurdled," Ross Brupbacher of Lafayette, La., said. "It could set some standards on duty and care concerning the health of players."

The lawyer acknowledged football is a dangerous sport, but he said more should be done to protect players. "Everyone that plays knows it's a dangerous game, but there are significant numbers of players who are playing with risk of injury they need to be made aware of," he said. The suit says Cannon was signed in May 1984 to a series of six oneyear contracts worth $1.9 million, excluding performance bonuses. Cannon aggravated a spinal condition known spinal stenosis when he tackled New Orleans Saints running back Wayne Wilson during a game on Oct. 28, 1984, the suit

After doctors told Cannon that if he continued to play football, he risked permanent paralysis, Cannon retired from football and returned to Baton Rouge.

A Dallas Cowboys spokesman said Monday that Joe Bailey, vice president for administration, who is handling the Cannon case, was out of town and could not be reach-

Cannon claims in the suit that he complained to the Cowboys before the Saints game of numbness in his upper body and upper extremities after making tackles.

Dr. Pat Evans, a member of the team's medical staff, said he did not recall Cannon having any complaints at all before the injury. He would not comment on the suit.

Cannon, who recently returned to Texas A&M to resume classes, could not be reached for comment.

UIL eases up on coaches

AUSTIN (AP) — A council of school superintendents has voted to ease up on restrictions against baseball and basketball coaches.

A minority of the 20-member Legislative Council of the University Interscholastic League also sent a warning that it is not happy with what they said were constant demands for changes in soccer rules.

The council voted Monday to allow high school basketball coaches to stand in front of the team's bench to instruct players.

UIL Athletic Director Bill Farney said "this is not a great deal different than what officials are allowing coaches to do now." Nevertheless, the recommendation of the Athletic Committee only cleared the council by a 11-6 vote.

UIL rules now allow boys' and girls' basketball coaches to stand to call a time out or cheer on their team, and opponents of the proposed rule change said they felt it would lead to unruly crowds.

UIL Director Bailey Marshall said the current rule might have been "overkill" but had resulted in "better bench decorum this year than in the last eight to Killeen Superintendent Clarence Ham, a council member, said a crowd "takes its cue from a coach, and all the coach has to do is stand up with his hands on his hips to excite the crowd." The council unanimously approved an emergency proposal to give baseball umpires the option of restricting a coach to the dugout rather than ejecting the coach from the game.

Farney said both football and basketball have interim penalties for unsportsmanlike conduct — a 15-yard penalty or technical foul — but baseball only has the ejection rule.

He said assessing a baseball team one out for unsportsmanlike conduct had once been considered but that seemed "kind of artificial" and the council felt "fans wouldn't understand."

The council rejected a recommendation by the Athletic Committee to let UIL member schools vote on deleting soccer as a UIL-sponsored sport.

A motion to table the proposal was approved but five council members voted against the motion, indicating they favored getting rid of soccer as a UIL sport.

San Antonio Superintendent Victor Rodriguez favored tabling the motion, saying soccer "reaches youngsters that don't participate in other Superintendent Glenn Pearson of Bridge City, chairman of the Athletic Committee, stated that proponents of soccer had said "please let us in" but since soccer had been accepted as a UIL sport, there had been almost continuous efforts, including court cases, to change soccer rules.

Farney said eliminating soccer as a UIL sport "is not the answer."

'Some of you may not have been the best children but your family chose to keep you anyway," Farney

It was estimated that 12,000 Texas high school students now play varsity soccer.

The Legislative Council agreed to allow UIL member schools to vote on proposals that would: - Prohibit a student from attending an athletic training camp during the school year and then competing on the varsity in that sport. Prohibit a baseball player from playing on a non-school baseball team from the start of school to the opening of the season. All the proposals approved by the council, including those placed on the referendum, would have to be approved by the State Board of Education.

FORECAST FOR WED., OCT. 22, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An early morning upset or change of plans is quickly followed by the opportunity to get both men and women to see your best qualities and attributes.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can easily get in touch with those who can give you the added information to make your enterprises work.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Talk over finances with those you employ, or are employed by, and come to a proper understanding.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Enjoy the social and amusement activities you like and be with good friends. Show that you're truly inventive.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Invite good friends into your home this evening. Show your excellent hosting abilities.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get together with generous friends and plan recreations for the future. Make sure you drive carefully.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take your ideas to a bigwig who can support you in them. This could prove very valuable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be more interested in new outlets instead of continuing in the same rut with your kin. Spruce up your wardrobe.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You get ingenious ideas for handling your practical ideas. Make your plans before you bring them out in public.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be most active and enthused for best results. You can gain the acclaim you desire according to your effort.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan how to have more accord at home, even if you have to be out on business today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are inspired to gain your finest aspiration. People of both sexes can be of assistance to you now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Home affairs should be first on the agenda today. Show more affection for your closest ties and get good results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have every ability to use both intellect and manual dexterity. Slant the education along lines that require such prerequisites. Teach to be sure to complete whatever has been started for best results throughout the lifetime. An inventive child here.

Immigration bill provisions listed

WASHINGON (AP) — Here are major provisions of the landmark immigration overhaul bill which was approved Wednesday by the

EMPLOYER SANCTIONS

 Makes it unlawful for any person to knowingly hire, recruit or refer for a fee any alien not authorized to work in the United

 Requires employers to verify the residency status of all new hires by examining two documents: either a U.S. passport, a U.S. birth certificate or a Social Security card, and a driver's license, state-issued identification card or an alien identification document. Each employer must attest in writing, under penalty of perjury, that he has seen the documentation Permits the president to begin a more scure verification procedure if Congress approves.

 Provides for a six-month education period, during which no enforcement actions would be taken, and a subsequent one-year period when only a warning citation would be issued for the first offense

 Establishes a graduated civil penalty system beginning with a first-offense fine of $250 to $2,000 per each alien illegally hired. By the third offense, the fines would grow to $3,000 to $10,000 per alien. For a "pattern and practice" of violations, an employer could additionally be given a six-month prison term and a $3,000 fine.

 Requires employers, referrers and recruiters to keep records, and sets up a civil fine system of $100 to $1,000 for violations.

defense for employers who comply million in fiscal 1988. in good faith with the verification procedure.

• Relieves employers of verification requirements when a state employment agency verifies the worker's status and the worker retains a certificate.

 Terminates the sanctions after three years if the General Accounting Office determines that they have resulted in discrimination in employment or unduly burdened employers, and if Congress agrees by passing a joint resolution.

ANTI-DISCRIMINATION

 Creates a special counsel in the Justice Departmment to investigate and prosecute any charges of discrimination due to an unlawful, immigration-related employment practice.

 Makes it illegal for employers to discriminate based on citizenship or alien status if the alleged victim is a U.S. citizen, permanent resident alien, refugee, asylee or newly legalized alien who has filed a notice of intent to become a U.S.

• Exempts employers of three or fewer workers from these provisions.

• Protection would be terminated if employer sanctions ended, or if Congress enacted a joint resolution to eliminate the

INCREASED ENFORCEMENT AND SERVICE

Provides a two-year

authorization for the Immigration and Naturalization Service to carry out its added responsibilities: $422 million additional in • Establishes an affirmative fiscal 1987 and an additional $419

• Requires the attorney general to establish an INS program of community task forces to help aliens applying for legal status.

• Fully reimburses states for costs of verifying the status of noncitizens applying for public assistance. • Requires INS officers to obtain a search warrant to enter outdoor agricultural operations.

LEGALIZATION. Provides temporary resident status for non-excludable aliens who have resided continuously in the United States since before Jan.

 Awards permanent resident status after 18 months if the alien can show "minimal understanding" of English and knowledge of U.S. history and government, or is taking courses in those subjects. • Forbids federally financed public assistance to newly legalized aliens for five years, except for emergency medical care, aid to the aged, blind or disabled, and cases of serious injury or safeguarding public health

 Provides a change to permanent resident status for certain Cubans and Haitians who entered the country before Jan. 1, 1982.

 Provides administrative and judicial review of denials of applications for legalization, and ensures confidentiality of records.

 Provides $1 billion a year for four years to state and local governments to help finance public assistance, health and education costs incurred under the legislation, and reimburses states for costs of jailing certain aliens.

LEGAL IMMIGRATION For seasonal workers for nonperishable farm crops:

• Employers must apply to the labor secretary within 60 days before foreign workers are needed. and then try to recruit domestic

• The labor secretary must decide on certification of foreign workers no later than 20 days before they are needed. Determination of need will be expedited if domestic workers are not qualified and available when needed.

 Workers are guaranteed housing, worker compensation, travel and subsistence costs, to be provided by the employer if not available under a state program, and can obtain legal services only for workrelated matters.

For foreign workers used for fruits, vegetables and other perishable crops:

• Temporary resident status is granted to aliens who have worked at least 90 days during the 12-month period ended May 1, 1986. They may shift to permanent resident status two years after the application period ends. That waiting period is one year for aliens who have worked 90 days a year for three years.

 Workers are disqualified for Aid to Families With Dependent Children welfare payments for five

• Replenishment workers are allowed to enter as temporary residents so long as they work at least 90 days in agriculture each year for three years, in the event of a farm labor shortage. After three years, they can shift to permanent

The immigration bill would offer amnesty to millions of immigrants who arrived illegally if they can prove they lived in the United States since 1982, except for "brief, casual and innocent absences.'

The White House says President Reagan is expected to sign the legislation.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Customer service important at Sand Springs Builders Supply

Customer service is important to the people at Sand Springs Builder's Supply. They believe in a honest, one-on-one relationship with customers.

The staff sometimes have been known to spend hours helping one customer with his needs. "Satisfaction is important to the customer as well as the product they buy," says Dale Drewery. "And we want them to come back," Glynn Drewery added. As a service to its customers, the store will open at anytime for anybody in emergencies.
