Economy affects school enrollments

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

A declining local economy is responsible for decreases in student enrollment, school district officials in Big Spring, Sterling City, and Coahoma said this week.

Forsan and Stanton school districts have experienced slight increases in enrollment recently, while Colorado City's drop/add ratio fluctuates from week to week. Glasscock County Independent School District's enrollment remains about the same since opening day and last year.

Both Howard College and The Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf are enjoying gains in their student enrollments from last year.

Big Spring's enrollment decrease is "related to the overall economic situation in the area," Superintendent Lynn Hise of the Big Spring Independent School District said of the 156-student decrease from this time last year.

As of Oct. 17, the district had 4,478 students enrolled compared to 4,494 the preceding week and 4,634 in 1985 at the same date.

However, Hise said he and other school district officials are attaching "significance" to the fact that the kindergarten and elementary grade level enrollments are experiencing increases.

It's indicative of a nationwide trend in which more women are bearing children now than the early 1980s. Hise said, adding that this will eventually create an increase in school enrollments.

A 24-student drop in the Sterling City Independent School District from last year is because of "current economic conditions ... oil-related," said Superintendent James Thompson.

The school district has 339 students compared to 363 students this time last year.

September's enrollment figures from the Coahoma Independent School District show a 75-student decrease from a year ago.

"It's because of a decline in oil-related jobs. That would be my guess," said Shirley McMahan, secretary to Superintendent Jerry Doyle.

Area school districts that show recent increases or remain steady are Forsan with an increase of 21 students since opening day and Stanton with an increase of three students since opening day.

Jury subpoenas records

AUSTIN (AP) — Records of the Fort Worth security firm that found a bugging device in the office of a top Bill Clements campaign aide have been subpoenaed by a federal grand jury, an FBI spokesman said Friday.

"Some records of the firm have been subpoenaed and they are in the hands of the grand jury," said Pat Cowley, spokesman for the FBI office in San Antonio said. "That's all I can say."

Named in the subpoena was Knight Diversified Services in Fort Worth. But Cowley declined to say when the documents were subpoenaed or what they were.

Published reports have referred to the subpoenaed information as "business" or "financial" records.

Grand jury proceedings are considered secret, and officials from the U.S. Attorney's office and federal district court clerks refused to comment on the federal panel's activities.

The FBI said two weeks ago that select members of both campaigns would be re-interviewed and asked to take lie detector tests, but spokesmen for the Clements and Gov. Mark White campaigns Thursday said they had not heard from federal authorities since then.

The device was found hidden in the Austin office of Karl Rove, a direct mail advertising consultant and high-ranking adviser to Clements.

Both White and Clements have said they knew nothing about the bugging and that their staffs were not involved.

Both candidates said their staffs will submit to FBI-administered polygraphs.

In his first interview since the discovery of the bug the night of Oct. 5, Bruce W. Scott, a private investigator who helped in the sweep for the device, told reporters last week that he had taken a polygraph exam and that federal officials told him the results were satisfactory.

Gary L. Morpew, Knight Diversified Services' founding partner and operations manager, has refused to take a lie detector test. He told a reporter that he felt neither legally nor morally obligated to do so.

Federal authorities said last week that the case was proceeding rapidly and that they were confident it would be ready for the grand jury before election day, Nov. 4.

The Fort Worth firm was hired by the Clements campaign in early October after campaign aides became convinced that information they considered secret became known to White's campaign aides, who passed it along to reporters.

Clements campaign officials called a press conference the morning after Morpew and Scott discovered the black, matchbox-sized transmitter attached to a framed needlepoint hanging in Rove's office.

County road issues on meeting agenda

Howard County commissioners will address several county road issues and requests at 9 a.m. Monday in the commissioners courtroom on the second floor of the County Courthouse.

In addition to residents from Buena Vista Road, Pettus Lane and Camron Road seeking county assistance and jurisdiction to maintain and pave the roadways, the county also is required to file an answer to a civil petition filed in the 118th District Clerk's office on Oct. 15.

Russel B. Compton of Midland is asking the court to reward him an undisclosed amount of money for damages and personal injuries he received in a March 7, 1985, two-car accident at the intersection of Howard County Road 3N-S and Howard County Road 10-E-W.

The petition claims the county's negligence to properly maintain a stop sign that was pointed in the wrong direction was a cause of the accident.

After the accident, Compton requested the sheriff's department and Department of Public Safety to conduct an investigation into the condition of the stop sign.

County Attorney Tim Yeats said Friday afternoon the county would file an answer through its insurance company. County auditor Jackie Olson said the county is contracted for its road liability coverage through the Parks Agency.

Al Aton also will discuss with commissioners the possible closing of a county road in the Silver Hills Addition.

Right-to-die case subject died of illness

By CHRISTOPHER B. DALY
Associated Press Writer

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — A comatose firefighter whose case resulted in a landmark "right to die" decision allowing his family to halt feedings through a tube in his stomach died of pneumonia, not malnutrition, his doctor says.

Paul E. Brophy, 49, died at 12:55 p.m. Thursday at Emerson Hospital surrounded by family members, his attending physician said.

The attorney for Brophy's wife,

Patricia, said her husband's case will make things easier for families in similar circumstances. But a lawyer appointed to represent Brophy said he didn't have to die, and allowing him to was immoral.

Eight days before he died, Brophy had been moved from a hospital which refused to stop the feedings that had kept him alive since he suffered a brain aneurysm in March 1983.

Dr. Russell Butler, the attending doctor, said the death was due to infection, not to malnutrition.

"He had a very good, slim athletic appearance," Butler said. He said Brophy was "not emaciated."

The Massachusetts Supreme Court had ruled in favor of Mrs. Brophy, who argued the feedings through a tube constituted a form of medical treatment her husband had the right to refuse.

"I think primarily what it's done is ease the decision-making process for other families," said Mrs. Brophy's attorney, Francis Reardon.

"What it impressed on me was the realization that the liberties we have in this country are things ... we really have to strive for," he said. "That's where Pat really drew her strength. She believed this was Paul's right. I think that's why it is an important legal case."

"It's a tremendously important decision," said Dr. Sidney H. Wanzer, a staff member at Emerson Hospital who helped the Society for the Right to Die produce guidelines on the subject of caring for the hopelessly ill. "The court decision helps substantiate that our society has recognized it is ethical to withdraw fluid support from a patient who is hopelessly ill."

Mrs. Brophy's lawsuit drew wide attention because it isolated the legal question of whether it is proper to withhold food and water from a patient diagnosed as hopelessly ill when death is not imminent.

Despite profound brain damage, Brophy's major organs continued to function, and he did not need a RIGHT page 2A

Sheriff's log

Man arrested on warrant

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested Abe Peralez Gonzales, 42, of Ira, Friday morning on a revocation of probation warrant issued from District Attorney Rich Hamby. Gonzales was granted a 10-year probation sentence by District Judge James Gregg after he pleaded guilty on Dec. 11, 1980 to committing aggravated assault. A revocation warrant was issued based on an adult probation officer's report stating that Gonzales violated his probation terms by being arrested four times on alcohol-related offenses and being $60 delinquent on his probation fees. He remained in county jail Friday night on a no-bond order issued by Gregg.

Police beat

VCR taken from residence

A videocassette recorder, valued at $400, and a can containing $40 in coins were stolen from Johnny Shortes, 1606 E. 25th St., Thursday evening. A $350 gold chain and a $100 gold cross were taken from the Howard College dormitory room of Patrick Santos four or five weeks ago, Santos told police Friday.

Probated sentence given

A 50-year-old man was fined $400, ordered to pay $131 court costs and placed on a 180-day probated jail sentence for the next two years after he pleaded guilty Friday morning to driving while intoxicated. Wilbert Ralph Darnell, Route Three Box 268, was arrested Sept. 20 by a Department of Public Safety trooper at North Birdwell Lane, near the intersection of FM 700.

Grand jury indicts 11

COLORADO CITY - A Mitchell County grand jury Friday returned 11 indictments, three of which were sealed. Those indicted include:

- Thomas Wayne Ivery, burglary of a habitation;
- Antonio Gonzales Gonzales, for driving while intoxicated and attempting to escape;
- Arturo Caballero Pineda, driving while intoxicated;
- Raymond H. Ornelas, driving while intoxicated;
- Pilar Luna Jr., driving while intoxicated;
- Travis Wesley Sawyer, driving while intoxicated;
- John Ricky Reyes, driving while intoxicated.

 respirator or other mechanical assistance. Because he could not chew or swallow on his own, however, he was fed through a surgically implanted tube in his stomach. Butler said Brophy succumbed to pneumonia and resulting fever, a common cause of death among patients who are not receiving "aggressive treatment." He said even if Brophy had been fed, the pneumonia would have killed him. Peter Gubellini, the attorney appointed by the Probate Court to protect Brophy's interests, called Butler's explanation of the death "nothing more than pabulum for the masses."

"It was a death that didn't have to take place in the manner in which it did," he said.

Forsan 4-H'ers win Gold Star

A pair of Forsan 4-H club members were named recipients of the Howard County Gold Star awards at Tuesday's awards banquet.

Ricky Hope, 17, son of Jon and Carole Hope of Big Spring and Tonya Rock, 16, daughter of Wayne and Joan Rock received the top 4-H honor, the county extension service announced.

Presenting the awards was State Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, a former recipient of the Gold Star award. He addressed the group on what 4-H has meant to him.

Hope has served as the Forsan club's president for two years and was vice president for two years. A member of the 4-H Council for four years, he was that group's vice president last year.

He has participated in a wide range of activities. Among them are swine, steer, lamb and public speaking events in his nine years of 4-H membership.

In addition, he has been active in the omelet supper, livestock judging, Junior Rodeo, stock shows, and leadership retreats.

He also has served as president of the Forsan High School student council.

An eight-year member of the Forsan 4-H club, Rock has been involved in the Foods and Nutrition and Clothing programs.

She has been successful in 4-H Roundup events as she has presented four method demonstrations at the county, district and state levels. She has completed three record books, including a state-qualifying record book.

Her leadership in 4-H has included club offices and committees, District Leadership Retreat, 4-H AJRA rodeo, 4-H Exchange programs and state 4-H congress.

She has been involved in community services as a volunteer at the Veterans' Hospital helping the handicapped and raising funds for Muscular Dystrophy and Multiple Sclerosis. She is also active in her Girl Scout troop.

Both Hope and Rock were presented scholarship awards from Dr. Cheri Sparks, vice president of student life at Howard College.

Other special awards presented at the banquet included 4-H achievement awards in 16 4-H project areas, honoring 38 4-H members.

The Outstanding Junior 4-H'er award was presented to Denise Walker, Coahoma 4-H club, while Jimmy Miller of Lucky Acres 4-H received the Veterinarian Award.

Mrs. Zula Rhodes was presented a special award for dedication and support of the 4-H Scholarship Fund, which is within 27 percent of its $10,000 goal.

Outstanding Adult Leaders Mrs. Wayne (Joan) Rock and Wayne Henry were honored. Judge Milton Kirby received the Friend of 4-H Award.

Kimberly Beckham, Miss Howard County, presented the talent for the night, while Rock, Hope and Duncan Hamlin were speakers for the banquet.

Weather

Forecast

West Texas - Becoming partly cloudy most sections tonight. Fair far west. Mostly sunny Saturday. A little cooler most areas tonight. A little warmer some sections Saturday. Highs Saturday will range from around 60 Panhandle to near 70 south, up to 80 Big Bend valleys. Lows tonight 40 north to 50 south and 55 Big Bend.

State

A low-pressure cell in central Louisiana created overcast skies in East and Southeast Texas Friday, as well as strong, gusty winds in the state's center.

The rest of the state had generally fair skies because of a high pressure cell moving into Texas, the National Weather Service reported.

Afternoon temperatures were mostly in the 60s and the 70s, with some 80s in the lower Rio Grande Valley. Also, some readings in the 50s were reported in the higher elevations of the Panhandle.

The 3 p.m. temperature extremes were 59 degrees at Amarillo and 84 degrees at McAllen.

The forecast for North Texas calls for partly cloudy skies in the northeast and mostly fair in the southwest through Sunday with lows in the 40s and 50s and highs in the 60s.

West Texas should be mostly fair through Sunday with lows in the 40s and 50s and highs ranging from the 60s to the 80s in the Big Bend.

South Texas should see mostly sunny days and fair nights through Sunday with lows in the 40s and 50s and highs in the 70s.

Nation

Showers were scattered across the Midwest to the southern Atlantic coast Friday, with some flooding reported in Arkansas and threatened in rain-soaked Louisiana and Alabama.

Areas of fog and drizzle stretched from the southern Great Lakes across much of the Mississippi Valley to the central Plains, and showers were scattered from the east central Plains across, the Mississippi and Tennessee valleys to the southeastern coast.

A flash flood watch remained in effect late Friday for southwestern Alabama and a flood warning was posted for low-lying areas near Morgan City, La., as rain was expected to continue, the National Weather Service said.

Enrollment

 Superintendent Wayne Mitchell of the Stanton Independent School District, said she has noticed a pattern throughout the years of the student population gaining a little bit up to Nov. 1 and then declining throughout the remainder of the year.

Stanton had 862 students compared to 859 on opening day.

In 1985, the school district reached its enrollment peak with 917 students on Oct. 25. When the school year ended in June, the enrollment had dropped to 853, Butler said.

Colorado City Independent School District enrollment, down from last year, fluctuates from week to week, said Janice Goss, secretary to Superintendent Charlie Usetlon.

As of Oct. 17, the district had 1,432 students enrolled, compared to 1,447 in 1985.

The district had 14 students dropped and 10 new students added to the enrollment list the week ending Oct. 3. The following week, 13 students were added to the enrollment list while two dropped.

Politics focus of banquet

COLORADO CITY - State leaders of the Classroom Teachers' Association and state representative candidates will focus on political awareness at the fall teacher banquet Monday.

Sponsored by the local Classroom Teachers' Association, the banquet will be conducted in the Colorado Middle School Cafeteria at 6:30 p.m.

Eva Jo Kasinger of Abilene, state president of the CTA, will be keynote speaker. Other state leaders expected to attend are Walt Staats of Colorado City and Francine Allen of Snyder, members of the board of directors, and Wendle Wittenburg of Sweetwater, president-elect of TCTA.

District 66 state representative candidates Dick Burnett and Tim Weatherby, both of San Angelo, have also accepted invitations to attend. Incumbent Burnett, a Democrat, and his Republican challenger will present their views on education reform.

Entertainment will be provided by the Colorado High School choir under the direction of David Shelton.

Local CTA officers include Kitten Arthur, president; Rogene Hicks, first vice president; Nancy Moore, second vice president; Karan Johns, third vice president; Judy Merrell, treasurer; and Juan Espinoza, secretary.

Government conducted human experiments

By JILL LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal agencies conducted a 30-year series of radiation exposure experiments on human subjects, including injecting them with plutonium, radium and uranium, a House subcommittee said Friday.

The experiments took place all over the country starting in the mid-1940s and did not end until the 1970s, according to the report by the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on energy conservation and power.

The report, "American Nuclear Guinea Pigs: Three Decades of Radiation Experiments on U.S. Citizens," is based on a review of thousands of pages of Department of Energy documents obtained by the subcommittee in the past three years. Experiments conducted by DOE's precursors exposed hundreds of people to radiation, it concludes.

The experiments attempted to measure the biological effects of radioactive material, the doses from injected, ingested or inhaled radioactive substances, and the time it took radioactive substances to pass through the human body, the report said.

"American citizens thus became nuclear calibration devices," the report said. Some of them were willing subjects, the report said, but there is no record of informed consent for others. The subjects included prisoners, the elderly and the terminally ill.

The report says the government covered up the nature of the experiments to many families. It says some victims received doses 98 times the body burden recognized at the time the experiments were conducted.

"These experiments ... shock the conscience," subcommittee chairman Edward Markey, D-Mass., said in a letter to DOE Secretary John Herrington. "Did the intense desire to know the consequences of radioactive exposure ... lead American scientists to mimic the kind of demented human experiments conducted by the Nazis?"

Markey said present public and scientific officials clearly are not responsible for the experiments, but maintained they represent a historical, institutional failure compounded by lack of follow-up. He urged the department to try to find the living experimental subjects, look for increased incidence of radiation-associated diseases and compensate them for suspected damages.

The agencies sponsoring the experiments were, according to the report, the Manhattan Project, the Atomic Energy Commission and the Energy Research and Development Administration.

DOE spokeswoman Gail Bradshaw said subjects in plutonium injection experiments already have been followed up, but said she did not know if any other people are being tracked.

Bradshaw said information on most of the experiments has been available to the public for two years, but said the Markey subcommittee may have had access to other documents.

Markey's press secretary, Raoul Rosenberg, said most of the material has not been publicly available or publicized. He said the subcommittee report is the first systematic, comprehensive examination of what happened across the nation over three decades.

Among the experiments cited in the report:

- 57 normal adults fed radioactive uranium and manganese spheres at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory in the 1960s.
- 20 elderly adults fed radium or thorium at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the early 1960s.

Official gets 4 years

By Associated Press
WASHINGTON — Peter Voss, the former vice chairman of the U.S. Postal Service board of governors, was sentenced Friday to four years in prison for embezzlement and receiving payoffs in connection with a postal contract.

U.S. District Judge George H. Revercomb sentenced Voss, who was co-chairman of President Reagan's Ohio campaign in 1980, to two years' imprisonment on each of two counts of accepting an illegal gratuity in connection with a $250 million mail-sorting equipment contract.

Damages to be sought

FORT WORTH — A lawyer says punitive damages will be sought in the lawsuits stemming from last year's crash of a Delta Air Lines jetliner, possibly boosting damage awards by millions of dollars.

Families of victims believe the airline committed gross negligence in the Aug. 2, 1985, crash at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, said Dallas attorney Windle Turley, who heads a committee of lawyers representing victims' families. The crash killed 137.

In Atlanta, Delta spokesman Bill Berry said Friday, "We refuse to accept the claim of negligence on our part and feel the evidence will substantiate that."

Controller was aware

WASHINGTON — The controller who directed the Aeromexico DC-9 that collided with a small plane Aug. 30 was aware of the potential for an accident in the crowded skies over Los Angeles and sternly lectured the pilot of a third plane that wandered into restricted airspace.

Details of the radio communications between the controller and a number of planes under his direction in the minutes before the accident were reported Friday by the Dallas Times-Herald, which obtained a copy of the air traffic control transcript.

Catch 22

COLUMBIA, S.C. — State Rep. Philip Bradley said he wanted to point out the need for drug testing when he called a radio talk show last month to say he had seen colleagues use cocaine in the South Carolina House of Representatives.

But the Republican's action stirred public emotion, brought bitter reactions from colleagues who questioned his motives and resulted in his indictment this week for obstruction of justice for refusing to name the alleged offenders.

Textbook ruling

In favor of fundamentalists' rights

By KRISTI UMBREIT
Associated Press Writer
GREENEVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A federal judge ruled Friday that a county school board violated the constitutional rights of seven families who found such books as "The Wizard of Oz" and "The Diary of Anne Frank" offensive to their strict Christian beliefs.

U.S. District Judge Thomas G. Hull, in a 27-page opinion, also said the Hawkins County school board must accommodate the families' rights to a free, public education without violating their First Amendment rights to religious freedom.

He did not recommend a specific alternative, but said home schooling for reading class would be one.

Hull said he would convene a jury to decide damages in the case and set a tentative trial date for Dec. 15.

"This is a wonderful victory. We're ecstatic," said attorney Michael Farris, who represented the parents in their battle for an alternative to using the Holt, Rinehart, Winston series of reading books.

But Anthony Podesta, president of People for the American Way, which paid the fees for Timothy Dyk, the school system's attorney, called the ruling a "recipe for disaster for public education that will disrupt education for all children."

"It will invite every sect in the country to pick and choose which parts of the public school curriculum it will accept," said Podesta, whose group was organized by television producer Norman Lear.

The school board, backed by attorneys from the state of Tennessee, argued during the trial that the changes demanded by the parents would defeat public education's purpose of exposing students to varying viewpoints.

Dyk said during a news conference in Washington that he would appeal Hull's ruling to the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, possibly as early as late Friday.

"This is not the end of the road," he said. "We intend to take this case as far as is necessary to get this decision reversed."

Vickie Frost smiles as she answers questions over the phone after winning her case against the Hawkins County, Tenn., school board. The ruling was given Friday by U.S. District Judge Hull in Greenville, Tenn.

The case was referred to as a modern version of the 1925 Scopes "monkey" trial in which science teacher John Scopes was prosecuted by the state for teaching Darwin's theory of evolution in Dayton, Tenn. — 150 miles down the Tennessee River from Greenville.

In Dayton, William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow argued bitterly over whether students could be taught that man was descended from the same ancestors as the apes. The Scopes verdict went to the creationists, but was reversed in Scopes favor on appeal.

The families had sued the Hawkins County schools in 1983 after objecting to hundreds of passages in the Holt books, including stories by Margaret Mead, Isaac Asimov and Danish fairy-tale writer Hans Christian Andersen.

The parents said the books contain references to witchcraft, exotic religions, one-world government and relative ethics.

"The Diary of Anne Frank" was objected to because it tolerates all religions. "The Wizard of Oz" was deemed objectionable by the parents because it tells children that traits such as courage, intelligence and compassion are personally developed rather than God-given, and the story depict a witch as good.

Said Hull, "The plaintiffs have sincerely held religious beliefs which are entitled to protection under the free exercise clause of the First Amendment and which are offended by certain recurring themes in the Holt series."

"In forcing the plaintiff-students to read from the Holt series or to forfeit a free public education, the defendants have burdened the plaintiffs' right of free exercise of their religion," said Hull.

More arrests expected

SANTIAGO, Chile — Police are looking for about 40 suspects in the assassination attempt on President Augusto Pinochet in addition to the five already arrested, the prosecutor said Friday.

Lt. Col. Fernando Torres, the army prosecutor in charge of the case, said the initial arrests opened many new "possibilities" in the investigation.

Pinochet's five-car motorcade was attacked with rockets, grenades and gunfire Sept. 7 as it headed toward Santiago from his weekend home in the nearby Andean foothills. Five bodyguards were killed and 11 wounded, but the 70-year-old army general suffered only a cut on his left hand.

Hasenfus trial continues

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The lawyer for Eugene Hasenfus declared to a revolutionary tribunal Thursday that his American client was innocent of terrorism and violating Nicaraguan security.

The attorney, Enrique Sotelo Borgen, also said the People's Tribunal, which is hearing the case, does not have the authority to judge Hasenfus because it "lacks impartiality" and was not appointed by the Supreme Court. Hasenfus, reportedly being held in a prison outside Managua, did not attend the hearing.

Bus crashes spur riots

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — Pakistan's buses inspire fear and are called "yellow devils" because their crews rough up passengers and race at 70 mph to pick up customers, often crashing with bloody results.

The privately operated buses are the country's main source of public transportation, but the frequent accidents have caused major riots.

"Murder on the road stalks and strikes through speeding, overloading, rash driving, poor driving etiquette and hazardous road conditions," an editorial in The Muslim newspaper said Thursday.

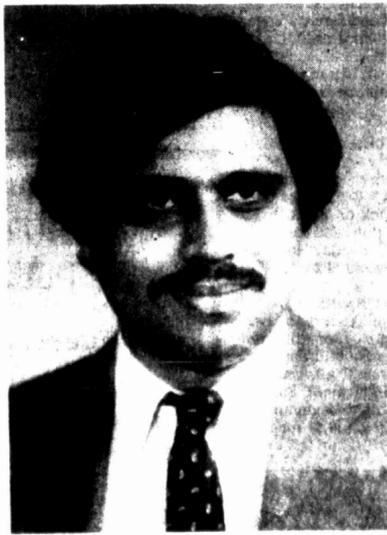

Salvadorans recovering

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — The owners of homes shattered by a devastating earthquake two weeks ago have piled the debris in neat rows.

Most downtown stores have reopened for business, and many people are settled in makeshift quarters. Foreign rescue workers have headed home.

But the grisly work of recovering bodies goes on at downtown office buildings and the sites of mudslides triggered by the Oct. 10 quake. Most officials said the final tally could show 1,500 dead, 10,000 wounded and about 300,000 homeless.

The Internal Medicine Department of MALONE and HOGAN CLINIC has expanded its services with the addition of Dr. J. Patel. Dr. Patel is from Baroda, India and has been in Big Spring and at MALONE and HOGAN CLINIC since September of 1985. He received his Medical Degree from M.S. University in Baroda. His internship and post-graduate training in Internal Medicine was done at St. Francis Medical Center in Trenton, New Jersey. Dr. Patel is Board Certified in Internal Medicine. He came to Big Spring from Grundy, Virginia where he was the Director of E.R. at Buchanan General Hospital. Dr. Patel and his wife, Chetna, have two children, Jigar and Sonia. We are proud to have Dr. Patel and his family at MALONE and HOGAN CLINIC and in our community. Appointments are now available.

This brunette is more fun

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Blondes may have more fun but brunettes get better roles, says Tracy Scoggins, who's been both.

She bleached her brown tresses three years ago for her first television series, "The Renegades," and kept it blonde for "Hawaiian Heat."

Now, with her hair back to brown, she stars as Monica Colby in ABC's prime-time soap opera "The Colbys," a spinoff of "Dynasty."

Scoggins contends dark-haired actresses tend to get more substantial roles than those offered to blondes.

"I'd become a blonde for 'The Renegades,'" she said. "It was six guys and me in a sort of updated version of 'The Mod Squad.' They all had dark hair so they wanted someone to be a contrast. That was me."

She got lots of work as a blonde, she said, but not in prize parts.

"It seems that the roles for brunettes are more substantial. If the character is a blonde she's always described as dizzy or sexy," she said. "But brunette roles are described as sultry or intelligent. The roles are just better than those you get as a blonde."

"The Renegades" folded after only a month in 1983, and "Hawaiian Heat," in which she played a helicopter pilot, lasted only slightly longer the following year. After that, she let her hair grow back to brown. "I didn't work for six months," she said.

Scoggins was cast last year as Monica Colby after auditions and a screen test. "I think I probably auditioned along with every woman in L.A. and New York between the ages of 25 and 30," she said.

It was finally down to about six actresses when she did the screen test with Maxwell Caulfield, who plays her twin brother Miles. She got the part a week later.

On "Colbys" she plays the daughter of Charlton Heston and Stephanie Beacham. She's also a lawyer who's determined to make it in a man's world and can't understand the inequalities that confront her.

"Monica is what I think is one of the most admirable prototypes on television," said Scoggins. "She's an achiever, well-educated, at home in the world of business, competent, a loving daughter and a nurturing friend. Usually, when someone's as successful as Monica, she's portrayed as bitchy."

"It's a fine line in real life to be that successful and retain your femininity. Monica's fatal character flaw is her poor choice in men. We see that in women of the '80s. They may be fantastic in the board room, but they can't seem to get it together in the bedroom."

Scoggins was raised in Dickinson, Texas, by parents who were lawyers. She had no brothers, so she grew up as a tomboy. She had the genes for athletics, since her mother was a top-ranked tennis player and her father was a Golden Gloves boxer and triathlete.

"I was raised with the same values he would have given a son," she said. "Independence is the first word that comes to mind. He'd say, 'Don't ever rely on anybody but yourself, then you'll never be disappointed. Make your own way in the world.'"

"We were always outside playing some sport and if I fell down and cut my knee he'd say, 'Get up, you little sissy.' So there was never a time when I grew up crying or doing girly things."

She was on the swimming team for 12 years, was a gymnast, tennis player and springboard diver.

Scoggins said she doesn't feel she missed anything in her upbringing. One thing she never learned was how to cook; she and her parents went out for every meal, including breakfast.

She studied at Southwest Texas State, then was hired as a model by John Casablancas. She modeled for a year in New York, then in Italy,

West Germany and France. She studied acting when she returned to this country and landed her first role as a baton twirler in a movie called "Twirl."

Guest roles in a number of episodic series followed until she went into "The Renegades."

After her first year in "The Colbys" she took off for New York. Europe and a rafting trip on the Kern River.

"I chose not to work," she said. "You have to understand this is the first time I've been on a series that's gone longer than 13 weeks. I have to revel in its longevity."

Man brings fresh angle to cosmetics sales

By BECKY KNAPP

Austin American-Statesman
AUSTIN (AP) — Hunched over a cup of steaming coffee, unfiltered cigarette between his fingers, Jim Gowens runs a hand across his lightly stubbled chin and remarks that measuring spoons shaped like geese are a big seller this year. Dresses in sports shirt and slacks, Gowens looks as if he'd be more at home on a ranch than peddling women's cosmetics. But Gowens is one of the new breed of Avon lady: the Avon man. It's an occupation that he has gotten used to being ribbed about, and he responds good-naturedly. "I love it. I love selling," Gowens said. His voice, a gravelly drawl, is full of enthusiasm and warmth. "I love working for a company I can be proud of. I have always had pride in the companies I've worked for, and if I didn't, I'd get into some other line of work. This is a top-line company with top-line products. I use them, I believe in them, and I live by them."

Gowens, 63, has been with Avon Products three years. Before retirement and Avon, he sold fertilizer. He doesn't believe that his current job is much different from the old one.

"It's just like selling fertilizer as far as I'm concerned," he said, smiling. "Oh, I can't sit around on feed sacks and tell jokes like I used to, but I love it."

It is that philosophy, perhaps, that has made Gowens one of the best sales representatives in his district. He is No. 2 in sales this year and was No. 1 last year.

"I was the No. 1 man in 1985," he said. "Well, I was the only man, too, because it was mostly among the ladies. I won a trip to Hawaii in January, but I didn't get to go because on Feb. 13, I fell and broke my ankle delivering some 'Sweet Sentiment' coffee mugs that had been ordered for Valentine's Day."

It was all in the line of duty. A dedicated Avon representative doesn't let a broken ankle crimp his style. Gowens took advantage of his new audience — hospital personnel — to make a few more sales. "I sold that stuff while lying flat on my back in the hospital," he said. "The nurses brought it. The aides bought it. I don't know if they needed the products or just felt sorry for me, but they bought it." Gowens said he was familiar with Avon before becoming involved with the company, because his wife had used the products, and had even sold Avon herself years ago.

Then, a few years back, his son and daughter-in-law started selling Avon, and Gowens helped them place and fill orders. When they decided to get out of the business, Gowens took it over.

Most of his business comes from friends, and friends of friends, but he branches into other areas whenever possible. Sometimes, he has to deliver orders to customers at their places of employment, and may pick up a new customer in the workplace.

Gowens takes an Avon book along with him when he visits the coffee shop, and often makes a sale over a cup of black coffee. As a South Austinite, he also visits nearby apartment complexes sometimes to drop off catalogs, but he always checks in with management before leaving books.

He concedes that there are drawbacks to working in a field where the majority of buyers are female. He is aware that women are sometimes hesitant to open the door to a strange man, so he doesn't go door-to-door.

"I don't want to scare anybody to death," he said. "I can't always sell my products the way a lady would, and you have to watch those things, if you know what I mean. I hope people don't think anything of it when they think of a man selling Avon, but I know how I'd feel if it was my wife or daughter. Women can't be too careful nowadays, and I wouldn't want to scare anybody."

Out of 213 Avon representatives in Gowens' district, four are men, said Chris Gayle, manager of District 649.

"I have no problems at all with the male representatives," she said. "In fact, I would like to see more men get into it."

Betty Curtis, sales director with Mary Kay Cosmetics, said that her company is also noticing more men in its ranks.

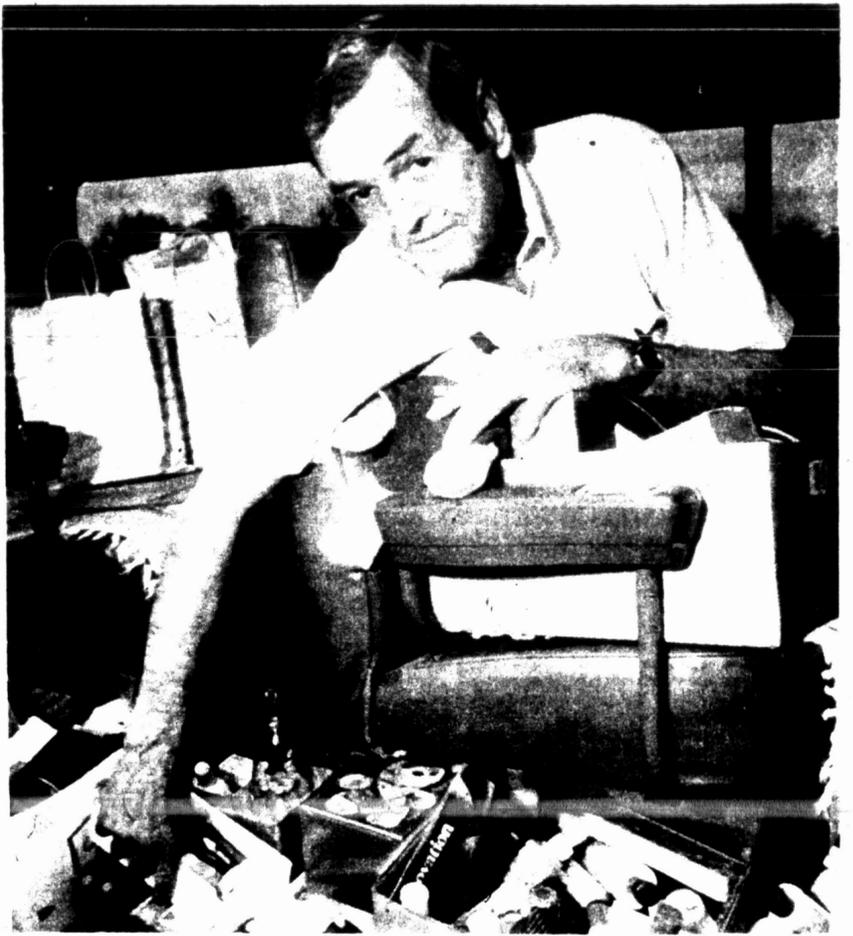

Unlike Avon, which offers gift items, jewelry and even a clothing line, Mary Kay deals exclusively in skin care. And more men are selling the wares today than ever before, Ms. Curtis said.

"I think men are becoming less inhibited about the word 'cosmetics.' They're becoming better educated about the care of the skin, as are women," Ms. Curtis said. "We know now that we either wear protection on the skin, or we wear pollution. The same is true for men and women."

Gowens said that he doesn't think there's anything with men getting into areas that were previously considered a woman's territory, any more than he has a problem with women entering predominantly male fields.

"It's just like when I see a woman climbing a telephone pole," he said. "If that's what she wants to do, let her do it. I didn't change my policy, just the product, when I got into this business."

"I don't act any differently now than I did when I was selling fertilizer. The important things are honesty and pleasing the people, and whether you're selling Avon or fertilizer or Coca-Cola or Camel cigarettes doesn't matter. If you treat people right, they'll buy your product."

Jim Gowens, 63, shows some of the Avon products he sells. Gowens, one of the few men with Avon, is used to being teased about his occupation as an Avon salesman, but his pride in the company makes it easy for him to take the ribbing with good-natured enthusiasm.

Six honored for fire response

Six Western Container employees were honored for their response to a fire at the plant earlier this month, said plant manager Ken Dunwoody.

The Oct. 7 electrical fire caused $50,000 damage to equipment, but it could have completely closed the plant if it had gotten much worse, he said. About a third of the machinery was affected.

Bobby Roy, injection operator; Weldon Ribble, mechanic; Joe Keiser, maintenance specialist; Marvin Wise, production supervisor; Billy Sauncy, production lead person; and Roger Hendon, mechanic, were given letters of commendation for their actions in the fire, Dunwoody said.

Immediately upon spotting the smoke, the fire was contained, the building evacuated and the fire department and Texas Electric Service Co. called, he said.

Since the fire occurred at 5 a.m., only about 25 people were in the building. No one was hurt, he said.

The six exhausted 14 fire extinguishers on the flames, so that the fire was contained by the time fire fighters arrived, he said.

Dunwoody said one of the main electrical switches is the suspected culprit, but "whatever caused the fire apparently was destroyed in the fire."

He said no danger existed of the plastic the company uses to manufacture soft drink bottles would ignite, because the fire was contained. Plastic melts at 350 degrees and burns at about 700 degrees, he said.

Mike Wineteer, left, owns Domino's Pizza, scheduled to open Monday. Robert Viator, center, will manage the pizza shop and Charles Cline is assistant manager.

Domino's opens in Big Spring

Domino's Pizza is coming to Big Spring.

Mike Wineteer of Snyder, owner of Domino's in Snyder, is opening a Big Spring franchise Monday.

The local Domino's will employ 25-30 people, he said, and he is still hiring. Weekdays, prospective employees can apply through the Texas Employment Commission, or weekends at the store.

Most of the personnel will be deliverers, he said. They must be at least 18 years old, have their own car, and have liability insurance. Six or seven other employees will be management and pizza-makers, he said.

The Snyder store, which opened Oct. 4, 1985, employs 15.

Domino's Pizza is different from other pizza chains because it's strictly delivery or carry-out, Wineteer said. He guarantees free delivery within 30 minutes, or the customer gets $3 off the pizza.

If the customer collects his pizza through the drive-in window, it can be ready in 10 minutes, he said.

Because customers eat their pizza elsewhere, Wineteer said he can save money on overhead expenses, such as tables, dishes and waiters, thus offering pizza at a lower price.

In addition to the usual fare, Domino's offers an "extravaganza" pizza, with pepperoni, onion, green peppers, ham, mushrooms, sausage, ground beef, green olives and extra cheese.

To order pizza, customers can call 267-4111.

Domino's claims to be the largest pizza delivery company, with about 3,500 stores worldwide, and growing about three stores a day. The company is based in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Business briefs

Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Lubbock, has been awarded the Guardian of Small Business award from the National Federation of Independent Business. Federation officials said he voted in favor of American small businesses 82 percent of the time.

Congressmen were rated on 17 recorded votes during the 99th Congress, including tax reform, balanced budget amendment to the Constitution, repeal of the simultaneous record-keeping requirements for auto use, deficit reduction and improving access to federal contracts. To qualify for the award, a member of Congress had to vote favorably at least 70 percent of the time.

The federation is a non-partisan, non-partisan organization lobbying federal and state elected officials on issues affecting the nation's small businesses. It has 43,964 members in Texas.

Three representatives of Sumitomo, a Japanese based trading company, will be in Odessa Tuesday to tour seven local manufacturing facilities to become more familiar with the area's products and technology.

Sumitomo's visit should give area products more world-wide exposure and help efforts to promote international trade, according to information from the Greater Odessa Chamber of Commerce.

The Permian Basin International Trade Forum will host the tour.

Consumers of mail order items should note the following tips from Attorney General Jim Mattox:

The "Mail Order Rule," which requires the company to ship the order within the advertised time, doesn't apply to telephone orders. If the item is actually ordered by mail, though, the company must deliver within the stated time period, or 30 days if none is stated.

Watch for unscrupulous sellers who send items not ordered and include a phony invoice, attempting to fool the receiver into thinking he must pay for the items. The general rule is, if you didn't order it, you don't have to pay for it, Mattox says. Exceptions exist, such as negative check-off programs, like book-of-the-month clubs.

If the merchandise ordered is substantially different from that advertised, the consumer may request a refund. If any doubts exist as to the company's reliability or honesty, keeping the merchandise as evidence until a refund is obtained should be considered.

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division mediation service can help obtain a refund if the consumer has trouble. The Better Business Bureau or the nearest Attorney General's office can answer questions about particular companies.

The Petroleum Museum in Midland has elected four prominent area oilmen to the Petroleum Hall of Fame: the late Mac O. Boring Sr. of San Angelo, Midland and Fort Worth; Fred T. Hogan of Midland; the late John J. Redfern Jr. of Midland and the late Clayton W. Williams Sr. of Fort Stockton.

The Petroleum Hall of Fame honors those who have made outstanding contributions to the development of the petroleum industry, or who have served as worthy examples of service, strength of character and achievement to those in the industry.

They will be inducted at a dinner in Midland in late spring.

They were elected in a special joint meeting of the museum's boards. These four elected bring the museum's Hall of Fame honorees to a total of 68. A maximum of four are elected every other year from candidates nominated by the public.

A nationwide poster design contest to promote National Small Business Week has been announced by the U.S. Small Business Administration.

The contest is open to students, artists and professional designers. The winner will be awarded $2,000 and will be honored in Washington, D.C., during National Small Business Week, May 10-16.

Designs should reflect this year's theme "Small Business: America's Growth Industry." The words "U.S. Small Business Week, May 10-16, 1987" must appear on the design. Poster entries must be in no more than two colors on white paper, 16X20 inches.

The winning poster will be displayed nationwide in SBA offices, banks, chambers of commerce and other community and business organizations.

Entries are due by Dec. 22. They should be submitted to the Office of Public Communications, U.S. Small Business Administration, 1441 L Street, N.W., Room 926, Washington, D.C., 20416. For additional information, call 202-653-6822.

Drilling report

These are the latest oil and gas activity reports filed with the Texas Railroad Commission for the five-county crossroads country.

Production at the No. 1 Middleton has been assigned to Howard County's Middleton Field. Anadarko Petroleum is the operator.

The well is located 17 miles northwest of Big Spring in a 160-acre lease in the T&P Survey. The well showed potential to flow 458 barrels of oil per day, plus 319,000 CF casinghead gas on a 32/64-in. choke. Total drilling depth was 8,816 feet, and the well was plugged back to 8,732 feet. Production is from a set of perforations in the Canyon Reef Formation, 8,504 to 8,536 feet into the wellbore.

Anadarko Petroleum has staked location for the No. 1 White, a developmental well in Howard County's Middleton Field. With projected total depth of 8,800 feet, the well will be drilled in an 80-acre lease in the T&P Survey. Drillsite is 17 miles northwest of Big Spring.

Anadarko Petroleum is based in Midland.

Bond Operating of Eulass has filed for permit to drill the No. 9 T.L.A.M. "A", a 3,200-ft. developmental well four miles southeast of Coahoma. Location is in a 160-acre lease in Howard County's East Iatan-Howard Field. T&P Survey.

The No. 18604 J.V.P. Iden, a 10,100-ft. developmental well, is scheduled to be drilled in Howard County's Southeast Lather Field. BTA Oil Producers of Midland is the operator. The well will be spudded in a 128-acre lease 12 miles northeast of Big Spring in the T&P Survey.

Drillsite has been staked for the No. 1 Cantrell, a 9,350-ft. wildcat well in Borden County. The operation will be located one mile south of Gail in an 80-acre lease in the T&P Survey. The operator is Amoco Production of Brownfield.

John L. Cox of Midland has revealed plans to drill a 6,900-ft. wildcat well in Borden County. The operator has 40 acres leased, with drillsite in the H&T Survey.

The operation will be known as the No. 1 Ruth. Drillsite is 17 miles southeast of Gail.

Production figures have been revealed for the No. 9 Ellis-Gray Unit "Tract 16", a developmental venture of LEM Operating in the Sharon Ridge Field, Mitchell County. The well is located nine miles northwest of Colorado City in the R.L.G.N. Survey. The operator has 1,820 acres leased. The well showed potential to pump 43 barrels of oil per day, plus 85 barrels of water. It bottomed at 1,806 feet, and produces from perforations in the "1700" Formation, 1,541 to 1,741 feet into the wellbore. Three new developmental wells are planned by Parker & Parsley Petroleum of Midland at drillsites in Martin County's Spraberry Trend Field. The wells are designated as the No. 1 Anchor "A", the No. 1 Glass "H", and the No. 1 Glass "I". Drillsite for the Anchor well is seven miles northwest of Tarzan in a 160-acre lease in the Hartley CSL Survey. The Glass wells will be drilled in an 80-acre lease in the T&P Survey, 15 miles northwest of Stanton.

The Anchor well carries permit for 9,625-ft. of hole making, while the Glass wells are under permit for 9,400-ft. maximum depth.

Terra Resources has revealed production figures on a re-entry operation at the No. 2 Lois Blalock, a developmental well in the Dewey Lake Field, Glasscock County. The operation is located 13 miles northwest of Garden City in the T&P Survey.

The well showed potential to flow 227 barrels of oil per day, along with 247,000 CF casinghead gas on an 11/64-in. choke. Flowing tubing pressure registered 590 PSI. Production will be from Wolfcamp Formation perforations at 8,310 to 8,400 feet into the wellbore.

Davis Oil originally completed the well Dec. 16, 1981, and it flowed 320 barrels of oil per day from Fusselman Formation perforations at 10,962 to 10,984 feet into the hole. The original total depth was 11,100 feet, and Terra Resources plugged the well back to 8,478 feet.

Texaco Inc. has hung the "dry hole" tag on the No. 2 Glascock "N" Fee, a wildcat well in Glasscock County. Location was six miles northwest of Garden City in the T&P Survey. Spudded August 18, the well probed to a dry bottom 8,230 feet.

AIDS cases high among minorities

ATLANTA (AP) — Nearly 40 percent of reported AIDS cases occurred among blacks and Hispanics, according to a federal report issued to alter the perception that the deadly disease strikes only gay white men.

Twenty-five percent of the 24,576 cases reported through Sept. 8 occurred among blacks and 14 percent among Hispanics, the national Centers for Disease Control reported Thursday.

The Atlanta-based agency stressed that acquired immune deficiency syndrome most often strikes gay men and intravenous drug abusers, and attacks people "as a result of underlying risk factors, not because of their race (or ethnicity)."

Federal health authorities hope to use the report to "in a sense, influence the public perception of AIDS," said Dr.

Harold Jaffe, a CDC AIDS specialist.

"AIDS has been largely perceived as a disease of white gay men," he said. "While that's true, it's also true that blacks and Hispanic men, women and children have been disproportionately affected."

AIDS is caused by a virus and is transmitted through body fluids or blood, such as during sexual contact or needle drug use. Through last week, the disease has been reported in 26,566 people — 74 percent of them homosexual or bisexual males — and killed 56 percent.

For both blacks and Hispanics, the AIDS rate was more than three times the rate for whites, the CDC reported. The AIDS rate for white adults was 102 cases per million people, compared to 322 per million blacks and 343 per million Hispanics.

AIDS manual planned

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Independent School District plans to teach instructors how to answer students' questions about AIDS and to also update the sex education curriculum to include more details about the virus, officials said.

"It is a national concern, and public education better get involved," Superintendent Joan Raymond said Thursday.

The district will soon distribute manuals on acquired immune deficiency syndrome to teachers and administrators, she said.

The federal Centers for Disease Control has said the usually fatal illness is transmitted through blood and body fluids, most often by sexual contact or sharing of hypodermic needles. Most of its victims in this country have been homosexuals and intravenous drug users.

The manuals and in-service sessions will be used to teach instructors and administrators about AIDS, district spokesman Bill Cunningham.

"Right now, they are asked about the disease and have no consistent set of answers to give them," he said.

This combination of graphics provides the breakdown for AIDS victims in 367 child AIDS cases, and in 26,199 adult AIDS cases according to the Centers for Disease Control. Dr. C. Everett Koop, releasing a report on the increasing problem of acquired immune deficiency syndrome, said the disease already has killed almost 15,000 people and says the figure will increase 12-fold in another five years.

Oil experts fight blowout

SUNRAY, Texas (AP) — Oil-fire experts from over 100 miles away arrived Friday at a flaming drilling rig three miles south of here to try to cap the roaring blaze, officials said.

Cudd Pressure Control, a Woodward, Okla., company specializing in oil field fires, surrounded the 40-foot blaze with bulldozers, winches and tanker trucks. Then they began capping the natural gas streams feeding flames.

Working with Dowell Schlumberger, a Berger well-service contractor, they began clearing mud and metal debris from the fire.

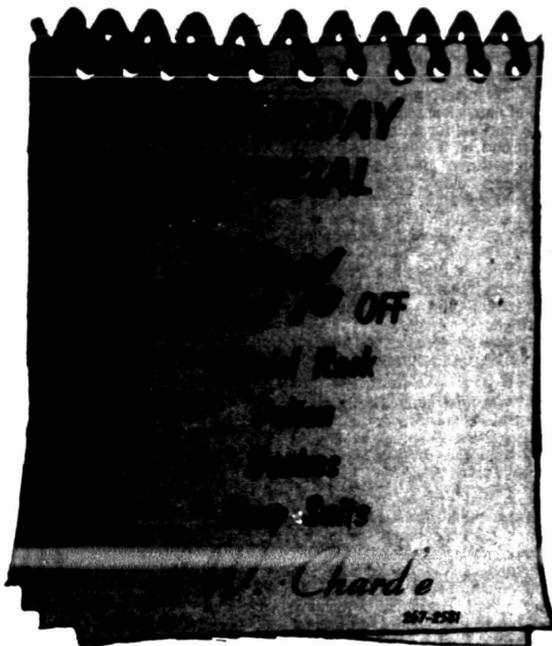

The oil well blew out at about 8:20 p.m. Thursday, destroying a drilling rig and shooting a pillar of fire as high as 200 feet into the air. No one was injured, but the flames could be seen from 50 miles away.

Bob Davis, district manager of Dowell Schlumberger, said his crews will have to cut the remains of the drilling rig away from the well casing with high pressure sand and water.

Then Cudd Pressure Control will have to remove the rig with bulldozers and cap the well, operated by Magic Drilling Co. of Berger.

Mark Henkhaus, a Texas Railroad Commission spokesman, said firefighters will have to leave the flames burning until the well is capped because the gas contains high concentrations of hydrogen sulfide, a deadly gas.

Divorce research released

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — More than half of divorced parents continue as long as five years after they split up to have angry relationships that may be harmful to their children, a study has found.

Fifty-eight percent of divorced parents are either constantly arguing or else dragging one another back to court five years after their divorces, said the study's director, Constance Ahrons of the University of Southern California in Los Angeles.

Ahrons said Thursday at the annual meeting of the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy that these findings differed only slightly from one year after divorce, when 63 percent of parents remain very angry with one another.

The children can suffer as a result because they end up spending less time with the parent who does not live with them, Ahrons said.

The study, financed in part by the National Institute of Mental Health, was based on interviews with 98 pairs of divorced parents one year, three years and five years after their divorces.

Ahrons separated divorced parents into four groups, based on the interviews.

The first group was what she calls the "perfect pals," who saw each other regularly and considered themselves best friends, even though they felt happier being divorced than married.

One year after divorce, 28 percent of the couples fell into this category. By five years after the divorce, only 9 percent could be described this way. "The reason for that was remarriage," Ahrons said. Only those perfect pals who did not remarry were able to maintain that relationship.

The second group was the "cooperative colleagues," who were able to separate their anger at their former spouse from their responsibilities to their children.

The next group was "angry associates," whose conflicts constantly flared up. Five years after divorce, 20 percent of the couples behaved this way.

The "fiery foes" were even worse, dragging one another back to the courtroom at the slightest provocation. They made up 38 percent of the couples after five years.

Five years after divorce, 33 percent were cooperative colleagues. Many of the perfect pals moved to this group when one of them remarried, Ahrons said.

The relationship between the divorced parents is crucial for the children, Ahrons said. "When the relationship between former spouses improves, father spends more time with his children," she said.

Steers rally plucks Eagles, 33-20

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

PECOS — First the bad news. The Big Spring Steers lost three of six fumbles, were penalized 11 times for 112 yards, trailed by a touchdown at the half, and were behind by one point to the Pecos Eagles with less than five minutes remaining in Friday night's game.

Now for the good news. The Steers scored two touchdowns in the final four minutes to squish the Eagles' upset hopes, with a 33-20 win.

"It was about as nail-biting as you can get. In the first half we played very poorly — poorly in all phases of the game, penalties, fumbles, and kicking breakdowns. It was a good effort but we looked disorganized," said a much relieved Steers' head coach Quinn Eudy after the game.

The Steers first possession typified their miserable first half. Steers quarterback Paul Decker fumbled the opening snap, a 16-yard run was nullified on the next play by a clip, and a third down sack forced the Steers to punt.

Nevertheless, the Steers did strike first. With 3:06 remaining in the opening stanza, Decker's first pass of the game sailed 34 yards in the air to a wide open Cedrick Banks in the end zone. Banks had worked his way behind the Eagles' coverage and waited in the endzone and waited for Decker's strike.

The second quarter was a disaster for the Steers. The Eagles jet-quick sophomore quarterback Bobby Smith gave the Steers defense fits with his roll-outs. Within one minute in the second quarter, the Smith-led Eagles scored twice.

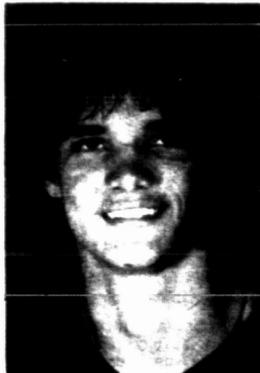

At the 6:18 mark, Javier Estrella scored on a 10-yard sweep. On the Steers following possession Phillip Mathews fumbled on the Steers 12-yardline. Two plays later Smith rolled to his right and nailed a touchdown-pass to a wide open Filimon Talmantez. The PAT missed, but a Steers penalty provided the Eagles with a second opportunity, and the Eagles took a 14-7

The Eagles completely outplayed the Steers in the first half, with a seven to four advantage in first downs and a 125 to 84 advantage in total yards. Perhaps more telltale of their dominance was Pecos' 35 offensive plays to just 21 for Big Spring. The Steers' defense had spent a lot of time on the field. "Every time we got a run, a penalty brought it back — we had penalties at inopportune time. We were just not taking care of business. We played much better in the second half. We had more sense of togetherness and we did the job we had to do," Eudy said.

Brian Mayfield returned the opening kickoff 23 yards and the Steers already looked like a different team. Charles White raced 39 yards to the Eagles' 20 for the big gain in the Steers opening drive. A three-yard Decker-keeper capped the drive just two minutes into the half. A bad snap foiled the point after.

The Steers' defense, playing much better in the second half, forced a punt. A bad handoff to Mathews, however, returned the ball to the Eagles, and set up the play of the game.

On third down and long, Smith passed deep toward the right side line, but Mayfield stepped in front of the pass at the Steers' 34-yard line and intercepted. Mayfield, running straight up and fast, reminded one of Eric Dickerson as he raced down the sideline and cut to the middle of the field for a 66-yard touchdown return. A penalty nullified the successful two-point conversion, and the Steers' failed on the second try. The Steers led 19-14 with 5:06 remaining in the third quarter.

Pecos, aided by a five-yard penalty against the Steers on a crucial third down and three-yard play, drove 69 yards to take a one-point lead with 1:13 on the clock in the third quarter. Smith had three runs for 54 yards on the drive, but Estrella scored the touchdown from five yards out. The try for two failed.

The team traded punts, and midway through the final quarter, trailing by one, the Steers took over on their own 23. With White and Harlin running hard behind a now dominant Steers offensive line Big Spring drove the ball despite two costly penalties. On one, White ran to the three only to have it nullified

Forsan tramples Stanton

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

FORSAN — The Forsan Buffaloes rode the one-two offensive punch of Wayne Wright and Brant Nichols and used an iron door defense, to soundly defeat the Stanton Buffaloes 32-7 in a key District 6-2A football clash Friday night.

The win was important to both teams. Stanton entered the game leading the district race with a 2-0 record. Forsan was tied for second with Big Lake with a 1-0-1 slate. Stanton tied Big Lake 13-13 last week and Stanton plays Big Lake next Friday.

The Forsan Wing-T offense rolled, with quarterback Nichols and halfback Wayne Wright doing most of the damage. Wright did his damage on the ground and in the air. He ended a productive night with 27 carries for 176 yards and three receptions for 54 yards.

The crafty Nichols moved the Forsan offense at will. He was especially effective passing, completing 10 of 15 passes for 152 yards and three touchdowns. All of his touchdown passes came in the first half as Forsan took a 20-7 halftime lead.

Meanwhile the Forsan defense controlled the Stanton Wishbone offense most of the night. It especially did a good job of containing halfback Greg Barnhill, who came into the game with 726 yards rushing. Against the pesky Forsan "D", he gained 38 tough yards in 18 carries.

The game was tight until 3:33 left in the half. Stanton rolled on its best drive of the night to score their lone touchdown, taking a 7-6 lead.

But that's when Nichols marched his team to two touchdowns in 54 seconds, blowing a close game wide open.

Following a Stanton punt which went out at the Forsan 10, Nichols drove Forsan 90 yards in six plays.

First the junior signal-caller completed two short sideline passes to Lance Soles. Then he eluded Stanton defenders and hit Lee Morris over the middle for a 25-yard gain. The clincher came when he found Wright over the middle at the Stanton 20-yardline. The hard-running Wright then broke two tackles and scampered in for the score, completing a 41-yard scoring play.

Wright ran in the two-point conversion, giving Forsan a 14-7 lead with 1:09 left in the first half.

The Forsan defense put Nichols & Co. in position to score again when Brandy Bryan intercepted Barnhill's attempted halfback pass to Salvador Reyna at midfield. A face mask penalty on the interception moved the ball to the Stanton 25.

On the next play Nichols dropped back, pumped once and found Soles running free down the sidelines for a 35-yard scoring strike.

The PAT failed, but Forsan had built up a 20-7 lead with :15 left in the first half. What momentum Stanton had, was gone, and never to be regained again.

Forsan scored on its first possession of the game. It was the "Wayne Wright Show" in the eight-play, 65-yard drive. Wright carried the ball four times for 45 yards and caught one pass for 12 yards. Nichols ended the drive with a 10-yard touchdown toss to Bryan with 8:55 left in the first quarter.

Stanton made things interesting in the second quarter, putting together their scoring drive. Stanton was aided by an offside and pass interference penalties, both which led to first downs.

Robert Jones had the big play in the 9-play, 80-yard drive. His run of 27 yards carried the ball to the Forsan 27. Quarterback Skip Hopkins did the scoring honors for his team. Dropping back to pass, he was rushed out of the pocket, eluded one tackler at the line of scrimmage, cut back across the field and completed a 15-yard scoring run.

Rafael Fraustro's extra point gave Stanton a short-lived 7-6 lead with 7:49 left in the half.

The second half was all Forsan, as the Buffaloes offensive line consisting of center Michael Self, guards Billy Massingill and Hugh Raney and tackles Mike Averette and Danny Evans completely dominated the Stanton defensive line.

Following a scoreless third quarter, Forsan iced the game with two fourth quarter touchdowns. The first was a 14-play, 81-yard drive which ate up over seven minutes of the clock in the third and fourth quarters. On the first

2-4 Roundup

Ft. Stockton 25

Lamesa 7

FORT STOCKTON — Ft. Stockton Panthers clawed and scratched their way to a district football victory here Friday night as they downed the Lamesa Tornados, 25-7.

Lamesa dropped to 2-5 overall and 1-4 in league play. The Panthers evened their season record to 4-4 and 2-5 in district play.

Gerry Woodberry of Lamesa scored the game's first tally with 6:49 in the second quarter as he ran the football in from 12 yards out. Wes Shook's kick was good.

The Tornados failed to capitalize on Ft. Stockton's inability to handle the football as the Panthers fumbled seven times, but retained possession on four of those occasions.

Ft. Stockton scored their first touchdown with 3:53 remaining in the first half when Ramon Valeriano twisted and darted his way for an 87-yard punt return. Cesar Sarabia was successful with the kick.

The Panthers added another tally before the half closed when Wayne Truesdell hauled in a 26-yard scoring strike from quarterback Chad Durham. The kick failed.

Mike Nix of Ft. Stockton added two more scores in the second half with runs of 12 yards and 1 yard. Both two-point conversion attempts failed.

Sweetwater 34

Monahans 14

MONAHANS — Sweetwater spoiled Monahans' perfect season Friday night by outscoring the Lobos, 34-14.

The Lobos are now 6-1 for the season and 4-1 in district. The Mustangs increased their season record 6-1 overall and 4-1 in district.

The Steers will put their undefeated 5-0 district record on the line next week when they battle the Lobos here in Memorial Stadium.

Dominating offensively with 72 offensive plays compared to 41 for the Lobos, Monahans scored first on a 71-yard run by Charles Thompson. The kick by Michael Portillo was good. The score came with 11:44 remaining in the first quarter.

Sweetwater waited until 4:22 left in the first quarter to score on the seventh play of a drive with a 27-yard pass from Chris Davis to Kenneth Norman. The conversion run attempt failed.

Sweetwater's 77-yard time-consuming drive in the second quarter ended with a 19-yard pass from Chris Davis to Elmer Green. The successful run attempt capped a 16-play scoring drive.

Monahans struck back with 1:09 left in the half on a 66-yard drive and an 8-yard touchdown run by Dana Amos. The kick was good. The half ended in a 14-14 tie.

Second half scoring belonged to Sweetwater. Quarterback Davis scored on a 5-yard run with 8:04 remaining in the third quarter. The score climaxed a 52-yard drive.

The run attempt for two points failed.

Davis was instrumental in the Lobos' final tallies in the fourth quarter. He scored on a run with 8:32 remaining in the game that capped a 33-yard drive. The kick attempt was successful.

Sweetwater's last score came on a Monahans mishandling of a Mustang punt on their 7-yard-line. It took four plays before Sweetwater hit paydirt on a 3-yard pass from Davis to Norman. The kick was good.

Snyder 10

Lake View 10

SNYDER — The Snyder Tigers steamrolled the San Angelo Lakeview Chiefs 10-6 in the District 2-4A game Friday night.

The game leaves Snyder 2-3 district and 2-5 for the season and Lakeview 1-5 district and 3-5 season.

Lakeview defensive back Stoney Lindsey attempted a 32-yard field goal during the first quarter with 7:18 on the clock, but it fell short.

Both teams scored their total points during the second quarter. Snyder scored first on a 20-yard field goal by kicker Randy Townsend with 4:17 on the clock.

Fullback Randy Young scored for Lakeview on a one-yard run with 2:57 on the clock. The point after attempt failed.

Snyder's Michael Riggins scored a touchdown with 1:57 on the clock on a 76-yard run. Townsend kicked the PAT.

Riggins was the leading rusher with 148 yards in 16 carries. Townsend kicked his sixth successful field goal of the season, out of six attempts.

Other leading rushers were Lakeview's Eddie Gonzales with 88 yards in 9 carries; Randy Young with 75 yards in 14 carries; and Snyder's Toby Ubando with 72 yards in 10 carries.

Brady whitewashes Coahoma 14-0 in District 5-3A encounter

COAHOMA — The Brady Bulldogs struggled but finally endured as they downed the Coahoma Bulldogs 14-0, here Friday night in a District 5-3A game.

Coahoma remains winless on the season with a record of 0-8. Brady added another district win to increase their record to 6-2 overall.

It was a defensive struggle from the opening whistle. Both teams failed to score in the first score.

Brady scored first with 1:55 remaining in the second quarter. Quarterback Seth Davis scampered in from 1 yard out, touchdown. The extra-point conversion attempt failed.

Brady scored again with 5:51 remaining in the game. Running back Michael Sillemon ran 1 yard for a touchdown. Running back Artie Sedillo was successful on his two point run attempt.

Interceptions hurt the Bulldogs as Brady plucked three balls out of the air on Coahoma pass plays.

Mustangs loop the Cougars

KLONDIKE — The Loop Mustangs routed the Klondike Cougars 30-8 in a District 1-4A game Friday night, leaving the Mustangs 3-1 in district and 6-2 for the season. The Cougars dropped to 0-3 district and 2-6 overall.

Loop opened the scoring in the first quarter on a 17-yard touchdown run by halfback Johnny Rodriguez. The two-point conversion kick by David Davis was good. Rodriguez scored again on a one-yard run in the second quarter, but the kick attempt failed. With 40 seconds left in the first half, Loop scored on a 16-yard pass from Davis to end Jesse Garza. Davis' kick was successful, giving the team a comfortable 22-0 lead at halftime.

The Mustangs scored a final time on a 38-yard pass from quarterback Billy Garza to end Jerry Hunt, followed by a successful Davis kick.

Klondike scored in the fourth quarter on a 1-yard run by end Jason Sutton. The two-point conversion run by halfback Cisco Arredondo was good.

Leading rushers in the district game were Jesse Garza of Loop with 123 yards and Arredondo of Klondike with 51 yards.

Borden County nips Dawson

GAIL — A pair of passes from Shannon Bond to Brice Key, coupled with an errant Dawson field goal attempt with 50 seconds remaining, provided Borden County with a 15-14 District 4A West Zone victory.

The host Dragons enjoyed a hard-fought homecoming victory to improve their record to 5-2 overall and 4-1 in district play. Dawson's record fell to 1-6.

Both Dawson touchdowns came in the first period, and both as direct results of Borden County fumbles.

Junior Morales opened the scoring for the visitors with 4:30 left in the quarter on a 28-yard run on the first play after Borden County fumbled a punt reception. Dawson's two-point kick was successful.

Another fumble recovery led to the second and final Dawson score.

Rudy Rodriguez caught a Kurt Coor pass on the second play after a Borden County bobble to make it a 14-0 game. The score remained unchanged until Key latched on to a 34-yard Bond pass with 7:41 left in the third period.

Randall Hollis brought the Coyotes to within six when his kick sailed through the uprights for a 14-8 ballgame.

Just over two minutes later, Bond and Key connected for a 31-yard touchdown pass, deadlocking the game at 14-14.

A bad snap forced holder Michael Murphy to attempt a pass, which was caught by John Stevens for one point — and the victory.

However, the win was not a sure thing until Dawson's field goal attempt failed with 50 seconds remaining in the contest.

Key finished with 84 yards on five passes. Murphy and John Stephens each had an interception for the Coyote defense.

Rodriguez paced the Dawson offense with 98 yards on nine receptions and a TD.

Midland Christian buries Sands

ACKERLY — The Sands Mustangs dropped a tough one here Friday night as the Midland Christian Mustangs galloped to a 43-26 football victory in a non-district game.

Lee Young of Sands added two scoring runs in the ball game as he hit paydirt from two yards out in the first quarter and eight yards out in the fourth quarter.

He was also successful with one extra-point kick.

Sands' other scores came in the third quarter when Jerry Long passed eight yards to Chad Nichols and Damien Zarate passed nine yards to Paul Martin.

The District 4-A Mustangs dropped to 4-4 for the season.

Wellman crushes Klondike

WELLMAN — The Wellman Wildcats trampled the young Wildcats of Grady enroute to a 37-12 homecoming victory, ending the game with 5:44 remaining in the third period, because of the 40 point rule.

Both of Grady's scores came in the third period, as they played "the best team" in district 4-A North Zone, according to Grady coach Mike Mathis.

Wellman scored four touchdowns in the first period, two in the second period and wrapped the game with two third quarter scores.

The Wellman Wildcats rushed for more than 400 yards as they showed their strength before the homecoming crowd.

Julian Valle got Grady onto the scoreboard with 9:47 remaining in the third period with an exciting 72-yard kickoff return. The Grady PAT kick attempt failed.

Less than three minutes later, Walt Stone connected with Chris Huggins on a five-yard strike to complete the visitors' scoring. The PAT kick again failed.

Wellman enjoyed a 27-point first period to establish the tone of the game, followed by 16 in the second period and 14 in the third before the 45-point victory margin was established.

The Wildcats of Wellman boosted their record to 8-0, while the Wildcats of Grady saw their record drop to 0-8.

Clyde guns down the Wolves

CLYDE — The good news: the second half of the Clyde-Colorado City ballgame resulted in an even, 14-14 scoring production.

The bad news for the Wolves: the first half.

It was during the first two periods of this District 5-3A contest that the 49-14 game was decided. That was when Clyde scored five touchdowns enroute to its fourth district win against a single loss. They are 5-3 overall, while Colorado City dropped to 1-6-1 and 1-4 in the district.

Clyde's scoring began with a 30-yard Jerry Black TD reception and a Chris Shelton PAT kick with 7:40 left in the first period. One minute later, Brant Bunker scored on a fumble recovery, Shelton booted the PAT and it was 14-0.

Bunker ran 24 yards for a second period score, complemented by a Steve Shewmaker PAT with 4:58 in the second period, for a 21-0 contest.

Shewmaker followed quickly with a nine-yard run with 3:59 remaining in the half and he added another PAT kick for the 28-0 advantage. The productive Shewmaker added a 15-yard run and another PAT boot with six seconds in the half to make it 35-0.

Randy Richardson plunged in from one yard out for the first second half score for the Bulldogs and Kevin Dugan's PAT kick cleared the uprights for a 42-0 mark with 6:02 in the third period.

With :06 remaining in the third quarter, sophomore halfback Beau Rees carried it in on a 10-yard run to put C-City on the scoreboard. His successful PAT run made it 42-8.

The Wolves scored again, with 6:23 left in the game on a 35-yard Cary Ritchey to Marty Clecker; the PAT pass failed, to conclude the C-City scoring.

Shewmaker completed a nine-yard pass to Jody Dugan with 3:05 left, and Shelton added the PAT to push the score to its final 49-14 mark.

NBA will have different faces in different places

By The Associated Press
Philadelphia, Milwaukee and Washington are putting Moses Malone, Jack Sikma, Jeff Ruland and Roy Hinson in different uniforms this year in a bid to challenge the Boston Celtics' dominance in the NBA's Eastern Conference.

But out West, where the Los Angeles Lakers missed the finals for the first time since 1981, nearly everyone is standing pat in what Coach Pat Riley calls a balanced conference.

The Celtics, with Larry Bird winning his third consecutive Most Valuable Player award, won their 16th title in 1986 and their third of the decade. Unless backup forward Fred Roberts makes the team, they will have the same 12-man squad that made the NBA finals for the third straight time last season.

The 1986-87 season opens next Friday with nine games, including Washington at Boston.

The Bucks, 76ers and Bullets have been the Best of the Rest in the East behind the Celtics for most of the 1980s, but while they might not have caught up with Boston, it isn't for lack of effort.

The biggest upheaval is in Philadelphia, which sent Malone, another three-time MVP, to the Bullets and longtime backup Clemon Johnson to Seattle.

The Philadelphia front line should still be formidable, however, with Ruland, Hinson, budding superstar Charles Barkley and backups Tim McCormick, Danny Vranes and Cliff Robinson. Julius Erving, now a guard, and Maurice Cheeks return in the backcourt, and Andrew Toney is hoping to be back from foot injuries.

"A few of the faces on this year's squad have changed, but what has not changed is our desire to remain as one of the top teams in the NBA," 76ers Coach Matt Guokas said. "It's never easy to replace a great player, but the addition of proven NBA veterans has made us a better ballclub."

The Bucks, winners of six consecutive Central Division titles, acquired Sikma, their first quality center since the retirement of Bob Lanier. But the smooth-shooting Sikma clearly is on the downside of his career, so the question remains whether Milwaukee has improved enough to compete with Boston.

Nelson, with Sikma to go with holdovers Sidney Moncrief, Terry Cummings and Paul Pressey, is cautiously optimistic.

"I felt we might be slipping a little unless we did something," Nelson said. "I think this will keep us where we've been, which is striking distance of a championship. I'm not saying it brought us any closer to Boston, but it's something we had to do to make sure we didn't fall any farther back."

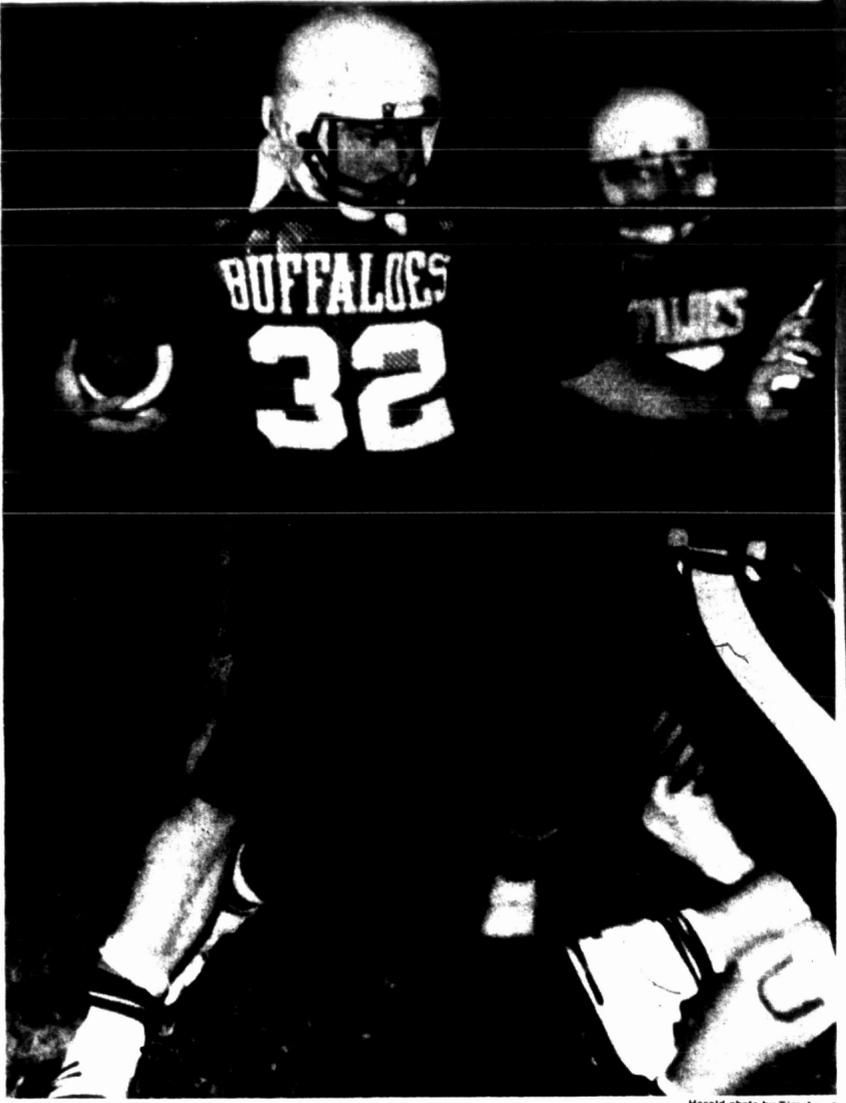

Malone will share last-name billing with fellow All-Star Jeff Malone on the Bullets, and at 6-foot-10, will look up to last season's rookie sensation, 7-7 Manute Bol, who bulked up from 210 to 230 in the offseason, and is talking like he's ready to pay back the brutes who pushed him around a year ago.

Donning the Bullets uniform for the first time this season, besides Moses Malone, are former Dallas forward Jay Vincent, Philadelphia-ex Terry Catledge and Darwin Cook, acquired from New Jersey.

Another big trade that probably will have less effect on the balance of power in the East saw Adrian Dantley go from Utah to Detroit for Kelly Tripucka and Kent Benson.

The surprise of the East last season were the Atlanta Hawks, who made a modest run at Milwaukee in the Central Division. NBA scoring champion Dominique Wilkins, given respect by his peers and the media for the first time, got ample support from Kevin Willis, Glenn Rivers, Randy Wittman and tiny Spud Webb.

Also hoping to improve are the New Jersey Nets, who acquired Orlando Woolridge for scoring help up

By holding. But when it had to be done Decker ran the Veer to perfection. A great fake up the middle allowed Decker to gain eight yards around end on a keeper. On the next play he pitched to Harlin at the last second, and Harlin scampered eight yards for the score. The two point PAT failed, but the Steers led 25-20 at the 4:01 mark.

After the Steers forced an Eagle punt White galloped through the Eagles' defense for the final tally. The junior running back had his third sensational game in a row. He finished with 168 yards and one touchdown on 21 carries. Backfield mate Harlin, subbing for a hobbling Mathews, had 76 yards and one touchdown on 14 carries.

"Our offensive line had to be doing something right and our offensive backs ran well. And Mayfield made a great play — it changed the momentum of the ballgame at the time," Eudy said.

"When we had to have it, we ran the offense like it should be done," he said.

Eudy was right. The Steers moved the ball when they had to — and not a minute before. The Steers, who seemed to be making a habit of second half and four quarter comebacks, may soon come to be known as the cardiac Steers. That would be alright with Eudy, as long as the Steers end up on top like they have been.

play of the fourth period, reserve fullback Stacy Munoz scored from the three. The try for two failed, but the Forsan lead was 26-7 with 11:57 left in the quarter.

Forsan's final scoring drive came after Morris returned a punt 13 yards to the Stanton 24. From there it took seven plays as John Roman scored from the one. Again Wright missed the PAT, about the only bad thing he did all night. But it didn't really matter, because Forsan won this version of the battle of the Buffaloes.

Coach Bill Fitch said. "We'll tinker a little here and there, but there won't be any major overhaul."

Joining Olajuwon in a frontcourt that only Boston's can rival in talent are Ralph Sampson and Rodney McCray. Robert Reid sparkled in the playoffs as the team's quarterback guard, but it's not his natural position.

Also challenging for supremacy in the West are Denver, Dallas, Utah and Portland.

The Mavericks did a lot of housecleaning, dumping forwards Dale Ellis and Jay Vincent, which means Coach Dick Motta is counting on second-year man Detlef Schrempf and rookie Roy Tarpley to help out high-scoring Mark Aguirre. Motta hopes Al Wood will be the much-needed backcourt backup behind All-Star Rolando Blackman.

Denver is high on rookie Mo Martin as a backcourt scorer to help out the forward duo of Alex English and Calvin Natt. Coach Doug Moe also is hoping to move center Wayne Cooper can move to power forward, making room for Blair Rasmussen, who was a playoff surprise for the Nuggets.

At Portland, new Coach Mike Schuler, who fell out of his chair at his coming-out press conference, needs a healthy season from center Sam Bowie, who can provide defense around the scoring prowess of Kiki Vandeweghe and Clyde Drexler. If Darrell Griffith rebounds from injury and Kelly Tripucka can keep scoring, Utah will be tough despite the loss of Dantley.

New coaches also reside in San Antonio and Golden State. The Spurs' Bob Weiss has a strong nucleus in Alvin Robertson, Mike Mitchell and aging center Artis Gilmore. George Karl has individual talents like Joe Barry Carroll, Eric Floyd, Purvis Short, Chris Mullin and rookie Chris Washburn, but he must find a way to mold them into a team.

Series goes back to the Big Apple

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston Red Sox have got the New York Mets right where the Mets want them. Down 3-2 in the best-of-seven World Series, the Mets feel happy just to have brought the Series back to Shea Stadium, especially after losing the first two games here.

"When we went to Boston, we felt like we had to win two out of three," Mets Manager Davey Johnson said during Friday's off day. "When you win the first two, you want to sweep, but we are right where we wanted to be going into Boston."

One thing was for sure from Boston's perspective. "Now, we've got the homecourt advantage off our backs," Red Sox center fielder Dave Henderson said. The Red Sox won the first two games of the Series 1-0 and 9-3 in New York. The Mets won the next two games in Boston, 7-1 and 6-2, before the Red Sox came up with a 4-2 victory Thursday night to break the deadlock and move within one game of their first World Series title in 68 years.

"They have to feel that they've got us where they want us," Henderson said of the Mets. "They're down a game and they have to win. We feel the same way. We're right where we want to be — a game up and Roger (Clemens) on the mound."

In Saturday night's Game 6, the Red Sox will send 24-game winner Clemens against the Mets left-hander Bob Ojeda.

Win or lose, there were some ghosts exorcised from old Fenway Park in Game 5. The Red Sox have not won a World Series title since 1918 — when Babe Ruth still played for them — and have lost three seven-game Series since, in 1946, '67 and '75. In the last of those two Series, the final-game loss came at Fenway.

Then there was also the infamous Boston Massacre of 1978 when the Red Sox were swept at home in a crucial four-game series with the New York Yankees in September, finished tied for the American League East regular-season lead, then lost a one-game playoff to the Yanks at Fenway on Bucky Dent's homer.

"We keep saying this over and over, and we've said it all along," Red Sox Manager John McNamara said. "That has nothing to do with us. We're a different bunch of guys."

In Game 6, the Red Sox will have a well-rested Clemens going against former teammate Ojeda. Clemens will be pitching on five days' rest after working three straight times on three days' rest. When pitching on five days' rest this season Clemens was 8-0 with a 2.12 ERA — including the game he struck out 20 Seattle batters in April.

Through some pitching adjustments that may have cost the Red Sox Game 4 of this Series, Manager John McNamara got both Bruce Hurst, the Game 5 winner, and Clemens back on a regular schedule. McNamara started Al Nipper, who hadn't been used since Oct. 4, in the fourth game. He lasted only six innings.

His last time out on three days' rest, Clemens went just 4 1-3 innings in Game 2 last Sunday.

"There was no brilliance to it. There was really no alternative," McNamara said. "We found out that Bruce doesn't pitch well on three days' rest, and Roger was tired. He'd pitched three times on three days' rest. The Roger Clemens you saw last Sunday was not the Roger Clemens we saw all year long. We had the luxury of being able to make the move when we jumped out 2-0."

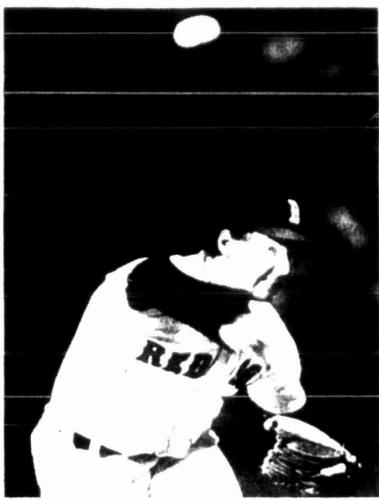

Clemens said Thursday he was unhappy with the pitching mound at Shea. "I don't like the mound there and I don't like a lot of things with that ballpark," he said.

In Game 2 against Clemens last week, Johnson started Danny Heep in left field instead of Mookie Wilson and Howard Johnson at third instead of Ray Knight. Johnson said he planned to have Wilson and Knight in the starting lineup this time.

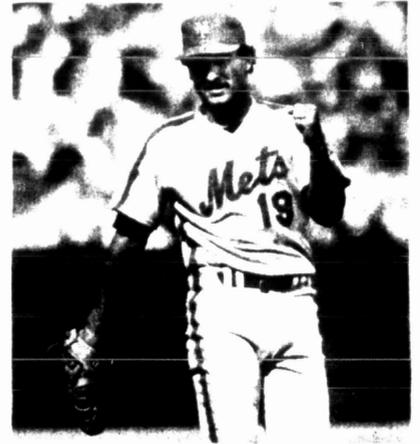

"We hadn't been scoring a lot of runs, so I shook my lineup up," Johnson said. "I've been doing that all year long. Occasionally I would start those two — Heep and Johnson. But by and large the team I play Saturday is the one I played most of the time."

Ojeda, traded from Boston to New York last November, will be working on just three days' rest, one short of his normal complement. Johnson was not sure what the effect would be.

"Ojeda's not come back on three days' rest this season," Johnson said. "I don't know what he's done the rest of his career. I don't know how he'll react." Last time out, the 18-game winner Ojeda worked seven innings, holding the Red Sox to one run on five hits in Game 3.

Boston Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens is shown here bearing down in recent action. Clemens will be the Red Sox's starting pitcher in game six.

"I've got to win. It's as simple as that," Ojeda said. "I'm not uncomfortable with this situation. I would rather be in this situation that doing something else. We just have to pull together and get a team effort. We know we have to win two games. We've done it before."

Obviously, the Mets were not ready to concede the Red Sox the visiting field advantage.

"I'm not the least bit concerned about what has already happened," Ojeda said. "Once a game is over, it's dead and gone regardless of the outcome, and you just go get them the next day."

"After the first two games, a lot of people didn't think we'd be playing on Saturday. Speculation is your job. We have to play the game and talk about it after it's over. We are down 3-2 and it's very obvious what we have to do — win two games."

If there is a seventh game, the Mets will send Ron Darling on three days' rest against the Red Sox's Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd.

Barrett proves experts wrong

NEW YORK (AP) — Many baseball people think Marty Barrett is underrated as a hitter. Others insist he's an underrated fielder.

Now, with the World Series as a showcase, the second baseman of the Boston Red Sox is earning a reputation as an outstanding all-around player.

Through 12 postseason games — seven in the American League playoffs and five in the World Series — Barrett has 20 hits, surpassing the record of 18 established in 1976 by Thurman Munson of the New York Yankees.

And he has been a steady player at second, handling 66 chances without an error in the 12 games.

After three full years as just another player in the Boston lineup, Barrett has become a hit.

"I spent more than four years in the minors and I learned that I had to be able to do everything to make it in the major leagues," the 28-year-old former Las Vegas high school and Arizona State star said.

Barrett took over as Boston's regular second baseman when Jerry Remy was injured in May 1984. Barrett went on to hit .303. However, he got off to a slow start in 1985, was inconsistent and slipped to .266.

"That taught me a lesson," he said. "I had spent most of the winter after the 1984 season playing golf and enjoying myself with relatives and friends. I wasn't ready for baseball the next spring.

"Last winter, with a new home, I stayed in Massachusetts not far from the ball park and worked hard. I lifted weights, exercised, ran, everything. I was in good shape when I reported to spring training."

The offseason program paid off. Barrett played in all but three of Boston's 161 regular season games this season while hitting .286. He scored 94 runs and drove in 60, both career highs.

He still was an also-ran in the All-Star balloting by fans, but that could change after his World Series performance.

In the AL playoffs against the California Angels, Barrett tied a record with 11 hits. He hit .367 with 5 runs batted in and was 7 for 10 with runners in scoring position.

His performance, which helped Boston rally from a 3-1 deficit to win the pennant, earned Barrett the most valuable player award for the series.

In the World Series, which Boston leads 3-2, Barrett has nine hits in 21 at-bats for a .429 average and has hit safely in every game.

"I got off to a hot start in the playoffs, so I was able to play loose," Barrett said. "Then I got off to a fast start in the World Series and I've felt no pressure whatsoever. This has been a dream season, but the main thing is that by doing well I'm helping the team win."

MARTY BARRETT ... good all-around player

Barrett has been confident the Red Sox will win the World Series, even after the Mets won two in a row in Boston to even the series.

Now, with Boston facing a chance to win the World Series Saturday night, he is more confident.

"This has been Roger Clemens all the way and we have him going for us against Bobby Ojeda," Barrett said. "I don't think Bobby has much of a chance against Clemens. Bobby's a friend of mine, but he hasn't ever pitched much on just three days' rest and I think that's going to hurt him."

Even good hitters struggle

NEW YORK (AP) — Wade Boggs, the best batter in baseball this season, is bogged down lately.

It's a feeling many top hitters have known at this time of year.

From Ty Cobb to Ted Williams to Gil Hodges, the spotlight of the World Series has often produced glaring slumps — often made more prominent by their team's loss.

"I'm hitting the ball hard. I just picked the World Series to go through a bad streak," Boggs said after his Boston Red Sox beat the New York Mets 4-2 Thursday night and took a three-games-to-two lead.

Boggs, who led the majors with a .357 average, is stuck at .227 on a 5-for-22 performance through five games. He was below that until getting two hits Thursday night, one of them charitably scored on a line drive directly at second baseman Tim Teufel, who allowed the ball to bounce off his ankle.

So far in the Series, Boggs, a three-time American League batting champion, has been better with his glove at third base.

"Thank God I'm not the DH; I would have committed suicide a long time ago," he said. "It's a good thing I'm fielding, because I probably wouldn't be starting."

Red Sox first baseman Bill Buckner can commiserate with Boggs. Buckner, who bats third in the Boston lineup, is at .174 and has hit safely in just one out of 10 tries with runners in scoring position.

"It's a tough thing," said Don Baylor, Buckner's teammate. "Now that it's the fall classic, he doesn't have his classic swing."

At least Boggs and Buckner are playing on the team that is leading the World Series.

Mets first baseman Keith Hernandez, a career .300 hitter, is at .222.

New York outfielder Darryl Strawberry is mired at the same figure, 4-for-18. Strawberry does not have a hit with runners on base, and has struck out six times.

"He has tremendous batting practices, but he's been doing other things in games," Mets batting coach Bill Robinson said.

Robinson said the left-handed Strawberry has been particularly guilty of not moving his left foot in his swing.

"It meant he was lunging at a lot of balls, jumping at them and undercutting them," Robinson said. "That way, he was missing a lot of pitches, striking out a lot or popping up the ball."

While Boggs, Buckner, Hernandez and Strawberry struggle to break out before it's too late, they are merely the latest in a long line of stars who have found hard times in October.

Cobb, whose .367 career average is the highest ever, was a bust in his first postseason, held to just .200 in 1907 as his Detroit team lost to the Chicago Cubs.

Williams, considered by some the greatest hitter of all-time, also could do no better than .200 in his only World Series appearance in 1946, when Boston lost in seven games to St. Louis.

Perhaps the greatest flop in Series history came in 1952. Hodges, Brooklyn's steady first baseman, went hitless in 21 at-bats as the New York Yankees downed the Dodgers in seven games.

And the pattern keeps continuing.

Eddie Murray, one of the most consistent players now in baseball, batted only .154 as Baltimore lost the 1979 World Series in seven games to Pittsburgh.

Last year, it was Tommy Herr's turn to share the same disappointment in the World Series. After batting .302 with 110 RBI during the regular season for St. Louis, he hit .154 and did not drive in a run during the Cardinals' seven-game loss to Kansas City.

Dave Winfield, the New York Yankees outfielder often criticized for not producing under pressure, had just one hit in 22 at-bats in his only World Series appearance, a loss to Los Angeles in 1981.

Boggs can sympathize with what all of them have gone through. He's feeling the same way.

So in the meantime, he is spending more time talking about his fielding than his hitting.

"If you can't do it with the bat, you've got to do it with something," he said.

Johnson wants to be on third

NEW YORK (AP) — The day after the New York Mets clinched the National League pennant, third baseman Howard Johnson bought his wife a fur coat.

Johnson could use the wrap himself after the cool treatment he feels he has received from Mets Manager Davey Johnson.

Johnson, who backed up veteran Ray Knight at third base during the season, has been riding the bench in the World Series, with the exception of one game.

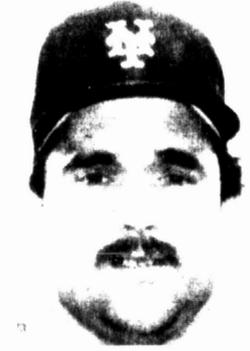

He started Game 2 and went 0-for-4. Knight has been in the lineup ever since.

"I know I'm a better player than Ray, and I mean that," Johnson said after the Mets' 4-2 loss Thursday night in Boston. "Even though I had to sit the bench this year, I know in my heart, and I'll never think otherwise, I know that I'm an everyday player."

Johnson, who batted .245 this year, won't come right out and say it, but it's obvious from talking with him that he feels Knight, who hit .296, gets special treatment.

"I was a platoon player last year," Johnson said. "This year I started out as a platoon player, Ray Knight and myself. He got real hot early and Ray is a player that can't be platooned. Of course, they use him. Davey felt he had to play Ray all the time."

"There's really nothing I can do."

HOWARD JOHNSON ... thinks he should be starting sitting in the dugout while there is a World Series to be won.

"It's very painful," Johnson said. "But, fortunately, I'm the kind of person who can kind of look beyond that. I realize the most important thing is the ballclub. I can put my personal feelings aside, as bad as they can get sometimes."

Then again, Johnson should be used to it. This is the second time he has been on a World Series team without getting a chance to play regularly.

HoJo, as he is known to teammates, was with the Detroit Tigers in 1984. The Tigers beat the San Diego Padres in five games to win that World Series, but Johnson's contribution was one meaningless at-bat.

Marty Castillo played third base for the Tigers in that Series.

The switch-hitting Johnson was traded to the Mets following the 1984 season for pitcher Walt Terrell. But nothing really changed.

"If anything, it drives me harder and I know that next year that I'm going to be playing everyday somewhere and I'd think that it's going to be here in New York."

His reasoning is based on the fact that Knight becomes a free agent as soon as the World Series ends.

Alabama-Penn St. matches number two and fourth ranked gridiron teams

By The Associated Press

Alabama and Penn State are fourth and fifth on the all-time major-college victory list with 622 and 610, respectively, and they will be second and sixth in the national rankings when they tangle Saturday in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

For a rivalry that is only eight games old, although it dates back to the 1959 Liberty Bowl, this series is loaded with national championship significance.

Second-ranked Alabama leads the series 5-3 and won the 1978 national championship by defeating No. 1 Penn State 14-7 in the Sugar Bowl. In 1982, Penn State won the crown despite a 42-21 loss to Alabama. At the time, it was the worst beating suffered by a team that eventually won the national title.

Last season, Penn State won 19-17 and went on to play for the national championship, losing to Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

Now, says Penn State Coach Joe Paterno, "We have a good football team (the Nittany Lions are 6-0) playing against a good football team (Alabama is 7-0). One team will find out if it is a great team."

There are two other games between members of the Associated Press Top Twenty — seventh-ranked Auburn at No. 13 Mississippi State at night and No. 16 Clemson at No. 20 North Carolina State.

Top-ranked Miami, Fla. is idle while No. 3 Nebraska visits Colorado, fourth-ranked Michigan plays at Indiana and No. 5 Oklahoma is at Iowa State. Rounding out the Top Ten, eighth-ranked Washington entertains Oregon, No. 9 Arizona State hosts Utah at night and No. 10 Texas A&M is at home against Rice.

In the second Ten, No. 11 Iowa entertains Northwestern, North Carolina visits No. 12 LSU in a night game, No. 14 Arkansas is at Houston under the lights, California at No. 15 Arizona after dark, Washington State at No. 17 UCLA, No. 18 Southern Methodist at Texas and Southern California at No. 19 Stanford.

Penn State-Alabama pairs two of the nation's six undefeated-untied teams.

"We don't have anything to prove, Alabama doesn't have anything to prove," says Paterno. "These are two solid teams on the verge of being great."

"There will be very few games played this year where you will see so many good athletes at one time. This is probably the quickest football team we've had. We run better on defense than any team I've had and the backs are quicker than most people think.

"Both teams have experience. Both teams are better than last year. We're better, maybe a lot better than last year.

"If we get beat it will be because Alabama has a better team than we do. It's a big game, a meaningful game, and will enhance any national hopes we have if we win it."

Alabama's Ray Perkins, who succeeded Bear Bryant after the 1982 season, says Penn State "could be the best football team we've played since I've been here and could be the best football team Joe Paterno has had at Penn State."

"I don't know if he will agree with that, but of the Penn State teams we have played the last three years they are certainly head and shoulders above the others."

He points out that the Nittany Lions have 17 fifth-year seniors, 15 of whom play key roles.

"In other words, if you beat them, that's just what you have to do — you have to line up and beat them. Those guys have played together for a long time. The main mark that makes Penn State a great football team, and the thing that separates them from other teams, is that they don't do a lot of things that lose ballgames."

The Lions are tied for sixth nationally in turnover margin. They have taken the ball from the opposition 21 times (nine fumbles, 12 interceptions) while giving it away 13 times (eight fumbles, five interceptions). Alabama isn't far behind with 19 takeaways, 14 giveaways.

Nebraska has won its last 18 meetings with Colorado but Coach Tom Osborne is concerned about the Buffs' wishbone, which ranks 12th nationally in rushing with 245.5 yards a game.

"If you make one mistake, you give up the big play," he says. "You have to be very disciplined, you have to be very physical and you have to have a lot of speed. We think we've got most of those elements (Nebraska is seventh nationally in total defense, sixth in rushing defense), but we're a little concerned about making sure our secondary can handle everything that they've got to handle.

"The wishbone always scares you as far as throwing the ball because you get everybody flying up there to play the option and somebody runs by you, so you really are subject to the big play."

The winner will share the Big Eight lead unless Oklahoma, which almost always beats Iowa State (52-4-2), is upset.

The Sooners are 23-0-1 against the Cyclones since 1961 but Coach Barry Switzer says his team's hard-fought 19-0 victory over Oklahoma State in which the nation's sixth-ranked offense couldn't score a touchdown "shows that a favorite's role doesn't mean that much."

"I'm sure Iowa State is coming to the same conclusion. They have proven they can move the ball and in Alex Espinosa they have one of the Big Eight's better passers."

"They should get a lift from their home crowd. I remember two years ago when we barely won (12-10) what a factor their fans can be. It is not unusual for opponents to play their best game against us."

However, Iowa State's Jim Criner says his team needs "a fanatical effort to even be in the game ... Personnel-wise we're not even close to matching up with them. Oklahoma may be the fastest football team in America."

Michigan, 6-0, is off to its best start in nine years, has a 12-game unbeaten streak and has won 14 in a row from Indiana. Coach Bo Schembechler, however, insists the Wolverines "all realize that we're not so good that we can't get beat every time we step on the field. I don't think you can take any of these teams lightly. I know you're all thinking, 'Bo's got to say that,' but it's true."

Improved Indiana is 4-2 after two-point losses to Ohio State and Minnesota, the teams that are tied with Michigan for the Big Ten lead. And Indiana assistant coach Mike Mallory was Michigan's defensive captain last year.

"There's no question that Mike knows a lot about our football team," Schembechler says. "He was with our team for five years and he knows as much about our system as anyone."

"I think we're going into a hornets' nest in Bloomington."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1986
GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a Sunday to take stock of how far you have advanced toward your anticipated goals. Maintain an attitude of charm and consideration to those about you.
ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Think about your finest talents and how best to expand with them. Be cheerful in any personal relationships.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): You think you are not making the progress you desire at home. It may be that too many outsiders are there.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Study into many philosophies and then choose the best for your needs. Get your home organized.
SCORPIO CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Study how to handle practical problems while busy at usual Sunday pursuits.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Concentrate on goals that mean the most to you and study how to gain them. Be with tried and true friends.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Study your ambitions and plan how best to gain them. The one you love has a problem and needs your help.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Know what your personal aims are. Stop being confused and intelligently plan how best to gain them.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Do whatever will enhance your prestige now by showing more responsibility in civic affairs.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Analyze well that change in plans you have started on. Be sure you look before you leap.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Be more objective and you will know how best to handle your obligations in the days ahead.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Be kind to a partner who is hurting after an outside encounter of some sort. Resolve any problems.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): You may not be happy about something that is going on now, so think about what is best to do.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ...he or she will have every ability at planning social events on a grand scale, so be sure to give as fine an education as you can so that your progeny can have much success along these lines. Be sure to give praise for anything unusual that your son, or daughter, accomplishes, thus raising the incentives.

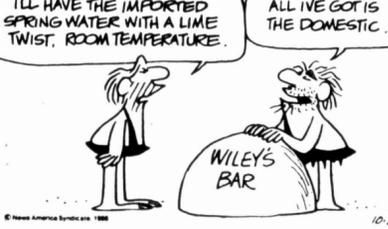

MONDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1986
GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you are careful to accept conditions as they are you will be able to achieve results that have considerable scope to them. Look for any flaws you might make.
ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Be sure to listen to an idea your mate has which can bring you both happiness. Be patient and kind.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Begin the week wisely by doing whatever will make your family happier even if you have to change plans.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): There are several ways in which you can extend your activities in connection with partners, so choose the best.
SCORPIO CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Elevate your consciousness if you want to solve any problematic affairs of a practical nature.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): You have personal aims and can pursue them quietly without involving your family in them.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Know what your true aims are and quietly go after them. Make sure your car is running smoothly.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Get together with an excellent friend and gain his, or her, support for an ideal plan that brings mutual happiness.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Get into worldly activities that are profitable and forget personal affairs that waste your time.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): You get a fine idea that can help you to grow. Stop worrying about some unpleasant matter.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Get your business affairs handled more intelligently and forget friends who do nothing but gossip.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A rather successful friend gives good suggestions for your own betterment, so listen carefully.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Get into those jobs that require your greatest creativity. Postpone that trip you have in mind.
