Turn Clocks Back

White feeling no effects of disease

DALLAS (AP) — A prison guard who led Gov. Mark White, several of his aides and reporters on a tour died from meningitis two days later, prompting health officials to urge all involved to take medicine to thwart the contagious disease.

Health officials confirmed that meningococcal meningitis killed 31-year-old John H. DeMarr, a Texas Department of Corrections officer who showed White around a prison unit under construction near Palestine Monday.

White said during a campaign stop Saturday that he is taking the recommended preventive medication and feels no effects of the disease.

"I feel fine," he said with a smile. "I read that one of the symptoms of the disease is (that) it makes you combative."

A spokesman confirmed that White aides and a reporter that were on the prison tour are also taking the medication.

DeMarr became ill while at work Tuesday and died of the infection the following day.

"I think we can definitely say that it is meningococcal meningitis," said Dr. Larry Burch of Elkhart, DeMarr's physician.

"There's very little doubt about it."

Dwayne Holman, White's campaign manager, told The Dallas Morning News late Friday he was advised by prison officials that DeMarr had died of the illness.

White's aides contacted the governor's doctor, who suggested that White, his aides and members of the media who toured the facility begin taking the medication immediately.

"It's just a precautionary thing," said Holman, adding that White would take the medicine Saturday.

W. Texans a force on SSC board

Staff and Bureau reports

A "very aggressive, very organized" West Texas campaign for the Superconducting Super Collider (SSC) research site has resulted in two of its citizens being named to a nine-member site selection task force.

Johnnie Lou Avery's appointment was made official Friday by Gov. Mark White. The commission will try to convince the federal government to build the world's largest atom smasher in Texas.

Avery, 48, president of Avery and Associates, was selected to serve a term on the Texas National Research Laboratory Commission that expires Feb. 1, 1987.

She is a member of the University of Texas of the Permian Basin Development Board and serves as project director for the Private Industry Council.

She is the only female on the task force. White's executive assistant called the West Texas Chamber of Commerce proposal "the most comprehensive of the entire state" in White's view. "That's reflected in the appointment of two from West Texas on the task force," Cliff Drummond said.

Also appointed was Charles Perry of Odessa.

Garden City, 27 miles south of Big Spring, is considered a leading Texas SSC site.

A spokeswoman for White's office said Avery's appointment was recommended by state Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring.

The nine-member commission will be charged with trying to bring the Superconducting Super Collider (SSC) to Texas, although the future of the multi-billion dollar project remains in doubt.

White's science adviser, Meg Wilson, said because of the $3 billion to $5 billion price tag on SSC, construction "looks pretty iffy."

She said the Department of Energy will make a decision by the end of the year on whether to recommend funding for the research project.

Should President Reagan accept the project, the energy department would begin looking for a location among the more than 30 states competing for the SSC, she said.

Sequel treats voters to a colorful race

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of articles concerning election races of interest to Herald readers which will appear before Election Day, November 4.

By JANET WARREN
Austin Bureau

The governor's race will be a dead heat if the votes are based on which of the principal candidates most often attacks the other as a liar or puts words in his opponent's mouth.

Democrat Mark White and Republican Bill Clements do a lot of those things in well-financed campaigns marked by their aggression.

White and Clements are locked in a grudge match — the sequel to the 1982 campaign where White cast Clements, the first Republican governor in a century, from the Governor's Mansion.

Libertarian Theresa Doyle of San Antonio is also running in hopes of appealing to the large numbers who dislike both candidates. But Doyle is not commanding huge contributions or sharing the spotlight devoted to Clements and White.

Much of the White-Clements battle in the weeks before the Nov. 4 election is being fought in fabulously expensive and negative television commercials aimed at ripping the opponent. White and Clements also are crisscrossing the state, each peddling his own strong points but painting unappealing portraits of the other. Clements portrays White as a professional politician who will say anything to be re-elected. "He is a master of misinformation, disinformation, nuance and innuendo," Clements said in an interview as he traveled to tour a volunteer phone bank and meet with a petroleum landmen's group in Northeast Texas.

The former governor is angered by what he calls White's "prevarication," or lying.

White colors Clements as a gruff, insensitive and prejudiced man who is masking his intentions to slash state aid for the poor.

White said Clements would solve state budget problems by cutting eyeglasses, hearing aids and hot meals for the poor, booting the elderly from nursing homes and consolidating or closing the state's two black universities.

"You have to be most fearful of what his plan will be," White said. COLORFUL RACE page 2A

Candidates in agreement

By The Associated Press
Gov. Mark White and challenger Bill Clements agreed Saturday that the recently passed immigration reform bill will be a disaster for Texas, but they criticized the bill for different reasons.

MARK WHITE campaigning Saturday with San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros.

White complained that the bill could not be enforced and would promote discrimination, while Clements opposed the bill's employee sanctions and amnesty provisions.

"We needed to have a law that we can enforce," White said in a Laredo barrio where he was

"I'm very concerned that when a person goes and applies for a job that he not be told no because of the color of his skin, the shade of his skin," the Democrat added.

Clements, on the other hand, was worried that amnesty provisions in the bill would lead to an influx of immigrants.

"We're going to wake up with 4 million people we hadn't planned on," he said during a campaign stop in Amarillo. "People in Mexico are going to be turned on about coming into Texas."

Clements, a Republican, predicted that the bill will be challenged in the courts if signed into law by the president.

Decorating Colorful race faces at library

One of the best parts of Halloween for kids is being able to dress up in a costume, says Donna Jackson, children's librarian at the Howard County Library. Deciding whether to be a clown, witch or pirate is an important part of the big event.

The library will be adding to the festivities again this year with its annual face decorating program. Because of the big response last year, participation will be limited to 50 children. Parents may call the library, 267-5296, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. to register their children for the program.

Faces will be decorated from 3 to 5 p.m. Friday. The make-up used will be removable with soap and water and alcohol.

Because of the warnings on the make-up about possible allergic reactions, organizers are requesting that a permission form be signed by a parent, available at the library.

Girl treated for dog bites

A 12-year-old local girl, bitten by a dog, was treated and released from Scenic Mountain Medical Center, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Saundra Biddle of Sterling Road in the Southaven Addition suffered bites to her right arm and leg, sheriff's department reports said.

She was bitten by a chow dog named Max, owned by Chad Hall, no address listed. Biddle was playing at Hall's house at the time.

Proof of rabies vaccine was presented.

Clements denies White's charges. "If the people of Texas buy that kind of baloney, they are going to deserve just what they get," he said. Agencies should set priorities on programs and then he would suggest cuts after reviewing the lists. He has not listed specific cuts.

He also said that White called for several reductions in human service agency budgets during the recent special legislative sessions.

Meanwhile, White claims Clements is bluffing when he says the electric bills for his Dallas home have climbed 23.6 percent since 1982. "He's a liar," White said in an interview while flying between Southeast Texas campaign stops, pointing to Clements' picture in a news story about the bills.

Clements has refused to release copies of the bills, saying the amount of electricity he uses is a private matter.

White promised in the 1982 campaign to stop spiraling electric rates as governor. A report from the White-appointed Public Utility Commission says that most residential bills are down, although Clements said the report was tailored for White by his "lackeys" at the commission.

But White said Clements should not be believed until he produces the bills.

Clements also said White will usher in the state's first income tax. White broke 1982 campaign promises by pushing for 1984 and 1986 tax hikes, so he probably will push a state income tax, too, Clements said.

White said the first set of tax hikes were for public education reforms and better roads, and the second round was caused by an unforeseen oil-price drop. He promised to veto a state income tax.

Clements has promised not to raise taxes for the budget year ending in August 1987. Asked about a tax hike for the following two-year budget period, Clements said, "Let's cross one bridge at a time."

White said he does not know whether another tax hike will be necessary. "I cannot make that prediction."

Steers march to accolades

ODESSA — Big Spring Steer Marching Band members today are relishing a "first ever" accomplishment — they were certified Saturday to proceed to area competition.

Certification as one of the two top 4-A bands in the regional competition at Ratliff Stadium means the Steer Marching Band will return next Saturday to compete with other select 4-A bands.

Two 4-A bands at the November 1 competition will be selected to advance to state competition, in Austin Nov. 10.

Big Spring band director Ricky Mitchell was obviously pleased with the performance of his band Saturday, which he said was its first such certification.

All three judges awarded the local band superior ratings, he said.

Only Big Spring and Pecos bands were certified by the Saturday competition among 4-A entrants. Others competing were Andrews, Ft. Stockton and Monahans.

Mitchell is in his third year as director.

Big Spring will compete against certified bands from the Lubbock and El Paso regions next Saturday, Mitchell said.

The Big Spring High School Steer Marching Band, shown here during the Homecoming parade, will vie for a state contest berth as a result of its performance in Odessa Saturday. It marks a "first" for the Steer Marching Band.

The time of that performance will be announced Wednesday. The band performed three selections Saturday: Shine Down, Parade of the Wooden Soldiers, and Battle Hymn.

Continued from page 1A "Whatever the administration's recommendation ... we will be ready to actively bid for the SSC. We have an excellent group of Texans to guide us through the process to be totally competitive with any state in the nation," White said in a news release.

If constructed, scientists would use huge magnets to race and collide atoms through some 60 to 100 miles of underground tunnels.

Several local efforts across the state have cropped up to try and lure the laboratory to their area. Texas A&M University, the University of Texas at Austin, the University of Houston and Rice University have joined efforts to devise a more cost-efficient design for the project.

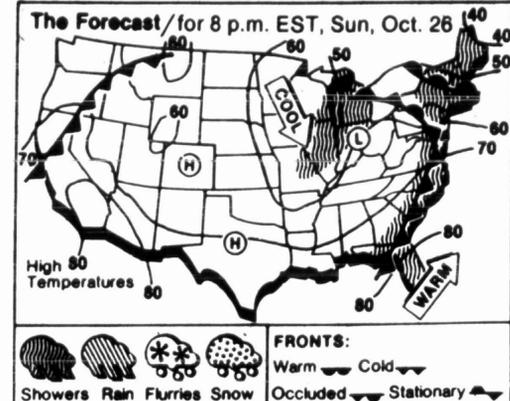

Wilson said the nine-member commission will probably meet in the next several weeks and devote their time to learning more about the project, the different local interests, and establishing contacts with federal officials.

"We're going to be watching Washington pretty closely," she said.

A slow-moving storm system centered over southern Illinois produced wet weather Saturday from the central Plains to the middle and southern Atlantic Coast, and a gale warning was posted for part of the Pacific Coast.

Rain extended from eastern Kansas and southeastern Nebraska across the Ohio Valley and lower Great Lakes to Virginia and Maryland.

Locally heavy rain and thundershowers were widespread from northern Florida across Georgia and eastern Tennessee to the Carolinas, and many streams in northern Georgia were at or near the top of their banks.

Since Friday night, Georgia had gotten 4.42 inches of rain at Dahlonega, 4.30 at Unicoi State Park, 4.20 at Dawsonville, and 4.23 at Cleveland. In South Carolina, Greenville got 1.01 inches in the six hours up to 2 p.m.

In Tennessee, Memphis had its heaviest 24-hour drenching, 2.24 inches, in 15 months. Rain there totaled 3.01 inches from early Thursday to mid-Saturday. While Memphis and other cities have gotten above-normal rain this month, across the state only about 26 inches has fallen this year, nearly 16 inches below normal, said National Weather Service meteorologist John Knack.

A Pacific storm system spread rain across the western sections of Washington and Oregon, and a gale warning was posted along the coast of northern California.

Afternoon temperatures were only in the 40s and 50s from the northern Plains across the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley to the middle Atlantic Coast region, with 30s over parts of North Dakota.

But temperatures in the 80s were reported over the Florida Peninsula and southern Texas, and in the 90s in the desert Southwest. Eureka, Calif., reached a record high of 75 degrees.

Boats a prison solution

ALBANY, N.Y. — A state commission has given preliminary approval to New York City's proposal to spend $5 million to turn a old Staten Island ferry boat into a floating jail to ease prison overcrowding.

The Commission of Correction voted 3-0 Friday to allow the city to go ahead with plans to convert the ferry Merrill into a jail for 162 prisoners within 60 days. The ferry would be docked at the city's 850-acre Rikers Island jail complex in the East River.

Fights broke out repeatedly a week ago at Rikers Island and prisoners barricaded a dormitory and broke windows in protests over jail conditions. About 10,000 prisoners are confined on the island.

The commission could give the ferry plan final approval in two weeks, after the city provides more detailed information about the project, said commission chairman William McMahon.

He said the commission wants the floating jail to be used only temporarily and needs to find out how long New York City wants to operate it.

If the floating jail turns out well, New York City has two more ferries ready for conversion to additional jail space, McMahon said.

Schultz security costly

WASHINGTON — A military jet took Secretary of State George P. Shultz to Boston for the fifth game of the World Series, and a published report said taxpayers will pick up the $11,000 tab.

A State Department spokesman said Saturday the secretary "traveled on a military aircraft for security reasons" and would reimburse the government for the amount it would have taken for a commercial flight since it was an unofficial trip.

The spokesman, Deborah Cavin, said she did not know how much Shultz would have had to pay to fly commercially, how much the government spent on the military jet flight or how much it would have cost to send Shultz's security detail on a commercial flight.

Normal round-trip commercial air fare between Washington and Boston is $148.

Subject of miracle dies

DEL HAVEN, N.J. — Michael Flanigan, whose recovery from cancer in 1963 was considered a miracle and led to the canonization of St. John Neumann, the first American male saint, has died at age 29.

Flanigan died Monday of a massive heart attack at his home. He was buried Friday at St. Mary's Cemetery in Cold Springs.

"He never had any problem with his heart," Flanigan's mother, Beatrice Flanigan of Villas, said of her son. "He's where God wanted him all along. We feel he's with St. John Neumann."

Panels of theologians and physicians had declared Flanigan's recovery from cancer at age 6 miraculous, the last step before the formality of a papal canonization in 1977 of Neumann, a 19th century Philadelphia bishop.

House ablaze

Eight die in Minneapolis

By TONY KENNEDY

Associated Press Writer

MINNEAPOLIS — A mother pitched her three young children from the second floor of a burning house, then leaped to the ground with her 1-year-old son in her arms, in a blaze early Saturday that killed eight people including five children.

"I really can't believe I threw them out," said Abigail Patton, 24, who was in good condition at Hennepin County Medical Center with a broken wrist and dislocated hip. "I was kind of pitching them out so they would hit the grass and leaves" instead of the sidewalk directly below the window.

"I just thank God we're living and my babies are safe and sound," Ms. Patton said from her hospital bed.

Ms. Patton and her four children, age 1 to 6, were the only occupants of the second floor of the duplex. All eight who died in the blaze, the worst in Minneapolis in more than 10 years, were sleeping on the main floor. Seven people, including Ms. Patton and two of her children, were injured.

A neighbor, Mavis Hollingsworth, said she was awakened by what sounded like an explosion or a window breaking. She said she then heard a woman screaming from the alley.

"She was saying, 'Somebody call! Somebody call!' I heard the screaming and called 911," Mrs. Hollingsworth said.

The dead were identified by the Hennepin County Medical Center as Joyce Ruff, 22; her sons Keven, who turned 1 Saturday, and Bryant, 4; her brother, Homer Ruff, 26; her three nephews, James Christopher Ruff, 7; Sean Ruff, 5; and Dwane Ruff, 3; and another first-floor resident, Judith Westfall, 23.

Craig Fuhs, an investigator with the medical examiner's office, said they all probably died of smoke inhalation.

Fire Department officials were investigating the blaze and said they had no immediate information on where or how it started.

Alvin Bradford, 45, was in critical condition in the burn unit at Hennepin County with burns over 22 percent of his body, a hospital supervisor said. A 24-year-old man was in satisfactory condition at Hennepin County, while two other people were treated and released.

Ms. Patton said two of her children, the 6-year-old and one of the 3-year-old twins, suffered broken wrists in the fall and the other two were unhurt.

She said she awoke shortly after 1 a.m. to check on her children, who were all sleeping in her bedroom. She noticed smoke and then ran to the front and back doors where she saw flames.

"I knew I couldn't go out the front way or out the back," Ms.

Patton said. "I'm glad I didn't panic. I thought, 'Don't panic, just get your babies out.'"

Deputy Fire Chief Bob Peterson said it was the worst fire in Minneapolis since a fire killed 13 or 14 people in the early 1970s. By the time firefighters arrived, the older wood-frame house was completely engulfed in flame, he said.

Youths' bomb kills 3

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain — A bomb left by two motorcycle-riding youths Saturday killed a local military governor, his wife and son as they waited at a traffic light here, police and reports said. Nine people were injured.

Later in the day, bombs exploded in two supermarkets and three car dealerships, injuring four people.

No group claimed responsibility for the attacks, but police officials who spoke on condition of anonymity blamed the Basque separatist organization ETA.

The explosions occurred on the seventh anniversary of a home rule statute that grants limited autonomy to the Basque region. The statute was approved by a majority of the 2.2 million Basques living in three northern provinces.

In Bilbao, 55 miles west of San Sebastian, between 15,000 and 20,000 people attended a rally organized by the political arm of ETA to demand independence for the region.

South Africa is ousted

GENEVA — Third World and Soviet bloc countries joined Saturday in ousting the South African government delegation from an International Red Cross conference, outpolling Western delegates who said the move threatened the organization's neutrality.

South Africa's Red Cross delegation, however, was allowed to remain for the rest of the weeklong conference, which began Thursday.

Kenya, in proposing the ouster, said South Africa's policy of apartheid, or racial segregation, violated Red Cross principles.

Israel obligated to peace

CAIRO, Egypt — President Hosni Mubarak said Saturday that Israel was obligated to seek peace with the Arabs through an international peace conference, despite new Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's opposition to such a forum.

Mubarak also told reporters Egypt remains opposed to construction of Israeli settlements in Arab lands occupied since the 1967 Middle East war.

Shamir, of the right-wing Likud bloc, took office in Israel on Monday in succession to Labor's Shimon Peres under a 1984 power-sharing agreement between their parties.

Brits seek declaration

LONDON — Britain has called on the Soviet Union to declare publicly its disapproval of state-backed terrorism, especially the attempted bombing of an Israeli jet, the Foreign Office said Saturday.

Britain has alleged that the government of Syria, the Soviet Union's most important ally in the Middle East, was involved in a plot to blow up an El Al jet with 375 people aboard at Heathrow Airport on April 17.

Britain broke diplomatic relations with Syria on Friday, hours after Jordanian Nezar Hindawi was convicted in the plot.

YOUR CHILDREN AND TAXES

The new tax law will affect not only you, but also your children. Here are some of the new rules.

It will be harder for parents to shift income from their higher tax brackets to their children's lower brackets. Starting in 1987, a minor child's (under age 14) unearned income in excess of $1,000 will be taxed at the parent's top tax rate if the income is from assets transferred by the parents to the child. The new law also gives a child only one exemption; if that exemption can be used on the parent's tax return, it is not allowed on the child's return. Under prior law, an exemption for the child could be taken on both the parent's and the child's tax returns.

A popular income-splitting device known as the Clifford Trust is rendered all but useless by the new law. Under prior law, a parent would transfer income-producing assets such as stocks or property to a Clifford Trust for a period of at least ten years and one day, making the child the beneficiary. The income produced by the property in the trust would be taxed at the child's lower tax rates. At the end of the ten-year period, the assets in the trust would revert to the parent. The parent would have the property back, and the child would have had income for various purposes during the ten-year period, all taxed at lower rates. The Tax Reform Act of 1986 provides that the income from a trust will be taxed to the person (parent) who transfers property to the trust if the property eventually reverts to that individual or his/her spouse.

It will be up to the parent to segregate the child's income if any comes from "non-parental sources." Income from assets gifted by the child's grandparent, for example, would be from a "qualified segregated asset" and would not be taxed at the parent's rates.

Another provision in the new law requires taxpayers to list on their tax returns the social security numbers of dependents over the age of five. This provision goes into effect January 1, 1988.

Opinion

It was a day for good news

Members of the news media often reap criticism because they are the bearers of "bad news."

Often it's debatable, however, what is good news and what is bad news. That's because what might be considered good news by one reader may be judged as bad news by another.

It must be admitted, however, that often the major news-making events of our times appear more bad than good. So when good news' days come, they seem to be a rarity.

In terms of local news, we consider Friday to be one of those "good news" days.

That description is the result of at least five major local stories.

Heading the list on Friday's front page of the Herald was the report that the Texas Highway Commission staff is recommending approval of funds to widen Highway 87 for a two-mile stretch south of Big Spring.

That's only a beginning, of course, because all of the two-lane portions of Highway 87 need to be widened to four lanes. But all important projects must begin somewhere.

Next came the report that a $650,000 grant has been awarded to Big Spring to repair flood damages.

In a third development, Big Spring Mayor Cotton Mize announced that a 10-member citizens' committee will be appointed to study the baffling high water bills issue. That committee then will make recommendations to city council.

That's a good move in the right direction — particularly since half of the committee's members will be appointed from the ranks of complaining customers.

A fourth article reported the appointment of Big Spring resident Johnnie Lou Avery to an important nine-member Texas task force. The group is charged with coordinating the effort to bring the proposed federal Superconducting Super Collider research project to a Texas site.

Avery's appointment particularly is significant in the effort to attract the project to a site near Garden City.

In the fifth development, area residents were advised that a second male prison is being considered for Big Spring. That facility could bring 80 to 110 new jobs, with its federal payroll, and more visitors to this community.

Although the idea for a females' institution here was shelved, the males' facility could mean 20 to 30 more jobs than the women's institution.

Each of these developments is a good sign for the city and Howard County. And all show that fruitful actions are resulting from much hard work by local residents.

In addition, the close of the same day brought word that both the Big Spring and Forsan football teams won their games. That means the Steers and Buffaloes appear headed for post-season playoff games.

Although such "good news" days seem to be a rarity, we agree that all of us could stand a few more like it.

Coahoma schools receive praise

To the editor:
On Monday evening, Oct. 20, I attended the open meeting at Coahoma School regarding the future of the school. During the meeting, one of those attending made the statement that the quality of education at Coahoma Schools is poor.

As a concerned parent and taxpayer, I am compelled to offer facts, not fiction, rumor, or personal opinion, in rebuttal of this totally false statement.

Fact: 100 percent of the teachers at Coahoma passed the state required TECAAT test.

Fact: 100 percent of the students required to take the TEAMS exit exam passed.

Fact: Between 30 and 35 percent of the 1986 graduating class of Coahoma High School received scholarships with a total dollar value in excess of $30,000. More Permian honor scholarships were awarded to Coahoma graduates than to any schools in the surrounding area, including Big Spring, Forsan, Stanton, and Garden City.

If this is indicative of "poor quality education," then it is my fervent prayer that every child in America should have the opportunity to be as "poorly educated" as Coahoma students.

I have had at least one child in the Coahoma Schools system since 1972. With very few exceptions I have found the administrators and teachers to be dedicated, concerned and caring individuals. The teachers have my utmost admiration and wholehearted support.

I am very proud to be a part of the Coahoma Schools.

"SHOOT MARTHA, THIS IS BETTER THAN ALL-STAR WRESTLING!"

Purveyor of babble stirs friendly assault from fan

By DARRELL BERKHEIMER

Some time ago, I chuckled through a bit of fan mail from a friend in Odessa, Florida Grauerholz, who sent me 16 definitions for the verb and noun forms of babble.

Grauerholz explained he wrote to point out that babble and babbling should be associated with sound or voice communication only — not the written word. "Babbling," he wrote, "is done by your mouth — not by a typewriter or a pencil."

He then listed the 16 definitions as proof of his contention. He said the verb babble means:

1. To utter inarticulate or indistinct sounds, like a child.
2. To talk childishly.
3. To talk incoherently.
4. To prattle.
5. To talk foolishly.
6. To utter meaningless words.
7. To talk excessively.
8. To chatter.

Grauerholz added the noun babble is:

9. Inarticulate speech, as of infants.
10. Idle, foolish or unreasonable talk.
11. Confused murmur, as of a stream.

And he said a babbler is:

12. A foolish or idle talker.
13. A chatterer.
14. A prating gossip.
15. A blabber.
16. And a hound that gives tongue too freely.

Grauerholz said these definitions "go back to 1460, 1510, 1530, 1562, 1580, 1688 and 1732."

Then, he asked, which definition do I prefer?

After days of serious consideration, I decided I like No. 7 best. After all, who wants to be considered childish, incoherent, foolish, meaningless, inarticulate, unreasonable, a blabber or a gossip?

But excessive? Ah, yes. Many of us are willing to admit that we talk too much. And I freely admit I'm guilty of babbling too much. For further verification, just ask my wife.

Grauerholz then asks which definition authorized me to babble with pen, pencil, typewriter or word processor?

"What will your column's new name be?" he wrote. "May I suggest: 'Berky's Bright Ideas'?"

Not a bad suggestion, except that I'm afraid I couldn't live up to that title. Too many of my ideas don't turn out that bright.

So that leaves three of his questions to answer. Will I change the name of my column? Why did I select the "babblings" title? And is Grauerholz right — does it apply only to sound or spoken words?

The first answer is easy. No, I won't change the name. And the reasons remain the same as the ones I had when I first selected it.

I chose the name about six years ago. I like it because I do have a tendency to babble on a given subject. I also admit I tend to get sidetracked on other tales that only partly relate to the main issue.

Berky's babblings

Also, I liked the choice of babblings because I speculated my readers might not get as angry when they disagreed with me — particularly when I write about a serious subject. Instead, I figured readers might just think, "Oh, well, he's just babbling."

The third question — am I incorrect in using that title for written material? — obviously is the toughest to answer since Grauerholz offers such a strong and well-researched argument. I'll try, anyway.

Notice how I wrote very early in this column that Grauerholz said what the word babble means. Technically, that was incorrect. He didn't say it, he wrote it.

Then, you might notice later how I introduced a couple of his questions by saying that he asked something. Again, technically, that's incorrect. Actually, he wrote a question that asked for or requested an answer.

But since it's awkward to say "he wrote a question that asked," we simply say "he asked."

These examples point out that we use words interchangeably to apply to the written word when they basically apply to speech. We — all of us — have been doing so for a long time.

So if we can use the words say and ask to apply to written materials, why can't I use babble as well?

I won't say Grauerholz is wrong. Technically, he's right. But I think I'm right, too.

And isn't that the best way to end a disagreement — by saying both sides are right?

The aliens bill and Texas

By JESSE TREVINO

Now that the immigration bill — raised from the dead in the last week of Congress — awaits the president's signature, what are the practical effects on Texas?

Contrary to popular press accounts, no immediate political or fiscal ramifications loom imminent, although the new law's effectiveness will be determined by how it is enforced.

No one knows how many illegal aliens reside here today. But no more — and probably many less — than one million live and work in Texas.

Only those here before Jan. 1, 1982, qualify for legal status, plus a smaller number involved in agriculture. Based on my experience, 60 percent, or 600,000, will be eligible for legal status and citizenship seven years later.

Of that total, only half — given their itinerant lifestyle — will be able to prove they've been here since before 1982. And of those 300,000, it would surprise me if anyone could convince 150,000 of them — who have been running from federal authorities for decades — to now come forward.

Thus, from an original pool of almost one million, 150,000 may become citizens during a seven-year period, with little impact on voter registration rolls.

Also, fears that public assistance rolls will swell are highly misplaced. Work was their reason for coming here, and guaranteed the right to work, they certainly will do so.

Many illegals, however, do spend some time between jobs. While worker families fall below the poverty line.

How the bill is enforced will determine whether it costs Texas any money. If legalized workers are allowed to bring in members of families beyond which their wages cannot support, then the possibility of public assistance increases.

Ironically, the increased costs associated with this bill are going to fall directly on consumers. A lack of these workers will contribute to increases in the cost of goods and services when higher paid workers drive production costs higher.

The federal government will pay, too, thus increasing Texans' indirect costs. The federal government will miss revenues claimed by workers who previously did not claim income tax refunds — which should grow more generous as the full benefits of tax reform take effect.

In addition, the immigration bill calls for as much as $1 billion to be paid to states affected by immigration costs.

Though population multiplier effects will occur as their families grow, it is difficult to see how the passage of the immigration bill will create a "rush" of problems.

Instead, the effects should be slow and balanced by their work productivity.

Higher public education costs may become a reality, however, when these workers have families or as their families grow, and should these newly legalized worker families fall below the poverty line.

Political ads show trend to nastiness

By JIM DAVIS
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Unless you're one of the few who seldom watches television, you've undoubtedly seen the nasty political advertisements that have marked this year's election campaign.

The ones in the governor's race definitely are the worst, but only because political money is so tight this year that lower-ballot races can't afford much TV time.

Political analysts say the nasty commercials we're seeing in Texas are part of a national trend in which the principal effort is to discredit the opponent rather than to build the candidate.

The trend has spawned all sorts of analysis and commentary about what it means for American politics: voter disillusionment, voter disgust, voter apathy.

Human nature being what it is, the candidates probably will ride this political horse until it drops. And I'll even help its demise by offering these suggested ads for use by this year's candidates:

DIRTY POLITICAL AD NO. 1

Scene: An empty stretch of beach in South Texas. Bill Clements faces the camera with his back to the water, which is all bright red, thanks to a special camera filter.

Clements (occasionally coughing and holding his nose, but always smiling): "Look at this, will you? A red tide is threatening the Texas coast, fouling the water, killing fish, stinking up the air. It's disgraceful!"

"We never had red tides when I (strong emphasis on the word 'I') was governor. Oh, a little harmless oil, maybe, but no red tides. The cause of this horrible happening can be traced directly back to 1982, when my opponent misled the voters into picking him over me."

"If that election travesty hadn't happened, we wouldn't be in this mess today. I want to assure you that Mark White is personally responsible for the red tide, and I ain't prevaricatin'."

(Camera pans to Clements' feet, where a small sandcrab has crawled up from the water's edge and died. A close-up shot shows "Vote for Bill" written on his shell.)

DIRTY POLITICAL AD NO. 2

First Scene: A Texas street, with an elderly woman coming slowly toward the camera with the aid of a walking cane. An actor made to look like Bill Clements approaches the woman and kicks the cane away from her, causing her to fall on the sidewalk. He picks up the cane and holds it over his head.

Clements Actor: "Who says there's no fat in the state budget? The state helped provide this cane to this woman, and she really doesn't need it. Look at her. She can crawl without it almost as fast as she walked with it." He cackles as the old woman cries and begs for the cane "that that nice Gov. White got for me." Scene fades.

Second Scene: A Texas classroom of first graders, all smiling and happily learning about astrophysics from their smiling and competent teacher, thanks to the Mark White education reforms. An actor looking like Clements crashes through the classroom door, an evil smirk on his face.

Clements Actor to Teacher: "What are you doing in that fancy dress? Why that must have cost $20 or $30." He throws her a dress made out of an old flour sack. "Go to the teachers' lounge and put this on. It's plenty good for the likes of you."

Clements Actor to Students: "What are you kids doing learning all this highfalutin stuff? You don't need to know astrophysics out in the oil fields, just be tough and be willing to work cheap to make guys like me rich."

(He jerks up several students and herds them toward the door.) "Now get out there and make your own way like I did. It'll be good for you." And in an aside to the camera, he smirks and says: "And good for guys like me, too."

Off-camera Announcer: "The preceding political announcements have been bought to you by the Bill Clements and Mark White campaigns, who share the slogan: 'Never let truth or good taste get in the way of a political ad.'"

Legislation for women fares well

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a series of stories examining what the 99th Congress did — and did not do

By JILL LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a good two years for women despite the failure of the 99th Congress to act on pay equity, parental leave and civil rights, according to the bipartisan Congressional Caucus on Women's Issues.

The greatest progress, the group said in an end-of-session assessment, was in the area of economic equity — including improvements in pensions, Medicaid and the tax code.

"While we didn't make a lot of noise this session, we did achieve a lot," said Azar Kattan, deputy director of the caucus of about 100 members. "We got wins on a wide range, things that will touch a lot of people — not just middle class women or lower class women, but everyone."

"There was a lot of unfortunate inaction on some things," she added. "But we'll be back again next year in full force."

The caucus cited the following legislative victories for women:

THE 99th CONGRESS

- Tax reform. Many provisions will benefit lower-income families, the vast majority of which are headed by women. They include expansion of the earned income tax credit and closing the gap between the standard deduction permitted for married couples and single heads-of-household.

- Higher education amendments. New provisions will help non-traditional students such as single mothers or older women, including grants for less than half-time students and child care services for low-income students.

- Health insurance continuation. Part of the budget reconciliation bill requires a three-year continuation of employment-based health coverage for widows, divorced spouses, Medicare-eligible spouses of retired workers and their dependent children.

- Medicaid coverage. Regulations will permit states to cover health care for pregnant women and infants with incomes below poverty level but not low enough to qualify for welfare. The Maternal and Child Health block grant will be increased.

- Private pension reform. Included in the tax bill, these provisions reduce the number of years required for vesting and expand the number of employees that must be covered by a firm's pension plan.

- Military pension reform. Among other changes, state courts may award the military pension survivor's benefit to a former spouse, and a surviving spouse may remarry at 55 instead of 60 without losing benefits.

- Federal rape laws. The statute now recognizes marital rape as a crime.

On the down side, the caucus said, the Senate failed to act on three House-passed bills: a study of pay inequities in the 2.1 million Civil Service work force, an 18-rung system with women and minorities concentrated at the bottom; grants for child care programs in public housing projects; and a training and education demonstration program for welfare mothers.

In addition, neither chamber acted on a parental and medical leave bill that would have mandated unpaid leaves for parents of newborn, newly adopted or seriously ill children and employees with serious medical problems of their own; and the Civil Rights Restoration Act, which would have broadened civil rights requirements for institutions receiving federal funds.

Fiscal austerity killed some of the measures while the political climate stalled others. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce and other business interests successfully campaigned against the pay equity study and the parental leave act.

Wolf spiders must dance to find mate

ALBION, Mich. (AP) — Music may enhance romance in the human world, but the right song-and-dance routine is a matter of life and death for wolf spiders, a biologist says.

Albion College researchers have found that two nearly identical species of the common wolf spider can't interbreed only because the males sing and dance differently.

Male spiders don't care which species they breed with, but the female does, said Gail E. Stratton, an assistant professor of biology.

"I only had one female out of 100 that didn't care," she said Thursday. The spiders use their legs and mouths to create distinct routines, she said. One species does a series of bounces while making a staccato buzzing sound, while the other walks around and makes a rapid rattling sound, she said.

The female, when confronted with the advances of a male from the other species, frequently attacked and ate her suitor, or else ran away, Stratton said.

HORSING AROUND WITH CONTACT LENSES

Do some people really buy diamond studded collars for dogs? How about hot tubs for hamsters, braces for box turtles and face-lifts for fox terriers? That's what I read in the AOA News — along with the information that contact lenses are now available for horses. Actually, the idea isn't as silly as it sounds. Eye injuries account for about 10 percent of all injuries to horses. Old methods of treating these injuries were not always successful, so Lamont Brown of Denton, Tx. did something about the problem. He developed a contact lens material that is 72 percent water. The lens can be soaked in medication, inserted into the horse's injured eye and left there for as long as 30 days. Since the horse doesn't know the lens is there, he doesn't try to dislodge it by rubbing his head on trees and fence posts as was the case with old methods of treatment. Mr. Brown says his product has been the target of some jokes but most feedback has been along the line of "why didn't I think of that." He's right. Why didn't I think of that?

Students view film on drinking

The Future Homemakers of America is one of the largest clubs in our school, with some 60 members involved in projects throughout the year.

One of the recent projects was Students Against Driving Drunk. A film was shown to the student body and some of the students reactions were very positive. Jena Miller, for example, stated "We need to be more aware of our friends who may need help." Kody Newman felt that perhaps the Contract for Life plan could work because it would let kids know that their parents really care.

The poster, "If you drink before you drive, be sure you kiss your mother goodbye." really makes a person think. "Hopefully, we will have no stupid drunk drivers if we all do our part: Don't drink and drive and don't allow a friend to drink and drive." was the consensus of all viewers interviewed.

The annual S.I.S.D. open house for all grades was Tuesday night, Oct. 21, from 7:00-8:00 p.m. This was an opportunity for every student's parents to have a special time to visit and confer with teachers in the district.

Wayne Mitchell, S.I.S.D. superintendent, stated that he was most gratified by parents obvious interest in the educational well-being of their community, in that there was an excellent turnout despite inclement weather. Mr. Mitchell continued, "S.I.S.D. open house is held each year following the end of the first six weeks of school. Consequently, this open house date does not always coincide with the National School Week observation."

Mrs. Yater, high school counselor, administered this year's Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude test to approximately one half of this year's junior class. The 'practice' test is given every year about this time to enable classified juniors to prepare for the various other college entrance exams in their senior year.

The PSAT provides the student the opportunity to qualify for National Merit Scholarships. Mrs. Yater said she is hopeful "we will have one of our students make a sufficiently high score on the test to receive a full scholarship."

Those taking the test were: Greg Avery, Jody Brandenberger, Billy Cox, Dana Davis, Reggie Franklin, Kristi Fryar, Val Flores, Skip Hopkins, Edward Hernandez, Vickie Jeffcoat, Paula Jones, Tonya Linscomb, Jena Miller, Robert Schoolcraft, Raymond Straub, Jill Todd, Julie Vann, Joshua Vidal, Julie Wheeler, Sheri Williams, Rusty White, and Kyle Yater.

Sad Bosox pardon Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets rallied three times and pushed the World Series to a decisive seventh game Saturday night when they scored three runs in the 10th inning, with the tie-breaking run scoring on Bill Buckner's error, to beat the Boston Red Sox 6-5.

Dave Henderson homered in Boston's two-run 10th inning and the Red Sox took a 5-3 lead that looked like it would send them to their first World Series title in 68 years.

Clemens, Boston's 24-game winner, was not the overpowering pitcher the Red Sox were used to seeing during the regular season. He struggled at times, but, pitching on five days' rest, he had plenty on this occasion except for the fifth when the Mets got their first hits.

Clemens, who got no decision in the Red Sox's Game 2 victory, struck out eight, six in the first three innings, and allowed four hits while walking two before leaving after seven innings. One of the Mets' fifth-inning runs was unearned on an error by right fielder Evans, who made only two during the regular season.

Henderson's home run came on an 0-1 count against Rick Aguilera, the fourth Mets pitcher, and led off the 10th.

It was Henderson's two-strike, two-out homer in Game 5 of the American League playoffs against California that allowed the Red Sox to turn around that series and win their first AL pennant since 1975. Henderson has played each of the World Series games in place of the injured Tony Armas, and he has made much of the opportunity. The RBI was his fifth of the series and he also homered in Boston's Game 2 victory.

Marty Barrett singled in another run in the 10th to put the Red Sox ahead 5-3.

The Red Sox took a 3-2 lead in the seventh with an unearned run after an error by third baseman Knight. The Mets tied the score for the second time with a run off Schiraldi in the eighth.

After the homer, Aguilera struck out Spike Owen and Schiraldi, then allowed a two-out run on a double by Wade Boggs and a single by Barrett, who had three hits and two RBI and also raced home with an unearned run in the seventh that put the Red Sox ahead 3-2. It was Barrett's 12th hit, tying the record for a six-game series set by the New York Yankees' Billy Martin in 1953.

But the Mets, who had to come from a 2-0 deficit to tie this best-of-seven series once before, tied it for a second time with the help of three consecutive two-out singles in the 10th that chased Boston reliever Calvin Schiraldi.

Schiraldi got the first two outs of the 10th on fly balls, bringing up Gary Carter, who singled to left. Pinch-hitter Kevin Mitchell, a rookie, followed with a single to center that sent Carter to second. Ray Knight, whose seventh-inning error cost the Mets a run, then hit a looping single to center that scored Carter and sent Mitchell to third.

Mets tenth: Backman flied out to Rice in left on an 0-2 pitch. Hernandez lined out to Henderson on the centerfield warning track. Carter lined a single to left. Mitchell, pinch hitting for Aguilera, lined a single to left-center. Carter to second. Pitching coach Bill Fischer went to the mound to talk to Schiraldi.

Knight lined a single to center on an 0-2 pitch. Carter scored. Mitchell to third. Stanley relieved Schiraldi. On a 2-2 pitch, after Wilson fouled off two pitches, Stanley threw a wild pitch. Mitchell scored. Knight to second. Wilson grounded a 3-2 pitch down the first base line through Buckner's legs. Knight scored. Mets 6, Red Sox 5.

Boston Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens pitches against the New York Mets during first inning action in the sixth game of the World Series at New York's Shea Stadium Saturday night.

Bama loss hurts real, real bad

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

Depression has a way of setting in gradually. You get farther and farther down in the dumps — before you notice it, you're there. For instance, at 2:30 Saturday afternoon I was reasonably happy, or at least I wasn't paying attention to my mood, which is pretty much the same thing.

At around 2:50, I started to feel things weren't as they should be, and it made me uncomfortable. About half an hour later, I started wolfing down some cookies my sister sent me, but they didn't help. I was bummed and things were getting worse.

At four or so, I added angry to depressed, which actually makes it better. At least you stand and allow the blood to flow from your behind when you're angry.

The object of my bad afternoon? The Alabama Crimson Tide.

The Tide galloped into Bryant-Denny Stadium in Tuscaloosa this afternoon in a sea of mighty crimson, ranked second in the nation. Two years ago, Alabama was in the midst of what would be its first losing season since the year 02 B.B. (Before Bear). That year, some intolerant 'Bama fans applied a subtle hint to put a little fire under coach Ray Perkins' britches. They rented a moving van and parked it in front of his house.

That year, and even last year, wasn't easy. You see, Alabama fans expect undefeated seasons like a little Rockefeller expects his allowance. If he doesn't get it, he behaves like a five-year old torn from his sucker.

And I'm as bad as the next guy. Many years ago, and I've conveniently forgotten the exact year, an undefeated Alabama squad met a once-defeated Notre Dame team in the Sugar Bowl. My parents went to the game in nearby New Orleans, and left me and my brother with grandma.

Grandma was proud of her well-mannered grandkids. Unfortunately for Grandma's expectations, Bama lost 24-23 to the Fighting Irish in what many consider the greatest college football game of all time. The greatness of the game doesn't console me now, nor did it then.

I was about 12 at the time, and my belief in the power of four-letter words was at a peak. I liked the way they sounded, even if I wasn't all so aware of their meanings. When the gun sounded and Notre Damn (that's intentional) coach Ara Parsegian hopped on his players' shoulders and stole the Bear's glory, me and my little brother let Grandma's ears have it full blast.

We lost it. Red in the face and hoarse, we screamed the four-letter words. Grandma came down to the basement to see what was wrong. "Alabama lost!" we explained. She begged us to stop cursing, and so loudly; "Please calm down," she asked of her little jewels.

She just didn't understand the gravity of the tragedy, and I think she might have docked us $5 on our next birthday check, which amounted to half.

Although I've grown up, perhaps it's been more a physical than a mental process. Today's loss to Penn State got to me. I didn't shout dirty words more than once or twice, but that's due partly to the fact that the game was over early. Penn State, and this isn't an easy thing to say, was the... Penn State, they were the... today, Papapenn Stastate wawas the... Babababetteer team.

Wait a minute. Maybe Penn State wasn't the better team. I've got a few excuses I'd like to air. (I'm sick of people saying in the same breath that the officiating was bad but that I don't make excuses, and also our quarterback has the flu. When it comes to arguing for Alabama, I'll make excuses if they're there and necessary.)

For Penn State, the Alabama game was like a bowl game — they had six weeks to prepare. Let's play a game. I'll tell you each of Penn State's six previous opponents, and you tell me their nickname, mascot, etc.

I say Temple, you say ????. I say Boston College, you say ????. I say East Carolina, you say who?; I say Rutgers, you say ????. I say Cincinnati, you say .Reds?, Bengals?; I say Syracuse, maybe you say Orange Men.

C'mon Joe Paterno, where's your guts. Be a man. We've got an angry Angelo State squad up the road and they have an open week on their schedule and need a game.

Now for the Crimson Tide's brutal schedule. The Ohio State Buckeyes, the Vanderbilt (okay) Commodores, the Southern Miss (I'll help) Golden Eagles, the Florida Gators, the Notre Dame Fighting Irish, Memphis state, and the Tennessee Volunteers.

Most all are tough, and Alabama still has to play Auburn, LSU, Mississippi State and, thank the Lord, Temple.

Sports Illustrated, a magazine which, by the way, loves Notre Dame, eastern teams, and little else, ranked Penn State second, but at least they explained. They wrote:

"By the time the Tide plays Penn State, Alabama will have spent itself coping with Ohio State, Florida, Notre Dame and Tennessee. The Lions will have spent themselves coping with East Carolina."

Well put. It's time to switch gears and quit chewing sour grapes and crying over spilled milk. Here are a few items on the Steers:

The Steers will make the playoffs if they can beat Andrews and Snyder, and come within 13 points of Monahans. Although we hope no such tie-breaker will be necessary, and the Steers whip Monahans outright, the points could come into play if Big Spring loses.

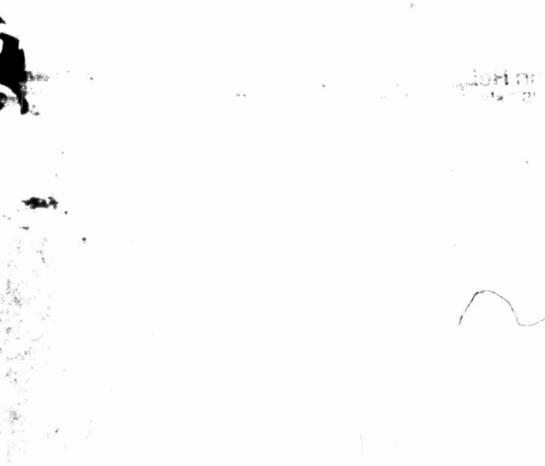

If Big Spring, Sweetwater and Monahans each finish with one district loss, the two playoff spots will go to the teams with the best point differentials against the others. The Steers beat Sweetwater by five, so they're up five. Sweetwater lost by five, but beat Monahans by 20, so the Mustangs are up 15. Monahans is down 20. If Monahans was to win by 13, the Lobos would then be down seven, and the Steers would be down eight. Probably none of this will matter, but if Monahans did happen to get a big lead, you can bet the Steers will be playing to beat that 13...

It seems like every time Steers' defensive back Brian Mayfield gets the ball, he goes for big yards. Against Estacado, he decided not to punt and ran over 80 yards for a touchdown. Against Pecos, he returned a kickoff 23 yards, and later snagged an interception and raced 66 yards for the score. I wonder what his yards per carry is...

The Steers played like they just got off a bad rollercoaster in the first half Friday night, but the Steers' band sure didn't at half-time. They did a version of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" that brought the Pecos fans to their feet in applause. It wasn't much of a surprise to see the Steers' band qualified in Odessa Saturday for area competition. If it means anything, I recommend they stick with that "Battle Hymn" — what a version.

Big Spring High School swimmer Angela Sinclair competes in the 100-meter butterfly event during a swim meet with Andrews Saturday morning, held at the Big Spring YMCA. The girls beat Andrews 43-26, but the boys lost 47-33 in the duel meet. For complete results see Scoreboard, page 3-B.

Clothed Simmons leads Longhorns past Stangs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Jeff Ward kicked a 40-yard field goal with 16 seconds left in the game Saturday to spoil a Southern Methodist comeback and give Texas a 27-24 upset victory over the No. 18-ranked Mustangs.

Texas tailback Edwin Simmons, starting his first game in three years, scored on touchdown runs of 1 and 13 yards in the first half, and quarterback Brett Stafford tallied on a 4-yard run in the third quarter as Texas took a 21-7 lead.

A Ward field goal of 45 yards with 12:35 left in the game built Texas' lead to 24-7 before a crowd of 65,481 in the Southwest Conference game.

On the first play after the kickoff, however, SMU quarterback Bobby Watters threw to flanker Ron Morris, grabbed the ball at the Texas 40 and raced into the end zone on a 66-yard touchdown play.

SMU pulled even closer when Texas freshman punter Alex Waits knelt on the ground to pick up a fumbled low snap and was called down at the Texas 18. SMU kicker Brandy Brownlee kicked a 35-yard field goal to make it 24-17 with 9:22 left in the fourth quarter.

After a Texas punt, Watters guided SMU 84 yards and threw a 14-yard touchdown pass to split end Jeffrey Jacobs with 5:33 to go.

In that drive, an apparent interception by Texas cornerback Stephen Bragg was disallowed as the ball rolled away when he hit the ground.

The victory evens the unranked Longhorns' season record at 3-3 and 2-1 in the SWC. SMU, ineligible for conference honors because of NCAA penalties, lost for the first time after four SWC victories and is now 5-2 on the season.

Lady Steers fall to Lamesa

The Big Spring Lady Steers registered 20 more points against the Lamesa Lady Tornados than they did the first time the two teams met in Lamesa. Though the improvement was significant, the Lady Steers fell 15-8, 16-14 in Steer gym Saturday.

In Lamesa earlier in the year, the Lady Steers fell 15-0, 15-2 to the powerful Tornados.

"I felt we played well. Lamesa drummed us the last time, and the girls performed well today," said Lady Steers head coach Elaine Stone.

Monique Mason, who Stone called the best spiker in the district, had 15 spikes and 10 good hits in the match. When Mason received a good set, there was little the Lady Steers could do to stop her accurate, fiercely hit slams.

Lisa Hale won four points on serve in each game to lead the team in that category. Stone said Michelle LaGrand did a good job of going in on the back row, and she also cited the play of Cary Brooks and Kathryn Burrow.

The Lady Steers fell to 3-11 in the district and 8-16 overall. They play at Sweetwater Tuesday. Though Big Spring lost earlier in the year at Steer gym, Stone said her team will be competitive Tuesday.

Steers' frosh whip baby Eagles

The Big Spring Steers freshman football team followed the varsity's lead, and defeated the Pecos freshman 21-8 Saturday at Memorial Stadium.

Chris Coles scored first on a one yard run, and Mike Hilario scored the second touchdown on a 20-yard scamper. Terry Bailey capped the Steers' scoring with an eight yard run. Coles kicked all three PAT's.

Bearkats' remain winless

The Garden City Bearkats fumbled four times, and fell 28-7 at Water Valley Friday night in District 6-A action.

Both teams were winless in district action before the game. The Bearkats dropped to 0-8.

Garden City fared well in the battle of the stats, with 11 first downs — one fewer than Water Valley, and 125 yards rushing, the same as Water Valley. But Water Valley lost just one fumble to Garden City's four.

Next week the Bearkats play Miles at Garden City.

Steers' harriers place in Midland

The Big Spring Steers' girls' and boys' cross country teams competed Saturday in the Midland I.S.D. Invitational, and J.V. runner James McMillan's third place finish in the J.V. division was the Steers' best performance.

The Lady Steers finished eighth out of nine teams. Approximately 50 girls ran the two-mile course, and sophomore Manuela Bernal led the Steers' with a ninth place finish. Helga Lysaught finished 37th, and she was followed in the 38th and 39th places by teammates Rachel Alviar and Kaya McMillan. Caroline Mills finished 41st, and Carmen Charvarria finished 45th.

The boys' varsity wasn't at full strength, with two runners sick and two injured. Mario Gonzales' 10th place finish led the Steers. Albert Garza finished 20th, and Mike Valli and Calvin Harrison also ran.

No-Tap singles tourney planned

Top twenty to see big changes after wild weekend

By The Associated Press
 Second-ranked Alabama and third-ranked Nebraska were beaten on a college football Saturday that figured to shake up the Top Twenty.

The Crimson Tide was beaten in a 23-3 runaway by No. 6 Penn State and Nebraska lost to unheralded Colorado 20-10 in a Big Eight shocker that keyed a day filled with surprises.

Texas edged No. 18 SMU 27-24 and Southern Cal shut down No. 19 Stanford 10-0 in other games while No. 20 North Carolina State posted a relatively easy 27-3 win over No. 16 Clemson.

In other afternoon games involving the nation's ranked teams, No. 4 Michigan crushed Indiana 38-14, No. 5 Oklahoma blanked Iowa State 38-0, No. 8 Washington routed Oregon 38-3, No. 10 Texas A&M beat Rice 45-10, No. 11 Iowa edged Northwestern 27-20 and No. 17 UCLA crushed Washington State 54-16.

In night games involving the Top Twenty, it was No. 7 Auburn at No. 13 Mississippi State, Utah at No. 9 Arizona State, North Carolina at No. 12 Louisiana State, No. 14 Arkansas at Houston and California at No. 15 Arizona.

No. 4 Michigan 38, Indiana 14
 Fullback Bob Perryman ran for two touchdowns and quarterback Jim Harbaugh ran for one TD and passed for 300 yards and another score, leading Michigan over Indiana.

The Wolverines, 4-0 in the Big Ten Conference and 7-0 overall, dominated the entire game, rolling to a 35-0 halftime lead and coasting the rest of the way.

Harbaugh, ranked second nationally in passing efficiency going into the game, completed 16 of 24 attempts, including nine of 16 for 178 yards in the first half.

No. 5 Oklahoma 38, Iowa St. 0
 Lydell Carr ignited a sluggish Oklahoma offense with a 61-yard run and tight end Keith Jackson caught a 69-yard touchdown pass to lead the Sooners past Iowa State.

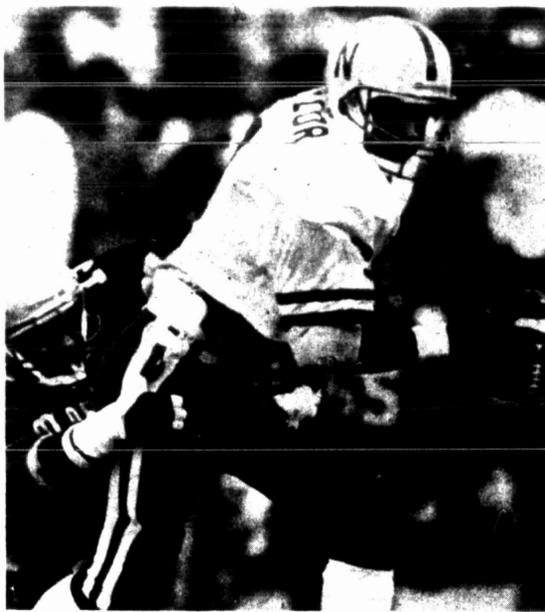

Carr broke loose on his long run to the Iowa State 21 after the Sooners were limited to a minus-seven yards on their first two possessions. Four plays later, quarterback Jamelle Hollieway scored on a 7-yard run to trigger the Sooners to a 17-0 halftime lead and their sixth victory in seven games.

The Oklahoma defense Iowa State's offense to four yards rushing in the first half and 67 total yards for the game and didn't allow the Cyclones past midfield. Oklahoma notched its third shutout of the season and extended its long domination in the series. The Sooners haven't lost to Iowa State since 1961 and leads the series 53-4-2.

No. 8 Washington 38, Oregon 3
 Quarterback Chris Chandler ran for two touchdowns and passed for a third to lead Washington over Oregon. Chandler scored on runs of nine yards in the first quarter and six yards in the fourth quarter and passed one yard to tight end Rod Jones for a TD in the third period.

Washington stuck mainly to the ground in handing Coach Don James his 99th coaching victory with the Huskies to tie Jim Owens' school victory record.

No. 11 Iowa 27, Northwestern 20

 Nebraska quarterback Steve Taylor looks for help as he is tackled in his own backfield by Colorado's Mickey Pruitt (19) during second quarter action in Saturday's game in Boulder. Taylor fumbled on the play and Colorado recovered.

Defensive end Mike Burke recovered a David Greenfield fumble in the end zone for the go-ahead touchdown as Iowa beat by Northwestern. Defensive tackle Myron Kappy hit Northwestern quarterback Greenfield from behind at the goal line and Burke recovered the ball in the air to put Iowa ahead 24-17 in the third quarter. Northwestern, trailing 17-10 at the half, had taken the opening kickoff of the second half and had gone 69 yards in five plays to tie the score on a 34-yard screen pass from Greenfield to Claudell Robertson.

No. 20 N. Carolina St. 27, No. 16 Clemson 3
 Haywood Jeffries caught a short scoring pass and added a 62-yard touchdown run to lead North Carolina State over Clemson.

The Wolfpack led by 14 points at intermission and put the game away early in the second half when Jeffries went 62 yards on a reverse on the first play following a 48-yard Clemson punt.

N.C. State's victory snapped a five-game Clemson winning streak over the Wolfpack. N.C. State last beat Clemson 24-20 in 1980.

No. 17 UCLA 54, Washington St. 16
 James Primus and Gaston Green combined for five rushing touchdowns as UCLA roared back from an early nine-point deficit to overwhelm Washington State.

Primus, who gained 78 yards on 15 carries, scored on his first two rushing attempts of the game, from 36 yards out late in the second quarter and on a 1-yard plunge early in the third quarter. He also put the finishing touches on the rout with a 2-yard touchdown run with 1:21 left.

Green, who led all rushers with 162 yards on 24 carries, scored on runs of 18 and 2 yards.

Southern Cal 10, No. 19 Stanford 0
 Cornerback Louis Brock set up the game's only touchdown with a 40-yard interception return as Southern Cal's Trojans beat Stanford with their best defense of the season.

 Quarterback Rodney Peete hit split end Erik Affholter on an 18-yard touchdown pass in the second period, four plays after the interception by Brock. The son of former baseball star Lou Brock picked off a pass which John Payne, Stanford's quarterback, aimed at wide receiver Jeff James on the left sideline.

Others
 In other action, John Congemi completed 30 of 43 passes for a school-record 446 yards and five touchdowns, three to former defensive back Keith Tinsley, as Pittsburgh ripped Navy 56-14. Congemi broke Matt Cavanaugh's previous Pitt single-game passing record of 387 yards late in the third period, then left the game after hitting Tinsley on a 28-yard completion with 13:50 to go in the game.

Tim Vesling's 32-yard field goal as time expired carried Syracuse to a 27-24 upset over Temple. Vesling's field goal capped a 69-yard drive by the Orangemen, who survived two Temple comebacks and ruined another brilliant afternoon by Paul Palmer.

Palmer, who went into the game as the nation's leading rusher and all-purpose runner, scored a pair of touchdowns and gained 187 yards on 39 carries. His performance broke by one yard the NCAA three-game consecutive rushing record of 774 yards set by Michigan State's Eric Allen in 1971.

Bears eat Horned Frogs on Carlson led comeback

FORT WORTH, (AP) — Baylor Coach Grant Teaff said his team needed a big second half against Texas Christian Saturday after two quarters in which "we shot ourselves in the foot — over and over."

Baylor quarterback Cody Carlson provided the spark.

Carlson, in a record-setting day, threw three touchdown passes of 72 yards to John Simpson and 86 yards to Derrick McAdoo that brought the Bears a 28-17 comeback from behind Southwest Conference victory over the upset-inclined Horned Frogs.

After three quarters, Baylor had the ball 32 minutes to only 13 minutes for TCU. Yet the Horned Frogs led 17-14, thanks to a pass interception and a pair of crucial Baylor fumbles.

"I was really impressed with the way TCU played. They put a lot behind them and came out fighting," Teaff said.

"We may have looked flat, but our mistakes were what made us look that way. I guess you could say we shot ourselves in the foot — over and over."

TCU Coach Jim Wacker said, "Well, it was another bad day at Black Rock" but said he was proud of his team's effort.

"We're getting better and better every week, especially on defense. ... For the fifth week in a row, we go into the fourth quarter with a great chance to win the football game," Wacker said.

The TCU coach praised Carlson's quarterback play also. The long TD passes came as TCU put on a maximum blitz in an attempt to deny Carlson time to throw, Wacker said.

With the victory, Baylor improved its record to 3-2 in SWC play and 5-3 for the season. TCU dropped its fourth straight league game and fell to 2-5 for the year.

Carlson also threw a 13-yard touchdown pass to Randy Rutledge in the first quarter, and the three TD passes gave him 31 for his career, breaking the old Baylor record of 29 set by Tom Muecke and Terry Southall.

TCU tied the game 7-7 with 2:23 left in the first half on Bobby Davis' 7-yard run, which came on the fifth play after Carlson was sacked and fumbled at the Baylor 22.

Moments later, Jim Mueller got off only a 14-yard punt, and TCU took over at its own 43. David Rascoe's 21-yard pass to Jarrod Dulaney got the Frogs in position for Lee Newman's 37-yard field goal and a 10-7 lead with eight seconds left in the first half.

Carlson fumbled at the Baylor 17 in the third quarter, and Rascoe scored on a 6-yard run four plays later, widening the TCU lead to 17-7.

McAdoo's 1-yard run brought Baylor to within 17-14 in the third quarter.

Carlson completed 16 of 25 passes for 312 yards and three touchdowns, with one interception.

Blocking for Decker are Matt Burrow (77), Kyle Carroll (74) and Charlie Ogle (54). The Eagles' Rafael Natividad (88) hones in on Decker.

The men from Penn flush the Tide

The mighty Lions make title bid with 23-3 drubbing of Bama

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Joe Paterno isn't sure yet that his Penn State team deserves to be ranked No. 1. But one thing's for certain — Alabama doesn't.

Sixth-ranked Penn State took care of that Saturday and turned No. 2 Alabama's national championship dream into a nightmare with a convincing 23-3 drubbing of the favored Crimson Tide.

"I don't know who's No. 1," said Paterno, whose 194th career triumph tied him with Howard Jones for 12th place on the all-time major-college list. "When all is said and done we'll find out. I don't know how good we are, but we're good. We've got a mighty fine team and somebody will have to play awfully well to beat us."

Alabama didn't. The Crimson Tide committed five turnovers and quarterback Mike Shula, who was under siege and off-target most of the afternoon, was sacked five times.

Tailbacks D.J. Dozier and Blair Thomas capped long second-period drives with touchdown runs of 19 and three yards as the Nittany Lions silenced those critics who had ridiculed their first six opponents as nobodies.

Dozier, a senior, and then Thomas, a sophomore, took command of drives covering 65 and 77 yards after Penn State was held without a first down on its first two possessions.

Dozier caught a screen pass for 24 yards and later carried three times for 29, bursting through the middle and scoring untouched from 19 yards out on the first play of the second period to give Penn State a 7-3 lead. The 65-yard drive took six plays after Jim Coates' 16-yard punt return.

Cornerback Eddie Johnson's interception of an underthrown pass by Shula at the Penn State 23 stalled an Alabama drive six minutes into the period and Penn State marched 77 yards in seven plays.

Thomas reeled off gains of 16 and 29 yards before scoring around right end from three yards out on a double reverse that started with a handoff from quarterback John Shaffer to Dozier. The touchdown made it 14-3 at 8:46.

That was all the Nittany Lions needed to end the nation's longest unbeaten streak at 13 games. Massimo Manca later kicked field goals of 37 yards in the third period and 29 and 42 yards in the fourth quarter, each of which triggered chants of "We're No. 1" from the 5,000 Penn State supporters in the sellout Bryant-Denny Stadium crowd of 60,210.

Penn State's Don Graham (53) forces Alabama quarterback Mike Shula to fumble in the first quarter Saturday in Tuscaloosa. Alabama recovered the ball for a nine-yard loss.

The Nittany Lions, who have won their last 18 regular-season games, are 7-0. Alabama, which had shared the nation's longest winning streak with Michigan at 10 games, is 7-1.

"I thought going in we were better than Alabama," Paterno said. "I felt we might be a little bit stronger and probably just as quick in a lot of key spots. I knew we were going to be ready to play. We have been looking forward to this game for a long time."

Despite the worst beating in his four years at Alabama, Coach Ray Perkins stopped short of rating Penn State No. 1.

"I said during the week they were a great team and they went about things today like a great team," he said. "I said they deserve to be in the top five teams in the country and I think there's no question about that after today. They're by far the best team we've played since we've been here."

"Mike Shula missed some throws. He didn't have his best day. But we had trouble protecting the passer. It's tough for him when he has to dodge those bullets."

Alabama took a 3-0 lead at 6:53 of the opening period on Van Tiffin's 40-yard field goal. But fullback Bo Wright's fumble on the game's fourth play was recovered by Penn State cornerback Duffy Cobbs at the Lions' 44 and tailback Bobby Humphrey fumbled on fourth-and-one at the Penn State 37 with 12:10 left to play and Alabama still within range at 17-3.

Outside linebacker Don Graham sacked Shula three times, including one for 12 yards on the first play after Cornelius Bennett recovered a fumble by Thomas at the Penn State 39 with 13:54 remaining. That was Penn State's only turnover.

Students go nuts after Buff's shock Huskers

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Resorting to a little reverse psychology, Colorado football Coach Bill McCartney, who had hyped his team's rivalry with Nebraska the previous four years, downplayed the game this week, saying it didn't really qualify as a rivalry because of the discrepancy between the two programs.

It qualifies now. Thousands of Colorado students stormed the field and tore down both goal posts Saturday as the Buffaloes upset the third-ranked Cornhuskers 20-10. It represented the first CU defeat of Nebraska since before many of the students were born, and the first CU win over the Huskers in Boulder since the Eisenhower administration.

Jeff Campbell dashed 39 yards on a reverse for a touchdown and halfback O.C. Oliver fired a 52-yard pass to Lance Carl for another as Colorado used trick plays and an aroused defense to keep its Big Eight record unscathed.

"This is a moment in our program we'll always cherish," said McCartney. "Up to this point I don't think we've beaten a great team. We did today. And I think we have a rivalry now." "It took trick plays to win this game," said quarterback Mark Hatcher. "But whatever it takes...it's the biggest win I've ever been a part of. We knew it was going to take all we had."

Nose tackle Kyle Rappold, the anchor of a swarming Colorado defense, said, "This is the best team, the best feeling, the best win I've ever been associated with. When we stopped them on the first series of the second half, I saw doubt in their eyes. It was disbelief."

The Colorado defense held Nebraska, which came into the game averaging 444 yards per outing, to 246.

"Give Colorado credit," said Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne.

Murray led Aggies rout hapless Owls

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill made certain Rice Coach Jerry Berndt's wish came true Saturday as the 10th-ranked Aggies routed the Owls 45-10 to seize the Southwest Conference leadership.

Berndt said before the game that "I hope they don't score 100 points on us."

Sherrill eased off on the Owls by benching starting quarterback Kevin Murray from the game midway through the third period after the redshirt junior had set a career SWC touchdown passing record.

"I felt we played extremely well in the first half," Sherrill said. "We knew we would have to do more than just go through the motions." Sherrill said his defense came up with the big plays against the Owls and praised Murray for another solid game.

"We had seven quarterback sacks and Kevin did well, considering how many passes we dropped," Sherrill said. "I thought Kevin threw the ball very well again."

He added that "in a game like this, if you kept the first team in, the score would have been blown all out of proportion."

Berndt said he thought his Owls played tough "against a very fine team that didn't make many mistakes. I don't think it was a 45-10 game. We didn't score when we had the chance. It's a shame the score wasn't closer."

"At some point in this season we are going to learn how to win," he added. "We believe in what we are doing and it's just a matter of getting our young men to execute. We're not that far away. I don't want people to feel sorry for us."

Murray said, "It felt good to get the record. It something I'll be able to remember when my playing days are over."

Friday is Halloween. Have you decided what you're going to be this year?

"Girls like to be sexy as possible, but the guys want to look as horrible as possible," says Jason Campbell, owner of Stagecoach Gifts.

Some of the most popular costumes this year are Ninjas and sexywitches, Campbell added.

If you want to be sexy, try out a flapper or a harem outfit. Or how about going as Daisy Mae?

Guys can be scary by just throwing a black cape over their street clothes and putting on a horrid mask.

Or if you really want to be different, you can make your own. If the young ones in your family haven't decided on a Halloween mask yet, you might consider trying out an idea from the makers of Karo syrup: a do-it-yourself, painted-on mask that is safe and easy to make.

In an article written by Rhonda Hoeckly of Harte Hanks News Service, she explains who to make a do-it-yourself mask.

The mask calls for things that you probably already have in your cupboards — white facial tissues, cornstarch, flour, food coloring, light corn syrup, and cotton swabs or a small paint brush.

To make the paint, mix 3 tablespoons cornstarch with 1 tablespoon flour. Gradually stir in ¾ cup light corn syrup and ¼ cup water until smooth. Pour ¼ cup of the mixture into each of four small bowls or paper cups. Color one batch with red food coloring, one with green and one with blue, leaving one batch untinted.

Before putting on the mask, make sure the face is clean. Then, starting with the forehead and using a cotton swab or paint brush, apply a generous amount of the untinted mixture. Carefully place a strip of single-ply tissue over the painted area. Pat firmly. Then brush on additional untinted mixture to cover any dry areas on the tissue. Continue painting the face and putting the tissue on, one area at a time. Do NOT paint eyelids or area around eyes. Let dry about 15 minutes. Paint on desired design with the colored mixture. This "paint" is easily removed by peeling off the tissue and using soapy water to wash the face.

The painted-on mask won't obscure the child's vision, and also can stimulate some creativity. It is also easy enough that the you and your children can practice a few masks before the day of the Scary Event.

Madonna emerges as heroine

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The way people in today's society attach a personality and moral issues to another person's looks is something twenty-seven-year-old pop star Madonna finds "interesting," she says in a rare, in-person interview in the October issue of Seventeen. "You can't escape if you're in the public eye — the only thing to do is ride the wave."

When Madonna's second album, "Like a Virgin" skyrocketed to the top of the charts, "the press declared open season on Madonna, portraying her variously as a slut, a symbol of a soulless, materialist society and an upstart." But, Seventeen reports, Madonna is a born trower an endured the assaults. The result: she turned her image around. This year Madonna has "emerged as something of a media heroine."

According to Stephen Holden, author of the Seventeen article, "Madonna's 1986 look is pure movie star." Madonna says that when she was growing up she "was attracted to all those glamorous, beautiful women who don't seem to be around anymore." Pointing out that "Brigitte Bardo was at one end of the spectrum and Grace Kelly at the other," Madonna adds, "I want to bring back glamour."

Her bad-girl image was just a joke, the star reveals, and, while parents didn't seem to get it, kids did. "What they (kids) saw in me was a rebel kid who says what she wants and takes a joy in life," she said. Madonna disagrees with those who contend she has set the cause of women back a million years and says so in Seventeen. "I like the fact that men appreciate my voluptuous body," she states. "But that doesn't mean I want to be subservient. I stand for the things feminists stand for because I do what I want to do and I'm in control of my own life and I am very happy."

She has gotten more involved with her own records by coproducing "True Blue," her third album. "True Blue was really a labor of love, and I'm very proud of it, I'd never heard the expression true blue until I met Sean, who uses it all the time. The album is dedicated to him," Madonna told Seventeen. "It's a special album, because it says exactly what I wanted it to say. I wrote almost all the lyrics and felt the freedom to do whatever I wanted in the studio."

While Madonna is "somewhat torn between pop stardom and her movie ambitions," music is still her first love. "To me, music is a much more accessible art form than movies because it touches everyone," Madonna confides. Nonetheless, Madonna costars with husband Sean Penn in the new movie "Shanghai Surprise," a love story. Her role is that of a missionary who falls in love with a drifter. "I always knew I was born to be a star, but I never in my wildest dreams expected I would become this big," she said.

"It's the greatest thing in the world when you have everyone's attention and the admiration and support of people you really respect."

STANTON — DATE SET — Mr. and Mrs. Pete Morrison of Stanton announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kimberly Karol Morrison, to Robert Schmelter III of Pochontas, Ill. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Bert Schmelter Jr. of Litchfield, Ill. and the late Velma Schmelter. The couple will wed Nov. 15 at the First Baptist Church in Stanton.

COUPLE TO WED — Mr. and Mrs. Ray Davidson, 1905 S. Monticello, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Vicki Newsom of Stanton, to Jeff Scott of Big Spring. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Bert Scott, 2613 Dixon. The couple will exchange wedding vows Nov. 7 at the Baptist Temple Church with Kim Martin, officiating.

No 'quick-fix' remedies for improving memories

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — "Quick-fix" remedies advertised in the popular press will do nothing to improve your memory, says a psychology professor at the State University of New York at Binghamton.

"It takes hard work to acquire a good memory," says David G. Payne, who teaches workshops in strategies and techniques for effective memory improvement. "You can't expect to learn in one lesson."

The quick-fix approaches to improving memory promote many myths, says Payne, who maintains that you can't learn while sleeping, despite the assertions of those selling memory tapes to put under your pillow.

"If you learned French in your sleep, it's probably because the tape recorder kept you awake all night," Payne says.

"Also, there's little evidence that anyone has a 'photographic' memory," he adds. "If a friend claims one, give him a page to study, take it away, then ask him to read starting at the third line from the bottom. Most likely, he'll fail." Memory is not a muscle that grows stronger with use, nor is there one best method for remembering things, Payne says, noting that there are different techniques for remembering different types of information.

"Everyone has roughly the same memory ability, and while most claim they have a poor memory, they actually carry a phenomenal load," Payne points out. "Walking, talking, reading and functioning in daily life would be impossible without daily feats of memory."

Memory, Payne explains, is really three processes: recording, retaining and retrieving; each is a set of individual skills.

Most memory aids, Payne says, are based on the single theory that forgetting is simply the inability to call back information from the brain's storage bin because we lack the necessary cues.

"Knowing that, we also know that it's vital to learn information in an organized fashion the first time," Payne says. "Organization provides the means of systematically recording and retrieving information."

Sisters mad after vows are exchanged

DEAR ABBY: I was married recently and it was the happiest day of my life. My family came out from New Jersey (I live in California) and all went well, except for one thing.

When I became engaged, I asked my sister, "Bonnie," to sing at my wedding. She declined, saying it was too expensive to fly out, so I asked another singer. Two months later Bonnie called to say she had changed her mind and was flying out for my wedding and wanted to sing.

I told her I had already asked somebody else, but if she wanted to be in the wedding party, she could read Kahlil Gibran's "Essay on Marriage." She agreed to read the essay.

Nothing more was said, but when it came time for Bonnie to read the essay, she read 1 Corinthians 13 instead because "she liked it better!"

I really tried to forgive her, but after the wedding I wrote her a letter telling her how hurt and betrayed I felt. She responded with a nasty letter, ripping me apart. (I'm enclosing it as proof.) Now what should I do? Rant and rave and disown her? Or should I remain silent and let her stew?

ANGRY IN SAN DIEGO

Dear Abby

DEAR ANGRY: Remain silent and try harder to forgive her. Bonnie is a deeply troubled woman. Her hostility and resentment toward you, as evidenced in your letter, seems irrational. Perhaps another family member can persuade her to get the professional help she needs.

DEAR ABBY: My son and his wife, "Betty," are divorced. I have always been close to our daughter-in-law, who thought of me as her mother and my husband as her father because both of her parents are dead. Betty and our son have a daughter. Betty was having problems with her so she came over to talk to me about it. When my son found out, he called me on the phone and was so angry he hung up on me. He thinks I should not see Betty — or even talk to her. She's always been like a daughter to me, Abby, and she is the mother of our only grandchild.

I don't think it's wrong for us to be friends. My husband sides with our son and says I should wipe our former daughter-in-law off my list, as our son comes first.

Am I wrong? If so, I'll accept your decision, but it will be hard. Our son has remarried, and I have gone out of my way to make his new wife feel like a member of our family.

Please advise me.
IN THE DOGHOUSE
DEAR IN: Your son is wrong, and so is your husband. You have every right to continue your friendship with Betty, and neither your son nor your husband has the right to forbid you to do so.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of prenuptial agreements? It's my feeling that two people who really love each other should trust each other, and if they need a signed document before they're married to be sure they aren't taken advantage of in case the marriage doesn't work out, they shouldn't get married in the first place, right?

NAMELESS IN NEVADA
DEAR NAMELESS: Wrong. A prenuptial agreement can save a great deal of fighting (in court), not to mention the cost of the legal battle. However, no one — neither man nor woman — should sign a prenuptial agreement without the advice of an attorney.

DEAR ABBY: To the Indiana bride who wants to be married in black: Traditionally, a white wedding gown stood for purity (virginity), and no bride would dare to wear one unless she was a virgin.

My great-grandmother and her cousin were married at a double wedding in Munich, Germany, in 1899. My great-grandmother wore black because she was pregnant and it couldn't be hidden. I still have the picture of the two brides standing side by side — one in a flowing white gown and the other in black.

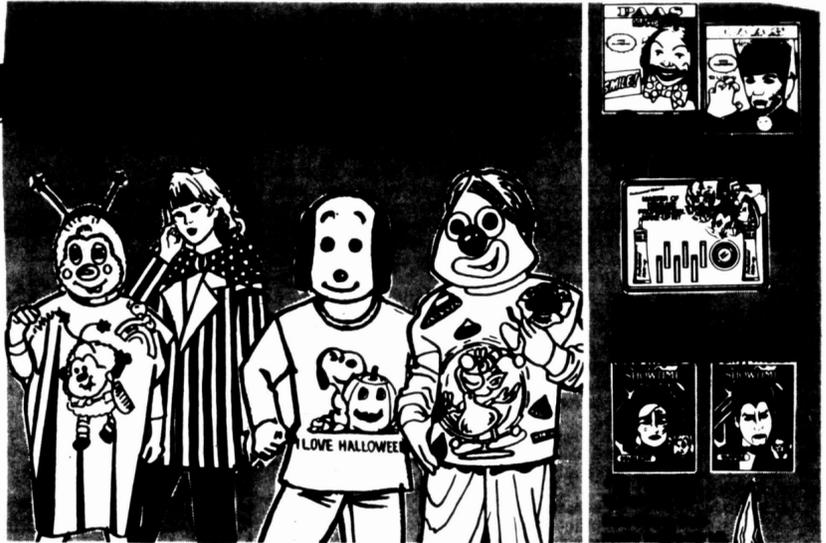

I can imagine the humiliation my poor great-grandmother must have felt. And in a cathedral yet!

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this. The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcement. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS

Information of engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS

If a wedding writeup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

BIRTHS

Local hospitals supply information for the Storkclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Storkclub information.

Information needed for Storkclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address. If the baby is born outside the circulation area but has local grandparents, please include their name and address. The local grandparents serve as the area connection for the information.

SWCID Classics full of school spirit

Presidential Classics for SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf (SWCID) for the 1986-'87 year are Lisa Russ, Wendi Lindsey and Kim Hawkins.

Russ, 21, of Altamonte Spring, Fla. is a sophomore majoring in general business/word processing. She enjoys traveling, meeting people, reading and watching "real stories on TV." She likes being a classic because, "it shows enthusiasm about SWCID. And, I get to associate with my instructors. We're a model to the students."

Twenty-one-year-old Lindsey, of Amarillo, is a sophomore who is majoring in general business/word processing. Hobbies include sewing, riding bikes, cooking, typing and traveling. She likes being a classic because "it shows school spirit."

Hawkins, 20, is a sophomore majoring in general business. Dancing, jogging, swimming and reading books are her hobbies. She enjoys being a classic because she likes "to meet new people and I'm getting experience for the future — to cooperate with people. It helps me to be able to give speeches."

They will be official hostesses for SWCID's college functions, represent the college in community events and on appropriate out-of-town trips, conduct tours of the campus and serve as the president's emissary.

Other duties will be to assist in recruiting students both officially and unofficially, to help with registration for each semester and to attend weekly meetings.

The girls receive a scholarship for fees, books, room and $50 for dormitory residents and $100 for those who don't reside in the dorm.

A highlight of the year as presidential classic is the annual trip. Last year they visited South Padre Island, two years ago they went to Big Bend, and three years ago they went skiing in Ruidoso. This year a trip to Ruidoso is being planned for the classics.

Stained glass history told

In Europe, one goes to churches to look at beautiful stained glass windows. But in cities and towns in the United States, stained glass is found in old residential neighborhoods.

Through the early part of the 20th century a great quantity of outstanding stained, etched and beveled glass was made in America, primarily for homes and commercial buildings, according to H. Weber Wilson, an authority on American stained glass. Wilson's book, "Great Glass in American Architecture," appears to be the first to identify the different styles of architectural glass made here in the 19th and early 20th centuries.

"I am hoping this book will enlighten people about American architectural glass," he said. "There are some wonderful windows, many of them much earlier than the work of Louis Comfort Tiffany."

WHY an IN-THE-EAR AID?

Modern audiological research has shown that locating the hearing aid in the ear—the place provided by nature—offers the best possible help for hearing impairment.

By means of an in-the-ear aid, sound is received at the most natural place. An in-the-ear aid is very comfortable, and since there are no dangling cords or tubes, the user has a feeling of unlimited security in everyday life, even during sporting activities.

Check out exertional headaches

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I get headaches after vigorous physical activity. They are intense and last all day sometimes. I am 28 years old, athletic and exercise three times per week, doing aerobics. I loosen up and stretch first. I play hockey at night and the headache happened at one of those games the first time. I have had to give up hockey. I just played softball today and tomorrow I will probably have my headache. I was just wondering if you ever heard of a case like mine. — M.C.

Exertional headaches, which may be what you are having, are not rare. Many get them, most often as brief aches that let up when they stop exercising. I haven't run across a case quite like yours, but delayed or prolonged headache is entirely possible.

These headaches are vascular in nature. It is from pulsation of the brain's blood vessels. Before I go into treatment of these vessel-related headaches, I want to be sure to tell you to have your symptoms investigated. A CAT scan of the brain will tell if a neurological disturbance is causing them. A previous serious head injury from your hockey should be reported. Sometimes, a more obscure non-vessel-related situation can cause the problem. I am thinking of things like a pheochromocytoma, an adrenal gland tumor. That can cause a sharp rise in blood pressure and headache.

For a simple exertional headache, there are things you can do. Sometimes, medicine, like indomethacin, aspirin or propranolol given before the exercise will ward them off. These headaches tend to wane with years. They are more common in men than women, but they are not as common in people your age as in those 40 and over.

I advise you to curtail your activity until you get this matter settled.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I've had tall athletes that are graceful as swans, and then I've had them clumsy as the proverbial ox. What makes the difference? — A Coach.

Center of gravity gets blamed for the oxen, also for the swans. Height alone doesn't cause awkwardness. The lower the center of gravity the better the balance. True, tall people often do have low centers of gravity. In fact, they do if the length of their legs is less than the length of the upper body.

Is there a way to measure this? Sure. Have the athlete sit upright on the edge of a table with legs dangling over the side. Measure the distance from the table top to the top of the head. That is upper body height. Subtract that from his standing overall height. That gives you lower body height.

To get an idea of where the center of gravity is, divide the figure for lower body height into the one for upper height. A result greater than 1.3 indicates a low center of gravity, good balance, and, very likely, gracefulness. If you get a result around 0.9, that athlete has a high center of gravity and tends to topple more easily. If he happens to be a lineman you have to concentrate more on balance drills and emphasize good crouching technique.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Settle an argument, please. What's the best way to hold the hands when swimming. I was taught to keep them cupped. My son says to keep them outstretched. Who's correct? — L.F.

Your son is. At least he is in the view of James Counsilman, one of the famous swimming coaches. He instructs his swimmers to keep their hands flat, with fingers slightly apart. I don't know the hydrodynamics of it, but I'm sure Mr. Counsilman does, and I'm a believer.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband and I love ballroom dancing. He gets huffing and puffing, so we don't go at it really strenuously. I wondered, though, since we dance the evening away sometimes, how well it burns calories. — Mrs. L.N.

Ballroom dancing burns about three calories a minute. In a three-minute dance you and your husband are cumulatively burning about 20 calories. If you dance all night that adds up to hundreds of calories. Save a dance for me. Professional dancers are well-conditioned athletes.

Are granola snacks better than cookies

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent

Granola snacks are often advertised as a "healthy" alternative to cookies for the kids' lunch boxes or after school snacks.

According to a report of the American Council on Science and Health, however, there isn't much difference between commercial granola snacks and store-bought cookies.

Their analysis showed that granola snacks contain 110 to 150 calories per serving, depending on added ingredients such as dried fruits, nuts and chocolate. Two oatmeal, chocolate chip or sugar cookies contain between 120 and 130 calories.

The granola snacks provide 2 grams of protein, 5 grams of fat and 20 grams of carbohydrate. The cookies have 1 gram of protein, 5 or 6 grams of fat and 16 to 18 grams of carbohydrate.

Both the granola snacks and the cookies are relatively high in sugar, fat and calories. Both supply about equal amounts of vitamins and minerals.

When it comes to sodium, granola snacks vary widely, and some approach the amount of sodium in corn chips or potato the small differences between the two snacks may be nutritionally insignificant.

Focus on family

If you are paying premium prices for granola products labeled as health snacks, when your children would just as soon have a cookie, be aware that you are not buying extra nutrition.

Making home-made cookies, where you can use vegetable fats or preparing your own granola with less salt is probably a more nutritious alternative than the store-bought version of either snack.

The key thing is that children eat any type of snack food in moderation as part of a balanced diet that gives them the nutrients they need.
