Order cafeteria rolls, donuts, for Thanksgiving

The Friona ISD cafeteria would like to help with your holiday baking. What would be better than fresh, hot, homemade rolls right out of your oven?

Again this year the junior high school cafeteria ladies are offering frozen ready to bake rolls for $5 per dozen. Also offered this year are homemade cinnamon rolls at $7.50 per dozen and glazed donuts are $6 per dozen.

Place your order by calling Laura Romero at 250-3350 or Roxanne Hurst at 250-3353. You can email an order to roxhurst@frionaisd.com. Please provide your name and phone number.

The rolls will be ready to pick-up at the junior high cafeteria between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday, November 19 or Tuesday November 20. The ladies ask that you please place your orders by Friday November 16.

Parents night for Chieftains Friday

The Friona Chieftains play their final home game of the season at Chieftain Field Friday night November 2 vs. the Dimmitt Bobcats. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

The game is designated as Senior Parents Night when parents of graduating football, cheerleader, and manager seniors will be honored before the game. Senior band and flag corps parents will be honored at halftime.

Chieftain fans are urged to come out and support the school during the final 2007 home football game.

Women's clubhouse preservation meeting

The Parmer County Historical Commission and the Parmer County Museum invites anyone interested in the preservation of the historic Friona Women's Clubhouse to attend a meeting November 5, 2007, at 6 p.m. at the clubhouse. It is located at 9th and Pierce.

Several new ideas and plans for the preservation and use of the historical building will be discussed.

Veterans Day program Nov 9

The annual Veterans Day program will be held November 9 at 9:30 a.m. in the high school gym. All area veterans are invited to attend. The Friona High School band and choir will provide music and special recognition.

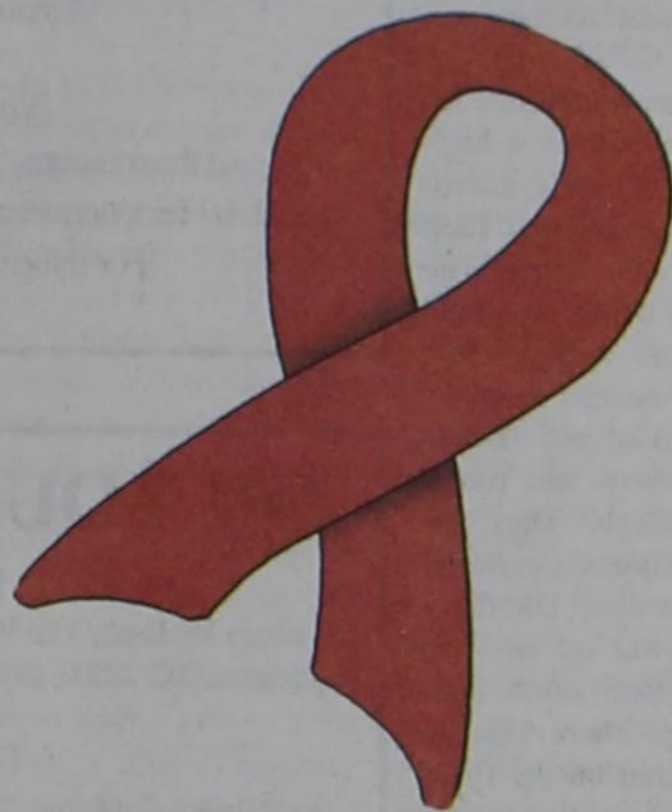

The public is also invited to attend this always impressive ceremony. Details in next week's Star.

Game replays Sat.

The Chiefs vs. Dimmitt football game and the Squaws vs. Crane volleyball playoff game will be rebroadcast Saturday November 3 beginning at 10 a.m. on WT Services channel 76.

FHS-TV announcers Mike Hutson and Clint Mears will announce the Dimmitt game. Mears and Ron Carr were the voices on the Squaws video replay. The Dimmitt game will be shown first followed immediately by the volleyball match.

October weather

Official local weather guy John Gurley advises that we have had zero rainfall since September 24.

The average high temperature for October was 81.7 and the average low was 45 degrees. October 23 saw the first (and only) freeze recorded at 27.5 degrees. The hottest days of the month were October 6 & 7 at 90 degrees.

October 18 recorded 50+ mph wind gusts and on October 31, as we were going to press, the weather service was warning of winds in excess of 50 mph and falling temperatures which forecasts a windy and cold Halloween for trick or treaters.

Danny Hand, left, is congratulated by Friona Farmer's Co-Op Gin manager Jerry Butman. Hand had the first 2007 bale of cotton which was delivered to the gin Wednesday October 24. After winning the friendly competition for the first bale Mr. Hand wanted to express to all his friends that he likes his crow cooked cajun style.

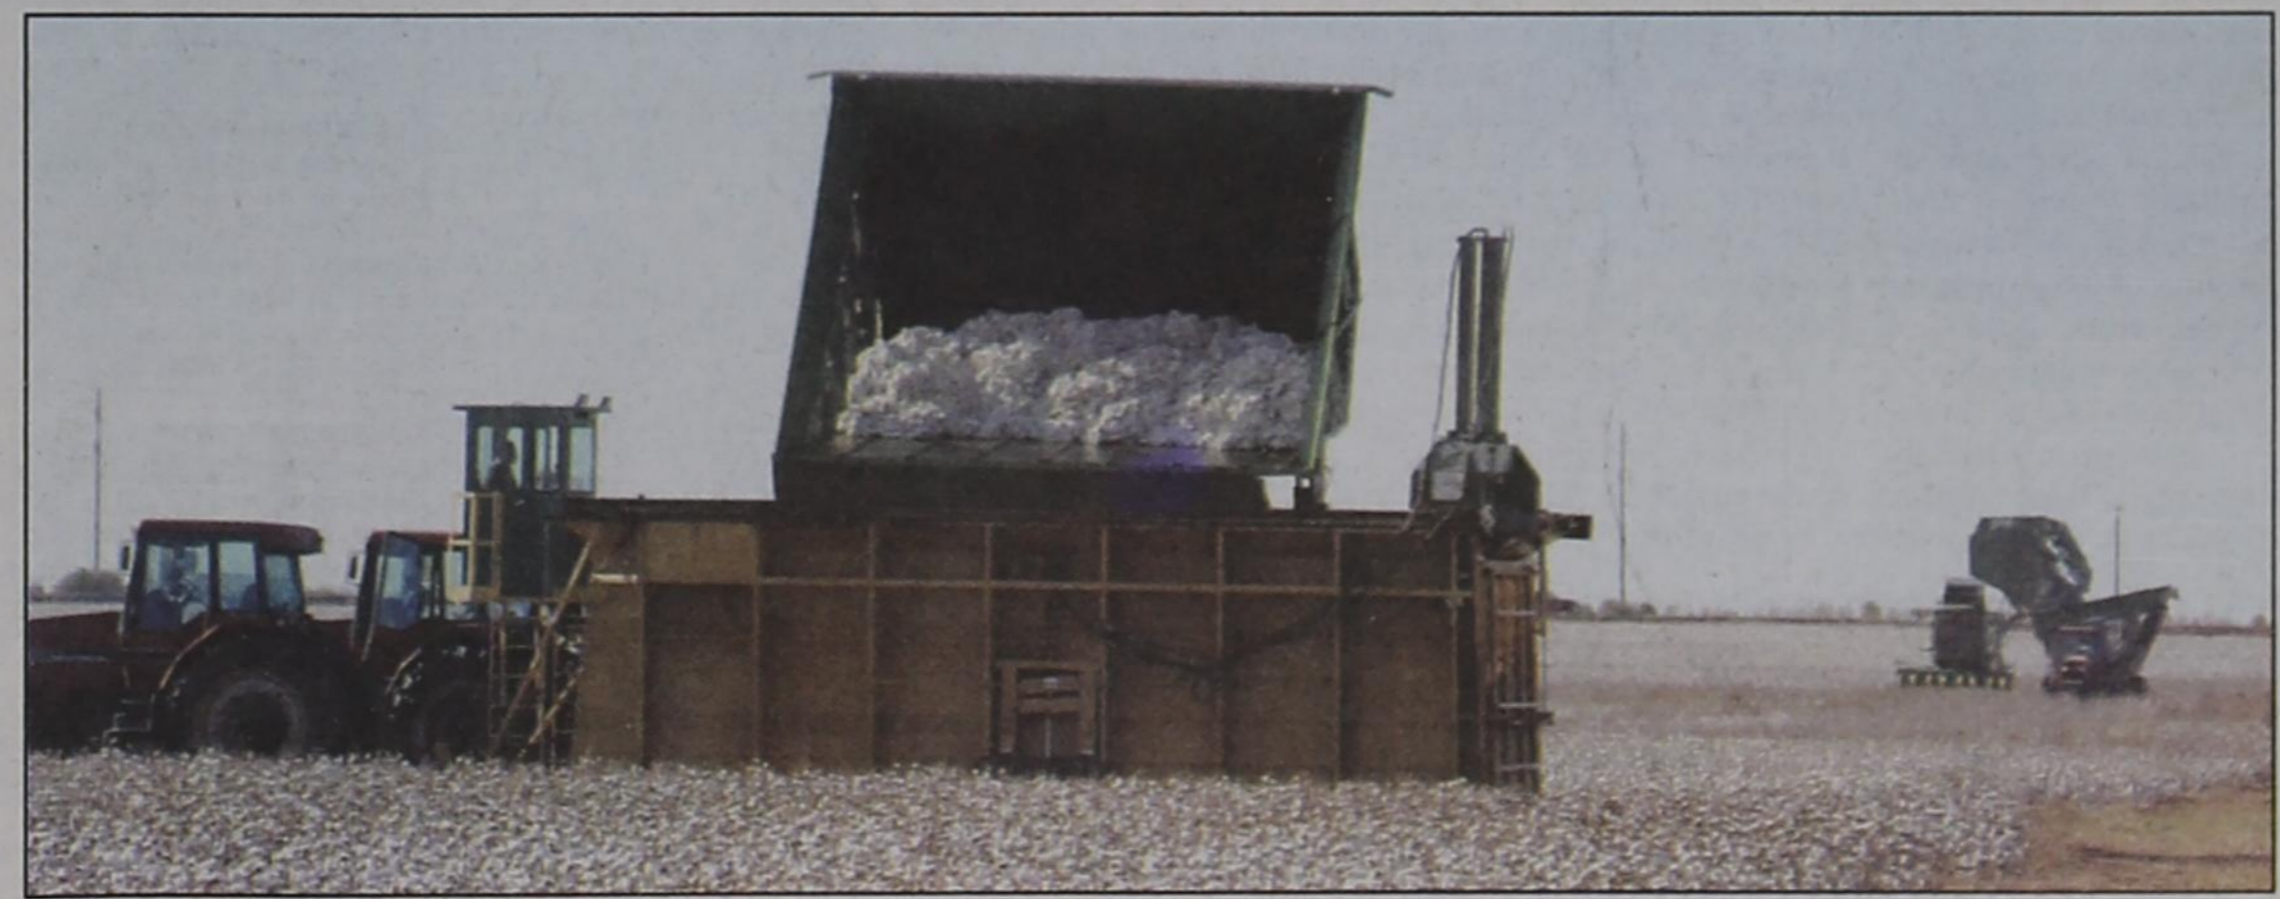

Charlie's final crop

A group of farmers and their hired hands joined together Monday October 29 to provide a good deed for Loree Myers, wife of the late Charlie Myers. Mr. Myers, a long time area farmer, passed away on August 16.

At the time he had 60 acres planted in cotton. The local good samaritans gathered Monday with five cotton strippers and harvested the field for Mrs. Myers.

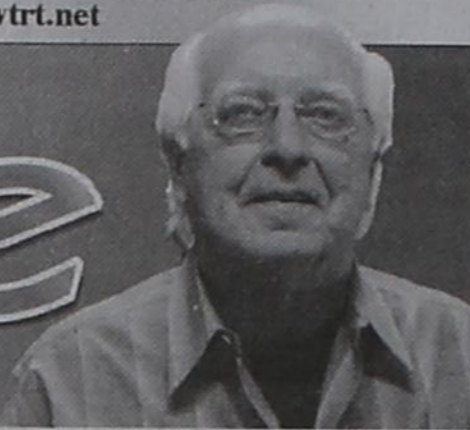

Those participating were Kevin Welch, Gene Welch, Cris Ingram, Davy Carthel, Danny Hand, Mario Moreno, Rosendo Fabela, Davy Gonzales, Jimmy Leal, Robert Saiz, Cornello Salinas, Amador Mendoza, and Cruz Chavez.

life begins in the dorm

We see photos and TV reports from college campuses with students laying around outside on the campus grass, basking in the sun, studying and flirting, and being college students. I couldn't figure why outside had such an attraction for college students.

Then I saw my son's dorm room this weekend.

By design, dorm rooms are one step above torture chambers. They are not built for comfort. Freshmen college students are so glad to be away from home they would live in a cardboard box if that was the only alternative.

Zac's dorm room walls are cinderblock, painted white, and covered with posters. At least I think they are. The lighting was about one degree above pitch black. He did switch on a desk lamp, which revealed a stack of books, two cans of Pringles, and a styrofoam take-out box.

The first thing I noticed when he opened the door was the blast of arctic air. I commented it seemed cold inside. He said his roommate keeps the temperature down to 62-degrees. He didn't tell me why.

Personally I think it's because it is more difficult for fungus to live in a cold atmosphere. Or maybe it is because they don't have to pay the electric bill.

Two dorm rooms linked together by a common area are now called suites. The person who shares your room is naturally your roommate. The other guys in your suite are called suitemates.

The two rooms share one bathroom which is between and opens on both sides. A dresser, a toilet, and the shower. It is disease city in there. The bathtub is too small to take a bath in. There must have been 15-20 bottles of bath soap, shampoo, and conditioner sitting inside the shower.

Another two dozen bottles of miscellaneous toiletries were crammed on the small wash basin area. Out of respect for privacy, I did not look in the sink. Germs are personal and best kept among suitemates.

I peeked inside Zac's suitemate's room. From the looks of the arrangement of the clothes and underwear on the floor, it appeared the boy had simply vanished, his pants and shorts falling to the floor.

Zac says the young man on occasion imbibes too much and once filled the small bathtub with vomit. Another reason to lay around on the campus grass.

In the common area just inside the suite door is a half-size refrigerator and a microwave on top. I did not look inside the fridge either. The prospect of finding any kind of alcohol and a half eaten pizza was for another day.

Zac and Mike are friends from high school and roommates in college. They get along well. Mike is a psychology major for now. The day I visited Mike was out of town but both of their dorm beds were made up. There were no clothes scattered on the floor. Zac pointed proudly to the large throw rug that decorated the floor. He was obviously proud of his dorm room. Of course he didn't turn on all the lights.

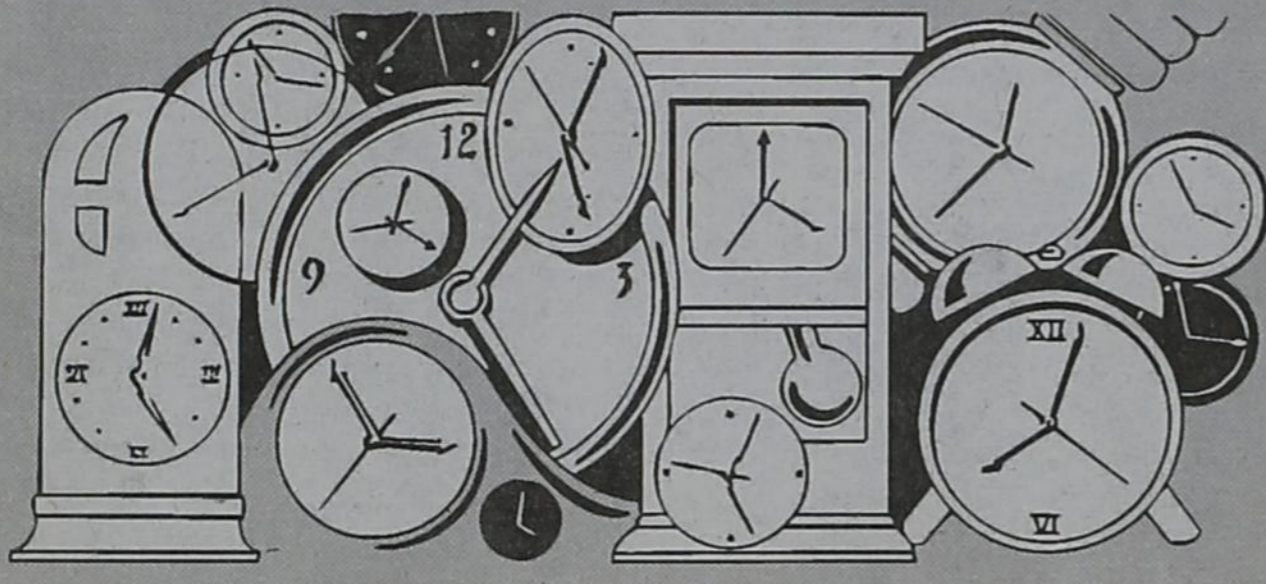

You have to let them go to make their own way and set their own sights on the future. Dorms last for only one year, then it is into an apartment or house, marriage, kids, yadda, yadda! They collect their own junk and decorate their own space. They develop their own likes and dislikes and habits, good or bad.

Yeah, I liked your dorm room Zac, but more important I am very proud of you as a son and a person. I know you will be fine. From here on you are on your own. Call me if you need to.

And always remember this: don't do anything stupid and don't be a pain in the ass. Love, daddy.

Daylight Saving Time ends this Sunday at 2:00 a.m.

Don't forget to turn your clocks back on Saturday night.

Low taxes for Texas families

By Senator Kay Bailey Hutchison

President Ronald Reagan once defined a taxpayer as "someone who works for the government but doesn't have to take the civil service exam." Sadly, there's some truth to his statement. The average American works from the beginning of the year until April 30 just to pay his tax bill. The rest of the year, he works for himself. As prices rise on everything from food products to gasoline to health care, families should be allowed to keep more of their hard-earned income. But Congress may be about to burden American families with thousands of dollars in new taxes.

In 2001 and 2003, I helped pass historic reductions to death taxes, capital gains, small business and income taxes. This sweeping tax relief benefited millions of American families and small businesses. An increase in the child tax credit from $600 to $1,000 per child has helped families whose budgets are often pinched. And I am proud to have championed a significant reduction of the marriage penalty by doubling the standard deduction. Lower tax rates for individuals and small businesses have spurred growth and stimulated our economy to reach new heights. In fact, we have created more than 8.1 million new American jobs since the cuts took effect—more than all other major industrialized countries combined—through 49 consecutive months of job growth and nearly six years of uninterrupted economic expansion.

Rather than make these successful cuts permanent, the new majority in Congress plans to introduce a trillion dollar tax package that could overwhelm middle class families and stifle business growth. If the current pro-growth tax rates are not extended, more than 90 million households nationwide will face immediate income tax hikes. 115 million Americans will pay higher taxes in some form, and the projected annual income tax increase would be an average of $2,755 per Texan.

Additionally, Congress must take immediate action to repair the Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT). In truth, for many families the AMT is not really an alternative nor a minimum. Congress established the tax in 1969, responding to reports that 155 wealthy households used loopholes to avoid paying any income taxes at all. It set a high income level above which taxpayers were required to pay a set percentage in taxes, rather than filing a traditional tax return. The income threshold has remained largely unchanged since enacted, and has not been appropriately adjusted for inflation.

The AMT may have applied to a few hundred rich households in the 1960's, but due to our economic growth in the last 40 years and generally higher incomes, it now traps millions of American families. It has crept down from the mansions of 1969 to today's suburban middle class homes. If Congress fails to adjust the AMT for inflation for tax year 2007, a family of four earning $60,000 a year could be hit with nearly $2000 in new taxes. In all, 23 to 26 million Americans could suddenly find themselves taxed at the same rate as the super rich. They could even be hit with penalties and interest for underpaying their estimated taxes.

The continued prosperity of our nation depends on the sound policies that we have employed over the last six years. Saddling Texas families and businesses with new taxes would have sharply negative effects on your family budget and our entire economy, and we can afford neither. As your Senator, I will continue to work to ensure low, fair taxes that help Texas families keep more of what they earn.

Ron,
Your paper has been enjoyed at most all of the Air Tanker Bases in the West! All the other pilots like to look it over when I'm done. Please renew our subscription.

Thanks,
Doug Carthel

Dear Ron,
I feel so fortunate to live in a community filled with caring, loving people. You only find out how wonderful when you have a loss or a need. To those who have never needed the help of home health care, you should know how blessed we are to have Bluebonnet Home Health Care here in Friona. Everyone that came to our home to help Royce was the kindest and sweetest, and more caring than you can imagine. We are also very blessed to have John Blackwell. He and Dusty go above and beyond to make your loss as peaceful and comforting as possible. We do have a wonderful community filled with truly wonderful people.

Thanks Ron, for letting me share this with all your readers.
Pat Riggins

Hi Ron!
I just wanted to share the news with you that Kellye was selected to be a member of the Express News Teen Team. It is all thanks to you for giving her the opportunity to intern this summer at the Friona Star. We can't thank you enough for your support.

Kellye is also writing for her school paper. Her editing talents (for which she gives you credit!) are gaining her much respect. She even "tweaked" the Principal's column. She landed her first big interview last weekend interviewing band members of Reliant K. Her questions were great, and the guys said they had never given so much information in an interview before. All in all she is having a great year enjoying many new experiences. Check out mysanantonio.com to view a parody of the Spurs opening night. Kellye was a production assistant.
Sincerely,
Cathy Moore

Town Talk II

Phone-250-2211, Fax-250-5127, Email-frionastar@wtrt.net

Town Talk is going to be a little short this week. I was out-of-town four days Friday to Monday so I couldn't sneak around and find out what went on. My spies didn't do much either I guess. In fact I have been out-of-town twice since last week.

At last Thursday's senior citizen lunch we were privileged to listen to Eva Miller play selections on the piano while we dined. The 90+ musical talent was there, oxygen bottle and all, tickling the ivories. She tickled us with her music too. Thank you Eva. She dedicated the musical set to Anna Mae Thomas, also a senior citizen and piano player who plays for us often. Thank you ladies. Also Martha Hamilton spent a couple of days in the hospital in Hereford with blood pressure and dehydration problems but she is back home now and doing well. Get well soon Martha.

Don't forget to vote Tuesday. Vote "yes" on all the propositions except #15. Vote "no" on that one. Be interesting to see what percentage of eligible voters in the county actually vote. I predict it will be less than 10%. I'll be voting, how about you?

Thanks to Marca Herring for the article about some of our local citizen's participating in the Friona State Bank's National Park's tour. Her write-up is elsewhere in today's Star along with a couple of photos they took.

Went out to the Friona Farmer's Co-Op Gin Wednesday morning to snap a photo of Danny Hand's first bale of cotton. Gin manager Jerry Butman said he would gin cotton from about 3,600 acres this year, down from 20,000+ acres in previous years. That translates to around 9,000 bales, compared with 30,000 bales last year at the gin.

Many of our county acreage this year went to corn, wheat, and milo. Some producers are already contracting their corn for next year at some top prices, causing the slide in cotton acres.

Stopped off at the junior high cafeteria Halloween morning. The cafeteria ladies were dressed in Halloween costume clothes for the kids. They were packing breakfasts for your kids which are delivered to the classrooms in primary, elementary, and junior high. The nice ladies gave me a sample. In the small styrofoam container was a tasty cafeteria biscuit, an egg pattie, and a plump juicy sausage. Plus they get milk or juice.

Hats off to these unsung ladies that show up early every day to feed your kids, always with a bunch of smiles. They don't always get the recognition they deserve, so ladies take a bow.

I went to Georgetown, Texas, this weekend to visit my son Zac and attend his first college theater production. Zac is majoring in performing arts at Southwestern University and had the lead role in "The Country Wife", an R-rated production from the 1600s. Georgetown is about 475 miles and 8 hours of solid driving one way.

I left Friday morning and returned Monday. Saw his play twice. My older son Casey came from Dallas and daughter Megan came from Wichita Falls so it was a nice family affair. The production was three hours including intermission. About 12 actors and actresses were involved. They all memorized three hours of dialogue. Pretty impressive to an old guy that has trouble remembering his cell phone number and street address.

Along the way gasoline was cheaper than here. Bought gas in Tye, Texas, near Abilene, for $2.69 and paid the same $2.69 in Georgetown. Georgetown is about 30 miles north of Austin on the famous and heavily traveled I-35. From here I drove to Cisco on I-20, then headed south on Hwy. 183 through Rising Star, May, Mullin, Brownwood, and Lampasas. Nice drive but glad to be back in slower-moving Friona.

Tuesday evening Clint Mears and I drove to Seminole, Texas, to watch and video the Squaws volleyball playoff match with the Crane Ladybirds. That is another 140 miles one-way. Got home after midnight and I am tired of driving for a while. The Squaws played well and tough but lost to the Ladybirds in three games so volleyball season is officially over. Congratulations to Coach Carrie Arias and the girls on a successful year. The replay of the game will be Saturday, November 3 on WT Services channel 76 following the Chiefs-Dimmitt football game replay. Action starts at 10 a.m.

Happenings at FISD. Superintendent Jim Parker has announced he is retiring at the end of the year after 38 1/2 years of school teaching, band directing, and the last 15 years in school administration. Eventually the Parkers will be moving to Dublin, Texas, their hometown. From this corner, and it is only a prediction, Kenny Austin will become interim superintendent and likely will be named superintendent.

Also, Friona native and local businessman Danny Campbell has joined Friona ISD as the industrial arts instructor after the abrupt departure of Randy Hardin last week. School officials won't discuss Hardin's departure citing personnel privacy issues.

Campbell will begin his school teaching career Monday November 5. Industrial arts was better known to old-timers as shop or woodworking. It now includes drafting, woodworking, and computer use for engineering projects. Superintendent Parker says he would like to see Mr. Campbell incorporate some electrical instruction into the class since he is a long time owner of Campbell Electric.

Here is a suggestion from this observer. Danny could probably be utilized to assist with the baseball program too. Just a thought. Good luck and congratulations Danny.

Thanks to all for continuing to support the Friona Star. We appreciate all of our advertising customers and those who read the paper every week. Don't forget to keep us in the loop for news and concerns of local interest. Until then.

A history of Daylight Saving Time

BY ROGER HALDENBY, Plains Cotton Growers

The day that most of us in the United States get that extra hour sleep as the clocks "fall back" from Daylight Saving Time to Standard Time comes up next weekend.

Since 1986, the day that the U.S. changed its clocks was the last Sunday of October but starting this year it's the first Sunday of November.

Back in the days before clocks, we measured time by sundials which meant that noon, wherever you were, was when the sun was at its highest in the sky. Even after clocks were invented we still set them by measuring the position of the sun where we were. According to location on the face of the earth, time was true local time.

Then came railways. For railways to run to a schedule you have to have the clocks at all the stations synchronized to a standard time. On September 22, 1847 authorities in England recommended the adoption of Greenwich Mean Time by all railway stations in the United Kingdom. Similarly, standard time in time zones was instituted in the U.S. and Canada by the railroads on November 18, 1883.

Daylight Saving Time came to us during World War I in an effort to conserve fuel needed to produce electric power. Other countries implemented this as early as 1916, but it was not formally adopted in the U.S. until 1918. After the war ended the DST law was repealed as a federal measure and became a local option.

During World War II, President Franklin Roosevelt instituted year-round Daylight Saving Time. This was called "War Time" and ran until September 30, 1945. From 1945 to 1966 there was, again, no federal law regarding DST. States and localities were free to choose whether or not to observe Daylight Saving Time and could choose when it began and ended. This caused much confusion for railways, airlines, bus companies and many others. Every time a state or town began or ended DST, transportation companies had to publish new schedules.

By 1966, some 100 million Americans were observing Daylight Saving Time based on their local laws and customs. Congress decided to step in and end the confusion, and to establish one pattern across the country with the Uniform Time Act of 1966. That was tinkered with in 1972, 1986 and again in 2005.

This latest change through the Energy Policy Act of 2005 extended DST in the U.S. beginning this year. Going from 2007 forward, DST in the U.S. begins at 2:00 a.m. on the second Sunday of March and ends at 2:00 a.m. on the first Sunday of November. However, should the change prove unpopular or if energy savings are not significant then Congress retained the right to revert to the 1986 law, where DST began the first Sunday of April and ended at 2:00 a.m. on the last Sunday of October.

Around 70 countries around the world use DST in at least a portion of the country, but Japan, India, and China are the only major industrialized countries that do not observe some form of daylight saving. For the most part, equatorial and tropical countries generally don't observe Daylight Saving Time. Because the daylight hours are similar during every season, there's no advantage to moving clocks forward during the summer.

If you're interested in which countries operate under DST and when they change their clocks, you can find out more at: <http://www.worldtimezone.org>.

Meantime, if it applies to you, enjoy that extra hour in bed or make good use of an extra hour awake next Sunday and don't be the one who shows up an hour early on Monday with a befuddled look on your face!

CCC presents Martinez art

The Eula Mae Edwards Museum at Clovis Community College will be featuring David J. Martinez's work Visual Offering: A Tribute to the Day of the Dead. His showing consists of a variety of acrylic paintings and may be viewed from October 30 through December 14.

Dia de los Muertos, "The Day of the Dead", originated before the Spanish conquest of Meso-America. Celebrations and rituals of death and afterlife existed in the pre-Hispanic cultures of the Olmec, Toltec, Aztec, and Maya. The Aztec calendar dedicated two months to this celebration, the ninth month for infants and the tenth for adults.

When the Spaniards arrived and began enforcing Christianity, they discouraged these celebrations for they believed them to be pagan rituals. The Spaniards were not successful in changing the native's beliefs and canceling the celebrations, so they moved the date to coincide with the Christian holidays of All Saints Day and All Souls Day. Thus, October 31-November 2 are the dates which are currently celebrated. This holiday is a national holiday in Mexico and is observed in many parts of the United States.

A reception will be held at the Eula Mae Edwards Gallery/Museum at Clovis Community College on October 30 from 6:00 to 7:30 p.m.

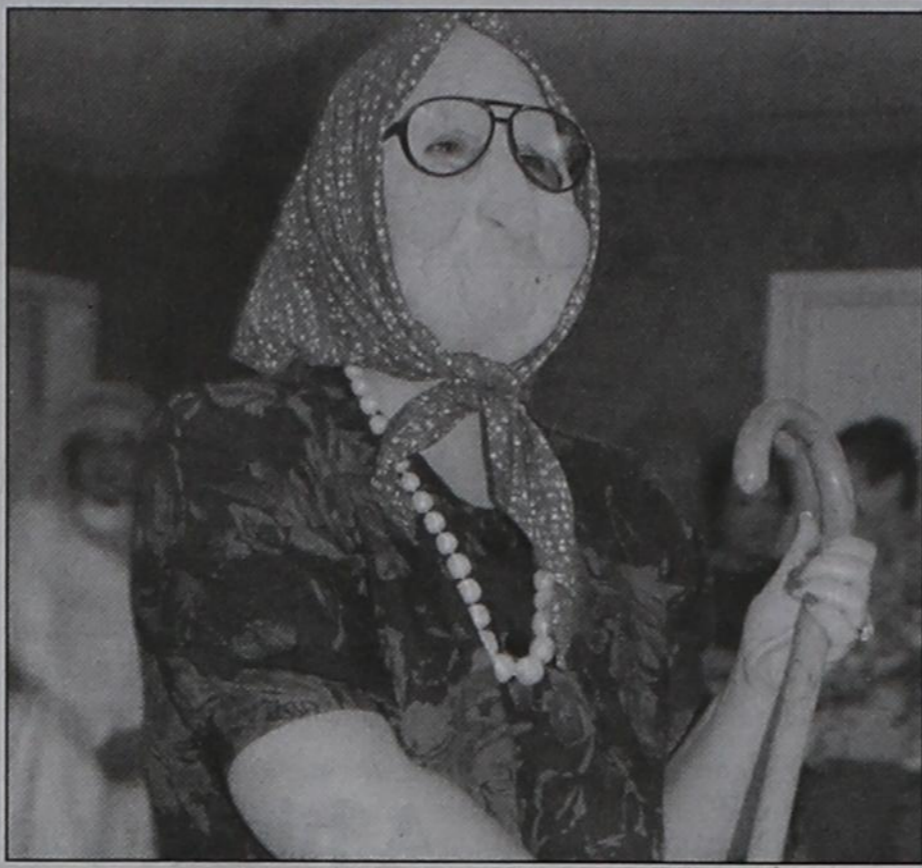

'Harmony for Humanity' hosted by ENMU Nov. 1

The Department of Music at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales is presenting the "Harmony for Humanity" Concert at 7:00 p.m. on Thursday, November 1, in Buchanan Hall of the Music Building on the Portales campus. The concert honors the memory of the late journalist, for the Wall Street Journal, who was murdered by terrorists in Iraq.

The mission of the Daniel Pearl World Music Days "Harmony for Humanity" is to promote cross-cultural understanding through journalism, music, and innovative communications. Eastern New Mexico University joins people around the world in a tribute to all the visionary men and women who use the power of music and words to lift the unity of mankind above the differences that set us apart.

The concert will feature the Eastern New Mexico University Faculty Wind Quintet with Lindsay Beasley, flute; Tracy Carr, oboe; Tamara Raatz, clarinet; Drew West, bassoon; and Jennifer Voges, horn. The concert will also feature baritone Robert Mancusi and Michael Sitton, piano.

Admission is free and open to the public. For more information, call the music department at 575-562-2377.

Tulia loss dims Chief playoff hope

BY RON CARR

The Friona Chiefs traveled to Tulia Friday night with thoughts of clinching a playoff spot in District 2-2A. Wins at Tulia and at home this Friday vs. Dimmitt would have put the Chiefs in another showdown game with Muleshoe to end the season.

But the Tulia Hornets had playoff thoughts of their own. Having already suffered losses to Muleshoe and Bushland, Tulia needed a win to stay in the playoff picture. And they got it as they stunned Friona 19-7 to hand Friona two district losses.

Friona scored first in the game to take a 7-0 lead on a Sawyer Reed to Ryan Schwab touch-down pass and a Rodrigo Vasquez extra point. Schwab caught 4 passes for 91 yards in the game. Reed was good on 9 of 18 passes for 138 yards and had two interceptions.

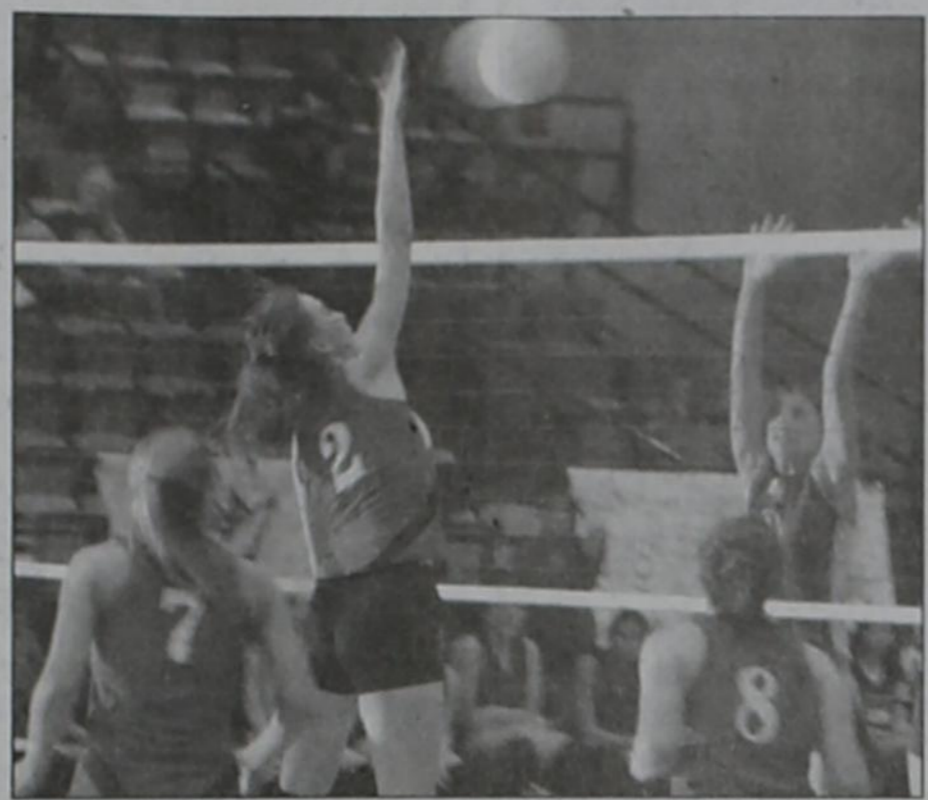

Reed also carried 15 times for 62 yards but the Chieftain offense managed only 130 rushing yards against the Hornet defense. Dillon Welch ran 9 times for 50 yards.

District leaders Bushland and Muleshoe tangle Friday night (November 2) at Bushland. A

Bushland win, plus Friona wins over Dimmitt and Muleshoe would give the Chiefs a mathematical chance for a playoff spot. Tulia's remaining two games are with River Road and Highland Park, two teams that have yet to win a game this season. This scenario would give Bushland the district title and put Muleshoe, Tulia, and Friona tied with two losses each.

The game Friday vs. Dimmitt is the final home game of the season and the final game on Chieftain Field for the seniors. Senior parents will be honored before the game. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Bridges qualifies for reg'n'l cross country

Friona cross country runners participated in the district cross country meet Tuesday October 23 at Thompson Park in Amarillo.

For the boys, Justin Bridges placed 5th and qualified for the regional cross country meet.

Michael Chico placed 12th, Josh Duenes 20th, Jesus Sarabia 26th, and Jordan Kelley 31st. In the girls competition Jordan Monroe placed 8th and Heather Sandoval was 16th.

Friona JV 18 Tulia JV 6

The Friona JV Chiefs scored three times and held Tulia to one touchdown for an 18-6 win. Steven Mendoza scored on a 5-yard run, Josh Duenes had a 6-yard TD, and David Schwab caught a 10-yard TD pass from Joey Dickson.

Coach Rex Cumpton said: "The team did another good job this week. We were able to move the ball consistently, both running and passing. Our offensive line had one of its best games protecting the quarterback. Defensively we played real well and were able to see the results of hard work. This group continues to improve each week."

7th Braves 30 H'land Park 6

Marco Terrones had a 5-yard TD run and a 25-yard TD run. Stephen Dominguez made a 2-point conversion.

Richard Rodriguez scored twice on runs of 20- and 25-yards. Diego Licerio and Dominguez had 2-point conversions.

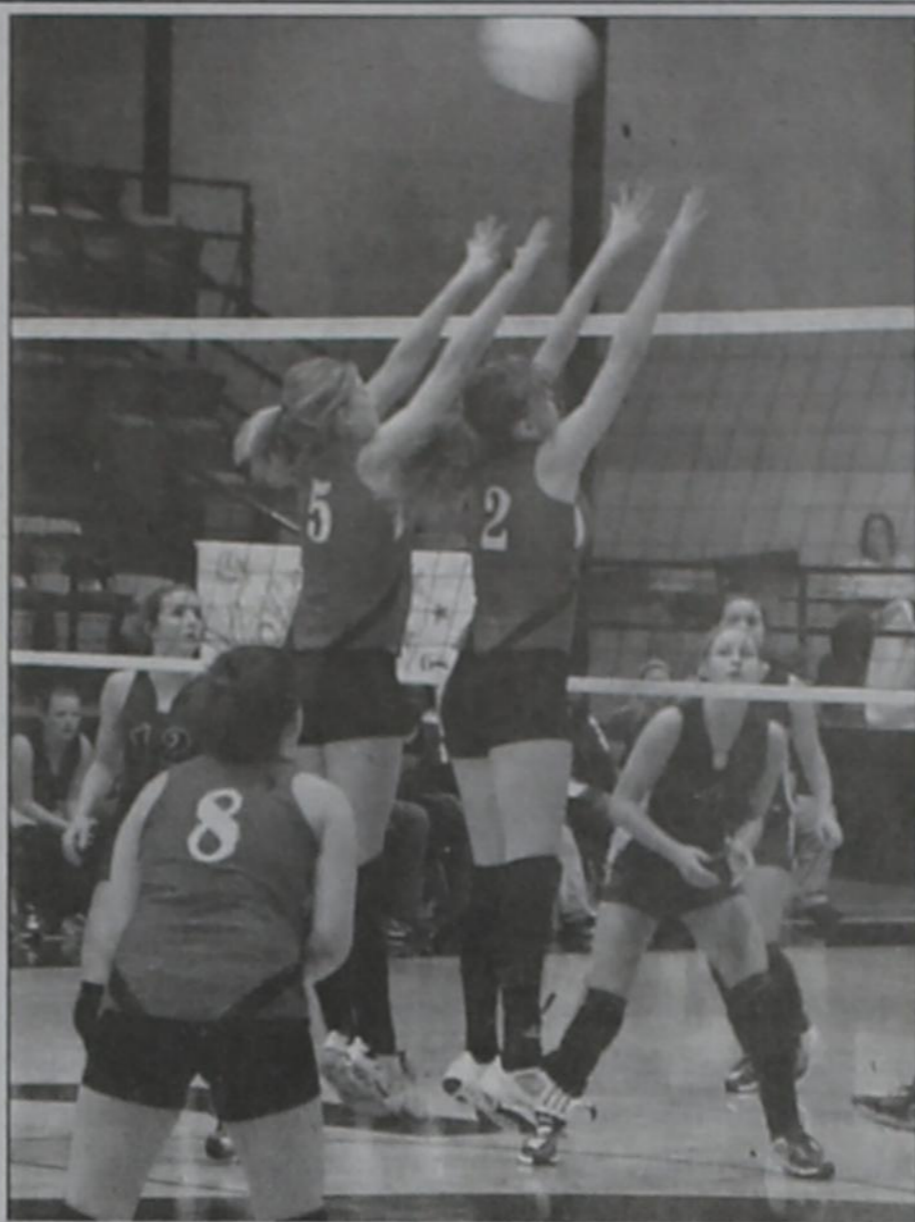

8th Braves 14 H'land Park 0

Donovan Johnson scored on a 15-yard TD run. Caleb Monroe's pass to Johnson for the two-point conversion was good. Monroe connected with Michael Ortiz for a 20-yard TD and the two-point conversion failed.

Squaws lose bi-district match to Ladybirds

A caravan of fans traveled to Seminole Tuesday night October 30 to cheer on the Friona Squaws volleyball team as they faced the Crane Ladybirds in a bi-district match. This was the Squaws second consecutive volleyball playoff appearance. The volleyball program at Friona is only in its third year and the girls have made tremendous progress.

This year's squad consists of seven seniors and two sophomores. Coach Carrie Arias, who took over the program at the start of the season when Coach Weaver resigned due to family health problems. Coach Arias said, "I wish I had the seniors back for one more year. The girls have made great progress this year. We have some good girls coming up so next year should be fun and exciting"

The Squaws lost to Crane by the close scores of 24-26, 20-25, 18-25 to close out the 2007 season. Congratulations girls on a great season.

T. LEON TALLEY, Sixth Street Church of Christ

It's hard to be loved by perfection! As a pianist pounces upon the keys of a piano, determined to bring forth its most resonant sound; as a sculptor furiously chips away at a large piece of marble intent on releasing the image of the beauty that hides within...so also does our creator lay His hand upon our lives determined to lift us to our spiritual potential. It's hard to be loved by perfection, but that is the kind of love we have from the Almighty God.

The Bible paints many portraits of how God loves and how He wants to relate to mankind. Let's note a few in this and the following article:

First, God is the creator, and we are the creatures. God told the prophet Isaiah, "It is I who made the earth, and created man upon it. I stretched out the heavens with my hands." This means that God is Sovereign, and we are His subjects. David said in Psalms 103:19 that the "Lord has established His throne in the heavens; and His sovereignty rules over all."

Customer Notice

West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative, Inc. (the Cooperative) has filed a request with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) seeking approval to implement a minor rate change to the intrastate intraLATA Long Distance Service, Operator Service Charges, and the local and intraLATA Directory Assistance Service Charges in its Long Distance Message Telecommunications Service Tariff. The Cooperative also seeks to eliminate the monthly call allowance of three free calls to Directory Assistance and remove the obsolete Service Charges for Operator, Station-to-Station, Collect, Fully Automated and Billed to Third Number, Fully Automated, that are no longer provided by the Company's Operator and Directory Assistance Service Provider, AT&T Texas.

The proposed effective date for the minor rate change is December 31, 2007 for all exchanges served by the Cooperative. The estimated annual revenue increase recognized by the Cooperative is $12,303 for the first year of service, which is 0.66% of the Cooperative's gross annual intrastate revenues.

Current and proposed rates are:

Persons with questions or who want more information on this application may contact the Cooperative at 3425 U.S. Hwy 385, Hereford, TX 79045 or call (806) 364-3331 during normal business hours. A complete copy of the application is available for inspection at the address listed above. The Commission has assigned Tariff Control Number 34805 to this application. Persons who wish to formally participate in the Commission's proceedings concerning this application, or wish to express their comments concerning this application should contact the Public Utility Commission of Texas, Office of Customer Protection, PO Box 13326, Austin, Texas 78711-3326, or call the Public Utility Commission's Office of Customer Protection at (512) 936-7120 or, toll free, at (888) 782-8477. Hearing and speech-impaired individuals with text telephones (TTY) may contact the Commission at (512) 936-7136 or reach the Commission's toll free number through Relay Texas at (800) 735-2988.

Requests to participate in the proceedings and comments should reach the Commission no later than November 30, 2007. If the Commission receives a complaint(s) relating to this application signed by the lesser of 5% or 1,500 of the affected local service customers to which this application applies by November 30, 2007, the application will be docketed. The 5% limitation will be calculated based upon the total number of customers of record as of the calendar month preceding the Commission's receipt of the complaint(s).

Senate Ag completes farm bill mark-up

BY SHAWN WADE

Members of the Senate Agriculture Committee completed in just two days what might be considered a whirlwind mark-up process for its version of the 2007 Farm Bill. Officially named The Food and Energy Security Act of 2007, the bill would provide some $288 billion in commodity support, conservation, and food and nutrition program spending when coupled with a $5 billion permanent disaster provision already approved by the Senate Finance Committee.

Compared to the months of haggling that preceded this week's activity, the final mark-up process went smoothly and provided very little drama, even though the potential for contentious debate and disagreement was certainly present.

Setting the process in motion was Senate Agriculture Chairman Tom Harkin who posted the final pieces of his Chairman's mark just hours before the full Agriculture Committee convened early on October 24 to start deliberating proposed amendments to the underlying legislative language.

One reason why the process went so smoothly was that some Senate Ag Committee members, knowing they did not have enough support within the Committee to push their proposals through, agreed to withdraw their amendments from consideration in favor of offering them later on during the floor to try and improve their odds of success.

At the end of the day Thursday the proposed Senate Bill, while not identical, turned out remarkably similar to the legislation passed by the House of Representatives earlier this year. This is good news for supporters of the current safety net program.

One of the more notable cosmetic departures between the House and Senate in regard to the Commodity Title is the name change it received from Chairman Harkin. Under the Senate Ag Committee's bill the Commodity Title is now known as the Producer Income Protection (PIP) Title.

In addition to the name change, the Senate bill proposes an optional Average Crop Revenue (ACR) option for producers beginning with the 2010 crop year. This provision is similar to the optional revenue protection program offered by the House.

Most importantly, though, the Senate's PIP title carries forward all of the safety net provisions producers are familiar with in the 2002 Farm Bill albeit with some minor adjustments.

Altogether nine amendments were approved by the Senate Ag Committee modifying Chairman Harkin's initial offering. Most of the approved amendments appear to deal with technical or commodity specific issues.

Of primary import to program crop producers was the all-new ACR program and an amendment that significantly modified how it was proposed to operate. Leading the effort to change the ACR was Senator Pat Roberts of Kansas.

First, and most importantly, the Roberts amendment stripped a linkage between the ACR and the Federal Crop Insurance Program. Two other significant alterations included limiting producers to making a one-time choice to participate in the ACR between the 2010 and 2012 growing seasons when the program would be put into operation and establishing payment acres equal to the 85 percent of base acres standard currently used in the 2002 Farm Bill's Direct and Counter-cyclical programs.

Congratulations on a Great Season

Week 9 contest, Gromowsky wins again

BY RON CARR

There were 22 games to pick from in the Week 9 contest, a small bonus as an opportunity to gain some ground. Some took advantage, others faded. The top entry was an 18 correct form from previous Week 6 winner William Gromowsky of Friona. He missed two high school and two college games. Since he was the only 18 correct game entry Mr. Gromowsky wins the $25 (again).

Second place saw a total of nine entries with 17 correct, including current point total leader Clint Mears. To sort out the nine entries and determine the 2nd place winner, we had to use the tie-breaker game of Canadian 27, Stratford 20 (a game the majority missed). Kale Sudderth of Austin was only two points off the tie-breaker with his guess of Canadian 28, Stratford 21. Kale wins the $15 prize for 2nd place.

Others at 17 correct and their points off the tie-breaker, in order of finish, were Robert Kerby 4, Glenden Sudderth 6, Clint Mears 7, Bailee Brailiff 7, Del Ray Sudderth 11, Derek Sudderth 14, Michael Villa 16, and Christi Villa 17.

A note to contestant Adam Raymond: we checked your Week 7 entry and you did have only 10 correct, not

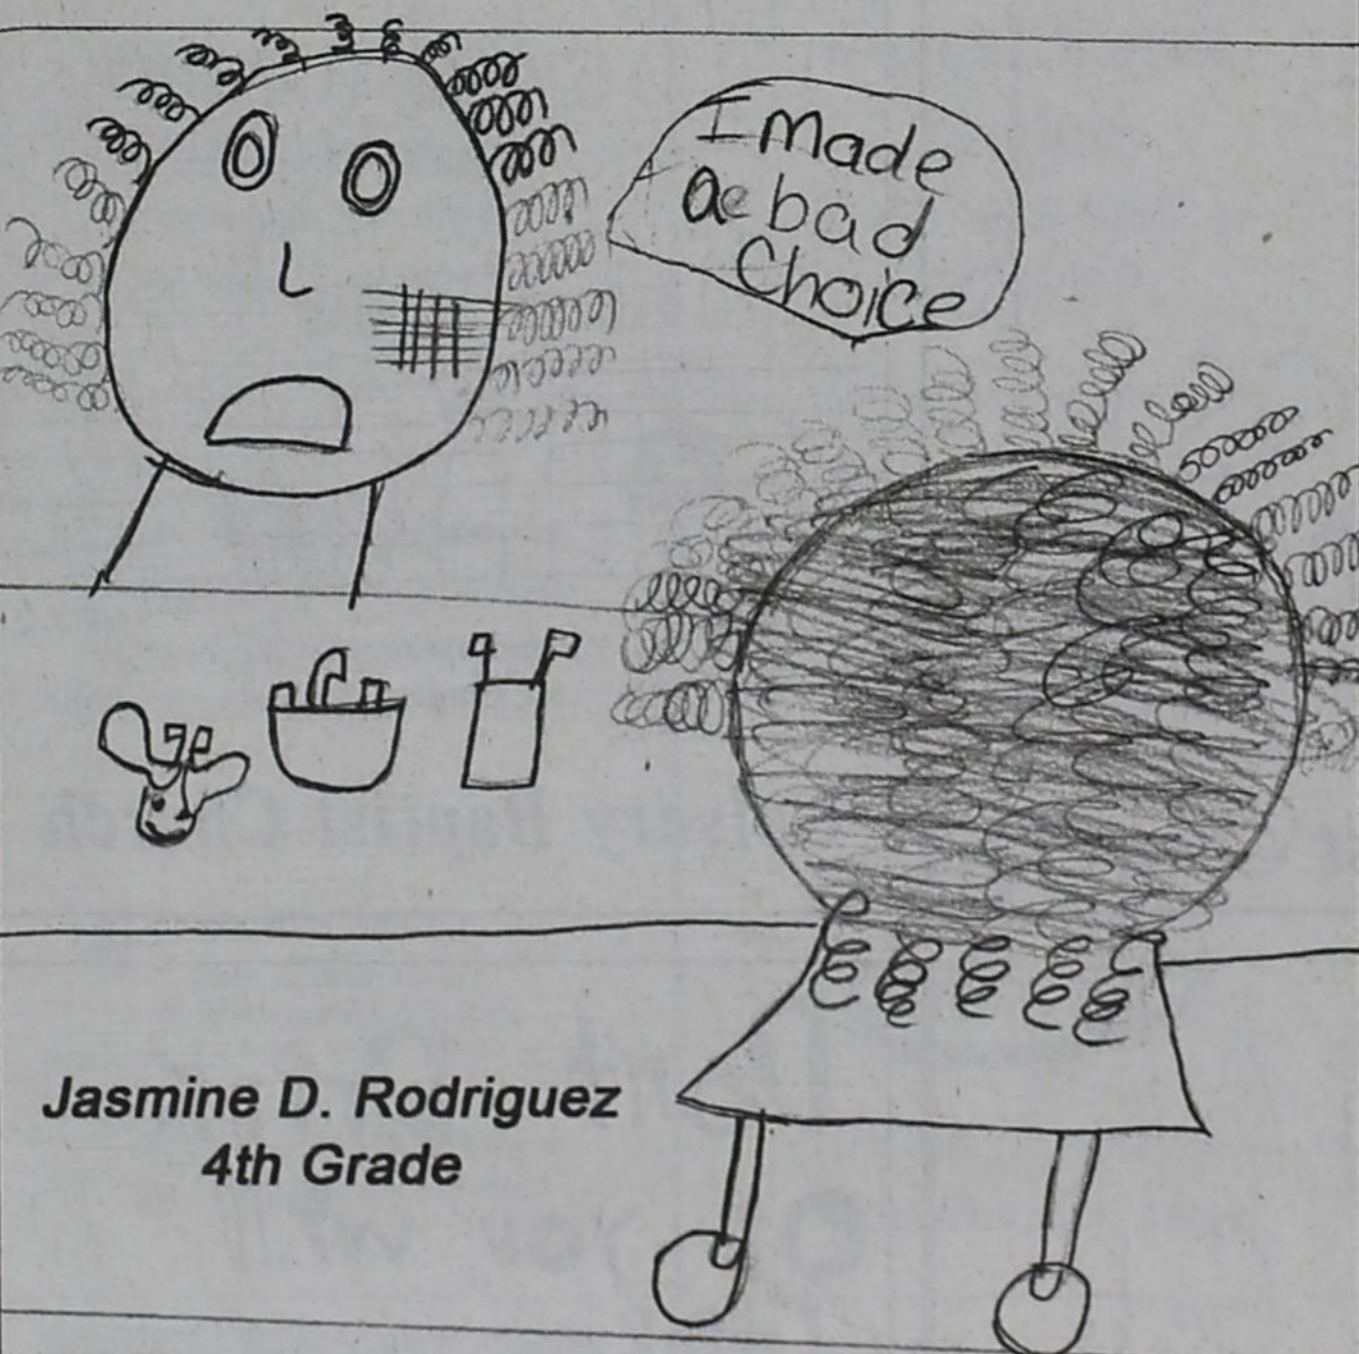

12. Like Santa Claus, we checked it twice. Your point total is correct. Thanks for playing.

There are four more contests in this week's season. The last few will include some high school playoff games if we know who is playing who. Otherwise we will include a liberal sampling of college and pro games.

Thank you all for playing and a special thanks to our sponsors who make all the competitive fun possible

PPHM sports new collection

Baseball legend Mike Hargrove and football greats Duane Thomas and Donny Anderson joined Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum Director Guy C. Vanderpool at a press conference held Tuesday, October 30, to introduce PPHM's sports artifact collecting initiative.

"The museum's sports collecting initiative will ensure that the stories and accomplishments of sports legends from the Panhandle will always be kept for others to learn from and enjoy," Guy C. Vanderpool said. "PPHM is committed to collecting items reflecting the great diversity of athletic competition, and we hope individuals and school teams will make PPHM the home for their records of success."

The intent of the initiative is to collect and preserve items used or collected by people from all genres of sports from soccer to golf and wrestling to bowling.

"The independent spirit that's here—we never lose it," Mike Hargrove said. "To be able to honor and look back at history in sports is tremendous. It's tremendous to honor our past and present athletes."

"One of the greatest assets is the people who pioneered the road for young men to follow this winning tradition. It not only recognizes athletes like ourselves, it also helps in recruiting," Duane Thomas said.

The children of twin brothers Myrl and Earl

Goodwin, likely the first people from the Panhandle-Plains to play professionally, attended the press conference and brought a 1926 baseball still in the box, a pair of cleats from 1926, and Myrl's 1928 National Football League contract. Originally from Paducah, Texas, the men played two sports professionally; football for the Pottsville Maroons and baseball for the Boston Braves.

Donny Anderson, Mike Hargrove, and Duane Thomas

In recent months, the museum has received significant contributions including a jersey, shoes, and helmets used by John Ayers; Jerry Logan trading cards; Maurice Cheeks' West Texas A&M University basketball jersey; programs from the Sun Bowls West Texas A&M University played in; and baseballs signed by Hank Aaron, Ernie Banks, Yogi Berra, Johnny Bench, Bobby Bonilla, Barry Bonds, Jose Canseco, Steve Carlton, Roger Clemens, Dennis Eckersley, Cecil Fielder, Whitey Ford, Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Bo Jackson, Reggie Jackson, Sandy Koufax, Mickey Mantle, Willie Mays, Willie McCovey, Stan Musial, Cal Ripken, Jr., Brooks Robinson, Frank Robinson, Pete Rose, Nolan Ryan, Mike Schmidt, Tom Seaver, Duke Snider, Warren Spahn, Ted Williams, and Carl Yastrzemski.

People interested in donating their sports items for preservation can call Michael Grauer at (806) 651-2262 or call Buster Ratliff at (806) 651-2252.

FSB Senior Club's national parks trip

BY MARCA HERRING

Seven customers of Friona State Bank joined others from across the country on a trip to see five of our National Parks. Those going on the trip were Mildred and Gene Welch, Pat Holland, Doris Barnett, and Marca Herring all from Friona. Lupe Villarreal from Hereford, and Sue Smith from Skellytown.

We flew to Phoenix where we joined the rest of the travelers and spent the first night in Scottsdale, Arizona. The next morning we were off on our journey. We had lunch in the artsy, pretty town of Sedona, which is nestled between red sandstone hills and buttes. (We learned the difference in "mesas and buttes", words that we've heard of all of our lives, but probably couldn't tell you what they meant.) We were surprised at the change in the landscape as we drove north, from desert sand hills to beautiful red rock formations.

We enjoyed the Glen Canyon River and Dam and Lake Powell where we spent the night. The next morning, we went on a breakfast cruise. The weather was great for this outing and we really enjoyed the meal and fresh air.

As we traveled along we noticed that at every stop there were vendors selling "turquoise" jewelry. Being leery, (from experience), we asked our guide about where we could find authentic turquoise and he advised us that in Cameron, Arizona, we would find the real stuff! We had fun shopping there (and everywhere else we stopped!).

We finally arrived at the beautiful North Rim of the Grand Canyon. What an amazing site! Our guide, Art, took us on a short walk on the Bright Angel Trail. The scenery was breathtaking with the different hues of the hillsides and cliffs. We saw the sunset and the sunrise on this wonder, called Grand Canyon. We stayed in cabins at the North Rim and experienced first hand the rustic mountain lodging there. The Grand Canyon is surely our favorite National Park!

The next park was a total surprise to most of us. Brice Canyon is truly a wonder with the hoodoos, red cliffs and the natural amphitheatre. Some of us walked half way down to the bottom on a trail called the Navajo Loop Trail. It had switchbacks and a narrow winding trail to follow. We were cautioned not to go to the bottom as it is a long way back up to the top. Brice Canyon is remarkable and we think that it must undoubtedly be our favorite National Park!

But what a surprise Zion National Park was! At the entrance to the park are long tunnels with 8-10 foot windows cut out along the way for glimpses of what's in store for us. We saw the Red Arch, caused by a rockslide in 1880, and rode on a tram that took us deeper into the park, where other four-wheeled means of transportation are no longer allowed to go. The views were breathtaking! We learned about the history of the peoples living there from the Anastasias of over 2000 years ago to the Mormon people of 100 years back. They all lived along the Virgin River that runs through the park. Zion was given its name because the Mormons said it reminded them of Zion of the bible. We agreed; Zion Park was beautiful and must be one of our favorite parks!

We spent two nights in Salt Lake City where we enjoyed touring the city including The Great Salt Lake, The Olympic Village and Temple Square. We were lucky enough to hear an organ recital at the Mormon Tabernacle. The organist also demonstrated the acoustics of the Tabernacle by dropping a single straight pin and then a nail. It was unbelievable that you could hear both of them from a great distance. We learned the history of Salt Lake City and area and were amazed at how clean the city was.

Our next two nights were spent in Jackson Wyoming in the Teton Mountains. Our weather turned cool here and we had to bundle up to enjoy the outdoors. We toured and shopped Jackson and had fun visiting a magic show held at the local high school and we went to the movies. The town of Jackson is in a "hole", surrounded by mountains, and we now know the reason for the name, Jackson Hole, which is the name of the ski slope. We had a acre park. We will always be amazed at the thermals we witnessed as we drove along. We saw Old Faithful erupt and some of the other geysers too. We visited the Fountain Paint Pots, crossing the Yellowstone River, which was so deep in areas that the buffalo had to swim. We thought this was a special treat to see this. We saw the "Grand Canyon" of Yellowstone and discovered why Yellowstone was named Yellowstone.

We stayed in Grant Village in the park and awoke to snow on some of the evergreens. It was beautiful. We drove out of the park and saw, what our guide said was known as, some of the prettiest scenery in the country and we agreed. Yellowstone Park is a national monument and should always remain in its wild state. Our guide said that was the goal of all the rangers in the park: to keep Yellowstone wild and natural.

We couldn't believe that in the small city of Cody, Wyoming is a big five-gallery museum called the Buffalo Bill Historical Center. It is fabulous! There were many paintings by Charles M Russell, Frederic Remington, and other western artists. We saw sculptures by Solon Borglum, whose older brother, Gutzon Borglum sculpted Mount Rushmore. We saw the Natural History Museum showing artifacts of early Wyoming and the Bill Cody Museum with his relics. This was an amazing stop for us that we thoroughly enjoyed.

One thing that we saw over and over in our tour of all the parks was the damage the Pine Bore Beetle is doing to our parks. They strip the pine trees of their pine needles and all that is left is the dead trunk. It looks as if a fire has stripped the trees but it is the beetle. Our guide said there was nothing that could be done because of the millions of acres affected. We saw this damage in every park we visited and wonder what the parks will look like in a few more years.

We drove through the Big Horn Mountains and finally arrived at The Black Hills of South Dakota, where Mount Rushmore and Crazy Horse awaited us. What an inspiring site is Mount Rushmore, with four of our country's presidents faces carved in rock. This was an astonishing feat; to carve anything in the granite rock was an arduous project, but to carve such exact features is something else. We "Texas 7" were excited to be able to see such beauty. We saw a short film that told of the history and carving. We thoroughly enjoyed Mount Rushmore and drove a short distance more and saw another amazing work in progress, Crazy Horse Monument! This piece of work has been going on since 1948 and is still unfinished. It's hard to imagine that blasting rock can eventually lead to recognizable features. We hope and wonder if it will be finished in our lifetime.

After we checked into the Game Lodge in the park, we boarded jeeps to see the wildlife of part of the 73,000-acre Custer State Park. We learned that the first weekend of October is a buffalo roundup, where all the buffalo in the park, around 1300, are gathered in corrals. The buffalo are tagged, and the older and weaker ones are sold. The roundup is a big event and over 12,000 people come to watch.

We really did enjoy making new friends from the Boston area, New York City area, Chicago area, Florida and Los Angeles. The group was very congenial and called us the "Texas 7" as we were the largest group on the bus. Our fellow countrymen were very interested in farming and Gene was kept busy answering questions, especially as we drove by fields of corn, sugar beets and alfalfa.

We held our farewell dinner in the Game Lodge's restaurant and said goodbye to our new friends from across the country, our guide, and bus driver. This was a great trip and we learned so much more about our country. We encourage everyone to visit any of our National Parks. It'll make you proud!

Our trip was great and we have pictures to show you. We appreciate all who went, and Friona State Bank for allowing us to have an FSB Senior Club. Come in and visit with us about our club and we'll show you the world!

Economical management offers life to playas

By Kay Ledbetter, Texas A&M Extension

Of the more than 25,000 playa wetlands in the plains, at least 70 percent have been altered from their natural state through plowing or sedimentation, said officials at the Playa Lakes Symposium held in Amarillo on October 23-24.

The overall message of the symposium was this represents a substantial loss of valuable resources to landowners, because if properly managed, a playa lake can enhance property value, as well as benefit wildlife.

Dr. Loren Smith, zoology department head at Oklahoma State University, said a comparison of cropland and rangeland playas will show most cropland playas have lost a majority of their depth due to sedimentation, where grassland playas have minimal sediment fill.

Sediment deposition is caused by water erosion, not wind, Smith said. Restoration will require focusing on the watershed and keeping topsoil in place. The first step should be to establish a buffer strip around the playa. "If we don't do anything in the next 20 years, most playas will cease to be productive," Smith said.

Gene Miller, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist from Canyon, agreed, saying the greatest benefits for native wildlife, wetland health and water conservation can be achieved by the establishment of large native prairie buffers. To encourage this watershed management, he said it will take programs that are attractive to landowners and allow voluntary participation.

Each landowner has to find a place somewhere on the line between managing only for wildlife, and only for farming and ranching that works for them, said Ken Cearley, Extension wildlife specialist in Canyon.

"We're constantly faced with making a living off that land, and most of the time playas are just in the background," Cearley said. "It's our choice to give a playa a priority or not. Farming and ranching are both first in mind when we talk about agriculture, but wildlife are also a part of the mix and should be an integral part of production on the land." Sound stewardship of the land is the bottom line, as well as what is economically feasible, he said.

Landowners should consider how much value a well-maintained playa might add to their land because of the wildlife it attracts for food and cover, Cearley said. Most advertisements for land in newspapers now mention deer, turkey and quail for hunting or observation purposes.

Some playas are prettier than others, and may offer more return, he said, suggesting landowners start by taking inventory of the land, pinpointing the positive aspects. Getting an aerial photograph of the location through Texas Natural Resource Information Service, GoogleEarth.com or other locations with user-friendly global positioning satellite technology can help, Cearley said.

Know how much personal involvement it will take, especially when getting into hunting and other recreational type uses that may require leases and visitors to the area, he advised. "Set your goals and priorities," Cearley said. "Then figure out a way for the land to reach its full potential."

To reach maximum potential, a buffer of native grasses at least two to three times the area of the playa basin needs to be established, he said. Fencing may be necessary to control grazing. Different grazing pressures result in different wildlife utilizing the plant life for food and cover, he said. Light grazing favors pheasants, while intense grazing would attract animals looking for short-grass cover, such as prairie dogs, burrowing owls and shorebirds.

Some playas must continue to be used for livestock water, Cearley said. In those cases, it might be necessary to fence portions of the playa and understand that the grazed portion will be under more pressure. Fencing may not be needed when the playa is among row crops, he said. But management is still an issue, including leaving stubble in place as long as possible, allowing the waste grain to be used as feed for pheasants and other birds.

Several government programs are available to assist landowners with playa preservation, including CP23A, the Wetlands Reserve Program and the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program, said DeDe Jones, Texas Agricultural Extension risk management specialist.

Jones provided an outline of the three programs:

- CP23A is a special incentive Conservation Reserve Program for restoring playas on land with a dryland cropping history of at least four years. The money must be used to establish a buffer that is at least 50-feet wide and up to four times the wetlands' acreage. Cost-sharing of up to 90 percent is available, but none for fencing. Contracts are for 10-15 years and there is a one-time sign-up bonus of $10 per acre and an annual long-term maintenance payment of $4 per acre.

- Wetlands Reserve Program has three options, but basically provides incentives to stop cultivation of areas that once were playas. Cropping history is not required. It provides a 10-year restoration cost-share agreement with the Natural Resources Conservation Service paying 75 percent of eligible expenses, including fencing, earth moving and grass planting.

- Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program involves a 50 percent to 75 percent restoration cost-share agreement with the contract running between five to 15 years.

Grazing is allowed.

Jones said estimated net income from the CP23A is often more than the returns from dryland wheat and sorghum in the High Plains, so it may appeal to producers in this region. The attractiveness of the Wetlands Reserve Program depends on the ability to generate enough wildlife revenues to offset restoration costs and crop and pasture income losses, she said.

The Wildlife Habitat program can be more economical at lower restoration cost levels and/or longer contract lengths, Jones said. "Every playa has to be handled on a case-by-case basis to see which option works best," she said.
