Kiwanians 'adopt' local highway

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Slightly more than two miles of local highway are going to be cleaner, thanks to the efforts of a local organization.

The Kiwanis Club of Big Spring is participating in the state Highway Department's "adopt a highway" program, according to club president Keith Gibbons.

The group has adopted a section of Highway 87 from Hearn Street to the Garden City cutoff, he said. As program participants, members agree to clean the highway at least twice a year.

Fifteen to 20 Kiwanians will gather from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday to perform this task, he said.

In return, the highway department erects a sign stating that the section of highway was adopted by that particular club, according to Melvin Dorn, maintenance supervisor at the Big Spring highway department office.

The Kiwanis Club is the first organization in Howard County to adopt a highway, Dorn said. The agreement between the department and the service organization continues for one year, and the organization has the option of continuing it next year, he said.

Any organization interested in the program should contact Dorn.

John Cagle, public information officer at the department's main office in Austin, said the program's purpose is to get people involved in the system and to take pride in it, more than simply clear litter.

He said the program began as an experiment in Tyler two years ago. When it proved effective, the program was offered statewide in spring of 1965.

Interest has been shown nationwide. When information about the program appeared in a national highway department magazine, departments from Hawaii and Virginia contacted the Texas office, interested in establishing one in their states.

There have been other benefits. Land com-

Educators say job evaluation needs changes

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — The state's new process for evaluating teacher performance requires them to perform a "dog-and-pony show" and has further eroded their already shaky morale, an educators' group charged Thursday.

"Teachers are tired, they are frustrated, and they want the classroom environment restored to a point where they can concentrate once again on teaching," said Kent King, an official of the Association of Texas Professional Educators.

King and the association's executive director, Mike Morrow, said the evaluation process which began this year as part of the state's school reform movement needs major improvements.

Morrow said the State Board of Education and the 1987 Legislature will be asked to overhaul the system. He voiced optimism that improvements can be made.

King noted that a recent Louis Harris opinion poll showed 55 percent of the nation's teachers have considered quitting the profession.

He said an ATPE survey showed 66 percent of its members are thinking or have considered quitting in the past year. That survey also found that 41 percent wouldn't choose to enter education if they were able to make their career choices over again.

"The appraisal system is a highly volatile issue that is adding to a serious morale problem that has been growing for at least two years," King said.

King, a former classroom teacher who has been certified by the state to conduct teacher appraisals, said the evaluation process for is unfair and inadequate in many respects. He said the system calls for evaluation in 71 areas of teacher behavior during a relatively short observation period.

Morrow said the criteria for evaluation are too limited and don't take into account the individual styles of different teachers.

"It simply does not allow for the classroom teacher to demonstrate the individual instructional skills and styles that they possess," Morrow said.

"The current appraisal system ... requires teachers to put on performances for the evaluation and the appraisers rather than having the appraisers trained in such a way so that they can come into a regular classroom experience and seek out and see those good teaching qualities taking place.

"Teachers refer to the observation period as having to put on a dog and pony show," he said.

The ATPE officials, whose group represents 43,500 Texas educators, said morale has been on the skids since passage of the 1984 school reform legislation.

Bentsen, Gramm react to Iran deal

By ANDREW MANGAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both U.S. senators from Texas condemned President Reagan's covert policy permitting the shipment of arms to Iran as a mistake.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, a Democrat, said he was attending a meeting of the North Atlantic Assembly in Istanbul, Turkey, when news spread around the globe about the administration's arms deal with Iran and the related release of U.S. hostages.

"I was meeting in Istanbul last week with other parliamentarians from NATO countries as details of the U.S. arms sales to Iran were being revealed," Bentsen said in Washington on Thursday.

"They were incredulous, frankly. These were people whose arms we had twisted to not do business with Iran and now it was being revealed that we had not just done business with them, but provided them with weapons.

"Most of these legislators are from European countries. They're all our allies. Most of them had the attitude that 'There must be something we haven't been told yet that will make it all come clear.'"

Reagan stoutly defended his decision during a news conference Wednesday night, saying it opened communication with moderates in Iran and helped win freedom for three hostages held in Beirut.

Republican Sen. Phil Gramm, usually a firm backer of the president, said this was one time when Reagan had badly blundered.

"Let me just put it simply and I think I can end my comments on the issue," Gramm said. "Even very bright people tend, from time to time, to do dumb things. And this was a dumb thing."

Gramm said he thought the president was telling the truth to the American people when he said the objective of the policy was to promote rapprochement with Iran's moderate factions for strategic reasons and not an arms-for-hostages swap.

"I'm not questioning the president's word about anything. All I'm saying is, after the fact, looking at the big picture, it was not a smart thing to do," Gramm said.

Energy assistance funds near depletion

No federal funds in sight

Austin Bureau
BRYAN — A statewide program to help the Texas poor pay utility bills, already depleted of funds in many areas, may be completely without funds by Dec. 1, when contracts with the agencies that handle the program expire.

For the next contract year, beginning Dec. 1, the federal government is expected to allocate at least $2 million to help the Texas poor with crisis utility bills.

But officials say it apparently will be a while before those needing help see any money from the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP).

Charles Smith, director of energy assistance for the Texas Department of Human Services, said the grant application for the funds went to the governor's office for review and approval Sept. 26.

In Washington, however, a spokesman said the application was not received in the Office of Energy Assistance, Department of Health and Human Services, until Nov. 3.

And, said program analyst Lorraine Hall, it was lacking a complete description of the crisis intervention plan which assists persons confronting disconnection of service.

Smith said that part was included in the grant application when it left his office, and he said he sent another copy of that portion of the application on Nov. 12.

Hershel Meriwether, associate deputy for programs in White's office, said the state's budget crunch required a thorough review of the application before forwarding it to Washington. In any case, local agencies should be able to handle any such problems, he said.

Hall, of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, said federal review normally takes about two weeks, and had the application been received earlier, the funds already could have been released.

Coalition sets sights on state Demos

AUSTIN (AP) — The American Ethnic Coalition, which convinced the State Republican Executive Committee to adopt a resolution calling for adoption of English as the official language, now has set its sights on state Democrats.

"I have confidence that even though it may take awhile, the Democrats are going to come into line with the Republicans because it's so logical," said Bill Toney of Nacogdoches, chairman of the Democratic caucus of the American Ethnic Coalition.

Texas Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle Thursday called the resolution "tomfoolery," and gave it little chance of winning approval from the State Democratic Executive Committee.

He said supporters of the resolution seem like "a bunch of people who are probably paranoid and who believe there's a bunch of people in dark, dank cellars plotting to make them speak Spanish."

The American Ethnic Coalition, largely a Texas organization, was formed on the Fourth of July. Its chairman, Lou Zaeske of Houston, said the organization's purpose is "to prevent the division of America along ethnic lines."

A constitutional amendment making English the nation's official language would go a long way toward preventing that division, Zaeske said. "Every other ethnic minority took pride in embracing English as the language of their new country. But now we are being increasingly populated by immigrants, many of them illegal, who feel entitled to be educated and live their whole lives in the language of their native countries," said Zaeske, an engineer.

The coalition includes "several thousand" members, all of whom can trace their families to ethnic groups, Zaeske said. Zaeske said he is half-Czech, and "I speak English with almost no accent at all."

Sheriff's log Two arrested on DWI suspicion

Department of Public Safety troopers arrested two persons Thursday night on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. James Phillip Hickman, 53, 500 N.E. 11th St., was arrested at N.E. 11th and Benton streets. He was released on $1,000 bond. Larry Eugene Millard, 48, of Plainview, was arrested about an hour later. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Police transferred Esmeralda Cantu Ortiz, 30, 2507 Carleton Dr., to county jail Thursday morning after she was arrested for suspicion of driving while intoxicated. She was released on $1,000 bond.

Life term possibility faces city man

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

A 26-year-old Big Spring man could face a life term in the state prison as a result of a parole hearing Thursday, Assistant District Attorney Robert Morris said today.

Lonnell Lott, 26, 809 Ohio St., was arrested Oct. 9 by Big Spring Police detectives on warrants for attempted sexual assault, aggravated assault with a deadly weapon, attempted murder and kidnapping.

Morris said the charges are pending before the grand jury.

Morris also said Lott could be charged "as an habitual criminal because he has been convicted of two felonies and sent to prison."

An habitual criminal charge increases the sentence to 25 years to life, Morris said.

The State Board of Pardons and Paroles will decide by Dec. 20 whether Lott will be returned to the state prison, District Parole Officer David Harman said.

Thursday's three-hour parole hearing ended with recommendations that Lott be returned to prison to finish a seven-year sentence as a result of a 1983 burglary conviction in Dawson County. Those recommendations were made by Harman and Parole Hearing Officer Joe Hernandez of Lubbock.

Lott's latest arrest warrants originated from a complaint filed in October by an 18-year-old Big Spring woman who testified during Thursday's hearing.

Police charge that Lott held her at his home for more than 10 hours when he assaulted her. During that time she suffered a stab wound to her lower left side, police said.

Lott's adult criminal record began in Howard County in April 1979 when he pleaded guilty in 118th District Court to felony forgery. He was sentenced to five years and released on parole in March 1981 by the Texas Department of Corrections.

He pleaded guilty in March 1982 in 118th District Court to a theft charge and the state board revoked his parole. He was returned to the prison and released a year later.

In November 1983, he received the seven-year sentence for the Dawson County burglary. He was discharged by the TDC in November 1985.

1,452 miles of state highway have been adopted by 691 organizations, he said. The state has a about 73,000 miles of highway. Organizations, rather than families or individuals, are asked to take part in the program, he said. The highway department provides reflective vests and litter bags and discusses safety with the participants.

Wilson '86 Miss Merry Christmas

Melissa Anne Wilson, 17, a junior at Big Spring High School, has been chosen Miss Merry Christmas, according to contest coordinator Pat Porter.

Wilson, a Big Spring native, is the daughter of Roxanne Wilson and the granddaughter of Bobbie and Elmer Bolte, all of 435 Hillside Drive. Her great-grandparents were a pioneer family in the area.

As Miss Merry Christmas, Melissa Wilson will be the Howard County representative of "cheer and good tidings," Porter said. She will participate in the Dec. 13 Christmas parade.

In past years, Miss Merry Christmas selectees have taken part in such Christmas activities as the Salvation Army doll auction, Porter said.

Melissa is a member of the French Club and the National Junior Honor Society. She won Best Upper Division Theater Student at the school, and all-tournament in state and regional girls softball.

In previous years, she won the grand championship for art in the Howard County fair and wrote the Goliad Middle School news for the Megaphone.

She plays the piano, volleyball, basketball and runs track.

Roxanne Wilson said her daughter plans to study archaeology in college, and she is preparing by taking foreign language and math courses in school. She would like to visit Australia.

The six other candidates, all of whom judges named first runner-up, will be Wilson's court. They are: Amy Cox, Tabitha Green, D'Carlon Wilson, Amy Burgess, Michelle Wiggins and Cary Brooks.

Candidates were required to be a junior or senior at any county high school and to have at least a C grade point average. They were judged on writing a "What Christmas Means to Me," essay and a personal interview with judges.

The contest is sponsored by the Blue Blazers division of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

GM settlement made

DETROIT — A tentative settlement was reached today in a walkout that forced General Motors Corp. to shut down factories in eight states, but the 44,550 striking and laid-off workers stayed off the job, a GM spokesman said.

The agreement came about 2 a.m. after a 17-hour bargaining session between negotiators for GM's Delco Electronics subsidiary and United Auto Workers Local 292 in Kokomo, Ind., said GM spokesman John Mueller.

Details of the agreement would not be disclosed because of the pending ratification vote, scheduled for Saturday, he said.

"Work will resume as soon as possible following ratification," Mueller said.

Shuttle test a success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — A practice emergency in which seven astronauts were evacuated from a space shuttle revealed some flaws and will help improve safety before the fleet resumes flights, says NASA's launch director.

The biggest problem during Thursday's launch pad drill that simulated a fuel spill involved communications, said launch director Gene Thomas. There also were troubles with a broken-down escape vehicle, a helicopter and a system that deluges the pad with water.

"We had some breakdowns, but overall the exercise was very valuable to us," Thomas said. "We'll look at everything real hard before we fly again."

Pardon is possibility

MADISON, Wis. — Relatives of Eugene Hasenfus said they were encouraged by their private meeting with Nicaragua's vice president, who told them his country may pardon the captured mercenary.

Sergio Ramirez said he told three of Hasenfus' relatives that the pardon could be issued as a step toward normalizing relations between his country and the United States.

After Thursday's meeting, he told reporters the pardon was "an open possibility." But when asked if it would come by Christmas, he responded, "I can't answer that question."

Plane cracks checked

WASHINGTON — Airlines flying the Lockheed L-1011 are examining the the wide-body jetliner, looking for possible cracks in the wing supports after a 6 1/2-inch fracture was found in the wing of a Delta Air Lines jet.

The Federal Aviation Administration ordered the emergency inspections, covering nearly 100 airplanes, on Thursday, requiring the airlines to examine each plane within 50 flying hours, probably about a week in most cases.

U.S. airlines operate 117 of the aircraft, according to officials of Lockheed-California, which built 250 of the planes between 1970 and 1983. Three airlines — Delta, Eastern and Trans World — together fly 94 of them.

An unidentified supporter of the opposition National Action Party (PAN) is dragged away as riot police broke up a demonstration on the anniversary of the Mexican Revolution. Officials said 30 people were injured and 20 arrested in the disturbance Thursday afternoon.

Mexico

Violence mars revolution's anniversary

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Violence erupted on both ends of the 1,000-mile Mexico-Texas border on the 76th anniversary of the Mexican Revolution.

While 30 people were reportedly injured in Juarez, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, no one was reported hurt in rioting in Matamoros, whose Texas sister city is Brownsville, near the Gulf of Mexico.

About 1,000 supporters of the opposition National Action Party blockaded one of four bridges linking Juarez and El Paso Thursday night, vowing to stay in place until police free Gustavo Elizondo, PAN president in Juarez and a former mayoral candidate.

Elizondo was among 20 people arrested when riot police tear-gassed a PAN parade in downtown Juarez earlier Thursday, said Oscar Rivas, PAN federal representative.

In Matamoros, some 4,000 students and other youths broke windows, set a bus ablaze and damaged shops in a demonstration after a parade there. Police broke up the demonstration against higher transportation prices, but no injuries were reported, said Jose Mireles, secretary for a police magistrate.

In Juarez, former Mayor Francisco Barrio, an ex-

PAN gubernatorial candidate for the state of Chihuahua, said the ruling party "made a grave mistake on their part, to use force against the people."

Barrio, who spoke to supporters blockading the Bridge of the Americas, referred to the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, in power since 1929. PAN leaders claim the PRI, as the government party is known, used fraud to win July 6 elections in Chihuahua, traditionally a PAN stronghold.

This was the second time PAN followers have blockaded the Bridge of the Americas, the most important commercially between the two cities. On July 24, the PAN blockaded the bridge for five days to protest alleged election fraud.

According to witnesses, police threw tear-gas canisters Thursday afternoon as the parade was nearly ending near Juarez's Plaza de Armas. Two shots were heard as police in riot gear tried to disperse crowds lining the street.

Police patrol cars and vans sped the wrong way down the one-way 16 de Septiembre Avenue as officers held smoking tear-gas canisters out the windows to spread the vapors.

Ramos asks for ousts

MANILA, Philippines — Gen. Fidel V. Ramos confirmed for the first time today that the military wants some Cabinet officials fired, and a presidential adviser said he suspected a possible U.S. role in efforts to destabilize the government.

Ramos, the military's chief of staff, issued a statement after a 90 minute meeting with President Corason Aquino saying the military had recommended changes in her 9-month-old Cabinet. A presidential spokesman said Mrs. Aquino had no reaction.

Libya wins UN vote

UNITED NATIONS — The United Nations has condemned the United States bombing raids on Libya as illegal and says the North African nation is entitled to compensation for "material and human" losses suffered in the attack.

The world body on Thursday passed a non-binding resolution condemning the raids by a vote of 79-28, with 33 abstentions.

The resolution was sponsored by 27 countries, mostly Arab and Soviet bloc states. The United States, most of its Western allies, Japan, Israel and a few Third World nations opposed it. NATO members Greece and Turkey abstained.

Volcano fissure opens

TOKYO — A 600-yard-long fissure opened in the ground today near the Mount Mihara volcano, sending lava pouring toward a small town on Oshima Island and forcing thousands of residents and tourists to evacuate.

Police in Tokyo said molten lava was headed toward the island's most populated district and that about 40 forest fires were reported. About 10,300 people live on the 35-square-mile island, a popular tourist spot about 70 miles south of Tokyo.

About 240 people were evacuated aboard the 1,000-ton Maritime Safety Agency patrol vessel Katori, agency spokesman Susumu Haneda said. He said he had been informed that one person aboard the ship was dead, but did not say how the person died.

Iran ambassador chosen

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The government today approved the appointment of an Iranian ambassador to Lebanon, raising Tehran's diplomatic representation in Beirut to that level for the first time in three years.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the new ambassador, 29-year-old Ahmad Dastmalchian of Tehran, will take up his post in Beirut in a month. The spokesman refused to be identified in line with government regulations.

Charge d'Affaires Mahmoud Nourani has headed Iran's diplomatic mission in Beirut since 1983, when Iran criticized Lebanon for taking part in U.S.-sponsored negotiations with Israel. The Beirut government accused Iran of interfering in Lebanon's domestic affairs.

IRS has double standard inside

It is outrageous to learn that a former Internal Revenue Service agent who failed to pay any income tax for 12 years received a slap on the wrist after he was convicted of tax evasion.

Even though former IRS agent Philip Caloger of Chicago admitted paying no taxes from 1970 to 1981, U.S. District Judge Prentice Marshall sentenced him to only 90 days in prison. Because the six-year statute of limitations had expired for nine of the 12 years, Mr. Caloger could be prosecuted only for his failure to pay taxes in 1979, 1980 and 1981.

There seems to be a double standard at the IRS, which is notorious for harassing taxpayers it suspects of cheating.

A 1980 internal audit showed that IRS agents cheat on their taxes at double the rate of ordinary citizens.

Judge Marshall declared that the 90-day sentence for Mr. Caloger was "appropriate" because of his background as an IRS agent and attorney. We adamantly disagree.

As an IRS employee who made a conscious decision to violate the law he was hired to enforce, Mr. Caloger should have received the maximum year in prison and $10,000 fine on each of the three counts.

President should clean up his act

You would think a president working so near the Potomac — a once-polluted river that now runs much cleaner thanks to environmental efforts — would feel a natural affinity for the federal Clean Water Act.

So why, then, did President Reagan recently kill the $18-billion federal sewage-treatment bill with a pocket veto? Both the U.S. Senate and the House of Representatives unanimously had approved this popular legislation.

Surely, the president must know that his pocket veto was a symbolic disapproval, not a permanent setback for a measure designed to clean our waterways.

Congress is expected to introduce a similar measure early next year.

"The president cannot hope to dam the tidal wave of support for passage of the Clean Water Act," said Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif. "He can only delay the inevitable."

We don't quibble with the president's concern about multibillion-dollar programs in an era of huge federal budget deficits. But this is a program that we can't afford to eliminate.

Streams and rivers and oceans are a national resource, and they must not be allowed to degenerate into conduits for sewage to help balance the budget. That's a false economy that will take its toll on both the environment and human health.

When federal officials set clean-water standards for the entire nation, the federal government should be willing to help finance the high cost of implementing them.

The Clean Water Act deserves the president's support. We hope he agrees to sign a similar measure — perhaps with a smaller price tag — the next time it crosses his desk.

'Asleep' letter prompts response

To the editor:
I am writing in response to Mr. Wright's letter, published in the Herald on November 19th. Mr. Wright expressed criticism regarding the scheduling of the "Asleep-at-the-Wheel" concert on the same evening as the Steers' and Bufaloes' games.

Apparently Mr. Wright is not aware of the circumstances relating to the Asleep-at-the-Wheel band's appearance in Big Spring. The band is performing virtually free-of-charge to benefit work being done in Comanche Trail Park.

Because the band has national prominence, particularly in Texas, its schedule is a busy one. Nevertheless, when the originally scheduled date of its appearance in Big Spring conflicted with the United Way fund-raising appearance of Louise Mandrell, the band rescheduled its appearance to a weekend that would not conflict with (known) scheduled events.

The band's appearance in Big Spring on Saturday corresponds with open dates in its travel schedule. In short, Councilman Rutherford had little choice in the performance date, although he was very instrumental in arranging the band's appearance. The band chose the date, not Mr. Rutherford.

Mr. Wright states, "Progressive communities are unified communities," and I agree. I think all Big Spring and Forsan citizens are justifiably proud of their football teams — win or lose.

I have some trouble, however, equating how the wholesome pastime of attending a football game results in community unity as Mr. Wright states. If this were true, Big Spring should have no unity problems, given our massive attendance at football games.

I would take Mr. Wright's comments one step further — relative to a "progressive community." A progressive community also offers a variety of events so choices can be made by its citizens. I can assure you the high school football team's win/loss record has little impact on luring industry to Big Spring. The existence of a variety of cultural events and natural resources, on the other hand, are major considerations and deserve at least equal thought.

A variety of choices exist this coming Saturday. We have two dynamite football games being played away from Big Spring; a play at Howard College, and a top-of-the-line band playing Bob Willis and contemporary country music.

Take your pick, Mr. Wright, but please don't imply the other options are anti-Big Spring. They certainly are not, and fault should not be directed toward those citizens who choose an event other than the football game.

Hostage charges realized

By STEPHEN CHAPMAN

On Oct. 3, the group known as Islamic Holy War released a videotape recorded by two American hostages being held in Lebanon. Noting the exchange made with the Soviet Union for journalist Nicholas Daniloff, Terry Anderson and David Jacobsen bitterly criticized the Reagan administration's failure to reach a similar deal with their captors.

The criticism struck a nerve with the president, who replied angrily, "There is no comparison between the two situations." The State Department piously agreed: "We're always willing to talk with anyone or any group concerning the return and the safety of the hostages, but we're not going to give in to terrorist demands."

But Anderson and Jacobsen apparently won the argument. While the administration was denying that the Daniloff trade could justify a trade for the hostages in Lebanon, it was keeping its end of just such a bargain: sending military spare parts to Iran, the patron of Islamic Holy War.

The Reagan administration may regard the two trades as morally equivalent. If so, it is mistaken. The Daniloff exchange, though regrettable, was justified. The secret pact with Iran was not. Several crucial differences distinguish the two.

The first lies in what we gave up. To free Daniloff, the U.S. made a largely symbolic concession. The expulsion of the accused Soviet spy, Gennadiy Zakharov, was not a departure from normal practice but a return to it. The departure was in arresting and indicting him to start with.

Here the concessions are real. For seven years — since the seizure of 52 American hostages in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran — we have refused to engage in any sort of trade with Iran. In our effort to avert a victory by Iran in its war against Iraq, we have done all we could to deny military supplies to Khomeini — from the U.S. or from translating its huge manpower advantage into a triumph on the battlefield.

That brings us to the second key distinction — the cost to broader American interests. The Daniloff trade didn't sacrifice any important goal related to our relations with Moscow — the security of Western Europe, the pursuit of arms reductions, the battle against the Sandinistas.

The danger here can hardly be exaggerated. If Iran wins the war, it will be the dominant power in a strategically important region. It will have a free hand to subvert, harass and intimidate moderate states like Saudi Arabia, at potentially great cost to the Western economies.

The third difference lies in its effect on the safety of Americans. The Soviets, whatever their other barbarities, aren't likely to make kidnapping a routine weapon against the U.S. — the cost in world opinion would be too great. Making a deal for Daniloff didn't expose every American in Moscow to future reprisals.

But this deal can only foster more terrorism — in fact, it already has.

No one expects that Edward Austin Tracy, abducted Oct. 21 by a group believed to have ties to Iran, will be the last. If they can gain something by kidnapping more Americans, you can be sure they'll do it.

The correct principle to be drawn from the Daniloff trade is that if the costs are low enough, it is impossible to justify letting an American languish in jail or die.

But cases like these are rare. They are not grounds for changing the basic American policy, which, as the administration said last May, is that "the U.S. government will make no concessions to terrorists. It will not pay ransoms, release prisoners, change its policies or agree to other acts that might encourage additional terrorism."

General Ver attempts to overthrow Aquino

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency has been tracking the mysterious operations of Gen. Fabian Ver, former chief of staff of Philippine armed forces, who reportedly is plotting to overthrow President Corazon Aquino.

Intelligence sources believe he has formed a "death squad" that is ready to eliminate any Filipino leaders who stand in his way. According to these sources, Defense Minister Juan Enrile has already received death threats for his role in boosting Aquino to power.

Enrile has tightened his security; he is constantly guarded by an elite security force of 600 crack troops. But he has also tried to placate Ver's partisans by speaking out against Aquino and accusing her of courting the communist insurgents.

Press reports have suggested that Enrile is maneuvering to run against Aquino in the next election. But the truth is that he is afraid of Ver and is merely trying to save his own skin, our sources say.

Under the Ferdinand Marcos dictatorship, Enrile and Ver were close friends. In fact, Enrile has confided to intimates that he urged Marcos to appoint Ver as chief of staff. But when the dictatorship came crashing down, the friendship broke up. Enrile abandoned Marcos and ordered his troops to support Cory Aquino. An embittered Ver fled to America with Marcos.

Intelligence sources now report that Ver has been flying back and forth between the United States and Southeast Asia, meeting with cohorts and building an underground to oppose Aquino.

While he was chief of staff, Ver personally directed the security operations that cracked down on Marcos' opponents. He was in charge of "special security projects" that not only hounded exiles who dared to oppose Marcos but eliminated some of the most troublesome.

Ver developed a particularly close relationship with President Marcos' wife, Imelda. At one time, their operations inside the United States came under the scrutiny of the Defense Intelligence Agency. A secret DIA report claimed that Ver and Imelda Marcos stacked the Philippine Embassy in Washington.

Declared the report: "The new team is expected to monitor Philippine dissident activity in the U.S. The attaches will undoubtedly report on, and possibly operate against, anti-Marcos Philippine activists in the U.S."

Their top target in America was Marcos' arch-rival, Benigno Aquino. The DIA reported that Imelda Marcos secretly called on Aquino in May 1983, and warned him that he might be assassinated if he returned to the Philippines.

Aquino disregarded the warning, later returned home and was gunned down as he stepped off the plane. This cold-blooded murder precipitated the dramatic events that led to Marcos' downfall and his replacement by Aquino's widow.

Ver is now wanted in the Philippines for allegedly plotting the assassination. Intelligence sources say that, meanwhile, he is directing a shadowy operation to oust President Aquino and rease the Aquino name from Philippine politics once and for all.

POVERTY ON THE NILE: There's little doubt that the Egyptian "fellahin" generally live in abject poverty, and State Department sources say that most working-class Egyptians live in hovels.

But even in their straitened circumstances, Egypt's lower classes apparently enjoy one luxury shared by many middle-class American households: videocassette recorders.

Many Egyptian "hovels" boast VCR's, and video shops sell and rent movies that include the latest Hollywood productions as well as Egyptian films.

The government reportedly approves of the home-video fad, evidently figuring that families who are watching their VCRs aren't plotting revolution.

Possibly by the same token, the government's Moslem fundamentalist opposition hates the VCR craze, and has even gone to the extreme of torching the cassettes.

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: Federal agencies that are considered absolutely essential to ward off an enemy attack are given a "1C" priority for telephone lines.

The government's guidelines also give this top priority designation to foreign embassies have bothered to apply for the priority ratings.

"Thus," the report states, "it appears that few foreign missions are aware that such assignments exist." Foggy Bottom declined to identify the two nations that asked to be informed of impending attack.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Female PAC recruits political talent

By JILL LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the rate they're being elected to Congress, women will reach parity with men in the year 2396. But the Women's Campaign Fund doesn't intend to wait that long.

It's lining up hundreds of aspiring women in congressional districts likely to turn over in the next decade. When the seats come open, so will the doors of the new women's Talent Bank.

"We cannot hope to beat the 40-year rate without recruiting more women to run for these open seats," says Stephanie Solien, executive director of the fund, a political action committee. "Half of the women in Congress today were first elected in open seats. Yet in 1984 and 1986, women ran in less than 40 percent of open seats."

The fund's non-profit research arm, the Women's Campaign Research Fund, has mounted a 10-year drive to locate, motivate and train women to run for Congress. Women now hold only 23 of 435 seats, and three of the four who won contests this month did it in open districts where incumbents had retired.

The candidates of the future are on the lower rungs of the leadership ladder, serving as community volunteers and city council members and state legislators. They may never have thought about running for Congress. They haven't caught Potomac fever — yet.

But the research group is trying to infect them. It has mailed out extensive questionnaires to state legislators and municipal officeholders in targeted districts in 13 states, and to minority women across the country.

So far, 425 women have replied and will become part of a Talent Bank that can be used not only to field candidates but to supply names to federal and state administrations seeking experienced appointees.

Each woman received a letter telling her she had come to the attention of the research fund "as a proven, committed leader in your community and as someone who may want to seek further public office. ... We would like to add your name to our Talent Bank."

The detailed questionnaire asks about marital status, children, religion and ethnic identity, offices sought and won, fund-raising experience, party relations, community involvement and future plans. It also asks for positions on four controversial issues: defense spending, nuclear power, the equal rights amendment and federal funds for abortion.

Carolyn Kamlet, who runs the recruitment program, declined to specify any of the target districts. She said members sympathetic to the women's interests hold seats in many of them.

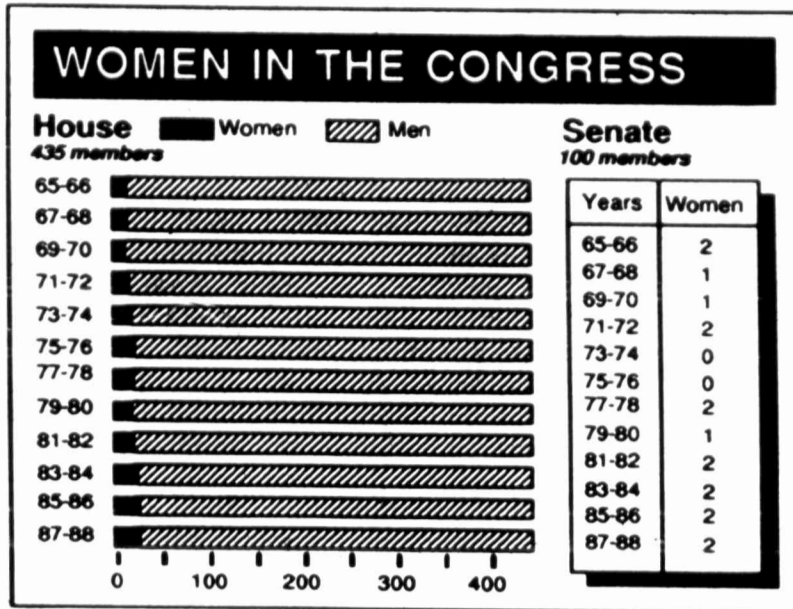

"We're not encouraging these people to move over, but we want to be ready," she said. "If a member already is 65 and has served 20 years in Congress, chances are he will not be there in 10 years."

Kamlet said the Talent Bank, along with training workshops and a newsletter called Moving Up, will nudge women to think about races for Congress and other national offices earlier in their careers. She said young men right out of school often set up law or public relations firms in districts they want to represent, but women lack that foresight.

"Women often don't think three to four offices down the road," she said. "They're very excited about being a city council member. ... They don't think of it (Congress) until their 40s or 50s. They could have been laying a lot of groundwork in the 10 years previous to that."

By planting the seeds of ambition early, Talent Bank promoters hope to harvest a crop of candidates that the major parties cannot overlook.

"Too often, women wait for someone to tap them on the shoulder and say, 'You're our candidate,' rather than saying to the party, 'I'm your candidate,'" Kamlet said. "We can do better. But we do have to get them encouraged and understanding that they can do it."

Oregon Pharmacist's Wrinkle Cream Great Success

It's an exciting story of a pharmacist who developed a wrinkle cream which women all over the country are clamoring for.

Robert Heldfond, a Portland pharmacist, used knowledge from pharmacy school and years of experience, to compound EBS, a wrinkle cream he started selling in his drugstore and which is now making cosmetic history across the nation.

Women started coming to Heldfond's pharmacy when the word got around about its wonderful results in helping women look younger. The phones never stopped ringing and letters poured in praising the results with EBS cream.

Research lab tests show that by daily use, morning and night, EBS cream smooths facial lines.

EBS contains Liprogen, an exciting combination developed by Pharmacist Heldfond, and other aids to help smooth aging skin. Heldfond's base for the cream absorbs quickly, leaving the skin soft and velvety.

ANSWER TO AGING SKIN?

Pharmacist Robert Heldfond shown working in his laboratory where he developed his wrinkle cream, EBS, after 12 years of research.

EBS cream is actually 5 creams in one jar... a wrinkle cream, moisturizer, night cream, day cream, and make-up base, all in one. One jar lasts many months and is sold with a money-back guarantee.

Note: EBS cream is available in Big Spring at JC Penney at Big Spring Mall, 267-3811.

People Express improves service

NEWARK, N.J. — People Express Airlines said Thursday that it will eliminate 14-day advance purchase restrictions and the 50 percent penalty charge for canceling or changing flights on some routes. The unrestricted flights take effect on Friday, the company said. However, tickets for the London flights still carry a 21-day advance purchase with a 50 percent penalty for changes in plans, the Newark-based company said.

The announcement of unrestricted fares came as People Express and Texas Air Corp. of Houston are working out final details of a merger agreement.

'Encouraging' signs seen in oil

AUSTIN — Railroad Commission chairman James Nugent said Thursday "encouraging" signs are emerging in what has been the worst downturn in the history of Texas' oil and gas industry.

Nugent said the number of drilling applications, reports of new wells drilled and well completion reports received in October all reflected increases over the previous month.

Drilling applications were up 94 from September to 1,401, new wells increased by 158 to 1,106, and completed wells rose by 68 to 840.

"It's too early to call this upward move a trend," Nugent said, "but it has to be encouraging to an industry that's seen the bottom fall out since the first of the year."

"At the end of last week, we had 40 more rigs making hole in Texas than we had the week before. Let's hope that trend continues," he said in a statement.

College merger opposition to talk

AUSTIN — Six Texas universities appear Friday before the Select Committee on Higher Education to make last-chance arguments on proposals to merge them into three institutions.

The committee's vote on the mergers will not be taken until a December meeting, just before the study group approves its report to the 1987 Legislature. Several busloads of protesting students from Denton, Houston and South Texas are expected to appear for the daylong hearing.

"I got the biggest auditorium that was available," said committee chairman Larry Temple, who made the merger proposals.

Death row inmate owes $20,000

WACO — RepublicBank Waco is attempting to recover $20,000 for unpaid loans from a man awaiting death in Huntsville in what is known as the Lake Waco murders.

The bank filed documents Thursday against Muneer Mohammad Deeb, 26, who was convicted in March 1985 of the murder of Jill Montgomery, one of three teenagers found slain in July 1982 in Lake Waco's Speegleville Park.

The murder received widespread publicity because of police work done by Truman Simons over a two-year period that brought Deeb and three other men to trial.

David Wayne Spence also got the death penalty and brothers Gilbert Melendez and Tony Melendez pleaded guilty in exchange for two life sentences each.

Charles Jones, a vice president of RepublicBank Waco said the bank filed the abstract "to reflect the fact we've got a judgment in case any property ever becomes available to attach."

Jones said there is only a "remote possibility" of recovering the money.

Deeb borrowed money from the bank to operate a drive-in restaurant across the street from Methodist Home, where orphans and other young people live.

Deeb was found guilty of soliciting the murder of Gayle Keely Reyes, who had lived at Methodist Home. Deeb had taken out a $20,000 accidental death policy on her.

According to testimony in the trial, Deeb hired Spence to kill Miss Reyes. Deeb's former business partner testified that he heard Deeb offer to split the insurance policy with Spence in exchange for the killing.

Mother-to-be honored with shower

Angie Cole was honored with a baby shower on Nov. 15 at the Birdwell Lane Baptist Church Fellowship Hall. Hostesses were Dianne Posey, Cheryl Breeson, Barbara Cole, Patsy Stuteville, Juanita Lewis, Lea Oma Harbour, Debbie Alexander, Janell Williams, Betty Cole and Betty Poitevint. They presented the honoree with a corsage made of baby socks. The serving table, draped with a lilac cloth and lace overlay, featured a lilac silk flower arrangement flanked by a crocheted diaper caddy, a pair of lilac crocheted booties and a ceramic figurine. Baby Cole is due in December.

Club makes flower arrangements

The Rosebud Garden Club met for a short business meeting at the YMCA on Nov. 18. Mrs. Gordon Cavnar, presided.

Guests of the club were introduced. They were Mrs. Freda Hoover, Mrs. Moran Oppgard and Mrs. John Knox.

Mrs. Guilford Jones, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Charles Ice and Mrs. Max Ramsey of Odessa, former District I director and incoming District I director. They presented a program of flower arranging using the Japanese Ichabana style — emphasizing the mechanics of arranging. Many arrangements were presented using holiday flowers and accents. Refreshments were served to 22 members and guests. Next meeting and luncheon will be Dec. 9 at the home of Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas, 400 Washington Blvd.

Food Club plans Christmas parties

Christmas plans were made at a meeting of the Food Club on Nov. 13. The club met at Runnels School Cafeteria with Dorothy Carter and her workers hosting.

Mrs. Ray Lawlis gave the invocation. Two parties were planned for Christmas. The cafeteria party will be hosted at Goliad Middle School Dec. 13 at 6:30 p.m. Joy Wood and workers will host.

The other party will be hosted at Mt. View Nursing Home. Everyone has been asked to bring two gifts, one for a man and one for a woman, for the patients at the nursing home. Nell Wright will host the party.

Model Madonna

Madonna models her denim look during a charity fashion show recently at Barney's store in New York to benefit Sister Patricia Murphy's AIDS hospice at St. Vincent's Hospital. Madonna has special interest in AIDS treatment because her former roommate Marting Burgoyne has been diagnosed as having the disease.

Children's ear infections

By NYU MEDICAL CENTER
Children's ear infections always require medical attention and antibiotic treatment, rather than symptomatic treatment alone, according to doctors at New York University Medical Center.

"While an ear infection may not seem serious, if not treated properly, it can lead to permanent hearing loss," said Dr. J. Ormond Frost, professor of clinical otolaryngology at the Medical Center.

Technically called otitis media, middle-ear infections are the second most common illness in children, particularly affecting those under the age of three. The high incidence in this age group is probably due to poor function of the eustachian tubes, the passages which connect the ear to the back of the nose and which allow drainage of fluids.

"As the children get older, the ear's inner structures mature and the risk of these infections decreases," explains Frost. Otitis media usually stops appearing by age six or seven.

Untreated, ear infections can lead to hearing loss by perforation or scarring of the tympanic membrane, or eardrum.

Because young children may not be able to explain to parents that they have earaches, Frost explained how to spot them: "A child who cries persistently and has a fever, especially if cold symptoms are present, should be taken to a doctor." Pulling or holding an ear also could signal infection.

Family circle too big by one for wife who left husband

DEAR ABBY: Fifteen months ago, I took my two children and left my husband of 10 years. For nine years I took an emotional battering from this man until I finally reached the point of "Let me out, or lock me up!"

Dear Abby

We live in the same city with my entire family. They have seen how abusive he has been to me and my children, yet they continue to invite him to all family functions — birthdays, anniversaries and holidays — just as though nothing had happened. I have hinted that I'm very uncomfortable with him there, but they continue to invite him.

With the holidays approaching soon, I dread seeing him wined and dined by my family who know how rotten he's been to me and my children. I hate to stay away from family gatherings, but I am miserable when he's around acting extra charming so they will wonder what is wrong with.

I may have to ask my family to make a choice between him and me. What do you think?

TORN
DEAR TORN: The moment of truth has arrived. Quit hinting and tell your family exactly how you feel. And if they continue to invite him, they will have made a choice.

DEAR ABBY: You nominated the word "hors d'oeuvre" as the word most frequently misspelled. After grading tens of thousands of essays in the last 17 years, I have found that the most frequently misspelled commonly used word is "occurrence."

Amazingly, fewer than 10 percent of the students in my classes have spelled it correctly the first time. The most common misspelling of occurrence is "occurence" — but there are several others.

I consider the most difficult word to spell for one who has not heard it before to be "chthonic" (pertaining to the gods of the underworld). Whoever would expect the "ch" to be silent?

MARK GRAHAM,
ENGLISH DEPARTMENT,
ARVADA SENIOR HIGH,
ARVADA, COLO.

DEAR MR. GRAHAM: Thanks for the spelling lesson. Consulting the dictionary is a daily occurrence for me, but I have never heard of chthonic, and my chances for using it are slim. However, if I'm ever on a quiz show (or in a spelling bee), the information may come in handy.

DEAR ABBY: Thanksgiving will soon be here, and I want you to know how much your column helped us. Being single can be devastating during the holiday season, so I organized the "First Annual Lonely Hearts Thanksgiving Day Bash" (our second will be even better).

Divorced and widowed friends met at a restaurant for an old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner. So many people are all alone during the holidays, and they shouldn't be. Eight of us got together, commiserated about life and, before we ate, read aloud the Thanksgiving prayer you run in your newspaper column every year. The queen of our day was an 82-year-old widow who kept everyone well entertained with wonderfully witty stories.

Please continue to print that beautiful Thanksgiving prayer every year, and may God bless you this year and always.

JAN BEDELL AND FRIENDS,
HOUSTON

DEAR JAN: Thank you for writing. Perhaps other readers will gobble up the idea of the annual singles Thanksgiving Day bash!

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been laid off for nearly a year and we are having a really rough time of it. Is there a tactful way to stop exchanging Christmas gifts? We can't afford to send any gifts this year, and we don't want anyone to send us anything. So how can we get the word out?

SHORT IN FORT WORTH
DEAR SHORT: I've made this suggestion in previous years: Come Thanksgiving, write a note to those on your Christmas gift list saying: "We are thankful for folks with whom we can be honest. We're not in a position to send Christmas gifts this year (nor do we expect any), but please accept our love and sincere good wishes for a happy, healthy, blessed holiday."

Allergies are mysterious

DENVER (AP) — The fundamental causes of allergies are still not known to medical science, though allergies clearly tend to run in families.

But, according to medical authorities at the National Jewish Center for Immunology and Respiratory Medicine here, non-hereditary factors also play a part in human allergic reactions.

Among the remaining basic mysteries about allergies:

— Why an individual becomes sensitive to some substances and not to others.

— Why some allergy attacks occur immediately after exposure to an offending substance, while others take minutes, hours or longer.

— How biological mechanisms leading up to allergic reactions determine that different reactions happen in different ways.

Shock treatment not for all stones

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: How is the new stone-crushing method done? How long is the procedure? Is it acceptable for any kind of stone? Is the patient anesthetized? — K.M.

Dr. Donohue

You are speaking of the newest lithotripsy procedure utilizing shock waves. The word, lithotripsy, combines the Greek words for stone (litho) and rubbing or crushing (tripsy). Various methods of physical removal of stones have been introduced over the years. All utilized some form of crushing by introducing instruments into the stone-containing area.

The new procedure has a longer name — extra-corporeal shock-wave lithotripsy, and its big advantage lies in the fact that you don't have to enter the body. The crushing shockwaves are delivered from outside.

It may sound a bit bizarre, but the procedure is done with the patient immersed in a tub of water into which the electrical instrument directs the shockwaves under guidance of a viewing instrument (fluoroscope). Anesthetics are used, so no pain is felt. The procedure takes about 45 minutes on average for each session.

This new procedure is not for all patients and not for all stones. It is used chiefly for small, lone stones of the urinary tract — either of the kidneys or of the ureters, the tubes that lead from the kidneys to the bladder. The gravel remnants of the stone then are passed spontaneously.

Careful selection of patients includes tests to pinpoint stone location, their size and type. For the present, the procedure is not being done everywhere, but the expensive lithotripsy units will be available in most parts of the U.S. in a short time.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for his invaluable booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00.

Old Steers reminisce 33 seasons later

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

More than three decades have passed since the Big Spring Steers won a district football championship.

Ironically, although the Steers are in Class AAAA presently and were in AAA at the time of the last championship, the classes are actually the same. A change in the early 80s realigned the classes.

Now is a good time to review some of those lost moments of 33 seasons ago.

The 1953 Steers: a team built around power and precision.

Led by head coach Carl Coleman and assistant Wayne Bonner, that team was 30-men strong. They ranged from a speedy defensive halfback, who now teaches math at Big Spring High School, to a 6-2, 285-pound two-way line starter, affectionately known as "Tiny".

The Steers posted a 9-4 record that season, ending their season December 19 on a rainy day in Port Neches, bowing out to the Port Neches Indians in the state championship game, 24-13.

Regardless of that, this was an awesome Steer team. It was known for starting slowly — but once it got wound up, it took no prisoners.

It was also a very confident team, illustrated by a story about the players. During warmups before a road game, one of the opponent's fans saw the Big Spring punter getting off 50- and 60-yard punts.

"You won't be able to do that in the game," he yelled to the punter. Another Steer player replied, "We know! Because we won't have to run." Big Spring had excellent stats to back it up. The Steers' offense scored 27 points per game, while the defense allowed just 10. The Steers' option offense rolled, averaging 284 yards per game offensively and featuring halfback J.C. Armistead and fullback Carlisle "Frosty" Robinson.

Armistead rushed for 1,259 yards and averaged 5.8 yards per carry while Robinson gained 1,100 yards with a 7.3 yards per try average. Those two, along with guard J.W. Thompson, were named to the All-State team that season.

Quarterback Frank Long, described by his coaches as a "wizard" at running the option, completed 23 of 73 passes for 384 yards and four touchdowns. Robinson was his favorite target, catching 11 passes for 168 yards. Receiver Billy Martin caught six passes for 145 yards.

Coleman, who still lives in Big Spring, coached the Steers from 1949-55 and has some vivid memories of his district winning team.

"Really, we were the first team to run the wishbone. We called it the fullback cheat ... there wasn't much option to it. Our quarterback Frank Long was slow, but his hands were fast. I knew of at least five times the officials lost the ball and blew it dead when we were still running." Frank Long, who is the husband of Justice of the Peace China Long, recalls the '53 season.

"I remember that our offense was like the T-formation. We ran the belly series and we had big, fast backs," said Long. "I never carried the ball much, the offense was designed for the quarterback to fake with the ball. It was about the same as an option.

"We were slow getting started, but once we did, we scored a lot of points."

Robinson, now an engineer for Cosden in Dallas, went on to play football for Southern Methodist University. In a telephone interview, he reminisced about his former team.

"We had a real good team. We ran the belly series off a Straight-T type formation. I remember the biggest game in district was against Breckenridge. We beat them 6-0 in the rain. It was an awful good victory, because Breckenridge always made it to the state playoffs."

Big Spring resident Don "Lefty" Reynolds was an end on that district championship team.

"The thing I remember most is the pride we had in having a winning team. Big Spring had had a losing team for as long as I could remember," Reynolds said. "Everybody realized we had a good team and gave us good support."

The Big Spring defense was potent — registering five shutouts and giving up a paltry 148 yards per game. Leading the way was junior linebacker Buddy Cosby. He joined the service and didn't play his senior season. Cosby was flanked by sophomore Jerry Graves at the other linebacker spot. Graves went on to make All-State the next year.

Defensive coach Wayne Bonner says he had the "best linebacker combo" in the state. "Buddy Cosby was the best linebacker I ever saw," said Bonner, who resides in Big Spring. "Jerry Graves made All-State the next year and Buddy would have been All-State if he had played the next year."

"There wasn't a defense any tougher or better than that one," Bonner continued, about his

"Oklahoma 33" defense. "We would run different alignments. Sometimes we would run a 6-2, 6-3 or 53 defense. It was a cocky defense. Everytime we would win the coin toss we wanted to kickoff. They felt they could hold anybody."

Don Swinney, a Big Spring High School math teacher and the man who gets the Steers' crowd fired up with his signs of "defense" and "let's go Steers," was a defensive halfback. Swinney started for Big Spring two-and-a-half years.

"We really got after people. In fact, we got after each other in practice," said Swinney. "We didn't have face masks back in those days and we did a lot of bleeding. But we didn't mind bleeding."

The Steers competed in District 1-3A. Other teams in the district were Breckenridge, Vernon, Lamesa, Snyder and Sweetwater.

The Steers finished district play with a 4-1 record, tying Breckenridge for the district championship. However, Big Spring qualified for the state playoffs, having defeated Breckenridge 6-0.

Big Spring's only league loss was a 14-13 decision to the Sweetwater Mustangs.

Ironically, Big Spring and Breckenridge again tied for the district championship the next year with 4-1 records.

Breckenridge advanced to the state playoffs, due to its 13-0 victory over the Steers. Breckenridge went on to win the state championship that year.

Former Herald Sports Editor Tommy Hart remembers the '53 team well. In one of his articles, he tabbed the squad as one of the five greatest teams in the school's history. The other great teams were the squads of '21, '31, '34 and '40.

"It was a great offensive team. It depended more on its running than its passing game. When they gathered their momentum, they were tough," says the Big Spring resident.

"Louis Stipp (starting offensive tackle) was their motivator. He gave them a sense of responsibility. It dawned on them just how good they could be."

Big Spring's season got off to a rocky start. The Steers dropped their first two non-district games to AAAA opponents San Angelo and Pampa. Little did people expect, the Steers were now on their way to the district title.

Big Spring won its next two non-district games against AAA powerhouses Brownwood and AAAA Pampa. In the 13-6 win over Brownwood, Swinney intercepted, stopping a Brownwood scoring drive. The Steers had begun their

Hawk-Queens sloppy but still dominating

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

If a coach wanted to illustrate to his basketball players how not to play basketball, Thursday night's game between the Howard College Hawk-Queens and the Wharton County Pioneers would have been a perfect example.

In the day's final contest at the Hawk-Queens Classic there were so many lackluster plays and booboos that it turned out to be a yawner. However, it was a yawner in which the Queens blew their opposition away by a 64-38 margin.

"I think that was the ugliest ball game I've ever seen in my life," said a disgruntled Howard College coach Don Stevens after the game. "It was a horrible example of basketball."

Stevens was so right. Most of the time both teams stunk up the court with errant passes, wild shots and turnovers. But it was plain to see the Queens had just too much physical talent for their opponent.

The Hawk-Queens, now 6-2 for the season, shot a season low 35 percent from the free throw line. They made just 29 of 90 field goals for 32 percent. They also stumbled and bobbled their way to 16 turnovers.

In the process both Stevens and Wharton coach Ty Pate had the score keepers busy, inserting player after player into the game, trying to find the right combination.

"I kept grabbing one player and putting her in for another. It was a total team effort of bad basketball," Stevens said.

While the Queens were bad, the Pioneers were even worse. They managed to shoot 45 percent from the line, but connected on only 14 of 66 field goals for a miserable 21 percent. The Pioneers also committed 24 turnovers.

Over half of those turnovers came during a seven minute span in the first half. Howard came out using a trapping press but it had little effect on the Pioneers during the early going.

Both teams were cold. The score was tied 8-8 at the five minute mark as the Queens hit just four of their first 16 field goals.

Then Howard's press started to take effect. Led by guard Pam Franklin, who had four steals in the game, the Queens ran off a 17-point spurt that left them leading 29-8 with 6:01 left in the first half. From then on it was no contest.

One Howard player that shot the ball well was guard Terri Powell. The sophomore from Channing hit 9 of 15 shots, all from the outside, and finished with 19 points.

Freshman Leslie Carter followed Powell with 16 points. The 6-4 post player scored 16 points, but she wasn't a factor on the boards, pulling down four rebounds.

The player who really impressed Stevens was sophomore post player Sophia Ish. Ish, who was a starter last year, but is confined to a reserve role this season, contributed 10 points and nine rebounds.

"Sophia hasn't been playing well lately and I was real happy to see her come through tonight. She was about the only bright spot for us tonight," said Stevens.

Ish hit five of six shots and pulled down four offensive rebounds. Her nine rebounds tied Carolyn Willard for the team high.

About the only bright spot for Wharton, which fell to 1-6 for the season, was the play of reserve forward Charlene Belsler. Belsler made eight of 16 field goals to lead her team with 18 points and eight rebounds.

Stevens had some harsh parting words. "If we play this way tomorrow, we'll get zapped bad."

Today's schedule begins with Wharton playing Western Texas, a 74-61 winner over Grayson College, at 4 p.m. At six Grayson will play Odessa College, which was a 72-47 winner of Angelina.

Howard will play Angelina at eight.

SMU president resigns

Embattled president cites health reasons

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University President L. Donald Shields announced today he is leaving immediately because of health problems that a spokesman said were aggravated by allegations against the school's football program.

Shields, who became president in October 1980, suffers from diabetes, SMU spokesman Roddy Wolper said. Before coming to SMU, Shields was president of California State University at Fullerton.

The early retirement is not directly linked to recent allegations of NCAA rules violations in the football program at SMU, which currently is in the second year of a three-year probationary period, Wolper said.

"Obviously, the situation aggravated his condition, bringing on higher stress," Wolper said, adding that "no one asked him to leave."

If the allegations prove true, the Southwest Conference school could be the first to have its football program suspended for two years under an NCAA sanctions package.

The football program has been racked by allegations of recruiting irregularities, illegal booster involvement and player payoffs.

Coaches' Corner

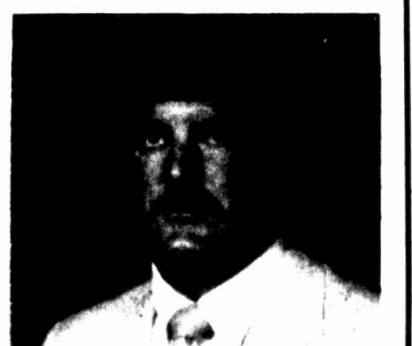

The coaches of the Big Spring Steers boys and girls teams and the Howard College Hawks and Hawk Queens will each write a weekly column during basketball season. In the first installment, new Steers boys coach Boyce Paxton talks about the 1986-87.

The 1986-87 basketball season begins this week. I am new to Big Spring and with that I am planning and working to instill a new program, a new enthusiasm, and a new tradition in Steer basketball.

Our potential is unlimited this year. Our biggest task is going to be to blend all of our talent and players together into a solid unit. We feel we have made good progress thus far in our off-season program and early-season work. We will return five lettermen this year and bring in some players to go with them who possess good talent and potential.

Our schedule will be a formidable one. The new competitive spirit we are instilling in the program will be measured greatly by the level of success of our program.

This team and program should improve steadily as the season progresses. We are attempting to develop an aggressive style of play, especially on defense. The effort, attitude, and determination of the players on this team will determine the level of success we attain.

I want to invite the public to our 1st annual Parents' Coming Out Night. This is a night designed to introduce the entire basketball program to the public. This program will be next Monday night, November 24 at 6:30 p.m. at Steer gym. This is for all parents, fans, boosters and anyone interested in Big Spring basketball.

The program will last approximately one hour. All players and managers (grades 7-12) will be introduced. Our Varsity and J.V. will have a short demonstration of skills.

The main purpose is to meet all the parents and for the public to meet us and become acquainted with what we are doing in our program. We want to invite everyone out to Steer gym Monday night. We're on our way up.

trek to the district championship. They defeated Vernon 7-0, setting up the muddy showdown with Breckenridge.

It rained for three hours before the Breckenridge game. The field was a sloppy mess but Big Spring escaped with a 7-0 win, thanks to a long run by Robinson in the fourth quarter. "On a dry day we would have wiped them out," said Coach Bonner.

The Steers clinched the district title by defeating Lamesa and Snyder. But on in their final district game, they traveled to Sweetwater's Mustang Bowl and were upset 14-13. "We had a lot of people out of that game. We had already clinched the district and we didn't want to get anybody hurt," head coach Coleman explained.

In bi-district, the Steers again met Brownwood on the Lions' home field on a dry night. And in Bonner's words, they "wiped them out."

Behind the running of Robinson and Aristead, Big Spring romped, 54-12.

Brownwood scored the first two touchdowns of the game and had a third called back. However, Big Spring erupted for four touchdowns in the second quarter, and the rout was on.

In the state semi-finals, Big Spring faced Gainesville in Breckenridge and the Steers trailed 13-6 at the half. The Steers exploded for 38 points in the second half on their way to a 44-13 romp.

"It was a rough day for us," said Coleman. "First our bus broke down in Coahoma and our starting defensive end Jimmy Porter got to the game late because he was taking an ROTC exam in Abilene. They were running around his end. When he got there, he stopped them. At halftime I told the kids all they had to do was go out there and play football like they could. And they did just that."

This set up the showdown with the Port Neches Indians for the state championship.

Port Neches wouldn't agree on a neutral site, so the teams flipped a coin to determine whose home field would be used; Big Spring lost and the game had to be played in Port Neches.

Junior varsity coach Harold Bentley, still a resident of Big Spring, scouted Port Neches the week before the championship. "After I saw them play I was confident we could beat them. I figured we would beat them by two to three touchdowns."

However, he hadn't counted on the teams playing in pouring rain. Port Neches jumped to an 18-0 halftime lead and held on for the 24-13 championship.

"Before the game I knew the boys' minds weren't right," said Coleman. "People around here were saying 'you've got to go down there and play in the rain and humidity. You've got to beat them on their ground.' It was the sorriest we played all year."

Sports Editor Hart said the home field advantage was Port Neches' only hope. "Port Neches knew the only way they had a chance was to win the coin toss and make us go down there. If we had played somewhere else, we could have won by three touchdowns."

So, the year that the Steers set a school record for most wins in a football season, they came a toss of the coin away from winning the state championship.

And where are the rest of the members of that great team?

They are spread all over the world, serving duties from everything to an FBI chief in Miami to a civil engineer in Saudi Arabia.

"That's what makes this group of players so special," said Coleman. "I'm more proud of what they did after they got out of school than what they did in school. They were all good kids and they stressed school."

Bonner summed it up. "They're leaders and they are successful in life."

Just like they were successful on the football field.

Sports Briefs

Runnels girls mop up Lamesa

The Runnels' A and B girls basketball teams both cruised to easy wins over squads from Lamesa Thursday night. Karla Van Vleet scored nine to lead the B team to a 19-8 win. Tasha Gilstrap added four.

Pam Gill pumped in 22 to lead the A team to a 33-21 win. Amanda Ybarra added six points.

Runnels boys win season opener

The Runnels' A and B boys teams trounced squads from Lamesa Thursday night in their season openers. Neal Mayfield scored 20 points and grabbed nine rebounds to lead the A team to a 47-39 win. Mike Williams had 14 points and eight rebounds in the win.

The B team won 23-18 with a powerful rebounding effort. The team had 12 offensive and 13 defensive rebounds.

Layne remains critical in Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A spokesman at Methodist Hospital in this West Texas city says former NFL star Bobby Layne remained in critical condition in the hospital's intensive care unit today.

Layne's condition has not changed since last Saturday when he underwent emergency surgery, the spokesman said.

Layne underwent the surgery to stop internal hemorrhaging in his esophagus.

The operation was to correct a condition Layne had experienced for about a year. The situation worsened in Pontiac, Mich., on Nov. 8, the day before Layne was supposed to have been part of special ceremonies at a Detroit Lions game honoring Doak Walker.

Layne played at the University of Texas and with four teams including Detroit and Pittsburgh in the National Football League.

Kirk indicted on 11 counts

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Former Memphis State basketball coach Dana Kirk was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of obstruction of justice, mail fraud, income tax evasion and filing false tax returns.

Kirk, 51, was at Memphis State for seven seasons and turned a losing program into a Top 20 contender. He took the Tigers to the past five NCAA tournaments.

Kirk was charged in the 11-count indictment with receiving a $10,000 payment for pre-tournament interviews with the news media prior to a basketball tournament in 1983.

Record half propels Nuggets

By The Associated Press

When the Denver Nuggets are flying, the only thing to do is duck.

"We tried to establish a running game," Denver guard Lafayette Lever said Thursday night after the Nuggets raced to an 86-point first half and beat the Portland Trail Blazers 142-128.

Lever got 30 points and had 11 rebounds as Denver, again leading the NBA in scoring, tied for the second-highest point total ever in a first half. The host Nuggets ended Portland's four-game winning streak.

The Nuggets shot 63 percent from the floor in the first half in racing to an 86-62 lead. Denver led by as many as 29 points before Portland began chipping away, getting within 10 points late in the fourth quarter.

Mavericks 113, Clippers 108

Mark Aguirre scored 31 points and reserve Detlef Schrempf got 10 of his 14 points in the fourth period, helping Dallas win in Los Angeles.

The Mavericks led 111-108 with 1½ minutes left, and Schrempf's two foul shots with seven seconds left clinched the victory.

Derek Harper and Rolando Blackman added 17 points apiece for Dallas. Cedric Maxwell had 19 for the Clippers.

Marques Johnson, the Clippers' star forward, suffered a neck injury when he collided with teammate Benoit Benjamin in the first quarter. Johnson was taken to a hospital for precautionary observation.

Bucks 116, SuperSonics 105

Terry Cummings scored 32 points and Ricky Pierce had 27 as Milwaukee beat Seattle.

Cummings scored 10 points in the second quarter, and his 19-foot jump shot with three minutes left in the half put the Bucks ahead for good.

Rookie Harold Pressey scored 18 points and had 12 assists for Milwaukee. Jack Sikma, who played nine years for Seattle before being traded to the Bucks in the off-season, scored 12 points in his first game back at his former home.

Tom Chambers scored 35 points and Xavier McDaniel had 24 for the SuperSonics.

Rockets 104, Jazz 90

Reserve guard Steve Harris scored 10 of his season-high 14 points in the fourth quarter and Rodney McCray contributed a career-high 14 assists as Houston beat visiting Utah.

Harris hit three baskets early in the final period to help the Rockets take an 86-74 lead. Houston, playing without injured Ralph Sampson, got 20 points from Robert Reid and 19 by Akeem Olajuwon.

Darrell Griffith and Karl Malone scored 23 each for the Jazz.

Hawks 108, Cavaliers 89

Dominique Wilkins scored seven of his 27 points during a second-quarter burst that led Atlanta over Cleveland.

Wilkins and Glenn Rivers combined to score 12 straight points and give the host Hawks a 62-35 lead shortly before halftime. The closest the Cavaliers got after that point was 84-72 early in the fourth period.

Kevin Willis scored 18 points and had 20 rebounds for the Hawks, while Rivers finished with 17 points. Ron Harper scored 18 for Cleveland, while fellow rookies Brad Daugherty and John Williams had 16 and 13, respectively.

Kings 92, Pacers 83

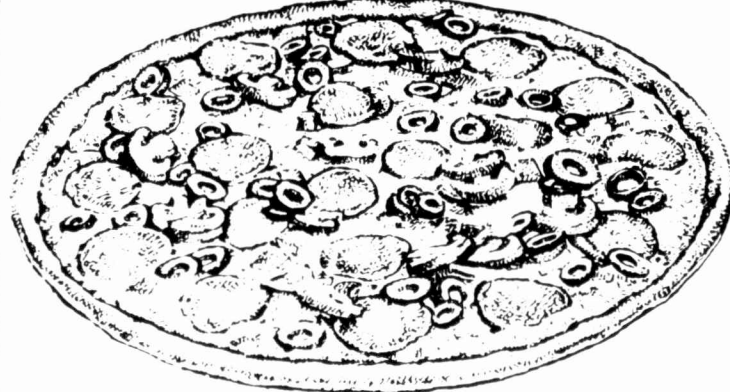

Eddie Johnson scored two baskets and assisted on another in a 75-second span midway through the fourth quarter that sent Sacramento past Indiana.

The visiting Pacers had taken a 73-72 lead when John Long made one of two foul shots after getting hit by an intentional elbow by Sacramento center LaSalle Thompson, who was ejected for his second technical foul. But Johnson sparked the Kings and, with two free throws by Mark Olberding, gave them an 80-73 lead.

Otis Thorpe scored 20 points with 17 rebounds for Sacramento. Chuck Person led the Pacers with 21 points.

Chargers punish channel changers

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The lesson from the latest meeting between the San Diego Chargers and the Los Angeles Raiders was — don't switch television channels, no matter what the score.

Anyone who tuned out after the Raiders grabbed a 31-10 lead midway through the third quarter missed a stirring San Diego comeback, a last-minute touchdown and, ultimately, a 37-31 victory in overtime for the Raiders on Thursday night.

San Diego quarterback Mark Herrmann entered the game in place of Tom Flick, who started for injured regular Dan Fouts. Flick was benched after five Charger turnovers, including three interceptions.

Herrmann, demoted to third string earlier this week, wiped out the 21-point deficit by leading the Chargers on touchdown drives of 71, 39 and 66 yards. The first two drives ended with Curtis Adams runs of one and 13 yards. Adams had a 19-yard scoring run earlier.

With 8:33 gone in overtime, Raiders running back Marcus Allen slipped a couple of tackles and carried two Chargers defenders into the end zone to cap a 28-yard touchdown run.

The Raiders, winning for the eighth time in nine games since an 0-3 start, improved to 8-4. The Chargers fell to 2-10.

Film documents life of 'Saint of the Gutters'

By CHRISTOPHER SULLIVAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman leaving a recent screening of the documentary "Mother Teresa" said she had seen the movie "Sid & Nancy," the ugly tale of punk rocker Sid Vicious and the girlfriend he kills, the night before.

"A real down," she said, "and now a real up."

Petrie Productions' "Mother Teresa" is indeed a real up.

It is an hour and 21 minutes of inspiration — perhaps inevitable in a story about this humble winner of the Nobel Peace Prize. But it's also an elegantly presented look into the world of the poorest poor, the orphaned and the dying to which she and her Missionaries of Charity bring their caring hands.

So often, the hands tell the story.

In one scene in a hospital for abandoned spastic children in besieged West Beirut, a hell within a hell, the camera focuses on the uncontrollably fluttering eyes of a scrawny boy, his head wrenched backward on his mattress, his breathing shallow.

Then a hand enters the frame, emerging from a blue-trimmed white sari worn by a young nun.

The hand heavily strokes his head and thin chest, over and over, palpably driving the message of touch, of someone caring, to his brain. Gradually, his head straightens and his eyes open. The hand lifts the boy and his gaze finally fixes on the face of the nun. Briefly at least, one of the lost is found.

The story of how the Albanian-born Mother Teresa founded her order of missionaries "to the poorest of the poor" while teaching in India is told briefly in the film.

What the documentary also shows is the energy and strength of this diminutive, 76-year-old woman who has been diagnosed as having a heart condition.

It is physical strength for the daily labor that she and her nuns have pledged, but also a soft-spoken moral strength.

At one point in the film she helps remove rugs, an extravagance for those who have

A new documentary of Mother Teresa, a humble winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, and the story of her life, is "a real up," as described by a woman who recently viewed the hour and 21-minute film by Petrie Productions. The film shows the look of the world's poorest poor, the orphaned and the dying to which she and her Missionaries of Charity bring their caring hands.

vowed poverty, from a mission house being set up in San Francisco. At another time she lectures Harvard University graduates on the responsibility of taking charitable action. Quietly debating with a government representative in Guatemala over whether the nuns can keep land they are using for a mission, Mother Teresa says resolutely that she would prefer not to move. She and her sisters pray. Apparently perceiving God himself being called to the bargaining table, the government backs down, giving the requested land and then some.

If the movie has a fault, it is in not reflecting the controversy that has sometimes touched Mother Teresa. Roman Catholic missionaries in India have run into protests both for conversions of Hindus and for preaching against artificial birth control, which the Indian government promotes. The Missionaries of Charity also have been criticized for ignoring neighbors' worries when setting up a house to care for dying AIDS victims in Washington.

It took Jeanette Petrie and her sister Ann Petrie, a former Emmy award-winning writer-producer for ABC-TV, five years to make the movie. Their brother, the Rev. William Petrie, worked with Mother Teresa in India.

The two sisters followed Mother Teresa from her base in Calcutta to the most forsaken sections of New York City and to places of war and poverty in Africa, Latin America and the Middle East.

"She says there are Calcuttas everywhere if you have eyes to see," said Jeanette Petrie in an interview.

The filmmakers wanted to show the simplicity and warmth of Mother Teresa and her special way of working one-to-one. "She starts small and it always grows," Ms. Petrie said.

Sir Richard Attenborough, the British director who won an Academy Award for "Gandhi," helped the Petries as a consultant and recorded the film's narration. Ed Lachman, director of photography for "Desperately Seeking Susan," worked with Sandi Sissel on the intimate, lucid filming of "Mother Teresa." Emmy-winner Tom Haneke was the film's editor.

The movie opened Nov. 19 in Los Angeles, and will be released later this month in San Francisco, Boston, New York and other cities. It is scheduled for broadcast on television Dec. 8 in dozens of nations, including India, China, and much of Europe. American TV viewers will see the documentary at a later time.

revivals. He is recommended by many well-known pastors and other religious leaders throughout the world.

Thanksgiving services scheduled

The choir of First Church of God, 2009 Main, is presenting the Gaither Thanksgiving Cantata, "We Are So Blessed," Sunday at 10:50 a.m.

The choir is directed by Linda Lindell. The cantata was written by Bill and Gloria Gaither, nationally known Christian songwriters, concert and recording artists, and authors.

"We Are So Blessed" is one of their latest musical compositions. It combines lively narration with songs of praise and thanksgiving. The theme that moves beautifully through the cantata is the truth that Christians are blessed with much more than material things.

The public is encouraged to attend.

Gaither Thanksgiving Cantata set

St. Paul Lutheran Church will conduct special Thanksgiving services on Nov. 27 at 10 a.m.

Pastor Carroll Kohl will present the service "Thanking God for His Rich Blessings."

Special music will feature the Adult Choir with Suzanne Haney, directing.

Lela Hansen will decorate the altar area in the sanctuary.

The public is invited to this community event.

Babysitting is provided.

Youth remembers bar mitzvah in Poland

By LINDA STOWELL
Associated Press Writer

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Eric Strom believes his bar mitzvah last year in Poland let the devastated Jewish population there know "we haven't forgotten them."

The 14-year-old even thinks he might return to the nation of his ancestors to marry.

Still, he says there is a part of the ceremony in Krakow that he would rather forget: a dispute over religious tradition, between a man and a woman participating as rabbis.

"They were verbally arguing over my head, so I just started," Eric said. "They both just stood there and every word I mispronounced, he corrected me. And when she started to speak, he told her women shall not speak."

Krakow's small, aging Jewish population hadn't had a bar mitzvah in several decades. Eric was picked after one elderly resident, Maria Jackubowicz, asked American visitors to organize a bar mitzvah and "bring us some life."

"We let the Jews in Poland know we haven't forgotten them," said the Stamford youth in an interview.

A film about the event, "Spark Among the Ashes," was released recently in New York.

"Before the war, there were 60,000 Jews (in Krakow); now there are 200. Before the war, no one would have dreamed there would be women rabbis and no one would believe there would be no bar mitzvahs," the film's narrator says.

The film, produced by Oren Rudavski who attended the bar mitzvah, shows the drama of the event — not only a boy coming of age and a Holocaust-devastated Jewish community reflecting on its past and future, but also the disagreement over a woman's place at such a ceremony.

The woman was Rabbi Emily Korzenik, leader of the Fellowship for Jewish Learning in Stamford, who approached the Strom family after learning of Maria Jackubowicz's plea. The family agreed to hold the bar mitzvah Sept. 7, 1985, in Poland. Eric had a bar mitzvah at home before the trip.

The controversy began on the eve of their departure.

A man identifying himself as the "great rabbi of Poland," telephoned the Stroms and told them that he was going to make sure the bar mitzvah was held in the Orthodox tradition. Orthodox Jews do not allow women rabbis. Eric's family is not orthodox.

At the bar mitzvah, an argument broke out between Mrs. Korzenik and orthodox Rabbi Nacham Elbaum of New York. It occurred as Mrs. Korzenik tried to put on a prayer shawl. Elbaum pulled the shawl away, and after Mrs. Korzenik was handed another, he pulled that away, later telling her not to speak.

"Mr. Elbaum's thoughts were good but his actions were bad," Eric said. "It hurt things a little because we were there to do something nice and he had to spoil it."

Mrs. Korzenik said: "It was very painful because it was in the background of a place where 3 million people were killed just because they were Jews. It was just excruciatingly painful."

Elbaum, in a telephone interview from New York, where he is president of Ideal Tours travel agency, said he doesn't regret what happened in Krakow.

He said he was invited by Maria Jackubowicz to make sure the ceremony was done in the Orthodox manner, and insisted it was not he, but Mrs. Korzenik, who interrupted the ceremony.

"The synagogue has a separate place for women," Elbaum said. Mike Gladstein, who initiated the trip and helped raise funds to pay for it, says the controversy was "unfortunate but not crippling."

"This dying community ... remnants of a civilization, hadn't seen a birth, a marriage or a bar mitzvah in 30 to 40 years — I'm glad we could bring joy to their lives."

Eric agreed. "The best part was meeting her (Maria) and the worst part was when we had to leave Poland because we had done something there," he said.

"She (Maria) wants me to come back for my wedding. I might do that — and I might take my son there for his bar mitzvah."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, NOV. 22, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are able to make consistent strides toward your long-time and long-range objectives by being alert to any obstacles in the path of getting them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have good creative ideas, but use care in pursuing them and study new data that will help.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study into whatever is causing trouble at your home and clear it up. Be sure to keep any promises you make.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Communicate well with long-time partners and get much that is constructive well-handled.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Don't risk any large sums of money today if you want a favor from another.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Home affairs can be annoying, so get out and delve into amusements that have proved satisfying in the past.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get into some intimate tasks and gain the backing you need instead of dashing around town foolishly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good friend will help you to gain some ambition. If you want to enjoy a group affair, include others like yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Listen to the advice of older and more wise individuals for any outside activities. Take it easy tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can expand if you are enthused and positive in your actions. Attend a nice party in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Avoid a stubborn friend who wastes your time and keeps you from handling important practical affairs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A partner will gladly go along with you in some enterprise, provided you don't call in some expert.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't run off to new interests today. Build up your public reputation and feel more secure.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have every ability at seeing the potentials of long-time plans, especially if based on tested standards. A simple home life is best for your far-seeing progeny, but would do very well in government circles or in large organizations.
