Spring City changes peddler ordinance

Tower to probe NSC activities

By ANDREW MANGAN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - President Reagan today appointed former Sen. John Tower to a special review board that will investigate the activities of the White House National Security Council, which coordinated the secret sale of U.S. arms to Iran.

Sen. Phil Gramm earlier had urged the president to name Tower to succeed Vice Adm. John Poindexter, as national security adviser, congressional sources said.

Reagan also appointed former Secretary of State Edmund Muskie and one-time national security adviser Brent Scowcroft to the special review board.

Tower, who most recently served as a U.S. arms negotiator, was picked as chairman of the three-member panel.

Reagan said the review board was charged with conducting "a comprehensive study of the future role and procedures of the National Security Council staff in the development, coordination, oversight and conduct of foreign and national security policy. Poindexter resigned Tuesday and a key aide was fired after the White House said it learned that up to $30 million received from the secret sale of weapons to Iran had been divereted to U.S.-backed Contras fighting the Nicaraguan government "I have not been contacted by anyone in the administration and I have no other comment to make at this time," Tower said Tuesday when reached by telephone at his Dallas office.

He refused to say whether he would be open to taking the job as national security adviser.

Gramm, who holds the Senate seat formerly held by Tower, refused to go on the record as pushing for Tower as Poindexter's successor, but he did say the former senator would be a logical choice.

'His extensive experience in foreign affairs would make him an effective national security council director and would immediately re-establish the credibility of the administration," Gramm said.

Tower, 61, is a conservative Republican who served in the Senate for nearly 24 years. He was chairman of the Armed Services Committee and a supporter of the U.S. weapons buildups.

In 1984 Tower was appointed by President Reagan as a member of the U.S. arms control negotiation team in talks with the Soviet TOWER page 2A

May comments reveal North attitudes

By WILLIAM GARLAND Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Lt. Col. Oliver G. North Jr. complained bitterly to oil producers at a meeting in early May that Congress was not funding Contra rebels in Nicaragua while at the same time he was secretly funneling them millions of dollars from U.S. arms sales to North also told a meeting of the Independent Petroleum Association of America in Nashville that he had spoken with President Reagan at Camp David a few weeks earlier about "Central American issues and terrorism issues.

Administration officials said Tuesday that

North was the only member of the administration who knew about transferring between $10 and $30 million to the Contras out of profits from the arms sales that have been the center of a firestorm of controversy in Washington.

President Reagan announced Tuesday that North was dismissed from the administration, along with national security adviser John M. Poindexter, after it was learned that North had put funds from the arms sale in a Swiss bank account over which the Contras had control. Attorney General Edwin M. Meese said North made the funds available to the rebels beginning in January.

"Ladies and gentlemen, there is something wrong when this nation cannot offer young men and women more than the hope of dying for a cause they believe in," North told about 1.000 oil producers at the meeting on May 2, referring to the Contras in Nicaragua.

At the time he spoke, $27 million in legal U.S. funding for the Contras had run dry and Congress was debating whether to approve an additional $100 million for their aid. The funding was not approved until last month.

There is something terribly wrong in Nicaragua and these young men and women (Contras) have taken up arms against their government," said North. The United States 'can't even give them boots anymore. We can't give them food anymore . . . There

Hispanics fastest growing ethnic group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Hispanic population in the United States, now estimated at 17.3 million, may double in 30 years and triple in 60 years, according to a study by the Census

A report released Tuesday by the Bureau said the Hispanic population may double within 30 years and triple within 60. Most of the growth will be at tributed to births, which are expected to rise to 500,000 in the year 2000, compared with 400,000 in 1982.

The study projects that the white non-Hispanic population, now accounting for 80 percent of the total population, will drop to 74 percent in the year 2000, 66 percent in 2030 and 57 percent in 2080. The white population may peak in size by 2020 and then steadily decrease, the report

The Hispanic projections do not include figures for Hispanic residents entering the country illegally, which the government estimates at 150,000 per year. The author of the Census report, Gregory Spencer, said that since this study was prepared, Bureau officials have begun including the illegal population in their studies.

The projections are the first the Census Bureau has compiled dealing specifically with Hispanic population growth.

In the next 20 years, increase in the Hispanic population will account for one-quarter of the nation's total growth, the study

Births and legal immigration are expected to bring the total number of Hispanics to 25.2 million by the end of the century, compared with the current estimate of 17.3 million legal Hispanic residents. By the year 2020, the Census Bureau projected, the Hispanic population will be 36.5 million and by 2050 it

"Hispanics are the fastest growing population we have in this country," said Census spokesman Gary Wilkinson, adding that the projection is significant because 'you're talking about potential political power, all kinds of ramifications. The median age of Hispanics is increasing and is expected to be 28 in the year 2000, up from 24

Changes for West Texas Chamber

ABILENE (AP) —The West Texas Chamber of Commerce will eliminate five clerical positions from its nine-person Abilene office by the end of the year, finance manager John Johnson said.

In what is apparently a cost-cutting move, WTCC is "consolidating some clerical functions" and computerizing its bookkeeping in partnership with the South and East Texas Chambers, Johnson said Monday.

In January, a joint office for all regional chambers to use during the legislative sessions or whenever members need to be in the state capital will be opened. That office will handle some of the duties that used to be handled by the Abilene office.

Remaining in the Abilene office will be Adolph Janka, executive vice president, Johnson, Jerry Conner, manager of tourism and economic development, and Brenda Mowey, editor of the WTCC magazine. Another change that will take place, Johnson says, is that the field staff (he and Conner) will spend more time on the road.

"We've got to get out among the people. El Paso is one of the largest cities in our district and we have only 15 members. That's not enough. We have to get into El Paso, Lubbock, Odessa and Fort Worth," Johnson said.

that this country can do for people like this," he said.

He continued that "we didn't hesitate to help the Sandinistas (in the late 1970s) and yet our Congress has denied that (the Contas) should even have boots and food and clothing." He described "over 27,000 young men and women who have taken up arms against dictators who run Nicaragua and yet we can't even give them hospitalization. "Four hours from Washington, there are people struggling for . democracy, free enterprise, and we can't even give them medical help anymore," North told the producers in the sometimes impassioned 20-minute speech.

North also said, in answer to a question, that he was "joking with the president up at Camp David a few weeks ago while we were talking Central American issues and terrorism issues." He said they were joking about what he called an anti-government bias in U.S. news media

At the meeting, reporters were instructed not to take pictures of North or to quote him directly. Material for this story was taken from a tape of the meeting that was obtained from IPAA, as well as observations by a reporter at the

IPAA President Harold B.

"Bud" Scoggins said North did not directly ask oil producers at the meeting to contribute funds to the Contras' effort to overthrow the Sandinista government in Nicaragua. Scoggins said North spoke at the meeting because of a high interest in the Central American issue among Southwestern oil producers.

A knowledgeable administration official, who did not want to be named, said it was "unusual" for North, who was well-known for keeping behind the scenes, to speak in public.

During a slide presentation, North said, "Ladies and gentlemen, there is something terribly wrong when we can't even get onto the front pages of American newspapers the fact that little children in Nicaragua today are taught from books like this." The slide showed weapons that were used to illustrate simple addition as part of what he described as "a

NEW HAVEN, Conn. - Racketeering convictions against the Bronx Democratic leader and three others in New York City's biggest corruption scandal in decades should spur fur-

Trade deficit lower

WASHINGTON — The nation's trade deficit narrowed to $12.1 billion in October, the third consecutive monthly decline, the Commerce Department reported today

It was the best trade balance performance in 14 months.

The improvement, down from a $12.6 billion shortfall in September, appeared to bear out contentions by Reagan administration officials that the nation's huge trade deficit may finally be starting to ebb.

An increase in exports, rather than a decline in imports, was entirely responsible for the reduced trade deficit.

Imports in October totaled $31.4 billion, up from $30.1 billion the month before. Exports totaled $19.3 billion, up from $17.5 billion in

Despite three months of a declining deficit, the trade imbalance for the first 10 months of 1986 was running at an annual rate of $167.9 billion - far outpacing the record $148.5 billion deficit for 1985.

Analysts suggested that the deficit is easing under the impact of a declining dollar that is making imports more expensive at home and U.S. goods more competitive abroad.

Some economists argued against reading too much into the monthly deficit figures, claiming they are often unreliable because of a lag time of up to several months in reporting

Rebels agree to cease-fire

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The government and Communist guerrillas today agreed to a 60-day ceasefire — their first nationwide truce since the insurgency began 17 years ago.

The pact, which was announced by both sides, is to be signed Thursday and take effect Dec. 10. President Corazon Aquino had set a Sunday deadline for the rebels to accept a cease-fire.

"Both sides won the war," said Ramon Mitra, the chief government negotiator. "We gained a new phase in the life of our country. It's something we both longed for, and the president had wanted all along since she decided to seek the presidency.

Palestinians convicted

BERLIN — A court today convicted two Palestinians of attempted murder and weapons violations in a West Berlin bombing and said Syria aided in the attack.

Ahmed Nawar Hasi was sentenced to 14 years in prison and his accomplice, Farouk Salameh, to 13 years in prison. Both men admitted to the March 29 bombing of the German-Arab Friendship Society, in which nine people were injured.

West German officials said earlier the outcome of the trial would play a role in West Germany's relations with Syria. Britain broke relations with the Damascus government after a guilty verdict was returned against a Jordanian in the attempted bombing of an Israeli jet - an attempt Britain said was backed by Syria.

The Jordanian convicted in Britain is a brother of Hasi.

Iran controversy develops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the highlights of developments Tuesday in the controversy surrounding the secret sales of arms by the United States to Iran:

• Poindexter-North President Reagan, saying one element of the U.S.-Iran program was "seriously" flawed, announced that Vice Adm. John Poindexter, his national security council, had asked to be relieved of his duties and to return to Navy service. Reagan said that Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North had been "relieved of his duties" at the National Security Council."

• Iranian-Contra Connection Attorney General Edwin Meese told reporters that up to $30 million of the money the Iranians paid for U.S. arms was diverted to U.S.-backed Nicaraguan rebels.

Meese also revealed that the first U.S.-sanctioned arms shipment to Iran took place in 1985 without Reagan's knowledge and was approved by the president only after the fact.

• Iran-Congress Several members of Congress, in both the Democratic and Republican parties, said the Reagan administration should not be left to investigate itself on the Iranian controversy. They called for the appointment of a special prosecutor to determine whether the administration broke the law in using millions of Iranian dollars to aid the Contra guerrillas in Nicaragua.

National Security Council Reagan said he would name a commission to examine the role of his National Security Council staff, which directed the Iranian operation.

• NSC Leadership Alton G. Keel Jr., a veteran government official who joined the staff of the National Security Council four months ago as principal acting assistant to Poindexter, was named to the agency's top staff job on an acting basis.

• Permanent NSC Chairman Congressional sources reported Tuesday that Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, was urging the administration to appoint former Sen. John Tower of Texas to succeed Poindexter. Gramm refused comment except to say the former senator would be a logical choice. Tower was unvailable for comment. White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan is expected to name a permanent successor later this week while the president spends the Thanksgiving holiday at his

"I feel quite privileged to be associated with him in this endeavor," Shultz said in an apparent effort to end speculation that he might step down in disagreement with Reagan over the U.S. sale of arms to Iran.

Immigration law not a solution

Now that Congress has passed a sweeping immigrationcontrol law, Americans may be tempted to dismiss Mexico's economic and political crisis as a less-pressing worry for the United States. Yet, just the opposite is the case.

The immigration measure may well exacerbate Mexico's plight by intensifying social and economic pressures relieved in the past by migration to the north — long the "safety valve" of the Mexican economy.

Consider that, even with the current unchecked flow of Mexicans into this country, economists estimate that 1 million new jobs must be created annually in Mexico just to absorb its burgeoning population of young workers. Needless to say, the most optimistic projections of economic growth fall far short of accommodating such large numbers of new laborers.

The consequence, at least in the forseeable future, is increased domestic turmoil.

If the social unrest threatened by Mexico's falling living standards sparks an exodus to the north, neither immigration reform nor an increased Border Patrol will be able to contain the flow. This reality makes America's stake in Mexico's future greater today than ever before.

The worsening economic crisis that began in 1982 has triggered the most far-reaching changes in Mexico since the 1910 revolution. Accompanying this convulsion of the economic and social structure are increasing risks of political instability.

The dangers of destabilization are multiplied because the transformation of any one sector of Mexican society foments changes elsewhere.

'We cannot move toward a more open economic structure...unless we also move toward a broader political base," explains Guillermina Villalva, a professor at the College of the Northern Border in Ciudad Juarez.

For the first time since its founding in 1929, the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI) is confrinted by rising popular demands for a more democratic political system. After winning every single election for president and state governor in the past five decades, PRI no longer can ignore the widespread perception among middle-class Mexicans that their country's elections are rigged.

Vote fraud is only one aspect of the broader problem of corruption at all levels of government. Endemic official corruption, encouraged in part by political tradition, now is worsened by the grip that illegal narcotics trafficking holds on Mex-

Economic expansion is the key to long-term stability, but growth is hampered in the short term by Mexico's staggering foreign debt, which now totals some $100 billion, including $24 billion owed to commercial banks in the United States.

The latest American-devised rescue plan extends another $12 billion in emergency payments but also nikes Mexico's indebtedness to foreign lenders, which alredy is dangerously high. The "debt time bomb" still threatens to short-circuit economic and social progress.

Over the longer term, President Miguel de la Madrid's economic program offers promise. By selling state-owned enterprises to the private sector, encouraging foreign investment, curbing government subsidies that have limited competition, and joining the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade to spur international commerce, President de la Madrid is putting the economy on a sounder footing.

The fruits of this program, however, will not by felt by average Mexicans for years to come.

Meantime, the question is whether the wrenching sacrifices imposed on Mexicans can be sustained without rupturing the existing social order. The answer to this dilemma should be of more than passing interest to Americans sharing Mexico's porous 1,900-mile border.

Mercenary's diary tells all about recruitment for revolt

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — How did eight American soldiers of fortune think they and 100 native guerrillas could land on the coast of Ghana in rubber boats and overthrow Jerry Rawlings, president of the West African nation of some 13 million?

Easy: They were convinced they had the official if secret backing of the CIA and the National Security Council. To their dismay, they learned otherwise after Brazilian authorities seized their Argentineregistered freighter on its way to Africa loaded with weapons last Rio de Janeiro jail. They have, as Asia during the Vietnam War. the phrase goes, been hung out to says he did no such thing.

The bizarre story might strike some as funny, but it's no laughing matter to the eight Americans. Although the Brazilian charges against them were overturned by an appellate court, they remain in their vermin-infested cells awaiting a decision on their possible extradition to Argentina on charges of trafficking in contraband.

Details of the Rambo team's recruitment are provided in a diary written by one of the eight, Steve Hedrick. Our reporters Corky Johnson and Robert Young have seen the diary and letters the prisoners sent to family members in this country.

Hedrick, a weapons expert in Vietnam, wrote that he was signed up by one Ted Bishop. At the first 'team meeting' in Argentina, Hedrick wrote, Bishop told the group: "You are being hired to overthrow the communist-backed government of Ghana. It's a joint effort between the U.S., Argentina and another unnamed country. This mission is sanctioned from the highest office in the country.'

According to Hedrick, Bishop also told them: "I work directly for the NSC. I have walk-in access."

As we've reported, the eight He told them, Hedrick wrote, that mercenaries, all Vietnam he had worked for the CIA-run veterans, are now languishing in a airline, Air America, in Southeast

The invasion would be be launched in rubber boats from the ship. Part of the Americans' mission was to rescue two CIA agents from a Ghanaian

The leader of the amphibious operation was to be Godfrey Osei, a former Ghanaian official. According to our sources, he told the Americans that he had raised $500,000 for the invasion, with the help of a supposed Israeli agent named Solomon and what Osei called the "Chinese Mafia" in New York City.

As luck would have it, neither Osei nor Bishop were aboard the arms-laden Argentine freighter Norbistor when Brazilian police seized it. Bishop told us he has never worked for any government agency. He acknowledged that he had helped arrange the arms deal for Osei, but denied having recruited the mercenaries for either the CIA or the NSC.

Compounding the Americans' unfortunate situation, they told their families, the U.S. Embassy in Brazil has done nothing to help them get better treatment from their jailers. The embassy denied the prisoners' charges.

POPULAR DIGEST: Relatively speaking, our intelligence sources say, the irascible Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini of Iran is a popular, charismatic leader. The catch, of course, is the phrase "relatively speaking."

The intelligence experts are comparing Khomeini with his rival dictators in the Middle East, which may be like comparing rotten apples and rotten oranges

At any rate, the analysts think Khomeini clearly has a stronger hold on the affections of his people than do the rulers of Syria, Iraq and Libya — or even Saudi Arabia and Jordan. He might do well in a free election, they say.

INTERAGENCY VENDETTA?: The Justice Department has quietly put out the word that it is investigating a former House staffer, Ted Mehl.

As an investigator for a subcommittee chaired by Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., Mehl successfulpatrol aircraft for the Customs Service to use in the war against drug smugglers Now Mehl has transferred to the agency to help it manage the aircraft. Justice Department officials say they're concerned about a possible conflict of interest, but our sources believe the department is just taking revenge on Mehl for his success in enhancing the Customs Service's drug role.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Those who ignore history aren't always doomed to repeat it; some of them become TV anchormen.

One distinguished network news host mused the other night on the coincidence that the late, unlamented Soviet apparatchik Vyacheslav Molotov had died just one day after the anniversary of "the Bolshevik revolution, which overthrew the czar.'

The facts, of course, are that the Bolshevik "revolution" was actually a coup d'etat, and that the czar was overthrown eight months earlier in the authentic, truly popular Russian revolution of 1917. That "bourgeoise" revolution, of course, is never celebrated in the Soviet Union.

Pancreas disorder can be a cause of ulcers

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am being treated for what my doctor has diagnosed as Zollinger-Ellison syndrome. I have been on a medicine called Zantac and I have had stomach surgery for ulcer an there. I understand it has to do with gastrin levels. However, my gastrin level remains high. I am told that sometimes doctors will do surgery on the pancreas for this problem. I have confidence in my doctor, but I wonder what else might be done for this. - V.S.

At this point, the reader may be wondering what the pancreas has to do with stomach ulcers. In Zollinger-Ellison syndrome the key link in the chain of events is a tumor of the pancreas, a somewhat rare tumor that produces gastrin. Gastrin is a hormone that triggers acid production in the stomach. Ulcers form there because of the resulting irritation of the lining.

These ulcers are always more difficult to treat than regular kinds. In fact, until quite recently the only treatment for many patients was removal of virtually all of the stomach. That got rid of the acid production, but as you can imagine, it created new and difficult digestive problems.

This brings us around to you question about pancreas surgery. Why not go in and remove the pancreas tumor and end the triggering point for the gastrin production? In the first place, that is an all but impossible task, for these tumors are usually located in an inaccessible area. Rarely, a tumor will be situated where it can be removed, perhaps even in the neighboring intestines. In these special circumstances, surgery is done.

However, more recently, medicines have become available to stop the gastrin excess at the production point. Your Zantac is for that purpose. It will not affect test levels of gastrin, but you needn't be concerned about that. You seem to be getting standard treatment for your problem. There's more to all than this, but I think this is about a big enough dose of Z-E information to be swallowed at one time. If you have specific questions, feel free to write

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband has several lumps on his body. Ten years ago, a doctor told him they were fatty tumors. They have grown larger since then. This is our problem. Our income is not low enough for Medicare, but we barely get by. My husband wishes me to cut out htis one fatty tumor myself with an Exacto knife and is not safe. Removing a fatty tumor (if that is what he has) might be minor operation for a surgeon. It would be a major undertaking by a layman armed with an Exacto knife. You're not sure what those lumps are at this point. How do you know they are not filled with blood vessels? I know your letter to me was written in sober earnest. My answer is in kind

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is Pathibamate? We are having a hard time getting a definite answer. - I.S.

No mystery here. Pathibamate is a combination of two drugs. Tridihexethyl chloride is one. It slows the digestive tract. Meprobamate is the other. It is a tranquilizer. This medicine may helpj in irritable bowel syndrome, Call your county social services and sometimes it's used for ulcers. DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is mogram? Is it painful to undergo? Concerned.

The radiation involved ion having a mammogram (breast examination) is so minute as to be barely measurable. The amount of risk, if any, is certainly insignificant measured against the danger of having an small undetected breast cancer.

Women should not fear mammograms for any reason. They are painless procedures. Some women may have a little discomfort, since the breast tissue has to be compressed slightly to assure a good picture.

What are ulcers? How can you help yourself get rid of ulcers and stay rid of them? Read the booklet, "Peptic Ulcers: The Modern View oand Treatment." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00.

Cooking tips for the perfect turkey

By Butterball

How long will a fresh turkey keep in the refrigerator?

Ideally, we recommend storing a fresh turkey only 2 to 3 days prior to roasting. However, your fresh turkey could be stored 5 to 6 days in the unopened wraper on a tray in the coldest part of your refrigerator.

Should I cover my turkey with

Not at the beginning of the roasting time as it lengthens the golden brown, you may shield the breast loosely with a tent of lightweight foil to prevent overbrowning and overcooking.

Why was my turkey dry?

Roasting a turkey too long or in a too hot oven will cause the meat to become dry and fall away from the bone. We recommend roasting at 325 F. and following the roasting schedule that is included with turkeys. Also, a meat thermometer inserted into the thickest portion of cook time. When the turkey turns a the thigh next to the body, not touching bone is the most accurate test for doneness. It will register 180 to 185 F. when the turkey is

Why was my turkey stringy?

Tender breast meat will tend to fall apart, shred or crumble if carving is done immediately after removing the turkey from the oven. We recommend letting the turkey rest for 15 to 20 minutes before carving. This rest period helps to set the juices making the turkey easier to carve.

A time for giving thanks

Last week marked my three-year anniversary with the Big Spring Herald. During my stint I've grown not only as a sports writer, but as a person as well in the Spring City. I've really enjoyed this fair community.

I couldn't have had so many good times without the help of local and area people in the sports field. Since Thursday is Thanksgiving, I'd like to salute the following for their efforts in making the Herald sports department a fun place to work.

THE BIG SPRING STEERS FOOTBALL TEAM - Not just for making the state playoffs, but for proving they were winners to all those who doubted. The Steers helped this community join together. They made Big Spring a lively place and made all of us proud to be associated with Big Spring football.

EVERETT BLACKBURN — This has to be the unsung hero of the Big Spring High School sports program. The Big Spring High School Athletic Trainer always does such a good job that we sometimes take him for granted. Whether he's trying to get an injured player in shape to play, introducing starting lineups with impossible names, or offering fatherly advice to a troubled youth, Blackburn is the best.

QUINN EUDY — After five years the Big Spring High School Head Football Coach led his team to the promised land, the state playoffs. Nobody deserves success more. He has weathered the bad times, and now that his winning attitude has rubbed off on his players, let the good times

HARLIN SMITH — As far as turning in meet results, the Big Spring High School Swim Coach gets an A plus. And he does a very consistent job of getting his swimmers ready for the each meet. It takes a special man to have his team ready to workout every morning at 6.

JAN EAST — The Forsan Head Football Coach has been one of my favorites since moving to Big Spring. He's a man that is quick to the point and makes no bones that he expects success from his team, which is exactly what he gets. Another trait he has that a lot of coaches don't is returning phone calls. People like him make my job

DON STEVENS — The Howard College Hawk-Queens Basketball Coach is one of the top junior college coaches in the nation; his record speaks for itself. He's a very patient man and it shows when watching the improvement his girls make during the season. He always has time for the press and almost never misses calling in descriptive game

DON RITCHEY, TERRY ROBERTSON, RANDY BRIT-TON AND JO ANN RITCHEY — These people are the ones that take care of media and coaches in the press box during the football games at Memorial Stadium. They make you feel right at home with their hospitality that ranges from supplying game programs to hot dogs, cookies, cokes and coffee. This makes Memorial the best stadium around for covering football games.

CAROL GAUER AND HOWARD STEWART — These two are the official score keepers for the high school basketball games. It's never a dull moment with them around and if you don't watch yourself, you'll find yourself doing more talking that watching. They are tops on my scoreboard.

RICHARD CAULLEY — A true sports buff who might make it in the world of journalism yet. Whether taking games results over the phone, keeping defensive stats or being a "spotter", he always puts his heart into it. His zestful attitude is a pleasure to be around.

CONRARD MEZICK and STEVE REAGAN — Two up and promising sports writers. You guys have helped me out of a pinch more than once. Two sports fanatics that have raw talent that is yet to be used. Keep striving and thanks for all the help.

DICK HELMS — A true backer of Big Spring athletics. Whether he's running the clock at Howard hoop games or braving the cold winds while filming Big Spring football games, he is one of those die-hard fans. He's been there through the good and bad times.

SCOTT KNIPPA — This big fellow is the Steers' football offensive coordinator. He underwent a traumatic situation during the summer. But being a man of strong will and backbone, he has bounced back to run one of the most consistent offensive attacks around. Coach Knippa, don't ever stop being your jovial self. You're a good man for the TERRY BENNER — Another big fellow who is one of the Steers' football coaches. I admire his love for the game and the fire and vigor he installs in his players to excell. But perhaps the thing I admire most is the way he works with his players. He doesn't just tell them how to do it, he shows them and works out with them. If you've ever seen him in the weight room, you know what I mean.

BOB AND SUSAN LEWIS — These two are the unsung heroes of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo. Each year they do a bang up job of rodeo promotions. Their PR work doesn't stop there. Each night after each rodeo performance, no matter how late it is, they hurry and tally up the results and run off the copies, so the press can get the information in no time flat. Talk about easy people to work with. If there's anything they can help the press with, they will. I look forward to working with them come rodeo time.

Lady Steers rout Estacado

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

Tuesday night's basketball game between the Big Spring Lady Steers and Lubbock Estacado Lady Mats got started an hour late. The Lady Mats probably wished the game had never started at all.

Because once the contest started the Lady Mats ran into a buzz saw in the form of a hot shooting and defensively inclined Lady Steers team. And when it was all over, the Lady Steers had ripped, sliced and carved their way to an impressive 76-38 win in Steer Gym.

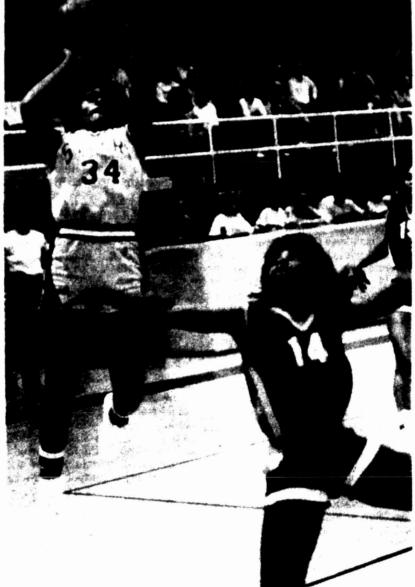

The game was delayed because Estacado reached Steer Gym two minutes befeore the scheduled starting time of 6 p.m. Next the referees thought it was a 7:30 game, so no referees. By the time the Lady Mats had adequate time to dress and warm up, and two other officials had been summoned, the contest begin at 7.

And the Lady Steers put on a show for the home crowd. Keved by a relentless trapping press, which forced Estacado into 26 turnovers, they got wound up two minutes into the game, and never stopped harassing the Lady Mats until the final buzzer

THe first two minutes of the game were the worst for Big Spring. The Lady Steers started out getting the tip and taking the ball down the wrong end of the court. Then they committed two quick turnovers and made one of their first five shots. Still they held a 2-0 lead over the Lubbock team.

Then Lady Steers coach C.E. Carmicheal called a time out and his Lady Steers came out smoking. Senior forward Sheri Myrick hit a 15-footer for the next basket, something she would do all night. Estacado scored and Big countered when forward Teresa Pruitt hit a turnaround jumper, something she would do all night.

And that's was just about the makeup of the Lady Steers offense. made 11 of 17 field goal attempts

Steers tame B-wood Lions

By EDDIE CURRAN Staff Writer

Though the Big Spring Steers basketball team won their home opener by a nose Tuesday night, you never really had the feeling the Steers were in jeapordy.

The Steers, led by senior guard Charles Young's 19 points, edged the Brownwood Lions 67-64 to raise their record to 2-0.

"The guys made me work too hard for that one," said first year Head Coach Boyce Paxton after his first win in Steer gym.

"That was one of our goals — to win the first home game. To get that first one and build and build on

"It wasn't a very pretty game, but we'll improve because we have a lot of off season kids (football players) who are way behind. When they catch up we can put them all together," Paxton said.

Forward Sidney Parker paced the Steers in the first half with 13 points, but got in foul trouble and spent most of the second half on the bench. Chris Lopez, shooting his kick jumper from the top of the key, scored eight first half points to propel the Steers to 31-22 lead late Paxton pulled his starters late in the half to experiment with some of the football players, and their lack of experience showed. The Lions scored 16 straight points, many on Steers' turnovers, to close out the half with a 38-31 lead.

"I was worried about it, but I was confident in my kids. I was just testing my kids and seeing who can play under pressure. Everybody probably thought that was stupid, but that's what I wanted to do,' Paxton said.

His confidence proved well founded. With his starters back on the floor the Steers harassed the Lions with a half-court trapping defense and took a 41-40 lead with less than five minutes remaining in

Second Tower topples on injured list

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a scene that Houston and definitely would miss tonight's New York Knicks Coach Hubie Brown had seen all too often in the last two years.

So when Akeem Olajuwon fell to the floor with 7:37 left in Tuesday night's NBA game, it was little relief to Brown that the brilliant 7-foot center plays for the Houston Rockets instead of his own team. The Knicks have been decimated by injuries to Bernard King, Bill Cartwright, Patrick Ewing, Pat Cummings and others the last two years.

When Cartwright fell into Olajuwon's leg. a picture of Joe Theismann's gruesome football injury of last year came to mind, but Xrays later revealed no breaks or tears in Olajuwon's knee or ankle.

That news had not come to Brown, however, when he entered the Houston locker room after the game to express the hope to Houston Coach Bill Fitch that the injury was not serious. Brown's relief at winning the game 102-93, only the Knicks' fourth victory in 14 games, was not evident in his

Rockets team physician Dr. Charles Baker said Olajuwon would return immediately to game at Indiana. Baker said Olajuwon's condition would be evaluated before Houston's home game Saturday night against New

"If he misses even five games it's like a five-game forfeit because he's been carrying us," Fitch said. "My first thought was 'Why does it have to be him?

"No one in the world likes to be sick or hurt, but Akeem loves to play so much it's a shame it has to be him. He was taking on the Knicks all by himself.' The Rockets trailed 82-81 when Olajuwon left the game. Reserve guard Gerald Henderson went on to score 14 of his seasonhigh 21 points in the fourth quarter, eight of them in the final 4:02

Olajuwon, who had played all 40 minutes up to the time he was injured, had 34 points 17 rebounds, four blocked shots and six assists when he grabbed a loose ball and Cartwright fell on his stiff right leg.

"I've never seen a guy run like that the whole game," Cartwright said. "I was beginning to wonder what it would take for him to Olajuwon's Twin Tower teammate. 7-foot-4 Ralph Sampson, has missed all but two games this season with injuries to both ankles, and Fitch was mystified as to how the Rockets would fare without them.

"I don't want to minimize the seriousness of the situation, but I don't know when Sampson is coming back or when Olajuwon is coming back," Fitch said. "Until they do, we're going to have to play a different ballgame.'

Henderson's two free throws with 4:02 left gave the Knicks the lead for good at 90-89. It was the 11th lead change of the fourth quarter and started a 14-2 streak that gave New York a 102-91 lead with 36 seconds

Henderson had scored no more than 10 points in his previous five games for New York after he was acquired from Seattle.

"I'm starting to feel comfortable here and I'm ready to assume the strongest role I can," Henderson said. "I feel I can run this ballclub well. I can move us up and down the floor with some enthusiasm and intensity. And that's what we need to play well."

Hawks beat LA on boards

During a nine-game winning streak that temporarily gave the Los Angeles Lakers the best record in the NBA, few people were talking about their supposed weakness inside

But with leading rebounder Kurt Rambis on the sidelines with a dislocated finger, the Lakers were devastated on the boards by Atlanta Tuesday night and lost 113-107, giving the Hawks an NBA-best 10-2 record and making them the first team to reach double figures in

"I hate to say this, but I think they wanted it more than we did," Lakers guard Michael Cooper said after shooting 2-for-12 from the field.

NBA

Dominique Wilkins had 26 points and 11 rebounds for Atlanta, and Cliff Levingston added 15 more rebounds to lead the Hawks' 63-42 advantage on the boards. The Lakers' rebound leader was A.C. Green with seven

"We've got a lot of great jumpers on this team and we're always hitting the glass," said Mike McGee, who was traded by the Lakers to Atlanta during the offseason.

Atlanta appeared on the verge of routing the Lakers by taking a 60-43 halftime lead. But Los Angeles outscored the Hawks 40-23 in the third quarter to tie the game 83-83.

The Lakers took the lead briefly in the fourth period before a reverse layup by Glenn Rivers, who joined Levingston with 19 points, put Atlanta ahead to stay at 93-92. The Hawks went on to build the margin to 10 before the game

"They're a quick, young, hungry team," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said of the Hawks. "We got whipped tonight. The first half was the half.

The rest of the Lady Steers shot well also. Big Spring sunk 28 of 53 field goals for 53 percent. The Lady Steers were also hot from the foul line, sinking 20 of 26 for 77 percent.

While Pruitt and Myrick were the offensive heroes, Paige Clawson, Katrina Thompson and Tami Wise were the defensive stalwarts. Guards Clawson and Thompson had six steals between them while the 6-0 Wise blocked three shots

"For the first three quarters we looked good, it was probably our best game of the year," said Carmichael. "Our reserves will have to play better, but it's good they got some playing time.

"We played good defense and did some smart thngs with the basketball offensively. Sheri and Teresa had great games. That's the best playing really well lately, just like I thought she would."

After the first two minutes of play, it was no contest. Big Spring went on and sunk seven of its last 10 shots in the first quarter and took a 18-4 lead. The Lady Steers finished out a hot second quarter and built up a 41-20 halftime lead. Myrick and Pruitt scored all but seven of the halftime points and Big Spring shot a sizzling 59 percent from the

Carmichael kept the pressure on in the third quarter before letting his reserves have it in the final

A hot shooting Young bagged eight points during the run, but Parker was nailed for his fourth foul at the 3:17 mark.

Brian Mayfield, still a little rusty from football, blocked two shots and grabbed nine rebounds to fill the gap defensively in the second half. Mayfield finished with 11 points, five on free throws.

Lopez drove hard to the bucket for a layup at the third quarter buzzer to give the Steers a 58-50 lead going into the last stanza. The Steers outscored the Lions 27-12 in the pivotal third quarter.

With less than a minute remaining the Steers led 66-60, but two mental mistakes made things touchy for a while. The Lions missed a foul shot but got the rebound and scored. After a Steers' turnover the Lions scored again to cut the lead to 66-64 with 17 seconds

After a timeout, the Steers broke the Lions press and Mayfield was fouled on a rebound. The junior forward sank the first one for the final 67-64 score.

Paxton cited Lopez for his strong play at guard and Young for his good shooting game.

"Sidney (Parker) hustled hard. He dove on the floor and set an example for the other players. He's worked hard. He's probably 20 pounds lighter than he was when the season started," Paxton said about his big bodied forward with the soft inside touch.

The Steers travel to Pampa for the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Invitational Basketball Tournament this weekend. The Steers

White opposes college mergers

AUSTIN - Gov. Mark White, cautiously at the one in South while reiterating general opposition to proposed state college mergers, hints that a plan to combine two South Texas schools might have merit White flatly rejected Tuesday proposals for mergers of Texas Woman's University and North Texas State and between the University of Houston-Downtown and Texas Southern University.

But he sounded less emphatic about a suggested merger of Corpus Christi State University and Texas A&I at Kingsville. Some boosters of the plan say it could increase the number of doctoral programs available to South Texas mergers. I would just look very very important," he said.

Texas because there is the prospect of some enhancement and strengthening of programs," White told news reporters

"The other prospects (TWU-North Texas and Houston-TSU), I think, would diminish educational quality. That one (Corpus Christi-A&I) has some potential depending on how it's done," White

The three mergers are being considered by the Select Committee on Higher Education, which is scheduled to vote on recommendations next month.

White said any merger proposal must be analyzed carefully.

Church denied building permits

BROWNSVILLE — The millions of dollars trying to keep Brownsville Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church has until Dec. 5 to move a shelter for Central American refugees out of San Benito but won't know until Dec. 8 if it can continue construction at a new site near Brownsville.

Diocesan official Hernan Gonzalez savs he doesn't know what steps the church will now take to find a home for Casa Oscar

"I'm disappointed the commission took this action," Gonzalez said Tuesday after Cameron County commissioners voted 4-0 to suspend building permits for five mobile homes and a restroom on six acres east of Brownsville.

The commission agreed to reconsider the permits at a Dec. 8 meeeting but told diocesan officials to suspend construction until then.

More than 200 people, many of them Winter Texans who live in mobile homes near the diocese's land, attended Tuesday's meeting to protest the shelter.

Commissioner D.J. Lerma said Bishop John Fitzpatrick of the Brownsville diocese was guilty of breaking one of the Ten Commandments: "Thou shall not steal."

"He's robbing these (mobile home) owners of money. They're losing money. The value of their property will come down if this is established down there," Lerma said. "He should be nice to the local people, not the illegal aliens.

Gonzalez said he had no comment on whether the diocese would

Spain yields most expensive spice

By SUSAN LINNEE Associated Press Writer

OLMEDA DEL REY, Spain In the cool of one recent November morning, Nati Martinez was out in one of her saffron plots, bent over rows of spiky green plants, plucking their violet roses. Later, when she filled her bucket, she spread the flowers out on her kitchen table, deftly pinched out the three dark-red stigmas from each and then dried them over a charcoal fire.

The fragant flower petals went outside on a heap. It was harvest time in Spain for saffron, one of the world's most expensive spices, sold in small vials or jars and fetching

$2 to $5 each in U.S. stores. Mrs. Martinez consider herself lucky when her threeweek harvest yields a pound of dried sigmas, which she sells to the local buyer who makes the rounds of the villages in Cuenca province, 95 miles east of Madrid.

Saffron stigmas are lighter than goose down, and a pound represents about 75,000 blossoms. The stigmas lose 80 percent of their weight in the drying process.

Last year a pound of stigmas brought 30,000 to 35,000 pesetas ($214 to $250), enough to buy a television set or a bicycle. When Mrs. Martinez was harvesting this year's crop, a price had not been set.

For the small farmers of this region, saffron is a traditional cash crop to supplement income from wheat, barley, sunflowers, and more recently, mushrooms.

But further to the south and west across Castilla-La Mancha, the region made famous by Miguel de Cervantes and Don Quixote, his knight of the mournful countenance, saffrongrowing is big business

According to the Spanish Saffron Exporters Association, Spain has about 12,000 growers whose fields range in size from many hectares to several celemines. One hectare is 2.47 acres; a celemine, the measure established by the Arabs who introduced saffron into Spain in the 8th century, is an 18th of a corms that are planted in the red, sandy soil of central Spain every three to four years.

When the first saffron roses bloom around mid-October, hundreds of men, women and children take to the fields before the morning dew is gone to pick the flowers, pinch out the stigmas and dry them.

At least one Spanish saffron exporter is experimenting with machines to plant corms, weed plots and pick roses. Laser beam technology is also being tested for the delicate task of cutting the stigmas.

Spain satisfies 70 percent of the world's demand for saffron. Agricultural experts say this year's harvest in Castilla-La Mancha alone could reach 44,000

Exports of Spanish saffron to the United States last year totaled 5,000 pounds.

With 70,000 pounds harvested last year, Spain is the world's major saffron producer. Tiny amounts are also produced in Italy, the Loire Valley in France and the Indian state of Kashmir.

But the spice plays only a minor role in the kitchens of Spain, where it is used chiefly in paella, a rice and seafood dish from the southeastern region of Valencia.

Airlines expect high holiday bookings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of holiday travelers, spurred by discount fares and the prospects of an extra long weekend, are taking to the skies in what airlines expect to be record bookings for a Thanksgiving holiday.

The nation's jetliners are expected to carry about 10 percent more passengers over the next five days than during the Thanksgiving weekend a year ago with most of the rush coming today and Sunday. Some airlines are offering special fares for off-peak travel during the weekend, which is expected to add to the total passenger count.

"The expectations are that it will be the biggest Thanksgiving ever for air travel with 6.5 million passengers expected to travel over the five-day holiday period," said Bill Jackman, a spokesman for the Air Transport Association.

Along with the rush are likely to come delays, although Federal Aviation Administration and industry officials said the extent of the delays will depend largely on the weather. The major airlines hope the busy holiday traffic will help move the industry into the black for the entire year. According to the Air Transport Association, the major airlines had a net loss of about $100 million during the first nine months but could turn that around with a in the fourth quarter. FAA spokesman Fred Farrar said the agency anticipates about 20 percent more flights than normal today with Sunday also expected to be a busy day. Normally there are about 1,600 domestic commercial airline flights daily. The increase is not enough to cause air traffic control problems as long as the weather stays fine, said Farrar.

Many of the major airlines including United, Delta and American report bookings up 10 percent to 16 percent over last year and say there are indications of strong surges of traffic for the Christmas and New Year's travel periods as well. Such increases reflect a dramatic gain, especially during holiday periods, when business normally is brisk and most airline seats are filled. Most travelers are taking advantage of discount fares by booking well in advance, but there are others as well who are still scrambling for a ticket.

"There are a lot of people planning in the last minute," said Bernice Rosmarin of Edison Travel in Edison, N.J., and while many will likely find an airline seat "they'll be paying top dollar" and may have to accept less than the most direct route or most convenient

By DON RICHARDSON County Extension Agent Our county pecan crop is matur-

Our show will be Dec. 2 at the Highland Shopping Center. Included in the newsletter is a news release on pecan shows, prepared by our specialist, Dr. Austin Stockton. Please read it and consider participation in this year's

In the 1870's the first pecan show in Texas was conducted. The exact date has been lost to history but we do know that Mr. E.E. Risien conducted the contest in San Saba. The original Mother San Saba won the prize and was thus identified by Risien for future propagation.

The annual county pecan show concept was initiated in 1952 with four central Texas counties participating. Last year over 100 counties participated in 70 local shows across the state. Winning county entries go on to one of three regional pecan shows in December. Regional winners will be judged at a state show in 1987.

County and regional pecan shows demonstrate the superior quality of Texas pecans and play a major

Pecan entries are judged objectively. Each entry is weighed twice to determine the size of pecans (number per pound) and what percentage of the pecan is actually edible kernel. Kernel appearance is important. The brighter and lighter the golden brown of the kernel, the better. A heavy, well filled kernel is much more desirable than hollow one. Pecans in the shell that are clean, not discolored and free of insect damage are also important.

Local growers are encouraged to have their entries in to the county Extension Office by no later than Monday, December 1, 1986
