More than simply

three dumb clucks

ORE CITY (AP) — Roy Bell gets particularly protective of his pets around this time every year.

Jerry, Tom and Erica aren't just dumb clucks, according to Bell, who says his 70-pound turkeys like to ride around in his pickup truck.

"These birds aren't going to be a meal," he said. "I'm the only friend they have, and I plan to keep them as long as they live. I don't know how long a turkey is supposed to live, but I guess I'm going to find out."

Panels move to unravel Iran deals

By TIM AHERN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Investigators will try to determine if a fired White House aide destroyed documents relating to the Central American diversion of profits from U.S. arms sales to Iran, government officials say.

The probe also will consider possible CIA involvement in the transfer scheme, The Washington Post reports.

On Capitol Hill, meanwhile, the House Foreign Affairs Committee today sent President Reagan a letter asking for documents detailing the U.S. dealings with Iran and the arms shipment. The panel is one of several congressional committees investigating the U.S.-Iran connection.

"The manner in which the whole affair was conducted has seriously jeopardized our foreign policy, this nation's credibility, and our efforts to combat terrorism around the world," wrote Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the panel.

Lt. Col. Oliver North, the Marine officer who ran the program diverting money to rebels in Nicaragua, had free access to his office files for several hours after Reagan announced Tuesday that North was being removed from the NSC staff, the officials said Thursday.

Combinations on the locks in North's office were changed Tuesday afternoon, after Reagan's announcement, and North's papers were put into NSC vaults Wednesday, said the officials, adding that they didn't know whether any documents were destroyed.

On Thursday, asked about reports that

North was turned away at the White House gates, presidential spokesman Donald Mathes said North "is on the do-not-admit list, which is standard procedure for someone who has been relieved of their duties."

As to what happened at the gate, he said, "From what I gather, he was at the gate and was being hounded by the press and decided to leave."

Meanwhile, The Post said in today's editions that the congressional and Justice Department investigations into the diversion program have been expanded to include a study of the roles played by the CIA and its director, William Casey.

Quoting unnamed "informed sources," The Post said the probes focus on the CIA's role in setting up a Swiss bank account for Iranian payments for arms and on the agency's efforts to funnel aid to the Nicaraguan rebels, known as Contras.

Sources told the newspaper Casey has acknowledged establishing a Swiss account for Iran's payments, but they said it was not clear if that account was used to transfer funds to help the Contras.

Patrick Korten, a Justice Department spokesman, declined to confirm or deny the report, but said, "The investigation will be thorough and complete and cover every aspect."

Agriculture heads Congressional list of pending issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture, with its high subsidies and continuing economic miseries, will be among the most difficult issues facing the 100th Congress when it convenes just over a month from now.

Lawmakers will face the crucial questions of whether to rewrite a year-old farm law that has proven to be the most expensive in history and what to do about a Farm Credit System that is about to sink in red ink.

"It's going to be a very busy year," said Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., who will be chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee by virtue of his party's takeover of the Senate in this month's elections.

Farm income this year is estimated at $26 billion to $30 billion, down from last year's $30.5 billion figure. While many farm economists say the agricultural economy probably has bottomed out, producers face a long, slow climb back to better economic times.

"We're going to see abandoned land and grinding hardship like I've never seen in my lifetime" in 1987, says former Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, who is among those pressing for changes in farm policy and who predicts a showdown in Congress.

The cries of pain from rural America have become a familiar backdrop to agriculture policy debate on Capitol Hill, but added to those next year will be cries from White House budget writers.

At $25.6 billion, the cost of farm subsidies in 1986 set a record, soar-ing far above the $3 billion and $4 billion annual costs of subsidies just five or six years ago. Officials at the Office of Management and Budget are analyzing that spending as they prepare a new budget proposal for fiscal 1988, and talk is rampant that the administration will ask for cuts in farm programs as large as $10 billion.

"I've heard that," Leahy said. "But I'm not going to have them precipitously pull money out. I want to know where they're cutting."

Lawmakers and aides expect the administration's budget request sometime soon after Congress convenes to be the trigger that sets off a full-scale policy debate. In response to the request for cuts, lawmakers will trot out their policy prescriptions.

One sure to get a lot of attention is a proposal by Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, and Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., that would let Congress raise price-support levels in return for sharp cutbacks in planted acreage on major crops. The effect would be to shift the cost of supporting farm incomes from the government to consumers.

But even supporters of the move say they are far from finding adequate support to pass it.

One opponent, Rep. Tom Foley, D-Wash., argued that such a policy would wind up costing more than the current program because it would require massive spending on export subsidies to unload overpriced commodities abroad. He defends the current approach.

Second Thanksgiving

The drought-stricken still suffer

PELZER, S.C. (AP) — The effects of South Carolina's record drought aren't over, says a farmer who was host of an early Thanksgiving dinner for 500 of his Southeastern and Midwestern counterparts.

"You see this 80-foot silo?" asked Tom Trantham, whose story during the drought helped dramatize the plight of Southeastern farmers. "It's still empty."

Trantham's farm in northwestern South Carolina was the scene Wednesday of "the Second Thanksgiving," a chance for farmers in the Southeast to meet and thank the Midwesterners who donated hay and corn for starving livestock during the summer.

Many farmers still need extra hay to keep their cattle healthy through the winter because the drought prevented them from building up stockpiles, Trantham said. "The drought is over. We're standing in mud up to our knees. But the damage from the drought will be felt until the fall of the year."

Rain muddied roads and the yard where the dinner was held, although showers stopped before the main course. The dinner, held under a canvas auctioneer's tent, included turkey, sweet potato souffle, green beans, cornbread dressing and cranberry sauce, all provided by Conoco Oil.

Trantham was on the verge of bankruptcy and already had talked to a banker about selling his 200-acre dairy farm when he went on network television in July and described how drought had withered feed for his 200 cattle.

Publicity generated in part by his appearance eventually inspired farmers from 41 states to donate thousands of tons of feed in a "haylift" carried by donated trains and trucks for farmers in the Southeast.

"The first Thanksgiving the Indians helped out the Pilgrims when they needed it," Trantham said. "This pilgrim wouldn't have made it without the Indians of Illinois and Iowa and the other states."

Some people at the dinner had come to pick up 250 tons of hay from a 30-truck convoy that arrived Monday night. Among those who helped unload the hay after dinner was the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

Farmers came from Michigan, Iowa, Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, North Carolina and Georgia, and motels provided about 140 free rooms for the visitors.

Area thefts prompt warning

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard alerted county residents this morning to take protective action against a spree of residential burglaries that have occurred during the last six weeks.

The sheriff's department has concurred that most of the burglaries reported have come as a result of persons knocking on residential doors to see if anyone is home, Standard said.

Burglars respond to unanswered knocks by kicking in the door, entering the home and stealing valuable items "in a matter of seconds," Standard said.

If someone responds to a knock on the door, the potential burglar will give an excuse such as asking help for directions or seeking assistance to find a particular home, Standard said.

The sheriff requests county residents to remember physical descriptions of such persons and also to get information about the type of vehicle the suspicious person is driving. Any suspicious activity, persons, or vehicles should be reported to the sheriff's office, Standard said.

He requests that those leaving home should utilize a neighborhood watch program. Owners of such items as firearms and videocassette recorders should record serial numbers for identification.

Personal items like jewelry or coin collections should not be left out in the open, Standard said.

The sheriff's department has increased its patrol as a result of the recent burglaries, Standard said.

Persons with information concerning burglaries or stolen items, should contact Crimestoppers or the sheriff's department, Standard said.

Monetary rewards will be given by Crimestoppers to persons who give information leading to the arrest and indictment of a suspicious person. Persons who provide such information remain anonymous, Standard said.

Texans enjoy parade, feast

By WENDY E. LANE
Associated Press Writer

Texans celebrated Thanksgiving Day on large and small scales, feasting with family and new and old friends.

Under a bright blue sky in El Paso, nearly a quarter of a million people lined Montana Avenue to see the John Hancock Sun Bowl Parade, a two-hour-long spectacle with 94 entries and the latest is what has become a tradition for El Paso families.

"We've been coming since we were little kids. Now we bring our kids," said Lionel Nava, who came with his daughter, six nieces and nephews and his brother-in-law. "The parades I remember were the cold ones, but I'll remember this. It's beautiful."

Hundreds of people in Beaumont, Orange and Nederland broke with tradition and substituted pepperonis and extra cheese for turkey and dressing.

Mr. Gatti's restaurant recruited 85 volunteer workers at its restaurants in those cities to serve free pizzas and salads.

"The people in Southeast Texas have given me so much," said Bill Denham, who owns Mr. Gatti's. "I wanted to make sure that this year with the bad economy that I would give something back. People have really been hurting in this town, and I felt this was one way to help."

Jean Spell said she felt especially grateful for the gesture of goodwill. She and her husband David are unemployed and did not have enough money to fix the traditional Thanksgiving meal, she said.

In San Antonio, 450 turkeys and 800 pumpkin pies were baked for 9,800 senior citizens who packed the Convention Center Exhibit Hall for the annual Jimenez Thanksgiving Day Dinner.

Steelworkers arrested

Law enforcement officers move in to arrest members of United Steelworkers Local 1104 who tried to block the shipment of steel pipe from the idled USX Corp's Lorain Works in Lorain, Ohio, Wednesday. The union has been involved in a work stoppage at the plant since Aug. 1.

Holiday traffic takes toll on Texans

By The Associated Press

At least seven people have perished on Texas highways during the Thanksgiving holiday, including a teen-ager whose car was hit by a train during a rainstorm, officials said.

Ammar Bitar, 17, was killed and two others in his car were taken to Fort Bend Community Hospital after the car-train accident Thursday afternoon near Arcola, just south of Houston, LifeFlight spokesman Don Brown said.

In other fatalities recorded during the count that began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday:

- A pregnant woman and a man died in Bellaire on Thursday when a car ran a red light and struck another, Harris County Sheriff's spokesman J.R. McFerrin said.

The man died at the scene in this Houston suburb, and the woman died in surgery at Hermann Hospital, McFerrin said. Authorities would not release their names.

- Christy Coman, 32, of Houston died early Thursday after her car careened into a ditch in north Harris County and struck a culvert, he said.
- Another woman whom authorities declined to identify was killed early Thursday in Houston just three days after her 35th birthday, police department spokesman D. Watley said.

Witness reports conflicted on how the woman died, he said. Some said she was hit by a car, others reported she fell out of a car.

- John Lewis Pitts, 42, of San Antonio was killed about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday when he was hit by a car while running across Interstate 35 in San Antonio, police said. No citations were issued.
- Rogelio Berrueto, 32, of San Antonio was killed when a pickup truck he was driving struck a stalled dump truck on the shoulder of Interstate 410 at about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, police said.

Three injured in two accidents Wednesday

A Big Spring man was severely injured and a Lubbock woman and child hurt in two separate accidents Wednesday.

Steve Vance Weaver, 20, Route 1 Box 77, was in stable condition this morning at Scenic Mountain Medical Center, a hospital spokeswoman said. Police reports listed him as suffering severe injuries.

Weaver was injured while riding a Harley-Davidson motorcycle at 4:12 p.m. Wednesday in the 1500 block of South Goliad Street.

Arnett Preston, 85, 1204 Pennsylvania, who was driving a 1975 Cadillac, was not injured.

Weaver was driving north on Goliad, and Preston driving east on 15th Street. Preston stopped at a stop sign, then proceeded into the intersection, across Weaver's path, police reports said. The two vehicles collided.

Preston was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way and having an expired drivers licence.

Carolyn Russell Moore, 31, and David Guede, 6, both of Lubbock, were treated and released from Scenic Mountain Medical Center, a hospital spokeswoman said.

They were injured in a two-car accident at 1200 N. Lamesa Highway at 2:40 p.m. Wednesday.

Moore, driving south on the highway, turned east onto the south service road. Police reports said she failed to yield right-of-way to John William Birdwell, 49, 2311 Allendale Drive, who was driving a Chevrolet pickup north on Lamesa Highway.

Moore told police she didn't see Birdwell. She was not listed as ticketed. Police reports state the two drivers wore seatbelts and shoulder straps but the child wasn't restrained.

Flyin' high

Sailboarder Doug Herrin of South Padre Island takes advantage of 20 to 30 knot winds brought in by a cold front and gets incredible height off a wave while windsurfing through breakers. High temperatures Thursday were in the low 50s with high winds and drizzle. Today, the high is expected to be in the 60s and clearing.

Mitchell board considers new physician prospect

COLORADO CITY — Mitchell County Hospital Administrator Ray Mason told the hospital district's board of directors earlier this week that a physician has indicated an interest in moving his practice to Colorado City.

Dr. Paul Grandy, 51, of Austin has made an application for staff privileges at the hospital, but it will cost the district $17,000 in recruiting fees to secure the physician who was recommended by an Austin recruitment firm, Mason said.

Grandy has been in family practice for 12 years and before that was a psychiatrist with the U.S. Air Force, Mason said.

The board gave Mason approval to begin a thorough background check on Grandy and if it proves favorable, the board will begin negotiations.

In other business, Assistant Administrator and comptroller Richard Murphy said that Medicare will issue a $316,899 check for disputed Medicare claims. The board commended Murphy for his efforts in securing the reimbursement.

Murphy suggested the hospital use part of the Medicare money to finance a new computer system now being installed. The board had authorized $70,000 of the $84,000 system to be financed with a bank loan. Murphy said $19,000 in interest fees can be saved by paying cash. Murphy said he will have a cost estimate for the computer system and a breakdown of the two purchase methods at the December board meeting.

Police beat

Four arrested this morning on wide range of charges

Four Amarillo residents were arrested early this morning on the south service road of Interstate-20 at Midway Road on various charges.

David Elton Owens, 36, was arrested for unlawfully carrying a weapon, possession of drug paraphernalia, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, a forgery warrant from the Levelland sheriff's office, a warrant for theft by check from the Canyon sheriff's office and resisting arrest.

Margie Diane Owens, 32, was arrested for unlawfully carrying a weapon, possession of drug paraphernalia, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and a forgery warrant from the Lamesa sheriff's office.

Teresa Diane Eden, 24, and Linda Diane

Price, 36, were arrested for unlawfully carrying a weapon, possession of drug paraphernalia and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

- Carol Musgrove, 1606 S. Runnels St., found a prowler hiding under the bed at her house at 3:40 p.m. Wednesday. She had been inside about 40 minutes when she went into the bedroom and saw an arm protruding from beneath the bed. The prowler fled at her scream. A wooden door was damaged, but nothing was listed as stolen.
- Judy Sylvia Olivas, 1103 Lamar, told police someone stole her purse, containing $223 cash and her driver's licence. The purse was left in a dressing room at 1703 FM 700 and when Olivas returned for it, the purse was gone.

- A color television and an AM/FM cassette radio was stolen from the residence of Maria Lopez, 120 Airbase Rd. Building 6 Apt. 6, between Nov. 20-26.
- Mary Hull, 614 Linda Lane, told police someone she knows tried to enter her residence Wednesday. A wood door was damaged.
- Security guards detained someone who left Walmart without paying for a $29.86 men's coat Wednesday evening. Silverio Gutierrez, 22, whose address was listed as 2402 Chiususua, was arrested at 2500 Gregg St. Wednesday evening for shoplifting and resisting arrest. He was transferred to the county jail and released on $1,500 bond.
- Benny Marquez, 53, 2630 Dow, was arrested Wednesday afternoon on a warrant for criminal mischief.

"The 1985 farm bill has been more costly than was expected but to a large degree it is because it has done what its charge (was) to do," he said. farmers, but it doesn't stand the test of critical analysis."

Leahy said he will air all sides of the issue in committee hearings, taking the Senate panel out into the countryside to hold sessions with farmers and rural people who don't normally get a chance to be heard in Washington. He hopes senators will even spend the night in farm homes while on the road.

On his personal agenda, Leahy said, is the need for a new, stricter ceiling on the amount of federal subsidies that can be paid to any single farmer. A $250,000 limit imposed this year still leaves too many loopholes, he said.

Clothes stolen and recovered

Sammy Buchanan, Route One Box 439, told sheriff's deputies Wednesday night someone stole $724 worth of clothes from his daughter's and brother-in-law's car that was parked on Moss Lake Road, about a mile north of Interstate 20. The theft was reported to have occurred between 7:30 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Deputy Bennie Green said this morning Buchanan later notified the sheriff's department that the clothes were recovered Thursday morning.

Donald T. Regan on the transfer plan.

"Regan ... would know everything that Poindexter knew," said the official, who, like others interviewed Thursday, spoke only on condition he not be named.

Regan, asked about the report as he emerged from a Thanksgiving dinner at his hotel in Santa Barbara, Calif., said, "It's ridiculous. I was not briefed thoroughly on all this, never heard of it until the news came out on Monday about the Iranian money and the Contras."

The Los Angeles Times today quoted "an official with consistent and accurate knowledge of the unfolding Iran scandal" as saying North told several people he personally briefed Regan on the transfer of the arms sale profits at the conception or early in the history of the program.

North also claimed the diversion was done with the knowledge and approval of his superiors, including Regan and Poindexter, the newspaper said.

It also said, however, that the source cautioned that North's credibility has been shattered by the revelations and his allegations may be in doubt.

North was fired and Poindexter resigned as Attorney General Edwin Meese publicly outlined the Iran-Contra link on Tuesday, saying as much as $30 million in arms-sales profits could have been funneled to the Contras through numbered Swiss bank accounts.

Meese told reporters North was "the only person in the United States government that knew precisely about this" and added that Poindexter "did know that something of this nature was occurring."

A Senate source said the Senate Intelligence Committee is planning to hear sworn testimony in mid-December from administration officials involved in the arms sales.

Among the officials likely to be called are North, Poindexter, Casey and former National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane, the source added.

Regan said Thursday that "all national security documents are not in the possession of just one person. There are copies of them; there is a central file ... that's under close supervision so there'd be no chance that those would be missing."

The New York Times in today's editions quoted an Oregon businessman as saying he was told by government intelligence sources early this year the Pentagon was planning to buy weapons for Nicaraguan rebels with profits from the Iranian arms sales.

Richard J. Brenneke said he told a senior military assistant to Vice President Bush and was told, "We will look into it."

Brenneke's confidential memos to various government officials were released Wednesday to defense attorneys in an Iran arms sale case being tried in New York City.

NASA switches fuel

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Three solid-fueled rockets will send probes from Earth orbit to Mars, Jupiter, Venus and the sun, replacing a liquid-fueled rocket considered too dangerous to fly on the space shuttle, NASA announced.

The rockets are designed to be used from the cargo bay of the shuttle, although they could be modified for launch on a Titan IV rocket.

An Inertial Upper Stage, or IUS, solid-rocket engine will be used on three planetary missions, and the Transfer Orbit Stage, or TOS, will be used on a probe to Mars, NASA Administrator James C. Fletcher said Wednesday.

The first three probes, Galileo, Magellan and Ulysses, are scheduled for launch in 1989 and 1990.

Executions rejected

SANTA FE, N.M. — New Mexico's five death-row inmates praised Gov. Toney Anaya's courage and compassion after he commuted their death sentences in a move that one victim's brother called ridiculous and shocking.

Anaya, who leaves office Dec. 31 after vowing that nobody would be executed during his tenure, announced the commutations Wednesday during a televised news conference seen by the convicted murderers he'd spared from execution.

"Capital punishment is a false god that all too many worship," he said in a statement. "Capital punishment is inhumane, immoral, anti-God and incompatible to an enlightened society."

"It is my prayer that New Mexico can become the birthplace of an idea whose time has come — the elimination of the death penalty once and for all and the establishment of, and commitment to, a moral, just and effective criminal justice system in its place."

Amy Carter banned

AMHERST, Mass. — Amy Carter, Abbie Hoffman and 20 other people were banned from the University of Massachusetts campus after they were arrested in a protest against CIA recruiting, a school official says.

The 19-year-old daughter of former President Jimmy Carter and Hoffman, 49, best known for 1960s activism, were among 60 people arrested Monday night after a six-hour sit-in at a campus building. Those who were not connected with the university were served notice when they were booked that they were not to return to campus, said spokeswoman Jean Hopkins-Stover.

"It is very routine for (outside demonstrators) to be given a trespass notice," Hopkins-Stover said Wednesday.

Pope urges morals, ethics in medicine

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Pope John Paul II today said medical science must be guided by moral and ethical considerations to prevent causing "grievous harm" to mankind.

In a speech delivered during a tour of a Roman Catholic maternity hospital, the pope said the church was not opposed to progress in medicine and biotechnology.

"Her concern is that nothing should be done which is against life in the reality of a concrete individual existence, no matter how weak or defenseless, no matter how undeveloped or how advanced," the pontiff said.

The pope did not comment on the test-tube baby research being conducted in several public hospitals here. The Vatican now is preparing a major document on the subject.

But John Paul said Catholic medical spokesmen must emphasize that doctors and scientists are subject to the same moral law as lay people.

He said this especially was necessary when dealing with "human patients, human embryos or human tissue."

"To speak of the autonomy of medical science as if it were independent of moral and ethical considerations is to unleash a force that cannot but cause grievous harm to man himself," he said.

In the past he has warned of the dangers posed by genetic experimentation and artificial insemination.

Earlier in the day, in a meeting with a fourth grade class, John Paul said he liked rock music and still had a little trouble finding his way around the Vatican.

In an unusual encounter, the pope sat in the classroom of St. Leo the Great parish and answered questions ranging from where he was shot to how he felt when the Germans and the Russians invaded his native Poland in 1939.

The parish is located in an industrial area of Melbourne with a large immigrant population. The area is 50 percent Roman Catholic, or twice the national percentage.

"He's a good bloke," one of the students, Matthew Dunne, told reporters afterward.

School teachers had asked the children not to ask "embarrassing" questions, like whether the pope would show off the scar from an assassination attempt at St. Peter's Square in 1981.

But when one youngster asked where he was shot, the pope pointed to his abdomen.

Another child asked what music he likes.

John Paul said he likes classical music but quickly added: "I am not a man of the past. I am very interested in modern, contemporary music, also what it is called, what is its name?"

When someone said rock, the 66-year-old pope nodded and said "rock" and the children laughed.

John Paul was clearly enjoying himself as he sat beside the teacher, Marianne Massarany, facing the children in their red school uniforms.

Troops cross border

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras — Troops loyal to Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government, hunting for U.S.-supported Contra rebels, crossed the border into Honduras and fought gun battles with Honduran troops before withdrawing 12 hours later, military intelligence sources say.

About 1,000 Sandinista troops crossed the border into the mountainous Capire area at around 9 p.m. EST Wednesday and occupied a number of positions including the small towns of Espanol and Espanolito, the Honduran sources said in telephone interviews Thursday.

Capire is located opposite Nicaragua's northern provinces of Nueva Segovia and Jinotega and the Honduran army has been keeping three infantry battalions, totalling about 3,000 men, and heavy artillery in the area.

"The invading troops pulled back into their territory after at least four clashes with our army," said one source, who like other informants refused to give more details. The sources asked not to be named for security reasons.

Gorbachev claims foul

NEW DELHI, India — Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev today said the United States' plan to breach the SALT II by deploying another B-52 bomber able to carry nuclear missiles was a "major mistake," and showed contempt for international treaties.

Gorbachev, at a news conference, said he had received no official statement from the White House, but had heard news reports of President Reagan's plan to deploy the bomber capable of carrying cruise missiles.

"If this is true," Gorbachev said, "At this time they are demonstrating contempt for this important treaty, also for the ABM treaty."

"We regard this as a major mistake which will make it more difficult to search for the approaches for disarmament," he said.

A State Department spokesman said Wednesday night that the 131st U.S. Air Force B-52 capable of carrying nuclear cruise missiles would be flown to a Texas base and placed on operational status Friday.

Yellow fever kills 500

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast — More than 500 people have died in a yellow fever epidemic in eastern Nigeria, the state-run radio reported Thursday.

The broadcast quoted Nigerian Health Minister Lokoi Ransome Kuti as saying 300 people died of yellow fever in rural sections of Benue state. Another 205 people died in Ogoja, a city in Cross River state, Lagos Radio said.

The report, monitored in Abidjan, said more than 3,000 people have been treated for yellow fever and associated diseases.

The Nigerian government announced Tuesday it has purchased $1.5 million in vaccine to fight the yellow fever outbreak, which had spread from Benue state to neighboring Cross River state.

New blood test seems to detect all cancer forms

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
AP Science Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The first blood test that seems to reveal signs of all forms of cancer could become part of routine physical exams if further testing shows it will detect the disease in its earliest and most treatable stages, researchers say.

"It's an intriguing new finding. If it holds up, it could represent one of the more exciting developments in the field of cancer diagnosis," said Dr. Philip S. Schein, a cancer specialist at the University of Pennsylvania.

Developed at Boston's Beth Israel Hospital, the test appears to fulfill a longtime goal of cancer research: pinpointing a clear and measurable difference between people who have cancer and those who do not.

"Our accuracy is well over 90 percent," said Dr. Eric T. Fossel, the chief developer of the test. "It's much higher than any other blood test."

But experts cautioned that much more testing will be needed before it can be determined whether the exam can be used to screen apparently healthy people for cancer.

"I think the jury is still out," said Dr. Frank Rauscher of the American Cancer Society. "If this is as good as it sounds, then it's very good indeed."

During the past three years, researchers said, 18 cancer blood tests have been patented.

Some tests disclose substances that spill out of tumors, but none of the secretions is present in all kinds of cancer or clearly differentiates healthy people from those with the disease.

In a report in today's New England Journal of Medicine, researchers described using the test on 331 people. Working with only small blood samples, they were able to distinguish cancer victims from healthy patients and people with a variety of other diseases.

Fossel agreed that before the test could become part of a routine physical exam, studies must be done on large numbers of people to learn whether it will reveal cancer in its earliest and most treatable stages.

"I think that would be a real possibility," he said in an interview, "but much more work has to be done before we can even suggest it as a screening test."

Fossel said the equipment required for the test costs about $500,000. He expects the test itself to cost less than $100.

The test is called water-suppressed proton nuclear magnetic resonance spectroscopy of plasma. In nearly every test case, it accurately distinguished people with known cancer from those thought to be free of the disease.

However, two apparent exceptions to the test's accuracy were recorded.

The test confused pregnant women with cancer victims, perhaps because of their fast-growing fetuses.

It also suggested that some men who had undergone surgery for enlarged prostates had cancer, even though no evidence of the disease was found in the men. The researchers speculated that these men actually may have had slow-growing cancer that was left behind after surgery.

Sufferers need drug exception

Should persons suffering from a debilitating, terminal disease have access to an experimental drug that could relieve their torment?

Clearly, common sense and compassion suggest they should. But many bureaucrats in the U.S. Food and Drug Administration apparently are unmoved by such considerations as they cling to their rigid rules and regulations.

Consequently, a drug that could be the first effective treatment for Alzheimer's disease won't immediately be available to almost 3 million Americans who are afflicted by this neuro-psychiatric disorder that causes senility and then death in six to 12 years.

The drug, known as tetrahydroaminoacrine, or THA, first was synthesized 77 years ago, but it was not approved for clinical use in Alzheimer's until the late 1970s.

During the last two years, a team of researchers at the University of California at Los Angeles, led by Dr. William Summers, discovered the medication's potential value. Administered to one test group of 17 patients with Alzheimer's disease, THA produced significant improvement in 16 of them.

Several patients with the most advanced Alzheimer's can now feed themselves, go to the rest room on their own, and communicate with their families.

A less-severely affected man returned to work part time. Another patient resumed driving, cooking and cleaning her house.

We thought these exciting results might prompt the FDS to make an exception and allow doctors to prescribe this drug on a case-by-case basis.

Not so. THA won't be available to Alzheimer's victims, except for experimentation, until the federal government deems it to be safe and effective. Meanwhile, an estimated 500,000 patients will succumb to the disease during the five years or so that the FDA is expected to take to issue approval.

This is not to minimize the federal government's responsibility for protecting consumers against drugs that could produce dangerous, perhaps lethal, side effects.

Nor do we suggest that THA is a wonder cure for Alzheimer's disease. To the contrary, the researchers caution that the drug can only provide short-term relief to Alzheimer's victims.

But how in the name of sweet reason can the FDA deny such potential relief to millions of persons who have nothing to ease their suffering? Surely much already is known about a drug that has been around for 77 years.

There comes a time when compassion must take precedence over procedure. This appears to be such a time.

We believe the FDA should expedite its procedures in order to make the experimental drug THA available to Alzheimer's victims.

Five years or more is too long to wait. Surely the victims, their doctors and families should have a choice in the issue.

Situation stirs 'day of prayer' call

To the editor:

There's an old fable about the chased rabbit jumping into the briar patch. Did President Reagan run to the briar patch in California?

Our nation's image has been weakened in the eyes of the world. The President needs to be in Washington day and night. He's our leader and the people need to be kept informed on who's done right or wrong.

Can we be led to believe he did not know such a crucial thing was going on?

Our country is at its gravest period in history. There's unrest, hunger, unemployment, deceit. We need to have a day of prayer and ask God to heal and make strong our beautiful America once again.

Today in history

Today is Friday, Nov. 28, the 332nd day of 1986. There are 33 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Nov. 28, 1942, nearly 500 people died in a fire that destroyed the Cocoanut Grove nightclub in Boston. The exact cause of the fire has never been officially determined, although many blamed a busboy who survived.

On this date:
In 1520, Portuguese navigator Ferdinand Magellan reached the Pacific Ocean after passing through the South American strait that now bears his name.

In 1895, the first automobile race was held, over 52 miles of snowy roads from Chicago to Waukegan, Ill. The winner was James Franklin Duryea, who won $2,000 from the Chicago Times-Herald.

In 1919, American-born Lady Astor was elected the first woman member of the British Parliament.

In 1922, Captain Cyril Turner of the Royal Air Force gave the first skywriting exhibition, over New York's Times Square. Turner spelled out "Hello U.S.A. Call Vanderbilt 7200." Some 47,000 calls resulted.

In 1943, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Soviet Premier Josef Stalin met in Tehran to map out strategy during World War II.

In 1958, the African nation of Chad became an autonomous republic within the French community.

In 1964, the United States launched the space probe Mariner IV from Cape Kennedy on a course set for Mars.

In 1975, President Gerald R. Ford nominated Judge John Paul Stevens of the Federal Appeals Court in Chicago for the Supreme Court seat vacated by William O. Douglas.

Japanese buried treasure may not be just a myth

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — It sounds like the plot of a paperback thriller: An American entrepreneur excavates an underwater coral reef in search of gold buried by the Japanese more than 40 years ago, while rival treasure seekers lurk nearby, trying to sabotage the operation with various acts of skulduggery.

It's actually happening, though. With the blessings of Philippines President Corazon Aquino, American engineer Al Meyers is drilling into a coral reef in Calatagan Bay. It is believed to be the burial site of millions of dollars' worth of gold bullion hidden by Japanese Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, the "Tiger of Malaya" and proconsul of the Philippines during World War II.

Unlike previous gold seekers — many of whom were nothing more than con artists who fleeced gullible investors with bogus maps and glib promises — Meyers has an eyewitness who claims to have seen the gold bars buried in Calatagan Bay.

"Our eyewitness was a Japanese general's (Filipino) houseboy, who was about 17 in World War II," one of the expedition leaders recounted. "He told us the Japanese had used a donkey engine set up on a platform on stilts on top of the reef, along with an endless cable and a big 'drop bucket' to gouge out a slot from the reef. He further told us that they backfilled the hole with the broken coral and many bargeloads of fill material from the main island of Luzon."

Prisoners of war — Filipinos and possibly Americans — were forced to dig the treasure hole, and witnesses reportedly have said that the bay ran red with their blood when they were killed, Captain Kidd-style, to protect the secret.

Meyers' crew has found a cut in the coral reef roughly 60 by 100 feet. They believe whatever was buried — if anything — is more than 70 feet down.

The bottom of the bay is strewn with metal fragments and other debris, which could have been ripped off ships that scraped the reef or simply tossed overboard from passing vessels.

The treasure hunters report that they have found a man-made marker in the form of a huge coral head cemented on the top of a 20-ton granite boulder, as well as a coral "plug" used to cork a tunnel in the reef. They regard these finds as encouraging.

Other treasure seekers obviously believe the Meyers team is onto something. Their boats are hovering nearby, and they're trying to crosscut into the American crew's dig. There has been an attempted kidnapping, and cables on the Meyers barge have been cut. The Philippine coast guard is providing protection to the Americans, and the whole operation is under the supervision of President Aquino's uncle, Assemblyman Francisco Sumulong.

Skeptics may sneer, but over the years there has been persuasive testimony about the so-called "Yamashita treasure." One of the most startling revelations came in 1975, in testimony by then-President Ferdinand Marcos' press spokesman before a House committee in Washington.

"In early January 1970," testified Primitivo Mijares, "when accusations that (Marcos) had become the 'richest man in Asia' were reaching a fever pitch, he called in reporters and admitted that he was really rich. But the source of his wealth, Mr. Marcos said, was the treasurer of Yamashita, which he had discovered in Northern Luzon."

You can believe that or not, but alleged participants have told us that they recovered a different lode in 13 buried trucks at Teresa, a town about 35 miles south of Manila. They had been following Japanese maps, they said. The truck were loaded with $10 billion worth of gold bars.

The authoritative source is unavailable, of course. Yamashita was hanged by the Americans in 1946 as a war criminal.

DEMOCRATIC DESIGNS: Senior strategists of the Democratic Party have devised a game plan in their quest for a 1988 presidential winner.

If the newly Democratic controlled Senate complies a positive record of achievement in the next year, the standard bearer is likely to be chosen from among one former and three current senators: Gary Hart of Colorado, Joseph Biden of Delaware, Sam Nunn of Georgia and Bill Bradley of New Jersey.

Drawbacks: Hart has moved his headquarters to Denver from Washington, away from the power center; Biden will be kept busy, and controversial, as chairman of the Judiciary Committee; and Nunn and Bradley are not well-known nationally.

If the Senate falters, New York Gov. Mario Cuomo is the clear front-runner, with Gov. Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts and ex-Gov. Charles Robb of Virginia acceptable dark horses.

Finally, Sen. Edward Kennedy, of Massachusetts, couldn't refuse the nomination if offered at a brokered convention. His chairmanship of the Labor and Human Resources Committee gives him a solid power base with traditional Democratic constituencies.

NATO pie divided unevenly

By STEPHEN CHAPMAN
The only people who might be more depressed than President Reagan about the Republicans' loss of control of the U.S. Senate are our NATO allies.

The new chairman of the Armed Services Committee will be Sam Nunn of Georgia, who in 1984 proposed pulling 30,000 American troops out of Europe unless our allies assume a bigger share of NATO's costs. Here is a chance to make some overdue changes in our military alliances.

The Democrats first order of business should be to take steps to force the nations of Western Europe to take a greater responsibility for their own defense. While they're at it, it's time we got a bigger contribution from Japan as well. All this would enable the Democrats to cut the deficit without raising taxes, paring domestic programs or weakening American security.

The current allotment of responsibility goes back to the early years of the postwar era. Given our wealth and their poverty, it made sense then. But though economic conditions have changed, the allocation of responsibility for defense has not.

We spend about 6.5 percent of our gross domestic product on defense. The other NATO countries spend an average of about 3.5 percent. Japan spends just 1 percent of its income on the military.

What they don't pay, we have to. Roughly half the Pentagon budget goes for the defense of Europe, and much of the rest serves to shield Japan. The annual total for NATO alone is in the neighborhood of $150 billion, only a little less than the entire budget deficit.

Granted, we gain something from keeping all these countries free and independent. But the Europeans and Japanese gain even more. So why not split the bill?

Some critics think the answer is to quit NATO altogether. But it wouldn't serve any good purpose to let Moscow think it can prey on Western Europe without fear of an American response.

Defenders of the status quo predict dire consequences if we insist that Europe either face up to its responsibilities or do without all those U.S. forces. To hear the Reagan administration talk, withdrawing one American GI would promptly bring down the Iron Curtain somewhere west of the Azores.

Nonsense. Our allies may not always toe the Reagan administration's line, but neither do they have any urge to turn themselves over to the tender mercies of the Kremlin. Nor is there any pressing reason they should. Western Europe has more than double the combined economic capacity of the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact satellites, and only slightly fewer people. Even on their own, these countries have the means to protect themselves.

Likewise with the Japanese. There's no reason we shouldn't be willing to safeguard their security, but there's no reason they shouldn't do more to help us pay for it.

The more honest opponents of this overhaul admit that our allies do far too little, but wring their hands over the risks of giving them an ultimatum. Western Europe and Japan ignore our grouching because they know we have no choice but to let them get away with it.

Nunn's approach is one way. Its chief defect is that, regardless of what happens, the U.S. won't save any money. If the allies agree to spend more, we are obliged to keep our troop numbers where they are now.

If they refuse, we will pull out some troops only to redeploy them elsewhere. A better plan is to simply schedule the withdrawal and decommissioning of a sizable share of our forces, effectively compelling the other NATO countries to make up the difference.

Loving lady

Giving and caring her key words

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor
Children are Paula Waters' specialty.

The new minister of education at First Christian Church says she loves children for "their honesty" and for letting other people be "a part of their life."

Waters knew she wanted to work with children, even when she was a child, she said.

"I always thought I wanted to be a school teacher. I even went so far as to play school and have recess with my dolls."

Her childhood dream became a reality.

In 1974 she was graduated from West Texas State in Canyon (in the Panhandle) with a degree in elementary education. Having taught for public and private schools, she says there is a definite difference between the two.

"I would much rather teach the poor than the rich. There's so much more to offer them. You couldn't outdo what was being done at home. They were a good bunch of kids, but not my cup of tea."

Her "cup of tea" was realized when she taught students on the Northside at Bauer Elementary.

"I taught the toughest class in town," but added that it wasn't that tough at all.

"People under-estimate and label others. You've got to give them a chance and let them know where you're coming from. They can tell a fake a mile off. You have to be on the level with them."

Her sincerity and genuine care is what got her accepted by the class, she explained.

"I was the shortest one in the class," said Waters, who is 4-foot-10-inches tall.

"That's one thing God didn't bless me with — height," she laughed, jokingly.

In addition to teaching school, Waters began volunteering at the church.

"I couldn't sit in the pew every Sunday and not do anything. God worked through my pastor (Bill Smythe) to get to me in the winter of 1978."

On May 24, 1981 she was ordained as a minister. She graduated from Brite Divinity School at Texas Christian University and began working as an associate minister in Brook Hollow in Abilene on June 1. She stayed until Sept. 15, 1986 when she decided she needed a change, she said.

The 32-year-old found herself back in her native Big Spring and will officially begin her new position as the minister of education on Dec. 1.

Her responsibilities in the position will be to teach the students and to plan extra-curricular "creative" activities, she said.

One of her favorite activities each year is "Camp Friendship" — a camp she has directed for the past three years for underprivileged children.

Churches from Wichita Falls to Lubbock, and from Stevenson to Midland sponsor a fourth or fifth grade child to go to this camp, Waters said.

After the one-week camp, "you can see a big change in the kids," she said. "Some kids are so full of anger and bitterness when they get there and when they leave they feel a lot better about themselves. It's heart-warming to see their frustration turn calm."

Waters has worked with abused mothers and children at the Noah Project and at the hospice for cancer patients, both in Abilene. She said that she would like to spend more time in these areas.

Her dream is to work extensively with abused and terminally ill children and says "caring is the key."

"Some people think my dream for the future is morbid," she added.

"Giving and caring" are key words in Waters' vocabulary.

"If we can't communicate our own fears and open up, then life isn't worth living. That's why I'm here — I like to give as much as I can of myself."

Man building boat to float his ministry

By JACK ELLIOTT
Associated Press Writer
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Kenneth Linnell is building a 51-foot schooner, a do-it-yourself seagoing vessel he hopes will put his ministry afloat in the West Indies by winter.

"The call for our ministry is specifically to go to the remote corners of the earth. Ours is an independent outreach ministry and primarily evangelical," Linnell said.

The money to build the schooner comes from donations of churches and individuals. Linnell and his wife and a couple of friends have been building the vessel from a blueprint.

The wood is Honduran mahogany, Linnell says, shipped from Brazil.

"It is stronger than steel in some respects," he said.

The construction site is a remote, rural area near the small community of Luther in northeastern Oklahoma County about 20 miles from Oklahoma City.

Once finished, the boat will take the Linnells from the Port of Catoosa near Tulsa down the Arkansas and Mississippi rivers to New Orleans, where Linnell says they'll "hang a big left" and head for the West Indies.

Linnell said he had begun planning for construction of the boat and the missionary life in 1982. In February of that year, he suffered what he calls a "real bad trauma ... a death back to life situation." He won't be more specific.

He has been with the Spirit Wind Ministries for three years.

"At that point in my life I did not know the Lord. But I came to know the Lord and one thing led to the next," said the 46-year-old former architect.

"I had that pretty severe accident. I was in the hospital. That's when it all started ... the commitment to the mission and the word," Linnell said.

He said construction on the boat — the Maranatha, the Greek word for the Lord comes or the Lord is coming — had begun in February 1985.

"I had been involved in sailboats, recreational sailing. I drew the plans in 1984 — a full-scale plan. We had some setbacks, health problems, labor and finances. We've made it strictly by donations, money and time, from churches and individuals.

"I guess building this boat compares to Noah and his Ark," he added.

Linnell says he'll take the boat to points where he and his wife have already visited in the Caribbean.

From there, Linnell says they will branch out.

At each stop they'll pick up two local people, who have become residential ministers, giving his boat the crew of six to go to the next island, he said.

"We've found the people to be extremely warm and sensitive and receptive to the word and what we have to offer," he said.

"The boat is designed to be a full oceangoing vessel. The whole ministry has a lot larger scope. When we leave the island group, we'll be heading for the east coast of Africa," he said.

Linnell said the response to his ministry and the boat's construction "has been everything from total indifference to breaking down in tears."

"Everything has been here when we needed it, the financing, the help," he said.

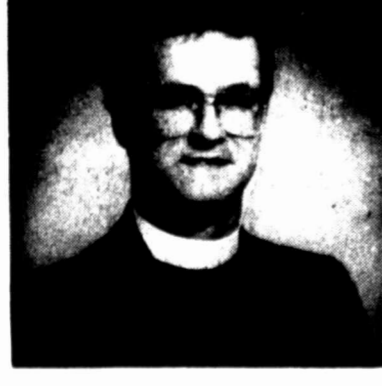

Harding to speak at Advent service

St. Paul Lutheran Church will begin its Advent Season Sunday at 6 p.m. with guest speaker Rev. Michael Harding.

Harding, the pastor of Faith Lutheran Church at Andrews and vacancy pastor for Zion Lutheran Church in Kermit, will present a sermon on "Rumours — who would believe such a thing," from the scripture Luke 1:26-38.

Harding attended Lutheran schools in Joliet, Ill. and served duty in Vietnam for the United States Navy. He returned to the United States and earned an associate of science degree in food service management in 1976 and earned a bachelor of arts in religion in 1981.

In the fall of 1981, Harding continued his study for the holy ministry at Concordia Theological Seminary at St. Louis, Mo. His third year in ministerial training

REV. MICHAEL HARDING
...to speak Nov. 30

was spent serving as a Vicar to Lutheran Church of the Master in Phoenix, Az.

He completed his study for the Lutheran Ministry and graduated in May 1985.

Religion roundup

By the Associated Press
PHOENIX, Ariz. — Several University of Arizona scientists are among those chosen to test a tiny bit of the Shroud of Turin to determine whether it comes from the time of Jesus.

Many believe the cloth, bearing puzzling front and back negative images of a crucified man, was the one that wrapped Jesus' body after his crucifixion. But its age has not been established.

Two other U.S. institutions, the Brookhaven National Laboratory on Long Island, N.Y., and the University of Rochester, N.Y., also are among those in this country, England, France and Switzerland tapped for the project.

Cardinal Anastasio Ballestrero of Turin, Italy, has announced tentative plans to allow about two square inches of the 14-foot cloth to be divided among seven labs in the world for carbon-14 dating for its age.

University of Arizona geochemist Paul Damon and atomic physicist Douglas Donahue say their lab was chosen because it is among the few capable of carbon dating tests on very small bits of material.

NEW YORK — Rabbi Bruce Cohen, founder and international director of Interns for Peace, has called for increased efforts "to bring Israeli Jews and Arabs together in the classroom, in the community and on the playing field."

Crossroads Fine Arts Association to demonstrate pottery creations

The Crossroads Fine Arts Association will present a series of demonstrations of wheel-thrown pottery by Doris Vieregge at the Hobo Art Gallery in the Big Spring Mall Nov. 28, 29 and 30. Demonstrations will begin at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. daily.

This as the third event in a series sponsored by the club to introduce local artists and their work to the community and to stimulate interest in the fine arts.

Mrs. Vieregge, president of the arts association, has been working with pottery for three years and has won several awards in the area art shows. Her creations are diverse, ranging from wheel-thrown 1-inch miniatures to large, handbuilt 24-inch pots. Many of her designs and decorations are taken from ancient Anasazi Indian pottery and from more recent Indian designs. A large selection of her pottery will be on display during her demonstrations.

The Big Spring artist will demonstrate methods of "throwing" pottery, the spinning technique which dates back to 3,000 B.C. The ancient Sumerians first used the potter's wheel, which remains virtually unchanged today, allowing the creation of smooth and symmetrical shapes by hand.

"Firing" of ceramics will also be discussed, as it affects the strength, color and surface of the finished piece. Clay pottery is baked in a kiln for many hours at temperature

Local ceramic artist Doris Vieregge puts the finishing touches on her latest creation, in the technique she will demonstrate for the public at the Hobo Art Gallery.

often above 2,000 F. and the process must be repeated when glazes are used. The heat of a kiln is so intense that the clay glows red hot, and improperly prepared pieces often literally explode. This unpredictable firing process, creating everlasting artwork from common clay, makes ceramics a fascinating art form.

New kind of family creates need for new kind of greeting cards

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Susan Ockuly Raitz was so hurt when she didn't receive a Mother's Day card from her stepchildren that she has created a line of cards specifically for families such as hers.

"What I've been doing is writing all my life, and artwork," Mrs. Raitz says. "I'm more interested in being able to express what has gone on in my life. I'm sure my life is no different than any other girls or guys."

Messages on the cards come from her experiences as a divorced mother of two daughters and now a stepmother to the four children of her new husband, Glenn. "Kids who grow up in a family that has not been separated ... are extremely fortunate," she says. "Children are out there ... where there is sadness inflicted. When hurt predominates in a family situation, and when a couple combines families, you are obviously combining hurts of one sort or another."

Mrs. Raitz, a former commercial artist and art teacher, writes messages for the cards because, "You cannot hire somebody to write what they haven't experienced. They are not going to come up with the same words."

She named her company Heather Holly Originals, after her daughters. Sixteen of the line of 48 cards speak directly to stepfamilies, such as, "People might say stepdaughter, but my heart says mine. I love you."

Another reads, "Having two sets of parents is not always easy. But it's double love."

"On Mother's Day this past year, I didn't get a card ... because there was not a stepmom card to be found. That hurt my feelings," Mrs. Raitz said.

"I started thinking, gosh, how many other stepmoms are not getting a card?"

She started by taking mock-ups of the cards to a printer and soon had a $6,000 bill and 20,500 cards.

The idea has taken off, she said, and she was ready for a second printing after less than a month. The cards are being sold locally, and she plans to market them to department stores in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and West Virginia.

Besides the stepfamily line, Mrs. Raitz has created cards that express love and friendship and others to celebrate achievements and anniversaries.

"I'm reaching back to what would be considered the fundamentals of life — mom and dad, home life, the foundation," she says.

Mrs. Raitz writes the messages in calligraphy. The glossy finish of the black, gray and white cards is accented with a distinctive gold splash.

Student lover wants course in marriage

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend is a wonderful guy who's in college and will graduate in two years. The problem: Len thinks we should get married now, and I should help him finish school. I realize that this would be beneficial to both of us in the future; however, I don't feel good about the idea at all.

I'm an attractive, 27-year-old woman with an 8-year-old daughter. Len loves me and my daughter and wants more children soon. I make $20,000 a year, which is enough for me and my child to live comfortably and not worry about Len's education or his desires to have more children.

Perhaps I should mention that I'm an alcoholic who's been "dry" for a year. Len helps me to stay dry. I lack confidence to live alone and maintain my sobriety. What do you advise?

Dear Abby

THINKING IT OVER
DEAR THINKING: Maintaining your sobriety should be your top priority, and if Len helps you to stay dry, you're lucky to have him. It appears that you need him as much as he needs you, but if you don't feel good about the idea of marrying him and helping to put him through college, don't commit to anything as permanent as marriage. You need to sort out your feelings before making a decision. Nowhere in your letter do you say you love Len. When you can answer that question truthfully, you won't need a Dear Abby to tell you what to do.

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing an article from your column that made a big difference in my life. I have carried it in my wallet for years and it helped me so much. I'm sure you can help many more if you run it again.

ST. PETERSBURG FLA
DEAR FAN: You get your wish. Here it is:

Family is topic at recent club meeting

The 1905 Hyperion Club met for their Thanksgiving program in the home of Stacy Gray.

"The Family: The Basis of Relationships" was presented by Grace Long. She said the basis of all of our relationships depends on the type of family we were raised in.

Hazel Reagan reported that the Heritage Museum's curator is seeking old objects for the museum to display in effort to show what life was like in this area earlier this century. Members were encouraged to donate duplicates or unwanted articles to the museum.

Club members brought gifts to be distributed to the nursing homes and the Veterans Administration Medical Center.

Next meeting will be Dec. 18 at the Big Spring Country Club.

Fannie Kent welcomed back to Rook Club

The Rook Club met at the home of Goldie Moad on Nov. 21.

Fannie Kent was welcomed back after being ill for several weeks.

Guests were Avenelle Cook, Adele Tibbs and Lilo Butler. Cook won high score and Nomora Murdoch and Kent tied scores.

Next meeting will be at the home of Gene Duncan on Dec. 3.

Holiday reunion for dad, kidnapped son

MIAMI (AP) — A Texas man was reunited with his 6-year-old son in time for Thanksgiving after the boy's mother plucked him out of a physical education class in Dallas Oct. 30 and fled with him to Miami. Cody Kissel was brought to Miami by his mother, who was staying with another man. But Wednesday, Cody was reunited with his father, Glen Kissel. The father spent a week following his son and former wife in Miami. He spent a whole day in a tree watching his son play in the back yard of a Southwest Dade house. "I took pictures to show the judge back in Texas," Kissel said Wednesday, as his son sat on his lap smiling.

ing. Kissel said he was taking the boy back to Texas. Police said when it had become apparent during a custody fight that the mother, Sherry McBeath Kissel, was going to lose custody of Cody, she went to the school and took him. Kissel said he was able to trace his former wife through a truck rental agency. Kissel said his ex-wife had lost her job as a nurse and he decided not to press kidnapping charges. "She's got enough problems and all I wanted was my son back," he said. "Now it'll be an excellent Thanksgiving and the most important one in my 34 years."

Top violator: he's right there in the office

HOUSTON (AP) — A supervisor whose office tracks down unpaid parking tickets has been fined more than $1,500 after his boss discovered he was the city's most-wanted parking violator. William P. Holcomb, a lieutenant in the marshal's office who had worked for the city for 28 years, had 375 unpaid parking tickets, according to city records. Holcomb appeared in municipal court Wednesday to plead guilty after being ordered by his boss, Municipal Courts Administrator Richard Parris, to take care of the matter.

disciplinary action against Holcomb. "I just had a few other things to attend to and I just let them (the tickets) slip my mind," Holcomb, 60, said. "I feel disgusted, really, to have let something like this occur." Parris said he discovered the city marshal was the top offender after issuing a crackdown and checking out a list of the 10 license plate numbers that had the highest number of outstanding tickets. Holcomb pleaded guilty to 308 of the citations and was fined $1,540 — or $5 per ticket — by Municipal Judge Fad Wilson. Fines for most parking tickets are $10. "I felt that was a reasonable fine and an amount he could pay," prosecutor Ronald J. Beylotte said. Holcomb paid $1,000 of the fine Wednesday and has until Jan. 7 to pay the balance.

Ft. Worth bank plans black trust fund

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas American Bank has agreed, as part of an out-of-court settlement, to start an affirmative action plan and a trust fund for black high school graduates interested in studying business. The agreement ends a 9-year-old case filed by five blacks who contended they had been discriminated against by the Fort Worth bank, formerly known as Fort Worth National Bank. But "this in no way implies guilt on the part of the bank," said Texas American spokeswoman Gail Cooksey. "We just wanted to avoid continued litigation expenses, and it gives a chance to help the community and demonstrate our commitment to education."

The settlement, reached Tuesday, calls for a $300,000 trust fund to provide scholarships to black Tarrant County high school seniors interested in studying banking, business, management, accounting, finance or economics. The settlement also sets up a five-year affirmative action plan designed to eliminate racial bias in hiring, compensation, evaluation and termination procedures.

Kidnapping suit draws $3 million judgment

DALLAS (AP) — A woman accused of kidnapping a 3-year-old Coppell girl has been ordered by a judge to pay the child's mother and grandmother $3 million. The default judgment was entered Oct. 27 against Susan Oglesby Miller, of Seabrook, by State District Judge Nathan Hecht. The judge took the action on a suit filed by Jennifer L. Sutton, the child's mother, and Glenda L. Sutton, the child's grandmother. Ms. Miller, who is free on $25,000 bond, faces a kidnapping charge for allegedly posing as a babysitter and taking Mallory Elizabeth Sutton from her home on Nov. 13, 1985. The girl was found 33 days later in Florida. The Sutton family filed the suit on July 28. The family's attorney said Wednesday she doubts the award will be paid. "We don't have any realistic hope of seeing that money," said Valerie Jo Rowley, an attorney representing the family. "Sometimes these things are done for more than money."

Sarcoid is heaped cell debris in lungs

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A friend of mine recently underwent surgery on her lungs for some type of fungus. The hospital listed it as "possible sarcoid." They also found multiple granuloma. What caused this? How could she have gotten it? I told her I would write to you for her. — D.C.

Dr. Donohue

Sarcoid is not a fungal infection. In fact, we don't know what causes it or why a person develops it. The hallmark of sarcoid is granuloma, heads of cellular debris, most often in the lungs, but sometimes in other organs, like the liver.

Sometimes, sarcoidosis is so mild that the person has it all his life and doesn't know about it. In others, it can be a desperately serious process. In mild cases no treatment is needed. In severe cases, steroid drugs are used. I hope your friend has the mild variety.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My potassium is low. Six months ago, my doctor prescribed Slow K for a month. The potassium came up to borderline, but went down again. I have been trying to find literature on potassium. Do you have anything on it? I want to also find out what foods have it. What role does potassium play in the body? I'm back on the Slow Know. I am also on Lasix for high blood pressure. — Mrs. H.B.

pare the following with the 7.7 Meqs. in a cup of orange juice. A slice of watermelon, 15.4; a cup of grapefruit juice, 12.4; eight ounces of skim milk, 8.5 one potato, 7.3; a half cup of squash, 11.9; 10 prunes, 17.8; an orange, 7.7; 10 dates, 16.6; a quarter of a cantaloupe, 6.4; and a half an avocado, 15.5.

Your low potassium most likely is due to Lasix, your water pill. It gets rid of extra sodium in the body, but some people lose too much potassium in their urine as well.

I'm not so sure you need to know all this. Not everyone is able to restore normal blood potassium levels with food alone. You may have to continue taking the potassium pill (Slow K), even with increased food intake. The booklet you want is "Blood Pressure and Your Health," which is available by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.25. It discusses potassium.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can you discuss placenta previa? My daughter had this in her first pregnancy, and has a risk of having it again with her recent one. They are going to take ultrasound. I would feel better if we both knew a little more about this. — Mrs. A.S.

I'm sure you know about it, but I am surprised at how many people have only the foggiest idea of what a placenta is. It comes from the Latin word for "flat cake," and it is, in fact, cake-like organ that is attached to the wall of the uterus. It establishes a connection between the fetus and the mother's blood supply. A placenta previa is a placenta that is attached lower in the uterus than normal. It blocks the outlet. A total placenta previa blocks entirely, a partial one only a portion of the outlet. The problem occurs in about one in every 20 pregnancies. The usual sign is painless, vaginal bleeding in anywhere from the sixth to the ninth month. It is a sign that the placenta is detaching. Depending on the maturity of the fetus and the location of the placenta, a number of decisions are possible, from cesarean section to careful observation only. I can't give you statistics on the chances of this problem recurring in your daughter's second pregnancy. The ultrasound will be a predictor of that.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Are there calories in vitamins? — Mrs. J.K.

No. DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a woman of 50, and just entering the menopause. I drink little milk and eat little at all, in fact. I recently got calcium pills to ward off the noted osteoporosis. But a friend recently informed me that when she used the pills she got joint pain. She referred to them as "calcium blocks." Now I wonder what I should do. My friend told me the blocks stopped when she stopped taking the calcium. I'd like to hear your comments. What are calcium blocks? — T.F.H.

I'm not acquainted with that term, calcium blocks. Calcium has nothing to do with arthritis (joint inflammation), if that is what is implied here. I have not heard any of my patients complain of joint pain when taking calcium supplements. Nor have I heard any of my associates speak of the problem.

One thing is certain, and that is that most women at menopause do have a calcium deficiency born of inadequate dietary intake and hormonal changes that are part of the end of menstruation. So you are on the right track. Before menopause, a woman should be getting 1,000 milligrams of calcium daily. After menopause, she needs 1,500 mgs. daily.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Are there calories in vitamins? — Mrs. J.K.

Condo lies earn pair seven years

DALLAS (AP) — Two men convicted of lying about their finances on loan applications for condominiums along Interstate 30 have been sentenced to seven years in prison.

Richard Wayne Thomas, 56, of Farmers Branch, and Donald Ray Wimberly, 43, of Dallas, were sentenced Wednesday. They were convicted last month of lying on applications for the condominium developments in east Dallas County.

Both men were investors and developers in northeast Dallas.

Thomas was convicted on 11 criminal charges and Wimberly was convicted on 10 charges in a jury trial before U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders.

More than 78 people have been charged in federal courts in Dallas and Tyler in connection with a federal investigation of the developments.

Seahawks feast on Cowboys

IRVING (AP) — The Seattle Seahawks weren't about to be Thanksgiving Day turkeys again for the Dallas Cowboys.

Six years ago, the Seahawks were axed 51-6 in Texas Stadium on Thanksgiving Day. The Cowboys were 14-3-1 in Thanksgiving games and had won six in a row entering Thursday's renewal against the Seahawks, who could only practice two days because of the short week.

But it was the Cowboys who struggled during Seattle's convincing 31-14 victory.

"Seattle was sharp," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said. "They have a lot of skill people and Dave Krieg and Curt Warner just ruined us."

The Seahawks, paced by the Krieg's passing and Warner's running, severely damaged the Cowboys' NFL playoff hopes.

In the first half, Krieg ran six yards for a score and threw touchdown passes of 11 yards to Steve Largent and 19 yards to Byron Franklin.

Warner took over in the second half, scoring a touchdown and gaining 98 of his 122 yards rushing after intermission. Warner's performance allowed him to go past the 1,000-yard rushing mark for the year.

Seattle scored on all four of its first-half possessions, with Krieg accounting for three touchdowns and a Norm Johnson added a 42-yard field goal.

"I think it helped we had a short work week," Krieg said. "All I know, Warner was tired but just kept going at them. That's why I say he's got a lot of heart."

Both teams are 7-6 with three games left.

Largent told Seattle Coach Chuck Knox: "We ought to just practice two days every week. It was definitely good for us."

"It was a great win for us, particularly anytime you come in here and beat the Dallas Cowboys and have four starters out," Knox said. "It's the best win in the history of the franchise."

Warner ran nine yards for a touchdown in the fourth period after Dallas had cut Seattle's 17-point halftime lead to 24-14 on Herschel Walker's 1-yard scoring run.

The drive carried 40 yards in three plays, all on runs by Warner. "Warner did a great job," Knox said.

"We have a lot of balance in our offense and we showed that today," Warner said. "We played as well as we played all year. It was a great complete team effort."

Landry said the defeat was costly to Dallas playoff hopes. "It's going to be tough to get into the playoffs now because you might be out of it with a 10-6 record this year," Landry said. "We'll have to regroup and see what happens. We have 10 days to figure it out."

Dallas defensive tackle Randy White praised the hard-running

Warner. "Warner was just great," he said. "We couldn't get our hands on him. Now this team has to pull together more than any team we've had. "The short week was good for us. We didn't have time to think about it." It was the first time Seattle had defeated Dallas in four tries. "There was a different thing on the menu than they thought," Seattle's Daryl Turner said. "And it wasn't sea turkey."

Packers win thriller, 44-40

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Thanksgiving Day game between Detroit and Green Bay was certainly no turkey, although it might be difficult to convince Lions Coach Darryl Rogers of that.

Rogers watched helplessly as Green Bay speedster Walter Stanley raced 83 yards with a punt return for the winning touchdown with 41 seconds remaining Thursday, lifting the Packers to a 44-40 NFL victory.

"I saw a game like this on television," Rogers moaned. "It was against the Bears and they ran a kickoff back for a touchdown, which beat the Lions."

"Ah, it's just a terrible way to lose."

Indeed, in the 1980 Thanksgiving Day game, while Rogers was still coaching at Arizona State University, Chicago's Vince Evans scored on the last play of the game and Dave Williams returned the overtime period's opening kickoff for a 95-yard TD as the Bears stunned Detroit 23-17.

"In the past few weeks, we've been scoring 14 points and now we score 40 and still can't win," Rogers said. "You can't give up blocked punts. You can't give up punt returns."

But the Lions gave up both and the spirited Packers, who trailed 10-0 before running a play, scored on each in winning for only the third time in 13 starts. Detroit dropped to 5-8.

"I can smile again," Green Bay Coach Forrest Gregg said. "I think this did something for the Thanksgiving Day game. You know nothing was at stake for either football team, but neither played like there wasn't something at stake. I think that's a credit to both teams."

Gregg also felt the victory could have positive side benefits for the Packers. "I think this is a big chance for this football team," Gregg said. "It's good for their mental health. We have a lot of kids with a lot of pride and a lot of character and we're quite proud of them."

Gregg was especially proud, of course, of Stanley. In addition to his dramatic game-winning return, Stanley also had a 30-yard return that set up one of Al Del Greco's three field goals, and caught four passes for 124 yards and two more touchdowns.

"Walter had an outstanding game," Gregg said. "I think they probably underestimated his ability a little bit. Nobody will be guilty of that again."

Ironically, Rogers might have been smiling and Gregg left frowning had Stanley had followed orders and signaled for a fair catch on that final punt.

"I wasn't supposed to run," Stanley admitted. "It was set up for a block and I was supposed to fair-catch. But, I decided not to because I wanted to get something going."

"The thing is, I'm expecting to make big plays — not all the time. If you want to be better than average, you're going to try to make the big plays, and that's what I try to do every chance I get."

sideline for the score.

A block by Mossy Cade on Arnold, the last defender, allowed Stanley to cruise the last 15 yards.

"It was a great run by Stanley," Rogers said. "We had everybody down there. Our contain guy did not contain him and got outran around the corner. Once he got to the sideline, there wasn't anybody there."

Stanley's TD catches of 21 and 36 yards came from quarterback Randy Wright, who finished with 18 completions and three touchdowns in 26 attempts. Wright also tossed an 11-yard scoring strike to Paul Ott Carruth.

John Simmons scored the other Packer TD when he recovered a blocked punt in the end zone. Del Greco's field goals traveled 34, 48 and 24 yards.

Detroit quarterback Joe Ferguson, gunning for his third successive victory since taking over the starting job for the injured Eric Hipple, completed 19 of 37 for 256 yards and three touchdowns.

Ferguson, who was intercepted twice, passed 23 yards to Jeff Chadwick, 20 yards to Jimmie Giles and 10 yards to Carl Bland for scores. James Jones scored on a 1-yard run and Eddie Murray kicked field goals of 44, 30, 32 and 19 yards for Detroit.

Chadwick finished with six catches for 121 yards for the Lions, who failed to protect leads of 10 and 14 points.

The Lions had a 40-yard TD run by tailback Garry James called back early in the fourth quarter because tackle Lomas Brown was detected making an illegal block.

Pac-10 teams in Coca-Cola Bowl

TOKYO (AP) — Stanford and Arizona, who will clash in the Coca-Cola Bowl, practiced today before a handful of Japanese football fans.

The two Pacific 10 Conference teams, followed by cheerleaders, marching bands and die-hard fans, crossed the Pacific Ocean on Thursday to participate Sunday in the only NCAA game played outside the United States.

As the players attempted to shake off jet lag during separate

1 1/2-hour practice sessions on a baseball field, band members and cheerleaders worked out strategy for getting the anticipated 70,000 spectators more involved in the game.

The game will be played at 11 p.m. EST Saturday.

Stanford, which had been ranked No. 16, dropped out of the Top 20 in the national rankings after a 17-11 loss to archrival California last Saturday. Arizona moved up to No.

12 by upending Arizona State, the Pac-10 champion, 34-17.

Sunday's game will end the regular season for both Arizona, 8-2, and Stanford, 7-3. Arizona finishes its season in the Aloha Bowl at Honolulu on Dec. 27, where it will play North Carolina. Stanford meets Clemson that same day in the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla.

Yoshihiro Takemura, who watched from the sidelines as the Arizona Wildcats scrimmaged, said he has come to appreciate American football and can now figure out, more or less, what's going on in the game.

"It's amazing watching these guys. They seem to be able to perform superhuman feats," he said. "We can't do these sorts of things."

Local teams in tournaments

Local basketball teams, the Howard College Hawks, Hawk Queens and Big Spring Steers are all competing in tournaments this weekend.

The Queens (8-3) will be at the Snyder Classic hosted by Western Texas College. They will play Hill County tonight at 6. The Queens lost a 62-59 decision to Cisco Tuesday.

The Hawks, (5-4) will be competing in the San Jacinto Classic in Pasadena. The Hawks are coming off a 73-67 win over Cisco Tuesday. The Steers (2-0) will be in the Pampa Chamber of Commerce. They played Pampa today at 2:30. The Steers are coming off a 67-64 win over Brownwood Tuesday.

Sports Booster Club meeting

The Big Spring Sports Booster Club will meet Monday at 7 p.m. in the Big Spring High School cafeteria.

A decision will be made as to how often the club will meet now that football season is over. All athlete's parents and club members are urged to attend.

Hoopster dies while practicing

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — An 18-year-old college basketball player died after collapsing while practicing at his former high school with his younger brother.

Kenneth Allen Bigham, a freshman forward for Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College in Tifton, had an apparent seizure while playing with the Windsor Forest High School team in the school's gym, police said.

Paramedics treated him at the gym, then transported him several blocks to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he died.

Backup quarterback leads Hurricanes

MIAMI (AP) — The one Miami player to whom the East Carolina Pirates were more important than Penn State ensured the top-ranked Hurricanes an unbeaten regular season and a spot in the Fiesta Bowl showdown with the Nittany Lions for the national championship.

Quarterback Geoff Torretta passed for 328 yards and three touchdowns Thursday night to lead the Hurricanes to a 36-10 victory over the surprisingly tough Pirates.

Torretta had good reason to think only about East Carolina. He likely won't play in the Fiesta Bowl.

The senior backup started Thursday night only because Vinny Testaverde had suffered severe cuts and bruises in a motor scooter accident two days earlier.

Testaverde, who limped around the sideline in a warmup suit with bandages on both hands, is expected to be healed in plenty of time for the Fiesta Bowl on Jan. 2.

"I was real excited just to play," said Torretta, who had thrown just 45 passes in the past two seasons. "I felt like I had put in the time. I was thinking last week how I never got a chance to win games for this team."

When he finally got the chance, he took advantage of it. He completed three of five passes for 56 yards in the game's opening drive, which was capped by a 22-yard field goal by Greg Cox.

Later, Torretta threw touchdown passes of 42 and 50 yards to Michael Irvin in a 2:23 span early in the second period; hit Irvin on a 44-yard pass to set up a 2-yard run by Alonzo Highsmith in the third period; and connected with Brett Perriman on a 29-yard touchdown pass with 7:53 to play.

He didn't let six sacks by a hard-charging East Carolina defense rattle him while completing 20 of 30 passes.

"Torretta came in and did an excellent job under adverse circumstances," East Carolina Coach Art Baker said. "We put a lot of pressure on him and he still completed some excellent passes. Of course, their skill players are as fine as any team I've ever seen."

The Hurricanes, 11-0, also scored a late touchdown on a 12-yard run by Warren Williams. East Carolina's only points came on a 21-yard field goal from Chuck Berleth on its first possession and a 5-yard run by Travis Hunter early in the final period.

But the 2-9 Pirates might have made it much closer if they hadn't lost three fumbles, had one pass intercepted and suffered 11 penalties worth 72 yards. Miami only outgained East Carolina 396-309 in total yards.

"We were outmanned, but certainly not outfought," Baker said.

In a post-game celebration on the field, Miami Coach Jimmy Johnson admitted his team might have been guilty of thinking ahead, which might explain why East Carolina was able to stay within striking distance of the Hurricanes until the final period.

"Now we can think about Penn State, and really we've been thinking about them for a long time," Johnson said.

The Fiesta Bowl deal was set up two weeks ago, but it hinged on Penn State beating Pitt last week and Miami beating East Carolina. With those formalities out of the way, the Hurricanes finally can think out loud about the national title game.

"An 11-0 record is something you live for, something you can tell your kids about in 20 years," Highsmith said. "But if you don't win the championship, nobody remembers you. You measure teams by championships."

"We've got one more game, and this time we won't be denied."

He was referring to last year, when the Hurricanes entered the Sugar Bowl 10-1 with an outside chance at a national title only to lose to Tennessee 35-0. Highsmith also knows the other side of the coin, having contributed to Miami's 11-1 national championship team in 1983.

Baker, whose team lost to Penn State 42-17 early in the season, is in the perfect position to analyze the Fiesta Bowl. "You'll get no projection from me," Baker said. "I'd hate to be an oddsmaker. I know it will be enjoyable to watch."

"Penn State is a more conservative team, but they're big and strong. Miami is a big-play team with Testaverde at the helm."

The Hurricanes weren't bad Thursday night without Testaverde.

A&M gets SWC crown; UT gets losing season

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Coach Fred Akers' parting comment after his squad had lost to 10th-ranked Texas A&M for the third year in a row was, "I'll see you next year."

Whether Akers, whose team dropped a 16-3 decision Thursday, will return for his 11th season as Texas coach is anything but certain. A special session of the athletic council has been scheduled for Saturday to discuss his future.

He succeeded Darrell Royal in 1977, after Royal ended a 20-year career as the most successful coach in Southwest Conference history.

Akers' record is 86-31-2 for a winning mark of nearly 74 percent, but Texas finished 5-6 in 1986 for its first losing season in 30 years.

Asked late Thursday night if he thought he would be back next season, Akers said, "Well, I hope so. If it's up to me, I'm going to be back."

A&M, extending its record to 9-2, took advantage of a 15-yard roughing-the-kicker penalty in the third quarter for the winning score and its second straight Southwest Conference championship.

A&M accomplished something no other Aggie team had done by beating Texas three consecutive years.

Quarterback Kevin Murray completed 25 of 36 passes for 277 yards with no interceptions and one touchdown — a 6-yard scoring pass to Rod Harris in the third quarter.

The score came after Texas linebacker Tex Mercer was flagged for roughing A&M punter Todd Schantz, a penalty that gave A&M a first down at the Texas 41.

Fullback Roger Vick ran 41 times for 167 yards as A&M controlled the ball for 21:07 of 30 minutes in the second half in breaking a 3-3 halftime tie.

Vick raised his season total to 960 yards, making him A&M's first SWC rushing leader in 35 years.

"He's our horse, and we kept riding that horse," A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill said.

"Our players reached their goal," Sherrill said. "First we wanted to get a piece of the championship, then put ourselves in the position to go back to the Cotton Bowl."

A&M placekicker Scott Slater, a junior walk-on, kicked field goals of 22, 41 and 34 yards for a single-season SWC record of 21 three-pointers.

A&M tight end Rod Bernstine hiked his pass completion total to a school-record 105 by catching seven for 82 yards. Shea Walker set another school record — 1,411 career passing completion yards by grabbing four passes for 52 yards.

Jeff Ward's 39-yard field in the first quarter accounted for Texas' only points and gave the Longhorns a 3-0 lead.

Akers was asked if rumors about his job problems had affected the Texas team, and he said, "I don't think so. We've gotten used to rumors around here."

"It's time to regroup, start over and think about the next one (season)," Akers said.

Texas A&M head football coach Jackie Sherrill hollers to his team during the fourth quarter of Thursday night's game between A&M and Texas. The Aggies won the game, capturing their second straight Southwest Conference championship.

NIT down to semifinals

NEW YORK (AP) — Most sports experts expected Memphis State's basketball team to fall early and die after an 87-60 rout.

But the Tigers, under new coach Larry Finch, are 54 and 13-1. Memphis State is the defending champion of the National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden Friday night. Temple faces fifth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas in the opening game.

"I can't control what's in the past," said Finch, who was assistant to head coach Tom Kirk and played on the 1973 NCAA runner-up team at UCLA. "I told the players to get everything behind them and make the best of the situation."

So far the Memphis team has better than expected, winning its first two NIT games over the Cleveland State team and Michigan, 89-76.

Memphis State is led by center William Edwards, who was named MVP of the NIT, and forward Andre Turner and guard Willie Holmes, but now is under two years probation for using ineligible players.

There's also the Kirk affair, in which the coach was let go from Memphis State after the NCAA tournament. Finch, who was assistant to head coach Tom Kirk and played on the 1973 NCAA runner-up team at UCLA. "I told the players to get everything behind them and make the best of the situation."

Finch has shifted 6-foot-6 junior Vincent Ashby, a guard in previous seasons, at forward, and has used John Williams along with Dwight Boyd in the backcourt. Marvin Alexander, a senior and former MVP, has been the other starters up front, but 6-4 freshman Spencer Gray has improved, starting off the bench for 15 points in the Michigan win.

Western Kentucky, from the Sun Belt Conference, also has a big lead over the 11th-ranked team. The Owls, with a backcourt of Nate Blackwell and Howard Evans and a top shotblocker in 6-4 Tim Perry, No. 2 in the nation last season behind Navy's David Robinson, reached the semifinals by downing Virginia 79-65 and Villanova 80-73, both road games.

"Blackwell goes up and down the court and delivers the ball as good as anybody in the nation," said Coach John Chassey, who added that he hopes to get a solid 30 minutes from 6-10, 200-pound Ramon Rivas.

The second early-season NIT will conclude with a consolation game and final Saturday night.

UNLV, which beat No. 19 Arizona 82-87 and No. 7 Oklahoma 80-81, has three holders including guard Freddie Banks and Armon Gilliam among six seniors.

College hoops in full swing

By The Associated Press
The first big weekend of college basketball games is under way. The action is in New York City.

Most of the action is in New York City, including No. 1 North Carolina, No. 14 Illinois and No. 19 Georgetown, who are playing in five tournaments on three Hawaiian islands tonight.

In Anaheim, California, defending champion and defending No. 1 Louisville starts its season by playing in the Great American Shootout, an always tough tournament that this year includes No. 19 Iowa and No. 17 North Carolina.

At the same time, the Wolfpack plays in the first round of the Sunbelt, while Iowa begins its season against East Alabama.

In Honolulu, North Carolina and previous All-American guard Henry Smith play Hawaii in the Thanksgiving Basketball Festival. Hawaii Lee and St. Mary's are the other two teams in the tournament.

Louisville Coach Danny Crum says he also expects to play in the Sunbelt tournament in Hawaii.

"We don't know what the other's going to do," Crum said. "We'll see what happens."

Carolina's follow Williams, who won the NCAA title in 1982, and North Carolina State, the 1983 winner.

factor for either team because he doesn't think either one of them will be real fresh Sunday after all the traveling.
Henry said the players were kept up late Wednesday night before they left in an attempt to ease adjusting to the 16-hour time difference. The players went to bed last night at around 10:00 p.m. and were up by 5:00 a.m., he said.
But Arizona kicker Gary Coston said he hasn't slept for two days.

"I'm excited to be here, but I'm going to get to bed tonight."
Bob Vazquez, Stanford's sports information director, said the Cardinal players were not seriously affected by jet lag.
"This is not a hard practice," he said. "We're just trying to get a feel for the stadium and the weather. We're a little bit tight after all the travel, so we're just trying to get loosened up."

"Japanese audiences tend to be a little bit more subdued. We're planning to have the two bands, cheerleaders and maybe some baton twirlers circling around and making a human wave," said Anita Kiere of Tele Planning International, a major sports promoter in Japan.
Cheerleaders also will flash signs around the stadium instructing spectators when to cheer.

SWC bowling just fine

By The Associated Press

Arkansas Coach Ken Hatfield, who said he was rooting hard for the Texas Longhorns in their losing effort against Texas A&M Thursday, said he was nonetheless excited about going to the Orange Bowl on Jan. 1.

No. 10 Texas A&M, 9-2, won the Southwest Conference with a 16-3 win over Texas and gained the host spot in the Jan. 1 Cotton Bowl in Dallas against No. 11 Ohio State, 9-3. No. 9 Arkansas, which beat A&M 14-10 two weeks ago in Little Rock, would have gone to the Cotton Bowl had A&M lost.

"Our players reached their goal," Texas A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill said after his team's victory Thursday night in Austin. "First we wanted to get a piece of the championship, then put ourselves in the position to go back to the Cotton Bowl."

Shortly after the end of the nationally televised game between Texas and Texas A&M, Arkansas Chancellor Dan Ferritor took a telephone call from Stan Marks, president of the Orange Bowl in Miami, who formally extended the bid to the Razorbacks, 9-2, to face No. 3 Oklahoma, 10-1. Both the Cotton and Orange bowls will be played on New Year's Day.

Two other SWC teams will be in post-season classics. Texas Tech, 7-4, will play Mississippi, 7-3-1, in the Independence Bowl on Dec. 20 in Shreveport, La., and Baylor, 8-3, will play Colorado, 6-5, in the Bluebonnet Bowl on Dec. 31 in Houston.

Hatfield said he didn't give up on the chance at the Cotton Bowl until "Texas missed on fourth-and-15 late in the game. They have so much speed, I felt they had a chance, but Texas A&M had the best team tonight."

"We set our goal to go back to Dallas, and now we have achieved that goal," A&M linebacker Johnny Holland said.

Sherrill noted that A&M's second straight SWC championship and trip to the Cotton Bowl hadn't occurred in several years and gave the credit to A&M's senior players. He singled out running back Roger Vick and quarterback Kevin Murray for special praise for their play against Texas.

Regarding the Orange Bowl, Hatfield said, "We're excited to take our team, our school, our fans and our state to be on display on prime time Jan. 1. Since No. 1 and No. 2 are playing each other in the Fiesta Bowl, we're playing the highest-ranked team we can play. This is a tremendous honor and opportunity for us."

Arkansas, 9-2, closed out its regular season with a 41-0 rout of Southern Methodist last week. Oklahoma, 10-1, finished with a 20-17 victory over Nebraska Saturday.

"The Orange Bowl is one of the few bowls I've never been to," Hatfield said. "It should be an exciting experience. I've seen Oklahoma against UCLA, Miami and Texas and we know how talented they are and what a great defense they have. We need to keep the ball about 52 minutes to beat them."

Hatfield said Oklahoma and Arkansas run the same offense and that the two teams' staffs swapped ideas in the spring. "At that time, I sure had no idea we'd be playing them," Hatfield said.

Hatfield, who plans to recruit next week, said the Razorbacks would begin working out for the Orange Bowl Dec. 8.

Marks, asked what attracted the Orange Bowl to the Razorbacks, mentioned the 1978 Orange Bowl when an underdog Arkansas team beat Oklahoma 31-6.

"We've had Arkansas here before," Marks said. "We know their fans show up. They have an exciting team. They're playing great football. They're highly rated and put on a great show on the field."

Doctor J playing all-star ball in final season

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julius Erving says his retirement at the end of this NBA season is etched in stone.

"It's irrevocable," said the superstar of the Philadelphia 76ers.

"I won't be playing basketball next year (1987-88). This my last year as a player."

He left one door slightly ajar as he did when he announced at the opening game Oct. 31 that this was his last season.

"Possibly the only thing that can make me come back and play is if the team wins the championship and I'm invited back."

"But my family and I are preparing for life after basketball which should start around June, 1987 (the approximate time of the NBA championship round)."

Erving was asked about the possibility he might change his mind because of his excellent performance in the first 14 games this season.

Philadelphia coach Matt Guokas described Erving's contribution to the early season success of his injury-riddled team.

"It's been as Doc goes that's the way we've gone," said Guokas after a Wednesday practice session.

"When he has a good game, we win. When he's off his game, we lose. He's had a tremendous early part of the season."

Looking around the rest of the league, Doc is playing All-Star type of basketball. Other than Michael Jordan, Jeff Malone and Orlando Blackman he has been most productive. His competitive desire makes you win, helps you win."

Erving in 14 games has averaged 17.3 points per game, four assists and 5.4 rebounds. He divides his time between the front and back court. He is second on the team in blocked shots (16) and fourth in steals (16).

Guokas is not comparing the 36-year-old Erving with the earlier years of the player's 16-year career, but the coach maintains that Dr. J is still of all-star caliber.

Guokas is not sure but that Erving made a mistake declaring his retirement intention so far in advance.

"I've always had a little problem with these decisions a year in advance," Guokas said. "How do you know how you'll feel in June or September?"

The coach said such a decision usually is two fold, physical and mental. He observed that physically Erving can play another year or two, but "the mental part is tough. Only he can deal with that. But it's tough in any endeavour to decide that far in advance."

Erving declared, "It's not something I decided to do because I can't play basketball anymore. I know I can still play basketball."

"My standards are high and I feel as though I can continue to play this season at a high standard," Erving said.

"But this is the last year that I want to play. There are things that I want to do in life."

Are any of those things linked to basketball such as coach, front office, owner?

"It would make sense to continue in some shape or form. I'm not going to bog myself down with one particular occupation. Certainly there would be room to do some work or be of service to basketball, either domestically or internationally."

"I can't talk in exact terms right now but I certainly would be willing to entertain different proposals, different ideas."

Erving said he has had informal discussions with the NBA and the CBS and ABC television networks.

"They (the networks) tell me I'm a good interview. So, they think there is a natural correlation between being a good interview and being a good interviewer. I've heard it often enough that it might be worth looking into."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, NOV. 29, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when you are under good influences for studying the best means by which you can have pleasure. Be more expansive in your thoughts and ideas.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make practical plans that can bring more happiness into your life. Be concerned with your romantic life.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have to be more thoughtful and kind with a partner. Make yourself more charming to the public.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good day to make your home clean and sparkling. Make any improvements that are needed.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get your talents working more efficiently so that you can gain greater benefits.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You may have company tonight that can give you needed information. Treat them with respect.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Go to the right sources for the advice you need that will bring you happiness with the one you love.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study your possessions and know how to get better returns from them. Make your personal life more satisfying.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You like to get all the information you can on anything that is of interest to you, so do it today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do whatever will most please the one you love, but do so secretly and surprise him, or her.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good friend can give you a good suggestion on how to gain a cherished longing. Be grateful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be careful of your actions in the outside world and safeguard your reputation. Don't waste any money.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study into new interests and know how profitable they may be before you commit yourself to anything.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will easily worm information and facts out of others and would do well in any field of investigation or research. Teach this child to get rid of prejudices which could lessen the fine success possible during this lifetime. Permit participation in sports.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
