In comparison, veterans' compensation is $323.57 and Social Security $361.82, both starting with a base of $100 in 1970. The average wage is $286.64.

Oil production prospects declining

By JIM CRAIG
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Domestic oil production may decline by more than a half billion barrels a year by the turn of the century, according to a report by the Library of Congress released Thursday.

If that prediction is realized, U.S. oil production by the year 2000 will be at its lowest level since 1961.

The projections, contained in the report requested by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, are based on new oil reserves identified in this decade and this year's drilling estimates.

A decline from current 3 billion barrels a year to less than 2.5 billion barrels can be expected by 2000, according to the report.

The study suggests that if current economic and production conditions continue, a decline of 232 million barrels of oil a year will be reached by 1990.

"Coupled with an increase in demand, such low domestic production would result in a significant increase in imports of foreign crude oil, most of which would have to come from the Middle East," the report stated.

Bentsen, a Texas Democrat, called the study's findings "discouraging and disturbing."

The senator said he will push for passage of legislation next year that would require the government to take extraordinary steps if U.S. dependence on foreign oil threatens to exceed half the oil the country consumes.

Bentsen's proposal would require the president to submit to Congress each year a three-year projection of U.S. oil production, demand and imports.

For any year in which oil imports are projected to exceed 50 percent of demand, the president must submit a plan for holding dependence below that level.

"The legislation does not tell the president what steps to take," Bentsen said. "That would be left up to him."

"I would assume, however, that the president would give serious consideration to an oil import fee since that would be the most effective way to hold down our dependence on imports," he added.

Bentsen's call for imposing an import fee to hold down imports and prop up the price of oil has received little enthusiasm from the White House, however.

Committee findings go to council

By SPENCER SANDOW

The citizen's water bill committee will present its findings and recommendations to the City Council at its work session at 3 p.m. Monday at the Airpark.

The committee could pinpoint no single cause of high water bills, but found a number of causal factors.

Possible causes include air registering on water meters, sand or silt in the system, and water- or mud-filled meters registering incorrectly.

As previously detailed, the committee recommends a refund be given to customers whose bills for July, August or September, 1986, was at least 10,000 gallons and twice the customer's average.

The average will be determined from May, June and October, 1986, bills. The refund would be half the overcharged amount. Credit would be given on the customer's account, and could be prorated over a period of time if the council wished.

The committee recommends the city review for a full refund cases of a customer's overcharge exceeding $100.

Water bills should be labeled "estimated" when they are determined by estimated amount of water used, rather than an actual meter reading, the committee recommends.

The Council also is asked to rescind recent legislation preventing water bill adjustments when a customer meets the following criteria: the bill has been paid for the previous three months; the customer requests an adjustment; and when a line break, water heater or appliance is the cause, it's corrected within 10 days and proof of repair furnished.

Mize will bear building's utility costs

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Big Spring Mayor Cotton Mize will pay utility costs for his building that will serve as an activities center for outreach patients from Big Spring's State Hospital.

Friday afternoon's announcement came during a state hospital reception honoring Superintendent Albert Keene Smith who is retiring Jan. 2.

The Corral, a retail clothing operation housed in the building, will close for business on Dec. 31, Mize said.

"I was going to close the business irregardless," he said about a tentative lease offer he made in November to the state hospital's advisory board.

"In 11 years, I haven't made $11 with the business," he said.

Mize estimates utilities will run slightly under $500 — a monthly allotment Howard County will pay the advisory board to lease the building from Mize.

"I'd rather have it that way than have an empty building sit downtown," Mize said.

The state hospital will assume liability insurance costs for the building, he said.

Mize's decision to absorb utility costs is an effort to eliminate conflicts of interest raised over the facts Mize serves on the Hospital's volunteer advisory board in addition to his mayoralty responsibilities.

Jack Stovall, director of community services at the hospital, said a contract drawn between the county and the advisory board was signed Friday afternoon. It stipulates that the advisory board will receive money "for the building of their choice," he said.

County funding becomes effective Feb. 1, Stovall said.

The hospital is planning to use five full-time employees to work the program that is tentatively scheduled to begin operating on Feb. 1, Stovall said.

"It may be March 1 before we have a full blown operation underway," he said.

Staff change talk is brushed aside

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (A) — President Reagan brushed aside advice from GOP lawmakers on Friday to replace Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan and CIA Director William Casey, while congressional investigators leveled fresh charges about the diversion of U.S. funds to a program of military assistance for Contra rebels.

In the most serious crisis of the Reagan presidency, a special panel of federal judges was reviewing the administration's petition for appointment of an independent counsel to probe the sale of arms to Iran and subsequent funneling of profits to the Contras.

At the White House, spokesman Larry Speakes said he had "not found anyone who has a recollection of the president approving" in advance an Israeli shipment of arms to Iran. Speakes declined to say which officials he had talked with, or whether the president was among them. "I have talked to people at very high levels who were participants," he said.

Two newspapers reported that former National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane had told the Senate Intelligence Committee on Monday that the president gave his approval in August 1985. Attorney General Edwin Meese III said last week the president had been told generally about the shipments after they were made in September 1985.

In a separate investigation, the General Accounting Office reported that more than half the $27 million in humanitarian aid that Congress approved in the fall of 1985 for the Contra rebels "could not be fully tracked." The report criticized the State Department and said at least $80,000 was spent on false receipts, with some money diverted to purchase ammunition.

Speakes said Reagan is still reserving judgment on calling a special session of Congress to expedite creation of special House

Canyon flights may see restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration said Friday it plans restrictions early next year on flights over the Grand Canyon, because the volume of air traffic over the popular attraction "has increased the risk of midair collision."

The new rules, which are likely to go into effect in mid-January, will bar noncommercial flights within about 2,000 feet above the canyon rim and will require special permission for four operators to fly in the restricted airspace.

While some commercial flights will be allowed to fly below the rim of the canyon under specific circumstances, most such flights will be required to remain above the rim, FAA spokesman Fred Farrar said.

About 87 percent of flights in the canyon area are by commercial operators, the FAA said. "In recent years the high volume of air traffic over the Grand Canyon National Park has increased the risk of midair collisions," the FAA said. It cited federal government statistics that showed 51 air accidents in the vicinity of the canyon since 1975, including 11 below the canyon rim.

The FAA action did not specifically address the issue of aircraft noise, which environmentalists have complained about for years. But the agency said noise would be addressed in a permanent regulation expected in about six months when the temporary restrictions expire.

The agency action came six months after a helicopter and a sightseeing plane collided several hundred feet below the canyon rim, killing all 25 people aboard. The accident prompted renewed calls for restricting air traffic in the area.

More than 50,000 flights carry hundreds of thousands of tourists over the canyon every year and most pilots dip below the canyon rim for a better view. During the peak periods of July and August more than 350 aircraft fly over the 22-mile long canyon daily, according to the FAA.

Under a special order expected to go into effect sometime in January after parties have had a chance to comment on it, the FAA will:

- establish a restricted section of air space generally between the surface of the canyon and about 2,000 feet above the rim and prohibit flights in the area unless given specific authorization.

- require pilots and commercial operators to file detailed operational plans with the FAA before they are allowed to operate within the restricted area.

"The minimum allowable flight altitudes would be approximately the rim level of the canyon unless there is an operational need for flight below that level," the FAA said.

The agency said flights at low altitudes within the canyon "should be restricted to necessary flights" in which advanced authorization is given.

and Senate committees to investigate the issue.

Senate Republican leader Bob Dole is urging the special session, but the GOP leader of the House and Democratic leaders of both houses say it is unnecessary. In the meantime, the Senate Intelligence Committee heard secret testimony for the fifth straight day.

Republican congressional leaders made their third visit of the week to the White House, and said afterwards that some lawmakers had urged the president to make personnel changes.

Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., said some of the talk "obliquely referred to Mr. Reagan," while Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., added, "Casey's name came up. The CIA came up."

Chafee said Reagan took the position that neither Casey nor Reagan had done anything wrong and "they would stay there and help him." He added, "The president took the view that he didn't want to throw anybody to the wolves without adequate cause." He said Reagan used approximately those same words.

Reagan, boarding a helicopter for a flight for Camp David, shook his head in the negative when asked if Reagan was leaving his staff.

'Almost' perfect not close enough

DALLAS (AP) — Almost perfect wasn't good enough for Hillcrest High School senior Daniel Pak, so he tried again.

The second effort produced a flawless score of 1,600 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

Pak, 17, had a perfect score last year on his National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test and he repeated the accomplishment this year on the SAT.

The senior at the north Dallas high school scored 1,540 on his first attempt this year, not a bad score, but he decided to try again.

"Most people seemed to think 1,540 was pretty good — my counselor didn't want me to take the test again," Pak said. "But my father did, because he's big on the SAT, and he promised me a car for a 1,600. I intend to keep him to his word," Pak said Monday.

Only about 1 percent of the million students who take the SAT nationally score above 1,500, according to figures from the College Board, which administers the test.

Pak is a member of the Hillcrest tennis team and a violinist. He plans to study pre-medicine and has applied to four colleges — Stanford University in California, Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass., Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, also in Cambridge.

Daniel Pak, a 17-year-old Hillcrest High School senior, made a perfect score on 1,600 on his second attempt of the Scholastic Aptitude Test. Pak scored 1,540 on his first attempt of the SAT, but was promised a car by his father if he could score a perfect 1,600.

Someone stole a $204 Social Security check from a mailbox at 1008 W. Sixth St., Clinton Stewart of

Constable's salary is topic

Howard County commissioners will discuss a constable's salary when they meet 9 a.m. Monday in the commissioner's courtroom of the Howard County Courthouse.

Jim Hicks, 1002 Runnels St., will begin serving Jan. 1 as constable in Justice of the Peace Precinct One. He was declared as a write-in candidate in addition to David Mitchem, 1105 Barnes St., during the Nov. 4 general election.

Hicks defeated Mitchem with a 59 total vote tabulation, said County Clerk Margaret Ray.

"He will have the same authority as any law enforcement agent," said County Judge Milton Kirby.

He will not, however, assume responsibilities relating to jailing or lock-up procedures, the judge said.

Commissioners will also discuss right-a-way matters with Barbara L. Hudgins, a land service specialist from Midland.

Kirby said he did not know whether the commissioners would seek Hudgins' expertise and retain her services for a fee.

Commissioners are working with the state's highway department in expanding U.S. Highway 87 south of Big Spring to four lanes.

Students win court battle

By JIM DAVIS
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — In what one attorney called "an enormous victory for the high school students of Texas," District Judge Harley Clark opened the way Friday for the December publication of an alternative newspaper on the Bryan High School campus.

Clark approved a temporary restraining order preventing the Texas Education Agency and the Bryan Independent School District from stopping publication and distribution of a monthly newspaper called "Twisted Times."

"This is a great day for the high school students of Texas," attorney Jim Harrington of the Texas Civil Liberties Union declared after Clark's ruling, which he said "tells Texas that high school students have rights just like the rest of us."

Clark's decision only lasts for a 10-day period beginning when he signs a written order to be prepared and presented by Harrington on Monday. But Clark will hold another hearing on Dec. 18 on whether to extend the order through a temporary restraining order which would be in force until a full trial in the case.

If the initial ruling continues throughout the case, high school students statewide will win significant freedom of expression rights under the Texas Constitution, Harrington said.

In any event, Harrington said the 10-day order will give Veronica Evans, a Bryan High School journalism student, time to produce and distribute "a Christmas edition" of her publication.

"Twisted Times" was begun more than a year ago by her brother, Karl Michael Evans, who now is a student at the University of California.

A suit filed by Harrington against the Texas Education Agency and Bryan school district maintains Karl Evans was punished and denied the right to distribute the paper after an edition made fun of the school principal's frequent absences from the campus.

The suit seeks damages from two school officials on the claim that Karl Evans was denied a scholarship because of the action taken against him. The ruling Friday, however, applies only to Veronica Evans' desire to continue publication of the newspaper.

Assistant Attorney General Kevin O'Hanlon, representing the Texas Education Agency, maintained that Clark lacks jurisdiction because of a recent change in the law. He said Veronica Evans' part of the suit must be filed in a Bryan district court.

Harrington accused the agency of stalling the Karl Evans case until the student graduated and said the same method was now being used against Veronica Evans' case.

Theft case draws gifts

DENVER — Prosecutors will decide Monday whether to charge a man who says he committed a burglary so that he could pay medical expenses for his terminally ill, 3-year-old daughter.

Published reports of Robert Jaramillo's case have impelled dozens of people to offer donations totaling $3,000.

"I appreciate everything," Jaramillo said. "But I don't want people to give on account of what I did, but because of her."

The Jaramillos say their daughter, Rechelle, has Batten's disease, a rare, fatal condition that breaks down the nerve cells in the brain.

Jury convicts Krishna

KINGWOOD, W. Va. — A jury decided Friday that the disappearance of a man from a Hare Krishna compound was a case of homicide and convicted a fringe member of the sect of murder.

Thomas Drescher was convicted of killing Charles Saint-Denis at the Hare Krishna community in northern West Virginia — a crime prosecutors said included an attempt to dissolve the body with acid.

The Preston County Circuit jury deliberated five hours before convicting the 37-year-old Ravenna, Ohio, man of first-degree murder without mercy, making a no-parole life sentence mandatory. A date for formal sentencing was not set.

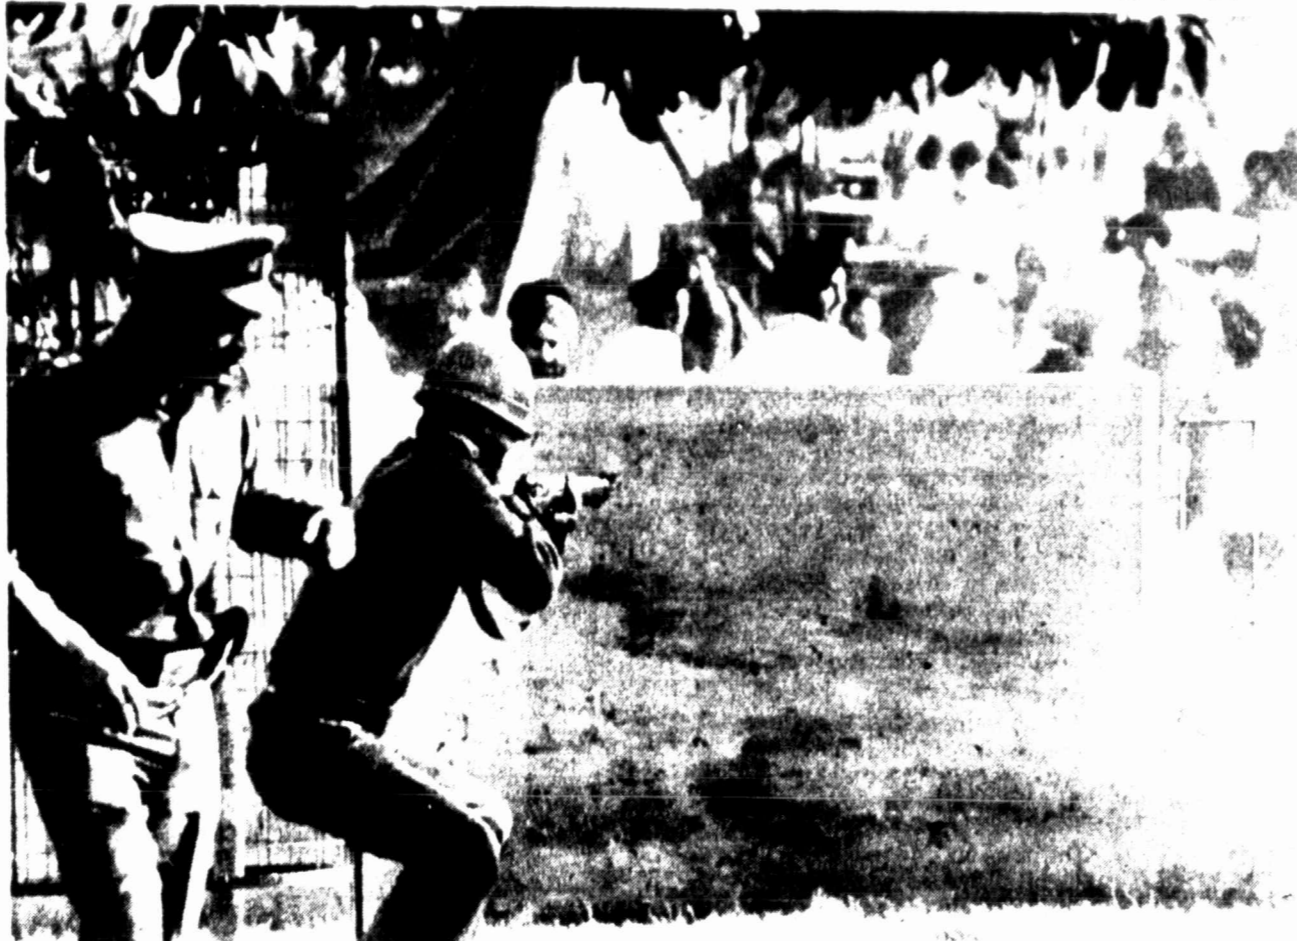

Prosecutors cited the testimony of witnesses who said Drescher told them he and Daniel Reid shot, stabbed and then clubbed Saint-Denis to death after luring him to Reid's cabin on the 4,000-acre Krishna compound with a promise of cocaine. Reid, 31, of Los Angeles, also was charged with murder and is to be tried later.

Town ponders killing

LEWISTOWN, Mont. — Authorities in this central Montana town tried to determine Friday whether a failing grade in French provoked a high school freshman into a shooting spree that left a teacher dead and three people wounded.

Classes resumed Friday at Fergus High School, with counselors, clergy and psychologists on hand to help students deal with the trauma of Thursday's bloodshed, and authorities said they would decide within a week whether to charge the boy arrested in the case as an adult.

Kristofor Hans, 14, who was arrested Thursday after officers surrounded his house, appeared before District Judge Peter L. Rapkoch on Friday in a closed hearing at the Montana Youth Treatment Center in Billings.

Police Friday fired shots and tear gas to repel the ambush by New Delhi Sikh mobs. Hundreds of Sikhs gathered to mark the anniversary of a guru's death, but began to stone the police and ransack a city bus. The clash occurred after the massacre in Punjab last Sunday when 24 passengers died in gunfire.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Sikhs and security forces engaged in gun battles at a Sikh temple Friday after a truck driven by a Sikh ran into a group of officers. Three Sikhs, including the driver, and three officers were killed.

Rioting also broke out between Sikhs and Hindus outside a Sikh temple in Old Delhi, and 25 people were reported injured by flying rocks.

Police said a truck driven by a Sikh ran into a group of paramilitary guards outside Bangla Sahib temple. The clashes came as Sikhs marked a major holiday honoring the martyrdom of one of their gurus, Teg Bahadur, who was beheaded in 1675 by India's Mughal rulers for supporting Hindus.

Authorities said the driver appeared to have run into the soldiers deliberately, but Sikh witnesses said police attacked the truck after the driver tried to move his vehicle.

Witnesses said the driver's actions set off a riot. Sikhs fired at security forces from inside the temple and hurled rocks at police who fired guns and charged into the crowd with steel-tipped bamboo clubs.

Two soldiers were shot to death and the third died of injuries apparently sustained when he was hit by the truck, hospital officials said. Police earlier had said all three men were killed after being run over by the truck.

Police said three Sikhs were killed. Authorities said one of the victims was killed by members of the paramilitary force. Hospital officials said a second victim was beaten to death and the third died of stab wounds.

Sixteen people were wounded, including nine police officers and soldiers who suffered gunshot wounds.

Police said the man beaten to death was the truck driver. Authorities said the paramilitary troops set fire to the truck and beat the Sikh driver and his Hindu assistant.

The paramilitary forces were then withdrawn, police said.

GIs held in drug bust

HEIDELBERG, West Germany — Authorities arrested 29 U.S. soldiers and 19 civilians of various nationalities for alleged dealing or possessing drugs, a U.S. Army spokesman said Friday.

The arrests were made Monday through Thursday in the Heidelberg area and the confiscated drugs, including heroin, had an estimated street value of $160,000, said Sgt. 1st Class Roger Teel at U.S. Army-Europe headquarters here.

Police also are seeking five more soldiers for alleged drug offenses, Teel told The Associated Press in a telephone interview.

Soviets seal reactor

MOSCOW — Tass reported Friday that the casing of reinforced concrete around the No. 4 Chernobyl nuclear reactor has been completed, a covering that scientists hope will seal the ruined reactor "forever."

The official news agency quoted physicist Valery Legasov, among those working on the Chernobyl cleanup, as saying the work was finished, but it did not give the completion date.

Construction began in the weeks after the April 26 disaster, which blew open the reactor and released a cloud of radiation detected around the world.

Tass indicated the system enclosing the reactor includes monitoring equipment that checks temperature and radiation levels.

Japan eyes tax reform

TOKYO — The government on Friday endorsed a tax reform plan that would reduce personal and corporate taxes but introduce a sales tax and impose a levy on interest from savings accounts.

The plan still needs the approval of Parliament where the governing Liberal Democratic Party has a comfortable majority. It is opposed by some members of government, however, including the minister of finance.

Hijacker gets 16 years

GENOA, Italy — A juvenile court convicted the Achille Lauro's fourth Palestinian hijacker Friday and sentenced him to 16 years in prison for the two days of terror at sea in which an invalid American was killed.

Bassam al-Ashker was 17 when the Palestinians commandeered the Italian cruise liner with hundreds of people aboard in October 1985, so his case was separated from the others.

Select Committee recommending more power

By DANA PALMER
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Select Committee on Higher Education tentatively agreed Friday to recommend more power for the coordinating board, including the authority to set enrollment limits and establish new missions for state universities.

As always, the Texas Legislature would maintain veto power over any action by the board, said committee Chairman Larry Temple of Austin.

Turning the currently weak coordinating board into more of a super board would "grease the whole system all the way down the line," said committee member and businessman Arthur Temple of Diboll.

"Somewhere in the system, someone has to have the authority," he said, to push through needed changes in the state's higher education system.

Committee member Joe McCormick agreed, noting that "somebody has to call the balls and strikes and say you're out."

But several committee members objected, saying such a board would simply create a "super board with a czar" who dictates change.

Such a board might be more efficient, said state Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, "but there are a lot of inefficiencies in a democracy."

Another approach, Temple said, might be to curb state funding in some way to those universities that don't want to go along with reasonable enrollment limits or changes in the school's purpose or mission.

"Incentive funding would be for those who are doing right," said committee member Peter O'Donnell of Dallas.

The same approach might be used to help ensure that at least credits in some basic courses could be transferred from one state university to another without problems, several committee members noted.

If something isn't done about that problem, "you're perpetuating a fraud" on those students who want to transfer, said committee member Glenn Biggs.

Committee member Wales Madden also noted that if enrollment limits are set by the coordinating board rather than by the university that could force students to enroll in some of the state's under-enrolled universities.

But Bill Parsley complained that all such moves to give more power to the coordinating board simply continues a trend toward erosion of "dignity and power of each board of regents in the state."

As it is, some sophomores who want to transfer from a community college or one state university to another find that a basic English or math course won't count toward their degree at the new university.

Man who hated violence kills 28 before spree ends

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A man described as hating violence stabbed to death a woman and her daughter, killed his own mother and five other women, then ate a leisurely meal before killing 28 more people in a cafe, police reported Friday.

They identified the killer as 52-year-old Campos Elias Delgado and said he was shot to death by police who had been trailing the murder spree in which Delgado killed 28 people.

Police quoted witnesses as saying Delgado had fought with U.S. forces in the Vietnam War, but the U.S. Defense Department said it had no such record. Police gave this account of the killings:

Delgado went to the apartment of an acquaintance, 34-year-old Norta Becerra, at about 3 p.m. Thursday. He repeatedly stabbed Mrs. Becerra and her 14-year-old daughter, Claudia.

The doorman at the Becerra apartment building notified police, who found the bodies. Delgado then returned to his own apartment where he shot his mother, covered her body with newspapers and clothes, and set it afire. He went to other apartments in the same and shot five women who answered knocks at the door.

Delgado, an English teacher, then went to the home of a former student, who said Delgado, carrying a brief case, appeared calm and composed as they talked for about an hour.

After the conversation Delgado went to the fashionable Poyzetto restaurant in northern Bogota, drank eight vodka tonics, ate dinner, read a newspaper and then strolled through the restaurant, firing at diners and workers with a 38-caliber revolver. He shot most of the victims in the head from five or six feet away and paused several times to reload from an ammunition belt he had in the briefcase.

Juan Guillermo Gomez, a diner, said police surrounded the Italian restaurant and ordered Delgado to surrender. He continued shooting and police stormed in, killing him with several bullets in the head. "He was a madman. He kept shooting and shooting," Gomez said. "At first, we thought the shots were firecrackers. Then we realized it was a madman at the bar, shooting at all of us."

Firecrackers are a feature of the Christmas season in Latin America.

Police initially had reported Delgado killed his mother and then the others, but said later the killings began with the stabbing deaths of Mrs. Becerra and her daughter, but they had not determined the motive.

Saul Serrato, a friend, said Delgado had been a crewman on a plane in Vietnam and fought with U.S. troops there.

"His experience in the war in Vietnam seems to have been very negative because he hated violence," Serrato said in an interview with the Caracol radio chain.

In Washington, Pentagon officials said they were unable to find any records indicating Delgado had served with U.S. military forces in Vietnam.

A Pentagon spokesman, Col. Arnold Williams, said "preliminary checks don't show anyone with that name on active duty or retired from the armed forces."

An Air Force spokesman, Capt. Miles Wiley, said a check of records showed that Delgado was never in the U.S. Air Force. Spokesmen for other branches of the armed forces said they had not uncovered anything to indicate Delgado had served in the military but they could not yet rule out the possibility.

According to Serrato, Delgado had lived in Germany, France and the United States, returning to Colombia two years ago. He said Delgado planned to return to Germany because of guerrilla violence here and the many street robberies in Bogota.

Serrato said Delgado taught English at his apartment, studied French at the Colombian-French Institute and attended science classes at the Javeriana University, a Roman Catholic school in Bogota.

Other acquaintances interviewed by radio stations said Delgado did not get along with his mother and beat her when he was angry about something.

Some quoted him as saying Thursday, just before the rampage: "People are going to know about me real soon. I have a problem. My mother doesn't love me."

Don't try to spend your tax cut

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — With the new year comes a highly publicized, substantially lower personal income tax rate, courtesy of a legislative change that transfers a greater revenue-raising burden to the business sector of society.

But don't expect it to lift you onto a higher tier of material existence. Such things as tax cuts seem to dissolve like dreams, leaving you to deal with the less rosy reality. And the reality is that the burden transferred to the business sector can come back to you in many ways.

Recent research by Stanford University economist Michael Boskin and Harvard University's Martin Feldstein suggest, for example, that the long-term cost of higher corporate taxes may be borne by labor in the form of a smaller share of the economic pie.

But the return of the burden to the public can be masked also in higher prices, fewer jobs, higher interest rates, lower stock prices and dividends, and slower economic growth.

The possibility of higher prices arises in two forms:

1. Some businesses are likely to attempt passing on their added costs in prices. 2. Added funds in the hands of consumers conceivably could build demand-push inflation — the kind referred to as too much money chasing too few goods.

While no economic scenario ever evolves as described, a tendency to higher prices has been counteracted in the past by a more restrictive monetary policy, or tight money. In other words, by rising interest rates.

If rates rise, they could slow economic growth, which is the only way more people can enjoy a higher living standard without taking their neighbor's slice of the pie. That much is a fact of life, no matter how indigestible.

Nobody can mathematically prove how a corporate tax increase is returned to the public. They cannot say for certain whether the consumer, worker or shareholder bears the brunt. But they can say this: The public pays.

A tax decrease can disappear in a very different way too, as experience demonstrates. It can be legislated away; tax cuts may lead to tax hikes.

In 1981, Congress passed the Economic Recovery Tax Act, or ERTA, lowering individual tax rates by 25 percent. Since then, says the Chamber of Commerce, the $1.49 trillion reduction has all but disappeared in tax increases.

The erosion occurred because of raises in Social Security taxes in 1981 and 1983, a gasoline tax increase in 1983, and broader increases in 1982 and 1984.

Perhaps because of this experience, there is widespread speculation that Congress soon will begin taking apart the just-passed tax bill.

Promoting a Jan. 7 tax seminar, the New York chapter of the American Association of Individual Investors advised members that "tax experts give the new law one year in its present form, then its anyone's guess."

William Maddox, head of Equitable Life's federal relations office, remarks that almost before the printer's ink has dried on the new tax law, lobbyists and legislators are pressuring for changes.

Among other reasons, those seeking changes cite the need of legislators to find new sources of revenue if terms of the Gramm-Rudman deficit-cutting measure is to be adhered to.

Drilling report

These are the latest oil and gas activity reports filed with the Texas Railroad Commission for the five-county crossroads country.

Howard County's East Iatan-Howard Field gained a new producer when Arcos Oil & Gas completed the No. 52-A Granville M. Dodge Estate five miles southeast of Coahoma.

The well showed ability to pump 18 barrels of oil per day, plus 147 barrels of waste water. It was taken to a 2,850-ft. bottom, and will produce from perforations commingled in the San Angelo and Clear Fork Formations, ranging from 2,416 to 2,720 feet into the wellbore.

The operation is located in a 1,125-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

Three 2,600-ft. developmental wells are planned by Mobil Producing of Midland at drill sites 15 miles southeast of Big Spring. The locations are in a 150-acre lease in Howard County's W&NW Survey. Well's designations are the Nos. 42, 43 and 46 G.O. Chalk. They will be drilled in the Howard-Glasscock Field.

The same operator is planning to drill the No. 71 Mary Chalk, a 2,600-ft. developmental well at a location six miles northeast of Forsan. The well will be drilled in the Howard-Glasscock Field in a 280-acre lease, W&NW Survey.

Plug-and-abandon orders have been issued for the No. 1 Meador-Cathey Unit, a wildcat well in Howard County, with Lawless Energy as the operator. The well was located 17 miles northeast of Big Spring in a 40-acre lease in the T&P Survey. Spudded Oct. 30, the well probed to a dry bottom at 4,557 feet.

Mobil Producing has revealed plans to drill four 2,600-ft. developmental wells in the Howard-Glasscock Field. The operator has 220 acres leased, with drill sites in Howard County's W&NW Survey.

The wells have been designated as the Nos. 40, 41, 42 and 43W Sarah Hyman. Drillsites are 14 miles southeast of Big Spring.

The No. 1 Antelope, a 7,500-ft. wildcat well, is scheduled to be drilled in Borden County.

Lakewood & Fulton of Midland is the operator. The well will be spudded in a 160-acre lease 20 miles southeast of Gall in the H&TC Survey.

A re-entry operation has been finalized by Amoco Production in the Jo-Mill Field, Borden County. The well is designated as the No. 21 T.J. Good "A", with a 160-acre lease in the Jo-Mill Field, Borden County. Location is in a 13,442-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

The operation demonstrated potential to pump 30 barrels of oil per day from perforations in the Spraberry Formation at 7,134 to 7,149 feet into the wellbore.

The original operator was Pan American, who completed the well July 26, 1960. At that time it flowed 663 barrels of oil per day from Pennsylvania Formation perforations at 8,130 to 8,207 feet into the wellbore. The well's original total depth was 8,207 feet. Amoco deepened the well to 8,257 feet and plugged back to 8,010.

A Midland-based operator has staked location for the No. 1 Campbell "B", a developmental well to be located seven miles northwest of Tarzan. With projected total depth of 9,600 feet, the well will be drilled in a 160-acre lease in Martin County's Spraberry Trend Field, Hartley CSL Survey. The operator is Parker & Parsley Petroleum.

Mobil Producing has given up on its efforts to make a producer out of the No. 1 Sedgewick "252", a wildcat try in Martin County. Location was ten miles northwest of Lenorah in a 708-acre lease in the Ward CSL Survey.

The operation was spudded Oct. 12, and bottomed with no commercial shows at 12,268 feet.

RR Petroleum has revealed first production figures on a re-entry operation in the Spraberry Trend Field, Glasscock County. The well is designated as the No. 2 Leonard, with location 11 miles southwest of St. Lawrence in a 160-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

The well pumped 32 barrels of oil per day, plus 102 barrels of water. Production will be from perforations in the Clear Fork Formation, 6,321 to 6,331 feet into the wellbore.

U.S. economic malignancy

By TOM PETERS

Harvard's Bob Hayes and the late Bill Abernathy launched an attack on management in their widely acclaimed article, "Managing Our Way to Economic Decline" in the Harvard Business Review in 1980. Two years later Harvard economist Bob Reich made a similar diagnosis, coining the unflattering term "paper entrepreneurs" in his book "The Next American Frontier."

Many business executives grumbled that these were just academics overreacting to the 1981 recession. Besides, Reich was a close Walter Mondale adviser, hardly known for sympathy toward big business.

The recent past has been marked by an unprecedented four-year economic recovery. But the criticism has not stopped. In fact, it is picking up. And it is beginning to come from business people themselves.

Carl Icahn, who is trying to take over the firm long synonymous with American industry itself — U.S. Steel (now USX, of course), asserts that "U.S. corporations are in crisis." In interviews in Newsweek and Business Week, he says the reason is not lousy government policy: "What has developed is a sort of anti-Darwinism pattern, where you have survival of the unfittest. ... The directors who chose these chief executives seem to be studying from a primer titled 'In Search of Mediocrity.'"

His tone turns downright nasty and personal: "A modern chief executive is much like a feudal baron. He has a retinue, though his courtiers are more likely to be fawning MBAs than squires. ... The chief executives are out on their jet planes with their wives and going on safari and the company is going to the dogs, and then they'll give parties to celebrate how great they are."

Icahn proclaims, "We can't have people on the dole, but when you have ten layers of bureaucracy, isn't that the same as the dole? They're not producing for our society." He claims that if he gets USX and turns it around, he'll then "look for another outrage. ... There are a lot of people to be outraged at. ... I'm just outraged in general."

So we dismiss the Harvard party-waists. And it's also easy to dismiss Icahn's management critique as a self-serving rationalization for the havoc he wreaks on innocent bystanders. But how do we dismiss General Motors' director — the conservative Texan, Electronic Data Systems (EDS) founder and Forbes-ranked third-richest American — H. Ross Perot?

Perot joins the snipers: "We must replace bureaucrats with leaders," he warns, urging executives to "get out of their private dining rooms and talk to customers and people down in the guts of the corporation."

His most pointed commentary is reserved for GM (he owns 11 million shares of GM's class E stock, currently worth about $357 million). Perot told Newsweek that

"top management at GM was in a 'time warp' and staff size had bloated to look like the Chinese army." To Business Week he added, "The first EDSer to see a snake kills it. At GM, first thing you do is organize a committee on snakes. Then you bring in a consultant who knows a lot about snakes. Third thing you do is talk about it for a year." Or longer: "It takes five years to develop a new car in this country. Heck, we won World War II in four years."

The next blunderbuss is discharged by a man with impeccable credentials — Dick Darman, deputy secretary of the Treasury and close President Reagan confidant. He declares that our big corporations are "bloated, risk averse, inefficient and unimaginative," and blasts executives for "spending less time developing R&D budgets than ... reviewing golf scores."

These damning indictments do not go far enough. Management in our schools, cities and national defense is in wholesale disarray. Management per se is more of a problem than Washington, Albany, Sacramento, Tokyo, Bonn and Seoul combined.

No one heeds Democrats who attack big-business management — we assume it's in their genes. Republicans don't attack big-business management, because they are big-business management, because it is seen as an attack on Reagan's defense rebuilding policy, not management. And the Democrats vigorously attack Secretary of Education William Bennett for criticizing school management; they argue it's just a smokescreen to cover budget cuts.

But worse smokescreens are devised by the business community. Twenty-two of the major 23 recommendations from the touted President's Commission on Industrial Competitiveness (headed by Hewlett-Packard Chairman John Young) dealt with things that government, schools and other non-corporate entities ought to do. Not surprisingly the commission's mostly big-company members didn't lay a glove on big-company management!

These issues are more urgent than ever, now that Democrats control both houses of Congress. The largest share of their Senate gains came from the South, where new protectionist-leaning textile lawmakers may well tip the scale in favor of reality-evading, self-defeating trade legislation.

The American executive suite, not Congress or Japan's Ministry of International Trade and Industry, is the place to start trying to reverse our precipitous decline in international competitiveness. So three cheers to Messrs. Darman and Perot. We desperately need more "establishment" people to blow the whistle on the management fifth column that is gutting America's economic future.

Blondie ties loose ends

NEW YORK (AP) — When Blondie ended, Miss Harry says, "Everybody had been doing various projects, branching out. It just sort of melted."

"There were loose ends we had to finish up. What really surprised me is the number of lawsuits there were. It is amazing how many people suddenly decide they'd written a song you'd done."

"The strangest one was about our version of Smokey Robinson's 'When the Hunter Gets Captured by the Game.' We did an arrangement of it that was slower than the original and sort of tribal sounding. We had a lot of tom toms and drums; it was very dark and had a great feel to it. We had a lawsuit from a guy who said he had written the arrangement."

Blondie's biggest selling single was "The Tide Is High." "Call Me" was No. 1 for seven weeks. Miss Harry says those two were favorites with audiences and so was "Heart of Glass," "One Way or Another" and "Rip Her to Shreds" from the first album.

Immediately after Blondie, Miss Harry says, "I felt I should take a little vacation, since I hadn't had one for a while. I thought there should be a little bit of space between the band and a solo career."

She was interested in the play "Teaneck Tantai" because it was about female wrestlers. "I'm a wrestling fan. Chris got me into watching wrestling on TV. We've been watching it for years."

When she first inquired about the play, she was told they were looking for a more athletic woman. Later, she heard about auditions, went, and she and Caitlin Clark got the part, alternating performances. She says, "It had a little plot; there were songs. I think it could have been successful off-Broadway."

A moving experience: a house without a home

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A house abandoned along the side of a South Texas highway was moved Friday to a site near an attorney's office as authorities tried to figure out what to do with it.

The house, which was uprooted from Corpus Christi, sat on blocks along a highway near Benavides until Friday morning when it was moved. "It's a mess," said Duval County sheriff's dispatcher Ceneida Montemayor. "It's unbelievable but true."

The small beige house was reported stolen by a Corpus Christi woman Wednesday. Constable Ramiro Perez chased down the structure, rolling along Highway 59 about 10 miles west of Benavides, she said.

Perez said he remembered the house because he had just escorted its movers through the city.

But the movers told authorities they had not stolen the house. Instead, they were reclaiming it because of a bad debt, she said. They said a woman had not paid them for the house after they moved it from Laredo, Ms. Montemayor said.

The movers said they were returning to Laredo with the house and were about halfway there when pulled over, she said.

A day later a deal was struck with the help of an area attorney, county officials said. No charges would be filed and the structure would be moved back to Corpus Christi on Thursday, Ms. Montemayor said.

Regents approve Austin Environmental Center

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — University of Texas System regents approved an agreement Friday that establishes a Center for Environmental Research in Austin.

Under the agreement, the city of Austin will furnish the facilities while UT-Austin and Texas A&M University will seek grants and contract funds to finance municipal environmental research programs.

In other action Friday, the regents authorized an application to the General Service Administration for transfer of the title of the National Marine Fisheries Service Facility at Port Aransas to UT regents for use by the UT-Austin Marine Science Institute.

The regents also approved the establishment of the Denton A. Cooley professorship on surgery at the UT Health Science Center at Houston. The professorship honored Dr. Denton Cooley, world famous heart surgeon and surgeon-in-chief at Texas Heart Institute in Houston.

Regents accepted an initial $5 million permanent endowment from the Sealy & Smith Foundation for the John Sealy Hospital at UT Medical Branch at Galveston.

The regents authorized a matching $5 million by transfer from available institutional funds to establish the John Sealy Memorial Endowment Fund for Biomedical Research at the Medical Branch.

An anonymous gift of $1,070,000 was accepted to create 16 endowments in the College of Engineering at UT-Austin.

Hightower: Best holiday tree is a Texas tree

AUSTIN (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower is urging Christmas tree buyers to get Texas trees.

"Why buy a Christmas tree that is hauled in from Oregon, Minnesota or some other state? It's expensive and half the needles fall off before you get the thing home," Hightower said. "A Texas-grown tree is a much better buy and will last until Easter."

Hightower said Texas-grown trees are now available in at least 150 retail locations in 70 different cities.

In addition, Hightower said, there are 115 commercial Christmas tree farms in Texas where consumers can choose and cut their own trees.

Grant's final interview praised Ronald Reagan

TEXARKANA (AP) — Ronald Reagan could have been one of Hollywood's top leading men if it hadn't been for Errol Flynn, Cary Grant said in an interview a month before his death.

Grant, 82, who died of a stroke Nov. 29, was interviewed by the Texarkana Gazette in October while in town for his one-man show, "A Conversation with Cary Grant." A column recalling the interview was published in the newspaper on Friday.

Grant had been at the White House before his performance in Texarkana. When asked about the Reagans, he said, "We're fond of those lovely people and we visit them regularly. I was on the board of the Screen Actor's Guild when he was president of the Guild. There were negotiations with lawyers and the stage crafts, and he got a crash education in politics.

"We know him to be a very decent man who carries a heavy load on his head as president of the country. He was a very good actor, too," Grant said. "If Errol Flynn hadn't been a big star at the same studio, Reagan would have been the top leading man there."

Grant also said he wished he could die as his 95-year-old mother did: slipping into unconsciousness while drinking a cup of tea. He weakened after a rehearsal of his show in Davenport, Iowa, and died within hours.

Two tales of two coaches, three teams

McWilliams leaves Tech, goes home

AUSTIN (AP) — David McWilliams, who coached Texas Tech to this year's Independence Bowl in his first season, Friday was named head football coach at the University of Texas.

McWilliams previously served as an assistant under Darrell Royal, who built the Longhorns into a national power, and under Fred Akers, who was fired last Saturday after Texas wrapped up its worst season in 30 years with a 5-6 record.

Texas Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds said McWilliams, a captain on Royal's 1963 national championship team, was his first choice for the $91,600-a-year job.

Dodds called McWilliams a coach who "could walk that thin line between being a friend, a confidant and, at the same time, a disciplinarian to the players."

McWilliams, 44, drew a standing ovation from Longhorn players and supporters when he entered the Lyndon B. Johnson Auditorium on the UT campus for the announcement.

"It's just a dream come true for me," said McWilliams, who was a Texas assistant from 1970 through 1985.

Asked about his game-plan philosophy, he said, "I personally like to throw the ball a good bit."

Dodds called McWilliams "one of the top, young defensive coaches in the country."

But for Texas Tech officials and supporters, it was something of a nightmare. Tech Athletic Director T. Jones, a former associate athletic director at Texas, made it clear this week that he didn't appreciate the Longhorns' raid on the Red Raiders' coach.

McWilliams said the decision to leave Lubbock after only one year, during which his Red Raiders were 7-4, was difficult.

"Unfortunately, when you have two loyalties and you choose one of the loyalties, unfortunately sometimes you are labelled as disloyal rather than being labelled loyal," McWilliams said.

He had four years remaining on his Tech contract, which paid him

David McWilliams takes a seat Friday as his wife Cindy flashes the "Hook 'em Horns" salute after McWilliams was introduced as the new Texas Longhorns head football coach.

$75,000 annually. McWilliams said he would stay on as the Red Raiders' coach through their Dec. 20 bowl game against Mississippi.

Dodds said he felt no had done nothing wrong in recruiting McWilliams away from Tech.

"This is a tough time for T, and certainly a tough decision on our part to cause him to have a tough time," Dodds said.

But he added, "I've been in this conference for 5 1/2 years, and I'm not aware of a gentlemen's agreement between conference institutions relative to recruiting coaches."

McWilliams is the first Southwest Conference head football coach to move directly to another SWC coach since W.M. "Matty" Bell switched from Texas Christian to Texas A&M in 1928.

Dodds and McWilliams predicted Tech's football program would continue to improve.

"I know that Texas Tech, knowing T. Jones, will come out of this standing on their feet and they'll have a great football program, and David's one year stay there will have been a benefit to them," Dodds said.

McWilliams said it was Jones, not himself, who has led Tech's football turnaround.

The new Longhorn coach said he notified Tech players and officials Thursday that the Independence Bowl game would be his last as their coach.

Collins, Hitch resign under payoffs cloud

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist head football coach Bobby Collins and Athletic Director Bob Hitch resigned Friday following new allegations of recruiting violations in the Mustang football program.

Dr. William B. Stallcup Jr., the university's interim president, said in a statement that the resignations were effective immediately.

"During their years of service, SMU sports teams have enjoyed marked success," Stallcup said. "Under the prevailing circumstances, however, it is my judgment that Mr. Hitch's and Mr. Collins' resignations are in the best interest of the university."

Terms of the resignations, including whether or not Hitch and Collins will be paid for the remaining years of their contracts, will not be revealed, Stallcup said.

Stallcup said the SMU athletic department will be managed by Dudley Parker, associate director of athletics, until an acting director is appointed. A search for successors to Hitch and Collins will begin in "due course," he said.

During a news conference, Collins said he was not asked to resign and decided to quit after talking it over with his wife. He said that recruiting would have been difficult under the circumstances.

"My plans are to continue coaching," Collins said. He said he had met with his players just before the news conference and told them, "Tough times don't last. Tough people do."

In five years at SMU, Collins posted a 43-14-1 record, including a 6-5 mark in 1986. The Mustangs were 2-1 in bowl games under Collins, including a victory in the 1983 Cotton Bowl.

Hitch, who also said he was not asked to resign, was asked if the resignations could be interpreted as an admission of guilt regarding possible NCAA rules violations.

"You can take it any way you want," Hitch said. Hitch, who called SMU "a fine institution," said, "The kids deserve better than what they're getting."

"I leave with a sense of sadness that the football program has come under media allegations once again," said Collins, who thanked Hitch and former SMU President L. Donald Shields for their "loyalty and support."

SMU, which has been placed on NCAA probation five times, is currently on probation through August 1988.

The Mustangs, who were barred from bowl games in 1985 and 1986 and from live television in 1986, also lost all their scholarships following the 1985 season and are limited to only 15 in the current recruiting season.

Three weeks ago, Dallas television station WFAA-TV reported on allegations made by former Mustang linebacker David Stanley, who said he received $25,000 when he signed with SMU and that he and his mother received $750 per month from the SMU athletic department.

Stanley said the payment continued after SMU began its latest probation in August 1985 through December 1985 when he left the university.

The possibility that Hitch and Collins would quit arose Thursday when Gov.-elect Bill Clements, chairman of the SMU board of governors, said the resignations had been discussed by the panel Thursday.

Shields resigned two weeks ago, citing health problems aggravated by new allegations of wrongdoing in the football program.

The NCAA could suspend the school's football program for two years if the latest allegations are proved.

Hitch said three weeks ago he would be willing to resign if that would be in the university's best interests.

Fowler shakes foul trouble to spark Bulldogettes

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

COAHOMA — The story of the Coahoma Bulldogettes is — as Shanna Fowler goes, so goes the Bulldogettes.

That fact was very evident in Coahoma's 49-48 win over the Post Lady Lopes Friday night in the second round of the Coahoma Invitational Basketball Tournament.

Fowler, a 5-10 senior post player, scored 19 points and hauled down seven rebounds in leading the way. Fowler, coming off a 40-point performance Thursday night against Tahoka, only played a little over half of the game because of foul trouble. When she was in the contest, the Bulldogettes rolled, when she was out, they struggled miserably.

Fowler sat out the entire second quarter after picking up three fouls in the first quarter. At the end of the quarter Coahoma led 10-9 and Fowler had six points and three rebounds.

Post took advantage of her absence in the second quarter, outpointing the Bulldogettes 10-6 and taking a 19-16 halftime lead. Coahoma had a rough time in the period, especially against the Post trapping press, which forced 12 turnovers in the second quarter. Post's offense came from post player Kim Smith and guard Darby Gordon. Smith had a fine game with 20 points and 10 rebounds. Darby scored 17 points.

Coahoma's offense became almost extinct. It's only points for the first seven and-a-half minutes were two free throws by Jancy Cunningham as Post took a 19-12 lead. But the Bulldogettes made a strong finish in the last 30 seconds of the quarter when Nancy Hardison and Cunningham got steals and converted them into layups, cutting the margin to 19-16 at the half.

Fowler played the entire third quarter and the Bulldogettes didn't resemble the same team that played in the second quarter. Putting their halfcourt press to work, the Bulldogettes scored 14 unanswered points and took a commanding 30-19 lead with 4:44 left in the quarter.

Their press created four consecutive turnovers at the start of the quarter and Cunningham, who ended the game with 12 points and six assists, and Fowler got things going by hitting two buckets each.

The Bulldogettes were scorching hot in the quarter, gunning in 10 of 14 field goals. Coahoma took a 39-26 lead going into the fourth quarter.

Fowler was whistled for her fourth foul 20 seconds into the fourth quarter. Coahoma coach Truman Meissner took her out and didn't put her back in until the 3:48 mark. Again Post took advantage of her absence, cutting the margin to 44-38.

With Fowler back in, the Bulldogettes got back on track. Fowler sunk a free throw and Post retaliated with a basket by Kim Smith, cutting the margin to 45-40. But the home team put the game away with a bank shot by Jo Hudson and a free throw by Cunningham. This gave Coahoma a commanding 48-40 lead with 1:57 remaining.

Post rallied to make the score close, but it was too little, too late.

Coahoma advances to the finals against Brownfield, a winner over Forsan, tonight at 6:30.

COAHOMA (49) — Shanna Fowler 8 3 19; Shona Drewery 2 1 5; Jancy Cunningham 4 4 12; Nancy Hardison 1 2 4; Jo Hudson 3 2 8; Paige Wilson 0 1 1; totals 18 13 49.
POST (48) — Kim Smith 9 2 20; Trra Alexander 2 2 6; Darby Gordon 6 5 17; Angie Hallerman 1 0 2; Christina Martinez 1 1 3; totals 19 10 48.

Lady Steers win twice

ABILENE — The Big Spring Lady Steers got two strong performances from Teresa Pruitt and notched two wins Friday to advance to the finals of the Hardin-Simmons Invitational Tournament.

Pruitt scored 25 points, and Katrina Thompson added 10 as the Lady Steers crushed McCauley 59-20 in the afternoon game. The powerful Big Spring girls team led 32-11 at the half.

In the nightcap, Pruitt and Paige Clawson both scored 23 to pace the Lady Steers over Brownwood by a 65-40 tally.

The Lady Steers improved their record to 7-1. They play either Coleman or Sweetwater in tonight's championship game at 6:30.

Owls win

SAN ANGELO — The Reagan County Owls advanced to the semifinals of the Class AA state football playoffs by taking a 17-14 win over the Goldthwaite Eagles Friday night.

The win ended Goldthwaite's search for a second consecutive state championship. Last year the Eagles won the Class A state crown.

Goldthwaite ends the season with a 13-1 record while Reagan County advances with a 13-0-1 record.

Steers stomp Snyder

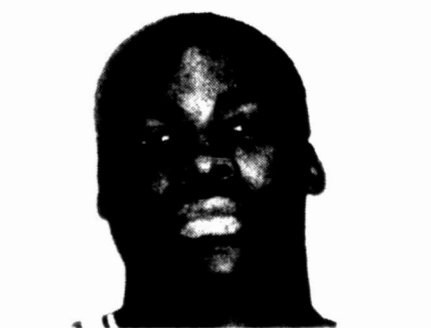

LEVELLAND — The Big Spring Steers hoopsters spotted the Snyder Tigers a 15-9 first quarter lead, then ambushed the Tigers by outscoring them 55-19 in the next two quarters on the way to a 83-54 win in semifinal action at the Levelland Invitational Basketball Tournament.

The Steers improved to 5-3 and advanced to the championship round of the tourney. They'll play the winner Sweetwater-Levelland game ifinal tonight at 8 p.m. in Levelland.

Nine Steers notched steals and eight scored as the defense overwhelmed the Tigers. Charles Young led all scorers with 33 points for his highest production of the year. Brian Mayfield added 17 for the Steers' cause.

"We played an outstanding game — we beat a very good Snyder team. We started the game cold and nervous but in the second quarter we really got the press working and outscored them 30-15. Our big quarter was the third. I've been preaching to the kids about putting 'em away and they put 'em away in the third quarter," said Head Coach Boyce Paxton about his team's 25-4 third quarter domination.

"Our press really worked. My kids hustled and played hard and I'm really proud of them. I got to give the whole team credit. The starters did a real good job and the second line came in a did a great job.

CHARLES YOUNG

"We need some fans from Big Spring to help us out," Paxton added.

Paxton said the game was probably the Steers best shooting performance of the year. They made 36 of 67 from the field for 53 percent, and garnered 16 more field goals to the Tigers.

However, Paxton said he was "still disgusted" with the Steers free throw shooting. Big Spring made just 11 of 23 from the charity stripe. In the same breath, Paxton praised the Steers defense and rebounding. The Steers outrebounded the Tigers 29-17.

Tonight's Heisman announcement no mystery

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Vinny Testaverde, whose passing helped the University of Miami to a perfect regular season and a No. 1 ranking, is expected to reach a pinnacle of his own Saturday by winning the 52nd annual Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding college football player.

The outcome has practically been a foregone conclusion since Sept. 27 when Testaverde threw four touchdown passes as Miami defeated then-No. 1 Oklahoma 28-16 and replaced the Sooners at the top of The Associated Press poll.

"It's a great feeling to go back, especially to go to the announcement of the biggest award in college football," said Testaverde, who lives in the Long Island community of Elmont, just across the New York City line from the borough of Queens. "And because I haven't been back home in a while, I can't wait to see how everybody back home is going to react — if I win it, that is."

"It would mean a great deal to me if I win it. It's been a dream of mine. Not only do I have dreams, but I go after them."

Testaverde flew to New York on Friday with Gary Stevens, Miami's offensive coordinator. Head Coach Jimmy Johnson was expected to arrive on Saturday. The Testaverde family has scheduled a big party on Sunday.

The announcement of the 1986 Heisman winner will be made at the conclusion of a half-hour CBS-

TV show Saturday following the Army-Navy game, which should end around 5:30 p.m., EST.

The Downtown Athletic Club, which sponsors the Heisman Trophy, also invited Oklahoma linebacker Brian Bosworth; Temple tailback Paul Palmer, the nation's leading rusher; Holy Cross tailback-defensive back Gordie Lockbaum, a rare two-way performer; Michigan quarterback Jim Harbaugh and Penn State tailback D.J. Dozier.

Harbaugh will be unable to attend because Michigan has a game in Hawaii while Dozier declined the invitation, citing a heavy work load at Penn State.

Others expected to attract some voting support include Notre Dame wide receiver-halfback-kick returner Tim Brown, Ohio State wide receiver Cris Carter, Auburn tailback Brent Fullwood, linebacker Cornelius Bennett and tailback Bobby Humphrey of Alabama, Penn State linebacker Shane Conlan, Texas A&M quarterback Kevin Murray and Brigham Young defensive tackle Jason Buck.

Testaverde, who missed Miami's final regular-season game with bruises suffered when he fell off his motor scooter, was the nation's most efficient passer under the NCAA formula. He completed 175 of 276 passes — 63.4 percent — for 2,557 yards and a nation-leading 26 touchdowns.

By throwing for 308 yards against Tulsa on Nov. 15, Testaverde eclipsed Bernie Kosar as Miami's all-time leading passer with 6,058 yards, all but 266 in his two seasons as a starter. The 26 touchdown passes, and 48 for his career, are school records.

Testaverde, Michigan State tailback Lorenzo White and Bosworth were the Heisman favorites entering the season. But White was hampered by injuries and Testaverde won the headlines — and probably the Heisman — in the Miami-Oklahoma duel while Bosworth, who had a better shot than any defensive player in years, was relegated to also-ran status and had to settle for making the All-America team for the second consecutive year.

"If that's the way it ends up (a second-place finish), then I'll be very satisfied," Bosworth said. "Vinny won that football game, and I think he also won the trophy that day. He's also played consistently all year, which has really helped him. He's got very minimal interceptions (nine) and 26 TDs. I didn't ever think I had a legitimate shot at the Heisman."

No defensive player has ever won the Heisman. It has always gone to a quarterback or running back with the exception of two-way ends Larry Kelley of Yale in 1936 and Leon Hart of Notre Dame in 1949 and Nebraska flanker Johnny Rodgers, who often was a ball-carrier, in 1972.

Parish leads Bird-less Celts by 76ers

BOSTON (AP) — Robert Parish scored 32 points, Dennis Johnson 27 and Kevin McHale 22 Friday night as the Boston Celtics edged the Philadelphia 76ers 108-106 for their 47th consecutive Boston Garden victory.

With superstar Larry Bird watching from the bench with a strained right Achilles tendon, the Celtics outdueled Philadelphia down the stretch to take undisputed possession of the NBA's Atlantic Division lead from the 76ers.

With four minutes left, McHale broke the fourth tie of the fourth quarter, 96-96, with a turnaround jumper and followed with a running right-hander.

That put Boston ahead 100-96, and the Celtics held on although the 76ers closed the gap to 104-103 on a three-point shot by Julius Erving with just under two minutes remaining.

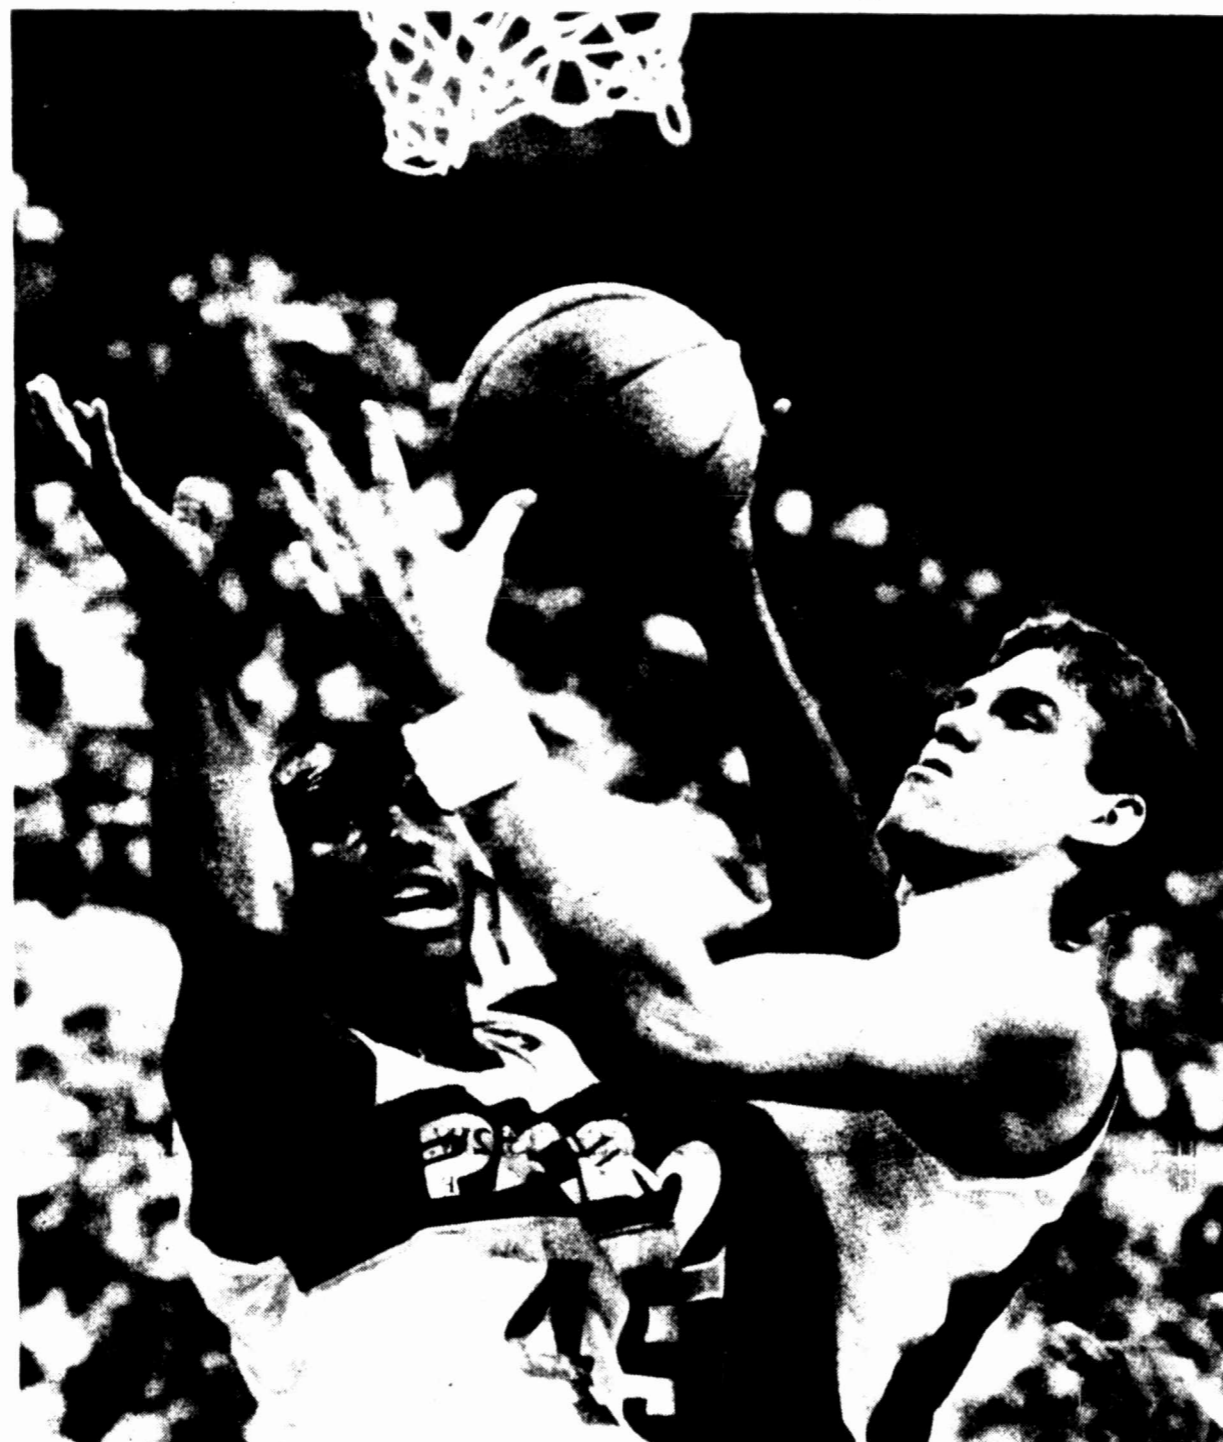

However, Parish tipped in a rebound with one minute left and, after a dunk by the 76ers' Charles Barkley, Boston put the game out of reach on a pair of free throws by Johnson.

With three seconds left, Maurice Cheeks, fouled intentionally, made the first free throw, then tried to bounce the ball off the glass to a teammate. However, Parish grabbed the rebound as time ran out.

The game was close throughout. The two old rivals were tied 30-30 after one period and Boston edged in front 58-56 at halftime.

Scott Wedman replaced Bird in the starting lineup, but gave way to Fred Roberts after failing to score in seven minutes. Roberts finished with 13 points.

Barkley led the 76ers with 23 points and Erving had 18.

Bucks 91, Bullets 87
 LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Craig Hodges converted a three-point play with 1:05 remaining to give Milwaukee the lead and Rickey Pierce added three foul shots in the final 21 seconds as the Bucks defeated the Washington Bullets 91-87 in an NBA game Friday night.

The score was tied 85-85 when Dudley Bradley stole the ball near mid-court to set up a field goal by Hodges on an assist from Terry Cummings. Fouled on the play by Terry Catledge, Hodges added the free throw.

The Bullets, who lost for only their second time in nine home games, pulled within 88-87 on two free throws by Jeff Malone before Pierce converted three of four attempts from the foul line.

Pierce scored 19 points to lead Milwaukee, which is unbeaten in eight games at home but 5-7 on the road. Cummings and Randy Breuer had 18 points each, and it was a season-high for Breuer.

Jeff Malone scored 25 points for the Bullets and Moses Malone added 21 as Washington's outside-inside combination again contributed the bulk of the scoring.

Both teams were far off on their shooting from the floor. The Bucks hit a shade under 35 percent and the Bullets a little more than 30 percent.

Pacers 119, Hawks 113
 INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — John Long scored 14 of his 24 points in the fourth quarter as the Indiana Pacers defeated the Atlanta Hawks 119-113 in an NBA game that was disrupted twice by unruly fans Friday night.

With the game tied at 105-105 with 4:20 to play, Indiana scored five consecutive points, including three by rookie Walker Russell, for a five-point lead with 2:42 remaining.

The Hawks then began an 8-4 spurt, led by Glenn Rivers with six points, to get within 114-113 with 41 seconds to play.

Indiana's Wayman Tisdale scored on an offensive rebound with 23 seconds remaining to make it 116-113. The Pacers then put the game out of reach on three free throws by Clint Richardson.

Atlanta, which came into the game with the best record in the NBA, was led by Rivers with a game-high 25 points. Mike McGee added 24, followed by Dominique Wilkins with 23 and Kevin Willis with 20.

Steve Stipanovich added 23 for the Pacers, with 13 of those in the first period. Herb Williams and Tisdale had 17 apiece.

The game was disrupted in the third period when rookie Chuck Person was called for a technical foul after a shoving match with Tree Rollins, and Pacers Coach Jack Ramsay was also given a technical. As fans booed and threw ice and debris on the floor, the public announcer had to warn them several times that they could be ejected from the arena.

Play came to a standstill again when Person picked up a charging foul with 6:57 to play in the third, and more ice came onto the floor.

Suns 114, Bulls 112
 PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Walter Davis scored nine of his 31 points in the fourth quarter, including a jumper with seven seconds remaining, to give the Phoenix Suns a 114-112 NBA victory over the Chicago Bulls on Friday night.

Michael Jordan, the NBA's leading scorer with a 38.1-point average, scored 43 for Chicago, the fifth straight game he has scored at least 40 points. The loss was Chicago's 14th in a row at the Arizona Veterans Memorial Coliseum, dating back to March 1977.

The Bulls, down 112-108 with 1:34 to play, rallied to tie the game at 112-112 on Jordan's jumper with 1:20 left and Charles Oakley's tap-in of a miss by Jordan with 27 seconds remaining.

After Davis sank his decisive baseline jumper, Jordan's jumper was blocked out of bounds by Suns forward Larry Nance with one second left.

Chicago inbounded the ball again to Jordan, whose desperation jumper from 20 feet out bounced off the rim at the buzzer.

Nance had 20 points and a game-high 14 rebounds for Phoenix while Jay Humphries had 16 points and 12 assists.

Chicago, which lost for the fifth time in its last six games, got 15 points apiece from Oakley and Earl Cureton.

Davis' 10 first-period points put the Suns up 34-25. Phoenix led 60-58 at halftime on Ed Pinckney's stuff with 29 seconds left.

Nance and Davis both had eight points in the third quarter to offset Jordan's 14 and leave Phoenix with an 89-86 lead heading into a fourth quarter that was tied four times until Davis' game-winning shot.

Thomas beats up on 'The Beast'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Duane Thomas, a 4¹/₂-1 underdog, stopped John "The Beast" Mugabi with a barrage of punches in the third round and won the vacant World Boxing Council super welterweight title Friday night at Caesars Palace.

Mugabi had hurt Thomas with an overhand right to the head in the second round and had landed a hard left hook to Thomas' head early in the third.

Suddenly, Thomas crashed a left hook to the body and one to the head and Mugabi almost went down. The Ugandan righted himself and was driven into the ropes by Thomas.

Mugabi turned and faced the crowd, grabbing the ropes, as Thomas continued to hit him from behind.

Referee Carlos Padilla then wrapped his arms around Mugabi and stopped the scheduled 12-round fight at 56 seconds of the third round.

It was the second upset of the night.

In an earlier fight, Greg Haugen, a 4-1 underdog, scored a 15-round majority decision over Jimmy Paul, Thomas' stablemate from the Kronk gym in Detroit, and won the International Boxing Federation lightweight title.

"I thought it was awful close," Haugen said.

"Anytime it's that close it usually goes in the champion's favor."

A vast majority of the writers at ringside felt Paul deserved the decision.

It was Mugabi's second defeat in a bid for a championship this year. Last March 10, he challenged Marvelous Marvin Hagler for the undisputed middleweight title here and was knocked out in the 11th round.

The super welterweight title became vacant when Thomas Hearn, another Kronk fighter, relinquished it. Hearn will challenge Dennis Andries of Great Britain for the WBC light heavyweight title in February.

Hearn was at ringside, as was Sugar Ray Leonard, who will challenge Hagler here on April 6. The loss was Mugabi's second straight by knockout after he won his first 26 pro fights by knockout.

Mugabi, 153¹/₂, which is a half-pound under the class limit, came out winging in the first round, but missed with several big swings. Thomas, 152¹/₄, didn't do much, but he did land a couple of jabs and one right hand.

Looking for a new job? Try being a SWC coach

DALLAS (AP) — Four of the nine Southwest Conference schools have had or are in the process of coaching changes, creating quite a turmoil.

The latest changes came Friday, when David McWilliams left a vacancy at Texas Tech by switching to Texas and SMU coach Bobby Collins resigned following allegations of more recruiting violations at the school.

"This conference just keeps getting hit in the chin," said Rice Coach Jerry Berndt, who is a newcomer himself, having replaced Watson Brown last season.

No one could remember when there have been so many SWC coaching vacancies in a single season.

Dave Campbell, editor of Texas Football magazine, said the current situation was somewhat reminiscent of 1928, which was the last time a coach moved from one Southwest Conference school to another.

That was when, at the end of the season, Texas A&M hired Matty Bell from TCU. Bell replaced D. X. Bible, who went to Nebraska. TCU then hired Francis A. Schmidt from Arkansas. Bell was fired at A&M after the 1933 season and became coach at SMU in 1935. Bible was hired by the University of Texas in 1937.

One result of the recent turmoil in the SWC has been increasing speculation that more high school athletes than usual would attend schools in other parts of the country.

Baylor coach Grant Teaff said that one of the problems the conference has been facing is negative recruiting by schools outside the conference.

But Teaff said he was encouraged by recent indications that not as many high school athletes are planning to leave the conference.

Teaff is a Tech alumnus who has often been mentioned as a possible Tech coach. He laughed when he was asked if he is interested now. Tech has had six coaches in 12 years.

Tech officials said they would look at the assistant coaches very hard. He said that Spike Dykes, defensive coordinator, would be interviewed.

Howser hospitalized again

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Kansas City Royals Manager Dick Howser was alert and resting comfortably Friday after undergoing a second operation to have a malignant brain tumor removed. "There was some growth of the tumor and we were able to remove quite a bit," said Dr. Skip Jacques, who performed the surgery. Howser was expected to be hospitalized for four or five days before returning to Kansas City, said team spokesman Dean Vogelhaar. Howser was diagnosed as having the brain tumor in July. A portion of the tumor was removed in an operation July 22, and he had five weeks of radiation therapy. The Royals said in a statement that the experimental operation, called immunostimulation, was considered from the beginning, and should not be taken as a sign that Howser's condition had worsened.

Ole Miss punished by NCAA

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — The University of Mississippi football program was hit Friday with a one-year suspension from postseason play and television and a pair of Rebel players were declared ineligible by the NCAA. In addition, the university was ordered to cut its scholarships by 10 athletes during the period. Ole Miss will be allowed to offer only 20 rather than the usual 30. Suspended were standout wide receiver J.R. Ambrose and reserve running back Johnny Boatman. If the suspensions stand, they would be ineligible to play in the Rebels Dec. 20 Independence Bowl game against Texas Tech. Turner said the suspensions of the players would be appealed. The NCAA actually had imposed a two-year penalty but suspended one year, saying the school did not have a history of violations and had cooperated in uncovering the infractions. The investigation reportedly involved some 40 allegations involving the program.

Skunked in first, Becker blasts back

NEW YORK (AP) — Shocked by Henri Leconte's fast start, West Germany's Boris Becker boomed back to defeat his French foe 6-6, 6-1, 6-1 Friday night and advance into the semifinals of the $500,000 Masters tennis tournament. Becker's victory also assured a semifinal berth for Sweden's Mats Wilander, who like Becker has a 2-0 record.

Also moving into Sunday's semifinals was top-seeded Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, who swept by Sweden's Stefan Edberg 6-3, 6-4 for his second victory against no defeats. The final match Friday pitted Ecuador's Andres Gomez against Yannick Noah of France.

The title match of this season-ending tournament will be held Monday night, with the champion earning $100,000. Each of the eight players received $10,000 for qualifying for the event, with $20,000 going to the winner of each round-robin match. The winning semifinalists will receive $40,000 each.

The Lendl-Edberg match had a strange ending. Although Lendl had two service breaks in wrapping up the first set, the second set was battled on even terms until the 10th and final game. Then, with Edberg leading 30-15 on his own serve, Lendl pulled even when Edberg hit a forehand volley long. The Swede then committed his first double-fault of the night, putting Lendl one point away from victory.

Edberg double-faulted again to close out the 75-minute match played on the Supreme Court at Madison Square Garden. "That's not the way you'd like to end the match," Edberg said. "On the first one I didn't concentrate, and on the second I was just a little too long."

Leconte was perfection in the first 22 minutes of his match against Becker. That's how long it took for the French left-hander to zap through the first six games, hitting winners from all over the court.

He also was aided by the fact Becker couldn't find the court with his volleys. Nine times the second-seeded teen-ager came to the net. Eight times he misfired, including one easy overhead that he buried in to the bottom of the net. Leconte was so dominant that Becker was able to win just four points on his own serve in the opening set.

"On every important point, he hit a winner or a net cord or an ace," Becker said of Leconte's torrid start. "It was very difficult to get into the match. I didn't even sweat." It was a different story after that.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, DEC. 7, 1986
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A fine day for coming to a greater awareness of what can be done to improve your happiness and success. Get your surroundings in good condition today.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Get into research work and studies that can help you to improve your important affairs.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) You can get in touch with many persons who can give you backing for some project that means a great deal.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Do whatever will gain you much prestige with the public. Try not to upset any influential people.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul 21) Get your home in fine condition. Take good care of your health today, also.

LEO (Jul 22 to Aug 21) A good day to get together with friends at whatever hobby or pleasure you like, and be cheerful.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) You can be happiest in your home during the daytime, but take care you do not have guests in tonight.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) A good day to gad about for information you need. After a busy day, get to bed early and get that needed rest.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Study your property and plan how to improve it. Try to economize this evening and stay home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Pursue your personal goals with courage and conviction. The evening is good for peace and quiet.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Get into studies or see experts who can give you the data you need in order to get ahead faster.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) You can be your gregarious self and can enjoy the company of many friends today.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Get your talents to the attention of bigwigs who can be of great help to you. Devote into your civic work.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY......he or she will find it quite easy to learn at academic studies and should have foreign languages added to the curriculum, since much travel is possible during this lifetime. Teach your child not to put on airs with others, otherwise he, or she, will make enemies, not friends.

 "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, DEC. 8, 1986
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Some surprising changes and new arrangements that come up can throw you off course, but soon you find these unexpected incidents work in your favor.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Place your energy in the right direction and get much done instead of going off on some crazy tangent.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Take care that you don't argue with a good friend. Don't make any changes where personal wishes are concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you are belligerent with influential people, you can easily lose their support. Self control is crucial now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul 21) Make sure you maintain a steady course of action. Plan how to expand later.

LEO (Jul 22 to Aug 21) The evening can be very romantic provided you are tactful and poised. Be more understanding of the opposite sex.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Forget home troubles that have you upset and get into the outside interests that can bring you success.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) You have good ideas where your work is concerned, so go ahead with it and don't go looking for new interests.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) You want to get a great deal for pleasure but it is better to be satisfied with something less extravagant.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Get busy and rectify any poor home conditions. The evening is best for having guests into your home.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Be very careful in motion. Any visits that are important should be relegated to the afternoon.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Plan time to analyze your monetary position. Strive for greater security. Don't overspend on anything.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) You feel you are tested beyond endurance, but cheer up since all will change for the better soon.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY......he or she will be restless and get into unusual and dramatic activities, so take in hand and control the urges of this one. Make sure to plan a fine education that will mean a great deal to your fine youngster. Teach to rely on the self more and not to expect too much from others.

 "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
