How's that? Holidays

Q. What days will city hall be closed for the holidays?
A. City Hall will be closed Dec. 25-26 for Christmas and Jan. 1-2 for New Years, according to City Manager Mack Wofford.

Calendar Literacy

TUESDAY
• CANTRead literacy council will meet at 7 p.m. at the Howard County Library. Persons are asked to enter through the rear parking lot doors.
• A Christmas concert will be presented by the Big Spring school bands in the high school auditorium at 7 p.m. and is open to the public. A brief band booster meeting is scheduled after the concert.

WEDNESDAY
• Anyone interested in helping to bring a replica of the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial to Big Spring should attend a 7 p.m. meeting at the Chamber of Commerce.
• Judging for the Chamber of Commerce Christmas lighting contest has been postponed from Monday to Wednesday, 7-10 p.m. Residential and commercial entries within the city limits will be accepted at the Chamber through Wednesday.

THURSDAY
• Big Spring High School and Runnels Middle School will perform a Christmas Choir concert in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. In addition to their Christmas repertoire, Meistersingers will perform a musical titled "The North Pole Goes Rock and Roll."

FRIDAY
• Urban planner Robert Lima & Associates will present Phase II of the Downtown Masterplan at 2:30 p.m. in the Chamber Conference Room. The public is invited to come view the new physical recommendations for downtown.
• Texas Public Employees Association will present a Christmas Dance from 8 p.m. to midnight at the Eagles Lodge. Admission is $3 for single and $5 per couple. Please bring can goods to place in boxes for the needy.

Tops on TV Mickey
Mickey Mouse appears as Bob Cratchit in "Mickey's Christmas Carol," an animated special at 7 p.m. on Channel 13.
• "A Dream for Christmas," 7:05 p.m., Ch. 11.
• NFL football: Chicago Bears vs. Detroit Lions, 8 p.m., Ch. 2.

Outside Sunny
Skies today are sunny with southwest winds at 5 to 15 miles per hour and a high in the lower 60s. Tonight will be partly cloudy with a low in the upper 30s. Tuesday, look for morning fog turning partly cloudy by afternoon, and a high in the lower 60s.

New police chief may be named soon
City Manager Mack Wofford said he hopes to be able to announce the name of Big Spring's new police chief this week.
He and Personnel Director Emma Bogard have been interviewing the five candidates, including one from Big Spring.
Former police chief Rick Turner resigned eight months ago under pressure from the City Council, as did former city manager Don Davis.

State pay wait stirs food aid requests

From staff and wire reports
State welfare agency officials say their caseworkers are being swamped with state employees applying for food stamps this month because their paychecks, due in late December, have been bumped back to early January.

More than 2,000 state employees have applied for food stamps in December, joining other food-stamp seekers from among the 725,000 unemployed Texans.

In Howard County, 896 state employees will be affected by the change, Joe Wallis, general manager of the local Texas Employment Commission office, has said.

He said checks will be delayed only one day, and it's "no big deal."

A letter from State Treasurer Ann Richards stated that House Bill 62 changed the payday of state officers and employees from the last working day of the monthly payroll to the first day of the following month.

The letter also says the state won't honor any state checks before the date printed on them.

In Big Spring, state-paid workers are employed at the Big Spring State Hospital, the SouthWest College Institute for the Deaf, the highway department, the Department of Human Services, the Department of Public Safety, environmental control, agriculture, public health, finances and taxation offices, Wallis said.

Some of the 2,000 state employees seeking food stamps are being certified as eligible for the assistance because of the change that leaves them without a paycheck for 5 1/2 weeks, said Barbara Musil, a state Department of STATE PAY page 2A

Holdup suspect in hospital for drugs overdose

From staff and wire reports
COLORADO CITY — A 35-year-old suspect arrested in a failed robbery attempt Saturday at a Clyde drugstore is the same man wanted in connection with a Dec. 10 robbery of a drug store here.

Colorado City Police Chief Bobby Sparks said an arrest warrant has been issued for Gary Don Parks of Scurry County after a suspect fitting his description robbed Perkin's Apothecary & Mercantile of drugs syringes and cash.
Parks is listed in serious condition at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene, Clyde Police Officer Ken Wheeler said this morning.

He is being treated for a drugs overdose after being apprehended Saturday by members of the Abilene Police Department's tactical unit.

Parks is charged with aggravated robbery and aggravated kidnapping, Wheeler said.

An arraignment is planned in either a Callahan County justice of the peace office or an Abilene district court, Wheeler said.

After a person matching Parks' description robbed Howle's Discount Pharmacy in Clyde Saturday morning, he fled with drugs, said Callahan Chief Deputy Mack West.

After he arrived at the scene, Wheeler said he requested a dispatch be radioed to all local enforcement units.

After the robber was spotted driving into Abilene, officers pursued him back to Clyde, where he returned to the drug store, Wheeler said.

As Parks approached Clyde, he ran a roadblock, but Wheeler said he managed to fire his shotgun at the vehicle and flattened the front left tire.

When Parks reached the pharmacy, he jumped from the running truck and ran inside. The truck crashed into the pharmacy, Wheeler said.

During the standoff, store owner Larry Howle initially was held hostage by the suspect. He eventually was released uninjured after his son, Jerry, "traded himself for his dad," Wheeler said.

During the two-hour standoff, Parks consumed drugs orally and injected himself six times, Wheeler reported.

The standoff ended when Jerry Howle detected Parks' handgun was a plastic pistol and walked out rear entrance, Wheeler said.

The suspect surrendered five minutes later, Wheeler said.

"We were told he took over 150 different pills during the standoff," Wheeler said.

"We feel he wasn't looking to get out of it alive. He was just desperate," the police officer added.

Wheeler reported that Callahan County authorities rushed him to the hospital, Wheeler said.

During Wednesday's Colorado City robbery, the suspect fled with 150 Dialaudid pills, 10 syringes and $30 in cash after handing druggist Rick Perkin a note demanding the items.

The suspect was considered armed and dangerous because he carried what was believed to be a pistol tucked in the waistband of his trousers, Chief Sparks said.

Parks also is wanted in Scurry County for revocation of probation, Sparks said.

Regan is willing to testify in Congress

On secret arms sale to Iran

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's chief of staff, Donald T. Regan, is willing to testify before Congress in open hearings on what he knew about the secret sale of arms to Iran and the diversion of profits to Contra rebels in Nicaragua, the White House said today.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes also gave new emphasis to the administration's recommendation that former White House aides tell Congress what they knew. Several officials, including former national security adviser John Poindexter and his fired aide, Oliver North, have refused to answer any questions, invoking the Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination.

"We do reiterate, underscore and publicly proclaim that we would like for them to testify; we would like for them to work out a means to testify; we would like for them to tell the entire story; we would like for them to tell it in open session, and we would like for them to do it as quickly as possible," Speakes said.

Regan has said he supported the sale of arms to Iran but did not know profits were being diverted to the Contras. It had been uncertain whether Regan would be willing to testify before Congress or whether the White House would invoke executive privilege and refuse to let him appear.

"Don Regan is willing to testify if the committee thinks he can add anything to their investigation," Speakes said.

"He'd be glad to do so; he'd be glad to do so in open session," Speakes said.

Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, said his committee expects to call Regan and Attorney General Edwin Meese III to testify at closed-door hearings this week.

Senate Republican leader Bob Dole of Kansas quoted Regan as saying to him Saturday evening: "I'll tell you one thing. I'm not leaving the White House."

Some lawmakers in both parties have suggested Regan step down or be dismissed, but Dole said he believes the chief of staff "has done a pretty good job."

As for whether the president, himself, would be willing to testify, Speakes said he did not anticipate a request from any committee for Regan's testimony. "Generally they don't do that," Speakes said.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., speaking on the "CBS Morning News" today, said the president would be welcome to testify before a congressional committee.

In another development, Vice President George Bush was calling his top national security aide to account for all contacts with a former CIA employee who has been described as a coordinator of supply flights for Nicaraguan rebels.

The aide, Donald P. Gregg, disclosed over the weekend that he had arranged a meeting in August between Felix Rodriguez, a former associate of his at the CIA, and U.S. officials after Rodriguez expressed concern that supplies to the Contra rebels were moving too slowly.

After a supply plane was shot down over Nicaragua Oct. 5, sources close to the aid network said Gregg had placed Rodriguez at the airfield where the supply flights were based. At the time, Gregg acknowledged knowing Rodriguez, but said he did not know about Rodriguez' involvement in the supply flights.

Texas ranks low in prisoner space

Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Texas inmates in mid-1984 had less living space than prisoners in any states except Hawaii and Kansas, according to the latest available statistics released by the Justice Department Sunday.

A study by the Bureau of Justice Statistics showed that the total amount of inmate living space in state prisons nationally grew by 29 percent between 1979 and 1984.

But because the number of prisoners increased by 45 percent during the same period, the net result is an 11 percent decline in the average space per inmate, the study said.

On average, as of June 30, 1984, an inmate in one of the nation's 694 state prisons occupied 57 square feet of housing and spent about 11 hours per day confined in a cell.

Texas prisoners at that time averaged living space of 39.8 square feet. Prisoners in Hawaii had the least room with 37.8 square feet and prisoners in Kansas had 38.9 square feet.

The highest amount of living space was in the District of Columbia, where prisoners had an average of 90.1 square feet in five prison facilities.

In 1984, only California had a higher prison population than Texas. Texas had 31,274 inmates and California had 32,607.

Texas also ranked fifth in the percentage of prisoners that have "multiple occupancy" cells. The report showed that 90.5 percent of Texas prisoners were in a cell with one or more inmates. The states of Mississippi, Hawaii, Idaho and Tennessee had higher multiple occupancy rates, with 99 percent of the prisoners having such cells in Mississippi.

Recently constructed prisons, smaller prisons with fewer than 500 inmates and minimum security prisons had the highest amount of space, according to the study.

'Adopt' response nearly too successful

Staff and Wire Reports
ATLANTA — Texas' "adopt a highway" program has been almost too successful in Northeast Texas, officials say.
The program might be out of business soon except for the fact that Northeast Texas has so many highways.

The state program, which allows area civic groups to "adopt" a specific section of roadway and help keep the road litter-free, has signed up six times more civic groups this year than in 1985.

Among those groups is the Big Spring Kiwanis Club. The organization in November "adopted" a section of Highway 87 from Hearn Street to the Garden City cutoff.

As program participants, members of the Big Spring civic organization agree to clean the highway at least twice a year.

The number of state organizations involved is still growing, according to Orville Ball, vegetation manager of Atlanta's District 19 office of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Ball said only 12 organizations had signed up in December of 1985, three months after the program began. But the idea has mushroomed, and 76 organizations now participate in the program throughout the region.

About 20 more organizations are in the process of entering the program, Ball said, and new inquiries come in continually.

He said he believes the adoption program will continue to gain momentum in 1987 because "I don't think interest has peaked... yet."

Any organization interested in participating in the West Texas area should contact Melvin Dorn, maintenance supervisor at the Big Spring highway department office.

He said Harrison County organizations have signed up for more adoptions than any other county — about 19 — and Bowie County groups are running close behind with about 14 adoptions.

"The acceptance by the general public has been extremely impressive," Ball said. "It's worked out real well. A lot of different organizations are just getting more civ-minded," he said.

Arson suspected in pair of Saturday blazes

Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles is investigating three other fires in which arson is suspected, Dorton said. He said it isn't known if a person or group of people set the fires.

In other blazes, transients were thought to have started fires to keep warm, he said. That possibility also has been eliminated from Saturday's fire, he added.

The house had been broken into, fire department reports stated, adding that there were probably two separate fires there.

The bathroom and hall were damaged, with smoke throughout the house. Damages were listed at $4,000.

Fire Chief Dorton said exposure to the trailer fire has been eliminated as a cause of the house fire.

When fire fighters arrived, flames were emerging from the front and rear doors and windows, and the trailer was fully engulfed, the reports stated.

Damage was listed at $15,000. After about 10 minutes, fire fighters discovered the house next door, 1201 Wright St., also was ablaze. The vacant house is owned by First Federal Savings.

Manslaughter trial delayed

An involuntary manslaughter trial scheduled for jury selection in 118th District Court today was postponed to a later date, District Attorney Rick Hamby said this morning.

David Ray Waymon, 22, 704 E. Third St., is charged with involuntary manslaughter in the death of Joe Harold Roundtree, 27, who resided at Sterling City Route Box T27B.

Wayne Basden, who is defending Waymon is ill. Hamby said he and Basden agreed to postpone the trial to a later date.

The case will be set in January or February, Hamby said.

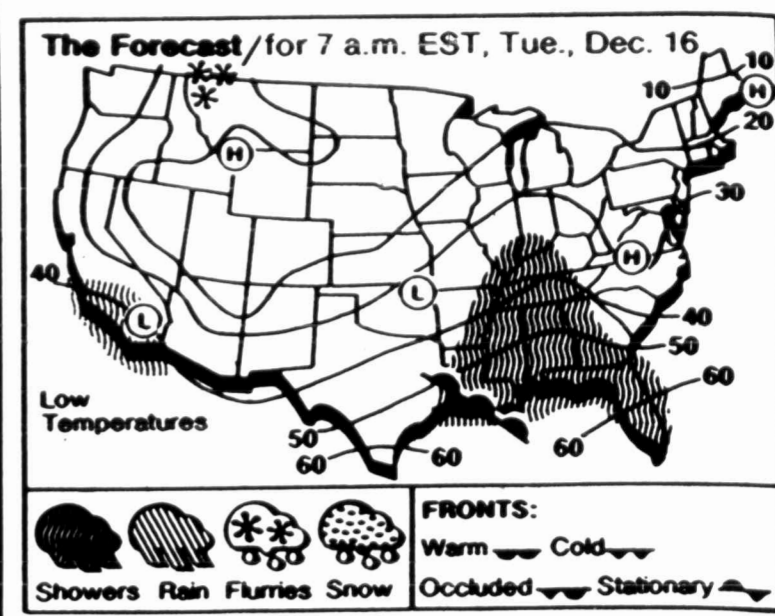

Roundtree died on March 8 after a motorcycle he was driving was struck from behind by a pickup driven by Waymon.

The accident occurred at a red light in the 300 block of W. Fourth Street.

In addition to the fatality, three other motorcycle riders were severely injured as a result of the accident.

Those persons were George Michael Kennedy, Sterling City Route Box 22; Stephanie Poiney Rodriguez of Lubbock and Gary Richard Barth, 2521 Fairchild Dr.

Weather

West Texas: Late night and morning cloudiness and fog in the south, otherwise fair tonight and partly cloudy Tuesday. Lows tonight expected in the mid 20s in the Panhandle, to lower 40s in the southeast and Big Bend valleys. Highs Tuesday in the lower 50s in the Panhandle to mid 60s in the far west. However, temperatures could reach the upper 60s along the Rio Grande in the Big Bend.

Forecast
A high-pressure ridge in the Southeast pumped moisture from the Gulf of Mexico, prompting light rain and drizzle today across much of the eastern half of Texas.
The National Weather Service issued a travelers' advisory for the South Plains this morning as patches of dense fog lowered visibilities to near zero in some areas. Fog shrouded parts of North Central and Southwest Texas.
A chance of rain was forecast in East and South Texas today, becoming mostly sunny in North Central Texas and partly sunny in southern parts of West Texas by the afternoon.

Furr's purchase rumors dispelled

Rumors that Furr's Supermarkets intend to purchase at least one Big Spring Safeway store are not true, according to Safeway representative Mindy Clawson, of the company's Dallas headquarters.

"None of our stores have been sold to our competitors" and no deals are in the works, she said.

Furr's officials, whose headquarters are in Lubbock, were unavailable for comment this morning.

CRMWD officials expecting profit

Officials at the Colorado River Municipal Water District are predicting the district will show a profit in 1986. Through November, the district finished with 1.10 percent below revenue projections, but 17.63 percent below expense estimates.

Through November, revenue totaled $11,958,701 and operational expenses were $5,717,392. This left $5,328,884 for debt service and special funds.

Much of the decreased expense was because of lesser power costs which was 23.29 percent less than estimated, CRMWD reported in a release.

Water sale revenues of $11,893,759 were based on the sale of 16,873,369,720 gallons of water, of which 14,980,000 gallons went to municipalities and 2,093,367,020 to oil companies.

Of the total production 1,836,219,680 gallons came from wells, and 13,244,807,560 from lakes. The remaining 10.34 percent or 1,739,169,880 gallons of water were diverted from the Colorado River and tributaries as a quality control and sold to oil companies.

Sheriff's log

VCR, tapes, and guns taken

Willie McEndree, Route One Box 542, told Howard County sheriff's deputies Sunday night someone burglarized his residence between 6 p.m. Friday and 11 p.m. Sunday.

He reported missing: a videocassette recorder, tape holder, and tapes worth $650; $15 in collector's coins; $1,100 in guns; and $80 in jewelry.

Deaths

Martha Knoles

LUBBOCK (AP) — Martha Knoles, who was born in Georgia the same year that Rutherford B. Hayes was elected president and Gen. George A. Custer died facing Sioux Indians at the Battle of Little Big Horn has died.

Mrs. Knoles, 110, died Sunday morning in St. Mary's Hospital after a short illness.

Born July 2, 1876, on a small Georgia farm, she moved with her parents to Erath County in Texas when she was 2. Later she moved near Eastland and Desdemona, and later to Idalou, east of Lubbock.

As an early pioneer woman of the South Plains, Mrs. Knoles helped her husband in the fields and plowed with a team of horses.

On her 105th birthday, Mrs. Knoles said that, if she could attribute anything to her longevity, it would be her background of keeping very active and working outdoors much of the time.

She was a member of the Lubbock Primitive Baptist Church. Services were scheduled for 2 p.m. today in W.W. Rix Chapel with Elder Glen Williams of Muleshoe and Elder John T. Graham of Lubbock officiating.

Electronics recovered in burglary arrest

Police recovered a radio-cassette player, a citizen's band radio, two speakers and a tape cleaner when they arrested a Big Spring man on a warrant for burglary.

Joe Bernardo Lopez, 18, 1407 Wood St., was arrested at 2600 S. Gregg St. Saturday afternoon. In addition to the burglary warrant, he was arrested on a warrant for assault, for carrying a prohibited weapon, unlawfully carrying a weapon, and on suspicion of tampering with identification numbers on the recovered items, police Lt. Jerry Edwards said.

He was transferred to the county jail and released on a total of $17,500 bond.

Thieves stole $1,000 in jewelry, $150 in electronic equipment, $30 in consumable goods and $370 miscellaneous items, and damaged two windows at the residence of Herbert Rubio, 113 N.E. 10th St., Sunday night.

A mink coat and hat, two gold and diamond bracelets and a gold and diamond necklace were stolen from Louise Cunningham, 1902 Donley St., between Saturday and Sunday nights.

$10,000 in tools and two tool boxes, valued at $300, were stolen from Ronald Baker, 2606 Dow Drive, Saturday afternoon.

A stereo-cassette player with an equalizer, two sets of speakers and a black and white television were stolen from William Moren III, 1405 Wood St., Saturday night.

A white Toyota Celica, valued at $3,000, was stolen from Richard Harmon of Denver City Thursday night. The car was taken from the Big Spring State Hospital by someone Harmon knows, he told police Saturday.

A $120 boy's bicycle was stolen from Katherine Senter, 1802 Johnson St., Friday night.

Two tires, valued at $60, were damaged on a vehicle owned by Roger Sweatt, P.O. Box 1390, while the car was at 4213 Parkway Road.

Christine Polono, 1108 Austin St., suffered injury to the right side of her ribcage early Sunday morning when someone she knows kiced her there and slapped her face during an argument at 1308 Wright St.

Miles Ray Dichl, 1511 Bluebird Ave., suffered a lacerated right side of the forehead early Sunday morning when an acquaintance struck him with a hard object.

David Frank Timmons, 24, 1403 Opal Lane, was arrested at 1700 S. Gregg St. Sunday afternoon on suspicion of delivery of a controlled substance. He was transferred to the county jail and released on $3,200 bond.

Rosa Linda Lopez, 22, P.O. Box 2865, was arrested at the scene of an accident at 400 S. Douglas St. early this morning on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, failure to maintain financial responsibility, second offense, and on four traffic citations.

Louis Ontiveros Aguirre, 29, of Stanton, was arrested at 200 E. Second St. Saturday for driving with a suspended license and failure to maintain financial responsibility, second offense.

State pay

Human Resources administrator.
With the increase in applicants, however, caseworkers have noted and increase in the number of fraud cases.

"Beginning in October, we were swamped with applications from people because of the bad economy," one food stamp caseworker told the Austin American-Statesman.

"Now we are seeing state workers who are not penniless, hungry or homeless coming in demanding to get benefits. We have found that in some instances these state workers are misrepresenting their situations. Some women are saying they are single when they have husbands or live-in boy friends. Some are saying they have no bank account or new car when they do," the worker said.

"We are finding three to six fraud cases a day, and the number is growing," said the caseworker, who asked that her name not be used.

State Rep. Mike Toomey, R-Houston, author of the bill that changed the state's pay day, said he did not think state workers would take advantage of a loophole in the federal law that outlines food stamp eligibility.

Victims aid need cited

WASHINGTON — Police departments should provide counseling and continued contact for families of officers killed in the line of duty, according to a federally financed report.

Members of police families are sometimes perceived as being more prepared to deal with losses than others, but this is not so, according to the report released Sunday by the National Institute of Justice.

The report cited research showing that two-thirds of nearly 200 police departments that were surveyed lacked formal policies concerning a police officer's death.

NAACP honors shows

LOS ANGELES — "The Cosby Show" won four awards and the movie "The Color Purple" picked up three at the 19th annual NAACP Image Awards, which recognize positive images of blacks in the entertainment industry.

The organization also presented its "Key of Life" award, given annually to a person considered a leader in the human rights movement, to South African activist Winnie Mandela.

That award was accepted Sunday on behalf of Mrs. Mandela by South African singer Miriam Makeba, who said, "We are aware of the efforts that people are making here to help us" in the fight against the South African government's apartheid policy of racial separation.

Report accuses CIA

WASHINGTON — The CIA has secretly given Iraq detailed information to assist Iraqi bombing raids on Iran's oil terminals and power plants in the war between the two countries, according to a published report.

The Washington Post, in Monday's editions, quoted unidentified informed sources as saying the United States has supplied the intelligence, including data from U.S. satellite reconnaissance photography, to Iraq for nearly two years.

During the same period, the Reagan administration was covertly selling arms to Iran in hopes of freeing the American hostages in Lebanon and gaining influence with factions in the Iranian government.

Amtrak sale is hinted

NEW YORK — The most successful portion of Amtrak's passenger system would be sold and federal aid to mass transit would be cut under President Reagan's draft budget for the next fiscal year, The New York Times reported.

The government would sell Amtrak's Northeast Corridor line connecting Washington, New York and Boston under the proposal Reagan plans to submit to Congress next month, the Times said in its Sunday editions.

Voyager

Damage fails to dampen spirits

SOMEWHERE OVER THE PACIFIC (AP) — The experimental Voyager aircraft, its wings shortened at least two feet by a takeoff mishap, soared over the Pacific south of Hawaii today en route around the world on a single tank of fuel.

Voyager lost as much as three feet from its 111-foot wingspan during takeoff Sunday when its fuel-laden wings bent downward and the tips scraped on the runway at Edwards Air Force Base in California, said designer Burt Rutan.

The aircraft probably will lose more of its wings during the 10-day, 27,000-mile odyssey, but Rutan said Sunday he had no concerns about its structure as it headed southwest across the Pacific toward Australia.

"In good spirits," Jeana Yeager, 34, reported Sunday from the cockpit the size of a pup tent. "If it were easy, it would have been done before."

Ms. Yeager and Dick Rutan, 48, were somewhere south of Hawaii today, according to reports from their operation center in California.

On Sunday, the propeller-driven plane, laden with 7,000 pounds of fuel, used all but the last 1,000 feet of a 15,000-foot runway at Edwards before becoming airborne shortly after 8 a.m.

Within minutes, Rutan received an ominous radio message from a chase plane:

"Dick, I want you to not be concerned if you notice that the winglets (are) unusual. ... We have some major scrape damage on the bottom and the recommendation will probably be to continue, but your right winglet has failed."

The winglet, a small vertical fin on the tip of the wing, was fluttering and soon ripped away. The left winglet also was damaged, but remained attached until Rutan listened to his brother Burt's directions and forced the second winglet to fall away by subjecting it to stressful maneuvers.

The mishap did not dampen the designer's jubilation that his 6-year-old project was finally off the ground, and he found a positive aspect by the time he returned to Voyager's operation center at Mojave Airport.

"The damage the airplane incurred makes the airplane stronger for handling turbulence," Rutan said. "The wings are a little shorter now, one to 1½ feet on either side."

Unlike the rest of the plane, the wingtips were filled with Styrofoam. With the protective skin scraped away, the foam would likely deteriorate an additional foot on the left wing and four inches on the right, Burt Rutan said.

The rest of the wing, which contains fuel tanks, is built of a lightweight graphite honeycomb. "We don't think there's any chance it could deteriorate all the way back to the fuel tank area," he said.

Voyager weighs a little more than 1,800 pounds empty. But with more than 1,000 gallons of fuel and food and water stowed aboard, it weighed 9,750 pounds when it headed down the runway Sunday.

Burt Rutan said his brother was concentrating on dealing with the plane's initially poor acceleration and did not pull the nose up soon enough to keep the wingtips from dragging.

Explosion kills three

Firefighters surrounded the site of an early morning explosion today in Oreland, Pa., where officials said two women and a man were killed in the split-level house. A hospital spokeswoman said three others were injured in the blast.

Pakistan riots kill 50

KARACHI, Pakistan — Pathan tribespeople angered by police drug and weapons raids in their neighborhoods rampaged in the streets and attacked other ethnic groups, witnesses said. Hospitals reported 50 dead and at least 182 wounded.

Police used clubs, tear gas and finally gunfire to disperse the rioters Sunday, according to witnesses. It was not clear how many of the casualties resulted from police action and how many from the ethnic fighting.

At least 400 homes were destroyed or damaged by fire and buses and cars were burned, reports said.

Doctors said most of those killed had gunshot wounds. They said some of the injured were in critical condition, and that some had been stabbed.

Soldiers were called in to patrol the affected areas of Karachi, Pakistan's largest city with 5.1 million people. The government imposed a curfew in four city districts — Orangi, Qasba, Nazimabad and Lalukhet.

Bandits get $6 million

PALERMO, Sicily — Five gunmen forced post office employees to open the office safes, grabbed $6.42 million in cash and money orders and fled in a stolen van, police said.

Police said Sunday that three of the robbers were dressed as postal workers and that the van was the same type used by the postal service. They said the gunmen bound and gagged six employees at the post office, located at Palermo's main train station.

Italian television reported earlier that eight bandits took part in the Saturday night robbery, and police said there may have been accomplices outside.

One police official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the robbery was believed the biggest in Sicilian history and was "certainly the work of professionals." He said the Mafia might be involved.

The haul included $5 million in cash and $1.42 million in postal money orders.

Police thwart protest

SEOUL, South Korea — Police said today they thwarted a students' attempt to occupy the U.S. Information Service building in the southern port city of Pusan, and arrested all 13 protesters.

U.S. Embassy officials in Seoul said that 12 men and one woman were involved in the incident.

They said the students hurled gasoline bombs and "smashed doors with steel pipes," but said there was no serious damage to the building. The building houses the U.S. Information Service as well as offices and living quarters of the U.S. consul.

About one hour later, the embassy officials said there was a telephoned bomb threat that put Korean police and U.S. officials on alert but nothing happened.

Texans tell difficulty getting aid to the contras

DALLAS (AP) — The contra aid movement appears to be drying up because of the controversy surrounding the U.S.-Iran arms deal, according to Texans who have been involved in efforts to raise money for the contras.

The Freedom's Friends organization, headed by evangelist William Murray, has gathered 10,000 Christmas presents at an Addison warehouse for contra families, but he said he is having trouble getting them shipped.

The Texans for a Free Nicaragua organization has 30,000 pounds of medical supplies and clothing for the rebels stored in Grand Prairie. One of its leaders, Gary Bennett, said the group doesn't have the money to ship the supplies.

Officials of civilian rebel support groups say they've had difficulty raising contributions and have faced myriad financial woes since reports that as much as $30 million from the U.S.-Iran arms deal was diverted to Nicaraguan contras.

They say the controversy has damaged public confidence in the private organizations and created a climate of paranoia among government officials who once made themselves available to help civilian groups direct humanitarian aid to the rebels.

In the Dallas-Fort Worth region, traditionally a leading outpost for civilian aid to the anti-Sandinista forces, some rebel-assistance groups say contributions have plummeted, stalling shipments of food, clothing and medical supplies. Murray's organization, which has raised more than $250,000 to ship $1 million in items ranging from antibiotics to crutches, reports that donations are down by almost 40 percent this month.

Murray said he is asking the Agency for International Development to ship 2,000 presents he received from Japan and hundreds more from across the United States on a military cargo plane bound for the Honduran capital of Tegucigalpa. The contributions then would be trucked to rebel base camps.

Previously, private contra support groups were able to ship nonlethal supplies by including them in shipments transported through a special State Department Nicaraguan Office of Humanitarian Assistance, created when Congress approved $27 million in humanitarian aid in 1985.

Now the Nicaraguan humanitarian assistance office is being phased out.

Officials of rebel support groups also say they're hard-pressed to get any help from Washington since reports that Lt. Col. Oliver L. North, the fired National Security Council aide, diverted millions of dollars to the contras.

Murray and Bennett said that before the Iran arms controversy they appeared separately at Washington receptions in which North, a leading spokesman for the contra cause, appealed to their organizations to continue private efforts on behalf of the contras. But the controversy is eating away at conservative groups that have sought to help the contras.

"I'm not trying to bash anybody," said ret. Army Capt. D.L. "Pappy" Hicks, until recently the Head of the Civilian Military Assistance organization in Texas. "But I wouldn't have messed with Iran as long as Khomeini is alive."

Hicks, a veteran of the Korean and Vietnam wars, has journeyed several times into the Honduran jungle, delivering food, clothing and medical supplies for displaced Nicaraguan Indians battling the Sandinistas on the eastern coast of Nicaragua. He's transported several wounded soldiers and ill children to the United States for treatment.

Wounded policeman dies

DALLAS (AP) — An undercover policeman critically wounded by another officer during a drug raid died today, authorities said.

Ronald Cox, 46, died in Parkland Memorial Hospital's intensive care unit, said Addison police Capt. Steve Higgins. Cox had undergone eight hours of surgery on Sunday.

Cox, a police officer in the Dallas suburb of Addison, was shot inside an apartment in east Dallas late Friday by a Dallas police officer during a drug bust, authorities said.

In a news conference, Addison Police Chief Rick Sullivan said reports of the shooting indicated Cox was not given adequate time to identify himself before a Dallas officer shot him four times.

According to Dallas police reports, Officer Darren Coleman found Cox inside pointing a pistol at someone lying on the floor in the living room, and ordered Cox several times to drop his gun.

Cox was not wearing a bulletproof vest under his casual clothes, a violation of department policy, Sullivan said.

She faces loss of ranch

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — An auto salesman was so moved by the plight of a 68-year-old woman about to lose her ranch to foreclosure that he has started a door-to-door fund drive to help her.

May Hess bought the ranch near the Northeast Texas community of Talco in the 1950s, but she could lose it unless she raises $5,400 by Jan. 2 to pay a loan she took out to help a sick brother who has since died.

"This lady is as helpless as anybody can be," Bill Stewart says. "I was born and raised on a farm in Petersburg, Texas, and I've known hard times. But not near as hard as what she's gone through."

Mrs. Hess, who is unable to walk without using an aluminum walker or wheelchair, has only her monthly Social Security check of more than $400 and her 30 cows, which have been quarantined until May, she said.

"I'm just counting the days now until January."

They aren't many," she said, adding that if she loses the ranch, "I don't care what happens to me."

Stewart said he got involved after reading of her plight.

'Dozer drifts into condo

HOUSTON (AP) — An unmanned bulldozer crashed into three condominiums, causing an estimated $40,000 in damage, authorities said.

The machine, with its bucket raised, left a construction site across the street from the condominiums about 4:30 a.m. Saturday and plowed into the building. The cause was under investigation, police said.

No injuries were reported.

"I heard and felt something like a locomotive, and I got up to see what was going on and my living room wall was caved in and the thing was spinning in the mud," said resident Eric Yartz. "That thing sure started off the weekend with a bang."

Polite robber returns

DALLAS (AP) — A bank robber who bank employees described as polite but firm said he returned to the institution because a teller gave him too many small bills in an earlier heist.

"You gave me too many $1 bills last time," an employee of the Allied Bank of Dallas quoted the suspect as saying. "I don't want that many ones. Do it right this time."

Police said the robber, a pot-bellied man about 35 years old, then watched Friday as the teller filled a bag with about $5,000 and noted "in a very polite voice" that he had partners in the parking lot and to "please wait" for him to make his getaway.

Employees told officers that the suspect never showed a gun and said to the teller, "It's Christmas so I won't shoot you."

Cary Grant's fitting final exit: peaceful, swift and merciful

DEAR READERS: A few years ago, Carrie Dolan, a bright young reporter for The Wall Street Journal, was assigned to interview Cary Grant, who was in the San Francisco area for one of his rare lecture appearances. She began her article this way:

"Recently, I was alone in an elegant hotel suite with Cary Grant. My life has not been wasted. Sure, it was a Sunday morning, and we only had coffee. And actually we were alone for only a few minutes while his wife went downstairs to mail a letter. It doesn't matter. There are only two good reasons to become a reporter: to help change the world or to meet Cary Grant."

"Mr. Grant is perhaps the only living man who can inspire lust in any red-blooded American girl — and her mother and her grandmother. He was the one Mae West invited to come up and see her sometime. Mr. Grant is 80 years old. I am 24. It doesn't matter." Cary Grant, who was every bit as good as he looked, deserved to live a long and rewarding life, and when it ended, to exit peacefully, swiftly and mercifully. And he did — on Nov. 29, just seven weeks before what would have been his 83rd birthday. Not a bad score. He couldn't have written a better ending himself. And the timing was just about perfect.

Over the last half-century, Cary Grant had probably more imitators than any other star of the stage or screen. Not only was he devastatingly handsome, he had a style all his own. The way he walked and talked and moved was unmistakably Cary Grant. Both on the screen and off, he was charming, witty and debonair.

Cary Grant was a superstar in every sense of the word. He wore his stardom with grace and dignity, and for all his fame and adoration, he remained miraculously unspoiled. He quit making movies more than 20 years ago by choice, but in recent years he made occasional appearances in theaters around the country, billed simply as "A Conversation With Cary Grant." He didn't need much advertising. One small ad would appear in the local newspaper, and the house was immediately sold out. Everywhere he played, he received a standing ovation for simply walking out on the stage. He had no routine; he just sat perched on a long-legged stool in the middle of a bare stage with the spotlight beamed on his famous face, and for an hour and a half he would answer questions from the audience. They loved it. And so did he.

Cary Grant closed his "conversation" with a piece he called "A Meditation," clearly stating that he did not know who wrote it, but it expressed his own sentiments about growing older. And here it is: "Now Lord, you've known me a long time. You know me better than I know myself. You know that each day I am growing older and someday may even be very old, so meanwhile please keep me from the habit of thinking I must say something on every subject and on every occasion. Release me from trying to straighten out everyone's affairs. Make me thoughtful, but not moody, helpful but not overbearing. I've a certain amount of knowledge to share; still it would be very nice to have a few friends who, at the end, recognized and forgave the knowledge I lacked."

"Keep my tongue free from the recital of endless details. Seal my lips on my aches and pains: They increase daily and the need to speak of them becomes almost a compulsion. I ask for grace enough to listen to the retelling of others' afflictions, and to be helped to endure them with patience.

"I would like to have improved memory, but I'll settle for growing humility and an ability to capitulate when my memory clashes with the memory of others. Teach me the glorious lesson that on some occasions I may be mistaken."

"Keep me reasonably kind; I've never aspired to be a saint — saints must be rather difficult to live with — yet on the other hand, an embittered old person is a constant burden."

"Please give me the ability to see good in unlikely places and talents in unexpected people. And give me the grace to tell them so, dear Lord."

Reiter's syndrome causes extend beyond sex activity

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I had a very severe case of Reiter's syndrome. I am 53, a male, and understand this is considered a young man's disease. I had the triad of symptoms — joints, eyes and bladder. You have discussed this disgusting malady on occasion, and the last time you tied it in with sexual activity. That is far-fetched in my particular case, and I resent the inference. I believe I speak for other blameless victims of this humiliating disease when I request that you give us equal time and cover the non-sexual aspects of it. — E.B.

Your point is a good one, and one I am usually careful to make. It is not true that Reiter's is transmitted only through sexual activity.

Let me give you an example of the kind of infection that can cause the Reiter's symptoms without having any sexual association whatever. Some of the infections that cause diarrhea diseases can be associated with Reiter's. I refer specifically to disease from salmonella and shigella bacteria.

I should explain a bit more about Reiter's. It is a dastardly triple play of arthritis to urethritis to conjunctivitis. The arthritis usually hits the ankles, feet, and knees, and heel pain often appears. The eye covering (conjunctiva) becomes inflamed and feels gritty. Inflammation of the urinary tract occurs. The urethritis (inflammation of the urinary passage) produces painful urination and discharge.

Anti-inflammation drugs help quell the symptoms, although aspirin is not very effective for Reiter's patients. Others can help. If Reiter's is associated with a venereal infection, then antibiotics may be used. The venereal association is, as you note, more common in younger men.

Dr. Donohue

Another strange fact adds to the puzzle of Reiter's. It is that there is a genetic predisposition to it. A blood test confirms that. Otherwise, we don't know why the triad of symptoms occurs. We suspect it is an immune reaction to the infection.

Any time sex is one possible part of an illness, that is what our human nature demands we dwell on.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a diabetic on insulin injection for control. The insulin I have used and am using still is the animal kind (pork). I asked my doctor about the new synthetic insulin now available. I understand it is closer in structure to actual human insulin made by the pancreas. My doctor insists that I don't need it and should continue with the kind I am using. I would like your view. — Mrs. G.Y.

My advice is to continue with the pork insulin, since it apparently has served you well over the years. Some people with diabetes may develop sensitivity to the animal insulin, and they might benefit from a switch to the synthetic kind.

For the present, stay with the one you took to the dance.

FOR MRS. E.F. — Most men never get symptoms from trichomonas infection. Most women, on the other hand, like you, develop vaginal irritation and discharge. That is why they usually get treatment for it. It is standard practice to have the male sexual partner treated with the same medicine at the same time as the woman. That, of course, is to ensure that the woman will not become re-infected by the male in subsequent sexual activity.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 1210, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and $1.00.

Opinion

Views of other Texas papers

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the state.

Board of Morticians dispensable

Not much seems to have changed over at the state Board of Morticians. Only months ago there was a call for a legislative investigation into charges that the board is too cozy with the industry and is lax on enforcement, and later in the year Gov. Mark White proposed that the board be among those that should be abolished or merged into other agencies.

Nothing came of that proposal... If Gov.-elect Clements is looking into some practical ways to trim the cost of government, he could do worse than to resurrect Gov. White's list of disposable agencies, not forgetting to include the morticians' board.

Austin American-Statesman

Congressman should stay home

Congressman Charles Wilson of Lufkin has a commendable interest in the plight of anti-Soviet guerrillas in Afghanistan, but we'd prefer if he would confine his interest to this side of the Pakistan-Afghanistan border.

Recent news reports state that Wilson has (again) ventured into Afghanistan with an AK-47 assault rifle in hand to study the war and boost the morale of the mujahadeen guerrillas, and we just think that's an unacceptable risk for a congressman to take.

If Wilson were captured, the Soviets and their Afghan puppets would have a propaganda field day. There is also a very real risk that some of the top-secret intelligence data which Wilson has learned could be compromised.

Let the Afghans fight the war, Charlie, and leave the adventure to those who read Soldier of Fortune magazine.

Port Arthur News

Immunity necessary for the truth

Oliver North and John M. Poindexter took refuge in the Fifth Amendment in their testimony to the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Naturally, that decision raised more questions than it resolved.

North and Poindexter should be granted immunity from prosecution and brought back for questioning.

As officers of the armed forces and as patriotic Americans, they have sworn allegiance to the American flag and to the nation for which it stands — not to their superiors.

Immunity from prosecution doesn't mean immunity from revelation. As Vice President George Bush said, "If the truth hurts, so be it. We must take our lumps and move ahead."

Contra aid separate issue from Iran

If the administration were to go to Congress right now with a request for umpteen more millions in aid for the Contras, it's hard to figure which would be loudest — the squeals of outrage or the peals of laughter. Somehow, though, that has to be turned around before the next Congress finishes its business.

The still-unfolding scandal surrounding the arms to Iran, dollars to Switzerland, arms to the Contras, and outrageous secret parlay shouldn't rule out continued assistance to the Nicaraguan guerillas — overt assistance, that is. It remains in our best interest to see that the Contra threat to the Sandinista government of Nicaragua is viable.

The two issues — aid to the Contras and the arms-for-Iran scandal — must be viewed separately.

Unless the Contras are provided with enough assistance to mount a credible threat to the Sandinistas, all hope of rescuing the Nicaraguan people from a Marxist dictatorship will be lost.

Aquino not a person to be envied

It must be a very harrowing life for housewife-turned-president Corazon Aquino.

In the last month alone she has staged off a coup attempt and negotiated a ceasefire agreement with communist insurgents — the first such agreement since the communists began 17 years ago to overthrow the Filipino government and replace it with a communist state.

It has not been easy. It will not get any easier.

Her biggest problems are trying to turn an economy around and making peace between her allies, Marcos sympathizers and communists.

We do not envy her. We only hope Filipinos will not be too impatient to have their many problems solved overnight.

Today in history

Today is Monday, Dec. 15, the 349th day of 1986. There are 16 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Dec. 15, 1791, the first ten amendments to the U.S. Constitution, the Bill of Rights, went into effect following ratification by Virginia.

On this date:

In 1890, Sioux Indian Chief Sitting Bull was shot to death in South Dakota.

In 1916, the French defeated the Germans in the World War I Battle of Verdun.

Adolf Eichmann was sentenced to death in Jerusalem.

In 1965, two U.S. manned spacecraft, Gemini VI and Gemini VII, rendezvoused in orbit, coming within ten feet of each other.

In 1966, Walt Disney died.

In 1978, President Jimmy Carter announced the United States would recognize the People's Republic of China.

Ten years ago: A Utah District Court judge set Jan. 17, 1977, as the execution date for Gary Gilmore, a convicted murderer who said he wanted to die.

Five years ago: The Soviet Union accused the United States of "overt interference" in Poland's domestic affairs by withholding food, threatening sanctions and encouraging Poles to resist martial law.

One year ago: Secretary of State George Shultz made his first visit to a Soviet-bloc country with a stopover in Romania, where he warned the Romanians to improve their treatment of some Christian sects.

Takeover restrictions wrong reply

By STEPHEN CHAPMAN

Confronted by the biggest insider trading scandal in Wall Street's history, Congress is now contemplating measures to curb hostile corporate takeovers. That makes about as much sense as trying to stop drunk driving by forbidding the manufacture of cars: It would eliminate one problem and create dozens more, at a huge net loss to society.

Those who have always disliked corporate raiders see Ivan Boesky's fall as the perfect opportunity. Metzbaum fairly salivates about the happy prospect for new laws, telling The Wall Street Journal, "If we get another Boesky about February or March, it'll really give us a shot in the arm."

For American corporations and the economy, this sort of action would be more like a stick in the eye. Takeovers — and the threat of takeovers — are a crucial means of spurring managers to their best performance. As such, they protect corporate shareholders and constantly stimulate economic efficiency.

Takeovers are of course necessary for the kind of abuses for which Boesky was fined $100 million. Arbitrageurs, acting on inside information, buy shares in target companies before the takeover bid is made public, enabling them to make big profits when the stock's value rises — as it usually does.

But, as University of Chicago law professor Daniel Fischel points out, the spread of insider trading is paradoxically due in large part to existing restrictions on tender offers — which make secrecy harder to maintain and encourage acquiring firms to let arbitrageurs in on their plans. More of the same will aggravate the problem, forcing ever greater efforts by regulators and prosecutors.

Even worse is that new restrictions would deter the best use of capital and labor.

Everyone wins. The acquiring firm gets resources with which it expects to earn substantial profits, and its shareholders typically see their investments appreciate.

Those target firm shareholders who sell benefit from the premiums they are paid, and those who don't benefit from the rise in the value of their stock. Only the managers who lose their jobs in the deal come out worse off, and they have only themselves to blame.

That's also why the mere possibility of a takeover is economically valuable. It forces managers to concentrate on maximizing the return to shareholders.

Any number of harebrained theories have been offered as an excuse for curbing takeovers: that they encourage short-term profits at the expense of the long-term interests of shareholders, that they lead to the "looting" of target companies' assets, that they squander resources in battles among egomaniacal executives.

These are excuses unsupported by evidence. In fact, takeover targets don't invest more heavily in long-term projects than other corporations, and they actually spend slightly less on overall capital investment.

Would-be looters have little incentive to pay a premium to acquire such firms, because they can't use their resources any better, and in any case they face penalties if caught looting. The resources expended in takeover battles are trivial compared to the value they add to poorly used economic assets.

So why would anyone want to stop them? Corporate managers prefer a quiet life. Organized labor fears the intrusion of outsiders who aren't parties to the cozy, expensive arrangements of the status quo.

That sort of thinking is to the economy what the Luddites were to technology — an insidious obstacle to broadly beneficial progress. If Ivan Boesky's escapades lead to new restrictions on takeovers, the damage will be vastly greater than any caused by insider trading, and the blame won't lie with him.

Iraqi minister's feelings hurt by betrayal of U.S. officials

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — The one place where the Reagan administration's arms deal with Iran has created as much anguish and uproar as it has in Washington is Baghdad, the beleaguered capital of Iraq, whose soldiers are on the receiving end of the American-made anti-tank and anti-aircraft missiles sold to their Iranian enemy.

We originally broke the story of the administration's covert arms dealing with Iran, and Dale Van Atta traveled to Baghdad for an exclusive interview the other day with Iraq's foreign minister and deputy prime minister, Tarek Aziz. It was the first time Aziz had talked with an American reporter since the scandal erupted last month.

Though he was too diplomatic to use the word "lie," the affable, English-speaking Aziz made it clear that he felt he had been betrayed personally by Secretary of State George Shultz and other Americans who had at least a good idea of what was going on over the past 18 months.

"It is clear," he said, "that the American administration deliberately delivered arms supplies to Iran during the time when it was assuring us — and telling us in official meetings — that it was taking all possible measures to stop the flow of military equipment to Iran."

Aziz met with Shultz on six separate occasions dating back to 1983, and said they both agreed that "the best means to press the Iraqis to stop this war is to stop the flow of arms to Iran."

The two met most recently on Oct. 1, and Shultz still gave no indication that the administration's policy on arms to Iran had changed, Aziz said.

In 1984, Aziz visited Washington, where he not only met Shultz, but then-National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane and "all the group who were involved later" in the secret arms deal, Aziz said. There was "full agreement" on U.S. efforts to stop the sale of arms to Iran, he said.

Asked if he considered the American officials to be liars, Aziz replied: "Well, I don't want to use any names in this respect, because I have to keep — well, the minimum of a diplomatic attitude or diplomatic dealing in this respect. But I think the definition is quite clear."

Despite the injury the Iraqis feel they have suffered, "we haven't received any apology from any American official," Aziz said.

The Iraqi leader took pains to explain why Iraq refuses to accept the justification for the arms deal given by President Reagan in his Nov. 13 speech. He particularly challenged Reagan's statement that the weapons sold to Iran were "defensive equipment."

The material included at least 2,000 TOW anti-tank missiles and 235 Hawk anti-aircraft missiles. "The American administration knows very well that Iran has a superiority in numbers (of soldiers); Iraq has a superiority in tanks and aircraft," Aziz said.

"So the American administration provided the Iraqis with equipment called defensive, but which actually would lead to the neutralization of the Iraqi superiority in the two fields, and that means that the Iranian superiority (in troops) is going to prevail."

Aziz also rejected Reagan's contention that his emissaries were dealing with Iranian "moderates," saying: "This is absurd. If they were moderates they wouldn't ask for arms to end the war. If they asked for medical equipment, for instance, if they asked for wheat, meat, some kind of human assistance — yes, I could understand there is some logic in that."

Summing up his country's grievance, the Iraqi foreign minister said: "Providing arms to improve the military situation of Iran against us, this is a hostile attitude against Iraq which we do not deserve by any means. ... We did not hurt the United States of America. We did not threaten the interests of the United States of America. We sympathized with the American people and other people about the agony of the hostages."

OLD BUT GOOD: The international intelligence community was mightily impressed when the British produced tape-recorded evidence that the Syrian embassy in London was implicated in the attempted bombing of an El Al airliner and other terrorist acts.

It was widely assumed that the Brits had used some state-of-the-art eavesdropping technique, like focusing laser beams on the embassy's windows and "reading" conversations from the vibrations of the glass.

But our sources tell us the C-7 section of Scotland Yard's famed Special Branch trotted out a real Golden Oldie to trap the Syrians.

The British counterparts simply gained entry to the townhouse next door, drilled through the common wall and plugged in their tape recorders. The British are quietly chuckling at the Syrians' stupidity in not renting the adjoining digs to prevent such easy, old-fashioned snooping.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Believe it or not, the campaign to host the 1996 Olympics games has already begun. That's right: 1996.

First out of the starting blocks are the Greeks, who argue that they're entitled, since the 1996 games will mark the 100th anniversary of the modern Olympics, which were first held in Athens.

Despite their unseemly eagerness — like putting up Christmas decorations on Labor Day — we think the Greeks have a good case.

In fact, we suggest that the Olympics be held permanently in Greece, avoiding the political backbiting and greedy commercial rivalry that now mar the event.

Old library now doubles as museum

VINLAND, Kan. (AP) — On a recent Sunday afternoon Martha Smith gave visitors a tour of the one-room Coal Creek Library. "This building was built in 1900 for the library. These are the original shelves ... The green window shades kept the books from fading ... That's the original stove," Mrs. Smith said.

The Coal Creek Library was established in 1859 — even before Kansas became a state — and is believed to be the oldest subscription library in continuous use in the state. Mrs. Smith, whose ancestors founded the library, has served as its librarian for most of the last 60 years. On Nov. 22, 1859, the Coal Creek Social Library Association held its first meeting to draw up a constitution and bylaws. The handwritten minutes are still in the library. Articles written over the years give slightly different versions of the library's beginning. One report says that two 17-year-old daughters of pioneers from New England became bored with Kansas farm life and decided to start a literary society.

Mrs. Smith, 80, is the great-niece of George Cutter, who is listed as one of the founders of the association and served as its first librarian before turning the job over to his sister, Sarah, a few months later. For the first 40 years, the library and social events were held in the homes of its librarians. For a time, the books were kept in the Grange Hall.

Coal Creek later became known as Vinland. At the turn of the century, arguments were heated, historians say, over whether the library's name should be changed to the "Vinland Library." The traditionalists won and the sign outside still reads "Coal Creek Library."

Library membership peaked between 1880 and 1910, when about 50 people used the facility. At times during the library's early years, Mrs. Smith said, membership exceeded the number of books. "They had to draw lots."

Five of the library's first 10 books are still on display under glass. Many of the library's first 100 books remain on the shelves.

After a succession of librarians, Mrs. Smith took over the job in 1926. Recently she ran across a card showing that she was paid $15. "I don't know if that was for year. Probably was."

Her duties went beyond checking books in and out and included taking care of the building and the wood-fire.

Minnesota Vikings wide receiver Anthony Carter is tackled by Houston Oilers Steve Brown (24) and Richard Johnson (23) after a 12 yard gain in third quarter action of the NFL game Sunday in the Astrodome.

Oilers play spoilers; no playoffs for Viks

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers must have thought they were looking in a mirror at themselves Sunday.

Instead, they saw Minnesota commit six turnovers and miss most of its scoring chances. The Oilers eagerly took advantage for a 23-10 victory that dropped the Vikings out of the NFL playoff picture.

"It's nice to see someone else suffering from their own mistakes," Oiler linebacker Robert Lyles said. "Today, it seemed like everything went our way."

The Oilers entered the game with a minus-18 turnover ratio, the worst in the NFL.

But Houston lost one fumble while the Vikings watched their playoff hopes disappear amid three interceptions and three lost fumbles.

The Vikings also lost Tommy Kramer, the NFL's top-rated quarterback, who suffered a bruised elbow in the second quarter and sat out the rest of the game.

One of Minnesota's turnovers set up a Houston touchdown, and another killed a Viking drive at the Houston 1-yard line.

"The coaches are going to be pulling out their hair when they see the films of this game," Viking defensive tackle Keith Millard said. "There's going to be a lot of yelling and screaming."

Minnesota, 8-7, was trying to reach the playoffs for the first time since 1982.

"We were filled with false emotion," Millard said. "It was so evident on the field that it was a joke. We should have learned from our mistakes. It seemed like we wanted to go out on the field and left someone else to do our jobs."

The Oilers, stung 27-0 by the San Diego Chargers a week earlier, were ready.

Warren Moon, who missed last week's game with a thumb injury, completed 22 of 37 passes for 280 yards and a 10-yard touchdown pass to Ernest Givins and Tony Zendejas kicked field goals of 31, 33 and 36 yards.

Moon, who has thrown a career-high 26 interceptions this season, didn't have any interceptions against the Vikings.

"I was very conscious about not throwing interceptions today," Moon said.

Rookie Allen Pinkett added a 1-yard touchdown run with 1:58 left in the game.

"It was an important win for us because we really needed a lift off the mat after last week," Moon said. "We played badly at San Diego and we were very conscious of that."

The victory left the Oilers at 4-11 for the season and needing a victory over Buffalo in the Astrodome Sunday to equal last season's 5-11 record.

They're trying to salvage whatever momentum they can go into next season.

"We've eliminated two teams from the playoffs this year, ourselves and Minnesota," Oiler offensive tackle Bruce Matthews said.

Kramer hit Allen Rice with a 32-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter, and Wade Wilson directed a drive to Chuck Nelson's 40-yard field goal in the fourth quarter.

Minnesota Coach Jerry Burns was angered in the third quarter when officials ruled Houston safety Keith Bostic intercepted a pass despite a replay from a television end zone camera that showed the ball was dropped.

The same version also was shown on the Astrodome's giant diamond-vision screen. However, the replay official said he hadn't seen that particular replay at the time he made his ruling.

"It was bad officiating just like it's been all year," Burns said. "Those guys don't know what they are doing."

"I asked the official on the field to ask the official upstairs to look at the end zone shot (on the Astrodome scoreboard). He said he would. I don't know what he did."

Bostic, who got his first interception of the year, wasn't about to help the officials.

"I didn't look up at the screen because I didn't want to see something that I might see," Bostic said. "It was my first pickoff of the year, and I wasn't going to question it."

Givins caught 6 passes for 108, giving him 1,013 yards receiving as a rookie.

Eagles beat Walker

IRVING (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles finally lived up to the preseason brags of their coach Sunday just in time to apply a mercy killing to the death-spiraling Dallas Cowboys.

The Eagles gave a 23-21 coup de grace to the Cowboys, who saw professional sports' longest active victory streak of 20 consecutive seasons go down the drain.

It's only the third time in the past 20 years Dallas' won't be in the NFL playoffs. Last year's NFC East champions have lost six of their last seven games.

"We never thought about knocking the Cowboys out of the playoffs," said quarterback Matt Cavanaugh, who had two touchdown passes. "We were out to play for ourselves, not just hurt the Cowboys."

Eagles Coach Buddy Ryan made a rash preseason prediction of an NFC East title and a clean sweep of

Browns win AFC Central

By The Associated Press
Not every team in the AFC has a shot at the playoffs heading into the last week of the NFL season. It only seems that way.

While the AFC has made things simple, the AFC playoff picture is one big jigsaw puzzle with a few pieces missing. Not only are the identities of three of the six conference playoff teams a mystery but the methods by which they can earn positions in the chase for the Super Bowl are equally mystifying.

The Cleveland Browns won the AFC Central title on Sunday with a 34-3 rout of the Cincinnati Bengals. If the 11-4 Browns beat San Diego next week, they will have the home-field advantage for all of their conference playoff contests.

The Denver Broncos already have the AFC West title and they clinched the NFC East championship for the New York Giants by beating Washington 31-30 on Saturday.

The New York Jets, mired in a four-game slide that has taken them from the top of the NFL to a 10-5 record and a tie with New England for first place in the AFC East, were handed a wild-card slot when Kansas City beat the Los Angeles Raiders 20-17 on Sunday. The day before, the Jets were beaten by Pittsburgh 45-24.

The defending AFC champion Patriots fell to San Francisco 29-24 and must beat Miami next Monday night to win the East. If they lose, the Jets get the division title no matter what they do in Cincinnati on Sunday.

Kansas City can nail down a wild-card berth by winning at Pittsburgh next weekend. Cincinnati must beat the Jets to have a chance at a wild card. Seattle, which took San Diego 34-24 on Sunday, needs a win over Denver next Saturday to stay alive for a wild card.

The tiebreaker combinations are such that they could result in almost anyone getting in, including Miami and the Raiders, both 8-7. If the Raiders win against Indianapolis and Seattle, Cincinnati and Kansas City lose, they make the playoffs. And if the Raiders and those other teams are beaten and Miami downs New England, the Dolphins get in.

The NFC avoided all of that wildness when Minnesota lost to Houston 23-10 and Dallas was upset 23-21 by Philadelphia. Combined with the 49ers' victory, the five postseason berths were secured.

The Giants, 27-7 winners over St. Louis, reign in the East, with Washington the host wild-card team. Chicago, which is in Detroit tonight, owns the Central crown. The 49ers are a half-game behind the Rams, who lost 37-31 to Miami in overtime, in the West, and they meet Friday night. The winner avoids the wild-card game, the loser travels to Washington.

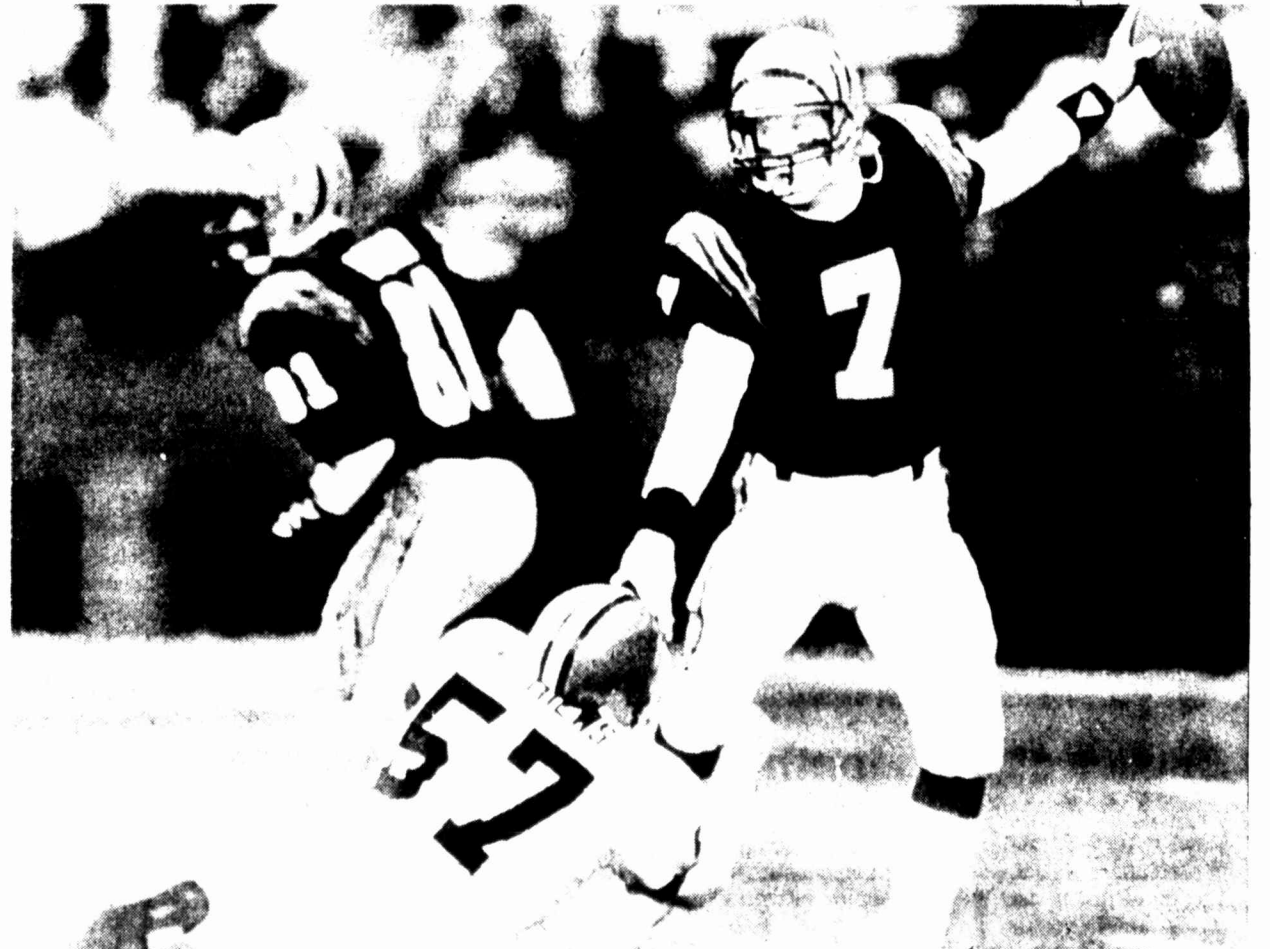

Also on Sunday, it was Indianapolis 24, Buffalo 14; Green Bay 21, Tampa Bay 7; and New Orleans 14, Atlanta 9.

Browns 34, Bengals 3
From the opening play of the game, Cleveland's plan was obvious — throw bombs, force the action and try to outdo the NFL's hottest attack. The Browns did just that, beginning with Bernie Kosar's 66-yard pass to Reggie Langhorne at the outset.

"We wanted to set the tempo, and I think we did that by going deep," Kosar said. "We felt we could go after them and we wanted to attack them. We didn't attack them in the first game (a 30-13 loss)."

Cincinnati, which had five

Mets' Gooden has another run-in with police

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The head of the local chapter of the NAACP says the organization will investigate the arrest of New York Mets All-Star pitcher Dwight Gooden after he allegedly scuffled with police officers.

Gooden, 22, a native of Tampa who lives with his parents during the off-season, was charged with disorderly conduct, resisting arrest with violence and battery on a police officer, after he was stopped for a possible traffic violation late Saturday night.

Four companions also were arrested in the incident. They were Gary Sheffield, 18, a nephew of Gooden as well as a professional baseball player in the Milwaukee Brewers minor-league system; California Angels minor-league player Vance Lovelace, 23; Phillip Walker, Jr., 23, and a 17-year-old Derrick Pedro. Pedro is a distant cousin of Gooden's.

"It's an extremely unfortunate incident, but I'm not in a position to second-guess anything yet," Bob Gilder, president of the Tampa chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People told The Tampa Tribune in today's editions. "We will very definitely investigate this because these young men are some of the finest in Tampa, a credit to the community."

All except the 17-year-old were booked into the Hillsborough County jail and released on their own recognizance. The teen-ager was handed over to state juvenile officers, Tampa Police Lt. T.L. Cotter said.

New York Mets pitcher Dwight Gooden was arrested by Tampa, Florida police Saturday night, along with four other companions.

Arraignment dates were not set. Police spokesman Johnny Barker said Gooden and the others will be notified of a court date by mail.

According to police reports, the incident began just before 11 p.m. EST Saturday when an officer spotted a Mercedes-Benz and a red Corvette weaving toward each other in separate lanes. The officer pulled over both cars, Cotter said.

As Gooden exited the Mercedes he was driving, the Corvette, allegedly driven by Sheffield, sped away but then returned, Cotter said. A second police car pulled up to aid the officer, then a third private vehicle pulled alongside, the police spokesman said.

Officer Jeffrey L. Smith said in an arrest affidavit that Gooden "exited the vehicle and started yelling, using profane language accusing the officer (Smith) of police harassment, refusing to surrender his license."

"Gooden would not calm down even at the advice of his friends," Smith wrote. The officer added that Gooden continued to yell about police harassment and that a crowd gathered at the scene.

Smith said he was trying to stop Gooden from advancing on him when Gooden grabbed the officer's left wrist and told Smith not to touch him.

When Officer L.S. Wolff tried to subdue Gooden, with what is commonly known as a "choke hold," the pitcher "started struggling violently, swinging and kicking," Smith wrote.

Gooden and two officers were treated for minor injuries at a Tampa General Hospital and released, Cotter said. However, Mets spokesman Jay Horwitz said Gooden suffered bruises on the head and left arm. "and last night he thought his left hand was broken."

The Tampa Tribune reported Gooden was given a blood-alcohol test at Tampa General Hospital, but a police spokesman had declined to reveal the test results.

Gooden's attorney, Charles Erlich, told the newspaper he believed there was no drinking or drug use involved in the incident.

Horwitz said he spoke with Gooden on Sunday, and the right-hander told him that he had been handcuffed and ankle-cuffed during the incident.

"I don't know what I did," Horwitz quoted Gooden as saying. "They never told me what they stopped me for. I'm really in the dark about it."

Cotter said the charges would be reviewed by the state attorney's office. Gooden's attorney, meanwhile, said he'd also look into the matter.

Battery of a police officer and violently resisting arrest are third-degree felonies carrying maximum penalties of five years in prison and $5,000 in fines. The disorderly conduct charge, a second-degree misdemeanor, carries a maximum penalty of 60 days in jail.

Gooden "took a beating, as you usually do when you are hit in the head," Erlich said. "We will investigate this. It doesn't make sense. This all goes against Dwight's nature."

Cotter said he did not know who was driving the third car or if there were any other passengers in any of the three cars.

Winning streak ends

Texas' Andrea Lloyd (25) squeezes between Melissa McCray (35) and Dawn Marsh (4) of Tennessee on her way to the basket Sunday in women's basketball action. Number-one ranked Texas ended its 40-game winning streak, falling to the Lady Volunteers, 85-78.

Portland blazes by Mavs with sound 134-100 win

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks are having their Christmas party back inallas today and Coach Dick Motta says the team needs the rest after a stop in Portland.

The Mavericks fell to the Trail Blazers 134-100 Sunday night, the fourth outing for Dallas in five nights.

"Portland could have beaten anybody," Motta said, hoping his players will catch their breath before continuing with the NBA schedule. "When you're on the road, you're tired... you've got to catch a team down. Portland certainly wasn't down."

NBA

The Blazers, opening a 41-22 lead in the first quarter, had seven players in double figures, with Jerome Kersey coming off the bench for 21 points, Steve Johnson adding 19 and Terry Porter 18.

Clyde Drexler topped the Portland effort with 22 points, while Kenny Carr had a career high in rebounding with 21.

"This was a very good basketball game by our team," Portland Coach Mike Schuler said. "Jerome had a nice game. He had the type of game that can inspire us. Carr did a great job. He's had a great year."

The victory, in the only NBA game Sunday night, was the seventh in eight games for the Blazers, boosting their record in the Pacific Division to 14-10, good for third place behind the Los Angeles Lakers and Golden State, respectively. Dallas, 14-8, fell out of first place in the Midwest, percentage points behind Utah.

"I'd say that looking at their team right now, they should be second in their division," Motta said. "They really are playing well, and if they keep that intensity, they're going to have themselves an enjoyable season."

Dallas forward Mark Aguirre led all scorers with 23 points but played only 22 minutes. Sam Perkins added 13 points and James Donaldson led the team in rebounding with eight.

Asked why Aguirre didn't play in the final period, Motta said sarcastically: "We've got to be rested for our Christmas party."

Dallas shot only 38 percent from the field, while Portland finished the game by hitting 55 percent of its shots and outrebounding the Mavericks 57-35.

Browns

straight 400-yard games in which it had averaged 29 points, was held to 283 yards after gaining 584 a week ago against the Patriots.

49ers 29, Patriots 24
San Francisco used another big-play method to subdue the Patriots — turnovers. The 49ers, who lead the league in takeaways, scored their final 10 points after a fumble recovery and an interception. Ray Werschling's 20-yard field goal followed Tony Nixon's recovery of Tony Collins' fumble. Joe Cribbs' 10-yard touchdown run, which gave the 49ers a 29-17 edge with 7:28 to go, came after Keena Turner intercepted Tony Eason's pass and returned it to the New England 25.

"We've got a little momentum now," San Francisco running back Roger Craig said. "We just have to hold onto it."

The Patriots hope they can hold onto a playoff position, something which seemed certain a few weeks ago when they were winning seven straight games.

"The most frustrating aspect of this game is that we lost the game in the fashion we usually win ballgames, turnovers," guard Ron Wooten said. "We were disappointed we gave them all those opportunities to do some damage."

Chiefs 20, Raiders 17
Turnovers also cost the Raiders, who lost the ball seven times. Two of those turnovers came in the final period, when a fumble by Napoleon McCallum was recovered by Tim Coffield and Kevin Ross intercepted a Jim Plunkett pass.

"Our defense played a great fourth quarter and our offense made the plays it had to make," Chiefs Coach John Mackovic said as his team moved into position for its first playoff appearance in 15 years.

Dolphins 37, Rams 31, OT
Dan Marino continued to dominate defenses — even one as solid as the Rams have. Marino threw for five touchdowns, including the winning score of 20 yards to Mark Duper 3:04 into overtime.

Marino threw for 403 yards, completing 29 of 46 passes, with three of the scores going to Duper.

The Dolphins took the kickoff to begin overtime. Miami started from its own 25-yard line, and a 35-yard run by Ron Davenport put the Dolphins at the Rams' 32. An apparent interception was wiped out by an offside penalty, and three plays later, Marino hit Duper in the end zone.

"We're still in it, but we're not the type to kid anybody," Miami Coach Don Shula said of the Dolphins' playoff chances. "We realize it's the thinnest of thin opportunities."

Seahawks 34, Chargers 24
The Seahawks' chances are thin, too, even though they are one of the league's hottest teams. Quarterback Dave Krieg threw four touchdown passes, two in the fourth quarter, and Seattle won its fourth straight.

San Diego's Dan Fouts moved into second place on the NFL's all-time passing yardage list. Fouts completed 21 of 38 passes for 237 yards and a touchdown to push his career yardage total to 40,287, surpassing Johnny Unitas, who had been second at 40,239. Fran Tarkenton is the NFL's all-time leader with 47,003 yards.

Giants 27, Cardinals 7
Joe Morris ran for 179 yards, scored three touchdowns and broke his own club-record for rushing with 1,401 yards. The victory was the eighth straight for the 13-2 Giants, who have won their first division title since 1963 and will host their NFC playoff games if they win next week against Green Bay.

New York built a 17-0 halftime lead and Morris wound up with his seventh 100-yard game of the year. The defense recorded a team-record nine sacks.

Colts 24, Bills 14
Indianapolis, which lost its first 13 games this year, has won both of its games under Coach Ron Meyer. The victory over Buffalo moved the Colts behind Tampa Bay in the order for next year's NFL draft.

Gary Hogeboom ran for one touchdown and passed for 318 yards and two other scores for the Colts. Hogeboom, who came off injured reserve a week ago, sneaked one yard for one touchdown and passed one yard to Tim Sherwin for another. He completed 23 of 33 passes.

Buffalo quarterback Jim Kelly was shaken up early in the game and sat out much of the second and third quarters.

Packers 21, Bucs 7
Green Bay sacked Tampa Bay quarterback Steve Young seven times, while Randy Wright completed 14 of 25 passes for 190 yards to join Lynn Dickey as the only players in Green Bay history to pass for more than 3,000 yards in a season.

Wright, Gerry Ellis and Paul Ott Carruth ran for touchdowns.

The loss before a Tampa Stadium crowd of 30,099 was the sixth straight for the 2-13 Bucs, who were booed and pelted with lemons by the crowd.

Saints 14, Falcons 9
Dave Wilson scored on a 6-yard bootleg run with 1:55 left as New Orleans snapped a three-game losing streak. The Saints fell behind 9-7 on Ali Haji-Sheikh's 43-yard field goal with 5:39 to play, then drove 75 yards in 12 plays for the winning score.

The Saints then had to stop an Atlanta drive, which they did as Ricky Jackson got his fourth sack of the game, dumping Turk Schonert for a 6-yard loss to the Saints' 11. Atlanta appeared to get off another pass, on which Schonert hit Charlie Brown in the end zone, but officials ruled that time had expired before the play began.

Eagles

division foes. However, his first division scalp didn't come until Sunday to give the Eagles a 5-9-1 record.

"We didn't play that well I think, but all wins are good wins," Ryan said.

Ryan gave a game ball to Cavanaugh, who started only his second game this season. Cavanaugh threw two touchdown passes to Kenny Jackson, including the 31-yard, game-winner with 3:57 left.

"Cavanaugh did a good job filling in for Randall Cunningham," Ryan said. "He deserved a ball. Our offense did a heckuva job."

Cunningham sat out the game with a bruised thumb. "Kenny kept saying he could go deep and he did," Cavanaugh said. "He's got a lot of confidence."

The Eagles won although they couldn't stop Herschel Walker, who compiled a club record 292 yards passing and receiving.

Walker ran 84 yards for a score and caught a pass for an 84-yard touchdown. He caught 9 passes for 170 yards and rushed for 122 yards on only six carries.

"We couldn't tackle Walker," Ryan said. "We missed tackles and he ran 100 yards. We had him double covered and he catches a pass for a touchdown. What can you do?"

Walker said he was 100 per cent healthy for the first time in more than a month.

"My injured ankle had been a very big problem," Walker said. "The loss was very tough. But you have to give Philadelphia credit."

Dallas led 21-16 after Walker's 84-yard scoring reception with 5:01 to go.

The Eagles charged back 57 yards, scoring on two plays.

"That's incredible," Walker said. "We scored, then looked up and they scored."

"It's disappointing to end up this way," said defensive tackle Randy White. "We have a lot of pride and tradition. Now all we can try to do is beat Chicago. I'm not folding up my tent."

Dallas Coach Tom Landry was philosophical about the season.

"You don't worry about losing seasons after being up for 20 years," Landry said. "But who knows. Maybe we'll bounce back and beat the Bears."

Landry hinted there could be a new quarterback against Chicago next week.

"Reggie Collier will play," Landry said. "I don't know if he will start, but he will play. It's the last game, and it certainly can't hurt

Rookie QB to start versus Bears

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The future arrives tonight for the Detroit Lions, when rookie quarterback Chuck Long makes his first NFL start in a game against the defending Super Bowl champion Chicago Bears.

"The Bears are definitely the best defensive team in the NFL," Long said. "It's going to be a real challenge. Being from the Chicago area (Long is a native of Wheaton), it's nice to start against the Bears. It's going to be a lot of fun, hopefully."

Long's debut comes five years after the man he will replace, Eric Hipple, made an auspicious Monday night start against the Bears to move into the starting job.

This game will match two of college football's recent stars. — Long, an All-American at Iowa who was second to Auburn's Bo Jackson in the voting for the 1985 Heisman Trophy, and the Bears' Doug Flutie, the 1984 Heisman Trophy winner from Boston College. Although Mike Tomczak is listed as the probable starter at quarterback for the Bears, Flutie likely will see a lot of action as Chicago, which has clinched the NFC Central title, prepares for the playoffs.

The Bears, 12-2, need one more victory to lock up the home-field advantage in their first NFC playoff game the first weekend in January.

Long missed all of training camp because of a contract dispute. Because he was so far behind, Coach Darryl Rogers was reluctant to use him.

The rookie has taken only four snaps from center. Against Tampa Bay, he handed off three times and then, on his first NFL pass, threw a 34-yard touchdown to Leonard Thompson.

Gary Fencik, the Bears' free safety, said it has been difficult preparing for Long.

Sports Briefs

Steers to host Central

The Big Spring Steers basketball team will be back in Steer Gym Tuesday night when they host the San Angelo Central Bobcats at 7:30 in a non-district contest.

Coach Boyce Paxton's Steers (6-7) are coming off a dismal seventh place finish in the Denver City tournament. As has been the case all season, the Steers lost their first two games of the tournament by a combined total of seven points.

They did finish strong however, drumming Muleshoe 111-60 in the seventh place game.

Junior varsity action will get underway at 6 p.m.

Bowler of the Month winners

Frances McKenzie paced the group of winners in the Big Spring Bowl-A-Rama Bowler of the Month Tournament Sunday.

McKenzie won the senior citizen scratch series with a score of 546. LaVern Berger had the high senior citizen's handicap series with a 624.

Mari Lou Shonk won first with a 539 scratch series and Teresa Kilpatrick took handicap scratch honors with a 707.

Other scratch qualifiers for the Bowler of the Year Tournament were: Barbara Vieira, 537; Leona Duffer, 518; Janie Ringener, 502 and Lucille Romine, 494.

Handicappers qualifying for the Bowler of the Year Tournament were: Lesa Huckabee 624; Mary Martinez, 617; Rhonda Gaskins, 616 and Betty Clark, 615.

Coahoma youth basketball

COAHOMA — The Rockets, Spurs, Blue Jays and Blackbird were all winners in their season openers in the Coahoma youth basketball league.

The Rockets defeated the Celtics 12-11. Ron Ruiz and Chris Gonzales scored six and four points respectively for the Rockets. Chris Mathieson added two points. Clint Kidd scored nine points for the Celtics and Kirby Brown scored two points.

The Spurs bombed the Mavericks 34-12. Steve New led the winners with 14 points, Brian Moore added 12. Jeremy Jensen and Murphy Henry scored four points each. Jeff Pherneton led the Mavericks with 10 points. Scott McSwain scored two points.

Sandy Bourland scored eight and Lee Ann Reid added six points as the Blue Jays downed the Hawks 20-12. Sharla Rush scored four and Brandy Gresett added two points for the Blue Jays. Mandy Bays led the Hawks with six points. Rachael Phillips followed with four points.

The Blackbird dominated the Falcons 24-4. Lucy Hall and Sandy Overton scored eight points each for the Blackbirds. Lisa Ruiz and Tina Roberts scored six and two points respectively. Cary Turner and Shelia Borden scored two points each for the Falcons.

Utah cowboy captures top honors in NFR

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Utah cowboy Lewis Feild, who admits he "eased into rodeo kind of slowly," was named all-around world champion Saturday night at the finale of the National Finals Rodeo.

Feild, 30, of Elk Ridge, Utah, won a total of $166,000 during the regular rodeo season and the 10 rounds of the Las Vegas competition, dubbed "The Super Bowl of Rodeos."

Only the second cowboy to repeat as world champion since Tom Ferguson accomplished the feat in 1979, Feild said, "When I turned professional, I was prepared for it. I had a pretty good idea of how to do it before I ever got my professional card."

The 5-foot-8, 155-pound bareback and saddle bronc rider was the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association bareback rookie of the year in 1980. Now his career earnings now are approaching one-half million dollars.

He was one of more than 100 cowboys who shared in $1.9 million in prize money this time, a record purse for the event that began in Dallas in 1959 with total prizes of $50,000.

Chris Lybbert, 32, of Argyle, Texas, finished second in the money standings with $127,267 for the year.

Tuff Hedeman, 23, of Gainesville, Texas, was third with $123,049.

The rodeo is the culmination of a season that begins in January and winds up in Las Vegas in December — with 630 rodeo events scattered in between at cities ranging from Cowtown, N.J., to San Francisco.

The top 15 cowboys in each of seven events made it to the national finals, which moved to Las Vegas last year after promoters doubled the prize money to $1.6 million.

Jimmie Cooper, 30, of Monument, N.M., finished fourth in the money winnings with $116,077. Paul Tierney, 34, of Rapid City, S. Dakota, was fifth with $112,782.

Rounding out the top nine money winners were Dave Appleton, 26, Arlington, Texas, with $112,335; Clay O'Brien Cooper, 25, Gilbert, Ariz., with $111,211; Roy Cooper, 31, Durant, Okla., with $102,411; and Dee Pickett, 31, Caldwell, Idaho, with $94,284.

New Mexico teen-ager Charmayne James finished the season with $151,969, as the 16-year-old from Clayton became the first woman rodeo performer to break the $100,000 barrier.

Charles Sampson, 29, Los Angeles, failed in his bid to take top honors in the NFR bull riding championships when he was thrown from his bull in Saturday night's 10th and final round.

Sampson, the 1982 world bull riding champion who has undergone 30 hours of facial reconstruction surgery in recent years, was leading his event going into Saturday night's final round. He was beaten out for the finals championship by Jim Sharp of Kermit, Texas.

Other winners in Saturday night's final round were Marvin Garrett, Aladdin, Wyo., in the bareback riding; Ote Berry, Gordon, Neb., in the steer wrestling; Walt Woodard, Stockton, Calif., and Jay Ellerman of Greeley, Colo., in the team roping; Mel Coleman, Lloydminster, Saskatchewan, in saddle bronc riding; Dan Webb, Midway, Texas, in calf roping; and Tamara Hammons, Lakin, Kan., in barrel racing.

Jefferson, Cuero brace for battle of unbeaten

By The Associated Press

A battle between Jefferson and Cuero, both sporting perfect 15-0 records, for the Class 3A state championship highlights next weekend's final games in the Texas high school football season.

Jefferson and Cuero battle at 7 p.m. at Kyle Field on the Texas A&M campus in College Station, the second half of a championship doubleheader.

La Marque (14-1) and Plano (13-2) clash at 11:15 a.m. at Kyle Field for the Class 5A title.

In other championship games, McKinney (15-0) and West Orange Stark (11-2) decide the 4A title in the Astrodome at 2 p.m. Saturday; Shiner (15-0) and Mart (13-2) meet in Leander at 2 p.m. Saturday for the 2A crown; and Burkeville (12-1) and Throckmorton (12-2) tangle in Mexia at 7:30 p.m. Friday for the 1A trophy.

The six-man championship was decided Saturday night. Fort Hancock outscored Christoval 50-36 for the crown.

Class 5A Semifinals

La Marque scored three touchdowns in the fourth quarter to break open a 7-7 game and defeat Austin Reagan 26-12 at Memorial Stadium in Austin Saturday afternoon in one of the 5A semifinal games.

"I wasn't really supposed to play," said Milton Frank, whose first down early in the fourth quarter ignited La Marque's offense to three touchdowns.

Plano's Trae Brannon batted away a fourth-and-goal pass from the 9-yard line with 44 seconds remaining to preserve the Wildcats' 28-21 victory over Hurst Bell in the other 5A semifinal game, played Saturday afternoon in Texas Stadium at Irving.

A late third-quarter fumble recovery by Plano's Steve Needham helped turn the tide for the Wildcats, who were trailing 21-20 at the time. Quarterback Bobby Schrader ran in a touchdown and added a two-point conversion early in the fourth quarter.

Class 4A Semifinals

McKinney's Randy Simmons exploded for 288 yards rushing and four touchdowns as the Lions beat the Hereford Whitefaces 39-6 in a 4A semifinal playoff game Saturday night in Texas Stadium.

McKinney scored first on Jay Bob Harris' 29-yard field goal in the first quarter and padded the lead to 17-0 on two short Simmons plunges before Hereford got its only score on Todd Shire's 25-yard TD pass to Kyle Streun in the second quarter.

Simmons put the game on ice in the third quarter with his TD runs of 19 and 28 yards. Wilfred Pryor's 20-yard pass reception from Charlie Honea in the fourth quarter wrapped up the scoring.

West Orange quarterback James Reed ran for two touchdowns and passed for another to lead the Mustangs to a 28-12 victory over New Braunfels in a Class 4A semifinal game at Tully Stadium in Houston.

New Braunfels scored first on Brad Grant's 5-yard run in the first quarter, and the 6-0 lead held through the half.

West Orange Stark scored twice in a two-minute span in the third period to turn the game around. Reed ran 7 yards for the first one, and after a Kevin Smith fumble recovery, Reed tossed a 24-yard TD pass to Derrick Owens.

West Orange Stark added two more touchdowns in the fourth period, as Scottie Littleton ran 9 yards for a touchdown and Reed 17 yards on an option play.

Class 3A Semifinals

Jefferson quarterback Kenneth Henderson hit wide receiver Terry Johnson on second-quarter touchdown passes of 6 and 26 yards that led the Bulldogs to a 26-0 victory over Lampasas in a Class 3A semifinal playoff game Saturday in Grand Prairie.

Jefferson opened up a 20-0 halftime lead. Keith

Smith, the game's leading rusher with 136 yards, scored on a seven-yard run, and Ron Jackson scored from 10 yards late in the fourth quarter.

Cuero's Robert Strait rushed for 310 yards and four touchdowns to lead the Gobblers to a 34-7 win over Port Arthur Austin Saturday night in the other 3A playoff action in Katy.

Strait staked Cuero to a 6-0 halftime lead on a 34-yard run late in the first quarter. Port Arthur Austin took a brief 7-6 lead in the third quarter when defensive lineman Kevin Henry rambled 37 yards with a blocked punt.

The Gobblers, however, came right back on Strait's 39-yard burst little more than two minutes later. He scored on 1-yard scoring runs on Cuero's next two possessions.

Class 2A Semifinals

Mart quarterback Lee Miles threw for two touchdowns and running back Wayne Atkinson rushed for 106 yards and two touchdowns as the Panthers defeated Reagan County 35-15 Saturday in a 2A semifinal game in Brownwood.

In the first half, Reagan County quarterback Scott Lipsey scored on runs of 1 and 8 yards, while Mart got TD's on Terrell Pride's 2-yard run and Miles' 16-yard pass to Allen Neuman.

But Atkinson's scoring runs of 15 and 2 yards in the second half allowed Mart to pull out the victory.

Shiner cruised into the Class 2A finals Saturday behind tailback Shawn Carroll and quarterback Gilbert Price, beating Winona 38-0 in Temple. Carroll, a junior, gained 149 yards in 16 carries. Price, a senior, ran for two touchdowns and threw for another to his brother Steven.

Shiner's defense held Winona to two first downs and only 35 total yards and forced the Wildcats to give up five turnovers, including a fumble at the Shiner 1-yard line. The Comanches also recorded six sacks.

Class 1A Semifinals

Burkeville fought from 13 points behind to defeat previously unbeaten Bremond 20-13 Saturday night in Class A semifinal playoff action in Groveton.

An 88-yard "Hail Mary" pass from Darrell Spikes to Alfred Spikes rallied Burkeville past Bremond, which struck first on Tim Scott's 90-yard touchdown return of the opening kickoff.

Throckmorton held Wheeler to two first downs in the second half and quarterback Bill Batchler rushed for a pair of touchdowns as the Greyhounds defeated the Mustangs 21-7 in the other 1A semifinal in Childress Friday night.

Throckmorton fullback Dave Davis carried the ball 31 times for 178 yards, with 126 of those yards coming in the second half as the Greyhounds beat the Wheeler Mustangs 21-7 in their Class A semifinal playoff game.

Six-Man Finals

Armando Aguilar threw for 310 yards and six touchdowns to lead the Fort Hancock Mustangs to a 50-36 victory over the Christoval Cougars Saturday night and the six-man state championship.

Aguilar completed 26 of 38 passes, gained 45 rushing yards, caught a pass for six yards and intercepted three Christoval passes.

Aguilar threw two touchdown passes to Harvey Vargas covering 6 and 33 yards, and one each to Breck Bean (17 yards), Shawn Henderson (10 yards), Kelly Legarretta (6 yards) and Gus Soto (32 yards).

Philip Montalvo led the Christoval offensive attack with 120 rushing yards on 19 carries, and scored on runs of 8 and 1 yards out and had a TD reception of 16 yards from Homer Galindo.

Galindo also threw two more scoring passes of 39 yards to Jason Ussery and 67 yards to Paul Martinez.

Swedes capture doubles title

LONDON (AP) — As Yannick Noah sniffed the air for traces of poached fish and roast beef, Anders Jarryd and Stefan Edberg smelled victory.

Noah complained that cooking odors were invading his airspace during Sunday's final of the Nabisco Masters Doubles Championship at Royal Albert Hall, where patrons in the opera boxes can dine very well as they watch tennis players sweat and strain.

"I had to ask them to close the door to the kitchen," the Frenchman said.

It was about the same time that Jarryd and Edberg started taking control of the match against Noah and teammate Guy Forget, and the Swedes went on to a 6-3, 7-6, 6-3 victory to successfully defend their crown and win $72,000.

Edberg lost just nine points off his serve and used his muscle to rip winning forehands and volleys seemingly whenever Noah and Forget were on the verge of breaking through.

Jarryd, coming off two left knee surgeries, played the angles to whip winners past the Frenchmen.

Together, Jarryd and Edberg said, it was as close to perfection as they are liable to get.

"That's the best we've ever played," Jarryd said.

Agreed Edberg: "We can't play much better than that."

Noah and Forget acknowledged that neither the smell of Sunday lunch nor a couple of iffy line calls could be blamed for the defeat, which still made them $36,000 richer.

"What was bothering me most was their game," Noah said.

"When we started to get behind we started to lose concentration, and that's when the other things developed."

"They played, very, very strongly," said Forget, who finished the season as the top-ranked individual player in doubles on the Nabisco Grand Prix tour. "I'm happy with the year I had, but it could have been a little better."

The French duo had their chances.

Playing doubles together for just the ninth tournament, Forget and Noah had three break points on Jarryd's serve in the third game of the match. But the Swedes saved them all — twice with service winners, the third time on a forehand smash by Edberg.

It was the same story five more times in the nearly two-hour match on the Supreme Court surface. Whenever Noah and Forget reached break point, Jarryd and Edberg held firm.

Forget's serves helped keep the French in the match, with six aces and at least that many service winners. But Noah's serve was suspect. He gave up the only service breaks of the match — in the sixth game of the first set and the fourth game of the third — and lost three points on serve as Jarryd and Edberg took the tiebreaker 7-2.

"They returned very well," Noah said. "We had a chance, but every time we had break points, they would hit their first serves."

While teen-age fans screamed, "Go for it, Stefan," Noah brought chuckles from the crowd with his occasional clowning, stern glances from umpire Jeremy Shales for arguing calls and gasps with shots that took him to the four corners of the court.

But on this day, not even tennis' version of the "Human Highlight Film" could disperse the scent of Swedish victory.

Late in the third set, Noah chased down a Jarryd lob and — with his back to the net — made a between-the-legs return.

A week ago in New York, during the Masters singles championships, Noah got a point on just such a shot against Edberg, and the Swede came to the net to applaud. Edberg came to the net this time, too, for a put-away volley, the same as he used to wrap up the championship about five minutes later.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, DEC. 16, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A very good day to make a well-rounded course of action. You will be able to get out and do the many things that require attention, such as Christmas shopping.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Plan how to handle routines and communications more wisely. Study data you need for greater efficiency.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle travel matters. The evening is best for inviting in a few choice guests and enjoying life.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find new ways to add to your present assets. Don't neglect to make out statements and reports.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Every opportunity is yours to gain data impossible to attain. Try to please your mate tonight.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Conversations with your friends will reveal how much assistance you are able to get from them to add prestige.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make careful plans for handling worldly affairs. Have a long talk with a bigwig who can be of assistance to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study your credit and community affairs well and improve them in some way. Make new friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Know where you are headed in business and organize your affairs more intelligently. Plan a trip.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Come to an agreement with associates. Get public OK early. Agree with your mate's ideas in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Improve the duties you have agreed to perform. Get into new projects with your associates.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You understand how to be happier with regular recreations today. Keep promises to co-workers, also.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can see how to have success at home. Take your family out to dinner. Be romantic tonight, too.

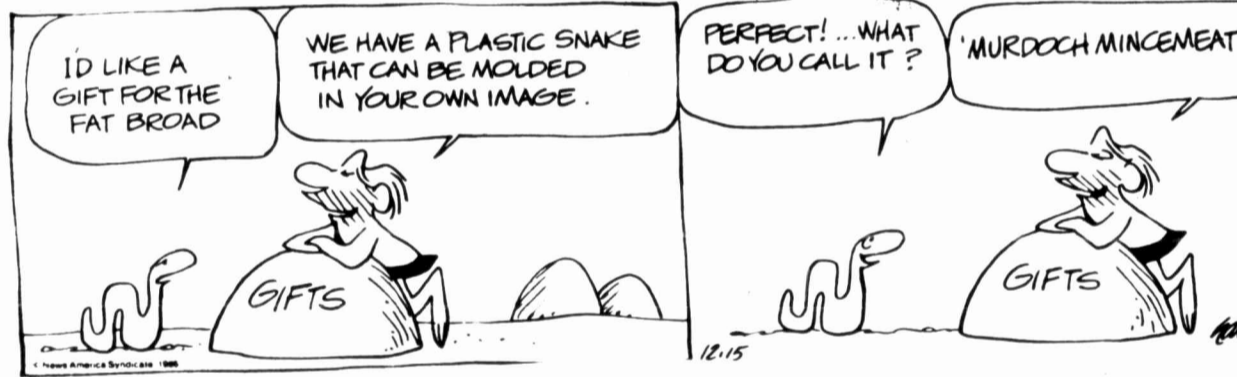

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young persons who will have every ability to learn about many things due to the inquisitive mind here. Upon reaching adulthood your progeny will put all this knowledge into practical expression with great swiftness.
