MOSCOW BULLETIN

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin announced today it will scrap its moratorium on nuclear weapons testing following the first U.S. explosion in 1987, saying the Soviet Union "cannot show unilateral restraint indefinitely."

The government statement was distributed by the official Tass news agency.

The Kremlin repeated its call for immediate "full-scale talks on a total nuclear test ban" and said if the United States halted nuclear tests, the Soviet Union would not resume testing.

"The U.S.S.R. is prepared to continue to respect its moratorium. Yet it will resume nuclear testing after the first nuclear explosion carried out by the U.S. next year," the statement said.

"At a time when the United States stubbornly continues to fulfill its nuclear test program to develop new nuclear weapons and build them up, the Soviet Union cannot show unilateral restraint indefinitely," it said.

Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev and other officials have repeatedly called on Washington to make the test ban mutual as a first step toward nuclear weapons reductions.

Holiday greetings

Postal worker Melvin Brown sorts out a mass of mail and Christmas cards that will be delivered to the Kentwood area. Although Christmas mail has been heavy this year, Postmaster Frank Hardesty said the post office has handled the flow. The Post Office will remain open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday for customers to mail parcels, purchase stamps or pick up parcels, he said. There will be incoming and outgoing dispatches at 2:30 and 5:30 Sunday afternoon. Hardesty advised that there will be express mail, special mail and perishable parcel delivery on Christmas day, as well as a Christmas morning dispatch arrival.

Phone troubles illustrate problem

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Less than 24 hours after a meeting to discuss the need for local telephone system improvements, the problem was exemplified by disruptions in local service this morning.

Big Spring is on a list of locations for major telephone system improvements, Darlene Gifford said Wednesday.

The community relations manager for Southwestern Bell informed business and city leaders of the possibility Wednesday afternoon.

Participants expressed their desire for the improvements, which they said would help attract new business to the area.

She said that "a major cable" serving several hundred customers was creating difficulties for phone users attempting to reach a dial tone this morning. There were also problems in successfully completing calls when a dial tone was reached, she said.

Nam Wall coming to Big Spring

By ROBERT WERNSMAN
City Editor

The Wall is on its way to Big Spring.

A one-half scale replica of the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial will be displayed here for one week beginning September 30, 1987. A location for the huge attraction is among the details discussed Wednesday by a master committee.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce Convention/Visitors' Bureau earlier in the day enthusiastically agreed to fund the needed $1,250 necessary to reserve the dates, said Liz Taylor, manager of the chamber's visitors bureau.

Big Spring is a most suitable location for the event, said Keith Gibbons, minister of College Heights Christian Church, because of the city's long-standing military orientation.

He spoke about the Veterans Administration Hospital and the former Webb Air Force Base in relation to Big Spring's military history when he addressed nearly 15 citizens at the second meeting of the committee. He is committee chairman.

A contract has been signed to guarantee the memorial's schedule for Big Spring, Gibbons reported.

Organizers hope to attract visitors from surrounding communities to view the display, Gibbons said.

Several locations are being considered for the display, which will require the approximate space of a football field, as well as adequate parking and handicap access. The display is 250 feet in length and 35 feet in depth.

A committee chaired by Charlie

Lewis will review the sites and recommend a location to the master committee.

A third meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. January 21 in the Chamber of Commerce meeting room. The group plans to meet on the third Wednesday of each month.

In addition to the site selection, the committee anticipates raising an additional $3,000 to fund the remaining half of the cost of contracting the visit and promotion expenses.

State prison director resigns

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Department of Corrections Director O.L. "Lane" McCotter has resigned under pressure from Gov.-elect Bill Clements, prison board chairman Alfred Hughes said Wednesday.

In a letter of resignation submitted to Hughes Wednesday, McCotter said he would leave his post Jan. 20, the day Clements takes the oath of office.

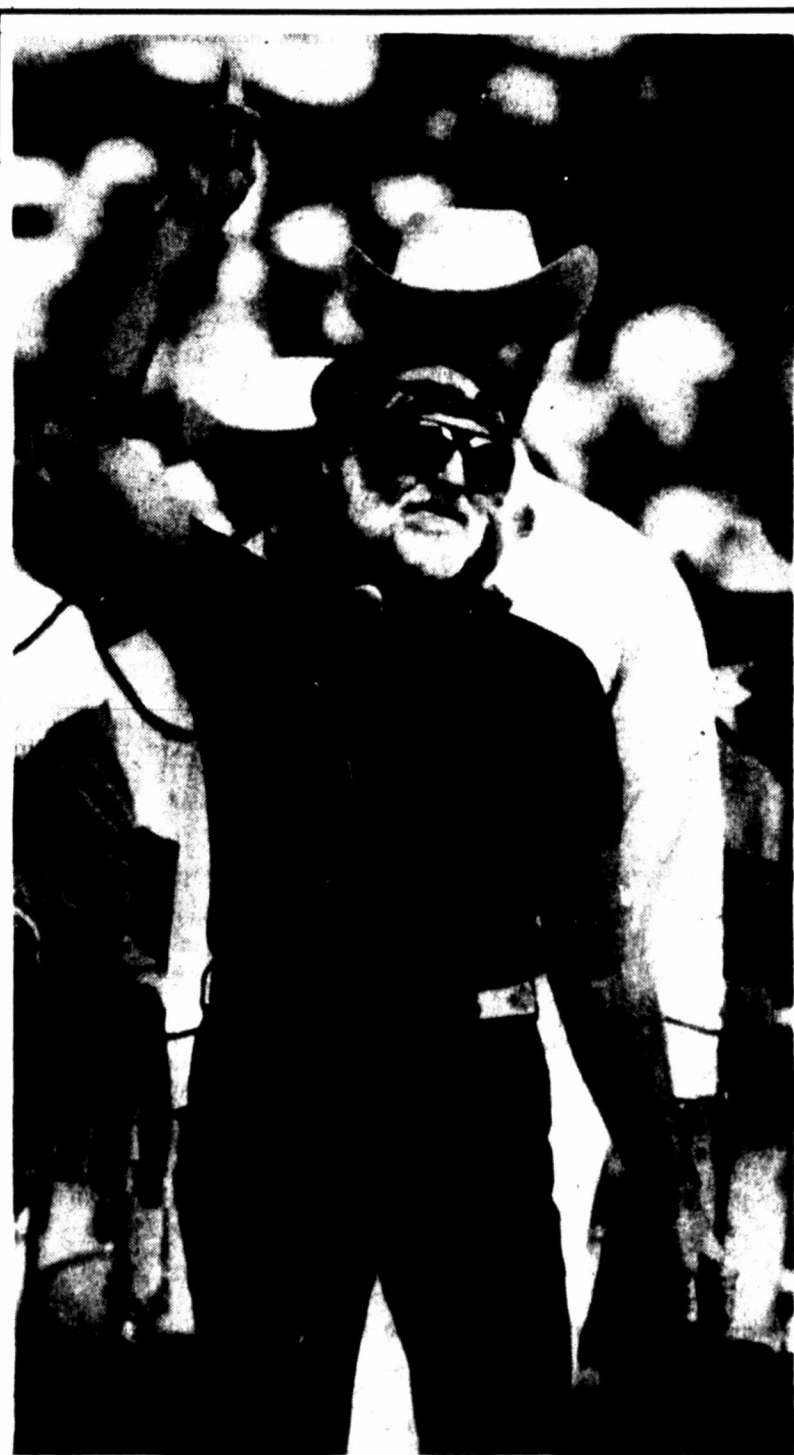

Clements has attacked McCotter's handling of the state prisons and has been specifically critical of McCotter's hiring of ex-military personnel for key TDC positions. Before taking the TDC job, McCotter commanded a military prison in Kansas.

"We approve of his action. It gives the board an opportunity for a new beginning and to change direction," Clements spokesman Reggie Bashur said, calling some of McCotter's policies "extremely liberal and permissive."

McCotter met briefly with his staff in Huntsville Wednesday to tell of his plans to quit, but he planned no public statements, TDC spokesman David Nunnelee said.

"He thanked his staff for their support and friendship," Nunnelee said. "Basically, he just said that the day he felt he became a deficit to the agency, he would leave. And he felt that day had arrived. ... He didn't cry or anything. He made the best of it."

Hughes said McCotter gave the clear impression that his decision was solely the result of Clements' criticism.

Willie's coming

Willie Nelson will perform in Big Spring March 14 at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, with proceeds to benefit the Comanche Trail Park restoration, coordinator Johnny Rutherford said. Tickets will go on sale for $20 after the first of the year, he said, adding that local residents will have two weeks to purchase tickets before they go on sale regionally. Rutherford said he anticipates that 6,000 tickets will be available.

Chamber's budget sees major cuts

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce board of directors approved the 1987 budget, Program of Action and committee chair appointments at its regular meeting Wednesday.

The total 1987 budget, according to Chamber information, is $251,731. The figure is $51,784 less than last year's $303,515 budget.

The budget indicates less money will be appropriated during the coming year for capital improvements, the Convention and Visitors Bureau, Cultural Development and Economic and Organizational Affairs departments.

The Convention and Visitors Bureau budget is $70,940, compared to this year's $102,504. Cultural Affairs will receive $4,566, compared to this year's $6,762.

Economic Development's budget is $15,500, compared to this year's $22,100. Organizational Affairs will receive $17,250, compared to this year's $24,630.

A few changes have been made in the Chamber Program of Action, Executive Vice President LeRoy Tillery said. Some of this year's committees have been eliminated and others have been combined, he said.

Cultural Affairs has been moved from the Public Affairs domain to Community Development, he said. The change was made to coordinate Cultural Affairs and the Convention and Visitors Bureau, which both receive funds from the city hotel/motel occupancy tax, he said.

In other business, the Chamber:

Medical Center not to buy ambulance

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Scenic Mountain Medical Center has no intentions of incorporating an ambulance service nor establishing air ambulance to transport patients, said Andy Gramlich, executive director at Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

"We prefer the ambulance service work out their difficulties with the county and the city," he said.

Gramlich's comments came this morning before city and county officials meet at 9 a.m. Friday to resolve recent criticism aimed at Lee Ambulance Service Owner Charles Ginn.

The criticism centers on a Nov. 21 incident involving the transportation of a critically ill four-month-old child.

Ginn has reported that Lee Ambulance Service suffers from not being able to meet a high operating expense. He said he has been more demanding of payment for services from customers in an attempt to decrease unpaid bills. He estimated an average of 30 percent of his monthly service is unpaid.

City Manager Mac Wofford said this morning the city council wants to form a six-person ambulance advisory committee "that would work with the ambulance service to establish better communication."

The committee would not have authority to set policy, but would be directly involved with the am- AMBULANCE page 2A

Padlock for safety results in deaths

MARSHALL (AP) — Sealed inside by a padlock they meant for security, seven people sleeping in a dilapidated wooden shed burned to death when a space heater sparked an explosion and fire, officials say.

Dorothy Anderson and her friend, Marian Green, were sleeping in the tiny two-room shed with their five children early Wednesday while the house out front was being remodeled, officials say.

After the 5 a.m. explosion, one of the mothers frantically scrambled to find the keys but was overcome by flames apparently sparked by an electric heater that set plastic and kerosene ablaze, city Fire Marshal Bill Elliott said.

"We found keys near one of the women's bodies," Elliott said. "Apparently she was trying to get to the door."

The victims were found huddled around a sofa in the 17-by-20-foot windowless shed, Fire Chief Jimmy Holmes said.

Elliott identified the victims as Ms. Anderson, 32; her daughter, Deanna, 12; and son, Willie, 10. Also killed were Ms. Green, 29; and her daughters, Connie Mae, 15, Tiakawi, 12, and Iantha, 9.

Pedestrian injured, burglary arrests announced

A Big Spring pedestrian was injured at 10:55 p.m. Wednesday when he was hit by a car.

Police reports stated that Rudolph Ethridge, 61, 909 Ohio St., was taken by ambulance to the Veterans Administration Medical Center after he received incapacitating injuries in the accident.

Ethridge was walking west across Gregg Street at the 1900 block when he was struck by a south-bound, 1969 Chevrolet Corvette driven by Matthew Steven Dahmer, 21, Route 1 Box 631.

Witnesses told police Dahmer tried in vain to swerve to avoid hitting Ethridge. The report stated the wet, slick road was a factor in the incident. No charges have been filed.

Two men and a male juvenile have been arrested and charged with committing 15 to 20 residential burglaries on the west side of Big Spring during the past six months, according to a press release by police Lt. Jerry Edwards.

Most of the items stolen were videocassette recorders, televisions, microwaves and jewelry, and some property has been recovered, Edwards said.

Johnny Ezell, 17, 1509 Avion, and Santos Javier Lopez, 21, 1111 W. Seventh St. have been charged with the burglaries. The juvenile, unnamed, has been referred to the Juvenile Probation Office.

Ezell remains in the Howard County jail, and Lopez has been released on bond, Edwards said.

$300 in furniture removed from Donley St. residence

Thieves stole two rocking chairs with yellow cloth covers, a wooden love seat with red cushions and two wooden end tables from 505 Donley St. Craft Olson, 1703 Yale Ave., told police the theft occurred between Monday and Tuesday mornings. Monetary loss was listed at $300.

Lisa Ann Lloyd, 1400 Lancaster St., told police someone stole her purse, containing $120 cash, a $35 check, her checkbook, drivers' license and keys. The incident occurred Wednesday night.

A $128 boy's bicycle was stolen between Monday and Tuesday nights from the residence of Corlynn Blessmeyer, 1801 Grafia Ave.

Regina Payne, 509 S. Johnson St., told police that someone she knows kicked the passenger door of her Chevrolet sedan Wednesday morning, causing $250 damage. The incident occurred in the 500 block of East Ninth Street.

Bobby Williams, 26, 4221 Hamilton Ave., was arrested Wednesday on warrants for delivery of a controlled substance and theft by appropriation. He was transferred to the county jail and released on $9,500 bond.

Williams is the sixth subject to be arrested in an undercover drug investigation. Acting Police Chief Lonnie Smith has said he expects at least 13 arrests in all.

Hilario Silva Casas, 37, 303 E. Sixth St., was arrested Wednesday for carrying a prohibited weapon and driving without a license. He was transferred to the county jail and released on $2,500 bond.

Jessie Mack Myles, 2211 Rummels St., was arrested at 300 Tulane Ave. Wednesday on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. He was transferred to the county jail and released on $1,000 bond.

Four people were arrested Wednesday on traffic warrants.

Karen J. McCarthy, 4200 Wasson Drive, no age available; Louis Wayne Howell, 17, Sterling City Route Box 114A; Keith Hopkins Bristow, 39, 2600 Crestline Road; and Frances Billaba Flores, 33, 1507 S. Scurry St., were arrested in separate incidents Wednesday.

Donald Raymond Peterson, 46, 901 Second St., was arrested Wednesday on a warrant.

An armed robbery occurred at Fast Stop Grocery, 1500 E. Fourth St., at 9:50 p.m. Wednesday, according to police reports.

Someone with a small caliber automatic handgun ordered clerk Barbara Daniels to give him the money in the cash register, then fled the scene with an undetermined amount of cash.

No one was reported hurt in the incident.

Suspect arrested on delivery charge

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested Danny Eugene Hull, 22, 4207 W. Highway 80, Wednesday afternoon on a delivery of a controlled substance warrant. He was released on $10,000 bond.

Deputies arrested Robert Perez Garza, 37, 309 W. Fifth St., on a Mitchell County revocation of probation warrant. He was convicted previously on a driving while intoxicated charge. He was released later to Mitchell County Deputy O.D. Majors for transfer to Colorado City.

Police transferred Leslie Robert Lloyd, 20, 3900 Parkway Rd., to county jail Wednesday morning after he was arrested on delivery of a controlled substance. He was released on $10,000 bond.

Pirkles and CRMWD win lighting contest

The home of A.J. and Debbie Pirkle, at 609 Washington Blvd., was the first place residential winner in this year's Christmas Lighting Contest, sponsored by the Beautification Committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

In the commercial division, the first place winner was the Colorado River Municipal Water District at 400 E. 24th St.

The contest included 26 entries that were judged on color, design, placement, creativity and overall effectiveness in expressing the idea of Christmas. Only entries within the city limits were judged.

The winners were announced by Hayes Stripling III, chairman of the Beautification Committee.

Additional residential winners were: second place, Randy Mason 3200 Duke St., and third place, Hooper Sanders, 9 Highland Heather.

Three other homes received honorable mention — Mrs. Horace Garrett, 715 Edwards Blvd.; Freddy and Sue Ward, 2610 Albrook Drive; and Robert Hoyes, 2402 Cheyenne Drive.

The top residential winners received $100 for first place, $50 for second and $25 for third place. Other commercial winners were: second place, Citizens Federal Credit Union, 701 E. FM 700, and third place, Miss Royale, 1509 S. Gregg St.

All of the other commercial entries received honorable mention — Hunan Chinese Restaurant, 1201 S. Gregg St.; Bent Tree Apartments, 1 Courtney Place; Rosita's Fajitas, 404 E. FM 700; and State National Bank, 901 S. Main St.

Winners in the commercial category received certificates of recognition.

Other participants in the residential contest were:

Ray Adams, 606 Holbert St.; Ann Thompson, 613 McEwen St.; James Wrightscl, 605 Bucknell St.; Johnny and Mickie McGregor, 3206 Fordham Ave.; Errol and Kay Porter, 107 E. 16th St.; Dave and Sharon Justice, 1201 Pennsylvania St.; Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Fraser, 1600 Kiowa St.

Also, Byron Harris, 2800 Crestline Road; Marshall Byerley, 4028 Vicky St.; Maurice Collier, 2803 Goliad St.; F. LeRoy Tillery, 3 Highland Heather; David Wrinkle, 2919 Macaulan St.; and L.K. Gladden, 600 Highland Drive.

proach the fundraising in a low key manner and this morning Gibbons announced that all contributions may be sent to P.O. Box 2854, Big Spring. Checks should be addressed to "The Wall" or "The Wall Committee." Donations are tax deductible, Gibbons said.

Dock Voorhees, Veterans Administration social worker, said that "interest is definitely enthusiastic" from veterans' representatives in Midland, Lubbock and Amarillo.

Among the locations being considered by the group are the Webb Air Force Base golf course, an area southeast of Highland Mall, and Howard College parking lot.

Other items the committee discussed Wednesday night were:

The Wall cannot be used as a fundraising activity. Donations can't be accepted nor admission charged to view the replica.

"They (project owners) are very strict on money," Gibbons said. "This is strictly a war memorial."

It is possible that the display will remain open 24 hours daily while it is in Big Spring.

Phone

Repair efforts were underway this morning and Gibbons said that some but not all service was expected to be restored this afternoon.

"We don't have hopes of complete repair today. Some customers will be affected in the morning (Friday)," she said.

Johnny Lou Avery, a member of the governor-appointed Super Conducting Supercollider committee, said Wednesday that community leaders are launching an all-out effort for phone system improvements.

She said that with the present, outdated system, this area's chance of attracting the supercollider are greatly reduced.

Meeting participants complained of problems with the system ranging from being "cut off" during phone conversations to difficulty transmitting computer data.

Jo Ann Staulcup, chief of office operations at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, said the VA plans to install a new phone system, but is waiting until the local system is updated.

She said the VA often has trouble transmitting computer data through the system and making in-house calls.

"That's a real problem in a hospital," she said, adding that the hospital doesn't have the capability of handling its volume of in-house calls.

Tony Belaski, superintendent at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, cited the possibility that a second prison will be built here, doubling the prison population and requiring additional phone services.

Clyde McMahon Jr., president of the Industrial Foundation, said the faulty phone system could present problems for businesses considering locating here.

Gifford of Southwestern Bell said updating the phone system has been considered for several years. The company was on the verge of approving the project when the oil recession struck, "setting back a lot of things," she said.

The cost of such an update would be $7 million to $10 million, she said.

Gene Solloway, Southwestern Bell district manager in Odessa, said that when the company receives a $3-4 million rate increase but needs to spend at least $7 million on one town, "you have to make hard decisions."

But he said "I don't think it's a revenue question. It's a competition for dollars, where you invest your money." He compared the company's decision to that of an individual investing in the stock market. "You're looking for the best return for your money," he said.

He said he believes if money had been available, Big Spring would have been updated earlier.

Solloway said Southwestern Bell is currently deciding which systems to improve during 1988. Gifford said Big Spring is on the list for consideration for repairs during the first half of 1988.

She said the project takes about a year for planning, training employees, shipping and installing the new equipment.

condense present rules, while not changing their meaning.

The policies and procedures manual amendment changes the policy on dismissal of employees to read that "employees serve at the will of the executive vice president and may be dismissed by the executive vice president at any time for any reason."

Attorney Drew Mouton said the change is designed to prevent any future legal problems.

Changed the Big Spring Independent School District ex-officio member from the president of the school board to the superintendent.

Tillery said the change will give the Chamber one constant representative to deal with, since the school board president is elected annually.

Announced the annual banquet will be Feb. 6 at 7 p.m. at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Tickets will go on sale in January for $12.50.

ambulance service to work for a more effective and functioning operation, he said.

"It's difficult for governmental bodies such as the city and county to be directly involved with the ambulance service," Wofford said.

Wofford hopes the committee will be established by the first of the new year.

Gramlich said he had been questioned earlier by local media about ambulance service.

"Evidently, a rumor got out that we were getting into the ambulance service," he said.

Although a number of hospitals do have their own ambulance service, Scenic Mountain Medical Center prefers to concentrate "on patients once they have reached the hospital," Gramlich said.

"As for providing air transport, it would not be feasible here for us to do," Gramlich said.

Expense, maintenance and the high liability risk involved with air ambulance were cited as problems.

Also a need for air ambulance service is not evident, Gramlich said. Since his appointment to Scenic Mountain Medical Center in September, Gramlich said he knows of two patients requiring air ambulance transport from Big Spring.

De Lorean acquitted

DETROIT — John De Lorean says his second victory over federal prosecutors, acquittal of embezzling $8.5 million from his failed sports-car company, will make the 20 civil suits against him fall "like dominoes."

De Lorean, 61, wept and cried "Praise God!" as the jury foreman read the verdicts Wednesday on each of the 15 counts of racketeering and fraud. He then jumped up and embraced his attorneys, Howard Weitzman and Juanita Brooks.

Weitzman successfully defended De Lorean in 1984 in Los Angeles, when he was cleared of trying to distribute $24 million in cocaine in what prosecutors said was a desperate bid to save his failing company.

Attorneys say about 20 lawsuits arising from his company's collapse remain unsettled, and De Lorean said the litigation "will be like dominoes," as a result of his acquittal.

Voyager near halfway

LOS ANGELES — The crew of the experimental aircraft Voyager today neared the halfway point of its historic effort to fly around the world on one tank of fuel, but had to check a suspected inaccuracy in their gas gauge.

Voyager was about halfway between Sri Lanka and the eastern coast of Africa at 7:30 a.m. EST, more than 11,500 miles into the 25,000-mile trip.

After passing Sri Lanka on Wednesday evening, Voyager broke the 11,235-mile world record in straight-line flight for a piston-driven plane set 20 years ago by a Lockheed P2V-1.

The craft also was expected today to break the 12,532-mile standard for absolute straight-line distance set by an Air Force B-52 jet bomber in 1962.

Gang-rape victim dies

BOSTON — A woman thrust into a national spotlight after she was gang-raped on a tavern pool table has died in a Florida auto accident, according to her lawyer, who called it "the last tragic chapter of her life."

Cheryl A. Araujo, 25, was killed Sunday when she lost control of her car and slammed into a utility pole near her new home in Miami. Her two daughters were injured, but not seriously.

The cause of the crash was not known, but investigators Wednesday said alcohol or drugs were not involved.

Ms. Araujo moved to Florida from her hometown of New Bedford after the March 1984 convictions of four men who had attacked her a year before, said Scott Charnas, her attorney during the widely publicized trial.

Members of the family of Eugene Hasenfus react Wednesday during a news conference in Marinette, Wis., after learning of his release from prison in Nicaragua. Smiling in the center is his sister, Sandie Coopens, with her husband, Jack. At the right is Sylvia Hotherr, the sister of Hasenfus' wife. Hasenfus received a pardon Wednesday from President Ortega.

Hasenfus

Freed and coming home to U.S.

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Eugene Hasenfus, pardoned by Nicaragua after being jailed two months for smuggling weapons to the Contra rebels, spent his first night of freedom at the U.S. ambassador's residence in Guatemala.

Hasenfus, 45, and his wife, Sally, planned to fly today to Miami and from there to their home in Marinette, Wis.

"Today has been a great surprise," he said Wednesday as he was released in Managua, Nicaragua. "A day that I will surely remember in my heart forever. I want to thank President (Daniel) Ortega, his staff and the Nicaraguan people."

The American mercenary was captured Oct. 6 after Nicaraguan soldiers shot down the Contra supply plane on which he was a cargo handler. Two other Americans on the plane were killed. Hasenfus was sentenced last month to 30 years in jail for terrorism and other crimes.

At Ortega's request, the Nicaraguan National Assembly voted Wednesday to pardon Hasenfus to show the leftist Sandinista government's desire for peace with the United States. The U.S. recently approved $100 million in aid to the Contras, Nicaraguan guerrillas who are fighting to overthrow the Sandinistas.

At a ceremony at the presidential press office,

Ortega released the American into the custody of U.S. Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn. The Hasenfuses immediately flew to nearby Guatemala in a private jet arranged by Dodd.

Dodd, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee traveling in Central America, met Tuesday with Ortega to discuss Hasenfus' case.

The senator issued a statement Wednesday saying Hasenfus was released on humanitarian grounds.

"I did not ask that he be pardoned, and there was no quid pro quo for his release," he said. "Mr. Hasenfus' situation was a small part of my conversation with Ortega, perhaps 15 minutes of a 4½-hour conversation."

Dodd told ABC's "Good Morning America" today that he accepted at face value the reasons the Sandinistas gave for releasing Hasenfus.

"They said this was the Christmas season, (and that they wanted to) reunite a family... I think they wanted to demonstrate to people in the United States that they could be humane."

But he also added: "I'm certain there were also some political considerations." Asked whether Hasenfus' release was linked to Iran-Contras scandal, Dodd responded: "If it is, it didn't come up."

Hasenfus did not attend a news conference Wednesday night at the U.S. Embassy in Guatemala City.

Soviet poet released

MOSCOW — A dissident poet who spent 120 days in a cell where the temperature was kept near freezing flies to London today for treatment of heart and lung ailments aggravated by her imprisonment.

Irina Ratushinskaya, 32, unexpectedly was released from prison Oct. 9 after serving 3½ years of a 7-year term for anti-Soviet activities.

Ms. Ratushinskaya and her husband, Igor Gerashchenko, have a travel permission valid for three months, but Ms. Ratushinskaya said she was unsure how long they would be abroad.

She said the length of their stay would depend on her recovery pace and "whatever happens here."

Vietnam leader named

HANOI, Vietnam — The Communist Party today named Nguyen Van Linh, a 73-year-old economic reformer, as Vietnam's leader and moved other proponents of change into top positions.

They replace aging revolutionaries who helped found the party in 1930 and unified the country in 1975 at the end of the Vietnam war.

The outgoing leaders have been criticized in the past few months for failing to revive Vietnam's economy.

The Sixth Party Congress also chose a new 13-member Politburo, the day-to-day ruling body. The Voice of Vietnam radio said six Politburo members were dropped, including Defense Minister Van Tien Dung.

The broadcast also said the congress named 124 full members and 49 alternate members to the policymaking Central Committee.

Gamble linked to aid

TORONTO — Canadian news reports said former legislator John Gamble, an associate of Canadian businessmen who helped finance U.S. arms sales to Iran, is North American chairman of a group that raises funds for the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

Asked about the reports, Solicitor General Jim Kelleher told Parliament that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who are investigating Canadian involvement in the Iran arms scandal, "will involve anyone that comes to their notice."

Gamble, an attorney who lost his Conservative seat in Parliament in 1984, is North American chairman of the World Anti-Communist League, the Toronto Globe and Mail and CTV television news reported.

USDA report sees spurt in net cash income for farmers

By MIKE ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Net cash income for the farm sector in 1987 could grow to as much as $50 billion, the Agriculture Department says.

Growth of at least $1 billion from the 1986 level of $44 billion was envisioned Wednesday in the department's Agricultural Outlook publication.

The forecast, which comes out 11 times a year, said 1987 net cash income, measured in 1982 dollars, might reach its highest level since 1979.

It said direct cash payments could exceed the $12 billion to $13 billion estimated for the current year.

USDA's Economic Research Service, which produces the outlook, said it was likely there would be a slip in cash receipts of 1 percent to 3 percent, with crops falling about 6 percent and livestock gaining about 2 percent. But a possible drop of 3 percent was forecast for total farm production expenses, which decreased 5 percent this year.

The debt-asset ratio of the nation's farmers most likely climbed from 25 percent in 1985 to 26-27 percent for 1986, according to the report. It said the ratio should remain at that level for 1987. The figure for 1981 was 19 percent.

Returns on assets probably dropped to 3 percent in 1986 from 3.3 percent, it said. It said there most likely would be a rise to 3.7 percent in 1987, with improved income and lower asset values.

Meanwhile, it said growth of foreign demand for farm goods in the late 1980s could double from the 1 percent to 1.5 percent rate of increase in the early part of the decade.

Factors that could spur such a change include expanding income, declining inflation, lower interest rates and rapid world population growth.

In fact, total U.S. grain disappearance — the amount consumed domestically and exported — could recover to the levels of the early 1970s, according to the forecast.

Acreage reduction programs raise the cost of production relative to those of other countries and thus lower U.S. competitiveness, the report noted.

But it said that "increasing U.S. productivity and large existing stocks will require heavy reliance on acreage reduction programs throughout the period."

The European Community most likely will remain a tough competitor for grain export markets, the report said.

High internal prices continue to boost production within the EC, according to the report. It said poor weather could again make the Soviet Union a major grain importer.

But it added: "The trends suggest that the centrally planned countries as a group will not be a source of growth in world trade in the late 1980s."

It did say that grain trade prospects were favorable in East Asia, North Africa, the Middle East and Central America.

Census Bureau aids Japanese

The original purpose of establishing a Census Bureau was to determine how many congressmen each state was entitled to elect.

Federal bureaus, however, tend to expand and the Census Bureau is no exception. Over the years it has evolved into a keeper of all sorts of statistics about individuals.

The bureau asks questions about everything from marital status and national origin to the type of appliances one uses and other queries totally unrelated to numerical representation in Congress.

True, much of the data is useful to business, which is probably why, back in 1902, a permanent Census Bureau was placed under the U.S. Commerce Department. The data spared many companies from having to conduct and pay for their own market research.

Ever increasing its operations, the bureau moved into the international field in 1984 by agreeing to swap data with the Chinese State Statistical Bureau, its counterpart in communist China. That move has finally paid off.

For Japan, that is. Last year, the Chinese presented Washington with reams of fresh data on potential consumers in China and their buying habits, invaluable data to U.S. exporters seeking to take advantage of Peking's recently liberalized trade policies.

The U.S. bureau put the information into an 187-page report that it didn't publish as a result of budget constraints.

Instead, the information was included in a U.S. Commerce Department compilation — "Country Market Profile: The People's Republic of China," priced at $300 a copy.

Since it went on sale last December, less than a dozen copies have been sold — in the United States, that is. But the Japan External Trade Organization (JETRO) in New York obtained a copy of the report, which is not copyrighted, and within weeks translated it into Japanese and published it in book form. Free copies were given to 710 Japanese member organizations interested in China trade. JETRO then printed another 500 copies for sale at about $20 each.

After the report was distributed in Japan, the Census Bureau located an American publisher, Westview Press of Boulder, Colo., which plans to sell English copies for $35 each. Americans will be elated to know that dollars they spend in taxes to support the Census Bureau are helping Japanese businessmen locate new customers in the world marketplace. Or will they?

Citizens unhappy with treatment

To the editor:
A friend of mine who has been a prominent citizen in Big Spring all her life could testify to this story. My wife works for this person as a private sitter for her grandmother, who is 87 years old. She and my wife had loaded the wheelchair in the family van and took her grandmother to Dr. Sheets' office in Odessa for a lens implant. This took place on Dec. 11 when it was cold and snow was on the ground. After the surgery, they went to a restaurant and parked in a handicapped parking area. It took both my wife and her friend to handle the grandmother. When they returned to the van, they noticed the van had been ticketed for being parked in a handicapped zone. They took the ticket and went to the courthouse to inquire and explain the situation. They met with Judge Weatherly, who was not helpful or concerned about their problem. The judge gave them some paperwork to complete and return within five days. When they asked about the paperwork, he informed them that if they did not shut up he would arrest them for contempt of court. They were shocked by this type of treatment, and as they were leaving the courtroom our friend made a statement to my wife and was arrested immediately outside the courtroom. She then was taken to the jail and my wife was not allowed to go with her. She said she was frisked in a vulgar way by a female officer who was very hateful to her and made ugly remarks. All this was being done in view of male officers. On top of this embarrassing situation, she was thrown into jail for three days, without bail. My wife pleaded with the sheriff to consider their situation. He said he would talk to the judge to see what he could do. The judge said to bring the prisoner to his private chamber and he would talk with her. He told her that he could have given her six months, but that if she would humble herself and apologize before the court that he would release her. She said she felt she had done nothing wrong, but because of the situation she would cooperate. They put her, my wife and her grandmother, who was locked in the van for three hours, through pure hell over a parking ticket. If this is the way justice is conducted, I believe we have a problem. I would like to hear what others have to say about this situation.

Another New York arms deal involves Iraq, CIA, DIA, FBI

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR
WASHINGTON — The American public is beginning to learn more than it may have wanted to know about the murky world of international arms deals. Nothing illustrates the Byzantine intrigue of big-time arms trafficking better than a case now on the docket in New York.

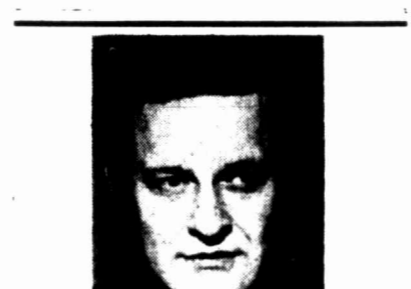

At one point, the judge suggested that the defendants' lawyers had read "one spy novel too many." Indeed, the defendants' case has elements of mystery and alleged double-dealing that would be quite at home in a John Le Carre novel.

The defendants, HLB Security Electronics Ltd., Solomon Schwartz and three other individuals, are accused of illegally attempting to sell arms to Poland, Iraq and Argentina. The case is being conducted under the Classified Information Procedures Act of 1980, which keeps sensitive material under wraps during trial. But our associate Donald Goldberg has had access to many of the details of the complex case.

The government charged in a recent indictment that Schwartz and the others tried to sell 500 Ruger automatic rifles and 100,000 rounds of ammunition to Poland, and other forbidden weapons to Iraq and Argentina.

The defendants claim their deals were part of an elaborate plan to obtain two Soviet T-72 tanks and some SAM-7 shoulder-fired anti-aircraft missiles and launchers for the Pentagon. The Defense Intelligence Agency has wanted to study the metals and technology used in the Soviet weapons.

According to the plan, the New York-based HLB was to sell the guns and ammo to Poland and Iraq, which is a military customer of both Poland and the Soviet Union. The idea was to disguise the

Jack Anderson

U.S. government's involvement. But a government informant, who also happens to be a competitor of HLB in the sale of counterspy equipment, found out about the scheme while he was secretly helping a Customs Service investigation of technology transfers to the Soviet bloc. This led to the defendants' indictment. Sources say that Assistant U.S. Attorney David Kirby contacted the FBI and the DIA after Schwartz first told prosecutors that he had been working on the two agencies' behalf. FBI and DIA officials denied having authorized the illegal arms transaction, the sources said. In court testimony, officials of the agencies admitted meeting with Schwartz, but denied encouraging or approving any illegal acts. In September, the defendants asked permission to present classified information at their impending trial. That's when U.S. District Judge Thomas Platt made his remark about the defense attorneys' reading tastes. Schwartz then submitted a length affidavit giving explicit information to support his defense. The sworn statement identifies agents of the CIA, DIA and FBI with whom Schwartz had discussed the plan to obtain the Soviet weapons. It also gives the dates and locations of the discussions, including at least five with the FBI's counterintelligence division and several at DIA headquarters in Washington.

Schwartz maintains that he kept federal officials fully informed of his dealings, and told them he might have to sell U.S. arms behind the Iron Curtain to pull off the coup.

The confidential informant was Ben Jamil, owner of CCS Communications Control Inc., a New York competitor of HLB in the counterspy equipment field. Jamil was indicted in 1981 on charge of illegally selling espionage equipment to Syria, Guinea, Switzerland and Greece. The charges were dropped when Jamil agreed to become an informant for federal prosecutors.

According to the HLB prosecutor in a letter to the judge, Jamil provided "valuable information regarding potential felony violations of federal export and other laws and has done so at significant risk to himself."

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: The latest country to experience the stirrings of Moslem fundamentalism as preached by Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini is Jordan.

Intelligence sources report that young people are particularly attracted to the fundamentalist dogma, and there have been demands that the government impose the strict Islamic legal code. There is growing concern in intelligence circles that the fundamentalist influence will create instability in the Kingdom.

Game is ratting on friends

By ART BUCHWALD
One of the major players in the takeover game is Marvin "The Shark" Armbaker, whose brilliance at Wall Street's crap tables with loaded dice has not only captured the imaginations of the American public, but the Securities and Exchange Commission as well. Marvin was waiting with his lawyer outside the SEC enforcer's office to make his most important deal, after having just sold out his mother and all her friends in a hostile takeover.

I said, "The SEC wants you badly. Do you have any idea why?" "They're mad at me because I'm greedy," he said. "That certainly isn't illegal." "By using I made $100 million by using inside information on the merger of Wilkie Tent Pins and Cyrus Cotton Balls."

"Why would they say that?" "Clara Dooley, the chairman's secretary, moved in with me a week before the merger took place and told me what was going on. It was just pillow talk." "Pillow talk is not inside information," Marvin's lawyer said. "Besides, just because the secretary of a major player is keeping house for him doesn't mean Armbaker made a killing on her company's stock."

Marvin said, "The SEC always gangs up on anyone who owns more than three Mercedes Benzes and a

Art Buchwald

Har-Tru tennis court." "That's not right," I said. "If it wasn't for guys like you and Ivan Boesky there would be no avarice in this country at all."

Marvin said, "Making money is my life. I have a house in East Hampton, a boat in Fort Lauderdale, and a treehouse in Nairobi. But I'd rather spend my weekends in the men's room of the World Trade Center getting inside information on a U.S. Steel takeover."

The SEC enforcer came out of his office and yelled, "Armbaker, you've violated the law and we're going to make you pay for it. We're fining you $150 million."

"I know my rights," said Marvin. "I'm allowed to make one telephone call."

"But," the SEC enforcer said, "you have your lawyer with you."

Around the rim They scream at me only in my dreams

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer
Last Thursday night, after attending the Howard College basketball game, I decided to head over to the Brass Nail and check out the action. I hadn't been out in a while, and I figured it was a good night. The Texas Gentlemen, a group of male strippers, were in town, and I'd heard the women would be there by the hundreds.

It was about 11 p.m. when I pulled into the parking lot, thinking I'd given the gentlemen ample time to put their clothes back on and return from whence they came — probably the spa.

I walked in the lobby and a bunch of guys were standing around — smoking, waiting, getting impatient. A manager at the bar told us the show was almost over. Every so often he stuck his neck in the lobby to tell us to make room for a gentleman as he passed, near naked, on his way to the dressing room. He didn't have to say it twice.

In the background, we heard the shrieks of women — not exactly a confidence builder. I can't speak for my partners in the lobby, but for the life of me I couldn't imagine my near naked body getting such a reaction.

Instead, I imagined jeers and laughter, and one of those big hooks they once used on the Ed Sullivan Show.

The manager finally gave us the green light, and we headed for the bar, thinking the gentlemen had finished.

They had not. The women still were screaming.

Scattered throughout the bar, and not lacking for attention, three or four near-naked bozos flexed their buns and bosoms while ladies shoved dollar bills into their underwear.

When I was little, one of our favorite things to do was to give wedgies. You snuck up behind your friend, spied the tag on his underwear, and lifted him by it.

The gentlemen appeared to have used a similar method in dressing themselves for the evening. Only, instead of Hanes or Fruit-of-the-Loom, these guys wore something resembling Pampers. Wedgie Pampers.

The girls didn't seem to mind. They screamed. The announcer pointed to the different stages, the spotlight followed, and the now-mindless girls screamed some more.

"Marco! Stage three!" he instructed. The huge headlight aimed at stage three and heads turned. Marco must not have heard, because he just stood there, talking to an admirer, mooning the crowd. The big spotlight shined on Marco's wedgie. The women screamed.

"To center stage, for the Italian Stallion!"

The Stallion rolled across the stage in a cartwheel and, to the delight of the ladies, began shaking like a man with his toe in an electric socket. The Stallion swung his arms like windmills, and danced about as if on hot coals. The women screamed.

Somebody at my table, watching the Stallion's unorthodox style of dance, wondered aloud if maybe Marco and the Stallion weren't more than just good friends. Everybody at the table laughed and agreed that had to be the case. What else could explain the Stallion's cheerleader-like contortions.

Of course, that's probably just sour grapes. After all, there were no women at our table.

They were leaning over the stage, bug-eyed, getting their fill of the Stallion.

The women screamed. I'd had enough.

I drove down Gregg Street, bought myself a hot dog and went home. Once home I didn't do any sit-ups or push-ups as I'd told myself I might. Instead, I turned on the tube and lodged myself on the sofa. I allowed myself a little daydreaming before the real ones started.

I imagined just one woman screaming.

RSVP planning tour trip to Nashville, Gatlinburg

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) of Big Spring is organizing a tour trip to Nashville and Gatlinburg, Tenn. May 6-12.

The group will fly from Midland to Nashville with a stop-over in Dallas. The Nashville tour will include seeing the homes of the music stars, the Johnny CashTwitty City Tour, a day at Opryland Park and an evening at the Grand Ole Opry.

In addition to the music tours, the group will take a trip into the past with a visit to the National Historic Landmark, the Hermitage, and the home of President Andrew Jackson where the buildings on the 625-acre plantation have been restored.

After the Hermitage Tour, a riverboat ride will be taken down the Cumberland River and an evening meal will be served aboard the riverboat.

On the way to Gatlinburg, there will be a three to four hour delay and the group will visit Dollywood at Pigeon Forge.

Upon reaching Gatlinburg, a tour will be taken of the Great Smokey Mountain National Park where the group can view the chimney tops, loop overpass, Newfound Gap and Clingmans Dome.

After touring Tennessee, North Carolina will be the next stop. The group will visit with the Cherokee Indians for a day and then fly from Knoxville to Dallas and on to Midland.

Price of the tour is $850 and includes airline tickets, six nights in the Best Western Motel (double occupancy), entrance to all attractions, breakfast for six mornings, going away dinner the last night of the tour and roundtrip transportation to the airport.

For registration or further information, contact Joy Decker, RSVP project director, 267-2589. Registration is due by Jan. 23.

The absolute truth is everybody lies a little

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter about the little boy who lies. There is a good reason for it. I lied as a child because that's the way I was brought up. "Tell the man I'm not home." "Don't tell Daddy I bought a new dress." "Tell Auntie you love her." "Tell the lady in the box office you're 11 years old." "Tell the teacher you were sick."

Children learn early to lie. And who teaches them? We grown-ups, who are supposed to know better. Shame on us. Lying is a habit that is hard to break. Is there a cure?

42 AND STILL LYING
DEAR 42: Yes. First the liar must admit that he or she is lying. Obviously, there are different degrees of lying. The purist would protest, saying a statement is either true or it isn't. And if it's not true, it's a lie. But there are exaggerations (to make a better story) until there's more embroidery than fabric — and that's industrial-strength lying.

There are the big, bold lies ("I didn't do it!") "My children never gave me one minute's trouble"), and little white lies ("You look enough to tell the truth to posterity, a document which he suppresses until there is nobody left alive to contradict him."

Now, the cure for lying: One must think before he speaks, then ask himself: Is it true? And if it isn't, opt for silence rather than speak an untruth — which is another "sin" (omission).

So, you see, it's not easy to be totally truthful. But we can all try to improve our batting averages. It's never too late to turn over a new leaf. And that's no lie. Or is it?

DEAR ABBY: I was married to a man who thought one child was enough. When I got pregnant the second time (by accident), my husband wanted me to have an abortion. I refused, so he insisted that after the baby was born the doctor should perform a tubal ligation to be sure there would be no more accidents. In fact, he said he wouldn't bring me home from the hospital until I had one. I was stupid enough to go along with it.

Well, we were divorced, and we both have remarried. I regret more than I can say that I listened to that selfish man. If I had had any brains I would have told him to get a vasectomy.

Now I can't have any more children. My "ex" and his new wife are expecting and he is on cloud nine.

REGRETTING

DEAR REGRETTING: Your point is well-taken. Women, file this away in your memory bank. If your mate wants a childless marriage, tell him to get vasectomized.

DEAR ABBY: We who work at the Postal Service would like nothing more than to get your cards, letters and parcels to their destinations as quickly as possible. You can help us by writing (or printing) clearly the name, address and ZIP code of the recipient.

If you can't read it, neither can we. This holiday season please give us a break!

LOREN K. DULUTH, MINN.

DEAR LOREN: And may I add that a return address is always a good idea in case the letter or parcel is undeliverable.

Cosden Oil 25-Year Club has annual dinner-dance

Approximately 350 members and guests gathered Friday evening at the Howard College Coliseum for the Cosden 25-Year Club annual dinner-dance.

Twenty-six employees were inducted into the club.

Ross Westbrook, director industrial relations, Fina Oil and Chemical Co.; Sam Hunnicutt, vice president pipeline; and Ken Perry, president and chief executive officer, Fina Oil Co. Dallas, presented the new club members with their 25-year rings and gold membership cards.

New 25-year members are Ted Thomas, Larry Nix, Troy McClelland, John Dever, V.C. Rigdon, Thomas Kelley, Alton Richardson, Wally Whittington, Thelma Rains, Bobby Fuller, Bobby Stewart, Lon Baucum, Phil Elliott, Jimmy Johnson, Kenneth Lane, Charles Hicks, Roosevelt Shaw, Harold Broughton, Finis Tibbs, Jimmy Newsom, Stan Griffin, Tommy Parrish, Jackie Rinard, Delbert Bruchett, Jimmy Self and Larry McDonald.

After the social hour and dinner, a short business meeting was conducted by Bill Grigg, president. Grigg recognized the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Haddock and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Comeaux from Fina Oil and Chemical Company.

President Ken Perry addressed the group congratulating the new members and thanking them for their loyalty to the company for their years of service. Perry told everyone the status of the company at present looks promising.

A moment of silent meditation was observed as a remembrance of the 14 deceased members during 1986.

Elected officers for 1987 are Roe Fulgham, president; Kirby Brown, vice president; and Vi Ballou, secretary-treasurer.

Bill Grigg, out-going president, passed the gavel to incoming president Roe Fulgham.

Meeting was adjourned to make preparations for the dance to the Sugar Creek Band.

In congestive heart failure, lungs are victim

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A while back I rushed myself to emergency of a nearby hospital. I had a peculiar feeling. It was diagnosed as congestive heart failure. I wondered, why heart failure since what I had was a problem breathing?

Well, anyway, I am now on Lanoxin and Bumex. The last time I renewed my prescription, a pamphlet came with the Lanoxin, saying, "Do you really need this?" So I am wondering, do I really need it? I don't care to put any chemical in my body that isn't necessary. If I need it, I'll take it. — Mrs. L.H.

In congestive heart failure, the lungs become innocent victims. Your breathing difficulty began in the heart, which was weakened to the point that it could no longer pump blood out into the body. It's almost entirely a mechanical problem. Instead of getting pumped outward from the heart, the blood remains inside (or much of it does) and eventually it backs up clear to the lung, which has direct vessel connection to the heart. You eventually get breathless because the backup disturbs the lung's ability to get oxygen from the outside. It is literally drowning in your blood fluid.

To correct this situation, you must correct the heart problem by getting it to beat more strongly. Your Lanoxin (digitals) does that. To get rid of the fluid in the lungs, you need a diuretic, and that is the Bumex (bumetanide).

Yes, you do need the Lanoxin so your heart will continue to beat well. The pamphlet warning was to be sure you are continuing to consult your doctor to see if there is any change in your status to prompt a change in your medicine or dosage.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A few months ago, I had a colon check and the doctor diagnosed irritable colon syndrome. He advised more fiber food and Metamucil. Is there any prescription drug that will help my discomfort? — C.J.

Irritable colon is a bowel that is overreacting to stimuli. For no discoverable reason it causes pain and cramping, bloating and gas. It's not a pleasant thing to have and I can understand your impatience.

Sure, there are medicines to help calm the bowel. They are called anticholinergics, and are sometimes used in stubborn cases. If any illness can be controlled without drugs, so much the better, and diet modification is a way to help.

Increasing fiber helps keep the sensitive digestive system at work and "takes its mind" off things. Metamucil is a bulk producer and that is part of the same approach. Sometimes, milk intolerance is involved in irritable colon, and giving up dairy products helps.

Hold off. Wait a while and see how the fiber and Metamucil work. If they don't, then go back to the doctor for a re-evaluation. The booklet you ask for is "Colitis and Kindred Complaints," and it is available by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and one dollar.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Several years ago, I developed a rash that completely covered my left foot. It was diagnosed as granuloma annulare and it disappeared with cortisone use. It has since reappeared in patches. At the time of the first diagnosis, I was told that diabetics get this rash. I am a 33-year-old female. I am not diabetic, although several family members were and are. Could you please tell me what caused this rash to develop? — M.J.P.

I can't explain why granuloma annulare happens. Nor can anyone else, because it is yet another of those maladies we have to cubbyhole in the "cause unknown" categories.

People with diabetes get granuloma annulare (GRAN-you-LOW-muh ANN-you-LAR-ee) more often than non-diabetics. But anyone can get it. The rash consists of skin-colored to pale red-purple pimples. The patch of rash enlarges leaving little depressed centers.

Military

Col. W. Bruce Moore, son of Walter C. Moore of Kerrville, was among 57 colonels selected for promotion to brigadier general, according to the Department of the Army.

Moore was selected for promotion by an army promotion board that considered more than 2,800 colonels for promotion.

Moore, born in Big Spring March 4, 1940, graduated from Big Spring High School in 1958. He joined the army after earning a bachelor of science degree from Texas A&M University, and an Infantry second lieutenant's commission from the university's ROTC program.

Moore has served in a variety of important command and staff assignments during his career. He commanded the 162nd Assault Helicopter Co. in Vietnam from 1970-71.

Later he commanded the 2nd Battalion, 2nd Infantry at Fort Lewis, Wash., and the 3rd Brigade of the 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault) at Fort Campbell, Ky. He also served as the G-3, U.S. Army, Berlin.

Moore is currently chief of staff of the 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault) at Fort Campbell. He is married to the former Janice L. Wolff.

Moore has received these awards and decorations: Distinguished Flying Cross with Oak Leaf Cluster, Bronze Star Medal with 2 Oak Leaf Clusters, 36 awards of the Air Medal and the Army Commendation Medal with "V" Device and Oak Leaf Cluster.

He also is authorized to wear these special skill qualification badges: Expert Infantry, Parachutist, Master Aviator, Air Assault and the Ranger Tab.

Army Private Basil D. Freeman Jr., son of Basil D. and Joan E. Freeman of Rural Route 1, Liberty Hill, has completed advanced individual training at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

During the course, students received training which qualified them as light-weapons infantrymen and as indirect-fire crewman in a rifle or mortar squad.

Instruction included weapons qualifications, tactics, patrolling, land mine warfare, field communications and combat operations.

His wife, Cathy, is the daughter of Corwin Collins of Sterling City.

Pvt. 1st Class Jerry D. Schulze, son of Winnette Linam of Rural Route 2, Snyder, a member of the First Infantry Division (Forward), West Germany, has participated in exercise "Franconian Shield".

Conducted in West Germany and the Main-Franconian Territory of Unterfranken, the exercise is designed to demonstrate German Army capabilities and emphasize solidarity within the French-American alliance.

Schulze, an infantryman, is a 1985 graduate of Snyder High School.

Sgt. John E. Lucero, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Lucero of 709 N. Ave. D., Lamesa, has participated in "Celtic Cross IV", an Army light infantry division field training exercise held at Fort Hunter Liggett, Calif.

The objective of the exercise was to test and observe the light infantry concept in a combat environment, and to assess the ability of these divisions to deploy overseas and fight in low-to-mid-intensity conflicts.

Lucero is a wheeled-vehicle mechanic with the 707th Maintenance Battalion at Fort Ord, Calif.

He is a 1981 graduate of Lamesa High School.

Pvt. 1st Class Denny D. Islas, son of Valentin and Inez Islas of Rural Route 1, Big Spring, has participarticipated in "Celtic Cross IV", an Army light infantry division field training exercise held at Fort Hunter Liggett, Calif.

The objective of the exercise was to test and observe the light infantry concept in a combat environment, and to assess the ability of these divisions to deploy overseas and fight in low-to-mid-intensity conflicts.

Islas is an infantryman with the 9th Infantry Regiment at Fort Ord, Calif.

His wife, Sandra, is the daughter of Joe and Mary Lopez of Odessa.

He is a 1982 graduate of Coahoma High School.

Marine Pfc. Jason B. Castille, son of Patsy L. Castille of Eastland, recently completed the Automotive Organizational Mechanics Course at Marin Corps Service Support Schools, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

During the 16-week course, Castille was taught the technical knowledge and functional skills to efficiently perform inspections, diagnostic tests, adjustments, services and repairs to tactical motor transport equipment under garrison or field operating conditions.

A 1981 graduate of Merkel High School, Merkel, he joined the Marine Corps in Sept. 1985.

Holiday thefts don't phase L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robbers strike Southern California banks so often that the traditional pre-holiday holdup spree is hardly noticeable in "the bank robbery capital of the world," authorities say.

The "Marx Brothers," a pair of armed robbers nicknamed for the disguises they usually wear, made headlines last week by forcing 10 bank customers and employees into a vault and making off with about $90,000. It was their 11th bank robbery in 2½ years.

Largely unnoticed, however, were most of the 39 other heists last week at banks and savings and loans in the seven counties that form the FBI's Central District. By Friday, authorities had arrested five people, including a man who robbed four banks in three hours, FBI spokesman Fred Reagan said.

"If there's been no bank robberies (on a working day) then something's terribly wrong," Reagan said. For years, law enforcers had at least one holdup to deal with every workday.

"Just after the (1984) Olympics we had one (workday) when there wasn't a robbery, but we haven't had any since," said Reagan.

By the end of last week, there had been 1,212 bank or savings and loan robberies this year — an average of five per workday — in Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties. Last year, there were 1,050 holdups.

"We'll top last year by a couple hundred, maybe more," Reagan said. "December will be higher than some months ... but I don't think there's an inordinate pre-Christmas increase."

The total amount of money taken wasn't available. But Reagan said the average haul is $2,300, which adds up to almost $2.8 million.

Last year, almost one-fifth of the country's 5,427 bank robberies occurred in the Central District, which also accounted for nearly two-thirds of California's 1,806 bank robberies.

The second most popular state with bank bandits was New York, which had 432 robberies, followed by Florida with 424 and Oregon with 214, according to FBI statistics.

"For whatever reason, this federal district is the bank robbery capital of the world," said U.S. Attorney Robert Bonner.

"One reason might be that we have such a staggering number of bank robberies prosecuted in the Central District that it may seem something like old hat for judges here, whereas bank robberies in other parts of the country are so few and far between that federal judges take them very seriously" and impose harsher sentences, Bonner said.

Convicted armed bank robbers face a maximum sentence of 25 years in prison. Unarmed robbers face up to 20 years.

But the average sentence handed down for the crime in the Central District was 9½ years for the 12 months ending June 30, 1985, said Allan McLean, deputy chief probation officer for the region's federal courts.

The average jail time imposed has decreased gradually since 1982, when it was nearly 12 years, but Bonner said most bank robbers do go to prison.

Past-due debts to be taken from tax refunds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Doctors, dentists and other health professionals who owe the federal government $49 million in unpaid student loans will have the debts deducted from their tax refunds, the Department of Health and Human Services announced today.

It announced the publication of a new interim procedure authorizing the Internal Revenue Service to collect unpaid loans from the tax refunds of some 1,200 people who owe money to two federal student loan programs for health education.

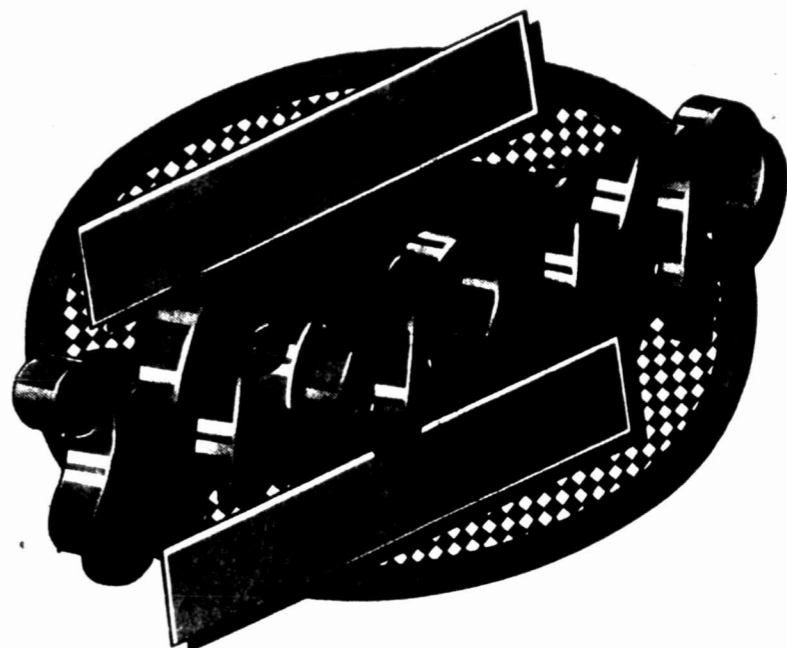

The new regulation, published in today's Federal Register, applies to doctors, dentists, osteopaths, pharmacists and other health professionals who took education loans from the two programs administered by HHS.

A total of $11.4 million is owed in unpaid Health Education Assistance Loans by people who financed their education in medicine, dentistry, osteopathy, podiatry, public health, pharmacy and health administration.

An additional $37.6 million is considered seriously delinquent under the National Health Service Corps Scholarships program for medical, dental, osteopathic and allied health education, HHS said.

The debt collection procedure was promulgated under the Deficit Reduction Act and will enable HHS to participate in a pilot debt collection program being operated by IRS.

People with delinquent loans will be notified in writing before their debt is referred to IRS and will have 60 days to respond.

Control of body weight helps manage diabetes

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer
 WASHINGTON — Controlling body weight remains the best way to manage most diabetes, and the right way to do that is with a sensible diet that may include a little sugar, says an expert panel.

The panel convened by the National Institutes of Health to recommend ways to control the type of diabetes that does not require insulin injections said Wednesday reducing obesity remains the primary way to treat the condition.

The lower-fat diets recommended to decrease the risks of heart disease and cancer also are good ones for diabetes, provided they are low enough in calories to reduce weight to normal levels and keep it there, the panel said.

This means reducing calories from fat to 30 percent or less of the total intake, and letting protein make up 20 percent of the diet and carbohydrates 50 percent, it added.

The panel, chaired by Dr. George F. Cahill Jr. of the Howard Hughes Medical Institute in Bethesda, Md., said there was sufficient evidence that a little sugar would not harm most diabetics, suggesting that up to 5 percent of the carbohydrate calories could come from table sugar.

In the past, people with noninsulin-dependent diabetes have been advised to avoid table sugar, which can increase the blood sugar levels.

Cahill told a news briefing that more data is needed before suggesting that more than a little sugar can be allowed for diabetics. But nine grams a day, about two-and-a-third teaspoons, could be used to make food taste better.

"The panel is saying many diabetics can eat a little sugar to help make food more palatable, but don't go and eat a great big glazed dessert," Cahill said. "Nine grams of sugar is a lot of sweetness."

About 90 percent of all diabetics, an estimated 10 million Americans, have noninsulin-dependent diabetes. The remainder have a more severe type of the disease that requires daily injections of the hormone insulin to control levels of blood sugar, called glucose.

Insulin helps the body turn sugar into energy. With diabetes, glucose can build up to harmful levels because the body either cannot properly use insulin that is present at normal levels or does not make enough of the hormone.

The panel, charged with making treatment recommendations to doctors in light of suggested new therapies, said noninsulin-dependent diabetes is a major health problem highly correlated with obesity caused by overeating.

The condition traditionally has been treated through diet, oral drugs that reduce blood sugar and, in a minority of cases, insulin therapy when dieting proved ineffective.

"Diet continues as the cornerstone of therapy with oral agents or insulin, if needed, to maintain blood glucose values normal or near normal," the panel said in a draft report.

The panel downplayed recent suggestions, based upon a few studies, that exercise could be a major factor in controlling blood sugar.

State population changing by 2000

By JIM CRAIG
Washington Bureau
 WASHINGTON — Anglo-Americans, who have been the dominant ethnic bloc in Texas since its independence from Mexico, will no longer comprise the state's majority after the turn of the century, a population study released this week predicts.

The report, issued by the non-profit, Washington-based Population Reference Bureau Tuesday, suggests the state will undergo major economic, social and cultural changes over the next few decades stemming from dramatic demographic shifts.

Last year, Anglos represented 63 percent of Texas' population of 16.4 million, compared to 22.7 percent for Hispanics, 12.5 percent for blacks and 1.8 percent for Asians and others, according to the study.

However, the report said, by the year 2035 when the state's projected population will be 30.2 million, Anglos will represent 43.4 percent of all Texans.

Hispanics will represent 39.2 percent, blacks 10.9 percent and Asians and others will represent 13.1 percent.

Hispanics, primarily of Mexican origin, will increase from 3.7 million to almost 12 million by the year 2035, the study predicts.

The state's population may double over the next 50 years while the U.S. population is expected to increase by only 28 percent during the same period, according to the report.

Texas likely will surpass New York to become the second most populous state by 1990. California will continue to rank first.

Anglo children will begin to lose their majority in Texas by the turn of the century, the study said.

By 1995, the report predicts, Anglo children will comprise 48 percent of the state's population under age 15.

By the year 2015, young Hispanics will equal Anglos in numbers.

If the current trend continues, according to the study, black youngsters will comprise smaller proportions in the future while Asian proportions will grow.

"As the population becomes more ethnically diverse, its demographic, economic and sociocultural profiles will change," the report said.

"The Anglo majority will decline, but the effects of its cycle of demographic behavior will be felt for decades to come, as its small families migrate, age and leave the labor force, emigrate or stay and create a demand for specialized services."

Rape-slayer Andrade executed

HUNTSVILLE — Convicted killer Richard Andrade refused to make a final statement and was put to death early today by Texas prison officials hours after his hand-printed appeal was rejected by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Andrade, 25, was given lethal injection for the slaying of Cordelia Mae Guevara. He was pronounced dead at 12:32 a.m., nine minutes after the lethal drugs began flowing into his arms.

Ms. Guevara, 28, the manager of the Chiquita Fajita Lounge in Corpus Christi, was stabbed at least 14 times with a pocketknife, raped and left in a pool of blood on the floor of her club the 1984 incident.

Andrade, whose record included burglary, assault, theft and parole violation, became the 10th Texas inmate to be executed this year and 20th since the state resumed executions in 1982. Both figures are the highest in the nation.

"That is what he rightfully deserves," Catalina Meza, Ms. Guevara's sister, said. "The kind of murder he committed is only done by a person who is very sick."

UT student taps telephone lines

HOUSTON — The son of a Houston computer company president has been charged with breach of computer security for allegedly attempting illegal access to long-distance company telephone lines, officials said.

Rodney Scott Canion, 18, a University of Texas freshman and son of Compaq Computer Corp. Chairman and President Joseph R. "Rod" Canion, was charged under a 2-year-old law that could bring up to a year in jail.

Assistant District Attorney Curt Beckom said the case could be upgraded from a misdemeanor to a felony charge of credit card abuse because state law considers telephone access codes to be credit card numbers.

Calls made by a personal computer attempting to use MCI long-distance lines were traced to Canion's campus dormitory room, according to a search warrant affidavit filed in Austin.

Police searched the room and confiscated a Compaq Portable II that was connected to the telephone lines, the Chronicle reported.

School suit planned for January

AUSTIN — Attorneys for 122 Texas school districts say they are ready to go to trial next month in a controversial test of the way the state finances public education.

State District Judge Harley Clark delayed action Wednesday on the state's request that a suit claiming education funds are not distributed fairly be thrown out of court without a trial.

Clark said he would rule the first week in January on the state motion, which says the protesting school districts can't sue the state because they have been accepting state money and are therefore part of the state system.

Clark set Jan. 20 as the starting date for the trial that involves 67 school districts claiming that under the 1984 school reform legislation, state school funds are not being distributed equitably.

The state, backed by 48 other school districts, claims state money is being spread evenly, but that some local districts are not collecting as much in school taxes as they could.

Rains named secretary of state

AUSTIN — Jack Rains says he has thought about being governor of Texas and mayor of Houston, but all he is thinking about now is being secretary of state.

Gov.-elect Bill Clements Wednesday announced his selection of Rains as secretary of state, Texas' top elections official and keeper of important records about the state and businesses.

Rains, who acknowledged he had considered seeking the Republican nomination for governor this year, said is not looking at the secretary of state job as the starting point for a 1990 race for governor.

"I have no plans to run for any office. My plans right now are to master the duties of the secretary of state," Rains said.

The secretary of state job has served as a political stepping stone for some Texas politicians because it offers extensive exposure to voters. Gov. Mark White and Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice John Hill are former secretaries of state.

"PREMILLENNIALISM" (a literal 1000 year reign of Jesus on a physical throne on earth) is not a Bible doctrine! For such a doctrine to be true the following things have to be proven from Bible Scripture (taking each passage in the rightful context and taking no pieces of verses to be applied to make them say what someone wants just to establish their doctrine).

(1) A scripture showing Jesus will literally, in physical form, return a second time to the earth itself, and especially to a throne in Jerusalem. (2) A scripture showing that the "first resurrection" of Revelation is either a "human body" resurrection or some kind of "rapture". (3) A scripture showing that the reign of "beheaded souls" (Rev. 20:4, 5) takes place on earth with Jesus physically reigning in Jerusalem. (4) Show one passage that says Jesus will reign only for 1000 years. None of these can be proven by Bible scripture! Not one! Jesus is now reigning as King of kings and Lord of Lords. His kingdom is already in existence. (cf Colossians 1:13; Revelation 1:9; Acts 2:36; Revelation 19:11-16) Read Mark 9:1.

Meese: North was instigator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Edwin Meese III says he now has more details on the diversion to Nicaraguan rebels of profits from Iran arms sales and Lt. Col. Oliver North still stands alone as the scheme's prime mover.

But Meese admits he still can't trace the money trail of the arms profits, and can't be sure the Contra rebels really received the money.

Members of the Senate Intelligence Committee continue to debate whether North, a mid-level aide on President Reagan's National Security Council, acted alone or was spurred by higher authority when he sought to bolster the Contra rebels with arms sale profits.

Former national security adviser Robert C. McFarlane was to make a return visit today to the Senate committee to respond to questions that have arisen since his original appearance Dec. 1.

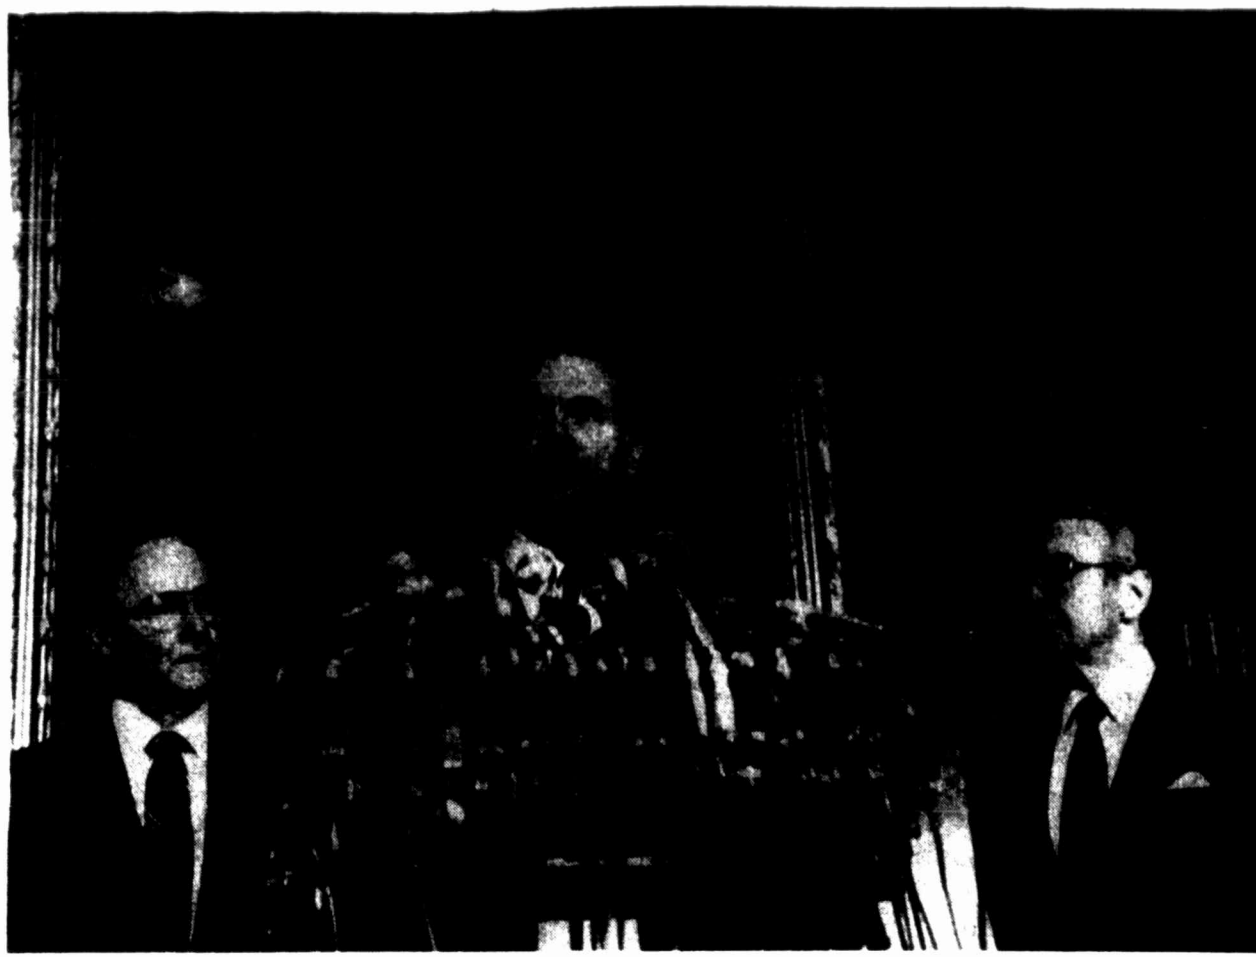

And the House Intelligence Committee scheduled testimony from Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger, White House Chief of State Donald T. Regan and New York businessman Roy Furmark, who says he tipped CIA Director William Casey in October to the possible diversion of funds.

Meese, speaking to reporters Wednesday after 4½ hours of closed door testimony before the Senate panel, said he didn't know when he publicly disclosed the diversion plan Nov. 25 whether the Contras actually had received money from the Iranian sales.

Senators familiar with the investigation said Meese still gave them no hard facts that would indicate money from Iran went to Central America. One source who asked not to be identified said Meese apparently revealed the diversion scheme in November based solely on conversations he had with North and Vice Adm. John M. Poindexter, then national security adviser.

Meese acknowledged to reporters he isn't sure the Contras benefited.

"I don't know because our fact-finding review stopped short of that," Meese said, adding that the question ultimately will be answered by the investigation of an independent counsel.

Earlier, Sen. William S. Cohen, R-Maine, emerged from the hearing to say the arms destined for Iran were sold to middlemen for "at least wholesale" prices. The exact value of the weapons shipments, which were made indirectly and through middlemen, remained unclear.

In other developments: —The New York Times and The Washington Post reported in today's editions that the Justice Department had asked the Swiss government to freeze nine more bank accounts. Two accounts linked to North were frozen earlier.

The Post said the additional accounts belonged to three companies and six individuals. The newspaper quoted Swiss authorities as saying two of the accounts apparently belong to Saudi Arabian arms dealer Adnan Khashoggi and Iranian exile Manucher Ghorbanifar, who have acknowledged brokering the secret

U.S. arms sales to Iran.

—Special House and Senate committees that will investigate the Iran-Contra affair next year pledged bipartisanship and cooperation. Rep. Lee H. Hamilton, D-Ind., departing chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, was named incoming chairman of the special 15-member House committee. The Senate committee, named earlier, will be chaired by Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii.

—Nancy Reagan told The Associated Press her husband would recover from the current "valley" in his presidency if Poindexter and North would publicly reveal their roles in the secret Iran-Contra arms deals.

—The Washington Post, citing Republican sources, also reported today that White House political director Mitchell Daniels Jr. had suggested that Regan resign to give the president "a fresh start."

—An associate of North disputed the White House claim that the president and North seldom crossed paths and then only in large groups. The associate, who insisted on anonymity, said North would personally brief Reagan on "a fairly regular basis... often after normal White House working hours."

—The Atlanta Constitution in today's editions reported that no formal records were kept of the interview Meese conducted with North on Nov. 22 and with Poindexter on Nov. 24, the only known time the two aides have told their stories of what happened.

—Secretary of State George P. Shultz reprimanded the U.S. ambassador to Lebanon, John H. Kelly, and told all American envoys abroad not to use secret channels to the National Security Council unless they are acting on the direct order of Reagan.

Chairman David Durenberger, R-Minn., and Vice Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., said the Senate intelligence panel will report early next year on what it has learned about the Iranian arms sale and the worldwide money trail it created. Some of the report would remain classified, they said.

Ambassadors told not to bypass Shultz

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz, in a move to stop meddling by White House aides, is ordering American ambassadors not to bypass him by engaging in secret communications with the National Security Council.

In a cable Wednesday to all U.S. embassies, Shultz said "all messages" should be sent through the State Department unless he or President Reagan orders the envoy to use the "back channel" facilities set up by the Central Intelligence Agency.

With the order, Shultz sought to block the National Security Council staff from excluding him from foreign policy operations abroad. "You will receive instructions only from or through the department," he told the ambassadors.

Shultz testified last week that he had limited knowledge of Iran's purchase of American weapons and knew "zero" about a fund to divert some of the profits to U.S.-backed rebels in Nicaragua.

The secret operation, conducted by the council at the White House, has touched off a furor which forced the resignation of Vice Adm. John M. Poindexter as Reagan's national security adviser and Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North, a deputy.

Shultz, whose opposition to the weapons sales was overridden by Reagan, has since asserted his control over U.S. foreign policy while criticizing the council for going beyond an advisory role.

He was irritated that the White House and John H. Kelly, the U.S. ambassador to Lebanon, bypassed him with back channel communications about arrangements for the departure from the country of David Jacobsen, a freed American hostage.

Shultz "admonished" Kelly, which is a technical reprimand, but retained him in the Beirut post. The ambassador did not return to Lebanon immediately, however. A U.S. official, who demanded anonymity, said Kelly might be questioned by congressional aides as part of the investigation into the arms deals.

Kelly was summoned home last week to explain why he had not informed Shultz or other department officials about his private contacts with Poindexter and North in October. Shultz questioned the ambassador on Saturday and again on Tuesday and "expressed his regret" about the ambassador's use of the CIA link to the White House, said Charles E. Redman, the department spokesman.

Texan named to House committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jack Brooks of Beaumont has been named to a 15-member House select committee formed to probe the U.S. arms sale to Iran and the diversion of money to aid rebels fighting in Nicaragua.

The panel's nine Democrats and six Republicans were selected by Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas and Republican Leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois.

"It is unfortunate that events have occurred which made the appointment of this select committee necessary, but under the circumstances, I think there's no alternative," Brooks, a Democrat who chairs the Government Operations Committee, said Wednesday.

Brooks said he was named to serve on the select committee because of his position as chairman of the committee on Government Operations, which is the major investigative and oversight committee of the House.

The All-South Plains football squads, named yearly by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, are out, and the Big Spring Steers and Forsan Buffaloes are both well represented, as are the six-man teams from Sands and Klondike.

The Lubbock paper picked a team for each division. The teams consist of all-stars in the area (roughly) between Amarillo and San Angelo, with the 4A squad encompassing districts one and two.

Jay Burcham, the Steers' strong man on the defensive line, was named as one of the defensive tackles. Brian Mayfield made the squad as a punter. Monahans' halfback Charles Thompson got the nod for player of the year.

The coach of the year, and a clear pick I imagine, was Steers' coach Quinn Eudy. Stong arguments could be made for several more Steers, but hey, nobody's perfect.

Klondike's Nicky Hill was tabbed as one of the all-star defensive ends on the six-man team. Jay Fryar, Sands' do-everything junior, made that squad twice, as a running back and punter.

Offensive tackle Mike Averette, quarterback Brant Nichols, defensive tackle Stacy Munoz and defensive back David Henson all made the 2A squad from Forsan. Wayne Wright, who gained 1,532 yards running, 220 yards catching, scored 21 touchdowns, and averaged 15 tackles a game, didn't make it.

C'mon Wayne. Get it together.

Deer hunters, a dedicated lot, brave icy weather, loud alarm clocks and hours of still solitude in quest of one good shot at their elusive prey. Many go an entire season without a kill. These frustrated souls have nothing to show for their efforts but a sore fanny from sitting in a tree stand, and a wife angry from all the weekends spent alone with the kids.

Here's a story that should warm the hearts of all you sore-fanned fellas with a wife who calls you "jerk," or something worse. The story:

Laura Ratliff, a senior at UTPB, woke up with the chickens in order to have time to primp herself and make the long drive from her home near Garden City to her school in Odessa. With the sun sneaking over the horizon, Laura combed her hair. She was wearing high heels and hose.

Before heading out the door, Laura glanced at her back yard, blinked in disbelief, and looked again. Three doe, one buck, grazing on the Ratliff lawn. Yes, she'd seen right.

Laura, not one to miss an opportunity, stepped over to the gun rack. She chose her weapon, stepped over the door, and aimed at the one with horns. One shot later, Laura had an eight-point beauty lying in her back yard.

Laura called Mama, who went for the camera. Mama, who is Barbara Ratliff, wife of Arlis Ratliff, instructed Laura to change into her jeans. She said it wouldn't look right to pose with her big trophy wearing high heels and hose.

You empty handed camouflage wearers might agree.

Laura Ratliff and eight-point

The latest stats from the Western Junior College Athletic Conference are in, and the Hawks' Kevin Bradsher is the conference's fourth leading scorer. Bradsher's burning the nets for 24.6 points per game.

Guard Dennis Rhodes, shooting 86 percent for the foul line and averaging 8.2 assists per game, is second in both of those categories.

Linda Woodley, at Howard College, is handling the stats for the conference this year. Many thanks go to her for the long hours that come with the job. I'm sure Linda will want to be considered for the job next year.

The Big Spring High School swim teams are hosting a dual meet tonight at the Big Spring YMCA pool.

The meet, against Fort Stockton, begins at 6 p.m. It is the last chance to see the Steers' swimmers at home this year.

Swimming is one of those sports that receives too little attention, and the media's partly to blame. But the tankers rise at the crack of dawn and practice, practice, practice. If you're not doing anything at around six or a little later, head on over to the YMCA pool. I'm sure it would mean a lot to the Steers' swimmers.

No Pro Bowl for Pokes

By The Associated Press

Rosters for the NFL's all-star game, the Pro Bowl, reflect the changing order in the league. The rosters for the NFC and AFC teams which will meet in Honolulu on Feb. 1 were released Wednesday with the New York Giants, who at 13-2 share the NFL's best record with the Chicago Bears, leading the way with eight players on the NFC team. The Bears and Los Angeles Rams each have seven.

But the proud Dallas Cowboys, suffering through their first non-winning season in 21 years, had no representatives — for the first time in their 27-year history. Even defensive tackle Randy White, who had been to the Pro Bowl nine straight years, was ignored in the voting by the players and coaches who pick the team.

"When you get down, you get kicked," said Gil Brandt, player personnel director of the Cowboys. "It will be a challenge for us to come back."

The AFC team has four separate clubs with five players each — the Miami Dolphins, Denver Broncos, New England Patriots and Seattle Seahawks, although the Dolphins, just 8-7, are in danger of missing the playoffs for the first time since 1980.

The Giants' contingent of eight included three starters — linebackers Lawrence Taylor and Harry Carson and tight end Mark Bavaro, although punter Sean Landeta could also be considered in that category. It is Carson's eighth Pro Bowl selection and Taylor's sixth selection in his six years in the NFL.

New York running back Joe Morris, the league's second-leading rusher, will be a backup to the man who leads him, Eric Dickerson of the Rams and to Walter Payton of the Bears, who will be appearing in his ninth Pro Bowl. Mike Haynes of the Raiders, who will be starting at cornerback for the AFC is also in his ninth Pro Bowl.

The Miami contingent includes quarterback

Dan Marino, making his third Pro Bowl start in four NFL seasons, and rookie John Offerdahl, who will start at inside linebacker.

Offerdahl is one of four rookies on the two squads. The others are running back Rueben Mayes of New Orleans, a reserve for the NFC and the two kick returners — Vai Sikahema of St. Louis for the NFC and Bobbie Joe Edmonds of Seattle for the AFC.

"I really didn't expect it," Offerdahl said. "I'm as surprised as anybody. I don't know how much I deserve it, but I'm proud."

Marino's backup at quarterback is John Elway of Denver. Tommy Kramer of Minnesota is the NFC's starting quarterback with Jay Schroeder of Washington the backup.

Pittsburgh linebacker Mike Merriweather, the only Steeler selected, was named to the AFC team for the third straight year. Merriweather's selection continues the Steelers' streak of having at least one linebacker chosen for the Pro Bowl every year since 1971.

Tech LB survives wound; now one of nation's best

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The last game is supposed to be a time for memories, but linebacker Brad Hastings is looking forward to his final game in a Texas Tech uniform.

Not that Hastings hasn't had some good times. But when you've looked death in the face and had the last laugh, it gives you a different outlook on life.

"It makes me look forward to each day now," says Hastings, who will anchor Texas Tech's defense from his middle linebacker position Saturday night when the Red Raiders play their first postseason game since 1977, meeting Mississippi in the Independence Bowl.

"I think we may have started something good here," Hastings said of Tech's surprising 7-4 record which snapped a string of seven losing seasons. "I'll be gone next season, but I didn't want to leave without helping turn things around."

Hastings was almost gone for good on Dec. 31, 1985, when he was stabbed at a New Year's Eve party in Arlington, Texas, his home town. Life wasn't a game of inches but a matter of centimeters.

"The doctors said if the knife had hit half an inch to the right the arteries would have been severed and I would have been dead instantly," Hastings remembers. "The doctors told me that if I had been an average person without football conditioning I would have died."

Of course, the 6-foot-3, 235-pound Hastings missed spring practice in 1985. He also sat out last spring after undergoing knee surgery and missed the 1986 opener following arthroscopic surgery that sidelined him only 20 days.

The phrase "practice makes perfect" wasn't coined with Hastings in mind. But even without those two springs, he still became only the fourth linebacker in Southwest Conference history to earn all-league honors three times. The others were Tommy Nobis, Ed Simonini and Mike Singletary.

Hastings made the kind of headlines he didn't need almost two years ago.

"Some friends of mine had rented out rooms to celebrate New Year's Eve at a club in Arlington," he said. "There were some other people there I didn't know."

In the first hour of 1985, a friend of Hastings got into a fight, which was quickly stopped.

"Then a guy walked up to me and said a few words to try to provoke a fight," he said. "I tried to get by him but he got in my face. Then I pushed him."

And then it happened — "So fast I didn't know it happened."

The man pulled a knife and stabbed Hastings, piercing his coat, sweater and shirt, puncturing a lung — the knife went in four inches deep — nicking his heart. He lost five pints of blood and after surgery, 70 staples were needed to close the opening.

"It makes you realize what can happen," Hastings said. "If he had had a gun, I wouldn't be here today. Somebody upstairs was watching over me."

"All I can say is that before someone gets into an argument, he should realize the possible consequences, no matter if it's junior high or high school or wherever." LB page 3B

Texas Tech middle linebacker Brad Hastings will end his college career when the Red Raiders meet the University of Mississippi Saturday night in the Independence Bowl. Hastings is a three-time All-Southwest Conference performer.

Rebs get runnin' with 115 points

By The Associated Press

The Runnin' Rebels finally started runnin'. No. 1 Nevada-Las Vegas, which climbed to the top spot in the Associated Press college basketball poll via a number of close victories, recorded its first rout of the season Wednesday night, trouncing Nevada-Reno 115-83.

The game marked the first time UNLV, a scoring machine in past years, topped the 100-point mark this season.

"It's not important to have a blowout," UNLV Coach Jerry Tarkanian said. "It's important to play good."

In other games involving Top Twenty teams, No. 10 Georgetown beat American 62-59, No. 12 North Carolina State defeated North Carolina-Asheville 81-65 and No. 19 DePaul downed Creighton 74-64.

UNLV, now 7-0, used a 26-5 burst at the start of the second half for a 75-48 lead. The host Rebels beat their intrastate rivals for the second time in five days.

"This team has no real weaknesses," Wolf Pack Coach Sonny Allen said.

Gary Graham scored 23 points and Gerald Paddio 22 for UNLV. Graham got 19 in the second half, while Paddio sank four three-point shots.

UNLV led 49-43 at halftime and then sprung a pressing man-to-man defense on Nevada-Reno to start the second half. The Wolf Pack could not handle the pressure and forced several turnovers that led to easy baskets.

"Our execution was better in the second half," Tarkanian said. "We played pretty well in the first half but lost some opportunities." Chris Rupp led UNR with 14 points, while Bryon Strachan had 13.

No. 10 Georgetown 62, American 59

Reggie Williams made a three-point shot with three seconds remaining as undefeated Georgetown won the game between Washington, D.C. rivals.

After Williams put the Hoyas ahead, American's Pat Witting missed a shot at the buzzer that would have tied the game. Williams scored 16 points for Georgetown, now 6-0. The Eagles are 4-3.

Georgetown, ranked fourth in the nation in three-point field goal percentage, was only 1-for-8 in the first half in falling behind by as many as 10 points.

Frank Ross finished with 21 points for American.

No. 12 North Carolina State 81, North Carolina-Asheville 65

Junior guard Kenny Drummond and sophomore center Charles Shackelford scored 13 points apiece and keyed a 17-3 burst in the first half that sent North Carolina State past North Carolina-Asheville.

The Wolfpack, trailing 16-14 midway through the first half, surged past the visitors and took a 31-19 lead.

Reserve Kelsey Weems scored 12 points and senior forward Mike Giomi had 11 for North Carolina State, 7-1. Sophomore guard Milton Moore scored 15 for the Bulldogs, 4-2.

No. 19 DePaul 74, Creighton 64

Guard Rod Strickland, who did not start because of the flu, came off the bench and scored 19 points as DePaul stayed unbeaten after six games.

The host Blue Demons led by six points at halftime before expanding the margin to as many as 18 points. Strickland missed practice Tuesday because of a 100-degree fever and flu symptoms. Forward Dallas Comegys added 16 points and guard Kevin Edwards had 13. Kenny Evans scored 20 for the Bluejays, 4-2.

Cavs drop Sixers, 110-107

Harper makes his own housecall

By The Associated Press
It was the Doctor's Office, so Cleveland's Ron Harper prescribed his own medicine.

"I felt like playing like Julius Erving," Harper said of his fourth-quarter steal and subsequent spectacular over-the-head reverse layup. "I've seen him do it so many times (on television), so I thought I'd try to do it in Philadelphia."

Harper, a rookie playing in the Spectrum for the first time, scored six of his 27 points in the final 39 seconds Wednesday night to lead the Cleveland Cavaliers over Erving, long known as "Dr. J.," and the Philadelphia 76ers 110-107 and hand the 76ers their fourth straight NBA loss.

Harper's jump shot with 39 seconds to go tied the score at 105. Then, after a steal by teammate Phil Hubbard, Harper hit a driving layup with 13 seconds left. He sank two free throws six seconds later for a 109-105 Cavalier lead.

"That was a big win for us," Cleveland Coach Lenny Wilkens said. "It's always great to win on the road, but especially here against a good team."

"Harper does a lot of things. He's an exciting player."

In other NBA games Wednesday night, Boston defeated Indiana 113-101, Detroit defeated Utah 122-107 and San Antonio defeated Phoenix 94-81.

Rookie Brad Dougherty tied his season high with 29 points and grabbed 11 rebounds for Cleveland. But it was Harper who lifted the Cavs in the final moments.

His Erving-like layup snapped a 93-93 deadlock.

"This was a great win for us," Harper said. "We keep building confidence and we're playing game by game. So every win helps us."

Philadelphia led 47-32 with 14:14 left in the second period. But Cleveland scored the last nine points of the quarter and trailed only 54-51 at halftime. The Cavs went ahead 69-68 on a layup by Harper with 4:17 left in the third and took an 81-78 edge at the end of three periods.

"We just can't get out of this rut," Philadelphia Coach Matt Guokas said, trying to pinpoint the cause of the 76ers' losing streak. "We're coming up short in a lot of areas. We had careless turnovers, and quite a few on fast breaks that really killed us. I am very alarmed and very concerned."

"I didn't see a hungry look, and that's a trademark of this team." Charles Barkley had a game-high 32 points and Erving added 20 for the Sixers.

Celtics 113, Pacers 101
Larry Bird, who finished with 34 points, scored Boston's first four field goals in the fourth period and the Celtics pulled away from Indiana for the victory.

"He's a great player," Indiana Coach Jack Ramsay said of Bird. "He does whatever he has to do to help his team win. You're never going to stop Larry Bird. He has no weaknesses."

It was the Celtics' 49th victory in their last 50 appearances at Boston Garden. The Celtics had a 48-game home-court winning streak snapped by the Los Angeles Lakers last Friday.

With Boston leading 87-84 after three periods, Bird hit on three set shots, then followed his own rebound for a layup in the first three minutes of the fourth period. His second field goal triggered a 10-4 run that gave Boston a commanding 101-92 lead. The spurt was interrupted by a brief fight between Indiana's John Long and Boston's Rick Carlisle. Both were ejected with 7:11 remaining.

The Pacers were led by Chuck Person and Vern Fleming with 21 points apiece.

Pistons 122, Jazz 107
Adrian Dantley and Isiah Thomas scored 20 points apiece as seven Detroit players scored in double figures to lead the Pistons over Utah. The loss snapped Utah's seven-game winning streak.

Utah got a season-high 27 points from Karl Malone.

Leading 99-92 in the fourth quarter, Detroit got successive baskets from Rick Mahorn and Bill Laimbeer for a 101-92 lead. Laimbeer was fouled by Thurl Bailey while scoring and a technical foul was called on Utah's Marc Iavaroni after the play. Laimbeer made the foul shot and the technical, giving Detroit a 103-92 lead, and the Jazz got no closer than eight points the rest of the game.

Spurs 94, Suns 81
Jon Sundvold scored 22 points — 14 in the final period — to pace San Antonio over Phoenix.

Sundvold's season-high scoring performance combined with Artis Gilmore's 20 points as the Spurs snapped a four-game losing streak.

Walter Davis led the Suns with 21 points. San Antonio outscored the Suns 12-4 over a five-minute stretch in the fourth period to go ahead 82-68 with 6:04 remaining.

Artis Gilmore of the San Antonio Spurs, leaps high above the crowd of defenders to score two points against the Phoenix Suns in NBA action in the Arena Wednesday night.

Teaff staying at Baylor

WACO (AP) — Baylor head football coach Grant Teaff says he has withdrawn his name from consideration for the vacant head coaching job at the University of Southern California.

At a news conference Wednesday, Teaff said told Southern Cal Athletic Director Mike McGee he was not interested in pursuing the job. Teaff confirmed earlier this week that he had talked to McGee about the vacancy.

"I have been very intensely involved in a decision-making process that was probably the most in-depth and one of the hardest decisions that I've ever made, and I'm a man of decisions," said Teaff, the winningest coach in Baylor's history.

Penn State coach honored

HOUSTON (AP) — Head coach Joe Paterno of No. 2-ranked Penn State beat out Jimmy Johnson of the top-ranked Miami Hurricanes and three other finalists for the Bear Bryant Award as the College Coach of the Year.

The voting is conducted by the Football Writers Association of America.

Paterno beat out Johnson, Arizona State Coach John Cooper and North Carolina State's Dick Sheridan for the 30th annual award.

The award was first presented to Ohio State's Woody Hayes in 1957, and Paterno has won it twice before, in 1978 and 1982.

Gooden had alcohol in his system

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Tampa police chief confirmed that a blood-alcohol test revealed New York Mets pitcher Dwight Gooden had been drinking the night he was stopped for a possible traffic violation.

Chief Donald Newberger said the test given Gooden at Tampa General Hospital last Saturday showed he had a blood-alcohol level of .111, barely over .100, Florida's legal definition of driving under the influence.

Whether charges can be filed on the basis of the results was under investigation because the test was not ordered by police.

Young Tyson wins title, Leonard making comeback

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Boxing Writer

Mike Tyson exploded onto the heavyweight championship scene in 1986, and Sugar Ray Leonard prepared to come back for an already criticized, yet highly anticipated, fight against middleweight champion Marvelous Marvin Hagler.

While Leonard was getting ready for only his second fight in 61 months, Larry Holmes, who had been the world's premier heavyweight for seven years, announced his retirement at age 37. Holmes failed to regain the International Boxing Federation title when he lost a 12-round split decision to Michael Spinks April 19 at Las Vegas, Nev.

Spinks was the only one of three heavyweight champions at the beginning of 1986 to still hold a piece of the title at year's end. The boxing year a busy one, although there was a scarcity of big-money attractions. It was marked by several big upsets and continued calls for a ban on the sport itself.

On Oct. 8, trainer Carlos "Panama" Lewis and junior welterweight Luis Resto were convicted on assault charges arising from Resto's beating of Billy Collins Jr. with tampered gloves in a 1983 bout at New York's Madison Square Garden. Lewis was sentenced to two to six years in prison; Resto was given one to three years.

The 20-year-old Tyson became the youngest boxer to win a heavyweight title by knocking out Trevor Berbick in the second fight for the World Boxing Council championship Nov. 22 at Las Vegas.

Twenty days later, at New York's Madison Square Garden, James "Bonecrusher" Smith, a 33-year-old business administration graduate from Shaw University, won the World Boxing Association heavyweight title with a first-round knockout of Tim Witherspoon.

It just wasn't Witherspoon's year. After he won the title on a 15-round decision over Tony Tubbs, a urinalysis revealed a trace of marijuana in his system. Witherspoon was fined $25,000 and ordered to give a rematch to Tubbs.

The rematch set for Dec. 12, but Smith became the opponent after Tubbs withdrew, saying he injured his left shoulder. Five days after he was upset by Smith, the New York State Athletic Commission announced that Witherspoon once again tested positive for marijuana. Witherspoon did win a defense before losing to Smith. He knocked out Frank Bruno in the 11th round July 19 at London. No British fighter in this century has won a heavyweight title.

Three other big upsets involved heavyweight Pinklon Thomas, welterweight Donald Curry and featherweight Barry McGuigan of Ireland.

Berbick, a 6-1 underdog, scored a 12-round unanimous decision over Thomas for the WBC heavyweight title March 22 at Las Vegas.

On Sept. 26 at Atlantic City, N.J., Lloyd Honeyghan of Britain stopped Curry in six rounds and won the undisputed welterweight championship. And in 108-degree heat at Las Vegas June 23, little-known Stevie Cruz knocked down McGuigan three times and won the WBC featherweight title on a 15-round unanimous decision.

Hagler is the only other undisputed champion, but the WBA and IBF have said they will withdraw title recognition if he goes through with the Leonard fight, for which he is guaranteed $12 million and Leonard $11 million.

Hagler fought only once in 1986, knocking out John "The Beast"

Mugabi of Uganda in the 11th round March 10 at Las Vegas. He was expected to sign for a rematch with Thomas Hearns, who he knocked out in the third round of a sensational fight in 1985, but he opted for Leonard. Hagler is the only one he would come out of retirement for, Leonard said, adding he would retire again after the fight.

Boxing fans also were looking forward to seeing more of Tyson, who pumped new life into the sport with his sensational performance in 1986. He fought 13 times, scoring 11 knockouts, in a pro career of 22 months.

Tyson's first fight as champion is supposed to be against Smith on March 7 at Las Vegas. That is to be the seventh bout in the HBO television heavyweight title unification series of eight fights.

At year's end, HBO was in court trying to block a proposed fight between Spinks and Gerry Cooney. HBO said the contract with Don King and Butch Lewis, promoters of the unification series, allowed Spinks to have a fight outside the series if the opponent agreed to continue in the tournament should he win. According to HBO, Lewis, who guides Spinks' career, said Cooney would not agree to it.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, DEC. 19, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You want to do something of importance, but today is a day of preparation rather than for actually putting major plans into motion. Wait for better returns.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You want to express a talent you possess, but it is best to perfect it before doing so. Show your loyalty.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Have more thought and care at home. Work at a measured and sure pace. Retire early and rest up.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get busy with all those communications ahead of you, but be courteous with everyone and overlook annoyances.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You have excellent ideas for improving your lot in life, but study them before execution.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You have fine ideas for gaining more of the good things in life, but first take time to organize them properly.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You find it difficult to gain your personal desires. Your mate will not go along with a secret plan you have.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) New friends may ask a good deal of you, but be patient with them since it can later bring you more benefits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study outside conditions and use them rightly so that you can improve career interests.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to extend your present interests, but it will take a little more time and effort.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get your affairs better organized and you can handle your responsibilities more quickly and wisely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Situations arise that fascinate you and you will better know how you stand with the public in general.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study your environment and see what can be done to make it more charming and colorful.

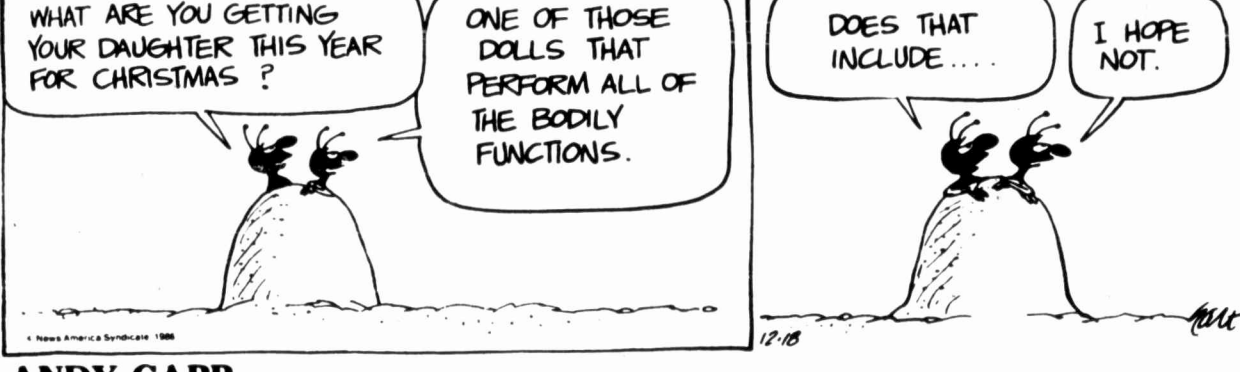

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have every ability at comprehending matters that are quite complicated and scientific. This one should have a fine education so that he, or she, will fit into the executive world nicely. Give praise for anything that your progeny does.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

2 (13 oz.) boxes apple cinnamon muffin mix with can of apple chunks
1 1/3 c. plain yogurt
3 eggs
1/2 c. brown sugar
2 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 c. chopped walnuts
1/4 c. golden raisins
1 tbsp butter or margarine

Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease bottom only of a 12"x8"x2" baking pan. Drain apple chunks. Mix yogurt and eggs in large mixing bowl; beat to combine. Add dry muffin mix; stir in with fork. Fold in apple chunks; do not beat. Pour all but 1 cup of batter into greased pan. Combine brown sugar, cinnamon, nuts and raisins in bowl. Sprinkle over top of batter. Cut butter into tiny pieces and sprinkle over topping. Drizzle remaining batter over top of sugar mixture. Bake 50-55 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from oven; cool in pan 10 minutes before cutting into squares. Serve warm. 12 servings.
