Spring board

How's that? Cowboys

Q. Before finishing this season with a 7-9 record, when was the last time the Dallas Cowboys had a losing season?

A. The last time the Cowboys lost more than they won was in 1964, when their record was 5-8-1.

Calendar Coahoma pick-ups

MONDAY

• Colorado City Senior Citizens will have their Christmas dance at the Boys' Club at Third and Chestnut Streets, from 7:30 to 10 p.m. The public is invited and Christmas colors are encouraged.

TUESDAY

• The city of Coahoma will haul trash on the north and south sides of town. The city will not pick up trash on Wednesday.

Tops on TV Christmas movie

After years of estrangement from her grandchildren, a wealthy eccentric goes to extreme lengths to reunite her family in time for Christmas. The movie, "Christmas Eve," stars Loretta Young and Arthur Hill, and is at 8 p.m. on Ch. 13.

• The New England Patriots at the Miami Dolphins, at 8 p.m. on Ch. 2.

• "Father Murphy," at 7 p.m. on Ch. 6.

Outside Gloomy

There is a travelers advisory in effect today and tonight, because of icy roads. There is an 80 percent chance of rain this afternoon, and a high near 40. Tonight will be foggy, with a 30 percent chance of rain, turning to snow later on, though no accumulation is expected. The low tonight will be near 30. Christmas day should be fair and cool, with a high in the 50s and a low in the 20s.

Holiday library schedule

Howard County Library will be open today through 6 p.m. and Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. this week, Librarian Judith Gray announced today. It will be closed the remainder of the week.

The holiday schedule for next week will be the same, she said, with the facility open Monday and Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Shopping the hard way: for someone else

CHICAGO (AP) — Diane Frey has done Christmas shopping for scores of people but admits she's behind on buying gifts for her own friends and family. "I haven't even started yet," she said Sunday.

Ms. Frey is manager of Silver Key Services at the Neiman Marcus store in downtown Chicago. She and her staff help find gifts for people who don't have the time, ability or inclination to go shopping.

"A good customer profile would be someone who is a very busy person and doesn't have the time to shop," she said.

Holiday fruit

Trevor Moore, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Puckett, delivers another box of fruit at the Mountain View Lodge Saturday afternoon. The Puckett family, in cooperation with the Marvin Sewell family, have been providing fruit to residents of local nursing homes for Christmas for the past five years.

Researchers doubt forecast of oil at near $60 per barrel

By GUY DARST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Predictions that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will continue to increase oil prices in the 1990s ignores the incentives of OPEC members to expand output when future demand bumps against the cartel's limits, two researchers say.

OPEC decided over the weekend to lower production quotas for its members in an effort to raise prices. The organization decided to limit its collective oil production to 15.8 million barrels a day for six months starting Jan. 1 — a cut of about 7 percent.

OPEC also agreed that members would adhere to a unified system of fixed oil prices, based on an average of $18 a barrel. Oil prices on the open market now range from about $13 to $16 a barrel.

The criticism of recent predictions about OPEC prices came in comment articles for a paper in "Brookings Papers on Economic Activity," an annual volume of the Brookings Institution, a Washington think-tank. The institution released the 1986 volume Friday.

The paper, by Dermot Gately of New York University, included "projections ... not to be interpreted as forecasts" of four price scenarios, all reaching close to $60 a barrel in the year 2000.

Under Gately's scenarios, if OPEC capacity is 25 million barrels a day and the 1986 price is $10 a barrel — as it was this past summer — prices start rising sharply in 1989. If the price is $26 a barrel — which is slightly below what it was for much of last year — and capacity is 35 million barrels a day, prices do not start rising until 1997.

The American Petroleum Institute forecast is typical of many: OPEC capacity actually is 27 million barrels a day; only 65 percent of it is being used currently, and prices will start up around 1990. RESEARCHERS page 2A

Arms sale pardons planning is denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has no plan to use his power of granting pardons to lure former aides John M. Poindexter and Oliver L. North to the congressional witness table, a White House spokesman said today.

"I don't want to get into a 'refused to rule out' scenario," spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters. "The president is not planning a pardon for them, but of course as chief executive, always retains the right to executive clemency."

Earlier, the chairman of the special Senate panel investigating the U.S. arms sales to Iran said the panel might consider limited immunity for White House officials and seek help from Iran to learn the truth about the transactions.

"I'm not closing any of the doors," Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, chairman of the Senate Select Committee, said Sunday on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley."

"If it takes a grant of immunity to get to these questions, they'll be considered, yes."

Inouye, whose panel is looking into the arms sales and the diversion of profits to the Nicaraguan rebels, also said he intends to proceed cautiously because the integrity of the president and the nation are at stake.

"I think the potential we have before us can be very explosive," he said.

The former member of the original Watergate panel said that at the "appropriate time" channels would be opened with any other nation to aid the inquiry.

"I don't see Iran being out of the picture at all," Inouye said.

Congressional investigators from both parties have agreed that testimony from the two pivotal figures in the controversy — Lt. Col. Oliver L. North and Vice Adm. John Poindexter — is key to solving the mystery of what happened to the money and how such a plan was hatched.

North was fired from the National Security Council staff and Poindexter resigned as national security adviser. Both refused to answer questions about the matter before congressional panels, citing their constitutional rights against self-incrimination.

Airport zoning among council meeting topics

By EDDIE CURRAN
 Staff Writer

The second and final reading of an ordinance creating hazard zoning at Big Spring McMahon Wrinkle Airport is part of the Tuesday night City Council agenda.

The zoning is designed to protect the airport from adjacent future hazards and to provide property owners with information on the type of construction and structures that are to be allowed, said Airport Manager Hal Boyd in a memo to the Council.

There will also be a second and final reading on an ordinance that creates an airport zoning board. If passed, the board will be known as the Big Spring-Howard County Joint Airport Zoning Board.

Also on Tuesday's agenda:

- The council will set the date, time and place for the public hearing mandated by law to hear the request of Michael P. Bennett and Bennett Transfer Service to provide ambulance transfer service in the city of Big Spring.

- The first reading of an ordinance amending the Big Spring City Code to provide the late hour sale of mixed beverages in Big Spring. The ordinance would allow the sale of mixed beverages between midnight and 2 a.m. on any day, by a holder of a mixed beverage permit.

- The first reading of an ordinance calling for the City Council election to be on April 4, 1987. The city council members from districts One and Three would be elected at that time.

- The first reading of an ordinance determining the rate of pay of election judges and clerks who will work the proposed April 4 election. Tom Ferguson, the director of finance, recommended that election judges and clerks be paid $5 per hour, with an additional $25 to be paid to the election judge.

Rain now may aid 1987 cotton crop

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
 Staff Writer

The weekend's rain, which hindered further cotton productivity, could help next year's crop, Tim Hall of the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

The moisture could benefit 1987's crop, provided the summer produces "some hot weather," Hall said.

As of 8 a.m. today, the U.S. Agricultural Research Service recorded 1.89 rain inches this month. The normal rain for December is .73 inches.

This year's 31.95 total inches is well above the normal 18.41 inches, said Bill Fryrear who is weatherman for the Service.

It's the third wettest year on record, he said.

In 1932, it rained 34.25 total inches. The second wettest year on record is 1919, when 34.01 inches of rain was recorded. In 1980, it rained 31.74, Fryrear said.

According to records kept by H. Boyce Hale, Sterling City Route, this year's rain has produced 36.23 inches. His December figures total 2.14 inches.

Although the rain has hindered this year's cotton productivity, approximately 75 percent of the 360 farmers who operate 875 Howard County farms will receive insurance benefits to cover expenditures, Hall said.

Cotton farmers apply for crop insurance coverage until April 15 so they will be covered "before they go to planting," said Benny Blissard of Southwest Crop Insurance Co. in Big Spring.

The company insured approximately 50 to 55 percent of those farmers who are covered in 1986 and it is estimated that payments of about $8 million will be dispersed, Blissard said.

"Whatever their proven production is, we'll insure 60 to 75 percent of it," he added.

The breakdown is 45 cents per pound, Blissard said. Farmers pay a premium on their coverage, he added.

Insurance payments "stave off debts and recoup what they (farmers) put in the crop," Hall said.

Area farmers also can expect financial relief soon from the federal government, he said.

President Ronald Reagan authorized special funds for disaster areas this year through the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Hall said.

Peso drop slows Mexican shoppers

By The Associated Press
 The peso's weakened clout in the United States, caused by continued devaluation, is keeping many Mexican shoppers at home this holiday season, border merchants say.
 Many border shops normally bustling with seasonal activity were calm this weekend after the value of the peso tumbled to 892 per one U.S. dollar on Friday.
 From Brownsville to San Diego, border retailers say sales are down 20 to 30 percent, compared with last December.
 "In the past four years, people would come in four deep," said Frank Parra, owner of the border shop La Chiquita in El Paso. "It's the peso — the damn thing is rising almost every day. It's getting beyond the customers' reach now to buy the goods they used to buy."

Para, who employed 10 clerks last holiday season, employs only two this year.
 At the nearby Hernandez Fashions, Christmas business has dropped about 50 percent from last year, said manager Manuela Hernandez.
 At the Mayorga Grocery, Isabel Salais takes in $100 a day, half of what she averaged last December.
 Businesses near the border have always depended on Mexican shoppers, and many have concentrated their advertising in newspapers and television stations in the Mexican state of Chihuahua.
 In the 14 regional shopping centers of San Diego County, Calif., the Chamber of Commerce found that in 1981, 10 percent of sales were to Mexican citizens.

Then the peso was dramatically devalued. By 1983, the last time a survey was taken, Mexican customers accounted for only 4 percent of sales. Many merchants expect the figure to slide even more this year.
 At La Chiquita, Parra is reminded of the sour news every time he glances into the window to El Papido cafe, which displays the day's exchange rate in foot-high plastic figures. Last December, the rate was 400 to 1. By March, it was 470.
 Some economists predict the decline will continue. Unless Mexico changes its currency system, the 1,000 mark is "a hundred-percent bet," said Jeff Brannon, associate professor of economics at the University of Texas at El Paso.

 when 80 percent of capacity is necessary.
 Gately's critics are Morris A. Adelman of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and James M. Griffin of Texas A&M University. All the papers were delivered in September, just after OPEC had stitched together a production agreement after nine months of turmoil that saw prices fall from $28 a barrel to below $10 a barrel and recover to about $16 today.
 "Apart from a disruption, when price rises it will probably do so gradually," Gately wrote. "Abrupt price increases are, however, possible as soon as demand for OPEC oil recovers substantially enough to reach a level near production capacity."
 "And unfortunately the West will be only slightly less vulnerable to such a disruption than it was in 1979-1980."
 In his comments, Adelman wrote, "Because supply depends on investment, any analysis whose key variable is percent of capacity utilized is, at most, of short-run significance."
 "Both times when prices exploded during the 1970s were periods of slack demand, except when production was deliberately cut to panic the market. Cohesion (of OPEC countries), or the lack thereof, is all important."
 Prolonged low prices would lead OPEC countries to invest in expanded output, he said.
 Adelman said he expected "an endless game of chicken" threats by Saudi Arabia to retaliate against cartel cheaters followed by retaliation. This is what many experts have said the 1986 production surge and price collapse engineered by the Saudis and their allies amounted to.
 "I think the last thing we can possibly expect is smooth convergence to any supply-demand equilibrium," Adelman wrote.
 Griffin said the Saudi tactic has to be seen as a "no-lose gambit." If other members rein in production, Saudi Arabia and its allies among the small Persian Gulf states restore their former market share.
 "If the cartel collapses and the price stays low, the Saudi group would be the primary beneficiaries of rapid demand growth" because their reserves are vast and production costs tiny compared with the rest of OPEC, Griffin added.

State

By The Associated Press
 A low-pressure mass covering parts of Mexico and the Gulf pumped rain and snow into wide sections of the Lone Star State today, prompting the National Weather Service to post travelers' advisories.
 Snow was falling on the South Plains and in the West Texas mountains, and the weather service issued advisories for both regions due to icy roads. The system produced rain over much of the rest of the state, except the northern part of North Texas and the Panhandle.
 Skies were overcast over the entire state. Some thundershowers were reported early today over Central Texas.
 Winds were generally northeast at 5 to 15 mph statewide. But the lower Rio Grande Valley had a northwest wind at about 10 mph.
 Early-morning readings were mostly in the 40s with readings in the 50s along the Gulf coast. The High Plains, Trans-Pecos and northwest part of North Texas had readings in the 30s.
 Extreme temperatures were a low of 30 degrees at the Guadalupe Pass and a high of 55 degrees at Brownsville.
 Rain and drizzle was predicted statewide, mixed with snow in the mountains. Highs should range from near 40 in the Panhandle to the mid 50s in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

Unusual alignment may prompt coastal flooding next week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Extreme tides could pose a danger of coastal flooding next week, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration is warning.
 A rare alignment of the Earth, sun and moon is expected to raise tides to near-record levels around the world between Dec. 28 and Jan. 4, the agency said in a report made public today.
 And if coastal storms occur at the same time, a danger of flooding is compounded.
 The greatest danger for the United States appears to be in the Northeast and Northwest, especially the Gulf of Maine and Puget Sound, officials said, because of the possibility of stormy, wet weather in those areas.
 The agency urged seaside residents, fishermen and boaters to check tide tables for the times of extreme rises and falls and to be wary of weather conditions.
 The extreme tides result from a combination of six phenomena, NOAA officials said. Those are:
 • Winter solstice, which occurred at 11:02 p.m. Sunday, with the sun reaching its maximum southern point.
 • Tropic tides: On Dec. 30 the moon will be at its maximum southern point during the monthly cycle, causing high and low tides known as tropic tides.
 • Perigee: Also on Dec. 30, the moon will be closer to Earth than at any other time during its monthly cycle, increasing its gravitational pull.
 • New Moon on Dec. 31. The new moon occurs when the Earth, moon and sun form a line, increasing gravitational forces on Earth.
 • Perihelion: On Jan. 3 the Earth will be closer to the sun than at any other time in the year, increasing the pull of the sun's gravity on earth.
 • Regression of the moon's nodes: This is an 18.6-year cycle in which the orientation of the moon's orbit varies slightly. The orientation with the greatest effect on Earth tides is occurring at this time.

Global flight near end

MOJAVE, Calif. — Voyager chugged today across the Caribbean toward early completion of its historic unrefueled global flight, but team members say head winds and uncertain fuel reserves could mean finishing on "Empty."

"Since we've had tail winds all around the hemisphere, we thought it was proper we ought to give them a few head winds before they ended the flight for something to remember," chief meteorologist Len Snellman said Sunday.

Unfavorable winds as fast as 15 knots — the first significant head winds of the journey — were expected all the way up the Pacific coast.

Voyager, expected to complete its non-stop, unrefueled flight about dawn Tuesday, was in the western Caribbean late Sunday with 21,856 miles behind it and 2,973 miles to go to reach Edwards Air Force Base. The landing initially had been expected Wednesday afternoon.

World growth foretold

WASHINGTON — Four new babies are born somewhere on Earth every second, a rate that is expected to help push the planet's population to 6.2 billion by the year 2000, the Census Bureau reports.

The anticipated growth of 1.3 billion people between 1985 and 2000 will add more than five times the population of the United States to the world's total during 15 years, according to the Census Bureau's "World Population Profile: 1985," published Sunday.

"Approximately four persons were born each second in 1985; this is expected to increase to four and one-half births per second by the year 2000," the Bureau reported. And even subtracting deaths, the world gains between 2 and 3 new people every second, the figures in the study show.

Another De Lorean?

DETROIT — Twice acquitted of criminal offenses, former automaker John Z. De Lorean says he's ready to start over with a new enterprise aimed at people who think of their cars more as toys than as transportation.

"I'm looking to bring a high-performance, high-priced sports car into the market — I guess you would have to call it the exotic market — with a cost of over $100,000," he says.

De Lorean said Saturday he had raised the $20 million needed to build the new automobile, but declined to name the investors who put up the funds, or the well-known West German designer he said would take part in creating the car.

A federal jury in Detroit last week acquitted De Lorean of charges he embezzled $8.5 million from investors in his previous enterprise.

Bruce Chattman, principal of Burlington High School, Vt., said news of the $1 million fund established by the mysterious benefactress was akin to winning the lottery. The fund was established by Barbara Gauntlett, a U.S. citizen living in Switzerland, who has never visited the Vermont school. The fund will allow students to continue their studies in many ways, ranging from studying carpentry to ballet to pursuing a college degree.

Millionairess surprises high school

By JILL ARABAS
Associated Press Writer

BURLINGTON, Vt. — It's been three months since a mysterious benefactress gave $1 million to finance scholarships for Burlington High School alumni, but students and school officials still don't know how to thank her.

"I'd love to see her. I'd love to meet her and thank her," said Bruce Chattman, principal of the 1,200-student school in Vermont's largest city.

Chattman can't get over his surprise at the gift from Barbara Gauntlett, a U.S. citizen who has lived in Switzerland for the past 20 years. She is not an alumna; in fact, she had never seen or heard of the school before her lawyer, Christopher Stoneman of Burlington, suggested it as a worthy beneficiary.

The money was deposited in a New York financial institution in September to earn $60,000 interest annually and provide scholarships for Burlington High students to pursue their education beyond high school.

"I'd like to think she did it because Burlington High School is a wonderful high school and deserves it," said Chattman. "The truth is, I think it's coincidence. But it's also believing in fate, and I think the kids in this school are fantastic. Maybe they deserved it somehow."

Stoneman said he suggested the school because "I happen to be here in Burlington and am able to keep an eye on" the scholarship fund. He also felt the community could use the money.

He has revealed little about Mrs. Gauntlett, except that she is in her mid-60s, has four grown children, travels extensively and dabbles in pottery.

The scholarship fund will provide money to students pursuing a variety of programs beyond the high school level — theater, ballet, photography or carpentry, as well as the sciences and liberal arts.

"I think it's a realization on her part that there are many career paths open and we don't all have to go to college," Stoneman said.

"It was the intent of Mrs. Gauntlett, I believe, to provide a motivator, to provide students with the reality of doing something that might have been prevented financially for them," Chattman said.

"I thought it was great," said one senior, Lars Neilson, "because the school doesn't have a lot of money as it is, and it will allow a lot of us to get more money for college."

Word of the award took the school completely by surprise.

"It was unbelievable," said Tom Gibson, director of guidance. "The tape that was running in my mind was the old show, 'The Millionaire.' The cashier comes in and hands you a check for $1 million."

March for democracy

SHANGHAI, China — Hundreds of students broke through police lines today and marched on City Hall in the fourth day of pro-democracy marches. Police made no effort to drive them back despite a citywide ban on assemblies.

The students gathered at People's Square, their rallying point for the last four days. One group of about 300 then marched a mile down Nanking Road to City Hall, turned around and marched back in a demonstration that was small and disorganized compared with those held during the weekend.

Many of the students walked behind banners of Shanghai University, Shanghai Drama Institute and Shanghai Arts Institute. Protesters said other students from Jiaotong and Fudan universities, who led weekend demonstrations involving tens of thousands of students and workers, had their banners confiscated and were under tight surveillance as they tried to leave their campuses.

Talks set with rebels

MANILA, Philippines — The Cabinet today approved a series of proposals for a new round of peace talks with Communist rebels, including amnesty and rural development programs. But a rebel spokesman said land reform and U.S. relations will be the toughest issues.

A 60-day cease-fire between the government and Communist New People's Army took effect Dec. 10, the first in the 17-year insurgency.

Government negotiator Teofisto Guingona reiterated today that the government was not willing to share power with the guerrillas. He said a draft constitution that goes before the voters Feb. 2 is broad enough to accommodate rebel demands such as land reform.

Irish regime tottering

DUBLIN, Ireland — The government of Garret FitzGerald, acclaimed for its Northern Ireland peace initiative, is in trouble over Ireland's economy and opinion polls indicate it could be tottering toward a premature end.

The polls predict a sweeping victory for Charles J. Haughey, FitzGerald's longtime foe, in a general election widely expected to be held in late February, nine months ahead of schedule.

The prospect of an early election has been precipitated by a string of economic setbacks and a critical defection which stripped the government of its parliamentary majority.

"There's a certain inevitability about it, largely because the government's majority in the Dail (Parliament) has disappeared and it is not possible to go from vote to vote with uncertainty," said Maurice Manning, a Dail member in FitzGerald's Fine Gael party.

Views of other Texas papers

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the state.

Farm subsidy 'prince' of a program

You would think, wouldn't you, that the person in Texas drawing the largest federal farm subsidy check this year would be a more or less representative son of the soil — a big operator, to be sure (otherwise he wouldn't be drawing down all those bucks), but pretty much a regular Joe, with a gimme cap perched on his head and maybe a chaw of Red Man in his pocket.

And you'd be wrong. Turns out that the big winner in this year's Texas farm subsidy stakes is none other than ... the Crown Prince of Liechtenstein?

It transpires that the biggest farm subsidy in Texas was $2.2 million, which went to Farms of Texas Co., an outfit jointly owned by said prince and International Paper Co.

This particular datum illustrates the futility and the intellectual bankruptcy of the federal farm program as a whole.

Additionally, this kind of wholesale money-flinging calls into serious question the wisdom of the federal government's earnest efforts to save the "family farmer." However much one might wish it were otherwise, the family farmer is rapidly becoming a rare species....

Try though as you may, it's tough to picture the prince in bib overalls.

No-pass rule has a positive side

Of the far-reaching education reforms introduced by House Bill 72, no-pass, no-play remains the most controversial. Although the rule has caused less disruption and better grades than first expected, many parents and educators continue to condemn it.

Texas shouldn't dwell on the policy's punitive aspects. No-pass, no-play also carries a positive message to school boards, educators and parents, as well as their children: Academic achievement is paramount.

The Greek concept of a keen mind in a sound body has more than passed the test of time.

In Texas — where state government spends $10 billion a year for public education — no-pass, no-play is helping to restore the keen mind to its rightful place in the equation.

TDC policies contain inequities

It appears now that a directive from the head of Texas' prison system has played a big role in the speeding up of early releases of TDC inmates.

Texas Prison Director O.L. McCotter issued a directive that created a "change in status" for incoming inmates on the prison system. That change resulted in automatically classifying inmates as trustees.

It has also been disclosed that

TDC has allowed inmates who were violent or who repeatedly broke the rules to earn bonus "good time."

The "good time" program was originally intended to encourage good behavior. It has now become a tool for releasing prisoners.

While it is one response to the prison overcrowding problem, it is far from the best response.

Iran probe not trivial questioning

Trivia question of the week: Who is Muda Hassanali Bolkiyah and what is Brunei?

We can learn much from Iranseam, and indeed this may be its only positive result. This is an example.

Answer: Bolkiyah is the sultan of Brunei, which is in Malaysia, and we all know where that is. He is also its prime minister and looks after defense and home affairs.

Brunei is the size of Delaware and has 200,000 people, less than half the population of the city of El Paso. But it has oil, and the sultan may well be the richest man in the world with an income of $155 million — a day.

Why suddenly is the sultan in the news? Somehow, at some time, through someone, by some means, he apparently funneled several million dollars into the Swiss bank account managed by Lt. Col. Oliver North for the benefit of the contras in Nicaragua.

Believe the fight in Nicaragua is a simple little civil war? Look where Brunei is on the map.

Reading, writing basic to education

The recent emphasis on basic learning skills and the corresponding improvement in standardized test scores have prompted numerous optimists to proclaim that the tide of mediocrity is receding among the nation's schools. If that is the case, then why are so many American students unable to communicate effectively?

Excuses abound as to the baleful state of writing skills among today's students.

But the blunt truth is that clear and concise writing, like most acquired skills, demands simple dedication. In order to write well, one must read extensively, master the fundamentals of grammar, and — most important — practice, practice, practice.

Such devotion to detail used to be commonplace in most American classrooms. A return to this bygone standard is essential if students are to develop the communication skills that will enable them to cope with an increasingly complex world.

Despite promises, agencies hang arms dealer out to dry

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — A New York arms dealer was sure he could count on U.S. intelligence agencies to protect him if he skirted the law to help them get some Soviet weapons they wanted for study. But when he was arrested for trying to sell some rifles and ammunition to Poland as part of the scheme, his contacts hung him out to dry.

Solomon Schwartz, three other individuals and HLB Security Electronics Ltd. were indicted for the attempted sale of 500 Ruger automatic rifles and 100,000 rounds of ammo to Poland. Their defense is that the sale was a necessary element in the plan to obtain two Soviet T-72 tanks and some SAM-7 anti-aircraft missiles — and that the U.S. intelligence contacts knew it.

But in secret testimony submitted by federal prosecutors in New York, FBI and Defense Intelligence Agency officials insist they never authorized Schwartz to do anything illegal, although they admit discussing with him the plan to get the Soviet weapons.

Our associate Donald Goldberg has learned that Schwartz, in a detailed affidavit, named the names of the intelligence agents he met with and the dates and locations of the meetings.

Schwartz claims he was first approached by a "free-lance" CIA operative in November 1982, and told about the agency's interest in the state-of-the-art Soviet tanks. Schwartz traveled to Vienna and Warsaw and pursued the complex deal with Polish officials. The Poles insisted that U.S. arms would have to be part of the transaction, Schwartz says.

The arms dealer submitted a report on his trip to a CIA official in the agency's New York office through an intermediary. The CIA later handed the case off to the Defense Intelligence Agency.

Schwartz's claim that he had

several meetings with DIA officials is confirmed by closed-door testimony. One meeting took place at DIA offices near Washington, and included two agency officials and a legal adviser. One of the officials was James Hetrick.

According to the Schwartz affidavit, Hetrick was well aware of the arms-for-Poland deal, and told Schwartz: "We take care of our own. We will never let you hang." But Hetrick has denied ever authorizing Schwartz to sell weapons to Poland.

Schwartz says he was given similar assurances of protection by FBI counterintelligence agents in New York who wanted his help in tracking Polish spies in the United States. The agents have admitted meeting with Schwartz, but denied sanctioning illegal activity.

Schwartz says that when he told one G-man that the plan might entail shipping arms to Poland, the agent told him that "it didn't hurt to get a little 'dirty' in this business," because it helped one's credibility.

Schwartz swears he met with FBI agents at least five times, the first being on Aug. 23, 1983, at 26 Federal Plaza in New York City. There he was informed of the bureau's interest in information about Polish officials.

As the plot grew thicker, the meetings were more secret. Fearing that he might be under surveillance by Polish agents, Schwartz arranged to meet the G-men in out-of-the-way locations instead of their Federal Plaza office.

His final meeting with the FBI occurred at the Meadowlands, the sports complex across the river in New Jersey. It was then, Schwartz says, that he told the FBI that the Poles wanted U.S. weapons as part of the secret deal.

As it happened, it wasn't the Poles Schwartz had to worry about, but a government informant who was also a business rival of HLB Security Electronics. The informant stumbled onto evidence of the intricate Polish scheme while working for the Customs Service, and Schwartz and his co-defendants were indicted.

TUGBOAT TO-DO: The Panama Canal Commission did not violate competitive procurement rules when it insisted that its tugboats all have General Motors engines, the comptroller general has decided.

A potential tugboat supplier had protested the GM requirement, claiming it could provide boats with cheaper and more efficient engines than GM's.

But the canal commission argued, successfully, that it already has enough trouble getting spare parts and keeping trained maintenance personnel without introducing new, unfamiliar tugboat engines as well as its existing GM models.

DEADBEAT DILEMMA: The federal government is having trouble collecting the estimated $60 billion in delinquent debts it is owed, even using the Debt Collection Act of 1982.

The Justice Department, which is charged with extracting money from the truly wanton deadbeats, is discovering that many of the accounts are so old that the statute of limitations has run out or the debtors' addresses are hopelessly out of date.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Nothing like chili to start domestic war

By CAROL RUST

Beaumont Enterprise

Winter starts up about the same time the heater does, one of life's little miracles.

And if you've been cooking for your boyfriend for a month or a lifetime or a year or so, his request for chili isn't long in coming, either. During your time together, you've either ignored or debated some strong issues: should you have children, what constitutes a large wash load and whether the PLO has the right to exist.

But when he pops the chili question, no matter how far you are into your relationship, you stand on feeble ground. Thin ice. On trial. The works.

Because the three-alarm question brings with it nothing but trouble. To start off with, how long have you known your boyfriend?

Surveys show that no matter what the length of the relationship, few have survived the bean controversy.

It seems such a simple thing. To cook it could be a catastrophe. Have you ever served chili with beans to an anti-beaner? It's not a pretty sight.

"Beans in chili?" he'll exclaim incredulously, pushing the bowl away and reaching for his beer as if it were a life-or-death situation. Then you shuffle dejectedly back into the kitchen, hoping at least the dog will eat it since God himself couldn't persuade your boyfriend to.

OK, so then look on the flip side of the coin. Go ahead and serve up a bowl of chili without beans to a member of the pro-bean faction.

"Chili without beans?"

It's simply not a winning situation.

Someone conducted a poll some years back, and the results showed husbands and wives who worshiped in different religions stayed together five times more often than couples of different political parties.

I submit to you that members of different political parties, different countries and different religions all at the same time have a much better chance of survival in marriage than a man and a woman who stand on opposite sides of the bean question.

All pintos aside, you haven't even begun to consider the ultimate dilemma that inevitably arises: rice.

This used to be a question that could be answered simply by what side of the Mason-Dixon line you were on. Southerners eat rice in everything, and chili is no exception. But finding a grain of rice in a bowl of Northern chili just couldn't be done.

That's how things used to be. But then people started moving all over the country, folks got more open-minded about such matters and things really got screwed up.

So now, a chili chef has more than just beans to keep her awake at night.

Even subtle mentions of rice in chili, just to check out the chili recipient's stand on such matters, evoke violent reactions.

"Rice? You've got to be kidding."

And, of course, those who like rice with their chili feel just as strongly about it. When it comes to chili, "rice" is a fighting word. So the next time you meet some nice young man somewhere, don't waste your time on silly questions like what sign they are or what they do for a living. Get right to the meat of the matter.

Find out about rice; badger him about beans. Get all those questions out in the open as soon as possible.

Your relationship might not last forever, but if it lasts until winter, you'll be a saner person when winter's chili sets in.

Hazardous waste site attracting opponents

AUSTIN (AP) — Opponents of a plan to desposit hazardous wastes in a salt dome near Wharton are preparing for a battle before the Texas Water Commission on Tuesday.

The commission is near a decision on a request by United Resource Recovery Inc. of Houston for permits to build and operate the facility. The issue has been debated for more than a year.

Citizens groups, landowners and government authorities from the Wharton area have been battling the project for more than three years. They told the Austin American-Statesman that they intend to appear in force on Tuesday. Wharton is approximately 50 miles southwest of Houston.

The 209-acre site, two miles north of the community of Lago, is above a huge salt formation called the Boling Dome.

The company argues that the $15 million project offers a sensible, long-term disposal method at a time when facilities are badly needed to handle the growing volume of hazardous wastes in the state.

An important decision in favor of the company came late last month when a hearings examiner for the Water Commission recommended granting the permits. Hearings examiners preside over contested cases and their recommendations usually carry considerable weight with the three-member commission, which makes the final decision.

Opponents say the project could impose unreasonable environmental risks and greatly increase the cost of road repair, firefighting, medical and other services in the area.

One point of opposition is the concern that that wastes spilled from the plant could contaminate two aquifers that provide drinking water.

More than 70 individuals and government authorities fighting the project. Opponents include Wharton, Fort Bend and Colorado counties, the cities of Needville and Wharton, the South Texas Medical Clinic, area businesses and the Lower Colorado River Authority.

A hearing on the proposal lasted 31 days last spring and summer.

United Resource Recovery is owned primarily by GECOS, a Houston-based firm, which is a subsidiary of a French multinational firm, GTM-Entrepose.

Talking turkey with animal lover will put you in the doghouse

DEAR ABBY: I am taking the bull by the horns to register this complaint. I think "Cat Lover" is wrong for suggesting that we remove from our language phrases such as "to kill two birds with one stone" and "There is more than one way to skin a cat" because of the cruelty and violence involved. I'd never kill the goose that lays the golden eggs, but using those analogies is as easy as shooting fish in a barrel. Do I have a tiger by the tail — or am I just a ...

Dear Abby

DUMB BUNNY?
DEAR ABBY: Your readers who take offense at such expressions as "stoning birds" and "skinning cats" make me sick as a dog. What would our rich and wonderful language be if people didn't talk turkey, bait a bear, forgo a pig in the poke, strain at gnats, gore oxes, pass a camel through the eye of a needle and make silk purses out of sows' ears?

DEAR BUNNY, TURKEY AND VIRGO: Enough! Let's stop beating a dead horse.
DEAR ABBY: Please say a few words about a subject that makes me want to blow my top. Why do people hire teen-age baby sitters and then pay them with a check? I realize that by paying with a check, families can keep an accurate record of how much they spend for child care and/or entertainment. However, the sitters they hire are usually under 16, don't drive and depend on their parents to cash their checks. I have two daughters who babysit, and if they should need their money for something before I have been able to get to the bank, I give them the cash out of my own pocket. Then when I go to the bank, which is about once in two weeks, I cash their checks.

It seems strange that the money is coming out of my pocket when I didn't even have the enjoyment of going out for the evening!
MY DAUGHTER'S BANKER
DEAR BANKER: If you could see some of the complaints I've had from baby sitters who are either paid very late or not at all, you wouldn't "blow your top" because your daughters are paid by check. At least they're paid in full, and promptly.

DEAR ABBY: Today my mail is weird! I received an invitation to a wedding from a couple who have already produced a child in an informal live-in arrangement. Also, there is an invitation to attend a "party" where the hostess will sell her guests kitchen merchandise.
Another neighbor is having a block party as a baby shower for her daughter, Abby. I have neither the time nor money to accept all these invitations. Please give me a polite way of saying "no" so I won't be the subject of unfriendly gossip. I see these nice people when I work in my yard and I do want to be friends.

Addison's Disease treatment is medicine for life

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Would you please tell me in simple terms what Addison's disease is and what causes it? Are there ways to prevent it? When diagnosed, what is the usual treatment? Can it be cured? — V.P.W.
Addison's disease means the adrenal glands have pooped out. Those glands, situated atop the kidneys, are responsible for giving you and everyone else the daily "dose" of cortisone necessary for so many body functions that I cannot begin to list them all here.
In other days, the most common cause of such adrenal insufficiency was gland infection with the tuberculosis germ. But since we have effective control of that once widespread illness, most Addison's disease now falls into the "cause unknown" category.

There is no way to prevent Addison's and no way to get the adrenals working again. And the treatment is always the same, no matter the cause, and that is to supply the missing cortisone with the kind you get from the pharmacist in pill form.
You will find cortisone sold under various names, and that may confuse you. Don't worry, they have the same effect. And as I said, you cannot get the adrenals back into cortisone production, which means the medicine is for life.
That bothers some people. But remember, you are only supplying the body with a substance it would be making itself anyway.

The person with Type 1 diabetes is in the same situation. He is missing his own insulin, so he takes it via injection. People whose thyroid gland has malfunctioned must get thyroid hormones by way of medicine, usually for life.
Let me add one word of qualification to what I said about medication for life. There are times when the lowered adrenal gland production of cortisone is temporary. Those are special cases, and for them the medicine is given temporarily. I don't think that is what you meant when you asked about Addison's disease.

Nine die in Texas auto-truck crash

EL CAMPO (AP) — At least nine people died when a station wagon slammed into the back of a parked tractor-trailer rig on U.S. Highway 59 in Southeast Texas, authorities said.

One girl was taken by ambulance to a Houston hospital, where she later died, while a boy was hospitalized at El Campo Memorial Hospital in stable condition today, a spokeswoman said.

The station wagon carrying 10 people from Illinois was northbound when it veered off the road five miles south of El Campo at 11:55 p.m. Sunday and struck the rear of a truck parked on the shoulder, said Denise Stanphill, a dispatcher for the Department of Public Safety.

The driver and five passengers in the vehicle were pronounced dead at the scene by Peace Justice Stockton Quirey of Louise.

Two more passengers in the station wagon were pronounced dead on arrival at El Campo Memorial, said a spokeswoman who declined to be identified.

The accident occurred near the Farm to Market Highway 441 overpass at Hillje, state troopers said.

The group was returning from a funeral in Mexico, and they had been driving all night, a DPS spokesman said.

El Campo is 59 miles southwest of Houston.

Four Santas caught stealing toys

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Four Santa Clauses who delivered toys to needy children became Grinches instead when they allegedly tried to keep some of the gifts and were dismissed, charity officials say.

Workers with the Elf Louise Project, a local charity that uses about 500 volunteers dressed in Santa Claus costumes each season, were tipped by gift recipients, said Betty Beasley, a building supervisor for Elf Louise.

She said Sunday the recipients knew their children should be getting two gifts each instead of one.

"It's like the Grinch who stole Christmas from the children," she said.

"It's not the value of the toy. It's the value of a child's face when they see they did not get a toy," said Ms. Beasley.

Leigh Mammarella, a co-administrator of the project, said four volunteer Santas, including two women, were caught allegedly trying to pilfer the toys. The first Santa was caught Saturday, with the others apprehended Sunday.

"The Santa was stealing from Elf Louise; he was stealing from needy children," Ms. Mammarella said.

37 workers flee offshore gas rig

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Workers on an offshore natural gas rig were forced to flee in covered rafts after pressure in the well increased unexpectedly, authorities said.

The 37 men abandoned the rig, located about 60 to 70 miles south of Galveston, at about midnight, U.S. Coast Guard officials said.

"They had to evacuate so quickly we don't know for sure the problem," said Jay Aumiller, spokesman for Western Oceanic Inc., the company that maintains the rig.

He said the men on board the rig reported increasing pressure from the well, indicating it might start to blow dry gas, he said. "There was no fire or explosion," he said.

Yule card carries a tradition

PLAINVIEW (AP) — Leoma and LaVerna Thompson believe Christmas is a time for sharing. So, for the past three decades they have shared the same Christmas card.

They first shared the card 30 years ago, when Leoma sent it to LaVerna. She forgot to sign it, and La Verna said she decided not to "waste an unsigned card." She returned it to Leoma the following year, and since then, it's become a family tradition.

The card is kept in the original envelope, complete with 2-cent stamp. Both are sent in a new outer envelope every year.

Through the years, the women have created several scenarios to make the card delivery more exciting.

When Leoma and her husband, Guy, moved from their Abernathy farm to Plainview in 1962, she misplaced the card. It wasn't found until the following Christmas, when it was returned to LaVerna.

A few years later, remembering Leoma's loss of the card, LaVerna talked a couple of high school boys into a practical joke. Posing as "legal personnel," the boys served Leoma with what appeared to be a subpoena on Christmas Eve. The document was full of legal jargon to remind Leoma of her "absent-minded" behavior on that previous Christmas.

"I didn't know what to think," Leoma said. "We weren't used to having legal papers served on us, especially on Christmas Eve."

Soon after, Leoma mailed the card back in a package of old auto parts, postage due.

Somewhere around the 25th year, the Thompsons began to hand-deliver the card, fearing it might get lost in the mail. To celebrate the card's 25th year in circulation, LaVerna returned it with a porcelain bell, decorated with the number 25.

For the 30th year, Leoma has decorated the envelope with simulated pearls and diamonds, signifying a diamond anniversary.

LaVerna and Leoma say they have exhausted most good ideas for returning the card but are always trying to think of new ones. "I'm working on it . . . thinking about it," said LaVerna.

"I'm just surprised the card is in such good shape," LaVerna said, removing the card from its tattered envelope. "I'm deteriorating a lot faster than it is."

Their daughters have agreed to carry on the tradition.

Enrollment down after tuition jump

AUSTIN (AP) — Prior to the first tuition increases since 1971, students from some states found it less expensive to go to school in Texas than in their home states.

But enrollment of out-of-state and foreign students at Texas' public universities fell more than 13 percent after tuitions tripled in the fall of 1985. Enrollments tumbled even further this fall.

The findings are in a study underway at the state higher education Coordinating Board.

Winston Cave, director of the Coordinating Board's Educational Data Center, is examining the effects of the tuition increase and hopes to determine whether it was directly responsible for the declines.

"I could speculate that that appears to be the reason, but until I get some more conclusive information, I'm not ready to make that conclusion," Cave said.

One factor that could have contributed to the decline is that other states "could have taken some kind of steps that would have held their students there," he said.

Cave said he hopes to complete the study soon because he anticipates the Legislature, which convenes in January, will be seeking information on the effects of the tuition increase and a program that set aside part of tuition revenue for financial aid.

An enrollment decline of about 4 percent this fall at the University of Texas at Austin was attributed by UT officials in September to the increase in tuition and other costs, a continuing decline in the number of Americans 18 to 24 years old, rigorous enforcement of entrance requirements and stricter policies on scholastic probation.

UT-Austin has been trying to reduce enrollment since it rose above 48,000 in the early 1980s.

Statewide, enrollment in higher education increased by a little more than 2 percent this fall, with decreases at universities offset by increases at the state's 49 junior colleges.

Oilers end season on winning note

Buffalo Bills quarterback Jim Kelley loses the ball as he is sacked for the fifth time against the Houston Oilers Sunday in the Astrodome. Oiler defensive end Richard Byrd made the sack in the third quarter.

HOUSTON (AP) — It took them all season, but the Houston Oilers finally discovered what they do best on offense and how to overcome their mistakes.

Now quarterback Warren Moon wants to keep it that way. Houston's defense sacked Buffalo quarterback Jim Kelly six times and Tony Zendejas kicked field goals of 26, 51 and 22 yards to lead the Oilers to a 16-7 victory Sunday.

Houston opened up its offense after a Nov. 2 loss to Miami and closed out its season with a 5-11 record. The Oilers won their final four home games.

"This is our third offensive scheme in three years and the defense play has stayed the same which has helped them improve," said Moon, completing his third year with the Oilers.

"With the offense staying the same, it should help us going into next year."

Moon completed 14 of 29 passes for 208 yards against Buffalo. For the second week, Moon did not throw an interception after yielding 26 in the 13 previous games.

"We finally changed for the better in midseason this year," Moon said. "We're playing better defense and keeping down the turnovers."

Although Kelly was treated roughly by the Oiler defense, he completed 23 of 35 passes for 261 yards and established a club record of 284 single season completions.

"I didn't have a training camp coming into this season but I'll have a training camp next year and I'll be ready when the season starts," Kelly said.

Kelly signed with the Bills after preseason and Coach Marv Levy replaced Hank Bullough on Nov. 3. "It's time to switch gears," Levy said. "I know which players can be developed and which I think can't. I have a considerable running start."

"I'm not taking a bitter taste away from this season but it would have been much better if we had

Bears chew up Pokes

IRVING (AP) — Doug Flutie, who just two months ago had resigned himself to throwing his next pass in 1987, suddenly finds himself all but sure to be the playoff quarterback for the defending NFL champion Chicago Bears.

Flutie played the first half of the Bears' 24-10 win over Dallas Sunday, throwing two touchdown passes and setting up a third score with a long gainer as Chicago finished its season at 14-2, tied with the New York Giants for the best record in the NFL.

Overall, Flutie completed 8 of 14 passes for 152 yards, then sat out the second half in favor of Mike Tomczak and Steve Fuller.

That left coach Mike Ditka to answer the inevitable question. Was the 5-foot-9 former Heisman Trophy winner the playoff replacement for the injured Jim McMahon?

"I'm leaning very, very, heavily that way," Ditka said. "I doubt I'd lean any other way. His performance speaks for itself. I liked what I saw. I liked his effectiveness. I think the little guy's pretty special. He makes things happen. He's a winner."

"It's exciting for me just to play," said Flutie. "Anyone would die for the opportunity."

Flutie's performance, which also included a 19-yard run on a scramble, highlighted what was otherwise a drab game that seemed almost like an exhibition contest as Dallas, which finished at 7-9, closed out its first losing season since 1964.

There were 11 turnovers, the most in an NFL game this season, with seven in the first 18 minutes — including three fumbles and an interception on four straight series around the Chicago 20.

Chicago, which will open defense of its title at home in two weeks against either Washington or San Francisco, got its first touchdown on Walter Payton's 1-yard dive midway through the first period — his 106th rushing touchdown, tying him with Jim Brown for the most in NFL history. It came two plays after Flutie hit Tim Wrightman with a 26-yard pass to the two.

The Bears struck again on the first play of the second period when rookie running back Neal Anderson streaked past Dallas safety Bill Bates and Flutie hit him perfectly in stride for a 58-yard touchdown. Then Flutie directed a 92-yard drive in the final two minutes of the half, capping it with a 33-yard TD pass to Willie Gault, who was alone in the corner of the end zone.

That was enough for the Bears to coast home and it was enough for Ditka to all but anoint Flutie as his

Chiefs earn way into NFL playoffs

By The Associated Press
The NFL playoff lineup is set. Almost.

With just one game remaining in the regular season, eight of the 10 qualifiers for the race to the Super Bowl are set, including all five in the AFC. Tonight's game at Miami between the defending AFC champion Patriots and Dolphins will determine the other two teams. A New England victory or tie gives the Patriots the AFC East crown, making the New York Jets and Kansas City the wild-card teams. A Miami win knocks the Patriots out and puts Cincinnati at Kansas City for the wild-card game, with the Jets taking the AFC East.

Things became slightly less scrambled Sunday as the Chiefs beat Pittsburgh 24-19 to earn their first playoff spot since 1971, and the Bengals routed the Jets 52-21. Kansas City, by virtue of its conference record, clinched a wild card, something the Jets had done last week, even though they now have lost their last five games.

Cleveland, which romped past San Diego 47-17, took the AFC Central and has the conference's best record at 12-4, giving it the home field advantage throughout the AFC playoffs. Denver, which was a 41-16 loser in Seattle on Saturday, nevertheless is the AFC West winner at 11-5.

The Seahawks, who won their last five games and were the hottest team in the AFC, won't be in the playoffs.

In the NFC, the 49ers clinched the West title on Friday night with a 24-14 decision over the Los Angeles Rams. The Rams will play at Washington, a 21-14 winner over Philadelphia on Sunday, in the wild-card game next Sunday. The Giants, who closed with nine consecutive victories, earned the home field edge throughout the NFC playoffs with a 55-24 rout of Green Bay on Saturday. They finished 14-2, the same as the Bears, who won their last seven, including a 24-10 win at Dallas on Sunday.

Also on Sunday, it was St. Louis 21, Tampa Bay 17, giving the Bucs the No. 2 pick in next year's draft; Indianapolis 30, the Los Angeles Raiders 24; Minnesota 33, New Orleans 17; Houston 16, Buffalo 7; and Atlanta 20, Detroit 6.

Chiefs 24, Steelers 19. Special teams did it all for the Chiefs, whose 10-6 record represented only their second winning season in 13 years. Boyce Green ran a kickoff 97 yards for a score, Lloyd Burrus picked up a blocked field goal and scooted 78 yards for another touchdown, and Deron Cherry pounced on a blocked punt in the end zone. The Chiefs were outgained 515 yards to 171, but held on.

"We did it the same way we have done it all year, with special teams and defense," Chiefs Coach John Mackovic said. "Our offense wasn't that good. But I feel great because people didn't think we could make it to the playoffs."

"No one was talking about Kansas City in the playoff race but they sure are now. We believed we could get it done." Pro Bowl safety Cherry added.

Gary Anderson had four field goals for Pittsburgh, which finished 6-10.

Bengals 52, Jets 21

Late in November, the Jets were 10-1, riding a nine-game winning streak to the best record in the league. Since then, it's been nothing but disaster, as they've been outscored 183-61.

Meanwhile, the Bengals' potent offense, which scored 409 points this season, was sparked by Boomer Esiason's five touchdown passes, three to Cris Collinsworth. The Bengals trailed 21-17 at halftime before turning the game into a rout on the arm of Esiason, who completed 23 of 30 passes for a personal-high 425 yards. He set a team single-season passing record of 3,959 yards.

"It was a good way to end, if it's the end," Esiason said. "It's a good way to head into the playoffs, if we head into the playoffs."

"We've got to find a way where our offense doesn't have to score every time to keep us in the game," Jets linebacker Bob Crable said of the injury-riddled defense.

Browns 47, Chargers 17

Bernie Kosar capped his sensational second season in the NFL with 21 completions in 28 passes for 258 yards and two touchdowns, including a 57-yarder to Brian Brennan. He finished the season with only 10 interceptions in 531 attempts this year, the best mark in the league.

Cleveland took the lead on a 46-yard halfback pass from Herman Fontenot to Webster Slaughter in the first quarter.

Later, Kosar scrambled away from a heavy rush at his own 43 and threw to Brennan, who fell as he caught the ball at the 6, got up and ran for the score with six seconds left in the second quarter. Brennan caught seven passes Sunday for a career-high 176 yards.

It was the most points in a game for the Browns since 1968.

"It's the time of year when great teams play well," Kosar said.

Plano captures fifth gridiron championship

By The Associated Press
Plano quarterback Bobby Schrader says it will be a long time before the Wildcats' Class 5A football championship is forgotten.

"Twenty years from now people will ask me if I was a member of the Plano state championship team, and I will always hold my head up high," Schrader said after Plano defeated La Marque 24-7 Saturday at Kyle Field in College Station for the Class 5A football championship.

Schrader completed seven passes for 51 yards and one touchdown for the win that saw Plano score all its points in the second quarter.

The Cougars played the championship game under the cloud of the death of Coach Hugh Massey, who was killed Dec. 4 in an automobile accident, two days before the quarterfinal playoff game against Aldine MacArthur.

"We're not real unhappy right now," said interim coach Larry Nowtony. "We won some things in life that we will always be able to relish.

Plano controlled the ball and our offense couldn't get it on the field."

The title was Plano's fifth state championship and its first in Class 5A.

Plano's defense caused La Marque's run-and-shoot offense to stumble as quarterback Michael Little completed five of 12 passes for 61 yards and threw two interceptions. The Cougars rushed for 73 yards, while Plano had 319 rushing.

La Marque's only touchdown came in the second quarter with a 31-yard scoring pass that narrowed the score to 14-7.

Two touchdown connections between quarterback James Reed and Keith Kirkwood led West Orange Stark to a 21-9 victory over McKinney in the 4A state championship game.

The 20- and 21-yard receptions helped the Mustangs to a 14-3 halftime lead, and Scottie Littleton's 5-yard run in the fourth quarter iced the victory.

Joe Bob Harris kicked a 40-yard field goal for McKinney in the second quarter. The only Lions' touchdown came on a 1-yard run in the fourth by Randy Simmons. Simmons upped his 1986 rushing total to 2,557 yards with 131 yards in 28 carries.

It was a game of turnovers Saturday, but Jefferson made the most of them by turning three of Cuero's eight mistakes into touchdowns and shutting out the Gobblers 24-0 in the Class 3A championship game.

Jefferson's defense intercepted Cuero quarterback Wayne Mathis four times and recovered two of his fumbles to complete the season 16-0.

Each team turned the ball over three times in the first quarter, but Jefferson overcame its own to take a 10-0 halftime lead.

The title is Jefferson's first in three tips to the playoffs.

The Shiner Comanches used the running skills of quarterback Gilbert Price to blank the Mart Panthers 18-0 Saturday for the Class 2A crown.

Price, a senior, ran for 166 yards and two touchdowns to finish the season with 1,591 yards rushing.

After Shiner's first touchdown on its second possession, the first half was mostly a defensive duel. Price was sacked five times and had a total of minus one yard rushing at halftime.

But the Comanches took the second-half kickoff and marched 80 yards on five plays to make the score 12-0. The Comanches final touchdown came with 4:41 left in the third quarter.

The Shiner defense held Mart to 26 yards rushing on 27 carries and a total of 121.

Burkeville posted an easy win 33-7 over Throckmorton to win the Class A state high school football championship Friday night.

Quarterback Darrell Spikes scored runs of 32 and seven yards. Renwick Bylery ran 86 yards for another score.

Throckmorton's lone score came on Dave Davis' 5-yard touchdown run with 50 seconds left in the first half.

Lakers turn tables on Rockets

By The Associated Press
The Los Angeles Lakers' embarrassing loss to the Houston Rockets in the NBA playoffs last season is becoming a distant memory.

With Magic Johnson collecting a season-high 38 points and 16 assists, the Lakers outscored Houston 17-5 down the stretch for a 103-96 victory Sunday night.

Houston, with Twin Towers Akeem Olajuwon and Ralph Sampson, appeared to be the dominant power in the Western Conference just a few months ago. Today, however, Los Angeles is 19-6 and the injury-plagued Rockets 9-15.

The Lakers outrebounded the Rockets 48-37 despite the absence of center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, due to an eye problem. Forward A.C. Green had a career-high 16 rebounds and 18 points.

"A.C. is like a machine," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said. "He is front-line material, a very gifted athlete. At 6-9, he plays extremely well against Ralph and Akeem under the basket."

In other games, it was Cleveland 104, Indiana 94; Portland 128, Washington 101; and Golden State 121, Seattle 112. The Rockets led 91-86 with 4:29 left, but Johnson scored eight points down the stretch to key the 17-5 surge.

"We showed a lot of grit and character in this win," Riley said. "I told the team that we had to keep our turnovers to a minimum and look for good shot selection. We did that."

"Los Angeles was a better club the last two or three minutes," Houston Coach Bill Fitch said. "Magic took over and they outplayed us."

Lewis Lloyd scored 25 points for the Rockets, who have lost four straight games. Dirk Minniefield added 20 points and 13 assists and Olajuwon had 19 points and 13 rebounds.

"We feel good because this was a big win against Ralph and Akeem," Johnson said. "Despite the Rockets record, I believe they will be there when the playoffs begin."

Warriors 121, Sonics 112

Cardinals 21, Buccaneers 17
Rookie Vai Sikahema, a Pro Bowl selection as a kick returner, returned punts 71 and 60 yards for second-quarter touchdowns as St. Louis beat visiting Tampa Bay.

The loss gave the Buccaneers a 2-14 record and gave them the first pick in next spring's NFL draft, in which they are expected to select Heisman Trophy winner Vinny Testaverde. Last season, the Bucs finished 2-14 and got the No. 1 pick — they took Heisman winner Bo Jackson, who elected to play baseball.

Sikahema finished with 145 yards on four punt returns and became only the sixth NFL player to return two punts for touchdowns in one game.

Despite the victory, the Cardinals finished 4-11-1, their worst record in 27 seasons in St. Louis.

Redskins 21, Eagles 14
George Rogers ran 5 yards for the tiebreaking touchdown with two minutes remaining as Washington rallied for 21 points in the fourth quarter and won in Philadelphia.

Redskins quarterback Jay Schroeder hit Clint Didier with a 26-yard TD pass and threw to Don Warren for a 2-yard score as Washington wiped out a 14-0 deficit.

The Eagles finished Buddy Ryan's first season as head coach with a 5-10-1 record. Philadelphia set an NFL record by allowing 104 sacks this season.

Vikings 33, Saints 17
Wade Wilson, subbing for injured Tommy Kramer, threw three touchdown passes as Minnesota sent New Orleans to its 18th losing season in 20 years.

The Vikings finished 9-7 under first-year Coach Jerry Burns, the first time since 1980 they have won at least nine games. Minnesota also set a team record by scoring 398 points in a season, breaking the mark of 383 in 1965.

Wilson completed 24 of 39 passes for a career-high 361 yards.

The Saints, under first-year Coach Jim Mora, wound up 7-9. New Orleans rookie running back Rueben Mayes ran for 61 yards and finished with 1,353 in his first NFL season.

Falcons 20, Lions 6

Turk Schonert threw a touchdown pass and Gerald Riggs ran for another score as visiting Atlanta beat Detroit.

The Falcons finished 7-8-1 while the Lions, hampered by four turnovers, ended up 5-11. A crowd of 35,255, the smallest of the season at the Silverdome, jeered the Lions throughout the game.

Detroit running back James Jones said he did not think his team "gave 100 percent, including me."

"I'm sure a lot of guys had their minds on the highway," he said.

Colts 30, Raiders 24
Gary Hogeboom threw an 11-yard touchdown pass to Bill Brooks with 7:32 remaining as Indianapolis, which lost its first 13 games under fired Coach Rod Dowhower, won its final three for Coach Ron Meyer.

The host Raiders lost their final four games of the season. Los Angeles finished 8-8 and missed the playoffs for the first time since 1981, the last year in Oakland.

The Raiders drove 90 yards to the Indianapolis 6 with eight seconds left, but reserve quarterback Rusty Hilger threw two incompletions and time ran out.

The Bills finished with a 4-12 record.

Rookie Allen Pinkett scored on a 1-yard dive in the first quarter and Zendejas' did the rest of the scoring.

The Bills only touchdown came on a 12-yard pass from Kelly to Chris Burkett with 54 seconds left in the first half.

The Oilers had to overcome five penalties in one Buffalo drive in the first quarter but they finally forced Scott Norwood to miss a 53-yard field goal.

The Oilers closed with back-to-back victories after a disheartening 27-0 loss to San Diego.

"It's a full credit to the players that they were able to resurrect the season when people were saying we wouldn't win another game," Glanville said.

"We're close, very close. Everybody's still enthusiastic. Our strength is the wide open attack and we hope to run better next year."

Linebacker Johnny Meads thinks the worst is over.

"The way we lost this year, it couldn't get any worse," Meads said. "It can't repeat itself five years in a row. The good man above has to see something good for us."

playoff starter.

It was a boffo finish for Flutie, whom the Bears signed on Oct. 21 after obtaining his rights from the Los Angeles Rams for a sixth-round draft choice and an exchange of a third and a fifth. Until then, the Rams had declined to sign him and he had sat at home, watching other USFL players flock to the NFL after the demise of their league.

"I was just looking forward to next year," said Flutie, who still wears a wristband with his team's plays written on it. "I thought I might get a chance to sign with someone this year but I really never thought I'd get onto the field."

Things didn't work out as well for Dallas' USFL refugee quarterback, Reggie Collier. He completed 4-of-9 passes for 44 yards, threw two interceptions and fumbled twice while alternating with Steve Pelluer.

Dallas, which has been outscored 68-10 by the Bears in the last two seasons, got its only touchdown with nine seconds left in the game on a 9-yard pass from Pelluer to Mike Renfro. Despite that, the Bears finished the season allowing only 187 points, a record for a 16-game season.

"We're at a good level for the playoffs but we've got about 10 notches more we can tighten up," said linebacker Mike Singletary, the Bears' defensive captain.

For Dallas, it was a sad ending to a season that has started out with great promise. The Cowboys won six of their first eight, only to go 1-7 over the last half of the season to miss the playoffs for only the third time in 20 years.

"We're not a 7-9 team, and again we're not as good as some people thought early," said Coach Tom Landry. "We're somewhere in between. We'll be working on a lot of things this off-season."

College football '86 - Who will be No. 1? Lakers

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

It was the year college football finally came up with a playoff. It was unofficial, of course, but the Jan. 2 Fiesta Bowl showdown between No. 1 Miami of Florida and second-ranked Penn State is being touted as a one-game collegiate Super Bowl.

Only two teams were ranked No. 1 during the regular season. Oklahoma, the preseason choice to successfully defend its 1985 championship, was No. 1 until Sept. 27, when the Sooners met up with No. 2 Miami.

It was only the 20th such meeting since the Associated Press began its poll back in 1936 - the Fiesta Bowl will be No. 21 - and Miami, thanks to four touchdown passes by Vinny Testaverde, whipped Oklahoma 28-16 and vaulted to the top of the rankings.

The impressive victory also catapulted Testaverde to the head of the class of Heisman Trophy candidates and the 6-foot-5 senior quarterback made it official on Dec. 6 by the second largest margin in the Heisman's 52-year history. Temple tailback Paul Palmer, who led the nation in rushing, was a distant second.

For the remainder of their 11-0 regular season, the Miami Hurricanes never won by fewer than 13 points.

Meanwhile, Penn State was ranked either fifth, sixth or seventh for the first eight polls. The Nittany Lions rolled along with only one scare - a 23-17 come-from-behind triumph over Cincinnati, a victory they pulled out in the closing minutes.

And when they demolished second-ranked Alabama 23-3 on Oct. 25 to take over the No. 2 spot from the Crimson Tide, the shootout with Miami loomed on the horizon. A hard-fought 17-15 victory over Maryland on Nov. 8 dropped Penn State to third, but second-ranked Michigan was upset by Minnesota 20-17 the following week. That same night, Miami struggled to a lackluster 23-10 victory over Tulsa after more than a week of listening to how much the Fiesta, Citrus and Gator Bowls would offer for a national championship match.

But after the Tulsa game, Miami Coach Jimmy Johnson said the Fiesta was the Hurricanes' choice. All that remained was for Miami and Penn State to win their regular-season finales. They did - Penn State trouncing Pitt 34-14 to finish 11-0 and Miami disposing of East Carolina 36-10.

The rest of the Top Ten in the AP's final regular-season poll consisted of Oklahoma, Michigan, LSU, Nebraska, Arizona State, Texas A&M, Arkansas and Auburn.

The Second Ten included Ohio State, Washington, Alabama, Baylor, UCLA, Arizona, Georgia, North Carolina State, Iowa and Stanford.

Although Testaverde finished fifth nationally in total offense with 245.4 yards a game - San Jose State's Mike Perez led with 329.8 - he was first in passing efficiency, completing 175 of 276 passes for 2,557 yards and 26 touchdowns.

Palmer was No. 1 in both rushing (1,866 total yards, 169.6 per game) and all-purpose running. In the later category, Palmer averaged 239.36 yards a game rushing, receiving and returning kicks.

Mark Templeton of Long Beach State was the top pass-catcher with 99 receptions. LSU's Wendell Davis led in reception yardage with 1,244 on 80 catches.

Colorado State's Steve Bartalo was the leading scorer with 19 touchdowns. Miami's Bennie Blades led in interceptions with 10. Arkansas' Greg Horne was the No. 1 punter with a 47.20-yard average and Virginia Tech's Chris Kinzer averaged two field goals a game, kicking 22 in 27 attempts.

evaporated in its loss to Miami, the Sooners led the nation in most team categories. They were No. 1 in scoring (42.4 points a game) and rushing (404.7 yards) and became the first team to lead in all four defensive categories - scoring defense (6.6 points), total defense (169.6), rushing defense (60.7) and passing defense (108.9).

The Sooners also won the Big Eight championship and a trip to the Orange Bowl for the third year in a row. Other conference champions included Michigan in the Big Ten, LSU in the Southeastern, Texas A&M in the Southwest, Arizona State in the Pacific-10, Clemson in the Atlantic Coast and San Diego State in the Western Athletic, ending Brigham Young's string of 10 consecutive WAC titles.

San Jose State won the Pacific Coast Athletic Association crown and Miami of Ohio took the Mid-American Conference. They met in the California Bowl, the first of 18 postseason bowls, with San Jose State winning 37-7.

The rest of the bowl lineup included:

State increased the margin to 21 points before Seattle rallied to make it close.

Tom Chambers led the Sonics with 25 points. Dale Ellis added 20 points, but committed nine turnovers.

Cavaliers 104, Pacers 94
Ron Harper scored 21 points and fellow rookie Brad Daugherty added 16 for Cleveland against Indiana.

The Cavaliers led 86-82 with 6:17 remaining before another rookie, Mark Price, hit a three-point shot and Harper added a pair of free throws to give them a nine-point advantage with 5:07 left. The Cavaliers led by at least seven the rest of the way.

Rookie forward Chuck Person had 23 points and 11 rebounds for the Pacers.

Blazers 128, Bullets 101
Like the Lakers, Portland also had a big night against a much bigger opponent, outbounding Washington 59-48 en route to its 11th consecutive home victory.

Kiki Vandeweghe scored 29 points for the Trail Blazers, Jim Paxson added 20 off the bench and Kenny Carr had 18 points and 13 rebounds.

The Bullets trailed by six points with 7:12 minutes to go in the third period, but Portland scored seven straight points for a 77-64 advantage and Washington never came closer than eight points again.

Moses Malone topped the Bullets with 19 points, but managed only five rebounds, seven under his average.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, DEC. 23, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The day requires that you give more than usual thought to specific plans you have. Errors or mistakes could easily creep into various matters that need attention.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) It is important that you are most careful in handling your responsibilities. Make preparations for the holidays.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Count the cost well for holiday preparations and don't go overboard with them. Think logically.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Home situations could upset you, if you allow this, so keep the holiday spirit alive and well.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Take care you do not lose anything while out shopping. Listen carefully to a friend's complaint.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Use care in handling finances or property today and avoid losses that could be big. Make sure you drive with care.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You could be highly discontented with some personal mistake you have made, but it is easily rectifiable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are sick and tired of some situation that has long bothered you, but be patient a little longer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although a good friend may not agree with a personal matter you are handling, listen carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good day to make any changes in your activities. Handle some civic affair carefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study further into that enterprise that interests you before you put it in operation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You had better postpone that talk with your mate. Be sure to keep any promises you have made.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) All kinds of conditions arise now that can depress you if you jump to hasty conclusions. Listen to others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will get at the core of any situation or subject and study all the details connected with it so that right action can be taken later. Give a good education that will improve both mental and physical abilities. Give valuable guidance and musical training to your child.
