How's that? Elsa's husband

Q. Elsa Lancheater, the British actress, died Friday. Who was her husband?

A. Elsa Lancheater's husband was the late British actor Charles Laughton. The portly Laughton will be remembered for his thrilling performances in "Witness for the Prosecution" and "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Calendar Jobs

Tuesday

• Tuesday is the last day for unemployed persons to submit a free advertisement to the Big Spring Herald on their job skills to aid in their search for full-time employment. Persons can call the classified department between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. which is the deadline.

Participants are asked to limit their ads to 25 words, and to contact the Herald if the ad helps them obtain a job.

Tops on TV Kentucky battle

The Kentucky Wildcats visit the Louisville Cardinals as they renew one of the fiercest intrastate basketball rivalries in the country. The game starts at 3 p.m. on Ch. 7.

• "Saturday Night Live," at 10:30 p.m. on Ch. 13.

• High School Football All-America Team, at 5 p.m. on Ch. 3.

Outside Fair

Today will be sunny, with a high in the mid 50s. The sky will become cloudier tonight, with a low in the 30s. The extended forecast shows a cooling trend, with a chance of snow by Wednesday.

He showed those kids

SATICOY, Calif. (AP) — Even the neighborhood kids were wise to Dick Alegre's reputation for not finishing what he set out to do.

So one of them goaded the 57-year-old farmer into buying his 6-year-old son Ritchie the ultimate toy: a genuine, 70,000-pound, World War II Sherman tank in working order.

A tree house for daughter Deborah, 10, was never quite completed. So when Ritchie started pressing for a tank, his friends were skeptical.

"For two years," Alegre recalled, "it was 'We're going to get one, Dad, huh? Huh?' And then one day one of his little friends said to me: 'Mr. Alegre, why do you keep telling Ritchie you're going to buy him a tank if you're not going to?'"

That smarted. So when Ritchie spotted a magazine ad from a Fullerton man who had a Sherman tank for sale, the part-time pilot flew his family down for a look, and bought it.

"I can't tell you what a ball we've had with it," said Alegre, although he's only driven it a few hundred feet on his avocado farm, 50 miles northeast of downtown Los Angeles.

"We pretend we're driving through buildings," said Deborah. "I'm the gunman. Ritchie drives it."

Alegre and seller Frank Haigler, a military vehicle collector, won't say how much money changed hands. Bill Barker, a member of the Military Vehicle Collectors Club, said Shermans sell for $20,000 to $70,000 each, and about 20 belong to civilians.

Alegre's wife, Kitty, said Friday that the cannon was taken out of commission before the military released the tank.

U.S. and Mexico face trust crisis

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Mexico are facing a crisis of confidence that is aggravating efforts to resolve issues ranging from drug trafficking to illegal immigration, according to officials from both countries.

Mexican officials maintain the Reagan administration has waged a systematic campaign to discredit their country while U.S. officials insist Mexico is intent on undercutting American foreign policy, especially in Central America.

State Department officials, asking not to be identified, said one reflection of the mistrust occurred last month when Secretary of State George P. Shultz snubbed Mexican Foreign Secretary Bernardo Sepulveda at an Organization of American States meeting in Guatemala.

Shultz is said to have been irritated when Mexico introduced a resolution at the U.N. General Assembly criticizing El Salvador's human rights record.

Shultz feels El Salvador's rights performance has improved markedly and thought there was an understanding that the country would be spared that issue at a time it was coping with the effects of a devastating earthquake, officials said.

Mexico also irked the administration by defending Nicaragua this past fall in the United Nations when the Sandinista representative assailed the United States for not agreeing to World Court adjudication of the Central American conflict.

"No one came to Nicaragua's defense," said one official. "The Russians didn't. Outer Mongolia didn't. Only the Mexicans." He said United Nations Ambassador Vernon Walters was furious with the Mexicans.

For their part, Mexican officials say there has been a deliberate U.S. attempt to misrepresent Mexican policy.

They cited press accounts in the United States suggesting that Mexico had had secret discussions with the Soviet Union about the opening of Soviet consular offices along the U.S. border. This presumably would greatly enhance Soviet intelligence gathering opportunities in the United States.

But Mexican officials, insisting on anonymity, say the report is false and accuse U.S. officials of spreading malicious rumors.

One Mexican official said the United States has been waging a "disinformation" campaign concerning Mexican policies toward Central America.

Some U.S. officials view as an ominous sign the prospective visit to Mexico next year of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, while others see no cause for alarm.

The two countries have been at odds over Mexico's economic policies, with the United States contending Mexico is accelerating the outflow of illegal emigres through policies that discourage creation of new jobs. With 2 million Mexicans expected to enter the Mexican work force each year by the end of the century, U.S. officials are worried that the problem will worsen.

One potentially positive development in U.S.-Mexican relations was the appointment of a new U.S. ambassador to Mexico, Charles Pilliod, 68, retired chairman of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

Mexican officials say they regard Pilliod as far less confrontational than his predecessor, John Gavin, whose five years in Mexico City were marked by frequent clashes with the Mexican establishment.

Some — but not all — U.S. officials defend Gavin's get-tough attitude as appropriate to the $10 million Lotto fever draws lines

SEATTLE (AP) — The Christmas rush was still on in the Pacific Northwest as people looking for a shot at $10 million lined up at convenience stores Friday for tickets to the biggest lottery jackpot in Washington history.

"I had to get in a big line of traffic to get over here," Mac Hoffmeister of Portland, Ore., said in Vancouver, just across the Columbia River. "When it gets to $10 million, it really draws the people out."

More than $417,000 of the $1 tickets, which allow players two chances at the lucky combination, were sold Friday by late morning, said lottery spokesman Dick Paulson. The drawing is scheduled for Saturday evening.

The biggest previous jackpot, given away in a March 1 drawing, was $8.5 million. No one has won a jackpot in the weekly Lotto drawing since Nov. 22, allowing the total to snowball.

Jack Meenahan, a retired foundry worker from Oregon, said he would throw a party of sorts if he won the top prize. "I'd invite all my friends over to the house and have 'em count my money," he said.

This week's ticket sales already had exceeded $6.5 million heading into the weekend and were second only to the $8.6 million record set before the drawing in March, Paulson said.

He said that he expected sales to hit a record $10 million by week's end but that officials had no plans to increase the jackpot.

Hobby gives views on coming state session

Austin Bureau

Insurance companies may have to improve reporting procedures, service industries may be paying sales tax and high-court justices might be selected differently after 1987, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said as he views next month's legislative session.

Hobby, interviewed by telephone from his Capitol office, said achieving a budget that addresses the state's needs in the face of the continued sluggish nature of the state's economy "will be a monumental task, no doubt about it." The current estimate of available revenues is based on the expiration on Aug. 31, 1987, of the sales tax and gasoline tax increases passed during the September-October special sessions.

If those two tax increases are not renewed, he said, the shortfall will be about $4.5 billion. If they were to become permanent, he said, it would be between $2 billion and $2.5 billion.

But those taxes are only part of any solution toward solvency.

"Obviously," he said, "one of the things to be considered is a restructuring of the tax code, a broadening of the sales tax base."

For the past several years, Hobby has been suggesting that the present sales tax structure was appropriate in an oil-based economy, but fails to reflect decreasing oil production and increased numbers of service-oriented industries.

Any proposal to broaden the tax base excludes food, medicine and medical services.

However, Hobby said, as separate aspects of this proposal are examined, "The ramifications are terribly complex and, obviously, highly controversial."

For example, a major revenue producer in the state is the sale of natural gas to electric utility companies, but it is not taxed because it is not considered "a final sale."

Levying a tax on this interim sale would increase utility bills and thus have a significant impact on consumers at all levels, he said.

Another issue coming to legislators in 1987 is a proposed constitutional amendment to allow homeowners to borrow against the equity in their home, a proposal that wins Hobby's support.

Currently, second mortgages can only be taken for expenses directly related to the home.

"I think this change is needed for two reasons," Hobby said. "First on philosophical grounds: I don't see what business the state has telling a citizen how to use their financial assets."

"A home may be your largest single asset, and now, you can't use it for essentials, for college for

Shoppers go to switch bad items for bargains

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — It was that rarest of days when the number of packages going into the shopping malls might have equaled the number heading for the parking lot.

The urge to shop the day-after-Christmas sales was irresistible for many bargain-grabbers. But the urge to get rid of bad ties, bad colors and just plain bad gifts also was a driving force that sent Texans to the malls Friday.

"Bedroom items, wrong color," Sandra Bowles of Austin said as she balanced a box in one hand while working her way closer to the mall map that could lead her to the redemption at the end of the exchange line.

"I also have a broken Teddy Ruxpin. I'll be taking care of that for my grandson," she said as she continued her day at Barton Creek Square Shopping Center.

The Austin mall was sporadically busy and shoppers did not face major crushes in any of the department stores. Because Friday was a holiday for many people, the women's clothing departments were sprinkled with bored men trying to look interested.

"I'm waiting, basically," a man who identified himself only as Phillip said when asked to explain his function as his wife squeaked hangers along a metal rack.

In Houston, the city's largest Foley's department store reported slower-than-usual post-Christmas shopping.

"It's steady but not fabulous," manager Kathy Knott said of the store at Sharpstown Center in southwest Houston. "We have our annual-half price sale on all of our Christmas merchandise and it's real slow. It surprised me."

Ms. Knott said shoppers are spending their Christmas money, but surmised that money as a Christmas present this year wasn't as plentiful.

Just as the day after Thanksgiving is known as the busiest shopping day of the year, the day after Christmas should be known as the busiest return day. Wal-Mart, like many of the other large stores in Big Spring, faced the onslaught by arranging a special return desk, complete with ample area for the mountain of items brought back.

Growth trend continues in Baptist church

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Southern Baptist denomination increased baptisms in 1986, but suffered a slight decline in Sunday school attendance for the year, church officials say.

Meanwhile, membership in America's largest Protestant denomination grew to 14.61 million, up nine-tenths of a percent, according to statistical projections.

The increase in membership continues a trend of slowed growth that began three decades ago, say officials at the Nashville headquarters of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Baptisms this year were estimated at 364,400, compared to 351,000 in 1985. Officials attribute the increase to a nationwide series of revivals last spring called "Good News America — God Loves You," which was sponsored by 27,000 churches.

"I felt Good News America kept the priority of evangelism visible in Southern Baptist churches," said Bobby Sunderland, of the Home Mission Board in Atlanta. "And it created pride among Southern Baptists, a healthy pride in a high-class project."

Church officials are dismayed, however, in the decline in Sunday school attendance.

"That's disappointing to me," said Harold Bennett, director of the SBC Executive Committee here. "I see Sunday school as the major outreach arm of the church."

Sunday school enrollment was 7.95 million this year, a drop of one-tenth of a percent, or 7,900 people from the year before.

Bennett said the decline may be tied to changing worship habits. "It used to be that people came into the church through Sunday school," Bennett said. "They'd be invited to Sunday school by people of their age group who were in a Sunday school class. But now people seem more attracted to the 11 a.m. public worship."

Many observers have blamed the recent sluggish baptism and Sunday school figures on the denomination's continuing theological-political controversy between conservatives and moderates. Critics say the decade-long controversy drains pastors of their energy and disillusiones prospective members.

However, Bennett said the real problem is society's hectic pace. "It's a basic problem churches face," Bennett said. "People are busy doing things, and they're not visiting others and inviting them into church as they once did."

The statistical projections, compiled by the Baptist Sunday School Board, are based on information submitted annually by SBC churches. About 29,300 have returned the letter for the year so far.

Jewish festival begins

By The Associated Press
Jews across the country began celebrating the eight-day Hanukkah holiday at home and in public Friday night with the lighting of a candle on the menorah, a symbol of the festival of lights.

In New York, David Goldfarb, a Jewish cancer patient who was allowed to leave the Soviet Union in October, planned to celebrate his first Hanukkah in 63 years.

The 68-year-old Goldfarb said his memories of Hanukkah when he was 5 years old in the Ukraine consisted of candles, singing and gifts of money and apples.

In the Chicago suburb of Highland Park, Ill., a rabbi concerned about the effect of a nearby Santa House on Jewish children opened his own Dreidel House, shaped like the four-sided top that is a traditional toy of Hanukkah.

Rabbi Yosef Schanowitz said Jewish children were going to the Santa House to see Santa and tell him what they wanted for Christmas.

"The Dreidel House was not intended for homes saturated in Judaism all year round. Christmas doesn't mean anything to them," he said. "Unfortunately the majority of Jewish people have assimilated to some extent."

Members of New York's Lubavitch Hasidim, an orthodox Jewish sect, used a utility company's "cherry picker" to kindle what they called the largest menorah in the world, a 32-foot version of the nine-branch candelabrum.

Latkes, potato pancakes traditionally eaten during the holiday, will be distributed free on Sunday. "We want everyone to 'taste' the tradition," said Rabbi Shmuel M. Butman.

Hanukkah commemorates the victory of the Jews over the Syrian-Greeks in 165 B.C. The Jews retook their temple in Jerusalem and rededicated it by rekindling its candelabrum.

According to tradition, the Jews had only enough oil to burn one day, but it miraculously lasted eight days.

Another candle is lit on each night of Hanukkah.

In Des Moines, Rabbi Moishe Kasowitz said the state attorney general's office had agreed to allow a two-hour display Sunday of a 20-foot menorah outside the state Capitol.

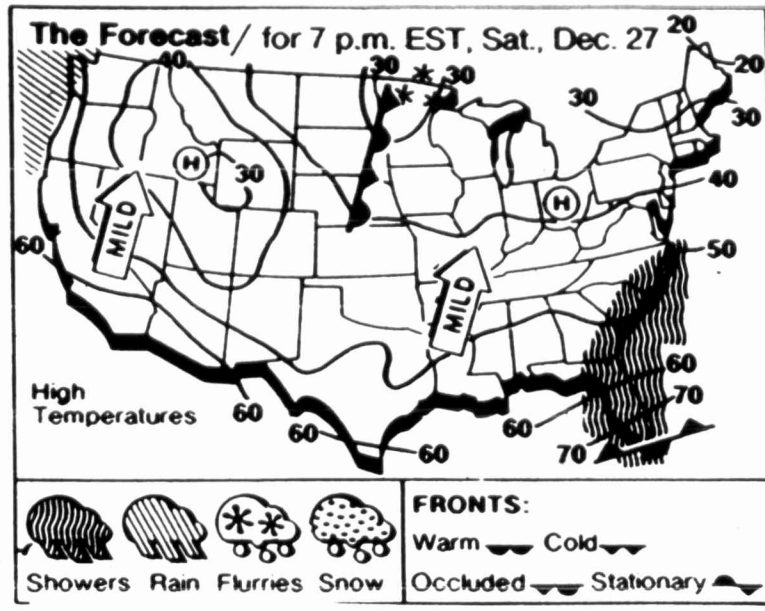

Kasowitz had sought without success in federal court to put the menorah on state property for the entire holiday. The attorney general's office said the display would violate separation of church and state.

The rabbi had argued that Christmas trees and other Christian religious artifacts already were on display at the Statehouse.

Rabbi Chaim Capland of Columbus, Ohio, planned to hit the road in a blue van decorated with a menorah on its roof to bring the holiday to Jews in smaller Ohio cities that have no synagogues.

"The whole function of Hanukkah is to illuminate the environment, and that's what we're trying to do here — illuminate the environment with light and warmth," Capland said.

Hospital employees provide food

The Christmas holiday was brightened for five Big Spring families, thanks to the efforts of employees at the Big Spring State Hospital. Sponsored by the members of the Texas Public Employees' Association (TPEA) Chapter 52, the third annual Christmas food drive was considered a success, reported Sue Keller, a TPEA member. She said that the drive has grown each of the three years it has been conducted. Hams, milk, bread, butter, and eggs were purchased with the funds contributed by the TPEA members. Deliveries were made on Dec. 23, Keller said.

New grocery store to open in C-City

COLORADO CITY — The building formerly occupied by Safeway Food Store has been leased by Rusty Hull of Big Spring who plans to open an independent grocery store in that location. Hull is owner of Giant Food Stores in Big Spring and Stanton. He said he soon will be remodeling the building at 524 Oak St. and hopes to have the store opened by late January or early February. Hull said the grocery store will be a member of the Independent Grocers Association (IGA). Safeway closed its doors the first of September, leaving only two full-line grocery stores in town — Fuller Foods and E-Z Superette, both independent grocery stores. Hull and his wife Jan have three children. They will be moving to Colorado City from Big Spring.

C-City physician closes his office

COLORADO CITY — Dr. Rod Caldwell, has resigned from the Mitchell County Hospital staff and announced the closing of his office. Caldwell, 31, a Colorado City resident for two years, moved to Denison. His departure leaves Mitchell County with three physicians — Dr. Dee Roach, Dr. Thomas Aguilon and Dr. Joe Terry. Caldwell said patients wishing to have their records transferred should do so prior to Jan. 15. Caldwell's office is located in the hospital district-owned medical clinic on Chestnut Street. He has been the sole occupant of the facility.

Deaths

Johnnie Grantham

Graveside services for Johnnie Grantham, 43, 1906 Scurry St., will be 2 p.m. Saturday at Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home. He died Thursday evening at Scenic Mountain Medical Center following a brief illness. He was born Jan. 9, 1943, in Shreveport, La. He was a member of the First Baptist Church. He moved to Big Spring in 1946 and lived here the remainder of his life. He attended the Big Spring schools and had worked for his father at Grantham's Jewelry until his father's death. He is survived by his mother, Viola Grantham of Big Spring; two brothers, James R. Grantham of Big Spring and Ralph Grantham of Dallas. He is also survived by three nephews. He was preceded in death by his father, James Thomas Grantham on Nov. 14, 1982.

Elsa Lancheater

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Elsa Lancheater, the actress most famous for eccentric and comic roles such as the monster's wife in "The Bride of Frankenstein," died Friday. She was 84. Miss Lancheater, widow of the late actor Charles Laughton, died of bronchopneumonia at the Motion Picture and Television Country House and Hospital in Woodland Hills, said a hospital spokeswoman Jean Ferris. She was incapacitated by heart problems since suffering a stroke in 1984. Miss Lancheater was admitted to the hospital Dec. 17, Ms. Ferris said. She had no living close relatives and lived in the Los Angeles area, Ms. Ferris said. The actress had asked that no funeral service be held and that no information be released about the disposition of her remains, according to the spokeswoman. Among Miss Lancheater's film credits were "The Bride of Frankenstein," a 1935 horror classic that gently mocked the genre. Among the others were "David Copperfield" (1935); "The Spiral Staircase" (1945); "Witness for the Prosecution" (1957); "Mary Poppins" (1964); "Murder By Death" (1976); and many others.

circumstances. One U.S. ambassador in South America cabled the State Department recently saying it would be a mistake not to confront Mexico when it takes on the United States. Alternatively, the ambassador said, other countries might get the idea that they, too, can attack the United States without cost. On the narcotics issue, Gavin generated resentment last summer by asserting that "at least two (Mexican) governors are up to their elbows in the drug trade." The notion that drug-related official corruption is widespread is shared by Drug Enforcement Administration Commissioner William Von Raab. Other U.S. officials, including Attorney General Edwin Meese III, say they agree with Mexican officials that a major anti-drug campaign is being carried out by that country. According to one official, the administration felt Von Raab was being too outspoken and ordered him to mute his criticism of Mexico. The two countries have been able to work well on some issues, including steps to prevent Mexico from defaulting on its $100 billion foreign debt. Also, Presidents Reagan and Miguel de la Madrid appear to enjoy a relationship of trust. And there are hints that the two sides are interested in a broader accommodation. Motorists reap bonanza

LOS ANGELES (AP) — American motorists saved $25.55 billion on gasoline this year as pump prices dropped 30.1 percent, but such a bonanza isn't likely to be repeated, the oil industry Lundberg Letter said Friday.

In addition, the sharply lower prices were accompanied by a 3.2 percent increase in consumption to 109.8 billion gallons, the report said.

Gasoline prices last week averaged 84.8 cents nationally, a decline of 36.6 cents for the year-earlier price of $1.214.

The newsletter concluded, however, that 1986's price drop is not likely to be repeated in 1987.

"Prices are stabilizing, fixed costs to marketers remain high or are on the increase, and pressures mount for production agreements" by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, the letter said.

Reagan names Abshire

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, turning outside the White House for help in a time of political turmoil, named NATO Ambassador David Abshire on Friday to coordinate responses to probes of the Iran-Contra affair.

In giving a Cabinet-level post to Abshire, Reagan bypassed White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan, who has been interviewed by congressional committees exploring arms sales to Iran and the transfer of proceeds to Nicaraguan rebels.

And on the eve of Reagan's departure for a weeklong vacation in California, a spokeswoman at Georgetown University Hospital said CIA Director William J. Casey "is fully conscious and able to sit up in a bedside chair" following surgery to remove a cancerous brain tumor.

At the White House, spokesman Mark Weinberg said Abshire, 60, will report directly to the president, not to Regan. The spokesman said the new counselor would "coordinate with senior members of the White House staff," including the chief of staff.

Mercenaries escape

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three American mercenaries who used hacksaw blades to escape from Brazilian prison where they had been held on gun-smuggling charges were home Friday after a harrowing flight across South America.

"If we hadn't had hope, we never would have made it," said Timothy Carmody, who is now turning his attention to freeing four colleagues still jailed in Brasilia, Brazil.

Murder weapon reveals truth

By MITCHELL ZUCKOFF
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Charges against an Alabama man imprisoned 15 years for the slaying of a shopkeeper were dismissed Friday following the discovery that the murder weapon was used in a robbery two weeks after his arrest.

"This makes it a very, very merry Christmas," said Bobby Joe Leaster. "My future looks bright. It's time to get on with my life." Leaster, 36, was serving a life sentence on a murder charge filed in the 1970 slaying of Levi Whiteside during a holdup at Whiteside's variety store.

Leaster was granted a new trial and freed from prison last month after a Boston constable who read about the case said that he saw two men he knew fleeing from the store and that neither was Leaster.

Assistant District Attorney Francis O'Meara on Friday discounted the testimony of constable Mark

Johnson, saying he "may be lying, probably not, more likely (he was) mistaken."

Leaster, who maintained that he was with his girlfriend at the time of the shooting, was arrested 90 minutes after the shooting in clothes that fit a description of what the killer was wearing.

But O'Meara told Superior Court Judge Paul Chernoff that the key piece of evidence was the gun, a .22-caliber revolver thrown from a car during a police chase 16 days after the killing.

The gun was recovered immediately, but it was not linked to Whiteside's killing until the case was reopened as a result of Johnson's testimony. O'Meara said ballistics tests showed a bullet taken from Whiteside's chest had been fired from the gun.

"We can't say that Bobby Joe Leaster did it and we can't say that he didn't," O'Meara told the court. "He served 15 years and it's time to let it go." He said there were no plans to seek an indictment against the man who police say threw the gun after a robbery.

"We certainly don't have any evidence near the amount of evidence to proceed," O'Meara said.

O'Meara and District Attorney Newman Flanagan said the decision to dismiss the case was made more difficult because Kathleen Whiteside, the victim's widow and a witness to the shooting, remained positive that Leaster was the killer. Another woman in the store at the time also stuck by her identification of Leaster.

Attempts to reach Mrs. Whiteside on Friday were unsuccessful. Her telephone number is unlisted.

Leaster came to court Friday with his fiancée, June Wallace. The two met four years ago while Leaster was on one of nearly 100 furloughs from prison.

Rebels claim 526 dead

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Rebels fighting the government of Mozambique claimed Friday they had killed 526 soldiers and police officers in a series of attacks during the past eight days.

The Mozambican National Resistance said in a statement distributed in Lisbon that it ambushed two freight trains, raided four army bases and attacked three police stations on the outskirts of the capital, Maputo.

It said 11 rebels were killed and 47 wounded in the attacks. There was no independent confirmation of the claims.

France strike continues

PARIS (AP) — The management of France's national rail system on Friday offered to negotiate with striking workers if they go back to their jobs, but the rail employees voted to continue their walkout.

The 9-day-old strike has cut train service to 25 percent of normal across France, and management is using buses to replace trains on many routes.

War sheds new blood

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran claimed Friday its troops killed 3,000 Iraqi soldiers in an assault on the southern front, but Iraq said it smashed the offensive and killed 10,000 Iraqis, turning the Shatt al-Arab waterway "red with blood."

The fighting appeared to have eased Friday. But Iran accused Iraq of using poison gas shells against Iranian forces and said artillery duels continued in the central and southern sectors of the 730-mile border-frontline. Iran's Islamic Republic News Agency said Iraqi shells hit the war-ravaged city of Abadan.

The two sides rarely allow Western correspondents at the front, and there was no way to independently verify the conflicting claims.

Second ship fatally sinks

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — A British tanker ran onto a rock off the east coast of Iceland early Friday and sank, killing all 12 crewmen, Iceland's National Rescue Organization said.

It was the second fatal sinking of a ship in the North Atlantic in as many days.

Soviets launch solar plant

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's first solar power station began commercial service in the Ukraine on Friday, the official Tass news agency said.

Tass said the station, with a capacity of 5,000 kilowatts, is in the Crimean peninsula but did not give an exact location.

"The skies over the Crimea are rarely overcast by clouds and the sunny time here averages 2,320 hours a year," Tass quoted station manager Vladimir Dubovenko as saying.

Computers will help keep the station's approximately 40,000 square yards of solar collectors fixed on the sun throughout the day, Tass said.

Homeless couple begins married life at shelter

DALLAS (AP) — A homeless couple began married life Friday after a Christmas Day wedding held at a shelter where the queue for the annual free dinner doubled as a reception line.

After the wedding, a local philanthropist offered the couple a temporary home in Garland, a suburb of Dallas, but the newlyweds turned it down because they wanted to stay close to friends, said shelter administrator Dr. James Starkes.

In September, Marvin Savad was an unemployed laborer who had traveled to from Denver to Dallas searching for a job. Four weeks ago he spotted a woman reading a book at the shelter.

"I saw her and I said, 'That's the one,'" said Savad, 49.

His bride, Mary Savad, formerly Mary Roark, wasn't quite sure what to think of her suitor. She had traveled to Dallas from Wyoming, Ill., in October to be close to her sister who also lives at the shelter.

"I wanted to live in a new place, and build a new life," said Mrs. Savad. "A husband was the last thing I expected to find."

But Mary was just what Savad said he was looking for.

"In a big city when you're all alone, you want someone to care about," Savad said. "It's nice when you find them."

For the rest of the people who live at the shelter, the ceremony lent a family atmosphere to the holiday. Almost 2,000 gathered there during the day to eat a free

Christmas dinner. The Rev. Ray Bailey, the shelter superintendent, performed the ceremony while a resident played the "Wedding March" on a well-worn piano. Another resident, Al Martin whose feet were frozen last winter, limped to the front of the hall and sang "Day by Day." After the ceremony, Savad and his bride stood just to the side of the line for the free dinner and accepted congratulations from friends.

Developer Danny Faulkner, who owns the building housing the shelter, rented the honeymoon suite at a local hotel for the couple.

"We met and it was pure love," Savad said. "Now we both have a chance to start a new life."

Mary Roark and Marvin Savad join hands during their Christmas wedding at the Dallas Life Foundation. Hilda Sancez was maid of honor Robert Stewart was best man, with the Rev. Ray Bailey performing the ceremony. More than 1,000 people were present at the shelter where the couple has lived since moving to Dallas this fall.

Ford disturbed by critics' reactions

However, Indiana Jones says role of Allie Fox his most complicated ever

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The reviews for "The Mosquito Coast" are in, and the star of the movie, Harrison Ford, is shaking his head in wonderment.

"I don't think I've ever seen critical reaction to a serious film like this," he said. "So many of the critics have rejected the character out of hand."

"It's a movie that surprised me very much. I would have thought that this character would have been more admired because of his unusual characteristics and the fact that he is not a normal film hero. It seems to have created more confusion than admiration."

"I must say, however, that I find audiences have a different relationship to the film than many of the critics. ... The emotional reaction to the film is very strong."

The character Ford was talking about is Allie Fox, a brilliant tinkerer who leads his family away from the pollution of the American environment and values into a jungle adventure that is at first joyful. Then it turns tragic as Fox reacts to adversity with increasingly erratic and destructive behavior.

Ford suspects that some of the adverse response to "The Mosquito Coast" comes from those who, like young River Phoenix in the film, have had similarly destructive fathers.

Allie Fox is 180 degrees removed

Harrison Ford stars as Allie Fox, a man possessed with the dream of escaping from the corrupting influences of the modern world to a jungle utopia in "The Mosquito Coast."

from the swashbuckling Han Solo and the devil-may-care Indiana Jones, which he played in five films that rank among the eight biggest grossers of all time. He also broke away from last year's adventure image as the police detective in "Witness," which won his first Academy Award nomination.

"I have always tried to do different things," he said. "From the very beginning when 'Star Wars' was a success, I did try to play different characters in different kinds of films with different (filmmakers). It seems to me the logical ambition of an actor.

"What sense is it to be an actor if you play the same thing over and over again? You need to challenge and broaden yourself."

Ford was doing his duty as star of a difficult-to-sell movie, submitting to interviews in a Century Plaza Hotel suite. He does not enjoy the publicity whirl, preferring the life he and wife, Melissa Matheson, spend at their spread in Wyoming. They are expecting their first child; Ford has sons who are 18 and 20 from his first marriage.

"I spend about half the year in Wyoming," the 44-year-old actor said. "It's not so much a matter of guaranteeing sanity. I could maintain sanity here, or something like it."

"It's something more than that. It's a life I prefer to live. I don't like cities; I prefer the country. I prefer the simplicity of the life I live up there. At the same time, I realize I need the jazz and the excitement of working in the city every once in a while as well."

Harrison Ford was born to an Irish-Catholic father and Russian-Jewish mother in Chicago and grew up in suburban Park Ridge and Morton Grove. He majored in philosophy for four years at Ripon College in Wisconsin without earning a degree, finding that roles in campus plays helped relieve his basic shyness.

A Columbia Pictures scout spotted him in a Laguna Beach, Calif., playhouse, and he was signed to a $150-per-week contract in the waning days of the studio system. After Columbia dropped him, Ford drifted into television, working as a carpenter during slack periods. George Lucas cast him as the out-of-town hot rod in "American Graffiti," then gave Ford the role of the intrepid pilot, Han Solo, in "Star Wars."

He agreed to doing "The Mosquito Coast" after reading Paul Schrader's script. He recognized the challenge of playing Allie Fox, and he had the added inducement of working with Australian Peter Weir, his director in "Witness."

How much of Harrison Ford is reflected in Allie Fox?

"There's Harrison Ford in every character I play. I have nothing to work with but the experience of Harrison Ford, the psychology of Harrison Ford. You have to translate it into another character. You have to make that character predominate. There's a lot of me (in Allie Fox), yeah."

He admitted that the character was more complicated than any he attempted before but added: "The job of acting is no more difficult in a more complicated or a less complicated part, not for me, at least."

The problem with Fox, he said, "is that he's proving himself in a world where he doesn't have to prove himself. He has the love of his family, but he is continually abusing that love, brokering that love, trying to manage that love."

Gray hairs make good in '86 pop scene

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Bruce Springsteen put out the blockbuster record album of 1986, "Bruce Springsteen and the E Street Band Live - 1975-85," a 40-song, five-record set. It sold out its first shipment of 1.5 million copies in 10 days. The year had another runaway hit album, "Third Stage," a throwback to 1970s hard rock by Boston.

People noticed that rockers were turning gray. Radio stations programmed oldies and called it "classic rock." Rhythm 'n' blues and jazz records were reissued. A rock 'n' roll Hall of Fame was started. Chuck Berry turned 60 and rock luminaries joined him in two concerts in St. Louis, filmed of course.

New York's mayor viewed a model for a 20-foot bronze sculpture of Duke Ellington to be placed at the northeast corner of Central Park. Duluth, Minn., changed the name of Harbor Drive, along the Lake Superior waterfront, to Bob Dylan Drive, for that native son.

Veteran rockers who toured included Dylan with Tom Petty, Elton John, Van Halen and David Lee Roth — separate tours, Elvis Costello, John Fogerty, Billy Joel, Neil Diamond, the Moody Blues, three of the four Monkees.

Whitney Houston soared like a meteor. Run D.M.C. rapped; violence followed its tour. Paul Simon recorded "Graceland" with South African groups. The Fabulous Thunderbirds' "Tuff Enuff" LP was a surprise hit. Wham! made a farewell LP, "Music from the Edge of Heaven."

There was New Age music, a laid-back synthesis of folk, jazz and classical influences somewhere between rock and soft pop. Wynton Marsalis was named Jazz Musician of the Year in Down Beat magazine, for the fifth consecutive year. The 1960s word payola was again heard in the land. The King of Swing, Benny Goodman, died.

Rock promoter Ken Krager organized Hands Across America, a demonstration to aid the hungry and homeless and there was an Amnesty International tour to six American cities. But in general 1985's enthusiasm for benefits waned in the pop music world.

The CD and VCR were big. Singles seemed on the way out. The Recording Industry Association of America said sales of 45 r.p.m. records for the first half of 1986 dropped 23.5 percent from the first half of 1985 — 46.3 million singles compared with 60.5 million.

At the Grammy Awards, Phil Collins received album of the year honors for "No Jacket Required." Sade, a Nigerian whose singing is called "cafe jazz," was named best new artist of the year.

The Country Music Association named Reba McEntire entertainer of the year. She also was female vocalist of the year, for the third year. George Strait was male vocalist of the year, for the second year. The Judds were vocal group of the year.

Oscars went to Lionel Richie for best song, "Say You, Say Me," in the film "White Nights" and to John Barry for best score, "Out of Africa." Ray Charles received Kennedy Center Honors along with Yehudi Menuhin. A-ha was the big winner at the MTV awards.

Michael Jackson sings new songs he wrote in "Captain EO," a 17-minute space fantasy, for Disneyland and Walt Disney's World. Minute for minute, it's the most expensive movie in history. "Round Midnight," based on the troubled lives of Bud Powell and Lester Young, starred tenor saxophonist Dexter Gordon. Some called it the best movie ever made about jazz.

The Charlie Watts (Rolling Stones drummer) Orchestra, a Who's Who of British jazz talent, got rave reviews in New York. Xavier Cugat, recovered from four heart attacks and a stroke, came out of retirement and led a band, in Salou, Spain, on his 87th birthday. He plans a record and a U.S. tour.

Dolly Parton opened the 400-acre Dollywood theme park in her native Pigeon Forge, Tenn., saying she hopes it will spur economic growth in the area. The Original Texas Playboys performed their last concert, a benefit for the Bob Wills Museum in Fort Worth. The group, reformed by founder Bob Will's widow, Betty, with five men who joined in the mid-1930s, agreed to retire if anybody left the band. Pianist Al Stricklin died in October.

"Me and My Girl" was the biggest new hit on Broadway. The musical, staged in 1937 in London, includes "The Lambeth Walk," which became a dance craze of the '30s and World War II years.

The British band UB 40 was the first to take reggae to Russia, playing 12 concerts in Moscow, Leningrad and Minsk. Fans danced in the aisles. The five women of SheRock, the first American rock group officially invited to China, sold out all 16 concerts. Peking fined 48 shops and restaurants for playing loud pop music to lure customers and 267 more received warnings.

"Rag Dolly," with music by Joe Raposo, the first U.S. theater piece to visit the Soviet Union since 1979, was a hit. As "Raggedy Ann," it ran only 15 previews and five regular performances on Broadway. Movies continued to have rock soundtracks and soundtrack albums continued to sell.

In the world of books, Michelle Phillips wrote "California Dreamin'" and John Phillips wrote "Papa John." Both were in the Mamas and the Papas from 1966 to '68. Mary Wilson wrote "Dreamgirls" about the Supremes. Kitty Kelley wrote "His Way: The Unauthorized Biography of Frank Sinatra." Johnny Cash wrote a novel, "Man in White," about the Apostle Paul.

A federal jury in Las Vegas awarded Wayne Newton $19.2 million in damages from NBC, which linked him to organized crime in 1980 and '81 broadcasts. A circuit judge in Florida ordered Gregg Allman to pay $10,700 in back payments of child support for his son, Devon, 13. Boy George pleaded guilty to heroin possession in London and was fined $370. David Crosby was paroled after spending most of the year in Texas serving a sentence for cocaine and weapons possession.

Marie Osmond, 27, married record producer Brian Bosiloff, 33, in West Jordan, Utah. Bob Geldof and Paula Yates married in Faversham, England. Former Go-Go Belinda Carlisle married Morgan Mason, public relations man and son of James Mason, at Lake Tahoe. Motley Crue drummer Tommy Lee married Heather Locklear of "Dynasty" in Santa Barbara. Elvis Costello married Cait O'Riordan of the Pogues.

Bette Midler, 40, and her husband, commodities trader Martin von Haselberg, 38, had a daughter, Sophie, in Los Angeles. Olivia Newton-John, 37, and husband actor Matt Lattanzi, 27, had a daughter, Chloe, in Los Angeles. Keith Richards, 42, and wife Patti Hansen, 29, had a daughter in New York. Crystal Gayle, 35, and husband manager Bill Gatamos, 33, had a son, Christos James.

Kerrie McCarver Lewis, 23, sixth wife of Jerry Lee Lewis, 50, filed for divorce in Memphis. Quincy Jones, 53, and wife Peggy Lipton sought a divorce in California, after 12 years of marriage. Porter Wagoner, 59, was divorced from his wife Ruth, 62, after 21 years of separation.

Among those in popular music who died this year: Kate Smith, 79, one of the most popular singers of the century, respiratory arrest, Raleigh, N.C.; Gordon MacRae, 64, baritone who starred in the movies "Oklahoma!" and "Carousel," cancer, Lincoln, Neb.; Rudy Vallee, 84, singing idol of the Depression era, heart attack, Los Angeles.

Benny Goodman, 77, clarinetist who epitomized the Big Band era, heart attack, New York; Teddy Wilson, pianist who achieved fame with Goodman, lung illness, 73, New Britain, Conn.; Thad Jones, 63, trumpeter, composer, arranger, who co-directed a band with drummer Mel Lewis in the 1960s and '70s, cancer, Copenhagen; band leader Harry Owens, 84, composer of "Sweet Lullaby," Eugene, Ore.

Tenor saxophonist Eddie "Lockjaw" Davis, 65, best known for playing with Count Basie, cancer, Culver City, Calif.; Joseph Thomas, 77, best known from Jimmie Lunceford Band, Kansas City; Hank Mobley, 55, a founding member of the Jazz Messengers, double pneumonia; baritone saxophonist Pepper Adams, 55, lung cancer, New York; clarinetist Tommy Reynolds, 69, long illness, New York; Dillon (Curly) Russell, 69, a leading bebop bass player, emphysema, Queens, N.Y.

Composer Harold Arlen, 81, whose more than 500 songs included "Over the Rainbow," cancer, New York; Alan Jay Lerner, 67, lyricist of "My Fair Lady," lung cancer, New York.

Streisand show to air on HBO

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barbra Streisand's $1.5 million political fund-raising concert last September will be shown on Home Box Office on Dec. 27.

The one-time-only event, exclusive to HBO, will be Streisand's first full-length concert on television in 20 years, according to Michael Fuchs, chairman and chief executive officer of the pay television network.

Dunross role may ease scars

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pierce Brosnan, who missed out on becoming the movie's newest James Bond when he was called back by NBC for more "Remington Steele" episodes, will star in the eight-hour NBC miniseries, "James Clavell's Noble House."

Brosnan will portray Ian Dunross, the "tai-pan" of Straun and Company, one of Hong Kong's oldest and most influential trading houses. "Noble House" is part of Clavell's Eastern saga that includes "King Rat," "Tai-Pan," "Shogun" and "Whirlwind."

Perry Mason tries hand at kissing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Perry Mason will have a love life for the first time in his long legal career in the new NBC movie "Perry Mason: The Case of the Lost Love."

Mason never had a private life in the books by Erle Stanley Gardner or in the long-running TV series starring Raymond Burr. It was often speculated that he and his secretary, Della Street, were in love.

Parade of bowls keep coming

Reserve QB leads Stanford in Gator

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Greg Ennis was scheduled to make his first collegiate start Saturday as his Stanford Cardinal meets Clemson's Tigers in the 42nd annual Gator Bowl Classic.

Kickoff in the nationally televised game is set for 12:30 p.m. EST. The 80,000-seat Gator Bowl is sold out for the game featuring the first meeting between the two schools.

Stanford finished the year ranked 20th with an 8-3 mark overall and 5-3 in the Pacific-10 Conference in a three-way tie for fourth place. Clemson won the Atlantic Coast Conference but finished unranked after successive ties in the final two games of the season left the Tigers 7-2-2.

Ennis, a 6-foot-2, 205-pound sophomore, replaces the injured John Paye, who finished second behind John Elway in career passing yardage among Stanford's long list of great collegiate quarterbacks. Paye had surgery Monday to correct a shoulder injury.

"He's not had the game experience you'd like him to have," Stanford Coach Jack Elway said of Ennis at a coach's news conference Friday. "He knows the offense, and when he's had an opportunity he's done extremely well."

In his only extended action of the season, Ennis hit on five of seven pass attempts for 75 yards and led the Cardinal to a game-winning touchdown in a 29-24 victory over Arizona in the season finale played in Tokyo.

"He's a different personality, and Paye may have a little stronger arm," Elway said. "But he can do it. Greg has worked hard, and next season he'll be our number one quarterback."

Stanford also will be without starting offensive tackle John Zentner, who tested positive for steroids during a recent NCAA drug screening. Starting defensive tackle Tony Leiker also did not make the trip.

Clemson comes to the game at full strength.

Coach Danny Ford isn't quite sure what to expect from Stanford with Ennis slated for his first start, but he is confident the game will be decided by how well Stanford can control the Clemson running game.

"You have a little problem when strength meets strength," Ford said. "Someone is going to come out of this not as strong as they think."

Led by explosive senior tailback Terrence Flagler, Clemson averaged 273 yards a game on the ground while Stanford surrendered just 103 rushing yards a game.

"They don't make any secret about what they're going to do," Elway said. "Their big-play potential on offense comes from their quality at tailback."

Flagler, who is from neighboring Fernandina Beach, ran for 1,176 yards and averaged 6.5 yards a carry during the 1986 season.

"We worked very hard at stopping long-yardage plays this year," said Elway.

Ford said he gained a great deal of respect for the Stanford defense after studying films of their games.

"The biggest improvement from what we've seen is that they (Stanford) are playing tremendous defensive football right now," said Ford. "They are a very established offensive football team; now they lead their conference in defense."

For just the second time in the game's history, it will be televised locally.

Arizona seeking elusive win in Aloha

HONOLULU (AP) — Arizona made its first college football bowl appearance in 1921, losing 38-0 to Centre College in the East-West Christmas Classic at San Diego.

Sixty-five years later, the Wildcats still are looking for their first bowl victory.

"They'll try to end that unhappy tradition Saturday when they face North Carolina's Tar Heels in the Aloha Bowl in the first football meeting ever between the two schools.

A very infrequent bowl visitor over the years, the Wildcats are 0-4-1 in postseason appearances and came closest to finally winning a bowl last year when they tied Georgia 13-13 in the Sun Bowl.

Arizona, of the Pacific-10 Conference, finished the regular season 8-3 and is ranked 16th going into the nationally televised, 4 p.m. EST, game at Aloha Stadium.

Unranked North Carolina, which will be appearing in a bowl game for the first time in three years, went 7-3-1 this season.

The Atlantic Coast Conference's Tar Heels own a 6-9 record in postseason play, including a 28-3 loss to Florida State in the 1983 Peach Bowl.

Prior to that, however, the Tar Heels had won four bowl games in a row, beating Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl, Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl, Arkansas 31-27 in the 1981 Gator Bowl, and Texas 26-10 in the 1982 Sun Bowl.

While spending the holidays in Hawaii might make it difficult for the players to concentrate on football, both Arizona Coach Larry Smith and Dick Crum of North Carolina said they intend to keep their teams fully focused on the game.

Smith, still smarting from the Wildcats' 29-24 loss to Stanford in the regular-season finale, said he's told his players that they were coming to Hawaii to play football, not just to play.

"We'll have some fun and let them have some fun," Smith said, "but I'm not going to end the season with a lousy performance like we had against Stanford."

"Anybody who messes around and does anything, I've got a handful of tickets and I'm going to send them back."

While Smith was looking back to the loss to Stanford, Crum was looking ahead to next season as he prepared his team for the Aloha Bowl.

The Tar Heels play a beefed-up schedule in 1987, including games against Oklahoma and Auburn.

"With the schedule we're going to play next year, we need to have a good, tough opponent in a bowl game to start getting ready for what we're going to face this coming fall," Crum said, adding that Arizona certainly fit the bill.

The Aloha matchup figures to be a high-scoring affair.

The Wildcats have an explosive offense led by 5-foot-6, 167-pound David Adams at tailback, and quarterback Alfred Jenkins. Adams gained 1,175 yards rushing this season, and Jenkins threw for 1,573 yards and 10 touchdowns.

North Carolina's offense suffered a blow this week when it was announced that tailback Derrick Fenner would not make the trip to Honolulu because of academic problems. Backup Eric Starr will replace Fenner at tailback.

The offensive load will now fall on quarterback Mark Maye, who took over in the sixth game after starter Jon Hall was hurt. Maye hadn't played in two years because of shoulder surgery.

Bosworth speaks his piece about steroids

By JOEY HOLLEMAN

AP Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — All-American linebacker Brian Bosworth, banned from playing in the Orange Bowl because a drug test showed he took steroids, said Friday he deserves a right "to give my body the ultimate challenge and be as healthy as I can be."

The Oklahoma Sooner star said the steroids were prescribed by a doctor to help his rehabilitation.

The flamboyant Bosworth held a news conference in Miami to make his first comments since his banishment from the bowl was publicly announced Thursday.

"After the 1985 season, both of my shoulders were hurting so much that I couldn't lift weights to build my body back up," Bosworth said. "I deserve my right to give my body the ultimate challenge and be as healthy as I can be."

"I didn't have the knowledge that steroids would stay in my system that long. That's my fault," he said.

Bosworth, an outspoken player with a punk haircut who has publicly crusaded against drug use, and two other Oklahoma Sooner football players were barred from playing in the New Year's Day bowl game because traces of anabolic steroids were found in their systems after an NCAA-required drug test.

Bosworth said, "I'm not condoning the abuse of a drug. I'll continue to fight against abuse of drugs, recreational drugs that are destroying society. Steroids aren't destroying society."

"The ironic thing is the NCAA has their priorities all screwed up," Bosworth said. "They worry about what's in my system from a year ago but if I tested positive for pot, they'd say that's all right."

The NCAA is not suspending athletes who test positive for marijuana because positive test results are possible with second-hand smoke.

Bosworth, a fourth-year junior, could declare himself eligible for the NFL draft this spring but he refused to say if he would leave Oklahoma.

"I would miss the excitement of college football, but I'm starting to get fed up with the NCAA's dictatorship attitude," he said. "I do have an option."

He insisted the drug had been prescribed to him by a doctor, but he wouldn't reveal the physician's name.

"You want to do the best at your job. I experimented with what I thought would be my best chance for that," he said. "I paid for it."

Bosworth criticized the NCAA for not allowing a grace period for drugs that could stay in the system that long. The NCAA rule on testing for drug use didn't take effect until August.

Bosworth said experts have told him the steroid he took, called nandrolone, can stay in his system from 10 to 11 months. He says he took them from early January to mid-March.

Two of Bosworth's non-starting teammates, offensive guard Gary Bennett and defensive tackle David Shoemaker, also were declared ineligible by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for the same reason, a university spokesman said Thursday. The three did not accompany the team to Miami.

Bosworth has been outspoken in his support for the testing program.

His earrings, multicolored hair-do and sometimes inflammatory remarks tended to overshadow his play.

The junior All-America raised a stir before the season even started when, in a Sports Illustrated article, he talked about ways to

Howard guard ready to get back to the action

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Howard College Hawks are in the midst of a long Christmas vacation. Their next game in Big Spring is Jan. 12 against New Mexico Military Institute. The interview for this story were done on Dec. 10, before the Hawks left for break.

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

At tip-off time on Jan. 9, Walter Walker's going to be like a stone in a slingshot that's been pulled behind the ear.

The tension release alone should shoot him into hyperspeed.

You see, Walker hasn't played a second in the Howard College Hawk's first 15 games. He hasn't even dressed out. What's worse, Walker's seen just three of those games.

In October, Hawks' head coach Larry Brown had Walker penciled in as a starter, but a transcript arrived with the news that Walker failed a summer school class he thought he'd passed. The grade meant Walker was ineligible for basketball first semester, and an angry Brown made noises that Walker might not be welcome to play second semester.

Walker has since changed Brown's mind. The sophomore guard from Statesville, North Carolina has practiced hard, despite not being allowed to accompany the team on its 12 away games. More importantly, Walker has studied hard.

"My main goal is to pass all my classes. It's going good; it's no problem. I'm looking at a 3.0 (grade point) if this one class goes right," said Walker.

"And I want to see if I can contribute to the team. I'm ready to play. I've been sitting out too long and it's not fun watching."

Walker was an all-state quarterback at Statesville High School in 1984-85, and had scholarship offers in basketball and football. Wake Forest wanted him to play basketball, and recommended he play at Howard College and improve his grades.

Preferring basketball to football, Walker came to dry, flat West Texas. Though Walker started for the Hawks his freshman year and played well, the transition from woody North Carolina to tree starved Big Spring wasn't easy.

"Last year was a learning experience. I had to go through a lot of changes. I had to get adjusted to being so far from home and meeting so many people. Now I feel like I'm more mentally prepared for certain things to happen," the easy going Walker said after a recent Hawks' practice.

This year's Hawks are 8-7, having played the toughest pre-conference schedule of any junior college team in the nation, including two opponents in the top five and another in the top 15.

Despite the fact that opponents tower over the Hawks, the starting line-up may get smaller after Christmas break. Walker, a shade under six feet, has a good shot at starting when the team returns in January.

"Walt's been punished pretty much. He's practiced hard every day, and he's paid pretty good dues already. He's been doing real well the past few months. We're looking for him to come in here and go with a smaller lineup," Brown said with a laugh, because as they were, opponents dwarfed the first semester Hawks.

"He's a shooter. Walt has one of the best three point shots we've got. He's capable of scoring 20 points a game, but the thing is, he does the other parts of the game, which makes him pretty valuable. He can come in there and play the good defense; he's a real quick player."

"I think Walt's going to fit right in there. We've already been trying to fit him in the flow of things. In fact, we've even been working him on the red team (the starting five), just to keep his timing down. To be very honest, we expect him to come in and help us right away."

"It's kind of funny, with this junior college Christmas break (three weeks), it's like starting over again. It's like Walter'll have an even start when he comes back," Brown said.

Walker, with his good quickness and shooting touch, fits right into Brown's game plan. The Hawks play ferocious full court defense and put a great deal of pressure on the perimeter to offset their shortness inside. Brown has said he prefers quick players to slow, tall players, and he has no qualms about using a four-guard line-up.

The superbly conditioned Hawks demoralize opponents with defense and their ability to run as hard at the end of a game as at the beginning. Even when facing 6-9 and 6-7 players, it's easy to forget the Hawks are so short.

The shortest Hawk, 5-6 point guard Dennis Rhodes, thinks Howard College will be an improved team after Christmas break, for one particular reason.

"I can't wait for Walter. He should be starting, because he works so hard in practice, and Coach Brown is pretty anxious to get him back," Rhodes said.

As for himself, Walker said he feels like he's got to fit a whole season into a half. He added that for a while he considered returning to football, but he has since given that up for good. Basketball is his game now.

However, he's no longer interested in Wake Forest, and he has no preference as to where he'd like to play next year. He only knows that he wants badly to play somewhere.

"I feel like I want it more now. When you can do it, you slack off, but when you can't do it you realize how much you really want it," he said.

In the Hawks' last game before departing for Christmas break, they beat Western Texas 107-100 in a wild shootout in Big Spring. Walker sat at courtside and kept stats. He scribbled down the particulars as his teammates ran, shot and dunked.

At the buzzer, Walker, with a big grin on his face, stood and stretched.

"That's my last game watching. Yeah, it is," he said, and laughed like a man with something to look forward to.

Sherrill likes drug testing

DALLAS (AP) — Texas A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill praised the NCAA Friday for its drug testing program for bowl teams, saying that barring Oklahoma All-America linebacker Brian Bosworth from Orange Bowl play will send a message to college athletes.

"It's (the drug testing) something that needed to be done and I have to applaud them," he said.

Sherrill said the fact that Bosworth had been barred from playing in the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day because traces of anabolic steroid were found in his system will be a big warning to college athletes.

"You could spend millions in advertisements and it wouldn't have the impact it (Bosworth's punishment) will," Sherrill said.

Sherrill said Oklahoma had no excuses. "That is the responsibility of the head coach and the athletic director," said Sherrill, who pointed out that Texas A&M had its own drug tests for the five years he has been head football coach and athletic director at the school. "We took a lot of steps to educate our players. And we spent $25,000 testing them."

Texas A&M tested its players for drugs in August and the Southwest Conference tested all the schools in October. The NCAA tested the Aggies two weeks ago. The A&M players passed without any problems.

"We started the testing program because I was more concerned with street drugs than steroids," Sherrill said. "Street drugs can kill you. You can get off steroids."

The SWC champion Aggies worked out in the Cotton Bowl to prepare for their New Year's Day meeting with Big Ten Conference co-champion Ohio State.

The Buckeyes had a late evening flight into Dallas and scheduled their first practice for Texas Stadium on Saturday.

Most of the talk at the A&M practice was about drug testing. Tight end Rod Bernstine, a second-team AP All-America, said there was no excuse for what happened to Bosworth.

"The coach (Barry Switzer) didn't do his homework," Bernstine said. "He should have been taking care of business. At A&M we have our own tests for this sort of thing."

Quarterback Kevin Murray called ed the Bosworth problem "unfortunate."

"The Aggies rated a two-point favorite over the Buckeyes, who are the first Big Ten team to come to Dallas for the New Year's Day Classic.

"This is the hottest ticket we've had since the Arkansas-Nebraska game in 1965," said Cotton Bowl Executive Vice-President Jim Brock. "Ohio State bought 12,000 tickets and Texas A&M bought 20,000. We could have pushed pretty close to 100,000 fans if we had the seating."

A standing room only crowd of about 74,000 was expected for the 12:30 p.m. clash.

"Ohio State could very easily have been 12-0," Sherrill said. "The Buckeyes are very solid. I think this is a great matchup."

Sherrill squelched rumors that he might want to go to Alabama to be head coach there someday should Ray Perkins leave. "That's old news," Sherrill said. "I can't afford to leave Texas A&M."

The Aggies plan to hold closed workouts the remainder of the Cotton Bowl to prepare for only the school's third meeting with Ohio State. The Buckeyes are 2-0 against A&M.

Minor league star dies

AMARILLO (AP) — Bob Crue, a former minor league baseball player who made the record books when he hit 69 home runs in 1948 for the Amarillo Gold Sox, died Friday. He was 67.

Crues started his minor league career as a pitcher in 1940 when he led the Borger Gassers to the West Texas-New Mexico League championship with a 20-5 record.

He was signed by the Boston Red Sox, and in 1941, while sitting in a dugout in Greenville, S.C., was hit on the shoulder by a wild pitch. That ended his pitching career, and he moved to the outfield.

Crues had his best season in 1948 while playing for the Amarillo Gold Sox in the West Texas-New Mexico League. He hit 69 home runs to tie the minor league record of Joe Hauser, who had set the record in 1933 while playing for Minneapolis in the American Association.

Also that year, the right-handed hitter posted 254 runs batted in. In 140 games that year, he batted .404 with 228 hits in 565 times at bat. He had 38 doubles, three triples and the 69 home runs, good for 479 total bases.

Crues, a U.S. Army veteran, was the 35th member elected to the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame during ceremonies held Jan. 19, 1975.

Crues was born in Celina and moved to Amarillo in 1940 from Plainview. After his baseball career, he worked at Atex Oil Co. and managed a company service station.

Funeral arrangements were pending. Survivors include his wife, Billie; four sons, three brothers and seven grandchildren.

Hill unhappy with '86

IRVING (AP) — Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Tony Hill has just finished what he considers to be a subpar season and is now faced with a battle to keep his job in 1987.

"I'm not content with the way things happened and I don't want it to remain like that," Hill said. "I'm not content catching 49 passes or having a 7-9 season."

Hill gained 770 yards this year. With 7,988 total yards in 10 seasons, Hill is the Cowboys' all-time receiving yardage leader.

He thinks the effort will be harder next year, when he turns 31.

"I think it's going to take a lot more dedication on my part," Hill said. "I think I can be an asset to our ballclub. There's no doubt I'm an excellent receiver."

"Next year, I want to surpass the numbers I had last year (1985), and I've got to illustrate that in camp. I don't feel extremely great about this year. It sure could have been better."

After Sunday's 24-10 loss to Chicago, Cowboys Coach Tom Landry tapped rookie wide receiver Mike Sherrard for a starting spot in 1987. That left Hill and Mike Renfro to battle for the other starting slot.

"I'm willing to take on any role I have to take," Hill said. "I've been in the league 10 years. I have two kids and one on the way. That's incentive enough. So whatever they want, they want."

"But I've got a lot of confidence in my ability and I'm sure they can use my services," he said. Landry said Hill's future depends on his perspective of the game.

"When you get age on you a little bit, it's how you approach the game that makes the difference," Landry said.

This season, running back Herschel Walker led the Cowboys in receiving with 76 catches and 837 yards. Hill finished second.

Citrus trying to become major bowl

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The reputation of the Florida Citrus Bowl has grown dramatically in the past decade and this week takes what game officials consider to be one of its most significant steps toward achieving "major" status.

Billed as "The Best Bowl Trip in America" because of the tourist attractions around Orlando, the game once known as the Tangerine Bowl will be played on New Year's Day for the first time since 1960.

But unlike 27 years ago when Middle Tennessee met Presbyterian, Thursday's 12 p.m. EST game in 50,500-seat Orlando Stadium pits 10th-ranked Auburn against Southern California.

It will be televised nationally on ABC and will pay the participating schools $900,000 apiece.

It's not the Miami-Penn State matchup for the national championship that Florida Citrus officials had hoped for, but it's by far the most glamorous pairing of teams in the game's 41-year history.

"We're pleased that we've got Auburn and Southern Cal," Florida Citrus spokesman Dylan Thomas said. "Last year, we made what we thought was a major breakthrough in inviting Ohio State, our first Big Ten team."

"With Southern Cal we've got the Pac-10 as well as one of the most tradition-rich programs in the country," he added.

USC, 7-4 after losing its last two regular season games to UCLA and Notre Dame, owns the nation's best winning percentage (.724 based on at least 10 appearances) in bowl games with a 21-8 record. Auburn is 9-2 and tied for second place in the Southeastern Conference.

"We committed to USC when they were 7-2," Thomas said. "UCLA blew them out, but they played pretty well against Notre Dame before losing. They're a good team, one that's better than their record."

The Trojans, early season winners over Baylor, Washington and Stanford, will be playing their last game under Coach Ted Tollner. He has been relieved of his duties as coach, effective Jan. 2, with a 26-19-1 record in four years at USC.

"I just hope that our kids will get ready to play USC and anticipate USC being at an emotional peak," said Auburn Coach Pat Dye, whose six-year record at the SEC school is 51-20.

"USC started out the season strong and has had its ups and downs since," Dye added. "You've got to be impressed with their wins against Baylor, Washington, Arizona and Stanford, which were all ranked in the Top Twenty in the nation at some point this season."

"Without a question it is a big, big football game for Auburn," Dye said, looking ahead to the first ever meeting in football between the schools. "It will be interesting to see what kind of reaction that we get from the players... Southern Cal is a great football team and is capable of beating any team in the country."

Auburn is led by All-American tailback Brent Fullwood, the SEC's leading rusher with 1,391 yards on 167 carries. His average of 8.3 yards per carry was the best in the nation.

Tigers quarterback Jeff Burger completed 126 of 222 passes for 1,671 yards and nine touchdowns in Auburn's ground-oriented offense. His favorite target is wide receiver Lawyer Tillman, who caught 35 passes for 730 yards and six touchdowns.

Quarterback Rodney Peete directs the USC attack. He completed 148 of 275 attempts for 2,025 yards and 10 touchdowns. Ken Henry led the Trojans in receiving with 43 catches for 807 yards and seven touchdowns, and Ryan Knight is the leading rusher with 527 yards and seven TDs.

Defensively, Auburn allowed 288.4 yards per game, including a SEC-low 120.5 yards rushing. USC yielded 365.7 yards per outing.

Bluebonnett teams arrive in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Colorado's youthful lineup helped the Buffaloes rally from four losses to open the season to a 6-5 record and a spot in the New Year's Eve Bluebonnet Bowl, Coach Bill McCartney said Friday.

Colorado will meet the Baylor Bears in the 28th annual event, and both teams arrived and worked out for the first time Friday.

"I think when you play with younger people, you are more resilient," McCartney said as the Buffaloes started final preparations for Wednesday's game. "You haven't had the chance to go through some of the frustrations of the older players. They were a breath of fresh air."

Colorado lost to Colorado State, Oregon, Ohio State and Arizona. They were 0-4 and looking at the remaining six games that included Nebraska and Oklahoma.

"After that start, we didn't think we'd be going anywhere," tight end Jon Embree said. "We're just happy to be in a bowl game."

Colorado won six of its final seven games, including a victory over Nebraska for the first time in 19 years, for a second place finish in the Big Eight and its second bowl invitation in as many years.

Losing four games to start the season was bad enough, but the way the Buffs lost was even more frustrating, McCartney said.

"All four of those losses were particularly bitter, and the fact that we came back speaks for the character of these kids," McCartney said. "In the opener against Colorado State, we weren't supposed to lose to them and that was hard to digest."

"We went up to Oregon, and all we had to do was fall on an onside kick with 45 seconds to play and we couldn't do it," he added. "We really outplayed Ohio State and then Arizona came to our place and for the fourth week, it was the same thing. We had them pinned at their 9-yard line with 6 minutes to go."

The Buffaloes will present a wishbone offense to Baylor that is similar to the one operated by the Arkansas Razorbacks, a 29-14 loser to the Bears. The Hogs' wishbone netted 172 total yards and 10 first downs.

"We've been compared to the Arkansas wishbone but (Arkansas coach) Ken Hatfield has been running it a lot longer than we have and knows more about it," McCartney said.

The Buffalo wishbone, led by quarterback Mark Hatcher and Texas-born freshman running back O.C. Oliver, must crack the nation's No. 3-ranked team in total defense.

The Bears have allowed 11 opponents an average of 247 yards per game, trailing only Oklahoma (169.1) and Nebraska (235.5).

Oklahoma was ranked No. 1 in preseason polls and opened the year against No. 4 UCLA. After a 38-3 Sooner victory, Bosworth was quoted as saying the Bruins played "girls' football."

Two games later, Oklahoma lost to Miami in a battle of the nation's top two teams, and Bosworth refused to talk after the game.

In a nationally televised interview, Bosworth once compared the cities of Lincoln, Neb., and Norman, Okla., to "Russian cities. There's nothing there."

Last January, Bosworth's 13 unassisted tackles against Penn State helped carry the Sooners to a 25-10 victory in the Orange Bowl to give Coach Barry Switzer his third national title.

Bosworth led the Sooners in tackles this season as Oklahoma finished 10-1 and earned another trip to the Orange Bowl where the Sooners play Arkansas.

Switzer said he learned about the players' tests two days ago.

"I'd certainly rather it be steroids than cocaine or marijuana," said Switzer, who added the loss of the players shouldn't hurt his team's performance against Arkansas Jan. 1.

The loss of Bosworth was another blow for Orange Bowl officials, whose game will not play a role in Jockey Bill Shoemaker and Woody Wingo are some of the most thoroughbred trainers, as they have been for years.

The 55-year-old jockey trainers were among the oldest jockeys to win the Triple Crown.

Personal highpoint for the pair came when they trained the 1 1/2-mile Belmont Stakes winner, Secretariat.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker and trainers Charlie Whittingham and Woody Stephens proved in 1986 that there are some constants in the highly changeable world of thoroughbred horse racing.

The 55-year-old jockey and the two 73-year-old trainers were among the very best in their professions, as they have been for many years.

Personal highpoints for Shoemaker and Whittingham came when they teamed to win the Kentucky Derby with Ferdinand. Shoemaker became the oldest jockey to win the 1 1/4-mile race.

Stephens added to his legend by saddling Danzig Connection for the trainer's fifth straight victory in the 1 1/2-mile Belmont Stakes.

The Triple Crown was split three ways, with Snow Chief, the beaten Derby favorite, winning the 1 3/16-mile Preakness.

Two horses who made headlines were the 11-year-old gelding John Henry, who got back into training, but failed to get back to the races, and Lady's Secret, a 4-year-old filly known as the Iron Lady, who raced from January through November.

Eugene V. Klein's Lady's Secret, trained by D. Wayne Lukas, generally was considered the leading contender for Horse of the Year. It was another big year for Lukas, whose stable had won 250 races and earned more than $12 million by the second week of December.

Lady's Secret, a grey daughter of Secretariat, won 10 of 17 starts, with five seconds as a 3-year-old. She opened her 1986 campaign with a victory in the 1 1/16-mile El Encino at Santa Anita on Jan. 18 and closed it with a victory in the $1 million Breeders' Cup Distaff over 1 1/4 miles Nov. 2, also at Santa Anita.

Lady's Secret's record was 10 wins, three seconds and two thirds in 15 starts. In three races against colts, she won the 1 1/4-mile Whitney at Saratoga, finished third to Roo Art and Precisionist in the 1 1/4-mile Philip Iselin Handicap at Monmouth Park, and was second to Precisionist in the 1 1/4-mile Woodward at Belmont Park.

In the spring, owner Sam Rubin decided to bring back John Henry. The gelding retired in 1984 with 39 wins in 83 career starts, two Horse of the Year Awards and all-time record earnings of $6,597,947. In August, Rubin decided not to risk racing John Henry again.

Another outstanding performance was that turned in by Manila, a 3-year-old colt, who is trained by Leroy Jolley for Bradley M. Shannon.

Jolley put Manila on the grass in an allowance race April 9 at Keeneland, and the colt stayed on that surface, finishing second in his next two starts, then winning his last six. His campaign was climaxed by a neck victory over Theatrical in the 1 1/2-mile, $2 million Breeders' Cup Turf. Fourth in the race was Dancing Brave, considered by many to be the best horse in Europe in 20 years.

Other Breeders' Cup winners were Skywalker in the 1 1/4-mile Classic; Capote, the 1 1/16-mile Juvenile; Brave Raj, 1 1/16-mile Juvenile Fillies; Smile, six-furlong Sprint; and Irish-bred Last Tycoon, the mile on grass for a $73,800 payoff. The Classic was worth $3 million and the others $1 million each.

Four of the nation's leading jockeys, Angel Cordero Jr., Chris McCarron, Terry Lipham and Jose Santos, were seriously injured in spills.

The 43-year-old Cordero suffered a lacerated liver and a fractured tibia in a fall March 8 at Aqueduct. Cordero returned to racing July 13 and won with his only two mounts. One was the 2-year-old Gulch in the Tremont Stakes at Belmont. Cordero then went on to win his 11th consecutive riding title at the Saratoga meeting in August.

McCarron, 31, who won the Belmont on Danzig Connection, broke the femur bone in his left leg into four pieces in a five-horse spill Oct. 17 at Santa Anita. Also badly hurt in the spill was 41-year-old Terry Lipham, who suffered a punctured lung and a broken rib.

Santos, who had ridden 328 winners and earned $11,298,087 this year, suffered a small fracture of the spine in a fall Dec. 4 at Aqueduct.

Former jockey Ron Turcotte, who rode Secretariat, lost a $105 million lawsuit. Turcotte sued the New York Racing Association and others after he was paralyzed below the chest in a fall during a race in 1978. The suit was dismissed by the New York State Court of Appeals.

In another suit, 11 bettors won an action against the NYRA, Capital District Regional OTB and the New York State Racing and Wagering Board after three stewards at Saratoga erroneously disqualified a horse named Allumeuse Aug. 2 and placed him last.

The New York Supreme Court ruled the three stewards erred and that Allumeuse should be the winner. The Supreme Court did not rule on how the bettors, who had winning mutual tickets on Allumeuse, should be paid. The attorney for the bettors said he would try to get the money by going back to court. The ruling was appealed.

Cavaliers hold off Nets

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Rookie Ron Harper scored 25 points and John Bagley added 21 as the Cleveland Cavaliers held off two New Jersey rallies in the second half to defeat the Nets 121-112 in an NBA game Friday night.

The Nets trailed 94-80 entering the fourth quarter, but outscored Cleveland 13-2 to pull within three points with less than seven minutes remaining. Mike Gminski, who led New Jersey with 24 points, scored five points during the surge.

But Harper, John Williams and Brad Daugherty each scored three points in a 9-1 run that rebuilt Cleveland's advantage to 105-94 with 4:50 left. Mark Price, who scored 18 points, had seven down the stretch as Cleveland held at least a nine-point advantage the rest of the way. The Cavaliers led by 14 points in both the second and third quarters, but on both occasions the Nets were able to climb back into the game. Cleveland was ahead 67-55 at halftime, boosted by Harper's 15 first-half points, before the Nets cut the deficit to 84-77 late in the third quarter. Cleveland then expanded the margin to 14 points at the end of the period.

Tony Brown led New Jersey with 18 points, while Kevin McKenna added 15.

Pistons 121, Warriors 106
PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Adrian

Dantley scored 26 points Friday night and three teammates added 20 each as the Detroit Pistons rolled to a 121-106 NBA victory over the Golden State Warriors.

Dantley, who scored only 13 points in a loss at Indiana Tuesday night, was supported by 20 points each from Joe Dumars, Sidney Green and Isiah Thomas. Green added 18 rebounds and Thomas had 15 assists.

The Pistons took control of the game in the third period. Dantley's jumper and two free throws gave them an 84-70 lead at the 4:13 mark and Golden State got no closer than 10 points the rest of the way.

Joe Barry Carroll and Eric Floyd had 18 points apiece for the Warriors.

Hoosiers bomb Princeton

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Guard Steve Alford hit eight of 11 three-point shots and finished with 26 points Friday night as eighth-ranked Indiana beat Princeton 83-54 in the first round of the Hoosier Classic college basketball tournament.

Fresno State played Illinois State in the second game. The winner meets the Hoosiers in Saturday night's championship game at Market Square Arena.

Alford, a 6-foot-2 senior, had four three-pointers in each half, including three straight during a 15-4 spurt that put the game out of reach early in the final period.

Daryl Thomas, a senior forward, added 17 points and sophomore forward Rick Calloway finished with 13 as the Hoosiers improved their record to 8-1. Princeton, which fell to 4-4, was led by center Alan Williams' 20 points. No other Tiger had more than nine points.

Oklahoma 106, Creighton 89

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Forward Harvey Grant scored 29 points and Darryl Kennedy added

College

25 Friday night as sixth-ranked Oklahoma defeated Creighton, 106-89, in the first round of the All-College Tournament in Oklahoma City.

Oklahoma State and Texas Christian played the late game. The Sooners, 7-1, took a 58-47 halftime lead as Kennedy scored 15 points and teammate Dave Sieger hit four of six three-point attempts.

Grant, a 6-foot-9 junior, took over in the second half, scoring 22 points on short-range shots and free throws.

Creighton's Gary Swain, a 6-4 forward, was the game's leading scorer with 34 points. Guards Rod Mason and Kenny Evans added 22 and 16 points respectively for the Bluejays, 5-4.

Tim McCallister, who entered the game with a 25.6 per game scoring average, was held to 13 points. Sieger had 16 points for the Sooners and Stacy King added 15.

Oklahoma will play the winner of the Oklahoma State-Texas Christian game. Creighton will play the loser.

Key holiday tournaments on tap

By The Associated Press

Some of the nation's best college basketball teams, including top-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas, could be headed for showdowns this weekend as the holiday tournaments get under way.

Nevada-Las Vegas, 9-0, will host its own Holiday Classic, opening on Saturday against Old Dominion, while 12th-ranked Navy plays Idaho State in the other game.

In another big tournament, No. 15 St. John's, 7-0, meets Virginia, while 19th-ranked Georgia Tech, 5-2, plays Rutgers in the opening round of the 35th ECAC Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden.

Both tournament finals will be played Monday night.

Led by Armon Gilliam, Nevada-Las Vegas won another of its own tournaments last week, beating Ohio University 105-81 and Louisiana Tech 79-75 in the Rebel Roundup. The Runnin' Rebels have been on top in the Associated Press poll for three straight weeks. Navy is led by 7-foot-1 center David Robinson.

Idaho State has high hopes, however, of derailing a UNLV-Navy matchup.

"If we're incredibly lucky enough to win, we'd probably play the No. 1 team in the country on ESPN," Idaho State Coach Jim Boutin said. "It's the dream of every college coach and team in the country."

While the Rebels were expected to be a power, St. John's was expected to have an off season after the loss to the NBA of center-forward Walter Berry. But the Redmen have gotten a lot of offense from Willie Glass, averaging 21.9 points, and Shelton Jones, 20.3, to win their first seven games.

St. John's first-round opponent, Virginia, is 5-1 after winning five in a row. Georgia Tech is coming off victories over Southern Methodist and Boston College in the Sunbury Bowl in Japan.

Tech Coach Bobby Cremins is missing guard Mark Price and 7-footer John Salley from last year's team. "We had expectations, but we've been a disappointment," Cremins said. "We were lucky to beat B.C. We're far from where I want this team to be, but I can see the potential."

One other tournament involving a ranked team begins on Saturday in Honolulu, where No. 20 Florida, in the AP poll for the first time in its history, plays California in the Rainbow Classic. Host Hawaii meets Wisconsin in the other first-round game.

The rest of Saturday's schedule has No. 4 North Carolina vs. Kansas State at Kansas City, No. 7 Syracuse at Hawaii-Loa, No. 9 Illinois at Loyola, Ill., No. 11 North Carolina State at Tampa and No. 18 Kentucky at Louisville.

The Kentucky-Louisville rivalry is in the fourth year of its renewal. The Wildcats won 69-64 at Lexington last year and are favored to beat Denny Crum's 4-5 defending national champions again this season.

"It's a chance to prove either we can beat a good team now or we can't," Crum said. "If we can't, then we've got a lot of hard work to do ahead of us."
